The commercial intelligence immediately relating to the Canadian trade is not very important, a forther decline in Ashes, as will be seen below, being its most important festure. The temporary difficulty in which the old and respectable Banking-house of Sir J. Espanic & Co. had been involved, upited with two very extensive failures in the silk trade in London, and a firm at Bristol, had rather unsetiled the money market in London. Trade generally is spoken of as being in the most pros. perous condition. The Wheat market was shade lower, and purchases of that article in

The advices received yesterday from New York, notice a further fall in the rate of Exchange on England. On Monday bills were offered freely at N prem, without finding buyers. This decline had an immediate effect on the money market, which was easier. Flour was very firm at $12 for common brands of Western. A sale was made of 1000 bashels Red German Wheat at $2,07, but all descriptions of this grain are stated to be very dull and prices declining.

Commencing with Coal, as the most important of our miners' products, there appears to have been the usual steady and adequate demand, from which a fair and remanerating price has saturally resulted; we may infer, also, from the general absence of those atriks among the working miners, which have at former periods produced such unfortunate consequences, that the relations substiting between them and their can. ing miners, which have at former periods produced such unfortunate consequences, that the reittions subsisting between them and their cappioyers have been more satisfactorily adjusted. The Iron trade, flourishing in the earlier part of the year, almost without precedent, has considerably declined in activity towards the close, but is still by no means depressed. This circumstance, resulting from the completion of many foreign orders, railway contracts, eds., which had previously given a great temporary stimulus to this branch of mining must, however, have been foreseen from the first; and as the iron-masters have very pradently decreased the make in proportion to the smaller demand, there is every probability that a fair and remunerating price will still be maintained.

The Copper trade has been throughout the year in a sound and prosporous state, the metal-not having materially fluctuated in its price, which has been such as to afford satisfactory, pro-fits to the minor, and enable the more success-ful mines, both of England and Ireland, to pay very considerable dividends to the sharehold-ers.

Lisson—Wine Merchants.—The measure by which the wine merchants at Oporto we called upon to pay one half the amount of the expert duty in advance, meets with a most determined opposition at Oporto. The parties, in the first instance, addressed a strong joint remonstrance to the Government, which having been dieregarded, they have since declared, in the most positive terms, that they will not pay one farthing in advance. One English house—that of Ormerode & Co.—has 12,061 pipes in the stores, and is consequently called upon for £9.000. The British merchants intend to apply, through Lord Howard, to the British Government for protection against this proceeding.

Joseph R. Chandler, R. Penn Smith.

The Proprietor of the Lady's Book is determined to use every means to maintain the superiority which his publication has obtained. For years he has gone steadily on in the course of improvement, and he flatters himself that his facilities are such as to give his work eminent advantages over his competitors. His very ample subscription list enables him to be liberal in his expenditures upon it, and whatever can be accomplished by enterprize and cost he is resolved to effect. Besides the persona above mentioned as contributors, he has expectations of receiving original articles from several distinguished female writers in Europe; and as an indusement to writers of our own country, he is willing to pay for every article adopted by him as suitable to his publication, as high a rate of remuneration as will be given by the proprietors of any other periodical in the United States. The mechanical portion of the Lady's Book will likewise be improved. The typography will be most elegant, and the paper of a better quality. During the y-ar portraits, engraved on steel, of several eminent ladies will be given; and every second month a coloured plate, illustrating the prevailing fashion, will be furnished. Other embellishments, calculated to enhance the appaarance and in rease the value of the work, will be introduced; and generally, everything will be done that the most untiring purpose of making the Lady's Book pre-eminently entitled to patronage can suggest. With the experience he has acquired during a long course of years deveted to the business, and the aid to be derived from the distinguished hady who will be menforth be associated with him, the Publisher is confident that he will be able to render the amplest satisfaction to all who may become his patrone. In regard to an elective Legislative Council, the Committee remark:—" Your Committee find it difficult to conceive how a change, which would make the Legislative Council elective, and so give the people a double representation, each branch being in every respect independent of the Crown, could have any other effect than to render the whole system democratic, and, as your Committee believe, inevitably to lead to a few of the Crown of the Cr

That a "system" of Government of Gover object to any more branchs ture than one, being made nothing in their opinion to object appears to us, that the Committee in their use of this phrasculogy, follow the popular, or we should rather say, the party notion, of the three branches of, the Legislature being in the condition of three antagonist and equal forces, and that, all pulling different ways, their effect or resultant is, mirabile dicts, in the highest degree beneficial to the country. It would be out of place here to attempt getting at the practical value of such a theory of a balanced Government as that alluded to. In manuming it to be a theory, we neitly deny its existence in fact; and such a country we are that such a current of the place of the such would be a monastry which would be a monastry where a continuation of the first provided the monable to easy which would be a monastry which would be a monastry where the woman incantinuary enters that the fire broked drying room where the womanic and a very young child.
