EQUAL SUFFRAGE WITHOUT WAITING FOR PEACE

Announced That the Prussian Government Has Reached This Decision in Order to Quiet Populace

Copenhagen, July 11.—The Socialist organ Vorwaerts, copies of which have just been received here, devotes black faced type to announce that the Prussian Government decided to introduce a bill in the Reichstag for universal equal suffrage this autumn without awaiting for peace.

The Vossische Zeitung announces that the Prussian Minister of Interior, Von Lobell, had an audience of the Emperor Monday. Reports given under reserve are that Herr von Lobell recommended to the Emperor the quickest possible execution of the internal reforms and suggested as a preliminary to a parliamentary ministry, that all imperial secretaries of state and Prussian ministers submit their resignations in order to give the new chancellor a free hand in calling members of the Reichstag to the cabinet.

STREET CAR STRIKE MATERIALIZES IN TORONTO

Toronto, July 11.—The threatened strike of the Toronto Railway conductors and motormen materialized this morning at five o'clock. Negotiations yesterday and last night were without result and at a mass meeting of the employees, which was held at the Star Theatre at midnight, 1,554 voted strike and only 73 were opposed. All the runs of yesterday were completed, the night cars were run into the barns at 4.45 a.m., and after that not a wheel turned.

At six o'clock and again at seven, crowds of the incredulous waited for the cars that never came, but the public as a whole had anticipated the worst.

The sidewalks of the main thoroughfares were packed with pedestrians, while vans and motor lorries went by them each carrying from six to sixty passengers.

The strike ties up completely the service of the Toronto Railway Company. The civic system and the radial lines are running, but these do not serve the centre of the city. On over one hundred miles of track there are no cars running, where usually the days work calls into service over six hundred, carrying half a million passengers, with minimum daily receipts of $15,000.

The men are striking for an increase of ten cents an hour and better working hours. The maximum wage paid to conductors and motormen is thirty cents and the employes ask forty. The company offered an increase of only two cents an hour.

ALL RUSSIA RINGS WITH NAME OF LATEST HERO

The Victor in Galicia Has Had a Career From Log Cabin to General—Is a Most Gifted Man

Petrograd, July 11.—Russia is ringing with the name of the latest hero of the war, Lieutenant General L. G. Korniloff, victor of Galicia, whose astonishing feat first proved that the new advance is no mere flash in the pan. General Korniloff is the most daring, chivalrous and scholarly officer in the army.

At the outbreak of the revolution he was invited to command the troops of Petrograd, implying full confidence in revolutionary Russia. When the disorders arose, General Korniloff, fearing the necessity of repression, resigned, saying he would sooner shoot the foe than his own countrymen. He took command of the eighth army, whose brilliant exploit is due primarily to him.

From log cabin to general is the literal text of General Korniloff's career. Born 46 years ago, son of a need-stricken Cossack in western Siberia, who later raised a large family on a pitance gained as the village clerk, young Korniloff early began roughest work. At the age of nine, he received his first instruction. When barely thirteen, by his own exertions and all night studies he qualified to enter the Siberian cadets corps, largely composed of sons of local magnates. Thanks again to his own efforts this indomitable young man, gaining no training at the Michailovsk artillery school, where his amazing mathematical faculties brought approval from the authorities, even though he was suspected, with reason, of being a secret revolutionary.

Next General Korniloff was an officer in the guards, and being penniless, was obliged to serve in Turkey. In the Japanese war he received the rank of colonel and was entrusted with a desperate mission—that of covering the retreat from Mukden of one of General Kuro-patkin's shattered armies. It was executed with such resolution and skill he was given the St. George Cross. Later he travelled all through Turkestan, the Caucasus and Europe, studying, observing and writing invaluable books on Turkestan and the countries of Central Asia.

Amazing to strangers is his gift for languages, for he speaks not only all European, but also Persian, Chinese and every dialect of Central Asia. At the outbreak of the great war, he was in command of the forty-eighth division, once called Suvoroff's, now Korniloff's. In Galicia in 1915 he repeated the Mukden feat, withdrawing under an unexampled monthlong hail of Austro-German shells, wherein his own force broke through the encircling foe, but he himself was wounded and taken prisoner by the Austrians.

The enemy press related that three generals were so impressed with General Korniloff's accomplishments and noble bearing that the return of his sword showed greater honors to Russia's admirable Chief than to their own victorious commander. His relentless spirit did not long stand captivity. After a daring flight from an Austrian prison camp and a astonishing adventure he reached Russia.

BRITISH FOOD CONTROLLER PLEASED BY WILSON'S MOVE

London, July 11.—Lord Rhonda, food controller, in a statement to the Associated Press in the embargo proclamation of President Wilson, said:

"The comprehensive and effective character of the President's latest action is typical of the way in which the United States has thrown itself heart and soul into the war. It seems to me that the additional pressure which will thereby be brought to bear upon our common enemies should go far towards bringing the struggle to an earlier termination, especially in the fact that applying an embargo on provisions, the president will have the advantage of Mr. Hoover's unequalled knowledge of conditions in the neutral countries. The embargo should also, by diverting supplies from neutral destinations, help to solve the food problem of the European Allies. But while our difficulties as regards supply are appreciably eased by this embargo, we cannot really effectively deal with the vital and pressing question of price until congress passes the food bill. So long as there is no control over the principal market, so long obviously must the prices of the allies' staple foods remain variable, and, as a rule, dangerously high. I hope soon to announce measures for the control of our own home-grown crops. This should help to equalize distribution and reduce prices. But it will, of course, be infinitesimal as compared with the world-wide effect of the present food discussion in congress, the result of which we await with natural anxiety."

Toronto, July 11.—At noon the Ontario Railway Board ordered the company to give a service by three o'clock, failing which the board states it will endeavor to give a service.

The strike has so far been marked by no violence of any kind. Pickets have been placed by the striking employees at all the car barns, but these are closed up and have been left apparently in charge of only a few workmen. This morning Vice Chairman A. B. Ingram, of the Ontario Railway Board held a conference with Mr. Rezin Orr, treasurer of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railwaymen of America, who informed he could not advise as the international organization was not supporting men because they had rejected arbitration. Mr. Ingram is later to meet General Manager Fleming. He hopes that the men may be agreeable to resume work under the old scale while the Ontario Railway Board undertakes to settle the dispute. The representatives of the men were unable to state if this would be acceptable.

FEATURES OF REICHSTAG DEBATE

Copenhagen, July 11.—The debate in the Reichstag main committee yesterday, according to reports received here, was opened by Dr. Gustav Stresmann, National Liberal leader, with a sharp attack on Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's policy, particularly that of foreign affairs, which he characterized as being based on no definite consistent programme. The Chancellor retorted by saying he was forced to look to all sides for support because the Reichstag offered him no stable majority. Give him this and he would be able to develop a consistent programme, he said.

The Vossische Zeitung adds that the Chancellor expressed willingness to carry through necessary internal reforms.

Herr David, Socialist, painted a picture of the difficult internal situation in Germany. He declared the existing dualism between the government and the people must cease. Thereafter the Chancellor again briefly spoke before the committee without reaching any decision.

Afternoon papers yesterday generally assumed that an agreement of all parties except Conservatives and extremists Socialists had been reached by a joint declaration to the Reichstag on peace terms and internal reforms. This, it is said, would contain a reiteration of the Chancellor's announcement of August 1914 that Germany's purpose in the war was not conquest, but defense and independence of territorial integrity, expressing a readiness to conclude peace on that basis with a provision rejecting all designs aiming at an economic boycott and continuance of international hostility after the war.

The declaration, according to report would also cover the formation of a coalition ministry with representatives of all parties and immediate reform of the Prussian franchise.

The National Liberals, however, at a meeting in the evening, rejected the peace part of the resolution and as the Centre had made their attitude conditional on National Liberal assent, the success of the movement is threatened. The Radicals on the other hand, declined to concur in that part of the resolution dealing with internal reforms if this were on condition, as Nationalists wished, of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg's retirement. The whole matter is in doubt again. One positive fact elicited by Herr Erzberger's declaration, is that he and other members of the main committee of the Reichstag did not in the course of attacks on the admiralty and the government suggest the abandonment of the submarine campaign.

ALL GERMANS ARE WARNED

To Keep off the New York Water Front Those Who Disobey Will Be At Once Arrested

New York, July 11.—A further move to keep the water front here free from enemy aliens was made today when placards warning all Germans to keep off, were distributed to all docks and piers in this city and Long Island points. It was said similar notices would be sent to points on the Hudson River and the Connecticut shore before the end of this week. No rule has yet been issued, closing the big skyscraper buildings along the harbor front to alien enemies, and it was said no such move was contemplated for the present at least. It was also said that the ferries would not be closed to the alien enemy class, although the stage of the island ferry was cited as an excellent vantage point for passengers to see the shipping activities of the harbor.

The notice, signed by Thomas F. McCarty, United States marshal, states that "any enemy alien found on any dock, pier or wharf or employed in any maritime occupation will be immediately arrested."

HANNA ON THE JOB

Food Waste to be Prevented in Hotels and Clubs Provincial Governments Asked to Co-Operate in General Plan

Ottawa, July 11.—Immediate action on a national scale is being taken by the food controller to prevent food waste in the hotels, restaurants, clubs and homes of the Dominion, and to conserve storable food for export.

Telegrams have been sent out to the prime ministers of all the provinces by Hon. W. J. Hanna, asking them to name a representative to act with the food consumption control committee. Such representatives are desired to co-operate with the committee from time to time as its work proceeds, and to attend at hearings when different interests of their respective provinces are asked to present their views.

The committee consists of Mr. Justice Rose, Osgoode Hall, (chairman) Miss May U. Watson, MacDonald Institute, Guelph; Mr. George Wright, president of the Dominion Hotelkeepers Association, and third vice-president of the American and Canadian hotelkeepers Protection Association, and Mr. W. A. Cooper, Toronto, July 11.—Fine, weather is general over the western provinces. Elsewhere in Canada unsettled conditions prevail generally. Another skilful depression is approaching the Lake region from the westward.

Forecasts. Moderate to fresh variable winds, becoming south and west, cloudy with showers and local thunderstorms chiefly to-night and for a part of Thursday.

DESTROYED BY FIRE

Wilmington, Del., July 11.—Practically all of the main portion of the plant of the Wilmington Steel Company was destroyed by fire early today. No estimate of the loss was obtainable. More than 250 men were employed in the section destroyed.

TEN YEARS OVER CENTURY

Baltimore, Md., July 11.—At the age of 110 years, Mrs. Ann Poudor, the oldest woman in Maryland, died last night at her home in this city. Until the last she retained a clear memory of the many stirring events through which she had lived. She had watched Baltimore from a sleepy village and had seen skyscrapers built on lots where she had romped as a girl.

ENTIRELY FALSE

London, July 11.—(via Reuter's Ottawa)—The figures given in yesterday's German communique of the air losses in month of June are entirely false. On the British front alone 131 German machines were destroyed and 99 others driven down uncontrollable, while the French ac-

UNITED STATES SENATE

To Speed Up the Matter of Food Control

Washington, July 11.—Administration leaders in the Senate, spurred on by a letter from Herbert C. Hoover, the food controller, to President Wilson, declaring that further delay in enacting food legislation threatens serious losses to both farmers and consumers, today sought to hasten action by the agricultural committee in perfecting the Gore substitute for the food control bill under consideration in the Senate. The committee again today worked on the substitute bill, while the Senate continued debate on general features of the measure.

The Senate will vote on the bill July 21, under an agreement reached only after the Democratic leadership had consented to eliminate some of the bills most stringent features, including the drastic prohibition provisions. The substitute is generally similar to the original administration bill, except that power to control other industries besides

SUCCESSFUL AIR RAID OFF CONSTANTINOPLE

London, July 11.—An air raid on the enemy fleet off Constantinople was announced in a statement of the British war office today. Bombs were dropped on the Turkish cruiser Yavuz Sultan Selim, formerly the German cruiser Goeben. The extent of the damage to the vessel is not given.

The war office at Constantinople also was attacked and a direct hit was obtained by the British, who returned without casualties.

London, July 11.—The announcement follows:

"A report has been received from the vice admiral in the Eastern Mediterranean that on the night of Monday, a successful attack was carried out by the Royal naval air service against the Turkish German fleet lying off Constantinople in the Golden Horn. When the Goeben, surrounded by warships, including submarines, had been sighted, an attack was made from a height of 800 feet. Direct hits were obtained on the Goeben and on other enemy ships near her. Big explosions took place on board them and several fires were started. The war office also was attacked and a direct hit was obtained. The enemy appeared to have been completely surprised, as until the bombs had been dropped, no anti-aircraft batteries opened fire. Our force returned safely, without any casualties."

TIME IS NOT RIPE For a Big Offensive On The Part of Germany

Copenhagen, July 11.—Major Morath, military correspondent of the Deutsches Tages Zeitung, asks in a press article whether the moment has arrived for an offensive by Germany, and concludes that for the present it is inadvisable. All Germany, he says, longs to hear the charging yell of the German armies in a big drive, but it is doubtful whether the necessary numerical superiority can be concentrated against any particular front to push an offensive through to real success. Partial success, Major Morath says, is costly and useless, and the general staff, therefore, is well advised in not attempting a big attack on the western front.

NEWS OF NORFOLK

A Second Thunderstorm Of Great Violence
Induction of New Minister on August 2nd

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
 Simcoe, July 11.—This district was visited yesterday afternoon by an electric storm more violent than that which struck here about twenty two hours earlier. The verandah of the residence of Crown Attorney T. R. Slaght was splintered about 5.30 p.m. but the bolt did no other damage. Both north and south the storm appeared even more violent and with a veering wind Simcoe got a second drenching.
 The controller at the L. E. & N. power plant was put out of commission about 5.30 o'clock after the variegated flashes had played and crashed through the domes, and the current north was also off leaving a north bound trolley at the south end of the local yards and some four hundred picketers down at Dover. The company, at once learned that a prompt renewal of the service was out of the question and opened negotiations with the G. T. R. for a locomotive to run the excursion train out of Dover. And the happy Presbyterian minister, passed through at 11.30 after a full day's outing.
 Meanwhile electricians William Shadle, Mack McKenry, who had hurried over from Brantford by appointment, were at the controller's.

Induction August 2nd
 Rev. Mr. Scott, Fulton, will be inducted into St. Paul's here on Thursday, August 2nd. The ceremony will begin at 8 o'clock p.m. This was determined at an adjourned meeting of the Hamilton Fresh-berry held here yesterday afternoon to complete the usual formalities. There were present Revs. Robertson, of Port Dover, Whitelaw, of Caledonia, McKinnon, of Hagersville and Dr. Dey, of Simcoe. Frank Reid, of Simcoe and a couple of elders from outside points.

 Robt. Alway left for St. Thomas yesterday to do some cement work, as such should be done.
 Capt. and Mrs. Rogers left the army residence yesterday. The Captain's successor is expected presently.

Oliver Robertson and Elias Boucher spent Monday at Galt, guests of Jas. Hedge, formerly of Windham Centre. Their host gave them a splendid motor trip through Galt, Kitchener, Waterloo and Preston, and a mighty rainstorm washed it all down on their return to Galt. Both of them seemed to have enjoyed all, even the rain.

 Weedy strawberries are producing the best berries. Those in well cultivated and first crop patches are badly sand beaten.
 Haying weather has not set in yet, the season is away late.

The last two days cloud-bursts have left much crop under water, and many washouts have developed in country roads.
 Owing to a washout on the G. T. R. track between Simcoe and Dover, the evening passenger train south-bound, went around by Jarvis last night.

Heard in London
 London, July 11.—One of the heaviest gun duels of the war raged yesterday on the Belgian coast. Sounds of the distant firing were heard in London from 6 o'clock in the morning until nearly midnight, and again to-day beginning with dawn. In some London suburbs, tremors like a slight earthquake could be felt.

After bowling over another motor car, killing a man and crashing through a plate glass window, Philip Spano, of Buffalo, hurried home and changed his outer garments. The police came and made him strip. A bloody undershirt caused his arrest.

JUDICIAL ENQUIRY

Will Take Place Regarding Persons Named in Recent British Report
 London, July 11.—Andrew Bonar Law, member of the British war council, announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that a judicial inquiry would be held on the report of the persons impugned in the report of the British commission which investigated the Mesopotamian expedition and which was made public in blue book issued June 26. The court, Mr. Bonar Law said, would be composed of three officers and two persons holding high judicial rank. The case would be presented by law officers of the crown in the session of the crown council on Monday. The proceedings so far as possible would be held in public. The officers concerned, he said, had consented to exercise any function in connection with the government.
 The report of the commission which investigated the ill-fated Mesopotamian expedition, appointed chiefly responsible for the surrender of Kut-el-Amara, by the British, General Sir John Eccles Nixon, formerly in command of the British forces in Mesopotamia, upon the victory of India, Lord Hardinge, and upon the commander-in-chief in India, General Sir Beauchamp Duff.

GERMAN CHANCELLOR

Refuses to Tell of The Proceedings
 By Courier Leased Wire.
 Amsterdam, July 11.—Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg declined yesterday to make known to the cabinet the proceedings of the crown council on Monday, regarding which there is much speculation within and without Germany. The committee then adjourned. These events are described as follows in a semi-official statement issued yesterday in Berlin.
 "The main committee of the Reichstag met at nine o'clock this morning. Friedrich Ebert (Socialist League) requested the chancellor, who was present, to give information in regard to what happened in the crown council yesterday. On the ground that knowledge of what took place there was necessary for further fruitful debate, the crown council affirmed the fact that the crown council had held a meeting, said he was unable as yet to make a statement in regard to the results of the deliberations. Herr Ebert then moved adjournment of the committee, which was agreed to."

Penetrate British Positions
In Belgium
Have Reached Right Bank of Yser Near the Sea.

By Courier Leased Wire.
London, July 11.—The enemy penetrated British positions in Belgium on a front of 1,400 yards, to a depth of 300 yards, says a statement issued by the British War Office today.
In their advance the Germans reached the right bank of the Yser near the sea. The attack followed a 24 hour bombardment during which the defenses in the dunes sector, near the coast were levelled. The sector was isolated by destruction of bridges over the Yser.
The announcement follows: "After a very intense bombardment, lasting 24 hours, the enemy made a determined attack on our positions in the Neuport front yesterday at 7.45 p.m. Owing to the concentrated and heavy nature of the enemy's artillery fire, the defenses in the dunes sector, near the coast were levelled, and this sector was isolated by the destruction of bridges across the River Yser. The enemy succeeded in penetrating our positions here on a front of 1,400 yards and to a depth of 300 yards. They reached the right bank of the River Yser, near the sea."
"Further south, opposite Lombartzyde, after gaining temporarily some of our advanced positions, the enemy was driven back to his own lines by a counter-attack."

Sapper A. Hartley, of the A Company, Canadian Engineers, whose home address is 906, Trafalgar street, London, Ontario, is one of many who have written in praise of Dr. Cassell's Tablets. THE SITUATION

There is no holding back the new victorious Russians, who have captured Halicz and continue to crush the foe on a wide front. They are making wonderful progress and the Teutons are faced with an offensive which must be giving them great cause for uneasiness.

On the Aisne front the forces of the Crown Prince have again been thrown back by the French. In a notable speech in New York Lord Northcliffe told in vivid terms of what Great Britain has done and is still doing in the great struggle.

Over the Courier leased wire today comes news of a German success on the Belgium front, but without doubt that will soon be straightened out.

KAISERITTES WON'T STAND FREE SPEECH

Die Zukunft, Hardens weekly paper, in which he has been quite outspoken in criticism of the German Government, has been suppressed and he has been mobilized under the military service law and will be employed as a military clerk.

Here is a sample of some of his recent writings:—

"Bagdad English, the advanced troops of the British and the Russians in contact on the frontier of Persia, wide areas of the soil of France once more in the possession of the republic, China's revolt from Germany, the success of the British at Arras, a new community with 100,000,000 Americans who desire for themselves neither land nor money nor even repayment of the cost of the war, and who, with their ideal solution, work upon the nerves of all mankind, confident in the hope of Central and South America—in these circumstances, it is possible for any sober man who does not want to blush before our warriors to say in his madness that the results of these three months have wearied our enemies and set them whimpering for feeble peace?"

"Our fate depends, not on bits of territory, which European states can no longer take away from one another and can no longer hold to their own permanent advantage, but upon the acquisition of higher spiritual values. Elevate the conscience of mankind and light up the German house also! Then what the enemy demands too loudly, but what we in secret feel to be a necessity, will come to pass. The will of the people will be free and Germany will know for what the dearest children of her bosom are dying and suffering!"

"Pretty straight talk that. As a matter of fact, it is not freedom that the Hohenzollern outfit desire anywhere, but military and autocratic control of the most pronounced form."

Had Harden been a less influential man he would undoubtedly have been shot for telling the truth.

WHY THE TASK IS STILL BIG
Mr. F. W. Wile, for many years the resident correspondent in Berlin, of the London Daily Mail, thus summarizes the salient features of the front still presented by Germany:

1. All the men, women and children in the empire, regard themselves as being at war and are conducting themselves accordingly.

2. The empire has a Government which governs with no other consideration whatever than that of waging and winning the war.

3. The Government leaves absolutely nothing to chance, anticipating contingencies and not temporizing with them after they have arisen.

4. The nation's food supply, though disastrously low, has been organized since November, 1914, on a basis which makes "starvation" impossible.

5. Failures in public office—military, naval and civil—are ruthlessly handled, no matter how high sounding a name or brilliant a reputation requires to be sacrificed.

6. The industrial classes, realizing that their own existence as well as that of Germany is at stake, are working tooth and nail in the national cause.

7. Strikes are mercilessly dealt with and broken, before they have had time to spread, by treating would-be strikers and their leaders as common enemies of the State.

8. Despite their failings and disagreeable qualities as a nation, the German people are thrifty, highly patriotic, and endlessly willing to sacrifice for the Fatherland.

9. The German armies, after three years of fighting are still in occupation, with minor exceptions, of the vast territories which their superior preparedness, enabled them to conquer and hold.

10. The German fleet is still intact numerically more powerful than ever, capable of risking daring sorties into mined British waters, and in sinking hundreds of thousands of tons of Allied and neutral shipping, per month.

11. German man-power, which rests on a pre-war population of roundly 70,000,000, is no nearer "exhaustion" than the man-power of the United Kingdom with a pre-war population of 46,000,000.

12. German statesmanship, eschewing "war measures" like the stoppage of racing to save oats, deals with burning necessities like rationing of bread-stuffs. The German Government will not shrink from rationing the air men breathe if it will promote the winning of the war. And it will not wait until the nation has no more breath left before issuing breath-cards."

It can thus readily be seen that those people who look for a sudden internal collapse of this Pariah among the nations, need to revise their opinions and meanwhile it is up to Canada to see that there is no let up whatever in connection with doing her share towards the end which must be achieved.

GREEK ARMY

By Courier Leased Wire

Rome, July 11.—The Greek army is to be increased from three to ten divisions, the recruiting and complete equipment of war to be completed within four months, according to plans outlined to-day by Charles C. A. Jonnart, Entente high commissioner in Greece. Mr. Jonnart has reached Rome on his way to Paris, where he will lay before the representatives of the Entente powers at their forthcoming conference the results of his work in Greece, which includes the abolition of King Constantine, and important reforms which he expects to carry out under the new regime of Premier Venizelos.

In an interview with the Associated Press, Mr. Jonnart said: "Now that the transition from the old regime is accomplished, we shall proceed at once to the important work of reconstruction. One of the first measures in that direction will be complete reorganization of the Greek army, so as to make it worthy of the country and a real factor in the situation. It is proposed to increase the present strength of the army, amounting to three divisions, to ten divisions. M. Venizelos and his military advisers are confident that this increase and the complete equipment of the army can be carried out so as to place a full force of men in the Greek divisions in the next four months."

"Concerning recruiting there can be no doubt. This will remain wholly with M. Venizelos and the Greeks. In the matter of munitions, heavy artillery and other supplies and equipment the co-operation of France and Great Britain will be required. Our military advisers who accompany me have exact details in regard to just what this equipment must be in order to make the new Greek divisions thoroughly effective, and I am confident this branch of the re-constructive work will be carried out rapidly. The army is being re-organized on a most efficient basis."

"After being torn by internal dissension for the last two years, Greece finds financial resources sadly depleted, and she needs and expects friendly co-operation and assistance of those great powers which wish to see the smaller nations placed on a firm and enduring foundation. Great Britain and France may be depended on for the army re-organization and in the same way shall have the powerful assistance of the United States in realizing effective re-organization of the civil branch."

Mr. Jonnart next outlined important constitutional and parliamentary reforms, which it is proposed to carry out.

ONONDAGA

A very successful garden party and strawberry festival under the auspices of the Onondaga Women's Institute, was held in the Township hall, Wednesday evening, July 4th. A very large attendance being present.

While supper was being served Miss Burrill and several of her pupils rendered piano solos and duets which were very much enjoyed by all.

After supper an excellent programme was given. Mr. J. A. Walker acted as chairman in his usual pleasing manner. Vocal numbers were given by Mr. R. Greenwood, Mr. Skelton and a local male quartet. Readings were given by Miss Annie Thompson, Miss Clara McMillan and Mr. Will Painter. The programme proved very acceptable and numerous covers were responded to. The proceeds amounted to nearly $185. The next meeting of the Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. T. Thompson, Wednesday, July 11th.

Messrs. L. T. Boland and W. L. Amiller, of Baltimore, have stolen their last automobile. It upset. Believing that her six-weeks-old baby could not recover, Mrs. Pansy Theleverett, of Detroit, shot herself through the heart.

Obituary
Mrs. R. Wilson
Friends of Mrs. W. J. Sweetman, 6 Strathcona Ave., will learn with regret that her mother, Mrs. R. Wilson, 93 Alpine Ave., Hamilton, passed peacefully away last night after a brief illness, surrounded by the whole of her desolate family.

Curran Hunt
The death took place yesterday of Curran Hunt, only son of Mrs. Wellington Hunt. He had been ill for a long time, and the end came peacefully. Curran, who was 31 years of age, was well known to Brantfordites generally, and was the possessor of many likeable qualities. For a long time after his father's demise, he ran the Hunt and Colton livery, and when war broke out joined the artillery, enlisting at Winnipeg. He saw much service at the front in connection with army service, and it is the testimony of all who met him there, that he performed his duties in a most brave and efficient manner. His health caused his return home some months ago, and he bore his sickness with the cheerfulness always so characteristic of him.

In addition to the sorrowing mother, he leaves one sister, wife of Rev. Dean Duckworth, Trinity College, Toronto, to mourn his great loss.

There will be a funeral service in Grace Church to-morrow at three o'clock.

TALK OF POSTAL STRIKE

Local Clerks Think There Will Be No Trouble

The following despatch comes from Winnipeg.

A Dominion-wide strike of postal clerks is being planned in case their demand for an increased wage may be refused. Officials of the Association of Dominion Postal Clerks, in conversation here, state it is under discussion.

"You can say we expect a reply before the convention closes, and perhaps you can judge by that," said one.

"The question to-night of wage increases was taken up, and a reply granting an increase of assurance to that effect is demanded from Ottawa before the close of the convention."

Local postal clerks who interviewed this morning stated that there was little possibility of a general strike and were of the opinion that the rate and salary increases would be acceded to by the government.

The local branch of the Association are represented at the convention by a delegate appointed by the provincial secretary.

Laid at Rest.
The late William Wheeler just lacked a little more than eight years of the century mark. He was probably the oldest man in the city. He was born in England March 19, 1826. He peacefully passed away last Sabbath morning. His pastor, Rev. D. Alexander, delivered a brief sermon at the family residence, and conducted the funeral service at the old family plot in Oakland, where the body was tenderly laid in the grave.

Mr. Wheeler was a strong, genial, and hard-working pioneer of Brant Co. He hewed out of the woods a home for himself and family. He was married twice. He was married to Miss Samantha Woodley 26 years ago. All his family were by his side when he passed. They were all present except William, who lives up on the Georgian Bay. Asa resides on the homestead, Charles, Mt. Pleasant, Thomas, Wilsonville, Lyman, Scotland village, Smith, Villa Nova, and the only daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Woodley, 50 Huron St., city, whose husband took the place of the absent son, and acted as pall-bearer with the five sons present. The aged widow will have the sympathy of the community. The floral tributes were beautiful. Pillow, by family; sprays, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weaver, Mrs. Ritchie and family, Mr. and Mrs. M. CANNOT COMPLY
By Courier Lensed Wire.
Toronto, July 11.—At one o'clock to-day Assistant Manager Fred Hubbard, of the Toronto Railway Company, said the company would be unable to give the services ordered by the Ontario Railway Board. Mr. Hubbard asked what penalty the company would suffer for non-compliance? In fact, there seems to be no penalty. The board will hardly be able to get the men, and it is altogether improbable that the services will be resumed to-day. The strikers express themselves as content to take a few holidays. The jitney service continues to expand. The steam railroads are helping with a twenty minute service in handling the heavy traffic from Parkdale and West Toronto, and the most noticeable upsurge from the suspension of the street cars is a falling off in the crowds of shoppers at the department stores.

BROKE ANKLE.
On Monday evening last about six o'clock, Mr. B. T. Leggett of 195 Terrace Hill street, was struck by an automobile at the corner of King and Dalhousie streets. He was knocked from the bicycle on which he was riding and suffered a broken ankle, which will necessitate his confinement to the hospital for some time.

Israel Stoberas was found drowned in the bath tub of his New York home. He was 90 years old.

Lord Northcliffe in Interesting Speech Tells of Tremendous Work By Britain

New York, July 11.—Lord Northcliffe was the chief speaker yesterday at a luncheon of the Overseas Club at the Hotel Biltmore. The club, which has a membership of 150,000 of both sexes and all ages, was founded by Lord Northcliffe, who is its president. It has actively co-operated in many ways to aid Great Britain's fighting forces during the war. The club has organized an imperial aircraft that has presented more than 100 fighting machines of the most modern type to the government, has raised and expended more than $1,200,000 to send "smokes" to the armies and the hospitals, and funds for Red Cross and other comforts for the British troops, as well as a "smokes fund" raised in the United States to supply tobacco to the Belgian army. Until, Not Dissension.

Lord Northcliffe said in part: "When I speak of Britain, I refer to the five united British nations—Great Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa—to Newfoundland, the West Indies and the other units of the Empire upon which the sun never sets. There is no red spot, however tiny, on the map of the British Empire which has not freely and gladly poured out its blood in the rally to the motherland and world liberty."

"If the British methods of government ever needed a testimonial, that testimonial lies in this; the routing of the whole far-flung British Empire as one country. The Germans reckoned on dissension. We showed them unity."

"What has Britain done? In the first place we bottled up the German high seas fleet, swept the trade routes clear of German raiders and prevented Great Britain and France being blockaded by sea and strangled."

"The British navy saved democracy in the early days of the war. In the second place Britain buttressed the world's credit. Everyone will remember the panic in the early days of August, 1914, when securities of all kinds were tumbling to apparent disaster. Britain stopped that panic, and began from the very start of the war to advance loans to its allies—to the extent, finally, of over $5,000,000,000."

"In the third place Britain provided the other members of the allies with vast quantities of shipping, coal, material and other vital necessities."

"In the fourth place we raised huge popular loans for the conduct of the war. The last 'Victory Loan' totalled over $5,000,000,000. It was by far the biggest loan ever raised by any nation."

"In the fifth place, the five united British nations recruited under the volunteer system millions of men before they were obliged to resort to conscription. Millions of men offered themselves for the fight. I do not advocate of the volunteer system, because of its manifest injustices and its inefficiency for the waging of the present character. But I think there is cause for pride in realizing that millions of Britons from all over the world offered themselves voluntarily for war. Great Britain alone raising over 4,000,000 men."

"At the present moment we maintain over 2,200,000 men on the French front, apart from our other large armies in Egypt, several other parts of Africa, Mesopotamia, Palestine, and at Saloniki. The word 'maintain' means that we keep that huge mass of men up to fighting strength, constantly replacing and terrific drain of killed, wounded and sick."

SAVINGS OF PUBLIC

Government Has No Intention of Going After Them Incomes, However, To Bear Their Just Burden

Ottawa, July 11.—A statement that there need be no apprehension on the part of the public that action of a detrimental character with respect to the savings of the public will be taken by the Canadian Government was made by Sir Thomas White in the Commons. Coupled with this declaration and the assertion that it was the Government's policy to encourage thrift was the intimation that they must not, however be understood as precluding legislation providing for income taxation upon those whose incomes are such as to make it just and equitable that they should contribute a share of the war expenditure of the Dominion."

"It has been officially drawn to the attention of the Government," said the Finance Minister, "that the use of the expression 'conscription of wealth' in the debates in Parliament and by public and other bodies outside Parliament, and by the press in its news reports has caused a certain uneasiness among those whose savings constitute a vital factor in the business and industrial life of the Dominion and are so essential to the credit and prosperity upon which our efforts in the continued prosecution of the war must largely depend."

To Encourage Thrift.—"I desire to say on behalf of the Government that there exist no apprehension on the part of the public that any action of a detrimental character will at any time be taken with respect to the savings of the Canadian public. On the contrary, it will be the policy of the Government, in the future as in the past, to encourage in every way possible the exercise of the thrift and economy resulting in national savings which have enabled Canada to maintain her credit and improve her economic position during the war."

"Any taxation to which it may be necessary for the government to resort for the time being, will be in accordance with legitimate and established forms of taxation sanctioned by the traditions and experience of British self-governing communities. This statement, therefore, must not be understood as precluding legislation providing for income taxation upon those whose incomes are such as to make it just and equitable that they should contribute a share of the expenditure of the Dominion."

Hon. Mr. Graham said that in any discussions in which he had taken part in the House he had never used the term "conscription of wealth." He had always spoken along the lines that accumulated wealth should be made to take its fair share in bearing the burdens of the war.

BUMPER WHEAT CROP FOR WEST

Harvest to Surpass Record Breaker of 1915 Is Predicted

Winnipeg, Man., July 11.—A bumper wheat crop that may equal or even exceed the slightly record-breaking harvest of 1915 is forecasted by Winnipeg grain traders. There is only one "if"—if weather continues to be favorable, western Canada's 1917 wheat crop may be the biggest in history. Present conditions of the growing grain in western Canada and present weather are the reasons for the optimistic predictions. Conditions this season are almost identical with those that obtained in 1915. "Wheat has had ever been under such favorable conditions during the milling-out period, cold weather has hardened the grain in the ground, and no severe hail or rain storms have damaged young plants."

Several traders predicted that the crop will exceed that of 1915. They base their opinion on the fact that a larger acreage has been sown than the farmers have been more careful of the seed and cultivation. The west produced 375,000,000 bushels of wheat two seasons ago. More than 200,000 farmers in western Canada are growing wheat. At average acreage of their increased total acreage last spring, 375,000,000 bushels of wheat will be produced.

Deputy Minister Evans, of the Manitoba department of agriculture, thinks the outlook is very satisfactory, and the present warm weather is furnishing ideal conditions. The prospects are improving daily in both field and garden.

T. A. Greer, president of the Grain Growers' Grain Company, a more conservative regarding the outlook. He said the prospects are good for an average crop, and he added the crop will be somewhat late.

The crop in southern Alberta and western Saskatchewan is first class, while an average crop is expected in eastern Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

HOURS IN OPEN BOAT

The Experience of Army Officers and Tommies They Have Been Finally Landed at Quebec.

By Courier Leased Wire. Quebec, July 11.—To be at the mercy of an angry sea for eight hours in lifeboats, after their ship was torpedoed, was the experience of three Imperial Army officers and about 200 Tommies who arrived at this port yesterday on an ocean liner. The officers who are among the survivors, are Captain Park of Scotland; Lieut. Ingram and Lieutenant Stroud of England. They were passengers on a vessel which was sunk off the north coast of Ireland without warning the latter part of June. Forty-one persons were lost. Reports from many of those who survived the attack of the German pirates, prove the efficiency of the Hun's operations in the British Isles. The vessel left port on the evening of June 29th. Thirty-six hours later at 8 o'clock in the morning, the U-153 sent a torpedo directed at the ship. The lookout spotted the missile, called to the first mate, and the steerman, seeing the boat to port, evading the torpedo. At 4 o'clock, the same day, the submarine shot another torpedo, with no better results to the murderers. "At the dead of night we were shocked by a great crash," says one of the survivors. "I was literally shot out of my bunk. We took to the boats. There was confusion but no panic. Two of the lifeboats turned turtle, and a number of the fellows, 41 in all, met watery graves. It was a horrible experience."

Ottawa, July 11.—Clause 31 of Militia Act, dealing with exemption was passed late last night after all day discussion, but the amendment offered were held out for further consideration by the Government, as were also a number of other suggestions, such as one made by A. K. McLean, of Halifax, that "the only son of a widow," better only support, should be exempted.

Mr. Frank Glass thought that better results would come from a broader application of the act. It was not desirable, he said, that there should be a lot of fixed exemptions.

Mr. Duncan Ross said that in the first call more than 100,000 should be produced. The tribunals should see that not more than one son of any particular family could be called. This, he said, was provided for in the Militia Act. He declared the production of food had become so dependent upon Canada for food that it would be a mistake to leave the selection of agriculture for service overseas to the whim of any tribunal.

Mr. J. H. Rainville, deputy speaker, suggested that it should be made clear in the section that agriculture and industries necessary to the war be maintained and moved to an amendment in accordance with his ideas.

Public Tribunals—Hon. Wm. Pugsley moved that the tribunals be public, to which Hon. Arthur Meighen agreed, and also moved the section read as follows:

"In making application for exemption on either side of the act mentioned in paragraph A and B, the application shall state the willingness by or on behalf of whom the application is made, to continue such work at a wage or salary fixed by the governor-in-council, in the fixing of which regard shall be had to the rate of pay and separation allowances, if any, which would be allowed in respect of such man if he were placed on active service."

Mr. Meighen said this amendment was of a radical and extraordinary character. If adopted, in principle, and much more in detail, it would necessitate radical changes in the whole commercial system of the country.

Not Impair Production—There was a long debate in regard to the exemption of agriculture interests. Mr. F. P. Pardee agreed that there should be no direct exemption, but production should not be impaired.

MEMBERS DEBATING THE CONSCRIPTION BILL AT OTTAWA

Both Sides are Co-operating With Regard to the Measure—Several Speakers Want to Exempt Farmers

Ottawa, July 11.—Clause 1 of the Militia Act, dealing with exemptions, was passed late last night after an all day discussion, but the amendments offered were held out for further consideration by the Government, as were also a number of other suggestions, such as one made by A. K. McLean, of Halifax, that "the only son of a widow" being her only support, should be exempted.

Mr. Frank Glass thought that better results would come from a broad application of the act. It was not desirable, he said, that there should be a lot of fixed exemptions.

Need of Production
Mr. Duncan Ross said that in the first call more than 100,000 should be produced. The tribunals should see that not more than one son of any particular family could be called. This, he said, was provided for in the Militia Act. He declared that production of food had become so urgent a matter that every man taken off a Canadian farm is an assistance to the Germans to play the German game. When it was recognized that the allies will be largely dependent upon Canada for food, it would be a mistake to leave the selection of agriculture for service overseas to the whim of any tribunal.

Mr. J. H. Rainville, deputy speaker, suggested that it should be made clear in the section that agricultural industry and industries necessary to the war be maintained and moved an amendment in accordance with his ideas.

Public Tribunals
Hon. Wm. Pugsley moved that the tribunals be public, to which Hon. Arthur Meighen agreed, and also moved the section read as follows:

"In making application for exemption on either of the grounds mentioned in paragraph A and B, the applicant shall state the willingness by or on behalf of whom the application is made, to continue in such work at a wage or salary fixed by the governor-in-council, in the fixing of which regard shall be had to the rate of pay and separation allowance, if any, which would be allowed in respect of such man if he were placed on active service."

Mr. Meighen said this amendment was of a radical and extraordinary character. If adopted in principle, and much more in detail, it would necessitate radical changes in the whole commercial system of the country.

Not Impair Production
There was a long debate in regard to the exemption of agricultural interests.

Mr. F. F. Pardee agreed that there should be no direct exemptions but production should not be impaired.

Settle Principle
Sir Wilfrid Laurier thought Parliament should make the rules. There was this to be said for the balloting system, that there was no possibility of favoritism.

Sir Robert Borden said that if Mr. Oliver's suggestions were carried to the extreme this Parliament would have to select the whole 100,000 men. It was absolutely necessary to appoint an impartial tribunal, and lay down general principles for them to follow. So far as principles could be determined they were settled in this bill. This bill was much more specific than that of Great Britain or New Zealand. They left it to each tribunal to determine whether it was important to each man in the national interests to go to France or remain in Canada.

Unity, Not Dissension
Hon. Dr. Pugsley admitted that there would be some difficulties in the way of the adoption of his amendment. It would not be impossible, however, he said, to equalize the wages of the soldiers with those being received at home. Canada was treating her soldiers shamefully, and not paying them sufficient.

Hon. Arthur Meighen asked what he would suggest as a fair wage. Dr. Pugsley suggested from $2 to $3 a day. He didn't see why a man was paired. There should be an assurance that when the regulations were drawn up agriculture would not be seriously injured. Referring to the phrase "conscription of wealth," he said there was a general belief in the country that the savings of the people were to be taken from them, and he thought the statement of Sir Thomas White would allay anxiety. He asked Mr. Meighen to make that statement as regards the effect on agriculture of the terms of the bill if carried out.

Would Exempt Farmers
Mr. Meighen replied that he could see no reason why the production of the country could not be fully maintained and yet satisfy the requirements of the bill.

Mr. J. G. Turriff, of Assiniboia, who represents an almost purely farming district, said he would not like to see farmers singled out and exempted. The necessity for the production of food was so apparent that no tribunal would impair production by taking farmers from the land when they were required in the production of food for Canada and the allies.

Selective System
Mr. Levi Thompson, of Qu'Appelle, agreed with the views expressed by Mr. Turriff. He said that if many men were taken from the west a portion of the crop would go to waste. He objected to the judges making rules re. exemptions. Parliament, he said, should be in the best position to decide what men should be exempt.

Hon. Frank Oliver said that the chief purpose of the bill is selective conscription, but no information had been given as to how the selection will be made. Parliament had been asked to endorse a bill affecting the lives of 100,000 men, and in respect to which no regulations would be framed by the House.

Guides Tribunals
Mr. Meighen replied that any regulations subsequently made will be framed under the authority of Parliament. The Government, he said, had pursued the same course as had been followed in Great Britain; it would be impossible to define what a tribunal must do in every individual case of exemption. A line must be drawn somewhere. The bill, he said, simply lays down the principle to guide the tribunals in their work.

Dr. Edwards, of Frontenac, asked if it were possible to calculate in dollars and cents the services of the men at the front. Mr. Nesbitt told him "not to ring that sort of thing in here."

Pay Not the Cause
"It was impossible to pay him what the country owed him, but that was no reason why he should be paid less than the man at home." Hon. Frank Oliver declared that out of 105,000 dependents of soldiers in Canada only 60,000 received aid from the patriotic fund. Dr. Edwards declared that there had been more talk and grumbling this afternoon about the pay of the soldiers than had been done by all the soldiers overseas since the war commenced. It wasn't the pay which kept men from enlisting, because a lot of them preferred to remain at home in safety while others went across the border line to college.

Not Exempt Farmers
Archie McCoig, of Kent, declared that in Ontario the average farm hand was receiving $500 a year and his board. He did not think any man in the House was anxious to go to the front for $1.10 a day. Dr. Edwards whether the argument was stronger in favor of the conscripted man than of the man who had already gone voluntarily. Mr. McCoig replied that pay should be increased for everybody. Referring to the amendment of Mr. Rainville, he declared that at the present the farmers were now much worried because they did not know whether to continue increasing production until they were assured that the bill would not seriously affect them. Mr. Rainville explained that he was not asking that called upon to enlist and had been exempted should not serve the nation at the same compensation as those who did go, especially when he took no risks, and had all the comforts at home. Many men had been deterred from enlisting because they received good wages at home and were able to keep their families in comfort, whereas, if they went they would receive small wages and their families would be in want. If wages were equalized there would be fewer demands for exemptions.

$8.10 A Day
Sir Herbert Ames said there had been an awful lot of talk about the inadequacy of soldiers' pay. Referring to Dr. Pugsley's contention, he declared the average married man who enlisted in New Brunswick and left a family behind received $33 per month in pay.

His wife received $20 a month separation allowance, from the patriotic fund she received $15. In addition the food received by the man at the front, if he were at home, would amount to $18.60 a month; clothing, boots, etc., would amount to $10 a month, consequently $39.60 a month, or $3.10 a day. This is what the people of Canada as a whole paid their soldiers. It was ridiculous to call it inadequate.

A Divergence
Dr. Pugsley declared that in New Brunswick an unmarried chauffeur received from $15 to $20 a week all the year round, which was about the same as a married fighting man.

Mr. Nesbitt declared that patriotic fund contributions, which were purely voluntary, should not be counted. Mr. Thompson, of Qu'Appelle, declared the estimate of Sir Herbert Ames was unfair, as it applied to married men, while most of the fighting men were single. There was no reason why the fighting men should not receive as much as the laboring man at home.

Dr. Edwards, of Frontenac, asked if it were possible to calculate in dollars and cents the services of the men at the front. Mr. Nesbitt told him "not to ring that sort of thing in here."

Pay Not the Cause
"It was impossible to pay him what the country owed him, but that was no reason why he should be paid less than the man at home." Hon. Frank Oliver declared that out of 105,000 dependents of soldiers in Canada only 60,000 received aid from the patriotic fund. Referring to the amendment of Mr. Rainville, he declared that at the present the farmers were now much worried because they did not know whether to continue increasing production until they were assured that the bill would not seriously affect them. Mr. Rainville explained that he was not asking that farmers be exempt. There were lots of farmers in Quebec who would not be exempt because they were not producing. It was a question of not protecting the farmers, but the industry.

Would Enlarge Pensions
Col. Arthur, of Parry Sound, declared that he had never heard anyone at the front complaining that the pay was insufficient, though all believed that the scale of pensions should be more adequate. The French soldier only received 5 cents a day. The English soldier a shilling, ours, while on active service, received 20 cents a day and the remainder of his dollar ten being saved for him. There was a strong feeling among the men at the front that while wages were high in Canada, while the cost of living was soaring, there should be a very considerable increase in the scale of pensions.

Clause Passed
Mr. LaPointe, of Montreal, raised a question as to the clause in regard to exemption of men for conscientious reasons. He asked how this would be interpreted. He thought that everyone might claim exemption on this ground.

Mr. Meighen said they had framed the clause in the best way possible to prevent abuse. A man claiming conscientious objection must be a member of a sect, having this as its tenets.

Col. J. A. Currie was in favor of conscription of labor for the farms. Clause 11 was finally passed, subject to the right to be reopened. The amendments and suggestions will be considered by the Government.

Ivan Olson
He has the greatest nerve in baseball, this bird.

Nothing discourages him. No bonehead play is too rank, no error too inexcusable to make him duck his head.

There is no star in baseball so great but Ole can give him some advice and in addition he is a pretty good ball player.

He's Ivan "Ole" Olson, shortstop of the erstwhile champions of the National League and former Cleveland player.

There was a lot of talk around Brooklyn this spring about releasing Olson. His performances in the world series were not regarded with the most kindly feeling by Brooklyn fans and they were not slow in letting Ebbers and Robinson know that it meant nothing in their lives if Ole never included Flatbush in his future trips east.

Did this worry Olson Not that anyone with perfectly normal eyes could notice. Ole just showed up at Hot Springs and braced out the rides he got at the home park.

There is no shrinking modesty about Ole.

Several years ago when he broke into the big show at Cleveland he took it upon himself not only to play shortstop but also to coach the infielders and batters.

About the first day out he took Larry Lajoie under his wing and told him the fine points of handling ground balls. Larry was in his prime then.

Then he decided that Joe Jackson could improve his batting by stepping into the ball in another way. Joe had hit .408 the year before and of course, needed expert instruction.

But nerve like Ole's has its good points along with its bad. It probably has kept him in baseball because no matter how the breaks are going against him he does not lose confidence in himself.

Burman Admits
Now that Les Darcy's star has flashed across the horizon and set before the Australian middleweight had a chance to show what he could do, fight fans are wondering who will be the next fistic artist to startle the boxing world.

Promoters are prowling about now in search of a new giant to go after the heavyweight title, for they see but little chance of contenders for the three honors which Johnny Kilbane, of Cleveland, virtually holds.

Chicago may furnish the next bantamweight champion in the person of little Joe Burman, who "admits" he will be the next champ. Burman, a Hebrew boy from the west side, has been cleaning them up in the east at a great rate.

The Windy City has furnished a lot of good bantam boxers. Back in the days when Jimmy Barry was in form the bantamweight limit was held down to 105 pounds, but Jimmy didn't always insist that his opponents make the weight, although he generally made it himself.

Barry ruled pretty well up until 1898, and then the east put forth

HALICZ IS TAKEN BY THE RUSSIAN FORCES

The Place is the Principal Key to Lemberg—Teuton Lines are Smashed Along a Lengthy Front

London, July 11.—Halicz, the strategic key to Lemberg, capital of Galicia, has been captured by the Russians, says a despatch from Reuters' Petrograd correspondent.

Halicz, 63 miles south-east of Lemberg, on the Dniester River, is an important railroad junction and the most important key to the Galician capital. It is 18 miles north of Stanislaw and about eight miles north of Jezupol, captured by the Russians under Gen. Korniloff on Sunday. The fall of Halicz was presaged by the success of the Russians in breaking the Austro-German lines between that town and Stanislaw and in driving the Austro-Germans to Lomnica River, which enters the Dniester, a short distance above Halicz.

Halicz was the centre of much heavy fighting last August and September, after the Russians had captured Bukovina and were attempting to reach Lemberg. Stanislaw was captured by the Russians in August, but the Russians failed to take Halicz after engaging in furious battles at Marlamopol and Monasterzyska and forcing the Austro-Germans to retire between the Zlota-Lipa and the Dniester. In September Halicz was bombed by Russian artillery, but attempts to storm the town were unsuccessful.

The fall of Halicz will probably mean that the Austro-Germans will retire from the present line along the Zlota-Lipa from north-east of Halicz through Brzezany and Zlochoff, to Brody in order to protect Lemberg. The next line in the rear of the Zlota-Lipa is the Gnila-Lipa.

The Austro-German forces had already withdrawn beyond the Lomnica River, about ten miles west of Jezupol, which was occupied Sunday by the Russians under General Korniloff. The Russians had by Monday taken four more villages and increased their captures of prisoners more than one thousand. Seven more field guns and other war material fell into Russian hands.

West of Stanislaw toward Kalusze and Dolna, the Russians had penetrated the Teutonic lines to a depth of nearly seven miles and between Stanislaw and Halicz had widened their wedge Monday night. In their retreat, apparently made hastily from the large amount of guns and military stores captured by the Russians, the Austro-Germans failed to make a stand at two rivers, the Lukovitzka and the Luvka.

Monday night the Russians were within less than eight miles of Lemberg on three sides, and only one avenue of retreat toward Lemberg was left open, that between the Dniester and the Lipza Rivers. The evacuation of Halicz will make a retreat from the Brzezany-Zlochoff-Brody line by the Austro-Germans almost a necessity.

Meanwhile the Russian artillery is hammering the enemy lines south of Brzezany and north of the Priepet marshes. Near Rivak and Smorgon, the fighting activity has increased.

Was Hemmed In
Petrograd, July 10.—General Korniloff's operations in Galicia along a front of 20 miles have broken the Austro-German front between Halicz and the Carpathians, and already the Russian cavalry has pressed forward for a distance of 16 miles.

To the west of the Dniester, as a result of the Russian forward movement, Halicz has been hemmed in from the south and south-west, and the Russians are now menacing the Helicz bridgehead.

From July 2 to 8, inclusive, General Korniloff took 14,000 prisoners and 55 guns, of which 12 were heavy pieces. During the past 48 hours his offensive has continued despite the energetic resistance and stubborn counter-attacks of the Teutons. Additional villages have been captured. More than 1,000 prisoners were taken yesterday. The Russians also captured seven field guns, many trench mortars and machine guns, and a quantity of war material.

Gen. Korniloff's cavalry and Cossacks are pursuing Gen. Kirbach's retreating army south of Halicz, and have forced the river Lukovitzka, which parallels the River Luvka. The western bank of the Luvka dominates the wooded eastern bank, but it is considered unlikely that the demoralized Austrian army will be able to concentrate sufficient troops to prevent a Russian passage of the river and a continuance of the advance in the direction of Dolna, 25 miles west of Stanislaw. The co-operation of the seventh and eleventh armies north of Halicz with the eighth army south of that town has been like clockwork.

Enemy Armies Separated
The success of the eighth army, the military critic of the Retch press, separates the German army of Gen. von Bothmer from the third Austrian army under Gen. Kirbach, and anticipates the evacuation of Halicz, which is not strictly a fortress, but a strong bridgehead protecting the position of Gen. von Bothmer's army from the east and southeast.

The powerful Russian offensive is having the effect of stimulating martial spirit throughout the country. The War Office is receiving daily scores of telegrams from various parts of Russia, Siberia and the Caucasus, telling of the formation of "storm battalions," and from patriots asking to be sent to the front.

Women Rush to Enlist
An organization has been formed under the name of "The General Russian Union for the formation of a voluntary army." Already there are sixty branches actively engaged in recruiting. This organization is deluged with demands from women who desire to enlist. It is proposed to concentrate all women applicants at some point outside Petrograd for drilling.

In the army itself the storm battalion movement is growing. One such has asked for permission to assume the name "Kerensky Battalion." A staff telegram reports that 70 men from the Odessa officers' school have gone to the front as volunteers. An Orenburg despatch describes the ovation given to a company organized by delegates from the Black Sea fleet on the occasion of its leaving for the front.

This is probably the most unusual photograph ever taken of the British King and is one of the best in this country in years. The King expressed great interest in the performance of Capt. Hicks and other airmen while visiting an aeroplane field near London.

THE UNTIRING POST OFFICE

(By Betty Bullets)

If you were asked what is the greatest triumph of human skill and human ingenuity, and if you had time to consider all the manifold inventions and developments that enter into it and to regard the great multitude of mankind who are interested and served, you must surely acknowledge that there is nothing so wonderful, so universal, so indispensable as a letter. Its very simplicity is baffling. There is the thought and feeling of heart and brain, there is the subtle atmosphere carried or created unconsciously, there is the intimate communion between mind and mind. The thought finds expression in that mystery of mysteries, language. Language again crystallizes in writ, and having been transferred to paper, your letter is taken care of by all the intricate machinery of transportation and delivered safely into the hands of your friend.

Letters—those little flat missives, three and a half inches wide by five and a half inches long. You seal them and drop them into the red post box and know that with never a thought nor a care on your part, they will duly arrive at the nearest village or at the utmost corner of the earth. Then the postman—what an important personage he is. The most sought after, the most eagerly awaited, the most popular man in His Majesty's Service. What weights of joy and sorrow, of happiness and despair he carries twice a day to anxious hearts and watching eyes. All the world's business, and all the world's destinies are at one time or another in the service—it is estimated that only one letter in a million goes astray so perfect is the system in the Post Office Department. There is a whole army of assistants at your service from the time you drop your letter into the box at the corner until its safe arrival at its destination.

Letters—do you remember the first time you went away from home, first time of perchance, and how your poor little lonely child's heart ached with homesickness and the only relief you found was in the visits of the postman? Mother never forgot delivered you the precious packet was the wings of your imagination back to your own accustomed happy place in the family circle, you knew the value of a letter.

Letters—Did you ever spend your summer holidays at some hamlet on the lake shore, or in the wilds of Muskoka, or among the hills where the mail came in once a day or perhaps twice a week by stage coach? Then you can't forget the scene of the village post office in the evening when men, women and children from the cottages or from the hotel, when the holiday smart boys and the oldest inhabitant and all the farmers far and wide gathered together to chat and gossip and discuss the latest news while the double thud, now low, now loud, behind the wicket, solemnly informed you of the progress in the distribution of the royal mail. Letters made the one assembly call. Letters made the one expectation break. Letters made the one bond for everybody in the village, for they kept you in touch with the far away world.

Letters—Somewhere in a hidden corner, worn and tied with ribbon, there is a little packet that was once fragrant with joy and love and the sweet perfume of violets. Part of your life lies buried there with all its hopes and fears and earnest expectations. The memories are all that remain—and the letters.

Letters—have you a boy overseas your boy in khaki? Then you know what letters mean and so does he. We all just live for the British mail; and the boys in the firing line, the boys in red billets, the boys in hospitals, and ourselves. What marvelous letters they have carried home! The spirit or them "carries on." But words fail, and these are, indeed, the thoughts that lie too deep for tears.

Thus, for us, there is no more important department of Government work than the Post Office. Despite the censor, despite the fact that all fast boats were seized for purposes months ago, there has been no interruption, almost no loss in the short delays, but eventually letters and parcels found their rightful owners. In London there is a special Army Post Office for handling the mail for the troops alone, and if you have never read an account of its staff, its arrangements and its management, there is an interesting bit of literature awaiting you. Ask the boys about the service in France. Why, they actually send the letters up to the front line with the rations.

For one month, at the very beginning of the war, money order business was interrupted by unusual conditions in international exchange, but in less than six months the rate of exchange became normal again. We have not yet heard Mr. Norman Angell's opinion on this matter. Further, we are helping to pay our way as we go, and not leaving the financial burden of the war entirely on returned soldiers and new conditions after peace comes again. Last year the sale of little war-tax stamps netted an increase of six million dollars in the postal revenues. In the Post Office Savings Depart-

Music and Drama

Music and Drama "KEEPING FAITH" Albert Glassmire of the Keystone scenario department has a pad on his desk on which are jotted down the things he would like to do. The editor of the "Ma" on Saturday, changing into the "squirrel department," noticed the following on the tab:

See John Grey how to break child's jaw with lead pipe.

Get Mr. Wulze's advice on how to open safe.

Get McNamara's idea how to make funny gag out of baptismal font.

Order the gang to report at 8.30 with tools.

Get proper method of proposing to girl from Robert Dillon.

See who is still on the payroll.

CANNED ORDERS
"Canned" motion picture orders is the latest thing in studio work. The studio manager or the director of a production, sits in the projection room and watches a film. Beside him he has a photograph outfit and as he sees points in the picture which he wants eliminated he gives his orders into a transmitter. Then the "canned" orders are sent to the film cutter.

HOME GARDENING
In response to President Wilson's plea to every American citizen to "become either a soldier or a farmer," Helen Holmes has started a "backyard farm." A considerable section of unused land back of her home has been broken, and every morning and evening she may be found at work there with hoe and rake, plan and spade, throwing pellets in rows and hills.

STOLEN FROM WIFE
This comes out of the west where truth prevails, as everybody knows. George Beban, learning that some expensive jewels were required for keeping of his bulging bags. And the loan several valuable articles belonging to his wife to General Manager Charles Eytan. In accepting, Eytan invited the Beban to his home to dine, the agreement being that Beban would bring along the jewels. This he did but forgot to leave them. Observing this fact upon his arrival home, Beban said nothing to his wife but took them out of her jewel box after she had placed them there for the night, and started back for the Eytan home in his car. In his hurry he failed to notice the badge on a motorcycle which he passed, and was ordered to halt in the name of the well-known, and well-kept law.

Being nasty of tongue as well as speedy of foot, he got himself very much disliked, and was forced to drive around to the court house. While he was melting his collar and generally disorganizing his apparel in his efforts to resist, his opinion on the policeman, his wife was telephoning the fact that her jewels had been stolen—an announcement that reached the desk sergeant just as the dishwater. Beban was ushered into his presence. The bulge in Beban's pocket caught his practiced eye. "We have your man, Madame," he said, as the jewels were taken from the protesting Beban's pocket. "Come down at once and identify the goods." Fade out on Beban explaining his predicament to Mrs. Beban, who, as she was home, as the desk sergeant presses to continue his interrupted nap.

Rufe blinked several times in session. "Come again," he murred.
"I don't get you."
The chief inspector crossed knees and eyed the prisoner plain. From his breast pocket he took official blue colored document. "It is your dull night, isn't it?" he asked. "You know all about English law, I reckon. I can't put you in meat-box. A police officer must ask incriminating questions of a man and the others laying up. He shook a menacing finger foregor.
The prisoner shuffled his feet easily, and his insolent eye, something of her boldness. He shaken, and he showed it. "The ain't nothin' against me, anyway he agreed."
"No." There was an intonation of polite surprise in Menzies' voice. "Nothing at all. Just a few things like arson and conspiracy, murder don't count in this case, reckon Gwennie has been play you for a dupe."
"The beady black eyes caught it. "I ain't nobody's fool," he cried. "Gwennie can't put me on no." "I'm glad you feel like that. Rufe." From Menzies' air he might have been chatting confidentially with an intimate friend in who troubles he took a sympathetic interest. "Shows a trusting nature." Rufe glowered at him suspiciously.
"Funny though, isn't it?" the tective went on.
"Here's the job of you go out a huffal, and when you miss your jump who gets left behind? W Dago Sam and Errol and you. Gwennie isn't in the basket, I bet you. I nor Ling either. That's what mean when I say they played you a dupe."
Two deep, vertical lines etched themselves in Rufe's forehead, and his lower jaw danced. It was by of the soundness of the detective position that the other did not know how much he knew. He had instilled into Rufe a profound distrust of confederates. The crook was belittled provided with a new point view calculated to stir the idea, reprisal in his mind. His hands clenched and clenched.
"If I thought that," he said, suddenly paused and raked the detective with his gaze. "How do you know you ain't stringing me?" he demanded.
Menzies flung his hand out in listless gesture. "It doesn't matter to me," he said. "I just hate to see folk double cross me. I bet you. I leaned forward. "D'ye see, Rufe, y

An advertisement by The Bell Telephone Co. to improve two-party line service.

MR. GREY
MR. BROWN
MR. JONES

Do not lift the receiver before the ring is finished

Sometimes a subscriber on a two-party line, when called to the telephone, lifts his receiver off the hook before the bell has stopped ringing.

This causes the telephone of the other party on the line to ring also, disturbing him unnecessarily.

For example: when Mr. Brown asks for the number of Mr. Jones on a two-party line, the operator rings only Mr. Jones' telephone. But if Mr. Jones lifts his receiver before the ring is completed, it permits the current to pass to the other side of the line and ring the telephone of Mr. Grey.

You can make two-party line service more satisfactory by lifting the receiver only when the bell has stopped ringing.

THREE KNOCKED DOWN BY LIGHTNING SHOCK
Port Hope, July 11.—Mr. H. A. Walker, a Welcome farmer, and his wife and son, Horace, had a narrow escape from instant death when his barn was struck by lightning on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Walker and his wife and son were knocked down by the shock and rendered unconscious. The team of horses he was driving were also knocked down. The lightning tore away almost completely the gable end and west side of the barn. To-day the members of the Walker family had almost completely recovered from the shock they received.

"Just as you say," agreed Menzies, amicably. "What are you doing up in this quarter, Rufe? I thought Piccadilly was more your mark."

The other was ready. "There's a kiddo, chief."

"What's her name?"

"Enid Samuels. She—"

"Where does she live?"

"Her boss, he's got a little cigar factory down Commercial Road. She's a cigar maker. Say, chief, you ought to see her—she's a peacherino."

You didn't expect to find her in Tim Donovan's kip, did you? What kind of suckers do you take us for to swallow that? You know what we want. Where's Ling and the others laying up?"

Rufe blinked several times in succession. "Come again," he murmured. "I don't get you."

The chief inspector crossed his knees and eyed the prisoner placidly. From his breast pocket he took an official blue colored document. "This is your full night, isn't it?" he asked. "You know all about English law, I reckon. I can't put you in the meat-box. A police officer mustn't ask incriminating questions of a man he intends to arrest. I can't make you give yourself away, Rufe, can I?" He shook a menacing finger forefinger.

The prisoner shuffled his feet uneasily, and his insolent eyes lost something of their boldness. He was shaken, and he showed it. "There ain't nothin' against me, anyway?" he agreed.

"No." There was an intonation of polite surprise in Menzies's voice. "Nothing at all. Just a few little things like arson and conspiracy to murder don't count in this game. I reckon Gwennie has been playing you for a duple."

"The heavy black eyes caught fire. 'I ain't nobody's fool,' he cried. 'Gwennie can't put it over on me.'"

"I'm glad you feel like that, Rufe." From Menzies's air he might have been chatting confidentially with an intimate friend in whose troubles he took a sympathetic interest. "Shows a trusting nature."

Rufe glowered at him suspiciously.

"Funny though, isn't it?" the detective went on.

"Here's the mob of you go out for a batuff, and when you miss your jump who gets left behind? Why, Dago Sam and Errol and you. Gwennie isn't in the basket, I bet you. No, nor Ling either. That's what I mean when I say they played you for a duple."

Two deep, vertical lines etched themselves in Rufe's forehead, and his lower jaw dugled. It was part of the soundness of the detective's position that the other did not know how much he knew. He had instilled into Rufe a profound distrust of his confederates. The crook was being deftly calculated to stir the idea of reprisal in his mind. His hands opened and clenched.

"If I thought that," he said, and suddenly paused and raked the detective with his gaze. "How do I know you ain't stringin' me?" he demanded.

Menzies flung his hand out in a listless gesture. "It doesn't matter to me," he said. "I just hate to see folk double crossed though." He leaned forward. "Dye see, Rufe, you were due to get left anyhow. They were using you to pull the chestnuts out of the fire, but do you reckon you'd have been in at the share-out? I don't."

"That's your word," persisted Rufe doubtfully. "You've want me to squeal on 'em. You're some sleut. Where do I come in if I put you wise?"

"I get 'em anyway," answered Menzies indifferently. "You'd maybe save some time and trouble." He spread his hands out wide. "You're no chicken, Rufe. You know what you're in for. I can't help that, can I? I guess you'll take whatever's coming to you like a white man. But after the dirty way they've treated you, you ought to get a come-back on them. Didn't you now?"

In point of fact Menzies had no knowledge as to whether Rufe was being treated fairly or not by his confederates. He was working on the line of least resistance. It is never at any time difficult to arouse in the mind of a crook a surmise that he is being double-crossed by his associates. Rufe had neither the skill nor the wit to conceal in his features the fact that the seed Menzies had sown had met with fertile ground.

"I guess dem gashos ain't worryin' about ye any?" he admitted. "But they're in it as bad as me, ain't they, chief?" He shot a cunning glance at Menzies.

"Worse," agreed that individual. "Of course, there's that little job of Errol's, but I know you, Rufe. You wouldn't go for to do a thing like that, without he properly asked for it."

It was a long shot, but by no means a shot at random. The very character of Big Rufe had been sufficient to convince Menzies that here he held the most likely author of the knife thrust which had laid up Errol. He spoke casually as though the fact was what lawyers call common ground, and he had his reward.

"You're on to it," said Rufe eagerly. "Dat guy was too fresh. He took liberties, you understand, and when he pulled a gun on me he got what was coming to him."

The chief inspector's face was immobile. He gave no sign of having scored another peg in his investigation. Leaning over against the door-congreve, apparently more interested in his finger nails than in the conversation, he looked up and down without looking up, and Menzies knew that he had heard and appreciated the confession.

"You know what you're saying, Rufe?" Menzies warned. "Of course, it isn't news to me, but I'll have to say you owned up. If you didn't mean it I'll forget it. Not that it will make much odds."

"Sure I know," said Rufe, with a definiteness that showed he had made up his mind. "I ain't blind. You guys have got it all fixed up for me, an' I don't make any trouble to see." He squared his shoulders. "Why should I be denying it? If it's me for it, you bet I want Ling for company."

There was no need to correct the crook's impression that his admission was a work of supererogation. It made things promise to go easier. So long as Big Rufe believed that things were utterly hopeless for him, so long would he do his best to see that he wasn't lonely in the dock.

"We'll pull him presently," said Menzies, confidentially. "If he's inside, our lines he can't get away."

The gold fillings in Rufe's mouth flashed again. He was amused and made no attempt to conceal it. "You're off your bearings there," he said. "You don't really think you get Ling as easy as that, do you? He ain't inside no cordon. No, sir."

For half a second Menzies wondered if he had underestimated Big Rufe. Was the man as simple as he seemed, or was he trying to deftly confuse the trail? The reflection was swept away as swiftly as it had arisen. Rufe was not the person to get such a notion or to carry it out, if he did. He would not so willingly have committed himself to save his dearest friend.

"He had a private aeroplane waiting, I suppose?" Menzies said, with heavy irony.

Rufe's wide-mouthed grin extended still further. "Yes shee gaw?" he said, with deliberate mystery.

"En shee quay?" Menzies frowned. "Now what the blazes do you mean by that? You aren't trying to come the funny boy on me, are you, Rufe?"

"Huh!" Rufe was plainly disgusted. "You're a right smart. Alick, ain't you, not to know what that means?"

"My education's been neglected. Tell me."

Rufe squinted cunningly sideways at his interlocutor. "I'm telling you nothing—see? If any mutt says I squealed I didn't—see?"

Menzies began to see daylight. "Of course you didn't, Rufe. You wouldn't do such a thing. I get you."

"Why," went on Rufe, reminiscently, but with an air of intense seriousness. "I got left for a sucker as you said just now, chief. I been hanging round a joint back of this street with Ling, long ago. He could see Gwennie's place from the back window. There's a room there she didn't use, and Ling framed it up wit' her only this morning, and if she wanted us around she was to send a handkerchief across one of the panes in daylight, or light up a candle after dark."

The chief inspector bit his lip. The possibility of a system of signaling had been so obvious that he had overlooked it. He cursed himself mentally. Aloud he merely said, "Go on."

"Well, when that tin-horn Cincinnati came nosing around Gwennie begins to smell something an' she tipped us the office. You better bet we came round, and Ling and Gwennie fixed the show for fireworks. I didn't have any hand in that, I swear I didn't."

"Get along," ordered Menzies, sharply. "How'd they get away?"

"Gwennie took her chance and beat it out the back in the yards before we put a light to the place. She's an active old lady for her age, and she seems to have a sort of respect for you, chief—kind as if she knew you'd block all bolt-holes from the front."

"She had a bit of an argument with Ling about it. He holds that there'd be time for a get-away from the front because we came that way, and calls her down for a mutt, giving the game away by climbing back-yard walls. She wouldn't argue."

"If you've any sense, Stewart," says she, 'you'll do what I'm going to. The bulls'll be waitin' outside for Cincinnati."

"Dat woman's got some sense, chief, but Ling, he didn't see it. And I didn't reckon there was much to it till we got lit up. Ling, he stays behind. 'You go see if the old lady's got it straight,' he says. 'Dey'se not looking for you, anyway.'"

"So I beat it and sees the cops holding everybody up just as the fire-engines come the lights back, but I didn't get the chance to get at Ling. But he must have tumbled to the racket, because the next I see of him he came out and walked straight down the street and through your lines, boss, and not one of your guys was wise to him. He's some nerry is Ling."

"You mean that Ling walked right through our men without being held up?"

"Sure. If I'd have thought of the gag I'd have done it, too." His eyes twinkled. "Can you figure it out?"

Menzies bit hard at a mouthful of mustache. Even Congreve had lost all interest in his finger-nails. Suddenly the senior detective's face lighted up. "Congreve," he said. "Slip out and find what fire crews have gone away. If the divisional fire superintendent is still there ask him to have a rollcall taken."

"You've got it, boss—at last," said Big Rufe.

Good Night Stories

PEGGY AND THE CLOUD IMP.

Peggy stood gazing out the window. The rain pattered down on the flowers and the grasses, bending them almost to the ground.

"I wish it would stop raining," sighed Peggy.

"Don't complain of the weather, dear, we need the rain to make things grow," said her mother. "It will soon clear off, then you can play."

Peggy watched the blossoms of her rose bush fall to pieces under the heavy drops, and the wind whisk them all over the yard.

"The good my roses all to pieces. That makes me tired!" cried Peggy.

Something stirred on the pink petals that sailed by the window, and Peggy watched to see where it would light. Right in a puddle at the side of the walk.

"A tiny figure jumped out and ran over the grass to the sandstone near the well. Just as it perched on top of the stool the rain stopped and the sun shot from behind the cloud.

Peggy ran outside and tiptoed to the place where the Cloud Fairy sat shaking out his wings.

"I fell in that lake," he said when he saw Peggy.

Peggy laughed.

"That isn't a lake, it's only a tiny puddle, you couldn't drown in that," she replied. But when she turned the puddle was a big lake, for the imp had wished Peggy small like himself. "Oh!" was all she could say as the waves dashed on the stones at her feet.

Tinting The Clouds.

A pink petal boat sailed toward them, and the Cloud Imp jumped in, calling Peggy. Peggy got in beside him, and the boat drifted across the water, then sailed into the air and soared among the clouds. Little people hurried everywhere.

When it is a busy day with us, for when it rains we wash out our sails and hang them up to dry. You little folks think all rain is good for us to water your gardens, but rainy days are our washdays," explained the imp.

Little fellows with buckets of beautiful color ran around tinting up the clouds that were dry.

"Our artists color them and you people call them twilight clouds, but you can see they are only sails after all," said the imp.

Yes, Peggy could see them very plainly now, and she wondered why they would look from earth.

"The cloud boat were in began to sink, and Peggy found herself once more on the garden walk. The imp leaned over the side of the boat.

"Now when it rains and you can't play out, just remember your trip to Cloudland, and that will help you pass the time until we finish our washing, then run and look at the sky. If you're cross with us because it rains, then the imp's refuse to work and cover the sun with a dark curtain, and he goes down behind heavy clouds. So be happy on rainy days and you'll find after the shower is over that your twilight sky will be glorious," said the imp, and the petal boat sailed away.

Peggy stuck her foot into the puddle and watched the petals float around.

"I always thought the clouds looked like sails flapping in the wind," she said as she watched them change colors.

WHEN IS A BARGAIN

"Yes," said my next door neighbor when we expressed our admiration of a distinctive looking plaid skirt she was wearing, "that skirt is one of the best bargains I ever bought."

"Why, I thought you told me before there were any mark-downs, said the lady from across the way in surprise.

"So I did."

"But you said it was a bargain."

A Bargain Not A Mark-down

"It was my dear. It never had anything that so many people admired and thought becoming. Its dressy but not too dressy. And while it has a good style of its own its not a style that will go out of style. I've worn it all winter and I plan to wear it off and on this summer and all next winter. It's a splendid material and I bought it at a reasonable price. It's not a bargain, but I didn't say a mark-down, you know."

"Yes I suppose so," said the lady from across the way, "but you

Hurrah! How's This?

Cincinnati authority says corn dries up and lifts out with fingers.

Hospital records show that every tin can that is torn by insect law or blood poison, which is needless, says a Cincinnati authority, who tells you that a quarter ounce of a drug called freezone can be obtained at little cost from the drug store but is sufficient to ruin one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You simply apply a few drops of freezone on a tender, aching corn and soreness instantly relieved. Shortly the entire corn can be lifted out, root and all, without pain.

This drug is sticky but dries at once and is claimed to just shrivel up any corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin.

If your wife wears high heels she will be glad to know of this.

CHILDREN'S ROMPERS.

By Anabel Worthington.

Has new rompers? Every mother knows how quickly they wear out on active children, and so a new style is always welcome. No. 8,296 embodies several features which are a little out of the ordinary for this type of garment. The waist has Gibson plaits over the shoulders, giving a square effect which is very becoming to child figures. The closing is at centre back, and a little round collar in two sections finishes the neck. The sleeves are comfortably wide and short. However, the important feature of these rompers is that the good section shown in the back view may be turned downward—a style which is especially good for very young children.

The romper pattern, No. 8,296, is cut in four sizes, 1, 2 and 3 years. The 3-year size requires 2 1/2 yards 27 inch material, 1 1/4 yards 36 inch, with 1/4 yard 30 inch contrasting goods.

The closing is at centre back, and a little round collar in two sections finishes the neck. The sleeves are comfortably wide and short. However, the important feature of these rompers is that the good section shown in the back view may be turned downward—a style which is especially good for very young children.

The romper pattern, No. 8,296, is cut in four sizes, 1, 2 and 3 years. The 3-year size requires 2 1/2 yards 27 inch material, 1 1/4 yards 36 inch, with 1/4 yard 30 inch contrasting goods.

To obtain this pattern send ten cents to the address in this publication.

FACTS AND A LEGEND ABOUT MINING IN WARFARE

(By Victor MacClure.)

If, when you are lurching, you idly find a crescent-shaped "V" its shape never strikes you. There is, however, a pretty legend about this roll in the shape of the Turkish crescent, and as for one can remember it goes much as follows:

One morning, early, an honest pastry-cook whose bakery stood by the side of the city of Vienna, rubbed the sleep from his eyes and stepped over his mixing-board and prepared to make the morning rolls in the kitchen. He was the first of the citizens in the beleaguered city. Outside the walls lay the Turkish hosts—constant menace to Christian Europe—with whom, it is instructive to reflect, the Austrians are now allied. They had been besieging the city for some time and had spared no means to reduce the citadel, by direct assault fire, and all the tricks of siege known in these times. As the baker kneaded his dough he became aware of a strange rattling noise that faintly disturbed the silence of the lake house. Carriers man, he sought for the source of the rattling, and his serious attention was attracted by the singular behaviour of some marbles left by his little son on top of a toy drum, with which the urchin had been playing. The marbles were jumping on regular beats. What ghostly idea accounted for the phenomenon in the intervals, another might have said of stout build and plegmatic nature and so, he did not run from his bake-house. As he listened, awestruck, he began to notice a faint, dull thud preceding every rattle of the marbles.

Then suddenly the cook remembered the Turkish crescent, and his mind that might be they were making these thudding noises, by tunnelling under the wall in the hope of taking the quickness of surprise. At the moment a man of his bulk could, the cook fetched the Captain of the nearest guard-house to judge the noises for himself. The soldier, however, whatever regarding the cause of the thuds, and he took measures to ensure that the Turkish manoeuvre would be thwarted, at least if the tunnel were completed, that the invaders would receive a suitable welcome.

The good sense of the pastry-cook was reported to the Emperor who rewarded him and, so the story goes, granted the baker this boon, that he and his heirs should henceforth have the sole right to mine, in commemoration of the city's salvation, crescent shaped rolls.

If you will allow your thoughts to run on, you will arrive, no doubt, at the present war, and the later tunnelling device—the land mine. Marbles or peas on top of a drum still make quite an efficient detector of hostile mining operations, but other methods have been developed in the development of explosives. It used to be the scheme of the attacker to dig away the foundations from the walls of a besieged city. This suggests a trench up to the walls which they propped up—what time the besieged tried to divert their attention by pouring boiling oil or molten lead on top of them, and the later tunnelling builders and spiky iron balls. When the sappers had picked enough from the foundations, they pulled away the props and a breach in the wall resulted, a breach which, in attacking party poured into the city—or, as the case might be.

Notadays walls and towers have vanished, but mine and counter-mine play a big part in trench warfare. The sappers belonging to the tunnelling companies of the Royal Engineers, that admirable skilled corps of the British army, burrow, mole, and mine, and insert a charge of explosive in the mine-chamber. This charge is fired at the appointed time, from secure distance, by an electric detonator, and the resultant explosion leaves a crater that looks, in many cases, like a good sized quarry.

After a quarrel with his sweetheart, Arthur Stair, a soldier, jumped into the Detroit river and put up a stiff but vain attempt not to be rescued.

"Both hands on the steering wheel" is a rule whose enforcement in Chicago parks caused the arrest of fourteen sentimental motorists last Saturday night.

Visitors are not now allowed in American telephone exchanges, as a war precaution, so the opening of the new South Chicago exchange was a private affair.

Election of IS AG

British Press to Re New Member Will Not Sit in ionist Papers M

By Courier Leased Wire

New York, July 12.—An Associated Press cable from London this morning, says:

The election of Edward De Valera as member of parliament for East Clare, the third Sinn Feiner to return to parliament of late, is treated as an event of great political consequence by the morning newspapers, who devote considerable space to the victory. The tendency of the Unionist press, reflecting the advice from Belfast and Dublin, is to emphasize what it always considered—the folly of the government in liberating Sinn Fein prisoners and refraining to deal with revolutionary talk and acts as such would be dealt with in England.

These papers regard the situation as gravely threatening, for they see nothing in the Sinn Fein movement but rebellion. The Liberal press also is alarmed but rather for the position of the official Nationalist party and for the prospect for the establishment of a constitutional home rule. One opinion seems common among all parties, namely, that the prospects of the convention in Ireland to consider home rule is seriously impaired, if not entirely dashed. Another view is that the election of a long continued disaster for the Irish Nationalist party, which many Irish people complain, held the country for years in the dead hand of rigid machine politics.

The Sinn Fein movement is regarded in the same quarter as an expression of discontent and vehement resentment of a long course of administrative folly, indicating rather a lack of confidence with present parliamentary methods than a revolutionary tendency, and in this respect, resembling a state of mind which often leads Prussian electors, who themselves are not all Socialists, to support Socialist candidates at the polls.
