

PASSENGERS TELL STORY OF WRECK

Assiniboia Didn't Make Much Noise in Hitting Rocks.

Passengers Surprised When They Woke Next Morning.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] TORONTO, July 4.—The victims of the shipwreck of the Canadian Pacific Railway steamer Assiniboia, which went ashore on Bad Neighbor Island shortly after midnight on Friday last, arrived in Toronto last night on the belated train from Port McNicoll. According to the interviews, the ship at the time of the accident was running at a good rate of speed, and dashed onto the island shore. It now lies stranded with the bows about ten feet upon the rocks.

When the vessel ran on to the island "S.O.S." messages were sent out by the wireless operator and his calls for succor were received by the Great Lakes liner, Alberta, which rushed to the rescue, and early yesterday morning succeeded in removing the passengers.

At the time of the accident the passengers were asleep in their staterooms. According to the stories told by them, there was no panic when the Assiniboia ran upon the rocks. The crew immediately manned the lifeboats, and the male passengers chivalrously stood aside until the women had been awakened.

The wireless messages were also received by the steamer Midland, which had just left Owen Sound harbor for the head of the Great Lakes, but when the vessel arrived the Alberta had transferred the passengers. According to the story told by Miss Margaret R. Hall of Regina, who was travelling to Hamilton, the shock of the boat striking was hardly felt by the passengers.

When they awoke in the morning they were surprised to see that the liner was hard and fast upon the island. The fact that they were not disturbed during the early morning hours was that the captain was afraid of a panic occurring on the ship.

Passengers Not Frightened "We were not the least bit frightened," said Miss Hall. "It all happened while we were slumbering and the passengers were greatly surprised when they saw the bows of the Assiniboia hard and fast upon the beach. Of course a number of women became hysterical, but their fears were calmed by the officers, and a couple of hours later the Alberta arrived upon the scene. I cannot give too much credit to the officials of the ship for the courtesy shown to the passengers. Everything possible was done to alleviate any discomfort which might have been caused, and at no time were the lives of the passengers in danger."

Miss F. May Brooker, who was travelling from Regina to Hamilton, was another passenger. She stated that when the accident occurred she was awakened by a slight shock. Hurriedly dressing, she rushed upon the deck and found that the ship had run upon the rocks. According to Miss Brooker, there was no panic or confusion.

SLAYER MUST PAY PENALTY

Krafchenko Must be Hanged is Decision of Dominion Cabinet.

OTTAWA, July 4.—The cabinet council yesterday considered the case of John Krafchenko of Winnipeg, sentenced to be hanged on Thursday next for the murder of Bank Manager Arnold at Plum Coulee, and recommended to the Governor-General that the law be allowed to take its course and the execution be carried out as arranged for.

It is expected that this recommendation will be signed by His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught to-day or on Monday and forwarded to the sheriff in Winnipeg. The petition for clemency, signed by 10,000 names, is not of unusual size, as many as a million names have been affixed to a former petition for clemency in the case of an Italian woman at the Soo. That for the commutation of Charles Gibson's sentence at Toronto was backed by over 100,000 names.

COUNTRYSIDE RANG TO MUSIC OF BLANKS

Cadets at Niagara Camp Had a Warm Time During the Sham Battle.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, July 4.—The sham battle took place yesterday morning, the scene of action being Three-Mile Creek and the surrounding country. The Public School Cadets were supposedly entrenched on the east side of the creek, with Col. Thompson in command. The senior cadets formed the attacking party, under Lieut.-Col. Thairs and Lieut.-Col. E. W. Hagarty. At 8.30 a.m. the brigades left camp to take up their positions. The result of the battle, in which countless rounds of blank ammunition had been used, was the retreat of the juniors from the trenches. About 12.30 p.m. the cadets reached camp again, and tired and dusty lot of warriors. After the battle the officers complimented all, but the signalers came in for special notice. Their work was acknowledged on all sides to be far better than that of the militia signalers.

Harold McKenzie Sustains a Badly Broken Arm at Factory.

Harold McKenzie, 17 years old, an employee of the Schultz Bros. Company, was painfully injured at closing time last evening, when he had one arm badly broken. McKenzie was removing his apron and in some way swung it over a shaft. The apron caught and was wound up, the boy being unable to get his apron away. It is thought that the arm was broken in several places.

ROBBED HIM OF TICKETS FOR SELF AND CORPSE

J. G. Stewart Also Lost $45 as He Was Escorting Brother's Remains.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] WINDSOR, July 4.—As J. G. Stewart, Windsor, boarded a train at London, Ont., where he was leaving with the body of his dead brother, George Stewart, former businessman of Paris, Ont. who died of heart disease, pickpockets removed the former's purse containing $45 in money and railway tickets for Mr Stewart and the corpse. The train was well under way before the loss was discovered by Mr. Stewart. His acquaintance with the conductor allowed him to continue his journey to Windsor.

The Dominion Railway Commission sitting in Toronto, heard cases affecting several Ontario municipalities.

An Appeal to Courier Subscribers

A number of route boys employed by us are away at the cadet camp, and their places are being filled by inexperienced carriers. AMERICANS CELEBRATING JULY FOURTH

Safety and Sanity is Aim of Official Committee in New York

Proceedings Started at Sunrise in Central Park.

NEW YORK, July 4.—A sunrise meeting in Central Park at which patriotic addresses were delivered, marked the opening of the official celebration of Independence Day in New York City. Except for the display of flags from almost every building and house there was nothing to distinguish the day from any other holiday. An occasional pop of a fire-cracker or blank cartridge, recalled other Fourth's before the ban was placed of powder producing noise-makers.

With safety and sanity as the chief aim of the official celebration committee, Fire Commissioner Adamson early in the day enlisted the aid of the police to make it a fireless holiday as well. Not a single fireworks permit has been issued by the fire department.

To-night the city will be in a blaze of light from thousands of electric bulbs placed on the towering domes of Manhattan office and business buildings and in the public parks.

Eight airmen entered for a mixed aeroplane and flying boat race over all water course above the Hudson River and New York Bay was the most sensational feature of the day's offering. The race is said to be the first in this country in which engines have been powered above 100 horsepower, and with flying boats competing with the lighter and presumably swifter land going machines.

Quiet at the Capital. WASHINGTON, July 4.—The wheels of the government, practically at a standstill to-day while the National Capital joined in with other cities and hamlets of the nation in celebration of the Independence Day. There were no sessions of congress, the executive departments were closed, and President Wilson and other officials of the government laid aside official duties to participate in patriotic celebrations here or elsewhere.

The itinerary of the various officials took President Wilson to Philadelphia for an address.

FUNERAL TO BE IN CHURCH WHERE HE WAS TEACHER

Services Over Late Joseph Chamberlain Will be Marked With Simplicity.

LONDON, July 8.—Mr. Chamberlain's funeral, which, according to his own wish, will be a most simple one, will be held in Messiah Unitarian Church, Birmingham, next Monday. Interment will be in Hockley cemetery. In his youth Mr. Chamberlain was a Sunday school teacher in the Messiah church.

Mrs. Chamberlain throughout the day received numerous messages of condolence, including telegram from King George, Queen Mary and the Queen Mother Alexandra and other prominent persons at home and abroad.

NO LOW-NECKS TO BE ALLOWED AT ALTAR

Roman Catholic Archbishop of Kingston Condemns the Present-Day Fashions

KINGSTON, July 4.—In St. Mary's Cathedral this morning Archbishop Spratt announced from the pulpit that no lady who wore a low neck dress need come to the altar for communion after mass. He would not tolerate it.

His grace declared that it was most disrespectful for women in the garb of to-day to approach the holy altar. Many women in the cathedral who had come for communion, left without taking it, as they feared they would be sent away by the Archbishop, who looked carefully at every woman who afterwards came up.

JEALOUSY WAS CAUSE OF USE OF DICTAPHONE

Admission by Doctor's Wife Was Secured at Coroner's Inquest.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] FREEPORT, N. Y., July 4.—The recess in the coroner's inquest until Monday was taken advantage of to-day by District Attorney Smith and Sheriff Pettit, to investigate certain features of the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, developed at the hearing before Coroner Norton yesterday afternoon. The search for the pistol with which Mrs. Bailey was killed as she was about to leave Dr. Edwin Carman's office on last Tuesday evening was to be continued, it was said.

Conflicting stories marked the inquest yesterday. The statement of George Golder, a farm hand, that he saw Mrs. Carman passing through the hall of the doctor's house, adjoining his office within five minutes of the murder was contradicted by Mrs. Carman, who declared that she was in bed at the time. Later Golder identified Mrs. Carman as the woman he had seen when the question arose if it could not have been her sister, Mrs. Ida Powell.

This identification was only part of the ordeal which Mrs. Carman was obliged to undergo at the inquest. Under searching questioning as to her use of a telephone device to listen to conversations between her husband and women patients, she was forced to reveal the cause of her jealousy. This was a quarrel, about which Dr. Carman also testified. Mr. Carman said that she found the doctor and a nurse in his private office at a time he was handing the nurse some money. Also both were made to tell how Mrs. Carman had slapped her rival's face, taken the money away and ordered her from the woman was a Mrs. Elizabeth Variance of Seaford, a town seven miles away from Freeport. She will be called as a witness in the case on Monday when the inquest is resumed.

HON. J. J. FOY MAY NOW BE MADE SENATOR

Expected That Hon. W. J. Hanna Will Become Attorney General

Hon. Mr. Lucas Will Assume Charge of License Department

[By Special Wire to the Courier] TORONTO, July 4.—Within the last few days there has been an understanding in Ontario Conservative circles that the vacancy in the public works department caused by the rejection of Hon. Dr. Reaume at the polls, spells the signal for a general shift in the Provincial Cabinet.

The form that this will take has been seen in outline for some time, and is likely to result in the logical promotion of the senior members of the present Cabinet to more responsible positions with a later move to follow in the course of a year or so. According to the expectation of those in touch with Government affairs, Hon. J. J. Foy will go to the Senate at Ottawa. The portfolio of attorney-general will then be taken by Hon. W. J. Hanna, who in turn will be succeeded as provincial secretary by Hon. I. B. Lucas.

Two Vacancies

There will then be two positions for the government to fill with new men, viz., the offices of attorney-general and provincial treasurer. Should this arrangement, which is understood to be at present gaining the serious consideration of the premier, come to pass, it is likely that a strong man, with distinct financial ability, will be placed in charge of the treasury. There are members in the House at present who might qualify, and the names of several in the province who might consider the position have been mentioned before this.

Early Appointments

Something will be done in the next few days towards the appointment of a new minister of public works. The demands of this portfolio are very exacting. The increasing importance of conservation in the fishery branch of Ontario resources will soon call for continued attention. Speculation still centres about the likely choice of the government. According to Cabinet experience the eligibles would narrow down to Hon. Messrs Beck, Preston and Hendrie. It is understood however that none of these are particularly desirous of this responsibility. Moreover the eastern and western extremists of the province are claiming a right to new Cabinet representation and are proposing possible men.

It would not be altogether improbable if a man of financial standing in Western Ontario should find a seat at the Council board as provincial treasurer, and that the public works department would be placed under the control of a minister chosen from the eastern counties.

A DANGEROUS WOMAN.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] CHICAGO, July 4.—Ay Cobb's idleness forced on him by a broken thumb, while his rivals slumped, put him in first place among the batters of the American League, according to averages published here to-day. His percentage is .349. The next six batters in the American league are: C. Walker, St. Louis, .343; Baker, Philadelphia, .329; Crawford, Detroit, .324; Jackson, Cleveland, .323; E. Collins, Philadelphia, .314; Speaker, Boston, .301. The Athletics lead in club batting with .261 and Detroit is second with .246.

E. Burns of Philadelphia is leading batter in the National League. His average for 24 games is .395. Next come Hummel, Brooklyn, .352; Dalton, Brooklyn, .339; Grant, New York, .337; Byrne, Philadelphia, .327; Becker, Philadelphia, .320; G. Burns, New York, .312; Philadelphia leads in team hitting with .267 and New York is next with .265.

In the Federal League, Charlie Carr, Indianapolis, continues the leader with .419. Indianapolis with .296 and Baltimore with .278 lead in club batting.

International league batters are following the pace set by Kritchell, Buffalo, who is hitting at a rate of .370. Next to him are Walsh, Rochester, .348; Cree, Baltimore, .345; Reynolds, Jersey City, .338; Derrick, Baltimore, .322; Gilhooley, Buffalo, .310; Schultz, Rochester, .318; Platte, Providence, .318; McIntyre, Providence, .317; Whitman, Montreal, .313.

Baltimore with .276 and Providence with .269 are leaders in the club batting. With twenty stolen bases, Gilhooley leads the base runners. Wagner, Toronto, and Britton, Newark, are pitchers credited with three wins and no defeats, and Bentley, Providence, has won four and lost 1.

INCREASED WAGES FOR O. AND W. RY. SHOPMEN.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., July 4.—An increase in wages of two cents per hour for employees of the Ontario and Western Railroad shops in the federated departments has been granted as the result of a conference held here, it was announced last night. Representatives from numerous points on the line were present at the conference.

A MIDNIGHT CAROUSAL ON THE THAMES

Young English Baronet Loses Life by Drowning.

A Merry Party Which Had a Fatal Ending.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, July 4.—A gay midnight river party ended in a tragedy in the small hours of Friday morning when the young baronet, Sir Denis Anson, and a bandsman, who tried to rescue him, were drowned in the Thames off Battersea Church, while the young Count Constantin Benckendorff, a son of the Russian Ambassador, who went to the aid of the other two, had the narrowest kind of an escape. Much of the story remains untold, but the main outline is as follows:—

Young Benckendorff hired a large steam launch from Hampton Court to pick up a party at Westminster Bridge for a midnight trip to Kew and back. According to the story, which the skipper told to the owner of the launch the party consisted of about fourteen ladies and gentlemen. All were in evening dress and there was a band of even musicians and three waiters. Provisions for supper were placed aboard the launch at 12.30 a.m. It was a very lively party and they danced and snag all the way to Kew except when they were sitting on the deck at an al fresco supper. On arriving at Kew the boat turned and proceeded towards Westminster. The party continued in a gay and festive spirit, and although there appeared to be plenty of fun and skylarking there was no untoward conduct, according to the skipper, until the boat was approaching Battersea Bridge.

At this point Sir Denis Anson got on the bridge and announced that he proposed to take a header into the water. Captain White, of the launch, prevented him from doing this and requested the baronet to leave the bridge, which he did, but when he reached the deck some of the ladies chafed Sir Denis and he then walked down the deck to an opening near the engine-room, put his hands over his head, and before the engineer, who thought the thing was a joke, could prevent him, dived overboard.

Sir Denis swam a few strokes and then suddenly showed signs of being in difficulty. One of the members of the band, named Mitchell, jumped overboard, but was carried off by the strong tide. Then Count Benckendorff jumped in. He was soon in trouble, but was rescued by a boatman in an exhausted condition, after the others had disappeared under the water.

The party is believed to have come from a performance of the Russian Opera Company at the Drury Lane Theatre. It included Raymond Asquith, son of the Prime Minister, and his wife; Jasper Ridley, brother of Viscount Ridley and brother-in-law of Count Constantin Benckendorff; Mrs. Ridley, Edward Horner and Claude Russell.

PARTY FEELING FORGOTTEN IN TRIBUTES PAID

All Agreed That Jos. Chamberlain Was a Great Statesman.

LONDON, July 4.—Joseph Chamberlain died at his home here late Thursday evening, but it was not until Friday afternoon that the London papers chronicled the fact. Except for the Birmingham Times, none of the news, the London mornings all being cooped. Not since the death of the Earl of Beauchamp in 1881 has the loss of an English statesman called forth such universal expressions of regret and the sinking party differences. The Liberal and Radical newspapers in warm-hearted tributes to the man they ungrudgingly confess was one of the greatest services in the kingdom that his generation, who rendered invaluable service to the country and the empire and was as true-hearted a patriot as ever breathed.

A Great Man. The Morning Post characterizes Mr. Chamberlain as the greatest Englishman since William Pitt. Several of the morning papers devote almost the whole of their issue to biographical sketches, memoirs and personal appreciations of Mr. Chamberlain from home and abroad by leading men of the day. The consensus of opinion is that his greatest service was in arousing his countrymen to the consciousness of their great colonial and imperial interests.

Col. Denison's Tribute. TORONTO, July 4.—"I looked upon him as the greatest imperialist statesman that we had had since Pitt, and if he had been able to have his way the empire would be in a very much stronger position than it is today." This was the comment of Col. George T. Denison, who was interviewed regarding the late Joseph Chamberlain, who was intimately known by the Toronto magistrate.

Continuing the Colonel said: "He was right to break away from Gladstone at the time he did. Since Asquith has got into power he has sold himself for office to the worst enemies of England. The Redmonites are under the control of the Fenians of New York, and we, who helped to turn them out of this country, know exactly how friendly they are to our empire. Mr. Chamberlain would never have sold himself.

"Look at the horrible mess that the empire is in today. No one can say where it is going to end. If Mr. Chamberlain had been in good health, and had not broken down in 1906, the empire would to-day be in a very strong and consolidated position. He was a man of great political perspicacity and I deeply deplore his death. "I recall the time when Mr. Chamberlain was here in 1887," continued the colonel. "He was on his way to Washington and dined with the Board of Trade."

Laid at Rest
Late David Greig. The remains of the late David Greig were conveyed to their last resting place yesterday, when the funeral took place from the son's residence in Onondaga Township to Greenwood cemetery. A large circle of friends gathered to hear the funeral services which were solemnly conducted by the Rev. J. W. Gordon of St. Andrew's. The pallbearers were the four sons of the deceased, son-in-law and Charles Matthews. Many tokens of affection were received in the form of floral tributes.

The C. P. R. steamer Assiniboia was floated last night.

The Appreciation of Diamonds
More and more diamonds are bought, sold and worn every year. And this in spite of the fact that the tendency of diamond prices is steadily upward. Which last fact makes the purchase of a good diamond a worth-while investment. Our diamond display to-day is away above the average. We import our diamonds direct from the cutters and set them in our own workshop. We are positive we can save you money.

Social and Personals

Messrs. E. Cutmore and J. L. Howard left to-day for a business trip. Miss Georgie Harvey of Toronto, was the guest of Miss Jean Paterson.

The Big M. and M. Race at Detroit is Centre of Attraction as Usual This Year.

Trotters and pacers in training never have shown as much vitality during the waning days of this long and trying preparation as they are at this time. Generally the last part of June brings from all of the big tracks, where the famous drivers are engaged, reports of ailing horses. This year the physical condition of the campaigners is excellent, few are on the hospital list from lameness, and all seem to have unusual vigor and speed. This condition foretells large fields and exceptional contests for Detroit's annual midsummer carnival of speed.

CARRANZA AND VILLA AT ODDS

Money for the Famous Rebel Leader is Stopped by Injunction.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
 EL PASO, Texas, July 4.—Further evidence of the completeness of the Carranza-Villa split was found in an injunction on file in the state district court here to-day which prevented the entry into Villa territory of 400,000 pesos in Constitutional currency recently printed by an American company. The action was taken by Carranza agents here. The issue was ordered by the internal troubles of the Constitutionalists had reached a breaking point, which has resulted in the conferences between the military leaders in progress today at Torreon. The money arrived here consigned to National Treasury officers at Juarez, the Carranza representatives at once asked the injunction against the express company, handling the consignment and Larazo De La Garza, Villa's agent at El Paso. The paper of the regular National Constitutionalist fiat issue will be held until disposition of the case can be made. The first public demonstration of the trouble between the Constitutionalist chief and his northern commander resulted in the confiscation at Juarez of funds of the National Constitutionalist treasury and the arrest of Carranza's treasury general and other employees. El Paso has been distributing point for the national currency, which was intended to dissolve the various state issues. Villa, as representing the Shihuahua state government was to have received his proportion of this new issue, which was represented in the consignment seized here.

A Commanding Personality

COYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 4.—Colonel Roosevelt gave out this statement last night when told of the death of Joseph Chamberlain: "Sincerely regret Mr. Chamberlain's death. He was one of the great figures in public life, and that not only in his own country but in international public life. He was a man of commanding personality, of great strength and of striking capacity for leadership, and one of those rare men who was as effective in the House of Commons as on the stump, being equally efficient as legislator and administrator and also as orator and debater. All who knew him and his family will feel sincere and respectful sympathy with his family in his loss."

THE COLONIAL BRICK HOUSE.

DESIGNED BY CHAS. S. SEDGWICK, ARCHITECT.

The distinguishing feature of this "Colonial" brick house is its broad gambrel roof towards the front, and its symmetrical center chimney on either side, projected from the face of the brick wall and carried up through the gables, the front of the roof pierced with three dormer windows.
 The broad and spacious piazza across the front and side, gives a look of comfort and makes a very inviting home. The walls are built solid of brick, faced with a dark vitrified brick and trimmed with a lighter colored brick. The piazza has a solid stone foundation and a concrete floor.
 The general size is 38 ft. frontage by 41 ft. in depth, exclusive of piazza.
 There is a wide center hall, opened with columned archways on each side into the large living room on the right, and a small reception room or parlor on the left, with sliding doors opening through to the dining room. The living room is 15x25 and the dining room 12x20.
 The first floor is finished throughout in oak. The second story, comprising four large chambers, dressing room and bath room, with ample closets, is finished in white enamel.
 The entire house is complete throughout. The attic story is finished in two fine large chambers with a central hall between. The basement is full and complete.
 The estimated cost, exclusive of heating and plumbing, is $8,500.00.

Do your future plans include anything in the way of building construction? If so, you will do well to remember some of the finest buildings in this city were constructed by us. We are always pleased to furnish estimates. Step in with your plans and specifications.

LAKESIDE WOMAN DROWNED IN TANK

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
WOODSTOCK, July 4.—Lying in a tank in less than three feet of water, Mrs. William Nutt was found by her brother about 10 o'clock last evening on their farm near Lakeside. Mrs. Nutt had evidently been in the tank since early in the evening for life had been extinct for some time when she was found. She was about 35 years old, and had been in poor health for some time. She left her home early in the evening, and when she did not return a couple of hours later a search party was organized, with the result that her body was found by her brother lying in the tank. Coroner Andrews Macak of Woodstock was notified, and went out early this morning. It has been decided that no inquest will be held, as the manner of the unfortunate woman's death was quite apparent. She leaves no family.

1000 RATS CAUGHT
NEW ORLEANS, La., July 4.—Of the thousands rats that had been caught up to last night, in the campaign against bubonic plague it was said not one had been found infected. It was announced that Maritime quarantine regulations would be put into effect to-morrow.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, July 3.—Disquiet regarding chances of black rust damage in the next 48 hours gave the control of the wheat market most of the time today to the bulls. The close was steady at a range varying from 3-30 off to 1-40 up, compared with last night. Corn suffered a net decline of 7-30 to 1c, and oats a loss of 1-30 to 1-40. Pork finished 10c to 20c down, but otherwise provisions showed a gain of 2 1/2c to 10c.

THERE ARE ALWAYS OTHERS.

In connection with the death of Hon. S. H. Blake the Montreal Herald took occasion to make the assertion that the men of to-day do not size up with those of an older generation.

Is that in reality the case? Outstanding world figures, such as Demosthenes, or Homer, or Shakespeare, or Napoleon, or others who might be named, are not, of course, duplicated; but the bulk of us are just average and can easily be replaced.

For the vast majority, almost one hundred per cent. of them, the man who thinks that he cannot be replaced is simply dwelling in a fool's paradise.

In this regard a reminiscence may not be out of place with reference to the late Clayton Slater. He came here from Yorkshire and established a large cotton mill in the Holmedale.

One of the most important and too long neglected requirements of this Province is better roads. For the most part the highways are a disgrace to common-sense and civilization.

British Vice-Consul In Peril of Death

EL PASO, Tex., July 4.—Albert St. Clair Douglas, British Vice-Consul at Zacatecas, has been arrested by the Constitutionalists, held for court-martial, and may be shot. This information, which was immediately telegraphed to Washington, was received here yesterday by Vice-Consul H. C. Myles from James Coldwell, British Vice-Consular Agent at Zacatecas.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

As an esteemed cotem. remarks, vaccinating the modern girl where it won't show is getting to be quite a problem.

The official count shows that Whitney gains another seat, the new riding of Cochrane. First thing that man knows, he'll have a majority.

British suffragettes are complaining that the name of Mrs. Pankhurst was not in the recent list of King's Birthday honors. She certainly ought to be belted.

The rainy weather is reported to have greatly improved Ontario crop prospects. This grand Province always does manage to get well within the money.

In Manitoba these days the papers are filled with the kind of election talk which not long ago occupied so large a space in Ontario sheets. Don't you envy 'em?

Once more the announcement is made that a start is to be made on a new union station at Toronto. By avoiding everything in the present structure there ought to be a chance to secure a decent building.

Here is a characteristic utterance of the late Joseph Chamberlain: "What I have said I have said. Do I contradict myself? Very well, then I contradict myself. I give no explanations, offer no apologies. I have not yesterday, carry no old clothes, or to my own past."

Inspector Bates and three North-west Mounted policemen are now outfitting for a trip to the Arctic circle in order to arrest the Eskimos responsible for the murder of two explorers. They will travel thousands of miles and may be away two years.

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

THE BULLDOG

The bulldog is an ugly bird; his bony legs are most absurd; his tail declined to grow; his insolent and wrinkled face would be accounted a disgrace to any beauty show. The bulldog's not a playful pup; he doesn't stand on end and chirp, nor gambol foolishly; he seems to take some savor of mundane things—including you; that's why you climb a tree. He guards his master's household gods, and would, against the greatest odds, that might be marshalled, when he casts his blood-shot lamp upon an agent or a tramp, that tourist says a prayer. He's not a pet for bloodless chaps; he has no place on ladies' laps, no ornamental use; he seems to say, with lip uprolled, "Don't bother me—if I take hold, you'll never jar me loose!"

TWO OLD FAMILIES.

MONTREAL, July 4.—A London cable to the Daily Mail says: "Baroness Beaumont, who is not yet out of her teens, has become engaged to the Hon. Bernard-Fibellan Howard, heir to Lord Howard of Glossop. This announcement heralds a union between two of the oldest families in the country. Lady Beaumont has been a peeress in her own right since the age of two, when the title, which fell into abeyance on the death of her father, was continued by Queen Victoria. The Beaumonts are one of the oldest Roman Catholic families in England.

Were Arrested In Brantford

A Berlin despatch says: Charles and Edward Hawkins of Elora were arrested before Judge Henning yesterday morning on a serious charge. A Hesperite girl of seventeen years is the alleged victim. They pleaded not guilty and were remanded for trial until next Friday. They were allowed out on bail of $2,000 each. Warrants for the arrest of the prisoners were issued last September, but they disappeared and were not apprehended until early this week, when High Constable Huber placed them under arrest in Brantford.

RESIGNATION NOT ACCEPTED

Trouble Over London Regiment May Be Smoothed Over

LONDON, Ont., July 4.—Although all the officers of the 6th Field Battalion were absolutely neutral throughout the Zacatecas campaign. The rebels, however, refused to release him, and are now preparing a summary court-martial. Myles, immediately upon receiving the telegram, after notifying the British Embassy, got into communication with prominent rebel officials here. Just what the Embassy made up to him is not known, but a promise was exacted that the trial of the British Consul would not be started until American Consul Theodore Hamm arrived at Zacatecas from Durango, to see that the proceedings were legitimate.

No word was given out regarding the character of the communication sent to the British Embassy at Washington.

Washington is Worried.

WASHINGTON, July 4.—The Department of State and the British Embassy are seriously worried over what threatens to be a repetition of the Benton case in the arrest by Constitutionalists of Albert St. Clair Douglas, British Vice-Consul at Zacatecas. Mr. Douglas appealed to the British Emperor yesterday at the Embassy, after directing the British Consul Agent at Torreon to take the matter up direct with General Villa, solicited the good offices of the State Department.

The specific charge against Mr. Douglas is that he instructed the Federal troops in military tactics prior to the capture of Zacatecas by the rebels. But, according to information here, though Mr. Douglas was pointedly requested by the Federals to instruct them in any way. This information has been laid before the State Department and General Villa.

Chancellor Praises Chamberlain

(By Special Wire to the Courier)

LONDON, July 4.—Among the noblest tributes to the late Joseph Chamberlain, was one paid by Mr. Lloyd George, who said to your correspondent: "I always had a profound admiration for Chamberlain's great powers and deep respect for his character. He was a man of immense personal force, quiet fearless and capable of inspiring millions with faith in great ideas and principles and the courage to fight for them. He had a genuine enthusiasm for social reform. I have always been a believer in the sincerity of his desire to improve the condition of the masses of the people. In my judgment, but for one fatal diversion of his energies caused by the home rule schism, he would have been the greatest democratic statesman this country has yet seen; but for the events of 1886 and the loss of Chamberlain to Liberalism, we would, I believe, be living today in a happier, stronger Britain, as a result of the courageous legislation inspired by Chamberlain's zeal for social reform."

Handled 1,000 Immigrants.

LONDON, Ont., July 4.—One thousand men, women and children, mostly Britishers, have been handled by the local Dominion immigration office in the last year. Twenty-five were placed on Western Ontario farms last week, and ten more have been placed so far this week.

Wedding Bells

SAGE—MARKLE.

A very pretty wedding took place at 1.30 to-day at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. A. Markle, 109 Park avenue, when her only daughter, Eric Alberta was married to Mr. John Frederick Sage. Rev. Mr. Bowyer was the officiating minister. Miss Eliza Patterson was the bridesmaid and Mr. Gordon Sage, brother of the groom, the best man. The bride looked very sweet in a dress of white crepe de chene. She wore the usual bridal veil and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies-of-the-valley. She was given away by her uncle, Mr. J. E. Elliott of Scotland. The bridesmaid wore a shell pink dress and carried pink roses. There were about fifty guests, and the splendid array of presents caused much admiration. Master Harold Vansickle, cousin of the bride, before the ceremony played Lohegrin's wedding march and Mr. J. E. Elliott of Scotland sang "O Promise Me" and later "Perfect Day." The bride's mother was attired in black silk with a corsage bouquet of sweet peas. The groom's mother was dressed in taupe grey silk. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace, to the bridesmaid a pearl ring to the best man cuff links, to Mrs. Elliott a gold bar pin, and to Harold Vansickle a tie pin. The decorations were in pink and white with marguerites and English ivy. The bride's going away dress was of navy blue with hat to match. The honeymoon will be spent at the Temagami Inn.

Ferguson Is Not to Resign

(By Special Wire to the Courier)

TORONTO, July 4.—Mr. Howard G. Ferguson, M.P.P., for Grenville, was asked over the long distance telephone to-day about the statement made in a morning newspaper saying that he was willing to yield up his riding for Hon. Dr. Reaume, Minister of Public Works, who was defeated at Windsor on Monday. Mr. Ferguson said: "I never heard of the proposition until I was called up by Ottawa this morning when they told me a Toronto despatch asserted that I would hand over my riding to Dr. Reaume. The story is absolutely ridiculous on the face of it."

H. M. Connolly was electrocuted at the Toronto Power Company's plant, Niagara Falls.

UNIONIST PEERS FLEE FROM WAR SCEPTRE

Debate in House of Lords on the Home Rule Amending Bill Shows Anxiety to Reach a Settlement That Will Avoid Civil Strife.

LONDON, July 3.—The debate in the House of Lords to-day on the bill to amend the Irish home rule bill was characterized by general recognition on the part of the Unionist peers that some means of settlement must be found and that the amending bill offered the only chance of accomplishing this. The Marquis of Lansdowne, the Unionist leader, had already announced that it was necessary to find a way out of the calamity which threatened, and that therefore the Unionists would give the amending bill a second reading and introduce amendments during the committee stage.

The Duke of Abercorn (speaking yesterday as an Ulster Volunteer, said that he looked upon the bill as the only loophole he could see for avoidance of a most awful calamity. The Marquis of Londonderry, Chairman of the Ulster Unionist Council, said that the bill was a horrible one, but that he would support it in order to avoid civil war. The Marquis of Salisbury announced that he would support the amending bill for the same reason, much as he disliked it. He expressed the hope that Lord Willoughby de Broke could be induced, in the interests of a settlement, to drop his amendment for a rejection of the bill. The Earl of Halsbury, once the most irreconcilable of the "die-hards," hoped so, too, if nothing could be more urgent he said than the necessity of making some sacrifices in order to avert civil war.

FINED $200.

Lessee of Collingwood Restaurant Convicted of Breach of Liquor Act. COLLINGWOOD, July 4.—Reginald Elliott, lessee of the Cavour restaurant where the police seized several bottles of liquor, was fined $200 and costs yesterday morning. The police testified that they found a regular bar outfit in the place.

RESIGNS AS PROTEST.

J. H. Roberts, Secretary of Dominion Alliance, Quits the Service. MONTREAL, July 4.—John H. Roberts of this city has placed his resignation as Secretary of the Dominion Alliance, in the hands of the President, Mr. S. J. Carter, as a protest against the failure of the organization to support him to the extent he desired in his protest against the present personnel of the Montreal License Commission.

FELL FROM SCAFFOLD.

Serious Injuries Sustained by Wm. Harris, Coldsprings. COBOURG, July 4.—Falling from a scaffold on which he was working Mr. Wm. Harris of Coldsprings sustained serious injuries to his back to-day. He was assisting in the construction of a larn for Mr. James Thompson. One of the boards gave way and Mr. Harris fell to the ground. He was brought to Cobourg Hospital.

ITALIAN WINS.

COBOURG, July 4.—Giuseppe Sinigaglia of the Lario Rowing Club, Como, Italy, carried off the Diamond Sculls to-day by beating G. M. Stuart of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, in the final heat. The Italian sculler finished alone in 9 minutes, as Stuart had stopped dead beat just after passing the mile post. The Cambridge man had to be lifted out of the boat and taken on board the umpires' launch.

"Sunlight and Soft Water Laundry"

We make a specialty of Family Washing. For washing and drying household linen and clothing and for ironing flat pieces, such as sheets, pillowcases, table-cloths, napkins, towels, etc., our price is so reasonable that no woman can afford to labor over a wash-tub.

You can settle the wash-day problem very easily, Monday, by letting the Brantford Laundry wagon call for your washing. No hesitation need be felt in sending the finest fabrics to this Home of Soft Water and Sunshine. White dresses and lingerie are handled with extreme care.

Every drop of water used in the wash is carefully filtered and softened, and we use only the mildest of neutral soaps, that cannot possibly harm the daintiest garment. Every piece of clothing is delivered to you with that clean, sweet odor so much appreciated, and which the small hand laundries cannot possibly give.

Our experts inspect each garment to determine how it shall be handled in the wash. A special process is used to cleanse wool, cotton, silk and mixed weaves.

Why not phone 274 and have our wagon collect your laundry on Monday? Our wagons go everywhere, and you will find our delivery men uniformly courteous and anxious to please.

We believe in "SAFETY FIRST." A prospective customer recently thought we were TOO careful when we refused to take a bundle of work from a home where, unfortunately, there had been a case of contagious disease, although of a mild character. We have an iron-clad rule that work will not be accepted where the conditions mentioned prevail. We believe it best to adhere strictly to this rule, and feel our patrons appreciate our stand.

First, last, and all the time, the Brantford Laundry is at the Public Service. We have the equipment, we have expert and contented employees.

"We Certainly Do Know How" The Brantford Laundry, Limited Phone 274

PURE RICH BLOOD PREVENTS DISEASE

Bad blood is responsible for more ailments than anything else. It causes catarrh, dyspepsia, rheumatism, weak, tired, languid feelings and worse troubles.

Wood's Sarsaparilla has been wonderfully successful in purifying and enriching the blood, removing scrofula and other humors, and building up the whole system. Take it—give it to all the family so as to avoid illness. Get it today.

Of its expression, and the instrument whereby its promptings are carried into execution. The hand, in other words, is not a mere appendage, a thing put on the body like an additional movement to a watch.

Therefore when you examine the specimen closely you find that its framework is built on the principle of the jointed stick, with a round knob at the top, where brains are found in other people. It is one of the few animals that eat man. Very fond of widows and children—has a way of absorbing their funds. It should be killed in wanton sport.

ORTHODONTISTS ELECT OFFICERS AT TORONTO

TORONTO, July 4.—The American Society of Orthodontists at their meeting at the King Edward Hotel, Kempton, New York: vice-president, elected; President, Dr. Frederick C. Kempton, New York; vice-president, Dr. M. N. Federspiel, Milwaukee; secretary-treasurer, Dr. William Ernest Walker, New Orleans; board of censors, Dr. Guy G. Hume, Toronto; Dr. D. An important paper on the relation of internal secretory organs to malocclusion, facial deformity and dental diseases was read by Mr. Clarence J. Grieves of Baltimore. Martin Dewey, M.D., D.D.S., read a paper on "Some Principles of Retention."

PROMINENT SPEAKERS AT THE C. E. CONVENTION

BUFFALO, July 4.—The challenge of the changing East and of the alien in this country was the subject discussed at three meetings of the Epworth League here last night. The Rev. T. Badley of Lucknow, India, and the Rev. S. A. Hirschman of Japan spoke for the League, and Bishop William Burr of Buffalo and the Rev. T. Albert Moore of Toronto for the United States and Canada. Former Vice-President Charles W. Fairbanks will speak at a patriotic demonstration to-day.

Market Prices. There was a good brisk market this morning, well attended by both buyers and sellers. Cherries were the latest summer product for sale and there was a plentiful supply on hand at 75c. per basket. The cherries are good this year and plentiful. Strawberries sold for 10c. per basket, while the price of all other lines remained the same.

Old Home Week Notes. The election being over things are beginning to boom in the Old Home Week work. Secretary Blain is a very busy man these days and next week there will be four committee meetings, the finance committee on Tuesday, the Sports of the Fraternal Committee on Wednesday, the executive committee on Thursday and the parade committee on Friday evening.

Given Suspended Sentence. Norman Crosby was this morning allowed to go upon suspended sentence when he was charged with the theft of a gold watch which was afterwards found upon him. The costs of the case were defrayed and as the prosecution did not desire to press the case in view of the previous good conduct of defendant, the Magistrate decided that a suspended sentence would meet the case.

Defective Pavement. The residents of Chatham street are complaining bitterly of the faulty construction of the Westrumite paving of their thoroughfare. Only last year a number of holes developed and were filled in and the road in general patched up. Already, however, holes have again made the road more uncomfortable for motorists, who are badly jolted by the bad condition of the ground. They claim that the foundation work was not solid, and that this accounts for the numerous holes. They intend to see the works department upon the matter.

When Teddy Shakes Hands. It is an Unpatriotic Hand He Gives You, But it Makes You Instantaneously a Warm Friend of the Owner.

When Theodore Roosevelt starts on his speech-making trip, which he announces he intends to do at an early date, he will add several million handshakes to his record, already a thing of beauty in that there is nothing else like it in the world. Mr. Roosevelt's hand is thick, leaning to pudgy. There is nothing about it to suggest the artist. It is, moreover one of the most unpatriotic hands you ever saw. But it gives you a powerful grip. It makes you instantaneously a warm friend of the man who controls it. It makes you feel that Mr. Roosevelt likewise is vehemently predisposed in favor of you.

There are all kinds of handshakes. Handshakes include all of a man's best friends and many of his enemies. In many European countries kisses are exchanged between men, and an embrace is quite in accordance with even a somewhat formal salutation. We do these things differently here.

Crawl to King. An African king requires a visitor to approach him crawling. The natives of the Tonga islands kiss the soles of the chieftain's feet. Those admitted into the presence of the "big smoke" in some of the Oriental countries are expected to kowtow, kneel and touch the ground with their foreheads.

Men in this country acknowledge an introduction by extending the right hand in greeting. Hardly in the case is used in the sense of the whole hand. It is assumed that men will not offer two fingers, or the left hand, and as likely to go without takers after the first offence. The right hand is the

MIDNIGHT CAROUSAL

A further account by the skipper shows clearly that the tragedy was the result of a "dare." The skipper says he heard the ladies talking to Sir Denis Anson and some one of them said: "You dare not do it, Denis."

The mate of the launch says: "I noticed that Sir Denis was being chaffed by the ladies, and when I saw him stand up on a seat in the top of the cabin I pulled him back."

The party was then very much frightened and the ladies screamed. Count Benckendorff then plunged to the rescue of the other two, and at the same time a watchman from the Chelsea power station came up in a boat.

The captain further indicated the gravity of the party by saying that some of the ladies during the trip walked the "coverboard" of the launch's ledge, which was less than a foot in width.

Jasper Ridley said in telling of the tragedy: "Anson had taken off his coat. Nobody took the affair seriously at first, as we knew that Anson was a man who was likely to play such pranks."

Raymond Asquith said in describing the accident: "I think Anson had swum more than 75 yards. I heard him cry out, but I could not understand what he said."

A. D. Cooper, a son of Lady Agnes Cooper, of Berkeley House, W., who was one of the party, says he heard the splash, but did not see the accident. He says: "The orchestra was playing at the time."

The funeral procession had crossed the ferry over the Danube at Poochlarin at dawn in the presence of many people and the cortege reached the end of its journey at 5 o'clock.

Later in the morning two trains arrived from Vienna with the late Archduke's children and other members of the Imperial family who were to assist at the burial.

After the final rites had been given by the clergy, the coffins were carried through lines of army veterans and firemen to the family vaults and were placed in their final resting place in the presence of the new heir apparent, Archduke Charles Francis Joseph and a number of other members of the Imperial family.

Bodies of Archduke and Consort Entered at Castle Chapel.

ARTSTETTEN, Austria, July 4.—The bodies of the assassinated Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his consort, the Duchess of Hohenberg, arrived here today and were interred beneath the castle chapel, with very simple ceremony.

The funeral procession had crossed the ferry over the Danube at Poochlarin at dawn in the presence of many people and the cortege reached the end of its journey at 5 o'clock.

Later in the morning two trains arrived from Vienna with the late Archduke's children and other members of the Imperial family who were to assist at the burial.

fusion, the sailors manned the lifeboats, without orders, and every precaution was taken to prevent loss of life. Miss Brooker remained upon the deck until the Alberta arrived and was transferred with the other passengers to the rescuing ship.

Mr. J. M. Johnson of Vancouver, travelling to Toronto, was another passenger. "I cannot give too much credit to the officers and crew of the Assiniboia," said Mr. Johnson.

"Every precaution possible was taken to prevent loss of life. For two days a heavy fog had overhung the bay, and although the whistle was blowing continuously, it was of no avail. The captain had carefully taken his reckoning shortly before we ran upon the rocks, and I think he must have been confused by the fog. At the time we were running at a good rate of speed, and before the engines could be stopped, the vessel was high and dry upon the island.

Shock was Slight

"There were no signs of confusion, and the lifeboats and life belts were taken in charge without any signs of excitement or panic," continued Mr. Johnson. "Fortunately, the shock was so small that the majority of the passengers were not awakened, and when it was seen that the liner was in no danger of sinking, they were not awakened until the Alberta arrived to take them off."

The C.P.R. liner Alberta, according to the story of the passengers, arrived about five hours after the Assiniboia ran on the rocks. At the time a smooth sea was running, and although the Alberta could not approach within over 200 yards of the wrecked liner, no difficulty was experienced in lowering the lifeboats.

The baggage of the passengers was also saved. Shortly after the Alberta succeeded in transferring the passengers the Manitoba arrived, but no further assistance was required.

FEUD CAUSES GUN DUEL

Banker and Business Man Shoot at Each Other in Street.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 4.—Trouble of long standing between Allen Hester, president of the Portland bank, and Virgil R. Butt, a Portland business man, culminated yesterday in a pistol duel on the streets of Portland, in which Hester was killed. Butt was brought to Nashville for safekeeping.

In a fight between the two men last December Butt shot Hester in the leg. Butt was unharmed this time. It is claimed the shooting took place soon after Butt passed Hester's home and waved at Hester's wife.

FOURTH DAY OF REGATTA

Finals Will be Rowed Today on the River Thames

[By Special Wire to the Courier] HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 4.—The fourth and last day of the Royal Regatta attracted a very large attendance, and among the spectators were many from abroad, who had come to witness the final heat of the Grand Challenge Cup, in which the Union Boat Club of Boston and the Harvard University eights, were to fight for possession of the trophy. Other finals to be rowed off today comprised the Ladies' Challenge Plate for eights, the Thames Challenge Cup for fours, visitors challenge cup for fours, the Wyfold challenge cup for four, the Silver Goblets for pairs and the Diamond sculls for singles. Two of the other events besides the Grand had an international flavor as Giuseppe Sinigaglia, the Italian, was left in the final of the diamond, and Maynard Rowing Club in the final of the Stewards Cup.

ALL READY FOR THE BIG SHOW

Hamilton's First Industrial Exposition Opens on Monday.

HAMILTON, July 4.—Everything is in readiness for the opening of Hamilton's first Industrial Exposition next Monday. The opening ceremony will be performed by the lieutenant-governor, Sir John Gibson, assisted by Mayor Allan and guests from all parts of Western Ontario will be present. The exposition will last two weeks and during the first week Creators' band will give concerts afternoon and evening in the new auditorium and the local military bands will alternate in the week, choruses by the 1000-voice choir assembled by Bruce A. Carey and by the children's choir of 5,000 voices will be added attractions. The band of the Thirty-eighth Dufferin Rifles of Brantford has also been engaged for two concerts, making a total of 48 band-concerts during the two weeks. Exhibits from all parts of the province will be on display and the affair promises to bring many visitors to the city as special rates have been secured on the railroads.

Liberals Look For Election

[By Special Wire to the Courier] SHERBROOKE, Que., July 4.—The Liberals of the Eastern Townships anticipate an early Dominion election. Word has been sent out from headquarters to get the organization in the various counties completed. Hon. Sydney Fisher has taken a hand in this work in Compton county. Mr. A. B. Hunt, who defeated Senator Pope in 1900 and went down to defeat himself in 1911, is accomplishing the ex-minister. A public meeting was held last evening at Waterville, when the political issues were discussed. To-day a meeting is being held at Lake Megantic. This is to be followed up until the whole county has been covered.

Lodge Notes

Royal Templars. The Royal Templars held their regular meeting on Thursday last when the election of officers took place and resulted as follows. Select: Councillor, Bro. W. Townsend, vice Coun., Sister Van Tassel; Herald, Bro. Adams; Chaplain, Bro. W. Carley; Fin. Sec., Sister M. Caldwell; Rec. Sec., Sister Green; ward, G. Bro. Williams; Sentinel, Bro. Jarvis; Auditors, Bro. T. Williams and Bro. Kite. The Organist and Press Reporter will be appointed at the next meeting. It is expected to have the new electric sign in position in about two weeks time and the formal opening will take place on or about the third Thursday in July, when special influential speakers and prominent citizens will be invited and a social evening will be given. The new sign is in the hands of a local firm and will be a work of art, and will be illuminated by the Hydro Electric.

THEY WANT OSLER MONTREAL, July 4.—A London don cable to The Daily Mail says everybody is hoping that Sir William Osler will yield to strong and influential representations made to him to go to the House of Commons as member for Oxford University, the seat made vacant by the death of Sir William Anson. If he decides to do so, it is altogether likely that it will be an election by acclamation.

The Dean of Argyll and the Rev. C. A. Seager of Vancouver were honored by Trinity College.

THE PROBS

TORONTO, July 4.—Fine weather prevails everywhere except that a few heavy local thunder storms have occurred in Northern Alberta, and some local showers in the far northern portion of Ontario. Great heat obtains in the west.

Forecast. Light to moderate variable winds, generally fine to-day and on Sunday, but a few scattered thunder showers.

HAMILTON, July 4.—Haeffling long drive over Lamond's head, centre in the ninth inning of yesterday's game with Baldwin on second base, gave the Athletics the lead in the game of the series with Brantford by a 3 to 2 score. Jack White, popular left fielder, who was appointed on Wednesday evening as Yates' successor, took hold of the team for the first time in today's tie and the result was that every one on the team was on his toes. A change has put new life in the Athletics and they are now bound to win at least a share of their games. One bad play on the part of the Hamilton team was made all afternoon and that was when Fisher sent C. ningham home from second in first session on McGroarty's sixth past second. ENGLAND IS "DIPPY" OVER CHEAP BOXERS

Pay High Prices for Third-Rate Fighters and it Looks as if There Would be Dough A-plenty for All Sorts of Boxers There.

(By Herbert Corey.)

LONDON, June 30.—It's a cruel thing to say of a perfectly friendly nation, but England is dippy about boxing. This is the time appointed for any American manager who may have some real merit in his gymnasium to come over and get a few guineas. The English will pay the bill and pay cheerfully. All they ask is that real fighters are imported. They're very quick of counterfeits—so quick that you can hear their tire for miles.

"Go up to New Barnet and watch the open-air fighting," said a friend of mine the other day. "That will show you just how crazy this country has gone over the sport."

So we went up to New Barnet of a Saturday afternoon. And there, on platforms just sufficiently elevated, we saw all those within range could see, we saw various earnest young gentlemen just everlastingly whaling others quite as sincere. There was no particular science about the game. The young gentlemen fought like a good preliminary butler does in New York. They tried to kill each other the usual way. There were some of the most successful knockouts I have ever seen during the two hours we stood around there and watched the blood flow. But every now and then some kid appeared who had the earmarks of good material. Given proper handling he might make his mark.

Now, the point of this anecdote is that several years ago this sort of open-air boxing was going on at every crossroads in Great Britain. Wherever there was a country fair there was a boxing match, with some alfalfa-fattened master of the art inside to pit the country kids against each other, and—if need be—to earn breakfast money—to knock them out himself. These boxing booths made the circuit of the fairs and holidays through the rural districts, just as the individual who has a passion for snakes en masse do in our own country to-day.

Then boxing in rural England partially died out. And now it is coming again. The New Barnet open-air school of knocking out is not the only one. There is hardly a cattle town in England that cannot boast its open air boxing booth of a Saturday. Down in Lancashire hardly little catch-as-catch-can devils are reviving that grand old leg-breaking art. Corn walls wrestlers are getting out their linen jackets and re-engaging in the Cousin Jack variation of the hug-and-heave. All over Great Britain the "manly arts" are coming into their own again.

High Prices for Fights.

Proof of an assertion nowadays is usually found in the finances. Therefore look at what has been going on in London recently, and what is still going on. A battle for the lightweight championship of the world between Willie Ritchie and Freddie Welsh is to be decided on July 7. It is estimated that $100,000 will be taken in at the door. Bombardier Wells, that statuetque-heavyweight boxer, who does so perfectly lovely in the moving pictures, was matched with Colin Bell, and the 10,000 seats in the tremendous Olympia Hall—where the horse shows and the naval and military tournaments are held—were priced up to $5.50 and all the cheaper seats were sold two months before the match.

And yet Bombardier Wells is referred to as a disappointment by every English sporting editor every time he speaks of the Bombardier at all, and Bell is not highly regarded except as a fine, strong young man who could do a lot of hard work.

Very few people know anything about Bell. He might be the top heavy of the world, but having been born outside of England he will never be well regarded until he has whipped a few of England's best. Then the sporting old country will adopt him out of hand.

Gunboat Smith came over here to fight with Georges Carpentier on July 16 for the white heavyweight championship of the world—a prize which doesn't happen to be within the reach of either gentleman, so far as can be seen from outside. Mr. Smith is a large, slow, heavy footed young man who carries a crumpling punch in his right arm. Carpentier is an agile, swift, hard hitting, light heavy, with a genius for play-acting that sent poor old Bombardier Wells to the rouge pot before ever a blow had been struck in their fight. Either Johnson or Langford would sprinkle a little salt on Carpentier and eat him—provided that Johnson can ever make himself fit. By no process of reasoning can you make the Smith-Carpentier fight a championship contest, although it is certain to be an intensely interesting one.

Wild Over Gunboat Smith.

And yet our English friends meet Gunboat with a band and blockade the streets when he automobiles through, and cheer their enthusiastic heads off for him when he appears at a boxing club. That despite the general belief held by boxing experts here that Carpentier will deliver one of his broadsides. If he does, all agree it will be certain for the Frenchman. A fact which all of his friends are calling loudly to Mr. Carpentier's attention. No one armed puncher was ever so loudly shouted over as Mr. Smith. If Carpentier wins he will be elected president of France.

The Johnson-Moran fight in Paris did not attract much attention on this side of the channel because of the general belief that the negro is invincible. Dan McKettrick is issuing $25,000 a side challenges on behalf of Young Ahearn to meet any one in his class. Tony Ross, the Italian-American, wants to fight the winner of the Wells-Bell battle for $5,000 a side. A score of similar challenges are in the air. At least a dozen fight clubs conduct regular meetings here each week, and three of them fight from two to three nights a week. Heaven only knows how many amateur tournaments there are always going on. There isn't a city in England big enough to have a maypole and polished fighting is not the weekly billy. To a less extent the same thing is true of Scotland, and to a still less extent of Ireland.

It is perfectly true that the purses are not much, in the minor classes. The average patron of boxing is a poor man. When he throws copper pennies on the platform for the favored scrapper at New Barnet he has done all that can be expected of him—and all that is expected. The amateur fight like wildcats all over town for engraved tin cups and polished medals. Thirty bob—which is about $7.50—is a fair purse at many of the smaller clubs for the lesser attractions of the night. Even the semifinals sometimes only pull down $100. But in the higher orders the purses are really generous.

And—between us—there are lads fighting around New York who could come over here and fight their way through the British product like a darned needle goes through yarn.

BOSTON BRAVES GET DEVORE FOR MARTIN.

BOSTON, July 4.—"Josh" Devore formerly of the New York Giants, will join the Boston Nationals as a result of a trade by which the Philadelphia Nationals, of which he is now a member, will receive John Martin, a third baseman, in exchange, according to an announcement by Manager Stallings of the Boston team last night. Martin played with the Rochester International club last season. President Gaffney of the Boston club announced last night that the following players have signed contracts for two or more seasons: Evers, Maranville, Schmidt, Gowdy, Gilbert, Rudolph, James and Strand.

By an order in Council the cold-storage act has been amended to provide that the public be given preference in the matter of storage under certain conditions.

DOUBLE-DASH STEAL IS CONNIE'S LATEST

It is Worked With One or None Out With Runners on Second and Third.

Have you heard of Connie Mack's "double-dash steal?"

The baseball season of 1914 may not be productive of the richest financial results ever enjoyed—but much improvement has been made, especially in base running, says a writer in the Chicago Post.

Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, continues to spring new plays and his world champions are forever attempting something new and startling in the old game.

The Athletics are slowly but surely revolutionizing the sport so far as lightning speed and electrifying plays are concerned, and when he popped his new double-dash squeeze play, with men on second and third, the wise birds shook their heads, muttering "It can't be done."

But Mack seldom starts a play that cannot be perfected. In the new squeeze-the opposition is often thrown off its balance, so suddenly is the speedy trick sprung. With a man on second and another on third and either none on one or the signal is tipped and the batter taps off a bunt. On the tip of the signal both base runners dash off like wild, and in a few seconds the spectators are everybody seems to be running and jumping about.

The man at bat must not slip up on his end of the new squeeze. He must connect for a slow roller, and then—swish—they're off in a bunch. The man on third is speeding for the plate and the pitcher or whoever fields the ball pegs home to catch the man. Sometimes they catch him and again they fail. But, whether or not that man is nipped, there is another runner beating the path directly behind him and that man has his orders. He must slide into the plate on the opposite side from which the catcher is working on his team mate, and seldom does this play fail to score at least one of the runs.

WHERE IS BRUCE ISMAY?

Said to be Hidden in Most Desolate Part of Ireland.

Costello, Galway Bay, Ireland, July 4.—Where is Bruce Ismay? During two years the director arranged for the tragedy of the Titanic has been missing from the world he knew.

The loneliest road to Ireland runs from Minna to Costello along the shore of Galway Bay. Sheer moor, quite treeless, bleak beyond words, hardly a stone cabin in sight and no path but the straight mail road. More sterile than Donegal, more pitiful than Clare, the strange network of grey land and greyer water constitutes the country of far Connet.

In the heart of this Irish wilderness a solitary lodge shows white against its surrounding patch of green. A locked gate forbids entrance. Here lives Bruce Ismay. Money he has and all that money will buy. But he cannot shake off the memories on his mind. Day after day he must hear them—the shrieks of drowning men crying down the wind. This is his curse. What he did will be remembered until the Titanic is forgotten.

MURDER IS VERDICT OF CORONER'S JURY.

MONTREAL, July 4.—A verdict of murder was returned yesterday morning by the coroner's jury against a man named Rickard, who was caretaker at the Chateau Tait, mysterious-ly to the ground by fire early in January. The recent finding of the body of an unknown man in the ruins of the destroyed chateau renewed interest in the sudden disappearance of Rickard and a companion, who is said to have been with him in the Tait residence at the time of its destruction.

RAY CLEMENTS, OF SAINTS, IS RELEASED BY CRAVEN

Was a Good Pitcher Last Year, But His Showing This Season is a Decidedly Poor One.

ST. THOMAS, July 3.—Ray Clements, who has been a member of the Saints' pitching staff for three seasons, was released after the game in Brantford Thursday. Ray has only won two games this season, and has been a terrible disappointment to the management. He was counted on as one of the St. Thomas club's winning twirlers, and was always looked upon as one of the league's best pitchers.

ST. THOMAS LADY GOLFERS LOSE TO WOODSTOCK. ST. THOMAS, July 3.—The Woodstock Ladies' Golf Club defeated the local club in an interesting competition on the links here. The score was: Woodstock 161-2; St. Thomas 121-2. Refreshments were served at the country club house by ladies of the home club. The weather and other incidents made the day a very enjoyable one.

KILLED IN MOTOR CAR.

ROUEN, France, July 4.—Blinded by a flash of lightning during an electrical storm last night, Dr. Belben, a prominent physician, lost control of his automobile, which crashed into a ditch by the roadside, killing him.

VANQUISHED YET VICTORIOUS.

Having the Last Word, Though at Cost of Personal Disparagement.

There is a lawyer with an office in one of the largest buildings downtown who is famous as a man who never loses his temper or allows his words to grow intemperate. The other day when he was very busy a book canvasser entered his private office.

"I should like to show you a very valuable work," she began.

"Madam," said the attorney, rising from his chair, "you must excuse me. I am very sorry, but I am engaged."

The agent had heard the same thing before probably, for she kept on getting closer. Though the lawyer never peated his plea of an engagement, she came nearer and nearer and talked and talked.

"Madam," he cried desperately, "I am busy, and if you don't go at once you will force me to be what I have never been before—guilty of rudeness to a woman!"

"That did the business. Like a true woman, she had the last word, even though she knew she was licked. As she retreated toward the door she cried:

"I'll have you know I ain't a woman; I'm a lady!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

INTERNATIONAL IS O. K.

NEW YORK, July 4.—After a four-hour session here yesterday the International League club owners completed their special business, which began the day previous.

President Barrow said that none of the business transacted was of public interest and that the organization was perfectly well able to take care of its own interests without having to resort to transferring franchises or any other measures outside of its regular routine.

DEMOCRACY.

In my own country we are growing more and more to believe that the only safe rule in a democracy is to give the people themselves the right after due deliberation to decide finally on every subject which they deem of vital importance. The public servants—legislators, executives and judges alike—must be in very fact the servants of the people. The people must have the right to make and unmake these public servants in order to hold them strictly accountable for their stewardship. They must also have the right on their own initiative to pass upon laws which the legislature has passed or which it has refused to pass and if the legislature does not correctly represent them. Finally the people must not surrender to the executive or legislative branches of the government the final decision as to what laws they are to be permitted to have.

Gumboat Smith came over here to fight with Georges Carpentier on July 16 for the white heavyweight championship of the world—a prize which doesn't happen to be within the reach of either gentleman, so far as can be seen from outside. Mr. Smith is a large, slow, heavy footed young man who carries a crumpling punch in his right arm. Carpentier is an agile, swift, hard hitting, light heavy, with a genius for play-acting that sent one of the old Bombardier Wells to the ropes, not before ever a blow had been struck in their fight. Either Johnson or Langford would sprinkle a little salt on Carpentier, and eat him—provided that Johnson can ever make himself fit. By no process of reasoning can you make the Smith-Carpentier fight a championship contest, although it is certain to be an intensely interesting one.

Wild Over Gumboat Smith.

And yet our English friends meet Gumboat with a band and blockade the streets when he automobiles through, and cheer their enthusiastic heads off for him when he appears at a boxing club. That despite the general belief held by boxing experts here that Carpentier will defeat Smith to death, and that the excellent Gumboat will not have a chance to deliver one of his besotted. If he does, all agree to be certain for the Frenchman. A fact which all of his friends are calling loudly to Mr. Carpentier's attention. No one armed puncher was ever so loudly shouted over as is Mr. Smith. If Carpentier wins he will be elected president of France.

The Johnson-Moran fight in Paris did not attract much attention on this side of the channel because of the general belief that the negro is invincible. Dan McCreck is issuing $20,000 a side challenges on behalf of Young Ahearn to meet any one in his class. Tony Ross, the Italian-American, wants to fight the winner of the Wells-Bell battle for $5,000 a side. A score of similar challenges are in the air. At least a dozen fight clubs conduct regular meetings here each week, and three of them fight from two to three nights a week. Heaven only knows how many amateur tournaments there are always going on. There isn't a city in England big enough to have a mayor in which fighting is not the weekly billy. To a less extent the same thing is true of Scotland, and to a still less extent of Ireland.

It is perfectly true that the purses are not much in the minor classes. The average patron of boxing is a poor man. When he throws copper pennies on the platform for the favored scrapper at New Barnett he has done all that can be expected of him—and all that is expected. The amateur fight like wildcats all over town for engraved tin cups and polished medals. Thirty bob—which is about $7.50—is a fair purse at many of the smaller clubs for the lesser attractions of the night. Even the semi-finals sometimes only pull down $100. But in the higher orders the purses are really generous.

And—between us—there are lads fighting around New York who could come over here and fight their way through the British product like a darned needle goes through yarn.

BOSTON BRAVES GET DEVORE FOR MARTIN.

BOSTON, July 4.—"Josh" Devore formerly of the New York Giants, will join the Boston Nationals as a result of a trade by which the Philadelphia Nationals, of which he is now a member, will receive John Martin, a third baseman, in exchange, according to an announcement by Manager Stallings of the Boston team last night. Martin played with the Rochester International club last season. President Gaffney of the Boston club, announced last night that the following players have signed contracts for two or more seasons: Evers, Maravilla, Schmidt, Gowdy, Gilbert, Rudolph, James and Strand.

By an order in Council the cold-storage act has been amended to provide that the public be given preference in the matter of storage under certain conditions.

DOUBLE-DASH STEAL IS CONNIE'S LATEST

It is Worked With One or None Out With Runners on Second and Third.

Have you heard of Connie Mack's "double-dash steal?"

The baseball season of 1914 may not be productive of the richest financial results ever enjoyed—but much improvement has been made, especially in base running, says a writer in the Chicago Post.

Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, continues to spring new plays and his world champions are forever attempting something new and startling in the old game. The Athletics are slowly but surely revolutionizing the sport so far as lightning speed and electrifying plays are concerned, and when he popped his new double-dash squeeze play, with men on second and third, the wild birds shook their heads, muttering "it can't be done."

But Mack seldom starts a play that cannot be perfected. In the new squeeze, the opposition is often thrown off its balance, so suddenly is the speedy trick sprung. With a man on second and another on third and either none on one out, the signal is tipped and the batter taps off a bunt. On the tip of the signal, both base runners dash off like wild, and for a few seconds the spectators are every-body seems to be running and jumping about.

The man at bat must not slip up on his end of the new squeeze. He must connect for a slow roller, and then—swish—they are off in a bunch. The man on third is speeding for the plate and the pitcher or whoever fields the ball pegs home to catch the man. Sometimes they catch him and again they fail. But, whether or not that man is nipped, there is another runner beating the path directly to him and that man has his orders. He must slide into the plate on the opposite side from which the catcher is working on his team mate, and seldom does this play fail to score at least one of the runs.

WHERE IS BRUCE ISMAY?

Said to be Hidden in Most Desolate Part of Ireland.

Costello, Galway Bay, Ireland, July 4.—Where is Bruce Ismay? During two years the director arraigned for the tragedy of the Titanic has been missing from the world he knew. The loneliest road to Ireland runs from Minna to Costello along the shore of Galway bay. Sheer moor, quite treeless, bleak beyond words, hardly a stone cabin in sight and no path but the straight mail road. More sterile than Donegal, more pitiful than Clare, the strange network of grey land and greyer water constitutes the country of Iar Connecht.

In the heart of this Irish wilderness a solitary lodge shows white against its surrounding patch of green. A locked gate forbids entrance. Here lives Bruce Ismay. Money he has and all that money will buy. But he cannot shake off the memories on his mind. Day after day he must hear them—the shrieks of drowning men crying down the wind. This is his curse—What he did will be remembered until the Titanic is forgotten.

MURDER IS VERDICT OF CORONER'S JURY.

MONTREAL, July 4.—A verdict of murder was returned yesterday morning by the coroner's jury against a man named Richard, who was caretaker at the Chateau Tait, mysterious, razed to the ground by fire early in January. The recent finding of the body of an unknown man in the ruins of the destroyed chateau renewed interest in the sudden disappearance of Richard and a companion, who is said to have been with him in the Tait residence at the time of its destruction.

RAY CLEMENTS, OF SAINTS, IS RELEASED BY CRAVEN

Was a Good Pitcher Last Year, But His Showing This Season is a Decidedly Poor One.

ST. THOMAS, July 3.—Ray Clements, who has been a member of the Saints' pitching staff for three seasons, was released after the game in Brantford Thursday. Ray has only won two games this season, and has been a terrible disappointment to the management. He was counted on as one of the St. Thomas club's winners, twirlers, and was always looked upon as one of the league's best pitchers.

ST. THOMAS LADY GOLFERS LOSE TO WOODSTOCK.

ST. THOMAS, July 3.—The Woodstock Ladies' Golf Club defeated the local club in an interesting competition on the links here. The score was; Woodstock 16-12; St. Thomas 12-12. Refreshments were served at the home club. The weather and other incidents made the day a very enjoyable one.

KILLED IN MOTOR CAR.

ROSEN, France, July 4.—Blinded by a flash of lightning during an electrical storm last night, Dr. Rosen, a prominent physician, lost control of his automobile, which dashed into a ditch by the roadside, killing him.

VANQUISHED YET VICTORIOUS.

Having the Last Word, Though at the Cost of Personal Disparagement.

There is a lawyer with an office in one of the largest buildings downtown who is famous as a man who never loses his temper or allows his words to grow intemperate. The other day when he was very busy a book canvasser entered his private office. "I should like to show you a very valuable work," she began. "Madam," said the attorney, rising from his chair, "you must excuse me. I am very sorry, but I am engaged." The agent had heard the same thing before probably, for she kept on getting closer. Though the lawyer repeated his plea of an engagement, she came nearer and nearer and talked and talked. "Madam," he cried desperately, "I am busy, and if you don't go at once you will force me to be what I have never been before—guilty of rudeness to a woman!" "That did the business. Like a true woman, she had the last word, even though she knew she was licked. As she retreated toward the door she cried: "I'll have you know I ain't a woman; I'm a lady!" —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

INTERNATIONAL IS O. K.

NEW YORK, July 4.—After a four-hour session here yesterday the International League club owners completed their special business, which began the day previous. President Barrow said that since the business transacted was of public interest and that the organization was perfectly well able to take care of its own interests without having to resort to transferring franchises or any other measures outside of its regular routine.

DEMOCRACY.

In my own country we are growing more and more to believe that the only safe rule in a democracy is to give the people themselves the right after due deliberation to decide finally on every subject which they deem of vital importance. The public servants—legislators, executives and judges alike—must be in very fact the servants of the people. The people must have the right to make and unmake these public servants in order to hold them strictly accountable for their stewardship. They must also have the right on their own initiative to pass laws which the legislature has passed or which it has refused to pass if the legislature does not correctly represent them. Finally, the people must not surrender to the executive or legislative branches of the government the final decision as to what laws they are to be permitted to have. —Theodore Roosevelt to Argentinians.

In The World Of Labor

A Budget of News For Those Interested in Labor

By G. A. M.

Gleaned From the Exchanges and Other Sources

Let it be Said of Me

By Kate Brownlee Sherwood
Let it be said of me—
Not that my wit was subtlest of them all;
Not that its thrust was keenest; that the fall
Of him, my foe, was compassed by my act;
That I was versed in language, lore or fact;
Not that I had the gift of speech to sway;
A multitude to think the other way;
Not that the world of custom was my guide;
Not that in rich possessions was my pride.

Let it be said of me—
Not that I strove and ran and won the prize,
And blocked the way when others sought to rise;
Not that my voice was heard in wild hurrah
When ancient license posed, as higher law;
Not that my eyes were blind when sham was set
To dazzle folly into mild regret;
Not that my ears were deaf to sob and cry
Beneath the wheels when splendor hurried by.

Let it be said of me—
Wherever there was holy cause to serve,
Or hearts that ache, or perils that unnerve;
Wherever there was arduous task to do,

Never Give Up

The only man who is, really beaten in life is the man who gives up. He beats himself.
A man may be overwhelmed, crushed, baffled and apparently beaten beyond redemption, but if he has the right stuff in him that will still hold out and raise the flag of defiance.
There is not one of us who is not at some time tired of the limits of our capacity. There is some of us whose whole life is one continuous trial, and yet it happens often that those who are most sorely tried, who have the greatest misfortunes and bear the heaviest burdens, are the most cheerful and optimistic and inspiring of all.

Do not imagine that you are alone in battling with the fates and in being buffeted by the adversities. There are thousands and thousands of others who are having the same struggle, and you must learn from them to raise again and again after being beaten down, thereby bringing into play the last atom of your normal strength and proving yourself at last to have been a man.

Never give up. That is the only way you can be beaten and when you are beaten in that way it is by yourself.
The enemy you have been fighting could not have crushed you; you did it yourself.
No man of character who is fighting for a principle and is resolved never to surrender, is ever beaten in the battle of life.—Pittsburg Iron Trades Journal.

Two Kinds of Sweat

A citizen's use to the community is not at all fixed by the amount of taxes he pays. His contribution to the wealth of society may have no relation at all to the sum of his own wealth on which he pays taxes.

There is a working man, say, who has six children attending a public school. In some places it is estimated that it costs $40 of public moneys a year for the schooling of each child of school age.

There is another citizen, say, who never earned a dollar in his life, who never contributed a cent to the social wealth, yet who became wealthy by simply "acquiring" a large share of the wealth that the workers and the growth of the community have made. He thinks he is "enterprising" because has the shrewdness to get some land and hold it unimproved until others pay him a big price and put it to use.

Now this latter type of citizen thinks he and others of his wealth-consuming kind are educating those six children of the working man, the wealth-producer! One of these muddy-minded acquisitive citizens has just been heard to say that "because the $12 a year taxes on his dwelling and his children get the value of $40 a year in education, therefore the working man is getting all the best of it."—Niagara Falls Journal.

Ford Wars on Bad Housing

Henry Ford has declared war against tenements and squalid rooming houses and no employee of the Ford Motor company will be permitted to live in them.

A notice just sent to all the Detroit employees, Mr. Ford says the company expects each recipient of its profit-sharing plan to use his or her share in the profits for the good of themselves and their families and to "make more comfortable your home and living conditions."

Married and single men who do not live up to the modern standard of American every-day living are to be eliminated from the Ford organization. Married men who keep boarders in their home will lose their places. So will single men who reside in rooming houses such as have been found in Highland Park, where they sleep in shifts.

"These men of many nations must be taught American ways the English language the right to live," Mr. Ford said. "Married men should keep their households for themselves and their immediate families. They should not sacrifice family rights pleasure and comfort by filling their homes with roomers and boarders."

"Single men are expected to live under conditions that make for good manhood and good citizenship. They will not do for them to waste their share of the profits. Once they live correctly, breathe the real, fresh air, of freedom, see that health and strength are fully conserved, we can make them good citizens."

"We now have thirty-five investigators who are interviewing each employee. Every detail of their living is inquired into. They found one man, his wife, and three children in four rooms, and there were five ducks in the bath tub—five ducks! He couldn't understand why he wasn't considered clean and a share in the profits had been denied him."

Next Monday an innovation at the Ford plant, an English-teaching school will be opened. The first class will comprise 200 students of eleven nationalities.—Chicago Tribune.

Data on Utilities

Statistics showing the number of municipally-owned utilities of various kinds in the United States, with supplemental data as to Canada and England, were given out by the District Commissioners yesterday in a report to their appearance before the House District committee at a hearing on the bill of Representative Crosser, of Ohio, providing for the municipal ownership of street railways in the District.

Publicly-owned electric lighting plants numbered 1,562 in 1912, according to the figures, and privately-owned plants number 3,659. In the ten-year period from 1902 to 1912 the publicly-owned plants had increased nearly 92 per cent, while the privately-owned plants had increased only a little over 20 per cent. In the five-year period from 1907 to 1912 the figures show that 107 lighting plants were changed from private to municipal ownership, while 80 were changed from municipal to private ownership. The balance sheet of the 1,562 publicly-owned plants shows a net surplus of $17,698,222.

Gas companies were owned by municipalities to the number of 119 in 1909, according to the figures given out. It is estimated that there has been an increase of about 100 publicly-owned gas plants in the last twelve years.

The statistics as to publicly-owned electric railway systems relate to Canada, and English cities. In Canada, Calgary, Edmonton, Port Arthur, Brantford, Woodstock are mentioned. In Great Britain the number of cities owning street railways is given at 142. The figures for the other publicly-owned utilities in Great Britain are: Waterworks 1,045; gas plants, 256; electric plants 334.—Washington (D.C.) Post.

Industrial Canada

The Hamilton Boot and Shoe repairers have decided to organize a local of the Boot and Shoe Workers' International Union, and will use the union stamp on the footwear they repair.

St. Catharines plasterers had their wages increased from $2 1-2 to 55 cents per hour for a nine hour day. This was in accord with an agreement signed with the employers last year when the rate was increased from 50 to 52 1-2 cents per hour, the 55 cent rate to go into effect in 1914.

The general chairman and members of the Grand Trunk Railway joint protective board of the maintenance of way employees recently presented M. J. Power, one of the vice-presidents of the organization, with a beautiful watch chain and an address expressing appreciation of his faithful services in behalf of the trackmen of the system.

A new Labor Temple is on tap for the city of Quebec. A company has been formed to erect a thirty thousand dollar edifice, and will be known as the Labor Temple association. A local company has offered to donate a site free of charge, believing that the labor movement tends to improve existing industrial conditions.

Winnipeg Co-operative Society announces that quite a large variety of goods was being purchased by it from the co-operative wholesale in the Old Country, and that a large shipment of these goods was now on the ocean. It hoped that it would not be long before a much larger proportion of the goods would be purchased from co-operative sources, until the Winnipeg society was able to produce its own goods.

Reports from Winnipeg are to the effect that there were no labor troubles in evidence in that city on May 1st, and no demands upon the employers for increased wages or changes in existing contracts. The painters secured an increase of 2 1-2 cents per hour, as embodied in the agreement they obtained at the settlement of last year's strike.

While a great deal of work has been commenced in the building industry, the various organizations report many of their members as still being unemployed.

There are five locals of the Broom & Whisk Makers International union in Canada, located in Hamilton, London, Toronto, Winnipeg and St. John, N.B. The Hamilton local is one of the best in the organization, and has a signed union agreement with the largest local firm and better conditions as a result than in any of the other centres. Wherever the union manages to secure a foothold it is not long before better conditions follow in its wake. It is as though there ought to be more than five locals of the craft, however, in so large a territory. Doubtless with the growing spirit of unionism in the western provinces a few locals out there will soon be in evidence.

It is a remarkable fact that while nearly every other craft is organized to a larger or lesser degree in Canada, there is not a local of the International Cooper's union in existence in the Dominion. It is less remarkable, however that workers in this craft receive a lower rate of wages than the general laborer. They are probably the worst paid mechanics to be found anywhere. There would be a different story to tell, if, like some other crafts, they had a well organized trade union to protect them. The Canadian cooper is another illustration of the fact that non-unionism means a lean pay envelope. The boss sees to it that the independent worker takes his part of the small.

The board of directors of the Hamilton Labor Temple Association are a hard working aggregation; it looks as though they were going to make good. They are losing no time, and have already visited a number of sites to consider which would be most advantageous for the construction of the new edifice. There are a sufficient number of strong locals in the Ambitious City to ensure the success of the project, and what is more, it should be a good paying proposition. Much enthusiasm is being manifested, and it can be taken for granted that Hamilton can be depended upon to have one of the best labor headquarters in the Dominion of Canada.

CHATHAM CARPENTERS ARE POOREST PAID

CHATHAM, July 3.—At a meeting of the Ontario Provincial Council of Carpenters and Joiners it was decided to urge all locals to support and endorse the strike now in progress by the carpenters in London. The meeting was held here and was very quiet, and only delegates were allowed admittance. Several important business matters were given attention. The board of control for the ensuing year is: Mr. March of Niagara Falls, President; Messrs. Jackson and E.H. of Toronto; Blyth of Welland and Swatman of Leamington. It was decided to hold the meeting next year in Niagara Falls. Mr. J. C. McLean, president of the local organization, is reported to have said that Chatham paid lower wages than other cities by from 10 to 15 cents per hour.

WESTERN ONTARIO TENNIS. TILLSONBURG, Ont., July 4.—Tillsonburg won a Western Ontario Tennis League fixture from Simcoe yesterday. The locals won five games out of six singles and three doubles.

Wharf Collapses at Stag Island When Picnickers Crowd on It.

SARNIA, July 3.—About 50 people, men, women and children, were precipitated into the river when the board walk leading over the water to the main wharf collapsed at Stag Island on Wednesday. Wild confusion resulted, women and children shrieking, while the horrified crowd on shore rushed to aid and fro.

Fortunately, however, the water was not deep, and the thoroughly drenched people were rescued unharmed. The crowd passing over the walk on the way to the dock caused the structure, which is of wood, to give way, and tilt towards the river, dumping its occupants feet first, head first, and in all kinds of positions into the water. Thousands of people were on the island attending the picnic held under the auspices of the Corunna Board of Trade.

One woman stood in the water almost up to her neck, holding her baby above her head, until her husband rescued it.

HOLD-UP MEN ROB GUELPH FARMER

Highwaymen Get Watch and Money From Alvin Carmichael on Wednesday

GUELPH, July 3.—Alvin Carmichael, of Erin, was held up by two men on the Erin road last night about 8 o'clock and relieved of his watch and all the money he had on his person. Mr. Carmichael was on his way home when he was confronted by two men, one of them seized the horse by the head, the other, who was armed, ordering him to hand over his watch and money.

A short time before the hold-up took place a farmer, passing along the road, noticed an automobile, without lights, on the side of the road near the point where Mr. Carmichael was held up, and it is thought that the highwaymen concerned in the affair came in the machine. The automobile was traced as far as Erin village.

Personality of Printers

Have you ever considered the personality of printers? Do you know anything about printers? If you don't know anything about this most useful body of men, the loss is a distinct one to you. We've known and numbered among our friends for many years members of this craft of crafts. We have been proud of this friendship and honored by it. The printer is the brightest, most capable, most intellectually up-to-date man in the social body. The lawyer may be learned in the law, the doctor may stand high in his profession, the minister may be a walking encyclopedia of theological lore, the merchant may be keen and alert in his business, but few of them enjoy the broad general education of the average printer; and fewer of them act touch him in the matter of essential English composition.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat some time ago published a news item, the substance of which was to the effect that among the 1,500 inmates in Joliet prison there is not one printer. We have often seen it stated that is generally true of all places of penal servitude. Why is this so? We do not know unless it is because the printer sees every day the story of crime and the inevitable failure of the criminal. He becomes so familiar with the seamy side of the fabric of life that he instinctively avoids connection with the weavers of the threads of crime. We can't explain it in any other way. He is a man, with all a man's passions, hopes, dreams; but he is seldom a criminal.

Scout Notes

When the Commissioner visited Dunnville to make final arrangements for the camp site and commissariat at the Ekus, Lake Erie, he was very pleased to note the favor in which the scout campers were held.

All of the farmers were quite willing to grant permission for a scout camp to be held on their property.

The local scouts intend participating in a camp from 20th to 30th and all wishing to go should make immediate application at the Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. patrol members are working hard for their efficiency badges at present; 10 local scout officers leave for St. Andrew's camp, Toronto, next week.

Things are quiet in scout circles just at present owing to the absence of a large number of the boys at the camp at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

PAPER-BAG COOKERY

You've heard about the latest kind of cooking. In the little paper bags—it's quite a craze.

My wife has got the fever, and I'll swear I'll have to leave her. If she doesn't change her paper-cooking ways.

It's not the paper bags I object to, it's her method that's so very, very crude.

For the paper bags she uses are all made from Daily Newses, and the print boils off and comes out on the food.

The bride wore a becoming street suit of grey and a smart toque of black tulle. Only relatives and a few friends were present. After a very jolly informal reception Mr. and Mrs. McCrimmon left amid cheers and good wishes for Algonquin Park, where the honeymoon will be spent.

A quiet and pretty house wedding took place at high noon, Wednesday, June 24th, at the home of Mr. R. E. Truax, M.P. and Mrs. Truax, Walkerton, when their youngest daughter, Ruby Porteous, was married to Mr. William Hamilton Adams of Toronto the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Thomas Wilson of Knox Presbyterian church. The house was beautifully decorated with quantities of roses and palms. To the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus played by Miss Truax, the bride entered the drawing room on the arm of the father wearing a quaint French gown of figured taffeta, and carrying a shower of bridal roses and lily-of-the-valley. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Harry Eldridge Truax, sister-in-law of the bride, sang "O Promise Me." Owing to a recent bereavement in the groom's family only the immediate relatives of the bride were present, Mr. and Mrs. Adams left on the afternoon train for Muskoka and other points, the bride travelling in a very becoming French suit of embroidered powdered lilac crepe and a hat of black with a touch of rose. WILLIAM WORDSWORTH 1770-1850

With the young of both sexes, poetry is like Love, a passion; but, alas! business and domestic cares soon necessitate the severing of the pleasing ties, and then poetry becomes only an occasional recreation or pastime. In middle and declining years a scattered number resort to their long neglected poets, as to religion, for consolation and uplift of spirit. Among the most delightful and inspiring of poets is the subject of this sketch.

The tranquility and seclusion of the life of a man of letters, affords very little material for biography, but the writings of our distinguished author are in themselves auto-biographical. They present the reader with interesting expositions of feeling under which they were composed, and give us ample explanations of his various opinions on literary, political and social.

William Wordsworth was born in the lake district of England, 1770, of respectable but modest parents. His childhood was passed in the country and at the age of eight he went to Hawkshead school. While there he boarded with Shepherds in a very simple home. His parents died while he was very young and his education was afterwards superintended by uncles. At the age of eighteen he entered Cambridge and while there was not distinguished as a hard worker. His classical attainments, however, were very marked and at an early age his English compositions in prose and verse showed great promise. One of his favorite recreations was the study of his best poets and the recitations of their most striking passages.

While yet a student he made a pedestrian tour of France, with his College friend Coleridge. He was thus brought into very close contact with the movements of the French Revolution, which was going on at that time. Upon his return to England he suffered acute mental distress for he felt the justice of the struggle and yet felt his English patriotism.

When Wordsworth graduated he was undecided as to his vocation. He was not attracted by any profession. Travelling was his passion. His inner voice led him to poetry, but the life of a man of letters was pecuniary. He and Coleridge had made many plans for reforming literature, but they had no money. Wordsworth, however, was left a small legacy of £900, which by living frugally, economically, served him and his sister, Emily, well. He was thus enabled to indulge his passion for the beauties of nature, to which he had always been enthusiastically attached. "Thou, Nature, Art my goddess," might truly befit the lips of Wm. Wordsworth, for never did a more ardent worshipper extol her beauties and mysteries.

In 1798 Mr. Wordsworth, through his sister Dorothy, made a tour through part of Germany, where he joined Mr. Coleridge. But, Wordsworth loved the north of England, and returning settled there, first with his sister and later with his wife. England awakened to the fact that Wordsworth was a great poet towards the end of his life. Universities conferred their higher degrees upon him. He was given the laureateship in the seventeenth year of his life. The nation upon his death granted him the honors of burial in Westminster Abbey, but his wish was the quiet, peaceful country church-yard of Grasmere.

One of his most note-worthy poems is an account of himself entitled "The Prelude." As poetry it is not always satisfying, but as a psychological document it is unique. It is his autobiography, not of events, but his natural and spiritual experiences and the contemplated writing a great poem of nature and human life, and he considered "The Prelude" a suitable way to approach the theme. The great poem however, never appeared.

The Prelude was written when the poet was about thirty years of age, for the private reading of his friend Coleridge. It did not become public until after its author's death. A good understanding of the Prelude gives one a much better conception of the poet. He spent effort and seriousness on his work and struggled for adequate possession. There are times when his poetry is magical, beautiful, musical and charming, but the passages are often half-lost in interior work. He was loathe to prune or recast sentences once penned.

The Prelude consists of fourteen books of blank verse, in which Wordsworth's theory, that his poetic mind was slowly built up by spiritual experiences is set forth. It is, of course, the business of a psychological poet to recognize the experiences which to the ordinary person would be trivial and unimportant. He idealizes childhood and believes that the youthful experiences must never be neglected. To him the child is almost divine. "Trailing clouds of glory do we come, from God, who is our home," but "Clouds of the prison-house begin to close upon the growing boy." The different phases of the poet's life can be traced down to the final book, in which he tells of the entrance of Coleridge into his life and the legacy which relieved him from material care for a few years.

Wordsworth and Coleridge formulated many schemes and finally crystallized their ideas for a volume to be written together—the famous Lyrical Ballads.

Coleridge was a mystic, vague, nebulous philosopher and dreamer, and better at making plans than fulfilling them. Wordsworth, on the contrary, was more industrious, so the majority of the works of this epoch-making volume are Wordsworth's. Coleridge contributed "The Ancient Mariner," "The Nightingale," and a few others, and Wordsworth, among others, contributed that beautiful poem, "Tintern Abbey," "The Idiot Boy" and "The Thorn," which provide material for the softer and more domestic volume.

"We Are Seven" is a pretty little poem, illustrating how the mind of the child absolutely refuses to accept the idea of death. Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird," which has attracted so much attention lately, expresses precisely the same old idea in a modified form. The period in which the Lyrical Ballads were produced was one of the most productive and happiest of both the poets' lives.

Another of their ideals was the reform of "poetic diction." They considered the language of poetry too much inflated and grandiloquent. This sonorousness of expression they traced back to Milton, but they did not consider that it was he who erred, but his imitators, who applied his vocabulary to trivial topics. They considered that the language of poetry should be kept near everyday life. Examples of this theory are "Tables Turned," "Exposition and Reply," "The Solitary Reaper," "To My Sister," and many others.

Wordsworth composed a great many perfectly charming sonnets, of which some of the favorites are: "Earth hath not anything to show more fair"—"Scorn not the sonnet, critic. You have frowned, Mindless of its just honors," etc. "How sweet it is when Mother Fancy rocks The wayward brain to saunter through a wood."

"It is a beautiful evening, calm and free; The holy time is quiet as a nun Breathless with adoration," etc. "The world is too much with us; late and soon, Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers; Little we see in Nature that is ours; We have given our hearts away, a sordid boon!"

"This sea that bares her bosom to the moon; The winds that will be howling at all hours, And are upgathered now like sleeping flowers; For this, for everything, we are out of tune," etc.

And very many more, simple, yet perfectly exquisite. "Michael" is one of the few poems in the world that has the right to be called "pastoral." It is absolutely realistic and unembellished by conventional art. The story is told with austere simplicity, strongly analogous to the paintings of Millet.

"There is a comfort in the strength of Love; 'Twill make a thing enduring, which else Would overset the brain or break the heart," etc.

Who can be insensible to the latent beauties of the "Daisy Poems,"

Wordsworth's long poem, "The Excursion," appeared in 1814. It is uneven and imperfect in many respects, and is not the great poem the author thought it would be. It, however, contains some very fine passages, particularly the following:

"I have seen A curious child, who dwelt upon a tract Of inland ground, applying to his ear The convolutions of a smooth-tipped shell; To which, in silence hushed, his very soul Listened intently; and his countenance soon Brightened with joy, for murmurings from within Were heard, sonorous cadences! Whereby, To his belief, the monitor expressed mysterious Union with its native sea. Even such a shell the universe itself Is to the ear of faith, and there at times, I doubt not, when to you it doth impart Authentic tidings of invisible things; Of ebb and flow, and ever-during power; And central peace, subsisting at the heart Of endless agitation."

Wordsworth stands pre-eminently our greatest nature poet. He believed the poets should be a kind of seolian harp, played upon by every breath of nature. In his own words "To me the meanest flower that blooms can give thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears." The daisy conveyed messages to him, the cuckoo's soft note brought back thoughts of boyhood—in fact, everything in nature appealed to him, and he gave us a new aspect of nature. He read little, but exhorted men to "Come forth into the light of things. Let Nature be your teacher." There is infused into all his writings a lofty, philosophic tone, yet simple and unassuming.

Those who are not very familiar with Wordsworth will find the short poems mentioned in this article most delightful reading.

LESS EUGENIC TALK AND MORE REAL LOVE

Is a Cleveland Physician's Advice Before Health Congress at Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., July 3.—Yess eugenics and more old-fashioned love is what the race needs, said Dr. J. Richey Horner of the Cleveland Homeopathic Medical College, who read a paper on sex hygiene yesterday before the Bureau of Sanitary Science of the American Institute of Homeopathy.

"Eugenics and education go hand in hand," Dr. Horner said. "Children should, however, be given instruction before the age of nine, and the instruction should be given individually rather than in classes. The child should be taught to hold his mother in respect, else he will hold no other woman in respect. If laws for eugenics are passed, they must be universal, else they will not count for much."

Dr. Horner said it was his belief that as long as man was attracted by beauty and woman by strength, eugenics would in a great measure take care of itself.

On the fifteenth of each month the C.P.R. will pay in wages over the whole system $6,000,000. This is the monthly record in round numbers 120,000 cheques being drawn every month. It seems only the day before yesterday when 50,000 cheques were deemed to represent a tremendous monthly wage list. The number of employees grows all the time, in spite of careful appointment and economic working. These monthly cheques find their way into the most distant, the oddest places. They are hurried, in countless, to the distant parts of British Columbia. They find their way to the construction camps, removed from civilization. They reach the employes at the way-side station showing a single tuft of grass amid the general aridity. And however lonely and small or discouraging the locality or district, there will be some one there to cash the cheque for the employe. There may be a bank in a tent, which is very frequently the fact. If there is no bank there is a company's agent of some kind to whom the cheques will be addressed and who will distribute them to the men in the district. To make out the pay-lists and check them, and control them, and issue the cheques to correspond to the bookkeeping and get the work so advanced as to have all things ready at the right date on the stroke of the clock, requires a large staff at headquarters. And whether the times be good or bad, the figures rising or falling, the $6,000,000 have to be provided on the fifteenth of each month to the minute. PAPER-BAG COOKERY

You've heard about the latest kind of cooking. In the little paper bags—it's quite a craze.

My wife has got the fever, and I'll swear I'll have to leave her. If she doesn't change her paper-cooking ways.

It's not the paper bags I object to, it's her method that's so very, very crude.

For the paper bags she uses are all made from Daily Newses.

And the print boils off and comes out on the food.

Chorus:

There's a breach of promise case up on the mutton, And a murder right across the pickled pork;

You can read about the Navy on the surface of the gravy, While the spinach gives the latest news from Cork.

The motto on the fish is "Votes for Women." While a scandal on the veal attention begs.

On the bacon we are getting all the latest London betting, With the names of all the winners on the eggs.

Miss Phyllis Nordheimer, Toronto, is visiting Mrs. Anglin at Blue Lake near Ottawa, and will later go to Brackley Beach for the Summer.

Mr. E. L. Cockshutt is expected home to-day or Monday from an extended stay in Europe. Mr. Edward Roberts is continuing his musical studies there.

The marriage arranged between Mr. Frank S. Welsman, of Toronto, and Helen Margaret, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Grasset, of Barrie, will take place very quietly in Barrie, on July 6th.

Sir William and Mr. and Mrs. William Mulock are at Sir Williams' farm at Newmarket, and Mr. and Mrs. Cawthra Mulock are at their country place at Roche's Point where they will spend the summer.

The many friends of Miss Vera Styles will be pleased to learn that she passed with first-class honors the examination in second-year piano held in this city by Toronto Conservatory of Music. Vera is a pupil of Mrs. Stewart Sanderson.

King George, on the occasion of the celebration of his birthday, appointed Queen Mary colonel-in-chief of the 18th Hussars. He appointed his mother, Queen Alexandra, colonel-in-chief of the 10th Hussars and the Yorkshire regiments, his sister, the Princess Royal, colonel-in-chief of the Seventh Dragoon Guards and his aunt, Princess Louise, widow of the Duke of Argyll, colonel-in-chief of the Argyll Highlanders.

A pretty house wedding took place last week at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Ellison, St. Thomas, Ontario, when their only daughter, Miss Clara Jane Ellison, was married to Mr. Donald McCrimmon, son of County Crown Attorney and Mrs. McCrimmon, of St. Thomas, the Venerable Archdeacon Hill officiating.

The bride wore a becoming street suit of grey and a smart toque of black tulle. Only relatives and a few friends were present. After a very jolly informal reception Mr. and Mrs. McCrimmon left, amid cheers, and good wishes for Algonquin Park, where the honeymoon will be spent.

Rev. G. M. Cox of London Ont., who has been spending several months in the Old Land for the benefit of his health, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Simpson, 105 Park Avenue.

Many friends will be pleased to learn that Mr. Charles Darwin has been transferred to the Bank of Hamilton in Toronto. For some time Mr. Darwin has been a member of the Wellington street choir and gave able assistance as baritone soloist. His commences his new duties immediately.

On June 3rd the Hon. S. H. Blake K.C., quietly passed away at his home in Rosedale, Toronto. The Hon. "Sam" Blake was one of the best-known men in Canada, and one of the few men who have become known from coast to coast in England.

The Prince of Wales celebrated his twentieth birthday on June 20th, and in honor of the event an artillery salute was fired in St. James Park, London, and at Windsor, and all the big naval and military centres. Flags were flown on all government buildings, and the diplomatic representatives of the various nations tendered official congratulations on behalf of their rulers.

The Prince took a couple of days holiday from his studies at the event. Born in 1894, he was created a peer in 1901, and was created Prince of Wales shortly after his father ascended the throne. As his father's heir, he automatically became Duke of Cornwall on his father's accession, and next year, when he comes of age he will take complete control of the revenues of the duchy as his own private pocket money.

The Prince's full style and title are: Duke of Cornwall, Earl of Chester, Duke of Rothesay, Baron Renfrew, Lord of the Isles and Great Steward of Scotland.

A quiet and pretty house wedding took place at high noon, Wednesday, June 24th, at the home of Mr. R. E. Truax, M.P. and Mrs. Truax, Walkerston, when their youngest daughter, Ruby Porteous, was married to Mr. William Hamilton Adams of Toronto.

The ceremony being performed by the Rev. Thomas Wilson of Knox Presbyterian church. The house was beautifully decorated with quantities of roses and palms. To the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus played by Miss Truax, the bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, wearing a quaint French gown of figured taffeta, and carrying a shower of bridal roses and lily-of-the-valley. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Harry Eldridge Truax, sister-in-law of the bride, sang "O Promise Me." Owing to a recent bereavement in the groom's family only the immediate relatives of the bride were present, Mr. and Mrs. Adams left on the afternoon train for Muskoka and other points, the bride travelling in a very becoming French suit of embroidered powdered blue crepe and a hat of black with a touch of rose.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Adams will take up their residence in Toronto.

WILLIAM WORDSWORTH 1770-1850

With the young of both sexes, poetry is the Love, a passion; but, alas! business and domestic cares soon necessitate the severing of the pleasing ties, and then poetry becomes only an occasional recreation or pastime. In middle and declining years a scattered number resort to their long-neglected poets, as to a fountain of inspiration and uplift of spirit. Among the most delightful and inspiring of poets is the subject of this short sketch.

The tranquillity and seclusion of the life of a man of letters, affords very little material for biography, but the writings of our distinguished author are in themselves auto-biographical. They present the reader with interesting expositions of feeling and feeling, and ample explanations of his various opinions, literary, political and social.

William Wordsworth was born in the lake district of England, 1770, of respectable but modest parents. His childhood was passed in the country and at the age of eight he went to Hawkshead school. While there he boarded with Shepherds in a very simple home. His parents died while he was very young and his education was afterwards supervised by an uncle, Peter Colledge, who had been educated at Cambridge and while there was not distinguished as a hard worker. His classical attainments, however, were very marked and at an early age his English compositions in prose and verse showed great promise. One of his favorite recreations was the study of our best poets and the recitations of their most striking passages.

While yet a student he made a pedestrian tour of France, and a friend Coleridge. He was thus brought into very close contact with the movements of the French Revolution, which was going on at that time. Upon his return to England he suffered acute mental distress for he felt the justice of the struggle and yet felt his English patriotism.

When Wordsworth graduated he was undecided as to his vocation. He was not attracted by any profession. Travelling was his passion. His inner voice led him to poetry, but the life of a man of letters was pecuniary. He and Coleridge had made many plans for reforming literature, but they had no money. Wordsworth, however, was left a small legacy of £900, which by living very economically, served him and his sister, Anne, for many years. He was thus enabled to indulge his passion for the beautiful of nature, to which he had always been enthusiastically attached. "Thou, Nature Art my goddess," might truly be the lines of Wm. Wordsworth, for never did a more ardent worshipper extol her beauties and mysteries.

In 1798 Mr. Wordsworth, and his sister Dorothy, made a tour through part of Germany, where he joined Mr. Coleridge. But Wordsworth loved the north of England, and returning settled there, first with his sister and later with his wife. England awakened to the fact that Wordsworth was a great poet to the world's end of his life. Universities conferred their higher degrees upon him. He was given the laureateship when seventy-three years old. The nation upon his death granted him the honour of burial in Westminster Abbey, but his wish was the quiet, peaceful country church-yard of Grasmere.

One of his most note-worthy poems is an account of himself entitled "The Prelude." As poetry it is not always satisfactory, but as a psychological document it is unique. It is his auto-biography, not of events, but his natural and spiritual experiences, and the growth of his mind. He had contemplated writing a great poem in man, nature and human life, and he considered "The Prelude" a suitable way to approach the theme. The great poem however, never appeared. The Prelude was written when the poet was about thirty years of age, for the private reading of his friend Coleridge. It did not become public until after its author's death. A good understanding of The Prelude gives one a much better conception of the poet. He spent effort and seriousness on his work and struggled for adequate possession. There are times when his poetry is magical, beautiful, musical and charming, but the passages are often half-lost in inferior work. He was loathe to prune or recast sentences once penned.

The Prelude consists of fourteen books of blank verse, in which Wordsworth's theory that his poetic mind was slowly built up by spiritual experiences is set forth. It is, of course, the business of a psychological poet to recognize the experiences which to the ordinary person would be trivial and unimportant. He idealizes childhood and believes that the youthful experiences must never be neglected. To him the child is almost divine. "Trailing clouds of glory do we come from God, who is our home," but "Clouds of the prison-house begin to close upon the growing boy." The different phases of the poet's life can be traced down to the final book, in which he tells of the entrance of Coleridge into his life and the legacy which relieved him from material care for a few years.

Wordsworth and Coleridge formulated many schemes and finally crystallized their ideas for a volume to be written together—the famous Lyrical Ballads. Coleridge was a mystic, vague, nebulous philosopher and dreamer, and better at making plans than fulfilling them. Wordsworth, on the contrary, was more industrious, so the majority of the works of this epoch-making volume are Wordsworth's. Coleridge contributed "The Ancient Mariner," "The Nightingale," and a few others, and Wordsworth, among others, contributed that beautiful poem, "Tintern Abbey," "The Idiot Boy" and "The Sower" and critic. These two extraordinary pieces are not worthy of Wordsworth, and yet they were dear to him, as he did not compose them carelessly. Matthew Arnold says there were really two Wordsworths—the Greater and the Lesser—and we can ignore the Lesser in view of the Greater.

"We Are Seven" is a pretty little poem, illustrating how the mind of the child absolutely refuses to accept the idea of death. Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird," which has attracted so much attention lately, expresses precisely the same old idea in a modified form. The period in which the Lyrical Ballads were produced was one of the most productive and happiest of both the poets' lives.

Another of their ideals was the reform of "poetic diction." They considered the language of poetry too much inflated and grandiloquent. This seriousness of expression they traced back to Milton, but they did not consider that it was he who had erred, but his imitators, who applied his vocabulary to trivial topics. They considered that the language of poetry should be kept near everyday life. Examples of this theory are "Fables Told," "Expostulation and Reply," "The Solitary Reaper," "To My Sister," and many others.

Wordsworth composed a great many perfectly charming sonnets, of which some of the favorites are: "Earth hath not anything to show more fair," "Scorn not the sonnet, critic. You have frowned, Mindless of its just honours," etc. "How sweet it is when Mother Fancy rocks The wayward brain to saunter through a wood." "It is a beautiful evening, calm and free; The holy time is quiet as a nun Breathless with adoration," etc. "The world is too much with us; late and soon, Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers; Little we see in Nature that is ours; We have given our hearts away, a sordid boon. This sea that bares her bosom to the moon; The winds that will be howling at all hours, And are upgathered now like sleeping flowers; For this, for everything, we are out of tune," etc.

And very many more, simple, yet perfectly exquisite. "Michael" is one of the few poems in the world that has the right to be called "pastoral." It is absolutely realistic and unembellished by conventional art. The story is told with austere simplicity, strongly analogous to the paintings of Millet. "There is a comfort in the strength of Love; 'Twill make a thing endurable, which else Would overset the brain or break the heart."

Those who are not very familiar with Wordsworth will find the short poems mentioned in this article most delightful reading.

"Three Years She Grew in Sun and Shower," "I Wandered Lonely as a Cloud," "Ode to Immortality," "She Was a Phantom of Delight," "Nutting," and scores more of such perfect gems.

Wordsworth's long poem, "The Excursion," appeared in 1814. It is uneven and imperfect in many respects, and is not the great poem the author thought it would be. It, however, contains some very fine passages, particularly the following: "I have seen A curious child, who dwelt upon a tract Of inland ground, applying to his ear The convolutions of a smooth-lipped shell; To which, in silence hushed, his very soul Listened intently; and his countenance brightened with joy, for murmuring from within Were heard, sonorous cadences! Whereby, To his belief, the monitor expressed mysterious Union with its native sea. Even such a shell the universe itself is to the ear of faith, and there at times, I doubt not, when to you it doth impart Authentic tidings of invisible things; Of ebb and flow, and ever-during power; And central peace, subsisting at the heart Of endless agitation."

Wordsworth stands pre-eminently our greatest nature poet. He believed the poets should be a kind of so-called harp, played upon by every breath of nature. In his own words "To me the meanest flower that blooms can give thoughts that do often rise too deep for tears." The daisy conveyed messages to him, the cuckoo's soft note brought back thoughts of boyhood—in fact, everything in nature appealed to him, and he gave us a new aspect of nature. He read little, but exhorted men to "Come forth into the light of things. Let Nature be your teacher." There is infused into all his writings a lofty, philosophic tone, yet simple and unassuming.

Those who are not very familiar with Wordsworth will find the short poems mentioned in this article most delightful reading.

Is a Cleveland Physician's Advice Before Health Congress at Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 3.—Yess eugenics and more old-fashioned love is what the race needs, said Dr. J. Richey Horner of the Cleveland Homeopathic Medical College, who read a paper on sex hygiene yesterday before the Bureau of Sanitary Science of the American Institute of Homeopathy.

"Eugenics and education go hand in hand," Dr. Horner said. "Children should, however, be given instruction before the age of nine, and the instruction should be given individually rather than in classes. The child should be taught to hold his mother in respect, else he will hold no other woman in respect. If laws for eugenics are passed, they must be universal, else they will not count for much."

Dr. Horner said it was his belief that as long as man was attracted by beauty and woman by strength, eugenics would in a great measure take care of itself.

OVER $6,000,000 PAID MONTHLY BY C. P. R. On the fifteenth of each month the C.P.R. will pay in wages over the whole system $6,000,000. This is the monthly record in round numbers, 120,000 cheques being drawn every month. It seems only the day before yesterday when 50,000 cheques were deemed to represent a tremendous monthly wage list. The number of employees grows all the time, in spite of careful appointment and economic working. These monthly cheques find their way into the most distant, the oddest places. They are hurried, in enclosures, to the distant parts of British Columbia. They find their way to the construction camps, removed from civilization. They reach the employes at the way-side station showing a single tuft of grass amid the general aridity. And however lonely and small or discouraging the locality or district, there will be some one there to cash the cheque for the employe. There may be a bank in a tent, which is very frequently the fact. If there is no bank there is a company's agent of some kind to whom the cheques will be addressed and who will distribute them to the men in the district. To make out the pay lists and check them, and control them, and issue the cheques to correspond to the bookkeeping and get the work so advanced as to have all things ready at the right date on the stroke of the clock, requires a large staff at headquarters. And whether the times be good or bad, the figures rising or falling, the $6,000,000 have to be provided on the fifteenth of each month to the minute. The exceptionally strong position of the Canadian Pacific has enabled it to pass through a time of stringency, always making more than its stipended ways with ample funds at its instant disposal.

SAGE TEA PUTS LIFE AND COLOR IN HAIR Don't Stay Gray! Sage Tea and Sulphur. Darker Hair so Naturally that Noody Can Tell.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well known druggist here, because it darkens the hair, so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied. Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops. This is the age of youth. Gray haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days. A SUNDAY SERMON BY PASTOR RUSSELL

ED.S.A. CONVENTIONS NEW JERSEY GOOD MORNING Over 2,000 Delegates in Attendance at Each.

CREATION DRAMA IS EXHIBITED In Discourse Pastor Russell, Association's President, Discussed Eloquently, "Repentance First, Then Consecration," and Pointed Out From Scripture That the Gospel Is For the Contrite Heart Only—"Suffering With Christ"—Ultimate Purpose of Trials and Afflictions—Glory to Follow.

A Sbury Park, N. J., June 28.— Pastor Russell is here in attendance at a big general conference of the International Bible Students' Association, which began its sessions Friday and will continue twelve days. Three General Conventions of this Association are now in progress, the other two being at Columbus, Ohio, and Clinton, Iowa. Upwards of 2,000 delegates are in attendance at each convention. Being President of the Association, Pastor Russell expects to be present three days at each of the assemblies.

Two sessions are held daily in each of the cities, and the Pastor's famous Creation Drama is exhibited each evening. There being four parts to the Drama, three full presentations will be given.

Pastor Russell's theme to-day was one of great interest. The discourse set forth the philosophy of the untold sufferings of Christians throughout this Gospel Dispensation. Part IV of "The Photo-Drama of Creation, now on exhibition both at home and abroad, depicts the unwritten history of the Church of Christ, and enables those who see it to realize to some extent what it has cost true Christians to "follow His steps." The Pastor's text was, "Jehovah hath appointed me to preach good tidings to the meek to bind up the broken-hearted."—Isaiah 61:1.

The Pastor opened his discourse by drawing attention to the statement that the Gospel Message is for the meek, the broken-hearted. During the Millennium Reign of Christ God will take away the stoniness of heart from mankind and will give, instead, hearts of flesh. Under the blessed conditions of the Kingdom, hard, self-centered hearts will gradually become soft, tender, kind, gentle. But now, in advance of Messiah's Kingdom, God is seeking those who are seeking Him. Those who are not especially seeking Him are not likely to find Him.

Preaching the Gospel to the meek is the work of this Age. This is the only class which God wishes to have now. He is seeking the class that desire to be of the Bride of Christ, Jesus' joint-heirs in the Messianic Kingdom. Therefore the Message is not such as would suit the hard-hearted. Only the tender-hearted care to know about the love of God, the mercy of God, the forgiveness of sins, the privilege of returning to the Father's Home and of having Jesus as their Saviour.

The Pastor believes that in the past we have had a wrong idea as to whom the Gospel Message is to go. We went out into the highways and byways to find those who were wicked—blasphemers, etc., thinking that these were the ones with whom we were to deal. The Scriptures do not authorize any such idea. A person living in unrepentant sin is not the proper condition to receive God's great Plan of the Ages, the speaker claimed. God has declared that "none of the wicked shall understand." He does not wish them to do so. The very reverse is true. His purpose is to bind up the broken-hearted.

God's Message speaks peace to those who are in trouble and who are looking to Him, seeking the righteousness which He provides. It is a mistake in thinking that the Gospel is a sledge hammer with which they are to break men's hearts. The speaker does not know of any Scriptural commission for the breaking of hearts of men. On the contrary, he thinks that the Devil does most of such work. There are two conversions, declared the Pastor. The first is a turning from sin; the second, a turning to God. Those desirous of approaching God are seeking to leave sin. Those who are living in sin wish to be away from God. We cannot go in two directions at once. The course which God would have any pursue is this: When one finds that he is a sinner, he should repent and turn away from sin; then, when he learns that God has made an arrangement by which sinners may be reconciled to Himself, he should ascertain what steps he should take in order to obtain his share in that reconciliation. While turning from sin may in some respects be called a conversion, yet it is not the principal conversion. Only those who take the step of full consecration to the Lord may receive the Holy Spirit and obtain a clear view of the Divine Plan. As the Apostle says, "The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God; for they are foolishness unto him; neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned." Then the Pastor explained that

SUNDAY SCHOOL. Lesson 1.—Third Quarter, For July 5, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES. Text of the Lesson, Matt. xx, 1-16. Memory Verses, 6, 7—Golden Text, Matt. v, 45—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This lesson is found only in the gospel by Matthew and follows immediately his saying concerning the Son of Man in the throne of His glory and the apostles upon twelve thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel, closing with the words about the first being last and the last first. Our lesson today closed with the same words, with the addition of "for many may be called, but few chosen" (Matt. xix, 27-30; xx, 16). The same words about first and many are found in Matt. xxii, 14.

It is sadly true that, while many hear the glad tidings, but few comparatively really receive the good news, and it is also true that of those who become Christians but few are willing to be disciplined because of selfishness and worldliness; and because they do not know the power of His resurrection and kingdom and glory. The present age of the mystery of the kingdom is the time in which the redeemed of the Lord are called to be "fellow workers unto the kingdom of God," "laborers together with God," "workers together with Him" (Col. iv, 11; I Cor. iii, 9; II Cor. vi, 1). The reference to the vineyard in this lesson and in chap. xii takes us back to Isa. v, 1-7; Ps. lxxxix, and other Old Testament passages, but for us the most helpful reference is that of the vine and the branches and the fruit to the glory of God in John xv.

In a recent lesson our Lord spoke of recompense at the resurrection of the just, and we know from Rev. xxii, 12, and I Pet. v, 4, and elsewhere that the time of reward for service will be at the second coming of Christ, when every one shall receive his own reward according to his own labor, but there having a recompense in all service even here, a foretaste of better things to come. Perhaps the "penny a day" suggests present reward in this life. There should be no idlers among believers, for the record says "to every man his work" (Mark xiii, 34).

In reference to the material for the building of the tabernacle Mr. Moody used to say that the poorest child could bring a few goat's hairs (Ex. xxv, 1-5). When the wall of Jerusalem was rebuilt by Nehemiah, among the builders were priests, Levites, rulers, merchants, apothecaries, goldsmiths and even women (Neh. iii, 8, 12, 17, 22, 32). They seemed poorly qualified for such service, but they had a mind to work, and, though they were despised and mocked, they prayed and kept at it and finished it, and their enemies had to acknowledge that the work was wrought of God (Neh. iv, 4, 6, 9, 15). This is the experience of hundreds of the people of God; for they cannot be in His presence with spots upon their robes, and they do not resolve that they will not live away from Him. They cannot be in His presence with the Lord while their robes are spotted, nor can they have proper Christian life while absent from the Lord. The lesson on this point, the speaker declared, has many a time failed to fail to ask forgiveness in the Throne of the Heavenly Grace; for he feels that already he has been forgiven perhaps many times for the same trespass. Therefore he may try to forget the spot, to forget the "robe," almost to forget the Lord. Gradually a veil comes between him and God; the Father is not so near and so dear as once He was. While He is still his Heavenly Father, while still the erring one trusts in Him, nevertheless there is a lack of the fellowship of the Spirit. Earth-born clouds have hidden the Father's face.

The number of times without spot or wrinkle or anything of the kind, small, said the Pastor. Many Christians have not kept their wedding robes with sufficient care, and thus have shown their lack of appreciation of the privilege of their invitation to attend. If the attention of such be called to the spots, they try to put them out of sight, to ignore them, to declare that everything has passed on to the Lord in an unwise procedure; for the robe is our passport into the Kingdom. If the spots are not removed, they gradually become more and more a hindrance to those who seek to be accounted worthy of a place in the Bride class.

The Pastor then reminded his audience that when the Christian first received his robe, it was pure white, with a certain design stamped thereon; and that he was expected to embroider it with the character-likeness of the Lord. If he has gotten the robe spotted and bedraggled, he should go to the Lord in prayer, and persist until he has assurance of forgiveness and cleansing. We read, "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." It is not merely a matter of love, but of justice, on our part. The Heavenly Father made the arrangement Jesus has died, paid our penalty and imputed of His sufficient to cleanse all our unrepentant spots. Purgiveness is to be had for the asking.

Amber Diamond Cut. An amber diamond, weighing 178 1/2 carats, which was found in Cape Colony by Mr. H. Dowker last October, is in London from Amsterdam, where it has been cut. It now weighs 60 carats. The cutting took three months and cost $1,250. Mr. H. Bowker tried in vain to sell the diamond in its rough state, owing to the risk of cutting it. An expert describes it as "a wonderful stone."

LIFE REPEATED BY KIDNEY DISEASE His Health in A Terrible State Until He Took "Fruit-a-Lives"

FRUIT-A-LIVES. "About two years ago, I found my health in a very bad state. My kidneys were not doing their work, and I was all run down in condition. I felt the need of some good remedy, and having seen 'Fruit-a-lives' advertised, I decided to try them. Their effect I found more than satisfactory. Their action was mild and the result all that could be expected. My kidneys resumed their normal action after I had taken upwards of a dozen boxes and I regained my old-time vitality. Today, I am as well as ever, the best health I have ever had."

B. A. KELLY, Esq. HAGERSVILLE, ONT., Aug. 28th, 1913. "Fruit-a-lives" is the greatest Kidney remedy in the world. It acts on the bowels and the skin as well as the Kidneys and thereby soothes and cures any Kidney soreness. "Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50¢ a box, 3 for $2.50, trial size 25¢, or will be sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

Letters Tell How Nelson Fell Under the Thrall of His Circe

Some Remarkable Documents Are To Be Sold at Christie's—They Are from Victor of Trafalgar Bay to His Wife and from Her to Him and Some Bear on Lady Hamilton.

(Special Dispatch.) LONDON, July 4. An intensely interesting contribution to the romance of Nelson's life, a collection of 22 autograph letters to his wife, Lady Nelson, which prove conclusively that there was a marriage of love and continued so for six years, until Nelson fell under the spell of Emma Lady Hamilton in 1788, is to be offered at Christie's auction rooms on July 14.

The letters at Lady Nelson's death passed to her cousin, Mrs. Franks, who was present at her death. From Mrs. Franks they descended to her son, the late Alexander Allen Webb, who changed his name from Franklin to Webb, his mother's maiden name, and they are of great value in forming a true estimate of the life and character of Admiral Lord Nelson, who is remembered more by his infatuation for Lady Hamilton.

With the exception of a few which appeared in Literature in 1888 the letters have never been published, so that these letters, now coming into the sale room owing to the death of Mrs. Webb, are necessary to correct all existing "Lives" of Nelson.

That Nelson married for love has been doubted by his biographers, but these letters, written week by week, often under very trying conditions, prove the contrary. With the letters are to be sold Nelson's Journals of the sieges of Bastia and Calvi, his account of the battle of St. Vincent, letters to and from his father, and other documents, but in the human interest of the letters to his wife and their contribution to his history lie the prime interest of the collection.

It is true the letters prior to his marriage do not betray the transports of a first love, for Nelson at the age of twenty-six was old and stern in female society, but they show that head and heart went together.

In the first letter he wrote to his future wife, dated from the Boreas, August 19, 1785, he said: "I trust that my affection is not only founded upon the principle of reason, but also upon the basis of mutual attachment. Indeed, my charming Fanny, did I possess a million my greatest pride and pleasure would be to share it with you, as I am to live in a cottage with you, I should esteem it superior to living in a palace with any other person."

"The more I weigh you in my mind the more reason I find to admire both your head and heart."

Off Antigua, at Christmas time, he writes hopefully: "I can tell you a piece of news, which is that he (Prince William Henry), after King William IV, is fully determined and has made me promise him that he shall be at my wedding, and says he will give you to me."

On March 11, 1787, they were married, and the Prince, then captain of the Pegasus, kept his promise and gave the bride away.

Several years of quiet and happy life above tree tops. These are needed to preserve cover to Historic Old Westminster Hall.

(Special Dispatch.) PARIS, July 4. DOES a farmer possess not only the land that he cultivates, but also the space above it as well? Mr. Heurtelise, owner of a farm near Villarois, was of the affirmative opinion, and he sued Messrs. Esnault-Pelterie, Farman and Borel, whose aviation grounds almost surround his property, and he was awarded damages.

In making the award the court held that though in theory a land owner had rights over the atmosphere overhead, this principle in practice only applied as far as the tops of trees and buildings. It was held that above this point the liberty of the air was complete and aerial circulation legally unhampered, but in the present case the defendants had flown too close to the earth and must pay damages.

Several interesting points were involved in the decision. An article of the Civil Code states that property in the soil carries with it property in the air above and the earth beneath. But the decision of the French court appears to assert that these rights only extend to a certain arbitrary height and that above that height the air space, being of its nature free, people have the right to fly over other people's land. It seems to assert further that this right of flying must be used in a proper way, and that if the flying causes prejudice to the occupier of the land the airman is liable.

The German and Swiss codes enunciate the principle that the occupier cannot prevent persons going over his land at a height at which he has no interest to exclude them. Last autumn the Comité Juridique International d'Aviation at the Congress of Frankfurt passed the following articles as intended to be incorporated in the proposed International Code:—"No one can, on the ground of a right of property, oppose the passage of aircraft under conditions which do not present for him any appreciable inconveniences. Every abuse of the right of passage lays its responsible author open to an action for damages."

Wireless Used to Warn Ships by Fog Signals

Apparatus Turns On and Off Valve of Acetylene Gun at Will of Operator.

(Special Dispatch.) LONDON, July 4. Though little has come of the many boomed "wireless" torpedoes and "wireless" alarhubs, success has attended the efforts of the Marconi Company in the perfecting of fog signals in isolated beacons which are sounded at intervals of thirty seconds or so whenever the weather conditions render such warnings necessary.

The need of some such signals, it is declared in the "Wireless World," was particularly felt by the Clyde Lighthouse Trust, and the automatic gun, jointly developed and produced by Messrs. D. & C. Stevenson, of Edinburgh, and Messrs. W. Mayer & Sons, of Glasgow, proved the trust with exactly what was needed—a very powerful and regular fog signal which could be left unattended for months on end.

There are already six of these runs installed at different spots in Scotland and one has been sent to America. Once this gun is started it will continue to feed and fire itself at proper intervals until its fuel is exhausted—for several weeks.

To leave it in continual action in all weathers was obviously an extremely wasteful and undesirable proceeding. It was here that "wireless" stepped in. The matter was taken up by the Marconi Company at the suggestion of Messrs. Stevenson.

The research department set to work and in a comparatively short time had patented and prepared for demonstration an apparatus which fulfilled all requirements. A month or so later a trial was arranged under proper working conditions of the first model. The apparatus, combined with the acetylene gun, was put out on an exposed pier, the transmitting plant was left in the hands of men who had never had anything

ALBANIAN PRINCE BESIEGED IN PALACE

(Special Dispatch.) LONDON, July 4. PRINCE William of Wied, the new ruler, was besieged in his capital by a rebel army and was fighting for his three-month-old throne. Unfortunatly Colonel Thomson, the Dutch commander of the gendarmes, was shot through the neck and died of his wounds. Fighting was fierce, and the defenders were driven back to the walls of the city. "Prince William then took command of the troops," says one report, "and the situation, which at one time seemed desperate, began to improve."

There is some divergence of opinion as to whether the Prince took an active part or not in the operations.

Americans Spent This Sum in England During the Season Just Closed.

(Special Dispatch.) LONDON, July 4. LONDON is spending money at a record pace in these two weeks which mark the culmination of the London season, when the social world strives to distribute all the superfluous cash it has in its capacious pockets. There is a tremendous lot of dinner parties, a succession of balls and a sequence of entertainments, and hostesses who have carefully conserved their resources since May now see the end of the season in sight and are whirling away the last two weeks in a gust of prodigality.

An extraordinary number of dinner parties has been arranged at the principal hotels—the Carlton, the Savoy, the Ritz, the Piccadilly and Claridge's. Never have there been such heavy bookings for small dinners.

It also is estimated that there are more than fifty thousand persons from America in England now, and by the end of the next two weeks they will have spent huge sums in returning the hospitality of their English friends.

The head of an important American banking firm said:—"According to an estimate carefully prepared from statistics furnished by the expenditures of American tourists in the last six years these persons from America will have spent between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000 before they return home."

Red Ray Harmful

(Special Dispatch.) LONDON, July 4. THE question of harmful radiations and the protection of the eyesight is being investigated by the Illuminating Engineering Societies of England and America, and it is gradually becoming evident, especially from a report recently published by the American Research Committee, that infra-red rays may be harmful as well as the ultra-violet. They may be of even more importance in the case of artificial light, where the glass itself absorbs practically all the harmful ultra-violet radiations in ordinary circumstances.

Experiments are being made with light transmitters through very thin sheets of marble, and marble light is shown by the recent investigations of W. Voegts to be practically devoid of infra-red radiation; it has also been found that light so produced is very white, not dazzling, and very agreeable for working conditions.

This plates of marble for screening electric light have been prepared in Hamburg by W. Engel.

Turks Distribute Ottoman Army to Meet Conditions

Redif Divisions, Which Proved of Little Value, Have Now Disappeared.

EFFECTIVE FORCE

It Is Proposed to Reduce Service from Two to Three Years.

(Special Dispatch.) CONSTANTINOPLE, July 4. TURKISH military authorities have arrived at the following solution of the problem how best to redistribute the Ottoman army in order to meet the situation created by the Balkan war, the alleged danger of Hellenic attack on the Anatolian littoral, the necessity of keeping a firm hold on the Arab lands and the increase of Russian strength and mobility in the Caucasus.

By the distribution scheme of 1910 the fourteen army corps and five independent divisions of the Turkish army were thus stationed:—Europe and Smyrna, twenty-four divisions; Eastern Asia Minor, seven divisions; the Arab countries (Syria, Mesopotamia and Arabia), eleven divisions, with one division in Tripoli, in Africa.

By the new scheme provision for a total of thirteen army corps and two independent divisions is made. Five army corps (fifteen divisions) are to be quartered in Thrace and Western Asia Minor. The three army corps on the Russian frontier are to be brought up to a strength of nine divisions. The Arab provinces are to be held by five army corps and two independent divisions, totalling twelve divisions. The total strength of the army is now thirty-six divisions, as against forty-three divisions in 1910, and is better concentrated than when Turkey held Albania and Macedonia.

The Redif divisions, extensively employed in all stages of the Balkan war, proved of small value. They seem to have disappeared from the army list. They were sent into action before they had a chance of "shaking down," and mostly melted away in the first month of the campaign. In place of the commanders of Redif divisions a number of "officers commanding reserves" have been appointed to various stations. It is not known what the military authorities propose to do with their second line reservists in case of war. They may draft them into the first line to fill up gaps as the need arises; they may, again, extemporize a certain number of reserve divisions.

The thirty-six divisions each are composed of three two-battalion regiments and a rifle battalion. To each Army Corps is attached a two-battalion rifle regiment. The one exception is the Adrianople Army Corps, two divisions of which are composed of three three-battalion regiments and a rifle battalion, while the rifle regiment attached numbers three battalions.

It is difficult to form any idea of the total war effective of these 236 battalions. The peace effective of those which have passed through Constantinople on their way to their new quarters in Asia Minor varies from 200 to 400 bayonets. Those stationed at Constantinople average 400. Enver Pasha has proposed new legislation whereby service will be reduced, from three to two years and all exemptions abolished, even for the sole supports of their families, who are to receive an allowance from the State. The fact that the government annually obtains a revenue of more than $4,000,000 from the military exemption tax renders it unlikely that military exemptions will be immediately abolished, whatever may be urged in favor of such a measure.

The cavalry is short of horses and will not be able to put more than fifty per cent of its nominal effective in the field for some time to come. Owing to the heavy losses of modern material, most of the artillery regiments stationed in Asia are armed with old B. L. Krupp field guns, and it is doubtful whether the first four Army Corps are entirely supplied with Q. F. pieces.

German models are followed by the Turks. Turkish officers have a high opinion of the fighting qualities of the Austrian and still more of the Russian forces, but Germany, owing to the real or alleged superiority of her Great General Staff, would be "first favorite" here in event of a European war. Little is known of the French army and still less of the British.

Of their recent antagonists Turkish officers rate the Bulgarians first, and after them the Serbs, though they consider that the latter will be weakened rather than strengthened by the incorporation of Bulgarian Macedonians in what was previously a very homogeneous force. The solidity and determination of the Bulgarian and the efficiency of his staff work and general organization have incited a very wholesome respect for his fighting powers among the Turks, who, on the other hand, seem to hold the Greek army in contempt and base their appreciation of the Italian army on its unaturally passive attitude in Cyrenaica and Tripoli.

Difficulty is experienced in obtaining information as to training in the provinces. There is a strong desire for progress among most junior officers and in the General Staff, but recent appointments and dismissals have not allayed the suspicion that political considerations still play a large part in the allotment of the higher commands. It remains to be seen whether the young leaders of the army will have the patience for the plodding "spade work" which reconstruction demands. In the army, as in other departments of State, the Turks, however much they may now rely on foreign advisers, have in the last resort only themselves to thank if they succeed or fail.

Challenger Will be Ready for Trip Across the Atlantic.

(By Special Wire to the COURIER.) NEW YORK, July 6—A dispatch from the American Consul in London says: Shamrock IV, after alterations her rigging will have a further to-day, but no more speed will be made.

After to-day's trial the ship will be dismantled and a ketch fitted for the Atlantic voyage. The rails will be put on and hull will be strengthened with cross girders and strainers. The challenger probably will leave Southampton July 20, sailing out with fresh men from aboard the steam yacht Erin, accompanied by Shamrock. It is estimated that the vessel will be occupied in the voyage for two weeks, and will be absolutely necessary.

(By Special Wire to the COURIER.) HAMMONDSFORD, N. H.—Glen Curtiss made a test flight of the America, the Rodman W. Curtiss trans-Atlantic flying machine, only one motor running. The machine flew steadily and but little attention was required to offset the torque of the single propeller. It had been by many that should one motor stop while the machine was in flight would be necessary to adjust the air in order to avoid overturning. No other experiments were tried yesterday.

Lieutenant Porte, the crash was expected here today with Osborne, compass adjuster of the British Admiralty. Mr. Curtiss is expected here today with the trial flights may be held this week.
