THE JAMAICA EXHIBITION.

MR. BROWN, M. P., Honorary Commissioner to the Jamaica Exhibition, addressed a meeting of merchants and others, in the hall of the Commercial Union, on Tuesday evening last. In his opening remarks he expressed the opinion that the time had come when the British colonies should seek closer trade relations with each other. It is well known that the United States and other countries; but special efforts should be made to establish with the sister colonies and the mother land.

The forthcoming exhibition will afford a grand opportunity for showing what each province of the Dominion can produce, and in this way will serve to establish relations between the West Indies and Canada.

Mr. Brown expressed himself as most highly pleased with what he saw and heard of this Province. He thought that the Jamaica Exhibition had gained the highest credit in the West Indies and Canada. Speeches were made by Senator Haythorn, who presided, Hon. D. Ferguson, Hon. A. MacNeil, Esq., Mr. John Jackson, Hon. D. Davison, Esq., Mr. T. E. Brown, Esq., and Mr. J. H. Brown, Esq. It is to be hoped arrangements will be made for sending a most creditable exhibition from this Province.

TRADE WITH THE UNITED STATES.

SENATOR SHERMAN has introduced, in the United States Senate, the following resolution, as an amendment to the McKinley tariff bill:

"Whereas it shall be certified to the President that the Government of Canada agrees by law or regulation to admit free of duty into all its ports coal mined in the United States, he shall make a proclamation of the fact, and thereafter, while such law or regulation is in force coal mined in Canada shall be admitted free of duty into all ports of the United States. Further, when it shall be duly certified to the President that the Government of Canada has declared a desire to enter into such commercial relations as will result in the complete or partial removal of duties upon the trade between Canada and the United States. He shall appoint three commissioners to meet those who may be designated to represent Canada, to consider the best method of extending the trade relations between Canada and the United States.

This resolution is practical and, if carried would be a step towards the direction. It also opens the door to the fact that at least some portion of the Republican party has become convinced, notwithstanding the effusions of the few diabolical parrots, who arrogate to themselves the right to speak for the Canadian people, that it is not the duty of the United States to do as a whole, for "Commercial Union," "Unrestricted Reciprocity," or "Annexation." It proves that Senator Sherman and those who support him, are convinced that any negotiations with this country, looking towards a large trade relations, must be conducted on business principles, without any bias towards political union.

No valid reason can be advanced why the question of restricted reciprocity should not receive a calm and deliberate discussion, by representatives of the two countries; or why an effort should not be made to extend the trade relations, if such can be done on an equitable basis; because the Government of Canada have more than once declared their willingness to assent to a proposition of this kind. The Conservative party has been essentially the party of Reciprocity. It is the policy of the United States to be conducted by the Democratic party was rescinded in 1865; by it the proposals of the McKinley Administration, made by the Hon. George Brown, in 1874, were rejected; by it the Fisheries Treaty was abrogated in 1885; and by it the proposition of the Fisheries Commission in Washington, in 1887-88, that the question of Reciprocity be considered, was refused.

It is not to be forgotten that a great struggle is now going on in the Dominion. The party for the Presidential nomination in 1892, and that the two opponents for the honor, Blaine and Hoar, are by no means agreed as to the best policy to be pursued by the party. The McKinley bill, the amendment to the Reciprocity with the South American States, and the amendment proposing negotiations with a view to extended trade relations with Canada, are all moves in the great Presidential game; and it is not difficult to see how the party for the Presidential nomination in 1892, and that the two opponents for the honor, Blaine and Hoar, are by no means agreed as to the best policy to be pursued by the party.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

The members of the Maritime Press Association, from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, who recently visited this Province, were most favorably impressed with what they saw. From the reports which they published we make the following extracts:

Halifax Herald. One of the most means of developing land and building up a national sentiment is to become thoroughly familiar with one's country. What a contrast does there stand before us, in the fact that we know Canada, its history, resources, and natural beauties. The great majority of our people know far more about the history and scenery of foreign lands than they do of their own; while on the other hand, the people of other countries know far more about our country than we do of our own.

FOR YOUR HOULING HERBS.

The time when hens begin their laying again at hand time a very important process. Are you preparing to help them through this trying period? Eggs have not been so large for years as this season as now they will be still higher. Here ready every white moulted, then help them to get their new plumage quickly.

Many people get only five to six dozen eggs in a year from a hen that lays three times as many and makes money rapidly. How? There are about 600 eggs in the ovaries of a hen; get all you can of them in two years and keep the hen no longer. You must have two or three years' food of the hen which is no food item if you buy all eggs. When a hen is in a "condition" she will lay plenty of eggs. Therefore help her through the moulting season, and she may be considered a "good" hen, as everything is pointing to higher prices for eggs this fall and winter than ever before.

The chicken is a very important animal in the household, and it is a good idea to have a few chickens. They are easy to care for and they provide a source of fresh eggs. They are also a source of entertainment for children. They are a source of pride for many people. They are a source of food for many people. They are a source of joy for many people. They are a source of life for many people.

A Quebec despatch of the 7th has the following: L'Espresso says: "Last evening His Excellency, Cardinal Dubouché, considered it his duty to decline the invitation to the Governor-General's State dinner at the Citadel. The refusal, it is explained, was dictated by the fact that there was an unwillingness to take account at this official dinner the order of precedence accepted and followed in England, by which Cardinals, as princes of the Church, rank immediately after princes of blood Royal, and before all nobles and members of the House of Lords."

San Francisco advices say that Capt. Thomas, of the barquette "Columbus," which arrived at Port Townsend from Seattle, writes of a brutal case he witnessed in Squalish Island, the famous Russian exile prison. A large party of exiles, heavily manacled, were on the way to the island, being driven like cattle, the drivers carrying heavy whips. A number of old men whose strength had given out fell from exhaustion, and were shot by the driver. No mercy or discrimination was shown. Wives saw their husbands killed before them, mothers saw their daughters outraged and insulted. The prison cells were filthy and the treatment most barbarous.

We noticed the other day in the show room of Mark Wright & Co., two of the largest and most beautiful paintings that have ever come into this Province. They are for the Catholic Church at Head St. Peter's, and have been imported from Rome by the pastor Rev. R. J. Gillis. They stand fourteen feet high by six feet wide, exclusive of the frames. The subject of one is the Immaculate Conception, and is a copy of the celebrated painting by Mantegna; the other represents our Saviour delivering the Keys to St. Peter. They have been framed in most elaborate gilt frames and altogether look magnificent. As works of art they are treasures that any church might be deemed highly privileged in being the possessor of.

A neighbour of the 7th, from Spokane Falls, Washington Territory, says: "Time has taken the horrors wrought by a prostrate blast in the Northern Pacific through these hills last night. At 11 p. m. we then stepped in the back of taking out the vanished victims were forced to death because among the rocks being cleared away were five other blasts which might be exploded in the removal of the debris that had the victims up to that hour in motion were taken out. Of these 10 we identified 5 as yet 27 men are unaccounted for; all possibly buried beneath the mighty mass of rock. About 300 pounds of black powder were in the blast. The remains were found by some of our men, while the second was prepared by a woman, while the second was working ready to go home. Either the rock was too hot from the action of the debris which exploded the second blast or the powder was exploded."

FIGHT WITH A CYCLONE

The State line steamer State of Indiana, which arrived at New York from Quebec on the 2nd inst., has broken the year's record as a cyclone ship. The State of Indiana, commanded by Capt. Ritchie, who has been in the service for many years, and bears the reputation of being one of the most careful skippers in the Atlantic trade, sailed from Gloucester on the 22nd. The weather was bright and calm, and the steamer began to fall. All were well on Sunday, and the church service had soothed the nerves of the passengers, who retired early. The barometer fell so rapidly about midnight on Sunday that the second officer, who was on the bridge, decided to call Ritchie. The commander lost so time in turning out, and from a calm, peaceful air, in keeping with the gentle winds just filling the sails set to steady ship, the deck in one moment assumed a warlike aspect. Sailors rushed higher and higher, making all snug to combat the storm. The wind blew fresher and fresher every moment. Huge white-capped waves dashed against the ship, and before the last all could be reefed the most awful cyclone that ever a ship rode through in safety struck the vessel, tearing away the masts, furling sail like so much paper and throwing the seamen holding on to it violently against the bulwarks. The State of Indiana, which is the smallest vessel of the State line fleet, plunged into the trough of the sea, and hitting her stern clear of the water, threw the startled passengers out of their bunk and confusion reigned below. The ship rolled and plunged in the heavy seas. Passengers were thrown against doors and tables in their endeavor to know what all the noise meant. A fearful crash in the pantry was succeeded by some heavy falls, and the table of crockery and table fittings gone. Down went lamps and glasses. The heaviest articles in cabins and saloon were thrown around like paper balls, and stowaways roused around working like parrots, trying to restore something like order.

On deck there was no confusion, the captain and officers handling the steamer in a masterly manner. Within five minutes from the time the cyclone struck the ship, the vessel was making only two knots an hour, although under full steam. The boats were made fast with extra lashing, and the vessel appeared along all the decks, and the enemy was upon the ship. For hours the fight continued. Huge waves followed the roaring cyclone and swept the decks from stem to stern. The dense darkness, with the roaring of the gale, the splash of the mountains as they swept the decks, and above it all, the shrill pipe of the boat-whistle and the hoarse, sharp commands from the officers on the bridge, all went to make up a scene which would have blanched the cheek of the hardest gazier. Capt. Ritchie and his officers were cool and calm through it all. The captain, indeed, smiling as though a cyclone were an every-day occurrence and as enjoyable a thing.

Several passengers sustained injuries more or less severe, and some of the sailors received contusions. The vessel bore traces of the tempest when she came into dock in the salt sprayed harbor and the battered appearance of her paint work. Capt. Ritchie says that, although his ship is a small one, she is sound and true as a clock. He has commanded her for over five years.

ST. DUNSTON'S COLLEGE re-opened on Wednesday last, and the prospects for a most successful year in this venerable institution are of the very best. McEllis, Prefect of Discipline; Mr. Patrick Colton, Mr. F. C. Gauthier, Mr. D. F. Morrison, Mr. T. J. Gallant, Mr. Archibald Macdonald, Professor of Music. Success to St. Dunstan's.

The house of the Sisters of Charity on the Highlands is filled with boarders, and it is much larger it would be filled, as they have been obliged to refuse a number of applicants for want of accommodations. Chief Justice Sullivan and his family are among those staying there.
