It is eminently easy to distrust all marvellous stories of wonderful new fruits of unheard-of excellence, which can only be found in the hands of "Confidential" and "Responsible" "agents." If such fruits had an existence, they would be at once produced by all enterprising and responsible nurserymen, and the public would have an opportunity of procuring them from known and reliable sources.—*George W. The Nebraska State Board of Agriculture has distributed sixteen farms as premiums for the best crops on the continent for the year 1892. The following are the names and acreage of the farms:—

First prize, one sixteen acre tract, one of which was two horses.

An editor won the best farm valued at $16 per acre.

The occasion was created by a circular from Toronto asking a grant from the Government in aid of the Mackenzie Bowell Testimonial, which is being got up in acknowledgement of that gentleman's services in having Riel expelled from the country. The Government, however, declined to look a very reasonable view of this matter, and feeling that Mr. Bowell did no more than his duty, and that had he not "taken time by the forelock" someone or other person would. Reasoning thus, the lodge did not feel called upon to vote an amount of any consequence to the testimonial, merely through courtesy. The vote was accompanied by the following unexacted resolution:—

Moved by Bro. A. Curry, seconded by Bro. Samuel Hurst,

IMMORALITY IN ENGLAND. Even if we allow the Hanley brutality to be the invention of Mr. Greenwood's brain, it is a melancholy fact, which cannot be denied, that in some parts of England, at the present day, exhibitions of savagery and gross immorality take place which are a disgrace to the enlightened age in which we live.

By the latest Liverpool papers, we are made aware of the fact that in the Borough of St. George's, in the County of Liverpool, a public house was kept, in which a woman named Mary Ann, was kept for the purpose of receiving and entertaining men of dissolute habits.

It is stated that the woman in question was a native of Ireland, and that she was a woman of very low character, and that she was a woman of very low character, and that she was a woman of very low character.

But the most shocking of details is that she was a woman of very low character, and that she was a woman of very low character, and that she was a woman of very low character.

DAILY LESSONS.—Glancing from my window for a moment, one morning, I saw a neighbor just leaving his home, to go upon the engagements of the day.

The thought immediately occurred to me, "What a smooth path is his; how calm and untroubled is his bearing and deportment; no weight nor pressure. Such were my passing thoughts. The next time I saw that self-same neighbor, in a few days or two, and that within a few days of where I had previously seen him, his face was turned away. Literally crushed with weeping, he was on his way to the neighboring cemetery, to select a spot as the last resting-place of his first-born, who, apparently in perfect health, and a sweet girl of fourteen, was called away after a few hours illness.

Such is life, and my thoughts a specimen of our vain conceits of it.

It seems that in the boat while he stepped forward, and his foot catching in the hammer, discharged it. The charge of shot entered his head, causing a most instantaneous death.
