

THE HERALD

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1890.

ALL ADVERTISING for publication in the HERALD should be in this office by noon on Tuesday. Persons wishing their advertisements changed must advise us Saturday forenoon.

AGAIN VICTORIOUS.

The general election, on Thursday last, resulted in a victory for the Government of Hon. Mr. McLeod. The majority is not very large, the party standing at present, without the special votes, chosen for the Government and fourteen for the Opposition. The special votes may slightly change these figures and possibly give us one or two more.

The return to power, for the fourth consecutive time of the Liberal-Conservative Party is without parallel in the history of political parties in this Province, and is the strongest proof that could be given of the people's appreciation of the manner in which that party has conducted the business of the Province.

King's is the Banner County, electing nine of the sixteen Government representatives. In this city the party made a desperate effort, but they were badly defeated under the Government two hundred majority.

Following are the names of the Government representatives elected as the voters stand at present:

- Annandale, B. H.
Carter, T. A.
Gordon, C.
Kelly, J.
McDonald, H. L.
McKay, J.
McLeod, Hon. Neil
McL. of Angus
Rogers, Shaw
Underway

Below will be found the number of votes received by each candidate, exclusive of special, as near as we have been able to ascertain.

KING'S COUNTY.

Table with 3 columns: District, Candidate, Votes. Includes districts like First District, Second District, etc.

QUEEN'S COUNTY.

Table with 3 columns: District, Candidate, Votes. Includes districts like First District, Second District, etc.

PRINCE COUNTY.

Table with 3 columns: District, Candidate, Votes. Includes districts like First District, Second District, etc.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Montreal Industrial Exhibition Company, with $100,000 capital, has been incorporated and will be given the use of the government exhibition buildings.

THE POISONING CASE.

It is reported that the poisoning case, which has been the subject of so much discussion, is now being investigated by the coroner.

POSTMASTER GENERAL'S REPORT.

A copy of the Report of the Postmaster General of Canada, for the year ended the 31st of June last, has come to hand. From this report it appears that the increase in the number of Post Offices in the Dominion was 167, the total number now in operation being 7,038—against 7,871 last year.

The mails conveyed between Canada, Japan and China are steadily increasing in importance, and it is evident that the advantages of this route to Europe are becoming more generally known and appreciated.

A mail recently received at Vancouver contained upwards of 4,000 letters from all parts of China and Japan for Europe, besides a large number for Canada and the United States.

The Post Office Act of last Session increased the limit of weight of a single rate letter from half an ounce to an ounce. The rate upon Drop letters was at the same time fixed at 2 cents per ounce.

The rate upon Miscellaneous matter was also reduced, in order to secure uniformity and to remove certain anomalies which previously existed.

The charge for the registration of a letter, parcel, book or other articles of mail matter was also made uniform, fixed at five cents for all classes of letters.

The frequent delay consequent upon the preparation of a wrong registration fee will no longer take place.

During the year ended 30th June, 1889, there were 243 cases of abstraction of contents or portions of contents from, or loss of registered letters containing money sent through the mails of the Dominion.

The contents (or portions thereof) in 62 of these cases were, after careful investigation into the circumstances of each case, made good by the officers held responsible for the loss; 96 letters were stolen while in the custody of the Post Office or from mails en route, the contents of which were not recovered.

In 32 cases the contents wholly, or in part, were alleged to be missing but no satisfactory evidence to account for the alleged discrepancy was obtainable; 21 letters were contained in mail parcels, as stated not to have been received at the office for which they were intended; and 47 letters were accidentally destroyed during the course of post.

The gross Postal Revenue of the year ended 30th June, 1889, was, as shown by the annual statement, $2,994,222.90, an increase of only $27,821 over the gross revenue of last year; but, as stated in the report of last year, the changes made in the system of accounting last year made it very difficult to say how far the diminution of revenue of the year ended 30th June last was due to an actual falling off in the receipts for the year, and how much to forestalling of the revenue of this year by forcing collections at the close of the last financial year, which would otherwise have been included in the revenue of the year now under review.

On the 30th June, 1888, there were 944 post offices in Canada authorized to transact Money Order business; to these were added during the past fiscal year 59, and of such offices 7 were discontinued, leaving on the 30th June, 1889, the total number of 998 Money Order Offices in operation.

The total number of money orders issued during the year was 672,813, of the value of $1,265,919.95, being an increase in number of 42,845 and an amount of $940,302.12 over the year ended 30th June, 1888, and 98,914 in number and $1,069,228.11 in amount over the issue of the year 1887.

466,679 of the money orders issued during the past year, amounting to $892,418.91 were payable within the Dominion; and 206,934, respecting $273,501.04, were payable in other countries or British Colonies.

Compared with last year, the increase in the amount of local orders is 171,943.18 and in order payable abroad $177,484.90; the increase in money orders issued by other countries and paid in Canada amounts to $30,829.20.

The total amount received from the Public for Commissions on the 672,813 orders issued during the past year was $99,267.63, of which amount $25,513.11 was received from the public, and the balance of $73,754.52 from the Post Office.

The money Order Convention concluded with success on the 12th of June last came into force on the 1st of October, and gives satisfactory indications that the arrangement will be found to be a great public convenience and materially assist in creating a trade between Canada and the States.

The money Order Convention concluded with success on the 12th of June last came into force on the 1st of October, and gives satisfactory indications that the arrangement will be found to be a great public convenience and materially assist in creating a trade between Canada and the States.

The money Order Convention concluded with success on the 12th of June last came into force on the 1st of October, and gives satisfactory indications that the arrangement will be found to be a great public convenience and materially assist in creating a trade between Canada and the States.

The money Order Convention concluded with success on the 12th of June last came into force on the 1st of October, and gives satisfactory indications that the arrangement will be found to be a great public convenience and materially assist in creating a trade between Canada and the States.

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS.

THE STABLEY COURT TO GEORGETOWN FROM PETER ON TUESDAY LAST.

JUDICIAL MASTERY OF THE QUEEN'S BENCH, LONDON, who was recently stricken with paralysis while on the bench, died on the 31st ult.

THE LEGISLATURES OF MANITOBA AND ONTARIO were opened for the despatch of business on the 30th ult.

Hon. Louis F. R. Masson, ex-Lieutenant Governor of Quebec, has been appointed to the Dominion Senate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Rodier.

THREE thousand workmen held a meeting at Braun, Austria, on the 31st ult., and decided to make a holiday on the 1st of March, in honor of a great demonstration in favor of the eight hour movement.

Wm. Crozier, aged 19, son of Michael Crozier, of Montreal, was crushed to death by a log in the timber works at St. Hubert, on Friday last. He was lifting the log on to a sled with a pry-bar when he slipped forward, the log falling on his head. He lived five hours.

SENATOR RODIER'S funeral which took place on the 30th ult., was one of the largest ever witnessed in Montreal. The Secretary of State, Chaplain and leading parliamentarians were present. Deceased leaves a fortune estimated at $200,000.

A New Jersey negro visited a chicken house and shot recently and stole thirty chickens, eighteen bushels of corn, two bags of corn meal, three bags of rye feed and two bags of rye in the grain. This New Jersey negro, should thank his stars that he was left the chicken house and grain shed.

A MEDICAL and literary entertainment will be given under the auspices of the League of the Cross, in St. Patrick's Hall, (Wednesday) evening. A very interesting program has been prepared, and an enjoyable evening may be expected.

A MOST distressing case resulting from influenza came from Lunenburg, Ontario. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson, an old couple living alone, for ten days lay dead without a doctor. Finally Mrs. Robertson died and the body was left in the house for several days before the neighbors dropping in made the distressing discovery.

MRS. STEPHENSON, wife of Mr. James M. Stephenson, Barrister, has for some time been ill and under the medical care of Dr. Johnson. As she did not improve as the doctor expected it should, she was removed to the Lunenburg Dispensary. A messenger was despatched to the Dispensary, where the medicine was tampered with, and had some of it analyzed, when a portion of arsenic was found in the bottle. In connection with this discovery the sudden departure from the Dispensary of Dr. Johnson, is regarded by most people as a suspicious circumstance. She is said to have left here at 2 o'clock on Saturday morning last, and to have crossed at the Cape on that day.

THE Dominion Illustrated.—The last number of this excellent journal (January 25) is rich in portraits of persons of eminence connected with the history, life and progress of Canada. Every Canadian will accept the fine likeness of Dr. Parkman, the historian, as a welcome boon, while in the domain of science Dr. Sterry Hunt is equally well known. The views of the Dominion, as well as the progress of our leading industries, are accompanied by portraits of the Rev. Dr. Adams, the Principal, and Mr. Heneker, the Chancellor. The place of honor is occupied by Mr. John Lowe, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, of whom a full page portrait is given. In the illustrations of both the older and the newer portions of the Dominion the number is on a par with its predecessors. Most interesting is the view of the old Silvery Mission House, near Quebec, and of the adjacent mission of the Ursuline nuns, the lovely and serene residence of Mr. R. B. Dobell. The Northwest is represented by a view of a series of string beams, near Lethbridge, and of a Blackfoot Indian standing with his gun in front of his tent. The City of Montreal, as well as depicted. One of the most interesting of the illustrations is that of the Rev. Dr. Adams, the Principal, and Mr. Heneker, the Chancellor. The place of honor is occupied by Mr. John Lowe, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, of whom a full page portrait is given. In the illustrations of both the older and the newer portions of the Dominion the number is on a par with its predecessors.

THE money Order Convention concluded with success on the 12th of June last came into force on the 1st of October, and gives satisfactory indications that the arrangement will be found to be a great public convenience and materially assist in creating a trade between Canada and the States.

THE money Order Convention concluded with success on the 12th of June last came into force on the 1st of October, and gives satisfactory indications that the arrangement will be found to be a great public convenience and materially assist in creating a trade between Canada and the States.

THE money Order Convention concluded with success on the 12th of June last came into force on the 1st of October, and gives satisfactory indications that the arrangement will be found to be a great public convenience and materially assist in creating a trade between Canada and the States.

THE money Order Convention concluded with success on the 12th of June last came into force on the 1st of October, and gives satisfactory indications that the arrangement will be found to be a great public convenience and materially assist in creating a trade between Canada and the States.

THE money Order Convention concluded with success on the 12th of June last came into force on the 1st of October, and gives satisfactory indications that the arrangement will be found to be a great public convenience and materially assist in creating a trade between Canada and the States.

THE money Order Convention concluded with success on the 12th of June last came into force on the 1st of October, and gives satisfactory indications that the arrangement will be found to be a great public convenience and materially assist in creating a trade between Canada and the States.

THE money Order Convention concluded with success on the 12th of June last came into force on the 1st of October, and gives satisfactory indications that the arrangement will be found to be a great public convenience and materially assist in creating a trade between Canada and the States.

THE money Order Convention concluded with success on the 12th of June last came into force on the 1st of October, and gives satisfactory indications that the arrangement will be found to be a great public convenience and materially assist in creating a trade between Canada and the States.

THE money Order Convention concluded with success on the 12th of June last came into force on the 1st of October, and gives satisfactory indications that the arrangement will be found to be a great public convenience and materially assist in creating a trade between Canada and the States.

THE money Order Convention concluded with success on the 12th of June last came into force on the 1st of October, and gives satisfactory indications that the arrangement will be found to be a great public convenience and materially assist in creating a trade between Canada and the States.

SOURIS NOTES.

The debating club formed here in December is doing well and is quite amusing as well as profitable to the members. It holds weekly meetings on Saturdays.

Some of the subjects discussed lately were "Annexation vs. Independence," "High License vs. Soft Act," and "Necessity vs. Love of Fame," as an account of the proceedings will be given in our next issue.

Next night the programme is devoted to speech-making on subjects named by the members.

The rink, too, is a good source of recreation as well as amusement. It has been very quiet and is quite a credit to its promoters.

The students of Souris will, no doubt, by spring be a happier and healthier people than at present.

It is intended to have a carnival on the 10th inst. Preparations are already being made.

The Souris Band furnishes excellent music and the skaters enjoy it to the limit. The "Dutch Roll Backwards" is a favorite movement this year.

Father Mearns of Grand River, is to give a lecture next Thursday evening in the Rolla Bay Library Hall. We, no doubt, will have a good lecture and Father Mearns is a crowned hero.

Souris again has a newspaper started in this town. This time it is called the "Souris News" and is being edited by a very good reading and commendable set of editors. It is to be hoped it will continue and grow.—Cox. Feb. 3, 1890.

HEAVY LOSS IN CHURCH PROPERTY.

The Catholic parish church at Beausport, Quebec, which was one of the finest and oldest edifices of the kind in the province, was burned down on the night of the 23rd ult. The side walls, built of Beausport stone, and the front of cut stone, are the only remains to be seen. A large crowd of people were present and worked like Trojans to subdue the flames. The Probyr, a fine brick building about a hundred feet from the church, escaped. The household articles were removed by a number of willing hands to a place of safety, while the house was threatened. The fire was only discovered at about three o'clock on the morning of the 24th by a farmer, who saw the flames issuing from one of the windows of the church and ran down to the presbytery, which is a short distance from the main road. The fire broke out in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in the habit of the vicar, who happened to pass the church about ten o'clock that night. He saw a light in one of the cellar windows, but, thinking it was the reflection of the sexton's lanterns attending to the furnace, he thought he had seen a light in one of the windows of the church, and he went to see what was the matter. He found the fire in

