Prof. Young's Discovery. It is not always possible for a newspaper to obtain strictly accurate reports of scientific proceedings.

The statement that "algebraists have lately gone to considerable lengths to prove these equations (quintics and sextics) are unsolvable" is ludicrously absurd.

The statement that Prof. Young has been more celebrated in Canada as a metaphysician than as a mathematician is true only in a popular sense.

Imperial Interests and the C. P. R. The conjecture has been hazarded that part of Sir John Macdonald's business in England may be to get the imperial guarantee for a new loan for the Canadian Pacific railway.

But probably there are not many amongst us who have ever seriously considered the Canadian Pacific as an "imperial work" as something that might prove of untold value to Great Britain in case of war.

Unfavorable weather and the universal excitement attending the presidential election were serious obstacles to trade during last week.

Something in the way of treaty-making has at last been accomplished by our Canadian ambassador in London.

It is amusing to witness the way in which our people are getting so far from the truth as to believe that the prohibition of liquor is a measure of public safety.

GABRIELLA.

BY DEACON CAMERON.

It was growing dark in the old attached to Madame Ruppiner's boarding school, and the fire-lies were beginning to gleam here and there.

Gabriella Clive sat alone, her hand resting on the pages of the book grown too dark to read—and in the faint light she looked stately and full.

"She is the most beautiful girl I saw," said Miss Euston. "Why, that's a beautiful girl, haughty E. Harrison, 'Gabriella Clive'."

"Of course—whom else should I mean? 'Oh, that's a beautiful girl, haughty E. Harrison, 'Gabriella Clive'.'"

"I was interrupted by a slight among the trees, and the person they discerned stood before them, pale as the moonlight in the twilight."

"Katharine Harrison!" said Gabriella. "I have heard that you have returned from your studies at the university."

"I don't know that any explanation is needed! All the world is aware of the fact that my mother is an actress."

"She is an actress," persisted Eville. "She is an actress, I have heard, and she is an actress, I have heard, and she is an actress, I have heard."

"I don't know that any explanation is needed! All the world is aware of the fact that my mother is an actress."

THE TORONTO WORLD.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOV. 4, 1884.

THE STUDENTS OUT AGAIN.

Startling scenes in the streets of Toronto.

Had the general public had a glimpse of the black boards at the medical schools yesterday afternoon they would have known that something unusual was about to happen.

By a preconcerted action, by bullbaiting, by telephone, Toronto, Trinity, Variety and Yets were told to be on hand, and on hand they were and soon after a o'clock several hundred students gathered and paraded the streets.

There is a gang of well-dressed young fellows who make a practice of congregating on the corner of Simcoe and Nelson streets every night and insulting passers-by. They should be looked after.

J. E. Fell warns the benevolent against a man who gave his name as Harold Northcote, and states that he is the nephew of Sir Stafford Northcote. He is a fraud, and travels in college dress.

The standing committee on school management of the public school board will meet this afternoon at 4.30 to investigate charges preferred against the headmaster of Mabel street school by Dr. McCone.

While Wm. Wilkinson and one of the stage hands of the Grand were fooling yesterday, an open pen knife which the carpenter was using slipped and cut Wilkinson on the back of the left hand, inflicting a severe wound.

The cheapest trips to and from England, Ireland and Scotland can be obtained at the office of the Allan royal mail steamship line, 111 Queen street west.

Now Sir John Once Won a Hat. It was when the old parliament of Canada sat in Quebec. John A. Macdonald, Tom Daly, David Straton, Peter Mitchell and poor old Gladstone from New Brunswick sat in the smoking room discussing a bill of Mackenzie's that was to be brought up that night.

When the procession had reached the corner of York and King street the conditions were changed. Like the elements of gunpowder, the students and the "hoboes" are harmless when separated; but bring them together and a very little spark makes a very big row.

Much curiosity was aroused as regards the captured individual. He turns out to be a shoe-maker from Ontario and is said to have been caught in the act of throwing a stone at a constable.

This was the finale: the students returned to their books, and the town quieted down.

A meeting was afterwards held at University college at which the students representing all the different schools were present.

The object of this was to consider the best means of appealing the decision against John L. Boyd and to prosecute the constable who struck Crawford without provocation.

A committee was formed consisting of Messrs. Baldwin and Darling.

The enthusiastic spirit evinced on all sides is plain we have not heard the end of students versus police yet.

Civic Annexation. Editor World in to-day's issue of The World Mr. Turner has given expression to extreme views respecting the extension of our city limits and those who reside in East Toronto endorse his sentiments, and a petition is being signed in favor of annexation to the Don river, so that they may get police protection and sanitary improvements carried out.

An anomaly to divide property at the athletic grounds and leave out those romantic valleys that give character and beauty to North-west Toronto.

His Honor to the Rescue. Frank Power, a well-known English newspaper man, is gifted with a vivid imagination. "A little while before he went to Egypt he was sitting with some friends. 'You know,' he said, 'that I once held high rank in the Austrian army.' The friends said that they learned this for the first time, and he proceeded: 'Well, I went back a few months ago to Vienna, and went to see a play at the Burgtheatre. The empress of Austria was seated in a box, surrounded by her ladies and gentlemen. She recognized me at once, and sent a chamberlain to desire me to come up to her. I found her majesty alone in a small retiring room behind her box, and she pointed to a seat. Then he paused. 'Go on with your story,' said a friend. 'Continued, he continued, 'as an officer and a gentleman, you must allow me to say no more.'"

The Next Great Invention. "What is the next great invention?" was asked of Edison the other day. "I wish I knew," he answered. "It will probably be in the line of obtaining a simpler propelling power for those new-fangled cars of this century—trying experiments on force derived directly from solar heat—oh, no, not the old calorific engine, but a force obtained by concentrating the sun's rays to a focus. He has small machines running in that way—the only question at present being whether it is worth while. I'm busy trying to extract electricity from coal without the present friction and waste—that is, which is burning it and running the force through an engine. The thing has already been done you know."

A letter from Harry Norman, the manager of the St. Quinten opera company, states that they are doing a good business and are not in difficulties as reported. They play in Owen Sound to night.

LOCAL NEWS PARAPHRASED.

Fifty children for Miss Rye's Niagara home arrived in the city last night. They came over on the Parthian.

By a bright car getting off the track up the line the evening train on the Northern was several hours late last night.

The court of revision yesterday threw out all of E. A. Mackenzie's appeals against assessments in St. Matthew's ward.

The friends of the small boy Murphy, who was run over by a car at Queen and Yonge streets two weeks ago, threaten to bring an action for damages against the street car company.

Catarb—A New Treatment. Perhaps the most extraordinary success that has been achieved in modern science has been attained by the Duxbury treatment for catarb. Out of 3000 patients treated during the past six months, fully ninety per cent. have been cured of this stubborn malady. This is none the less startling when it is remembered that the disease is due to the presence of living parasites in the eye. It is not a matter of belief, but a fact, that the most successful treatment is the regular practitioner are the starting with the patent medicines and advertised cures never record a cure at all.
