

of the world we cannot but think that the construction of a tunnel three miles in length is scarcely a work from which the human race need turn back in dismay. It will be, however, that even this difficulty may be avoided; what seems wated at present is more accurate information. On every ground, political, and social, we would invite attention to this important subject. Were the canal formed we should be brought into very communication with the Pacific seaboard of the two great American continents—China, with Australia, with the islands of the Indian Archipelago. It would be life and presumption in us to expatiate on the enormous empire which would be communicated to foreign commerce by such a shortening of the marine high-road. We are not, as we before said, what route be chosen, so it be the best. It is an advantage to choose the more northerly route called the Lake of Nicaragua, as has been proposed, but Walker and his friends have swept at once out of the Nicaraguan territory, and let the work be commenced. If the more southerly route, which we have been endeavoring to describe to-day, be really the best, then let that scheme be carried into effect. If, finally, any intermediate point should seem to hold out greater advantages, we are equally content that that should be tried. But at least let us not waste our thoughts upon Polar expeditions, nor our money on the construction of railroads over the dreary steppes of Russia, while an great and so necessary work as the construction of a ship canal across the American isthmus awaits execution.—London Times.

A young woman died at Guy Hospital on Saturday, the 10th, from having drank a glass of chloride of zinc in mistake for gin. An account of Sir Charles Napier's Baltic campaign, proceeding from the pen of the admiral himself, is about to be published. Mr. Hugh Miller's last work, "The Testimony of the Rocks," which he finished on the day of his death, will be published before the end of January. An extraordinary meeting of the New Brunswick and Canada Railway and Land Company took place on the 9th, when a resolution was passed for reducing the capital from £300,000 to £200,000.

Jan "GARRA PATERSON."—Mr. J. Murray of the Grains toll-bar, performed his last splicing operation at the close of December, and he presented the "happy couple" with an eight-day clock, a cheese, and a bottle of whisky, for having made his fortune, he was in a good humour. He is about to turn to agriculture. Mr. Simon Laing, having left the boat to take upon himself his own default office, is about to resume the shuttle.—Christ Church Press.

Three men lately adopted a novel mode of getting hold of a cash-box, containing about £100 in notes and gold, at a public-house in London. They went into the bar and called for liquor, after which one of them fell upon the floor and feigned to be in a fit. He grasped his teeth, threw his arms and legs about and displayed various contortions of body until he had managed to unlock a drawer which contained the cash-box, and then a companion seized it and ran off with it. He was, however, stopped in his flight, and the property was recovered. Two of the thieves were taken into custody, but the third escaped.

MEETING OF UNEMPLOYED WORKMEN IN LONDON.—A meeting of the unemployed, numbering between 800 and 1000, was held on the 15th, in Smithfield, for the purpose of concerting measures to relieve the distress at present prevalent among workmen. The majority of the meeting appeared to consist of masons, bricklayers, coachmakers, carpenters, and laborers. Pierce, a journeyman carpenter, acted as chairman. In a speech of great moderation, he stated that he had been employed for some time in the workmen of the metropolis had, for some time, been out of employment. He disavowed any connection with chartists, and said he wished to obtain the desired end by legal means. Resolutions were carried, recommending that application should be made in mass at the poor-law unions, and that the Government should be requested to open an extensive system of emigration, and to remove all taxes on consumable articles. The proceedings were of a very quiet character.

THE PROPER USE OF THE BIBLE.—In a report of the Massachusetts Teachers' Association, held at Harvard, on the 6th and 7th Dec., and published in the Massachusetts Teacher for January, 1856, we find the following passage, which may be interesting at the present time: "The proper use of the Bible in school was the topic assigned for Friday afternoon. There was much animated debate on the subject. It was generally agreed that the Bible should be read in school, and that it should be read in a manner that would be beneficial to the pupils. It was also agreed that the Bible should be read in a manner that would be beneficial to the pupils. A FREE PRESS. Many persons are at present engaged in the task of writing a paper which shall be a model of the press. They are laboring to find a way in which to give to the people a paper which shall be a model of the press. According to announcement, a public meeting (the largest we understand ever convened in this town) was held in the Temperance Hall, on Friday evening last, to take into consideration the introduction of the Scriptures into the public schools. On motion of Com. Oriber, Col. Gray was chosen chairman, who opened the meeting with a brief address. Several ministers of the different Protestant denominations successively addressed the assembly, each one delivering a pretty long speech and moving or seconding a resolution. We have no room this week for the speeches; and as our contemporary of the Examiner intends giving them entire next week, we shall not present some idea of the spirit of the meeting.

Some persons, again, imagine that an edict of necessity given with every line that is published in his paper under the head of correspondence. This, we need hardly tell the more considerate portion of our readers, is far from being the case: if it were, we would have to refuse many communications, notices, and paragraphs, &c., the contents of which we do not agree with, but which we now print because we know such things interest the majority of the community. If we can combine the contents of our paper so as to make it do the greatest good for the greatest number, we cannot conscientiously concur in the idea that we have acted our part improperly and independently.
