"A Terrible Experience"

"I Recall My Experiences with the Burglar with Feelings of Horror!"

"How would you feel if you wakened in the middle of the night with a flashlight shining in your eyes and the gruff voice of a man threatening that, 'if you make the slightest noise, I'll shoot?' That was my experience the end of last March when my husband was away in the woods and I was alone with my three children. Everytime I think of this experience a shudder passes over me and as long as I live I shall remember it. At the time I really thought I would die. It's a wonder my heart did not stop beating. I was so weak that even if I had any desire to move, I could not. I was bathed in a cold, clammy perspiration. Even to recall the shocking details now makes me shudder. It was a result of this shock that I contracted a high fever and for hours at a time I was delirious. I got so bad that the doctor finally gave up hope of my ever recovering, but by careful nursing, I was finally pronounced out of danger. The shock had left me so weak that for no reason whatever, I would suddenly burst into tears. All the life seemed to have been taken out of me. I kept getting weaker and weaker, so much so that my husband and children were constantly worrying about me. Doctors prescribed for me and while I willingly tried their medicines, only very few of them did me any good, but unfortunately the good was not lasting. My family asked me if I would try Carnol and I said, 'I was willing to try anything,' but felt that it would not do me any good. Four bottles of Carnol taken regularly, has completely restored my former health and strength and, while I occasionally recall my experience with the burglar with feelings of horror, I am otherwise as well and strong as I have ever been. Carnol is the most wonderful preparation I have ever used for building and restoring health and strength. It has done wonders for several of my friends to whom I have recommended it." Mrs. Macdonald.

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.

"Little as it is, Laura, you may be sure that I shall not do it. I shall not scatter my friends like chaff before the wind to please your ridiculous fancies."

"Have you no pity for my pain?" she asked.

"I should have pity for a real pain, but I have none for what is only a fancy."

"Will you do nothing, Vance, to make me happier?" she asked, wistfully.

"Nothing of the kind to which you refer," he answered, carelessly. "I should never dream of giving up an old friend for any such nonsense as this, Laura."

"Will you dance less with her, Vance?" she asked. The unhappy lady seemed to think that, if she could win some small concession from him, she might ultimately win all she wanted.

"No, I will not, Laura," he replied.

"Will you devote yourself less to her, so as not to attract public attention?" she asked again.

"My dear Laura, in no single thing will I change my present course of conduct," he answered, warmly.

"Not even if it is likely to kill me?" she said.

"It will not do that; and, if you die of it, your own folly will have killed you."

The frankly brutal words seemed to stun her. She raised her pale, dazed face to his.

"I thought," she said, slowly, "that you would comply at once with my wish; I thought you would kiss me and comfort me, and tell me there was no one half so dear to you as I; I thought you would promise, for my sake, to give up Gladys Rane."

"Your thoughts were all wrong," he interrupted, sneeringly.

"Yes, they were. I am sorry you do not love me as much as I thought you did," she went on. "I see that I am not the first object in the world to you. Oh, Vance," she cried, clasping her white hands and holding them out to him entreatingly, "think before you send me away without love and without comfort—think!"

"I have nothing to think about," he

LADY LAURA'S RELEASE

THE STORY OF A SPOILED BEAUTY.

CHAPTER XXII.

"I would do a great deal, certainly," said the captain; "but you may take this answer once for all, Laura—I shall never relinquish my friendship for Miss Rane. If you are wise, you will never reopen the subject."

Lady Laura Wynyard looked at her husband with eyes full of wondering pain. That the cold could dismiss a subject of such vital interest to her was incredible. Her whole future was involved in this matter, and she had put it aside as unworthy of discussion. A vision seemed to pass before her of the dead husband who had been so kind to her, to whom her every wish had been law, to whom her lightest words had been of greatest consequence. Were Angela's words really true, that she could not expect such love twice in one life-time? At last her surprise found voice.

"Vance," she said, "you cannot speak earnestly, I, your wife, come to you with the happiness of my whole life at stake, holding my very heart in my hands, and you dismiss the subject that causes me concern as coldly as though we were discussing the weather."

Captain Wynyard shrugged his shoulders.

"My whole life is at stake," continued her ladyship. "I cannot live as I have been living; I can bear no longer what I have borne. I pray you, dearest, give up that which has come between us, and take me to your heart again."

"What nonsense, Laura!" he cried, impatiently. "I am tired of it."

"You must listen," she said. "I have a claim upon your attention; I have a right to speak. You are doing that which makes me unhappy, and I have a right to ask you to give up the cause of my unhappiness. Oh, Vance, if you love me, make me happy! Give up Miss Rane! It is not replied, curtly, "except that it is a pity you are not a sensible woman."

"Vance," she cried—and the courage of despair came to her—"tell me, if you had to choose now between my love and the friendship of Gladys Rane, which would you prefer?"

"I decline to answer so foolish a question," he replied.

"You hesitate!" she said; and the beautiful pleading face grew perfectly white.

"I do not hesitate," he returned; "I simply decline to answer unreasonable questions."

"That is an evasion," she said. "If you could honestly say that you preferred me and my love, you would say so. You cannot. It is useless for me to say more."

Slowly, and with a heavy heart, she went away from him, her sorrow deeper and more intense than when she sought him. But she had much more to suffer yet.

The captain smiled to himself as he watched her enter the house. Her white face and downcast eyes, the listless sorrow of her whole attitude, did not distress him.

"I have taught her a lesson," he said to himself, with a feeling of satisfaction—and she needed it. She will not interfere again with Gladys."

If Gladys Rane had looked up at him with tears in her eyes, he would have soothed her trouble. If Gladys had told him that she was unhappy, he would have done his best to remove the cause at once. But to his wife he did not give a thought after she had left him. He had not the slightest pity for her; he simply felt indignant and irritated at her attempting to interfere with him.

Lady Laura went back to her room like one in a dream. She could hardly realize as yet what had happened to her. That her husband had sneered at her, had laughed with brutal frankness at her, had flatly refused to yield to her wishes, had tacitly admitted that he cared greatly for Gladys Rane, were truths too horrible for her to look in the face all at once. As she walked along she met Angela, who said to her, gently: "You look ill, mamma! Shall I come and sit with you?"

"No, thank you, dear," she answered; "I would rather be alone. I am tired."

All the music and the sweetness had gone from her voice; it was weak and languid. Angela felt uneasy about her mother; she knew that this was the beginning of what she had all along foreseen.

When Lady Laura tried to realize her position, she could not. It was the first time in her life that she had met with such cruel conduct, and she felt it all the more keenly because it came from the man she loved. He would not, at her request, made with tears, give up his intimacy with Gladys Rane. He would spend as much time as ever with her; he would dance with her as often. And she—

"How shall I bear it?" she cried. "It will break my heart!"

She had always felt secure in her husband's love, and happiness seemed to have given way and she stood alone amongst the ruins.

On the night following they were invited to a grand ball given by Lady Holte. Lady Laura knew that her rival was to be there, and her first decision was not to go, although a charming dress of white satin, elaborately trimmed with blush roses, was prepared for her. She felt unequal to the effort, for she knew it would bring the same heart-anguish over again, the same sorrow, and she told herself that she could not endure it.

When the captain asked her at what hour she wished the carriage ordered, she answered that she did not feel sure that she should go; she was tired and indisposed—and her looks fully bore out her words. But she saw the sudden look of relief that came over his face, when he heard the words, and she altered her mind instantly.

"I will go," she said; "Lady Holte always gives good balls," and, as she expressed her intention, she saw a look of annoyance come into his eyes. "He would have had a long evening's enjoyment with Miss Rane," she thought to herself bitterly.

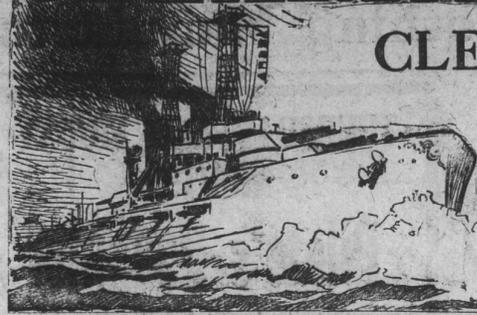

But, if her ladyship sattered herself that her presence would prevent the captain from amusing himself with her rival, she was mistaken, for he was more devoted to her than ever.

DOROTHY DODD SHOES

Under any and all conditions, you think first of Appearance in foot-wear; not of the hard wear, the headless knocks, strains and exposure. Such a stylish, dainty product as a woman's shoe is expected to stand up under all this, yet keep its shape and beauty—and it does so when it bears the DOROTHY DODD trade mark. For many years the discriminating, well dressed women of St. John's have been purchasing their foot-wear from us, and the satisfaction they obtain we put down largely to the fact that we hold the exclusive agency in this country for DOROTHY DODD. Prices range from $5.00 to $10.00.

The Tyrannical Rulers of Prussia.

William I, King of Prussia, and first Emperor of Germany, was the second son of Frederick William III. At an early age he entered the military service and assisted in the campaign of 1813 and 1815 against France. On the accession of his brother to the throne in 1840, he became Governor of Pomerania and commander of several native and foreign regiments. This position he held till the breaking out of the revolution of 1848 when the fury of Absolutism, of which he was regarded the principal upholder in Prussia, compelled him to fly from his country and take refuge in England. Returning later, however, he took command of the Prussian Army and acted against the revolutionary forces of Baden. In 1858 he was created Regent, in consequence of the growing infirmities of his brother, and he at once inaugurated a liberal policy, and on the death of the King in 1861, he ascended the throne of Prussia. The coronation was celebrated with extraordinary pomp at Berlin in 1861, when placing the crown upon his head, he declared that he held it from God only, emphatically asserting the divine right of Kings. This doctrine he again asserted when he opened the Chambers in 1869, and in the course he adopted it was evident that he determined upon making it the fundamental principle of his sovereignty. He commenced a contest with the Chamber which threatened, before he had been seated twelve months on the throne, to end in civil war; but the war of aggression against Denmark by Prussia and Austria diverted the attention of the people, and gave fresh directions to their thoughts. The war-like preparations that for several years had been progressing placed Prussia in a position to declare its supremacy to Germany by force of arms, and in June, 1866, war was declared against Austria, which after a campaign of only a few weeks, ended in the decisive battle of Sadowa. Peace was dictated by Prussia at the point of the sword, by the terms of which Austria was excluded from the German Confederation, and the great body of the German States and Principalities were placed at the discretion of Prussia. This splendid triumph only prompted the ambitious Emperor to pursue his aggressive policy, and the war of 1870-71, so disastrous to France, added Alsace and Lorraine to Prussian territory, and placed the imperial crown of Germany on the head of the Prussian monarch William I of Prussia was proclaimed Emperor of Germany in 1871. He died on March 9, 1888. What he gained, his grandson, William II, threw away between 1914-18 in the Great War.

Mrs. M. A. McNeill, Canada, St. N.B., writes: "I was troubled for years with terrible backache, resulting from kidney disease. At times in case of pain I remained in bed, the pain was more than I could stand, and to walk was almost impossible. I used about $50.00 worth of other medicines, but with little result. ### What is Their Game.

Hon. William F. Coaker has resigned from the Executive. What does this mean? Either he went out voluntarily or Sir Richard Squires forced him out. If the latter it is a plain proof that Squires believes that it is best to have him out and that if he remains in it he will kill Squires' chances of getting the Southern and Western vote. It is saying in effect: "Coaker, you are a marked man and my association with you will ruin my chances in the election from Trinity Bay to Bonne Bay around by the South Coast. Let us keep apart till after the election, so that I can get the Southern and Western vote. When the election is over we can join up again. Thus will we fool the people."

If on the other hand Coaker went out voluntarily it is an admission on his part that he is guilty of having ruined the Southern and Western districts and that he deserves punishment at their hands. He is afraid to let Squires get votes. He will bob up secretly when the election is over and if they can in the meantime deceive the people so as to get votes enough to form a majority with Squires men, he will insist on his old place in the Government as the dominant partner, and have Squires at his mercy again so as to make him put into effect whatever legislation he wants to have enacted, including no doubt some new fish regulations. But the public see through their game and will spoil their plot through the ballot box by voting for BENNETT & BETTER TIMES.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

KIRBY, THE FLOWER FRIEND, Kirby loves roses and pansies and phlox, Kirby loves poppies and asters and stocks, And his days and his weeks are all wrapped up in bloom And scented and sweet with an orchard perfume, The dark may be dark and the snow coming down, But Kirby brings blossoms of summer to town.

I trudged through the snow to my office to-day, As heavy of heart as the low skies were gray; Life was cheerless outside and was dreary within, I was dreary of winter—then Kirby dropped in; Dropped in just to tell of a new rose he'd found, And the snowflakes were petals of bloom on the ground.

I forgot it was winter, I ceased being glum, I was out in my garden, for summer had come, Out there with poppies, and pansies and phlox, Planning a space for some new hollyhocks, Putting in roses to grow with the old, For no day with Kirby is dreary and cold.

Cashin, Linegar and Hunt

Fighting Trio St. John's West.

Labor, and he felt that here too, Labor had a place in the West End ticket. He had been particularly struck with Mr. Linegar's address and he struck the right note.
Labor to-day, he said, is coming in to its own. In the Old Country it had risen to vast proportions and now constituted the Opposition in the British Parliament. 1923 is a big year for Labor, and he felt that here too, Labor for once was going to elect a representative to the House of Assembly. We are now fighting for a principle, we were fighting to safeguard the rights of Newfoundland.

MISMANAGED AFFAIRS.

This Government has sadly mismanaged the affairs of the country. They did as they wished, money was spent freely without any authority, and there has been nothing but a squandering of the country's revenue during the whole term of office. They drove the people to starvation by their incapability to handle the affairs of state, yet they refused to open the House of Assembly so that their record may be disclosed to the intelligent electorate. They could not stand on their record, it was so bad, and they procured the House of Assembly, the right of the people's representatives to see the public accounts had been denied, and the rights of free and responsible Government had been ignored. The menace that drove Sir Robert Bond from Public Life some ten years ago still rears its head, and it is against Coakerism that the fight has to be waged. Mr. Fox pointed out how it was impossible to run a ship with two commanders. That is the state of affairs to-day with Coaker on one hand and Squires on the other. The Coaker members were men who were not independent, they were shipped men and had to vote just how Coaker told them.

EVERYTHING HOODED.

Every thing has gone wrong, since they took control of the Colony's affairs, and there is no blacker record in the history of the country than that of the Squires-Coaker Government. The Humber proposition which they talk so loudly about, they have handled as a political football, and it is no secret that the initial agreement called for its ratification not later than March 31st. The Brit-

Last Night's Hockey.

G.W.V.A. DEFEAT CITY 4-1; ALLIES DEFEAT ST. BON'S 2-0.

Upwards of 1,000 people attended the Prince's Rink last night to witness the hockey games in aid of the Child Welfare and the G.W.V.A. Funds. Two games of hockey featured the evening's programme. The first was played at 7.30, when a picketed team from the Methodist and Bishop Field College faced the St. Bon's College champion team, the former winning out by two goals to nil, while the second clash was staged immediately after between the City and the G.W.V.A., composed of regular League players, the latter winning out by a score of 4 goals to 1. Although the ice was in poor condition the games were fairly fast.

1ST GAME.

The College teams took the ice first. Play commenced promptly at 7.30, with Mr. J. M. Tobin in control. For forty-five minutes the fans were treated to a good exhibition of hockey. The St. Bon's team, champions for the season of 1922, contested in an uphill fight against the best available players from the M.C. and Bishop Field Colleges, and although they went down to defeat by a score of two goals to nil they put up a good game. Good snappy hockey was a feature of the game, and there was not a dull moment from start to finish. In the first 15 minutes of play no scoring resulted, but the champs were called upon to defend their goal for the greater part of the period, and on several occasions Halley in goal was called upon to keep the puck out of danger. Cotter and Donnelly for St. Bon's formed a splendid attack, but failed to get an opening. The M.C. and B.F.C. boys kept the champs on the hop, while the work of Bailey was a feature of the game. After two minutes of play had elapsed in the second period, Peters made a good run and sent Halley for the first goal of the game. The St. Bon's pressed hard for several minutes, but their forwards had hard luck. Several times Cotter and Donnelly made determined efforts to equalize the score, but the splendid defence put up by Whelan and Peters proved impregnable, and Currie in goal made several good stops. The last session of play proved very interesting, both teams putting up a great exhibition of stick-handling. The M.C.-B.F.C. team, scored No. 2 shortly after the commencement of play, when Lloyd sent a beauty behind Halley. During the remainder of play honors were evenly divided, both goalies were called upon to save many difficult shots, but no ish Government has given the guarantee, and gave its assent to the Bill but despite all the talk of big developments the House is dissolved, and the Humber proposition still hangs in the balance, and its terms are unknown. The public are kept in the dark. The Opposition welcomes the Humber proposition or any similar big undertaking provided the interests of the country are protected but through Squire's handling of this proposition he has turned the English capitalists against him and it is common property that two representatives of the Company who were here two months ago, objected and protested at the manner in which the Government were handling the deal and threatened to throw up the whole thing altogether and get out of the country. They wanted the Government to ratify the agreement and not play dirty politics with a proposition of such magnitude and such vital importance to Newfoundland.

WILL BETTER HANDLE HUMBER.

Any movement for the betterment of the country, said Mr. Fox, is endorsed by its opposition and the party will handle the Humber proposition better than the Coaker-Squires combine, who have shown a capacity for blunders and losses in all their undertakings. In conclusion Mr. Fox entreated all to work with all the power at their disposal for the return of the Bennett party, and put Squires and his boss out of harm's way for all times.

COMMITTEES VOLUNTEER.

Before the singing of the National Anthem, Chairman Caldwell asked all those who desired to enroll as committee men and take an active part in the campaign to subscribe their names to the committee's roll which request was answered by almost every man in the audience so much so that the list is now the largest in the history of this city. All are of one thought and one mind, a safe sound and clean government, under the leadership of Mr. J. R. Bennett. The National Anthem followed by repeated cheers for Leader Bennett, Sir Michael Cashin and his colleagues the chairman and other candidates brought the most successful meeting ever witnessed in St. John's West to a close.

BENNETT & BETTER TIMES.

Further scoring resulted. Try as they would St. Bon's failed to enter the scoring column. Donnelly for the St. Bon's, who played a hard game right through, sent Currie, the Collegian goalie many difficult shots. The final gong sounded, leaving the Allies the victors by 2 goals to nil.

SECOND GAME.

The second game was played between the G.W.V.A. and City, the players who contested were composed of the best available players in the Senior League. Mr. C. C. Robertson refereed. The War Vets team trimmed the City sextette in a fairly rough exhibition of hockey by 4 goals to 1. The rubber had scarcely been dropped in to play, when Rendell for the City broke away by his lonesome from three quarter rink, and making a speedy dash West, sent Hunt a stinging shot, which glanced off his pants into the net, which proved to be the one and only scored by the City team. Upon the puck being centred the War Vets forward line composed of Winter, Canning and Pavn, soon made things pretty lively for the city team. From a mix-up in front of goal, Pavn found the net two minutes later and equalized the score. Fast play was witnessed, but good stick-handling was impossible owing to the rough surface, and the players at times found it very difficult to control the rubber, and several good opportunities were lost by both sides. Field on a pass from Rendell made a good attempt to score, missing the post by inches. Paterson for the Vets by an individual effort scored No. 2 four minutes after the start of play. The game during the last ten minutes of play proved very interesting. The City team were called upon time after time to clear the rubber out of the danger zone. Power, Field and Goultas had all they could do to hold Canning, Herder and Winter in check. Winter and Paterson for the G.W.V.A. sent Halley a few hot shots towards the close of the session, while Rendell and Goultas made good tries for the City.

END PERIOD.

The War Vets had matters all their own way from the very start of play, and the City team were forced back in their own territory. The Vets attacking forwards played good hockey, and Halley in goal had all he could do to stop shots from Wintet, Canning and Herder, while Tait also made several good attempts to score. Canning on a pass from Ralph Herder tried a shot from close range, the puck barely grazed the post. The City team took on a new lease of life, and confined play to the War Vets citadel. Eddie Phelan by clever stick-handling made a call upon Hunt, which "Nix" cleared in great style. The rubber was now being played from end to end. Halley and Tobin in the defence for the City, held their hard attacking opponents at bay, until Wintet availed of an opening and sent Halley for No. 3. Canning followed up the success of the Veterans efforts 10 seconds later when he scored the prettiest goal of the evening, the rubber ending high up in the net. The City team pressed hard and Field made several determined efforts to beat Hunt. The War Vets forwards made a combined effort, but were soon halted by Tobin, who took control of the rubber and made one of the best runs of the evening, but failed to beat Hunt after getting inside of the defence. Collins adorned the penalty box for tripping Canning. The period ended G. W. V. A. 4 goals; City 1.

3RD PERIOD.

The final session was brimful of many smart plays. Both goalies were called upon to save many difficult shots, but no further scoring resulted. The City team made frantic efforts to cut down their opponents lead, but like the previous two periods, Paterson and Hunt on the defence, with the veteran Hunt between the posts, all attacks were successfully frustrated. The puck was found difficult to keep flat on the ice, good play being entirely out of the question. The War Vets presented a very strong line-up, and easily disposed of the City team by a score of four goals to one. Thus ending the hockey season for 1923. After the game, general skating was indulged in the splendid band of the C.L.B. rendered several very appropriate selections, which were greatly enjoyed by the skaters. The proceeds amounted to a very handsome sum, which will be divided equally between the Child Welfare and G.W.V.A. To the players and all those responsible for the success of the evening hearty congratulations are due; whilst a great deal of praise is due the C.L.B. Band for generously offering their services.

Carry on the Good Work

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir—Permit me as a public citizen to offer you my hearty and sincere congratulations on the admirable manner in which you are conducting the present campaign. Comparing your logical arguments and exposure of the present administration with the violent personal expletives and cringing attitude of the Government press it brings to one's mind the words of Shakespeare when he says:—"Thrice is he armed who hath his quarrel just!" You have the honoured traditions behind you, Mr. Editor, and the policy of The People's Paper has ever been to battle in the cause of freedom and justice. Not only are you sustaining the dignity of the Press but also that of the party of good men and true banded together under the banner of Mr. Bennett to restore to this little country of ours the progress and prosperity we enjoyed in former years. Your arguments against the fallacies and atrocious blunders, considered as they are so gentlemanly and scholarly, appeal themselves to all intelligent and observant people. Carry on the good work, Mr. Editor, and may you always

Claims to Have Routed Enemies of Old Age.

LONDON.—Professor Burton Scammell, of the Dover Radium Institute, has discovered that by the use of radio-phosphate of potash, a man can be rejuvenated in a remarkable manner, according to the Westminster Gazette's correspondent. It is claimed that as a result of the treatment a man can live to be 125; always feel as fresh as a daisy, and develop the square jaw which is an essential feature of the American movie hero. A retired banker of Wokingham gave an interviewer a remarkable account of his mental and physical transformation as the result of taking advantage of Professor Scammell's discovery. This man, who is 77 years old and who took the treatment for three years, says his eyes are stronger than they were 15 years ago. He can read without glasses, his voice has become deeper and stronger, and he never experiences that "tired feeling" any more.

The Menace of Coakerism

NUMBER III.

Because of the personal whims, selfishness, bungling and incompetencies of Mr. Coaker, the Minister of Fisheries, and some Cabinet ministers, Newfoundland is called upon to bear a set-back which, according to the predictions of those who should judge correctly, will be the greatest blow ever directed against the fishery industry, with the result that the trade is demoralized, and, worse than that, attempts are being made to deprive the wharves of the depression which is upon us, but, on the other hand, those in authority are not holding their hands and are endeavoring to do something to ease the cost of the unwarranted legislation was to Newfoundland.

The fishery regulations will be remembered as the one great act of the Dominion, and Minister of Fisheries Coaker, who fathered the same will go down in history as the greatest demagogue who ever set his foot on the soil of the country's destiny. We are now arrived at a time when we are not afforded to mislead ourselves by such grave matters in a disdainful manner. That Coaker is a demagogue is plainly evident by his conduct during the past three years.

Unsettled conditions in Newfoundland today are due to the incompetence and self-interest of Mr. Coaker who, under the guise of a fisherman's friend, has schemed and plotted for pay and position, while he at the same time was sending a knife straight into the backs of those whom he is now pleased to scorn, discredit and sneer at. Three years of power has worked havoc that will leave its mark for many years to come.

The lure of social position, salaries and perquisites served to paint the man in his true colors as is truly demonstrated by his brazen attitude towards those who believed him to be one of themselves and had hoped he would, as he solemnly avowed, lift them from out of darkness into light. They gave Coaker their all; he in turn forsook them; and the time is approaching when they will curse the day he enamoured them with his false doctrines and policies.

The present Government includes men who will be ranked with the greatest political demagogues ever convicted. They have prostituted the Constitution to such an extent that the people fear the consequences. The respect always accorded law and order has gone into a mist. Coakerism prevails. One cannot blame a workless, moneyless, hungry people, for what will be evidenced before many months of the year have passed over.

When Coaker promised his "dopes" record prices for their fish and correspondingly low costs for supplies they little thought they were giving him support financially and otherwise to crush them. But they now know it's true. Compare the prices. Compare the profits. They were told to vote the gratters out, only to substitute the greatest mass of political highlanders it was possible to secure.

After voting themselves thousands of dollars increased salaries and pickings they throw every emblem of common decency to hades and seek the last drop of blood by inflicting prohibitive prices for the common necessities of life. The army of unemployed will in short send back the answer to Coakerism and corrupt practices, and when the day of reckoning arrives, let those who are responsible be prepared.

Promise but Non-Performance.

There is hardly any doubt that those who voted for Squires at the last election were influenced to do so by the promises contained in his Manifesto. No aspirant for the office of Prime Minister ever before attempted to deceive the people to such an extent as he did, and no one elected to that high office ever so grossly betrayed and deceived the electorate as Squires did. The Manifesto served its purpose, and having done so, there was an end to it. It never entered his mind to carry out a single promise contained therein. The Manifesto about to be issued will likely contain a rehash of the last, with the Humber Deal thrown in, but if he thinks that he can again fool the people he is very much mistaken. Instead of issuing a Manifesto now he should apologize to the public for the one he inflicted upon them in 1919, as it would be adding insult to injury to attempt to trifle with the public in this way a second time. In the forthcoming Manifesto we shall expect to see apologies tendered to the electorate for having promised so much and performed so little. There should be a special apology for the Fish Regulations and also one for the time and money spent in junketing on trips abroad. One thing we can assure him is, that a Manifesto from him, on the same deceptive lines and platitudes of the last one, will create more disgust than enthusiasm. The more disgust than enthusiasm.

Chaplin has Veteran Cast in The Pilgrim.

AT THE NICKEL ON MONDAY.

Several players who contributed to past screen successes of Charles Chaplin support the famous comedian in his latest First National feature, comedy, "The Pilgrim" which is coming to the Nickel Theatre on Monday.

They are Edna Purviance, again the comedian's leading lady; his brother, Sydney Chaplin; Mack Swain, "Chuck" Reisner, Loyd Underwood, Tom Murray and Phyllis Allen. Others who appear in support of the star are Kitty Bradbury, Dinky Deap and Mae Wells.

Chaplin plays the role of an escaped convict who masquerades in the clothing of a minister. But this deception brings the most excruciating complications down on the head of "The Pilgrim" for as a result, he is compelled to take charge of a church in a small town.

Still more amusing situations arise when a crook, who had served time in the pen with the pseudo person, comes to the same town, recognizes his old "college chum" and worms his way into the social set.

A touch of romance and a dash of pathos have also been worked into the plot.

Signs of the Times.

Sir Richard sat in his big armchair. Warren and Winter and Halfyard were there; Barnes and Campbell, that very live wire, who daily wrote scripts without seeming to tire. And to look at them all, was to plainly see that they were a gloomy company; Sir Richard rose from his chair of ease and getting down on his hands and knees looked under the table to make quite sure that Coaker was gone for evermore. He got to his feet and looked about. And seemed to be very much in doubt for he hummed and hawed, and he hesitated. While gloomily he contemplated the men who sat at his Council table and confessed to himself that they looked unstable.

Said he, "We are in a very deep hole and I cannot see, not to say my soul. How to get my hands on enough good men, to go to the polls with us again. I've tried every means that I have in my power. And to many a man I have talked by the hour. But it was no good, for none of them would have anything to do with our brotherhood. And snarl from having these vacant seats I'll suffer at the polls for my past deeds." He finished; each member shook his head. And rose to go with a heart of lead. For they saw they could do not a thing to prevent themselves from losing the Government.

Island Surrounded by Ice

LANDSMEN TRAVEL FLOES.

The thirty-three days of continuous keen frost which was felt over the whole country from the latter part of January until the end of February last, formed a regular ice barrier around the sea coast of the island, and as a result people from a great many of the settlements covered many miles over the field of ice both on foot and by teams. Commercial travellers who returned from the South West Coast by the Kyle last week, report that teams were continuously moving over the ice from Harbor Breton to Grand Bank a distance of 36 miles, a feat unheard of in the history of Newfoundland. A similar report has also been received from friends who recently returned from White Bay, stating that the landmen have been walking over the ice from Conche to Greas Islands all winter, a distance of 15 miles.

MRS. ANNIE M. BURKE, (Brigus).

On Monday, March 5th, there was laid to rest in the Catholic Cemetery at Brigus all that was mortal of a most pious and saintly lady, Mrs. Annie M. Burke, widow of the late Captain James Burke. The deceased had reached her 79th year, and is the first of a family of five brothers and four sisters to be claimed by the hand of death, though nearly all have passed the allotted three score and ten years. For the last few years Mrs. Burke has not been blessed with very robust health, but it was only three days before her death that the final illness set in, and the last day was spent in fervent expectation of the Heavenly Messenger to announce her souls release from earthly bondage. Of the departed lady it may truly be said that her life was one long prayer, the duties of the home and the duties of Holy Religion were her two first cares. In her the true type of Christian wife and mother were exemplified in accordance with Catholic ideals. Love of God, was followed by love of neighbour both in precept and practice; not one person ever knew her to utter a word contrary to the precept "Love thy neighbour as thyself." Death to her was but the happy goal of a life time of prayerful anticipation and her last words were those of the Christian soul hastening to but a reread letter is something like a warmed over meal not so tasty and heartening as in its first state.

Except For Lovers.

Of course if one answered a letter in a day or two and one's correspondent did the same thing, that would be a more lively correspondence than any but lovers have time for. But you need not send the letter the minute you write, you know. Write the reactions that come to your mind when you read the letter for the first time then add something else later at your leisure and send it along in a week or two weeks or whatever length of time you think suitable and comfortable.

Of course you won't do this (any more than I will) but you will surely admit that you would write the best letters and write them the most easily that way.

A Successful Sealing Master.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

"Hurrah for the Banks of Newfoundland. Hurrah for the fish and oil; And the maidens there, so pure and fair."

And her sons that are bred to toil. In my young days no name was more familiar in this country than that of the late Capt. Terence Haleran, and, probably, no man was more successful during the many years that he prosecuted the seal-fishery. He was indeed the great "Jowler." The first vessel that Capt. Haleran commanded was owned by the late Mr. John Brazil, cooper, of Broad's Square, in this city. In those days master mechanics, coopers, carpenters, tailors and others purchased vessels, fitted them out and sent them to the sealfishery, in charge of competent and experienced commanders. In one case I know of, the celebrated Dr. William Strirling, grandfather of Mr. Wm. R. Strirling, H.M. Customs, was the owner of a splendid brigantine, called the Suir—about 110 tons. She was purchased from the old physician by Capt. John Ryan, and was a most fortunate little vessel. Year after year Capt. Ryan brought in full loads of whitecoats in her. But to return to Captain Terry, as he was familiarly called. The next vessel neither follows the excellent advice give above, nor when he does sit down to answer a letter does he begin by re-reading. Maybe he skims it over but ten to one he does not really read it.

The Ideal Letter.

Of course the ideal correspondence is one in which each person gives the other some pictures of his own outer life some bits of gossip about mutual friends, some flashes from his inner life of thought and feeling and also a response to what the other has written.

A conversation in which each one talked for five minutes about his interests and then listened for five minutes while the other person talked five minutes about some other subject would hardly be called a satisfactory conversation even if what each said was very interesting. And the same is true about a correspondence.

The ideal way I think is to sit down as suggested above and answer a letter while you are still in the responsible mood that the first reading produces in you. To reread, the letter when you are ready to answer is better than not to answer it at all.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

ON ANSWERING QUESTIONS.

"The best time to frame an answer to the letters of a friend is the moment you receive them; then the warmth of friendship and the intelligence received most forcibly cooperate."

—Shenstone.

Some of them write delightful letters, you enjoy them to the full but you can't help wishing that sometimes they would respond to some of the things you have said, answer some of your inquiries, show in some way besides mentioning it that they have really gotten your letter.

Nothing But Answer.

Of course there are a few people, a very few, who do nothing but answer letters. "Yes, we are getting sick of so much snow. As you say, everyone longs for spring at this time of the year. You surely must have had a nice time at that party," writes one such correspondent whose letters I sometimes see.

But this is the rare extreme. The person who writes letters but does not answer them is far more common I think. Presumably the reason is that he he commanded was the Emily Tobin, a brigantine, and a very fine vessel. The next was the brig Arthur Leary. She was built in Prince Edward Island—and was recognized as being one of the finest ships in the West. After a few years Captain Terry had the brig Zambesi built at Sydney, by Archibald & Co. He next had the brig Livingston built at Sydney by the same firm, and the last sailing vessel he had was the brig Kate, also built by Archibald & Co. I think, but am not certain, that one year he commanded the brig Orator, owned by the firm of Cormack & Co., Bay Roberts—the principal being the father of that highly cultured and popular gentleman, so well known in St. John's, the late John Cormack, Esq., for many years General Agent for the Queen Insurance Co. After Capt. Haleran left the Zambesi, Capt. Sam Gosse, formerly master of Baine Johnston & Co.'s Maggie, took charge of her and was fairly successful. The same year Capt. Haleran went in his famous brig Livingston, and needless to say always returned with bumper trips. The Livingston was specially built for himself. She was lost with all hands (as fine a crew of Newfoundlanders as ever creeded a topsail) on a passage from Montreal to England, with a cargo of grain. She was commanded by Captain Quinlan, a nephew of Capt. Haleran, and among the crew were Michael Merry, Walter Grant and James Scott, but I cannot name the others. The brig Kate was purchased by the firm of S. March & Sons, and I think was sold out of the country. After Capt. Terry left the Arthur Leary, in 1859, she was in charge of Capt. John Gallishaw—another famous seafarer of his day, and one of that highly respected family of the name, whose descendants are with us to-day in the East End of St. John's. At the time Capt. Gallishaw was in the Arthur Leary, he also held the position of pilot of St. John's—like so many of his name. In 1859 Capt. Terry was first arrival in the brig Zambesi with 9,145 seals. In 1856 he had 5,200 in the Livingston and the first spring in the fact he was never known to return from the sealfishery without a giving trip. In 1867 Capt. Haleran was in charge of the S.S. Esquimaux, built at Dundee by Wm. Stephens in 1865, and owned by the Dundee Sealing and Whaling Co. She was sold by that Company to Mr. Barclay, of Barclay & Walker, brewers of Ale and Stout fame, who went North in her. Capt. Haleran made only one trip in the S.S. Esquimaux—the only blank he ever made. Capt. Haleran was famous in song and story, and as a successful seal sealing master will live forever in the history of our country. Subjoined I publish the list of the crew of the S.S. Esquimaux, who went to the ice with Capt. Terry in 1867. As far as I know there is only one surviving member of the crew of the Esquimaux in Newfoundland to-day, and that is Mr. James Dunn, the well-known expressman of this city, who is still hale and hearty, and can relate most interesting events in connection with the sealfishery—more especially the year he went to the ice in the Esquimaux with the famous Captain Terence Haleran.

THE DISMAL DAY.

It is a bleak and dismal day on which I write this weary lay that reeks of gloom and woe; I hear the tireless winds complain, and down the door the sloppy rain keeps up a constant flow. Through misty panes I view the flood and mark men sliding in the mud, and swearing as they slide; they're plastered up with sorel clay, and they have lost or thrown away all dignity and pride. I see fair women go about their large umbrellas inside out, their rubbers lost or strayed; I see their lips frame hymns of praise, and eulogies of rainy days, as they toil up the grade. And there are countless autos stuck.

Dye Old Skirt Coat, Dress in Diamond Dyes

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple any woman can dye or tint her worn, shabby dresses, skirts, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, draperies, hangings, everything, even if she has never dyed before. But "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect home dyeing is sure because Diamond Dyes are guaranteed not to spot, fade, streak, or run. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Household Notes.

A favorite sandwich filling is fine paste. Mash them with hard-boiled eggs and season with a little garlic or mustard.

Cover a thin layer of dough with stewed raisins, thickened and ened. Roll like a jelly and bake with lemon sauce.

A good sauce to serve with pudding is made by heating a tumbler of jelly into the stiffened white of an egg.

To prevent a cake from sticking pan, set pan directly on a cloth wet out of hot water as soon as you move cake from oven.

Cook beets without removing skins or breaking off the fine ends. In this way the flavor, juice and are not withdrawn in cooking.

If a hook and eye are sewn at the bottom of the placket and the or with lemon, orange, nuts or raisins.

Llewellyn Club.

MISS JOYNER DELIGHTS AUDIENCE.

Last night for the first time in its history the Llewellyn Club was addressed by a lady, and if applause is an indication (and it is) the members are in no way adverse to the precedent.

At 8:15 the Vice-President, Mr. Llewellyn Colley opened the meeting; he expressed regret (which was shared by all) that the Rector was indisposed and then introduced Miss Joyner, M.A., and invited her to address the Club. Miss Joyner first read John Drinkwater's introduction to his play. In this, Mr. Drinkwater apologized for any difference in opinions and facts that may exist in people's minds concerning his play; but pointed out that it was written not from the point of view of the Historian, nor that of a politician, but from that of the dramatist; and above all it was written by an Englishman and necessarily from an Englishman's view point.

The first scene in the play is laid at Springfield, where Lincoln is waited on by a deputation who offers him the Presidency. The second scene takes place in a room of Mr. Seaward at Washington who was the first man Lincoln chose when forming his cabinet. As Seaward, White and Jennings are discussing the secession of the Southern States from the Union, Mr. Lincoln enters. White and Jennings seek to persuade him to withdraw General Beauregard from Fort Sota, but Lincoln affirms his decision to resist the secession. He then calls his cabinet, and they discuss sending men and provisions to the Fort for which they have received a request. Scene three, is at the White House nearly two years later. In this scene Lincoln is interviewed by two ladies, one of whom he sympathizes with. She has lost her husband in the fight for the Union, yet she feels a deep interest in the welfare of the South, and Lincoln honours her and shakes hands with her as she leaves. The other woman, by her selfishness and hatred for the South, incurs Lincoln's disgust, and he does not shake hands with her as she departs. He is then interviewed by an old negro, and they converse as two who are equal in the sight of God. The fourth scene, the cabinet is again assembled. Seaward, Hook, Blair, Stanton and Chase are present, they discuss President Lincoln, his ideas and methods; Lincoln enters and introduces a bill for the abolition of slavery. The Southern soldiers having been driven out of Maryland, he felt that the time was opportune. A stormy discussion resulted, but Lincoln signed the bill. As the last Minister left the chamber, Lincoln summoned his clerk to read for him a favourite passage from Shakespeare's play (The Tempest). Scene five occurs in a farmhouse at Appomattox, which was near the battle-front, Lincoln enters unexpectedly and announced to those present that General Lee is entirely surrounded and must surrender in the morning. At 4 a.m. Lee asks for an armistice which was granted. In the sixth scene, which is a theatre, a few days later, Lincoln was shot. The play closes with an epilogue.

Miss Joyner is a pleasing elocutionist and is to be congratulated upon her rendering of this wonderful play. Mr. Colley called on the treasurer, Mr. Andrew Carnell to propose a vote of thanks which he did in an able and characteristic manner. Hon. R. Watson seconded the vote. It gave him great pleasure to be present at the recital, he had seen the play in New York three years ago, and he thought that he had never been so much impressed by any play during his life. Rev. G. O. Lightbourn supported the vote on behalf of the Rector, he expressed his delight at having been present to hear such a masterly recital, delivered in so forceful a manner. The meeting closed at 10:15 with the singing of the National Anthem.

The Lighter Side.

THE RURAL CONCERN.

He was just a staid old farmer, And you never would have guessed He was quite so fond of music, And had heard the very best. He could whistle Sousa's marches, Knew Caruso's airs by heart And of every standard opera He knew the choicest part.

He had listened to the "artists," And to him 'twas great delight, When the thought of Melba's singing He had heard night after night. English, German, French, Italian, One by one he would recall. Each bright star, would this old farmer Who had listened to them all.

So I marvelled at his knowledge As I thought how far and long This old farmer must have travelled To have heard so much of song. Till at length I had to ask him, And he said—now don't you laugh "Oh, my wife took in some boarders And they owned a phonograph."

A fellow columnist has discovered that the only thing a jazz orchestra lacks is a gasoline engine.

LESS THAN A DOG.

Florence: "Mother, I think I will slip on my raincoat and run over to the post office for the mail."
Mother: "Why, it isn't fit for a dog to be out, my dear. Let your father go."

Under Coaker Rule.

ST. JOHN'S AS IT WAS—AND AS IT IS TO-DAY.

(By ZIP.)

St. John's was a flourishing town in 1819. Water Street, especially, was a hive of industry and the industrial wheels were spinning at full time in all the factories and workshops all over the capital. Every tradesman was a busy man; every laborer had all the work that he could possibly handle; money flowed plentifully, and the bright sun of happiness shone upon the homes of everybody. To-day, as a result of Coakerism, the conditions are reversed, and poverty stalks where once was plenty. Business firms have been ruined; their one time prosperous owners are bankrupt and without a dollar to fall back on; tradesmen once so prosperous have been struggling in torture to sustain their homes; labourers have suffered likewise; factories, in which men, women and hundreds of young people, earned good wages, have been giving scarcely any employment to their once prosperous helpers, and likewise the homes of these have suffered for the want of food and fuel. Every young man and young woman who can scrape up enough to get out of the city has gone with a vengeance, leaving broken-hearted parents to mourn for the loved ones they may never meet again.

MEASURE MUST BE REMOVED.

This is the record branded deeply into the innermost minds of us all, therefore it is no wonder that a revolution of sentiment has been aroused to remove this menace of Coakerism, a menace aided and abetted by men, who instead of facing an outraged public should go and hide themselves forever as far away from Newfoundland as they could possibly get. Surely these aiders and abettors don't intend to come upon platforms in this city to boast aloft again the "BLACK FLAG" OF COAKERISM. Surely such an outrage they will have sense enough not to perpetrate, for there cannot be a family in the whole of St. John's outside of Government political bleeders themselves, but must have experienced some of the terrible misfortunes of the past three years. Give a vote to Coaker nominee! For what? To run the knife of poverty and hardship into our bodies deeper and deeper yet. NO! Once was enough to fool us, but never, never again, shall we vote for a Coaker Candidate.

BENNETT & BETTER TIMES.

A Contrast.

Under the above heading the Advocate of last evening indulged in one of its characteristic scurrilous attacks upon a gentleman whose name is respected wherever a newspaper is read. The veneer of civilization is very thin over the carcass of the animal who cannot conduct an argument in a manner superior to the foulness with which the Advocate besmears its pages. This attack upon Dr. Robinson is ill-mannered and would be so among despots of the jungle. It is foul in insinuation and the derogatory manner with which it attempts to belittle a gentleman who has been a shining light in the cultured atmosphere of this country since first he came to our shores to take up the honored calling of teacher. I do not want to offend Dr. Robinson by any remarks that might be construed as flattery, but it is hard to do justice to him without incurring this risk. If Dr. Robertson had been a mercenary instead of an idealist and bent his splendid talent to the acquisition of wealth, he might have garnered enough of dross to place him among the wealthy ones of the community. He might have gathered gold but gathered nothing else. Men of wealth may be men of great civic virtue, and no doubt some are, but it does not follow as an invariable rule—it is often the reverse. There is a vile insinuation—and doubly vile because totally unmerited—in the sub-head line to the Advocate's article, which avers that Dr. Robinson "prefers a brewer" to Sir M. G. Winter. What about it? Mr. Bennett is not brewing fillety, and Dr. Robinson is not inconsistent. He has been a most consistent prohibitionist, so consistent that he has made big sacrifices on the altar of his choice. Thousands of dollars worth of advertising even of permissible tontacs and beverages have been refused the Daily News columns. Is this praiseworthy or not? Would a mercenary do it? It is well that in this community there are few hogs of the Advocate type, and it is well that the masses of the people prefer wholesome reading to the filth of the Advocate. If the Advocate prefers Sir M. G. Winter as a type of citizen, why he is welcome to his choice, but I say again it is well we have men of the mould of Dr. Robinson. Praise Sir M. G. Winter if you want; lick his golden slippers if you want; but do not bring him into too close scrutiny where men of intellectual calibre are most highly esteemed.—DECENCY.

Our Weekly Letter.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Almy's Departmental Store has gone out of existence with debts of $322,000. The creditors decided to sell the balance of the stock and the fixtures. The first payment will be from twenty to twenty-five cents on the dollar. 200 employees are out of a job. Goodwin's another big departmental store closed the grocery department some 40 or 50 clerks have to look for new employment.

It is estimated that 35,000 are out of employment, in spite of the fact that the Charity organizations report less calls for help than last year. To judge from the attendances at the theatres, movies, hockey games, and other forms of sport, you would think that there wasn't a poor person in Montreal. Yet, there are thousands of mechanics and others who have had no work for months, and some for two years. It is to be hoped that when spring opens, that things will take a turn for the better.

The Lenten preachers in the different churches are attracting large congregations. At historic Notre Dame, the special from France, Rev. Father Samson preaches to between ten and twelve thousand persons. Speaking at the Basilica of St. James, Very Rev. Adelard Harbour, rector, denounced building and unnecessary work done on Sundays.

"The observance of Sunday is a most important matter," he said, "as man was not made for Sunday, but Sunday for man. In the development of the country, due largely to foreign influences, the industrialists and capitalists have been led to use Sunday as a workday. Great industries are maintained in operation on a Sunday, which continues throughout Sunday. Men released from the morning shifts are too tired to go to mass and the shrill whistles of the factories calling men to work mingle with the chiming of the churches calling men to pray."

He contended that it was wrong for contractors to ask men to work on Sundays. He painted a picture of the time in the rural communities when children wore their Sunday suits and parents flocked to church, and concluded by declaring that the people should return to the traditional observance of Sunday as a day of religion and rest undisturbed by the intrusions of worldly matters.

The report of the Montreal General Hospital just issued shows that it costs to relieve suffering humanity from their many ills. While the General is one of the four big hospitals in the city, it probably handles the most cases. The financial report of Mr. J. T. McCall, treasurer, showed that ordinary revenue for the year had been $386,482, with expenditure of $408,092 or $121,610 in excess of revenue, the deficit being made up from the hospital's reserve funds. The loss was slightly larger for the year, although total expenses had been reduced by $3,577, with a larger number of patients treated. Yearly subscriptions had shown a decrease of $8,109. Legacies received during the year amounted to $54,962, which were specially invested. The hospital had been allotted $325,000 from the hospital's campaign fund, of which $277,320 had been received. Of this, $36,000 had been temporarily invested, which, with the balance yet to be received, it was hoped would cover the present year's deficit.

In the indoor department there had been 6,562 admissions during the year, 3,602 adult males and 2,499 females, of whom 4,760 were citizens and 1,802 strangers. Canadians led in nationalities with 2,792 English Canadians and 1,122 French-Canadians, the British Isles following with 1,363. The average admissions per day were 18. There had been a total of 363 deaths. The outdoor department including dental work, reported 153,215 cases. The Nurses' Training School showed 48 probationers accepted and 39 nurses graduated. The ambulances had responded to 2,081 calls, an increase of 39.

The superintendent, Dr. A. K. Haywood, reported that while last year they thought their accommodations had been taxed to the limit, this year they had admitted 516 more patients to wards and had 23,551 more consultations in the outdoor department. This was made possible by the fact that the average stay per patient had been reduced from 17.9 to 16.22 days. This could be further improved if the city provided for care of convalescents, incurables and tuberculosis cases. Part of the hospital's difficulties were caused by inadequate payments for indigent patients, 67 cents a day each from the municipality and province.

Lieut.-Col. Molson commented upon the successful year just closed by the hospital. An appeal for financial aid to meet the heavy deficits caused by the growing demands on the institution and necessary expenditures on account of plant repairs and extensions had met with success, but it was hoped that in the near future such work would not be left to public generosity but would become a charge on the taxpayer. At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. H. T. Stewart, long a generous supporter of the hospital, handed to the president a cheque for $5,000.

An accident occurred at the slide known as "Sudden Death." It is situated at the slopes of the mountain behind the two cemeteries, between the gates of the graveyards and the Park Ranger's House. The slide is extremely steep and the character of the jump may be judged by the name given to it. Miss Gardner, 20 years, who was skiing at this spot nearly lost her life. In fact, she will be maimed for life if she lives, as her spine was terribly injured, and is at present in the general hospital. The doctors performed a very delicate operation, and she has one chance in a thousand to recover. According to eye-witnesses of the accident, Miss Gardner had started to go over the jump, but before she reached it, and while travelling at considerable speed, she apparently decided not to jump, and swerved to one side. The girl must have had her body badly balanced at the time, practised skiers say. As she swerved she ran into a pile of soft snow. Her skis became locked in the snow, and she turned, fell twice, thrown forward by the terrific speed with which she was going. When others with whom she was skiing went to her aid it was found that she had been badly hurt. A short distance from the scene of Miss Gardner's accident, William Shea, 25 years, son of P. J. Shea, the well known organist of St. Patrick's Church, met with a painful accident, his first venture on skis. He fractured his left leg and received a nasty cut, a few inches above the break, from a jagged stone which at the time of the jump he did not notice. Owing to the wound made by the stone, it was six days before the fractured part could be set.

February was by far the coldest month of the winter. During the whole time, there were not three consecutive days of anything like mild weather. The following lines sum up the situation: "O February! cold and raw, For iron freeze and never a thaw, And lakes of steel and skies of lead, And howling northerners, which we dread. And frosted ears and aching toes, And icicles and drifted snows, And rheumatism, grip and flu, And other ailments, old and new."

The fuel situation causes a little anxiety to both merchants and people. The city purchased 5,000 tons of coal for distribution among the most needy, but the supply did not last long and now the Aldermen are at their wits' ends to try and get more. The people receive their supply in small quantities, just enough to last for a week or ten days. The schools are having the same difficulty. The Montreal Herald, under the caption of "Our Wasted White Coal," strikes a warning note about future difficulties of the fuel problem.

The United States Government has abandoned the proposal for an embargo on the export of anthracite coal to Canada, and thus this country is assured of a continuation of the attenuated supply of fuel which we are getting at a high price from American coal fields. The dropping of the embargo proposal is only a temporary assurance, however. This coal situation will crop up every year, and our fuel shortage will get more and more acute. On this question of a fuel supply the future of this country depends. If the people are deprived of a reasonably cheap and readily available means of heating, they thereby receive sentence of deportation or of death. We cannot live in this country without cheap heating. Nature has provided the means to get it. Take Montreal, for instance, within a few miles of this city there are millions of horsepower going to waste—the "white coal" of our great rivers. There is a source of heat that is inexhaustible, and that would make Montreal and a large district around it absolutely independent of coal for ever. And why is this source of heat not utilized for general heating purposes? Because we have no men big enough to tackle the job. The pessimist says "You cannot manufacture electric heat from water power at a commercial rate, because the plant would be lying idle all summer." But stern necessity, the mother of invention, is already saying to us "you must do it, or perish." And we shall do it sooner or later, the sooner the better.

The city will see several new buildings to begin operations in a few weeks. Some of them will be "skyscrapers." The Freeman Hotel, formerly the S. Carsley departmental store, and the Molson's Bank situated on St. James Street, corner of St. Peter, will be replaced by a large building to be used for offices. The National Cement Company will build a large plant in Montreal east. A new Court House annex is to be constructed, at a cost of over $2,000,000. This contract is the largest ever handed out by the Provincial Government, and though the contractors have been given two years in which to complete the work, the officials claim they will finish the job long before that time. Another big office building is to be erected on St. Lawrence Boulevard at the corner of Notre Dame Street. Add to this list several new school buildings, and

"A defective sparking plug can be the cause of many and peculiar troubles. It is, therefore, false economy to purchase cheap plugs on the supposition that they are all 'much of a muchness.' It is true that a cheap plug may be perfectly satisfactory for many hundreds of miles; a plug of first-class make, however, for which a fair price is paid, will generally suffice for at least one season's running in an average engine."

The LODGE plug is known not only as a plug of first-class make which will last, but also as one that clearly manifests its superiority in the firing of a petrol engine.
