

"A Little Better Than Seems Necessary"

"Davis' Perfection," 10c Cigar

When The Old Crowd

gathers around and begins to talk over the old times, and the matches snap and flame up, and each man cheerfully puffs his "DAVIS' PERFECTION" Cigar, there's a good comfort for you.

Here is a Cigar that will please the most particular smoker. It has the mellow, rich flavor of the pure Havanas, but is a delightfully mild.

Smoke this brand from morning to night if you like, and you will find it the best one as well as the first and the most convenient, too.

We ought to know how to blend leaf tobacco, for we have been at it for 50 years. "DAVIS' PERFECTION" represents the last word in the line of blended cigars.

"Why Glen, I advanced thirty thousand dollars—I thought to help you by a mine. Searle was to put in a like amount—but recently—"

"Searle! Thirty thousand bucks!" said Glen. "He hasn't got thirty thousand cents! The man who drove me up last night knows the bank cashier, Mr. Rickart, like a friend. Rickart told him Searle is a four-dollar-a-man's bean—and looks like a mighty good imitation of a crook. Searle! You put up thirty—"

"—stung, Beth, stung, good and plenty!" Beth's hand was on her cheek, pressing it to whiteness.

"Oh, I've been afraid that something was wrong—that something terrible—"

"Why, Glen, that would be feigning—obtaining money under false pretences! He may have done anything—anything to get the 'Laughing Water' claim! He may have done something—said something—written something to make Van—Mr. Van Buren think that I—Oh, Glen, I don't know what to do!"

Her brother looked at her keenly.

"You're in trouble, sis," he hazarded.

"Is Van's candy boy with you?"

She blushed and looked down. The contrast from her paleness was striking.

"He's the one who is in trouble," she answered. "And he may think that I—he does think something. He has lost his mine—a very valuable property. Searle and some Mr. McCoppet have taken it away from Mr. Van Buren and all those poor old men—after all their waiting—everything! You've got to help me to see what we can do!"

"McCoppet's a gambler—a short-cut tumble weed," said Glen. "You've got to put me next. Tell me the whole nolette, beginning at chapter one."

"As fast as I can," she answered, and she did. She related everything, even the manner in which she and Searle had first become engaged—a business at which she marvelled now—and of how and when she had encountered Van, the results of which she had just related.

work, not a foot could be travelled without some ready cash.

He went to Rickart of the bank. Rickart listened to his plan of campaign and shook his head.

"Don't waste your money, Van," he said. "The government wouldn't accept the word of any man you could hire. Lawrence could have to be discarded. Nobody doubts his ability or his squareness. The reservation boundary was wholly a matter of guess, you'll find it includes that ground—and the law will be against you. I'd gladly lend you the money if I could, but old bank people wouldn't stand behind me. And every bean I've got of my own I've put in no mood for begging."

"All right, Rick," he said. "But I'll have that line overlaid if I have to hold up a private surveyor and put him over the course at the front of a gun." He went out upon the street, more hot than before.

In two days time he was offered twenty dollars—a sum he smilingly refused. He was down and out, in debt all over the camp. He could not even negotiate a loan. From some of his friends he would not have accepted money to preserve his soul. Meantime, spurred to the enterprise by Beth, all the old-time surveyors, Napoleon and Dave accepted work underground and began to count on their savings for the future.

At the "Laughing Water" claim, during this period, tremendous slates had been installed, with three shifts of men to shovel night and day, but a streak of gravel or a single stone had been encountered in the cove. The clean-up at sunset every day was nothing more than a thousand dollars in gold for each twenty-four hours at work.

This morn, when it "leaked," burst another rush, and men by the hundreds swarmed again upon the hills, in all that neighborhood, panning the gravel for their lives. Wild-cutting started with an impetus that shook the State itself. And Van could only grin his teeth and continue, apparently, to emile.

All this and more came daily to the ears of Glen and Beth. The girl was in despair as the days went by and nothing had been accomplished. The meager fact that Lawrence had run and conspired on the reservation line, at Searle's behest, was all that Glen had heard.

That of all the men in Goldie he was doubtless best equipped with knowledge concerning Searle's eastern standing, he knew that Searle had never had the slightest government authority to order the survey made—and therein lay the cause of all the trouble. It was all he had to go upon, but he felt it was almost enough.

The wires to New York were strung again, and Beth was presently a local bank depositor with a credit of twenty thousand dollars. In a quiet, effective manner, Glen then went to work to secure a surveyor on his own account, or rather at Beth's suggestion.

With the fact of young Kent's advent in the town Van was early made acquainted. When Beth presented the transfer of her money from New York to Goldie, Rickart promptly reported the case. It appeared to Van a confirmation of all his previous suspicions. He could not fight a woman, and Rickart and McCoppet remained upon the claim. Searle went nearly every day to Beth, excusing his absence, relating his success, and bragging of success of his love.

On a Wednesday morning Glen and Searle arrived by stage from Starlight, in the car, the driver being a man named Pratt. He was a tall, slow-moving, blue-eyed man, nearly sixty years of age, with a thin, sharp nose and a thin, sharp mouth. Glen met him by appointment at the transportation office and escorted him at once to Mrs. Dick's.

Already informed as to what would be required, the surveyor was provided with all the data possible concerning the reservation line.

Beth was tremendously excited. "I'm glad you've come," she told him candidly. "You'll start the work today?"

"You will want to keep this quiet," he said. "I need two men you can trust, and then I'll start the work today."

"Two!" said Glen. "That's awkward. I thought perhaps you could get along with one."

Beth, in her tumult of emotions, was changing color with bewildering rapidity.

"Why—I expected to go along, of course," she said. "I've got a suit—I've done it before—I mean, I expect to dress as you are, Glen, and help to run the line."

"Pratt grinned good-naturedly. 'Keeps it all the family. This's one advantage. 'All right,' said Glen. 'Hike upstairs and don your splendor and stocked it with provisions, tents, and bedding. He hastened off and returned with the chaffeur to the door.'

Beth, in the costume she had worn on the day when Van found her lost and deserted, made a shy, frightened young, when at length she appeared, but her courage was unshaken.

At ten o'clock they left the town, and rolled far out to the westward on their course.

Van learned of their departure. He was certain that Beth had gone to the "Laughing Water" mine, perhaps to be married and fighting out his rights by the methods of primitive man.

On the third of his visits he met a stranger who offered to purchase Savy on the spot at a price of two hundred dollars. "Don't offer me a million or I might be tempted," Van told him gravely. "I'll sell my soul for a hundred."

"The would-be purchaser was dry. 'I want a soul I can ride.'"

"I've looked him over critically. 'This broncho?' said the man. 'Surest I've ever seen.'"

"I'll bet you the pony against your two hundred you can't," said Van.

"You're on."

Van called to his friend, the man who ran the yard.

"Come over here, Charlie, and hold the stakes. Here's a man who wants to ride my horse."

Charlie came, heard the plan of the wager, accepted the money, and watched Van throw on the saddle.

"I didn't know you wanted to sell," he said. "You know I want that animal."

"If he goes he sells himself," said Van. "If he doesn't, you're next, same terms."

"Let me have that pair of spurs," said the stranger, denoting a pair that hung upon a nail. "I guess they'll fit."

He adjusted the spurs as one accustomed to their use. Van merely glanced around. Nevertheless, he felt a sinking of the heart. Five hundred dollars, much as he needed money, would not have purchased his horse. And inasmuch as luck had been against him, he solemnly feared he might be on the point of losing Savy for a price he would have scorned.

"No," he said in a murmur to the broncho. "If I thought you'd let any beached-out anthropoid like that remain on deck, I wouldn't want you any way—Savy that!"

Savy's ears were playing back and forth in excessive nervousness and questioning. He had turned his head to look at Van with evident joy at the thought of bearing him away to the hills—they two far

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

PEOPLE always say that a mother's love for her children is so much greater than that of the sweetest mother in the world, and I love her so dearly that I am sure that she cannot care any more for me than I do for her. I wish you would write and say that it is not at all an invariable rule, as a young girl wrote me the other day. Perhaps she does care as much for her mother as her mother does for her. Or perhaps she just isn't old enough to have learned how great love can be. Of course I can't judge.

But I am going to tell her and anyone else who has any doubt about the difference between mother love and child love, two little stories.

They were told me the other day by Mary Boyle O'Reilly, the famous woman prison commissioner. A woman lay dying in Sherborn prison. She had lived a very disreputable life. She had left a good husband for another man, then left that man for the life of the streets and had dragged her husband's name in the foulest mud of the gutter.

When the woman was dying Miss O'Reilly sent for her husband. When he came, he brought with him a girl of about fourteen, who had been put into a convent at the age of the trouble and had been brought up there.

Miss O'Reilly took the girl under her wing and started off with her toward her mother's room. The girl looked about her in surprise and said: "I'm a queer looking creature, but I don't take the quick-witted commissions long to realize what that meant. The daughter had never been told of the mother's shame and the father was still making a desperate effort to hide it from her."

Of course Miss O'Reilly tried to cooperate and the girl might never have known if a squad of prisoners in prison garments had not come down the corridor at just that moment. The girl started and shrank back and then before the commissioner could stop her, ran straight up to one of the squads. "What place is this?" she demanded. "This is Sherborn Prison, Miss," answered the prisoner. With a cry the girl turned back to the commissioner. The father, who had been as terribly wronged as a man could be, made up his mind to forgive and went to his wife. She sent back a message pleading with the girl to come.

And the woman died without seeing her.

The other story isn't quite so sad. Or maybe it's sadder. I'm not sure which. A young country girl drifted via the life of the streets into Sherborn prison. She was obliged to undergo an operation and was very ill. Her mother, knowing nothing of all this came down from the country in search of her.

She went to Miss O'Reilly's private office. "They tell me you know where my girl is," she said. "I do," said Miss O'Reilly. "Where?" "I'll take you." As they started off in the motor some one called after Miss O'Reilly by her prison name. "Commissioner, I never knew but one commissioner," she said. "That is what I am," said Miss O'Reilly, and was ready to comfort the woman. But the woman did not stop. "Not during the forty miles to the prison did she say a word about her daughter."

Only when Miss O'Reilly had brought the woman to the door of her daughter's room, she took the commissioner's hand and said slowly: "You have done a good deal for me. I can't thank you. I can only pray as the best thing that can happen to you that you may never have a child."

And then she turned and went into her daughter's room SMILING. And never once did she speak a word of reproach or blame of her. There is a difference, you see.

Daily Hints for the Cook

STRAWBERRY PIE, PLAIN. Bake a shell of rich pie crust. Fill with fresh well-sugared strawberries. Cover with meringue made of whites of two eggs, one-quarter cup sugar, and bake in slow oven until meringue is firm and browned. Serve cold. If berries are lacking in individual tins these become attractive tartlets.

CHOCOLATE MOUSSE. Two squares chocolate, 1 1/2 cup powdered sugar, 1 cup cream, 3 1/4 tablespoons granulated gelatin, 3 tablespoons boiling water, 3/4 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons boiling water, 3/4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 quart cream. Melt gelatin in water, add sugar and gradually one cup cream. Stir over fire until boiling point is reached. Then add gelatin dissolved in boiling water, stir constantly until mixture thickens, then fold in the whip from remaining cream. Mold, pack in salt and ice and let stand four hours.

SALAD DRESSING. Beat the yolks of four eggs, add table-spoon of mustard, 1 of salt, 4 of sugar, 1/2 of butter, 1 large cup of cream. Beat in 1/2 of chicken, stirring to keep smooth and prevent curdling; add a small cup of cold vinegar, strain and add the beaten whites of four eggs. It is splendid and will keep in a cool place a long time.

COCO A MERINGUE PUDDING. Put one cup of milk in the upper part of the double boiler and heat. Mix two tablespoons of flour and four teaspoons of granulated gelatin, and add this to the hot milk. Mix until free from lumps. When the milk is hot, add the yolks of four eggs, stirring often about 10 minutes. Beat yolks of two eggs lightly; add two tablespoons of sugar and a pinch of salt and mix well. Add this to the other mixture and cook about two minutes. Remove from stove and add vanilla to flavor. Frost with the white of two eggs.

THE HOLIDAY IDEAL AND GREATLY ENJOYED

The holiday yesterday was generally observed by the business houses of the city, and with ideal weather conditions the day was greatly enjoyed. Many spent the day in the country, going out on trains and boats. The main excursions were those patronized by "Members Day," at the R. K. Y. C., was reported a huge success. In the city the ball game drew well, as did the amusement houses and a very large number went to the parks. So far as could be learned there were no accidents, and the police made no arrests.

Probably the largest gathering of merry makers was present at the R. K. Y. C. "members day" celebration at Millidgeville. Beginning early in the morning the neighborhood shavers were black with people. The club house was gaily decorated with flags and bunting and pot-cider, punch, ferns and celery helped to make the place more attractive and homelike. All the yachts of the fleet were anchored in the stream in front of the club house, and all were handsomely bedecked with flags and lanterns. In the afternoon an excellent programme of water sports and boat races was run off, and much enjoyed by all present. The City Cornet Band was stationed on the wharf in front of the pavilion, and played a very pleasing programme of music while the races were being run off. Tea was served on all of the yachts. After tea, a parade of all the tenders was held and the races which were not finished in the afternoon, were conducted.

At 8:30 dancing started on the pavilion. At 9 o'clock there was a grand illuminated parade of all the yachts of the fleet, and presented a spectacle well worth seeing. A short display of fireworks was also held. The dancing was kept up until midnight, most of those present returning to the city on the Champlain. A delegation from the Reinfort Outing Association attended the affair, going up to Millidgeville on a big woodcock. Quite a few members of the Westford Outing Association were also present. One of the features of the illuminated parade was the burning of the old tract Vests.

At St. Stephen, one of the features of the day was a baseball game between the St. Stephen Thistles and the Calais Stars. The former winning by a score of 2 to 0. A return game is to be played Monday.

There was also two good horse races in the park; this afternoon. In the 2 1/2 mile class, Mrs. Royal, third, and Mrs. McBride, won in three straight heats; Druggist, second; Pansy, third. Louise Clayson, fourth. Time, 2:23 1/4, 2:23 and 2:21 1/2.

The 2 1/2 mile race was won by Dolly, owned by Willard Eaton, Calais; St. Peter, second; Fred Bull's Royal Scot, third, and Marie, fourth. Best time, 2:28 1/2.

At Fredrickton the main attractions were the horse races, bull games, net tennis tournament between the Rothney and Fredrickton clubs.

In Thursday's races Thomas J. won the 2 1/2 mile and 2 1/2 mile; best time 2:18 3/4. Helen Tall won the 2 1/2 mile, best time 2:22 1/2.

LLOYD-GEORGE TO CONTINUE THE DUTY ON SPIRITS

Chancellor, in Budget Speech, Sees Prosperity Ahead—Estimated Expenditure Nearly Billion

London, July 1.—Chancellor David Lloyd-George had no novelties to offer in introducing the budget of 1910 in the house of commons yesterday. He took an optimistic view of the future despite the fact that he had to face a deficit of about an estimated expenditure of within $5,000,000 of the $1,000,000,000 mark, or to be exact $91,650,000.

The chancellor figured a total revenue of $905,000,000, having a surplus of $4,350,000. The total expenditure includes the deficit of $121,200,000 uncollected during the last fiscal year owing to the clash between the two houses, all of which has been collected since the belated budget was passed.

For 1910-11 the chancellor estimated the revenue from taxation at $712,735,000 and from other sources $186,450,000. Adding to the total the $121,200,000 which was lost from the figures of the preceding year and that the moral gain to the state far outweighed the loss in revenue.

The chancellor said that he felt justified in estimating the trade revenue on the assumption that the trade this year and last would be greater than the previous year had ever experienced before.

He proposed to retain the duty on spirits unchanged and while admitting that there had been a loss of $7,000,000 in these duties, said that the $20,000,000 of profits had been decreased by 10,000,000 gallons from the figures of the preceding year and that the moral gain to the state far outweighed the loss in revenue.

FIELDING'S FINE SPEECH IN LONDON

Annexation is Dead—Canada and Her Treaties—Admiral Douglas Denies Interview

London, July 1.—The Dominion Day dinner, held at the Hotel Cecil, maintained the high standard of previous years as the most successful dinner in London. Lord Strathcona presided for the fifteenth time.

The Dominion's progress, prosperity and wealth were inspiring them, he said in his eloquent speech. He made a reference to the reported gold discovery in British Columbia. He counselled caution till more definite information was obtained.

In response, Mr. Fielding in a fluent and vigorous speech, referred to the growing importance of the annual gathering, and proceeded to emphasize the fact that Canada's two needs were capital and population. Canadians rejoiced to see the tide of British investment in the Dominion greater than ever. It would bring satisfactory returns. As regards politics, the finance minister entered a strong defence of the purpose of the immigration laws.

The alleged annexation interview of Sir A. Douglas was his next subject. In his reference to it, Mr. Fielding emphatically controverted each of the three points alleged to have been made by Admiral Douglas concerning which he found a characterizing it as amazing. There never was, he said, a moment in the history of Canada when there was less thought of annexation to the United States than at present. (Cheers.)

Canada, north, south, east and west, was and meant to be, thoroughly British.

Mr. Fielding next endeavored to remove any misconception which he found as regards Canada's commercial arrangements. The impression was widespread here that in making these arrangements Canada had in some way interfered with the liberty of other countries. He was glad to correct this view. Canada had made a free trade agreement with the United States and she was not going to interfere in any degree with the principle she had always maintained in every one of her treaties.

It was their desire to improve Canadian trade, but in no one of them was there a single word to prevent Canada from developing her own country making a preferential arrangement, if they desired.

Extreme in responding, said that self-government now also applied to international relations. He most heartily welcomed that state of things. He knew the Canadian government in framing its tariff took every care to avoid, if it could be done, inflicting even the slightest injury to British industry. Transactions of that kind were better carried out by men like Mr. Fielding than by home officials, however much their good will. (Hear, hear.)

It has been their desire that Canada should settle her own way. To a superficial observer that might sound something like an advance towards independence, but what was aimed at was a combined and concerted action. (Cheers.)

USES OF COTTONSEED

Few persons are aware of the great number of uses for cottonseed. From the clean seed are obtained lint and meals and hulls, the hulls making the best and most fattening food for cattle that has yet been found. From the linters are gathered material for mattresses, felt, wadding, paper, rope and a certain grade of underwear. Blown cottonseed oil of which great quantities are made. The meals furnish oil and meal, the oil after refining being now almost universal use in the kitchens of this and other countries. Before refinement to the edible state it is known by many names, such as salad oil, stearine, winter oil and white oil, oleomargarine being the product of stearine.

The white oil is a chief ingredient in compound bars. The original oil, also known as soap stock, has a very acidic character in the manufacture of soaps, roofing tar, paints and glycerine, and from this comes the explosive nitroglycerine. The meal aside from its use as cattle provender, is transformed into bread, cake, crackers and even candy. From the seed is now prepared an emulsion which has been proved of value to those suffering from the dread tuberculosis.

THE FORMULA OF "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Is On The Outside Of Every Box For All The World To See

Every user of "Fruit-a-tives" knows exactly what is going on. The formula of this famous fruit medicine is printed plainly on the outside of every box. We have stated many times—and now state clearly—that "Fruit-a-tives" is made of the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes with valuable tonic and nerve tonics and antiseptics.

Everyone knows that fruit juice is healthful—perhaps some do not understand why this is true. Fruit juice consists of about 91 per cent of water, 8 per cent of principle, and 1 per cent of a bitter substance. The quantity of principle in fruit that gives the fruit value as a medicine. An eminent physician of Ottawa, after years of experimenting, found a method of increasing the bitter principle in fruit juice, thus increasing its medicinal or curative qualities.

The juices are first extracted from ripe oranges, figs and prunes. By a secret process, some of the bitter atoms are replaced by the bitter principle. Then tonics and antiseptics are added, and the whole made into tablets, now known as "Fruit-a-tives."

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world that is made of fruit juice, and is one of the remedies that have let their composition be known from their introduction to the public.

"Fruit-a-tives" is nature's stimulant for the liver, bowels, kidneys and skin. In cases of obstinate Constipation, Liver Trouble, Indigestion, Backache, Rheumatism, Headaches and Impure Blood, this wonderful fruit medicine cures when everything else fails.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold everywhere at 50c. a box of 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

The tug Peasepot, which was sunk at Cape Spencer and has been lying under water for the last month, was raised yesterday and towed to the city by the wrecking tug Tascos. The Peasepot presents a badly battered appearance with her bow works gone but, the owners are of the opinion that the hull and engine are in good shape.

A Positive Cure For Rheumatism

For many years, both during Father Morrisey's lifetime and since he passed away, his No. 7 Tablets have been curing many of the worst cases of rheumatism in Eastern Canada.

During his lifetime it became the custom, when people could not get relief from other sources, to consult Father Morrisey, and he indeed did so in vain. His standard prescription was to call on Father Morrisey's No. 7 Tablets and it can now be procured from any druggist or dealer in medicine.

No. 7 Tablets act directly on the joints, stimulating them so that they can remove from the blood the Uric Acid, which alone causes the rheumatism. Two or three weeks' treatment cures ordinary cases, while with the worst cases it seldom takes more than three or four boxes of No. 7 Tablets to thoroughly eradicate the rheumatism from the system.

In every case, right from the start, the sufferer gets relief from the torturing pains and aches.

We would be glad to refer you to one-time rheumatists, now well through taking Father Morrisey's No. 7 Tablets. $2c. a box—at your dealer's.

Business League of St. Paul to Supply Power

HELP LITTLE FELLOWS

Secure Huge Building in Which Small Manufacturers Will Be Nurtured Along At Low Rental Until They Can "Go It Alone"

St. Paul, Minn., July 1--The plans of the Business League of Saint Paul for the erection of a huge power building for the assistance of small manufacturers, where space and power may be furnished them at a reasonable rental, and where they may carry on their business until such time as they are able to "go it alone," have finally culminated in the securing of an option on a splendid site in Saint Paul's lower town manufacturing district, and if accepted, construction will soon begin and the building will probably be ready for occupancy during the coming winter.

ern design for business purposes, and will be constructed of concrete, with special reference to obtaining the very best possible lighting facilities. The seven stories will give a total floor surface of 189,800 square feet, from which 20 per cent is deducted for construction obstacles, leaving a total of 151,840 feet available for tenants. On the basis of from 3,000 to 5,000 square feet per tenant, it is figured that accommodations may be had for 30 institutions. The estimated cost of the building is placed at $220,000, which, with the price of the ground, will bring the total investment to $300,000. A committee will be appointed this week for the purpose of visiting similar buildings in other cities to the end that the very best and most up-to-date plans may be utilized.

JESUIT SPEAKS OF HIS VOWS

Father Vincent Naish Gives Plain Talk in Toronto

OATHS AND VOWS

Only One Jesuit Oath and He States It--There Are Vows of Poverty, Chastity and Obedience--Must Disobey Were Sinful Order Given

(Toronto Telegram.)
"Because people do not clearly understand the essential difference between an oath and vow, some confusion has arisen in connection with the king's accession oath," said Rev. Vincent Naish, S. J., last night to a crowded audience in St. Peter's R. C. church.

tower in the pulpit above his hearers. "Our professors and teachers in Jesuit colleges have an oath to take that they will teach faithfully the doctrines of the Catholic Church. But a vow is an utterly different thing from an oath. Only one vow known to the Catholic Church is beyond the power of the Pope to annul--that is the marriage vow. In these days, when divorce and immorality are making such inroads on the world, I think God that the Catholic Church has not meddled with this sacred marriage vow.

"Religious vows are promises of a different character. The three Catholic vows of poverty, chastity and obedience, which, briefly, bind the Jesuit to relinquish wealth, to relinquish all idea of marriage, and most important of all, to devote his life to the service of the church, are taken by every Jesuit. I have taken these vows myself, of course. The vow of obedience imposes on me the necessity to bow to the will of my superiors for the service of the church. But every one who takes this vow has permission, as even under obligation, to disobey if the order given him by a superior is a sinful order. The vow is a vow to do right, not wrong. Before the vows are taken a long period of testing must be undergone, ranging from five to even fifteen years.

When I took this vow," explained the preacher, "I vowed to give special obedience to the Pope--to go wherever he chose to send me as required to carry out the mission vote of the church for teaching, preaching to, and converting pagans in all parts of the world.

Immediately after taking the public vow, I had to take certain private vows; for instance, the vow that makes it a sin for any Jesuit to accept a religious office of any kind. The Jesuit must live and die content with what is ordinarily given him. He must wear the plain black habit which was the first religious dress of civilization known to the red Indians, for it was worn by the men who brought the gospel words of Jesus first to the red men, taught them,

Malta-Vita THE PERFECT FOOD

Little children like Malta-Vita but that isn't the best reason for letting them have it. Malta-Vita provides them with all the nourishment their young bodies need, and in such a form that they digest it easily. This perfect malted whole-wheat food is the ideal food for children. It makes them healthy and robust. It is as delicious, so satisfying as a bowlful of Malta-Vita with milk or cream. It's good for the children whenever they are hungry. Always ready to eat. No cooking. No inconvenience. All grocers. 10 cents.

preached to them, yes, and died at the stake for them."
The Rev. Vincent Naish gave a brief outline of Jesuit history, criticizing strongly the account of the Jesuits as given by Lord Macaulay.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nutriment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer has done so, regardless of digestion and nutriment. He might as well say that for all the good he gets out of his food, the reason is that he grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutriment and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of indigestion.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutriment and break up the nervousness, Dr. Plummer's Golden Medical Discovery is the only remedy, and has the confidence of physicians all over the world.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a powerful medicine. It contains neither narcotics, nor is it to be abused as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients are printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

SPORT NEWS OF A DAY; AT HOME AND ABROAD

JOHNSON AND JEFFRIES PUNCHING THE BAG

Remo, Nev., July 1.—With the appointments today of the time keeper the list of the ring-side officers was completed for the 4th of July fight between James J. Jeffries and John A. Johnson, on which rests the heavyweight championship of the world. The officers are:

Referee—Tex Rickard, of Nevada.
Alternate referee—Charles White, of New York.
Time-keeper—George F. Harting, of San Francisco.
Announcer—Billy Jordan, of San Francisco.
Stakeholder—"Tim" Sullivan, of New York.
Betting commissioner—Tom Corbett, of San Francisco.

Of the fight officers named above, all except Jordan are on the ground, Harting and Sullivan arrived today.

"I have $50,000 of the purse money now in my hands," said Sullivan, "and the rest will be turned over to me tomorrow." Several rumors regarding Jeffries were about, this morning he broke his left forearm, at noon he ruptured a blood vessel in his elbow, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Despite all this Jeff was sufficiently recovered at 8 o'clock to look up from a moment from the ropes arena, has just taken a rest on Monday afternoon it doesn't cut much figure what happens to me now, does it?"

The real affliction to attack Jeff during the day was one that threatened his pocket book. A suit for $5,000 for attorney fees was filed against him in the district court by the Reno lawyers who drew up the contract covering the fighters' share.

Hart Pickle Johnson.

Louisville, Ky., July 1.—Marvin Hart, who won from Johnson on points in a twenty-round battle in 1904, expects the negro to win the light next Monday.

"I hope Jeffries will win," said Hart, "but way down in my heart I think Johnson has it on him. Jeffries has looked too much and is too tight. Of course, you can't see the fat on the outside but it is on the inside enough to keep him from regaining his former speed."

Britt Managing McFarland.

"Jimmy" Britt, the popular little lightweight who recently announced his retirement from the ropes arena, has just taken the task of managing "Paddy" McFarland, the American lightweight who has made such a good showing in England. Britt will make an excellent manager, for he knows every point of the fighting game from the start to the last "sway" of the bell.

He has just informed Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight, that if he wants a return match with "Paddy" he will have to fight him at the National Sporting Club, in London, instead of at Mountain Ash, the battle ground suggested by Welsh.

Fredericton Races.

Fredericton July 1.—(Special)—A crowd of about 800 people turned out to the holiday races here today. The weather was ideal, and the track in perfect condition. The races were pulled off without a hitch and some fine exhibitions of speed were witnessed. King Aron, owned by H. C. Jewett, of this city, made a new record for trotting stallions in the province, reducing his record from 2:27 1/2 to 2:17 1/2. The old record was 2:18 1/2.

Helen Gould, the chestnut mare owned by C. W. Dugas, of Woodstock, showed that she had plenty of speed, but acted badly in all the heats.

In the first event, the 2:18 pace and 2:15 trot, Frank Patch took first money, Helen Gould second, Pachorna third, and Money Maker fourth. This race was run off in four heats.

The second event, the 2:25 pace and 2:22 trot, was finished in three heats. It was here that King Aron did his great racing. He took first money in three straight heats. Second place went to Prince Louis, 2:24. Lady Belmont, 2:24, was placed third, and Mary Cronwell, 2:24, fourth.

The third number on the programme was the 2:30 trot. In the third heat of this race, Rapidly, owned by H. E. Jewett, was distanced. The horse went slightly lame in the second heat, and fell out altogether in the third. First money went to Walter H. Muster Hill who was awarded second money; King Edward, third, and Royal Pandect, fourth.

Golf

The holiday was enjoyed on the local links by a large field of players, two-ball tournaments being played against Roger J. U. Thomas and A. C. Curtis were the winners, being one down on the Colonel.

The course generally is in good condition, the grass being now well under control, and the ground drying up rapidly.

The Rifle

City Rifle Club Results Yesterday.

The St. John City Rifle Club conducted morning and afternoon matches on the local range yesterday.

Today, at 1:30 p. m. the second league match will be shot on the range and all the members are expected to be present and shoot for places on the team, as the ten highest scores make up the team for the day. Also the first match in the Dominion Silver Competition will be conducted in conjunction with the league, providing a sufficient number of the club members are present.

There was a Dispute.

Major Magee said last night that the scores of the 2nd Rifle Club in the spoon match yesterday could not be given until some disputes which will have to be settled by the managing committee today. The scores in today's matches and that of yesterday will be published Monday.

The Artillery Rifle Club Results.

The 3rd Canadian Artillery Rifle Club conducted spoon matches on the rifle range yesterday. The attendance was very slim, due to the various other attractions offered by the holiday.

In the morning the matches were shot at the long range, 800 and 900 yards. In the afternoon they were shot at the king's range, 200, 300 and 600 yards.

ITCHING SCALP, CEASES AFTER ONE APPLICATION

Druggists Are Willing to Guarantee Parisian Sage Because They Know It Gives Satisfaction to All Who Use It.

Most druggists know that there is no hair preparation that gives so much satisfaction as Parisian Sage which is now on sale all over Canada.

The reasons are many.

A large, generous bottle for 50 cents. The only hair tonic that is sure to kill the dandruff germs.

A rigid guarantee to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

Keep the scalp cool in summer and free from unpleasant odors. Will make any woman's hair bewitchingly charming in one week. Crown hair and makes it soft, brilliant and luxuriant.

And here's more proof:

I never noticed my hair to nearly fall out. I have used and tried several but none made my hair grow. I tried a bottle of Parisian Sage. The use of Parisian Sage cleared the scalp, removed all the dandruff, and left my hair silky and glossy in appearance, making the new hair grow. Today I have an abundance of hair, hardly any gray hairs, and no dandruff. Is it any wonder that I praise Parisian Sage?—Mrs. Ann E. Moody, 1806 Bainbridge St., Manchester, Va., April 2, 1910.

Leading druggists everywhere sell Parisian Sage for 50 cents, on the money-back plan. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. Mail orders filled by Groulx Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont., sole Canadian makers.

NO NEED TO BE WEAK
Wear My Electric Belt Until I Cure You and Then Pay Me

You've doctored and doped till you are sick of it all.

You would pay for anything that would give you back your old vim.

You don't want to pay out any more money till you are strong.

I will cure you first and you can pay me afterwards. Is that fair? Then get in line.

I know what I can do, because I've done it, and am doing it now. I'm sure that Electricity is the life, and that I can restore it where it's lost. So if you want what I offer, and don't want to risk my name, wear my Belt free until you are cured, then I can pay me.

And when you do pay me the cost is so small, that a short season of drugging, and how much more pleasant! You put my Belt on when you go to bed; you feel the soothing, exhilarating vigor flowing into your weak body, and while you peacefully fill you full of the fire of life. You wake up in the morning feeling like a new man.

I don't claim to, and I won't take a case that I don't feel sure of, but all these troubles which come from an early waste of vitality, from dissipation of any kind, from decay of nerve power, or from any organic stomach, liver or kidney weakness, I can cure, and those are the cases I am willing to tackle and take the chances on. I am curing them every day.

All I ask is reasonable security for my Belt while you are wearing it.

Exciting spark warm your frame, the bright flash will come to your eye and a firm grip to your hand, and you will be able to grasp your fellow-man and feel that what others are capable of doing is not impossible to you. This grand appliance has brought strength, ambition and happiness to thousands of men in the past year.

Dear Sir,—I am very well; my kidney trouble is cured, and thanks to your Belt it is so.

Yours truly,
ELZEAR JONCAS, St. Hyacinthe, Que.

Dear Sir.—Two years ago last March I bought one of your Electric Belts, and it did just what you said it would. It was the best investment that I ever made in my life, and it is as good now as ever it was. I wish you every success, and remain yours truly,

If people knew the frightful risk they run of infection from unclean dentistry they would better realize the awful chances they take and what a mighty important factor cleanliness is.

No one has ever disputed the fact that there are no cleaner offices in Canada than ours. This is worthy of consideration.

In its account of the reception tendered the delegates to the National Council of Women by Mrs. Fraser, at the Government House, Halifax, Thursday evening, the Halifax Recorder says:—

Among the many beautiful women and handsome gowns worn it was universally conceded that Mrs. McLellan, president of the Local Council, St. John, was the "belle." She wore a beautiful gown of taupe satin, trimmed with rose points of ermine. Her ornaments were diamonds.

Other St. John ladies mentioned were: Mrs. R. Thomson, black satin, with very handsome white maltese lace fichu, diamonds ornaments.
Mrs. Harrison, primrose satin and white lace.
Mrs. Burpee, black velvet and lace.
Mrs. Bullock, mauve liberty satin.

FINE SALMON

George McAvity with a party of friends have been spending three weeks at Bonaventure, a famous salmon fishing resort, and during the last day or two some of Mr. McAvity's acquaintances here have received by express some very fine fish, as fresh as if taken from the stream. These salmon are exceptionally fine specimens as to size and quality, and it is evident that Mr. McAvity and his party have been enjoying first class sport.

SIX MOOSE NO SIGHT FOR THEM

J. J. McGaffigan Writes of Much Big Game Seen

BOYS NOT ATTRACTED

When He Drew Attention to Herd of Six They Said They Had Seen More—Bull, Cow and Calf Pay Visit to St. John Man's Grounds

This extract is taken from a letter written by J. McGaffigan, of this city, to a friend in St. John.

Moose are very plentiful on the North Shore of the province. On Wednesday, the 15th inst., I was in Nelson, N. B., and, in company with John O'Brien, we visited his mill and lumber yard. While there the night watchman called our attention towards Harley Island, not distant from the mill yard, more than a quarter of a mile. There we saw six moose. These wild animals were trying to herd with some fifteen or twenty horses pasturing there. When Mr. O'Brien and I returned to his house, he handed me a pair of marine glasses and I had a good look at the animals, and the part of the herd that they were on. From what I could make out, the horses wanted none of the moose to approach them, and I saw several of the horses try to kick the moose.

This beautiful picture of so many Lords of the forest out in the opening was too much for me to keep without sharing it with others. I saw some boys in the distance playing and called to them to come and see the moose. They wanted to know how many there were and I replied that there were six. Several of the boys cried out that they had seen seven over their heads and they thanked me for giving them the chance, but, such a sight was not enough for them, they would not disturb themselves unless there were at least eight in the number.

On my way down the Miramichi river, I heard of moose being plentiful near New Brunswick. They say that there were several large moose on Hay Island this season, and at Tabusintac they also spoke of reports being plentiful. J. Dixon, of A. and R. Loggie's, told me that moose are plentiful along the Tracadie beach, and that it was reported to him by the fishermen coming in from codfishing, that there was a very large moose seen more than five miles off shore.

I had a very strange experience with a bull moose, a cow and her calf. These animals visited my grounds about midnight of the 17th inst., and under my window the bull moose began growling and snoring down the field, and out in the river and away towards the head of the big Tracadie waters. The noise that the animals visited my grounds about midnight of the 17th inst., and under my window the bull moose began growling and snoring down the field, and out in the river and away towards the head of the big Tracadie waters. The noise that the animals visited my grounds about midnight of the 17th inst., and under my window the bull moose began growling and snoring down the field, and out in the river and away towards the head of the big Tracadie waters.

Fishing is very good, my friends are having excellent sport. Wild fowl was very plentiful in the bay this season. At the present time, we have in the Little Tracadie River a large number of black ducks with their young. As we approach them on our way to the pools, the mother plays all kinds of bluffs to draw us away from the ducklings.
