Hamilton Street Railway Company Makes a Settlement With the Men's Union.

Last Saturday the Hamilton Street Railway Company signed an agreement with Division No. 117, Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes of America

For a long time the relations of the Hamilton Street Railway Company and their employes were by no means amicable. The men were dissatisfied with their treatment, and the friction was continual. The Hamilton Company have now wisely tried conciliation, and have conceded the right of the men to collective action. Both parties have signed the compact, which is binding for one year. At the end of that time, it may be extended or amended by either party giving 30 days' notice. We have it on the best authority, that the Company and their employes are now on the best of terms, and everything is working smoothly-

The Advertiser adheres to the position it has held throughout the dispute, namely, that it ought not to surpass the wit of man to come to such a settlement, as would, without subjecting to the London Street Railway Company and to organized labor, and also satisfactory to the public.

As we have shown, this has been accomplished elsewhere. Why not in Lon-

It is surprising to what a degree people are creatures of custom-

Speaking of order, a word must be said for the red-coated visitors on the heights. Citizens have commented very favorably on the quiet and mannerly behavior of this large body of strangers. Their presence has lent color and life to the city, with no unpleasant accompaniments.

The Transvaal Situation - Votes of Thanks to Kitchener Pass Parliament-Courtess Esterhazy Divorced.

London, June 9.-Dispatches from Paris say that in the lobbies of the Chamber of Deputies there is much talk of the possibility of the overthrow of the Dupuy cabinet next week. Gossip says that President Loubet is not too well pleased at the failure of the government to take greater precautions to prevent the Auteuil demonstration. and would not be averse to a change of ministers in any event. Much depends upon the outcome of the threatened demonstrations at the Grand Prix. M. Dupuy presided at the cabinet council yesterday, when the measures to be taken were considered. It is said that the government has determined not to allow any of the generals who are mixed up in the Dreyfus affair to take part either side to humiliation, be fair alike in the review at Longchamps on July 14. The refusal of the government to allow M. Joseph Lasies, an anti-Semite and anti-revisionist deputy for Gers, to interpellate on the Dreyfus affair, led to a renewal of violent scenes in the Chamber of Deputies. His motion was finally shelved by an overwhelming majority. There are increasing indications that there will be exciting scenes at Auteuil on Sunday, as various people are evincing a determination to

Mr. Michael Davitt pro-tested and challenged a division, with the result that there were 321 votes in favor of the motion and 20 against it. Mr. A. J. THE TRANSVAAL TROUBLE. London, June 9. - The Daily Mail says that it learns that it was President Kruger himself who suggested the conference; and it claims to have reliable authority for saying that Sir Alfred Milner, the British high commissioner, has his back to the wall, and is supported to the utmost by the cabinet.

Commenting editorially on the situation, the Daily Mail says: "If we know our Kruger aright, he will back down, and if not, why -

The Daily Chronicle does not deny the gravity of the situation, and seriously counsels the Boers to grant reasonable reforms as the only means of preserving their independence against the plots of the stock exchange and the violence of Downing street. The Standard, which reminds the Transvaal that its independence is not absolute, but is contingent upon a faithful execution of the agreement, stipulating equal rights for all, says:

"We now demand that all Englishmen resident in the Transvaal shall be treated with justice, and President Kruger may rest assured that the will support the govwhole country ernment in any demand to make this demand effective. Let Mr. Kruger grant the uitlanders full citizenship, and the whole question is ended."

WAR TALK.

The morning papers are beginning to talk quite seriously of the possibility of war in South Africa. Mr. Chamberlain, in his speech in the House of Commons yesterday, announced that his reply to the petition of the uitlanders, which had been held back pending the result of the conference at Bloemfontein, would now be presented to the Transvaal, This reply is semi-officially described as "explicit, but conciliatory," but it is believed to be in the nature of a practical ultimatum. The resources of diplomacy are regarded as exhausted with the failure of the conference. Nothing is left, it is felt, but a recourse to force, RUSSIANS POURING IN.

Oriental advices say Russia is still pouring munitions of war into Port Arthur, and has recently dumped in 2,000 more volunteer soldiers to guard the Manchurian section of the Siberian Railway. The Russian army in the far east now numbers 40 000 men DALY'S REMAINS.

REV. G. J. CLARK DEAD

Father of Lewis Clark, of This City-His Useful Life.

Mr. Lewis Clark, of The Advertiser, has received word of the death at Adelaide. South Australia, of his father,

Rev. G. J. Clark. Two other sons, Edmund and Stanley, both of Adelaide, South Australia, survive. Deceased was contemplating a trip to Canada to visit his son here. The Adelaide (S. A.) Advertiser has the following:

The Rev. Godfrey John Clark, who died of pneumonia at his son's residence, Mile End, on May 2, was widely known and respected, especially in the western suburbs of Adelaide. was 76 years of age, but up to his death was active and always zealous in his church work, which he carried out to the last. He conducted service at the Grange only a week before his death, so that he may be said to have died in harness. Unassuming, gentle, kindly to know him was to love him. and no one ever came within his circle of acquaintance without becoming his fast friend and admirer. He was of a most benevolent disposition, and he will be long remembered, not merely by those of his own denomination-Baptist-but by people of the most diverse religious views. Though not what is known as an eloquent preacher, he had a homely style, which never failed to win the hearts of his hearers, and his wealth of anecdote and nimble made him as acceptable on the lecture platform as in the pulpit. Had he chosen, he might have made a greater figure in the world, but he was devoted to his life's work at Hilton and the Grange-the two churches over which he had charge-and preferred to do what he conceived to be his duty in a humble fashion to seeking any kind of notoriety. He was for 34 years a city missionary in the suburbs of London, 13 years at Walwork, Surrey, and 21 years at Leyton, Essex. In 1884 he came to South Australia to join his children, who had arrived nine months previously. He almost immediately took charge of the small Baptist Church at Hilton. In 1893 he took over the pastorship of the Grange Baptist Church, also, but in November last the state of his health compelled him to relinquish his connection with the Hilton Church, while retaining his oversight at the Grange. He was buried at West-terrace on Thursday, and his funeral tended by a large number of his neighbors and friends.

LECTURE BY DR. AUSTIN

Branch-Cor. Richmond and Piccadilly.

The Late Principal of Alma College May Take Charge of an Independent Church in Toronto.

At the Knights of Pythias Hall last evening Dr. Austin, late principal of Alma College, delivered a lecture on "Infallible Proofs of Spirit." It was the doctor's first appearance before a London audience since his expulsion from the Methodist Church, and the hall was well filled. The speaker held that the possibility of spirit return was proven beyond a doubt. The Christian Church was built upon just that possibility. If it could not be proven that Jesus arose from the dead, historical Christianity had not a foot to stand on. To deny the possibility of spirit return and identification would be to destroy the very foundation of the Christian system. Continuing, the speaker said that the evidences in favor of the actual return and identification of the so-called dead today surpassed in a variety of respects the historical evidence of the resurrection of Christ. There were a million witnesses in the United States and Canada, who had identified in spirit manifestations friends they knew in the flesh. Among these witnesses and others in the old land were a host of scientists, divines, authors, etc., some of whom had spent a quarter of a century in scientific investigation. Austin referred specifically to the works of Sir William Crookes, F.R.S., Alfred Russell Wallace, F.R.S., C. F. Zollner, Prof. Ware, George Edmonds and Dr. George Saxton. The speaker considered that the ethical taught in spirit communications had never been surpassed in either the lofty character of the duties it proclaimed or the power and variety of the motives it urged to secure obedience to law. "We need a religion that can demonstrate the spirituality of man's nature and the spiritual basis of the universe," he said, "and thus kill the materialism of this age." Dr. Austin went west this afternoon. He has engagements to lecture in Chicago and other western cities. To the reporter he said that he was engaged for the present year, and would spend most of his time writing and lecturing. There was some talk of an independent church being started in Toronto, of which he would take charge, but that would not be until next year. It would be something in the nature of a Congregational church, he said. He does not expect to return to Ontario

Glasgow, June 9.-At a mass meeting here of manufacturers, shipowners and merchants, a resolution was passed, expressing alarm at the serious injury to British and colonial trade arising from the continued and threatened extension of foreign competition. SAT 27 HOURS

The House of Commons Finishes Its Game of Tire-Out.

The Railway Bill Finally Passed-Discussion in the Senate.

Ottawa, June 9.- The house yesterday evening at 6 c'clock concluded the session which commenced at 2 c'clock on Wednesday afternoon, after sitting for 27 hours, with the exception of a recess of one hour early in the after-Roon. All through the night members of the opposition rose, one after the other, and occupied the time with speeches more or less relevant to the measure under consideration, the bill confirming the agreement with the G. T. R. for the extension of the Intercolonial Railway to Montreal, and varying from a psychological disserta-tion upon the phenomena of the human brain, and a phrenological study of the cranium of the minister of railways, to a reference to the attendance of certain members of the house at a "leg show" on the previous evening.

Pursuant to the agreement between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Charles Tupper, the house resumed its sitting In committee at 3 p.m., and in an hour and a half the bill was reported.

The house then went into supply on the marine and fishery estimates. Mr. Taylor again took up the prices paid for table supplies on the government steamer, comparing many of the prices with the amounts paid for similar articles at the Kingston penitentiary. Sir Louis Davies intimated that he would reserve some explanations which he had to make until a later occasion. The committee then passed the last Item in the fisheries estimates, and the house adjourned at 6 o'clock. THE SENATE.

In the senate yesterday, in reply to Senator Macdonald (British Columbia), Senator Scott said the government did intend to build a telegraph line between British Columbia and the Yukon this year, and had taken some steps toward that end. There was an appropriation for the work. Senator Power moved that when the senate adjourns tomorrow it stands adjourned until Tuesday next. The motion carried, after some dis-cussion, in the course of which Senator Dandurand said he did not think the senate should care for what the press senate should care for what the press said about their adjourning. Was it reasonable that the senate should sit from day to day while the House of Commons debated the address for a month or more?

The question of the adoption by some of the local legislatures of amendments to their election laws was brought up by Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who stated that if the reports of the manipulation of the lists in Manitoba were correct, there was great need of these amendments being adopted, in that province, at any rate. He was anxious to know, in the interests of the country, whether the Federal Government had made the representations on this subject to the provincial governments which it promised to make when the franchise bill was under discussion in the senate last session. would assist them in dealing with other bills germane to the matter. Hon. David Mills promised to look into the matter. The Manitoba act was exactly like the franchise act formerly in force Mathodists in the London Conference Indorse the $1,000,000 Thanksgiving Fund.

Windsor, June 9 .- On the closing day of the London Conference a public meeting was held in the interest of the twentieth century thanksgiving $1,-000,000 fund. Mr. W. J. Ferguson, of Stratford, opened the question by saying he had the distinction of speaking on a new question, "Can it de done?" On reviewing the past four years the church gave $10,000,000, or two and a half millions a year. The Methodists half millions a year. The Methodists have the money, and all the leaders, the ministers, have to do is to touch the button and the work is done.

The Rev. Dr. Potts, educational secretary, was enthusiastically received. He said: "We are called upon to confront the most colossal thing church ever attempted or any other church in this land. We cannot do it without God, but with God victory shall perch upon our banners. We are not alone; English Methodism and Irish Methodism have their respective century thanksgiving fund. We must present the whole scheme, the local debts, missionary, educational, etc.
The second Sabbath in October is set apart as the Sunday for taking up this Let not a man speak the first discouraging word against this fund. Attempt great things for God, and expect great things from God. Loyalty and spirituality are two essentials to NIAGARA SYNOD. Hamilton, June 9.-The annual meeting of the Niagara Synod opened here Wednesday morning. Bishop Du Moulin presided. When the bishop called the meeting to order, Ven. Archdeacon Dixon, of Guelph, and Ven, Archdea-con Houston, of Niagara Falls, and Rev. G. E. Lloyd, of Toronto, took seats with him on the platform.

The synod went through the necessary form of re-electing its two most efficient honorary secretaries, Canon W. R. Clark (clerical), and Mr. J. J. Mason (lay). Mr. J. J. Mason was also unanimously re-elected secretary and treasurer of the synod.

Regarding the observance of the Sabbath day, the bishop said: "It cannot be denied that the Lord's Day is losing its hold upon the multitudes of people. It is not the careless, Godless Sabbath-breaker that we have in mind, but the children of the church. There is, also, alas, in the present day a growing tendency to encroach upon the sacred day and to neglect the house and worship of God. This is particularly observable at morning services, particularly in the case of men, old and young. There is little or no recognition of the Lord, who gave this day to man; no attention to his house, no celebration of his worship; consequently, we have empty churches, cold service, poor offerings and discouraged clergy. Efforts are made in some places and by some people to counteract this evil by providing services of a sensational character, freely adver-I trust the church will never resort to any adventitious alds to se-cure an attendance not freely and lovingly given and offered as a sacrifice to Almighty God. (Applause.) If divine service, the preaching of the pure of God, and the administration of Christ's holy sacraments fail to attract congregations to the house of God, the church may not, dare not, turn aside to seek any other methods than those of her Lord and Master's provision and appointment.'

KILLED BY . HIS STALLION

Desperate Battle With a Vicious Horse -His Owner Killed and His Groom Badly Hurt.

Galt, Ont., June 8 .- As a result of a desperate fight with a Clydesdale stallion named Walpole Boy on the farm of Mr. Campbell Scott, about three miles from here, his owner, Andrew Harvie, of Beverley, is dead, and his nephew badly injured. The vicious beast attacked the latter, Alexander Harvie, his groom, knocking him down, biting him and otherwise injuring him. Mr. Harvie, sen., went out to catch him and the horse made for him, knocking him down, but jumped over him without injuring him. mare coming into the barnyard next attracted the mad animal's attention, and he made off towards her, but was caught at the gate. Mr. Harvie took charge of the horse, while the other took the injured young man up to the house and sent for a doctor. Though only a few minutes elapsed before their return, they were horrified at seeing the stallion running around the barnyard with the old gentleman in his mouth, perfectly naked, his clothes being strewn about the yard. Mr. Scott picked up a stone and hit the horse on the head, which caused him to drop his now lifeless owner. A decoy was used to entice the horse towards the barn, where he immediately began to batter down the door, and would soon have been in among the other horses had not obtained a rifle and killed him. Mr. Harvie was terribly mutilated, his neck, ribs, arm and legs being broken, neck and shoulder bitten and bruised from head to foot.

The deceased had been a resident of Beverly for 55 years. He was in his 73rd year, and leaves a widow and one The nephew was badly injured, but not dangerously. Walpole Boy was a Canadian bred Clydesdale horse, and his late owner had him about three years. He was never looked on as a vicious animal.

The Morong Fight Officially Reported in a Dispatch From Gen. Otis.

London, June 8. - Special dispatches from Manila say it is reported there this morning that Aguinaldo has dissolved the Filipino congress and has proclaimed himself

Washington, June 8. - Officials here are n doubt as to whether Aguinaldo in declaring his dictatorship is animated by a desire to rid himself of his refractory generals, Pilar and Luna, or to whether he aims to consolidate in his own hands the power to make terms of peace. The situation in the Philippines after the Morong fight is described by Gen. Otis in the following cablegram:

Manila, June 8. - Adjutant-General, Washington: Result movements, Morong province was to drive insurgents into mountains, capturing Antipolo and other towns in that section with point of land projecting into bay. They retreated and scattered before our advance, leaving 25 dead on the field; our loss 4 killed and few wounded, mostly slight. City of Morong on only land route around bay, garrisoned; all other troops withdrawn. Inhabitants of protroops withdrawn. Inhabitants of provinces profess friendship, ask protection. Large numbers wish to enter Manila. Refuse, as city population increasing too rapidly. Leading natives throughout island including active insurgent leaders, seek permission to send families to Manila; considered only place of personal security. Washington, June 9.—The conclusions drawn by the war department officials concerning the condition in the Philippines given in the despatch of Gen Otis, are that the insurgents are little more than marauding bands which will continually decrease when the men find that there is life and liberty under American government. Nothing is yet said as to the intention of Gen. Oris to continue active hostilities, but this is a matter that will be left wholly to

BASEBALL.

The Cockneys squared off their account with Guelph yesterday. At no stage was the result of the game in doubt. The game was notable from the fact that for the first time this season London's hits required two figures to record them. Both Damoth and Kostal proved pretty easy picking for the Cockneys, nearly everybody taking one or two hits.

London's superb fielding, as usual, made the batting of the visitors ineffectual. Crow pitched a good, steady game throughout, and Umpire Dailey's sending him to the bench in the ninth looked rather like a rough practical joke. But the joke helped the Leafs to two additional runs.

A three-bagger by Jones gave Lon-don two runs in the first inning. A by Cogswell in the right field contri-buted two more in the third. Two bases on balls, an error by the short-stop, singles by Jones and Crow, and a two-bagger by Cope, let the Cockneys count five more runs in the seventh.

Every one of the Leafs' five runs was earned by nice clean hits, with the exception of one in the ninth, when Carey got first on balls, stole second, and came in on Lafleur's hit to secon . The score:

Madame Dreyfus Should Be Classed Among the Immortals.

An Epic Heroine-The Horror of the Dreyfus Case.

[Louisville Courier-Journal.] When we read and read again the dismal story of man's inhumanity to man-when we reflect upon those martyrs to the world's progress who have been pursued by fanaticism to the dungeon and the stake-when, wandering through the corridors of time, now illuminated like an avenue in some great city, we look in upon the Valhalla cloisters which give perpetual shelter to the immortals, from Socrates to Servetus, from Aristotle to Galileo-we are disposed to thank God that we live in better and happier times; that the torch and the rack are unknown among us; that the prison and the gibbet menace only the murderer and the thief; that, in short, we live under the rule of tolerance and law, according to Christian usage. But is it so indeed? What has the world ever more hideous or more tragical than this Drevfus business? Did power ever exploit itself more savagely? Was ever the mob more unreasoning and turbu-We may console ourselves as much as we please with the reflection that only Latins and savages are capable of such atrocities; but there is no knowing whose turn may come next, or in what country, where passion, supported by numbers, happens to get

Zola is back again in Paris. He, too, shall have his reward. The unspeakable Esterhazy is a fugitive. The villain Paty du Clam occupies the dungeon into which he caused the innocent Dreyfus to be thrust. It reads like a leaf out of Dumas, like a chapter out of the middle ages, does it not? Does it not exceed in dramatic interest and intensity the story of the Man in the Iron Mask? After this, where shall the writers of the tour de force go to find imaginary

LIFE SAVED-Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me: I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good.

Room for Improvements Here Too.

An Improvement Society has been formed in Hamilton, its primary ob-Ject being the beautification and cleanliness of the city. It will try to make Itself useful by suggesting plans f Improvement to the city council and the people generally. The theory is a good one, and if the society can co-operate with the aldermen it may achieve something. Our experience in London is that the city council doesn't "take suggestion as a cat laps milk," but is likelier to take offense at what it may deem an intrusion on its sphere of duty. An organization such as the Hamilton one could certainly find a wide field of suggestion in London, and It might influence public opinion sufficiently to realize some of its ideas.

London, as every Canadian knows or should know, is one of the prettiest and cleanest cities on earth; but its charms could be constantly heightened at very slight financial outlay if there were some aesthetic eye to direct operations. Not long ago we published the opinion of an expert outlining methods by which our parks and shade trees could be greatly embellished. London takes a just pride in her trees, but though profuse and luxuriant, they are not cared for as they should be. The work of planting and pruning trees on public thoroughfares should be undertaken systematically and scientifically by the corporation, and not left to priwate initiative. The average householder is not skilled in arboriculture, and if each one is left to do the planting and cultivating is front of his own premises in his own way, the ornamental effect of well-ordered rows of shade trees is apt to be lost. A great many of our trees are carrying too much foliage, and the lower branches should be thinned out. The stately arcade on Dufferin avenue, south side, between Park avenue and Wellington street, shows what a definite plan will do. This harmony of design is wholly lacking on most of our streets.

An Improvement Society could also make itself useful in promoting the scheme of park extension, which The Advertiser has broached. Perhaps, if the ratepayers would improve their interest in municipal affairs, and thereby improve their standard of municipal government, there would be no need for an improvement society at all.

The Commerce of China.

The annual report of the Chinese maritime customs for 1898, shows the farmers, it was asserted, the report vitality of the foreign trade of China, for, in spite of local disturbances checking trade in various districts, of the Yellow River inundations, and of the uneasiness caused by a political situation which was threatening both at home and abroad, the value of the import trade was higher than in any previous year, while that of the export trade was larger than In any previous year except 1897, the total volume of the trade ampunting to over 3861/2 million taels - between £53,000,000 and £54.000.000. The revenue derived from this was just over 221/2 million taels (about £3,250,000), being a little lower than that of the previous year, owing to a decline in the duty and compounded likin on opium. Omitting opium from consideration, the duty paid on imports amounts to an ad valorem percentage of 3.17, in place of the 5 per cent allowed by treaty, "which is within a measurable distance of

The country grows wealthier every year, and everything points to a prosperous future. The imports last year were 2091/2 million taels, nearly two and a half times as much as in 1886. The importation of morphia, which is used for subcutaneous injections, is increasing annually, and is being used more and more as a substitute for opium. In 1894, the import of the drug in this Phape was a little over 48,000 ounces; last year it was over 92,000 ounces. The trade in piece-goods has been almost stationary for the last three years, with a slight tendency to decline. Mr. Taylor, the statistical secretary at Shanghai, reports that in drills, jeans and sheetings Manchester can no longer compete with the United States, for the latter can land these heavy goods in China at a lower price. "Freights from New York," he says, "are lower than from Liverpool. The goods pass through fewer hands in America. Prices are also influenced by the fact that while American manufacturers are using every effort to secure the market here Manchester has more orders at present than can be immediately executed, and the large demand from India keeps the mills fully occupied. American does not yet compete with Great Britain in any finer makes."

The exports last year amounted to a little over 159 million taels, which is slightly less than the previous year,, but the exports in 1897 were 32 million taels more than those of 1896. In recent years exports show a steady expansion, in spite of a decline in the great staples of silk and tea. In 1888 the exports of tea amounted to 2,167,552 piculs (1331/3 pounds each), while last year it was only 1,538,600 piculs. The silk trade showed signs of decadence; but a large number of other exports are growing steadily, such as hemp, hides, leather, malting, oils, tobacco, feathers, beans and beancake. Of the shipping 62 per cent in British and 24 per cent Chinese.

made it remarkably warm for certain Church of England clergyman who are now on the ecclesiastical carpet in the a mere mouthplece of the landlord who old country.

We must congratulate the Montreal Star on the altered flavor of its political editorials. They are served up with more oil and less horse-radish than they used to be.

Zola will write a novel on the Dreyfus affair. If Zola had invented a story half as tragic and complicated as the Dreyfus case, people would have pronounced it extravagant. So much is truth stranger than fiction.

Gold is so plentiful in the United the banks are overloaded with it. They cannot force it into circulation, because the American people prefer notes. On the other hand, the Bank of England is actually short of gold. If the bank would issue notes of smaller denomination, it would capture a vast amount of gold coin now in circulation. The Britishers cannot get notes smaller than £5, and are compelled to use the yellow metal freely. The Bank of England is a great institution, but it is a trifle antique in some of its methods.

The Attorney-General of Ohio, who has been after the Standard Oil Trust in the courts, has now trained his guns on the Brewery Trust, and will institute a suit, claiming damages of $50 per day during the Trust's existence. The Sugar Trust, the Tobacco Trust and the Steel Trust will next be attacked. The Attorney-General is doing his duty under the law, but it would be eminently more sensible if the American people would set about removing the conditions which foster oppressive monopolies. There are good trusts and bad trusts, but the present law treats them all alike.

In spite of large bounties from the state, the French merchant marine does not grow. At the present time, France has under her flag only 120 steamers of over 1,500 tons. Yet the United States Congress is asked to try to restore the decaying American merchant marine by the same coddling process. If the Americans would repeal their navigation laws and allow freedom of trade in ships, they would have some chance of regaining their former proud position; but the American shipbuilders say that American ships must be built at home, and so the American flag continues to be driven off the ocean. The only nations whose merchant marine is flourishing are Britain and Germany, and they both allow free ships.

According to a speaker in the Methodist conference, at Brockville, there was some tall lying during the recent bye-election in that place. Among the was circulated that they would have to mortgage their farms in order to be able to pay the increased taxes caused by the establishment of penny postage. This, no doubt, lost the Government candidate some votes, but there was brigades, in line of quarter-column at too much intelligence among the farmers generally to permit themselves to be gulled by any falsehood so self-evident. The fact is that the present Government have established penny postage and compelled its pretty general adoption throughout the Empireso great is the force of a good example -without adding to the amount of the postal shortage which was the rule under the late administration. And soon, when the effect of the reform is will be a self-sustaining institution, which it never was under the old high

Our Pure Milk.

[Ridgetown Standard.] The milk dealers of the city of London, Ont., supply 8,000 quarts of milk daily to the citizens of that city. In the recent report of the medical health officer it was stated that it was the richest milk in Ontario. Every dealer's herd is carefully examined by a veterinary and the milk inspected graded according to its purity-

> Sure Cure for Freckles. [Kansas City Star.]

A Triplett (Kansas) girl sent a dollar to a smart New Yorker for a "sure cure for freckles." This is the recipe which she received: "Remove the freckles carefully with a pocket-knife; soak them over night in salt water; then hang up in the smoke-house in a good strong smoke made of sawdust slippery elm bark for a week. Freckles thus treated never fail to be thoroughly cured.'

Hell Upon Earth.

[Hamilton Times.] Rev. Dr. Henderson said at the Windsor conference that "missionaries are not sent out to save the heathen from a future hell, but from a present hell. He pictured the cruelties under which these people groan and the degradation in which they live; the millions of broken-hearted, eless men and women and children, half-damned before they This was the hell from which missionaries sought to save them. The evangelization of the world could be accomplished in this generation. The nations on the earth were never so receptive as at present." At the close of his remarks the speaker was greeted with prolonged applause."

That sort of talk is much more to the point than the political guff about Mr. Tarte and the Anticosti islanders

The burning of candles seems to have nade it remarkably warm for certain thurch of England clergyman who are that was dished up at Brockville and at Belleville. The idea is applicable mear home, as well as in the foreign mission field. When the preacher was appointed him to his living, the sort of gospel that taught the duty of bearing patiently all the hardships of this life, as a prepartion for the joys of heaven, was perhaps the best that could be expected. Now, the church that has no care for the temporal welfars and the members has little influence. fare of its members has little influence In preparing the masses for the life to come. "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven," means something row. The lives of men and women in Canada, who are overworked, underpaid and underfed, partake of the nature of the present hell mentioned by Rev. Dr. Henderson. Sham Battle Passed With but Few Accidents-The First Hussars Were the Only Sufferers-Major-General Hutton Highly Praises the Division -Camp Breaks Tomorrow.

Maj.-Gen. Hutton will review the troops of the entire division heights this afternoon at 4 o'clock The first division will be in command of Lieut.-Col. Holmes, chief staff officer. The infantry will be drawn up by twelve paces interval, with 30 paces between brigades, and the cavalry will be massed on the right of the first brigade. After being received with the usual salute, the major-general will inspect the line, after which a march past takes place, the cavalry in column of squadrons and the infantry in column of double companies. The march past of the First Hussars is to be preceded by the bands of the first brigade massed, who will form up in the usual monner opposite the saluting point, and experienced, the postoffice department play for the march past of the hussars. The infantry, after marching past in column of double companies, will return in mass, and reform upon their original alignment. The advance in review order follows, the whole of the bands being massed in the rear of the center of the second brigade. Spectators will be restricted to the space on the north of the parade ground.

As the camp breaks up tomorrow the review this afternoon will doubtless draw a large crowd of spectators. THE TATTOO.

Fully 10,000 citizens attended the military tattoo on the heights last night, in which every band in camp took part. The crowd of spectators was one of the largest ever assembled in this city on any occasion. The crowd swarmed over hill and through the camp, afoot, awheel, or in vehicles, a dense, cheerful, orderly mass.

An immense space was kept clear in the middle of the parade ground. This space was illuminated with vari-colored lights. At the east end, inside the lines, the bands were drawn up. One by one, carrying flaming torches and playing popular airs, they were marched into position on the parade ground. The first band took up its position before the second started. A rocket and a gun was the signal for each band to march out to position. As each new band marched down the parade ground the bands already in position took up the tune played by the marching band. The time kept was admirable, and as volume of music grew ever greater and grander, the enthusiasm of the vast audience was unbounded. When all the bands, including that of the Seventh Fusiliers and the pipers of the Twenty-fifth Battalion, of St. Thomas, were in position, they were all massed in the center of the parade ground. In the marching "The British Grenadiers" and "The Maple Leaf Forever" were airs which evoked most enthusiasm.

After the massing of the bands probably the grandest and sweetest music ever head was the popular "Old Hun-dred," which was rendered by the 250 musicians as one enormous organ, a treat which will long be remembered by the vast concourse present. Several other numbers were also played, all which were loudly applauded. A lavish display of fireworks was concluded by the set piece, "Our Queen, with the bust of her majesty, which was accompanied by the massed bands playing "God Save the Queen" in one grand volume. The spectacular effect of the entertainment was very pleas-borne in mind that men should swing the disengaged arm. By an error, which should have been avoided, the head of the column was diverted from the route indicated, viz.: Richmond street to Adelaide street. The battalion forming the advance guard of First Brigade carried out their duty very satisfactorily, more especially the company forming the vanguard to which great credit is due for their scouting. The squadron of the First Hussars, acting as an advance guard, were not sufficiently far in advance of the infantry. The instructions given in the special idea was carried out as follows: Three squadrons of the First Huswere directed to move to the east, and by a flank march to place themselves out of sight upon the left flank and rear of the enemy's posi tion. One squad was directed to act as an advanced cavalry screen, and, by means of officers' patrols, to gain information of the exact position occupled by the enemy. The First Brigade was directed to detail one battalion as an advance guard. The remaining two brigades followed at the usual distance in column of route. The bridge over the Thames, on Adelaide street was repaired. At 11 a.m. the advance guard of the First Brigade crossed the Thames, and, proceeding in the direction of the enemy, took up a position covering the deployment of the brigades. Head of First Brigade arrived at cross-roads, 1,500 yards west of enemy's position at 11:10 Enemy's left opened fire upon cavalry across the river a little later. At 11:40 a.m. the First Brigade took up a position to carry out the direct attack determined upon by the general officer commanding. Three battalions formed the first line, and two battalions the second line. The three battalions of the Second Brigade formed the third line.. The advance to the attack gan at 12:05 and at 12:22 p.m. there was an almost complete cessation of fire in the advance, which should have been obviated. The right battalion also closed in too much on the center of attack. 12:23 p.m., the second line was brought up, but, in the opinion of the general officer commanding, too prematurely. The firing was then irregular, and somewhat out of control. A delay of at least 12 minutes took place during the heat of the acat this time, which might have been obviated. The advance was continued at 12:30 and the left battalion was well handled. In the center battalion there was some noise, which should have been avoided. The third line was well brought up and in good order. 12:37 p.m.—The firing, especially of the left battalion of the Second Brigade was irregular. The third line, composed of the three battalions of the Second Brigade delivered an assault upon the enemy's position. The charge was extremely well carried out, and with an excellent spirit. The men, upon arrival at the summit of the somewhat steep and difficult bluff, were steady and well in hand, under the circumstances. The cavalry, during the infantry attack, had dismounted, two squadrons upon the left bank of the river, on the left flank and rear of the enemy's posi-They delivered from this point an effective and useful flank fire. The commander, at the correct moment, pushed forward across the river by a ford, the two supporting squadrons, with the intention that they should deliver an attack by dismounted men upon the left flank, and rear of the en-

taken by these squadrons, was the wrong one, and they found themselves under the fire of the enemy's infantry, strongly posted on the bluff above. The

the cavalry was more or less marred by The major-general commanding has been pleased to express his extreme satisfaction at the excellent manner in which the men marched and carried themselves through the town, and on their way to the scene of the tactical exercise. The greatest pains and trouble had evidently been taken by ranks to carry out the instructions given in spirit as well as in letter. The attack by the nine battalions was, generally speaking, well done. Considering the very limited opportunities officers or men had previously had to enable them to gain an insight into advanced tactics required of modern troops, the result of yesterday's tactical exercise may be considered as a most unqualified success. Many and varied mistakes were made throughout the day. It must be always remembered that in mimic, as in war, mistakes are unavoidable, and that victory or success is to those troops who commit the fewest. The major-general commanding feels that all ranks will have gained some valuable and useful experience from the practical illustration given by the tactical exercise of yesterday. alry, especially, carried out with great zeal their orders, and proved themselves of much value upon flank and rear of the enemy. The mistake in the advance of the two squadrons across the ford was unfortunate, as, otherwise, the action of the cavalry upon the left flank and rear of the enemy would have been the decisive point from a military point of view of the day's operations.

The regimental medical service was initiated for the first time, and the regimental stretcher-bearers undertook the duties recently allotted to them. Two collecting stations were established and the wounded collected. The major-general commanding hopes that next year the regimental service will have been still further developed. This important branch of the regimental organization will become more thoroughly effective and develop-covered themselves with glory yesterday in the great sham battle to the north of the city. Jackson's farm formed the battle ground, and a better place for a defense could not have been selected. On the summit of a bluff a few hundred yards north of the Thames the Twenty-eighth Perth, under Lieut.-Col. H. A. L. White, Major Moscrip and Capt. Jamieson, took up their position. The first enemy discovered was the cavalry, which had forded the river a little to the east, and advanced to make an attack on the Twenty-eighth from the left, while the advancing infantry engaged them from the front. Along the brow of the hill lay the 28th, and poured a deadly fire at the advancing cavalry, repulsing them. The infantry movement was a spectacle not likely soon to be forgotten by those who witnessed it. The spectators crowded into a field to the right of the Twenty-eighth, and watched the glittering lines of soldiers advance toward the embankment. cool breeze tempered the sun's rays, and made the day a superb one for the operations. The scene was magnificent, even if it wasn't war. Sandbanks and grass plots, trees, fields and streams and miniature swamps stood in the path of the advancing enemy. The latter walked over the one and latter through the other. Between the lines could be seen the ambulance corps at strongly posted on the bluff above. The effect, therefore, of the flank attack by from the "thin red lines," composed of Strong & Co.

White, ad-When about 200 yards from vanced. the fortified defenders on the attacking party opened a furious fire on the height, which nothing could stand against. The woods re-echoed the terrific volleys, and when the advance was sounded the Twenty-eighth fell back a little. The Thirtieth, Twenty-second and Twenty-ninth cheered and dashed up the bluff, arriving in splendid form. Those who witnessed the charge were surprised at the agility of the troops, for they all seemed to get on top at once. THE CASUALTIES.

In yesterday's maneuvers there were no mishaps among the infantry, beyond a number of bad powder-burns. Trooper McLaughlin, of the Courtright squadron, First Hussars, was thrown from his horse on Dundas street, and badly shaken up. Trooper Morkin, B squadron, was also thrown, striking a stone, and receiving a cut over the right eye, which required several stitches. Lieut. Gartshore was thrown from his horse into the river. Trooper Williamson, of Courtright, was badly crushed and nearly drowned. In fording the river his horse stepped into a deep hole, throwing the rider, and falling on him. Another horse following immediately fell on Williamson's horse Williamson was under water for about half a minute.

CAMP NOTES.

The major-general, in conversation, was overheard to say the following to "The march-out one of his friends: from camp through the city was remarkably well done. The men carried themselves well, and kept the intervals well preserved. The attack and the maneuvers, generally. considering the short time the troops have been in training, was most successful, and shows conclusively that the intelligence of the Canadian soldier, and enthusiasm which permeates all ranks, is sufficient to warrant the general officer commanding in continuing in the principle of advanced instruction, which is being carried out at all camps in the country this year. You see, the troops, in place of being restricted to section and battalion drill, are being interested and instructed at the same time, by not only the A B C of elementary drill, but also in the advanced form of active military maneuvers.

The officers of the Perth Battalion entertained a number of their friends at dinner last evening, among them [Continued on page 8.]

Discovered by a Woman.

Another great discovery has been made, and that, too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way recovery by purchasing a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking the first dose that she slept all night; and with two bottles has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus write W. C. nick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents and $1. Every bottle guaranteed. For sale by W. T.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

The death of Robert Strachan Innis, of Newburgh, N. Y., Tuesday night, is made public today. He was born in Port Hope, Canada.

The state department at Washington, it is said, admits that a sensible advance has been made towards an agreement of a modus vivendi on the Alaskan boundary question.

Nelson Horning, a mechanic employed by the Waterous Engine Works Company, at Brantford, was drowned while bathing in the Grand River, near the G. T. R. bridge.

Pierre Denis, one of the gang of laborers who went from Montreal in 1897 to work on the Crow's Nest Railway, has taken action against the C. P. R. for $1,000 damages.

The market town of Ottensheim, about five miles west of Linz, on the Danube, has been totally destroyed by fire, and four women perished in the flames and a number of people were injured.

A Montreal constable reports having seen a gang of tramps near Lancaster with a big roll of Standard Bank bills in their possession. It is thought they might be fruits of the Bowmanville robbery.

At a meeting of the Western Passenger Association at Chicago, every attempt to reach an agreement upon immigrant bureau matters failed, and the passenger agents referred the whole question again to the executive officers. Export provision rates from Chicago have been cut to 21/2 cents. The Michigan Central made the reduction via New York and Boston, to meet a similar cut via the Chicago and Grand Trunk, via Montreal. The new rate will be 22½ cents via New York and Boston and 20 cents via Montreal.

Hamilton Anglican Synod discussed ministers' salaries, which were de-clared to be, in many cases, too low some married ministers receiving less than $300 a year. Committee will report. Worms cause feverishness, moaning and restlessness during sleep. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant, sure and effectual. If your druggist has none in stock, get him to pro-cure it for you.

Meeting of Trackmen's Mass Friends in Toronto.

The Men Expect Plenty of Assistance in the Affair-Mr. McGuigan's

Alleged Statement. Toronto, June 9.-Speakers of a good deal of weight and representing many interests in the community took part in the public mass meeting of the striking Grand Trunk trackmen in St. Andrew's Hall last evening. There was a marked unanimity of sentiment, which was forcibly expressed as the speakers scored their various points. The audience showed that they were prepared to back the men in carrying on the fight for a higher wage, and also showed that the men have a large proportion of public opinion at their back. The chair was occupied by Mayor Shaw. After a number of addresses had been made, on motion of Rev. J. B. Kennedy and Ald. Woods, the following resolution was put to the meeting and carried unanimously by a standing vote:

THE MEETING'S OPINION. "Whereas it is the duty of every free citizen of this enlightened community to take a practical interest in the welfare of every other citizen; resolved that this meeting of citizens express themselves as being in hearty sympathy with the trackmen of the Grand Trunk Railway in their lawful and honorable insistence upon the authority ties of that corporation to agree to pay to them the reasonable and righte-eous wages which they demand of the company before returning to their former occupation. And in order to give effect to this resolution we also pledge ourselves to do everything legitimate in our power to constrain the G. T. R. corporation to comply with what we believe to be the just demands of their trackmen." MR. McGUIGAN SAYS THERE'S NO

STRIKE. F. H. McGuigan, general superintendent of the G. T. R., arrived in this city yesterday morning on a tour of inspection. He talked freely of the relations of the railway with the trackmen, but denied that there was any strike. He said that fully 90 per cent of the old men were working east of Kingston, and 60 per cent west of of Kingston, and 60 per cent west of Kingston, and declared that the G. T. R. was completely master of the situation, and had been from the begin-ning. Nobody, Mr. McGuigan added, was on strike, save the politicians.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—There was nothing new in connection with the Grand Trunk trackmen last night. The executive claim that the men all stay out and the company say they are getting all the men they require. Chairman Pole says that they expect the government to take the matter up. CARPENTERS' DISPUTE SETTLED.

Toronto, June 9.-The dispute between the carpenters and their employers over the wage question, has been settled, the question having been left to be adjusted by each employer in his own case. In making this arrangement at the conference beween the men and the builders, it was under-stood that a fair increase in wages would be offered, generally speaking, from 18 to 221/2 cents per hour, as before, to 22 to 271/2 cents per hour.

DULUTH TUG STRIKE IS OVER. Duluth, June 9.-The tug strike is over as the result of concessions on both sides. The tug lines will run one less boat aplece, and the wages will be what the men asked for, ARBITRATION.

Detroit, June 8 .- Indications point to a speedy settlement of the differences between the Detroit Telephone Company and its striking line men.
It was agreed on both sides to arbitrate the matter. H. T. Snider will represent the strikers and Alex. Mc-Leod the company, with Edward S. Lee for third, who is to be a disinterested party. It is believed everything will be settled amicably.

MORE PAY WANTED. St. Louis, Mo., June 9.-Five hundred employes in the various foundries of the city quit work yesterday because of a demand for an increase in wages and an eight-hour day had not been com-

MINERS STRIKE. Dubois, Pa., June 9.-The miners at all the mines in this region, except those of Adrian and Dubois, are out or strike. The Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg shops at this place shut down last night, throwing 200 mechanice out of work. Fully 10,000 miners are now idle in this section.

PRINTERS WANT INCREASE. Toronto, June 9.-Committees of the Employing Printers' Association and the Typographical Union met in joint session at the Queen's Hotel last night to discuss the demands of composit-ors for an increase in wages. The two organizations have been in friendly negotiation for some weeks, and the meeting last night was with a view to arriving at a basis of settlement. Both sides spoke very hopefully of a satisfactory outcome of the negotiations.

THE MEN'S SIDE.

[Special to Advertiser per G. N. W.]
Toronto, Ont., June 9.—The local leaders of the G. T. R. trackmen's strike deny Superintendent McGuigan's statement that the strike is practically over and that in the east 90 tically over, and that in the east 90 per cent of the old employes are back at work. They received the following telegrams from their Montreal representatives today:
"The east is aelid as the west. Both

LONDON'S JAIL NEEDS REPAIRS

Representatives of the County and City Councils Recommend Several Changes in the Building and Yard.

It is proposed to spend about $4,000 on repairs and improvements to the London jail. The jail committee of the county council, together with Ald. Douglass and Garratt, of the city council, and Engineers Graydon and Talbot, made a thorough inspection of the building and yards this morning, and came to the conclusion that the interior of the building should be kalsomined; that a new skylight, affording improved ventilation is needed in the court house; that the underground entrance off Dundas street should be done away with; that the deadhouse in the east yard should be taken down, and that the yard walls need to be partly rebuilt. The last item is an important one. There is about 1,000 running feet of wall, and this, for about three feet in depth, is said to be in bad condition owing to the present coping being too narrow. At a joint meeting following the inspection, which lasted about two hours, it was decided to recommend that the repairs be made. The city's

Second Garnett Case Will Be Heard Next Tuesday,

John Garnett, chairman of the Street Railway Employes' Union, came up at the police court before Magistrate Parke this morning on the second charge of putting an explosive on the street railway track. This case had been laid over from Monday last. The magistrate stated that as he had tried so many similar cases, he would send this one to the county court sittings on Tuesday next, to get the ruling of another court.

Manager Carr, who laid the information, swere that he saw the defendant shortly before the explosion stoop down at the point where it occurred. He was standing in the doorway of Laughlin's barber shop at the time. He saw Garnett's hand go down to the

When asked by Mr. McKillop what effect the explosion would have on passengers, Mr. Carr said it would have a tendency to frighten them and to shock the nervous system. The defense was reserved until Tues-

THE ISSUE

Testimony Heard in the Archbishop Court at London-Quaint Historical Facts. London, June 9.-Incense was the issue before the archbishop's court last week. Now it is a question of candles. The Archbishops of Canterbury and York listened to much learned testimony and argument on the subject in the guard-room of Lambeth Palace Tuesday. One of the counsel for Rev. Henry Westall, vicar of St. Cuthbert's, Phil Beach Gardens, produced in triumph conclusive historical authority for the statement that processional candles in church were used in the presence of that bulwark of Protestantism, Queen Elizabeth. This seemed to the unlearned among the audience to settle the matter for good and all. But the counsel for the "Low Church" side was soon on his feet with proof that on the very occasion cited by his opponent, good Queen Bess had cried impatiently, "Away with those candles! We see very well." This seemed to leave the question very much where the archbishops had found it, except in so far as it has been shown that Elizabeth, defender of the faith, thought daylight a sufficient illumination at divine service. Although the decision cannot possibly be binding upon anybody, and although London has begun to swelter and to empty itself of fashion, their graces of Canterbury and York betray no signs of the irksomeness of their task.

One feature of the proceeding is that they are bringing to light many quaint historical facts. Ancient records are being rummaged by both parties to the dispute. Counsel for Rev. Edward Ram, the Norwich clergyman, who is accused by his bishop of using incense in his church, has discovered in the archives of St. Michael's, Cornhill, this rule to be observed by the vestry:

"They shall provide for fire at all such feasts as incense is accustomed to be offered unto Almighty God, with other things necessary to the office, according to the solemnity of the feast.' Mr. Dibdin, who appears for the bishops, tried to offset this by maintaining that the incense was used merely to fumigate the church. He quoted an instance of ancient church bookkeeping, where there was an item for dressing the church after the soldiers, and for frankinscense to sweeten it," also a record of St. Peter's, Barn-staple, "for tobacco and frankinscense burned in the church."

But some of the authorities cited are centuries older than Protestantism. Placina, whose "History of the Popes" was written in the fifteenth century, has been a tower of strength

A Card of Thanks.

The associate superintendents lumbermen's work, in connection with the local W. C. T. U., wish to thank following gentlemen for their donations towards the comfort bags. These bags are filled with twenty necessary articles for the use of the men in the lumbering districts, and are well received. For more than ten years this has been a department of the W. C. T. U. Its importance can be readily seen when we state that there are over 35,000 men laboring in lumbering and mining camps in Ontario alone. Some of them are hundreds of miles from family and friends. The W. C. T. U. has two missionaries at work amongst them—Miss Sproule, of Fort William, whose field is Algoma, and Mr. Leckie, of Huntsville, whose travels extend through Muskoka, Nipissing and the Parry Sound districts. Both missionaries are well received. Mr. Leckie has come in touch with 16,000 men during the past year, and not only holds meetings, but has personal talks with them, gets them to sign the total abstinence pledge and tells them of Jesus, their redeemer and ours. The emfort bags are found to be a wonderful help in opening the way for spiritual work. The friends who so kindly aided us in filling them, and whom we thus desire to publicly thank, are the London Drug Company, Messrs. Shuff, Childs and Boyle (druggists), Mr. Watson, tailor, and the drygoods firm of Smallman & Ingram.

Two of the street railway cars ran of the tracks today at different points. The first run-off was at the Pottersburg loop, where a railway pin, used for coupling cars was put in the switch by some person or persons. It took about an hour to put the car on again. The second run-off occurred at the corner of Hamilton road and Rectory street, the switch having been tam-pered with. It only took a few minutes to get the car back on the track again. GEORGE R. HUGHES DEAD.

An old and respected resident of this city passed away yesterday in the person of Mr. George R. Hughes, the well-known marble dealer. Deceased was 66 years of age, and has been ailing since Christmas with a complica-tion of troubles. He had been a resident of London for over 20 years, and his genial matter and warmth of personality made him a host of friends, who will hear with regret of his death. He was a staunch Liberal all his life and a member of the Talbot Street A single grain of strychnine Baptist Church. One son and three bitter 600,000 grains of water.

DIRECTOR TRENDELL

A Brilliant Band Master and a Successful Composer.

Bandmaster J. Wyatt Trendell of Guelph (Thirtieth Battalion), composed a march, which he dedicated to Major-General Hutton, in accepting which the general expressed much pleasure and suggested as a name for the march, "Green Jackets," the sobriquet of the Sixtieth Rifles, with which he was connected for 22 years. Mr. Trendell since coming to camp has finished another march, which the brigadier, Lieut.-Col. Buchan will name this afternoon Ever since the London camp was first held where the exhibition grounds now are, Mr. Trendell has been brigade bandmaster. He is credited with be-ing one of the best clarionet players in county, and at one time was conheights.

The Collegiate Institute Fees. To the Editor of the Advertiser:

Allow me space to make a few observations in regard to the action of a majority of the school board in imposing a fee on those who attend high school. Of course, those gentlemen who father the scheme, doctors and lawyers, have got all the education they require and got it when the cost to parents was very light in comparison to what it has been for a number of years back and still on the increase. Therefore they do not care how it affects the mechanics or the poorer class, who are trying to educate their children. It is the same old story—big fish gobbling up the little ones. The only remedy for us who cannot afford to bear a further increase is to watch those same upper ten when they offer for re-election and leave them beautifully at the bottom of the poll. Yours truly.

Score of Persons Lose Their Lives by a Cloudburst.

Austin, Texas, June 9.-The cloudburst, which swelled the rivers of this portion of the state out of their banks and caused a great loss of property, was much worse than expected. Meager reports place the number of deaths at 25. Reports came from San Sabla and Manardville, small towns 90 miles north of here in the mountains, saying that both towns had been swept by the raging floods and were badly devastated. In San Sabia eight people were drowned, and the entire town is reported under water. The river at that point is one mile wide and running like a mill race. At Manardville, 13 houses were swept away, 17 persons were drowned, 2 being Lydia and Anna Wells, young white girls. The others were all The river is reported as rising at both places, and grave fears are entertained that the entire country in that neighborhood will be laid to BULLETS IN THE DARK. Montreal, June 9 .- A strange condition of affairs is reported from St. Johns, Que. Last night Mr. Roy, a prominent resident of the place, while out bicycling, was met by a stranger who fired at him. The ball entered Roy's mouth and lodged in the back of ; his neck. Capt. Paris Expects Stormy Scenes at Long Champs on Sunday-The Queen's Drawing Room.

Vienna, June 9.-The funeral of the late Johann Strauss, the celebrated composer, who died last Saturday, was a great public ceremony, the whole populace of Vienna rendering honor to its idol. The procession was very long, the cortege including eight cars of flowers. The burgomaster of Vienna and the municipal authorities, with many distinguished representatives of art, literature, music and drama, followed the hearse. The cortege paused outside the Conservatoire of Music, where orations were delivered. The burgomaster made a brief address at the temporary grave. Along the whole route of the procession the gas lamps were lighted. The remains will be finally interred between the graves of Schubert and Brahms.

STORMY SUNDAY EXPECTED. Paris. June 9. - There are increasing indications that there will be violent scenes at Long Champ on Sunday, as various parties are expressing a determination to demonstrate. The cabinet has determined to take very severe measures to prevent disorders. All the available police forces will be mobilized, and the police will be ordered to arrest everyone uttering cries against the president or the government, either in the streets of Paris or on the race course at Long Champs. The Echo de

HOW HE GOT RICH

The Method Cannot Be Indorsed, but It Has the Value of Quickness.

The richest man in Turkey is an Armenian who is a naturalized American citizen, and lived in this country for several years. If the stories told in the diplomatic circle of Constantinople are true he came by his money in a London, June 9.—The Princess of peculiar manner. It will be remembered that the Sultan Aziz was assassinated in 1876. For several years prior to today. Among those present were the his death he accumulated all the money and bonds he could obtain, which he stored away in his palace as a reserve fund in case of a war with Russia. The amount of his accumulations has been marked the first appearance of the variously estimated from $10,000,000 to $40,000,000, and was undoubtedly considerably in excess of the latter sum. Most of it was in English, French and German securities that drew interest, and were easily convertible at any bank in any city in Europe. Although the assassination was a mystery, it is believed to have been inspired, if it was not actually accomplished by Midad Pasha, the minister of finance, from avaricious motives. He alone was aware of the magnitude of the sultan's hoard and the place of its concealment, and after his sovereign's death, by virtue of his position, he took pumps are keeping up with it. The charge of the fund and pretended to deposit it in the public treasury. But it is believed by those most familiar with Turkish affairs that he retained for his own benefit a large part-perhaps onehalf of it-which, for motives of selfprotection, he intrusted to the Armenian banker I have named, and directed him to take the bonds to London and Paris and there deposit them in such a manner that their ownership could not be traced to Midad Pasha. It is also believed to have been the latter's intention to withdraw a portion of this property from concealment as soon as he felt safe in doing so.

But not long afterward Midad Pasha was himself assassinated in the boldest and most astounding manner. He was attending a meeting of the ministry, when he was informed that a messenger was awaiting him in the ante-room with a confidential communication that must be delivered immediately and to himself alone. Midad left his colleagues and entered the ante-room, where an unknown man immediately plunged a dagger into his heart. The palace guard, hearing his death-cry, and the fall of his body, immediately rushed to the room and shot the assassin before he could escape. Although the police continued their investigations for months, they were never able to identify the assassin, or associate anyone else with the crime, but the knowing banker referred to, and was handsomely paid to commit the deed. On the evening of Midad's assassination the Armenian merchant went to Midad's palace and informed his widow that there were concealed in a certain strong box certain papers that would connect her husband with a conspiracy against the crown, and would undoubtedly cause the arrest and imprisonment of the entire family and the confiscation of the property if they were discovered. The frightened widow, already beside herself with excitement because of the assassination, begged him to search her husband's papers and destroy all questionable or suspicious documents. spent the night at this work, and among the papers burned that night are believed to have been the evidence of Midad's ownership in the bonds that have made the Armenian the richest man in Turkey .- Chicago Record.

THE NEW SCOTCH NIAGARA SCHEME

Bighland Waters To Be Used for Generating Electric Power.

The great Scottish "Niagara scheme" is unique and almost marvelous in its conception, for it is nothing less than a means of providing Scotland water-power, and thereby electricity sufficient to supply the whole of that country. It involves the turning of the waters of the great uninhabitable mountain fastnesses/which drain into several lakes, principally Lake Ericht and Lake Rannoch into a canal to be dug which will connect the waters with the sea at Ballyhulich, on Loch Linnhe, near the Firth of Lorne, precipitating the waters down a sheer precipice of a thousand feet into Loch Linnhe. It will turn half of the water of North Perth from the Firth of Tay on the east coast of the Firth of Lorne on thew est coast.

The plan was devised by an engineer named MacRae, who, during a several years' residence in Canada, devoted himself to the study of Niagara and the great hydraulic engineering works there. After arriving at some estimate of the value of the waters which now run to waste, he returned to Scotland and surveyed the whole highland lake district, taking levels, and discovered that it was feasible to use the drainage from that district for manufacturing purposes on the coast.

Great opposition has developed to the bill, principally from the Glasgow district and the Clyde, because the cheapening of power at Ballyhulich will cause manufacturers to leave the Clyde and it neighborhood for Loch Linnhe. Moreover, the inhabitants of East Perth object to reduction to the flow of the Tay, while owners of the forests in the highlands complain that it will injure their forests and deer ranges. However, there is little doubt that the bill will pass, and by its operation will make Ballyhulich one of the greatest manufacturing cities of the kingdom, since there is practically no exhausting the water that drains into the lake at the head waters.

It is the general opinion that Mac-Rae's scheme is most opportune, as the Scotch coal supply is nearing exhaustion, and will be entirely worked out in a century at the furthest, all easiest procured coal being now well-nigh consumed.

THE REAL THACKERAY.

Thackeray is misunderstood by many readers. They place him among the satirists or the cynics, who delight to ridicule the foibles and weakness of human nature. It is true that he was a satirist. His love of sincerity made him hate shams. These he keenly pictured, but gentleness was exhibited even in his satire.

Glimpses of the real Thackeray are given us in the introductions which his daughter, Mrs. Ritchie, has written for the biographical edition of his writings. Here we see him as he was: playful, affectionate, benevolent, the kindest of critics, the most tenderhearted of editors, sending checks to writers less fortunate than he, and feeling it "a thorn in his pillow" when as editor of the Cornhill Magazine, he had to return a manuscript. After his death this entry was found in his diary, written just after he had moved into a new house: "I pray Almighty God that the words I write in this house may be pure and honest; that they may be dictated by no personal spite, unworthy motive, or unjust greed for gain; that they tell the truth, as far as I know it, and tend to promote love and peace among men, for the sake of Christ

When these words were written, Thackeray's work, though he could not know it, was very nearly done. The entry is dated March 8, 1862, and in December of the next year he died. But the words expressed, not a new aspiration, but the purpose which he had kept steadily in view through his whole literary career. This sense of moral responsibility deepens respect for the great novelist. A general adoption of his ideal would sweeten and elevate fietion.

JESSAMINE.

The early train he had condemned in the spring started now before daylight, and he called himself a fool, as he took his place in the cold, smoky car, for making the journey at all. Being mortal, he was liable to these spasms of prudence and faltering of purpose, dur-ing which he held serious questioning with common sense-leaving feeling out of the discussion-whether he were not squandering time and thought in prosecuting his favorite pastime of winning and wasting hearts. He knew that, viewed in the dead white light of sober Judgment, tested by commercial rates, his ambition to stand chief victor in Cupid's lists, would be ignoble and unremunerative. He felt that he would himself thus rate it, had he no other aim in life. Aware, as he was, that he kept step with his fellows in business pursuits, that he was intellectually the peer of those the crowd called masters, he did not let the thought of adverse too heavily against him. It was easy to persuade himself that since the world's conquerors and prophets, sages, warriors and saints, had each in his time, esteemed the love of woman the worthiest meed of valor, learning and piety; had fought, gone mad, and made shipwreck of faith to gain and wear the prize, leaving upon record the aspiration "to waste life upon her per-fect lips," alongside of heroic epics, and religious meditations—his research es, and successes in this field of artthe mining and delving and polishing that attended his explorations among the curiosities of woman's affections and follies-were lawful and dignified. and should entitle him to an honorable grade in the school of philosophers. Apart from these cold-blooded considerations (a man flirt is always more cold-blooded than a woman-coquetry and the desire to conquer hearts being useful to his kind whenever a suitable opportunity offered, to be thanked and praised for his benefactions. Finding myself once upon a time, in the actual presence and in social converse with one of the brightest of American stars—a man I had reverenced afar off, as a mental and moral monarch among mortals, I was disenchanted and appalled at hearing him say oftener a passion with the latter than a deliberate plan)—apart from these. I say, Orrin Wyllys was, as he would have said of himself, "not a bad fellow." He liked to give pleasure, to be something like this. "I have no patience with this talk bout finding one's truest happiness in prometing that of others. I believe vexations, it annoyed the philanthro-that man is best employed who makes pist that he could not put from his the most of himself! My business in life is to improve myself by every means at my command-to make myself, spiritually and intellectually 'round and perfect as a star,' without diverting my energies, exhausting my brainpower, and wasting my sympathies with projects for the good of my race. This is my idea of true philanthropy."

"And the rest of mankind may go hang!" said a plain-spoken auditor. The star shrugged his broad shoul-

"Ce n'est pas mon affaire!" This was, substantially, Orrin's own creed, but he had his own notions as to the manner in which the cultivation of self was to be conducted, and being still some degrees below the exalted plane of observation occupied by the aforesaid star, was not superior to the weakness of talking about philanthropy, even believing himself that he did good for good's sake, and that his satisfaction in seeing others made happy through his instrumentality, was pure benevolence. His charities were many -and open. Indeed, lady patronesses their heads, smilingly, at him, while deprecating his "soft-hearted credulity," and lauding his generosity and his well-known readiness to give whenever asked, and his name was a synonym among men for good nature and lenient judgment.

Therefore, when he muttered, "Just like my confounded amiability, this taking so much pains to benefit those who may never appreciate my motives, nor be grateful for what I have done!" as he buttoned his overcoat up to his chin and pulled on his fur-lined gloves, he half-believed that he spoke sincerely-went systematically to work to arrange his projects with the best side toward him; found substantial comfort in so doing. Roy left his affianced to his guardianship, and her action at this juncture might be fraught with important consequences to her and to Roy himself. He could allay Mr. Kirke's scruples. If he had any, relative to his daugh.

ter's acceptance of Mrs. Baxter's pressing offer of hospitality and chaperonage, better in five minutes' talk than by twenty written pages. He was anxious that Jessie should pay her the visit. She had taken a strong hold of his fancy, and he could study her to advantage while she was her cousin's guest; be her cavalier wherever she went, by virtue of the authority vested in him by her absent betrothed. Hamilton was dull this season. There was not a woman in it whom he had not read from preface to "finis"—and his energies were chafing for lack of exercise in his noble vocation. The prospect of Jessie's coming—the high-spirited child of nature, lively and loving,

was very tempting.

But this was, he perceived a digression, and he hastened to gain the original line of thought. His scheme which Mrs. Baxter must be suffered to believe was hers, instead-of giving the country elergyman's daughter a season in town, was a golden oppor-tunity of improvement of her mind and manners that should not be lightly cast aside. She had, more than once, con-fidentially bemoaned her inability, to procure in Dundee the tuition in music and German she fancied she needed to qualify her to fill worthily the station to which Roy had elected her. The reader of human nature smiled a little just here.

"When, if the truth were known, the practical professor would be better pleased—aye! and better served in the long run, were his Jessamine to confine her ambition to the realms of cake, and bread and butter making. I have seen other women as mistakenly risk complexions and eyes in poring over books, under the fond impression that they were "qualifying" themselves. to be their husband's helpmeets. What an age of shams this is!" Since, however, this was Jessie's delusion, it might as well be indulged. She could have excellent music and language masters in Hamilton. He would himself snatch a few hours, weekly, that he might read German with her. The readings would prevent him from rusting in a language once facriticism of his affaires du coeur weigh | miliar to him, as his own, and he would find further compensation for his trouble in the enjoyment ne foresaw in guiding her eager mind through the rich storehouses of literature a knowledge of German would unlock for her. Waxing more complacently benevolent, he dwelt upon the comfort and pleasure Mrs. Baxter-a worthy, though ridiculous, creature-would derive from the companionship of her young friend. The lady president was a born patroness. The introduction of the sparkling luminary he was sure Jessie would become in the Hamiltonian firmament, would be with her a work of pride and love. She would spare no pains make the novice's sojourn in her abode delightful to all parties interest-ed who were and might be in it.

Notwithstanding which irrefragable reasoning—such was the effect of at-mospheric and other extraneous influences upon one in the undisputed possession of a sound body, sane mind, and serenely approving conscience— Mr. Wyllys relapsed into discouragement several times in the earlier stages of his journey; wrote himself down an ass for taking the trouble of a ten-hours' ride into the country at this gloomy season to accomplish that which, after all, might have been set-tled by letter. Breakfast by gaslight, a hard run through muddy streets to catch the train; a seat in a damp, close-smelling car, which was chilled, rather than warmed, by a stove full of green wood, were sorry tonics for preparing spirits and temper for the duties of a new day.

In addition to these and similar petty vexations, it annoyed the philanthromind the vision of Roy Fordham's happy face as it shone upon his waking sight one July morning-the first of the summemr vacation. Valise in hand, he had burst into his cousin's sleepingroom to say "Good-bye," for he was off, by peep of dawn, to Dundee and Jessie. Orrin remembered every word that had been spoken; how he had foreborne to remind the rapturous lover that this was the last visit he could pay his promised bride before his departure for Europe in August, and the calm surprise he had felt at seeing "prudent," far-seeing Roy apparently oblivious of all save present delight. prudent." Oddly enough it would have been more agreeable to his trusty relative to think of the absence as a staid, studious personage, whose affections were always subservient to duty and judgment. Warm Weather Novelties to Be Seen In New York

There is no season when capes are not necessary for certain occasions. There are always cogent reasons for their existence, and one does not want a tailor suit everlastingly; so these few words

A summer cape does not owe its existence to the need of warmth, so they are usually of rather light stuffs. Coarse net with fancy designs done in silk soutache makes an ideal cape. Naturally net aione would be scarcely enough, so it is lined with a light quality of taf-feta glace, and this is finished off with all the way from one to six narrow plaited ruffles, some of silk and others

One had a deep ruffle of taffeta pinked at the bottom, with a deep one of plaifed lisse edged with fine black lace and ribbon. The collar was made of frills of lace and ribbon bows, wired to keep in place.

A small shoulder cape to wear with light dresses has the upper part of it of black lisse bouillonne. At intervals there are palm leaves of shirred black ribbon, with a dozen or so spangles in the turn and a line of them down the stems. Around the bottom is a draping of lace and below that a deep ruffle of black chantilly, with a narrow ruffle of crepe lisse set directly on the edge. The collar was very high in the back of the neck. In front there was a cascade of the lace reaching a little below the waist. This is really elegant.

Most of the capes are shaped to the shoulder and are not so very large around. One very handsome though not very showy one was made of heavy black faille. It had two serpentine ruffles set at the bottom. In a neat all over design were sewed fine cut jet beads. The collar was trimmed in a similar manner, and the inside of it was covered with a close shirring of crepe lisse, which was also used to make a double tie edged with a shirring of chif-

No one knows until a trial is made what pretty effects one can obtain by uniting chiffon, silk mull and crepe lisse in fancy neckwear or as trimming. A dressy little cape to throw over the shoulders is made of light gray cra-vanette, unlined. The cape itself reaches to the bend of the elbow and is there edged with a shaped flounce, also unlined and edged with a narrow ruffle of white waterproofed crape. There are four shaped flounces of the cravanette, all edged with the ruffles. The collar is also trimmed with a triple row of them.

There was another cape of cashmere most elegant. It was gathered at the neck and shirred in four rows to a round yoke. The cashmere was vandyked 18 inches deep and doubled black silk net stretched between. All over this and on the points was a superb pattern of raised black silk embroidery with an exceptionally heavy edge. At the neck was a medium high collar of embroidery to match and an immense double bow of black moire ribbon at the throat. There are also many lightweight cloth capes, some pinked and some perforated with satin of some contrasting color under the perforations. This always shows through with excellent effect. Others are braided, and I remember one of fine black broadeloth unlined.

This had a very elaborate design wrought upon it in shirred black gauze ribbon. Around the edge was a ruffle of crepe lisse, with another of black chantilly over that. This was very handsome and likewise expensive.

Black goods perforated over white satin make some of the most striking of the finest wraps of the season. Nearly all of these have large perforations and these outlined with very fine jet beads. Black and white effects continue to be the choice of our very best dress-

There is a novelty in the making of some very swell capes. They cut out a roundish space as large as a rose with frregular edges. This is then filled in closely with shirred and puffed chiffon of pink, violet or even red. It is made to bear some slight resemblance to some flower. Peony, rose or double violet is probably the easiest flower to imitate in this way. A stay is put behind it, and it is stitched in puffs, and the edges are hidden by the puffed chiffon.

One black cape had violets four inches across imitated in this way. There were some green leaves cut out of crepon and stitched down to the goods; not many, but enough to lend a little variety in color and a faint semblance of reality to the too palpable chiffon flowers. Anyhow, the plan is novel and very pretty for dressy occasions. They are too dressy for ordinary street wear, but are just the thing for carriage visiting.

Speaking of black and white effects reminds me of a very beautiful dress which was made of white taffeta overlaid smoothly with black brussels net in coarse mesh. Then over and through both these was worked a beautiful design in b'ack silk and fine jet. There was first a close arabesque pattern around the bottom and another across the front of the skirt about midway to the bottom in form of a festoon with wo bowknote at the ends. All over the were flower figures, with bowknots wrought upon both materials. The waist was a plain loose French style, with a belt of black silk draped to a point.

The waist was prettily wrought with beads and silk to match the vest. The sleeves were long and quite plain, save that at the top they were bunched up a little. At the neck was a white silk stock with a white silk accordion plaited frill like a cravat, with a very little neat beading and embroidery.

There are lace pattern dresses to be purchased all ready embroidered and beaded, and these are very easily made up over any old silk or satin gown that has seen its best days, but the work upon it is done by machine, and the beads are not the best quality, being of glass and so liable to cut the threads, and then the whole thing ravels; whereas the dress I described is hand embroidered, and the work done through net and silk is durable and more elegantincidentally more expensive.

White dresses in pique, dimity, all the lawns and muslins and many in swiss embroidery are seen in great numbers for midsummer. The thinner the white goods the prettier they are and the more dainty, yet the pique, linen crash and dimities all have their uses.

There are white pique skirts with colored bands and colored ones with wide white bands, with a little narrow braid along the edges, always black. Many of the nice mulls have designs of the Mexican drawn work. This must of necessity be on the straight of the goods. Nothing is prettier. It has to be made by hand, as nothing can imitate it.

Venice point is woven now so that it is easy to make a whole waist of it or &

OUMMER WRAP OF BLACK FAILLE. Agaro or any other special arrangement without destroying the lace. Many waists are made entirely of this rich lace over silk or satin and intended to wear with handsome tailor skirts in the light shades, such as French gray, mode, tan and biscuit, and tunics are also made of the same kind of lace. The design is such that certain figures can be ripped out and the rest closed up so that it can be adjusted to the figure.

Batiste applique embroidery in Isabella yellow is a new trimming for lightweight cloth gowns or foulard silks. There are some new sheer wash materials with fancy figurings in small swivel weave flowers. These are in solid color, warranted to wash. They are very pretty, but they do not look so new as they would had there not been some years ago a silk tissue with exactly the same kind of swivel flowers. They are rather conventional. In black with colored figures they are pretty. but all black grenadine or some other of the thin all black stuffs are more refined. Really the wrappers for early morning wear are so pretty that it is no wonder that half the women wear them all day long at such times as they are "not at home." The percales, ginghams and calicoes are all unusually pleasing this season, and they are all made up in graceful and dressy styles. Yokes with frills, lace edged or trimmed with embroidery, make the upper parts ornamental. All these have small turn down collars, with yokes, guimpes or fancy arrangements of some kind across the bust.

Almost all have the ever graceful watteau in the back, with strap belts crossing in front. All have Dewey flounces, often edged and headed with frills of neat embroidery. Once in awhile one exceptionally pretty one will have lace frills-lots of them-and ribbon bows.

Dressing sacks are also exquisitely lovely this season, some of them being of foulard or white or very light Japanese washable silk fairly smothered in lace and shining with ribbon. How much we women owe to lace and ribbon! From our first days to the last day nothing seems to deck us properly but lace and ribbon. It ornaments our cradles and lends a tenderness to the grimness of the coffin. May the looms that produce both multiply in our land!

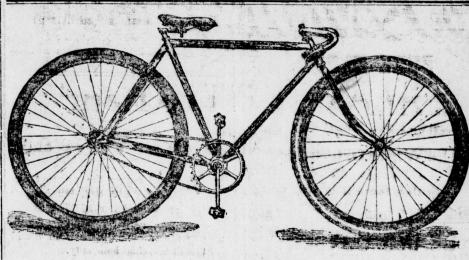

FAGGED OUT-None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All strength has gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there was nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure-one box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength. Mandrake and Dande-lion are two of the articles entering into the composition of Parmelee's Pills. Edible snails flourish in Wurtemberg. One town, Gutenburg, received the other day an order from Paris for 1,-000,000 of them. The price paid was $2 a thousand.

SCARLET FEVER INVESTIGATION

Board of Health Will Get After

Breake s of the Bylaw. The committee of the board of health appointed to investigate as to the cause of the prevalence of scarlet fever in the city, met at the city hall yesterday afternoon, with Chairman Taylor, Prof. J. H. Bowman, ex-Ald. Stevely and Medical Health Officer Hutchinson present. It was decided to obtain a list of pupils at the Colborne street and Aberdeen schools, absent during the past few weeks on account of scarlet fever, and ascertain if any of the cases have not been reported to the medical health officer. All school principals will be requested to report any supposed cases of fever which come un-

"Admitting all you say as to the good qualities of asphalt pavements, such as their smoothness, noiselessness, Hardy to select a site on either of the durability, cleanliness and wholesomeness from a sanitary point of view,' said the street commissioner, "it is still true that in wet weather such pavements are slippery and frequently cause horses to fall and injure themselves. How do you dispose of that objection?" 'We propose to dispose of that, sir,' answered the paving contractor, "by abolishing the horse."

Foraging or Stealing.

The prosecuting attorney sat down. As he mopped his brow he gazed triumphantly at the judge and at the lawyer who represented the prisoner. face was as black as the ace of spades and as wrinkled as a piece of crinoline. In his kinky hair strands of white outnumbered those of black. During the trial of the case his eyes had never once left the judge. 'Fo' de Lawd, ef dat ain't Marse Jim!" he had exclaimed when brought into the courtroom by a stalwart deputy. two long, regular rows of white teeth had been revealed by his pleasant smile. The testimony of the witnesses had of no interest to him! laughed scornfully when the young lawyer who had been appointed by the court to represent him poured forth college rhetoric. The prosecuting attorney had been ignored. "My ol' Marse Jim gwine ter fix hit," he whispered softly to himself. The judge straightened himself and wiped his glasses solemnly. "The prisoner at the bar is found quilty as charged," he said, as he adjusted the gold-brimmed affairs on his nose. "Has the prisoner at the bar anything to say to show cause why he should not be sentenced?" In his turn the old darky straightened up. The stern look of the court caused his face to fall. Then he stood up. His eyes were sparkling with in-

"Yes, sah," he said, "I has somepen ter say, an' I's gwine ter say hit. Ef dey's trouble comin' doan' you blame me 'ca'se you ast me ter talk. There was silence in the courtroom for a moment. The stern features of the old judge had relaxed. There was something moist in his eyes. He wiped them furtively and vainly tried to hide the movement by vigorously rubbing his bald pate with his handkerchief. Finally he said: court has considered the motion for a new trial, and the same is hereby granted. The prisoner is released upon his own recognizance. Mr. Sheriff, adjourn court. Jim, you come up to the house with me.-Dallas News.
