THE MISSIONARY CONFERENCE

Ended Tuesday After Profitable Week of Study

The sessions of the Missionary Conference, a partial report of which was given by THE ACADIAN last week, were continued in interest and helpfulness until the close on Tuesday.

The subject of the Bible Study Class on Thursday was on the pertinent question, "What is the personal religion that Jesus teaches?" The answer given by Dr. John Line, of Mount Allison University, who conducted the class, was, "love in action." The word "love" as employed by Jesus, said Dr. Line, is always ethical and volitional as well as sentimental, and has to do with will and conscious as well as feeling.

The group studying India at the Conference were very fortunate in having as their book of study Fleming's "Building with India", a new book just from the press, and from the facile pen of Dr. J. Fleming, of New York, who was for twelve years professor in Forman Christian College, India. They were also fortunate in having as their teacher Rev. S. C. Freeman, who for twenty years served as a missionary in India and is now spending a well earned rest here. He has a most interesting way of presenting his subject to his class and of holding their attention. Dr. Freeman was ably assisted by Dr. Zillah and Miss Martha Clark, two sisters who will return to India this fall, and Miss Cora Elliott, who has just come home on furlough. The subject for the class on Thursday morning was "India's handicap to progress".

The average life in India is only twenty four years, while in Canada it is forty-four, and medical authorities hope, to make it sixty. One-third of India's labor time is lost through illness. There are plenty of problems which make better conditions in India difficult. There is lethargy, fanaticism, ignorance, unsanitary conditions in the homes, poverty, and the caste system. It is said people are very poor. It is said that forty millions live on one meal a day, while many have only one in two days. This makes it difficult to get the children to school, as the parents need the money they can earn. India greatly needs the gospel, and our responsibility is to share our great heritage in Christ.

The sports committee had a full programme of field sports for the afternoon, which were much enjoyed by old and young. An animated game of volley ball was played between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, which resulted in a score of 15-14 in favor of Nova Scotia.

At the vesper service which was held on the lawn under the beautiful shade trees a strong message on the value of investing one's life in foreign mission work was given by Dr. G. Zillah Clark, who emphasized especially the need of medical missionaries.

The public meeting in the Seminary Chapel was given over to mission work in India, the speakers being Rev. Mr. Freeman, who spoke on the greatness of India in a most interesting way; Miss Martha Clark, who was attractively dressed in a hindu bible woman's costume and who spoke on "India Character Studies" in a most fascinating way; and Miss Cora Elliott, who is visiting at the home of her brother, Dr. Elliott, and who gave a graceful and interesting address.

The heavy rain on Friday morning did not dampen the ardor of the Conference members and classes went on as usual. Dr. Line's Bible study class discussed "The Second Coming of Christ," while "Home Mission Problems" and "China" occupied the attention of the Mission study groups, the latter under the leadership of Rev. George Rackham, B. D., of Amherst, who is a most enthusiastic class leader. The institute period under Mr. Priest's leadership was one of the most helpful parts of an especially helpful programme, and gave definite plans for Missionary organization and education in the local congregations.

KENTVILLE BOARD OF TRADE

Enjoys Annual Drive and Picnic

President H. E. Woodman and Secretary H. P. Davidson represented the Wolfville Board at the annual motor drive and picnic held by the members of the Kentville Board of Trade on Wednesday.

Forty-four automobiles conveyed the company, which included ladies and gentlemen to the number of two hundred and fifty and more on this trip. The weather was delightful and the affair well planned and all went "as merry as a marriage bell".

The party left Kentville at about 8.45 a. m. and arrived in good time at Annapolis Royal, which pretty and interesting town was looking at its best. All the residences on St. Georges street through which the cars passed on arrival, were gaily decorated with flags and bunting.

Fort Ann Park was the destination and the visitors went directly there and were welcomed in behalf of the town by Mayor King. Luncheon was served by the ladies of the party, after which Mr. Fortier, the genial superintendent of the park showed the guests all the historical collections at the museum and at other places of interest.

The Kentville band, which accompanied the party rendered a full program of music from the bandstand in the old fort, which was greatly enjoyed by the people of Annapolis as well as the visitors.

About three o'clock the party left for Bridgetown, by way of the new bridge to Granville and through that beautiful and fertile section.

A baseball game was played between Kentville and Bridgetown teams and resulted after ten innings in a score of 3-2 in favor of the Bridgetown boys. A section of the grandstand was reserved for the visitors and at the close of the game ice cream and other refreshments were served by the Bridgetown Board of Trade.

The party arrived home without accident, having spent a day of rare enjoyment long to be remembered.

KEN-WO CLUB OPEN THEIR NEW CLUB HOUSE

The tea in connection with the opening of the new club house at the Ken-Wo Golf course last Friday afternoon was a great success, over one hundred persons being present. Everyone remarked on the beauty of the links generally, the picturesqueness of the grounds being enhanced by the glorious sunshine of a July afternoon. The new club house was used for the first time. It was found a splendid acquisition to the grounds. It is 40x25, with kitchen and full length verandah, with two dressing rooms, and is very convenient and admirably adapted to the purpose. Such tremendous improvements in the condition and lengthening of the course is creating much enthusiasm. The handsome cup presented by Sir Robert Borden was on exhibition and will be played for next week.

GENERAL TOWNSHEND

Hero of the siege of Eut-el-Amara, who despite all efforts of the British Government has gone to Angora, capital of the Turkish nationalists. Great Britain is still technically at war with Turkey and it is feared that the General may indulge in some unofficial diplomacy that may compromise his country's position.

A TALENTED MUSICIAN

Prof. Louis Bennett Who Will Be Heard Next Monday Evening at the Baptist Church.

Prof. Louis Bennett, who is to favor our town and community, has had a splendid career in the world of music. It will be of special interest to our readers to know that although born in Boston, Mass., both his parents were Nova Scotians. Since he was five years of age he has been trained exclusively for the profession of a musician. He entered the New England conservatory and studied harmony, theory, counterpoint and composition under H. C. Redman, and orchestration with George W. Chadwick, the director, and one of America's greatest composers. Later discovering that he had a voice worth cultivating Mr. Bennett put himself under the tutelage of Louis Black and W. L. Whitney, both foremost in their profession in Boston. Finding that his voice was developing into a splendid operatic organ, according to his teachers, he decided to go to Europe, prepare for and enter the opera world.

For seventeen years following 1902 he studied abroad, first at Florence, Italy, where he put himself under the instruction of Vannucci, the famous voice trainer and friend of Rossini. From Florence Mr. Bennett went to Dresden and the next six years were spent in that beautiful old city, studying, singing and directing. This latter is a branch that always appealed to Mr. Bennett and opportunity offering, to put himself under Oskar Malata conductor of the Dresden Royal Opera Orchestra, Mr. Bennett added that to the other branches of his profession. Appointed assistant conductor of the Meisener Singverein, he had ten years of practical experience conducting work by Abt, Rheinberger, Reinicke, and also a performance of Wagner's "Liebestod des Apostles".

After filling important engagements in leading theatres in Germany, Belgium and other European centres, at the beginning of the war Mr. Bennett returned to America after unsuccessful effort while in England to volunteer for service in the great war.

After two years of successful work in his chosen profession in the United States, where he filled important positions, in company with his wife, who is also a talented musician, Mr. Bennett last summer came to Wolfville, and was so charmed with our pretty town and its surroundings that he returned again this year.

Just before leaving Wolfville last summer Mr. Bennett gave a delightful recital in Alumnae Hall to a number of favored guests, and these with other music lovers of this vicinity anticipate a rich treat in next Monday evening's Song Recital at the Baptist church.

GASPEREAU

Mrs. Mark Gertride, of Newton Mass., and Miss Cassie Westcott, of Boston, Mass., are visiting relatives here.

Rev. Mr. Prosser, of Canard, and Dr. R. W. Bennett exchanged pulpits on Sunday morning last.

Mr. Clarence Kenne is visiting relatives in Boston. The Women's Institute met with Mrs. Reginald Hennigar on Thursday of last week. After the business was over a short programme was given followed by refreshments. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all present.

THE ACADIAN MEMORIAL

Opening and Dedication of Acadian Church at Grand Pre, Sept 16th.

The Memorial Church at Grand Pre is rapidly approaching completion, and all arrangements are now made for the formal opening and dedication of the building. The church will be practically completed by August 16th when the Acadian celebration will take place. A special train leaves Moncton the night before and arrives at Grand Pre on the morning of the 16th giving visitors the whole day to witness the ceremonies. Bishop LeBlanc, of St. John, N. B., will officiate during the church service, and the sermon will be delivered by an ecclesiastic of high rank. After the Mass the corner-stone of the church will be laid followed by an oration by Rev. A. D. Cormier to the large number of people who are expected to be present. During the afternoon addresses will be delivered by distinguished speakers.

The Memorial is fast becoming a thing of beauty, and the wide interest taken in the work of the Acadians on their original church land assures a day long to be remembered. Special trains both ways will bring many people to Grand Pre.

CRICKET

Wolfville vs. Windsor

A very interesting though somewhat one-sided match was played between the above mentioned teams last Wednesday on the Campus. Wolfville went first to bat and managed to run up a score of 33 against the very destructive bowling of Messrs. Mounce and Anslow, Windsor following with a score of 85. The defeat of Wolfville was complete enough, but our team was up against a very hard proposition. Windsor this year is the champion cricket eleven of the Province, having so far defeated the Wanderers, West Indians, Garrison and Bridgetown and every man of them is a crack batsman, bowler and fielder. Under the circumstances therefore there is no cause for discouragement on the part of Wolfville. Our team this year is being strengthened by several very promising young players. Mr. Chas. Schurman has developed into an excellent bowler and batsman and F. Herbin, J. Mackinson, Copland and others are becoming most useful batters. The veteran J. F. Herbin distinguished himself Wednesday by three catches including a single handed one of exceptional difficulty, for which he was loudly applauded by the whole field. The greatest harmony and good will prevailed throughout and before parting each team heartily cheered the other. We were unable to secure the scoring for this week's paper but hope to publish it next week. A match with the second Windsor team is spoken of.

IN MEMORIAM

CHRISTIE—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Frederick K. Christie, died July 30th, 1921.

One year has gone since that sad day
A voice we loved is stilled,
Thy place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
Inserted by his loving wife and daughter.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

After the tournament tea was served on the lawn of Dr. C. E. A. deWitt, president of the local club. The results of the playing were as follows:

WOLFVILLE DEFEATS WINDSOR

In League Game of Baseball—Score 8 to 2

The regular league game between Windsor and Wolfville, which was postponed last week on account of rain, was played Monday evening on the College campus. Owing to an accident to their car part of the Windsor team were over an hour late in arriving, and it was 7.30 when the game started. It was so dark that only three innings were played. Wolfville took the lead in the first inning and kept it. Good ball was played in the first two innings and at the end of the second inning the score was 4 to 2. Windsor were unable to add to their score while the locals added four more in the third. It was however so dark that it was almost impossible to see the ball and the umpire called the game, when Wolfville had only two out.

The local team played well and it is to be regretted that the game was so late in starting. Brown struck out five men and allowed three hits, while Singer, who pitched for Windsor, struck out three and allowed eight hits. Barteaux and Eagles each made a two base hit. Woolaver, of the visitors, hit a three bigger and Clark got a two base hit. Carl Angus refereed and the scoring was as follows:

WOLFVILLE LOSES TO KENTVILLE

In an exhibition game of baseball played at Kentville on Thursday evening of last week the Wolfville boys were defeated by the score of 6 to 4 in seven innings. The Wolfville boys did remarkably well considering that they did not play their best team. Munro, the young High School pitcher, played a fine game, striking out two men and allowing only six hits.

THE ADVANCEMENT OF WOMEN IN INDIA

Under the auspices of the Women's Indian Association, there was a public meeting in Madras September 28th last, to protest against the decision of the Madras Corporation not to allow women to sit as Municipal Councillors. The meeting was attended by about 200 ladies, representing all castes and communities in Madras. The Women's Indian Association, which was responsible for organizing the meeting, has a central organization at Adyar (Madras), and was started in May, 1917. It has now 44 branches and 2,000 members. "The objects of the Association are to impress on women in this country their responsibility as daughters of India; to help them to realize that the future of India lies largely in their hands, for as wives and mothers they have the task of guiding and forming the character of the future rulers of India; to secure for women the vote for municipal and legislative councils as it was or might be granted to men and to secure for women the right to be elected as members on all municipal and legislative councils." Lady Sadasiva Iyer presided. There were many prominent women present, while letters of regret of inability to attend were received from others. Previous to this meeting of the women, there had been a motion in the Madras Municipal Council that women should be given the vote and a place in the council. It was lost by the narrow majority of two. The two men, the mover and the seconder of the motion, were present at the meeting by invitation, during which one of the men spoke explaining how the motion was lost.
 Mrs. Muthulakshmi Ammal, M. D., moved the resolution of the meeting as follows:
 "That this meeting of the women of Madras emphatically protests against the recent rejection by the Madras Corporation of the resolution recommending to government the removal of sex-disqualification which prevents women from becoming municipal councillors. It also calls upon the council to reintroduce the matter at the earliest possible moment and discuss it with the serious consideration on which it merits."
 The report of her speech as given in the Madras Mail is as follows:
 "In the course of an eloquent speech she said that so long as the Madras Corporation collected taxes from women, it was unfair and unjust to refuse women seats on the Corporation Board. If women were admitted into the corporation, the work of that body would be done

Is Now a Healthy Boy

"From a puny, delicate child, my little Johnny has become a strong sturdy boy."

One mother writes:—"If you had seen my little Johnny four months ago and you were to see him to-day, you would never believe that he is the same boy. Then he weighed only 49 pounds. To-day he weighs 90 pounds, almost double what he weighed four months ago. His trouble first started with a cold, which we never noticed because he was strong and like all boys of his age occasionally caught cold. After a while we began to notice that his cough, instead of getting better, was getting worse, that he was looking pale and losing weight. He seemed to be tired all the time, had no energy to do anything. Before he caught this cold he had no trouble with his lessons and remained at the head of his class without much study. But we began to notice a change. He didn't seem to care whether he knew his lessons or not and nothing seemed to interest him. He coughed so much and so hard at times that his face would become purple and we thought he would surely burst a blood vessel. Medicines and cough mixtures didn't do him any good. Finally, in desperation and as a last resort, we tried Carnol. In a short time his cough had almost disappeared. His appetite was returning and he was beginning to take an interest in his studies. And, thanks to Carnol, he has become a strong and healthy as he has ever been."

infinitely more satisfactory than at present. The corporation would be better off financially, it would be better off from the point of view of sanitation, and it would be able to reduce the appalling infantile mortality. Was it not the case, that in a house the presence of a woman conducted to health, thrift, and sanitation? If the lady of the house was absent for a few days, to what a sorry plight the place became reduced! The husband developed dysentery owing to food badly cooked, he had no idea what money he was spending, and the house was everywhere littered with dirt and dust. And thus considering that the presence of a woman meant orderliness, thrift and health, it was great folly on the part of these municipal councillors who had voted for the tabooing of women from their midst. The presence of women on the corporation would also lend dignity and decorum to its meetings."

The Sequel
 Just a little more than half a year later (May 11th, 1922), did the Madras Corporation resolve without a dissentient voice, to request the government to nominate to the council an Indian lady. "We do not know," says the Madras Mail, "to what cause this rapid growth is to be attributed, but we have a suspicion that the ladies of their household have been non-co-operating, thus bringing their recalcitrant spouses to an understanding of the merits of women, by a course of conduct suggested by a lady speaker at the women's protest meeting in September." The world does move when things like this come about in India, a country more impervious and more resistant to change than any other land.

ENGLISH BOWLER IS CHAMPION BY NAME AND NATURE

LONDON, June 30.—The remarkable performance of a bowler named Champion, who playing for the Durham Athletic Club against the Athenaeum Club recently, secured the hat trick three times, and took sixteen of the twenty wickets for three runs has brought to light a number of extraordinary feats performed by bowlers in bygone days. Although Durham scored but 44 runs in their innings, this meagre total was enough for them to win by an inning and seventeen runs.

Ten years ago almost to a day W. Clark, a fifteen-year-old boy, a very fast left-hand bowler, playing for St. Augustine's College, Ashford, against the Ashford Church Choir, did the hat trick three times in the first innings and twice in the second.

County cricket records show that Champion's feat of taking sixteen wickets in two innings has been bettered no less than a dozen times, and it is on record that in 1881 in a small match in Australia E. R. Spofforth bowled all ten wickets of his opponents in each inning. This was duplicated six years later in Melbourne by J. Byrant while playing for Erskine.

To Dan Hayward, of Cambridge, one of the four Hayward Brothers whose names have meant so much to English cricket, there is credited a lengthy list of remarkable bowling achievements.

Dan Hayward was a slow right hand bowler and some twenty years ago, was rated very highly. It is claimed that he has at least on a dozen occasions taken all the wickets in an innings. Bowling for Cambridge against Norfolk in 1898 Hayward captured all ten wickets and in 1903 he took all ten wickets off Eton Ramblers for 35 runs. In the same year he took eleven wickets for five runs in the Kimblyon vs. Keysoe match. In 1891 bowling for Cambridgeshire against Leicester he took 13 wickets for 58 runs, and in 1890 Hayward scored 89 runs, took six wickets and made three catches. He was also a strong batsman and twice passed the century mark.

I. O. D. E. WILL HOLD FETE

On Thursday, Sept. 14, the members of the Sir Robert Borden Chapter, I. O. D. E., expect to hold a monster fete in Wolfville, to which the countryside are invited to participate. The college authorities have very kindly donated the grounds west of the tennis courts, adjacent to Main Street and including the beautiful grove of trees in front of Memorial Gymnasium, for this occasion. Booths will be erected for the sale of various articles including aprons, fancy work, pickles, preserves and ice cream, candy and home cookery. Tea will be served and music furnished and everything will be done to make it a gala day for Wolfville—a day long to be remembered in its annals. All citizens who are interested are invited to contribute and to be present. The I. O. D. E. stands for service—both patriotic and local. No just appeal for aid has ever been declined by this body of devoted and enthusiastic workers. This past year little children have been clothed, mothers of families assisted with medical treatment and hundreds of dollars distributed where the need was great. Remember the date—Sept. 14—and be prepared to make this fete a huge success.

Rev. H. F. Laflamme, secretary of the federated churches of America, who with Mrs. Laflamme is making his regular summer visit to Wolfville, was the preacher at St. Andrew's church last Sunday morning. His address in view of the attendance of many of the delegates to the Missionary Conference was along the lines of missionary activity and was an able and eloquent plea for world evangelization. Rev. Mr. Laflamme is well known in Wolfville and is always heard with pleasure and profit. The soloist at this service was Mr. Abbott Cumming, of Halifax, who rendered two selections which were greatly enjoyed.

ADVERTISING turns over stocks rapidly, and therefore multiplies profits. This means that prices in a shop which advertises can be short rather than long.

Of this you may be sure: Prices in a shop which advertises are not MORE than in a shop which does not advertise. The chances are that they are oftentimes lower.

This also is generally true: You will find better goods, better values and better service in those shops which turn over their stocks rapidly. This means, as a general thing, shops which advertise.

A NOTE TO MERCHANTS
 Advertising costs you nothing—it is paid for by the profits on increased sales.
 Advertising is easy—it is simply saying in writing what you say to the customer in your shop. Turn over stocks quickly, if you would make more money.

ONE OF GENERAL WILSON'S ASSASSINS

James Connolly, one of the two Irish Republican army members who assassinated General Sir Henry Wilson in London. Connolly was injured in the fight leading to his arrest. He is shown leaving jail for the preliminary hearing on the charge of murder.

ORIGIN OF THE U. E. LOYALISTS

Very few, even of "reputable historians", know the origin of the U. E. Loyalists.

In 1776 in all the British North American Colonies there were formed among the most respectable European families there settled, bodies known as "The Minute Men". Their purpose was to defend their chartered rights and privileges under the Royal Constitution from parliamentary, or other, infringement. The articles to which these "Minute Men" gave oath of allegiance are as follows:

"1. To defend the Person, Crown and Dignity of the King."

"2. To the utmost of our power, to defend our Chartered Rights and Privileges."

"3. To obey the officers chosen by us when and where said officers may command."

These articles were necessary because the enemy was not only the British Parliament that was seeking to rob the Colonists of their Rights and Privileges, guaranteed in the Provincial Charters which they had received from the British Crown, the enemy was also among the demagogues of the rabble in the Colonies, who, in the civil strife which was threatening, saw the opportunity for plundering the better classes (gentry and yeomanry) in the Colonies of their property, and for reducing their chartered Rights and Privileges to zero.

In 1778 the British Parliament renounced all its pretensions of interference with the chartered Rights and Privileges of the Colonists under the Crown. The purpose of the "Minute Men" was then achieved: they disbanded.

But during this time the demagogues of the Colonial democracy had marshalled the Colonial rabble to the general plunder and proscription of the better classes. In every Colony mobs as "Sons of Liberty" roamed through the country robbing estates and murdering their proprietors, after the style of the Russian Bolsheviks of to-day and of the Terrorists of the French Revolution.

The best of the British Colonists—the Gentry and Yeomanry—again sought an organization for the defense of their Chartered Rights and Privileges, under the very same "Articles of the Minute Men" as before in 1778. The British Commander-in-Chief, Gen. Sir Henry Clinton, came to their aid in the midst of this general anarchy of the rabble, by issuing a Royal commission to them to organize under the name of "British Loyal Associates of America" their loyalty being given to their own "articles" as they were under the "Minute Men of 1776." This commission was given to William Franklin, Gov. of New Jersey; J. S. Martin, Gov. of North Carolina; Gen. Timothy Ruggles and Hons. Daniel Coxe, G. Ludlow, Ed. Letwyche, Geo. Romer, Geo. Leonard, Anthony Stewart and Robt. Alexander.

In 1779 the Presidents of the various divisions of this body were—Sir William Pepperell, baronet, for Maine and Massachusetts; Sir John Wentworth for New Hampshire; Hon. Geo. Rowe for Rhode Island; Gen. James de Lancey for New York; Hon. David Ogden for New Jersey, Hon. Joseph Calloway for Pennsylvania and Delaware; Hon. Robert Alexander for Maryland; Maj. James Randolph Grymes for Virginia; Hon. Eustace MacCulloch for North Carolina; Atty.-Gen. James Simpson for South Carolina; Hon. William Knox and Lieut.-Gov. Graham for Georgia.

A proposition has been made by James H. Stack, of Boston, author of "The Loyalists of Massachusetts"; a "History of the British West Indies", etc., who was one time Bursar of Harvard University, to organize the descendants of these eminent British Colonial Gentry and Yeomanry families of the Loyalist Associates of 1778 who were Loyal to their "Articles" in 1778, proving that they were worthy of the "Marks of Honour" decreed for them by Baron Dorchester in the Order-in-Council of Quebec of 1789, which constituted the Charter and Registry of the United Empire Loyalists in Canada.

THE LATHER OF ADVERTISING

"I hastened into a barber's shop the other day and asked if I could be shaved in five minutes. 'Yep!' was the reply. The barber quickly applied the soap. He began lathering and lathering and kept on lathering until I felt sure I would miss my train. Still he kept on plying his soap brush. I was saying to myself, 'Why doesn't he quit this process and get busy with his razor. That would have been my way of shaving myself in a hurry. When he did finally take up his razor, the job was over in a jiffy. And I caught my train."

The incident, for some reason or other, begot this thought in my mind. Lathering is to shaving very much the same thing as advertising is to selling. If you do enough preliminary work and do it properly, so that the groundwork has been thoroughly prepared, then the resistance is very greatly reduced, and it is possible either to shave with less trouble or to sell goods with less trouble. A good many business men are as foolish as I would have been in trying to shave myself in a hurry. They don't use enough advertising before starting to try to get results. They don't apply enough advertising lather.

"Is it not so?"—B. C. Forbes in Forbes Magazine.

BE LOYAL TO YOUR TOWN

A practical way to show your public spiritedness as a citizen is to spend in the town the money you make in the town. This will not only work out to your financial advantage, but will help the people round about you, who are contributing to your well being. It is perhaps thoughtlessness that causes many people to accept their living from a local community and then send to the city mail order houses for their principal wants, but to us there is something cold-blooded about the transaction. If a town is good enough to live in, it should be good enough to trade in. It will be a much better town if you and I are 100 per cent. loyal.

HOW FIRES START

One of the most frequent forms of involuntary incendiary known is the way thoughtless individuals—generally smokers—throw away matches without taking the simple precaution of blowing them out, and assuring themselves that they are extinguished—a matter of a second or two, although they were perfectly willing to spend fifteen seconds' time in igniting the match and lighting the tobacco. This careless practice is universally prevalent throughout the country.—Deputy Fire Marshal Lewis, Ontario.

A DANGER SIGNAL

The dangerous conditions prevailing at the railway crossing at Port Williams station have been the subject of comment among those familiar with the situation for a long time back. At a meeting of the Railway Commission held at Kentville last summer reference to the menace existing at this point was made and some evidence was taken but no action in the interest of the public safety has so far resulted. This crossing is not safeguarded in any way and with the view obscured from those approaching it from the south side especially, as is often the case by freight cars shunted close to the street, furnishes a public menace such as ought to engage attention generally. THE ACADIAN would be remiss in its duty as a public journal if it failed to persist in the demand that prompt action should be taken in the direction of securing immediate and effective safety for those who are required to pass this extremely hazardous point. With the great amount of traffic on our roads and streets in present times level railway crossings should become a thing of the past. Already human life has been sacrificed to this cause at the dangerous crossing at Port Williams station and the menace is increased year by year in proportion as the traffic grows both by rail and road. When another fatal accident occurs, as it is liable to any day, THE ACADIAN will have the satisfaction at least of having pointed out the danger and insisted upon a remedy. Let he who runs read.

A SUGGESTION

To the Editor of "THE ACADIAN"
Sir:—The following is offered not as advice nor as destructive criticism, nor so many seem to fear, but merely as a suggestion. An expression of opinion on the matter, through the columns of "THE ACADIAN" would, we think be of general interest.
When a community has passed the stage of villagedom and has attained the status of a Town, it becomes that community to put away childish things and to clothe itself in the dignity demanded by its new and larger relationship to men and affairs. Wolfville attained its status as a Town some thirty years since and has been going forward by leaps and bounds, though possibly we must admit that those leaps and bounds were, at times, not so strong and buoyant as we desired. It is beside the point but one is forced to remark that greater progress very probably would have been made if the self-interest of a few had not been allowed to interfere with the public interests of the Town and the best interests of a great majority of its citizens. In spite of all these retarding influences, however, Wolfville has prospered and prospered exceedingly.
Our suggestion is that the next step forward is the numbering of the residences and places of business within the Town limits.

Not only would this be a great convenience to the "strangers within our gates" but we will wager that many of our own people would find it far more convenient to say "85 Westwood ave." than to attempt to direct the enquirer to his destination by naming the various occupants of the premises in question from the present back through history until they reach the climax by saying that "it's the house that Jack built". The enquirer may know less about Jack than he does of the location of the house which he is wearily seeking.

There are a great many arguments in favor of the proposal and none against it except that it would entail an expenditure of a few hundred dollars. It is submitted, however, that the cost would be relatively insignificant in comparison with the advantages to be gained.

Yours truly,
CITIZEN

DIED IN CALIFORNIA

THE ACADIAN has received a marked copy of The Tracy Press, published at Tracy, San Joaquin county, California, from which is clipped the following:

"After suffering more or less for the past year or two, Charles Rounsfell died at the S. P. hospital at San Francisco June 23. The funeral was held from the Methodist Church in Tracy on Tuesday of this week, interment being made in the Tracy cemetery. West Side Lodge No. 118, Knights of Pythias, had charge of the funeral.

"Deceased was the husband of Mrs. Louise Rounsfell and had been a resident of Tracy for the past seventeen years. He was formerly employed in the store department for the S. P. here but of late ill health has been the cause of his being in the hospital. He underwent an operation Friday in hopes of relief but the following day succumbed.

"Besides the wife, deceased leaves one son and one daughter. Stanley lives in Tracy while Ena Pearl Rounsfell, the daughter, lives in Detroit, Mich. Deceased was nearly 60 years of age and a native of Nova Scotia.

"Charley Rounsfell was well known in Tracy and well liked. He was one of the most even tempered men one could meet in a life time. No one ever saw him angry, and no one ever heard him use profane language. He thought a great deal of his family, and they cannot recall the time he ever spoke cross to one of them. He was of a generous nature and yet had a habit of looking to the future, and so left his loved ones fairly well provided for."

The deceased was well known by the older residents of Wolfville. An orphan he spent his boyhood days at the home of his grandfather, the late John Rounsfell, who lived on the place now occupied by F. W. Godfrey at Lower Wolfville. Those of his old school-day friends who survive him will hear with sincere sorrow of his death.

The farmer smiles, right glad is he

The small boy frowns to think that he

CRITICAL CONDITIONS IN UNITED STATES

The following abstract is from a letter from Thomas Scott Forsyth, late of Ottawa, but now acting Manager of a newspaper in North Carolina. He is Registrar General of the College of Arms of Canada whose collection is temporarily at Wolfville, Emmerson Library Building. His first ancestor to Canada was His Excellency Mathieu Forsyth, who succeeded to the governorship and title of Gaspesia, Lower Canada in 1732. Then under the Crown of France, under which crown his ancestors held a naval commission—being not unusual in those days for Scottish gentlemen, like the Count de Douglas, Claude de Ramesay (governor of Montreal in 1705) and Capt. Alex Grant (who married the daughter and heiress of the last Baron de Longueuil) to enter the French military and naval departments of the ancient ally of their nation.

"If you have an opportunity to read the newspapers you may be able to obtain a slight idea of the unsettled condition this country is in, and it may grow worse. There is going to be a coal shortage this winter because of strikes and the people will be rationed out coal. The whole trouble rests with the government at Washington that did not make strong rulings when the strikes in the mines and the railroads first started. Harding is showing himself a man of little mentality and small ability. It is a shame such men should be placed in power over the people. The whole congress and the cabinet are made up of nobodies. The fate of the scountry is hanging in the balance."

"This is going to be a bad fall and winter. There will be many persons out of employment. There will be a shortage of coal. Provisions will be high in price. Rents will be increased. What the common, every day people are coming to it is hard to predict. Much of this lack of industrial production and the lack of shipping agricultural products and goods to Europe would have been otherwise if wise men had been in charge of European affairs. The conditions in Russia were far superior under the rule of the murdered czar. Germany was in a flourishing condition under the kaiser. France with its changes in premiers appears to be jumping from worse to worse; the last menace to good government being Poincajre who is playing peanut politics for his own benefit and the benefit of his fellows."

BERWICK DEFEATS WOLFVILLE

The local baseball team played an exhibition game at Berwick on Wednesday, which resulted in their defeat by the score of 5 to 0. The game however was not as one-sided as the score would indicate, and with the exception of the fourth inning, when the Berwick team scored four runs, was very keenly contested. The Wolfville boys secured more hits than their opponents but were unable to circle the bases, while Berwick with less hits took advantage of Wolfville's errors. Brown struck out eight men and allowed only five hits, but walked three men. Marshall pitched a good game for Berwick, striking out four, walking one, and allowing six hits.

CLINIC ITEMS

At King's Memorial Hospital, Berwick, will be held on Thursday, Aug. 3, a Clinic for tonsil operations, commencing 8 a. m. Specialist in attendance.

From Jack O'Health and Peg O'Joy in the Red Cross Junior. "The Goblins are bad goblins, the Good Fairy said
And they hate to come out in the light.
They ride on the flies in food you are fed,
And they hide in the dirt from your sight.
These Goblins are shy, as I told you before
And they catch you wherever they may,
They climb to your mouth, which for them is a door,
And go inside your body and stay.
But that is not all, for they travel around
And stir up your stomach all red:
They make it a howl-ery growl-ery ground
And the first thing you know you're in bed.
"Do you know what we do," the Good Fairy said,
"To keep the bad Goblins away?"
We catch them in webs of the sunlights gold thread
And tie up a million a day!
When night time is come and you go to bed soon
If you keep all the windows raised high,
We fairies will come on a breeze from the moon,
And blow them clear up to the sky."

A PROFITABLE AND WELL CARED FOR ORCHARD

A gentleman who was visiting in Wolfville this week, and who had the pleasure of inspecting "Blinkbonny", Mr. C. M. Vaughn's fine six-acre orchard property, describes the show of fruit as the finest he has seen in the county. This orchard was planted a great many years ago by the late David J. Harris, who was at that time a prominent business man and ship builder in this place. It was subsequently sold to the late Dr. H. O. MacLachy, who built and occupied the dwelling now owned by Mr. Jonathan Haytes and was the family doctor for many years of this section. Later the property passed into the hands of the late J. S. Dodd, a Hants county man who retiring from a successful business career in Halifax, came to Wolfville and occupied the property on which Mrs. Gue now resides.

Up to the time that Mr. Dodd became the possessor of "Blinkbonny", as he named the orchard, the property had never been a paying proposition. The new owner had aspirations to become a successful fruit-grower although he was without any practical knowledge concerning it. He employed the late J. K. Martin, of Windsor, then a resident of Wolfville, to put the orchard in condition. A natural gardener and a man who had few equals in his knowledge of horticulture, Mr. Dodd could not have made a wiser choice and in the hands of Mr. Martin "Blinkbonny" that year, for the first time, produced a good crop of fruit.

Later when the orchard went into the hands of the present owner it came under the influence of a trained farmer and fruit-grower and we venture to say that under his direction few properties of its size have proved so profitable. This was thirty years ago and so far as THE ACADIAN can learn the history of the property shows a succession of good crops. The largest yield in any one year was 1400 barrels, with an average of about 900 barrels per year.

Mr. Vaughn thoroughly understands every detail of successful apple-growing, and "Blinkbonny" furnishes a good illustration of what correct methods of pruning, cultivation and fertilization will accomplish in an apple-orchard in this "garden of Nova Scotia".

CIVIL WAR ON BIG SCALE THREATENS

London reports that military operations on a large scale are impending in Ireland, and the Republican forces are said to have taken up a line from Limerick to Waterford and to be entrenched in readiness for an attack. The line is shown on this map.

KNOW YOUR CARBURETOR

An understanding of the principles of carburetion and what a carburetor is supposed to do is essential to the owner of an automobile. The carburetor is a device which vaporizes the liquid gasoline and mixes it with the necessary amount of air so that it will burn with a very intense heat in the combustion chamber of the gasoline engine.

In some carburetors the amount of gasoline that is sprayed is controlled by a needle valve which can be adjusted from the driver's seat. Others have the gasoline adjusted on the carburetor which can be adjusted only when the hood is raised. Many carburetors have no adjustment for the air; others have adjustment of air on the steering columns.

The general rule for adjusting a carburetor is to adjust the gasoline for low speed and the air for high speed; but, before a driver attempts any carburetor adjustments there are a number of things he should do. If all motorists would learn just one thing about carburetors there would be far less motor troubles that is, leave the carburetor alone until everything else has been made right. Never attempt to adjust this important mechanism until you have tested your compression, proven that your ignition is in first-class order, and that lubrication is good.

To test the compression, use the starting crank. With the ignition switch turned to off position pull up on the starting crank until a cylinder is under compression, hold against the compression with a steady crank pressure and note how long it takes for the compression to decrease to a point where the crank moves easily. If under a good steady pull the compression holds up for a half-minute, it is satisfactory. Turn to the next point of compression and repeat the test until all cylinders have been tested. If all stand the test there is nothing to be done, but if one or more cylinders are leaking this must be remedied. The commonest cause for lack of compression is leaking valves. They must be ground to make them air tight. Compression leaking past the piston rings is usually accompanied by an excess of oil in the combustion chamber; also a hissing noise can also be heard if the car is held close to the breather pipe while the compression is being tested. This is a serious matter and requires a trained mechanic to repair.

After testing the compression test out the ignition. This can be done by removing one wire at a time from the spark plugs and holding the end of it about a quarter of an inch from the head of the engine and note if a strong, steady spark is delivered from the wire. This test is made while the engine is running on its own power. If the spark is good, test the next, and so on until all of the secondary wires have been tested. The next point is the spark plug. A plug should be clean with the points adjusted so that the opening between the points is .030 of an inch. This is correctly measured by a thickness gauge, but as few motorists have a thickness gauge something else is necessary, and it has been suggested that a dime be used, but a dime is too thick unless it is well worn. A cracked or dirty porcelain is a source of much ignition trouble, but a dirty plug does not of necessity mean a poor plug. If a porcelain is suspected as being defective and the porcelain is removable, take it out and clean and test it, if it cannot be taken out then substitute another good plug for the defective one and note results.

DAMPNESS HELPS GAS ENGINES

Ever since the beginning of the gas engine industry operators have noticed that on damp days and nights when the air is more humid than during the day, the engine runs better and with more power on a given throttle opening than it does on a dry day.

The facts are these: Water fed to the engine does increase the power. At the same time it has a tendency to reduce carbon deposit, and under certain circumstances it is likely to remove a deposit of troublesome particles though it cannot be said with certainty that it will remove hard carbon.

The automobile engine is a notorious heat waster, though it is, strictly speaking, a heat engine and therefore should not waste any heat, or as little as possible. Yet fully one-third of the heat generated (and the heat is power) is lost by being passed to the cooling water. Now when water is sent into the cylinders upon the intake stroke the charge is naturally cooled. On compression it is heated, and upon explosion it is turned into steam, thereby taking away some of the heat which would ordinarily be wasted by passing through the water jacket into the water.

Later in the power stroke, when the power on the piston is reduced the steam gives up its heat in the greater part and thus helps put some more power where it is needed. In other words during the early part of the explosion stroke the water prevents a heat loss by taking some of the heat into the mixture only to give it up later when the heat is needed in the cylinder. This explanation may be taken as being correct and the theory as to water decomposition wrong.

SPEEDOMETER MECHANISM

A problem which is comparatively rare, but none the less irritating, is the repair of the speedometer drive shaft. If you never perform this operation personally, you must pay for the endless fussing of the mechanic. Out goes the broken link. In goes a new one. Carefully the long chain is fed through the tube and then the fishing begins. If, in the first place, half a dozen extra links are attached, the surplus length makes it easy to pull the chain taut, the driving member being attached after the extra links are removed. Speedometer chains will not break nearly so often if the tube slopes uniformly downward, without any dips in its length to collect water and dirt. A little tying with straps or tape will arrange the speedometer tube properly.

MOLASSES SAVES GASOLINE

Little dabs of cheap molasses on plain pine sticks in the hands of 61 oil inspectors in Minnesota have saved users of gasoline thousands of dollars during the past year, according to Hjalmar Nilsson, state oil inspector. Incidentally this simple test for discovering water in gasoline has gone out from Minnesota to a dozen other states.

On the theory that water is heavier than gasoline and always sinks to the bottom, Mr. Nilsson devised the simple test a year ago. A stick dipped in cheap molasses glides through the gasoline without showing any effect on the molasses. But when the water is encountered the molasses comes off the stick. When the stick is withdrawn the exact amount of water in the bottom of the tank is clearly revealed.

A PEST ATTACKING THE CORN

In view of the fact that the pest mentioned in the following article from "Farm and Fireside" has made its appearance in this section we feel that our reproduction of the article will be of value as well as interest to our readers. Persons who detect the presence of the insect in their gardens or fields should cut some of the corn-stalks and send them to the Experimental Farm for examination, as it is most desirable that a remedy should be discovered. The clipping which follows was handed to THE ACADIAN by Mr. C. R. H. Starr:

Several years ago an insect was introduced from Europe which may prove as disastrous to American agriculture as the boll weevil and the San Jose scale have been. That insect is the European corn borer. Shortly after it was first discovered in Massachusetts, in 1917, it was described in FARM and FIRESIDE, and the danger of allowing it to spread pointed out. It was then found only in certain Eastern States. Quarantine orders were issued by federal and state officials, and immediate precautions were taken to control the insect.

But the corn borer did spread, and is now on the verge of entering the Corn Belt. It is found in the lake countries in Ohio and in Monroe County, Michigan. Only the strictest of quarantines and the most drastic methods will control it.

In its mature form the corn borer is a moth. The female moth is a pale yellow, with a stout body and a wing expanse of a little over an inch. The outer third of the fore wing is marked by two darker lines; the hind wings are unmarked. The male moth is reddish brown and has a long, slender body. It is slightly smaller and much darker than the female. On the fore wings of the male is a pale yellow streak between the two darker lines, and near the middle are two small yellowish spots. The hind wings are grayish, with a broad band of pale yellow.

The caterpillars are about three-fourths inch in length when grown, yellowish gray, brown-headed, with tiny brown spots, and with indistinct reddish or dusky stripes. They may be distinguished from other corn borers by the series of horny, light brown warts, each with one or more short, stout hairs. These are the only caterpillars that feed on the developing tassels, bore in all parts of the stem and the cob, and devour the kernels on the cob. There are at least two, and possibly three, generations of the corn borer each year. The moths fly from the Middle of May to late June. They fly at night, and it is believed that infestation in Ohio has come from moths which have flown across Lake Erie from Canada, where control over the pest has been lost. These moths lay their eggs on the under side of leaves in shingle-like, oval patches. Broods average over two hundred in number. The young worms feed on the corn leaves, and as they grow larger, attack the unfolded tassel, causing a breaking or bending at the base. The older worms enter the stalk, and tunnel through all parts of the plant except the fibrous roots. The plant is weakened, growth is checked, and often the ears fail to fill out. In a quarter-acre field of sweet corn in Massachusetts, every ear was found to be infested. As many as 117 corn borers have been found in one corn plant.

You can detect the corn borer in green corn by holes in the stalk or stems from which crumbly debris or sap issues. The ears also may be noticeably infested, or the tassels may be broken. If the corn borer attacked only the corn plant, controlling it might not be such a hard job. But it attacks also broom corn, sorghum, Sudan grass, celery, green beans, beet tops, spinach, rhubarb, oat and rye straw, and flowers and weeds of various kinds.

If you are in an infested area, and if the insect is present on your farm, you can co-operate with the officials in enforcing the quarantine and in putting other measures into effect that might serve to stop the pest from spreading. Burning infested plants is the only sure control method.

If you are not in an infested area, you won't be bothered with a quarantine, but it will be to your interest to watch for any signs of the corn borer. In case you see anything suspicious, report immediately to your county agent or agricultural experiment station, or both, sending samples of the insect found and the plants it has been working on.

Due to the fact that the corn borer moth flies such great distances, and can be transported in so many different plants, it is impossible to predict where it will show up next. It may be on your farm.

Some experts think that it will be impossible to wipe out this serious crop menace until some insect or other natural enemy is found that will control it automatically, as has happened with the San Jose scale. But until that time comes it is extremely important to leave no stone unturned to keep the insect from spreading.

Squeaky springs should be soaked in gasoline before applying oil between the leaves.

SHORTAGE OF APPLE BARRELS IN CANADA

Secretary of the Canadian Horticultural Council at Ottawa, after having made a complete survey of the amount of apple barrel stock and made up barrels available for this year's crop, announces that there is every probability of a serious shortage.

In a few of the barrel sections of the Dominion the stocks held by the coopers may fill the possible demand, but in the majority of districts, where a large crop is forecasted, there does not appear to be sufficient stock to meet more than half the requirements.

In explanation of the shortage of stock it is claimed that the barrel manufacturers having suffered severe financial losses last year, have not made as large purchases as usual, and that on April 1st, 1922, there was only about 58 per cent. of the available supply of cooperage stock in sight as compared with the same time in 1921. Therefore, there is not nearly sufficient on hand should the apple crop turn out as at present prospected. This condition also applies to the barrel apple sections in the United States, where official reports from Washington state that the crop will be at least 200 per cent. greater than that of last year.

The barrel manufacturers claim that the apple growers are in the habit of holding back their orders for barrels until picking starts, thus causing a demand which overtaxes the capacity of the mills in a year of heavy production, with consequent delay and disappointment to many.

In order to avoid a possible repetition of the disaster of 1920, due to shortage of packages, the Canadian Horticultural Council strongly urges apple growers to immediately place their orders for at least half of their barrel requirements. By so doing, the growers will not only avoid disappointment and delay at the picking season, but will give the coopers a fair chance to meet the requirements of their customers as far as possible.

If you're the first to start to tell them you'll be the first to start to sell them—advertise.

A RADIO BALLAD

By Berton Brayley
Sadie O'Grady and Timothy Brady
Sure were an up-to-date pair;
She was a pretty and witty young lady,
He was a lad debonair.
They were a couple of radio sharks,
So when they'd part for awhile
Tim would express his concluding remark
After this manner and style:

"Sadie O'Grady, Oh
Ring me by radio,
Call me up often, my own,
You are my lady, Oh,
Sadie O'Grady, Oh
Ring me by radiophone!"

But Sadie would say,
"Sure your nerves are bringing
To ask me to call you. For Shame!
If anyone's gonna be radio-ringing

It's you should be doing the same!
I'll be at home in the evening, my dear,
Patiently lingering there;
You can be sure I'll be waiting to hear
When you call up through the air.

Timothy Brady, Oh
Ring up your Sadie; Oh
Call me by radio often, my own!
Bright days or shady, Oh
I'll be your lady, O,
If you'll just call me, Oh
Timothy Brady, O,
Call me by radiophone!"

The Missionary Conference

day, and each of the seven tables in the dining hall put on a clever stunt in the hall during the afternoon. While all were good, especial mention must be made of "Young Lochinvar," the "Barnyard Scene," and the grandmother song. The Presbyterian delegates were kindly entertained at afternoon tea by Rev. and Mrs. Geo. Miller at their hospitable manse.

The vesper service was held on the lawn in the twilight stillness with only the singing of birds and the soft wind among the leaves to interrupt. A most earnest and impressive message on "Life Service" was given by Dr. Line.

The public platform service was held in the Seminary Chapel, which was well filled with an interested audience. The opening hymns were sung with an enthusiasm which spoke well for the future of missionary work in our churches. The address of the evening was given by Rev. E. J. O. Fraser, who has recently returned from years' service in Korea. Mr. Fraser is the son of the late Rev. D. Stiles Fraser, honored and revered minister of the Presbyterian church in Nova Scotia.

At Saturday morning's class Mrs. Kennedy, of Dartmouth, told of the encouraging features of work among the Ruthenians in our own north-west, of many bright boys and girls who are to be the leaders among these Canadians, and of how very worth while it is to give our time and money that these people should be given a Christian education.

The sports committee had a wonderful plan for the afternoon which provided for a picnic for the whole conference to Grand Pre, where under Evangeline's historic willows, these merry missionary workers partook of a bountiful supper kindly prepared for them by Mrs. Reach, the gracious matron of Acadia Seminary.

The message at the Vesper service was brought by Miss Blackadder, who for 39 years labored as a missionary teacher in Trinidad. In her own inimitable way with quaint touches of humor and expressive gestures she told of being led to give her life to Jesus Christ and to definite service for Him in the days when she attended normal school in Truro and came under the religious influence of that wonderful educationist and preacher, Dr. Thomas MacCulloch. She vividly described the pioneer days of mission schools in Trinidad and left in the minds of her hearers a longing, and a desire to be of some use for the Master in this great work of teaching those who know Him not and of His great love for them.

At the platform meeting in the chapel the address of the evening was given by Rev. H. F. Laflamme, formerly Baptist missionary to India and now secretary of the federated churches of America with headquarters at New York. Mr. Laflamme is a platform orator of a high order with a keen sense of humor and a most logical and satisfying way of presenting his facts. His subject was "The Evangelization of the World," which he said involved the establishment of a great world brotherhood, where God is the father and Jesus the elder brother, and where all live together as one family in a true christian way.

The class work was resumed on Monday morning with heartiness. From the standpoint of those who wished to learn methods of teaching perhaps the most profitable class was that conducted by Rev. Mr. Priest who brings a wealth of experience as a teacher and leader of missionary study. Mr. Priest was the life of the Conference in many problems.

In the afternoon the visitors were given a drive to the various points of interest in and around Wolfville, automobiles for the purpose being furnished by the citizens. The outing, which was under the direction of Mayor Sutherland, proved a most enjoyable one.

At the vesper service the subject of life service was brought before the audience in a straightforward and impressive address by Rev. E. J. O. Fraser, of Korea. At eight o'clock all gathered in the Seminary Chapel for the evening service which took the form of two missionary pageants, conducted by Mrs. Lewis Parker, who represented Canada welcoming to her shores the immigrants from all lands and giving them the gospel; and by Dr. Zillah Clark, representing the heathen nations of the world bound by superstition, ignorance, disease and despair until Christianity sent her children to free them from their bondage.

Tuesday was closing day at the Conference and regrets were heard on every hand that the pleasant and profitable gathering must come to a close. The classes all had closing sessions finishing up their six days of lecture with discussions and final questioning. The institute period was especially attractive as ways and means of promoting missionary education in our churches was considered. In the afternoon many visited the gymnasium and spent some time in healthy exercise there. Others went on hikes, or motor drives.

The Baptist delegation were kindly entertained at afternoon tea by Prof. and Mrs. Perry in their hospitable home, and an enjoyable time was spent. Another party motored to Kentville and were shown through the Sanatorium there, and then entertained most hospitably at the manse by Rev. & Mrs. R. B. Layton. Mrs. Layton was assisted in serving by Mrs. Campbell of Campbellton, and Miss Joan Fraser, of Pictou.

The evening service was the culmination of a week of rare opportunities, and the solemnity of the occasion was felt by all present. No one who has attended these meetings and listened to the needs of the great world being presented by those who knew, can remain unmoved. Into many hearts has come the desire to do greater service than ever before. This was emphasized by many of the leaders as they gave their impressions of the conference and was further stressed by the younger members as they told of decisions for service made during the past week.

The end of the conference is only the beginning of larger and better service.

W. E. Marshall, of Bridgewater, the well-known poet and litterateur of Nova Scotia, is making a short visit in town at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Guest, with whom he motored from his home.
