INDEFINITE VOTE OF CREDIT TO CARRY ON STRUGGLE

British House of Commons Gives Authority to Raise Whatever Amount Needed for War Purposes — Maximum Necessary May Amount to Five Billion Dollars — House Adjourned Last Night.

London, June 21.—The House of Commons adjourned tonight, after unanimously giving a first reading to the bill providing the new Chancellor of the Exchequer, Reginald McKenna, with a blank check which may amount, at a maximum, to one thousand million pounds ($5,000,000,000). The vote of credit for $1,250,000,000 passed last week by the House simply authorized the government to spend that much for war purposes, but did not provide for the manner in which this sum should be raised. Tonight's enactment was in the form of a resolution, which empowers the government to raise not only the $1,250,000,000 deemed necessary to pay the cost of the war at the rate of $15,000,000 daily, for a limited period, but as much more as may be needed.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer made a long explanation of the proposed loan, and, in closing, said that on the technical question as to the limit of the loan it would be dangerous to disclose the necessity for not fixing any definite sum, and he added that the only figures he could put in the bill was a maximum which would cover all requirements of the new loan, including provisions enabling the subscribers to previous war loans and the holders of Consols to participate. This maximum would not fall far short of a thousand million pounds sterling.

No New Taxation.

The generous terms provided for holders of Consol and the first war loan securities appear to meet the objections that have been urged in financial quarters to the issue of a four and one-half per cent. loan.

Although the Stock Exchange had closed before Mr. McKenna's statement was published, the proposed new loan is said to have met with a favorable reception in the financial districts, but it is not yet possible to say how the terms of the loan will affect other kindred issues, such as Consols and last November's war loan.

During the course of his statement in the House, the Chancellor, answering the suggestion that more money should be raised by additional taxation, said that it was best to take one step at a time. If, owing to the continuance of the war, it became necessary to find further very large sums it was obvious that additional taxation would have to be proposed, but he added, that time had not yet come.

FORTY CANADIAN OFFICERS KILLED AND 130 WOUNDED

During Fortnight Ending June 9—Casualties Among Officers of British Army Since War Began 3,372 Killed, 6,651 Wounded and 1,049 Missing.

London, June 21.—The British army casualty lists, ending June 9, show that since the beginning of the war 3,372 officers have been killed, 6,651 wounded and 1,049 put down as missing, making a total of 11,072. From May 19 to June 9th, 702 officers were killed, 1,407 wounded and 150 reported missing, or 2,260 in all.

During the last fortnight ending June 9th, the Canadian contingent lost forty officers killed and 130 wounded. The Australians 107 killed and 176 wounded, and the Indian troops 48 killed and 117 wounded, who, being officers, were in large part English.

With each casualty list, a certain number of officers and men are transferred from the missing to the killed, owing to the finding of their bodies. The number of the dead is also constantly increasing by those succumbing to wounds.

Factories in France Speeding Up Making Of War Munitions

Privately-Owned as Well as State Factories Working at Full Capacity to Meet Demands for Arms and Ammunition.

Paris, June 21 (11:05 p. m.)—That the manufacture of arms and ammunition in France is progressing satisfactorily was made known in an official communication issued tonight concerning a tour of the factories, where the work is in progress, made by Minister of War Millerand, Sunday. The statement says:

"The Minister of War went Sunday on a tour of the factories in the terior of France, and returned to Paris this morning. In all the factories he visited, these privately-owned, as well as those belonging to the State, the Minister witnessed very great activity. He has satisfied himself personally, thanks to the great and progressive efforts shown up to the present, that expected results will everywhere be realized, and in a good many factories probably exceeded.

WARNS BRITISH TO KEEP AWAY FROM MEXICO

London, June 21, 8:10 p. m.—The official press bureau today issued the following statement:

"In view of the existing state of affairs in Mexico the Secretary for Foreign Affairs, (Sir Edward Grey) desires to warn British subjects against visiting that country, unless absolutely obliged to do so by imperative necessity."

BONAR LAW LEFT THE FIRM WHEN HE WENT INTO POLITICS

London, June 21.—According to the South Wales Daily News, Mr. Bonar Law, with the late Dr. William Jacks, founded the Glasgow firm of which two members were sentenced the other day for trading with the enemy. When Mr. Law entered politics fourteen years ago, he entirely severed his connection with the firm.

WHILE RUSSIANS CONTINUE TO RETIRE IN GALICIA, ALLIES PUSH FORWARD IN THE WEST

German Report Claims Capture of Rawka-Ruska and Teutonic Armies Within Nine Miles of Limits of Lemberg—Allied Battleship Again Battering Forts of Seddul Bahr—Germans Admit Loss of Metzeral.

London, June 21.—Rawka-Ruska, according to a Berlin official report, is the latest Russian position in Galicia to fall into the hands of the Austro-Germans, and as the Teutons also are reported to be fighting east of this town the investment of Lemberg must be so nearly complete that the Russians either must withdraw from the Galician capital or leave a portion of their forces there to be besieged.

The German general, Von Mackensen, is reported to have seized the railway connecting Rawka-Ruska with Lemberg, thus cutting off the retreat of the Russian forces.

The German general, Von Mackensen, is reported to have seized the railway connecting Rawka-Ruska with Lemberg, thus cutting off the retreat of the Russian forces.

Considerable wonder is expressed by the German military critics over the fact that Paris continues to report the Russian advance of the last few days. They had expected the Russians to make a firm stand along the Grodzke line. Instead, however, Grand Duke Nicholas, the commander-in-chief of the Russians, not only retired quickly from this position, but, evidently recognizing his dangerous predicament, also ordered the withdrawal of the Russian forces from south of the Dniester river.

An official Turkish report indicates that there has been considerable activity in the Dardanelles, with an Allied battleship again battering away at the forts of Seddul Bahr.

In the west Paris continues to report French advances, especially in the region of Arras. Here it is asserted progress has been made in the direction of Sochez, and the capture of several trenches has brought the attackers near the northwest of the village. Further progress also is reported in the Vosges. In the latter region the French claim to have made an advance beyond the cemetery at Metzeral, the loss of which town is now officially admitted by Berlin.

England today turned its interest from actual warfare to the provision of stinews of war, the House of Commons having provided the government with a blank check in the form of a bill to be limited only by the patriotism and resources of British investors.

The trial in Africa of General Christian De Wet, one of the rebel leaders, has ended in a verdict proclaiming him guilty of treason. It is not expected, however, that the death sentence will be imposed on him.

Allies Push Forward in Lorraine District and Vosges

Paris, June 21.—The following official communication issued by the War Office tonight says:

"In the sector to the north of Arras the situation is unchanged. We have conserved all the ground conquered, and today the German fanfaronades occurred and these have not modified the fronts. The artillery combat continued.

"Our air squadrons effectively bombarded the aviation parks of the enemy, setting fire to four hangars and damaging two aeroplanes and one captive balloon.

"On the western border of the Argonne, on both sides of the road from Viennes-le-Chateau to Binarville, the Germans on Sunday night delivered a violent attack, for which preparations had been made by an intense bombardment with asphyxiating projectiles. Our advance line was bent at certain points, two companies being buried in the overturned trenches.

"An immediate counter-attack enabled us to regain almost the entire extent of our initial positions. The struggle was particularly spirited.

"On the heights of the Meuse, in the sector of the Calonne trench, after having repulsed counter-attacks by the enemy, we enlarged today our gains of yesterday. A first attack made only slight progress. A second attack, on the other hand, enabled us to carry new trenches to the east of those which we had occupied on Sunday. This gain has been conserved, as were the preceding gains.

POPE BENEDICT INTERVIEWED ON THE WAR

His Holiness Gives His Views on Great European Conflict and Charges of German Cruelty.

Paris, June 21.—La Liberté publishes today an interview with Pope Benedict, signed by Louis Latapie, a prominent member of the staff who was sent to Rome for the purpose of ascertaining the Pope's views on the various aspects of the European war. Pope Benedict is quoted as expressing horror at some of the developments of the war, but, in the main, the words of the Pope have to do with peace.

The interview began with an allusion by the Pontiff to what the Holy See had done in respect to the war. The Pontiff had addressed a letter in favor of peace to the Catholic world. He had proposed a truce to the belligerents for the Christmas tide. He had endeavored to obtain an exchange of prisoners unfit for military service, and had had the good fortune to obtain, in this respect, an appreciable result.

His Holiness referred to the letter he had written to Cardinals, Luçon and Amelot, of Rheims and Paris, respectively, and to his Consistorial address on January 22.

M. Latapie quotes the Pope as saying: "You desire that I should condemn every crime specifically, but each one of your accusations is accompanied by a reply on the part of the Germans, and I am not able to institute here a continuous discussion, nor can I make investigations at this moment."

"Is it necessary to inquire as to whether the neutrality of Belgium has been violated?" asked the correspondent.

"That was under the pontificate of Pius X," the Pope replied.

"Is it not known by all that many priests have been taken as hostages in Belgium and in France, and shot?"

The Pope replied: "I have received from Austrian Bishops the assurance that the Russian army has also taken hostages from among the Catholic priests, and that the Russians, on one occasion, pushed before them 1,500 Jews, so that they could advance behind this living barrier thus exposed to the bullets of the enemy."

To this the Pope replied: "The Cardinal Secretary of State has received the representatives of seven Belgian lines of trenches to the south of Leirey.

"In Alsace our progress has continued in the course of uninterrupted engagements. After having taken the cemetery of Metzeral, we occupied the station and then attacked the village, which we captured after a very hot fight. We have reached the outskirts south of that locality and have pushed our line to the east, 500 yards beyond the outskirts in the direction of Meyerhof.

"In these actions we took some prisoners, bringing the total since yesterday up to more than 200.

ANOTHER OF BRITISH FLYING CORPS KILLED

Maj. Lumsden Falls from Aeroplane Making Trial Trip — Fell Distance of 200 Feet.

London, June 21.—Major Lumsden, of the Royal Army Flying Corps, was killed this afternoon while flying over the Brooklands aviation course.

Major Harry T. Lumsden was making a flight as a passenger on a trial trip. The aeroplane had reached an altitude of 200 feet when the engine went wrong and the machine dived earthwards and was smashed. Major Lumsden was so badly injured that he died in a few hours, but the injuries of the pilot were not serious.

ANCHOR LINER PUT SUBMARINE TO FLIGHT

Cameronia's Captain Steered His Vessel at Underseas Craft Which Disappeared Under Water to Avoid Being Ramméd by Liner.

London, June 21.—The Anchor Line steamer Cameronia, under charter to the Cunard Line, had a narrow escape from a submarine in the Irish Sea on her voyage from New York to Liverpool, according to Peter Fletcher of New York, one of the saloon passengers. The Cameronia arrived in Liverpool Sunday.

Mr. Fletcher says that during the run through the Irish Sea a submarine came out of the water, showing the top of her conning tower. To save the Cameronia Captain Kinnard headed his vessel for the submarine, which dived. After passing over the spot where the underwater boat went down without finding any evidence that the steamer had collided with it, Captain Kinnard reversed the course of his vessel and got away safely.

Mr. Fletcher added that the passengers on the Cameronia, although many of them saw the periscope of the submarine, were cool.

The Cameronia sailed from New York June 11, for Glasgow, by way of Liverpool. She had on board about forty first-class passengers and a large number of persons in the second cabin.

SERIES OF CABINET MEETINGS AT OTTAWA

Considerable Business to be Disposed of by Government.

Special to The Standard.

Ottawa, June 21.—Most of the cabinet ministers will be here this week and at a series of cabinet councils considerable business will be disposed of preliminary to the holiday season. While the exigencies of the war necessitate the presence in Ottawa, or with call, of a quorum of the council, several of the ministers intend to take a holiday and visit the provinces they represent.

COLIN M'KAY TELLS ABOUT ZEPPELIN RAID ON LONDON

Empire Metropolis Was Not Affected and Londoners Slept Soundly Through it all—How the Air Raid was Handled by the British Newspapers—Little Information Published and all Statements Were Guarded.

(Special Staff Correspondence of The Standard.)

London, June 1.—The gentle Germans dropped bombs on London last night. When I came down to breakfast the staid waiter handed me a paper, and formally observed:

"Have you heard of the air-raid on London, Sir?"

"No—where—when—what damage?"

"I am afraid I can't give you much information, Sir. The newspapers don't say much; I should rather say the authorities don't just know all about it yet. What will you have, Sir?"

"Any bombs hit near here?"

"There are stories about, Sir. I heard a bomb was dropped not many hundred yards away. There was a fire, but you can't just tell, don't you know."

"Well, you're not disturbed, are you?"

"I expect I'd be considerably disturbed, Sir, if a bomb dropped on me. But in these times anything may happen, and we shouldn't worry. These Germans are crazy, and dropping a few bombs on London may do us all a heap of good. Lots of people say conscription is coming; maybe it will be necessary, but it would be a comedown for us. We are fighting German militarism; if we had to adopt English militarism to beat the Germans it wouldn't be quite consistent—quite in line with our traditions or professions, don't you know."

"These silly lunatics of Germans may solve the problem for us. If they start dropping bombs on London and killing people there will probably be no need of conscription. There will be more volunteers than we can handle in a hurry."

WHAT THE PAPERS PUBLISHED.

The morning paper devoted two columns of large type to the raid, but told me no more than the waiter. Here is the report:

"Admiralty, Tuesday Morning.

"Zeppelins are reported to have been seen near Ramsgate and Brentwood, and in certain outlying districts of London.

"Many fires are reported, but these cannot be absolutely connected with the visit of airships. Further particulars will be issued as soon as they can be collected and collated.

FOR THE PUBLIC SAFETY.

"We received the following official communication early this morning:—

"The Press are specially reminded that NO statement whatever may be published dealing with the places in the neighborhood of London reached by aircraft, or the course supposed to be taken by them, or any statement or diagram which might indicate the ground or route covered by them.

The Admiralty communique gives all the news which can properly be published.

These instructions are given in order to secure the public safety, and the present intimation may itself be published by the Press as explaining the absence of more detailed reports."

Early evening papers devoted half a page to official communiques, explaining why considerations of public safety demanded secrecy. And Londoners laughed and said things about official red-tape that would be considered treasonable in Canada, and rumors spread, though they were much less stupid than you will hear in St. John. London was not anxious to know where the bombs had been dropped; but it did want to know how many Zeppelins had visited the town, and how much damage had been done.

About four o'clock the papers appeared with the following official communication:

"In amplification of the information which appears in this morning's papers, the following particulars of last night's Zeppelin raid in the metropolitan area are now available for publication:—

"Late last night about ninety bombs, mostly of an incendiary character, were dropped from hostile aircraft in various localities not far distant from each other.

"A number of fires, of which only three were large enough to require the services of fire engines, broke out. All fires were promptly and effectively dealt with. Only one of these fires necessitated a district call. The fires were all caused by the incendiary bombs referred to.

"No public building was injured, but a number of private premises were damaged by fire or water.

"The number of casualties is small. So far as at present ascertained, one infant, one boy, one man, and one woman were killed, and another woman is so seriously injured that her life is despaired of. A few other private citizens were seriously injured. The precise number is not yet ascertained.

"Adequate police arrangements, including the calling out of the special constables, enabled the situation to be kept thoroughly in hand."

LONDON NOT IMPRESSED.

So far as I can judge the first Zeppelin raid has made about as much impression on the vast wicker known as London as dropping copies of the Times in St. John streets would have upon Commissioner Potts. Of course it has created indignation. A great boom in recruiting is reported to have taken place today. Also in Shoreditch there have been a few riots, and mobs have attacked shops suspected of being conducted by persons of German nationality. But we are told little damage was done, the police and special constabulary soon gaining control. As for the effect of the news, it reminded me of Mayor Frink's proclamation during the street car riots, warning people to stop in their homes on pain of being shot. London streets were thronged to a late hour tonight; one would think the populace turned out to witness the performance of the Zeppelins in case they put in another appearance.

One fact stands out clearly, and that is the absurdity of the German theory that Zeppelins might be made a weapon of moral suasion; that they might have a great effect in causing panic over wide areas. The Zeppelins visited London about the time theatre crowds were coming out; most of these knew nothing about the raid; the great majority

RUSSIAN ARMY MAY SACRIFICE THE GALICIAN CAPITAL TO PRESERVE FREEDOM OF OPERATIONS

Czar's Forces May Not Attempt to Defend Lemberg Against Enemy

London, June 22.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Times says: "The fall of Lemberg is awaited here with calm resolve. Lemberg has been used by the Russians as a base for supplies, and has not been placed in a posture for defense from the west."

"The Russian retirement from the Lemberg region will necessitate some readjustment of the Dniester front in favor of a less vulnerable line. In view of the strength of the Russian positions on the Tanew front, no immediate development of the Austro-German offensive is anticipated in that quarter."

Petrograd, June 21.—The Austro-German attempt to force a way through the Russian lines north and south of Grodek, in the battle of Lemberg, has not yet been successful.

Regarding the approaching crisis in the Galician campaign, the Bourse Gazette says:

"In view of the continued German reinforcements in Galicia, the situation forces us to choose between retaining Lemberg and preserving the freedom of our operations, it is possible we shall have to make a sentimental sacrifice and abandon the Galician capital."

BOURASSA SCHEDULED TO SPEAK IN OTTAWA

Special to The Standard.

Ottawa, Ont., June 21.—Mr. Ham Genest, president of St. Jean Baptiste Society, who will preside at the big meeting to be held in Deys Arena next Sunday night when an address will be given by Henri Bourassa, said that he did not expect a repetition of the riotous scenes which marked Bourassa's attempt to speak in the Russell Theatre last winter.

"Mr. Bourassa was coming here before under the auspices of the People's Forum, but now it will be a national and religious celebration, and I certainly do not anticipate any trouble," said Mr. Genest.

POLICE COURT

Stanley Moore, charged with assaulting Herbert Addison, was before the police magistrate yesterday afternoon. Addison testified that on May 25th he, with Moore and several others, were in an old foundry at the foot of Clarence street. There was some drinking there and he was struck and knocked down by Moore. He had to have his injuries attended to in the General Public Hospital. Moore claimed that Addison struck him first. The prisoner was remanded to jail.

Albert Coombes, charged with stealing a quantity of rope from the steamer D. J. Purdy was also remanded.

Rosa Maglio pleaded not guilty to the charge of street walking and was remanded. Herbert Guilfoyle was fined $20 or two months in jail on the charge of beating his wife.

Luther Smith, charged with speeding his automobile and also with not having a tag, pleaded not guilty. The case will be resumed today.

P. W. Coombs, charged with having no tag on his car, pleaded not guilty. He will call witnesses.

Was Covered With Boils.

Could Not Get Rid of Them Until She Used

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

When the blood becomes impure the first symptoms which manifest themselves are a breaking out of the various forms of skin trouble such as boils, pimples, abscesses, ulcers, etc., and the only treatment you can use is some sort of a good blood cleansing remedy which will put the blood into a perfect condition, and thus eliminate all the different poisons from the system which cause these different eruptions to occur.

The best blood cleansing remedy as the market to-day is Burdock Blood Bitters. All we ask you is to try it and be convinced. Thousands have used it during the past forty years, and have nothing but praise for its curative powers.

Mrs. John Fitzgerald, Plantagenet, Ont., writes: "I am one woman who cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters. I was covered with boils, and could not get rid of them. I was advised by a friend to try B. B. B. which I did, and I can truthfully say that it completely cured me. I have never had a sign of a boil since."

See that our name appears on both the label and wrapper as there are many imitations placed on the market which are said to be "just as good."

RESUME HEARING OF FREIGHT RATES CASE JUNE 29

Will Probably be the Last Sitting for Taking of Evidence.

Special to The Standard.

Ottawa, June 21.—The resumed inquiry into the eastern freight rates case will be held on Tuesday, June 29th, before the railway commission. This sitting will probably be the last for taking evidence. If so, it will be followed by the arguments of the counsel for and against the application of the railways for a general increase in the freight rates on all lines east of Port Arthur. These arguments will absorb two or three days. After that it will take a few weeks before judgment is made public.

RECRUITING RALLY AT ST. GEORGE ON THURSDAY EVENING

B., June 21.—A monster patriotic and recruiting meeting is to be held in St. George on Thursday evening 24th inst., at 7 o'clock at the "band stand," the brass band will play selections of music at intervals, the following gentlemen are expected to speak: Revs. J. J. McLaughlin, Gordon Dickie, and Mr. H. A. Powell, K. C. Many of the boys from the old granite town have joined the forces. Some are on the plains of Flanders. We feel there are yet more in St. George who will respond to the call to fill up the ranks of the 66th.

The arrangements for this meeting are in the hands of the Rev. Thomas Harrison, M.A., and Dr. Taylor, M.P.P. Should the weather be unfavorable the meeting will be held in "Coutt's Hall."

Many beautiful presents were received. Mr. and Mrs. Ferris left by train for Boston, where the honeymoon will be spent.

Colin McKay Tells About The Zeppelin Raid On London

of Londoners slept through the bombardment. The Evening Standard says:

"The Zeppelin has been built with the idea of spreading panic over as wide an inhabited area as possible. It has been devised as the terror of the air, the very quintessence of frightfulness, and when, years before the war, the German public subscribed a sum running into hundreds of thousands of pounds, it was with the idea of providing themselves with a weapon which would make other nations cower tremblingly at Germany's feet. Instantly tyrannical."

"To civilized mankind there is something peculiarly revolting about this attitude of mind. We think of the world, and cherish hopes for the world, as an association of peoples dwelling together in an amity based on mutual independence. But the German has a kink in his brain which makes it impossible for him to think on such lines. In his view there must be authority or there cannot be order, and authority that authority should be concentrated in German hands follows inevitably, and countries or individuals which dispute it are, according to German logic, anarchists, creatures incapable of true world citizenship, to be exterminated. What is more, they should be exterminated publicly. In days gone by criminals were openly executed in this country as a warning to evil doers. In exactly the same way Zeppelins are despatched to enforce respect for Kultur by showering indiscriminate death from the skies. Such is the whole gospel of frightfulness."

"If such a doctrine could indeed be applied with effect, the world would be a bad place to live in. So far from being a little lower than the angels, man would show himself as scarcely emerging from the ape and tiger stage, an animal unable to stand spiritually erect. And in the London we see this morning, the calm old London that we know so well, bright with the greenery with which she knows how to adorn herself for the summer, we see this horrible philosophy of the abyss utterly and triumphantly refuted. Somewhere, presumably, there are gutted buildings; the official communique itself speaks of fires, though it is reticent as to their cause. Deep sorrow will be felt for the sufferers by this policy of reckless destruction and implacable anger against its authors. But of panic there is no sign. The German wireless will tell us in due course that the fortress of London was successfully bombarded last night. There is a sense in which London is a fortress; it is a spiritual fortress, the very citadel of the English way of life. From it as a centre radiate the great ideas of freedom and justice which have taken shape and substance in the British Empire. The walls of this fortress are not to be destroyed by incendiary bombs or any other instrument of material terrorism. They stand firm; and it is because Londoners are now waiting with calm patience for the details of such destruction and murder as may have been committed last night that the Zeppelin raid may legitimately be described as a complete failure."

COLIN MCKAY.

SIR THOMAS SHAUGHNESSY DENIES THE REPORT

London, June 21.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy gives a denial to a despatch from Toronto, published in the Times, stating that it is reported that he has arranged in England for an extensive settlement of time-expired soldiers in the Canadian Pacific western lands at the close of the war. There is nothing in the report, he declares. There is, however, reason for believing that Sir Thomas has been approached by a committee of the kind working on such a project, but he says the scheme has only been discussed.

In asking the Chancellor of the Exchequer to announce that the government was to issue a loan to the amount of £200,000,000 in 1925 and 1926, Mr. McKenna said that the limit of which the national expenditure for other services for revenue.

This loan will bear interest at a half per cent and a half per cent on the first war loan authorities will be converting on special facilities so wide that the dollar will be able as the millionaires first served, as made on application close on or before Mr. McKenna's made in the House. The Chancellor realized the fact that the amount to £2,000,000,000 war expenditure would be £3,000,000,000. The loan is a bonds of from £100 million to £200 million. Mr. McKenna said that the rate of interest on the new loan would be 4 per cent.

Mr. McKenna said that the new loan would be issued in the form of £100 million bonds, which would be sold at a discount of 5 per cent. He said that the new loan would be issued in the form of £100 million bonds, which would be sold at a discount of 5 per cent. BRITISH GOVERNMENT AUTHORIZES VOTE OF UNLIMITED CREDIT TO CARRY ON EMPIRE'S WAR

Chancellor McKenna Announces Issue of War Loan to be Terminated at Option of Government Between 1925 and 1945, Only Limit to be Excess of National Expenditure Over Revenue—Investor of Modest Means Will Have Opportunity to Subscribe.

In asking this indefinite credit, the Chancellor of the Exchequer McKenna announced that he proposed to issue a war loan to be terminated at the option of the government between 1925 and 1945 for a sum, the only limit of which is to be the excess of the national expenditures for war and other services for the year over the revenue.
The loan will be put out at par and will bear interest at the rate of four and a half per cent. Holders of the first war loan and of Consols and annuities will be given the privilege of converting on specified terms.
The facilities for subscription are so wide that the man who has only a dollar will be able to invest as easily as the millionaire. First come will be first served, as the allotments will be made on application. The list will close on or before July 20.

Mr. McKenna's announcement was made in the House of Commons. The Chancellor said the State would have the right to repay the loan at par in 1925, but in any case it must be repaid in thirty years. The Chancellor emphasized the fact that, in addition to putting forward a business transaction, he wished to appeal to the patriotism of the country to "use its gigantic resources to carry on the war successfully for ourselves and our Allies."
Holders of both the old war loan and the Consols will have the right to convert their securities into the new loan. The conversion of Consols will be on the basis of £75 of Consols for £50 of the new loan. In moving a resolution to authorize the Treasury to borrow the requisite money, Mr. McKenna said:

"The time has come when the necessity of a further loan has become apparent and a prompt decision is required as it is undesirable that a big loan should be kept hanging over the market."
The Chancellor stated that the total realized deficit between revenue and expenditure up to last Saturday amounted to £518,000,000. The daily war expenditure now amounts nearly to £3,000,000 and is still rising. The loan is to be issued in small blocks of from £5 to £25 which will be obtainable through the post office.

Mr. McKenna said that if a higher rate of interest were offered for subsequent war loans the holder of this new loan would receive the higher rate.
Mr. McKenna said that unless the loans were issued by the only method whereby the country could continue to pay its way would be made by further issue of treasury bills. He saw objections to this course, of which the principal one was that such issues are bankers' money, not public money.
"I want the public to lend the money in a way which will not obligate us to repay during the war," he continued. In reference to the rate of interest Mr. McKenna said the government had to face the situation of today and that there were two great facts which could not be ignored. The old war loan at present netted the investor four and a quarter per cent, and this loan now stands at a discount.

"We require many hundreds of millions," said the Chancellor. "If on the old war loan the investor can get rather better than four and a quarter we cannot expect the new issue to be floated at less than four and a half. The government is fully aware of all the objections, not only of meeting the interest, but of the effect on the issue of a four and a half per cent. will be to depreciate other securities, and foremost in the government's mind is the old war loan. This country never will leave its creditors in the lurch, and the government therefore proposes to give the new rights to holders of the old war loan."
"The case of the holder of Consols is very strong. Ninety millions of Consols was issued for the South African war, and depreciation to an unsalable point is not to the advantage of the community. I propose therefore to give the Consol holders a similar opportunity of retrieving their position as is given to holders of the old war loan."

David Lloyd George, as Chancellor, made the announcement in the House of Commons on May 8th that the net deficit would be over £500,000,000. On the basis of a twelve months war he estimated the net deficit at something under £900,000,000.

A National Appeal For National Purpose
"To the holder of the old war loan we say: If you bring £100 and invest in the new war loan we will take over your old loan at par and offer you four and a half instead of four per cent."
Concerning Consols, Mr. McKenna pointed out that the minimum price today at which dealings are permitted is 66%. If that minimum were removed the prices would be many points lower, and after the new loan it would be still lower. Therefore, he said to the holders of Consols: "If you apply for £100 of the new loan we will allow you seventy-five per cent. on Consols for each £50 in the new loan." This, he explained, meant that Consols were re-exchangeable at a price of 66.25. Application must be made before October 13. If the conversion of the old war loan were made it would mean an application for some hundreds of millions. The government did not expect all holders to make this conversion.

This element of uncertainty, the Chancellor explained, made it wise to fix a limit to the loan, and the government consequently was not making any limit, other than the expenditure of the year.

After explaining the proposal that, if a higher rate of interest should be offered on subsequent loans, holders of the forthcoming loan should receive the higher rate, Mr. McKenna continued:
"This is a great national appeal to every class for a great national purpose."

Chance For Investor Possessing Small Means

The Chancellor then proceeded to explain the method by which he intended to let the people utilize their savings.

He said that while the minimum subscription through the Bank of England would be £100, the government had in view three methods of issue to meet every class and purse; the first, through the Bank of England; the second, the sale of £5 to £25 bonds through post offices; the third, the sale of war loan vouchers for five shillings and multiples thereof. These vouchers will be offered for sale at post offices, trades union headquarters, etc. They will carry interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum for every complete calendar month. The vouchers, when a total of £5 has been purchased, will be exchangeable at the post office for £5 bond. This arrangement will give the working class every advantage accorded to others.

The allotments will be made on application, and the lists will be closed on or before July 10th.
"Our requirements are great, and every effort made now is an effort not only necessary to enable us to carry on the war but to enable us to maintain our financial pre-eminence after the war."
Mr. McKenna continued:
"He who subscribes now is doing an act of mercy, both to himself and to his country. He who subscribes now and saves, in order to subscribe, will be able to bear the strain after the war is over, and will be thankful for the efforts made to help himself. But still dearer to him must be the knowledge that every aid he gives himself is multiplied for his country, and his country will bless him for his providence and generosity."

The administration of justice committee met this morning and on recommendation of the police commissioner decided to pay the chief's expenses for the trip.

TURKISH REPORT OF OPERATION IN THE DARDANELLES

Constantinople, via London, June 21.—The following official communication was issued today:
"On the Dardanelles front, at Avlarnu, nothing of importance occurred on June 18 or 19. An armored ship, protected by nine torpedo boats and seven mine-sweepers, appeared before Seddul Bahr and bombarded our coast batteries on the Asiatic shore. The armored ship retired, under protection to Lemnos.
"A weak attack against the centre of our southern troops at Seddul Bahr was repulsed on June 19, with losses.
"Our coast batteries successfully bombarded some columns of artillery and an enemy transport vessel, as well as infantry retiring under the violent fire of our European batteries.
"Our Asiatic batteries also bombarded enemy columns on their way to new positions.
"An aircraft shed was shelled, causing a fire which destroyed several aircraft. Enemy airmen flew over our Asiatic batteries, dropping eight bombs without success."

SON OF REV. MR. PETERS, OF LOWER BRIGHTON MISSING FOR OVER TWO WEEKS

Fire causes loss of $2,500 at East Florenceville—Carleton County news.

Hartland, N. B., June 18.—Rev. A. E. Peters and family of Lower Brighton, are greatly disturbed over the disappearance of their son Ernest, who left the Gilmour mill at Juniper about two weeks ago and has not been seen or heard of since. The family recently removed from Campbellton and have made enquiries there, but no tidings of the young fellow were available from that quarter.
On Tuesday morning fire completely destroyed three barns belonging to Alonzo Taylor, at East Florenceville. Some children who were playing about the barns are responsible for the fire. The loss is about $2,500, with only a small insurance.
On the evening of Saturday, June 12, at Bristol, the head of Rev. D. E. Brooks was made glad through the invasion of his home by a party of friends, who left him a purse of $45. The reverend gentleman is in poor health, and the generosity of his friends made glad through the evening the visiting ladies provided a bountiful spread and a general good time was enjoyed.
Wednesday and Thursday afternoons of next week are set apart by Mr. and Mrs. Percy B. Shaw, who last week were married in Paradise, N. S., as the days when they will receive their friends at their residence in Hartland.
On Saturday last Prof. W. F. Watson, of Greenville, S. C., accompanied by his wife and daughters, arrived here to spend the summer with Mr. Watson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Watson.
On Wednesday Messrs. H. H. Hatfield and J. W. Montgomery left for St. John by train and will return in a new auto which Mr. Hatfield has purchased there.
July 13 will be a big day at Bath. On that date the Roman Catholic congregation of John's are to hold a picnic, and it is expected that these events there is always something doing.
Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Potts on Monday started on an extended trip, taking in Boston, New York and other American cities.
An important station on the Valley railway is Belleville, about six miles above Woodstock. Six team roads lead into this station from the surrounding country, which makes it a good shipping point. So far this year 700 tons of hay and more than 40 cars of potatoes have been shipped from this station, and other products in lesser proportion.
Mr. Walter Shaw, who has just returned from a two years' stay with her children in California, was here this week to visit Mr. Shaw's mother, who has been spending the winter with Mrs. H. N. Boyer.
Farmers who have finished putting in their crops are now busy disposing of the remainder of last year's potato yield. They had been holding back during the winter for higher prices, and now all the tubers are being sold at a low price. Still, as the crop is good, and the market is steady, it is expected that the crop will not be so extensive as the last.

Cheerful in the Trenches, Under Fire Or on the March, Nothing Seems to Dishearten the British Soldier

Optimism and Cheerful Spirits of Tommy Atkins Carries Him Over Apparently Insurmountable Obstacles—Use of Poisonous Gas by Germans has Inspired British Soldiers with Determination to Avenge Every Comrade Killed by Enemy.

A special correspondent with British Headquarters in the Field, writing on June 1st comments on the cheerfulness of the British soldiers. He writes: "The more I see of the British Army in the field the more I am impressed by its cheery optimism and unquenchable good spirits. It works and plays with the same good-humored zest; nothing can dishearten it. Until the gas-poisoners began their work it was the army that regarded the foe facing it impersonally. Killing was the business in hand, but killings with 'out malice: flower-covered graves for dead enemies and cigarettes for live prisoners. Now the business of killing is full of bitterness, and there are no flowers. Yet even the menace of the new death has not checked the spirit of cheerfulness. Men take their turn in the gas zone with a grim resolve to swell the enemy's casualty list with their own, but they can just even when they are gasping for breath.
"Another peasant fog," said a North Somerset lad to a comrade in the trenches, when he saw the wall of gas vapor stealing towards him. "It isn't safe to be out in the night air."
"It's a bad day for the Lord Mayor's procession," said a London rifeman when the fog swept over his trench. He lay in a dugout for an hour, his face buried in a respirator, and then staggered into the open air, dizzy but practically unharmed. "Reminded me of the Thames Embankment on a November morning," he said to me when I saw him in hospital, "except that I saw him in hospital, except that I was much safer—no trams."
"Another gassed soldier I saw was breathing painfully, but able to talk. 'Takes all your lung power to keep alive,' he gasped. 'Haven't breath enough even to curse the Kaiser properly. A man ought to be given extra hours for trench work.'
The chaplain attached to this clearing station was going among the new arrivals as they lay on stretchers in the open air after having their wounds dressed, and giving each man a regular postcard—one of the sort which is prepared for the post by scratching out some printed sentences and leaving others. He came to a victim of gas—a mere boy, who stared at the card suspiciously. "I like to send you people a postcard, my boy?" said the chaplain, and went on to the next stretcher. "Does—does this mean that I am going to die?" asked the lad, as he tried to scrawl a name across the front of the card.
"Nonsense," retorted an orderly who was passing. "You'll be as right as rain in a week."
"Then I'll wait before I write," said the soldier. "There's no use wasting the card. Besides, it says I am wounded. I am not wounded—I'm full of this bloody gas, and as soon as me chest is clear I'm going back to 'do' for some of those Germans. Give us a drink!"
Cheerful in Their Suffering.
The cheerfulness of the wounded is very marked. A man who has been shot in the leg or arm after severe shelling, and then carted for perhaps twenty miles in a slow-moving ambulance, could be forgiven if he took a somewhat gloomy view of the immediate future. Ten to one he arrives at his destination hiding his suffering behind a mask of gaiety.
I sat in the grounds of a casualty clearing station one afternoon watching the endless procession of Red Cross motor cars discharging their doleful burdens under the trees. I heard very few cries of pain. These men had been brought direct from the battlefield with only a halt at the dressing station where first aid is rendered. Many were, of course, wholly disabled but those who could use their legs pluckily tried to walk.

They joked with each other as they sat or lay around the garden, waiting for the ambulance that would take them to the coast. One of our aeroplanes was sighted overhead, sailing back from the German lines with enemy's shrapnel bursting in its wake, and every man who could do so hoisted himself upright in order to watch the battle.
"Rotten shots," said a Durham miner, whose left arm was bound to his side, "they never hit anything."
"It's a sinful waste of ammunition," said the Cameronian, "but they hit you."
"They must've aimed at something else," growled the miner. "I could shoot better with my eyes shut."
Two men beside him paid no heed to the conversation. They were eagerly turning over the tattered leaves of an old copy of a London illustrated paper. Three hours before they were struck down by shrapnel, which killed men around them. Now, with their wounds dressed, they were intent on photographs of "Kis" battalions and scenes from a new London play.
Cheerful in the trenches; cheerful under fire; cheerful on the march!
My motor-car halted at a cross-roads to let a famous battalion of infantry pass. Big men they were—some of the pick of England's manhood. They had been tramping for hours through a blinding cloud of dust, and faces, uniforms, caps, were thickly powdered with it. They sang, coughing, a weird song about being very dry—dry—dry—how dry—how dry—how dry! Tunics were unbuttoned and thrown back, perspiration streamed in rivulets down their grey cheeks, and they were tired—dry tired. They sang.
The column halted beside me. A sergeant-major came out of a cottage with a maple sitting solemnly on his thumb. Instantly a volley of queries, "Oo's your friend, Bill?" "Mind your pockets, boys, there's a black thief around!" "Does he talk French?" "That's a German mapple, watch him." "Crude jests, maybe, but they served their purpose."
"How long have you been on the march?" I asked one grey apparition.
"A thousand sanguinary years," said a hoarse voice. "We do this for fun. Got a match?"
The battalion moved on and disappeared in a whirling cloud, while the mapple, cocking his head wisely, listened to the dying chant: "Still dry; still dry; still dry."
I saw another famous battalion—shorter to a third of its original strength by German shells—march into billets in a village near my quarters. For a fortnight these men had endured all imaginable horrors in the salient of the British line beyond Ypres. Scarcely a man was left, and men with the shadow of death still across their set faces, but as they came into the narrow street, where friendly villagers smiled at them from their cottages, you could see the old spirit coming uppermost again.
"Baths," cried one man as they passed a slime-covered pool beside a stable yard.
"Billiards," exclaimed a second as he glanced through the open door of the little estaminet.
"Tobacco," said a third, as he saw a tiny shop-window crammed with boxes of English cigarettes. They sat around that night, in cottage doors, in fields and along hedges, smoking and writing letters home or watching the crimson sunset, with an air of ut-

Boy Scouts of the Waterloo street Baptist church were pall-bearers at the funeral Monday afternoon of D. McCa. Clayton, who was buried in Fernhill cemetery, after service by Rev. Dr. Raymond and Rev. F. H. Wentworth. The remains of Mrs. Virginia Bonneau were interred in the Old Catholic cemetery after service in the Cathedral by Rev. W. M. Duke.

Considerable delay was experienced in the street car service yesterday afternoon at the foot of King street during the heavy rainfall. The blockage was due to the rain carrying a large quantity of gravel off Chipman Hill and depositing it in the car tracks. At one time during the storm there were eight cars in line at this point waiting for the tracks to be cleared before they could proceed. The rainfall also caused extreme annoyance to pedestrians at the corner of Paradise Row and Main street. One of the catch basins at that place was unable to receive the heavy overflow of rain with the result that it became blocked and the water rose almost to the level of the door steps of the surrounding houses. People were obliged to wade through the water when getting on the street cars or when proceeding up Main street.

Hon. Mr. Hazen Makes Appeal To Manufacturers in Province

Minister of Marine, in stirring address before Rotary Club, points to New Brunswick's opportunity—Should organize factories for work of supplying Munitions of War to Britain and Allies—Cheers for Minister at conclusion of ringing speech.

Before the St. John Rotary Club yesterday afternoon Hon. J. D. Hazen sounded a ringing call to the manufacturers of New Brunswick to organize their plants for a more active participation in the furnishing of munitions of war to allied nations. It was the regular Monday luncheon and there were present some sixty or seventy members with H. C. Creighton in the chair. Four new members were elected—namely, James Lawrie, W. Frank Hatheway, R. D. Patterson and N. Louis Brennan. Hon. Mr. Hazen said that he had been called upon at short notice and had not had an opportunity of preparing anything in the nature of a definitely thought out address. His remarks would therefore have to bear with any seeming weaknesses in the sequence of facts which he would endeavor to place before them. At the conclusion of the address the concert of opinion was that there had not only been no need of an apology on Mr. Hazen's part, but that the address was one of the greatest treats yet enjoyed by the club.

"As much as the world war is now the predominant idea in all minds," said Hon. Mr. Hazen, "it may not be out of place for me to devote the few minutes at my disposal to a presentation of some facts connected therewith and, perhaps, more particularly, along the line of Canada's participation in this struggle. It is safe to say that public sentiment throughout this Dominion is everywhere united in favor of this country's participation in the affairs of the Empire, and more particularly do we stand as one in the sentiment that everything possible shall be done in upholding our part in this contest.

Canada's Debt to the Navy.

"Canada is year by year taking a larger share in Imperial affairs, our sentimental regard for the mother land has been growing deeper and deeper with the passing of time, until now it approaches a passion. We look with the strongest interest along the line of Canada's participation in this struggle. It is safe to say that public sentiment throughout this Dominion is everywhere united in favor of this country's participation in the affairs of the Empire, and more particularly do we stand as one in the sentiment that everything possible shall be done in upholding our part in this contest.

The Premier's Offer of Aid.

"So it was fitting that on August 1st, when war loomed large on the horizon of the world, the Prime Minister, Sir Robert L. Borden, speaking for a united Canada should telegraph the Home Government with the fullest expression of our capabilities. Not until August 6th was a reply received, when the message came to prepare. You all know that in the past Canada has permitted very little control to military affairs. This country has not permitted itself to dwell on the thought of war. We have spent comparatively small amounts of money each year—though some people have continually complained that these amounts were excessive—chiefly on elementary training for a small force of militia. So when war broke out Canada found herself totally unprepared in so far as trained men were concerned and also with respect to equipment for an overseas expeditionary force. But, and this is greatly to the credit of our people, within four weeks after war broke out a magnificent camp had been constructed at Valcartier, and there, under canvas, were gathered from every part of this broad Dominion an army of thirty-five thousand men. Six weeks after war broke out this army was fully equipped for active service and could have been sent forward at that time had it been possible for the British Government to provide escort. Yet within a very few days after the completion of these matters the greatest army that ever crossed the ocean was to be found on thirty crowded transports conveyed by a squadron of British vessels, hastening to Britain to stand side by side with their fellow patriots overseas in the defence of the Empire which we all love. Today there is in Europe a much larger Canadian army than the total British force under Wellington at the battle of Waterloo. Bernhardi, in his book 'Germany and the next War,' declares that Britain's overseas dominions might be regarded as a negligible force. How he had his fellows misjudged the sentiment of these overseas dominions has been shown by the manner in which Colonial troops have conducted themselves at Ypres, Neuve Chapelle, Lancerhoek and elsewhere, checking the German advance and stopping the rush to Calais.

TIED UP BY STORM

Considerable delay was experienced in the street car service yesterday afternoon at the foot of King street during the heavy rainfall. The blockage was due to the rain carrying a large quantity of gravel off Chipman Hill and depositing it in the car tracks. At one time during the storm there were eight cars in line at this point waiting for the tracks to be cleared before they could proceed. The rainfall also caused extreme annoyance to pedestrians at the corner of Paradise Row and Main street. One of the catch basins at that place was unable to receive the heavy overflow of rain with the result that it became blocked and the water rose almost to the level of the door steps of the surrounding houses. People were obliged to wade through the water when getting on the street cars or when proceeding up Main street.

What Was Done at Valcartier.

"May I speak for a moment of what was done at Valcartier. The organization of that camp and army within the space of four weeks was a magnificent achievement. A rise range, comprising a line of 1,500 targets, and extending about three and one-half miles, was completed in ten days. A complete water supply with necessary pipings, pumps, tanks, and chlorinating plant, with about 200 taps fitted to ablation tables, and seventy-five shower baths was constructed. An electric light, power and telephone system was installed, streets were constructed, buildings and tents erected, and an effective sewerage system, comprising over 28,000 feet of drain pipe was completed. Railway sidings for the transport of munitions were constructed. Woods were cleared and elaborate sanitary arrangements prepared. Six large buildings for ordnance stores and for the Army Service Corps, buildings for medical stores, for pay and transport offices, hospital stables for sick horses, fumigating and other buildings were constructed and made ready for use within the same period.

Mr. Hazen said that he had been called upon at short notice and had not had an opportunity of preparing anything in the nature of a definitely thought out address. His remarks would therefore have to bear with any seeming weaknesses in the sequence of facts which he would endeavor to place before them. At the conclusion of the address the concert of opinion was that there had not only been no need of an apology on Mr. Hazen's part, but that the address was one of the greatest treats yet enjoyed by the club.

Training and Equipment

"Thirty-five thousand men were assembled and put through a most systematic course of training in all branches of the service. Infantry, cavalry, artillery, engineers, army service corps, army medical corps, signaller corps, and other columns were organized and all were trained in their respective duties. The clothing and equipment, the transport and supply for thirty-five thousand men were a heavy undertaking. What was necessary to equip the force sent forward and to make some provision for future contingents included 250,000 pairs of boots, 100,000 pairs of socks, 200,000 jackets and sweaters of various types, 255,000 pairs of trousers, 70,000 rifles and bayonets, 80,000 oil bottles, 70,000 water bottles, 95,000 sets of valise equipment, and so on, in the proportion, over a list of sixty-six different articles. With the first expeditionary force we sent to Great Britain twenty-one 13-pounder quick-firing guns, ninety-six 18-pounder quick-firing guns, ten heavy and medium machine guns, motor lorries, transport wagons and a vast quantity of ammunition. The force was ready for embarkation within six weeks of the outbreak of war. This force was twice as great as the Spanish Armada and fifty per cent. greater than the British force, commanded by Wellington, at Waterloo.

Subject For Congratulation

"Canada has to congratulate itself on the highly creditable manner in which this army was sent. Since then other contingents have gone and more will go. This country may feel proud not only of the military response which it has made, but of the very generous manner in which private individuals have come forward with subscriptions and other forms of aid. "Today more than two hundred factories in Canada are manufacturing for the Canadian forces but for Britain and for Russia. Much of this work is being done under a special committee organized by the Militia Department, with Col. Bertram chairman. Engaged in this work, too, is Thos. Cantley, one of the foremost figures in the industrial life of Nova Scotia.

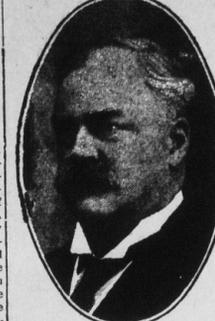

"In New Brunswick factories for the manufacture of shells and similar munitions are operating in St. John, Moncton, Fredericton and Chatham. Numerous other plants in this province and throughout Canada are engaged on contracts for other forms of supplies. These goods are being sent through channels apart altogether from political influence. As Great Britain has appointed a minister of munitions, so Canada has appointed recently a purchasing commission under Mr. Kemp, a member of the Government, and a very successful business man. This commission is awarding contracts on all sides, and in carrying on its work it has secured the co-operation of patriotic men in the province. Among those who are contributing their valuable services to this national cause I am pleased to find my friend W. S. Fisher.

Can More Be Done?

"Although New Brunswick is securing many contracts for these various supplies, yet it is a matter for our regret that we are not doing more. At the conclusion of the address a vote of thanks was moved by F. A. Dykeman who briefly referred to the glorious part played by Canada's soldiers on the battlefields of Europe and to the pride felt by those at home in the noble bearing of their friends at the front.

Freight Rates.

The local Board of Trade has been notified that the Railway Commission of Canada will meet in Ottawa on June 29 to hear evidence in connection with the proposed changes in freight rates in Eastern Canada.

HON. J. D. HAZEN

serious consideration whether more factories in this province might not be organized and developed to meet this unlimited demand. Last winter there were shipped through the port of St. John eighteen million dollars worth of supplies more than had ever previously gone in a single season. These munitions were forwarded in safety. We cannot foresee the end of the war. God grant that it may come soon, but in the event of a long drawn out conflict it is absolutely necessary that Canada as a whole shall produce everything possible which may tend to assure victory to the British arms. Mr. Cantley, to whom I referred, while in England recently had a conversation with Lord Kitchener, who informed him that Canadian manufacturers had come to the point more quickly and more efficiently than British manufacturers, with the exception of those who are regularly engaged in the manufacture of munitions. This is gratifying indeed, but New Brunswick manufacturers should do more. I would suggest that they get in touch as soon as possible with men like Mr. Cantley, Col. Bertram and Sir Thos. Shaughnessy on his return from England, with a view to extending very largely the scope of manufacturing done here. We are doing something, but everything we can possibly produce will be needed. We have in our favor all the necessary conditions.

Canada Weathering Storm Well.

"I believe that New Brunswick has suffered less through this war than any other province in Canada. Of course in portions of the West there had to be a reaction from over-production in real estate. This followed by the war has made conditions somewhat harsh. But we are soon to witness the greatest wheat crop in the history of the country. More land is under seed than in any previous year, weather conditions have been particularly favorable and the outlook is brighter than for many seasons. Down here we have seen our lumbermen getting good prices, we have had a busy year in St. John harbor and our province has benefited by a share of expenditures made for military supplies. Not having to pay up for previous speculation we are in a very fortunate position, and despite the depression in the West I believe that Canada with the possible exception of the United States is about the most prosperous country in the world.

Canada Will Not Fall.

"Permit me to close this somewhat rambling address by a brief quotation from an address delivered by Sir Robert L. Borden: 'I believe that our cause is just and that there is an unflinching determination to make it triumphant. I believe that it can have only one conclusion. British reverses may come, but if they do they should only inspire us with deeper courage and greater determination. All that we have inherited and accomplished, our destiny as a nation, the existence of our Empire, are all at stake in this contest, and I am confident that the resolution, the determination, the self-reliance and resourcefulness that have never failed Canada in the stress and trials of the past will assuredly not fail here now.'

THE MILLS OF THE GODS
AN EXCELLENT DRAMA

Good Acting and a Fine
Vehicle Pleased the Audience
— At the Opera House Now.

There was a fairly large audience, considering the unfavorable weather conditions, at the Opera House last evening when the Orpheum Stock Company presented acceptably the drama by George Bradhurst entitled "The Mills of the Gods." That the work of the company was appreciated by those present was evident from the attitude of the audience, whose attention was held throughout the evening.

The drama abounds in thrilling incidents, with here and there touches of comedy, for which William Mac-Donald, as Sam Furbush, was in great measure responsible. The leading parts were taken by Miss Eleanor Flowers and Walter J. Connolly, both of whom proved themselves equal to the somewhat exacting demands made upon them in their respective roles.

The story concerns chiefly the richness career of James Clarke, or Richard Harper, who, after having obtained a good position by dint of honest effort, fell into disgrace by embezzling the moneys of his employers, not with the object of living riotously but of relieving, as he thought, the wants of the home at a time of domestic distress. It is the old story, but intended to repay the sums taken from his employers, and the idea of theft, in the strict sense, never occurred to him. How he was associated in these transactions with Frederick Payton, both of whom were sentenced to a term of imprisonment, how Payton, for a long period, was relentless in his persecution of Clarke with the object of obtaining money, and how the many thrilling incidents of love and hatred interwoven in the theme were capably demonstrated by the well-balanced company necessarily means a visit to the Opera House either today or tomorrow by those who were not fortunate enough to be present last evening.

The drama is certainly of a high order of merit.

As James Clarke, Walter Connolly proved himself to be a clever actor His enunciation was especially pleasing, and in a role, requiring much work of a varied character, he did particularly well. Miss Eleanor Flowers, as Catherine Jordan, was equal to every demand made upon her in a sympathetic role calling for careful treatment. Frank Bertrand (Frederick Payton) gave a fine interpretation of the blackmailing ex-convict, his acting being effective from every standpoint. Charles E. Howson, who took the part of Robert S. Thornhill, Clarke's assistant in the office of the Newton Cut Glass Works, played by his intelligent treatment of a by no means easy role. Bob it was was every ready to lend Sam Furbush sundry dollars for an unknown purpose, albeit it subsequently transpired that Sam wanted the money to pay for a mailing course of instruction leading to the position of a full-fledged detective, badge and all. William MacDonald was very funny in the role of Sam. Miss Gwendolyn Brooks, as Mrs. Andrews, a minister's wife, did full justice to the part allotted to her, and showed that she is an actress of more than ordinary ability. The character of Mrs. Newton, proprietress of the glass works, was taken by Miss Dorothy Fraser, her work being in every way satisfactory. That W.
Edmund Fox, as Hartwig Marcus, secretary of the International Glass Company, is a really capable actor, was fully exemplified last evening. Hooper Toiler did well as Roy Gordon, and Miss Jean Archibald's work as stenographer with the Newton firm was of a distinctly high order. Altogether it may be said that "The Mills of the Gods" was pleasingly presented by the Orpheum Stock Company, and the Opera House should be well patronized this week.

As already stated the drama will be repeated this evening and on Wednesday evening. On Thursday and Friday the comedy Miss Temple's Telegram will be presented and on Saturday matinee and evening Augustin Daly's comedy The Lottery of Love has been selected for presentation. It may be mentioned that the evening performances will be over in time to allow out of town patrons to take the suburban trains.

Tea is a War Munition
Tea is being used as the most por-in Europe. The belligerent govern-and the troops are acquiring a taste for tea that will greatly increase the future consumption. Cheap tea is a thing of the past now that the new demand has arisen, and rising prices may be expected for some time.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN
BETTER THAN EVER

Appearing in the "Fatal Mallet" at the Unique.

Charlie Chaplin for reigned supreme at the Unique yesterday. This brilliant comedian excelled himself in "The Fatal Mallet" and the large crowd at the Unique yesterday certainly enjoyed this picture. The comedy was a succession of screams, excellently set forth by Chaplin. The show is guaranteed to chase the worst case of blues.

In "The Come Backs" the Majestic Company scored a hit. The play showed an intense story of society life enacted with a force, which leaves no doubt as to its wonderful dramatic powers.

The Gaumont Graphic contains a series of interesting war views. The entire programme is of particular merit and Unique patrons should certainly see it.

RAZORS FOUND
BY THE POLICE

Were in room occupied by Samuel Warar — He was arrested.

Samuel Warar, who resided on Acadia street, has been arrested and is charged with stealing articles from the recruiting office at the corner of Mill and Union streets. The arrest was made yesterday at 12:30 o'clock by Special Officer Barrett and Detective McLaughlin. The officers first visited the house on Acadia street, having suspected that Warar was the person wanted, and after waiting there for a short time Detective Barrett went down Main street and seeing the man getting off a street car placed him under arrest. He was then taken to his room in the Acadia street boarding house and the place searched. In addition to a few chamoois cloths there were found six full boxes of razors, with six razors in each box, also one box with two razors in it. The razors are of the Wilkinson make and imported from England, and are the kind that are given out to the men who recruit at the office in the corner of Mill and Union streets.

The recruiting officers have many of these razors on hand so they can hand out one to each man as he enlists and it was not known yesterday just how many had been stolen.

Warar has been engaged about the city as a window cleaner, and one place that he worked was the recruiting station. It has been claimed that Warar said he saw the boxes of razors lying about in the station, there was no person about and as they did not appear to belong to any person he just picked them up.

In addition to the above articles found in Warar's possession there was about eight leather covers for Royal Bank of Canada deposit books.

The window cleaner was locked up in a cell in police headquarters and will be taken before the police court this morning.

A Danger to Navigation.
The captain of the Norwegian Str. Otterstad, which arrived in port on Saturday afternoon, has reported to the Department of Marine Fisheries that he passed on Thursday, the 17th inst., at 6 p. m., a ship awash, approximately 1000 tons, fifteen miles due south of Sable Island and very dangerous to navigation.

Troublesome Drunks
Four drunks were gathered in by the police last night. One of the number, from St. Martins and was arrested near the I. C. R. depot. He was very noisy but quite harmless when in the clutches of the police. About eleven o'clock while County Policeman Saunders was in Union street he came across an Italian with a troublesome jag aboard. The man was alone at the time but was shouting and asking for a fight. He was locked up.

Early Morning Fire.
Fire was discovered in the kitchen in the house 34 Carlton street, occupied by Mrs. Hunter and an alarm was sent in from box 3 yesterday morning about 3:30 o'clock. When the firemen arrived they found the fire was in the sheathing behind the kitchen range and it is supposed to have caught from around the stove pipe hole. The sheathing was torn away and the fire was quickly extinguished by the chemical, very little damage being done. There was no fire in the range at the time and it is supposed that the fire had been smouldering all night.

HOME FOR GIRLS MISSING BOYS TO BE ENLARGED FOR AMHERST

Institation at Truro Doing Noble Work—Twenty-two Girls in Home Now.

At the last meeting of the Wallace Presbytery Rev. V. M. Purdy tendered his resignation of the congregation of Parrsboro to take up work for the Maritime Home for Girls at Truro. Mr. Purdy visited the Province of New Brunswick last year in the interest of this work and in a short time he expects to again visit parts of the province in order to give the people a chance to assist in this work. While in St. John Mr. Purdy preached in several city pulpits.

The Maritime Home for Girls has been established since last September and in that time more than forty girls have been cared for. At the present time there are 22 girls in the home.

This is the full capacity of the home. During the summer it is the intention of the board to enlarge the premises so that more girls may be accommodated.

One of the Judges of the Nova Scotia court has said that more than sixty girls in that province should be committed to the home.

The staff, at present, consists of the superintendent, Miss Day, the matron, Mrs. Lewis, and two teachers.

There is a farm of 100 acres in connection with the home and an experienced farmer is required and this branch of the work receives careful attention.

The property is almost wholly within the limits of the town of Truro and has light and water privileges, which assist materially in the carrying on of the work.

FARMING OUTLOOK VERY ENCOURAGING

J. B. Daggett says prospects are very bright throughout the Province.

"From an agricultural standpoint the province is in excellent condition," said J. B. Daggett, provincial secretary for agriculture, who was in the city yesterday. "Seeding has been good and in many parts of the province the plants got an early start. The rain has helped the hay in all parts of the province and the crop should be very good."

"The Department of Agriculture is doing its best to encourage work among the farmers. The new agriculture school in Sussex should be of great benefit to the farmers in that vicinity."

There will also be the boxes, to be reserved in the usual manner. The regular theatrical system of reserving seats being thus adopted for special occasions Imperial patrons will be greatly facilitated.

ST. JOHN NURSE ARRIVED SAFELY IN OLD COUNTRY.

Miss Grace Kaye of Moncton, who with Miss Brown of St. John went to the Old Country on the steamer Mis-sissippi to take up nursing work among the soldiers of the Allies, writing to friends in this city, tells of the trip across the Atlantic. The steamer sailed from Moncton. The trip over to Plymouth was made in ten days. The party saw a submarine off the Irish coast and the steamer was put on a zig zag course away from the enemy. She soon came up with the convoy and was escorted into port. There was considerable delay on account of meeting the submarine but the remainder of the voyage was quite pleasant.

Both these nurses had many friends in St. John. Miss Brown is a sister of Charles F. Brown of the North End.
