In Ranial, there was a voice heart, weeping, and lamentation, and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children; and would not be comforted."

Ms. Hassy and Tom jogged onward in their wagon, each for a time absorbed in his own reflections. Now, the reflections of two men sitting side by side are a curious thing—seated on the same seat, having the same eyes, ears, hands, and organs of all sorts, and having pass before their eyes the same objects; it is wonderful, what a sariety we shall find in these same reflections.

below there we the same objects: it is wonderful, what a mariety we shall find in these same reflections!

As fire example, Mr. Haley 'he thought first of Tum's length, and breadth, and height, and what he would sell for, if he was kept fit and in good case, fill he got him into market. He thought of how he should make out his gang he thought of the respective market value of certain suppositious men and women and children who were to compose it, and other kindred topics of the business: then he thought of himself, and, how shumane he was, that, whereas other man chaineds their "niggers" hand and foot both, he only put fetters out the feet, and left, Tom, the use of his hands as long as he behaved well; and he sighed to think how ungrateful human sature was, so that there was even soom to doubt whether Tom appreciated his mercies. He had been taken in so by "niggers! whom he had favoured; but will be was astonished to consider how good-natured he yet remained.

astonished to consider how good-natured he yet remained.

As to Tom, he was thinking over some words of an unfashionable old book, which kept running, through his head, again and again, as follows. It we have here no continuing city, but we seek one to come; wherefore God himself is not ashamed to be called our God; for He hath prepared for us a city. "These words of an ancient volume, got up principally by "ignorant, and unlearned men," have, through all time, kept up soinchow a strange sort of power over the minds of poor simple fellows like Tom. They stir up the soul from its depths, and round; as with trumpet call, courage, energy, and enthusiasm, where before was only the blackness of despair.

Mr. Haley pulled out of his pocket sundry newspapers, and began, looking over their advertisements with absorbed interest. He was not a remarkably fluent resider, and was in the habit of reading in a sort of recitative, half aloud, by way of celling in his cars to verify the deductions of his eyes. In this tone he slowly recited the following paragraph:

the old woman, with passionate eagerness; "he and I goes in a lot together; I's rail strong yet, mas'r, and can do heaps o' work—heaps on it, mas'r."

"On plantations?" said Haley with a contemptuous glance. "Likely story?" and as if satisfied with his examination, he walked out and looked, and stood with his hands in his pocket, his cigar in his mouth, and his hat cocked on one side, ready for action.

"What think o''em?" said a man who had been following Haley's examination, as if to make up his own mind from it.

"Wal," said Haley, spitting, "I shall put in, I think, for the youngerly ones and the boy."

"They wait to sell the boy and the old woman together," said the man.

"Find it a tight pull; why, she's an old rack o' bones—not worth her sait."

"You wouldn't then?" said the man.

"Anybody'd be a fool 'twoud. She's half blind, crooked with the rheumatis, and foolish to boot.

"Some buys' up these yer old critture, and see ther's a sight more wear in 'ein than a body'd think," said the man reflectively.

"No go 'ull," said Haley: "wouldn't take her for a present—falet: I've sen, now."

"Wal, 'tis kinder pity, now, not to buy her with her som—ber heart seems so sot on him; s'pose they fling her in cheap."

"Them that 'e got modey to spend that ar way, it's all well enough. I shall bid off on that ar boy for a plantation-hand; wouldn't be bothered with her no way—not if they'd give her to me," said Haley.

"She'll take on deep't," saidthe man.

"Nae'lly, she will," said the trader, coolly. The conversation was here interrupted by a busy hum in the audience; and the saictioneer, a short, bustling, important follow, elbowed his way into the erowd. The old woman drew in her breath, and caught instinctively at her son.—

"Eksep' close to your manmy,' Albest—slose.—

"Ey must, child; I can't live, no ways, if they don't." said the old creature vehemently.

"O mammy, I'm fear'd they won't," said the boy.

"Dey must, child; I can't live, no ways, if they don't," said the old creature vehemently. The stemtorian tones of the auctioneer, calling out to clear the way, now announced that the sale was about to commence. A place was cleared, and the bidding began. The different men on the list were soon knocked off at prices which showed a pretty brisk demand in the market; two of them fell to Haley.

"Come, how, young un." said the auctioneer, giving the boy a touch with his hammer; "be up, and show your springs, now."

"Put us two togedder, togedder—do please, mas'r," said the old woman, holding fast to her boy.

The Le Balle Reserv, as heave and beautiful a boat as ever walked the waters of her namesake river, was floating gally down the stream, under a brilliant sky, the stripes and stars of free America waving and fluttering overhead; the stand and straighten himself, bend his back, and perform various evolutions to show his muscles; and then passed on to the next, and put him through the same trial. Walking up last to the boy, he felt of his arms, straightened ing! all but Haley's gang, who were stored, with other freight, on the lower deck, and who, is hands, and looked at his fingers, and made him jump, to show his agility.

The La Belle Riviere, as brave and beautiful a boat as ever walked the waters of her namesake river, was floating gally down the stream, under a brilliant sky, the stripes and stars of free America waving and fluttering overhead; the guards crowded with well-dressed ladies and gentleman, walking and enjoying the delightful day? All was full of life, buoyanf, and rejoicing? all but Halley's gang, who were stored, with other freight, on the lower deck, and who, tomehow, did not seem to appreciate their various privileges, as they sat in a knot, talking to each other in low tones.

"Bogs," said Halley, coming up briskly, "I hope you keep up good heart and are cheerful. Now, no sulks, ye see; keep stiff upper lip, boys; do well by me, and I'll do well by you." The boys addressed responded the invariable "Yes, mast"," for ages the watchword of poor Africa; but it's to be owned, they did not look particularly cheerful. They had their various little prejudices in favour of wives, mothers, sisters, and children, seen for the last time; and though "they that wasted them required of them wirth," it was not instantly forthcoming.

"I've got a wife," spoke out the article enumerated as "John, aged thirty," and he laid his chained hand on Tom's knee, "and she don't know a word about this, poor girl."

"Where does she live!" said Tom.

"In a tavern a piece down here," said John; "I wish, now, I could see her once more in this world," he added.

Poor John'! It was rather natural; and the tears that fell as he spoke came as naturally as if he had been a white man. Tom drew a long breath from a sore heart, and reied, in his poor way, to comfort him.

And overhead, in the cabin, sat fathers and mothers, husbunds and wives; and merry dancing children moved round among them, like so many little butterflies, and everything was going du quite easy and comfortable.

"O, mamma!" said a boy, who had just come up from below; "there's a negro trader on board, and he's brought four

"Poor creatures!" said the mother, in a tone between grief and indignation.

"What's that!" said another lady.
"Some poor slaves below," said the mother.

"And they've got chains on," said the boy.
"What a shame to our country that such sights are bo be seen!" said another lady.

"Oh, there's a great deal to be said on both sides of the subject," said a genteel woman, who sat at her state-room door, sewing, while her little girl and boy were playing round her.
"The been south, and I must say I think the negroes are better off, than they would be to be free."

"I some respects some off them are well off, I grant," said the lady to whose remark she had answered. "The most dreadful part of slavery, to my mind, is its outrages on the feelings and affections—the separating of families, for example."

"That is a had thing, certainly," said the other lady, holding up a baby's dress she had just completed, and looking intently on its trimmings; "but then I fancy, it don't occur often."

"Oh, it does," said the first lady, eagerly; "I've lived many years in Kentucky and Virginia both, and I've seen enough to make one's heart sick. Suppose, ma'am, your two children there should be taken from you and sold?"

"We can't reason from our feelings to those of this class of persons," said the other lady, sorting out some worsteds on her lap.

"Indeed, ma'am, you can know nothing of them, if you say so," answered the first lady, warmly. "I was born and brought up among them. I know they de feel, just as keenly—even more so,—perhape—as we do."

The lady said "Indeed!" yawned, and looked out at the cabin window, and finally repeated for a finale, the remark with which she had begun—" After all, I think they are better off than they would be to be free."

"It's undoubtedly the intention of Providence that the African race should be servants—kept in a block, a clergyman, seated by the

The young man paused, looked as if he was going to say more, when suddenly the boat stopped, and the company made the usual atcamboat rush to see where they were landing.

"Both them ar chars parsons?" add John to ome of the men, as they were going out.

The man nodded.

As the boat stopped, a black woman came tunning wildly up the plank, darted into the crowd, flew up where the slave gang sat and threw her arms round that unfortunate piece of merchandize, before enumerated, "John, aged thirty," and with subs and tears bemosaned him as her husband.

But what needs tell the story, told too oft—the overyeay told—of heart-strings rent and broken—the weak broken and torn for the profit and convenience of the strong! It needs to be told: every day is telling it—telling it, too, in the ear of One who is not deaf, though He be long silent.

The young man who had spoken for the cause of huranity and God before stood with folded arms, looking on this scene. He turned, and Haley was standing at his side. "My friend," he said, apeaking with thick utterance, "how can you, how dare you, carry on a trade like this! Look at these poor creatules! Here I am. rejoining in ny heart that I am going home to my wife and child? and the same bell which is a signal to carry me onward towards them will part this poor man and his wife for ever. Depend upon it, Ged will bring you into Judgment for this."

The trader turned away in silence.

"I say, now," said the drover, touching his elbow, "there's differences in parsons, an't there! "Cussed be Canhan, don't asem to go down with this 'un, does it!"

Haley gave an uneasy growl.

"And that ar an't the worst on 't," said John:" mebbe it wan't go down with the Lord, acither, when ye come to settle lith Him, one o' these days, as all on us that, ackon."

Haley walked reflectively the other end of the boat.

The boat swept proudly away from the shore, and all went on merrily as before. Men talked, and lossed, and read, and smoked. Women sewed, and children played, and the boat passed no fier way.

GLEANINGS FROM LATE PAPERS.

The Royal Children.—The education of the royal children, observes a contemporary, being a matter in which all must feel interested, a few details of the manner in which the day of the royal scholars is divided may perhaps be entertaining to our readers. A primary regard is paid to moral and religious duties. They rise early, breakfast at eight, and dine at two. Their various occupations are allotted out with almost military exacteness. One hour finds them engaged in the study of the ancient—another of the modern authors, their acquaintanceship with languages being first founded on a thorough knowledge of their grammatical construction, and afterwards familiarised and perfected by conversation. Next they are trained in those military exercises which give dignity and bearing. Another hour is agreably filled up with the lighter accomplishments of music and dancing. Again the happy fittle party assemble in the riding-school, where they may be seen deeply interested in the various evalutions of the menage. SIR CHARLES WAPTER AND THE NATIONAL

SIR CHARLES NAFIEE AND THE NATIONAL DEFENCES.

Sir,—Lord Mount-Edgeumbe has written a very alarming letter. No wonder. He lives near one of our great arsenals, and knows its weakness, and he has no wish to see a French admiral or general in his home. Mr. Ewart, on the other hand, has written a very tranquillizing letter, which is not surprising, as he has been living in the society of the scientific and learned men of Paris, who camot desire war. Had he associated with the naval and military men, I suspect he would have come to a he associated with the naval and military men, I suspect he would have come to a different conclusion. Mr. Ewart, I am glad to see, approves an effective system of defence. All experienced and right-thinking men will agree with him. Lord J. Russell has announced, that it is not the intention of the Government to further increase the army or navy. I am sorry for it. I am told, that we cannot bring into the field more than 20,000 regular troops of all arms, after Jeaving garrisons in places that must be defended. That is a very small force for the protection of the country, even when be defended. That is a very small force for the protection of the country, even when supported by $0,000 militin. The Government, however, seem satisfied. I therefore conclude, they have no fear of a sudden attack, and the $0,000 militin, if well-officered and well commanded, and kept longer in the field, will no doubt become effective in time. As to the navy, I am in hopes the 5,000 seamen and 1,000 marines voted will canable the Admiralty to require as well resident. enable the Admiralty to produce an efficient Channel fleet, and, as the Committee have Channel fleet, and, as the Committee have made their report on manning the navy, it is to be hoped, some plan will be fixed upon to enable the Queen to call out the seamen wanted in any emergency. The country looks up to the navy as its surest defence, and I have no doubt it will do its duty; but and I have no doubt it will do its duty; but it cannot do impossibilities. The attacking party at the beginning of a war has always the advantage, because it can call in all its ships from foreign stations without our knowledge, and concentrate them where it pleases, and steam greatly facilitates such an operation. In 1840 this was done. France disagreed with the allied Powers on the affairs of Syria, a rupture was expected, as French fleet, superior to ours, was cola French fleet, apperior to ours, was col-lected at Toulon, and no less than 20 ships-of-war, of different sizes—eight being large frigates—were assembled at Martinique and Guadaloupe, to face which we had a half-manned British frigate. This can be done again, and there is our danger.

I remain, your obdt. Servt.,
Charles Napier.

Sir Charles Wood, at a public dinner at Halifax, England, gave a hint, the first that has been given, of the intentions of the government with respect to the extension of the franchise. He said, he did not hold that there exists any peculiar test of virtue in the rental of a £10 house, but some such in the rental of a gave noise, but some sacar criterion was necessary for the purposes of registration. Nevertheless, the government is prepared to extend the frachise so as to embrace the most intelligent of the classes now excluded by reason of not paying rent to that amount: This is an important hint, coming as it does from one of the most cautious members of the government, and would indicate, that some definite plan is decided on by the cabinet.

A company has been advertised for constructing an Atlantic and Pacific junction cannot through the Isthmus of Darien at a can through the istumus of Darien at a cost of £15,000,000 sterling. This route, it appears, has never been actually surveyed, but some superficial observations have been made, which lead to the assumption that if the levels should prove such as they are supposed to be, a canal capable of passing the largest vessels without locks might be excavated for the sum specified.

The Phoenix series steam sloop was built at Chiatham in 1832, of 800 tons further, and she was amongst the earliest Government steamers the different propeller and coellasting on gines, by John Fenn and Son, of 260-hores horse power. She can stow 210 tons of coal, and has good accommodation on board for the comfort of the steam, with ample room for a large supply of stores. When brought down to Woolwich, in the course of next week, she will have her boilers put on board, and be maderiady to leave in the first week of May next for the arctic regions. REPLY.

To the Committee of the Cove Head and Stanhope, Singing Class, Gentlessen;
It is with fielings of gratitude, not unmixed with surprise, that I received the very complimentary Address you so kindly presented nie, and in answering I feel incompetent to do the justice it deserves.

Although the disadvantages under which you laboured were undoubtedly many, yet I am happy to be able to state, that your attention to the besons, including the present of your willingness to be taught, and ability to learn, while your appreciation of my cervices are more than a reward for any exertions of mine.

In conclusion, Gentlemen, T beg to return you, and through you to the Ladies, my sincere thanks for the many expressions of kindness evinced since I came among you, and you kind remembrance of Mrs. Ross which will ever be gratefully remembrance of Mrs. Ross which will ever be gratefully remembrance of Mrs. Ross which will ever be gratefully remembrance of Mrs. Ross which will ever be gratefully remembrance of Mrs. Ross which will ever be gratefully remembrance of Mrs. Ross which will ever be gratefully remembrance of Mrs. Ross which will ever be gratefully remembrance of Mrs. Ross which will ever be gratefully remembrance of Mrs. Ross which will ever be gratefully remembrance of Mrs. Ross which will ever be gratefully remembrance of Mrs. Ross which will ever be gratefully remembrance of Mrs. Ross which will ever be gratefully remembrance of Mrs. Ross & Ross.

III. To the chance of obtaining one of TWO HUNDRED INDIA PAPER PROOFS, in Folio, of Ten Etchings on Steel, by W. B. Scott, Esq., after Paintings by his late distinguished brother, David Scott, Esq., R. S. A., with a Memoir of his life, Engraved and Written expressly for the Art Union of Glasgow.

vid Scott, Esq., R. S. A., with a memor of his life, Engraved and Written expressly for the Art Union of Glasgow.

IV. To the chance of obtaining a PAINTING, or other Work of Art, at the Annual General Meeting.

The Committee of the ART UNION OF GLASGOW have much pleasure in directing particular attention to the Engraving of this year, and the very beautiful selection of Etchings from the Works of the late talented Artist, DAVID SCOTT, Esq., R. S. A., to be given as Frizze; and would also draw attention to the Plan of the Art Ubion of Glasgow, which partakes of all the best features of the different systems now adopted by contemporary Associations; for while, on the one hand, a guarantee is afforded, from an experienced Committee purchasing the Pictures, that nothing but Works of Merit will be bought, the Subscribers, on the other hand, have all the advantages of Money Prizze, in having the privilege of selecting from the Works of Art purchased, according to the number of the Prizz allotted to them, such Painting, or other Work of Art, as may be most pleasing to them. This plan has been in operation for several years, and has given the most unqualified satisfaction.

The Committee respectfully urge on all friendly ear. March, 1853. BELLS! BELLS! BELLS!

BELLS! BELLS! BELLS!
THE Subscribers manufacture and keep constantly on hand, all sizes of Church, Factory, Steamboat, Ferry, Locomotive, School House and Plantation Bells, with the best description of Hangings.
These Bells are made from the best stock, and the small sizes undergo the same process in manufacturing as Church Bells. An experience of thirty years, with a great many recent improvements, and an entirely new method of casting, enables us to obtain the most meledious tone, combining also, in extraordinary vibration.

Nearly 9,000 Bells have been cast and sold from this Foundry, which is the best evidence of their superiority. We have fifteen Gold and Silver medals at our office, which were awarded for the "best Bells for sonoroneness and purity of tone." We pay particular attention to the getting up Feals or Chimes, and can refer to those furnished by us. Our establishment is contiguous to the Eris and Champlain Canals, and Rallroade running in every direction, which brings us within four hours of New York. Cash paid for old Copper. Old Clocks, Levels, Compasses, Transits, Theodolites, &c., for eals, of superior workmanship. All communications, either by mail or otherwise will have immediate attention.

VARIETIES.

POPULAR GENDERS .- The sun is called masculine from his supporting and sustain-ing the moon, and finding her the where-withal to shine away as she does of a night; and from his being obliged to keep such a family of stars besides. The moon is feminine because she is continually changing; just as whip is blown about by every wind.

The Church is feminine because she is married to the State, and Time is masculine because he is trifled with by the ladies.

Here is a very beautiful thought of that strange compound of Scotch shrewdness, strong common sense and German mysticism or uncommon sense—Thomas Carlyle:

"When I gaze into the stars, they look down upon me with pity from their serene and silent spaces, like eyes glistening with tears over the little lot of man. Thousands of generations, all as noisy as our own, have been swallowed up of Time, and there remains no record of them, any more, yet Arcturus and Orion, and the Pleiades are still shining in their courses, clear, and young, as when the shepherd first noted them in the plain of Shinar! "What shadows we are," and what shadows we pursue."

SQUARING THE CIRCLE .-- A dentist presented a bill for the tenth time to a rich skinflint." It strikes me," said the latter'
"that this is a pretty round bil?" "Yes," replied the dentist, "I've sent it round often replied the dentist, "I've sent it round often enough to make it appear so, and I have called now to have it squared."

Want of Punctuality.—In many cases this amounts to robbery. A short time, since, at a village in the neighbourhood of London, a committee of eight ladies, who managed the concerns of the institution which had been established for the relief of neighbouring poor, agreed to meet on a certain day at cleven o'clock precisely. Seven of them attended punctually at the appointed hour, the eighth did not arrive till a quarter of an hour after. See came in, according to the usual mode, with "I am very sorry to be behind in the time appointed, but really the time slipped away without my being sensible of it, I hope your goodness will execute it." One of the ladies, who was a Quakeress, replied, "Truly, friend, it does not appear clear to me, that we ought to accept thy apology. WANT OF PUNCTUALITY .-- In many cases me, that we ought to accept thy apology. Had thyself only lost a quarter of an hour, it would have been merely thy own concern, but in this case the quarter must be multiplied by eight, so that there has been two hours sacrificed by thy want of punctuality."

OVERHEAD.—"Come in, Joe, and let's take a drink," Thank ye, Thomas, can't afford it." "Well, but I'll pay for it." 'Oh, I'm not speaking of the money." "What then?" "Loss of health and energy; for I tell you what it is, Thomas, I find it up-hill business to work steady on under liquor; it does well enough for half an hour, and then I get lazy and moody want more, and be-I get lazy and moody, want more, and be-come reakless, and that's why I can't afford it, so, here's home to dinner."

During the last war, a Quaker was on board an American ship engaged in close combat with an enemy. He preserved his peace principles calmly, until he saw a stout Briton climbing up the vessel by a rope which hung everboard. Seizing a hatchet, the Qraker looked over the side of the ship, and remarked, "Friend, if thee wants that when you have it." when piece of rope, thee may have it;" when, suiting the deed to the word, he cut off the rope, and down went the poor fellow to his long watery home!

In the recent troubles among the riggers in New York, there were plenty of strakes but no blows! This reminds one of another fact, where a lady cut another severely in the street, without making any sound, though much ill-blood was produced.

A Wonderful at New Orleans, in resonanced

A Wowderful Clock.—A Clock on the Oathedral at New Orleans, is prenounced to be a mechanical weeder. It is an eight day clock, and has three diale—one of six feet diameter in front of the edifice, over a hundred feet from the ground; another of the same size on the rear; and a third of small size is the interior, all moved by the same machinery. The large dials are of transparent glass, the figures and the hands being painted white, and at the back of the glass stick cloth of black velves, making the surface of the class to appear black. These dials are lighted at night by gas burners, which, by an ingenious arrangement of the clock work itself, are extinguished daily, at a change of time conforming to the length of the night. This clock occupies but a small space, strikes the hours on a deep-toned bell, and the quarters of an hour on two smaller bells; and is furnished with a regular compen-

These Reprints have been in successful operation in this country for twenty years, and their circulation is constantly on the increase, notwithstanding the competition they encounter from American personicals of a similar class, and from the numerous Eclectics and Magazinea made up of celections from foreign periodicals: This fact shows clearly the high estimation in which they are held by the intelligent reading public, and affords a guarantee that they are established on a firm basis, and will be continued without interruption.

reading public, and affords a guarantee that they are established on a firm basis, and will be continued to without interruption.

Although these works are distinguished by the political shades above indicated, yet but a small portion of their contents is disvoted to political subjects. It is their literary character which gives them their shief value, and in that they stand confessedly far above allother journals of their class. Blacknessed, still under the masterly sublance of Christopher North, maintains its action celebrity, and is, at this time, unusually attractive, from the serial works of Bulwer and other literary notables, written for that magazine, and first appearing in its columns, both in Great Britain and in the United States. Such works as "The Caxtous" and "My New Novel, 'Coth by Bulwer), "My Peninsular Medal," "The Green Hand." and other serials, of which numerous rival editions are issued by the leading publishers in this country, have to be reprinted by those publishers from the pages of Blackwood, after it has been issued by Messrs. Scott and Co., so that Subscribers to the Reprint of that Magazine may always rely on having the earliest reading of these fascinating tales.

RHEUMMATISM CURED.

I certify, that I was ifflicted with a violent Rhaumatic pairs in the small of my back, which entirely disabled me, we that I could not get an without the greatest pain and effort; nor could I walk without a wanc, and but wery little with. I applied Dector Johnson's Anodone Limiment, or Liquid Opodeldoc, and several other remedies, without any relief. After suffering in this way about a week, I purchased a bottle of Cramp and Pain Killer, prepared by Courts & Perritish, Bangor, and after three applications was entirely relieved and free from pain, sud am now entirely well. I also cured a friend of mine, sibo had been suffering for a long time with a tame side, with the same bottle. T believe it the best medicine in the world, and an happy to add my testimony in its favor Outwan Towns.

Extract of a Letter from S. Gouver, Chemist, of Ciffon, Near Bristal, dated July 14th, 1852.
To Professor Hollowar,
DEAR Size—I am requested by a Lindy named Thomas, just arrived from the West indies, to requaint yea, that, for a period of eight years herself sud family suffered from continual bad health, arising from disorders of the Liver and Stomach, indigension, loss of Appetite, violent Head-aches, pains in the side weakness and general debility, for which she consulted the most eminent men in the colony, but without any beneficial result; at last, she had recourse to your invaluable Pills, which in a very short time effected to great a change for the better, that she continued them, and the whole family were restored to health and strength. Further she desires me to say, that she has witnessed their extraordinary virtues in those complaints incidental to children, particularly in cases of Measles and Scarlatina, having effected positive cures of these diseases with no other reinedy.
