Proof that Some Women do Avoid Operations

Mrs. Etta Dorion, of Ogdensburg, Wis., says:

"I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

How Mrs. Boyd Avoided an Operation.

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well."

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 6th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Noble Son of Former Citizen Dies in Service

From papers recently received from Victoria, B. C., the sad news is gleaned that Surgeon Probationer A. E. Beckwith, second son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Beckwith, had succumbed to illness at a Royal Navy Hospital in England.

This young naval officer was 24 years of age and was born in Victoria after Mr. Beckwith left Kentville, and proceeded to the west. He was a very bright student a keen debater and won distinction as manager of the High School paper. He took an arts and medical course at McGill, and went overseas and later was transferred to the Royal Navy filling the position of medical officer on one of the ships. His death was caused by an attack of pneumonia Mr. and Mrs. Beckwith, will have the sympathy of their many friends here in the early cutting off of such a promising career as their son had entered upon.

Framed Photograph of Poor Widow who has Lost Nine Sons

Mr. Fritz Walters of the D. A. R. has handed us a copy of the London Daily Mirror, July 26th., from which we extract the following under the above heading. Just how much good it will do the poor starving widow in her deep mourning to look at the photograph of the man who has caused all her misery will never be known. The Kaiser, himself has lost no son.

"AMSTERDAM, Wednesday (received yesterday). The Lokalanzeiger publishes a letter written by the Kaiser's secretary to a widow named Meyer, of De menhorst, Oldenburg.

The letter runs: "The Kaiser has heard that you have sacrificed nine sons for the defence of the Fatherland in the present war.

"His Majesty is immensely gratified at the fact, and in recognition has been pleased to send you his photograph, with frame and autograph signature."

Frau Meyer, who is a widow, has asked for financial assistance, as she is now compelled to go begging Exchange."

THE JOY OF MOTHERHOOD

Came to this Woman after Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Restore Her Health

Ellensburg, Wash.—"After I was married I was not well for a long time and a good deal of the time was not able to go about. Our greatest desire was to have a child in our home and one day my husband came back from town with a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and wanted me to try it. It brought relief from my troubles.

I improved in health so I could do my housework; we now have a little one, all of which I owe to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.—Mrs. O. S. JOHNSON, R. No. 3, Ellensburg, Wash. There are women everywhere who long for children in their homes yet are denied this happiness on account of some functional disorder which in most cases would readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Such women should not give up hope until they have given this wonderful medicine a trial, and for special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of 40 years experience is at your service.

Mr. Aubrey Bent, accompanied by his sister Evelyn and Mr. Turnbull, motored from Halifax, on Saturday last and remained over Labor Day with Rev. A. TO PARADISE BY TALLYHO

WHEN that colossal thrust from the Pacific of which geologists tell us, heaved the Rockies into the pre-historic sky to compete with the already time-worn Selkirk. It was evident that the Thruster—whatever he might be—wasn't planning a place for picnic parties. He dropped the scintillant Jewel of Lake Louise into one unreachable cup. He dug out a second scour to the east where Paradise Valley now twists its enormous length between the evergreen foot of contentment mountains. He threw up the peaks which men term the Wenatchee Range—after the Indian numeral signifying ten—and from their aloof summits decreed that an unknown glacier should grow and crawl and die, leaving the vast scrapheap that has blocked the valley and made possible that still solemn, shining mirror of the clouds which we discover fittingly named Moraine Lake.

After he had done all this and a million other wonderful and praiseworthy bits of engineering, the mountain builder insulated his achievements by a couple of thousand miles of prairie to the east and twice the length of blue water towards the sunset.

None but the brave deserve the fair, but a great many others get her. Yet if it hadn't been for the restless spirits of the tree-brave, the adventurers, the busy transit-men, the succeeding railway builder, and finally, the industrious pick-and-shovel artists of both the Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway, most of us would never have heard of Moraine Lake, and none of us who aren't graduate Alpinists would have seen it.

To-day there are a few breath-taking sights reserved for the man of spirit whose heart is in his mouth. But most of the wonder-spots are mapped and trailed and even carriage-roads so that the latest is luckiest, and the lady who can't even ride, let alone walk, may see the best of it from the front seat of a tallyho!

It's hard to excursionize at Lake Louise, for the reason that you can't imagine anything lovelier than the view from the hotel verandah. But even that nature-poised-and-painted panorama will be better appreciated if you get away from it for an hour or two.

Climb up the tallyho ladder for the nine mile drive down the valley of the plunging Bow. You needn't worry about hurrying home again. There's a little cabin nestling up among the cold peaks that will give you tea and toast this afternoon and a bed over night if you're fisherman enough to wish to rise betimes for the trout, or artist enough to hear the call of the morning reflections in

(1) A C. P. R. cottage at Lake Louise. (2) Tally Ho on road to Moraine Lake. (3) On the shores of Lake Louise.

Moraine Lake, that are packed up and put away by nine o'clock every day.

The Bow Valley is 5,500 feet above sea level and so wide and deep that after one of the infrequent Rocky rains, a whole double rainbow can be seen in it, intact from end to end, tempting the superstitious to jump down from the tallyho and dig for the pot of gold. Battalions of cloud shadows can drill at once over the faces of the placid mountain across the valley and the near slopes are a forlorn heaven of Indian paintbrush. There is the deep scarlet gypsy brush, the rose red brush, the palest pink, the bleached-blond-tangerine, the snow-white brush. Gather an armful of them if you want to take back a palette-splash of color for your room. A cityful of tourists couldn't denude a single laughing slope.

Here is a rockslide, bare and scoured to desolation, like a long smudge of ruin between the scarlet fields. This is where you must look sharp and whistle if you would be rewarded by the scuttle of a fat grey marmot over the grey stones. Marmots are courageous—or is it curiosity?—beasties, and seem to enjoy the tourist brand of conversation. To see a scuttler come to attention on his hind legs atop a big flat rock, cocking his squirrel head on one side as he listens and perhaps replies to your whistling, is to watch a most friendly sight. Nobody who hadn't a German soul would dream of throwing a stone at him.

At last the road leaves the Bow Valley, turning sharply to the right, and the scenery drops its neighborliness. The Tower of Babel, Mt. Babel and Mt. Fay throw their white heads up against the blue. There is loneliness of long vigil, an aloofness from the world of men. No one needs to stop their pleasant chatter. The curtain has gone up on the grim creation-drama and talk stops automatically. At last you round the turn into the fissure between the mountains. Ten of them there are, and at their feet the little blue lake. It's really a mile from where you get out of your carriage to the bottom of those six thousand foot peaks that swing into the air carrying aloft great glaciers and huge snow crowns and the black encarpments of bare rock that are too steep for snow. But the clear atmosphere minimizes the distance, and the colossal vertical scale dwarfs the horizontal stretch of the still water. Somehow you're glad to take refuge from the immensities in the cosy little tea house. There is a cheerfulness in, at least, a comfortable in the human size of man-made things that is welcome to the awed soul of you. I haven't stayed overnight at the Camp. But it's a dream of mine that I shall one day see Queen Camilla swinging her chair to rest on Mt. Little, with the Great Bear, near neighbor to her. I shall sit by the midnight miracle of this divine crystal, clear of the trees, face to the mountains, head up to the stars. And if I am ever to know the way of this little life of mine—and the why of the paintbrush, and the marmot, and the glacier, and God—I shall hear it then.
