Parcels for Mld.
Forces Overseas.

- Parcels must not exceed 11 lbs. in weight.
- Parcels addressed to members of the Newfoundland Forces Overseas should bear the name and address of a second addressee to whom the parcels may be delivered or forwarded if it should prove impossible to deliver the first. The original address should be written on the FRONT of the parcel where the postage stamps and Customs declaration are affixed, and the second or alternative address should be written on the BACK of the parcel.
- If a second address is not furnished at the time of posting, and delivery cannot be effected, the contents of the parcel, unless of exceptional value or of a personal nature, will be turned over to the Military Authorities for distribution.
- Parcels containing articles of a personal nature or of special value will be returned, if a request for their return in case of non-delivery is made by the sender, such request to be written on the cover of the parcel at the time of posting.
- This plan is being adopted at the suggestion of the British Post Office, which states that the present procedure of holding undeliverable parcels at the Dead Letter Office until instructions are received as to their disposal is resulting in the waste of a large quantity of perishable foodstuffs, which form the contents of 90 per cent. of parcels addressed to soldiers.

HUSBAND OBJECTS TO OPERATION

Wife Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Des Moines, Iowa.—"Four years ago I was very sick and my life was nearly spent. The doctors stated that I would never get well without an operation and that without it I would not live one year. My husband objected to any operation and got me some of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and commenced to get better and am now well, am stout and able to do my own housework. I can recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who is sick and run down as a wonderful strength and health restorer. My husband says I would have been in my grave ere this if it had not been for your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. BLANCHÉ JEFFERSON, 708 Lyon St., Des Moines, Iowa.

Before submitting to a surgical operation it is wise to try to build up the female system and cure its derangements with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it has saved many women from surgical operations.

Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice—it will be confidential.

The Sound of Wedding Bells

Won After Great Perseverance!

CHAPTER XXXIII.

"Dear Sir Hugh.—By the time this reaches you, I shall have become the wife of the Duke of Gretnam. At first blush you will, I fear, accuse me of treachery and deceit, but if you will bear with me long enough to read these few lines, I think you will understand that there may be other motives for the step than the hard ones you will assign to me. Dear Hugh—for I will still so call you—since parting from you to-day, I have felt that, though we have plighted troth, our hearts are not one. I feel, with a conviction I cannot shake, that the memory of another love still clings to you, and that it will cling to the end. I do not blame you, but I think it would not be safe to trust to the hope of its vanishing. What, then, lies before me; either to wed one whose heart is still with another, or to turn to one whom I know loves me with a devotion that is as sincere as it is beyond my merit. Dear Hugh, in becoming the wife of the dear duke, I feel that I am releasing you rather than deserting you, and that in time you will come to acknowledge that I am right. When that time comes, may I hope that, though we have parted so suddenly, you will still consent to grant your friendship to your old and true friend,

LUCY FAIRFAX.

When it is finished, she holds her head back, and regards it with a satisfied smile. It is really a clever letter, for it shifts the blame on to Hugh's broad shoulders, and makes her appear the injured party in the transaction.

"Poor Hugh!" she murmurs; "will he be deceived by it, I wonder; men are so easily gulled—if one can but flatter their self-love! Will he storm and rave? No; I don't think he would ever do that. Perhaps he will quietly put the letter in his pocket and walk out of the house, without even letting them know that we were engaged. Poor Hugh!" And she sighs as she puts the letter in its envelope, addresses it to Sir Hugh Falconer, and places it on the pin-cushion on her dressing-table.

Then she goes to bed, but not to sleep. Before her restless eyes passes a panorama, brilliant and dazzling, in which a small figure, glittering with the Gretnam diamonds, is the center and principal figure.

The dawn comes at last, dull and cloudy, and grows into a wet and boisterous morning.

It is a very pale face that meets her in the looking-glass, a pale face with a dark rim under the light, shifting gray eyes, but she smiles dauntlessly.

"Dear duke," she murmurs, "he will pardon a little pallor under the circumstances; indeed, it is rather to my credit than otherwise."

It is not an early household in Park Lane, breakfast rarely being served before ten, and when Lady Falconer's maid knocks at the door, as is her custom, to know if she can help Miss Fairfax, Lucy calls out plaintively that she has a headache, and will rest a little longer than usual.

"Tell the young ladies not to wait for me, please," she says, in a subdued voice. "I will come down directly."

Then she puts her bonnet on and a thick veil, and carefully fits her tiny number six glove, and sits down to wait.

The clock of a neighboring church strikes the half-hour, and first touching the letter as it lies on the pin-cushion, she opens the door and steals down-stairs.

She knows that the servants will be in the breakfast-room, and that if she is lucky she can get out by the back entrance, and fortune is with her, for, with the exception of a page, no one sees her, and he is too intent with his knives to take any notice. So she galps the street, and with a hurried step, and her cloak drawn around her, and her umbrella shading her face, she walks to the end of the road.

And at the end of the road, as had arranged, stands the duke's brougham.

Her heart beats fast as she approaches it, and she expects to see him looking out for her, but she reaches the brougham without seeing his welcome face, and stepping up to the door finds that the carriage is empty.

It gives her a start for a moment, but her courage does not desert her, and putting up her veil—for the coachman would not recognize her through the disguise, and would only be curious as to her reason for wearing it—she goes up to him.

He looks down and touches his hat. "The duke!" she says, with a smile of careless ease.

The man touches his hat again, and glances at her curiously.

"His grace has gone to Audley Street to buy a pair of gloves, miss," he says, with profound respect, and in a low voice. "And his grace left word that if you came before he got back, would you please get into the brougham? I'll get down, miss."

"No, don't leave the horse," she says, and she opens the door and gets in, with a momentary uneasiness; but it is only momentary. After all she is before the time, and he will be back in a few minutes.

So she pulls up the screen windows, and curls herself up into a corner of the comfortable, luxurious carriage, and waits patiently.

She knows that she is quite safe for they will not go to her room to disturb her for an hour, at least, and before then, before that letter is discovered, she will be Duchess of Gretnam.

Once more the glorious vision passes before her. She sees Maud furious, and Lady Falconer white with anger and mortification. She sees herself, later on, calmly and coolly inviting them to Gretnam, and calmly and coolly patronizing them. She will wear the Gretnam diamonds, she thinks, the first time that Maud comes to visit her—yes, every one of them! And she will be able to remind Maud of her kind promise to get the duke to give her away to Hugh. Yes, it will be a glorious treat, worthy of the gods! But the clock chimes a quarter to eleven, and arouses her from her reverie.

Why does the duke not come? Then she realizes the danger of her position. Any moment now they may go to her room and find the letter.

Edie, who is often out early, may pass down the street and see the duke's brougham; perhaps Hugh himself may pass, and he would be certain to stop and ask the coachman if the duke was inside.

The path to riches and honor suddenly grows perilous.

But her courage does not fail.

"He will be here in a moment," she thinks, reassuringly. "Those gloves have taken long to put on! Poor duke! As if one cared whether a duke wore gloves or not!"

Then she nestles still closer to the corner and waits.

The minutes seem to grow into hours. Every footstep on the pavement makes her heart beat and the blood rush to her face.

But the footsteps pass, and her hand falls on the handle of the brougham, and the clock strikes eleven.

Then, with a sudden start, she realizes fully her position.

Longer waiting is impossible—intolerable.

She opens the door and steps out on to the pavement, and touches the coachman's arm, rousing him from that semi-sleeping state into which coachmen—and coachmen alone—seem to be able to fall.

"Yes, miss," he says, without a start, and with an effort to look wide awake.

"The duke has not come," she says, in a low voice, and a glance up and down the street. "He—he was to take me to a morning exhibition of pictures. We shall be late."

"Yes, miss," he assents, with respectful regret, and he looks down the street, helplessly.

"I—I cannot wait here," she says.

"No, miss," he assents again, "certainly not!"

The man's commonplace answers drive her almost wild.

"What is to be done?" she says, almost sharply, resolving in her mind to discharge the man when she becomes his mistress.

"I'm sure I don't know, miss! His grace said he wouldn't be five minutes. He said he was only going to buy a pair of gloves; he's been long enough to buy the whole shop full! Perhaps—and he hesitates, evidently not liking to make the suggestion.

"Well, well," she says, impatiently. "Perhaps his grace has forgotten, and gone back to Queen's Gate, miss?"

She winces angrily, then she laughs, softly.

"I don't think his grace has forgotten," she says; "but—but," desperately, "perhaps you had better drive there and see. He may have gone back for something."

"Very good, miss," says the man, touching his hat, and gathering up his reins.

"Stop," she says, with a deep flush. "I—I think I had better go with you."

The man touches his hat again, and glances at her curiously.

If he expressed his thoughts aloud, it would be in this form—"This is a jam go!" but he is a well-trained servant, who has learned to respect the whims and vagaries of his superiors with a stolid countenance, and he manages to look as if an unmarried lady going to his master's brougham to his master's house, alone and without invitation, were one of the most natural and everyday occurrences.

So she gets in, and, trying to crush down a faint, horrible fear that will make itself felt, she coils herself up once more.

The brougham spins along through the busy streets and stops at the great house at Queen's Gate, and she waits for one of the footmen to open the door.

But no one comes, and at last she puts her hand on the inside handle, when she hears the coachman getting down from the box.

He opens the door and touches his hat, staring behind him.

"What is the matter?" she asks, impatiently.

The man puts his hand up mechanically.

"Beg pardon, miss; but I don't quite know; seems as if something was going on inside. None of the footmen about, and there's another brougham here."

She hesitates a moment.

Another brougham! Perhaps—it's a mad thought—the duke has been compelled to come back to fetch something, and he has ordered another brougham to go to her.

"I will get out," she says, and she lights and passes him into the hall.

The door is open, and the porter stands in the center of a group of footmen.

Eczema Cured Five Years Ago.

A Treatment Which Has Proven a Wonderful Healer of the Skin—Certified Evidence of Lasting Cure.

Jordan, Ont., November 26th.—The old notion that eczema is a disease of the blood is refuted time and time again by the cures that are daily being effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment. It matters not what the cause may have been if you apply Dr. Chase's Ointment regularly you will obtain relief and cure of eczema. Here is the proof.

Mrs. Stephen G. Thwaites, Box 205, Jordan, Ont., writes: "My brother had a bad case of eczema on his legs. He was troubled nearly all one fall and winter with it, and could not work for days at a time. He tried different salves and ointments, but none cured him. One day he tried Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it gave almost instant relief. He continued its use, but had not quite finished the second box when he was cured. It is now about five years since then, and it has never returned. We certainly can recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment, and are very grateful for my brother's cure."

(Rev. S. F. Coffman, Vineland, Ont., states: "This is to certify that I know Mrs. Thwaites and the party to whom she refers, and her statements are correct.")

Mr. J. E. Jones, 228 University Avenue, Kingston, Ont., writes: "I had eczema in my hand for about five years. I tried a great many remedies, but found that while some of them checked it, none cured it permanently. Finally I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment, and in six weeks my hand was completely better and I would not do without a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment in the house if it cost $2 a box. I am giving my name to this firm so that it will get to those who suffer as I did."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Substitutes will only disappoint you. Insist on getting what you ask for.

The Benefits of Prohibition.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—A year under Prohibition is drawing to a close, and short though the period is, we feel the many benefits derived from the closing of the saloons, and many there are who rejoice that the evil has been banished and the temptation removed. We often heard it said by those who fought for the saloon that if liquor was shut out we would have a dead city, that our young men would leave the country and that all kinds of things would happen. How foolish those predictions were is now brought home to us. Never in the history of this city or the country in general were the people more prosperous, every place of amusement is nightly filled to the doors because those who frequented the saloons have their senses and instead of fooling their money in drink, they now take their wives and children, or their sweethearts, as the case maybe, to places of amusement, thereby bringing joy and comfort in the home where perhaps misery predominated in the past. Our people are far better dressed; why would not be able to tell the rich man's wife or child to day from the workingman's, and this state of affairs has been brought about, too, in a large measure because the worker no longer fires away his earnings in the booze shop. Oh, how often have we heard the unfortunate tippler denounce himself for being so foolish as to deprive his family of the benefits of good clothing whilst he contributed Saturday after Saturday to tog off the family of the saloon keeper. To-day the scene is changed and that man can derive infinite pleasure when he beholds his wife and little ones enjoying the comforts that they deserve. The church collections are soaring and the attendance at the religious services is greater, another proof of the good that is the outcome of Prohibition. Men who went about the town acting in a foolish manner are to-day respectable citizens. Their families are united and happy while heretofore they were in misery. But why go further? Enough to say that we rejoice that the day has dawned that has meant for us peace, contentment and happiness.

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

"MADE IN CANADA" CLARIDGE

The New Fall ARROW COLLAR

The Archbishop at St. Joseph's

Yesterday being the first Sunday after the blessing of the new Church at St. Joseph's, His Grace the Archbishop officiated there at Nine o'clock Mass, assisted by the Pastor, Rev. Dr. Kitchin. In his address to the people the Archbishop expressed the pleasure it gave him to be present amongst the congregation in their new Church, and to offer up the Sacrifice of the Mass within its hallowed walls. He had at first thought of claiming the privilege of offering up the first Mass in the new Church, but on reflection he considered that that privilege was due their Pastor, Dr. Kitchin, who had worked so zealously and so unselfishly to bring the Church to completion. Although in the building of the Church their Pastor had received the loyal co-operation of his parishioners, and the generous assistance of the ever generous Catholic people of St. John's, still the credit for the erection of the new Church must be given altogether to him without whose inspiring and energetic leadership the work could never have been brought so speedily to completion. Personally, His Grace said, it had been always a pleasure to him to give any assistance and encouragement he could to the combined efforts of Pastor and People. They were all working, he trusted, for the same object—the glory of God and the spread of religion and education amongst the people.

His Grace also took occasion to refer to the new School which was being built in the Parish. He said that in undertaking the building of the school immediately after the Church they were acting in accordance with the traditions of the Church from time immemorial. The history of the Church's growth and expansion everywhere showed that the Church and School went hand in hand. In the spread of Christianity throughout the world wherever the Church was found, whether it was a humble village Church or a stately Cathedral in the rich and populous city, not very far away was found the school, the university or the monastery as the case might be. The same was true of their Church history in Newfoundland. The stately towers of their Cathedral were ever throwing their protecting shadows over their educational institutions. St. Bonaventure's College, St. Patrick's Hall and the schools of the Sisters of the Presentation and the Sisters of Mercy. Similarly, in the west end of the city, grouped around the Church of St. Patrick's were the Holy Cross Schools and the schools of the Presentation Convent. And now in the new Parish of St. Joseph's adjoining their Church a school was being erected which when finished will be second to none in the city.

In conclusion, His Grace said that he looked forward to great spiritual and educational progress in St. Joseph's Parish. Their Pastor would now be able to carry on his Church work and his school work untrammelled and unhampered by the difficulties of the past. It would now be possible for them to have full parochial organization, and to take their full parochial rank side by side with the Cathedral and St. Patrick's. He prayed that God might bless the work so auspiciously begun, and that all their efforts might ever tend to the glory of God, the salvation of their souls and the honour and advancement of the Church.

At Cochrane St. Church

The Rev. Dr. Bond, who was suffering from a cold, was unable to take his appointments at Cochrane St. Methodist Centennial Church yesterday, much to the disappointment of his many admirers. At short notice the Rev. T. B. Darby, M.A., kindly consented to take the morning service, the theme being the "Power and need of faithful Prayers." At the evening worship the Rev. James Wilson was the preacher, taking as his subject "Incidents in the life of Daniel."

The Rev. C. A. Whitmarsh, M. A., a former beloved pastor, was also present and addressed his old congregation in a few well chosen remarks before reading the lesson chosen for the evening's service.

The choir rendered an anthem at both services.

A Cry for Help!

While the British troops are tightening their bulldog grip on the invaluable gains made last week before Cambrai and the Italians hold the enemy on the Brenta and Piave in what seems a veritable death struggle, we are told that Allenby's forces in far away Palestine have stormed ancient Mizpah, at the very gates of Jerusalem. The fall of the city itself seems to be a matter of days. Christians the world over will hail it when it comes, with feelings of joy and thankfulness too deep for expression. Meanwhile we are reminded by the approaching deliverance of the Holy City from the centuries-long power of Hell's representatives on earth of an appeal from these same regions and others nearby which goes forth to every Christian and will have a response in every heart possessed of a grain of human feeling. We mean the cry from suffering Syria and Armenia, from the thousands of helpless and defenceless Christians who are being starved, tortured, degraded and murdered by a barbaric cruelty of which this country, happily for itself, has not the faintest conception. It is a pitiful cry for help which for long has come too faintly across the wide waters to this side of the world. But it is heard now and is being answered. America is answering it, as America alone can and in the only way possible. Deliverance of these poor wretches can come but slowly and may yet be far off. But it is possible to alleviate their sufferings, to save them, if not from torture, from starvation, to send them food and money. America is opening her purse wide and America asks our help. We must give it. He who will not is no Christian—he is not even a man.

Even Belgium, stretched on the rack, even Poland, devastated and waste, exhibit no picture comparable with the misery of Asia Minor. Of the millions under the heel of the unspeakable Turk we may say that the only reason they have not before this been massacred to the last man, woman and child is because even the Turk knows that there may be a far off day of vengeance and because, in any case, it is a more pleasant refinement of cruelty to him to watch them die of slow starvation, as thousands are dying daily. We will not attempt to paint any of this picture; we will merely give our readers a few cold, indisputable facts. From massacre, deportation, starvation and disease at least one million Armenians and Syrians have perished in the past two years; four times our own population. It is all. Twice that number are homeless and in distress. Of those in extreme need 400,000 are orphans, many of them little children living alone in deserted homes. In the Lebanon district 1,000 sufferers are dying daily. 500,000 refugees have fled from the Turkish dominions and are entirely dependent on assistance outside. We could add many more similar figures, but these will give an idea of the broad facts, though no hint of the terrible details. Fortunately, relief work goes on uninterrupted by the war and every dollar contributed to it goes for relief. But a moment's intermission is disastrous and means some life or lives lost that might have been saved.

$30,000,000 will be required for this winter's needs. What part of it can we give? $500 a month will save a life. Arrangements are being made whereby a Newfoundland fund can be raised and a country-wide effort made. Mr. Kalleem Noah, who has two sons in Beirut and is able to corroborate the facts we have given, is personally working and appealing for help for his fellow countrymen. The Christmas season, the feast of Christians, is near. The war has changed somewhat our attitude towards it, as towards so many things. Let us suggest that here is the best object possible of the fine spirit of Christmas giving. If everyone who contemplates some little gift this year that is not really needed will give it instead in this direction, he will have nothing to regret and the Christmas bells will not sound the less sweetly in his ears. The poor, the children and the sufferers of war—let these be the objects of our generosity this Christmas. And of the last none make more urgent demands upon it than these we speak of, thousands of them starving and wretched in the sacred birthplace of Christianity itself. The need is very, very great. Let us do what we can to fill it.

The Bazaar in aid of St. Joseph's Church will be held in the G. C. C. New Hall, Nov. 27, 28 and 29. It will be opened by His Grace the Archbishop on Tuesday afternoon at 4 p.m. nov26.21

Wedding Bells.

On Wednesday, 14th inst., at 11 a.m. the Church of St. Andrew, Twillingate, was the scene of a pretty wedding, the contracting parties being Miss Gertrude Emily Blandford, daughter of George Blandford, Esq., and the Rev. David Robert Bailey, B.A., Rector of Port de Grave. The Rev. A. B. S. Stirling, Rector of Bay Roberts Parish, was the officiating clergyman, and had the assistance of the Rev. Edmund Hunt, the present Incumbent of Twillingate Mission. The choir was present, and the service opened with the well-known hymn, "The Voice that breathed o'er Eden," and after the happy couple had been pronounced man and wife, the hymn, "Lead us Heavenly Father, Lead us," was heartily sung. The bride was most attractively attired in a costume of royal blue velvet, with hat to match, and carried a beautiful bouquet of roses and ferns. She was given in marriage by her father. The bridesmaids were Miss Blanche Blandford, sister of the bride, and Miss Nellie Gillett, the bride's cousin. They wore white net dresses and black beaver hats trimmed in pink and pale blue. Mr. Frank Lockyer, of Herring Neck, very ably supported the groom. At the conclusion of the ceremony, Mendelssohn's Wedding March was rendered by Mrs. Dr. Wood, sister of the bride, who presided at the organ in her usual able way. Owing to an earlier arrival of the s.s. Fogota than was expected, the happy couple had to proceed directly from the church to the ship, and in a few moments the bride and groom had said good-bye and had entered upon the ocean's tempestuous sea on their way to Port de Grave. The remainder of the wedding party then returned to the residence of the bride's parents where dinner was served and the usual toast list honored. The bride has been for some years organist of St. Andrew's Church, always took an active and helpful part in all work pertaining to church and Sunday school, and to say that St. Andrew's congregation has suffered a distinct loss is to say that which is true. The Parish of Port de Grave gains in a greater measure than we lose, however, from the wife of the faithful and energetic Rector of Port de Grave, her sphere of usefulness is widened, and will be taken full advantage of. The presents, which testify to the esteem in which Rev. Bailey and his young bride are held, were many and costly, and that which the bride will prize not the least is an address and handsome gift in money from the congregation she delighted to serve.

A New Service.

Among the messages which the local papers print to-day will be found several dated from Reuter's Ottawa Agency. They mark the inauguration of a new service, which all who follow the war news closely will welcome, the more because it comes at a time so full and interesting as the present. It has been offered by the Agency to the newspapers free of cost, including that of telegraphing, a generous gift for which not the papers alone but the general public will feel most grateful. The service will supplement that which we already receive and fill up the gaps that too often unavoidably occur in it. The latest news will be given, including despatches from Reuter's correspondents at the various fronts, whose work is justly celebrated. It will be a most valuable addition to our foreign and war intelligence.

Hudson Super-Six the Car of Royalty.

It was inevitable that the Hudson Super-Six should reach the throne and wear the ermine. It is the choice of two dynastic rulers in widely separated parts of the world, racially and by language alien to each other, but both recognizing the Royalty of worth and valorous performance. Fifteen Hudson Super-Sixes have been ordered for the Royal Household of Sweden and three for the Imperial Household of Japan. Both of these sales are for 1918 Cars. There is at present some difficulty in forwarding the Swedish shipment, owing to British Blockade regulations. It is believed this matter can be quickly adjusted to permit the Super-Sixes entry for the Swedish Royal Household. BERT HAYWARD, Distributor.—adv

Fire on Steamer.

At 1:45 p.m. to-day the cabin of the S. S. Ranger, lying at Harvey and Co's wharf, accidentally took fire and a "silent" alarm called the Eastern Fire Company to the premises. A slight blaze that was in progress was quickly extinguished and the damage was insignificant. However, it was fortunate the fire was discovered in its early stage or a serious outbreak might have resulted.

S.S. Beverley Stranded at St. Mary's.

The south coast claims another involuntary visitor. "This time it is the four laden steamer Beverley. Captain Turner, which arrived at Riverhead, in St. Mary's Harbor, Saturday morning and grounded on the bar, a message to that effect having been received by her owners, Messrs. G. C. Fearn & Co. She was bound here from Montreal with a full general cargo, including about ten thousand barrels of flour. She put into Burin during the passage to replenish her bunkers. On resuming the voyage very adverse weather was met and on Friday night last the Beverley was sighted in St. Mary's Bay by the s.s. Neptune. The ship is considered not to be in any great danger and the work of jettisoning a portion of the cargo, so that she may come off at high tide, was carried on to-day. It is thought, however, by nautical people that the ship sprang a leak in consequence of the rough weather she met and was run into St. Mary's to be beached. The loss of the Beverley would no doubt be sorely felt by the local trade, although the people of the Southern Shore will again reap a rich harvest in the salvaging of flour, etc.

The Beverley has been much of a white elephant in her new country. All last spring and summer was spent altering and repairing her, costing a substantial sum. She was on her first trip when the mishap occurred. Capt. Turner and crew are standing by the stranded ship.

Police Court.

(Before Judge Morris.)
A seaman, charged with drunkenness, had to deposit $1 for his release.

A Naval Reservist was summoned by Const. Vall, charged with obstructing the sidewalk. The Judge intimated that law and order had to be maintained on our streets, but he emphasized that the policemen, even if dressed in a little brief authority, should remember and recognize that the British Navy man represents the peace of the world. The reservist was discharged.

Sergeant O'Hanphy, the indispensable official at the Court House, was taken sick this morning; we regret, and had to discontinue work.

Your Boys and Girls.

For the very small girl whose hair is cropped straight across the back, a ribbon bow must be depended upon to tie the front locks. This may be arranged at either side or directly on the top of the head and is most becoming and comfortable for the child. One bow is more fashionable than two for the short hair, and, as a rule, better suited for the baby face.

Braids, are almost a necessity for the older girl, not because they are so easily arranged, but because they keep the hair in a nice condition.

The small girl may have her hair braided and coiled around just back of, and over, the ears and a flat bow of wide ribbon adjusted at each side of the head. A soft fringe of hair over the forehead is often needed to make this style a becoming one.

FIGHTING BEFORE CAMBRAI.

LONDON, To-day. There has again been severe fighting to-day west of Cambrai, says an official report from Flanders tonight. At noon the enemy strongly attacked the positions we hold in the neighborhood of Bourlon and succeeded in pressing back our troops from portions of the village. Fighting also occurred in the Hindenburg support line west of Moeuvres, where we captured prisoners. The number of prisoners taken since the commencement of the operations on Nov. 20th has now reached a total of 9,774, including 182 officers.

HIGH PRAISES AND THANKS TO TROOPS.

LONDON, To-day. The following special order of the day was issued by Field-Marshal Haig on Sunday: "The capture of the important Bourlon position yesterday evening is the most successful operation and opens the way to a further exploitation of the advantages already gained in the operations of the third army. During the past four days the troops engaged were called on to advance under conditions different from anything ever attempted before. The manner in which they adapted themselves to the new conditions was in all respects admirable and the results gained by their efforts are of far-reaching importance. Although practically all the divisions employed have already been engaged in severe and prolonged fighting this year, all the arms and services have met these fresh calls on them in a manner worthy of the highest traditions of the British Army. In this battle the tanks for the first time have been afforded an opportunity of working in large numbers and showing their special value under conditions suitable to them. Without their complete surprise gained would not have been possible and could not even have been attempted. Their performances have entirely justified the trust placed in them. The infantry, artillery and the aircraft have co-operated with the efficiency and complete devotion to duty in which they never fail. The cavalry has co-operated with the other arms with excellent results. The Royal Engineers, signal service, transport service, arm service corps and the various administrative services concerned, each performed most valuable work. To General Sir Julian Byng and his staff, to the commanders and the staffs under him, and to all the arms and services engaged in these operations my thanks and warmest congratulations are due for the manner in which they prepared and carried through the operations and on the splendid results achieved. I also express my obligation to all ranks at the general headquarters for the assistance with which they met the severe strain imposed by the arrangements for these operations. In addition to the sudden movements of the troops to Italy, operations on the Flanders Front and many other movements, the relief of which had to be carried out simultaneously. The operations on the third army front would in all probability have miscarried if the enemy had gained a timely warning of our intentions, and the most satisfactory feature in connection with these operations is the complete secrecy maintained. For this my thanks are due to all concerned."

FRENCH VICTORY AT VERDUN.

PARIS, To-day. In an attack in the Verdun region on Sunday the French troops captured the first and second German lines of defense, including deep dugouts, and also took 800 German prisoners, according to the French official statement issued this evening.

ITALIANS HOLD FAST EVERYWHERE.

Italian Headquarters in Northern Italy, Saturday, Nov. 24th.—(By the Associated Press).—Strong enemy attacks with artillery preparations continued throughout the day on the whole eastern front between the Breno and Piave Rivers, but the enemy made no ground and all his attacks failed. The fighting, while severe, was not of that whirlwind character of the last two days. Both sides are engaged in reorganizing their positions on the shifting front and taking a momentary respite from the tremendous strain of the last few days. Another attempt to cross the Piave River on pontoons resulted in the wiping out of the pontoons and men. Further details of the seriousness of the fighting in the north were given to the correspondent by an eye-witness returning from the line, who also told of many instances of daring by the regiments, battalions and individuals of the Italian army. The artillery has especially distinguished itself in the fighting around Meletta, Dagnani. A mountain battery was obliged to fall back with the infantry. Every officer of the battery had been killed except the Captain, who was badly wounded. While bleeding on the ground he called two gunners and ordered them to set up the wreck of the remaining guns and directed them to fire from this point. The last seen of him was on the ground behind this place.

MISS ROMANOFF BOAMIN' OFF.

NEW YORK, To-day. Miss Tatiana Nicolaevna Romanoff, second daughter of Nicholas Romanoff, has escaped from Siberia, through a fictitious marriage to the son of a former Chamberlain of the Czar, and is now on her way to the United States accompanied by an English woman, according to information made public here to-night by persons connected with the Russian civilian relief. The former grand duchess, who is twenty years old, made her escape from Tobolsk, the present home of the exiled Emperor, to Harbin in Manchuria and thence to Japan, where passage was taken on a steamer for either San Francisco or Vancouver. Officers of the Russian civilian relief, including Daniel Freeman, Ivan Natodny and Dr. Thos. Darlington, have been informed that the young woman will arrive in New York early in December, and play a prominent part in the work of the recently formed organization.

ITALIAN SUCCESS.

ROME, To-day. British Admiralty "Per Wireless Press"—The text of to-day's official statement reads: "On the Asiago Plateau heroic parties of our first army, who for ten days uninterruptedly and without yielding a yard of ground have been fighting for the defence of the strong point of Meletta, yesterday again repulsed several furious enemy attacks and counter attacked with success. Two sections of machine guns were captured. On the rest of the front there were only artillery actions. Near Meletta—Grappa—two enemy airplanes were brought down by one of our machines."

ITALIAN AVIATORS' GOOD WORK.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY.—The situation to-day is virtually unchanged along the northern battle front and on the Piave River. Artillery activity continues violent and here and there heavy fighting at scattered points is taking place. There is a still in the aggressive strategy, as both sides require time for the purpose of re-forming their broken ranks. A Prussian Guard regiment is among those contingents having the heaviest losses. Three battalions of the guard were thrown against the charge which carried the Italians back into one of their strategic mountain positions. The guards were swept aside in the impetuous wave of enthusiasm, only a battalion of them was able to reform in small groups. Reports show that the Italian aviators have brought down 51 enemy machines during the fighting in the last thirty days, or nearly two machines daily.

MALVY TO BE IMPEACHED.

PARIS, To-day. A special committee of 33 of the Chamber of Deputies, charged with investigating the accusations of having had relations with the enemy made against Louis J. Malvy, former Minister of the Interior, issued its report yesterday. In as much as Malvy demanded its appointment, this special committee decides to propose to the Chamber that M. Malvy be impeached, the report concluded.

RUSSIAN OFFICIAL.

PETROGRAD, To-day. An official statement to-day on the campaign, says: "Liveller fusillades occurred in the direction of Jacobstadt where strong fire was opened by the Germans. On the Western, Southwestern and Roumanian fronts there were fusillades and scouting reconnaissances." On the Baltic Sea the situation is unchanged.

CONFERENCE OF RUSSIAN PEASANTS.

PETROGRAD, To-day. A proclamation signed "Spiridinov, Chairman of the Assembly," has been addressed to all delegates from the armies at the front and division and district deputies. It says: "An extraordinary assembly has been opened. Comrades are requested to come immediately to a conference of the all-Russian Peasant Deputies. One should be sent from each district and each division."

BOLSHEVIKI REVEAL STATE DOCUMENTS.

LONDON, To-day. State documents made public by the Bolsheviki Foreign Minister Trotsky at Petrograd, according to a semi-official Petrograd news agency, show that France claimed that it was entitled to the return of Alsace-Lorraine, the iron and coal districts of France, and wooded regions on the left bank of the Rhine. These were Advantages of the "Willys Knight" Car.

PERFORMANCE has proved the Knight sleeve-valve motor superior to all other types. Superior in power, in flexibility, in quietness, in simplicity, in freedom from carbon trouble. And the only motor that IMPROVES instead of deteriorates, with use. Instead of clashing poppet-valves, raised by blows from steel cams and stepped back by strong springs, the Knight motor has SLIDING valves. Two cylindrical sleeves, one within the other, glide silently up and down between the piston and the cylinder wall. Long ports, or openings, in these sleeves register with each other and with cylinder ports at proper intervals, forming large and DIRECT passages for intake and exhaust gases.

IT IMPROVES WITH USE, whereas all other motors deteriorate. Better than any poppet-valve motor to begin with, continued use serves only to polish the sliding surfaces of the Knight motor and make it even more smooth-running and efficient. IT IS MORE POWERFUL. The valves are operated by connecting rods—their action is positive, definite the valve action is positive, and does not depend upon the uncertain operation of springs, power increases with the speed of the motor far beyond the point where the power of a poppet-valve motor begins to fall off.

IT IS MORE FLEXIBLE. Because all cylinders are machined to exactly uniform size, without pockets, and because there can be no loss of compression through leaky valves, compression is uniform in all cylinders, at all speeds. This makes it possible to throttle down to slower speed on high gear, and accelerate more smoothly and rapidly than with other types of motors. Gear shifting is reduced to a minimum.

IT IS MORE QUIET IN OPERATION—and stays so. Its sliding valves may be likened to those of a steam engine. There is no striking of metal against metal. There is not even the humming of gears in the Willys-Knight motor, for silent chains are used instead.

IT IS MORE ECONOMICAL. Because it utilizes all the energy of the gas, without waste, it requires less gasoline for a given amount of power. And because the flow of oil is automatically regulated by the power requirements of the motor, and is so perfectly distributed, the Knight motor uses much less oil for a given mileage.

IT REQUIRES NO ADJUSTMENTS. There is no grinding of the valves, in the KNIGHT motor—no weakening of springs to require re-timing. It has fewer parts, and those parts are mechanically correct.

Just ask MACNAB to show you one of these beautiful Willys-Knight Cars. You know that when you buy one of these cars it is inspected regularly for you, free of charge. Then a full line of spare parts are stocked. If you want a car to give you Service, CONTINUOUS SERVICE, then buy all means buy A WILLYS-KNIGHT. nov26/11 also to be separated from Germany certain territories which were to be formed into neutral states. These would be occupied by Russian troops until certain guarantees were fulfilled and peace was concluded. One document refers to a reported conference of financiers in Switzerland last September, in which Great Britain declines having participated, concluding which it is suggested that German delegates insisted on the cession of the Baltic provinces and the independence of Finland.

FREIGHTER SUNK.

PARIS, To-day. News was received to-day confirming reports that the freight steamer Mald had been sunk Wednesday, eight miles from Dieppe. All of the 25 officers and men on board lost with the exception of one sailor.

NORWEGIANS SUNK.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch from Christiansia says the Norwegian steamer Kresford, 1707 tons, was sunk by a German sub. The second officer and fourteen members of the crew were lost. The Norwegian ship Victory also has been lost.

CIVILIANS MAY BE LEAVING CAMBRAI.

British Army Headquarters in France, To-day. There has been much traffic out of Cambrai south-eastward during the last few days indicating the probability that the Germans have evacuated the civil population.

BRITISH HOLD BOURLON.

British Army Headquarters in France, Sunday.—This morning found the line of battle of weary but determined British troops stretched in a semi-circle about Bourlon Wood and Bourlon Village, which nestles at the northwestern end of the forest. It was the line which had been established in the face of dogged resistance on the part of the Germans, who have fallen back step by step fighting with the fury of despair. All day yesterday the opposing forces struggled bitterly at close quarters for possession of the little village, from which the British were formed on Friday after gaining a footing in the rush that took them through Bourlon Wood. Nightfall still found waves of infantry surging back and forth through the streets of the hamlet and among the houses, their crimson bayonets telling the story of the terrible combat, being waged. Gradually the Germans fell back, the British pressing forward with a grim persistence which the enemy could not withstand, and the hamlet was finally cleared of the major portion of the German troops.

To-day some few of the enemy still remained in Bourlon to be mopped up, but all the main streets of the place had been cleared, and it was surrounded by a strong force of British soldiers. A little to the southwest of here another intense struggle was being staged in the village of Moeuvres, into which the British had battled their way with rifle and bayonet and pushed the Germans out of the southern half of the village, along the Cambrai front, there was no artillery action of any importance. Prisoners continue to arrive at the British lines from the front. Nearly ten thousand captives thus far have been counted, including two hundred officers. In the capture of Bourlon Wood and the village the British have acquired possession of one of the most important points they have secured since the great drive began last Tuesday. This high ground controls a wide sweep of territory and its occupation holds out the possibility that the Germans eventually will be forced to withdraw their lines to the northwest.

FINE WORK BY ANZACS.

LONDON, Nov. 26 (via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—Reuter's correspondent at Egyptian headquarters, dealing with the share of the cavalry in the pursuit of the Turks at Syria says: "It was a serious period for all, especially the horsemen, who were called upon to cover enormous distances. Nevertheless they surpassed expectations. They were employed to do scouting, guard the flank and undertake mounted infantry work, and two or three times their glorious occupation enabled them to fulfil their old-time role of shock tactics. A fine instance of this occurred at Akshushab on Nov. 13. As the Turks were evacuating the ridge under our pressure the Warwick and Worcester yeomanry charged them with cold steel. The Turkish losses in killed exceeded the prisoners in number and the latter totalled 350. The next day was the day of the Anzacs. Four miles from Ramleh two fresh Turkish battalions counter-attacked most determinedly, getting within fifteen yards of the New Zealand mounted troops, who dismounted, and advancing with the Auckland and Wellington Rifles, charged with the bayonet and practically wiped out the Turks. Over four hundred dead were counted. The Anzacs entered Ramleh the next morning, unopposed, and also captured three hundred prisoners and much war material at Lydia, from which the enemy hurriedly retired at night time. The following day the Anzacs entered Jafa."

THE RUSSIAN MUDDLE.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch from Petrograd under date November 25th says that the Allied diplomatic representatives had a two hours' conference at the British Embassy on that day and weighed all the things of the Maximalist armistice order. Ensign Krylonko, the new Commander-in-Chief of the army, asked by an interviewer why the German army had failed to take advantage of Russia's troubles, is reported as having replied: "The German proletariat is hand in hand with us and will not allow official Germany to hamper the fulfilment of a great cause." The Military Revolutionary Committee has ordered the dissolution of the committee for the salvation of the country and revolution, the despatch adds, because the latter Committee urged the employees of the State Bank not to deliver funds to the Maximalists.

Miraculous Escape.

Last Friday while Mr. Wm. Hawkins was cleaning out his gun, a terrible explosion occurred. It happened, however, that he put a little powder in the gun to clean it out, and setting it off a piece of the cap went into a keg, in which there were five lbs. of powder. It exploded, and blew three windows out of the store, besides lifting both sides of the roof. The store was left in a wonderful condition, and Mr. Hawkins was burned a lot about the face, but at present he is feeling better of the shock.—Twillingate Sun, Nov. 17.

Died Suddenly.

Mr. P. J. Summers, K.C., Deputy Minister of Justice, received the following message last night from Magistrate Fitzgerald:—"John Bancler, aged 52, married formerly of Trinity, now living here, was stricken with heart failure while at work this evening. Removed to hospital in unconscious condition and died soon afterwards."

Accident at Sea.

Messrs. Job Bros. & Co., Ltd., received a message yesterday from Captain Faulk, of the S. S. Thetis, stating that he had put into Sydney the crew who was suffering from a broken collar bone, sustained as a result of a heavy sea striking him. The name of the injured seaman was not given. The Thetis called here about a week ago for slight repairs. After getting them she left for a Canadian port and must have encountered rough weather. She has left Sydney for her destination.

A. and Mrs. Whitmarsh left for Hillview, T.B. on a short stay at the old home of Mrs. Whitmarsh before proceeding to Clifton Springs, N.Y., where the rev. gentleman will undergo special treatment next year. He has resigned from the Brigus Circuit, where he was well liked by his people, who regret very much having to part with their pastor. Mr. Whitmarsh has not been well for some time and has already spent a couple of months at Clifton Springs Sanatorium. It is the sincere wish of all that he will be restored to his former health. ## Joy Walking.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

Late in October, while we were still in the country, there came a level day that beckoned us out of doors, and I would not be denied. We had much to do, and we did none of it. Instead we went for a long, long walk. We walked to a point to which we have often been, but only in a machine. To go there in a machine was a commonplace. To go there on foot was an adventure. The Motorist Chooses His Road For Smoothness Not For Beauty.

In the first place we did not go down the state road (chiefly recommended by its good road bed). Instead we struck into a little woods road, narrow, half grass grown, beautiful beyond belief. Every turn, every suddenly opened vista of autumn fields, every glimpse of the moor mellowed by autumn suns into a rich greenish brown and threaded by the little blue river, was a picture.

And a picture we had time to stop and look at. The House I'll Buy SOMEDAY. Then at a turn we came upon the dearest house I ever saw—little, old fashioned, colonial—white with green blinds, of course. The brick piazza was flush with the lawn, bachelor but-tons and orange nasturtiums were still flaming in Baketian harmony in the old fashioned garden, the ghosts of hollyhocks leaned against the house. The people had gone for the winter and everlasting blessings on them left their curtains up. We were living in an adventure, it seemed nothing wrong to look in the windows.

SOCRATES. Socrates was a thick-waisted Athenian citizen who invented the thinking habit. Prior to the birth of Socrates, in 470 B.C., there was very little thinking done, and most of that was put up in canned form for the use of the ruling classes. Socrates changed all this by introducing a number of original thoughts into the language of the country, which caused him to be regarded as a suspicious character and finally led to his death.

Socrates was a married man, but was never heard to complain of that fact in the presence of his wife. If Socrates had been willing to let other people furnish the material for his thinker, he would have lived longer and died with less personal discomfort. He was a proud man, however, and preferred to die in a lingering and unsatisfactory manner rather than swallow a lot of indigestible opinions for the sake of peace. This teaches us that if there were more Socrates on earth to-day there would be fewer people who have to have their ballots marked for them on election day. Some very good pictures of Socrates have been preserved in statuette form, all of which give intense pain to lovers of the beautiful. Socrates had a set of highly intricate features which did not harmonize with the landscape, and was justly considered one of the homeliest men who ever wore the graceful Grecian knee-strap.

In early youth he took the precaution to cover these features with a profuse clump of second-growth whiskers, which gave him the subdued and melancholy aspect of the weeping willow. As these were allowed to grow only on the surface, however, they did not interfere with the workings of his mind, which was of the twin-six variety with overhead valves. Socrates was a married man, but was never heard to complain of that fact in the presence of his wife, Mrs. Socrates was an unpleasant person with a lancing tongue and a coarse but ready wit, and she was said to be able to draw blood with her vocabulary—three times out of five. This may account for the look of perfect peace on the face of Socrates while in the act of dying. Socrates was sentenced to death for thinking too much on subjects which had not occurred to anybody else, and passed away soon after by the hemlock schedule, being survived by his immediate relatives and a large collection of robust orations.

CONSERVING FOOD. With eloquence unloosed, I stir men's admiration, by telling how I boost the plan of conservation. "I am a helpful dub," I say, in tones that quiver; "I've cut out all such grub as onions and fried liver." I proudly make the boast that I'm no war time glutton; and then I buy a roast of pork or beef or mutton. I chase along the street until my feet have bunions, denouncing those who eat beef liver fried with onions. It is a mess, I hate, hate worse, at every trial; so cheerfully I prate about my self denial. It fills me with disgust, with fire too great to utter, to see you take a crust and spread it thick with butter, I'm helping Uncle Sam by cutting out the greases; with marmalade and jam I spread my loaves in pieces. Grease always gives me boils and strews my face with pimples. So butter I refuse, with stern ejaculation, and then I spread the news how I boost conservation. The grub that I detest with scorn I'm fully treating, and fill up with the rest, the things I'm fond of eating. Then round the town dodging tripe and squash and other stosh, an tell how I'm conserving by things unnering.

THE COTTAGE IN THE SQUARE.

Bricklayers have just finished building a little country cottage in Trafalgar Square, London, just west of the Nelson Column, and in a few days it will be opened as a recruiting office for the Women's Army Corps. This organization intends to get a vast number of young women this winter, and the recruits are coming in faster each week. Another big appeal for women is on foot, organized at the instigation of the Ministry of Munitions by the firms making aeroplanes. There, too, is opportunity for many thousands of women and girls, but I am told that the Munitions Ministry wants a high type of worker, and will pick and choose among the applicants, much more than is done at ordinary munition factories.

RUSSIAN TEA AND TEA-MAKING.

A student of the Russian press tells me that the Russians (great tea-drinkers like the British) are finding some difficulty in getting all the tea they want. The Moscow tea dealers have recently had a meeting to consider the "tea crisis," and have strongly advised that a central organization should be created to direct the output of supplies. One hopes that it will have better luck than our own Food Controller's. The tea famine and the tea queues are still going on here, and I noticed the other day that a famous Oxford-street (the West-end of London shopping thoroughfare) tea dealer had closed his shop and put up a request that regular customers should apply by letter. Another equally famous dealer in the City opens for an hour or two every morning, and people wait outside like the old-fashioned early-door crowd for the pit at the theatre. My Russian informant suggests that we might take our supplies by drinking tea in the Russian manner. A Russian housewife will allow a teaspoonful and a half of tea to make a pot for half-a-dozen people. She pours a very little of the brew into each glass for the men and each cup for the women, and then fills them up with boiling water from the samovar or kettle. No milk is needed, but a thin slice of lemon is sometimes added. The beverage should look the color of sherry, but poor people in Russia take their tea so weak that it looks straw-coloured.

BRING YOUR OWN BUTTER.

Autumn brings with it the meetings of learned societies, pleasant occasions garnished with tea and buns. The Royal Historical Society, whose lead will be followed by others, now announces that members must bring their own sugar for tea. I am surprised that the notice stops there, for the quest of tea itself is more arduous than that for sugar. There is a good deal of talk of butter shortage, and milk will soon be scarce, while condensed milk has almost disappeared from the shops. As winter draws on we may have the societies circulating their members with appeals to bring their own tea, sugar, and butter, and, as learned men are careful in the small things of life, I am afraid we may hear sad stories of how Professor somebody inadvertently went too near the fire with his butter in his tall pocket. However, there may be no fires. Meanwhile, the rough-and-ready rationing of the public by their grocers goes on apace, and when Lord Rhonda decides to ration us he will find himself forestalled.

THE UNSPEAKABLE TURK.

Strong action must be taken to bring home to the Turkish Government a proper realization of the duty it owes to the British prisoners in its custody. The condition of these prisoners is known to be of the most deplorable description. Repeated attempts have, I am informed, been made by the British Government in recent months to secure improvement, but the Turkish authorities, falsely supposed to be "honorable opponents," do nothing, and ignore all our appeals to allow us to help our troops. Some time ago a conference was suggested similar to the one we had with German representatives to discuss a scheme of interchange of prisoners. No reply to that proposal was ever received from the Turks, and meantime our men are suffering unspeakable hardships. Nearly 5,000 parcels have been sent from this country to the men, and only 82 have been acknowledged. Money also has been sent, but the acknowledgments have been so few that it is clear that most of these gifts, like the parcels, have been appropriated by the Turks. It is a lamentable situation, for which a remedy does not readily suggest itself; but the Government, with whom responsibility lies, will be held blameworthy if it fails to make prompt and energetic use of all the weapons at its command to force from the Turks some measures to ameliorate the misery of these unfortunate prisoners.

THE "DANDY GENERAL" AGAIN.

The Second Army commander, Sir Herbert Plumer—"the dandy General," as he is called throughout the Army—has just been singled out for special commendation by the French Premier, M. Poincaré, in an Army Order, praising his military qualities. The famous cavalry leader's continued success will be warmly appreciated in the North of England, where he made himself so popular during the four years just before the war as General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Northern Command. It is also a matter of pride to the York and Lancaster Regiment. Sir Herbert entered that regiment forty-one years ago, and last August he was appointed its honorary colonel.

THE SPANISH CRISIS RETURNS.

The situation in Spain is again critical. The news of great political trouble, following on the heels of the telegrams announcing the re-establishment of constitutional guarantees, proves that the apparent stability of the Dato Cabinet was artificially maintained by means of a press censorship of unprecedented strictness. This time the attack comes from the military Committee of Defence, which do not, as is generally believed, represent the whole army, but only the body of officers up to the rank of colonel. Their action and motives, they complain, have been wilfully misrepresented by Senor Sanchez Guerra, the Home Secretary, through skilful handling of the press during a period in which the Government's views were the only ones which did not come into conflict with the censor. They demand the dismissal of the Cabinet and the abandonment of the rotating system of parties. In this last demand they concur with all the living forces of the country—the political, represented by the Parliamentarian movement of Catalonia, and the labor element, whose discontent undoubtedly gave the basis for the revolutionary attempts of last August. But it is not as yet clear whether their intervention will result in the shifting of political power towards the Left or towards the Right. It should not be forgotten that the system of rotating parties, artificial though it is, occupies a central and moderate position in the Spanish political world. Possible solutions are a Maura Cabinet, a purely military-business Cabinet, or a national coalition ministry. From the Allied point of view the last would be the best. The situation cannot remain long in the present acutely critical stage.

CARRY YOUR PARCELS.

The pathetic appeal of the big shops to customers to carry their own parcels seem to have failed, because the shops now announce that they must discontinue their system of delivery by motor van. I think it was Anthony Hope, the novelist, who made a woman say that she first perceived the urgent need for the reformation of one of her young friends when she met him carrying a brown paper parcel in Bond Street, the fashionable shopping thoroughfare of London. It certainly is true that for years it has been considered that no one with any pretensions to smartness would carry a parcel anywhere; but the day is at hand when, whatever General Sir Francis Lloyd may say, young officers of the Guards will have to carry home their own boxes of cigarettes. The motor vans of the great stores run thirty miles or more in every direction outside of London delivering substantial parcels to well-to-do people. The discontinuance of this service will give vast satisfaction to the legal shopkeepers.

Ugh! Acid Stomach,
Sourness, Heartburn,
Gas, Or Indigestion.

The moment "Pape's Diapepsin" reaches the stomach all distress goes.

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, jot this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. "Pape's Diapepsin" is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back. You feel different as soon as "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine. Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

CAILLAUX HELD RESPONSIBLE.

PARIS, Nov. 25.

Under the caption "I accuse M. Caillaux," Gustave Hervé in 'La Victoire' charges former Premier Joseph Caillaux with being the centre of the whole campaign for the dishonor of a ruinous peace. M. Hervé charges the ex-Premier with having consorted during his stay in Italy with all the notorious "defeatists" and neutralists, his assertions to the contrary notwithstanding, and with having not merely social acquaintance with Bolo Pasha, but with having been his devoted friend and indefatigable protector, and with having been the evil genius of Almercyda, the editor of the Bonnet Rouge who died in prison while under charges, and with guiding and encouraging him in his "defeatist" attitude and drawing him on to his doom. Hervé concludes: "You said, sir, that when you found a man who brought against you something beside insinuations and twaddling gossip, you dared to accuse you outright, you would prosecute him at the Assizes as a slanderer. I am your man, sir; prosecute me. I will produce my proofs and witnesses before a jury."

MIZPAH STORMED.

LONDON, Nov. 25.
The site of ancient Mizpah, five thousand yards west of the Jerusalem Wabutes Road, has been stormed by the British, the war office announces. British mounted troops which had advanced northward were forced back by the Turks. The mounted troops had approached Ramat, and after being driven back took up a position at Keitir-el Foka, twelve miles northwest of Jerusalem. The statement also says the enemy has

NORTHCLEFFE ON THE WAR SITUATION.

LONDON, Nov. 25.

Viscount Northcliffe, who was head of the British mission to the United States for co-ordination of war work, to-night gave the Associated Press the following statement on the war situation: "This has been distinctly the best week of the war. I refer not only to General Byng's success, but to that of Col. House and Premier Lloyd George, who have been 'bit-toning things up,' to use an expression of the Colonel's. Days of waste of life and treasure caused by the Allies' mutual ignorance of one another's plans, are nearly over. American soldiers, sailors and business men and their British colleagues have been working overtime. It would not be wise to talk of details, but as I never have been backward in criticising efficiency, I should be lacking in justice if I didn't speak of the high efficiency of this week's campaign. There was no 'glorious' British constitution and fourth of July' hot air about the proceedings. It is realized that time is the most valuable asset of the war. There was very little banqueting, there were no parades, yet I venture to say that the greatest move toward victory yet made in any theatre of the war, was effected in London this week. The Paris conferences are fine. The war is at last becoming what it always should have been, a close business partnership of the Allies."

INDUCTED AS FIRST RECTOR OF POUCH COVE.

The thriving settlement of Pouch Cove was the scene of a memorable event yesterday when the Administrator of the Diocese, Rev. Canon Smith, and the Diocesan Chaplain, Rev. Canon Bolt, visited the place and inducted Rev. Arthur Edmund Tulk as Rector of the Parish. The induction ceremony took place at the 11 o'clock service before a large congregation that literally filled the sacred edifice. Following the service the Administrator and Canon Bolt gave short addresses. The church people of Pouch Cove are determined to do everything possible for the comfort of their new Rector and already plans are being made to construct a new rectory; a temporary residence containing a sufficient supply of fuel for the winter has already been provided. It is also the intention of the parishioners to present the new Rector with a horse and carriage.

In the afternoon the service was repeated at St. Nicholas' Church, Torbay, this being the first occasion on which an induction service was ever held in that church.

The trip to and from Pouch Cove was made in the motor car owned by the Hon. J. R. Bennett, Minister of Militia, who kindly lent it for the occasion. While at Pouch Cove the visiting clergy were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin.

It registers an altogether new and different motoring experience.

While many engines perform well when new, the Willys-Knight retains its maximum efficiency, in fact grows better with use.

Can you conceive of a greater boon? It explains why the passive tolerance of many motorists has been changed into active enthusiasm by the Willys-Knight.

One veteran motorist says his car glides as smoothly and evenly as though there were a vacuum in front of the radiator instead of the powerful and faithful Willys-Knight engine back of it.

BUST AND HIPS.

No woman should be flat chested. If she is not full bustled, she may, at least, have a chest expansion that may cover any such deficiency. Deep breathing will, of course, do this and the throwing of cold water on the chest every morning will develop the bust. But it is well to have some systematic exercise to give a firmness to the bust and a correct chest position. There is no better exercise for this than to clasp the hands at the waist line, downward as far as possible.

Do this ten times each morning, breathing deeply the while.

I am giving you a formula for developing the bust. Do remember that in all massage of the bust the utmost care must be taken or the result might be serious. Never should anything but gentle massage be used. The bust developer is as follows: Lanolin one ounce, butter one ounce, sweet almond oil one ounce. Put in a small bowl and set in hot water until melted. Beat together and cool. Each night, after laying hot cloths on the bust, rub the lotion in by massaging gently and thoroughly in a circular direction for fifteen minutes.

There is hardly a woman who does not fuss and fume when her hips begin to put on flesh. Naturally, increased size of hips adds maturity to the figure and girlish lines bid fair to be submerged.

The rolling exercise will surely reduce the hips, but it must be done each morning and not three times this week and once next. Lie flat on the floor, place both hands along the sides of the body and proceed to roll yourself about the floor for at least three minutes, and possibly five. You will very likely find it more comfortable to place a couple of old quilts upon the floor during the exercise. However, the harder the surface upon which you roll the more effective is the exercise.

A charming frock is made of the palest of pale gray crepe de chine with a girle of deeper gray beads.

Blue and silver dresses for bridesmaids are properly finished with wreaths of bronze leaves and mist blue veils.

WAR REVIEW.
After hard fighting, in which the troops came to hand-to-hand fighting with various results, Field Marshal Haig's troops are now in possession of the town of Bourlon and the greater part of Bourlon Wood, west of Cambrai, giving them the dominating positions over the much sought for railroad centre and surrounding country. English, Welsh and Scotch troops, aided by cavalry now dismounted, encompassed the defeat of the Germans, who had concentrated fresh reserves of men of extreme valor to face the British in their desperate efforts to win the positions which mean so much toward the ultimate capture of Cambrai with its tentacles of railways and highways leading in all directions, and upon which Field Marshal Hindenburg is also dependent for support. Little else except the gaining of this town and of the wood had had a place in the strategy of the British Commander in Chief since his dash of last week placed his forces west and southwest of Cambrai, verily on the threshold of the town. Ever since the initial attack the Germans had tenaciously disputed every inch of ground, realizing that with the fall of Bourlon and the wooded heights their tenure of Cambrai would be seriously menaced. Several times previously the British had gained footing in both the town and wood, but each time under vicious counter attacks were compelled to relinquish them. The northeastern portion of the wood apparently is the sole remaining part of it that is still in German hands, and being only about three and a half miles from Cambrai, the Germans are doing their utmost to hold it and even to drive back the British who have gained a footing there. Since the beginning of the Battle of Cambrai the British War Office has been extremely meagre with details of the fighting, and the latest report gives no hint of the proposed intentions of General Byng after the conquest of Bourlon Wood has been made secure. Apparently, however, with these strategic points safely in his hands, it is not unreasonable to surmise that having had several days in which to draw up his guns and realign his forces, Byng will almost immediately strike again in an endeavour to capture Cambrai. The army of the German Crown Prince has not given up its efforts to overcome the success of the French troops last week northwest of Rheims where gradual incursions into the German line are threatening Laon. Here the Germans again have made two violent attacks, but their efforts brought them, as has been the rule lately, nothing but repulses and additional loss of numerous men. Similarly in the region of Verdun, the Germans have been worsted in attacks against General Petain's front. In the Italian theatre the troops of General Diaz are more than holding their own against the savage attacks of the Teuton forces from the region of Lake Garda eastward to the upper reaches of the Piave River. After last week's severe repulses with heavy casualties, the invaders have switched their main offensive to the Asiago Plateau sector, but here also they have been held by the Italians without the gain of a yard of ground. The attack has been met with counter attack, and in addition to inflicting heavy casualties, the Italians also have captured two machine gun batteries. Fighting along the Piave River from the hilly region to the Adriatic has been sporadic, but at one place where the enemy attempted to cross the river on pontoons he was wiped out by the fire of the defending artillery.

For the first time in several weeks there has been activity on the northern Russian front, and despite the uncertain political conditions in Petrograd, and other parts of the country, the Russians are holding their positions against the Germans. Near Jacobstadt the German artillery opened a strong bombardment against the Russians, who replied in turn. To the south and also on the Roumanian front there has been a revival of activity both from the trenches and in the nature of scouting reconnaissances.

THE BATTLE IN FRANCE.

LONDON, Nov. 25. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—The correspondent of Reuter's at the British army headquarters in France, reviewing the battle, points out the fact that Tuesday's advance was greater than the base. This necessitated widening the latter by bombing the various Hindenburg lines. This was entrusted to the Ulstermen, who fought their way three miles northward against continuous opposition. Altogether the British in two days overran forty square miles of new territory and captured ten villages. The Scheldt canal, sixty feet wide, was a great obstacle behind the Hindenburg line, yet we overleapt it and are now two miles from Cambrai. A half-built line of trenches intervenes and here the Germans have massed their many guns, but it seems immaterial whether or not we attack, because Cambrai is worthless as an enemy base since its communications are commanded by our fire. By early Friday afternoon we had penetrated well into Middle Wood and with continual hand-to-hand fighting and skirmishing in the wood, in which the tanks rendered noble assistance, we continued pushing through until by evening some of our men had gone clear through it. Whether the whole wood rests in our hands cannot be ascertained. The wood is not only protected by formidably fortified and well camouflaged trenches, but is full of machine guns and strong points. We have again broken through further along the Hindenburg line west of Moeuvres, again enlarging the base of our wedge into the German defences to the northward. In Moeuvres, where we were on the southern edge of the village on Friday, street fighting of great ferocity has been in progress, the enemy continually bringing up new waves of men only to be thrown back every time. Even fiercer at times was the struggle around Fontaine, which hapless village is now in flames. After we evacuated it the previous day the Germans pushed in and manned the houses, mounting machine guns and firing from the windows. Fontaine is absolutely commanded on both flanks and our posts encircle it on three sides.

FURTHER GAINS.

LONDON, Nov. 24. At various points west of Cambrai the British made progress yesterday, the war office reports. More than one hundred guns have been captured recently in this area.

ON THE ITALIAN FRONT.

Italian Headquarters in Northern Italy, Nov. 25.—The battle between the Piave and Brenta Rivers in the hills leading to the Venetian Plain is reaching a climax with fury of action exceeding anything that has thus far taken place on that front. After fluctuating furious mass attacks in which the Germans joined the Austrians, the heights are again in the hands of the Italians who made a magnificent charge upon the slopes. The Basilical, Calabral and Alpine brigades suffered most in this storm. The battalions of Alpini were almost wiped out of existence, but the enemy paid dearly. Dead Germans and Austrians were piled up in heaps. Their trenches disappeared in the fury of the artillery action. The Italian lines over great stretches of ground were strewn with bodies of Germans and Austrians.

DESTRUCTION OF AIRSHIPS.

Grand Headquarters, French Army in France, Nov. 25. (By the Associated Press.)—The brilliant record of French aviators including members of the La Fayette squadron for ten months ending October, shows that they destroyed 120 German airplanes over French lines and 397 over German lines whose destruction has been fully certified. There also were 513 others over German lines which prob-

AUSTRALIA REJOICES.
MELBOURNE, Aus., Nov. 25. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—The report of the Associated Chambers of Commerce emphasizes the necessity of cutting out trade with the enemy after the war. News of the British victory on the west front has evoked the greatest enthusiasm and there have been patriotic demonstrations throughout Australia.

BOLSHEVIKI NOT RECOGNIZED.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25. Ambassador Bakhmeteff, of Russia, formally notified the State Department to-day that the Embassy doesn't recognize the authority of the extremists now in control of the Foreign Office at Petrograd. In a letter to Secretary Lansing, following the resignation of three of the chief officers of the Embassy to avoid having relations with the Bolsheviki, the Ambassador said the Bolsheviki Government was not representative of the true will of the Russian people, and that he wouldn't recognize that or any similar government which would lead the country into non-participation in the war. He said he considered himself in duty bound to remain at his post and would do so with a competent staff of assistants. While expressing the belief that the true spirit of Russia was bound to arise, he said it was evident that until conditions changed, the Embassy couldn't arise in full measure to its essential duties, and therefore he had authorized members of the Embassy to find other fields for their activities. John Sookine, first secretary of the Russian army, and Ferdinand De Mohrenschildt, second secretary, who married Secretary McAdoo's daughter last May, have offered their services to the American Government for war against Germany.

LONDON, Nov. 25. A Petrograd despatch from a semi-official agency says that the Mayor of Petrograd has announced that the

HOW TO MAKE
Boys' PANTS Last!

Some joker or wiseacre has said, "Make the coat and vest first." The wise mother knows it is no joke to get Boys Pants to last. and in fact it is practically an impossibility, as Boys will be boys now, as always, in any pair of Trousers.

We are showing this week a pretty good range of

BOYS' PANTS.

We do not guarantee that they will last any longer than any other Boys' Pants, as we do not feel we could be responsible for these garments for any healthy boy. But these goods are very difficult to get and we want to tell the boy's mother

WE HAVE THEM!

Sizes run from fours to tens, and in one range made of English Woollen Tweeds the price of size 4 is $1.45, rising 5c. extra for each size larger. We have other qualities of course. And right here we want to say with a pair of English Tweed Trousers at $2.25 or $2.50 pair. You cannot better these values.

We are also showing a splendid range of

Men's Winter OVERCOATS.

These are of the latest cut, double breasted, belted, and newest style collar, and are very reasonably priced.

INSECT ADVENTURES.

(By J. HENRI FABRE.)
Translated by Alexander Teixeira de Mattos and Adapted for Young People by Louise S. Hasbrouck.

Could any child fail to be interested in nature subjects if he had a chance to learn about them from Fabre, a scientist unequalled in his chosen field of insect life, and a master of the art of appealing to the youthful imagination? His profound knowledge is imparted in terms of fascinating adventure. The curious worm "pirates," "the insect submarines," "the spider's telegraph wires" are introduced to the child reader. The life stories of the bee, the wasp, the spider, the fly are told with that whimsical imagery and fanciful twist which make them read like a fairy tale. The charm of the book is completed by the fascinating, quaint sketches, very French in style, which are profusely scattered through it.

"The Mystery of the Hasty Arrow," illustrated; cloth $1.50. Anna Katherine Green's new book. "Songs from a Young Man's Land," $1.50, by Sir Clive Phillips-Wolley. These Poems pulse and throb with the new spirit of unity and solidarity that is vibrant throughout the flagging Empire to-day.

It's Done in St. John's.

Last week a hardware man told us, "Gentlemen, you speak of 12 per cent. profit. Nothing doing for me. I can make 10 per cent. a month in my own business."
An East End shopkeeper informed us he can net 10 per cent. per month on cigarettes alone.
A higher level business man says he can turn over a given sum of money five times in a year, and make 20 per cent. or more each time.
A milliner can easily sell for $25 a hat that cost her $5 to import and $5 to trim and finish.
Pick out almost any line in this city and you can find from 20 per cent. to 500 per cent. profit in a year, and every year too.
And still some wise investors laugh because we offer twelve per cent. Think, gentlemen—think, before you condemn.
