This railway was built to open up the iron and silver mines of this part of Western Ontario. It has a branch of six miles into the Mesaba Iron Range of Minnesota. Considerable quantities of Canadian and American pine are tributary to it. It runs close to the famous Kakabeka Falls. There are excellent shooting and fishing along its line.

Fort William

Fort William has an early and eventful history which if fully written up would be highly interesting from an historical point of view. It is not the intention to give here a complete account of all the events which have transpired in the early days, but to touch upon the most important ones.

The banks of the Kaministiquia River, on which the town is situated, have been the stage upon which strange scenes have been displayed, wild and daring exploits performed by the Indians, early explorers and traders.

David Mills, M.P., in the report of the Western Boundaries of "Ontary," shows that the famous explorer, D. G. Du Lhut, built a trading post in 1669 on the banks of the river. Of this post it is said in La Houtain's Memoirs of North America, P. 214, that it was a fort "where he (D. G. Du Lhut) had made large magazines of all sorts of goods, that fort was called Caministigoyan and did considerable service to the English settlements on the Hudson's Bay."

The French Government, the year 1717, sent out an expedition under Lieutenant Sieur de la Noue to explore across the continent to the Pacific Ocean with instructions to establish three posts or bases of supplies from which to work, one at the River Camistigoya (Lake Superior), a second at Takancamiononis (Lake St. Joseph) and the third at the lake of Assenipoles (Lake Winnipeg).

The next expedition referred to is that of the year 1731, "some of them in the employ of M. Verendrey started from Kaministi-quoya, a Fort constructed by Lieutenant Robert de la None passed on to Rainy Lake where they built Fort St. Peter.

In the last century the Northwest Company had their principal trading post at Grand Portage, but finally moved to the Kaministi-quia, where, quoting from La Houtain's Memoirs; "At some seasons of the year no less than 3,000 traders, trappers, and their families were assembled at Fort William, which had become the chief entrepot of the Northwest fur trade."

Quoting from the Rev. Dr. Bryce's book on Manitoba: "In the year 1810 Mr. Franchere, then in the employ of the Astor Fur Company started from New York, sailed around Cape Horn, then up the Pacific coast, crossed the Rocky Mountains, and passed down the Saskatchewan river, on through Lake Winnipeg and the water stretches to Fort William, where he arrived in 1814."

"Fort William was built in 1805 and named in honor of the Hon. William MacGillivray."

Mr. Franchere says: "Fort William has really the appearance of a Fort from its palisades 15 feet high, and also that of a pretty village from the number of buildings which it encloses, in the middle of a spacious square stands a large building elegantly built, in the centre of which is a room about 60 feet long by 30 wide, decorated with several paintings. It is in this room that the agents, the clerks and the interpreters take their meals at different tables. At each end of the room are two apartments for the partners.

"The back part of the house is occupied by the kitchen and sleeping apartments of the domestics. On each side of the building there is another of the same size; these are divided lengthwise by a corridor and contain each 12 sleeping rooms. One of these houses is intended for the partners and the other for the clerks.

"On the east side of the fort there is a large building in which furs are examined and where they are put up in tight bales by means of a press.

“ Behind, and still on the same side, are found the lodges of the guides, another building for furs, and a powder magazine—the last building is of grey stone and roofed in with tin. In the corner stands a bastion, or point of observation.

“ On the west side is seen a range of buildings, some of which serve for stores and others for shops; there is one for dressing out the employees, one for putting out the canoes, one in which merchandise is retailed, another where strong drink, bread, lard butter, etc., are sold, and where refreshments are given out to arriving voyageurs. This refreshment consists of a white loaf, a half pound of butter and a quart of rum.

“ Behind is still another row of buildings, one of which is used as an office or counting house—a pretty square building, well lighted. Another serves as a store, and a third as a prison.

“ Further back are the workshops of the carpenters, tinsmiths, blacksmiths, and their spacious courts or sheds for sheltering their canoes, repairing them and constructing new ones. Near the gate of the fort, which is to the south, are the dwelling houses of the surgeon and resident clerk.

“ Over the entrance gate a guard house has been built;

“ As the river is deep enough at its entrance, the Company has had buoys built along the Fort as a landing place for the schooners kept on Lake Superior for transporting peltries, merchandise and provisions from Fort William to Sault St. Marie and vice versa.

“ There is also on the other side of the river a number of houses all inhabited by old French Canadian voyageurs worn out in the service of the Northwest Company.

“ Fort William is the principal factory of the Northwest Company in the interior, and a general rendezvous of the partners, the agents of Montreal, and the proprietors wintering in the north nearly all assemble there every summer and relieve the returns from expeditions, and discuss the interests of their commerce; the employees wintering in the north spend also a portion of the summer at Fort William, they form a great encampment to the west outside the palisade, those who are engaged at Montreal to go to Fort William or to Rainy Lake, and who do not winter in the North, occupy another space on the east.”

Such was Fort William in 1814.

In 1816 Lord Selkirk with his noted DeMuron soldiers, 250 in number, landed and took possession of Fort William, making prisoners of the officers of the Company, McGillivray, McKenzie, and Fraser, and sending them as prisoners to York and Montreal because of the massacre of Governor Semple and the Red River settlers. He wintered in Fort William and in the following spring continued on to Red River to restore and help the suffering colony.

There were many parties and companies interested in the fur trade in this western country, much contention and rivalry existed, many battles were fought for supremacy in the valley of the Kaministiquia, one by one the weaker was forced out of the fur trade and finally compelled to join the strongest party.

In 1821 the Northwest Company amalgamated with its only rival, the English company, which had operated from Hudson Bay under the name of the Hudson's Bay Company.

After the amalgamation of the companies, strife subsided and the place was governed with regal authority by the factor in charge. Governor McIntyre now of Fort William having been the last factor in charge.

The Indian Mission established in 1846 by Rev. Father Choni under the Jesuits was as now situated on the south bank of the river about two miles above its mouth,—it then contained a church, dwelling and a few wigwams, it has since grown to be an institution of importance, having a large convent, church and fine three story stone dwelling.

The Indians, in place of wigwams, have now comfortable frame houses, and instead of depending entirely on hunting and fishing are raising stock and doing general farming.

Not the least interesting part of this interesting old place is the work being done by the Sisters of the Mission,—in their school they now have about 100 Indian and white pupils who are being trained and educated to that degree of excellence which in after years will enable them to occupy the highest positions in social and commercial life.

The old wooden church building still remains as a relic of the old days and at the present time is used for divine worship.

The Hudson's Bay Co. held undisputed sway over this country until early in the sixties. About that time attention was drawn to the rich mineral deposits in the surrounding district, which brought an influx of mining men, prospectors, and their followers, and Bay Co., and way era.

followers, and with their coming faded the old glory of the Hudson's Bay Co., and commenced the present mining, commercial and railway era.

The transition was slow until the year 1890. In that year the C.P.R. concentrated all their principal works in this district at Fort William. They have built large and modern grain elevators, having a storage capacity of over four million bushels of grain.

Coal docks have been constructed, upon which are stored annually a quarter of a million of tons of hard and soft coal. From this point coal is distributed, quantities being sent well across the prairies in the west.

They have erected large round houses, machine shops, car repair shops, supply stores, an hotel, also freight and flour sheds for the handling of merchandise coming and going by the lake route via the C.P.R. steamers; through these sheds are handled the eastern freight bound westward, and flour as well as other products from the Great West for the eastern markets. This is the point where the lake and rail routes of the C.P.R. unite and is the divisional terminus of the eastern and western divisions.

Tributary to Fort William are gold and silver bearing formations; large deposits of the sulphate of barytes—a valuable mineral for the manufacturing of paints. Deposits of iron pyrites for making acids; soapstone, serpentine marble, sandstone, flagstone, granite, porphyry, etc., the latter group being valuable for ornamental and building stones.

Excellent clay for the making of brick and tile abounds in vast quantities. Two concerns, the Fort William Brick Company, and Armstrong & Co. have extensive plants at work in this industry.

An industry still in its infancy, but which will grow to large dimensions, is the manufacture of wood pulp. Large areas of land are in close proximity to the town which are covered with timber suitable to be made into pulp. Other raw materials for manufacturing purposes abound, and others could be cheaply shipped in by water. These facts taken into consideration with the central position the town occupies, as between the east and west, give us a decided advantage over the far-away eastern manufactories when competing for the trade of the Great West and give promise that the day is not far distant when Fort William will be a manufacturing centre of no mean proportions.

For grand and picturesque scenery Fort William is not surpassed by any town in Canada. The town is built on an inclined plain, to the west of which stands Rabbit Mountain, of silver producing fame, and to the south and west of the town Mount McKay towers to the height of 1,000 feet. Tourists desiring to ascend Mount McKay can take the electric cars, which will convey them near to the foot of the mountain.

The placid Kaministiquia river, flowing through the valley, forms one of the finest sheltered harbors on the chain of great lakes. The river is from 350 feet to 400 feet wide and 17 to 35 feet deep, and flows through three outlets into Thunder Bay. Thunder Bay is enclosed by Thunder Cape, the Welcome and Pie islands, and for grandeur of scenery is not surpassed even by the famous "Bay of Naples."

The surrounding country abounds in small game of all kinds; such as grouse, partridge, ducks, etc., which are very plentiful.

The lovers of brook trout fishing can find their haven here as all the adjacent streams are filled with trout.

When the hunting and fishing are taken into consideration, coupled with the pleasant climate, beautiful scenery and unexcelled facilities for boating, this is truly an ideal place for the summer tourist.

There are two railway lines running into Fort William—the Canadian Pacific and the Port Arthur, Duluth & Western, the latter at present running only as far as Gunflint Lake on the American boundary.

The Ontario, Rainy River & Manitoba Railway have a charter from Sand Lake, on the P.A., D. & W., to the Lake of the Woods. This road, when built,—and the near future will see it built—is destined to be part of a system extending from Lake Superior to the Great West. This line will open up and bring to market the excellent iron ore of the Mattawan range, and also that of the Atik-o-Kan range, one of the largest known deposits of high grade ore on the continent. Continuing on, the road will pass through the pine forests of western Algoma, which are of vast area and practically the only pine forest left between Ottawa Valley on the east and British Columbia on the west. The iron ore will have a value of such that it is estimated that this road will bring away, rich gold from the veins of these mines. The iron ore would then be shipped to Fort William.

It would be possible to generate electricity to connect this system with the Prairie Provinces, thus giving a direct line to the west.

The harbor is situated on the great lake and is well suited for the building of a small expense.

During the year 1900 over 693,000 tons of lumber were shipped from the town.

The town is built on a sandy loam, which ensures a natural drainage.

The question of water is now receiving attention from Loch Lomond. The town would grow with the manufacturing industry.

A short distance from the town, 110 feet falls, 110 feet high, which is appreciated. It is utilized shortly for a running railroad.

Graham, the miller, is in the town, and they employ a number of men in the mills, ship

Columbia on the west. It is to this forest that the Prairie Province will have to look for its supply of lumber and the extent is such that it will supply the demand for many years to come. This road will also open up the Huronian, Jackfish Lake and Osinawa, rich gold lodes only awaiting its coming to insure development of these mines. The rich farming land of the Rainy River Valley would then be accessible, which no doubt would be of great value to Fort William and the district.

It would seem that this line has a great future before it. The numerous water powers on the road could be utilized very cheaply to generate electricity to run the entire road. Forty miles of line will connect this system with the great American system of railways, thus giving another through line from the seaboard to the Prairie Province of the west.

The harbor facilities of Fort William are not surpassed by any on the great lakes, the banks of the river being peculiarly adapted for the building of docks cheaply and the handling of freight at a small expense.

During the year 1893, 573 vessels entered the harbor, handling over 693,000 tons of freight.

The town enjoys many advantages: A fine healthy climate—the death rate being extremely low—good water, and the soil a sandy loam, underlying which is a stratum of gravel that ensures a natural drainage.

The question of establishing a system of water works in town is now receiving the serious attention of the people. The supply from Loch Lomond, which is over 300 feet above the level of the town, would give a system by gravitation which besides supplying the town with water, would give an almost unlimited power for manufacturing purposes.

A short distance up the Kaministiquia river are the Kakabeka falls, 110 feet in height, which must be seen in order to be fully appreciated. It is expected the power from these falls will be utilized shortly for great manufacturing purposes and power for running railroad trains.

Graham, Horne & Co. have a large lumber manufacturing plant in the town, their mill having a capacity of 100 M feet per day. They employ about 125 men in connection with their saw and planing mills, shipping their product to Manitoba and the Northwest.

Plain Facts

There is probably no town in the Dominion of Canada which has a more certain and definite future before it, than the Town of Fort William. It has been selected after mature deliberation as the most suitable and in every way most desirable point of junction between lake and rail by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, who have already built here three of the largest elevators in the Dominion. Their fleet of magnificent steamers, the finest on the lakes, make at this point rail connection to and from the Northwest, and hundreds of vessels enter the harbor here annually to bring freight and coal for the Prairie Provinces or to carry grain to the Eastern markets.

Nature has blessed the place in location and in natural advantages and it but remains for man to take advantage of nature's work.

Plain Facts

The following is a copy of the report of the committee on the subject of the proposed amalgamation of the two banks and the proposed change of the name of the combined bank to the "Bank of Fort William".

The committee has the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 10th inst. and to inform you that the same has been read and discussed at the meeting of the committee on the 12th inst.
and that the committee is of the opinion that the proposed amalgamation is desirable and that the proposed name of the combined bank is also desirable.

The committee therefore recommends that the
proposed amalgamation
be carried out and that the name of the combined bank be changed to the "Bank of Fort William".

The committee further recommends that the
proposed amalgamation
be carried out as soon as possible.

The most conveniently situated property in the Town of Fort William, in regard to situation and position both for private or business buildings. In the midst of them are situated the Town Hall, School House, and the four principal churches in the town. Few towns, if any, have a greater future before it than has Fort William, The Golden Gateway of the Northwest Wheat Fields, and one of the chief seaports on the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Great Transcontinental Highway in the Dominion of Canada. The time is near at hand when its magnificent Harbor will be frequented by the mercantile fleets of the Atlantic. It stands now the choicest place for investment. Choice town lots or blocks of land can be secured at reasonable prices. For further information apply to the

THE LARGEST AND BEST SELECTED STOCK BETWEEN TORONTO AND WINNIPEG

The McKellar Pulverizer.

One of the great inventions of the age. It will greatly reduce the cost of pulverizing ores, minerals and rocks, etc. In fact it will revolutionize mining. In it are combined the principles necessary for the accomplishment of pulverization with the application of the least motive power, least trouble, least wear and least cost for the results to be accomplished.

The machine consists of an iron drum on a shaft, with solid iron rollers ingeniously arranged around the periphery, all perfectly balanced on the main shaft and working in a suitable mortar. The journals of the main shaft work in sleds attached to the mortar, allowing the whole weight of drum, rollers and shaft to be applied to the work, and also relief in case of overfeeding. This weight, applied with the centrifugal force of the revolving drum, and the give-away, or contrary revolution of the rollers when they come in contact with the rock material, renders it the most effective pulverizer made, and the main principles can never be improved upon.

Machines have been made and tested with complete success. We intend making a small one that an explorer can carry on his back and test his discoveries, thereby doing more work in one hour than he could with the hand mortar in three days. They can be made large enough to work 100 or more tons a day and occupy but a small space, with little or no expense for foundation.

PORT ARTHUR.

When, in 1868, Mr. S. J. Dawson, the late representative of Algoma in the Dominion Parliament, selected the present site of Port Arthur as the initial point for the Canadian highway from the great lakes to the vast fertile prairies of Northwestern Canada, he advised the Government to lay it out as a town site. They were very skeptical and replied, "surely you do not ever expect to see a town in that out of the way spot." Nature and time, however, combined with "manifest destiny" have proved that the Capital of Western Algoma and Thunder Bay District was most judiciously foreshadowed as attested by the numerous stone and brick buildings and other substantial structures erected by both Governments as well as the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. and private enterprise.

The following is a brief sketch of the town extracted from the official descriptive time table published by the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., that powerful monopoly which has done so much for the consolidation and advancement of a Dominion as large as the great republic to the south of us :

“PORT ARTHUR—Pop. 3,500. A beautifully situated town on the west shore of Thunder Bay, an important arm of Lake Superior; together with Fort William, five miles distant, the lake ports of the western section of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the chief Canadian ports on Lake Superior. Large numbers of steamers and other lake craft arrive and depart daily. The fine steamships of the Canadian Pacific Company ply between here and Owen Sound. Port Arthur has a large grain elevator, extensive docks and a well established trade. It has substantial buildings and a number of hotels—one of them a very handsome structure. From the beauty of its situation, its accessibility and the opportunities for sport in the neighborhood, it has become a favorite resort for tourists. A long promontory of basaltic rock on the opposite side of the bay called the “Sleeping Giant,” terminates in Thunder Cape, behind which lies the famous Silver Islet, which has yielded almost fabulous wealth. Pie Island, another mountain of columnar basalt, divides the entrance to the bay, which is flanked on the west by Mackay Mountain, overlooking Fort William. Looking east between Pie Island and Thunder Cape, Isle Royale may be seen in the distance. Westbound passengers should set their watches back one hour, in conformity with Central standard time."

DISTRICT OFFICIALS.

Port Arthur is the terminus of the Eastern Division of the Canadian Pacific Railway, under the control of the General Superintendent at Montreal. And as the district headquarters for all Governmental and Judicial offices, there are established here the Collector of Customs (controlling the outports at Fort William and Rat Portage); the Collector of Inland Revenue; the Inspector of Weights and Measures; the Post Office Inspector; Chief Meteorological Observer, Eastern Indians Agent, Fishery Inspector and Harbor Master,—all of whom have offices in the handsome, commodious and substantial building recently erected by the Dominion Government for that purpose. The Government Officials whose headquarters are in the solid and beautifully situated Court House and Registry Office, built by the Ontario Government, are the District Judge, the Sheriff, the Master of Titles and Registrar, Clerk of the Court and District Gaoler, with their staff of assistants. The Crown Lands and Crown Timber agents have their offices on Arthur street.

PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

Among the principal District institutions deserving of mention is the St. Joseph's Hospital—subsidized by the government—which takes in patients of all religious persuasions whether residents or strangers; a most useful and well-conducted institution and the Convent of the same name supplies an excellent training to those seeking its assistance.

The district High School, also receiving government support, is a beautiful building, on an elegant elevated site at the west end of Waverly Park. Pupils having finished their course at the public schools throughout the district receive here the advantages of a higher education. The school has a good equipment of apparatus and specimens for the study of natural philosophy and geology.

The large public school is also well situated adjacent to Waverly Park, and has a large staff of excellent teachers. An addition to the building, or what is more probable, a new school, will have to be built very shortly, as the increased attendance has very much outgrown present accommodation. There is also a separate school for Roman Catholics.

Amongst other companies and corporations having their headquarters here are The Thunder Bay Boom & Slide, Lumber, Dock and Forwarding Co., The Thunder Bay Forwarding and Elevator Co. The Lake Superior Dock, Forwarding and Elevator Co; The Dominion Coal, Coke & Transportation Co.; The Port Arthur, Duluth & Western Railway Co.; The Ontario & Rainy River Railway Co.; The Port Arthur Water Light & Power Co.; The 96th Battalion Algoma Rifles; The Board of Trade; Liberal Conservative and Liberal Associations; Town Hall Co.; Agricultural Society; Mechanic's Institute, etc.

The religious denominations are well represented by handsome and commodious churches, and include the Presbyterians, Methodists, Roman Catholics, Episcopalians, Baptists, and, the not to be overlooked, Salvation Army.

In secret societies we have lodges of Free Masons, Oddfellows, Forresters, Orangemen, Knights of Pythias, Sons of England, etc. Two banks—the Ontario, and Ray, Street & Co., afford ample accommodation in that line, and three newspapers—The Journal, Herald and Sentinel—the first a daily, keep the people well up to date in current events.

INDUSTRIES.

Among the principal industries operating in the town are the various saw mills, planing mills, sash and door factories, large cleaning elevator for wheat, foundry and machine shop, brewery, manufactory of aerated drinks, and last but not least the fishing industry, which gives employment to many men and keeps a fleet of steam tugs and sail boats continually tripping it between Port Arthur and Black Bay, Welcome Islands, Nepigon, Isle Royale and elsewhere, as well as the weekly line of steamers to Duluth in the interests of United States parties.

Port Arthur also owns and controls the Electric Street Railway, over seven miles in length, extending from the C. P. R. Co station at Port Arthur to the C. P. R. Co. station at West Fort William. It is a great boon to residents in both towns and will be extended to the Northern Park at Current river when the present expensive steam engine power is replaced by the much cheaper and steadier water power machinery. The development of this power (83 foot fall) will afford a very cheap motive power and be a great inducement for factories of various kinds to locate here.

TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES.

Port Arthur is on the Eastern Division of the Canadian Pacific Railway and this is the Lake Terminus of the Port Arthur, Duluth & Western Railway and the Ontario and Rainy River Railway. The two large docks and elevator built by the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., as well as the large docks and warehouses erected by private enterprise afford ample accommodation to the various steamships and transportation companies frequenting this port. The Dominion Coal Co's docks are here also where an immense amount of coal is handled and stored annually.

BEAUTIFUL SITUATION.

For beauty of situation Port Arthur stands unrivalled among Canadian towns. The land rises in a succession of terraces to an altitude of 200 feet and is greatly admired by those especially who approach it by water and the brilliantly electric lighted hill side to an incoming traveller at night looks very attractive small boats, and the outside Thunder Bay as a yachting ground cannot be surpassed. There is also a fine Gymnasium in the Dominion building, and among organized clubs are a Lawn Tennis Club (5 courts), Cricket, Lacrosse, Base Ball, Foot Ball, Gun Club, and Curling Club. The Curling Club and Rifle Association hold annual tournaments.

SUMMER RESORT.

For the summer tourist Port Arthur presents numerous attractions; situated on the shore of a lake 350 miles long by 150 miles in width and a depth in places of over 1,200 feet. The nights are always what campers call "grand sleeping nights," always cool enough for a blanket. The Northern hotel, built expressly for summer travel, is doubtless the largest and best equipped and best situated hostelry on the Canadian side of the great lake (Superior) a delicious breeze from which almost daily prevails. The eye is charmed with the extensive and grand surroundings,—from the Welcome Islands park in the foreground, 5 miles distant, to Thunder Cape, 1,300 feet high, 14 miles off,—and on clear days, in the distance (35 miles), can be seen "Isle Royale" in the United States, to which a steamer makes weekly trips in the interests of fishermen and pleasure seekers. The view from the highest point in town, 220 feet above the lake, is particularly magnificent, commanding an extensive view on all sides,—and the Dawson and Black Bay roads are both picturesque and pleasant drives along the high lands. The scenery at Current River Falls, two miles east of the C. P. R. station makes one regret the fate in store for them when their valuable motive power will be employed to run electric cars and lights, factories, waterworks, etc. Excellent trout fishing is to be had both in the town limits and further up the streams which discharge within the town.

A sail or row round the bay or a more extended trip to the various fishing streams within two or three hours run, or a trip to the famous Kakabeka Falls or McKay's Mountain, (1,000 feet high) are among the convenient outings,—to say nothing of the unrivalled fishing to be had at Nepigon River, famous for its six and seven pound speckled trout and where fishing is reported as "wearisome" from its success. Great numbers of fishing, tourist and exploring parties are annually filled out at Port Arthur.

GUIDE

Here tourists can procure guides and all necessary camping outfit for an "outing" up the famous stream. What may seem a fish story, but nevertheless true, is the fact that brook trout weighing 7 and eight pounds have been caught here. These weights are of course the exceptions, but trout weighing 5 pounds are very common. The stream abounds in fish of the size and delicacy so much sought after by all true anglers. The following are taken from the record book (kept by Mr. Wm. McKirdy, fishery overseer) of brook trout caught in this stream: "Aug. 3, 1892, Mr. C. M. McCuaig, Woodstock, Ontario, caught a trout weighing 8 pounds." "Aug. 7, 1893, Judge J. L. Smith, of Kansas City, Missouri, caught two trout weighing 7 pounds each."
