CHUBB'S CORNER IS SOLD

BOUGHT AS SPECULATION

Is Rich in Association With the Business of St. John—Local Syndicate the Purchasers—Old Days at "the Corner" Recalled

Almost every day now brings a report of the purchase of property about the city and in most cases the purchasers are local men, who have become imbued with new optimism over the future of the city.

The ground floor is at present occupied by J. C. Mcintosh & Co., financial brokers; the basement by Alexander Philip, broker and John B. Jones, liquor license inspector; and the upper portion by Dr. Silas Alward, K.C., Amos A. Wilson, S. B. Hustin, S. A. Williams, Contractor, the Northern Life Assurance Co., and H. Heans, bookbinder.

As an indication of the demand for office quarters in that district, it is known that the owner of the Perkins building, adjoining, has had half a dozen offers for his property since he acquired it a few months ago.

As stated a local syndicate are the purchasers of the Chubb building and among the number is said to be J. H. Doody. Chubb's corner has a very interesting history.

For many years James Chubb's corner has been the recognized stock exchange of the city, and all property auction sales have been held there.

The building has been sold with a great deal of interest.

ROCKEFELLER AND HIS PASTOR NEAR PARTING OF WAYS

Will Not be Surprising if Rev. Dr. Aled Resigns From Fifth Avenue Church Pastorate

New York, Jan. 6.—The man with his ear to the ground hears that before long the Rev. Dr. Charles D. Aled, pastor of John D. Rockefeller's Fifth Avenue Baptist Church and the head of Standard Oil, will soon come to a parting of the ways. Both want to have their own way in the management with the result that neither quite succeeds.

For a good many years John D. Rockefeller, jr., has been the head of one of the Sunday school classes and has used it as a vehicle to express his views on subjects appertaining to the question of civic virtue. Through the publicity department of the Standard Oil these utterances have been given wide publicity. Mr. Rockefeller believes that the spiritual activities of his son are a good thing for some of the harsh criticism to which he is subjected from time to time.

It is no secret that Dr. Aled, who enjoyed a high reputation in Liverpool before Mr. Rockefeller induced him to cross the Atlantic, resents the impression he makes as a chameleon of the oil king, as the disposition apparent everywhere in matters of church policy would indicate.

Recently there has been a big row over the question of extensive improvements to the edifice for which a large sum of money was subscribed. The clergyman and some of Mr. Rockefeller's advisers disagreed over the plans and it is now proposed to return the money to the subscribers, minus architect's fees. To add to the discomfort of the pastor he has been dragged

WANT AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS AND ALSO PRODUCTS ON FREE LIST

Montreal, Jan. 6.—The Star's Washington correspondent wires:

"In political circles here, it is expected that the United States government will make a strong move for reciprocity in agricultural products, while considerable pressure has been brought to bear to get the government to endeavor to obtain from Canada the admission of agricultural implements free into Canada.

"For several years past there has been an increasing shortage in agricultural products in the United States and the cost of living has risen so much in consequence that there is a strong body of opinion pressing for the free admission of Canada's agricultural products to this country.

"In return for these concessions, it is considered as certain that the United States will not ask for the free admission into Canada of certain agricultural products not produced in Canada, and for manufactured products of the United States, and especially of agricultural implements.

A SEALSKIN COAT WITH "HOBBLE" BAND AT THE BOTTOM

Even fur wraps are narrowed in at the shoulders, and the folds of the soft, pliable fur are drawn into the narrow band at the bottom. This would be impossible without elastics with any pelts less exquisitely supple and silky than genuine seal. Such wraps are worn over dressy afternoon frocks of satin or the wool and mohair mixed permo stuff which resembles crepe.

There is nothing that grieves me more than to see a grown up brother and sister who are true friends as, these two will probably be.

It seems to me that either stands well recommended for matrimony by such a friendship.

The girl whose little brother finds her good company, smoking, and game, her husband will surely find a good comrade.

The big brother who is thoughtful and considerate of his little sister, when actuated by that greater impulse sex love, is apt to come mighty near being a model husband.

One of my correspondents asked me to write on this subject of the beauty of brother and sister friendship.

"I have in mind," he said, "a young man (20) of clean habits and good morals, who is devoted to his little sister (18), spending his earnings upon her as freely—or more so—as he does upon other girls. When absent from her he is more than usually thoughtful of her interests, private and other. There is nothing that grieves me more than to see a grown up brother and sister who are true friends as, these two will probably be.

Mathews can help inaugurate good feelings between brother and sister by teaching the boy to show courtesy and chivalry towards his little sister, and the girl to take the same kind of interest in her big brother's affairs as she does in her other boy friends' activities; but the perpetuation of the friendship rests with the children themselves, of course.

I know there is a tang of unpleasant truth in the old saying, "God gave us our relatives. THANK God we can choose our friends," but truly it seems to me as if people might find more friends among their relatives than they usually do.

The Evening Chit-Chat
 By RUTH CAMERON

SUCH a pretty little sight as I saw yesterday. The little boy who lives across the way and his little sister were riding up and down the sidewalk on their velocipedes. There is a rough place where two sidewalks join. The little boy was ahead. Having crossed this place, instead of merely calling out a warning to his little sister, or more boisterous whizzing on quite unbecomingly, he brought his steed to a standstill, gravely dismounted and guided his sister's velocipede across the unevenness with all the grave and gentle courtesy of a youthful Sir Walter Raleigh.

DREAMS OF CHILDHOOD AND REFLECTIONS OF OLD AGE
 (By H. L. Spencer.)

I have a letter from Little Laura, in which she expresses the wish that I might be young again and live a hundred years.

It is no wonder that one of Little Laura's age should indulge in wishes of this sort for her senior friends. Little Laura is in her early childhood, and has seen only the bright side of life. She has no past to regret, and dreams of no future less calm and peaceful than today. Why then, should not she wish that the lives of her friends might be prolonged indefinitely? But when "the years have weakened their vengeance" on her, I think she will hesitate to indulge such a wish for herself or her friends.

Childhood with favorable environment, is next door to the heaven of which we dream. Childhood walks in green pastures, by the side of still waters. Its pathway is shaded by trees of superlative beauty, in the branches of which birds of magnificent plumage are always singing. What flowers entrance its eyes! Even the daisies and buttercups and dandelions, that in other eyes appear so poor and mean, in the estimation of childhood are gems dropped over the walks of a more beautiful paradise, if such a paradise could be converted. There is no cloud in the sky of childhood kindly circumstances; it sees the approach of no threatening storm; it never thinks of the precipice over which it may stumble; of the billow that may engulf it. In its world it takes no thought of tomorrow; it is happy today it will always be happy, and is content. It takes no thought for to-

Serve at once while hot and crisp. Serve pulled bread instead of cracker with the cheese course, and it is also good with salad.

GINGERBREAD.

FIGURES THAT TELL STORIES
 PRIVATE AND GOVERNMENT RAILWAYS.

THE pictures show what proportion of the railroad mileage in Canada is owned respectively by private companies, by the Federal Government, and by the Provinces. In this calculation, the mileage of the National Transcontinental and of the Grand Trunk Pacific has been included. The building of the 1,805 miles of the Transcontinental Railway is doubling the mileage at present owned by the people of Canada, but the Grand Trunk Pacific Co. will operate this line for the period of their 50-year lease. The Intercolonial system, comprising 1,716 miles is the total mileage both owned and operated by the private companies, so far, are operating railways. The Province of Ontario owns and operates 265 miles of railway, the T. & N. O.; and the Province of New Brunswick owns the New Brunswick Coal and Railway Company, a line of 58 miles. The proposed railway to Hudson's Bay is to be built by the Federal Government, and this will add 477 miles to the Federal owned mileage, if the Fort Churchill route is adopted, or 410 miles if the Port Nelson route is chosen. The capitalization of private-owned companies in 1909 was made up as follows:—Stocks, $647,500,000, funded debt, $67,000,000; total, $1,314,500,000. The average cost per mile on this basis, for private railways is $55,638. The capital cost of railways owned and operated by the Governments is, $111,500,000, averaging $43,900 per mile. Since 1876, the railways of Canada have received financial aid as follows:—From the Dominion, $135,550,000; from the Provinces, $53,588,000, from municipalities $17,824,000. Land grants to railways total 55,116,000 acres, an area equal to that of the Maritime Provinces and of that portion of Quebec Province south of the St. Lawrence River.

Terrible Suffering

Five Years of Severe Rheumatism.

"I suffered terribly for about five years from rheumatism. Doctors gave me up, and I did not try this medicine until I was told by a friend to see me at once. I told my friend I was troubled with rheumatism, and he said, 'Go to Hood's Sarsaparilla, it will cure you.' I bought one bottle and after taking it one bottle I began to feel better, and I am now completely cured and I return many thanks to Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am never without it." C. APPRECIATION
 (Ulica Globe.)

John Kendrick Bangs, the author, was asked by a friend whether he thought his forthcoming novel would be a success. "That's a difficult matter to determine," was the reply. "It depends upon how it will please the public. You know writers can't always tell how their works strike their readers. For instance, once I published a book of poems and sent copies to my friends. Soon afterward I met a young lady who had received one, and asked her how she liked my verses. 'Oh, they are just what I wanted! Why, I couldn't sleep until I read them!'"

Glendon Station, Ont.—I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years and never found any medicine to compare with it. Sketches of Canadians Who Figured in New Year's Honors

Messrs. Aylesworth, Mackenzie, Mann, Gibbons, Tait and Chief Justice Townshend—Some Things They Have Done

The Toronto World speaking of New Year's honors conferred on Canadians, says:—

In recent years no decoration to any colonial statesman has been more deservedly bestowed than that of K. C. M. G. to Allen (now Sir Allen) Bristol Aylesworth.

Sir Geo. C. Gibbons, K. C.

worth, minister of justice and attorney-general of Canada. The honor follows closely upon Sir Allen's triumph at The Hague last summer, but it comes none too soon. It was Canada's victory, and Canada owes that victory to the untiring zeal, sagacity and legal erudition of the minister of justice. His foresight and tactics were masterful.

Sir Charles Townshend

Sir Charles is a native of Ontario. Born at Newburgh on Nov. 27, 1854, he was educated at Newburgh high school and later became Prince's prizeman at Toronto University. He graduated with M. A. in 1875. Sir Charles was called to the bar three years later. He became associated with the old firm of Messrs. Aylesworth and Arnou, which is said to have given more judges to Ontario than any other firm in the profession.

In a few years he became one of the leaders of the common law bar, and soon held more briefs than his older associates. The Ontario government created him a Q. C. in 1889, and later he received a similar distinction from the Earl of Dufferin, governor-general. He is a member of the Law Society of Upper Canada, and the international tribunal in the Alaskan boundary dispute, subsequent to which he entered Sir Wilfrid Laurier's government as solicitor-general, and, on Sir Charles Fitzpatrick's elevation to the bench, was given the portfolio of minister of justice. His greatest work for Canada is found in his representation of the case in the fisheries dispute before The Hague court.

Sir William Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern, was born on Oct. 29, 1849, at Kirkfield, in Victoria county. He was educated at the public schools of the district and qualified as a teacher. When a young man he attended the military school in Toronto and is now Hon. Lieut.-Col. of the 45th Victoria Regiment.

Mr. Mackenzie went into the lumber business, and when the Grand Trunk was building in Toronto, Nipissing and Victoria divisions, he undertook a portion of the construction. He was active in the construction of the C. P. R. through the mountains in British Columbia, where he is said to have laid the foundation of his present fortune.

He then turned his attention to the Canadian Northern, securing his first piece of railway for the Manitoba government for a small consideration, and having taken this step by his indomitable energy has won the Canadian Northern across the continent. He is well known as president of the Toronto Railway Company and many other public service corporations.

Sir Donald Mann

Sir Donald Mann is a native of Aton, Ont., having been born in 1853. He is of Scottish descent. When 25 years of age, he went to Manitoba where he began an

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE PRIVATE AND PUBLIC LIFE OF MR. EDWARD TERRY

How the Great Actor Spends His Time at Home—The Attractions of Priory Lodge—One of the Greatest Comedians.

No matter how loud the protest from certain quarters that the public is or should not be concerned with the private life of its stage favorites this same doing public which elevates to a position of enviable esteem those artists who have stirred them to laughter and tears and charmed away for the time being the sorrows of individual struggles, with their delightful mimicry, is anxious to know something of the personal side of its heroes and heroines of the footlights.

At St. John is to have the privilege of seeing one of England's most distinguished and best loved comedians during the coming week. It will be of interest to many to know something of the private side of this genial soul who has amused so many thousands.

Mr. Edward O'Connor Terry's private virtues are as undeniable as his professional peculiarities, he is quite a parochial bigwig at Barnes, Surrey, where he has a charming house full of pretty and interesting things, and shines in a domestic capacity with as much luster as on the stage; and he is one more proof in the flesh of the truth that the modern actor of the best type is as far removed from "the greasy and vagabond" of the disreputable Statute Book as the stage today is from the remote and objectionable theatre of the Restoration.

Mr. Terry's home life at Priory Lodge is that of any other prosperous professional man of domestic as well as artistic tastes. Your or five acres of delightful garden, a tennis court, an orchard, a tiny poultry farm, hot house, long tall walls, and a quiet shrubbery and pannelled with curious old Dutch tiles, are some of the attractions outside the house, and within its pleasant walls there is the same air of home made a little quaint and fascinating by the host of interesting relics of the stage and spoils of travel—for Mr. Terry is quite a globe trotter in a modest way.

active career in the construction of the C. P. R. successfully carrying out several difficult contracts in connection with the building of that road. Since the completion of Mr. Mann's efforts have been combined with those of Mr. Mackenzie and Mann, in the development of the Canadian Northern system, of the Middlesex Bar Association, and was also president of the London Western Trusts Co., and London Philharmonic Society. His public service has been in connection with his work as Canadian representative on the International Waterways Commission, the fruit of whose labors is only becoming apparent.

Sir Thos. Tait, formerly general superintendent of the C. P. R. (Ontario division) is a son of Chief Justice. Hon. Sir M. M. Tait, and was born at Melbourne, Quebec, July 24, 1861. Educated at high school Montreal, he entered the service of the Grand Trunk in 1880, afterwards becoming private secretary to the vice-president and general manager of the C. P. R. Sir William Van Horne, leaving the service of the C. P. R. on the completion of the Ontario & Quebec line, and is now returning to Canada to enjoy a well-earned rest.

Sir Donald Mann was the only one of the three new Toronto knights in town. The World saw him in the afternoon at his office, where his table was covered with telegrams of congratulations to Lady Mann and himself. They were from all over Canada, and many from London. Among them was one from Dublin Jan. 6, a well-known backman of Winnipeg.

"The honors to Sir William Mackenzie and myself," said he, "are both of us a source of satisfaction, inasmuch as they are a recognition of the national work we are doing for the transportation of Canada. It is a stamp put on the road, that means much in London, the financial centre of the world."

Sir William Mackenzie was in Ottawa and will be there today. He also received congratulations from Sir John Ross, who is at his home in Toronto.

Canada has quite a stock of peers, barons and knights. Barons: De Blaquiere, Hallburton, Mount Stephen, Strathcona, Barons: Macdonald, Baron De Longueuil. Knights: Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Wm. Fleming, Sir Percy Ginoard, Sir J. Grant, Sir L. Jette, Sir P. Lale, Sir D. McMillan, Sir W. Mulock, Sir C. Peltier, Sir Chas. H. Tupper, Sir W. Van Horne, Sir A. Aylesworth.

TWO MEALS A DAY

London Doctor's Simple Recipe for Long Life and Good Health—Certain Conditions Necessary. London, Jan. 7.—Two meals a day and an occasional fast is the recipe for health and long life given by Dr. J. S. Hooker, in a lecture before the Psycho-Therapeutic Society in Caxton hall. "The two meals a day plan," he said, "is a great preventive of catarrh, influenza, and a host of other diseases under the form of dyspepsia, gout, and liver affection. The best time for these two meals will depend to some extent on circumstances, but I believe if it were possible for us to take our first meal about eleven or twelve, and our second at six or seven in the evening, we should be all the better for it."

MARKET RATHER BARE

Lack of Snow for Roads Made Display of Produce Small—Eggs Still in the Air

The long stands in the country market where the countrymen are usually seen in fairly large numbers on Saturday mornings were practically bare of produce this morning, there being but little of meats, vegetables, or dairy produce on hand for Saturday buyers. This is largely accounted for by the lack of snow, which is a very important factor for the farmer in coming to market with his goods at this season of the year. The country roads are bare, and snow later would be greatly appreciated. It is said that there is quite an abundance of commodities of various kinds in the farmyards throughout the country, but a scarcity was certainly in evidence this morning in the market.

Wholesale dealers are complaining that they cannot dispose readily of eggs at the price which is being asked, and eggs were slightly easier this morning, although yet very high, from 35 to 50 cents a dozen being asked for fresh ones. Butter brought from 22 to 23 cents a pound, while prices on other articles remained about the same as last week.

Have you seen the beautiful pictures offered to new subscribers by The Telegraph and The Times? The most attractive premium ever offered in the Maritime Provinces.

NATURAL GAS INTO MONCTON DURING NEXT SUMMER

Begins to Look, Too, More Like Having a Street Car Service

Moncton, Jan. 7.—(Special)—Last night's monthly council meeting proved a decidedly busy one. A delegation from the exhibition association was heard with reference to disposition of the property of the association. It was decided to let the city for $25,000.

Resolutions were passed providing for a meeting when both matters will be discussed and the streets through which the street railway will be laid will be decided upon.

In compliance with a request from the council Engineer McKeith submitted a report of his observations of sidewalks in Canadian and United States cities and how they compared with Moncton. The report was voted an excellent one and was laid on the table for discussion.
