THE CONFERENCE WELL WORTH WHILE

Valedictory of Lloyd George Today at Genoa.

"Fine Crops" Gathered There Says the British Premier—Russian Complaint Brings Sharp Answer from French Delegate—Conference Ended This Afternoon.

(Canadian Press Cable.) Genoa, May 19.—Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain, in his valedictory speech to the Genoa conference today, said the conference had gathered "fine crops," namely, the meeting to be held at The Hague, the non-aggression pact, and the reports of the finances, transport and economic commission.

These results were incorporated into living practices, however, the premier said, in order to aid in restoring European vigor and prosperity. Lloyd George received great applause when he arose to deliver his address. He was in fine form and glowing humor. "We are now at the end of the most remarkable conference ever held in the history of the world," he said. "The Genoa conference will forever be an inspiring landmark in the pathway of peace."

He proposed resolutions of thanks to Premier Italy and Foreign Minister Schanzer of France and thanked the Italian people for the hospitality of the Italian people.

A word to Russians. He called attention to the fact that the Russian memorandum had had an effect that he desired to win success at The Hague. He said that the doctrine of repudiation of debts, such a course was unwise, he reminded the delegates of the fact that Europe, said the premier, was anxious to help Russia, but Russia must accept the code of honor which Europe had as an inheritance from centuries of hard-working, honest people.

The conference adjourned at a quarter after one. A Sprit Incident. M. Tchitcherine, Russian Soviet minister, created some surprise when he declared that the Russian delegation was dissatisfied with the economic report because it was not as comprehensive as it should be. He said the attitude toward labor was narrow and unsatisfactory. He urged the eight-hour day as fundamental in all reconstruction work. He also objected to the Russian delegation from the committee which dealt with labor problems.

When the Russian spokesman had concluded, M. Colrat of the French delegation quickly arose, amid scattered applause, to reply to the Russian speaker. He said that the Russian delegation was not as comprehensive as it should be. He said the attitude toward labor was narrow and unsatisfactory. He urged the eight-hour day as fundamental in all reconstruction work. He also objected to the Russian delegation from the committee which dealt with labor problems.

Referring to M. Tchitcherine's objection to the Russian absence from the committee dealing with labor problems, M. Colrat declared it was not true that the Russians had been excluded from that body. He added: "We felt that the Russians came to the meetings and that they were unqualified to share in the discussions. The head of the Russian delegation is little justified in considering the present economic condition of his country, to give lessons to other countries."

The speaker sat down amid great applause. As M. Tchitcherine showed no disposition to resume his argument, the economic report was adopted, with the understanding that the Russian powers would be recorded in the minutes.

Foreign Minister Schanzer submitted to the meeting the project for The Hague meeting of experts and the text of the non-aggression agreement which would permit the discussion there with the Russians to take place in an atmosphere of mutual confidence and especially in the spirit of pacification which he said had inspired the Genoa conference.

"The torch of this conference must not be extinguished," he declared. "Genoa passes it on to The Hague." The conference ended at a quarter after one.

Genoa, May 19.—The Genoa economic conference will come to a close today with a plenary meeting in San Giorgio Palace after thirty-nine days of efforts to solve Europe's manifold problems. The period since the convening of the congress on April 10 has been one of disappointment in many ways for Lloyd George, the British premier, and other enthusiastic supporters of the conference, who hoped when they came here that the Soviet government had altered its economic policy sufficiently to make possible an agreement for the reconstruction of Russia which would meet with the approval of France and the United States.

But Lloyd George went to San Giorgio Palace today full of optimism for the outcome of the experts' negotiations with the Russians at The Hague, an outgrowth of the present meeting. He cannot announce a ten-year truce for Europe, as had been hoped, but there is an eight-months' non-aggression pact, a gentlemen's agreement as yet unsigned, but probably more effective than many signed documents.

Economic Report. The report of the economic commission, which has been laboring for five weeks, studying projects for the economic reconstruction of the continent, was presented by its chairman, M. Colrat, one of the French plenipotentiaries and under secretary of state in the French cabinet. M. Colrat said that one of the world's greatest achievements was the absolute disorganization of production. The war had produced over-manufacture in an

Election In St. John And Madawaska June 10

A Week Later for the Provincial Contest in Kings County—Several Appointments Announced—Leave of Absence for Judge Chandler—Hon. Dr. Hetherington Away for Health.

(Canadian Press.) Fredericton, N. B., May 19.—Premier Foster this afternoon announced the dates for the three by-elections in the New Brunswick legislature. Polling will take place in St. John and Madawaska counties on Saturday, June 10, and in Kings county on Saturday, June 17.

The premier said that the later date had been fixed in the case of Kings county because of representations from that constituency, where the supporters of the government are meeting in convention today to name a candidate from among several aspirants.

Announcement of several appointments was also made by the premier. T. M. Gaynor, former mayor, was named as police magistrate of Chatham, and E. W. Murray, a returned soldier, son of Hon. Robert Murray, former provincial secretary treasurer, was appointed registrar of probates for Northumberland County, his recommendations including one from the G. W. V. A. W. Carter of Salisbury, was appointed to fill the vacancy on the board of commissioners of the Jordan Memorial Hospital at River Glade made vacant by the death of Hon. C. J. Osman.

Hon. Dr. J. E. Hetherington, provincial secretary treasurer, has gone to the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore for further treatment, and Hon. W. Robinson, minister of lands and mines, has been appointed acting provincial secretary and deputy of the crown in chancery.

John S. Martin, M. L. A., for Northumberland, has been named as representative of New Brunswick on the Employment Service Council of Canada. He is a labor member in the legislature.

Mr. Justice Chandler has been granted three months leave of absence during the month of August next. The resignation of J. E. Angevine as chairman of the board of trustees of the Hampton Consolidated School has been accepted.

Allotments of $10,000 to Grand Falls and $80,000 to Sussex under the Housing Act were approved. These allotments had no previous allotments of this kind, there are many applications from other places.

Speeches Kept to Four Minutes. M. Tchitcherine, Russian Soviet minister, created some surprise when he declared that the Russian delegation was dissatisfied with the economic report because it was not as comprehensive as it should be. He said the attitude toward labor was narrow and unsatisfactory. He urged the eight-hour day as fundamental in all reconstruction work. As Hiram Sees It

"Hiram," said the Times reporter to Mr. Hiram Hornbeam, "I walked out to Lily Lake on a recent afternoon, followed the path along the shore of the lake. The geese conversed with me, a swan greeted me with queenly reserve, and the ducks were most friendly. The voice of the water-fowl were the only sounds. Two boys on swings, two girls in the little shop, two women with baby carriages, a man trudging along the road, a man with horse and cart, and a woman resting on a bench by the shore were the only human beings visible. The city was far away. I wondered why more people had not left the hill with their carriages, and the noise of the street behind me. It was altogether refreshing and delightful."

"When was you there before?" queried Hiram. "I forgot," said the reporter, "higher it was last year or the year before. I think it was the year before."

"Then the rest of the folks is just like you," said Hiram. "If Heaven was over the hill you wouldn't climb—you'd want to stay with the crowd 'n' the dust 'n' the noise. An' yit you got the greatest park in Ameriky waitin' to do you good—right there over the hill—yes, sir."

Business Men Turn Eyes Elsewhere and Not Mid-Central European Trade.

London, May 19.—(Canadian Press)—Lord Beaverbrook who was the principal guest at a luncheon yesterday at the Commercial Club luncheon yesterday dwelt with the present commercial opportunities and said that the truth was that Germany industrially was helpless because German finance had been smashed.

He prophesied that Germany's market of inflation would end in a crash which would involve repudiation of debts before conditions in that country would return to normal.

"Our public men," continued Lord Beaverbrook, "are concerning themselves about the restoration of conditions in Central Europe while near at home over the Irish question is a market buying from us $200,000,000 a year or more than ten times our sales to Germany."

The speaker urged business men to turn away from Central Europe to England, Scotland, Ireland, Australia, Canada, America and other foreign markets where British commerce and industry would prosper even though there was no real awakening in Central Europe.

Propose 21 P. C. CUT TO MINERS. Leaders Give Anthracite Men Point-blank Refusal.

Fifty Non-Union Operators Reach an Agreement With U. S. Secretary Hoover for Prevention of Profiteering While Strike is On.

New York, May 19.—Representatives of the anthracite coal operators have proposed that the miners accept wage reductions averaging twenty-one per cent. in settlement of the strike called on April 1st. The offer has been refused point blank by leaders of the miners' organization, headed by Phillip Murray, vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Washington, May 19.—Coal operators whose mines provide the bulk of non-union and open shop coal being produced in spite of the bituminous strike are reaching an agreement with Secretary Hoover on an administration plan for preventing profiteering and high coal prices during the period in which the industry remains partially tied up.

The committee also issued a call for another and larger gathering of operators to ratify the plan and to bring the committee organization into being.

It is believed the plan will require the creation of clearing house committees in each producing coal district, composed of operators, consumers' representatives and a government agent who will supervise distribution of orders for coal, will see that coal is sold direct to consumers and that prices are reasonable.

A general committee in Washington of the same type will obtain co-operation between the district committees. Mr. Hoover assured the meeting, which was attended by more than fifty operators, that the plan would be voluntary and temporary.

Discussing the conference later, he warned that it was "by no means certain that such a plan will succeed, pointing out that the fifty operators in the agreement would be controlling a very important proportion of present soft coal production, had to obtain the co-operation of 1,500 other operators.

MATTER OF FIRE WALL DISPOSED OF. Finance Committee Turns Down Lancaster Resolution—Arrangement for Payment for Permanent Sidewalks—A Question of Voting Power.

A special meeting of the finance and accounts committee of the municipal council was held this morning to deal with two matters referred back to it at the last meeting of the council. A proposal for the loan of between $5,000 and $6,000 to the Parish of Lancaster for the construction of permanent paving over the existing sidewalks, and a resolution referring to the erection of foundations and fire-walls for the houses recently destroyed by fire.

The original motion regarding the sidewalks was that they be paid for out of contingent account, provided that the government would give an undertaking that legislation authorizing a bond issue should be passed at the next session of the legislature.

Councillor Frink suggested that the board negotiate a loan and subsequently present a bill covering the bond issue. Councillor O'Brien agreed to this and his motion that the parish be loaned $5,000 to be repaid in two years with interest was carried.

There was considerable discussion over the matter of the proposed fire-walls. Councillor O'Brien said that the cost would be $2,000 to $10,000 and it was proposed that a committee consisting of the chairman of the finance committee, the county secretary, the county treasurer, Councillors O'Brien, Campbell, and Golding, and two of the property owners, Jeremiah Stout and J. J. Hennessey, be authorized to proceed with excavation and erection of the foundations and fire-walls, the venture to be financed by the municipality and paid for by the owners, the payment to be spread over a period of years.

Councillor Campbell said that there was no building law in the district and this resolution would be a protection to the whole community as well as saving the owners considerable in insurance premiums.

J. M. Donovan said that the necessity of some similar arrangement was realized in the parish of Simonds. Commissioner Thorburn expressed the opinion that the same ends could be reached if the parish would pass a building by-law, embodying in it the proposed regulations. He was of the opinion that the extra cost of the fire-wall would be saved in the reduced premiums.

Commissioner Bullock was of the opinion that the advance of the cost of the fire-wall, would make it difficult for the owners to obtain a further loan for construction. He thought the best way was for the owners to finance the complete project themselves.

The original motion was declared lost. On a standing vote being taken Councillors O'Brien, Golding, Campbell, McLeod, Mosher and Anderson voted yes, and Councillors Bullock, Frink, Thornton and the chairman, nay. A question arose as to whether the city commission had three votes in committee, the same as in council, but no decision was arrived at and the chairman declared the motion lost.

A special meeting of the council will be held to pass a report on the matter of the sidewalks. MODERATOR OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN UNITED STATES. Des Moines, Iowa, May 19.—Rev. Dr. C. C. SUGGEST WOMAN LIQUOR INSPECTOR

The quarterly meeting of the County W. C. T. U. was held under the auspices of the Fairville Union in the Fairville Baptist church yesterday with Mrs. George Colwell, the county president, in the chair. Mrs. Mary Seymour led the devotions. Miss Coughie sang pleasing solos and was accompanied by Miss Katie Fox. It was decided to extend an invitation to Mrs. Asa Gordon to speak at the provincial convention. The hope was expressed that the girls and young women might be induced to become workers for temperance. The prohibitory law enforcement was spoken of and the possibility of having a woman inspector appointed was discussed. Mrs. Colwell referred to a recent address by Rev. H. A. Goodwin concerning the Maritime Home for Women and expressed satisfaction in the establishment of this institution. Mrs. Arthur Long and Miss Ryan sang a duet that was much appreciated. Refreshments were served by the Fairville Union after the meeting and hearty thanks were tendered the singers, the hostesses and the members of the Baptist church.

CLOSING NIGHT OF Y. W. C. A. DISPLAY

The Imperial theatre was packed last night for the final appearance of the Y. W. C. A. girls in the gymnasium display and the applause given was most enthusiastic. One of the smallest of the children came forward and presented a beautiful bouquet of flowers to Miss C. Littlefield, the physical director, and Miss J. Pirie, the accompanist, who was also given a beautiful bouquet. R. T. Hayes, M. P. P., in a short address, related some of the financial difficulties of the Y. W. C. A. and asked all who had witnessed the display to support an organization which was doing such good work in this one of the several departments. The Girl Guides acted as ushers for the three performances and were most efficient. On Tuesday afternoon the St. Andrew's and St. James' troops of guides had charge; on Wednesday afternoon St. Paul's troop, and last night the Rotheray Guides. Prominent citizens occupied the boxes last night and amongst these was a party representative of the local council of women.

RAN AROUND IN FLAMES AT ARMORY IN BRONX. Boy, former member of Field Artillery, Dies After Peculiar Accident.

New York, May 19.—Charles Castellano, 18 years old, of 689 East 188th street, the Bronx, died in Fordham Hospital from burns suffered in a peculiar manner at the armory of the 288th Field Artillery, Jerome avenue and Kingsbridge road, the Bronx, Castellano formerly was a member of the battery. On Monday night, while in one of the battery rooms, he was watching some equipment, preparatory to their encampment at Peekskill on June 2.

Frank Strittmeyer, a private, of 708 Union avenue, accidentally ignited a match by rubbing it on his teeth. He became excited and threw the flaming match into a pan of kerosene. As flames shot up from the pan Strittmeyer picked up the pan and started on a run with it for the concrete armory floor. Castellano was in his path. Strittmeyer fell and the burning fluid splattered over Castellano. He ran around the armory floor several times, members of the battery pursuing him. Eventually he fell unconscious, and the flames were extinguished with blankets. The young man was removed to Fordham Hospital by Dr. Goldstein.

SCRATCHED BY DIAMONDS. A skin irritation, said to have been caused by diamonds he had seen in his underwear brought Garbatino Benedetto of 1840 Jamaica avenue, Jamaica, into the jurisdiction of the customs department at New York. He was a passenger on the Dante Alighieri from Italy and his discomfort attracted the attention of customs inspectors.

They searched Benedetto, and said they found a pair of diamond earrings valued at $800, several gold rings, and some unset diamonds. The gems were seized.

BETTER THAN HARD COAL. Soft coal so free from soot that it does not make whiskers on stove covers or pipe and does not mat or cake when burning. It is far better than Hard Coal for general household use. Quicker to light, takes less to make a fire, cheaper in price and can also be used for open fires and small heating stoves. Such a coal is Broad Cove soft coal. The main thing is to insist on getting the genuine article. No other soft coal burns just like Broad Cove. You will know it by the above characteristics.

Use Coconut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Don't use prepared shampoo or anything else that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful.

Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as it can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup of glass with a little warm water, then moisten your hair with water and rub it in. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly.

The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at all drug stores. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure you get Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

Middletown, N. Y., May 19.—Edsall and Billings ran a drug store here, Leslie Edsall takes care of the prescription end of the store. His end was vacant and he was watching the line of customers at the soda counter and the novelty show-cases when he saw a dog sneak in alongside a patron. While Leslie watched the dog hopped along on three legs, passing all the customers, until he came to the prescription department, where Leslie has prominent.

Flaxseed Exports.
The direct imports of flaxseed by Ireland last year were 148,800 cwt., of which Holland exported 41,100 cwt., Canada 62,600, Argentina 46,800, and other countries 6,700 cwt. Canadian flaxseed has a high reputation in the Irish market, which reputation will, no doubt, be maintained if the shippers are careful to comply with the terms of their contracts with buyers and ship only the qualities ordered.

AFTER GENOA, THE HAGUE. The Genoa conference has not been a failure. In confronting Europe and the world with the actual situation and the difficulties lying in the path of economic restoration it has performed a great and needed task.

The phenomenon is supposed here to be of volcanic origin, but all of the volcanoes in the West Indies are reported as quiet.

STRANGE CONDITIONS ON WEST INDIAN ISLANDS. St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, May 18.—For some days an unusual atmospheric phenomenon has been observed here and on other West Indian islands. The air has been dense and hazy, a heavy dust mist, apparently consisting of very light particles of matter, falling continuously. The visibility has been very indistinct. The phenomenon is supposed here to be of volcanic origin, but all of the volcanoes in the West Indies are reported as quiet.

Stevens-Buckley.
A pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Buckley, of Long's Cove, King's county, when their eldest daughter, Ethel Mabel, was united in marriage to Benjamin Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stevens, of Grand Bay. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Craig Nichols, of Westfield, and was witnessed by the relatives and immediate friends of the young people. The wedding march was played by Mrs. John Morrow. The bride was attired in white crepe de chene, with bridal veil and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of pink and white carnations and maiden hair fern. Following the ceremony a dainty wedding luncheon was served after which the bridal party motored to Westfield, where they took the train for McAdam, en route to St. Stephen and other border towns. The bride's going away suit was of navy blue tulle with hat to match, and as a memento she gave to the groom. Many useful and beautiful gifts including silver and cut glass were received, attesting to the popularity of the bride and groom.

"BLIND PIGS" RUN AS SOCIAL CLUBS

New York State is Finding Them a Menace — Show Similar Evil in Other States

Albany, May 19 — A growth of "blind pigs" and "blind tigers" operating under the guise of social clubs has spread itself over cities in the state, and so far the authorities of the various communities have met with little success in removing them, according to reports received by the Bureau of Municipal Information of the State Conference of Mayors. William F. Capes, secretary of the conference, said many cities report that since the advent of prohibition they have been having a great deal of trouble regulating these so-called social clubs, many of which, it is charged, conduct disorderly and immoral places.

complained of in connection with the old-time saloon have now apparently been transferred to private tipping houses, where all sorts of concoctions more or less poisonous are served as liquor. These "clubs" because of their surrounding barriers of privacy, are a greater problem to police officials than are saloons, where the presiding genius occasionally slips liquid "N" across the bar in the shadow of a schooner of near beer. The problem, according to Mr. Capes, is not one peculiar to New York State cities, but exists generally throughout the country. Answers to a questionnaire sent out by Mr. Capes to heads of police departments of the principal cities of the nation show that bootleggers and their clients have in the "social club" found an apparently easy and safe method of evading the dry law. "Greater Menace Than Saloons." "We consider these clubs a greater menace than the saloon ever was," writes the chief of police of Waterbury, Conn. The chief of the Dayton, O., police department says that in his city there are several clubs which, he believes to be "off color." In Portland, Ore., similar conditions exist. Legislation to put shady social clubs out of business through a state licensing system has so far failed of passage. Pennsylvania cities also find it difficult to uproot these private thirst-quenching emporiums. In Pittsburgh, it is reported, there are scores of places which require constant police supervision. The Boston Chief of Police reports that his department is not bothered particularly with social clubs selling liquor in violation of the law. The greater trouble there, he says, is to keep barrooms stores, and homes as permanently dry as possible. The same holds true in Minneapolis and Nashville. In Lowell, Mass., the "social club" evil became so pronounced that it was necessary to conduct a crusade against it. "We hit them hard and often," writes the Lowell police head, "and found that the club owners, upon discovering that the police meant business, took the hint and quit." Cities which report no difficulties with social clubs are Baltimore, Cleveland, Camden, Cincinnati, Des Moines, Providence, Seattle, Springfield, Ill.; Worcester and Youngstown.

MONEY TO SON FOR PUBLIC CAREER

H. P. Davison Left $4,500,000 to Young Man Who Chose Service Rather Than Business.

(New York Evening Post) When Henry P. Davison left $4,500,000 to his son F. Trubee Davison, it was done to lay the foundation for a political career long planned for his son by the financier, it became known today as a result of the filing of Mr. Davison's will yesterday. The sum is left outright upon the death of Mrs. Henry P. Davison. In making his son financially independent, Mr. Davison evidenced his long belief that politics and money-making had nothing in common and should be kept far apart. The sum of money, if devoted towards the acquisition of more money, could admittedly be enlarged to an enormous fortune, but in disposing of it, Mr. Davison was already convinced of his son's leaning towards public life. He had given F. Trubee Davison a year to make up his mind whether he would follow his father's footsteps in the financial world or devote his life to public work. Civic interest was close to the heart of the elder Davison, and he hoped that his eldest son shared his feeling. He did not try to coerce his son, knowing that only a free choice would make for the happiness of both of them. When the young man decided he de-

THREE ARE FINED $1 A POUND FOR UNFIT FOOD ON SALE

New York, May 19.—Magistrate Alexander Brough in Municipal Court inaugurated the policy of fining food violators $1 for every pound of unwholesome food found in their possession. As a result Bernard Prohlinger of 126 East 110th street was fined $83 for offering for sale ninety-three pounds of assorted candy unfit for human consumption. Prohlinger went to city prison for five days because he couldn't pay the fine. Pasquale Margarella of 477 Broome street was fined $90 for offering for sale ninety pounds of faulty shelled almonds, and the Altman & Mendelsohn, Inc., of 2,846 Seventh avenue was assessed $70 for offering for sale fifty-five pounds of peanut bars and fifteen pounds of walnut puffs unfit to eat. Complaint in each case was made by Frederick G. Lammie, health inspector. The secretary of the Canadian Club has received letters of regret from Bliss Carman and Lord French, that they will not be able to accept the invitation of the Club to speak here.

Letter Gave Shoe Co.
an Early Spring Lead

A letter that brought actual results in sales the day prospective customers received it, that was responsible for several hundred sales the second day after it was mailed, and that gave the store a big start on early spring business at least two weeks before the season logically could be expected to get well underway, was used by the Payne Shoe Company in its 1922 campaign to increase volume.

The letter score a bull's-eye in selling women's shoes. A card inclosed, worth fifty cents on a pair of shoes to the customer bringing it to the store, supplied a means of absolutely checking up on the pulling power of the letter. The success of this direct-by-mail campaign, which surprised the store by the quick results it obtained, demonstrates, in the opinion of A. R. Springer, the manager, that this form of advertising can be used to excellent advantage this year by shoe retailers and other merchants.

"An increase in volume was absolutely essential," said Mr. Springer, "to meet existing conditions in the shoe trade. Without it could not hope to reduce our overhead. We decided we must sell more shoes."

"We sought the direct approach because we were in a position to talk price. We had been able to purchase large quantities of spring merchandise at a figure which enabled us to offer the latest styles in good quality women's low shoes, both pumps and oxfords, at $6 a pair."

"We felt we could not miss this opportunity of building up our list of customers by getting this offer strikingly before the public. The circular letter seemed to be the best means of doing this."

"Then the question came up: How valuable is a new customer to this store right now? We didn't want to take any chances on getting as near 100 per cent return on this offer as possible. So we decided that we could afford to cut fifty cents from our profit on every pair sold through the aid of these letters. We enclosed a printed card which specified that if it was brought to the store a pair of these shoes would be sold to the customer having it for $5.50 a pair, instead of the regular price of $6."

The store did not attempt to send the letter only to persons who did not patronize it regularly. It did not have a list of its regular customers. Instead, the telephone book was taken and 8,000 names selected from this, some attention being given to the addresses, so the appeal would go to the class of persons best particularly desired to reach.

Sells 3 Tons of Peanuts a Month.

One of the "leaders" that have brought people into the different F. W. Woolworth Company chain stores is the humble salted peanut. The generous space that is given to this little nut in the windows and in the interior of the store has produced sales, records that can mean but one thing: There is "room" for a bag of them in almost every home. That, of course, means that they have a drawing power when seen.

Within a six-month period last year the Pacific Coast group of this chain of stores sold a total of 950,000 pounds of salted peanuts, mostly in one-pound packages; for the stores find it almost as easy to sell a pound as a nickel's worth. There are ninety stores in that chain. This volume was reached by display suggestion, which is the force behind most of the Woolworth merchandise sales.

Shoppers have come to connect a window full of loose peanuts with stores of this type, and they never lose their effectiveness when put in at intervals and taken out within three days. The Woolworth Company store at 719 South Broadway, Los Angeles, recently presented a variation to this style of window and drew a great deal of attention.

One of the windows was filled up to the proper level with salted peanuts. Then a pretty wax head of a girl in bathing cap was brought out and sunk to the base of the neck in the nuts. A colored stocking was stuffed and placed in the nuts so that the forefront of the foot protruded. Thus a representation of a bathing girl in a sea of peanuts was presented to shoppers. Such variations as this keep the sales of the nuts moving along.

This store, opened in the middle of last August, has since been selling about three tons a month. When a special push is made—during which the nuts are displayed over much of the interior in selected spots—as many as six tons in one week have been sold. This means a considerable job of sacking them in the one-pound bags.

"Stop the Little Leaks—They Costly."

Time spent in stopping the little leaks in the retail business is time utilized very profitably, according to Charles H. Fogsate, who has a large grocery store in Cambridge, Mass. In fact, he says it may mean the difference between a profit or loss on a business.

"For example," Fogsate declared, in talking of his own experience, "I once found that I had not been credited with milk and cream jars that they had returned. I called in an accountant and we made an investigation."

"We found very few instances where customers were not credited with the number of jars they returned, but many cases where customers were credited with more jars than were returned. We found that at least $150 was being lost yearly on these jars. Not a great loss, surely, but have ten, twenty or thirty such leaks and where will your profits go?"

This system was put in: Every time a jar, bottle or other container is delivered to a customer that person is credited not only for the contents, but for the container itself. The delivery men pay customers cash for these containers as fast as they are returned. There is no crediting on bills to cause mix-ups. The delivery men are credited with the price of every container they return.

"The system is particularly valuable in keeping a check on jars used for spring water. These cost about $1 each and are used to carry twenty-five cents' worth of water."

This Sales Slip Prevents Errors.

One of the hardest tasks which many stores have to contend with today is that of training their sales forces to eliminate errors, often costly, due to careless or improper filling in of sales checks.

Errors of this sort are most expensive to the store because, in addition to the danger of killing a sale already made, they are very likely to drive future trade away from the store.

The obvious method of reducing the evil to a minimum is that of constant instruction, through store publications and bulletins. Some stores offer prizes for perfect sales slips. Others publish in their house organs reproductions of faulty ones and challenge employees to read them correctly.

The J. W. Robinson store of Los Angeles has added another bit of strategy to the fight against the illegible sales slip. In addition to the usual careful instruction of sales people, it uses a form of slips upon which is printed, under the space for the customer's name and address to go on the delivery package, the words, "Repeat address to customer." But, more important still, on the back of the slip which goes to the customer is printed: "This is a copy of the address taken by our sales person for the delivery of your goods. If not correct, or if goods are not delivered promptly, please notify J. W. Robinson Company."

The management of the store has found that the plan has a double advantage. It not only prevents mistakes, but actually is a good-will builder. Customers read the slip and are impressed with the sincere desire of the store to render first-class service.

Shoe Displays Hurt by Dark Backgrounds

Don't put a background of dark wood in back of a window display of shoes, I. D. Lynxweiler advised those attending the recent sessions of the Iowa Shoe Retailers' Association.

Though backgrounds of dark wood seem naturally to recommend themselves as the proper rich settings in which to display shoes and create about them an atmosphere of desirability, the drawbacks to such backgrounds, he said, outweigh the advantages.

"From experience I have found that too many of us are swayed by the richness of dark woodwork," he declared. "But for the display of shoes it is most unsatisfactory. It is too near the color of the shoes themselves. The dark background from any angle makes a mirror of the glass which reflects objects from across and up and down the street, making it very difficult to fully see the shoes without peering at them from many angles."

"The floors of a window, inasmuch as they are 50 per cent of the display, cannot have too much thought. Too many merchants make the mistake of cheap floors, painted or varnished over or allowed to go dirty, depending upon velvets, skins, colored paper and other things to cover them."

The next thought, after the background, is the choosing of your fixtures, that is, the glass which holds both the background and the floor. Fixtures houses today will furnish you with any kind of pedestal and any other fixtures you may use, exactly harmonious shade. By having harmony between your background, your floors and your fixtures, you have the beginning of a perfect setting for your merchandise."

This Plan Prevents Lace Mark-Downs.

Mrs. Baker, buyer in the lace department of a Block & Kuhl's department store of Peoria, Ill., has devised a way of utilizing short lengths of laces in her department, and as a result, the heterogeneous mass of odds and ends flooding boxes and drawers do not bother her any longer.

The idea received its inception one day after a customer had asked for a certain kind of lace. She was disappointed at their not having it in stock. After the patron had gone, Mrs. Baker began to think and to form her plans as she hastily rummaged through her stock.

This thought had come in an opportune time, for business had been dropping a little for the week, and Mrs. Baker was glad of the chance to perk it up a bit. Being endowed with a fair controlling faculty of the artist, she at once began to put her new discovery into effect and for another week she was very busy selecting good combinations and matching different patterns of the odd lengths of laces and insertions. By sewing them very neatly together, the edges overlapping the least bit and each succeeding piece held a little fuller than the first one, an attractive pattern was formed which could not have been obtained from any manufacturer. It cost the department ten cents the running yard to have them stitched together. The laces and insertions, which were of any and different widths, a piece of four parts, on the average cost thirty cents for sewing and the cost of the laces and insertions from twenty-five cents to sixty-five cents, selling for seventy-five cents and $1 a yard. If there were two to four pieces in width, cost ten cents for sewing and the cost of lace and insertion from three to five cents a yard, selling for twenty-five cents and thirty-five cents a yard.

Best size models dressed in soft-tinted crepe de chene chemises, nightgowns and negligees were placed on top of cabinets at back of department. A billowy mound of the laces was heaped on top of the showcase and graceful waves of them fell from a stand near by.

Other yokes, made of the laces and insertions, were very attractively arranged on a stand of the showcase, and on a table in the aisle were yokes of various designs, displayed in a way that showed their original shapes. They immediately attracted attention from the passing crowds and called forth many comments, and they sold, too. The laces in the yokes were both of the heavy-er and the soft fancy weaves. The ones which sold for seventy-five cents cost the department fifty cents for both laces and stitching them together, and those which sold for $1, $1.25 and $1.50 cost from sixty-five cents to $1, including both laces and sewing.

Combining the short and odd lengths of the laces in this manner made patterns of their own, and any one not knowing the process would think they had been originally created that way. Their beauty and delicacy made them appear richer and worth much more than was asked for them.

Use Alarm Clocks to Announce Sales.

S. Williams & Son, owners of a big furniture store in Sheboygan, Pa., set new records in getting out a crowd at their pre-spring sale by means of alarm clocks.

The firm had a big stock on hand which it wanted to move and the problem was to get the people, since the management felt certain that once the bargains were viewed, the sales would follow as a matter of course.

One hundred the alarm clocks were taken from stock and set in different parts of the store at various hours of the day between 9 a. m. when the store opened, and 8 p. m. when it closed. The alarm would ring in some part of the store several times every hour, and the offer was advertised in page spreads that whoever happened to be nearest to the clock that rang the alarm would become the owner of the time-piece.

In order to promote interest in the sale, which was timed just when the average unmarried person plans for a spring wedding, and hence is interested in furniture, the firm boosted the event further by announcing that a present would be given to the first hundred women and men in front of the establishment at opening time.

These announcements were made along with featuring the articles on which prices were slashed and the purchasers were all told in advance that if they were contemplating matrimony, the goods could be stored until later in the year.

When the one-day sale was held, the crowd in front of the store was so large that the sidewalk was blocked and the present owners of the hundred useful articles to the first hundred patrons proved rather difficult to handle. Inside the store people were busy loading over goods and were naturally "killing time" in the hope that they would be near a clock when it rang. The event kept customers in the store all day and gave the firm a splendid chance to move out a big quantity of stock, as well as to get into touch with customers who will be listed as prospects with whom the firm will keep in touch for months to come.

Bethlehem Stores Sponsor Sales.

An interesting co-operative business-gaining effort has been started in Bethlehem, Pa., by the Broad and Main Streets Business Men's Association in the form of intensive advertising calculated to hold trade in these sections of the steel city.

All the members of the association have agreed to feature special sales every Friday of each month, so that people will be attracted to the stores in their own vicinity and will not go to Allentown or to Philadelphia on shopping tours, as many have done in the past.

In addition, four times a year, all the merchants will simultaneously hold stock clearance sales, with a view to educating the buying public to watch for these events in the hope of getting what they need at reduced prices. Every week the merchants will run two and three pages of co-operative advertising in the Bethlehem dailies, in which their Friday sales will be played up.

This Store Mends Customers' Stockings

The "Dixie Shop" of the H. & S. Pogue Company in Cincinnati carries a very extensive line of women's hosiery, but realizes the task of matching colors with the latest creations. So the shop has announced a dyeing and mending service and without extra charge offers to dye hosiery to harmonize with any of the new gowns. Besides it will duplicate any shade purchased and will repair old stockings even to replacing heels and toes at a nominal charge.

"Avon" Advises Men What to Wear

Johnny Copley has a new job with the Jordan Marsh Company, in Boston. He will talk with customers who visit the men's shop and advise them about the latest things to wear. The store has adopted the trade name of "Avon" for all men's wearing apparel manufactured especially for it.

THE EVENING TIMES AND STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B., FRIDAY, MAY 19, 1922

INDS 6,888 AUTOS STOLEN IN NEW YORK

City Loss in 1922 was $7,000,000, Prosecutor Says, Denying Crime Wave—Out to License Brokers.

(New York Times.)
Denying again the existence of a "crime wave" in this city, District Attorney Jacob H. Banton, in a speech at a City Club last night, asserted that 88 automobiles, valued at approximately $7,000,000, were stolen in this city last year. He also told of his efforts to clear the criminal calendars, so that a man committing a crime this week would be on his way to prison next week.
Telling of his efforts to have the legislature pass a law requiring stock brokers to show their books on demand, he said: "Bucketing is common stealing. We attempt to pass a bill giving these under the same supervision as we have over bankers and insurance men, president of the Stock Exchange; master's voice. But we'll get that through, or one better, and put the books under the same supervision as law has over banks and insurance companies."
"They say that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of constipation; will therefore license these brokers that their books can be examined more than sixty failures involved $18,000. One house with $8,000,000 in slutties had $300,000 in assets. Is there a reason for making these men red?"
Dr. Banton declared that last week the lowest number of crimes of violence in the city, of any week since January.

"There were 700 more major crimes in January, February and March, 1917, than during the same months in 1922, but these figures did not feature the first pages of the newspapers. I am glad of the recent newspaper hysteria because it enabled me to get prosecution machinery. The time will come when a man arrested this week will be convicted next week."
"This week fewer persons were accused of murder than any other time you can remember. One man went on trial today for a crime committed in April and another for a crime in May."
"Telling of his efforts to co-operate with the police department to get quick judgments and trials in crimes, District Attorney Banton said in a side remark: "If fathers took their sons to church on Sundays, played less golf or saw that their children received some religious instruction, there would be less crime in the city."
This remark linked up with the assertion of a previous speaker, Supreme Court Justice James C. Crosey, former district attorney of King's county, that crime prevention should begin with the children. He said he believed that printing of crime news had a bad effect, but that a sure deterrent to crime was swift justice. As a way to dispose of crime cases speedily, he suggested that supreme court justices should forego part of their summer vacations and rotate in the criminal branch during the summer.
Raymond Fosdick, an authority on police systems, said he agreed with Mr. Banton and Justice Crosey that there had been no crime wave, but pointed out that many citizens believed that there had been "a superabundance of crime."
"The 700 crimes mentioned by Mr. Banton," Mr. Fosdick said, "depend on the way statistics are kept. I don't know what a crime wave is. Mr. Enright tells us we are wrong, but we have no way to know. The newspapers cite crimes committed, the police talk in terms of arrests, and the district attorney tells of convictions. We ought never to allow ourselves to get into any dispute as to whether there was a crime wave. We ought to have an accurate system of statistics."

AGAINST HYDRO AND STRONG FOR ROSS

All the Big Interests in Montreal Approve Chippawa Enquiry but are Told Some Plain Facts.

(Toronto Telegram.)
Montreal, May 15 (Staff Special)—Montreal's big interests heartily applauded the appointment of the Chippawa investigating commission by the Drury government. They say that "Beck has Ontario hypnotized" and that "public ownership won't work."
Representatives of the big power companies and allied financial and other interests decline to talk for publication. That is, they will not consent to be quoted. But they are willing to give their views and do not hesitate to say that they expect public ownership to be "shown up" by the probe now under way.

Drury Admitted.
One of these men, whose interests are all bound up in private ownership, said he looked upon Premier Drury as a man of great courage. "Someone should have taken hold of the Hydro long ago," he declared. "Sir Adam Beck has the people of Ontario hypnotized and they don't get the facts. The trouble with public ownership is that you can't keep out patronage. Take the National Railways, for instance. I know of a case where there was a position open for a switchman. The local M. P. had a candidate for the job, the parish priest had another and the Federal M. P. had another. The result was that all three were put on."

When told by The Telegram that there was no patronage in the Hydro and that Sir Adam Beck had persistently refused to allow patronage to enter into it in even the smallest form, even risking the loss of friends by refusing to give employment on any other qualification except absolute merit, he said: "That's the trouble with Beck. He doesn't consider his friends and he's too ready to tell them to go to the devil."
This man admitted that the municipal plant at Westmount, where he resides, had been a success. "But," he said, should have taken hold of the Hydro long ago," he declared. "Sir Adam Beck has the people of Ontario hypnotized and they don't get the facts. "that's different. You can make a success of public ownership under conditions like that where all the residents are big business men and the system is efficiently operated. But where you are serving all classes, as in Ontario, you have a clamor for service at less than cost and because there are enough who can vote to turn out a government that doesn't give it to them you have a serious situation."

When told that every part of the Hydro system was paying all maintenance and interest and sinking fund and depreciation and renewal charges and operating with a surplus and that there was no demand for power at less than cost, he shook his head doubtfully, smiled a superior sort of smile and declared that such was not the case.
Must Control Beck.
Another man deeply interested in a big private power company stated to The Telegram that in his view Sir Adam Beck was a very strong man, but that he needed to be kept in control. He did not see how the Chippawa development could ever be made a success. It had cost too much and would increase power prices in Ontario, and there was no market for all the power that would have to be produced if it was to be operated on anything like a paying basis. He felt sure that the investigation would reveal this situation. Those appointed to investigate were, in his view, very capable men, especially Lloyd Harris of Brantford and R. A. Ross of Montreal. Mr. Ross was particularly well qualified, he stated, being, perhaps, the most outstanding engineer in all Canada. His record as a construction engineer was unparalleled. In the various offices of big companies having to do with engineering and electrical development, The Telegram found unanimous praise of Mr. Ross and his qualifications.

MORE ROBBERIES AT SHERBROOKE

Sherbrooke, Que., May 19—Last night the stores of Leavitt and Chadsey and of Rand and Coates, at Ayre's Cliffe, were broken into. There was a merry chase with firing of revolvers in the city this morning. Two suspicious looking characters were noticed about the morning train from Ayre's Cliffe to Sherbrooke, and word was sent to the local police to meet the train. The two suspects made their escape on arriving here, notwithstanding several shots fired by the local police in an effort to stop them.

SCHR. ADA A. MCINTYRE IS ON POINT PRINGLE

Bound Here After Discharging Cargo of Salt at North Head, Struck This Morning.

Word was received in the city today that the three masted schooner, Ada A. McIntyre went ashore on point Pringle, on the southern coast of Grand Manan, at about 10 o'clock this morning. Although the details received are meagre, it is thought that the vessel is holding together and that Captain Barton and the crew are safe. A lifeboat from the island was standing by this morning. Men around the waterfront say that with the weather prevailing in the Bay of Fundy today there is considerable danger of the schooner pounding to pieces, as she must have been exposed to the full force of the storm which prevailed there this morning.

The schooner discharged a cargo of salt from Turk's Island at North Head, Grand Manan, and left that port for St. John last night, in ballast. She is a vessel of 423 tons net register, and is owned and operated by Peter McIntyre, of this city. She was built and launched on the St. John river about two years ago and is registered in this port.

Mr. McIntyre said this morning that there was a small amount of insurance on the vessel. Captain Barton is a well known mariner of this vicinity and the members of his crew also belong near the city.

PAINTER IN CITY HALL NARROWLY ESCAPES INJURY

The agility of one of five painters engaged in painting the interior of city hall saved him this morning from serious injury when a temporary staging on which he was working collapsed. He was applying a coat of paint to the underneath part of the new steel stairs, erected when the elevator was installed. A plank placed across two step ladders served as a staging, and became overbalanced while the man was near the top. The plank and ladders crashed to the stairs, while the painter jumped and landed on the floor just outside the door of the mayor's office. Had he been a moment later in making the leap he would have gone down on the slate-covered steps and painful bruises at least would have resulted.

The pot of black paint with which he was working struck the wall about half way down and left a black smudge, and then landed bottom up on the stair landing, besprinkling the walls and floor generally.

The painter was slightly dazed for a few moments, but was able to resume his work.

GOOD THINGS COMING TO THE THEATRES OF ST. JOHN

COMPANION FILM OF 4 HORSEMEN

Tremendous Balzac Production for Imperial Monday.

"The Conquering Power" is announced by the Imperial Theatre for three days, beginning Monday next. It is a Rex Ingraham production for Metro, and in it Mr. Ingram has had the assistance of all the principals who aided him in making "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" the superb production that was his New York premiere.

"The Conquering Power" was acclaimed with unstinted enthusiasm, some reviewers asserting that it even surpassed "The Four Horsemen." It is an adaptation of Balzac's novel, "Eugenie Grandet." The scene is laid in a provincial city of France, where the miserly old Grandet hoards his gold and lives in poverty with his daughter, Eugenie. A nephew, Charles, a young bon vivant from Paris, son of a bankrupt suicide, is thrown upon the miser's charity—and is accordingly thrown out, shipping to Martinique with little money but with the treasured memory of Eugenie's love.

This is the beginning of Balzac's tremendous story of love and greed. In the screen version Alice Terry, the exquisitely beautiful Marguerite of "The Four Horsemen," in Canada, secured a sensational triumph through her portrayal of Eugenie. Rudolph Valentino, whose Latin temperament and graceful fascination fitted him pre-eminently for the role of Julio in "The Four Horsemen," is cast as the Parisian dandy, Charles. Ralph Lewis, one of the most effective of character actors, plays old Grandet. Other names in the cast are Edward Connelly, Edna Dunayer, George Atkinson, Willard Lee Hall, Mary Helen, Bridgetta Clark, Max Benton, Eugene Pouyet and Ward Wing.

MT A. THEATRICALS HERE ON JUNE 1ST. Mount Allison college players will come to St. John on June 1 fresh from their closing exercises with their latest triumph, "A Pair of Sixes," a comedy that staged the art in an amateur sense better than the students of the Sackville institution, after coming to St. John in the hey-day of their success is indeed something to be pleasantly anticipated.

IMPORTANT NOTICE. IMPERIAL THEATRE. The Imperial Theatre received a telegram at noon today stating that the fourth instalment of the sporting series, The Leather Punters, cannot derive for the week-end programme, having been shipped westward by mistake. However, the programme for the week-end will not be impeded in the least since a Clyde Cook comedy entitled, "The Alpine Club," is being substituted for the week-end.

UNIQUE PROGRAMME EXCELS. Pack up your troubles in your old cap and smile, smile, smile. Go see "The Alpine Club" at the Imperial Theatre. The programme for the week-end will not be impeded in the least since a Clyde Cook comedy entitled, "The Alpine Club," is being substituted for the week-end.

C.P.R. CHIEF ON THE MATTER OF RATES. Ottawa, May 19.—(Canadian Press)—"The W. Beatty, president of the C. P. R., before the special house committee on railway transportation costs this morning, that a revision downward of rates is desirable and is quite prepared, with the approval of the railway commission, to put into immediate effect reductions in rates on basis commodities that will be of greater national benefit than the re-establishment of Crow's Nest rates. Such restrictions will largely affect only the coal and iron ore traffic."

OUR ZOOLOGICAL GARDEN. Referring to the collection of animals at Rockwood Park, the editor of the Halifax Sunday Leader has written to Commissioner Frink expressing a great surprise to know that St. John has a zoological garden. He has asked for a description of the garden and its contents, with pictures of the animals, caretaker, etc. The commissioner has referred the letter to the officers of the Horticultural Association who "super-vised" this work.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

By Edward N. Davis Formerly Technical Electrical Expert For U. S. Government

Lesson No. 4. THE SECONDARY (STORAGE) BATTERY.

The Radio Laws and Regulations of United States require, in part, for vessels equipped with a radio transmitter, "An auxiliary power supply, independent of the vessel's main electric power plant, must be provided which will enable the sending set, for at least four hours, to send messages over a distance of at least one hundred miles, day or night." By this means is provided emergency operation in case an accident should occur to the vessel and the regular power plant become disabled.

The usual method of providing an auxiliary power supply is by installation of a secondary battery, commonly known as a "storage battery," consisting of a number of storage cells connected together.

There are two types of storage cells in general use, the lead plate sulphuric acid cell in which lead plates are supported in a dilute solution of sulphuric acid and the nickel-iron-alkaline cell consisting of plates of nickel and iron supported in an alkaline solution.

The previous lesson explained how a primary cell, by internal chemical action, supplied current until certain of its parts were consumed. The "Storage Cell" on the other hand, consisting of lead plates supported in a dilute solution of sulphuric acid, is "charged" before it is able to furnish an electrical current. "Charging" consists in forcing through the plates and solution an electrical current from another source, usually from a direct current generator. Introduction of this current causes chemical changes to take place in the plates and stores up in the cell a supply of chemical energy.

One of the lead plates becomes coated with lead peroxide, known as "active material" and the lead of the other plate changes to a spongy condition. The plate on which is deposited the lead peroxide is the positive plate and the other is the negative plate.

If the positive and negative plates of the cell are connected to a conducting circuit, an electrical current will flow as a result of this chemical energy, until the cell returns to its previously uncharged condition.

This process may be continuous—the cell receiving a "charge" from the direct current provided by an outside source and retaining this charge until required to furnish current by connection to an external conducting circuit.

The Electromotive Force or "Voltage" of this type of cell is slightly over two volts when fully charged and on open circuit. Current may be drawn from the cell until the voltage falls to approximately 1.7 volts at which point it is considered to be discharged and should be re-charged as previously explained.

Reduction in voltage during the discharge of current is caused by the sulphuric acid combining with the lead of the "active material" which results in the chemical action and causing a loss in voltage.

The action to follow will describe the important features of the nickel-iron-alkaline cell.

Expect Ban to be Lifted Tonight—Late News in the Sport World.

New York, May 19.—If the sun shines tomorrow Babe Ruth will likely be trying to hit his first home run of the championship season in the game between the Yankees and the St. Louis Browns at the Polo Grounds.

New York, May 19.—Vance's curbs and Ruetter's pinch hitting yesterday enabled the Superbas of Brooklyn to defeat the Cardinals 7 to 5.

The Brooklyn club dissatisfied with second division company, started well, but Anagnin bounced a homer into the right field bleachers in the sixth with a man on base, and St. Louis took the lead. Ruetter, batting for Vance, started the eighth inning winning rally with a two bagger.

Release of Howard yesterday left the New York Giants with but one utility infielder, Johnny Rawlings.

Freddie Williams of Boston and Mike De Pinto of Portland, featherweights, boxed six rounds, but the referee declined to make a decision, saying they were "stalling."

It is pointed out that on Cain's River Allen, which is under lease to W. Postal Workers See Premier About Bonus. Ottawa, May 19.—(Canadian Press)—Changes in the government's announced proposals regarding the bonus to civil service employees were requested yesterday by a deputation of postal workers. It is understood that no definite promise was given to the deputation.

ST. JOHN GIRLS GOING TO CHINA

Miss Jean Sommerville Receives Appointment from Presbyterian Foreign Mission Board as Teacher in a School for Missionaries' Children.

The appointment of Miss Jean Sommerville, of this city as teacher in a school for missionaries' children at Sackville, Hona province, China, has been announced by the foreign mission board of the Presbyterian church in Canada. The announcement was made in a Canadian Press article this morning in a Canadian Press article.

Miss Sommerville is the eldest daughter of T. H. Sommerville, of the Canadian Credit. She is a graduate of the city schools and the provincial normal school and won many honors for high standing in her studies. For several years she has been a member of the teaching staff in this city, at present in the Central school.

In the Sunday school, and C. G. I. T. work of St. David's church, the Y. W. C. A., I. O. O. F. and other organizations she has taken an active and leading part.

Miss Sommerville will leave St. John early in the autumn to undertake her new duties.

Reported Tenders not Awarded Will Distribute. Fredericton, N. B., May 19.—Neither the provincial government nor the hydro electric commission, it was said today, would take any action in respect to the awarding of contracts for the construction of the transmission line and other work in connection with the extension of the hydro electric line from St. John to Moncton until it is definitely decided at Moncton what body there will handle the distribution and will therefore be in a position to sign the necessary contracts with the commission.

Steps are being taken, it was also said, whereby rural communities, including summer resorts north and west of St. John as well as incorporated towns and villages between St. John and Moncton, may be enabled to take advantage of the hydro electric power development under certain conditions which are now being drawn up.

Mr. B. E. Reser, general manager of the Moncton Tramways, Electric and Gas Co., Ltd., who a few days ago conferred with members of the city council respecting the distributing of hydro electric energy in Moncton, has forwarded a report to the city council. Mr. Reser's report will not distribute hydro energy in this city at the "maximum" rate of ten per cent. When in conference here with the city council Mr. Reser offered certain rates which would be equal to a 10-1-2 cent rate in contract to the 11 cent rate which now prevails. The council offered Mr. Reser a 10 cent maximum rate provided that he would have the New Brunswick Public Utilities commission if at any time the city thought the tariff was not reasonable. Mr. Reser's reply from New York is the same as he made here.

Mr. Reser in conferring with the city council, could not agree to the "maximum" rate of 10 cents for hydro electric distribution, in that it might occur that three or four days hence conditions might be entirely changed and his company would be bound to deliver hydro energy to Moncton citizens at a loss.

Several war veterans, chaplains in the Canadian expeditionary force and the French army representatives of national societies and a large concourse of citizens were present yesterday afternoon at the blessing of the plot of land on the property of the Grey Nuns of the Cross at Hurdman's Bridge, where the wheat grown on the battlefields of Courcellette was to be sown.

After the blessing of the plot, Col. Lafache, D. S. O., president of the Iberville section of the G. W. V. A., the returned soldiers who attended the ceremony, Mme. Marchand, president of the Federation of French-Canadian Women, mothers whose sons died on active service, the priests present, and members of the Order of Grey Nuns scattered a few grains of wheat on the freshly turned soil.

Mr. Landrieux, Bishop of Dijon, who accompanied the mission, to donate some wheat from Courcellette. Mme. Marchand explained at the time that the wheat would be grown and used exclusively for the manufacture of communion wafers.

Father Casimir in his sermon dwelt on the great spirit of sacrifice and devotion to duty of the Canadian soldiers. He stated that the growing of the wheat from blood-drenched fields of Courcellette was a noble thought and a fitting way to honor and keep alive the memory of heroic men who gave their all for their country.

CATCH 4 AS BANDITS WITH AN AMBULANCE

Driver and Patrolman Overhaul Taxi as it Speeds From Scene of Hold-Up

New York, May 18.—Patrolman Henry Hagen of the Fifth street Station was at 89 Third avenue when an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital drove up and the surgeon entered the building to attend a woman. The driver, whose name the police got as "Red" told the patrolman that when coming through Second avenue he had noticed several men bending over a man on the sidewalk. "I think there was something wrong there," said "Red."

Hagen looked around for an automobile. There was none in sight. "Will you give me a hand?" he asked the ambulance driver. "Sure," said the driver.

The patrolman jumped in beside the driver and the ambulance sped to Second avenue. The patrolman found Joseph Zaleski, 641 Eleventh street, a baker, on the sidewalk. He said he had been held up and robbed. He pointed to a taxicab speeding north on Second avenue. The patrolman, still using the ambulance, gave chase. On Fourth street, between Second and First avenues, the ambulance overhauled the taxicab. "What's the matter?" yelled the taxicab driver as he slowed up. "We don't want an ambulance."

Leaving his prisoners at the station house, Patrolman Hagen and the ambulance driver went after Zaleski. They found him at Third street and First avenue, still dazed. He was placed in the ambulance which then went to the Third avenue number where the surgeon had attended the woman. The Surgeon, Dr. Hall of Bellevue, was looking up and down the street for his ambulance.

School attaches secured the whip only after Mrs. Littrel had struck the principal several blows. After an investigation, school authorities said the matter was closed.

Thompson denied the mother's charges and said he had administered a light paddling after the boy had been disobedient before the other pupils.

Dress Daintily every day

Do not let the thought of the washing keep you from wearing pretty clothes

Wash your dainty things the LUX way

Whisk one tablespoonful of Lux into a thick lather in half a bowlful of very hot water. Add cold water until lukewarm. Dip the garments up and down, pressing the suds through and through, especially through any soiled spots. Do not rub. Rinse in three lukewarm waters. Squeeze water out—do not wring. Roll in a towel. When nearly dry, press with a warm iron—never a hot one.

For coloured silks, water should be almost cool. Wash colours quickly to keep them from running. Do not wash two colours at the same time. Use fresh suds for each colour.

Lux won't cause any colour to run that pure water alone will not cause to run.

Lux stands supreme—sold only in sealed packets—dust-proof!

YOUR most tasteful and beautiful waists may be worn every day without worry as to their being spoiled by washing if Lux is used.

The thin, white, satin-like flakes of Lux, made by our own exclusive process, quickly and thoroughly dissolve into a bubbling lather as harmless to fine fabrics as pure water itself.

Silk underwear, shimmering silken hose, dainty dresses of organdie, chiffon or crepe, lacy collars or scarfs—washed the Lux way will keep their sheen, their new and dainty look even after many washings.

The cold-storage warehouse, which in construction and convenience is considered the equal of any on the continent, is expected to prove a potent factor in increasing the ability of the port to compete with any American port for export business. The reduction in wharfage rates of about fifteen per cent. is expected to draw much business. Two additional berths, 500 feet long, for the accommodation of tramp vessels or for grain cargo vessels have been provided. Throughout the winter the demand for wharfage space has been brisk.

PRINCE AT TIMES CUT PROGRAMME

Some Incidents of the Tour in India

The New Irish Constitution—Thousands See Royal Wedding Presents—What They Talk About in Empire Metropolis.

(From our own correspondent.) London, April 27.—The intimate gossip of those acquainted with the history of the Prince's Indian tour reveals the fact that, though undoubtedly the function was a success as a whole, it was marred to some extent by little differences. It was found necessary on many occasions to cut down the arranged programme drastically, and sometimes the prince himself took a firm hand in this matter. He would have seen less than human had he executed a certain amount of boredom on occasion.

Is Now a Healthy Boy

"From a puny, delicate child, my little Johnny has become a strong sturdy boy."

One mother writes:—"If you had seen my little Johnny four months ago and you were to see him today, you would never believe that he is the same boy. Then he weighed only 40 pounds. Today he weighs 80 pounds, almost double what he weighed four months ago. His trouble first started with a cold, which we never noticed because he was strong and like all boys of his age occasionally caught cold. After a while we began to notice that his cough, instead of getting better, was getting worse, that he was looking pale and all the time, had no energy to do anything. Before he caught this cold he had no trouble with his lessons and remained at the head of his class without much study. But we began to notice a change. He didn't seem to care whether he knew his lessons or not and nothing seemed to interest him. He coughed so much and so hard at times that his face would become purple and we thought he would surely burst a blood vessel. Medicines and cough mixtures didn't do him any good. Finally, in desperation and as a last resort, we tried Carnol. In a short time his cough had almost disappeared. His appetite was returning and he was beginning to take an interest in his studies. And, thanks to Carnol, he has become as strong and healthy as he has ever been."

"Sometimes I hardly believe I am the same person I was before I started to take Tanlac," is the statement of Harry Wilson, Sunny Brae, a suburb of Moncton, N. B. to two hymns and two prayers, and severely ruled out the sermon. This was much to the embarrassment of one ecclesiastical dignitary, who had somewhat prematurely handed his admirable discourse to the press.

The relations between the Prince's staff and the press correspondents left something to be desired. Perhaps the prince became rather tired of the incessant publicity brought by a retinue of special correspondents, and his staff may have taken their line from an entirely erroneous impression of the prince's real attitude toward journalists. But the relations between the staff and the latter, I hear, very much strained indeed.

Ingenious German Tax

A friend, in correspondence on business matters with traders in Hamburg, tells me of an effective method of taxing in Germany by which new houses are being built to relieve the shortage, which is as serious there as here. Every household is compelled to pay a ten per cent tax on the pre-war rental of both dwelling houses and office premises, and the sums so collected are directly applied to the erection of similar buildings. In this way each district pays for its own expansion, and the money, coming from the pockets of those best able to afford it, is graded according to the degree of splendor in which each person lives. Incidentally rents in Germany have increased in a fearsome manner, and a firm that was paying 2,000 marks before the war is now paying no less than 40,000 marks for the same accommodation. But the conditions may be gauged from the fact that an ordinary inland telegram of a dozen words costs the formidable sum of 144 marks, or as much on the pre-war exchange as an Englishman pays for a first class suit of clothes.

New Irish Constitution

An official of the Colonial Office told me today that the new Irish constitution, the draft of which is now complete, marks the completion of a political achievement as notable as any which history has to show. The draftsmen have accomplished in three weeks a task similar to that which Americans took thirty months to complete. They admit of course, that their labors have been considerably lightened by the extent to which they have been able to draw upon existing models, especially those of the dominions. As a matter of fact, the drafting committee have followed the Canadian constitution more closely than that of any other country. The draft is now ready for publication, and according to what I am told, it will not be submitted to the Imperial parliament until after the Irish people have voted on it at the June elections. This is in accordance with precedent. It is adopted by the people, the British parliament will not attempt to amend it unless it conflicts with the treaty. As it stands, the constitution provides for the inclusion of Northern Ireland. The six counties receive the same measure of independence as they now possess. They will have their own legislature, functioning in much the same way as a province in Canada or a state in the U. S., with certain restrictions. Any act passed by it, if contested, will be submitted to a supreme court of Ireland, to be adjudicated on its constitutionality. The constitution extends the male franchise and gives the vote to women under thirty years of age. It also binds Ireland to the proposed form of government forever.

St. James' Palace Queue

The London newspapers make a great deal of the queue that assembled for a few hours to await the reopening of the Drury Lane Theatre. As a matter of fact, unrecorded fact however, there is a London queue which has now been in formation for almost two months. This is the queue outside St. James' Palace daily awaiting admission to view Princess Mary's wedding presents. It is really an extraordinary sight to anyone passing the palace to see the crowds who every afternoon maintain their patient vigil. Last week when I crossed the park towards the west end one afternoon I could hardly do anything and the worst I read so much about Lydia E. This Year's Academy. Of course the usual verdict will in due course be recorded about this year's Royal Academy Exhibition, which will open to the public on next Monday. We shall be told that it is a poor show, with nothing exciting or historic in it, and that the R. A. is between the deep sea of outworn tradition and the devil of modernism. But there are certain distinguishing features nevertheless. This year there are more portraits than ever, a fact which may be explained by the superior emolument of portrait work, and there are next to no nudes. Also there is one room reserved very jealously for Augustus John's characteristic portrait of Bernard Shaw and other ventures in the later manner only now being faintly recognized by Burlington House.

All this week the salons, now in apple-pie order for the opening, have been toured by the art critics, and-eyed gentlemen and rather highbrow ladies, making notes, and comparing them. On Friday serious Art and Fritivous Society will stroll through the galleries at the private view, which is the only occasion when the exhibits are entirely invisible to ordinary mortals. Between gorgeously fashionable gowns, by allowing grand dames equipped with longnettes, one may occasionally see a bit of sky or at the top of some notability's head, admirably painted by some unidentified master, but even that requires something of international rigger form.

A Few Impressions. I notice incidentally that the new craze for American horn-rimmed spectacles of formidable dimensions has smitten the art critics rather badly. It will be interesting to watch the effect on the criticism—the Royal Academy—through Yankee glasses! For my own part the impression left on me is one favorable to the year's show. It is far more interesting than usual, though some of the interminable portraits are rather too photographic to intrigue the searcher after truth and character. This does not apply to the many Orpens, which are splendid works, and is most notably true of Augustus John's study of Mr. Shaw. The latter amounts to a candid character impression of one great artist by another, and both must have enjoyed the joke equally, one imagining that the fair ladies and brave gentlemen were beyond criticism, and if the drama falls short of sheer mastery on the literary side, it makes at least a remarkable Drury Lane show on lines which, though entirely novel, still follow the great tradition of the place.

These crusading knights were not, like King Harry's Agincourt men, "warriors for the working day," but heroes of shimmering steel and flaunting plume, and their fair fallacious ladies were born for love and dalliance. The duel scene perhaps wanted just a little more "pep" in it, and the drooleries of the court jester occasionally fell a trifle flat, but there was no resisting the general ensemble.

Wagnerian Popularity. Bookings for the forthcoming opera season at Covent Garden have already shown that the promoters were justified in giving such prominence to Wagner, and in many cases seats are being taken for the whole tetralogy of the "Ring." Public taste has clearly reacted alike for love and dalliance, and superior music, and not a small share in this development is due to the gramophone. During the last year some very remarkable orchestral records have been produced, including some excellent examples of Wagner, and people whose taste has never been trained have discovered, of

During the last year some very remarkable orchestral records have been produced, including some excellent examples of Wagner, and people whose taste has never been trained have discovered, of ten by chance, the composer of the "Ring."

This Year's Academy. Of course the usual verdict will in due course be recorded about this year's Royal Academy Exhibition, which will open to the public on next Monday. We shall be told that it is a poor show, with nothing exciting or historic in it, and that the R. A. is between the deep sea of outworn tradition and the devil of modernism. But there are certain distinguishing features nevertheless. This year there are more portraits than ever, a fact which may be explained by the superior emolument of portrait work, and there are next to no nudes. Also there is one room reserved very jealously for Augustus John's characteristic portrait of Bernard Shaw and other ventures in the later manner only now being faintly recognized by Burlington House.

All this week the salons, now in apple-pie order for the opening, have been toured by the art critics, and-eyed gentlemen and rather highbrow ladies, making notes, and comparing them. On Friday serious Art and Fritivous Society will stroll through the galleries at the private view, which is the only occasion when the exhibits are entirely invisible to ordinary mortals. Between gorgeously fashionable gowns, by allowing grand dames equipped with longnettes, one may occasionally see a bit of sky or at the top of some notability's head, admirably painted by some unidentified master, but even that requires something of international rigger form.

A Few Impressions. I notice incidentally that the new craze for American horn-rimmed spectacles of formidable dimensions has smitten the art critics rather badly. It will be interesting to watch the effect on the criticism—the Royal Academy—through Yankee glasses! For my own part the impression left on me is one favorable to the year's show. It is far more interesting than usual, though some of the interminable portraits are rather too photographic to intrigue the searcher after truth and character. This does not apply to the many Orpens, which are splendid works, and is most notably true of Augustus John's study of Mr. Shaw. The latter amounts to a candid character impression of one great artist by another, and both must have enjoyed the joke equally, one imagining that the fair ladies and brave gentlemen were beyond criticism, and if the drama falls short of sheer mastery on the literary side, it makes at least a remarkable Drury Lane show on lines which, though entirely novel, still follow the great tradition of the place.

These crusading knights were not, like King Harry's Agincourt men, "warriors for the working day," but heroes of shimmering steel and flaunting plume, and their fair fallacious ladies were born for love and dalliance. The duel scene perhaps wanted just a little more "pep" in it, and the drooleries of the court jester occasionally fell a trifle flat, but there was no resisting the general ensemble.

Wagnerian Popularity. Bookings for the forthcoming opera season at Covent Garden have already shown that the promoters were justified in giving such prominence to Wagner, and in many cases seats are being taken for the whole tetralogy of the "Ring." Public taste has clearly reacted alike for love and dalliance, and superior music, and not a small share in this development is due to the gramophone. WILL THE WHOLE WORLD GO DRY?

"Pussyfoot" Johnson Says Liquor Traffic Must Pass Away—To Argue Otherwise is to Say Organized Society Cannot Defend Itself.

(By William E. Johnson (Pussyfoot))
Up to a hundred years ago, one of the chief moot questions of the world was whether piracy on the high seas would ever be terminated. Piracy has existed for thousands of years and, in many sections, it was regarded as a vested situation. But because it constituted a war upon society, society defended itself and piracy was forcibly abolished. People now wonder why piracy was ever tolerated at all.

W. E. JOHNSON

Within the memory of people now living, human slavery existed in many countries of the world, including America. It was defended as a vested interest, it was entrenched in the laws of our land, it was defended even by some religious teachers. Bishop Hopkins wrote a big book in its defense, proclaiming that the system was authorized by the Bible. It had existed throughout the world from the beginning of history. Yet slavery compelled final recognition as an enemy of civilization and it disappeared. Now that slavery is only a horrid memory, the world finds it difficult to understand why the hideous wrong was ever tolerated at all, anywhere.

In just the same way, other established evils, because they constituted a social menace, have been placed under the ban of law in civilized nations. Public gambling has been driven into the small corners of the earth. Authorized prostitution has been whipped out of the life of most of the nations of the world. The traffic in habit-forming drugs is being slowly strangled by international co-operation and international effort.

It is true that in each case, these wrongs have not been eliminated without an effort. As in the case of the silverminers of Ephesus, vested interests fought and fought bitterly. They were eliminated one by one simply because society exercised the right to defend itself because the idea that an "injury to one is of concern of all" began to be regarded as a fundamental principle throughout the world.

Organized society made war upon yellow fever, smallpox and the various diseases, even though this warfare lessened the income of doctors and undertakers, threw grave-diggers out of employment and reduced the profits of tombstone makers. Society began more and more to understand that it was charged with the duty and with the right of protecting itself against sense of the human body—and it's the one most frequently neglected. Because eyes stand an astonishing amount of abuse, people often wait until too late to save the best part of their vision.

The optometrist will give you glasses and will do much to preserve your eyesight, if you go to him in time.

any sinister interests that served to destroy human happiness, demoralize public and private life or to undermine civilization. In proportion as this principle began to be recognized, in just that same ratio did the traffic in intoxicating liquors challenge the attention of law-making bodies throughout the world.

It was the great Gladstone who denounced the drink as a "greater evil than war, pestilence and famine combined." It was David Lloyd George who during the late war declared the drink to be a "greater enemy than either Germany or Austria." History arose and said that the civilizations of Assyria, Greece, Egypt and Rome each withered away in an orgy of drink. Science said that the drink was rotting the manhood of the best of the nations of the earth. Statistics showed that the drink bill of the world would wipe out the entire cost of the great war within ten days.

The men who make profits out of the degrading business say that they must not be interfered with. The man who, because of his diseased appetite, has no liberty, protests against being deprived of his right to be a slave to drink. Others whose interests are incompatible with the social welfare protest for one reason or another. But the intelligence and conscience of the world grows stronger. The cry of the many who suffer in order that the few may get rich becomes more and more insistent. These influences quite naturally find expression in the parliaments of the world, the voices of social power. Since America adopted the prohibition system and set up this standard of human liberty, practically every law-making body on earth has grappled with the liquor question in one form or another. Not one of them for a dozen years has enacted any measure looking to the encouragement of the "industry," but wherever any law has been passed it has been always in the direction of limiting, discouraging or prohibiting the traffic more or less completely. Everywhere it is classed as a "business" detrimental to society.

To say that prohibition of the traffic in intoxicating liquors cannot be achieved is to say that organized society is powerless to defend itself. To say that a democracy is unable to achieve prohibition when it so wills is to say that democracy is a failure. To say that one has an inalienable right to engage in any business, however destructive it may be, is to fly in the face of the great European war, and to declare that organized society has no right to defend itself. The great European war was waged to make the world safe for democracy, and democracy means the right of the people to order their own affairs in their own way. The theory that the people have no rights which the liquor sellers are bound to respect is now well into the discard. Just as the sun of the people's rights rises in the east, so the deprivations of special privilege begin to set in the west.

Since the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted by the greatest manifestation of public approval ever given to any amendment to the Constitution of the United States, no movement in the history of the world has made such progress as has the prohibition idea throughout the world. Free peoples resistive under the oppression of vested wrongs are asserting their demands for freedom in every corner of the world. Local and national anti-drink societies have been organized in every civilized country an earth, composed of the best and the patriotic of all lands. These organizations have been welded into the World League Against Alcoholism that lovers of human liberty throughout the world can co-operate in the downfall of the greatest oppressor that the human race ever saw. This amalgamation of societies will hold its first international convention at Toronto on November 28-29 next. No international gathering of reform forces has ever met in the history of the world that will equal this international demonstration. The movement represents a power that cannot be withstood by the combined forces of evil. Its power will be irresistible because it represents a world-wide uprising against entrenched wrong and fortified oppression. No evil thing in the history of the world was ever able to withstand the aroused conscience of the world.

The hour for the final execution of the arrogant and wicked liquor traffic has struck and it must get off the face of the earth, just as did human slavery, piracy, the ancient practice of skimming alive prisoners of war and boiling heretics in oil. The cohesive power of public plunder is mighty and the struggle will be great, but there can be but one outcome. The liquor traffic must pass away and take with it the vast welter of human misery that it creates.

New Aeromarine Craft Mendosa Makes Record Passenger-Carrying Flight from Keyport.

Establishing what was said to be a new passenger-carrying record for an American commercial seaplane, the Aeromarine flying cruiser Mendosa, with twenty-seven persons on board, flew from Keyport, N. J., to the airport at Eighty-second street and the Hudson River, a distance of thirty miles, in twenty minutes.

More than 4,000 persons, who had come to witness the official opening of the flying season in New York, greeted the Mendosa with cheers when the big winged craft circled down over the river and came gracefully to rest on the water. The Aeromarine cruises were on the Florida-to-Havana service during the winter, so this was the first time the new type of aircraft had been seen in New York.

The Mendosa has a wing spread of 104 feet, is propelled by two 400-horsepower Liberty motors, and carries its passengers in an enclosed cabin which shields them from the wind and makes unnecessary the ordinary inconveniences of flying clothes. Beginning today, the cruiser will fly on a regular service to Atlantic City.

During the afternoon the Mendosa and her sister plane, the Santa Maria, along with several of the aeromarine open planes, took more than 100 guests from the yacht Wadena for aerial tours above the harbor and city.

ARMY OF SWALLOWS INVADES DWELLING

Thousands Swarm Into a Kingston, N. Y., Home, Ruining Its Fittings.

Kingston, N. Y., May 18.—"Out of a city of 25,000 chimneys, why did they pick on mine?" mused Frank V. Rice, Kingston shipbuilder, sadly, as he surveyed the damage wrought to his newly decorated residence by the invasion of an army of chimney swallows.

The Rices had been to the movies. As they entered the house they were greeted with what sounded like a continuous explosion, and as they stepped inside the portal were almost knocked from their feet by thousands of dark objects which fluttered against their persons. As they pressed the electric light button, they were astounded to find that the house was occupied by thousands of chimney swallows that had gained entrance through the big open fireplace in one of the rooms.

Swallows hung from the chandeliers and draperies and roosted on the backs of chairs and other articles of furniture, while other thousands fluttered about the rooms and as their soot-covered wings came in contact with the walls and furniture smudge marks that could not be erased were left. After throwing open every door and window in an effort to rid the house of the unwelcome guests the Rices picked up whatever articles came handy and started to exterminate the swallows. They kept count until several hundred dead birds covered the floors, and then, too tired to keep up the count, contained the work of destruction. Several thousand dollars' worth of damage was the result of the invasion.

6-FOOTER LEFT OUT OF CALCULATIONS

Nothing in the New Straw Hats Which Would Seem to Suit His Particular Style of Beauty.

(New York Post)
This is straw hat day in New York, and gosh, what a time our great big tall hat-men are having with this season's styles! They just can't seem to get fitted at all.

So far as can be learned, the hat designers have forgotten all about the 6-foot male citizen and have concentrated their attention on the stylish stout and the he-lapper. These two individuals have the field all to themselves. They were raiding the hat shop shelves today at a rate that brought joy to the dealer's heart, and the prediction was freely offered that hereafter and until further notice, nobody who is anybody in the world of fashion would think of being seen in public in anything but a 1922 model straw top piece.

Maybe the dealers are right. "Nobody" is the word heard most frequently from the shops where educated hat salesmen hold forth, and nobody is the official keynote of the 1922 models. Two new styles in particular are considered the noblest that ever sat on a brave man's head. They are the bell-crown and the style-flash.

The bell-crown is easily the feature of the early season, being built bigger at the roof than below decks, and with a brim that approaches the vanishing point. A salesman explained that the bell-crown was a development of the English idea so popular a season ago, when every one took to crushing his straw hat way down over his head. You can drape a bell-crown straw hat way down over your ears, he said, and still look nobby. To prove it, he did it. And he did look nobby, if that is the word.

Review of Dominion Work.

Greetings from Toronto were given at the morning session by Mrs. Charles T. Stark, president of the local association, and in the afternoon Mrs. Rowell reviewed the work of the Y. W. C. A. in the Dominion for the past three years.

"Although, according to the last report from the World's Committee, Canada stands fourth in membership among the twenty-six countries carrying on association activities, numbers are really no clue to the breadth of our influence," said Mrs. Rowell. "Board and committee members and secretaries, both national and local, have given much time to strengthening the work of the Girls' Work Board, and in helping large numbers through immigration and travelers' aid."

Bright Club Rooms.

"Bright associations have begun definite work in the last three years—Port Arthur and Perth have both appointed a secretary and opened attractive club rooms. Owen Sound and Windsor each have a delightful residence, with cafeteria and club rooms and a staff of two secretaries. Guelph has a recreational centre and cafeteria, with a staff of two. Moncton, N. B., and Sarnia, Ont., have each a residence and a travelers' aid worker. In Yarmouth, N. S., board and committee members and secretaries, both national and local, have given much time to strengthening the work of the Girls' Work Board, and in helping large numbers through immigration and travelers' aid."

city membership of about 14,000 since

1919, or more than 82 per cent. Foreign Department.

In reporting for the Foreign Department of the Y. W. C. A. the speaker explained that there are two workers in Hong Kong, China, Miss Elliott now living in home on furlough. Miss Kaufman of Tokio, Japan, was in Canada a year and a half ago for a short holiday, and interested many of the Ontario associations in the support of another worker in Japan.

It is being accomplished also in India, which is the first country that has been able to realize the desire of the World's Committee and to appoint educated and trained native women, not only to the national staff, but also as general secretaries.

Touching on Y. W. C. A. camp life, it was explained that at Campdown, on the Georgian Bay, two school girls' camps, accommodating 120, are carried on during the summer as well as 100 co-operative camps for 125, a holiday camp for 140 employed girls.

Immigration Work.

The creating of the Women's Division of the Department of Immigration was a gratifying development, and three former Y. W. C. A. workers received appointments in this newly-organized staff. In reviewing the history of this department, Mrs. Rowell said:

"The first rest-rooms provided at Quebec and St. John were furnished by us, and it is a great satisfaction to have our pioneer efforts carried on by others as a permanent contribution to Canadian welfare work."

"It is also interesting to note that the placing of conductresses by the Dominion Council on steamers carrying soldiers' dependents during demobilization has resulted in conductresses now being placed on practically all C. P. R., White Star and Cunard liners by the steamship companies themselves."

"In the intervening years since the conference of 1919 the immigration work has been maintained at its usual standard. Two port workers have been on duty at Quebec and St. John, a part-time worker has looked after immigrants at Halifax, and a full-time worker has done good service at Montreal.

mer of 1920, and over 2,000 names to corresponding members, of whom there are 840. In 1921, during a period of reduced immigration, the number of names forwarded dropped to 5194.

From the first travelers' aid worker placed by the Y. W. C. A. in Quebec City in 1897, there are now 83 associations definitely undertaking regular travelers' aid activities, with 41 workers employed. The records of 1920 show over 82,000 cases assisted by the 41 regular aids, while in 1921 the total was 93,534.

"Several points in regard to national finance are of particular interest," said Mrs. Rowell. "In 1918, when our expenditure was nearly $16,000, the city and student associations contributed less than $800 to the national budget and about $200 to the world's peace, while

MENTAL AGE OF OUR CRIMINALS

They Should be Studied from the Standpoint of Mental Science.

To the Editor of The Times:
Sir.—The Telegraph of May 16th printed a short article in which it was stated that the minister of justice made the remark, in answer to a question in the House, that there were in the penitentiaries of Canada eighteen inmates of the age of sixteen, sixty-three of the age of seventeen, and eighty-seven of the age of eighteen. These figures are not only interesting but useful and enlightening from a sense of justice could be also told us the different mental ages of these boys, ages in the vast majority of cases is found to be some eight or ten years younger than the chronological age. This applies not only to these youths of adolescent years but to a vast number of criminals of all ages, both adults and children, who are falling to overflowing our penitentiaries, jails, reformatories, almshouses, homes of correction and in fact all our penal institutions, and it is the opinion of the majority, if not all those who have had to do with the examination of this class that the cause of justice can only be fulfilled by the proper examination of all criminals before being sentenced. There is no doubt about it that these persons of low mental age, as well as those of low mental quotient, should not be sent to our penal institutions for punishment. In fact the question arises if these cases should even have to go to trial? Would not the cause of justice be better served if such unfortunate individuals were placed in some institution, as a psychopathic hospital, so that they might be watched and studied and a report of their condition be submitted to the judge under whose jurisdiction the case in question came? Many of these cases which are defective are tried and sentenced because, in the restricted vision of our present law, they are supposed to know right, from, so called wrong and perhaps even know the nature of their act; and yet on account of their abnormal mentality, we cannot in the light of modern psychology, hold them responsible for the act committed which is the result of a congenial condition.

There is no doubt about it that in a vast number of cases we are now punishing individuals whose mental capacities have never been able to develop beyond the years of early childhood, really but children. And it will only be when we begin to examine our criminals that we will be able to come to any just conclusions as to the injustice we as a nation have been imposing on these our mental defectives. Of course it will be necessary in the interests of justice that statutory changes be made for the ordinary civil cases, and all the more important and necessary for those cases where the life or liberty of the individual is at stake.

While it is true that British law and British justice is founded to a great measure on precedent, still in following our authorities on medical jurisprudence we find a great difference of opinion, unrest and expressed doubt as to the justice and wisdom of the present course that is being followed, and we find evidence of this fact in many of the decisions given in cases of testamentary capacity or incapacity and also in many cases of criminal responsibility.

I think I am right in stating that for over forty years there has been no change whatever made in the laws of our medico-legal jurisprudence as far as our mental defectives are concerned, either in England or Canada. But the sciences of psychiatry and psychology have made grand strides in that time, wonderful advances in the last ten years. In fact this period about covers all the great discoveries in mental medicine and I dare say that no branch of medicine or department of science has made so great a progress in these same years. And this work is no longer merely experimental, but is now an exact science and its findings are both accurate and scientific, as much so as those of any other branch of science, and if it can aid authority in the dispensing of justice to our fellow man it should be so employed.

How much responsibility can we put on a child of ten years, and how many of our adult criminals have but a ten-year mentality? And who is responsible, that such conditions, as those cited continue to exist in the advanced civilization, and how much longer will they be suffered to exist? The criminality of a community is the social standard. What are we going to do? The opportunity is ever present. The change of obtaining knowledge is ready. The pathway is well defined. The overpowering facts are calling aloud for our action. I am confident that the time is not far distant when the public, the "average citizen," will clearly understand that these people I have been speaking of are mentally diseased, that they are sick persons, needing hospital and expert care and understanding and not a jail, nor asylum. I repeat, these persons are sick and deserve the same consideration and care, and as little disgrace as a person who is sick with pneumonia or some other illness.

We but rationalize our own, perhaps unconscious, feelings when we group these individuals as "criminal," "bad," "clean," or "dirty," "excited," or "quiet," and according to the label attached shut them up in some of our already overcrowded penal institutions.

Yours,
S. STANLEY KING

PRESENTATION TO THE U. N. B.
Fredericton, May 18.—At the auspices of the University of New Brunswick, this afternoon Dr. J. C. Webster, of Sheldon, on behalf of Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, presented to the university library a rare old print showing Frederick in his early days. Dr. Webster is a cousin of Sir Frederick.

During the evening exercises it was announced that the subject for the English essay in the competition for the Douglas gold medal for 1922 was "The Influence of Wild Life Reserves and National Parks Upon a Nation's Life."

The subject for the Latin prose translation for the alumni gold medal for 1922 is not yet known. It will be forwarded from St. John by Dr. H. B. Bridges within the next few days.

The city of Fredericton medal will be given in the department of civil engineering in 1922. The subject announced is "Water-Power vs. Steam-Power as a Source of Light and Power for the City of Fredericton."

250 POLICEMEN IN MAN HUNT HOLD UP TRAFFIC

New York, May 19.—In one of the most spectacular burglar hunts in the history of the city 150 uniformed policemen and 100 detectives for more than seven hours held a cordon around the blocks of Broadway and Fifth avenue and Nineteenth and Twentieth streets and searched lofts, roofs and yards in quest of criminals whom detectives had trailed to one of the buildings.

The hunt began a little after 6 o'clock in the evening when Acting Captain John Stapleton and a half dozen detectives of the Safe and Loft Squad saw three lofts enter a nine-story loft building on East Nineteenth street, near Fifth avenue. The detectives had received a "tip" that burglars had planned to rob several lofts occupied by silk merchants, and were concealed in neighboring doorways when the three robbers entered the building.

Captain Stapleton and two of his detectives then slipped over to the building, after having arranged with the other detectives to guard front and rear of the building as well as the roof.

Most of the persons employed in lofts in the building had left for the day, when the detectives began their search. Stapleton tried door after door on his way up to the roof, and in the few that they found open learned from the occupants that no stranger had been seen.

By the time the detectives had reached the top floor they decided the three suspects had entered one of the lofts by means of a pass key, and then they began to telephone to the different merchants to return to the building and aid them in their search. It was not until three hours later that the first of the merchants appeared. By that time Acting Captain Stapleton had telephoned for the reserves to the West Thirtieth

THE BELVEA FUND

It would have done Hilton Belyea's heart good to have been at the City Hall, N. B., last evening to see the enthusiastic manner in which the Royal Baseball Club and their friends entertained more than 800 of an audience in aid of the fund to allow Hilton his highest honors in the racing world for old St. John. The programme, which was lengthy, was surprisingly good and was presented in a most commendable manner. A feature was several original songs, written and composed by Professor McCallum, all touching on the Royals and their activities. Mention must also be made of Professor McCallum's accompanying. He was at the piano during programme and performed remarkably well.

Toward the end of the entertainment J. Chasler, president of the St. John Rowing Club, made a few remarks, in which he thanked the efficient committee in charge and also the Royal club for staging the first public effort in aid of the benefit fund. He said he had received word from Philadelphia concerning Hilton and that the champion was doing well. "There is no doubt in my mind that he is going to win that race," he declared, amid rounds of applause. He announced that he had called Hilton's entry for the Diamond Scull trophy yesterday.

H. F. Bushman was chairman for the evening and the programme list was as follows: Opening chorus; solo, K. Burns; reading, L. Middleton; solo, Mrs. W. Meyers; solo, Miss Stella Burns; solo, Miss K. Price; solo, W. Currie; piano solo, Professor McCallum; solo, L. Middleton; duet, Misses Boyd; solo, Mrs. L. Morris; solo, Mrs. Treadwell; solo, Mrs. F. Lesley; solo, little Miss Mally; scales; saxophone solo, George Stewart; duet, Miss Helen Burns and Professor McCallum; solos, Robert Roach, Mrs. A. Middleton, Miss B. Price; specialty, Miss J. Price; closing chorus.

BRITISH BUDGET SHOWS REDUCTION

The estimate by the British Chancellor of the Exchequer of expenditure of £110,000,000 in the present fiscal year will, if realized, give Great Britain the first budget of less than a billion since the beginning of the war.

In the fiscal year ending March 31, 1915, British expenditures totalled £263,000,000, but, thereafter, the expenditures increased rapidly until in the year ending March 31, 1919, they amounted to about five times the expenditure in the first war year.

When British national spending was at its high level in 1917-1918, £2,403,000,000 or more than 88 per cent of the total was for military purposes.

The reduction annually in British government expenditures since the end of the war is indicated by the following figures received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York, from its English Information Service:

Fiscal year.	Pounds
1917-18 (March 31)	£2,697,000,000
1918-19 (March 31)	2,579,000,000
1919-20 (March 31)	1,666,000,000
1920-21 (March 31)	1,195,000,000
1921-22 (March 31)	1,079,000,000
1922-23 (March 31) (estimated)	910,000,000

Military expenditure was reduced to £1,146,000,000 or about 87 per cent of the total in the first peace year. In the first peace year. In the present fiscal year the preliminary estimates for army, navy and air forces call for £130,000,000, or about 15 per cent of the total estimated expenditure.

ROCKWOOD PARK VISITORS WARNED

Notices are to be placarded in Rockwood Park today with the following legend, in big black letters on white calico: "To the public. This property is for your use. Be careful of your matches, cigars, cigarettes and pipe ashes." The notices have been prepared by a member of the horticultural society and the material and the printing have been given by two city firms. The necessity for such notices was only too plainly demonstrated by the recent fires which disfigured a large tract of land in the Park that will take fully twenty-five years to recover from the fire damage. A carelessly thrown match may cause the scarring and damaging of a tract of land or it may destroy the whole Park. In Rockwood Park the citizens of St. John have a place of recreation which would be the envy of any city on the continent and the great majority of citizens take a just pride in it, yet it is by no means unusual for the wardens to find smouldering fires in the grass and brush which have been caused by careless smokers or picnickers. The notices are to be placed conspicuously and it is hoped that they will remind the public to protect what it enjoys. Those who cannot safeguard the Park from wanton fire destruction should be debarred from using it, one of the directors said yesterday.

"CONCEIT"

Published in Munsey's Magazine as "The Toll of the Wilderness." Photographed at Banff, Alta.

This is the story of a man who was his own worst enemy—
(You may see yourself) in "Conceit"

Tears blurred a strong man's eyes, but he was not ashamed—they were a tribute to a dead and wasted past. Wiping them away he saw—the future.

After Ball Players.

(Gloucester Gazette)
Unless baseball is started here within the next couple of weeks there is a possibility that a number of Gloucester players may be bought up by the Eastern Canada baseball league which recently got away to a good start in Montreal.

Already one local man has been signed by the person of Hughie McKinnin who is pitching for the Three Rivers team. Hughie has already made a good showing and is assured of a permanent berth with his team.

This morning Dannie McKenzie, star centre fielder of last year's Gloucester team, received an offer from McKinnin to play with Three Rivers this season. Jannie sent a return wire at noon accepting the offer.

It is reported that other Gloucester players will receive an offer within the next few days.

President Covey Says He is Ready—Amateur Sport is Going Well.

(Amherst News, Wednesday)
It is a difficult task to destroy the opinion of A. W. Covey, president of the M. B. A. U. C. Within the past few months he has been subjected to severe criticism, and he has been constant, but giving him his dues, he has come up smiling and looking for more.

Today he held the News that he was well satisfied with the way that things were going. He arrived in town, from a lengthy season in New Glasgow and remarked that he thought he would be assured of the support of most of the clubs in Pictou county. His views upon the affidavit question are of course well known, but in speaking of the situation, he informed the News that the affidavits from Springfield and Yarmouth had not been received, although press reports announced that the affidavits had been taken. In regard to the Halifax War Vets, Mr. Covey declared that their affidavits had been returned. He remarked that this club had taken the old affidavit, with signature at the top of the form, rather than at the bottom.

The President of the M. B. A. U. C. referred to a good many other subjects, but said emphatically that he was ready to take instant action against players, who signed the affidavits, and against whom the M. B. A. U. C. had definite proof that he received money, or violated amateur rulings before or after the period of war.

As far as the new organization was concerned Mr. Covey had little to say, aside from the fact that he would have greatly liked to attend the Amherst meeting.

MISS C. LEITCH WINS

Sandwich, England, May 18—Miss Cecil Leitch, British women's open golf champion, and Miss Joyce Wethered, English closed champion, will compete for the open championship over the Princess course here, both having won their matches in the semi-finals today.

BASKET SOCIAL.

A picnic and basket social was held last evening by the B. Y. P. U. of the Tabernacle church in aid of the building fund. A goodly sum was realized. An enjoyable programme was carried out during the evening.

Joseph Harding, of the Unique Theatre, arrived home yesterday after a trip to New York and Philadelphia. Mr. Harding was accompanied by his sister, Miss Kathleen.

Department of Education Committee Finds No Pro-British Propaganda Plot.

(New York Times.)

Charges that publishers and writers of school histories had conspired to engage in pro-British propaganda were held to be baseless in a report presented by the committee of the New York Department of Education, which has been investigating the subject for six months.

The committee, however, took the writers of textbooks for school use with many faults. The fundamental mistake, it was asserted, was the fact that the writers frequently failed to appreciate that they were writing for school children.

Their failure to grasp the limits of their field led some into long controversies which happened to interest them, but were a waste of space in school books, while others read hobbies in various ways.

Characterization of Jefferson as "a demagogue, a liar and an atheist" was outside the province of a school book, the committee held. Another complaint of the committee was the report and the description of stirring chapters of the history of the country.

"The pupils in our public schools," it is declared, "should not be taught the personal weaknesses of our national leaders."

"The specific findings and recommendations of the committee may be found in the stated aims in the report and in the critical analysis of the subjects presented in the monographs. As a result of careful consideration and discussion of the charges as a whole, the committee agrees upon the following findings:

"There is no evidence to support the charge that any of the text books examined was written as a result of unwholesome propaganda. Some of the writers frankly stated that they believed there ought to be more friendly relations between Great Britain and the United States, and that they wrote their histories from that standpoint.

"The usefulness of some of the books examined is impaired because the authors have written from the point of view of a critical historian, rather than from the point of view of a teacher.

"The pupils in our public schools should not be taught the personal weaknesses of our national leaders.

"The principal faults of the text book writers are:

"Failure to realize that many of the facts of history should be taught in the elementary grades, not as ends, but as means to ends; such as love for law and order, respect for constituted authority, appreciation of the institutions of the country and its ideals.

"Failure to describe adequately and vividly many of the most inspiring events in our history.

Never Again.

A philanthropic lady visited an asylum not long ago and displayed great interest in the patients. One old man particularly gained her compassion. "And how long have you been here, my man?" she inquired.

"Twelve years," was the answer.

"Do they treat you well?"

"Yes."

"After addressing a few more questions to him the visitor passed on. She noticed a smile broadening on the face of her attendant, and, on asking the cause, heard with consternation that the old man was none other than the medical superintendent. She hurried back to make apologies. How successful she was may be gathered from these words: "I'm sorry, doctor. I will never be governed by appearances again."—Presbyterian Banner.

POLICE COURT.

The preliminary hearing of the case against Fred Whittaker, charged with obtaining money under false pretences by passing worthless checks, was continued yesterday afternoon in the police court. J. I. Col, of the Provincial Bank, told of seeing several of the checks in court presented. They were worthless, he said. William Keen, G. W. Perkins, Jacob Margolian, Edward Murdaugh and Ford W. Dykeman told of receiving checks from the defendant in payment for goods bought. The prisoner asked for bail and was referred to Judge Armstrong, although the sitting magistrate
