

CIRCUS PARADE
DRAWS CROWDS

The Streets Lined While Big Show Makes Tour of City—Many Visitors in Town.

The Sells-Floto circus is in the city today and is showing on the East End Improvement League grounds, Marsh road. The usual excitement which marks the arrival of this famous summer attraction was in evidence, and if anybody is in doubt as to why they would have found every reason to correct this belief this morning by taking a look over the crowds lined along the streets where the parade was scheduled to pass. Thousands turned out—from the small boy to people well up in years, all seemed unanimous that it was well worth seeing.

The composition of the parade was fully up to any witnessed here in former years. There were lions and tigers, camels, elephants, seals, a large hippopotamus, a cage full of monkeys, bears, ostriches and other animals at which the spectators gazed with interest. The detachments of men and women riders in their flashy and pretty costumes attracted considerable attention, while the clowns in usual attire kept up a merry chatter and with their antics evoked hearty laughter. The members of the bands livened things up with their "jazz" numbers, while the pipe organ with its weird harmonious strains added to the excitement as it passed along.

The elephants as large as any seen here in many years, six walked in the parade and displayed the affection so noticeable among these animals holding on to the tail of the one in front. The camels were utilized to haul one of the carriages containing a number of birds, while a motor drawn lorry contained the hippopotamus. The patrol wagon caught the eye of all and the custodians of the law were the subject of much raillery. A large number of people arrived in the city from suburban points and along the St. John and Kennebec rivers to see the show and during the morning many visited the grounds to have a look about. The various side-shows were decked with sensational views to entice the pleasure seeker, while the entire surroundings suggested that something out of the ordinary was taking place and seemed to have magnetism to draw and hold interest.

CHICAGO WHEAT MARKET.

Chicago, June 20.—Favorable weather for harvesting together with depression in the stock market had a bearish effect today on wheat. Trade lacked volume and prices were easily influenced. Opening prices, which varied from 1.3 to 1.14 cents lower, with July 1.27 to 1.27 3/4, and September 1.22 1/2 to 1.23, were followed by material further setbacks and then something of a rally. Corn declined also. After opening 5-8 off to 1.2 up including September at 63 3/4 to 64 the market underwent a moderate general fall.

Oats were governed by the action of other cereals, starting unchanged to 1-4 cent higher, September, 39 3/8 to 39 7/8, and then undergoing a sag all around.

C. P. R. AT LOWEST

Many New Low Records in Wall Street.

Metals, leathers and the cheaper oils also established lower prices.

New York, June 20.—(Wall street, noon) The closing of C. P. R. in large volume during the morning forced the price down four points to 110, the lowest quotation in twenty years.

Supporting orders steadied and Pan-American Petroleum, but domestic and European oils were heavy. Tobacco, rubber, leather, textile and food specialties showed losses of 1 to 3 points. Call money opened at 5 1/2 per cent.

WHENCE MARRIAGE CUSTOMS CAME

The Significance of the Old Shoe—Why June is More Popular Than May—The Wedding Ring.

(Toronto Mail and Empire)
Since very ancient times, and for a reason not yet understood, June has been the favorite month for marrying, and May one of the most unpopular. Quoth the old poet:—

Marry in May
And rue the day
So be or somebody else quoth to this effect:—

Mary in June
All life be tune

Probably some superstition was responsible for these beliefs, for in the seasonal life of the ancients we perceive no sufficient reason for June marriages that would not apply to May. Therefore, as people have become less superstitious, or rather, as they have grown superstitious about different things, they still have acquired the habit of marrying in May and take their chances about ruling the day. They have not wholly shaken free from the belief that June is the best month for marrying. Correcting Ovid.

One explanation that has been frequently offered and which is perhaps generally accepted by people who accept their theories from newspapers, is that May was deemed an unfortunate month because it had been named in honor of Maia, Mother of Mercury, who was as frail as she was fair, and wanted to be married. Therefore, a name associated with such a hussy, would not be considered of good omen by either man or woman about to perform a serious and lasting act. June, on the other hand, was deemed propitious because it was named for Juno, a model of fidelity. It was not until the practice of having first set forth this theory, but rarely as we feel ourselves obliged to differ from Ovid, accuracy demands that his mistake should be set forth. May was named by Romulus in honor of the Majores of Senators of Rome, and June was named for the Juniores or Members of the Lower House.

The Old Shoe
The Romans preferred June, but it is said that in ancient times partially for this month never equalled the aversion for May. The Greeks, on the other hand, liked to put a marital bet on January. Nearly all races favor certain climatic conditions for weddings. The Russians believed that weddings at Easter bring wealth, those at Ascension Day health, at Whitsunday domestic felicity, and at Trinity Sunday a large family. Among other old customs to which the month draws attention is that of throwing an old shoe after the bride of after the bride and groom, a shoe that not infrequently inflicts a wound on some more or less innocent bystander or smashes the glass in the back of the automobile.

A Symbol of Obedience
Now, the old shoe custom is one of great antiquity, but while the reasonably certain that while the throwing of the shoe is intended nowadays to mean nothing more than a wish of good luck, it once connoted something more. It indicated the duty of the bride to obey her husband. Among the Jews the shoe used to be carried at the head of the wedding procession. Some Jews had the custom of giving their brides the custom of giving their brides the slight tap with the shoe from time to time. The Nesterians used to improve on this by lavishing a kick upon their gawdy-eyed darlings. Ancient Russian grooms on the night of their wedding used to conceal a small whip in one boot and a present of money in the other. The bride would kneel down and remove the boots. It was unlucky for her if she first drew the whip, for then her master would upbraid her with it, and the omen was that he would have frequent need of it in the long happy years before them. If she first found the pumpe of gold, her husband would take it to keep for her, and praise her, for her cleverness, which bade fair to add to his prosperity.

The Ring
The old shoe custom appears to have been venerable long before the wedding ring came into vogue. At first the ring was merely one of the gifts that the bridegroom would make to his intended wife when they became betrothed. This, at least, was the custom among the Anglo-Saxons, who called such pledges a "wed," from which, as our readers have already inferred, we derive our word wedding, and not from the god Woden, as more unprincipled expositors would have them believe. It was the duty of the girl never to remove the ring from her hand until the wedding. Then the bridegroom himself would slip it from a finger of the right hand, when it was worn during the engagement period, and place it on each of the four fingers of the left hand in succession. The symbolism of the ring indicates, from the fact that it has neither beginning nor end, eternity, and in those days this was considered to mean the average duration of love.

WHEN finer wool can be secured; when better spinning and knitting processes are devised, it may be possible to excel the quality in these wonderful children's stockings. But it is not possible to-day. "Little Darling" for infants, and "Little Daisy" for children up to 12 years, are the best that can be made—a bold claim, but one that thousands of women will grant. Your own judgment will affirm it. Only fine Australian lamb's wool is ever used to make these soft stockings. If mothers have ever found it hard to procure "Little Darling" or "Little Daisy" hosiery, there was a good reason. Whenever there was a shortage of the proper wool, we had to make fewer of these wonderful stockings. No substitute has ever replaced that wonderful wool. LITTLE DARLING HOSIERY—for babies and tiny tots up to seven—has silken toe and heel. LITTLE DAISY HOSIERY—for children up to twelve—has extra strength in heel and toe. GREAT OPPORTUNITY.

The naval expenditure of Great Britain for the fiscal year beginning July 1 is estimated at $410,000,000. In the matter of building, four new vessels are to be laid down, not to increase the navy, but to take the place of obsolete ships.

The United States senate proposed an expenditure greater by $84,000,000 than that of Great Britain, and the house bill carried only a proposed cut of $14,000,000 from the senate's total.

There is not the slightest doubt that Great Britain and Japan would welcome such a conference. The attitude of the United States Congress is not easy to understand.

Two NOTABLE ADDRESSES. In a memorial day address at Alexandria, Ont., last week, Sir George Foster said: "Don't let us magnify differences of race and creed in this country, but let us magnify common patriotism, our common country."

THE LAND OF HEARTS CONTENT. "The Land of Hearts Content," a dreamer said, "Perhaps is somewhere out beyond the sea; There joy, like perfume, by the breeze is shed, There smiles, like roses, bloom on herb and tree, There love is golden on each sunny sea, Flaming in flowers and the twilight's red."

LABOR MATTERS IN DOMINION

Slow but Steady Improvement is Reported — Cost of Living.

Ottawa, June 20.—(Canadian Press.)—At the beginning of May employment among trade unions in Canada was 16.27 per cent of the total membership as compared with 16.46 per cent, at the beginning of April and 2.52 per cent at the beginning of May, 1920, according to the June issue of the Labor Gazette. THE WEEK-END IN IRELAND

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Dublin, June 19.—A count of the casualties resulting from the ambush of Crown forces at the junction of Ryders Row and Capel street last night shows that the affair was more serious than at first reported, one officer, soldier and ten civilians being wounded in the fighting.

Philip Duggan was dragged from his home at Grangebeggen, County Kildare, by eight armed men and shot dead. His mother, who is seventy years old, was seriously wounded.

The dead body of Patrick Darcy, a school teacher, was found near Corraclare by a police patrol. It was labelled: "Sooner or later we get them. This spy was tried, convicted and executed by the Irish Republican Army."

The steamer Rostellan Castle, with supplies consigned to the military forces on Spike Island, was boarded yesterday by twenty armed men in boats at Black Rock, County Cork, and beer, potatoes and cakes were thrown overboard.

Following the shooting of Constable Campbell near Dundalk Friday night, armed men early Saturday morning entered a saloon and took two sons of the proprietor, John and Patrick Watters, from their beds and shot them in the streets. A third son escaped.

STILL CONFERRING ON WAGES CUT FOR C. P. R. MEN

Montreal, June 20.—(By Canadian Press.)—The conference between Vice-President Grant Hall of the C. P. R. and representatives of labor which has been proceeding intermittently since Friday, continued up to ten o'clock Saturday night and was then temporarily adjourned. None of the participants had any announcement to make. The discussion of the proposed wage reduction of 12 per cent on this railroad will be continued this week.

Adler-i-ka Again!

"I was troubled with constipation and indigestion for about three years. Was afraid to eat even rice. Since taking Adler-i-ka I can eat anything without fear." (Signed) Mrs. A. Howard.

Adler-i-ka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing foul matter which poisons stomach. Brings out all gasses, relieving pressure on heart and other organs. EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach or sour stomach. Removes a surprising amount of foul, decaying matter which you never thought was in your system and which nothing else can dislodge. Prevents appendicitis. Adler-i-ka surprises those who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines.

NEWSPRINT FROM SOUTHERN SPRUCE PINE

Birmingham Paper Uses It and Experts Say it Equals Canadian Product.

Birmingham, Ala., June 20.—The Birmingham Age Herald this morning was published on paper manufactured from southern spruce pine, which grows along the banks of the Warrior River and in the hilly sections of North Alabama, covering many thousands of acres. The paper was manufactured from wood sent to northern mills and is declared by experts to be the equal in every respect of the newsprint made from Canadian spruce.

The Alabama pine, which is unfit for lumber, contains an unusually fine fibre, has a very thin bark, virtually no heart and contains only a trace of resin. It requires one ton of wood to make a ton of paper pulp.

YESTERDAY IN THE CHURCHES

The city Methodist ministers, being away at the conference in Sackville, visiting preachers occupied their pulpits yesterday and in three cases two congregations in the city united under one minister in order to relieve the other minister. Those who conducted the services in the Methodist churches were as follows: At Portland church, Rev. C. Graham at both services; Queen square

Rev. W. D. Wilson in the morning and Rev. Dr. D. Hutchinson in the evening; Esmond street, John W. Hughes both services; Zion church, C. T. Jones in the morning and the pastor, Rev. S. Howard, in the evening; in Centenary, Rev. J. J. Pinkerton, both services; in Carleton Methodist, Rev. Josiah Champion, of Sackville, both services; Carmichael street church, Walter Brindle, both services.

In the Fairville Methodist church united services with the St. Columbia Presbyterian church were continued. During the absence of Rev. W. Townsend of St. Columbia's church, who attended the meetings of the general assembly, the two congregations were in charge of Rev. Thomas Marshall. Yesterday, in the absence of Mr. Marshall, services were conducted by Mr. Townsend.

and were in the Presbyterian church in the morning and in the Methodist church in the evening. Dr. C. De S. Pool, professor of languages at Mount Allison University, was the preacher at the Methodist church at Westfield yesterday morning and at Brown's Flat in the afternoon.

The congregations of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church and the Germain street church were united in the morning in the Baptist church and in the evening in St. Andrew's church. The Ludlow street Baptist church and the Charlotte street Baptist church congregations united and met in the morning in the Ludlow street church and in the evening in the Charlotte street church. Rev. Isaac Brindley was the preacher.

Rev. E. P. Wright, of St. Luke's church, delivered the sermon in Trinity church in the morning. Rev. W. D. Wilson, secretary of the New Brunswick Temperance Alliance, in a sermon at the Main street Baptist church last night spoke of prohibition matters as they concern New Brunswick. Harold Camp, of Waterville (N. S.), was the speaker in the Central Baptist church in the absence of Rev. F. H. Bone, who is in Woodstock.

St. Paul's church at Rousesay was filled to the doors yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the annual service which is part of the closing exercises of the Rousesay Collegiate School. Headed by their bugle band, the scholars paraded to church and were seated in a body for the service. The choir was composed of men and boys and led in the stirring hymns and chants with splendid effect. Rev. W. R. Hibbard, the principal of the school, conducted the service and the lessons were read by Rev. A. W. Daniel. Rev. W. P. Dunham, of the Church of the Good Shepherd, in Fairville, delivered the sermon. Mr. Dunham took for the text of his sermon the fourth verse of the fourth chapter of the second book of Kings. "Pour out into all these vessels." He spoke eloquently of the need of expansion of activity and diversity of interests and he pointed out that by doing the power of doing was increased. He recommended the graduates not to confine their endeavors in a restricted sphere.

The anniversary of the signing of the Magna Charta had fitting commemoration in the sermon delivered at St. Paul's church last evening, when Archdeacon A. H. Crowfoot, read the Magna Charta and there laid the foundation of the liberty enjoyed by all English-speaking people. Archdeacon Crowfoot took as the text for his sermon the saying of St. Paul, "The church is the pillar of truth" and St. John will say, "The truth shall make you free." Rev. W. D. Wilson was the speaker last evening in the Main street Baptist church, and in the course of his remarks asked for the co-operation of the congregation in the coming referendum, the date of which, he understood, was October 17. Mr. Wilson took as his subject the constructive power of the church and the destructive power of the liquor trade. He told of the two tragedies recently in Fredericton, where in one case a man was left to suffer under an overturned automobile, and in another case a young man had yielded to temptation while under the influence of liquor and was now in prison. He appealed to all members present to enroll as members of the Temperance Alliance, which a number did at the close of the service.

He expressed the conviction that Canada would assume a very important role in the future as one of the sister nations which form the empire. Their excellencies left for Quebec city where they will spend a month.

ST. JOHN AND ROTHESAY BOYS IN SCOUT GAME

On Saturday afternoon, thirty-nine representative Boy Scouts, chosen from the eighteen local troops in St. John, engaged in one of Sir Robert Baden-Powell's scouting games called "Tails," with a group of scouts belonging to the Second Rousesay (Consolidated school) Troop.

The St. John scouts were taken out to Riverside by train and despatched from there by District Commissioner Guy L. Short, with orders to get to the Consolidated school without losing their "Tails." The "Tails" were the scout neckerchiefs tucked in the back of their belts.

The Rousesay scouts were in hiding throughout the countryside between Riverside and the school, waiting to capture as many "Tails" as they could. The St. John scouts lost about twenty "Tails" out of the thirty-nine which started out.

Scoutmaster C. T. Wetmore of the Rousesay Troop was congratulated on the splendid training in scoutcraft which he has given his scouts.

The scouts had supper on the beach after the game, and did not seem to mind the showers.

SAYS WOMEN ARE BEST SALES "MEN" "A woman should make a better sales- person than a man."

That's what Orville C. Davis, presi- dent of the Utica Kiwanis Club, told the Zonta Club, of Utica, N. Y., in an ad- dressed, was not by any means confined to sex.

"Women possess certain advantages over men in many lines of business. They have the same ability as men and in addition intuition to a remarkable de- gree."

"The advice of the old professor to the girl graduate is worth considering," said the speaker. "Never dress, walk, talk or laugh so as to attract attention to your- self and away from what you are selling, and you will not only go forward, but will retain the respect of men every- where. Men like to see business women attractive, but not the extreme of fash- ion nor the entire disregard of it."

"Thoughtlessness is another trait. Both on the endeavor one is engaged in. Strive not to keep the busy person wait- ing at the desk or counter, while unim- portant matters are discussed with one's companions."

"Women, perhaps due to their few years in business, often show an incli- nation to evade responsibility, doing in- stead the regular routine work. Women should be ready to assume responsibility as well as men."

"Marriage is the last hindrance I will mention. Many employers hesitate to teach the details of their business to a woman, for fear she will marry just as soon as she is competent to assume an executive position. Many women leave business to marry some fellow, but scarcely ever without giving weeks' notice of their intention, whereas many fellows change employment just for the sake of a change."

Spots Prospects Even While He Is Loafing. Linoleum has been one of the hobbies among the lines to be stimulated during recent years by the manager of the American Hardware Co., Pacumcar, N. M. He has not only done everything he could to get the maximum business from the influence among women of advertising of this useful line in women's magazines, but he has even gone further.

Being on good terms with other retail- ers of the town, even competitors, he Card and Door Sold Oversupply of Locks. Suppose you were a hardware dealer who had about five times as many locks on hand as you knew what to do with—locks of various sizes and shapes, but all of them of a widely advertised and favor- ably known make. How would you get rid of them without cutting the price?

Even if you devoted a week to a con- sideration of the problem, you probably could devise a better plan than that which the Barrett-Hicks Company of Fresno, Cal., used to such excellent ad- vantage recently, a plan which not only wiped out their surplus stock but caused them to wire for another consignment of locks to meet the demand.

The manager of the store, faced by the problem of stimulating lock sales in a hurry, analyzed the situation from the standpoint of public interest. For the better part of an hour he turned the question over in his mind and then, suddenly, he smiled, for the solu- tion had come to him out of the air. The next morning the window of the Barrett-Hicks store contained a display of locks that caused every passerby to stop, look and laugh. But, better than that, it caused at least one out of every four to step inside, whisper something to one of the clerks and emerge in a minute to the music of the jangling cash register. The window wasn't an elaborate one, either. Outside of the locks, it held just two things—an old-fashioned slanting cellar-door leaning up against the back- ground of the display and a card which read:

"Put a lock on your cellar-door— It looks like a long dry spell!"

Few Merchants Are Cutting Ad Space. Although there has been no consider- able reduction in advertising space used, American business men during the pres- ent period of business depression are seeking greater efficiency per inch space, according to the domestic distri- bution department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. This department has just completed a survey made for the purpose of determining what manufacturers, retailers and wholes- alers are doing to cut overhead ex- penses as a means of meeting the de- mand for lower prices.

"What have you done to reduce your publicity to a normal basis?" was one of the questions asked. Not more than a fourth of those answering said that they had cut down advertising space, but that was in part balanced by re- ports from many others who found de- pression a justification for an increased use of advertising. There was an actual increase in the use of circulating as a means of publicity, an indication per- haps of a desire to move quickly ac- cumulated stock.

Frequently, through the comment which accompanied the answers to the questions about publicity, there appear- ed a note of determination not to cut off advertising as a method of selling but to make certain of greater results.

Some of the answers are: "We have taken no steps to reduce our advertising space, as it is our feeling that it is false economy to cut down adver- tising at a time when business is in need of a stimulant to keep it alive."

"We regard our advertising rather as an investment and as business insurance than as expense. Our effort, therefore, has been to maintain an adequate all- round campaign at a minimum total cost."

"We do not feel that we should de- crease publicity; if any change it should be increased."

It is our idea that cutting the ad- vertising would only increase the cost of selling merchandise and we believe we are right."

"We have rather added to advertising, as this has always been our custom—ad- vertise heavily when business is hard and 'go easy' when it is coming any- way."

Stories of Admiral "Tug" Wilson, Who Died Recently in England—How Lloyd George Fooled the "Listener in" on 'Phone Talks—News Topics of Week in London.

(From our own correspondent.) London, June 2.—The Crown Prince of Japan left on Sunday, and everyone is sorry that the industrial crisis, through which we have been passing, threw something of a cloud over his visit. The Row is gay and animated enough, but there have been very few social gatherings; even the sacred cause of charity has given up garden parties in despair. Theatres are empty, and the restaurants are threatening to close down.

Nevertheless Prince Hirohito has probably learned more by his visit and existing conditions than he would have done if his stay had been a round of social gaiety. He is a man with a very old head set on a very young body. The Japanese are reckoned as a year old on the day of their birth, but the crown prince must surely have been very much older on his particular natal day. He is taking back with him many mementoes of his visit to England, including complete photographic records of his doings. He will not return direct to Japan, but will spend some time on the continent.

"Tug" Wilson. Nearly all the obituary writers dwell on the strong contrast between Admiral "Tug" Wilson and Admiral "Jacky" Fisher, both of whom incidentally corroborate the rule that big men invariably contract a nickname. But there was one difference between these two great sea-men besides their sharply contrasted temperaments and personalities—the one sombre and reticent, the other flamboyant and assertive—which was, perhaps, more important. Admiral Wilson was probably better liked by naval officers generally than Admiral Fisher, though the former was never idolized by his favorites as the latter was, but Wilson was not the popular commander on the lower deck that Fisher was. Wilson was a martinet of the severest type. Fisher had more breadth of humanity about him. Wilson was the type of scientific student. Fisher was a sheer artist. In personal magnetism, there was truly no comparison between the two. Fisher had the dramatic flair which distinguished all great captains of men; Wilson lacked that. The one was a tactician, the other a great strategist. While the one was pondering systems, the other would be dreaming visions. But there was no mistaking the grit in Wilson. His V. C. at El Leb was won by holding the broken corner of the British square with his fists. He retired just before the war, and, like so many old salts, became a real country squire. But he came up to town occasionally to call at the Admiralty, and in his rusty old bowler and with his Wellingtonian umbrella, looked as rustic a civilian as ever marshalled a line of battle.

"By Special Request." Among the many stories being told about the dead admiral, I have not seen the best and most characteristic dealing with his last cruise. It was in 1907, when "Tug" Wilson held the highest post about as commander-in-chief of the home fleet, that he was called upon to take up the tin, inconspicuous post of First Sea Lord. He was a superb tactician, the greatest the steam navy has ever known, and he made his last manoeuvres memorable by a crowning achievement. The home fleet was sent to the Mediterranean for "fleet exercises" with the Atlantic fleet. Outside the Atlantic the Spanish coast knows how. And "Tug" made the two fleets weigh anchor and carry out their exercises in the teeth of the gate. Not content with this, he amalgamated them into a single fleet under his flag, the largest ever known at that time, and handled the combined force with all his skill.

Naval officers today still speak with bated breath of that terrible cruise in a howling gale and mountainous seas, and repeat the sharp, sarcastic signals which emanated from the flagship whenever an unfortunate ship lost station. When he worked his will fully impressively, and with a lesson in seamanship it never forgot, he sailed with the home fleet for England. The day after his arrival in port he bade farewell to the fleet in a short signal ending with the command, "There will be no cheering when the admiral goes over the side." So great was his prestige that this order was strictly observed and the navy said goodbye to its greatest sea commander in dead silence.

The Prince in the West. The Prince of Wales thoroughly enjoyed his trip in the west of England, and especially his journey to the little-visited Scilly Isles. The end of May is not quite the best time to go there. The fields of narcissus and other flowering blooms have lost their spring-time beauty, and apart from agriculture and the culture of flowers for the London market, the islands can boast no industry other than the traditional one of taking in each others' washing. Everything is delightfully elementary, and it is a fact that some of our Harley street specialists are beginning to send nerve patients there to take the rest cure.

ST. JOHN WOMAN NOW TESTIFIES Mrs. Sherwood Had to Live on Bread and Tea Only Because of Stomach Trouble, But She Can Eat Anything Now.

"I don't know whether my daughter or myself is the most enthusiastic about Tanlac, for we both owe it so much gratitude we never get tired praising it," Mrs. H. H. Sherwood, 186 Orange street, St. John, N.B. "For three years I was in a dreadful row, and I was so weak that I seemed to be no hope of relief for me. My stomach was in a bad condition and I had to live almost entirely on bread and butter and tea. My nerves were worn almost to the breaking point, and I was little more than a shadow of what I used to be. "Finally I broke down completely and went to a hospital for several weeks. While the stay helped me I gradually went back to my old condition. I was so weak I had to hire help to get my housework done. "Since taking Tanlac my appetite is just splendid and I eat things I hadn't touched before in years. My nerves are steady and I sleep like a child at night. My daughter, who has always been delicate, seeing how Tanlac helped me started taking it, too, and the results have been just as remarkable in her case as they were in mine. Tanlac is simply grand!" Tanlac is sold in St. John by The Ross Drug Company and leading druggists.

Welsh Attorney? He was equal to the occasion as usual. He promptly installed at the other end of the phone in London a trusted confidant as the memorial to the daily and nightly conversations, which were conducted exclusively in the Welsh vernacular. That absolutely gratified the people who had been deliberately and systematically tapping these private conversations actually resented the artifice by which they were now being made. It made the most energetic remonstrances.

A Lesson in Flying. One of the British pilots, who is flying for a Dutch company near Amsterdam, tells me that in Holland the general public takes the keenest interest in the air. Big crowds collect on the military aerodrome whenever the army machines are being flown, and even motor-cars are in great numbers to see the show. One day this week a couple of military pilots, of so very particular skill, performed a few "stunts" before a large and appreciative audience. The British ex-war pilots the roll and turns lacked the polish of the perfect "stunt merchant," but they were loved and cheered for themselves hoarse. After the exhibition was over there appeared, sailing with easy decorum over the aerodrome, a stately, dignified, and well-dressed man. He flew round the aerodrome, turning on its wing with consummate grace, and plainly demonstrating how inept in comparison with the military pilots. The crowd watched the creature with unseeing eyes and it finally departed over the canal without receiving so much as one cheer.

Hobbs Trophy. There is generally a crowd round the athletic "outfitters" shop in Fleet street run by the famous cricketer, Hobbs, whose strained thigh muscles are keeping him out of the game. The shop is a great success and is a great success. Londoners swear by Hobbs, and he occupies much the same position in the sporting world that W. G. Grace used to do in Bristol and the West Country in the good old days. Today the pavement outside his shop is so crowded by cricketers gazing into the window that one could not pass without struggling. The special attraction seemed to be a trophy of the last season, the Hobbs Trophy. It consists of a willow cricket bat cut out of the rough, properly splined and handled, and with a cricket ball of jaunty little kookaburras, small Australian birds something like our kingfisher, painted on the blade. This bat was presented to Hobbs at the end of the tour by some Australian admirers, who describe themselves as "barrackers," but appreciative of the Surrey player's cheerful sporting spirit. Amongst the signed autographs are many well-known names, including several of the cricketers who wish him luck out of all proportion to the cost of the presentation. If, happily, Hobbs makes a recovery and returns to the England side this season, he might do worse than test the Australian "barrackers" mascot in a test match.

Our Petrol Derby. War or no war, strike or no strike, the Derby still goes on. During the war, when it could not take place at Epsom, it took place at Newmarket, and yesterday, though there were no trains, it apparently did go. The Surrey lanes and highways were crowded with strings of vehicles from four-in-hands and Rolls Royce cars to donkey-harrowed and perambulators. There was even an anti-airship above controlling the traffic and sending out messages by wireless whenever there was a difficulty. The crowd was one of the greatest ever known on Epsom Downs. Perhaps it will enable the English side this season, he might do worse than test the Australian "barrackers" mascot in a test match.

As a result, I would not describe it as absolutely popular. It never is popular when a horse which has failed rather signally in one great race beats the same field of competitors in another and still bigger race. But Mr. Joel is to be congratulated on his second Derby win and especially on having a genius of a jockey like Donaghe to pilot his horse to victory. Donaghe was to have ridden for Lord Derby but that noble lord and splendid sportsman thought of scratching his own horse on account of the hard going and so gave Donaghe permission to ride for Mr. Joel. When Lord Derby decided after all, to let his own horse run he was much too good BACKACHE AND SORE KIDNEYS ARE DUE TO ACIDITY "Drink a strongly alkaline water to neutralize the acids and flush the kidneys. Then the pains must go," says JOHNIE BASHAM, Welterweight Boxing Champion of Great Britain.

Not one person in a hundred flushes the kidneys often enough, or knows how to do it properly. Not one in five hundred over the age of forty understands how easily kidney neglect can lead to serious rheumatism, gout, sciatica, or even such dreaded maladies as Bright's Disease, Dropsy, or Diabetes. It is astonishing how few persons, excepting chemists and the medical profession, understand that the water we drink must reach the kidneys by first being absorbed into the blood, and that if the water is the kidneys when being expelled, taking with it the acids and impurities it has absorbed while in the blood. This is why the strongly alkaline water of famous hot springs are so effective. Kidney, rheumatic or uric acid sufferers can easily prove this to themselves by drinking before breakfast every other morning for a week or two, a glass of hot water in which you have dissolved a level teaspoonful of the Alka Seltzer (powder form), which all chemists can supply. It is pleasant, its cost very slight, indeed, and it probably is as good as anything you can use for the purpose. Afterward, you will be likely to have much pleasure with any of your friends if they continue to suffer after you have told them about this.

REDUCE TAXATION TO HELP BUSINESS, APPEAL OF TAFT High Taxes Obstruction to Enterprise—Advised Visitors from U. S. to Cultivate Relations With Canadians.

(Montreal Gazette.) By force of good will and circumstances, William Howard Taft, ex-President of the United States, became the central figure at the twelfth annual convention of the American Iron, Steel and Heavy Hardware Association, which opened at the Windsor Hotel yesterday.

Mr. Taft is in Montreal as a member of the Grand Trunk Arbitration Board, and naturally when so typical an American convention was held he was called upon to address the delegates, representing many of the greatest metal firms in the United States.

In a brief introductory remark the president, Eugene J. McCarthy, of Buffalo, expressed his pleasure in presenting its last president, Mr. Taft. "We all welcome Mr. Taft," he said, "as one of the most respected and loved men who ever held high commission in the United States, and the less so that Mr. Taft comes to us informally, and almost unexpectedly."

Mr. Taft made a brief speech of welcome as an American citizen; "For I am still a citizen of the United States, although it has been my good fortune to spend a good deal of time in Canada, and to know what a very resilient, young and strong nation this is, and to realize that the difference between it is more in laws than in substance."

"You have come here," he continued, "from a country in which there is not the exuberant joy over business conditions that we have sometimes had. The leaders of great industrial plants all state that there is a good thing coming. They may be right, but the question is as to how closely they measure the time."

a desperate condition, and if there ever was a motive towards proffering, it is the taking of almost all the profits from men who are trying to carry on business. More than that, it frightens capital into non-productive business investments, which do not tend toward business activity."

"Further," said Mr. Taft, "the overtaxing of business alarmed merchants and frightened citizens, and led them to wait and see."

"Therefore, I should say the first thing that is necessary is a reasonable reduction of taxation. But there are those who think that if you can only tax the rich man so that he is not rich, or so that he has to borrow money to pay his taxes and to pay his ordinary family expenses, why, somebody is getting the better of him. Well, you can read the lesson others things that we have at home which do not make for general prosperity and a restoration to the normal."

Must be Patient. "Of course we must be patient in the working out of the problem. We have an enormous cost of government, and it should be divided between the present generation and the generations to come by funding it in long term securities, which shall transfer part of the burden of those who come after us."

"One of the things we must realize in dealing with governmental matters—and it is the reason we ought to keep business as much as we can out of the government—is that governments move slowly, and all sorts of views have to be considered, and weighed. Ultimately, of course, the ordinary common sense of the American people asserts itself, but it sometimes takes an exasperating period to have it work itself through—at least it seems exasperating to us."

"It is a good thing to have you here. It is a good thing to cultivate relations with the Canadians. They are a responsive people. They have demonstrated their great capacity in the war, and they feel a new confidence in their own country, and one of the things we have to carry in our minds always is that the stronger and more prosperous the Canadians become, even from a mere selfish standpoint, the better for us. They are our nearest neighbors, and we should look with every degree of satisfaction on their growth to the greater things to which they are coming."

"I agree that temporarily there is a feeling of competition, on both sides, possibly, but that in the long run amounts to nothing as compared with the business that two great peoples alongside are bound to do with each other. I may think I am getting back to my old theory of reciprocity. As I am out of politics and as I have no responsibility on the subject, I can still continue to think as I once did, and occasionally let it out."

Our Portrait is of Mr. E. WHEELER, of 22, Regent Street Bally, Doncaster, England, who writes:— "About two years ago I had a wound break out in my big toe. It attended to for about three months but during that time it had spread to the toes, with the result that I had undergone an operation, but with no result. Then, after another operation, as it did not get any better, I thought I would give your 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' a try. After taking the first three bottles I felt better, and now after having four bottles the wound has quite healed. I am pleased to say I have not seen sign of it breaking out since."

Sufferers from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Eczema, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Rheumatism, Gout, should realize that toxins and other poisons which enter the blood must be completely and lastingly removed, the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impurities which are the true cause of such troubles. Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly attacks, overcomes, and eradicates the impurities, that is why so many remarkable recoveries result to credit. Pleasant to take and free from injurious ingredients.

Of all Dealers—see that you get Clarke's Blood Mixture "Everybody's Blood Purifier."

CARPENTIER

A Fine Bit of Writing by a New Yorker on the French Champion.

(New York Evening Post)

Always zealous to keep our clients informed as to the things that matter, we felt it our duty to go out to Manhattan the other afternoon to see M. Carpentier at his exercises.

We had not realized beforehand that M. Carpentier's public sessions would be quite such a special event.

The farmhouse was surrounded by magnificent looking motor cars; there was at least one gentleman who was extremely modern in a charming jacket of bisque whipcord, white flannel trousers and shoes made up of alternate strips of brown leather and buckskin.

His shirt was of a pensive and delicate blue; he wore a bow tie. M. Descamps, the cheerful-

We do our best to conceal these goings on from the other sporting men, but just as we thought we had erected an impenetrable fence of newspaper the conductor came along and demanded our ticket.

Then, as Boccaccio said in one of his regrettable tales, all abode discovered.

He is a good deal more substantial than his pictures in street clothes show him. The only part of him that seemed to us a little less stalwart than we would like to see is his neck.
