NURSERY HYGIENE.
The nursery is the most important room in the house; therefore its hygiene must be above suspicion. Many parents fall into a fallacy regarding modern heating methods, and while admitting the comfort, cleanliness and convenience of the Gas Fire, call its suitability for nursery use into question on the grounds of hygiene.
This idea is wrong. The modern Gas Fire is more hygienic than the coal fire, has all its good points without its bad ones. The Gas Fire gives radiant heat and assists ventilation.
All the products of combustion are carried off by the flue connection to the chimney. There is no smoke, dust or ashes, and for a sick room
it is invaluable.
The modern ventilated Gas Fire produces radiant heat, a natural heat similar to that given by the sun, and adds hygiene to its many other advantages.
For particulars of the new Radiant
Fires, phone 97 or call at the Gas
Co.'s Showroom.

Good material in the hands of good workmen must necessarily produce an article of exceptional merit.
Matchless Paint
is made of the very best material obtainable. Our workmen are Newfoundlanders (and as the Newfoundlander in foreign countries has proven himself equal to the best), it therefore follows that Best material plus Best workmen equals Best Paint.

CHAPTER XI.
A CHARITABLE DEED.

Lord Edgar was the first to turn, and saw a young man standing close behind them. He was secdly dressed and wore that look of "hard-upliness" which is discernible at a glance. In a word, he looked half starved. Even at the first glance a feeling of pity sprung into Lord Edgar's heart.

"Revel," said the man, "is that you?"

Clifford Revel turned, in his slow, self-possessed fashion, and eyed him coldly.

"My name is Revel," he said, his keen eyes taking in the appearance of the man, and his voice hardening instantly.

"I thought so. I—I—thought I was mistaken. Don't you know me?"

"I haven't that—honor," was the cold, contemptuous reply.

"No," said the man, in a tone of disappointment that touched Lord Edgar to the core. "And yet we were great chums at college. My name is Nagle."

A cold light of remembrance and recognition gleamed for a moment in Clifford Revel's eyes.

"Ah yes!" he said, coolly. "I beg your pardon—I remember now."

"Yes, I am Charlie Nagle," said the man. "Can I—can you give me a minute, Revel?"

Clifford Revel took out his watch and glanced at it calmly.

"A minute—yes," he said.

Lord Edgar drew back, but, though out of earshot, not out of sight, and he saw the man go through the well-worn door of button-holing which is so suggestive of begging. The light of the cab lamp fell full upon the two faces—upon the pale, eager, imploring face of the stranger and on the cold, impassive one of Clifford Revel. It seemed to Lord Edgar to grow harder and colder as the face of the suppliant grew more anxious and pleading, and a contemptuous smile crossed the thin lips as the man who had given his name as Charlie Nagle at last drew out a piece of paper and wrote on it.

And the Worst is Yet to Come—

"That's my address, Revel," Lord Edgar heard him say, with a sigh. "For Heaven's sake, help me, if you can! I am in hard case to-night; I am—almost starving. I—"

Clifford Revel waved him away, with the same icy, pitiless air.

"Good-night—I am engaged," he said; and the man, thus cut short, started as if he had been stung, and walked swiftly away.

Lord Edgar came up, looking after him.

"Why, who was that poor fellow, Cliff?" he asked.

Clifford Revel laughed heartlessly. "A fellow who was at college with me—an improvident scamp, who appears to have made a mess of it. Come down to begging, it seems."

"Did you—did you give him anything?" asked Lord Edgar, in his blunt fashion.

Clifford Revel shrugged his shoulders.

"My dear Edgar, what would have been the use? He would have spent it at the nearest pub! Don't trouble yourself about him. Good-night."

And he got into the hansom.

"Good-night," said Lord Edgar, but rather absently; and, shutting the doors, he walked away, with rather a sad look on his face.

The man's appearance, voice, pleading, despairing gesture, as he turned away, haunted him; and it was with a start that he saw the seedy figure leaning against the railing of a house within a few yards of the Albany.

He went up to him and laid his hand upon his shoulder, and the man turned without a start, but in the dull, apathetic manner of a man to whom nothing is a surprise.

"I beg your pardon," said Lord Edgar; "I saw you speaking to my friend just now—"

The man put his hand to his brow, and nodded, vacantly.

"To Revel? Yes. He and I were," bitterly, "great friends in college, and I presumed to address him—I say presumed; you see what I am, what a difference there is between us," and he glanced downward at his seedy outward man. "I was wrong to do so. Prosperity does not acknowledge misfortune's claim to friendship."

Lord Edgar looked at the man, and then up at the gas-lamp. He was the most embarrassed of the two.

"I—I am afraid that you are not well," he said, gently.

The man laughed bitterly.

"I believe that I am dying," he said. "At any rate, I am very ill."

"What's the matter?" said Lord Edgar, in his blunt, kindly fashion.

"Matter? Well, if you insist upon an answer, I think what ails me is exhaustion from inanition; in other words, starvation. As I told Revel, upon whom it did not seem to have much effect, I am nearly starved to death. Good-night, sir!"

"Good heavens!" exclaimed Lord Edgar, horror-stricken. "Here—wait!" and he seized the man by the arm.

"What do you say? Did you tell him that?"

"I did. But you see, he didn't believe it. I suppose he thought I was intoxicated. But it was the truth. I don't think I have taken food for a day and a half, as I am a gentleman."

"Great Heaven!" exclaimed Lord Edgar.

MY DEAR!

Are you aware that an ointment applied to the skin is absorbed into the system just as surely as medicine that is swallowed? It is! You see, therefore, how necessary it is we should use a pure ointment; and the purest you can get for yourself and your children is Zam-Buk.

Dr. Scott, the great English analyst, says: "I have analyzed Zam-Buk, and have no hesitation in certifying its purity."

There is another reason why you should prefer Zam-Buk. It is of such a refined nature that it can penetrate to the very seat of skin diseases; whereas ordinary ointments, owing to their coarse ingredients, remain on the surface skin. Skin diseases, like psoriasis, have their "roots." Zam-Buk can get down to the very root of the disease, kill the germs and thus effect lasting cures.

It is nothing like Zam-Buk for eczema, eczema, old sores, or eruptions; nothing that can so quickly draw out the soreness of a cut, burn or scald. Try it!

Pres. Mrs. A. J. Cairns, of Memphis, Tenn., writes: "My little son's hands were completely covered with eczema. I tried many ointments, and he was und. doctor's treatment for some time, but nothing would cure him. Then I tried Zam-Buk. After a week's treatment I noticed a marked improvement, and perseverance with Zam-Buk resulted in a complete and permanent cure."

ZAMBUK
"THE HEAL THAT SORES!"

Edgar. "Here, come to my rooms," and he laid his strong hand upon the thin arm.

But the man resisted, feebly.

"No, no!" he said. "I could not. I should die of shame. I am a gentleman, as I tell you. I was at college with Revel. Do you think that I am in a condition to go into a gentleman's rooms? No, if he had given me a shilling, I know where I could have got food and—"

Lord Edgar plunged his hand into his pocket and hauled out every coin it possessed—gold, silver, coppers.

"Here," he said, in his blunt style, but not roughly—ah, not roughly! "Take this, my good fellow. Take it, for Heaven's sake!"

The man looked at him, as the money dropped into his hand, with a dazed wonder. Then he started.

"No, no! Not all this! A shilling—half a crown—"

"Yes, every penny!" said Lord Edgar, eagerly. "And, if you'll come to my rooms, I'll give you some more. Good heavens! a gentleman, and starving! There, take it, man! What! one gentleman can't help another! Nonsense! Put it in your pocket, and if you won't come home with me—"

The man thrust the money into his pocket, and grasped the outstretched hand.

"May Heaven—no! Who am I that I should bless you! But tell me your name—tell me, that I may remember it as the man who saved me from starvation—"

"No, no!" said Lord Edgar, his voice breaking, "never mind that! Take it as from my friend Revel; he would have done it if he had had any money about him, which he hadn't. There, for Heaven's sake, get some food at once!"

The man stared at him; then, with a sob of gratitude, pressed the outstretched hand, and shuffled off into the darkness.

Lord Edgar looked after him, pityingly, little dreaming how important a part this wait of the night would play in the drama of his own life, and then went up to his rooms.

CHAPTER XII.
A BATTLE FOR LOVE.

AT twelve o'clock Edith Drayton stood in the window of the drawing-room in Elton Square. She had on her riding-habit and chimney-pot hat, and held her dainty whip in her gauntleted hands. She knew—had she not been told so a hundred times?—that she looked at her best in the habit, that fitted her exquisite bust like a skin, and fell in graceful folds to her feet, and she had remembered it when she hit upon the idea of asking Lord Edgar to accompany her for a ride. She had never looked more beautiful than she looked this morning; ambition had lent to her face that which the tenderness of hope lends to other women—a faint, delicate color, a soft glow in the dark eyes that only wanted a touch of gentleness to make them irresistible. Clifford Revel had once told her, with cynical bitterness, that she would win anybody to loving her if she would but show them the slightest hope of loving them in return, and she thought of it now, as she stood waiting and watching.

She understood Lord Edgar as well as if she had known him for years. The clear, transparent nature was as easily read by her as if it had been an open book; and, while her whole soul was full of admiration for this one honorable man whom it had been her fortune to meet, she, nevertheless, determined to take advantage of the very qualities which she admired in him.

Mrs. Drayton gilded nervously into the room and stood looking at her.

"He hasn't come, Edith?" she said, looking up at the clock. "Perhaps he won't come, after all."

Edith Drayton smiled, with serene confidence.

"Few men break their appointments with me, mother; Lord Fane will not be one of them. Besides, he has promised, and, if I know anything of his nature, a promise is as sacred with him as an oath. There!" she broke off, as Lord Edgar came into the square on a workman-like-looking horse—"there he is. Now, mother, try not to be nervous and flurried, or you will make him shy and embarrassed. And, remember, don't have any fear at lunch. Keep the servants out of the room. Take your cue by me, my dear."

"Yes, yes!" assented Mrs. Drayton; "and the lunch?"

"I have ordered that," said Edith, calmly.

Lord Edgar got off his horse, and stood to examine Edith Drayton's, while a groom riding his own was leading it up and down; it did not please him very much, but he said nothing to the man, and went up the steps, and was ushered into the drawing-room.

Edith Drayton came forward, with her hand outstretched frankly, and, as she did so, her eyes scanned his stalwart form, and she thought that she liked him better in his workman-like riding suit than she had ever done in his evening dress.

"I am afraid I am late," he said.

"Oh, no!" she cried; only "a few minutes. I am ready because I know gentlemen do not like to be kept waiting."

Lord Edgar shook hands with Mrs. Drayton.

"Shall we go now?" said Edith.

"Your horse doesn't look as if he would care to be kept waiting, any more than his master."

"Oh, he'd stand all day," he said, carelessly. "But I don't know about yours."

"You don't like him?" she said, with a smile.

Lord Edgar did not reply. Like all men who know something about horses, he did not care to give an opinion in a hurry.

"We shall see," he said. "She looks rather fine."

"Is that against her? Must she look a dowdy to meet with your approval?" she smiled.

He looked at her with frank admiration, and colored.

"I don't like dowdy women," he said.

New Relief For Constipation,

"LES FRUITS"

Physicians agree that with the modern habits of living, constipation is likely to be always with us. They also agree that the constant use of any drug for the relief of constipation is exceedingly unwise—unwisely for two reasons. First, a drug constantly used loses its effect and requires a constantly increased dose. Second, because the constant use of any drug is bad anyway.

So the cry is constantly going up from the constipated, "What can we do?" It will be interesting to a great many to know that an answer has been found in the re-discovery of a method which was used with great success by our Forefathers, and in Arabia far back in the twelfth century. The food is called "Les Fruits" because it is composed entirely of figs, dates, prunes, raisins and the leaves of each with the substitution of the Alexandria leaf for the raisin leaf. The taste is pleasant; if not to say delicious, and the effect is exceedingly satisfactory. Try it and be convinced.

Lloyd-George to Receive Irish-Amer. Delegation

Germany Cannot Send Military Instructors Abroad.

Indian Government Issues New Sedition Ordinance --- Japanese Representatives Declare Their Country Humiliated.

A FALSE REPORT.

PARIS, April 21. The naval port of Sebastopol in the Crimea has not been occupied by Russian Soviet troops, according to a despatch to the Journal Des Debats, dated Sunday, at Salonika.

BERLIN STRIKE OFF.

BERLIN, April 19. A settlement of the general strike in Berlin was reached to-day, after negotiations lasting forty-eight hours between representatives of the strikers and the employers and the Minister of Labor. The settlement is tantamount to active recognition of the demand of the strikers that they be given a voice in determining engagements and promotions of employees in all work, except in executive and directorate positions.

FORESTALLING THE HUNS.

PARIS, April 21. The Council of Foreign Ministers to-day approved of the Peace Treaty intended to forestall any effort the Germans might have to re-establish a military machine by utilizing outside force. The article prohibits the sending of German military instructors to foreign countries. It was referred to the drafting committee.

WILL RECEIVE IRISH DELEGATES

PARIS, April 21. David Lloyd George, the British Premier, has agreed to receive former Governor Edward F. Dunne, of Illinois; F. P. Walsh, former Chairman of the National War Labor Board, and Michael J. Ryan, of Philadelphia, next week. The Americans were chosen by the Irish Societies in the United States to appeal to the Peace Conference on behalf of Ireland.

THE PEACE TERMS.

PARIS, April 21. Though the Peace Conference apparently was taken by surprise of Germany's intention to send a small delegation to Versailles to receive the text of the treaty, the plan is really old, and Berlin and Weimar despatches to the Associated Press more than a month ago indicated that the German delegates would not have power to make final decisions. The determination of the German Foreign Office was based upon misapprehension of the programme for the initial meeting of the German plenipotentiaries with the representatives of the Peace Conference. It had been understood, through press statements, that at the first meeting the German delegates would merely be handed the text of the treaty, but would not be permitted to discuss the terms and would be sent back to Germany to confer with the Government and the National Assembly, returning after a stipulated interval to Versailles with the actual discussions.

ACCEPTS ALLIES' CONDITIONS.

PARIS, April 22. Germany has notified the Allies that she accepts all the Allied conditions respecting the Versailles conference. This official announcement was made to-night.

RUSSIA'S PROPOSALS.

WASHINGTON, April 21. The Embassy here made public to-day the outline of the plan presented to the Peace Conference by Russian representatives at Paris to solve the Russian problems. It asks recognition as de facto of all national authorities which are inspired by "democratic ideals and enjoy the support of the population" pending the setting up of a federation of Russian states.

JAPAN'S DISSATISFACTION.

TOKIO, April 19. In an editorial commenting on the failure of the racial equality clause in securing a place in the Covenant of the League of Nations, the Japan Times declares that the national disappointment of Japan verges upon dissatisfaction and affords opportunity for sensationalists to stir up anti-white prejudice. Representative Japanese regard the Paris decision as a slap and a humiliation, the newspaper says.

TAKING NO CHANCES.

SIMLA, India, April 21. (Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—The Governor General has promulgated a fresh ordinance providing that any court martial or commission may sentence a person convicted under martial law to transportation for life or ten years, or rigorous imprisonment for seven years and not exceeding fourteen years. The defence of India rules have also been amended, providing that no newspaper can be printed or published without previous sanction by the local government.

BOLSHEVIK REVERSES.

LONDON, April 21. (Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Telegrams from Omsk report that the troops of Admiral Kolchak, thirty-three miles south of Sterlitamak, inflicted severe losses on the enemy, capturing many prisoners, machine guns and ten heavy guns. They also captured Starup with great booty and a number of Bolshevik leaders. Demoralization of the Bolsheviks is reported to be growing. Three Bolshevik divisions refused to fight and have been withdrawn from the front. The peasants of the district on the River Kama have revolted against the Bolshevik Government.

SUPPORTING STRIKE.

LIMERICK, April 21. The general strike here, incident to the proclamation of Limerick as a military area, assumed a new and interesting phase to-day, when the Finance Commission of the Limerick Trades and Labor Council announced that it was preparing to issue its own money in the form of one shilling and ten shilling notes, which would Bay of Islands Herring Fishery.

(Western Star.)
We are pleased to be able to give our readers complete statistics of the herring fishery in Bay of Islands the past season. The fall herring fishery of 1918-19 occupied two and a half months, beginning with the first of November and ending at the middle of January. The catch for that period, which represented an outlay of over a quarter million dollars to purchase, was made up of the following packs and styles:

Salt bulk	18,549 1/2 brls.
Scotch style	15,873 "
Pickled	2,234 "
Ordinary salt	2,442 1/2 "
Round salt	843 "
Split	233 "
Norwegian style	135 "
Frozen	63 "

Of the Scotch style pack, there were shipped direct to the American market from Woods Islands by vessels 369 1/2 barrels; from Curling 728 1/2 barrels, and to St. John's by rail and steamers, 4737, making a total of 15,708 barrels; and 165 barrels remain unshipped, making in all for the Bay 15,873 barrels by the Scotch method. Of other styles, there were shipped from Curling 2,442 1/2 brls. ordinary salted herring, 283 brls. split, 63 brls. frozen, 643 brls. round salt, and 137 brls. Norwegian, bring the total shipment from this port up to 15,584 barrels. From Woods Island there were shipped by vessel 18,549 1/2 barrels of salt bulk, and 3234 barrels of pickled herring, this together with the Scotch style shipment from that port make a total of 25,474 barrels, thus making a grand total for the Bay of Islands 1918-19 fall catch of 41,223 barrels. These fish were practically all caught in Humber and Middle Arras.

Girls! Have a Mass of Beautiful Hair, Soft, Glossy, Wavy

A small bottle destroys dandruff and doubles beauty of your hair.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

The New Loan.

The new loan introduced by the Minister of Finance in the House of Assembly yesterday afternoon, provides for the raising of the sum of $5,000,000 for a period of twenty years, the interest being 5 1/2 per cent per annum. This loan the Minister explained will be used toward retiring the loan of $5,000,000 due on the 30th day of June next; to naval and military purposes and to the improvement and construction of public works. The estimated expenditures under the latter head are: $250,000 for a new wing to the Lunatic Asylum; $50,000 for additions to Court House and Public Works Building; $50,000 for improvements to Empire Building, which was taken over to provide extra hospital accommodation for soldiers returning from overseas in need of medical treatment; $50,000 for an addition to the Bowcock's Farm Sanitarium. After these expenditures have been met there will be a balance in hand, out of the new loan, of $550,000, which added to the sum in credit from last year's Victory loan, will be sufficient to meet all the war obligations outstanding. The Militia department estimates these debts at a total sum of $4,472,500, carried as follows: Pay due soldiers still in England $500,000; Regimental Pay due here $340,000; Transportation $300,000; Board and Mess Expenses $140,000; Hospital Charges $30,000; Printing and Stationery $7,500; Estates of Soldiers, $40,000; Re-establishment $75,000; Civilian Clothing for Soldiers, in sum of $225,000; Allowances $475,000; Separation Allowances, all accounts, $320,000; Gratuity for War Service, $1,450,000; Royal Naval Reservists Pay Augmentation, $750,000; Clothing Allowance R.N.R., $100,000. Adding this expenditure to that already disbursed will bring the Colony's war bill to a sum approximating fourteen million dollars, an average outlay of about $3,500,000 per year for the period.

There is also a debt of $1,866,666, due the Imperial Government, covering a sum borrowed on executive responsibility only, for which the Dominion is paying 5 p.c. interest. Apparently no provision has been made to wipe off or protect this.

Under the proposed new loan, $5,000,000, of which are to be raised abroad and $1,000,000 locally, the annual obligations of Newfoundland will be increased some $80,000, made by the interest on the extra million and the additional half of one per cent on the total loan. Financially, we are going some these days.

Observed at the Houses.

The details furnished yesterday re the purchase of the Empire Building were illuminating. We note that the generous leader of the Government received $3,000.00, a paltry sum, for building an annex and fixing up the building for occupation. Heating apparatus too. Another $3,950.00 for Mr. Phil Moore & Co. Plumbing is great work when you have a Government behind you, and of course Phil knows all about that. By the way, why use the old trick, $3,950.00. Why not say $4,000.00. Surely the conscience did not prick at the thought of asking $50.00 extra for superintendence.

We note, too, that in the Council Mr. Ellis did not agree with the plan of Mr. Anderson in the housing solution. The reason is plain. The leader of the Government wants some plan of his own formulation that will give to him the credit so that a few more thousands may be added to his small income from Government contracts.

The Premier had a very scholastic air about him yesterday. Moreover he hates to be questioned, and apparently he must be suffering some acute change in the days as his equanimity is generally not as smooth as that of a skilled diplomat is purported to be.

The "wordy" President was not in his accustomed place, and consequently the House appeared somewhat at a disadvantage, for it is a well known fact that the President is often the "exposure of neighbouring eyes", as it is never a matter of certainty what may proceed from the mine of his inexhaustible store of wisdom.—M. Motor Car Accident.

Yesterday afternoon on Water St., a motor car (the number of which is known to the police), knocked down and injured a man named Mundy, of Patrick Street. He was picked up and driven home, where Dr. Tait attended him. The driver of the car proceeded on his way without stopping to enquire into the injury caused to the man.

BORN.

On Easter Monday April 21st, a son to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Earle, Cor. Fleming and Belvidere Streets.

MARRIED.

On April 21, at the R. C. Cathedral by Rev. Dr. Carter, Nellie F. Murphy to Chas. J. Gamberg, both of this city.

DIED.

Suddenly, last night, Lillian, beloved wife of Ronald Macdonald, and youngest daughter of the late John and Mary Thistle, aged 24 years. Funeral notice later.

Passed peacefully away at Boston, Mass., U. S. A., yesterday morning at 10.30 o'clock after a short illness of pneumonia, Stephen Augustus, second son of the late Nathaniel and Annie Sparks of this city, leaving to mourn a wife, son, Mother, eight brothers and a large circle of relations.

IN MEMORY

Of Private Alexander W. Penney, of Port Blandford, who was killed in the Battle of Monchy, April 14th, 1917.

Hr. Grace Notes.

We are pleased to be able to report that Dr. Cron who has been seriously ill the past week is now it is thought out of danger and only needs a rest and the care and attention of nurses to bring him back to good health and activity again. All the "doc's" friends will be pleased to hear this good news.

Two citizens passed away yesterday. Mrs. Chafe, widow of the late Mr. Samuel Chafe, and mother of our respected fellow citizen, Mr. L. T. Chafe, who had reached a good old age, and Arthur Ernest Trappell, son of John Trappell Esq., J. F., who although quite young was called from this world to the great beyond. Ernest Trappell was a very clever young man, one that would surely have made a mark in the world, but cruel disease laid its hand on him and he passed away as stated, after a long and tedious illness. Mr. Trappell and the family have the deep sympathy of the whole community, in this their second bereavement within a few weeks.

Some of the cable staff of Bay Roberts arrived here this a.m. and arrangements are now being made to transfer the whole staff here, and make Harbor Grace the headquarters for this company. We welcome our new citizens and wish them a very pleasant stay in the good old town of Harbor Grace.

"The Irish Rebel" is the name of the play to be staged at St. Joseph's Hall, Riverhead to-night. It is highly spoken of, and all the available seats are disposed of. It is said our Riverhead friends are contemplating putting this play on in this town in the near future.

The Masonic dance advertised for to-morrow, Easter Tuesday, has been indefinitely postponed owing to the illness of Dr. Charles Cron.

The Girls' Guild, of the Methodist Church will hold a "Bean Supper" in Coughlan Hall on Wednesday night.

At the Casino.

At the beginning of the four weeks' management of the W. S. Harkins Co. at the Casino at 8.15 last evening the house was packed with spectators anxious to see the first production of the popular troupe. Cody and Mann were the only players of last evening who had been with Mr. Harkins before, and the remainder of the cast was made up of players new to this country. Miss Dalton, the leading lady, particularly good, her brilliant performance delighting everybody present. The plot of the play, "The House of Glass," deals with the work of a New York crook who, having "bagged" a "haul" of diamonds and cash, finds a young stenographer to fly with him. On the journey, when Miss Dalton, they are married, but before he has gone entirely beyond the reach of the law, he is arrested, and who with him. They are given a year and a half of her three, she breaks jail and flees to Kansas City, in the west. Engaging there stenographer to the General Passenger Agent of a Railway Company, usually marrying him. Shortly after the wedding, her "husband" is exposed to General Manager, and another six years to General Manager of one of New York's great railroads, with headquarters in the city. Now, her "husband" is a hard man where crime and criminals are concerned, and during an interview with a detective in connection with the conviction of a thief whom they are prosecuting for stealing some money from the railroad, the detective recognizes the wife as being the escaped convict whom he has been trying to apprehend for some ten years. The wife proclaims her innocence, and could prove it. However, through the intricacies of the law, and lack of heart to plead her cause, she has been found guilty. Eventually, needless to state, things turn out all right, and the couple resume their interrupted life of peace and happiness.

The leading roles were taken by Miss Marjorie Dalton, as Margaret Case, the supposed culprit; Mr. Clay Cody, as Jas. Burke, the crook; Mr. Frank Harvey, as the detective; Mr. Keith Ross, as Harry Lake, the Railroad Manager; Mr. Jas. R. Mann, as Edward McLeellan, the lawyer; while minor roles were undertaken by Miss Lyons, Bern and Boniface, and Messrs. Jelley, Huber and Haulon. The "House of Glass" is a very fine thing, and will be repeated again tonight and is well worth seeing.

To-morrow and Thursday nights the company will present the latest comedy success, "Johnny Get Your Gun." This is not a war play but built for laughing purposes only.

To-Day's Messages.

NOVEL NOTE ISSUE.

LIMERICK, April 21.—The general strike mechanics incident to the Proclamation of Limerick as a military area, assumed a new and interesting phase today, when the Finance Commission of the Limerick Trades and Labor Council announced that it was preparing to issue its own money, in the form of one shilling and ten shilling notes, which would be used in the purchase of food for the 14,000 strikers. The money is called "Strike Treasury Notes" and is secured by the stock of food, which it is proposed to purchase with the financial gifts reaching Limerick from other parts of Ireland, and by the integrity of the workers of Limerick.

KOLCHAK WHIPS BOLSHEVIKS.

LONDON, April 21.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—Telegrams from Omsk report that the troops of Admiral Kolchak, thirty-three miles south of Sterlitamak, inflicted severe losses on the enemy, capturing many prisoners, machine guns and ten heavy guns. They also captured Starapul with great booty and a number of Bolshevnik leaders. Demoralization of the Bolshevniks is reported to be growing and three Bolshevnik divisions refused to fight and have been withdrawn from the front. The peasants of the Viatka government, and some of the district of the River Kama, have revolted against the Bolshevnik Government.

AMERICANS FOR NEWFOUNDLAND

NEW YORK, April 21.—Thirty-six observers, mechanics and repair men selected by the Bureau of Navigation in Navy's plan for transatlantic flight next month, left Rockaway to-day on the mine "Aroostook" for Newfoundland. It is understood that the "Aroostook" will proceed later to the Azores as a supply ship. The cruisers "Columbia" and "Baltimore" are reported also to assist in the flight. The Americans have four planes to choose from.

APPEAL TO SAVE REVOLUTION.

BUDAPEST, April 21.—News of the Russian advance has caused intense excitement here. Following vehement speeches at the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council meetings on Saturday, the Government issued a series of impassioned appeals to the public to arm themselves and complete the revolution, which is declared to be in great peril.

SOVIET FOR TURKEY.

PARIS, April 22.—A revolution has broken out in Turkey and a Soviet Government has been declared.

BAVARIAN SITUATION IMPROVING

LONDON, April 22.—The military situation in Bavaria is improving, according to statements made by the Hoffmann Ministry.

RESIGNED UNDER PRESSURE.

AMSTERDAM, April 22.—The Hungarian Government, headed by Bela Kun, has resigned under pressure of Roumanian troops, according to a despatch from the Central News.

"Blue Puttee"

HAD ATTRACTIVE OPENING EASTERN MONDAY NIGHT.

The new parlours of the "Blue Puttee" were opened to the public last evening, and the pleasure expressed by the many patrons was indication of their success. In addition to the two rooms and soda water fountain formerly in use, the management has added two large apartments in the adjacent building, and here are installed another Fountain with an excellently equipped serving-room; white marble tables, etc. All the furniture has not arrived from the United States, but the appointments that are installed in the new premises are undoubtedly health-preserving in every respect. The "Blue Puttee" ice-cream parlours follow closely the trail of their title; they have made a reputation and intend living up to the name. Citizens who appreciate good ice-cream and novelties served in hygienic surroundings will be particularly up-to-date style would do well to call at the new parlours.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

In the stock taking of emotions, and conditions and tendencies which we all are conducting more or less consciously now that the great unexpected and unexpected event has actually come to pass, there is nothing more than to find how tightly people still seem to cling to the old unreasoning race prejudices.

And not thoughtless, ignorant people either, but fortunate people who are raised by education and leisure high enough on the plane of living to have a broader vision than that point of view connotes.

That we should emerge from the war with certain race prejudices intensified is absolutely inevitable, but that this should not be balanced by an internationalization of thought and feeling in other directions is a sin and a shame.

Let me tell you of three illustrations of this narrowness of mind that refuses to be widened.

A Perfect Description of Race Prejudice.

A woman told me that she had left a hotel because the management had taken in a family of a certain nationality. "What sort of people were they?" I asked. "I don't know," she said with hauteur, "I never have anything to do with such people." But suppose the individuals were worth while?" I suggested, "would you let the race stand between you?" I should never know if they were worthwhile or not," she said, "because I should never know them in the first place."

If I had asked a great author to put the spirit of race prejudice into a single sentence, I doubt if he could have done it better.

Surprised to Find Presents Given to Foreigners.

A friend of mine is a social worker in a big organization, one of whose activities is to bring Christmas to the poor children of the city. He told me that volunteers who came in to help with the rush of work at Christmas are often astonished when they find that the charity does not make race or religion a barrier. "What, you don't give presents to Italians?" one of them asked in great astonishment.

Again, I was talking with a woman, who has had great educational advantages, about a girl who has lately

TIME. Time is an aviator—it flies. Time is a thief—it robs us of our joys. Time is a top—the whirling of time. Time is a tattletale—it tells on one. Time is impatient—it waits for no man. Time is vindictive—I wasted time," mourned King Richard II, "and now doth time waste me."

WALT MASON

My car has stood in solemn state since winter came to pass; but now that winter's pulled its freight, and gentle spring is at the gate, it's time to burn some gas. This morning the tumbler o'er, where it through long months has slept; and then I sat me down and wept; my tears splashed on the floor. I hoped to swell my meager roll when winter days were done; I said, "In spring a patient soul won't have to blow himself for coal, and so he saves some mon. In wintertime he has no chance to salt away a bone; he's always digging from his pants the wherewithal to feed his aunts, and buy the children pone." And now that spring is here, alas, extinguished are hope's fires; I'll have to buy up oil and gas, and costly tubes and tires. My bumboat must be overhauled by skilled and gifted gents; and when they have it fixed and dolled, and with their little bills have called. I won't have twenty cents. For bank accounts all sane men crave, but they are hard to get; we're always planning how we'll save; and when it's time to buy a grave we have to go in debt.

Milady's Boudoir.

FORM THE SALAD HABIT IN HOT WEATHER.

"Salad says" it is a term often used in reference to youthful days gone by, that were blissfully happy. But those days, the present days should be salad days, in the true sense of the word.

When the first hot wave makes its yearly visit to the city, I draw an imaginary line across the names of all the hot meat dishes, hot soups and fried things, and let my unsatisfied appetite, for the refreshing salad, rule me. A salad, well made, is appetizing just to look upon, and its cool refreshing depths, moistened with a French or boiled dressing, makes it a thing of delectable beauty.

Considering that there are many hundred kinds of salads including vegetable, fish meat, nuts, eggs, fruit and cheese varieties, it is always a surprise to find a salad that people do not eat on a salad diet. Salads are so easily prepared, and so delightfully cool in the preparation, and so fascinating to work upon, that every housewife, from the scientifically fitted kitchen to the inadequately fitted kitchenette, should have the art of salad making at her finger tips during the warm months.

Lettuce is a beautifier, because it is a health giving food, celery is excellent for the nerves, tomatoes are good for the blood, nuts are nourishing, and all sorts of fruits and vegetables are the best thing in the salad dressing for the human system and cheese is healthful, if eaten slowly. Get your cook books and magazines out, and give yourself up to the salad habit, and incidentally the habit of health and beauty.

The Woman Nelson Loved.

Emma Hamilton was born in Chesire, her parents were humble peasant folk. When about 15 years old she ran away to London, and being very beautiful, soon had many lovers, and went through a series of amazing adventures. One of her lovers was the Hon. Charles Greyville, and he took her to live with him at his house in Edgeware Road, London, then a country suburb, where she learned music, dancing, painting, and other arts. But circumstances compelled Greyville to marry and to get rid of Emma; so he gave her to his uncle, Sir William Hamilton, British Ambassador to the Court of Naples. Sir William married her and she became Lady Hamilton. She also became the bosom friend of the Queen of Naples. Two years later, on September 19th, 1790, Nelson came sailing in the Bay of Naples, visited the British Ambassador's house, and promptly fell in love with Lady Hamilton. It is doubtful whether she returned his affection; but she was flattered that her name should be linked

Fell 5,000 Feet.

Gilbert Budwig, pilot in the aerial mail service between New York and Chicago, fell 2,000 feet in his plane at Hollis, N.Y., Sunday landing upside down—but unhurt. He was found beneath the machine, smoking a cigarette, when rescuers arrived. The plane started to drop when his engine went dead at a dizzy height. Budwig tried to vibrate to a landing place, and succeeded in "catching the air" just before it struck a hillock and capsized.

$500.00 in Prizes.

Are Offered This Year For the Best Diary Kept in Dr. Chase's Calendar-Almanac.

It will be of interest to many of our readers to know that the Diary Competition in connection with Dr. Chase's Almanac will be resumed this year with more valuable prizes than were ever offered before.

The first prize is an Electric Voice-ophone, the most up-to-date of reproducing instruments, the selling price of which is $210.00. The second prize is also a fine cabinet instrument, which sells for $110.00. Altogether, there are twenty prizes, the total value of which is $500.00.

All particulars about the Diary Competition, along with illustrations and details in regard to the Voice-ophones, are found on pages 16 and 17 of Dr. Chase's Almanac.

This almanac has been mailed to practically every home in Canada, but if for any reason you have not received your copy write to Gerald S. Doyle, St. John's, and he will send you one by return mail. These prizes are well worth trying for, and there is no time to lose if you are to get a fair start in the competition.

Col. Rutherford Insane.

London, April.—Lieut. Colonel Norman C. Rutherford, of the Medical Corps of the British Army, was ordered detained as insane by the Judge in his trial for the killing of Major Charles Seton, on January 15.

The case was one of the most remarkable ever tried in England, as Colonel Rutherford was said to have shot Major Seton, also an officer in the Medical Corps, under circumstances which led every one to believe that the "unwritten law" would be raised in his defense. A plea of insanity, however, was entered in the trial today.

Army medical officers testified that Col. Rutherford suffered from shell-shock and insomnia and also had contemplated suicide because his arms were diseased as the result of the constant use of antiseptics. Dr. Hyslop, a mental expert testified that Rutherford told him he had had a dream a month before the shooting, in which he murdered Seton and awoke from it in a condition of terror. Rutherford said he could not afterwards put the thought from his mind. Dr. Hyslop testified that Rutherford told him he had no doubts of his wife.

The Judge said he agreed with the verdict and ordered Col. Rutherford detained.

DEADLY WARFARE.

In spite of the long casualty lists of the present war, fought with all the fiendish contrivances of modern science, the destruction of life was not so great in proportion as in earlier wars when soldiers fought hand to hand. The most deadly of all weapons was the Roman short sword. Caesar reported that at the battle he fought near Namur his soldiers slew 60,000 of the Nevil. There were no wounded when the weapon was the short sword.

REST TIME.

Glad I'm living nowadays. With the world with sun and moon. Glad the Lord has favored me. Once again to live to see. Tulips nodding at my feet. And to smell the clover sweet. Glad that I can hear the birds singing, without need of words. Songs of joy on every hand. That the soul can understand. Paused for breath and rest. And I stood and heard him say. And I thanked him for it, too.

Now the daisies are awaking. And the buds begin to break. Now the ivy starts to creep. And the roses from their sleep. Sit themselves, and likewise stretch beneath the patch of gold. And go forth to find once more. Life as radiant as before. Out with birds and shrubs and me. I can live my reveries.

Winter hedged me in with snow. Kept me from the pathway free. Wore me down with burrows and like the elm tree's branch. Meeting every wind that blew. I was naked to my woe. Now the robins sing once more. And with all earth's love. Find a day of perfect rest.

THEATRES IN OCEAN LINERS.

A favorable project of the late Charles Frohman, which he did not live to see fulfilled, the establishment of theatres in ocean liners, is being revived as an outcome of entertainments given to soldiers in troopships.

The New York officials of the Cunard Line have resuscitated the scheme. They are reported to be considering plans for the construction of stages in the saloons of their Atlantic vessels, with complete sets of scenery. In addition, every ship is to carry a stock company and a director to produce plays selected from the latest London and New York successes. Passengers leaving New York will be shown London plays, and those sailing for the United States New York plays.

Bolshevist Portraits.

 (The Times.)
 Articles on Bolshevism there is, but in the labyrinth of confusing rumours and reports with which he is confronted the impartial frequently finds it hard to pick up. Difficult as it is for him to get up before his eyes even the picture of Bolshevism as a political philosophy, he is completely misled when he attempts to form a estimate of the character and personality of the man who is its creator and chief exponent.
 Truth of the matter is that Lenin by no means an easy man to know. For years he has enveloped himself in a veil of mystery—a policy dictated by personal inclinations and by political motives, and out of his own small circle of disciples and admirers there are not only very few who may be said to know him intimately, but even comparatively few who have ever seen him. His mother had a small Englishman as a red-shirted, hooded pirate chief, the fault of his own making. His alluring passion in the gospel of revolution.
 Lenin at Simbirsk on April 10, 1870, was the son of a State official. His mother had a small Englishman as a red-shirted, hooded pirate chief, the fault of his own making. His alluring passion in the gospel of revolution.
Personal Appearance.
 Is Lenin a genius? Many Russians have denied it, and certainly there is nothing in his personal appearance to suggest even faintly a resemblance to the super-man. Short of stature, rather plump, with short, thick neck, broad shoulders, round red face, high, intellectual forehead, bald head, nose slightly turned up, brownish moustache, and short, stubby beard, he looks at the first glance more like a provincial grocer than a leader of men. And yet, on second thoughts, there is something in those steady grey eyes that arrests the attention, something in that quizzing, half-contemptuous, half-smiling look which speaks of boundless self-confidence and conscious superiority. His knowledge of languages is above the average. He is a proficient German scholar, while he writes and speaks English with tolerable accuracy. He is certainly by far the greatest intellectual force which the Russian Revolution has yet brought to light.

 It is not, however, to his intellectual powers that he owes his predominant position inside his own party. The almost fanatical respect with which he is regarded by the men who are his colleagues, and who are at least as jealous of each other as politicians in other countries, is due to other qualities than mere intellectual capacity. Chief of these are his iron courage, his grim, relentless determination, and his complete lack of self-interest. In his creed of world-revolution he is as unscrupulous and as uncompromising as a Jesuit, and in his code of political ethics the end to be attained is a justification for the employment of any weapon. To him Capital is the Fiend incarnate, and with such an enemy he neither gives nor asks for mercy.
A Frank Statement.
 Yet as an individual he is not without certain virtues. In the many attacks, both justified and unjustified, which have been made against him, no breath of scandal has ever touched his private life. He is married—according to all accounts singularly happily married—and, in a country where corruption has now reached its apogee, he stands out head and shoulders above all his colleagues as the one man who is above suspicion. To Lenin the stories of Bolshevist orgies and carousals have no relation. His own worldly needs are more than frugal, and his personal budget is probably the most modest of all the Bolshevik Commissaries. Dishonest, treacherous, guilty of the worst forms of secret diplomacy as the Bolsheviks have been in all their public dealings, Lenin himself, on the rare occasions on which he has consented to see a foreign journalist or a foreign official, has always been extraordinarily frank. "Personally, I have nothing against you. Politically, however, you are my enemy, and I must use every weapon I think fit for your destruction. Your Government does the same against me." The individual is only a pawn in the game, and no individual, however dear, however close he may be to Lenin's heart, will ever be allowed to stand in his way. His cruelty, however, is not a question of personal vengeance. Where Trotsky and other Bolsheviks have pursued their enemies with a bitter, personal hatred, Lenin in certain cases, where the individual has been of little account, has even been guilty of acts of clemency. But where Trotsky might shrink through fear of the consequences from shooting 10,000 men in cold blood, Lenin, although he is not one of the chief advocates of the terror, would assuredly not hesitate if he thought such an action were essential to the advancement of his cause.
Question and Answer.

We Shall Remember Them.
 They sleep beneath no immemorial yew;
 Their resting-place no temple arches bend;
 No blazoned shaft or graven tablet woos
 Men's praise—and yet we shall remember them.
 The unforgetting clouds shall drop their tears;
 The winds in ceaseless lamentation wail.
 For Gods white Knights are lying on their biers,
 Who pledged their service to restore the Grail.
 For them the task is done, the strife is stilled;
 No more their care disturb, nor zeal condemn;
 And when the larger good has been fulfilled,
 In coming years we shall remember them.
 What need have they for holy sepulchre?
 Within the hearts of men is hallowed ground—
 A sanctuary where they rest secure,
 And with Love's immortality are crowned.
 And far-off voices of the future sing:
 "They shall remain in memory's Diadem";
 And winds of promise still are whispering
 That same refrain, "We shall remember them."

Ways and Means.
 Editor Evening Telegram
 Dear Sir—As there is considerable discussion as to the way the cost of upkeep of the proposed Maternity Hospital may be met, may I take up some of the space in your valuable paper and relate what was done in my home town under similar circumstances. There, as here, there were continual calls upon the same individuals every year of the maintenance of Hospitals and similar institutions. It was believed that many of those for whose welfare these places were maintained would help to support them in a tangible manner, if permitted. A number of gentlemen met to consider ways and means of obtaining the necessary funds to carry on and develop the good work being done by the various institutions. They decided to try to interest, not only the wealthy merchant and manufacturer, but the Clergy of every denomination, and every working-man and woman. Deputations were appointed to wait upon the Clergy, every storekeeper and all employers of labor.
 The Clergy were asked to devote a Sunday in October to special services and sermons in aid of the Hospitals and all collections to be devoted to the fund. In almost every case the Churches fell into line and this particular Sunday became known as "Hospital Sunday." There followed quite a friendly rivalry as to which of the Churches should head the list. The Oratory, of which Father or Cardinal Newman was in charge, The Synagogue, The Unitarian Church of

House of Assembly.

(Yesterday).
The House met at 3.15 p. m.
The following bills were introduced and read a first time: An Act respecting documentary evidence and extra-judicial oaths; an Act to amend 61 Victoria (1898) chapter 18, entitled "an Act respecting the Department of Justice"; an Act to amend chapter 141 of the Consolidated Statutes of Newfoundland (second series) entitled "of the keeping of dogs"; an Act respecting Bay Fishery Boards.

The Minister of Finance moved the House into committee of the whole to consider loan resolutions. The amount asked for is six million dollars, five millions of which are needed to retire the loan falling due on 30th June next and one million for military, naval and other purposes. The Minister announced that on 1st January there was remaining of the loan raised last year over four million and a half which with a half million of that now being asked for would meet the total war liabilities including demobilization. The balance would be used for public buildings and other purposes. He expected to raise the loan at 5 1/2 per cent., of which $5,000,000 would be raised in the United States or Canada and the balance it was hoped to get in this country. Our war bill to date, said the minister, is approximately fourteen million dollars. This year makes $850,000 additional which the Minister of Militia would require to meet the claims of the soldiers, for pensions, etc. The minister said he had no fear of any difficulty in raising the loan as he had already a number of enquiries concerning it.
Referring to the Minister of Finance's statement in connection with war expenditure, Mr. J. S. Currie (Burin) Leader of the Opposition, pointed out that apparently there was an amount of $1,866,666.00 borrowed from the British Government for which no authority had ever been obtained from the House. It had been borrowed on executive responsibility, and the minister should take authority for it.

Minister of Finance: We've got the money and are only paying 5 per cent. for it, why should we borrow at a higher rate of interest to pay it back?

Prime Minister: The British Government isn't worrying over it, why should we?

Mr. Currie said: It wasn't a question of paying back the money, so much as protecting the British Govt. Even if they weren't worrying about it we should see that things were done in a business like way. The executive had no authority to borrow money; that could be done only by the House. With regard to the amounts to be expended on public buildings, he referred to the Empire Building, on which $50,000 were to be spent. He thought the Government made a mistake in spending so much money on this place. If the amount had been spent in enlarging the General Hospital, a much better purpose would have been served. He had asked for the expenditure of the building, but all the information forthcoming was that $12,000 had been paid as purchase price; $8,000 to W. J. Ellis for improvements; and $3,000 to Moore & Co. for plumbing and heating. He asked the Minister of Militia for further details.

The minister replied that the Government had found themselves in the position of requiring additional hospital accommodation for returning soldiers and being unable to find a better place had chosen the Empire Building. At the time the intention was to use it as a barracks during the winter, but the unexpected close of the war made that unnecessary, and it was then fitted up as a hospital entirely. There was accommodation for seventy-five patients, but it was not possible to persuade some of the men to stay in the hospital. They could not be compelled to go there, and the only way of dealing with them was to reduce their allowances. With regard to the cost of the erection, he was not aware of the arrangements; these had been made by the executive. But in addition to the amounts mentioned he might state that the electrical and other appliances required would amount to over $4000. The fitting up was done under the direction of the doctors. He thought that the building would serve as a useful place after the soldiers had done with it. Every new special hospital accommodation was necessary and it could be utilized for the purpose.
After some other questions had been asked and answered the resolutions were read, and the bill introduced and read a first time.
The Minister of Finance tabled the Auditor General's report, and Mr. Piccott asked the following questions: Mr. Piccott—To ask the Hon. Col. Secretary to lay on the table of the House all correspondence received or sent out by his department in connection with the dismissal of Capt. Wm. Bartlett of the dredge Priestman, and all correspondence containing any complaints against the said Captain Bartlett received by his department.

The Colonial Secretary tabled some correspondence and the Minister of Marine said that in his department the information was in course of preparation.
House adjourned until 3 p. m. to-day.

Legislative Council.

At the Legislative Council yesterday, a Bill dealing with Workmen's Compensation, was introduced by Hon. Mr. Gibbs, and read a first time. The Election Act Bill was deferred, and was also the Election Expenses Bill.

On motion for adjournment, Hon. Mr. Anderson again took up the Housing question. He reiterated what he had previously said, and emphasized the need of doing something at once to remedy the condition of affairs. He referred to the sale of houses by owners, and tenants being ejected, sometimes on the street. In addition to the 600 houses, which the people proposed building, he thought the Government should raise a loan of $2,500,000, half of which should be used in the erection of 400 houses at once for occupation by the most necessitous. The balance of the loan could be given to dependants and mothers of deceased soldiers in outposts, or to soldier-servants to help them in resettling into civil life. The Government would lose nothing by so doing, he declared, as the money would eventually be paid back, and it would be only in keeping with what other countries were doing. He further thought a commission that would work gratuitously should be appointed to see the work done.

Hons. Squires, Gibbs, J. D. Ryan and Templeman re-emphasized all that Mr. Anderson had said, and after describing some of the conditions existing here to-day, thought time for action had come. Mr. Templeman also referred to the selling of houses, saying it would only add to the dirty condition of the city.
Hon. Mr. Ellis, quoting from his 17 years' experience, did not think Mr. Anderson's plan fully met the situation. He thought it time to do something, but wanted to know how best to do it.

Hon. Mr. Anderson stated in reply that his plan had been endorsed by financial experts of Canada and elsewhere, but if the Government had any better plans to make he was ready to help in the carrying of same into good effect.

Hon. Mr. Mews thought we should protect those in houses now, saying there should be a Board of from 3 to 5 members to control the rentals of the houses, and fix them so as to be in reach of the laborer's purse, and also to prevent selling of houses, unless a substitute was provided for the tenant.

Hon. Mr. Anderson asked leave to present a Bill to-day on the Housing Problem.
At 5.30 the House adjourned until 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Holy Week at St. Joseph's.

The ceremonies of Holy Week were carried out in a complete manner at St. Joseph's Church, Holytown. The Office of Tenebrae was recited on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at 7.30. On Maundy Thursday, Mass was celebrated at 8.30 a.m., followed by Procession of the Blessed Sacrament to the Altar of Repose, where hundreds of devout worshippers visited during the hours of Exposition. On Good Friday morning, Mass of the Presanctified was sung at 8.30 and Stations of "The Way of the Cross" took place at 3 p.m. On Thursday and Friday evenings appropriate sermons were preached by Rev. Dr. Kitchin, the keynote of whose discourses aptly combines eloquence with simplicity, the subjects being Transubstantiation and "Via Crucis" respectively. On Holy Saturday morning the various blessings and rubrics of the ecclesiastical year were carried out, viz., Blessing of Fire, Water, Baptismal Font and Paschal Candles, etc. On Easter Sunday morning, Gounod's "Mass of the Sacred Heart" and Muller's Easter Anthem "Regina Coeli" were beautifully rendered by the choir, the solo parts being ably sustained by Miss Ida Howlett in sweet flute-like tones. In the evening at Vespers, Danby's Magnificat and selected Easter anthem "Christ is Risen" were rendered in an inspiring manner. To the untiring efforts of the Rev. Pastor, to the talented young organist, Miss Ida Howlett, who carried out his instructions and suggestions in such an able and satisfactory manner, as well as to the choir in general, and particularly to Miss Rose Brophy whose beautiful contralto voice was heard to advantage in several solos, much credit and praise is due, and each and every member of the choir must needs feel satisfied at the success of their efforts both at Passiontide and Easter-tide, efforts which evinced much painstaking practice and care.—Com.

MAJESTIC PRESENTATION.

Announcement!

The Management of the Majestic Theatre has decided to discontinue the service hitherto shown, and in future a new and entirely up-to-date line of productions will be carried. These will feature Madame Mazamova, the celebrated Continental Star. The first of these big pictures will be "WAR BRIDES." As a consequence of this decision the Majestic has been threatened with a law suit, but this the management has decided to face, for the purpose of ensuring patrons of the House the very best pictures that can be secured. In all probability the new pictures will be begun to-night, having arrived by the Kyle at Placentia.

C. L. B. Concert A Grand Success.

The C. L. B. Band Concert given in the Methodist College Hall last night under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor was an unequalled success. His Excellency the Governor, accompanied by Lt. L. Field, A.D.C., His Lordship Bishop White and Mrs. White, Lt.-Col. Goodridge and Mrs. Goodridge, were present, while the hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. Home made candy was sold during the performance. As for the programme itself it was a rare musical treat and all praise is due to Bandmaster Morris and Conductor F. J. King for the excellent effects produced. Apart from the band music, which excelled, if anything, its accustomed prestige, the double quartettes were the hit of the evening. Applause was spontaneous and loud, and each and all thoroughly appreciated the Euterpean music. The programme is appended.
