DEATH OF MRS. HICKEY

News of the death of Mrs. Wm. Hickey, which occurred at Brockville on Thursday last, caused sincere sorrow to many Athenians, by whom she was well known and highly esteemed.

Last winter Mrs. Hickey spent with a brother at Manotick and this summer has been with her friends in Athens and Brockville. At the time of her death she was a guest at the home of Mrs. James L. Dustin. Respecting her demise the Recorder says:

On Thursday morning about 5.30 she awoke and chatted pleasantly with Mrs. Dustin for a few minutes, and informed her that she would be up shortly. The latter went down stairs to attend to her household duties, and upon returning found her breathing quite heavily. A doctor was at once summoned, but before he could reach the house Mrs. Hickey had passed away, heart failure being given as the cause of her death.

The late Mrs. Hickey was born in Ireland sixty years ago, but came to this country when a young girl. Most of her years were spent around Athens. Mr. Hickey died in much the same manner while in a row boat on Chelston Lake. She leaves one brother, James O'Shea, at Manotick, two daughters and three sons. They are Mrs. W. J. Moore, New York City; Mrs. W. Weeks, Antigo, Wisconsin; E. G. Hickey, Sour Lake, Texas; G. L. Hickey, Pocatello, Idaho; and James Hickey, of Boston. She was a Methodist in religion, in which she was deeply interested. To hospitality she added a most buoyant disposition, and her friends and her children's friends deemed it a high honor to be a guest at her house. She was also a neighbor who rejoiced with those who rejoiced and mourned with those who mourned.

The Proper Treatment for a Sprained Ankle

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is usually two or three months before he has fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, for in many cases in which Chamberlain's Pain Balm has been promptly and freely applied, a complete cure has been effected in less than one week's time, and in some cases within three days. For sale by J. P. Lamb & Son.

ATHENS WON

The local baseball team with the aid of the Lyndhurst battery, Roddick and Green, defeated the Has Beens, of Brockville, on Saturday afternoon last by a score of 9 to 5. Owing to Mr. G. S. Barber having left for the North-West the preceding week, Athens was without a battery, so one was imported. It is hoped, however, that as the schools have reopened, bringing an influx of players, the Athens team will be able to appear in the field in all future matches minus any "ringers."

The game throughout was very close and afforded an endless variety of excitement for the two hundred spectators present. Following were the players:—

Has-Beens—Yelden, Peter, Eek, Davison, Graham, Mervin, Gammell, Robinson, Curry.

Athens—Barber, Parish, Whaley, Green, Ripley, Rappell, DeWolfe, Roddick, Thornhill.

Score by innings:—
 Has-Beens . . . 0 0 0 1 2 0 2 0—5
 Athens 0 0 3 0 3 0 3 0—9

Umpire—H. Simpson, Brockville.

The Hot Weather Test

Makes people better acquainted with their resources of strength and endurance.

Many find that they are not so well off as they thought and that they are easily enervated and depressed by the heat.

What they need is the tonic effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla which strengthens the blood, promotes refreshing sleep, overcomes that tired feeling, creates appetite.

TREVELYAN

Owing to the very unsettled weather, the farmers are very much backward with their harvesting.

Mr. W. Kagan and his mother, who have been residing at the parsonage for the past year, have returned to their home in Belleville.

School re-opened on Monday, 17th, with an attendance of nineteen.

Mr. Daniel Ladd, who has been living with his nephew Ambrose for some years, passed away suddenly last Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Baldwin preached the funeral sermon, and the remains were taken to Yonge Mills for burial.

Great curiosity was aroused among the young people on Friday night last, owing to the peculiar rain-bow in the sky, which was most distinctly seen around the vicinity of Rockfield.

Mr. Edward Flood took in the last excursion of the season to Alexandria Bay by Str. Victoria on Saturday evening last. Others have taken in the same excursion during the season, and all report a "dear" old time.

Mr. Edward Leeder and mother spent Sunday with relatives in Brockville.

Edmund Leeder, of Warburton, spent Sunday with his parents.

Messrs Bony and Andy Leeder were among the number who took in the excursion on Saturday night, to the Bay.

The Newboro Canning Factory has been purchased by George I. Mallory of Brockville.

A consolidated rural public school, the first in Canada, is to be established at Vernon, in Osgoode township, Carleton County. Scholars living at a distance from the school will be carried to and from in buses, after the style prevailing where these schools are located in the United States. The advantages of consolidated public schools in rural communities is great. They will admit of grades as city and town schools, also to a certain extent secondary education.

Be Quick

Not a minute should be lost after a child shows symptoms of cholera infantum. The first unusual looseness of the bowels should be sufficient warning. If immediate and proper treatment is given, serious consequences will be averted. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the sole reliance of thousands of mothers and by its aid they have often saved their children's lives. Every household should have a bottle at hand. Get it to-day. It may save a life. For sale by J. P. Lamb & Son.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON NO. X. SEPTEMBER 6, 1903.

Death of Saul and Jonathan.—1 Sam. 31: 1-13.

Commentary.—I. Saul's sons slain (vs. 1, 2). From this chapter on, through the subsequent history, the king's sons are the parallel and frequent supplementary complications of the books of the Chronicles. Compare with this chapter I. Chronicles X.

1. Men of Israel fled.—It is supposed that the battle was being fought in the plain of Esdraelon, and that the Israelites fled before their enemies to the slopes of Mount Gilboa, where the Philistines followed. Fall down slain.—It was impossible for them to rally. Saul and his sons fought like heroes, and no doubt they themselves into the forefront on the head of all in vain; God was against them.

2. Followed hard.—The onset of the Philistines was directed mainly against that quartet, Saul and his sons—Jonathan falls with the rest. I. God would hereby complete the judgment that was to be executed upon Saul's house. II. He would make the way to the crown clear and open. 3. God would also show us that the difference between good and bad is to be made in the other world, not in this.

II. The death of Saul (vs. 3-6). 3. The archers.—The men who shot arrows with the bow. Hit.—overtook.—After the death of Saul's sons the archers were fighting, and Saul was wounded. His wounds were aimed at him and some of them may have hit him. Saul wounded.—greatly distressed.—The Revised Version gives the correct meaning, "The word nowhere means to be wounded, as our version has it here. He saw that he was the mark of the Philistine wharshooters, and he therefore wharshooted and quailed in terror at the thought of falling by such hands."

4. Would not.—The armorbearer, who according to the Jewish writers was Doeg, would not yield to Saul's life. Full upon it.—"Thrust it through himself by falling over upon it." It is believed by many, from the destruction of the original text that Saul ended his life with the sword of the armorbearer. "If this be true, then Saul and Doeg both fell by that weapon with which they had been anointed the priests of God"—I. Samuel xxii. 18.—Clarke.

5. Saw that Saul, etc.—He probably drew the sword from the king's body and hid what he could to save him, but it was too late. He fell.—Being answerable for the King's life he feared punishment; or from a nobler motive of true fidelity, refused to survive his master's fall. Bib. So Saul died.—The real ground of Saul's last dark act of self-destruction was not the extremity of the moment nor fear of insult from the enemy, but the fact that he had inner life and the complete severance of his heart from God.—Lange. All his men—Compare I. Chron. x. 6. Some think this refers to his bodyguards and means that they were all slain; others think the reference is to all his household who went with him to the war and on whom his hopes for the future were placed.

III. The Philistines victorious.—vs. 7-10. 7. Other side of the valley.—"The inhabitants on the opposite side of the great valley of Jezreel. The district that lay to the north in which the tribes of Issachar, Zebulun and Naphtali dwelt."—Cam. B. B. Other side of Jordan.—The panic spread even to the eastern side of the Jordan. In the towns and villages there means "on the side of the Jordan," that is, in the district between the battle field and the river. Ibd. Fled.—It was very natural for the people in the towns and villages there to take flight and flee, for had they waited the arrival of the victors, they must, according to the war usage of the time, have been deprived either of their liberty or their lives."

10. The Philistines.—vs. 10-13. covering the bodies of the king and his sons on the plain of Esdraelon. He saved them for special indignities. Cut off.—The unointed of Jehovah fares no better than the uncircumcised Goliath, now that God has forsaken him.—Jam. Bib. The daughters of the heathen might rejoice and triumph (2 Sam. 1, 20). Saul's head and armor were the signs of victory. Of the idols.—The temple was regarded as the givers of the victory. The Philistines divided the honors among their goddesses. A heathen goddess whose rites were filthy and abominable. The temple referred to here was doubtless the famous temple of Venus in Askelon mentioned by Herodotus as the most ancient of all her temples. Beth-shan.—The modern Beisan, between the mountains of Gilboa and the River Jordan. The wall of Beth-shan, to which the bodies were fastened, appears to have faced some main street of the city (2 Sam. x. 12).

IV. The trial of Saul and his sons (vs. 11-13). 11-13. Inhabitants of.—"Mindful of the debt of gratitude they owed to Saul for rescuing them from Nahash" (chap. II). Went all night.—They made a journey of about twelve miles, secured the bodies, and returned to their own side of the Jordan in a single night. Burnt them.—This was not a Hebrew custom, and was either resorted to prevent any further insult from the Philistines, or, more likely, seeing that only the flesh was burned, because of the mangled condition of the bodies.—Hom. Con. Fasting.—This was a sign of general mourning.

PRACTICAL SURVEY. In studying the life of Saul we cannot help being deeply moved with pity for one who was so great and yet so unhappy. His early prospects. I. Saul was not a usurper. He had not acquired his kingly title by trampling upon the rights and lives of his fellow-citizens or subjects. He had been chosen and anointed king by the direction of Jehovah. 2. He had not reached the throne by right of family inheritance, but his royal power was the gift of Israel's God. Selected as he was, he assumed power unhampered by political considerations. 3. He was a member of a wealthy and powerful family. 4. He had been enthusiastically received as the leader of the people, and never did a king possess better opportunities for a glorious career. His personal qualities. 1. He was regal in person and carriage. 2. In stature he was tall and commanding.

"There was not among the children of Israel a goodlier person than he; from his shoulders and upward he was higher than any of the people." (1 Sam. x. 23). 3. In early life he exhibited a remarkable generosity of spirit (I. Sam. xi. 18). 4. During his first experiences of king he showed a broad magnanimity in his admission of the crown (I. Sam. x. 27). 5. He exhibited a nervous and proper degree of modesty for one who had so unexpectedly been elevated to such high honors (I. Sam. x. 16, 22, 23). 6. He showed commendable energy in the conduct of affairs (I. Sam. x. 5-11). 7. He was courageous and daring in battle. 8. He was patriotic and devoted to the interests of the people. 9. In private life he was pure and unblemished by those vices which have blotted the names of many other great historical characters.

The secret of his downfall. It is a question whether Saul ever possessed that spirit which is all essential to true success in any undertaking—that spirit which accepts as best the whole will of God. Many thousands of individuals, although possessed of good intentions, have made shipwreck of the faith when tested as to their real fidelity to God. This test came to Saul, and right there began his downfall. When God disowned him, there confusion will soon reign. The governing power gone, derangement soon follows as the result of disobedience. Saul's soul, the abode of his dark and revengeful passion. He became, 1. Jealous. 2. Vindictive. 3. Untruthful. 4. Impatient. 5. Gloomy. 6. Racksick.

Successes steps in his downward career. 1. He disobeyed God at Gilgal by not carrying out strictly the directions given by Samuel. 2. He resorted to hypocrisy in his report to Samuel as to his disposal of the Amalekites. 3. He revealed the cruelty that existed deep in his nature, by his senseless persecution of David. 4. With murderous intent he made an attempt on Jonathan because of his friendship for David. 5. At last, rejected and dishonored, he committed suicide on the battlefield to avoid the certainty of his foes.

Consequences of Saul's disobedience. 1. His character, that gave promise of splendid possibilities, was irretrievably ruined. 2. The peace and happiness of his household were destroyed. 3. His best friends shared the perils and distress of undeserved exile. 4. The beloved son, Jonathan, was called to lay down his life on the same battlefield where his father had died. 5. The bodies of Saul and his sons were mutilated and dishonored by the Philistines. 6. A multitude of Israelites shared the sad death of Saul and his sons.

Lessons to be learned from Saul's life. 1. Life is a time of probation, and the test of each man's character is made here amid life's trials and temptations. 2. It is one of the greatest as well as the rarest things in life to be true, that is, to tell the exact truth. It is so easy to shade the truth just a little this way or that to suit one's convenience or necessity. 3. Where one performs the seemingly insignificant act of disobedience, he never knows the train of disasters that may follow. Saul would have been overwhelmed with penitence and remorse at Gilgal, could he have foreseen the consequences of his impatient disregard of God's instructions. 4. The guilt of the disobedient is increased by his trouble and suffering they bring upon the innocent and virtuous. 5. We learn from Saul not to rely on any good thing which we think we have in ourselves. It is only when all that we have of seeming good in ourselves is brought to God in consecration, and the whole nature is thoroughly purified and harmonized with the divine will, that we can hope to have a permanent influence for justice and right. 6. Saul, when a young man, little dreamed that his end would be that of the suicide. The lesson of his life emphasizes the peril of disobedience.

Mrs. Fairbanks tells how neglect of warning symptoms will soon prostrate a woman. She thinks woman's safeguard is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "Ignorance and neglect are the cause of untold female suffering, not only with the laws of health but with the chance of a cure. I did not heed the warnings of headaches, organic pains and general weariness, until I was well nigh prostrated. I knew I had to do something. Happily I did the right thing. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound faithfully according to directions, and was rewarded in a few weeks to find that my aches and pains disappeared, and I again felt the glow of health through my body. Since I have been well I have been more careful. I have also advised a number of my sick friends to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and they have never had reason to be sorry. Yours very truly, Mrs. MARY FAIRBANKS, 216 South 7th St., Minneapolis, Minn." (Mrs. Fairbanks is one of the most successful and highest salaried travelling saleswomen in the West.)—$500 for full original of above letter proving genuineness—$5000 for full original of above letter proving genuineness.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, leucorrhoea, displacement, etc., remember, there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

PEACHES IN DELICIOUS DISHES

Peaches are here, and they afford a host of possibilities in the way of desserts. While they are delicious in their natural state, either for breakfast or to finish a dinner, many who do not care for them that way will like them in the various combinations which the housewife knows how to make.

Peach Jelly. Among the choicest ways to "put up" peaches is in the form of marmalade and butter, says the Cooking Club, which gives a number of recipes for using peaches. For the marmalade, take three-quarters of a pound of sugar, white or light brown, to every pound of fruit after it has been pared, seeded and weighed. Heat the fruit slowly to draw out the juice, stirring up frequently from the bottom. After it is hot boil quickly for an hour, stirring all the time. Add the sugar, boil five minutes and remove the scum. Add the juice of one lemon, if liked, for every three pounds of sugar, and the water in which some of the peach kernels have been boiled. The kernels give the marmalade the rich, nutty flavor which is so much desired. Cook all together to a smooth paste. Seal in glasses or put away as you do jelly.

Preserving Peaches. Peel the peaches and weigh them. To every pound of fruit allow a pound of sugar. Put the peaches and sugar in a preserving kettle in alternate layers, and put the kettle at the side of the stove, where it will come slowly to a boil. Stir gently, but not broken, then remove with a perforated spoon, lay in platters to cool while you boil the syrup until it is thick enough to run from the stick, skimming frequently. Just before adding the syrup from the fire add a little lemon juice. Pack the peaches in jars and fill the jars to overflowing with the scalding syrup, seal.

Meringue Pie. A peach meringue pie will be welcome as something new. Pare one dozen ripe peaches, slice and stew them with enough sugar to sweeten. Make a rich crust, fill it with the peach slices, spread over the top a thick meringue made by whipping to a froth the whites of three eggs for each pie, sweetened with three tablespoons of sugar. Lay a gored sugar and beat until it is stiff, then cover the top three-quarters of an inch deep and set back into a quick oven to set. Keep in the ice-box until ready to serve.

Stuffed Peaches. Brush the down from ripe, solid fruit, place on a dish, allow a few minutes to cool, then rub off the skins; cut a slit in one side so as to remove the pit; in its place put a marshmallow; roll the peach in powdered sugar; each when serving, place a bit of jelly on each or a piece of candied ginger.

To make a delicious peach jelly pare and press six peaches; measure and add one pint pulp; dissolve one-half box gelatin in one cupful cold water; then set on the fire and add one-half cupful of sugar; add the peach pulp and cook a few minutes; then set in ice-water and stir till thick, then add in the beaten, dry whites of two eggs; pour in a mortar and set on ice to become firm. Unmold and serve with whipped cream.

Peach Cobbler. Peach cobbler is a dainty dessert. Line a pan with rich biscuit dough, rolled rather thin. Fill with peaches cut in quarters. Mix one cupful of sugar with one tablespoonful of flour in a small saucepan, add one and one-half cupfuls of water and cook ten minutes, stirring most of the time; ladle this syrup over the peaches, dot well with butter and bake until peaches and crust are done. It is better without a top crust. All cobbler should be served with cream.

DANGER IN THE HIGH DIVE.

Deafness a Frequent Injury to Those Not Properly Initiated. "Except for those who have an especial aptitude for it—and they are few—high diving is a dangerous pastime to indulge in," said a diving expert the other day. "A good diver may occasionally lose his balance, but, being generally cool-headed, he can regain it, or at any rate sufficiently so to prevent injury to himself. "Many of our young men and women who go to the seaside in the summer for the bathing to be had come away permanently injured for life for having recklessly indulged in high diving, and few of them, as a rule, are able to explain how they received their injuries. In the majority of cases deafness is the most frequent injury inflicted by diving. The cause of this is that few find it easy to drop the head sufficiently to get it well between the arms. The result is that they receive some tremendous blows on the head, and if the water is struck a bit sideways the ear gets most of the concussion, and the result will frequently be a rupture of the membrane of the tympanum. A good preventive for such an accident is to place in the ears a little medicated wool or cotton dipped in oil. "Another injury to health caused frequently by diving arises from getting large quantities of water into the lungs. The extent of the harm done in cases of this sort depends on the amount of water as well as to its cleanliness. I have often seen boys, for instance, actually dive into the water at places where it was absolutely filthy from the evacuation of drainage into it. The danger to health, especially to those with not overstrong constitutions, can readily be seen. "The higher the dive the longer, of course will be the duration under water. Now, an inexperienced diver is rarely able to hold his breath under water for more than a second or two at a time, and if the dive is unusually high one, he will, in nine cases out of ten, give up the struggle in trying to regain his breath, and, invariably, too, just before his head reaches the surface. "Those with weak hearts, therefore, the water that has escaped into his lungs and stomach is far more than is good for him, and to many it is positively injurious. "The best thing I know of to bring one quickly to the surface in high diving is to have a piece of cork fastened under each armpit. Corks weighing four ounces each, and being of a light-fitting canvas or cotton bag and then again sew each bag on to the bathing suit by a couple of strands, allowing the strands to run over the shoulders. "Those with weak hearts," the expert added, "cannot be too strongly advised against high diving. In the spring, the rash through space, the break and the entering and clearing of the water are altogether too exciting for weak hearts, and especially so in cold weather.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Such is the amount made by James Hall, manager at Halifax, for Furness, Withy & Co., who has returned from a trip through the fruit growing country. The Furness, Withy Co. will run the weekly steamers from Halifax. Mr. Hall speaks of the likelihood of 3,000,000 barrels of apples, estimated at 0.30 barrels offering for shipment to Halifax. The total crop of apples, estimated at 400,000 or even 500,000 barrels.

Bradstreet's on Trade. Trade at Montreal is showing a little more activity. Labor is well employed and in some cases it is difficult to obtain all the help needed. Railway earnings continue to show large increases. A few more failures have been recently reported, but they have been mostly of minor importance. Values of staple goods are very strong. Leading manufacturers of cotton goods this week advanced prices 1-4 to 1-2c per yard on a number of lines that were marked up on June 9th, the new prices to take effect at once. Numerous buyers, the advance guard of the influx in connection with the Dominion Industrial Exhibition, have appeared in the Toronto market this week. They have bought liberally, and this is taken as an indication of a coming large volume of business the next two weeks. The country is prosperous. Stocks of manufactured goods have been kept within requirements. Prices are firm.

In wholesale circles at Quebec business is fairly active. Country retailances are reported satisfactory, and the conditions of trade is healthy. Activity is noticeable in shipping circles. Harvest operations in the west are now more general. Large quantities of ripening wheat, fall business, so far, is much ahead of previous years. At Pacific Coast trade centres business has shown improvement this week. The jobbing trade is expected to be good. Prices are firmly held. Business at interior points is improving. The outlook is promising. There is an increasing demand for fall goods at Hamilton. Reports to Bradstreet show that the manufacturers are busy on contracts and, as a rule, no surplus stocks. Labor is well employed and well paid. Prices are firmly held. In London jobbing trade circles the demand is very fair for this season. The farmers are busy with the harvest, however, and later on there will be more activity in retail trade. Prices of staple goods are firm. Ottawa wholesale trade continues fairly active. The fall orders continue quite numerous and well distributed. The outlook for the next few months is very promising.

To Remove Grass Stains. It is well for the housewife and mother to know, in these hot August days, when the grass grows as well as the children, how to remove the stains from frocks and gowns. Many a dainty dress has been ruined for all time because it has been cast into a tub of hot water and interfered with with care. Both of these are wrong. When a garment has the stains upon it that show that its wearer has either been seated upon the lawn or wading through fresh grass, that is no reason for believing that the gown has to be cast aside. It should be placed in cold soft water and the discolored spots washed out before the general spots are given the garment.—Examiner.

Earl as a Preacher. One of the busiest preachers is the Earl of Stamford. He is a doctored lay man, and preaches a great deal, but has lately had to refuse requests to officiate on Sunday because, he says, Sunday is literally the only day he is able to spend in his own home among his own children. His special subject is that of missions to the native races, among whom he himself labored in South Africa for several years before he inherited the family honors. One afternoon, when giving an address at a mission church in a poor part of southwest London, he was unwittingly the source of much disappointment to a large congregation. The children in the district who had seen the posters announcing his appearance, persuaded their fathers and mothers to come to church on the plea that they would see "a real live earl in the pulpit. As the people filed out after service a woman was heard to observe, "He don't look like a lord, he only looks like a clergyman with nothing around his neck."

King Edward's Bodyguard. The English bodyguard of gentlemen-at-arms, which is the nearest guard to the Majesty is limited in numbers and composed of officers who have seen active service, who are of a certain height and under 50 years of age at the date of their appointment. Her Majesty personally selects the officers who form his English guard, and the appointment is looked upon as a great honor. It is not a matter of public record for duty on the occasion of all court ceremonies in London or at Windsor, but they are never taken away from England. Their mess is a very good one and they constantly receive the honor of entertaining royal parties. The captaincy of the gentlemen-at-arms is a political appointment and carries £1,200 a year.

HOW THE EDITOR GOT EVEN

He Did Not Miss the Patronage of the Prominent Citizen Much.

A business man in an Oklahoma town got mad at the editor of a local paper about something which appeared in the paper, and notified the editor that he would in future have his printing done at a job office where they didn't have a newspaper to roast everybody. He thought, of course, the paper would have to quit business, but it kept on going. In about two months the man's daughter was married and they had a big blow-out, but not a line appeared in the paper. Later his wife gave him a big reception at some visitors, but not a line appeared in the paper. Later on the man's youngest child died, but not a line appeared in the paper. The next fall a mass meeting was held in town to see about some public improvements and this business man made a big speech. The meeting was written up in full that day in the paper. This was skipped. Then the business man called and asked the editor what he had in for him about. "You got mad last year, if you remember, and you were going to have your work done at the job printing office, so I thought I'd just let your job printer print the account of your daughter's wedding, your wife's reception, your child's obituary and your speech."—Enid, Kon., Events.

HOW TO TELL A GOOD MELON. No One Need Purchase Any but the Best in the Market. Many attempts have been made to keep watermelons over winter, but with a poor measure of success. The best way to keep them is to preserve them three or four weeks. The scene at the great freight depots is a busy one when a cargo of watermelons comes in. News of the arrival is soon spread among the dealers, and at whatever hour in the day or night it may be the trucks of the commission merchants or dealers crowd the facility. No attempt is made to handle the melons in bulk or in barrels. They must be passed out from hand to hand, and long lines of men are formed for this purpose. There is always a crowd of youngsters—Italians and negroes—at the depots to catch a stray melon that is cracked or broken, and the dismembered parts are soon gobbled and disappear in a gale. There are various ways of telling a good watermelon. Some persons say they can, by pressing the sides together, hear in a good sound, the melon a peculiar sound of crispness like that of celery. Well known expert gives these directions: "Lay the melon on its back with the white part up, scratch the skin of the lightest part with your finger like that of celery, and if the melon is got firm to the pressure of the finger, so that you can with difficulty pierce it with your nail, it is probably a good melon."

Dining With Spain's King. At first there was not much conversation, but as the evening advanced the company became lively. The dinner was exquisite; so were the wine; and the Sevres and royal Vienna plates were a joy to look at. A very good dinner was served on silver, and the dessert service was good, and oh, my horrors! In front of each cover were two neat little wooden toothpicks! When the champagne was served there was much popping up and down of ambassadors drinking to royal health, but no speeches, and at the end of dinner the Queen got up and we all made her a bow and followed the royal family out of the room, the gentlemen stopping to smoke for ten minutes, this being the first time since the death of Alfonso XII. that cigars were offered, as hitherto, the Queen being quite to allow smoking. We waited some ten or fifteen minutes in a beautiful room with embroidered walls and furniture, and the royal family rejoined us there, and we sat down and talked about all sorts of things in all sorts of languages. At about 11.30 they bade us good night and we bowed, and after a few moments conversation put on our coats and wrote our name in the visitors' book and came home.—G. O. in Harper's Bazar.

How the Kishineff Horror Was Started

The hideous and unspeakable crimes and infamies committed during the Middle Ages in the name of Christianity find their parallel in the massacre at Kishineff, where neither age nor sex was spared the murdering fanaticism was incited to their cruel and bloody work, as it now appears, by the distribution of a leaflet on the eve of the massacre in which the Jews were explicitly charged with killing Christian children that they might use their blood for ceremonial purposes.

STRATHCONA DAY.

Canada's High Commissioner Leading Parade in Five Functions in One Day—Opened Dominion Exhibition.

Toronto, Aug. 31.—After an all-night journey from Montreal, Lord Strathcona, the venerable High Commissioner, was on Saturday the leading personage in five functions in as many parts of the city, and was actively engaged literally from early morning until midnight, when he returned to Montreal by special train. He delivered five addresses, all of considerable length. He greeted scores of old friends and made many new acquaintances. He was entertained at luncheon at the Exposition for two hours, delivered a twenty-minute address in opening the Exhibition, was then driven direct to the University of Toronto, where he was invested with his degree, and in the evening at the National Club, replied to the toast of the occasion in his best humor, remaining at the banquet board for four hours, and then, holding a last informal reception at the King Edward prior to retiring to his sleeping coach, laughingly assuring the committee the while that he considered it almost a shame to retire so early in the evening.

A year ago there was a general complaint that potatoes were rotting to an extent that seriously menaced the supply for winter. This season the same report is in circulation, and let us hope, with no better foundation. It is evident, however, that the blight prevails to an unusual extent, and the outlook for a good yield is anything but promising.

Referring to the scarcity of teachers the Carleton Place Canadian says that the trustees of a school in Beckwith could not obtain a teacher for "love or money." We don't know that love for the profession induces any person to teach school, but we feel reasonably certain that if trustees of rural schools will offer a fair cash inducement the alleged scarcity will disappear.

MORTON.

On Wednesday, Aug. 26th, one of our oldest and most respected citizens in the person of Mr. D. H. Manuel passed to his eternal rest. Deceased had been in poor health for some months but it was only during the last month that any serious alarm was felt by his friends, and he was only confined to his bed two days when the end came. Mr. Manuel was 76 years old and had lived most of his life in this vicinity. For many years he was a blacksmith here but for the past few years had done part of the work on the farm. He was a man of quiet, cheerful disposition and his loss will be felt by all, from the little children, for whom he had always a smile and care, to their elders who have lost a willing, helpful friend and adviser.

Besides his wife he has left to mourn his loss one son, George, of Edmonton Alberta, their daughters, Mrs. Geo. Sheffield, Oak Leaf, Mrs. R. H. Somerville, Morton, Mrs. Manley Marsh, of Nipigon, and Mr. Wm. Merrill, Morton, his nephew, to whom he had acted a father's part for years. The funeral, which took place on Friday was one of the largest seen here for some time, and the floral tributes which covered the casket were very beautiful. The church was a literal bower of potted plants and cut flowers and the family pew was draped in black. Everything that love could suggest was done to show the respect in which the kind old man was held by every one. In the absence of Mr. McConnell, the sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Garrett, of Delta, and was most touching and impressive.

We extend congratulations to our pastor, Rev. J. A. McConnell, who was recently married to Miss Louisa Dick, of Pakenham. It is expected that he will soon return to Morton with his bride.

Mrs. and Miss Rathall, Perth, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Scott last week.

Work has begun on the new school house. Mr. Fred Taber has the contract for the brick work; Mr. Stevenson for the frame work, and Mr. Welsh, Lyndhurst, for the painting.

Mr. Alf. Jacobs is rushing his new house to completion.

Mr. Sam Teter is doing a rushing business in cement work. Early in the season he secured the services of Mr. A. Robertson, of Niagara Falls, who is still with him, and on Friday last another cement expert, Mr. Fred Mijner, also of Niagara Falls, was added to the ranks in order to get the great quantity of cement laid before cold weather.

Bangor Does Honor to King Edward VII.

Writing in the London News as a recent issue Mr. A. G. Hales gives the following description of the electrical display made by the vessels of the British squadron which escorted the King and Queen to Bangor, Ireland.

more grim and grey on the lap of the waters. All was darkness profound. Above no star glimmered; below no flash was on the waters; darkness claimed her own, until, without warning of bugle, or beat of drum, or call of file, the Royal yacht sprang into splendor, the only brilliant thing amidst the darkness.

A manly, fearless breed, with a touch of the shore and a taste of the sea in their looks and manners; and the women are better than the men, for they have the touch of the sea in their wavy hair and a taste of the skies in their big blue eyes.

Above us the clouds lower heavily, black with a promise of rain. Midway between the shingly beach and the wash of the sea, the King and Queen are resting after the labors of the day. The yacht is too big to be called a thing of beauty as yachts go, yet she seems perfect in her parts as she lies there half-shrouded in shadow.

The clouds above us deepen into impenetrable blackness, and the waters of the bay, under the moon star, look dark, forbidding and uncanny. Then all at once the scene is changed. A thousand lights come into being in a blaze of splendor. Like stars in a southern sky the lamps gleam and glister blue-white against the blackness.

Then far and wide the gorgeous beacons fly. Her spars are lit with flame, her decks shine like molten brass, every man on her is silhouetted against the forbidden blackness of the night.

All at once the lights upon the fleet died out, as if a magic hand had dimmed that brilliant scene, and the guards of the ocean lay once

GRANTON MAN SPEAKS OUT

To Let the Public Know Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him

John Fletcher had Lumbago and Kidney Disease and Could Get no Relief Till He Tried the Great Kidney Remedy.

Granton, Ont., Aug. 31.—(Special)—"I am glad to let the public know that Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me of Lumbago, and I am now perfectly sound."

These are the words of John Fletcher, a well-known resident of this village, and similar tributes to the great Canadian Kidney remedy can be heard on every side.

"I had been troubled for a year with Lumbago and Kidney troubles," Mr. Fletcher continued, when asked for particulars. "My urine was of a very bad color and I could get nothing to help me. I consulted the best doctors in Granton and St. Mary's but got no relief. Finally I bought a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and commenced taking them. They helped me almost from the first, and I was soon completely cured."

It is cures of this kind that have given Dodd's Kidney Pills their popularity. You can find a neighborhood in Canada where Dodd's Kidney Pills are not known by their cures. If the disease is of the Kidneys or from the Kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to cure it.

COLDS, HEADACHE, CATARRH

Relieved in 10 Minutes by Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder.

Dr. W. H. Main, pastor of the Baptist-Methodist Church, Buffalo, gives strong testimony for and is a firm believer in Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. He has tried many kinds of remedies without avail. After using Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder he was benefited at once, as he says: "It is a wonderful remedy, and will relieve any form of head pain in ten minutes and eradicate Catarrh. Dr. Agnew's Heart Cure helps the overworked heart."

Treatment for New Pens. New York Press. I wonder if everybody on earth who writes with a steel pen knows how to make it take up the ink at the first dip? The polish or varnish on the new pen prevents the ink from adhering. Now, if you will hold the new pen in the flame of a match for a little while and melt the varnish off, it will write quite as well as an old pen and the ink will not drip off. Try it. It is a very old trick.

It Was Mean of Him. Chicago Post. The printer's boy was devoted to the minister's daughter, and she finally prevailed upon him to go to the church. Whether her father knew of their coming is not definitely settled, but there is evidence that he did, for he gave out his text, "My daughter is grievously tormented with a devil."

The printer's boy has been a little afraid of churches ever since.

C. C. RICHARDS & CO., Dear Sirs,—For some years I have had only partial use of my arm, caused by a sudden strain. I have used every remedy without effect, until I got a sample bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT. The benefit I received from it caused me to continue its use, and now I am happy to say my arm is completely restored. Glamis, Ont. R. W. Harrison.

Money in Blubber. The market value of a whale amply compensates for the hazards of the hunt and the outlay at the factory. The whaling companies operating here pay from 25 to 50 per cent. annually, and the business, as already stated, is only six years old. A suphback whale is worth $1,000, and a steamer, with factory, costs about $30,000, while a good season gives a yield of 150 whales.

WASH DAY WORST.

Labors May be Lightened if System is Used.

Washing day is justly dreaded in the heat of summer, when all work is a double burden to the flesh. Anything that lightens the work is therefore especially welcome, but though the tools of to-day are superior to those of our grandmothers, modern invention has done comparatively little to lighten the labors of the laundry. In spite of the cost of washing machines and the representations of their agents, a perforated zinc rubbing board is still the most useful tool that a good laundress can command.

One of the most important parts of washing is the sorting of the clothes. There are many stains which like those of perspiration, disappear magic-like, and others, like furit and coffee, which must be treated with boiling water, but are removed, set by lukewarm water. If it is the practice of the family to soak all the clothes in cold water before the washing has begun, a great many perspiration stains are removed, and the various kinds of stains are carefully sorted out and properly treated, hours of rubbing will be saved.

A housekeeper whose clothes always look as white as snow, says that it is best to soak coarse clothes in cold water, but the table linens and fine clothes need not be so treated. The same housekeeper says that as soon as she has removed the stains from her clothes she puts them in cold water in the boiler, and brings them to the boiling point, and then puts them in the washbasin to be rubbed for the first time. The boiling starts the dirt, and the rubbing is much easier than it would otherwise be. After rubbing, the clothes are transferred at once to the first rinsing water, then to the second, and when they are thoroughly rinsed, they are put, a few at a time, into the bluing water, provided they have not been blueed in several weeks. If they have, they are wrung out with the wringer and put out to dry. All white clothes should be dried outdoors in the strongest cold and the heat of the summer's sun bleach them.

Grow soap usually contain resin and soda, and are good for washing white clothes, but they should not be used for colored clothes or flannels, as soda bleaches the one and gives lint to the other. Use a good white soap for the purpose. All colored clothes should be shaded as quickly as possible in the shade. Starched clothes are dried in the same manner in order to keep them stiff. If they are yellow, they are bleached in the sun, and afterward starched and hung in the house to dry. Colored dresses which are trimmed or combined with white should be rinsed in water in which salt has been dissolved in about the proportion of a tablespoonful of salt to a gallon of water.

FOR TESTING THE MILK. A Simple and Sure Device for the Practical Housewife.

She had recently moved into the neighborhood, and the milkmen, with butcher, baker and grocer, were vying with competitors in securing the new trade. It was noticed that a goodly supply of milk was required for daily consumption, and each of the milkmen from whom samples were tried was accordingly anxious to place her name on his list. There seemed to be some special magic by which she tested the quantity and quality of the milk left at her door. The disappointed ones wondered at the cause, but only to the man on whom her choice fell did she disclose her secret. On arranging with him for the weekly supply she displayed a simple and ingenious invention for testing both the quantity and the quality of the milk, and warned him that she would quickly make a change if his milk fell below the required standard. It is needless to state that, although there was no magic about it, this simple invention insured a satisfactory supply of milk.

The novel device may be in the possession of any housewife, and it is as simple as an ordinary glass jug, graduated on the outside in pints and fractions. The jug is marked respectively, "average," "good," and "very good." On the jug being filled by the milkman the purchaser can see at a glance whether she has received the proper quantity, and after it has been allowed to settle will be able to see the quality of the milk, also, for the thickness of the layer of cream on top will be measured by three small lines below the measure, and a trustworthy notion obtained of the quality of the milk. It is impossible to secure such an effective device, made especially for testing milk, any graduated glass cup or jar, such as chemists use, for the generous-sized graduated glasses in common use by the amateur photographer, may serve the same purpose in regard to quantity, and the housewife will be able to determine, after a few tests with the rising cream, the lines on the glass which should indicate the words in the quality test.—Philadelphia Record.

"Command of the Sea." (New York Herald.)

The British manoeuvres now under way in eastern Atlantic waters are based upon a strategic idea of great importance. Compared with the earliest, but somewhat restricted efforts we are exerting on the Maine coast, these British manoeuvres look large. In addition to the major operations, two forces of destroyers and torpedo boats, 61 of the first and 37 of the latter, together with 19 other sea-going auxiliaries are engaged in manoeuvres off the Irish coast. More than two hundred fighting ships are being employed in these experiments.

Some of them are 40 armored vessels, mainly of the first-class, and nearly 50 cruisers. This array has, it must be remembered, made no claim upon the fleets Great Britain normally maintains on her various foreign stations.

The Editorial Page. Burlington, Ia., Hawkeye.

A newspaper without an editorial page is like a man without a mind. There are some newspaper readers who care only for the information which they can glean from the telegraph and local columns. But as a newspaper man who carefully reads the news departments turns to the editorial page for a review of what he has been reading, he may not always find his own ideas among those in the editorial columns, but he is never interested by gleaming other people's ideas, and if they are not in accordance with his own he has the satisfaction of combating them in his own mind. It is usually the case, however, that the editorial page is a source of suggestion and information to the student of politics and world affairs, and those who read it regularly are among the best posted persons.

In the Game, a Long Way Off. Philadelphia Telegraph.

A party of boys were playing on one of the streets the other day, when an old gentleman coming along inquired of them what they called their game. "Why," said one, "automobile. Joe, he's the wheels; Bill's the car, and the brake, Harry's the lamp." etc. Leaving the boys to their fun the old gentleman walked down the street half a block and found another boy alone, watching the others playing. Said the old gentleman to the boy: "Sonny, why don't you go up and play automobile with those boys?" "Why," said he, "I am playing with them." "You are?" said the old gentleman, astonished. "Well, will you please tell me what the game of the automobile you are?" "Oh, I'm the shell."

LET THE BABY CRY.

A Little Good for the Child, and So are Two Baths a Day.

The first of the talks to mothers on the care of their babies, which are given under the direction of the city's Health Department, was delivered Wednesday evening by Dr. Benzer. Golden, at the Hotel Hamilton. The speaker offered a number of valuable suggestions as to the proper treatment of the little ones during the hot weather. "Bathing twice a day," said Dr. Golden, "should be an indispensable part of the baby's hygienic treatment. Water strengthens the babies, eases off disease. It is the best tonic in the world. The child should be bathed in a warm room, and the head and face should always be wet first. In case of picky heat vinegar and water should be used, while the baby's flannels should be changed frequently."

"In clothing the baby there are three essential rules to be observed: The chest should be amply protected; the garments should never be tight, and they should conform in weight to the weather conditions. Pins should be at all times avoided. Long clothes should be discarded as early as possible, and all clothes should be removed from the shoulders. In summer the thinnest flannels should be worn. The majority of babies are overdressed, and kept in overheated rooms. The mother should, especially in hot weather, avoid undue fatigue, eat simple food, and indulge in no alcoholic drinks. Equally important is it that the child should have rest and quiet, and not be made to laugh too much or be excited or scared by its sometimes overfond parents. Final words of advice are: 'Never rock the cradle,' and 'don't induce the child when it cries. A little healthy crying will hurt no baby.'"—Philadelphia Record.
