TUESDAY EVENING, JUNE 16.

Trouble Brewing.

There are already whippers in the air about a contemplated revolt in the Assembly—a strike, as it were, for the reconstruction of the Government. The defeat of all the candidates, except four or five, identified with hostility to the Common School's Act de-vo's the Government's hold on certain members who have been forced to support it because they could not accept the leadership of a Separate School man and form a party School members. Now they will be free to act against the Government without rendering themselves liable to be charged with treason to the cause of free education. Although the non-sectarian tickets were called Government tickets, and were added by the Government, many of the members elect do not consider themselves at all bound to support any particular set of men, and are strongly in favor of a new deal. There will be many new men in the next House, and it is not possible that they will be willing to accept things as they find them. Even some of the members of the Government think the portfolios should change hands. It is not reasonable to suppose that Mr. Willis will much longer consent to serve without a department, after having done so much more than any other man—through the News and on the platform—to secure the election of the candidates of the party. He will not be true to himself—will not keep faith with the expectations of his friends—if he does not insist on having the Provincial Secretaryship, Chief Commissioner of the Board of Works or the Surveyor Generalship. There are lawyers in the ranks of the dominant party who fall to understand why Mr. King should retain the office of Attorney General for life. Mr. Wedderburn is known to have an eye on the position, and his standing in the profession and his general public opinion, and the law, his varied popularity, make the ambition reasonable and natural. The risk is already full of rumors of negotiations for the formation of a combination that will effect a change at Fredericton, and the probability is that the Government will be forced to break the combination in the same way that the same was broken by giving the leadership two or three seats at the Council Board. This will call for the sacrifice of place and power by a portion of the Government, so that the organization may not be overthrown—leaving off a branch, as it were, to prevent the infection of the tree. Who will be the victims? This is the question that will soon be troubling the Executive breast—that troubles it even now while the shouts of victory at the polls are heard on every hand.

Administration politicians in the United States are sure of being advanced if they are fortunate enough to be presidentially demoted to the N. Y. State. The appointment of Bancroft Davis, Assistant Secretary of State, as Minister to the German Court, is the latest illustration of this, as Davis's own blisters were all the claims he had to the appointment. The decision of the arbitrators in the case of the Albert Mining Company is that the copy of steel by which Mr. Fellows and others ousted the Gilberts from the office of the mine was legal, and that the dividends declared by them must be paid. Elections take place in six constituencies this week—York de-vo's Carleton and Westmorland, Thursday; King's, Kent and Restigouche, Saturday.

A ludicrous scene was witnessed on an intercolonial train the other day. A newly-married couple entered the car and took a seat. The husband, wanting to smoke, left his wife and went into the smoking car. The bride began to sneeze and while she slept a stranger entered the car and, as it was crowded, quietly took a seat beside the young wife. She began to sneeze, and, doubtless imagining that her husband was still in the car, gently reclined toward the stranger, and soon her head foundly nestled on his breast. At this juncture the husband returned. He stood in mute astonishment in the aisle until the lady awoke, and realizing the situation, drew back in amazement, suffused with blushes. Stranger explained, husband was satisfied, and wife tried hard to appear unconcerned.

A report from Ottawa says that the Clerk of the Privy Council has proceeded to Quebec to swear in another member of the Cabinet in place of Chief Justice Dorian. If the Clerk of the Privy Council has proceeded to Ottawa to swear out a half-dozen members of the Cabinet, the country would be a great deal better pleased. But it seems that Cabinet Ministers can do all the outside swearing that is necessary, especially in the swearing out of Conservative office-holders who refuse to be bribed or bullied into supporting Government nominees. We have no need to particularize instances of this kind, while even the Premier is going about the Provinces like a roaring lion seeking whom he may decapitate.

Now that the watering place season is upon us and Jenkins has the writing-itch, it may not be amiss to give this little gem a string. The Western paper in which it originally appeared should be allowed to have the monopoly of this brilliant gem. The gem is a pot pourri advertisement of the misc scene as presented in the governor's parlors. Mr. Polyglott's etruscan residence upon this noble occasion. Ethiopia stretched forth her hands to entice with floral gems the seize-pas-pest recaptives of nature's floral gifts, while strains of de-vo's music floated on cherubic wings to fan the ear of the de-vo's listener. We have gazed upon somewhat by passing on the dreary Nile, and have plucked from their rocky pastures the lichen growing in the crevice of Alpine peaks, but Nobe, in all her glory, never to be compared with a scene like this.

L'Aurore (The Morning Light).—This is the name of a French Protestant weekly newspaper founded in 1866 and published in Montreal, Canada, at $1.50 (United States) $2 per annum. It contains articles on the important questions of the day; a special correspondence from France on European political and religious matters; as well as general family reading and news, etc. Hon. Wm. McDougall is now editing the Canadian News in London, England.

The Baptists in Westmorland. To the Editor of the Tribune. Sir: My falling faculties were aroused on reading Bro. Reid's communication in the last issue of the Standard. He carried my feeble memory back to the days of my youth when I sat under the blessed Baptist Church in this country, when he travelled from place to place on horse shoe or any other way most convenient to the times, teaching the people and their children their duty to God and man. When all these memories floated through my mind I thought of the time when this Father of our Church, the Rev. James Crandall, ran an election in this County, how he was elected by our people sickling together. Then he took his seat in the Legislature, and I think it was in the year 1820, or about that time. After the Legislature met a Bill was brought for the election of a minister of the Gospel or religious teacher from holding a seat. This was personally aimed at Mr. Crandall, and I think it was in the year 1820, or about that time. Execution of a Negro Murderer. Edward Brown, alias Wm. Jones, an escaped negro convict, who murdered Wm. C. Dixon, a young farmer in this county, on the 26th of December, 1873, for his clothes and $50, or six dollars in money, was hanged here this forenoon at 11 o'clock. The prisoner was taken from jail to the place of execution, some one and a half miles from the town, guarded by a force of two hundred men, under command of Col. O'Brien. At about 12 o'clock the condemned man ascended the scaffold with a firm step, and without any perceptible emotion. He was attended by nearly a dozen Baptist clergymen, two of them colored, and the Rev. Mr. B. Aldridge. After kneeling and with a wave of his hand and foot, and asked by Sheriff Brown if he had anything to say, Brown said: "I am leaving my body to the Lord. I was five feet but his neck was not broken by the fall, the knot slipping over the back of the neck, and hanging to a p and tighten by degrees, so that he was literally strangled to death. For two minutes after the drop fell there were movements of the limbs, and the pulse continued to beat fully ten minutes. Doctors Thompson and River pronounced him dead after hanging fifteen minutes but, in order to be certain, they did not order the cord cut down until it had been suspended twenty-seven minutes. The execution was witnessed by nearly three thousand persons, nearly all negroes, men and women. The prisoner confessed his crime before the trial and did not want counsel to defend him. He said the face of the murdered man haunted him everywhere until he confessed, and then he felt much better. He was the most self-possessed man in meeting his fate ever seen by those who have frequently assisted on similar occasions. Some persons of the crowd of spectators cut the rope into pieces, to be kept as souvenirs; others obtained his shoe strings, and two men were anxious to pay ten cents for his suspenders.

The Ohio Miners' Strike. COLUMBUS, OHIO, June 12. A despatch from Nelsonville to the State Journal says that at daylight the Union miners' pickets were not visible but soon after a party numbering about 100 collected near the colored forces. Care was taken to keep the main body of negroes out. Hearing that the strikers covered with the negroes and urged them to join the Union, the guards were doubled. Three negroes walked up to the guards, presented their revolvers and walked over to the Unionists. Whenever the guards endeavored to press back the colored miners the strikers urged them the more vehemently to desert. Putnam said that the strikers advised putting the main body at work and leaving the smaller number for the guards, and efforts were made to put fifty men into the mine. At this time eight hundred strikers, with a brass band, approached, and were met by Messrs. Putnam and Warren and restrained from proceeding further. Putnam expressed confidence to the operators in his ability to control the strikers and his disbelief in the fears of violence. Meanwhile, the Miners' Committee approached the line, and one of their number commenced a speech. The excitement among the negroes was very great. They crowded down to the lines and a general stampede was imminent. Efforts were made to restrain them, but some thirty or forty in small squads deserted. Several efforts were made to check descriptions of the negroes, but they were unsuccessful. The strikers, then drawing the voices of the speakers on the other side. The plan of the strikers seems to be to draw the force of negroes by desertion, and they say they will not use force. The operators say they are not discouraged, and if necessary will bring 1000 men from the mines to take care of. Some of the negroes returned to duty during the afternoon, and while a number are working in the mines the others are throwing up earthworks. Orders have been sent for 300 negroes, a portion of whom are expected tomorrow. The military at Cincinnati and Chillicothe have been ordered of duty, but with instructions to be ready to start for Nelsonville if needed on a moment's notice. The military at Athens, numbering a hundred, has also been ordered to be ready to move if needed.

Drummers. The Court of Sessions met this forenoon at 11 o'clock, there being sixteen Magistrates present and one Alderman, Justice Keans resigned his position of chairman of Committee on Accounts, and his membership of the Court House and Relief from Taxation Committee. Justice Gerow was appointed to the Chairmanship of the Accounts Committee.

Justice Gerow moved that bills for constables' fees be paid, as they had not been reported on by the Accounts Committee, and one of the Sheriff's for revising electoral lists. Carried. Several other accounts were referred to the proper Committees.

The committee appointed to examine the parish and highway accounts of Lancaster submitted a report. They had noted W. A. Quinton, James Gorie, constables Lake and Case, and Justice Robinson to attend their meetings, and the latter gentleman having information that no one else could give the committee, The defendants' list, held by Justice Robinson, is most unsatisfactory to the committee, and a large proportion of the 1873 list is unpaid. Constables Love and Case stated that they had paid, since the Auditor's report, all the amounts of Mr. Robinson's execution. As the said Justice had not complied with the Act of 1863, in reference to executions issued, there are no means open to test the truth of the constables' statements. The committee could not pass over in silence a statement of these constables that Justice Robinson when an execution was placed in their hands had advised them not to levy on goods or take the body of the person unless indemnified by the Sessions. If this statement is correct the committee were of the opinion that the expensive process of placing defendants lists in the hands of Justices, who gave such advice, had better be avoided. This is evident from Mr. Robinson's accounts of last year. The cost of collection exceeds the amount collected, and the Sessions according to Mr. Robinson's showing were in debt at the close of the year 1871.

Mr. Gorie thought frequently summoned had failed to appear. In his district account he makes an illegal charge of $50, in addition to which he has collected and not accounted for $5 more, namely from Patrick McDermott and James McKinnon $1.50 each.

Mr. Quinton had given an explanation on a former occasion. He was a defaulter to the amount of $9.50. The committee recommended that Mr. Gorie and Mr. Quinton be called on to pay the amounts for which they are defaulters before the next meeting, and be informed that further proceedings will be taken against them if they do not do so.

Justice Robinson said he had explained his position. He denied ever giving a constable such advice. Said he had money in his possession but had not paid it over, as the constables had given it to him in a lump sum, and he did not know who it credit to it.

Justice Baker said that the work of the committee had occupied five afternoons. They had notified Justice Robinson to attend and he had not done so.

Justice Robinson wanted to know how the Committee knew he had not notified the Clerk of the Peace said he had notified the Justice.

Afternoon and evening performances were given yesterday under their tent on the Ballast Wharf. The audiences were delighted with the varied entertainments presented them, and the quiet and orderly way in which they were conducted. The affair seems to be under the management of gentlemen who understand their business and care to please their patrons. All of the performers are worthy of special mention, and there are so good it is hardly fair to particularize. Mr. DeBerg, the lady equestrian, was known before to St. John, and her beautiful horsemanship was again admired. M. Lowande, in feats of horsemanship, eclipsed everything ever before seen in this city. With his horse on the gallop he jumps through a hoop into which project a dozen or so sharp pointed knives. The feat is a most surprising one. Every motion of horse and rider is in perfect harmony. In every possible position the rider urges his horse at the top of his speed, while all the time he bows and recognizes the cheers which greet him, with an abandon seldom seen in the arena. Then he dashes round the ring, carrying his infant son in all positions, not ends by standing him on his head, and without holding him, riding at full gallop. The boy seems to enjoy the ride as much as the father, and shouts, urging the horse along, waves his hand and throws kisses to the ladies. The eighteen other acts, consisting of tumbling, trapeze, exercises on the bar, cannon ball act, with the laughable sallies of three funny clowns, make up a fine entertainment.

It is saddening to see our fair Mosleming for the grave too early. More especially women feel the affliction, and it is even a greater deformity to them than to men. AYVA's Hair Vaseline moves it and restores the hair sometimes, but its original color always.

Burglary and Arson. Mr. George W. Gerow, 81 Waterloo street, was aroused by a smell of fire at half-past one this morning. Falling to find any fire he aroused Mr. C. A. Stockton, on the lower flat, and fire was discovered in the cellar of the basement kitchen. The gas-pipe had been melted off and the gas was flaming up against the wall and ceiling. The wall and floor had been "deadened"—the spaces entirely filled—and the fire was making very little progress on the joists and mortar. The flames were quickly extinguished by throwing on a quantity of water and the smoldering wood was chopped away with axes. The gentlemen went up stairs to search for fire, and returned to the cellar a few minutes with a light, when the gas, which had been escaping since the flames were extinguished, exploded in the walls and ceilings, sending the plaster in part of the upper flat down with a crash that frightened the ladies who were in the room. The gas-pipe was soon effectually plugged. It was supposed, at first, that Mr. Stockton's servant had placed a lamp on a shelf in the cellar and set the fire, but it was found that his lamp would not stand on the only shelf from which a fire could have been originated in this way. This morning Mr. Stockton discovered that a shutter had been forced off a small basement ventilating window in the front of the house, and the cellar and storeroom robbed of butter, eggs, market basket, and some other things, and believes that the fire was accidentally or purposely set by the thieves. It is supposed that the fire was set quite early, as Mr. Gerow's gas refused to burn about eleven, which was, undoubtedly, the time the pipe in the cellar was melted off.

Mr. Morley, who was for so long a time in the employ of M. N. Powers, Esq., has commenced the business of an undertaker, etc., on his own account. See advt.

Shipping News. The American Boat will arrive at 4 o'clock this afternoon. First Express—June 16, 9 a. m.—Wind E. S. E., light, clear. One bark and one brig inward; one brig and two schooners outward.

New Ship—Messrs. Troop & Son have just added to their already large fleet of vessels a splendid ship called the Minister of Marine. She was launched from the yard of Mr. John S. Parker, at Tynewood Creek, on Saturday last, and towed into this port last evening. She is nearly two years since the first timber was laid for this large vessel, which proves her to be well seasoned. Her owners have been very particular in selecting timber of an extra quality. She is about 1750 tons register. Her dimensions are 91 feet keel, 25 feet depth of hold, 48 feet 2 inches breadth of beam, and she is classed in French Lloyd's for 9 years, it being the highest class given. She will cost when completed $85,000 or $90,000. Capt. Fritz, who owns a share in her, will take command. Her rigging work will be done by Peter Dearness & Son. Her owners effected a charter with A. Gibson, 5 or 4 months ago, at 110s. to load deals for Liverpool, after which she will proceed to the east or west coast of South America to load guano for a port in the United Kingdom.
