CHAPTER XI.
Where she had sprung from neither of them knew, but the wood was full of dark recesses, and they had been so engrossed with each other that they had looked neither to the right nor the left.

The apparition was bobbing and courtesying before them, and Hastings noticed that, though her hair was snowy white, her eyes sparkled with the brilliancy of youth.

Were these the eyes that he had seen in the courtyard of the castle? Undoubtedly they were, and he wondered what made them seem so familiar. The woman's figure was bent, and she hobbled with a stick. Her hand was partly enveloped in a scarlet shawl, which was carefully arranged to conceal the lower part of her face, the slits of which was as brown as a coffee-berry.

"Will the sweet lady cross the sycamore's palm with silver?" crooned the woman, holding out one of her brown hands. "Hagar can read the destinies of men and women on their hands. She can reveal the past and the future."
Sir Charles tossed a shilling into her hand, and would have passed on, but Gladys stopped and regarded the sycamore curiously.

"Let me tell you your fortune, sweet lady," cried the woman, and Hastings could not help shuddering before the baleful fire of her black eyes.

"Come," he whispered to Gladys, "the old creature is insane. She has a piece of silver—she is satisfied. Her fortune telling is all nonsense."
"Insane!—insane, am I!" shrieked ing" sobbed Gladys. "I love you dearly—I love you! Any fate shared with you were preferable to loneliness."

"Can you not tear me from your heart? Can you not despise me? I am the most despicable villain that ever crawled God's earth—!"

"My love!" she murmured. "I care not what you are! I am yours in life and death. You are too noble to do wrong."

He stopped her with an impatient gesture, then continued:

"I ought never to have come here, but man is not master of his fate. If there is such a thing as predestination, then we are the playthings of a higher power. The argument is only the argument of a coward, but it makes one curious to look into the future. Gladys, come what may, I want you to think well of me. I am weak enough for that. I will tell you the history of my life when I grow calmer, and then you shall judge me as I am."

"I want to know nothing," Gladys said. "I am satisfied with the present. My foolish fears have unerved you, darling. You tremble to think that you have brought sorrow and dread upon me. You connect all with Lady Marcia's troubles, Lady Marcia's beliefs, and my own silly dreams and fancies. You came into my life when it was empty. I did not know it was empty until then. I never lived until I had your sweet love. The sunshine you saw in my eyes was not half so beautiful as the ecstasy that is now in my heart!"

Hastings regarded her for a minute with the eyes of a worshiper. Her faith appalled him. His brain reeled with delirium.

"That glimpse of paradise will live with me forever," he said, dreamily, and caressing her fondly. "Your beautiful faith gives me hope and happiness. I can never forget the bliss that was mine in the moonlight when you confessed that you loved me."

They were now within a short distance of the spot where they had left their friends; and the metallic laughter of Mrs. Nixey, mingled with the clatter of china, reminded them that they must hide all traces of emotion.

After dinner, Sir Charles and Gladys met in a grove of silver trees beyond the tower gardens, where they could renew their vows and say goodbye unseen and unheard. At times like these the heart is almost too full to speak, and the lovers were weighted by an oppression they neither cared to admit.

"I shall write in a day or two," said Sir Charles, "and appoint a meeting with the earl. In the meantime, I have much to do that concerns us, Gladys—that concerns me and you."

She looked at him in surprise; he had hinted at so much, and said so little.

"Tell me everything, dear, if it will ease you to share whatever may be on your mind with the one to whom you are all in all!"

"Not now—not now! My story may be pleasant to tell in a week's time. Gladys. Then I will tell you my sad history—the history of a fearful mistake!"

She laid her head trustingly on his shoulder; and not until he had been driven away to the station—until she knew that he was in the train, thundering homeward—did the significance of those words occur to her. His kisses were still warm upon her lips, and she had retired early to her room to dream of and pray for her love. Each moment was he borne farther from her; but each passing moment brought nearer their next meeting. She shivered with a nameless dread. She dared not even look toward the White Lady's Bower from her window—she who had scoffed at the legend—who had spent within its shadows many hours of dreamful solitude.

How strange Sir Charles' manner had been—how mysterious his words! How cruel the wicked eyes of the old sycamore woman! Did all this forebadow some dreadful calamity?

He loved her—he loved her; but his knowledge of it gave him pangs of sorrow—may, remorse!

He would tell her the history of a fearful mistake!

In the black hours of night, she dreamed that they were parted forever by this mistake of which he spoke. But the golden sunlight of morning dispelled her fears, and she waited for her first love letter—she waited for news of her lover.

A DAINTY, SIMPLE DRESS.
Pattern 3267 was used for this design. It is cut in 4 Sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. A 10 year size requires 5 1/2 yards of 40 inch material if made with long sleeves. With the sleeves short 1/2 yard less is required. 3 1/2 yards of 40 inch material.
Lawn, batiste, voile, dimity, dotted Swiss, crepe, wash silk, gingham and chambray could be used for this design. Here shown white organdy was used, with self frills, and outline embroidery for decoration.

A DAINTY DRESS FOR MOTHER'S GIRL.
Pattern 3660 is here charmingly portrayed. It is cut in 4 Sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 10 requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material.
Dotted Swiss, organdy, crepe, crepe de chine, flouncing, embroidered voile, poplin, silk, gingham, percale and linen are attractive for this model.
The plastron may be omitted. The sleeves may be in "short" or wrist length.
A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

A STYLISH FROCK FOR THE GROWING GIRL.
4019. The graceful fullness of the drapery and the "tie on" effect are popular features of this model. It is nice for crepe, and also for voile. Ribbon, hemstitching or a plait edge would serve well for decoration.

A SIMPLE DRESS FOR A SMALL CHILD.
Pattern 3393 developed this attractive model. It is cut in 5 Sizes: 6 months, 1 year, 2, 3, and 4 years.
Chambray, lawn, calico, challis, linen, crash, voile, silk, serge and mixture, also gingham, and poplin are also for a dress of this kind. As illustrated, bige chambray was used, with trimming of white Indian head, finished with blanket stitching.
It will require 2 1/2 yards of 27 inch material for a 2 year size.
A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

A DAINTY COMFORTABLE FROCK.
3980. In dotted Swiss, challis, chintz or organdy this style is ever attractive. The development is simple, and the dress will launder easily. Comfortable pockets are inserted under dainty flaps.
The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 1, 2, 3, and 5 years. A 3 year size will require 3 1/2 yard of 36 inch material.
Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

A COMFORTABLE PLAY FROCK.
4081. The good features of this style are readily apparent. It may be attractively developed in percale with bindings of a contrasting color, or in chambray, pongee or crepe.
The Pattern is cut in 3 Sizes: 6 months, 1 year and 3 years. A 1 year size requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material.

Irish Provisional Government Issues Manifesto—U.S. Mine Workers Abandon Absolute Strike—Women Debarred from Methodist Ministry—A Characteristic German Offer.

GETTING TO WORK.

DUBLIN, June 27.
The Irish Provisional Government issued a manifesto this evening denouncing outrages against peace and security in Ireland, declaring the boycott of Belfast had no legal existence, and announcing that the Government would resolutely perform its duty to maintain law and order. The co-operation of citizens was invited.

ABSOLUTE STRIKE OF MINERS ABANDONED.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 27.
Upon receipt of a telegram from John Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers, who conferred with President Harding at Washington today, the General Scale Committee of the Anthracite workers abandoned all plans for immediate calling of an absolute strike and contemplated withdrawal of pickets from the mines.

26 KILLED IN RAILWAY ACCIDENT.
BERLIN, June 27.
Twenty-six persons were killed and thirty seriously injured in a railway accident near here to-day.

INGENUOUS.

PARIS, June 27.
A huge war reparations plan, under which Germany would reconstruct devastated France and also build a tunnel under the English Channel, has been submitted by Minister of Public Works Trocquier to Premier Poincare. The plan involves the use of German material and labor to the extent of twenty billion francs.

TWENTY FOUR HOURS' STRIKE.

BERLIN, June 27.
As a demonstration against reactionary forces a twenty-four hour strike through Germany called by the Federation of Trade Unions commenced at noon to-day. Guests at hotels were warned to supply themselves with canned stuff.

MINERS' OUTRAGE.

BRIDGEPORT, Ohio, June 27.
One miner was killed and another wounded when fired on to-day while en route to work at Strip Mine at Uniontown. The victims were in an automobile when shots came from the hills.

STRIKE IN ITALY.

ROME, June 27.
The nation wide strike called by metal workers is fairly complete in Milan, Turin and Trieste, and in partial effect in Genoa, Naples and other places. The strike is a protest against employers cancelling in part the allowance for high cost of living. The Government is trying to arrange a settlement.

EIGHT KILLED IN EXPLOSION.

KNOXVILLE, June 27.
Eight men were killed and ten injured in an explosion this afternoon at the plant of Holston Quarry Company at Straw Plains, thirteen miles from here.

RAILWAY SHOPMEN THREATEN STRIKE.

CHICAGO, June 27.
A strike of 400,000 railway shopmen of the country will be called for July 1st, unless the railroads agree to stay the $60,000,000 wage cut due the shop workers on that date and restore certain working conditions formerly in effect. It was made known to-night.

A BLOW AT THE REPUBLIC.

BERLIN, June 27.
The assassins who killed Dr. Walter Rathenau, Germany's Foreign Minister, were standing at the Republican movement of Germany and its people, declared President Ebert at Dr. Rathenau's funeral in the Reichstag Chamber to-day.

Scout Camp.

The Gower St. Troop of Boy Scouts will hold their fourth annual Camp this year at Manuels. The Camp ground has been changed, and is on a better site this year, nearer the station, and with a much better place for pitching tents. The advance party will go out on Saturday to make arrangements. The Camp will open July 3rd, and close on July 15th. An excursion to Bell Island has been arranged for the last week of camp. All former Scouts are allowed to go to camp this year as well as those now members of the Troop. About sixty have signed on to-day, and the Camp promises to be the biggest yet.

Crime and Criminals.

Their Punishment and Reformation.

(By Observer.)
SOME OF THE INFLUENCES FOR GOOD.

In one of my previous articles on this subject I referred to some of the beneficent influences at work to prevent crime, to bring about reformation in the lives of those who have fallen, and to redeem the moral tone of the community. I omitted, however, to adequately emphasize the greatest influence of all—that of women. To my mind her influence in this direction cannot be too highly estimated. No scientist, perhaps, will affirm that motherhood is the absolute duty of every woman born into the world, but that this function has all ways and will always fall to the lot of most women none will deny. In view of this certain and established fact, we should not hesitate to regard the realization of universal female suffrage as almost an unmitigated evil. Nor does this view militate against any possible broadening of woman's sphere of usefulness. The exercise of the ballot is by no means essential to the exercise of woman's power for good.

THE IMPELLING FORCE NOW AS HERETOFORE.

Readers of English History know that the real ruler of Great Britain during the reign of George II, was Queen Caroline, and that she was one of the most sagacious counselors that ever gained the ear of a British Sovereign. We know what the companionship of Josephine was worth to Napoleon. Gibbon says that the laws of Justinian were attributed to the sage counsel of his remarkable wife, the Empress Theodora. When we remember that Surrey had his Geraldine, Dante his Beatrice, Swift, Stella, Tasso his Lenora, and Petrarch his Laura, we must know that literature has owed many of its finer inspirations to the influence of women. Could the ballot have yielded a larger sphere of influence? All history is filled with the names of womanly women.

THEY SHINE ABOVE THE MIST OF FABLE.

An American writer on the subject of Social Acelioration, reminds us that in the 'm twilight of the human story, where the horizon of recorded fact is above the mist of fable, we find the legendary Semiramis, Queen of the Eastern plains, who gave law to the fathers of Abraham. Sweeping down the ages, on the same sunny plains of Mesopotamia, we find a Median princess sighing for her native mountains, and her wishes bring forth the hanging gardens of Babylon; and in the West, where the curtain of fable was more slowly raised, we behold Helen and the ruins of Troy; and Dido, criminals are reformed, if at all, the reformation is a mental and moral, and not a physical process, excepting where deterioration was the result of physical causes yielding to the therapeutic treatment.

TREATMENT DURING IMPRISONMENT.

In my opinion the treatment of the convict can never be wholly reduced to scientific formulas. Like teaching, it will always remain a great art. Skill in drawing people out, in appealing to the best in the personalities, in bringing tact, judgement and sheer divination to bear upon the intimate problems of changing the lives of others, will always be large elements in its success. The successful prison Superintendent will ever be a man with insight into strength and weakness of character and with an instinctive touch for the springs that control emotion and conduct. Treatment in the institution, however, is likely to become more deft and more precise. There the environment can be artificially moulded and controlled. Hence, as diagnosis becomes more accurate and we come to understand better the means of criminal therapy, institutional treatment will become more scientific, and certainly more resourceful.

A METHOD THAT DEFEATS ITS OWN PURPOSE.

One of the first things to remember with respect to the institutional treatment of offenders is that a uniform regimen for all prisoners is worse than bad; it is futile and defeats its own purpose. Reference has already been made to the ridicule that would be heaped upon any physician who would prescribe the same remedies for every person who came to him; similar distrust would be felt towards any hospital that should treat all its patients alike. Yet our prisons are for the most part built upon the principle of uniform treatment, and not only receive men for fixed sentences (imagine a hospital that should decide when a man came to it exactly how long he should stay!), but do the same things to them and expect the same things from them while they are there. The folly of this practice should be made still clearer by an analogy to a school principal who should refuse to make school distinctions among children and should subject all of them to the same rate of progress, the same discipline, the same course of study. Just fancy how heartily our Superintendent of Education would laugh at such an idea! Why you'd hear the notorious exclamation of Dr. Blackall from the other side of Quidi Vidi Lake.

SOCIAL AMELIORATION.

Coming down to modern times, we find the stage of history ornate with the glory of womanhood, ennobled by her toils and sanctified by her sacrifices. Here we find Joan of Arc, the shepherdes of Dominey, sweeping like an archangel over the battlefield to save the crown of her beloved France; and there is the illustrious Isabella of Castile, defying the doubts of men, and pledging her jewels to give ships to Columbus; and here is Madame Roland, high-priestess of Freedom, tearing the mask from the cruel face of Anarchy, and going to her death with the cry, "Oh Liberty! What crimes are committed in thy name." While yonder we behold Marie Theresa, holding aloft before the Diet of Hungary her infant son, and kindling within the hearts of her people a spirit that saved the throne of Austria, firing the souls of all, until "The fierce Croatian, and the wild Hussar, With all the sons of ravage, crowd the war."

PUNISHMENT AS A WEAPON OF SOCIAL DEFENCE.

To return to the subject of punishment: It is not to be considered merely as a weapon of social defence; it also should be among the instrumentalities of social improvement. By punishment, however, we do not necessarily mean the infliction of physical pain. The considerations of common humanity demand that the infliction of physical pain can be avoided whenever and wherever possible, and when apparently unavoidable, pain should be minimized to the slightest degree possible. It is a dangerous concession to admit that the infliction of physical suffering is ever permissible as a phase of legal punishment, for it was just such logic that gave to us the Inquisition and the torture chambers of modern Europe. Where

THE CRIMINAL ACT AND NOT THE CRIMINAL.

Need I say that to the student of behavior, a knowledge of the individual back of the given act is absolutely essential to a clear understanding of the nature of behavior to be had. Nevertheless, he cannot escape the conviction that as far as the administration of the problem of crime is concerned, the man back of the act is largely lost sight of, and what is actually administered is the criminal act and not the criminal. Intimate contact with the problem of crime inevitably leads to the opinion that every agency concerned in the administration of this problem sees in its own work an end in itself, and seems to lose sight of the common goal or end, toward which all should be steering; namely, the readjustment of that badly adjusted individual, the criminal.

THE COMMUNITY AND ITS PROBLEM OF CRIME.

It must be obvious to anyone who takes the trouble to look into the situation more closely, that this cannot be expected to be otherwise under the prevailing attitude of the average community toward its problem of crime. Just as long as a community will judge the efficiency of its police officers, its prosecuting lawyers, and its judiciary by the volume of crime they are able to detect and punish, rather than by the extent to which they succeed in preventing crime, an unnecessarily large number of what might be termed "provoked crimes" must be the result. The manner in which the problem of an individual criminal is handled before he is admitted to prison must, of necessity, effect the degree to which the institution will succeed in accomplishing what is perhaps the most important of its functions—the return to the community of a better man than it originally received. To expect any institution, penal or reformatory, to accomplish this in all cases, in view of the constitutional makeup of so large a part of the constituency of the average prison, would be well nigh expecting the impossible. This will, I think, be admitted by even the most exacting reformer.

DIFFERENT TYPES OF CRIMINALS.

Efforts are continually being made to dissect the criminal, so to speak, in the search of evidence of abnormality of structure or of physiological action, and they extend this search to the internal organs when the desired opportunity offers itself for an autopsy. What have they found? All Anglo-Celtic criminals, with the exception of those technically convicted of fraud, are markedly differentiated from the general population in stature and body weight. In addition, offenders convicted of violence to the person are characterized by an average degree of strength and of constitutional soundness considerably above the average of other criminals, and of the law-abiding community. Finally, thieves and burglars (who constitute it must be borne in mind, 90 per cent. of all criminals), and also incendiaries as well as being inferior in stature and weight, and also, relatively to other criminals and the population at large, puny in their general bodily habits.

CONVICTS FROM THE DIFFERENT DISTRICTS.

In a previous paragraph I mentioned the total number of convicts sent to the Penitentiary during the past year (1921). Perhaps this article would be more interesting to my readers, if I furnish it with the following:—

District	No. Committed
St. John's	116
Bonaville	9
St. George's	23
Harbor Main	12
Twillingate	10
Trinity	12
Harbor Grace	10
Burgoe and LaPole	5
Fogo	3
Piacentia and St. Mary's	3
Bay de Verde	2
Burin	2
Port de Grave	1
Carbonar	2
Ferryland	2
St. Barbe	1
Aliens and others without fixed abode	17
	233

A COMPARATIVELY GOOD RECORD.

The figures here given may seem large in the aggregate at first sight, but when we remember that the St. John's Penitentiary is practically the one and only prison for the whole island, it will be admitted that the percentage of commitments is a small one, after all, for a population of 360,000. In this respect I think we compare favorably with other parts of the Empire. Of course, we don't want to boast about our comparative immunity from crime, but, to say the least of it, we have no reason to be ashamed of our record outside the political arena. Anyway, all these facts—if they are facts, I may have got some of them wrong—are impressive, as I have intimated, especially when conveyed to the world in strongly emphasized words, such as I at present feel like using. They would be even more impressive if they were emphasized by anybody except Newfoundland herself. It is always wiser for a man, a city, or a colony, to get an outsider to act as trumpeter. He who sounds his own praise seldom gets the credit which is due. That goes to the man of community which sits still, amidst modesty and bluntness, if possible, while some one else, not a near relative, sings "the glorious days renown." Perhaps there has been a difficulty in getting disinterested strangers to say what might be said about Newfoundland. So Newfoundland says it herself, all of it, several times over, very loud.

In the Realms of Sport.

GAME THIS AFTERNOON.

Through the kindness of the executive of the Football League a game has been arranged between the crews of the French cruisers VII Ery and Casiope now in port. As most of the navy boys come from the north of France where soccer is the national game (rugby in the south) they are keen enthusiasts, and among the crews at present in port are some very fine players.

SEND IT IN, BOYS!

If outport sport enthusiasts care to describe any games played in their vicinity, the Sporting Editor will be very glad indeed to find room for them in this column.

LAST NIGHT'S FOOTBALL.

A cat playing with a kitten best describes last night's game between the B.L.S. and the B.C. which resulted in a win for the former by a score of 5 to 1. One of the Irish goals was scored on a penalty against Burridge, and the other of Higgins gave the Brigade their solitary notch. Both were obviously mere accidents and by no stretch of imagination could be termed deliberate. If our memory serves us right the League made a ruling that only in case of a deliberate hand was the penalty rule to be enforced and to date we have seen no notice that this had been rescinded. The game throughout was very poor though occasionally there would be a flash in the pan. All the scoring was done in the first half, and although the Harps practically controlled all the play they were unable to beat Phillips.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.

The Saints will try conclusions with the Fieldians to-night, and the game should furnish a good exhibition.

BASEBALL.

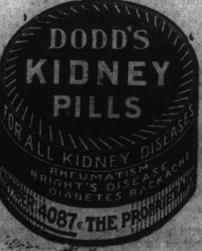

For the silver trophy donated by Sir R. A. Shires the baseballers are having a doubleheader on Saturday morning as preliminaries for the Kilbride Garden Party. The first bout will be between the Red Lions and Cubs, and the second will find the Wanderers and B.L.S. in mortal combat.

Chautauqua Convention.

GENERAL FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS. Chautauqua, N.Y., June 19.—(Associated Press)—Several thousand women, representing every state in the Union, have gathered here for the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which opens to-morrow and will continue for 10 days. Many prominent persons have accepted invitations to speak during the sessions. These include Thomas A. Edison, Will H. Hays, Count Ilya Tolstoy, Hanford McNider, Commander of the American Legion; Hugh S. Cummings, Surgeon-General of the United States; Simon Flexner, of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, and Judge Martin J. Wade, of the United States District Court. The convention will convene Tuesday morning and be formally opened Wednesday evening with Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, of Minneapolis, President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, delivering the welcoming address. Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, President of the Chautauqua Women's Club and hostess to the convention, also will speak.

VARIETY OF SUBJECTS. The program embraces a wide variety of subjects for discussion. These include international relations, public revenues and expenditures, American citizenship, the problem of the ex-service man, child welfare, motion pictures, the elimination of illiteracy, public health, education art, literature, music and science.

Plans for the purchase and furnishing of a $100,000 home in Washington, D.C. to be used as a national headquarters of the Federation, are expected to be completed during the meeting. The biennial election of officers also will be held. Mrs. Thomas G. Winter is a candidate for re-election to the office of President without opposition. Others are Mrs. W. S. Jennings, of Florida, Vice-President of the General Federation, who is a candidate to succeed herself; Mrs. George Plummer, of Chicago, for 2nd Vice-President; Mrs. James E. Hays, Georgia, candidate for Recording Secretary, and Mrs. Florence Flores, of Texas, for Treasurer.

REGATTA.

An emergency meeting of the Regatta Committee has been called for to-morrow night to deal with the joint protest received from the Avalon and Cadet Boat Clubs against a regatta sweep just put on the market by the club of one of our leading fraternal organizations. The matter is rather complex, while we are in possession of full particulars we think it wise to refrain from any comment until the protest has been fully discussed by the Regatta Committee and the boat clubs to-morrow night. In the meantime, both clubs have withdrawn their practice boats.

CRICKET.

We hope our cricket enthusiasts are keeping their bats well oiled, for according to advice just to hand from Grand Falls, local wielders of the willow will be called upon to repel an invasion from there in August. Whilst plans are still immature it is likely that the inland town's team will come along here for the Regatta and play a series with St. John's for the beautiful silver trophy presented by Mr. Hayward. The good old game is booming at the Falls, and apart from the two teams in the G.F.A.A., Mr. Berwick, the Mill Superintendent, has organized a third from his employees who are going at it like hammer and tongs. Uncle Dud's devotees number about thirty. We feel sure that a little enthusiasm and initiative on the part of enthusiasts in St. John's would soon start a league here. Many of the boys who across played it, and played it well, so that there should be no shortage of material. Already we learn that a director of one of our Water Street firms—a noted athlete in the days that are past—has offered to present to a certain team his muchly prized three bats which he earned at Pleasantville. If they will play cricket. Now then, it's up to some one to convene a meeting and see what can be done. If for no other reason than to provide some plan of battle when the gauntlet is thrown down by the inlanders. Let us not be found asleep at our posts!

Contemptible Larceny.

EIGHTEEN MONTHS FOR ROBBING TILL AND WINE CELLAR.

Two charges were preferred against Frederick Rumsey and J. Costello in the Police Court to-day. One was a despicable robbery from the till of a poor widow. The other was the larceny of wines to the value of $200 from the residence of Mr. Eric Bowring. The accused pleaded not guilty to both charges. Superintendent O'Neill conducted the prosecution. Recently, Costello and Rumsey entered the small shop kept by a Mrs. O'Brien and made off with the cash boxes containing the receipts for the day. They were followed by a young woman who held them until Mrs. O'Brien could come up. They denied all knowledge of the boxes but offered some coppers to the woman. When the case was proven against them, accused admitted the larceny.

With respect to the other charge, accused had been lining Mr. Bowring's cellar and at various times they took away several bottles of wine. They gave drinks to several friends. A witness stated he had been given liquor by the accused.

"What kind of liquor?" he was asked.

"I couldn't say," replied witness; "I am not long drinking."

Another witness gave similar evidence. He said one of the accused told him there was no "hard stuff." Witness replied that champagne was just as good. He was given six bottles of cider. Witness said that one of the accused had told him in the Penitentiary grounds that he had fooled Head Constable Byrne. The Judge, in passing sentence, said that Costello and Rumsey had been guilty of a most despicable crime in robbing Mrs. O'Brien's till. He sent them down for six months each on the first charge and one year each with hard labor on the second charge.

Fishery News.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT.

All the boats on the local grounds this morning had fair catches of fish, some of which were of large size. Traps in Freshwater Bay took from two to three quintals, the first for the season. Fish are striking in along the shore and at Baillie, near Cape St. Francis, yesterday, the fishermen had all they could handle. A message was received to-day from St. Vincent's, St. Mary's Bay, stating that the fishermen were making good hauls and prospects were bright. A large number of fishing boats are lying up around St. John's and it is expected that once the fish have put in an appearance, their owners will get them in the water.

New Postage Rates.

REGULATIONS COME IN FORCE SATURDAY.

The increased postage rates provided for in this year's Budget come into force on Saturday next, July 1st. All who post letters after that time to points outside St. John's will have to place a four cent stamp on the envelopes of the people who receive them will be compelled to pay double postage. The official Post Office announcement is as follows: "On and after the 1st July next, the postage rate for letters addressed to Great Britain, Canada, and all other places in the British Empire, also to the United States of America, will be 4 cents per ounce or fraction of an ounce. The rate for letters addressed to European and other foreign countries will be as at present, 6 cents for first ounce and 3 cents for each additional ounce or fraction of an ounce. Letters addressed to places within Newfoundland will be forwarded at present rate, that is 3 cents for first ounce and 2 cents for each additional ounce or fraction of an ounce. Newspapers will, after Friday next, have to pay postage for the first time. The stamp tax on telegrams will be discontinued but each ten words will cost 25 cents. This applies only to messages sent over the Nfld. Postal Telegraph lines.

Traced to Sea Salt.

The prime duty incumbent upon all Newfoundlanders, who engage in the prosecution of the fishery is to turn out a number one merchantable article. In order to reach this desideratum it is necessary that the greatest care be exercised in splitting, washing, salting, water-horsing and making. The quality of the salt used should be carefully selected, as in a great measure reddening of fish—an almost constant happening—is due to the salt. Some little while ago considerable discussion was carried on through the press as to the cause of this red discoloration of fish in salt bulk, and many theories were advanced in supporting the contentions of the numerous correspondents who wrote upon this subject. The evil complained of was not peculiar to Newfoundland, Canada and United States fishermen experienced similar trouble, and the fishery scientists of both these countries were then engaged in determining the cause. Very recently a report on this matter has been made by Dr. F. C. Harrison of MacDonald College, Quebec, and almost simultaneously another report comes from a United States authority in the person of Dr. W. B. Browne. Both these gentlemen reach the same conclusion, viz., that the vegetable growth to which the discoloration (reddening) of fish is attributed prevails only in sea salt, and they recommend that the usage of sea salt for fish curing purposes be discontinued, unless sterilized, and mined salt be employed instead. Salt is produced in many places and may be divided into two classes—mined, and sea, or solar salt. Dr. Harrison, in his report, gives the following definition:

- (1) Mined Salt comes either from deposits in crystalline form, or from areas underground where sufficient moisture is present to produce a strong brine, which is pumped to the surface and then evaporated. Examples of this kind of salt are known to the trade as Liverpool (English salt coming from the Cheshire and Yorkshire mines); Windsor from Ontario; and Malagash from Nova Scotia. (2) Sea or Solar Salt obtained by the evaporation of seawater, coming, as a rule, from countries having a seaboard where the climate is dry and the summer of long duration.

Portugal, Spain, Italy, Austria and the West Indies produce the largest amounts of sea salt, and the brands most commonly used in the Canadian and Newfoundland fish trade are known as: Setubal (Portugal), Cadiz, Torrevieja (Spain), and Trapani (Italy) and Turk's Island (West Indies). This salt is obtained by evaporation of sea water in shallow areas or basins. The organism causing discoloration must therefore come in contact with the fish through the use of sea salt as pointed out by Dr. Harrison, for if there were no red organisms present in the salt, certainly no red color could develop on the fish. "Undoubtedly," he says, "the source of this trouble is found in tropical salt, that is, salt obtained by the evaporation of sea water in tropical or semi-tropical regions." The process of preparation of sea salt is exhaustively explained by Dr. Harrison, a description of which will appear in a subsequent article. Enough, however, has been written to show that the reddening of fish—as has been contended by local writers—is due to the quality of the salt used in curing, and to obviate which mined salt must be substituted for sea salt.

New Stamp Issue.

CARIBOU STAMPS TO BE RE-PLACED. A new issue of postage stamps, to be placed on sale during the summer, is now being considered by the Department of Posts and Telegraphs. Designs have been submitted, but no definite decision has been reached with respect to these, or to the values and number of stamps in the set. It is probable that there will be a different design for each value. At present the stamps in use are the Caribou issue and some values of the Cabot set. The Caribou stamps were placed on sale in 1919, and were only intended as a temporary issue in commemoration of the deeds of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment and New-Foundland Royal Naval Reserve in the war. Certain values of this set were rapidly exhausted and were replaced by remainders of the Cabot issue. There have been several printings of the lower values. In 1920, a number of surcharges were necessary on account of a shortage of the lower values. There have also been special surcharges and over-prints for sale since 1919. Although these stamps were necessary, they are not nearly every case, they were badly handled by the postal authorities, with the result that they came under the ban of philatelists as speculative issues.

Methodist Garden Party.

As previously announced the Methodist Garden Party will be held on July 12th, and it promises to be an event of exceptional interest. It will be divided equally between the Methodist Orphanage and the Methodist College Athletic Fund. The municipal gift of the Athletic Grounds on Pennywell Road, presented by C. P. Ayre, Esq., has been greatly enlarged by his generous presentation this year of a large acreage extending some 800 feet on Freshwater Road, 600 feet on Pennywell Road, and bounded in the East by Linseott's Lane and on the West by O'Dea's Lane. For three seasons now, the Committee have been working on a portion of the property, and have completed the football grounds, a Club Race Track, three Tennis Courts, and the Junior Playground. Nor has tree-planting been overlooked. Some one hundred and fifty now adorn the grounds. The forthcoming Picnic is under the auspices of the United Methodist of the city. The affair is being looked forward to with keen enjoyment, and a day memorable for its pleasure, and big with financial results for both Orphanage and College is confidently anticipated. The Committee and the caterers will do their part; and as mid-July generally brings with it the best days of Newfoundland's delightful summer, hopes for bright and warm weather promise realization.

Health Week, July 23-29th.

Prizes will be given by the Child Welfare Association for the two best essays on "How to take care of the Baby," written by girls under sixteen. Put your name and age on the paper and send it to the Secretary of the Child Welfare Association, 42 Rennie Mill Road, not later than July 20th. Prizes will be presented during health week. June 27, 21.

Prevalent Habit.

DRUNK BREAKS WINDOW. The window breaking habit, which has been so very prevalent among drunks recently, is still going on. A man was charged before Judge Morris this morning with being drunk and disorderly and breaking four panes of glass in a window of the residence of Mr. Kennedy, Balsam Street. Accused pleaded guilty and was fined $5, the value of the glass he had broken.

Memorial Day.

GOVERNOR WILL DELIVER PANEGYRIC. Arrangements regarding Memorial Day ceremony, which takes place at the Sergeant's Monument on Sunday next at noon, have been practically completed. The committee in charge are desirous that citizens generally will take the places assigned to them in the square, thus avoiding confusion and assisting in the proper carrying out of the programme. To-night the firing party comprised of the Sergeants who were present last year, together with the buglers, will meet in the C. L. B. Armoury after the football match for a short practice for the ceremonies on the occasion. Permission has been granted all ex-service men of all branches to be present in uniform if possible and to wear their decorations and war medals. The panegyric on the occasion will be delivered by His Excellency Sir Alex. Harris.

Gold Medal Winner.

POPULAR PUPIL AWARDED COVETED PRIZE. The annual gold medal prize given by the Christian Brothers to the pupil of the leading school at St. Patrick's Hall who is most eminent in the practice of the school motto, Purity, Truth and Charity, was awarded yesterday, in addition to the Award Scholarship. The winner this year was Master Bernard Galway, and as the award is conferred by the votes of the scholars, his selection by them as the most worthy recipient is a great tribute to his high character and the esteem in which they hold him. The honor is all the more welcome to the young winner now, as it will be a constant pleasant reminder to him of his parting term with his boyhood friends, for he leaves in a few weeks to enter the novitiate of the Irish Christian Brothers at St. Mary's on the Hudson, Westpark, New York. Here, after a preliminary course of three or four years' training, he will join the teaching staff of the great Order, whose reputation in the noble cause of education is so world-wide and to whose services in our own land we are also highly indebted since the coming amongst us, now nearly fifty years ago, of these good and zealous teachers.

Camp Discussed.

Various matters in connection with the annual camp at Topasill were discussed at a special meeting of the C. L. B. Officers' Mess held in the Armoury last night. Lieut.-Col. Goodfellow presided. The Battalion will go to camp on Thursday, July 20th, and will come out on Saturday, the 29th. Capt. C. E. A. Jeffery of the College Companies will be commandant. Several officers have signified their intention of going to camp this year. Last night's parade was well attended. The Battalion with bugle band went for a route march, the recruits remaining in the Armoury. On Sunday next the C. L. B. will take part in the Memorial Day Ceremonies.

School Magazines.

THE ADELPHIAN. The "Adelphian" magazine of St. Bonaventure's College has just made its appearance for June and is a credit to editors and contributors alike. It contains several interesting articles, including a scholarly contribution on Byron from the able pen of Rev. Bro. M. J. Ryan. The price list for last year is published and there are interesting accounts of the College football and hockey games.

THE FELDIAN.

The official organ of Bishop Field College, "The Feldian," has also just appeared. It contains a very interesting article by the Headmaster, Mr. R. R. Wood, B.A., pointing out to parents their duties to their children with respect to school. Many lighter articles are found in this excellent number.

Susu Leaves.

PURSER GOES TO HOSPITAL. When S. S. Susu left port yesterday on the Fogo mail service, Purser J. Newell did not go with her, as he has to go to hospital to receive treatment for an old wound in his right leg, received while on active service with the Regiment. The Susu took the following passengers: Rev. J. Bagges, Rev. L. Burry, Mrs. S. A. Miller, Miss S. Winsor, Mrs. S. A. Moland, Mrs. H. A. Russell, Mrs. A. Miller and child.

Shipping Notes.

S.S. Canadian Sapper leaves Montreal for here on July 6th. S.S. Rosalind is due at New York to-morrow and leaves again on Saturday. S.S. Silvia is expected to arrive here on Saturday from Glasgow. The ship has 29 passengers for this port. S.S. Sable I. is due at North Sydney to-night. Eat MRS. STEWART'S Home Made Bread.—4714, 420

Regatta Sweeps.

CLUBS DELIVER ULTIMATUM. There seems to be some doubt as to whether the Annual Regatta will take place this year. If it does not, the attitude of the boat clubs in connection with sweepstakes will be responsible. The Telegram learns to-day that the boat clubs have delivered an ultimatum to the Regatta Committee, to the effect that if other organizations than their own are permitted to pull sweepstakes, they will refuse to put their boats on the pond. This matter will be considered at the meeting of the Regatta Committee to-morrow night. Seen by the Telegram this morning Judge Morris said "I have granted permission only to the Boat Clubs to operate wheels of fortune on the race course. I certainly cannot give them a monopoly of outside sweepstakes and I have already given permission to other organizations to issue sweepstakes on the Regatta." Judge Morris said further that his action with respect to wheels of fortune on the course was taken in consideration of the fact that the Boat Clubs required funds to put their boats on the pond. He could not, however, place this ban on sweeps which other clubs might organize. The Telegram further learns that the Amateur crew in the "Cadet" have ceased practice.

Supreme Court.

Before Chief Justice. Consolidated Statutes and Amendments thereof and in the matter of Moulton, Ltd. Howley K.C. for Liquidators, Higgins K.C. for M. G. Winter & Co., Mr. L. E. Emerson for Bank Nova Scotia. Howley K.C. called Chas. S. Frost, who is sworn and examined being afterwards cross-examined by Higgins K.C. George Adams, sworn and examined by Howley K.C. The Court took recess until this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Circuit Court.

FOR WESTERN DIVISION. Circuit Court for the Western Division leaves Placentia on July 4th. The Chief Justice will preside, with Mr. W. Carroll, Sheriff, D. Kent, Clerk, and J. Cahill, orator. The party will leave for Placentia by Monday's train. So far as can be learned there is no one criminal case to be tried, that against Austin Paine for larceny. This man is charged with breaking and entering the Post Office at Bay of Islands. Mr. J. A. Barron, LL.B., accompanies the court as crown prosecutor.

Express Passengers.

S. S. Kyle arrived at Port aux Basques at 6.25 o'clock this morning, bringing a large mail and the following passengers who are now on the incoming express due to-morrow afternoon.—Mrs. A. Proceedings of the Synod

TUESDAY, June 27.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Synod met at 3.30, the Lord Bishop read the prayers and declared the House open for business.

The minutes of the previous session were read and confirmed.

Rev. C.A. Moulton moved the adoption of the report of the Literature Committee, which on being duly seconded, a discussion ensued respecting the carrying on of the "Diocesan Magazine," and of suggestions for its future management.

The debate occupied the attention of the House until the closing hour at 5.30, when it was a motion adjourned.

EVENING SESSION.

The House resumed at 8 o'clock, the Bishop presiding.

Canon Bolt invited the House to continue the discussion of the motion for the appointment of a standing committee to report to the Synod at its next session concerning the relations from the Church of England in Canada relative to the isolation of the Church in Newfoundland within the Canadian Church, and read for the information of the House from the Synod Journals and other documents the letters and resolutions sent this subject which the Synod had received and discussed in previous Synods after the "Isolation" of 1891 was received, and also that of 1912. The general result of the historical review was that since 1914, the subject has been in abeyance, possibly, as the speaker thought, owing to the war.

On the discussion which ensued, several members spoke, a resume of their remarks being appended.

Rev. A. E. Tulk felt that the time was not opportune. We have had in the past a strong connection with England. He would advise hesitancy in any step to be taken to sever this connection. He feared that connection with Canada may bind us to decisions which may hinder our development. It had been said, however, that the Church in Newfoundland may have something to bring to the Church in Canada.

Rev. A. E. Butler thought it right and proper to have a Standing Committee to consider this whole matter. While we may carry something to the Church in Canada, we will not learn much. He would point out that our Apostolic Succession had come to us from Canada.

Rev. Canon Smart had very great pleasure in supporting the resolution for a Standing Committee. He did not feel that any harm was likely to accrue from such union, but a great deal of good. In his opinion England had given very great help in money, but very little of inspiration. On the other hand he felt that if we had been linked up with Canada previous to 1916, our financial position would have been much better than it is today. Under such union, we would have had wider vision, we should have taken part in that great financial drive which took place in the Church of Canada, and in his humble opinion we should not have been in the position financially that we are at the present time. We have had visits from many representative Churchmen, such as Dean Llywd, the Dean Tucker, and it was his great pleasure to visit the General Synod of the Church in Canada in 1918, and to carry to them a letter of greeting from the Bishop of this Diocese. During that visit he met many of the great Canadian churchmen. My impression, said the speaker, was an impression of the fuller life of the wider and bigger Church of Canada, our linking up with Canada is not going to restrict our development, either in a general way or along certain specific lines of churchmanship. After presenting the Bishop's letter of greeting with which I was entrusted, said Canon Smart, the Archbishop of Rupertland, the presiding Archbishop, assured me that when the Church in Newfoundland entered the Church of Canada, it would be on her own volition. He had no hesitancy in advocating the appointment of a committee.

Rev. A. B. Stirling thought that we should not ask Canada to take us in because we are in need, but we should go in a dignified manner, as a sister church to a bigger sister. We need information, and this information can be gathered by such a committee, and when it reports here at the next Synod on the invitations received, we may more intelligently discuss this important question.

The debate at this stage was closed and the motion being put by the President, it was carried by a large majority.

The House then resumed the discussion on the report of the Board of Directors of the Church of England Colleges. Many members spoke and the debate was continued until 10 o'clock, the time for the consideration of motions, when it was further adjourned.

Rev. W. R. J. Hight moved the further discussion of his resolutions which had introduced at yesterday's session, concerning the enforcement of the Prohibition Law which several members spoke.

Rev. J. T. Hiscop, then moved an amendment as follows, which was duly seconded, and occupied the time of the session until closing hour, when it was moved, seconded, and agreed that the debate be adjourned until to-morrow.

WHEREAS: This country has now had an experience—by no means satisfactory—of over five years of a Prohibition regime.

AND WHEREAS: There appears to be great and growing opposition to the continuation of this Prohibition regime, due partly to an impression that the Act as embodied in the Statute is an impracticable one, but in times of a strong feeling that the law is not equitable in its effects.

AND WHEREAS: To combat effectively the great evils attendant on smuggling and the illicit manufacture of ardent spirits would entail an additional burden of expenditure too grievous to be borne by the taxpayers in times of grave depression like these present and certainly inadvisable unless by a direct mandate from an unquestionable one, but in times of a strong feeling that the law is not equitable in its effects.

AND WHEREAS: This Diocesan Synod knows of no reason why it should alter the decision made at two previous sessions, not to commit itself definitely to the regime of Prohibition in Newfoundland, but is strongly of opinion that there should be a Referendum to the electors on this big and outstanding question of the times.

IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED: That we do hereby memorialize the Government of Newfoundland to undertake such a Referendum on the question of Prohibition along the lines recommended in the Report unanimously signed by the Royal Commission of 1921 and as early a date as is practicable.

It is further resolved that he will on to-morrow, at the permission of the Synod to refer to the work of the Church Lads' Brigade.

His Lordship the Bishop announced that the election of the Executive Committee will take place to-night (Wednesday) at 8 o'clock.

At 10.30 on motion, the House adjourned with the Bishop's blessing.

All Aboard! Thursday evening at 7.30 for the B.L.S. Weekly Excursions to Donovan's. The favorite resort of the Summer. Train returns at 11.45 p.m.—June 27, 21.

Distribution of Prizes.

A large number of parents and friends attended the closing of Miss Worrall's private school for the summer vacation, which took place on Monday morning last. The school rooms were tastefully decorated with the drawings and paintings of the pupils which reflected great credit on Miss Kelly who has charge of this branch of the work. The needlework done by the Junior girls also merited the praise received. A brief report of the work of the school was given by Miss Worrall. The number of pupils in attendance during the year was 32. It was a matter of regret that owing to limited space many pupils who had made application could not be accepted. At Christmas the valued services of Miss A. Fenwick, B.A., of Toronto University, were secured and added considerably to the success of the year's work. Little Miss Morgan presented a beautiful bouquet to Mrs. Allan Fraser, who graciously distributed the prizes. Speeches were made by Revs. Canon Smart and Field, Rev. C. A. Moulton and Hon. Ell Dawe, all of whom paid glowing tributes to Miss Worrall and her staff who are to be congratulated on the success achieved. The singing of the National Anthem brought a very pleasant and unique event to a close. The following is the list of the successful prize winners:

Reported Discovery

OF SYNTHETIC COAL FROM STONES

The reported discovery by a Munich chemist, Prueckner, of a process for making a high grade anthracite coal from stone and chemicals has aroused considerable excitement in Germany, and especially in other parts of the world.

To the new industrial Germany coal and iron and steel are the greatest necessities at the present time, and coal is the master of iron and steel. Therefore, if Prueckner's discovery proves to be of any value, it will be of far greater benefit than even could be.

Germany has lost to other coal mines in Upper Silesia, Poland, and considered probable that the French will keep the Sarre Valley, and are eagerly looking for any opportunity to occupy and retain the Ruhr district, containing the most important coal mines of Continental Europe and the only rich anthracite territory still under German control. Germany's water power resources are relatively small, and she developed them with great care, and she has the horse-power of "white coal," since the French, in the Versailles treaty, secured the exclusive right to develop the Rhine between Bessel and Lauterburg, and the other big rivers, with the exception of the Weser, have been internationalized.

So it seems that Germany's very existence was placed in jeopardy, more so as the peace treaty prevented her from entering into commercial treaties, except of minor subjects.

Nineteenth and twentieth century civilization is largely based on the use of mechanical power for the purpose of production. The mutual relations of mechanical power and civilization have never been drive home to the public at large as they have been brought to universal attention by the world wide coal shortage during the war.

Synthetic Coal Produced.

Though the Berlin Patent Office has not yet rendered a decision of Prueckner's application for a patent on his synthetic coal process, the fact that Prueckner produced synthetic coal that in every respect is the equal of anthracite has been established beyond any doubt by a number of official practical tests.

One of the tests was made to ascertain the heating power of each of the two kinds of coal. The synthetic coal burned without a smell and with an insignificant volume of smoke and produced 7985 heat units per 100 kilograms, 220 pounds, while anthracite coal has a heating power of from 7,000 to 8,000 heat units per 100 kilograms and emits many times more smoke, causing the well known odor. That means that synthetic coal, if used to produce directly heat or steam, at least signals high grade anthracite.

Still more favorable was the gas test. One hundred kilograms of anthracite were placed in one retort and the same quantity of synthetic coal in another. Both retorts were subjected to the same heat, and their contents converted into gas and coke. The gas obtained from the synthetic coal yielded more heat units per second while it lasted and it lasted longer than the anthracite. The coke of both kinds of coal equalled in weight and heating power. That result is of special importance because Germany is consistently striving to restrict consumption of coal to factories and gas works, and has made already much progress in that direction.

Gas Germinating Plants.

The heat from burning coal is to be utilized to make steam to drive stationary engines. But thereby not more than 18 per cent. of the inherent power of coal can be utilized. Not to waste the remaining power, the gas beneath the boiler is connected with gas germinating plants, the illuminating gas yielding about twice as much heat or power as the direct burning of coal.

The chief by-product of this process is coke to be burned in board of ships and in households, which may also use either illuminating gas or hydrogen gas for heating purposes. The hydrogen gas is produced by pouring water on live coals. Small and medium industrial establishments will be able to install such motors and use illuminating or hydrogen gas.

The process of production of synthetic coal is simple, according to Prueckner who operates near Munich a small plant. Prueckner says:

"Factories will be erected in the vicinity of quarries. Two different kinds of soft stones are crushed and ground into fine sand and mixed with certain chemicals. The mixture will be moistened, pressed into briquettes, heated, dried and cooled. The synthetic coal industry will not depend on anthracite or bituminous or sub-bituminous coal or peat, or their by-products, or on any other material used as fuel."

Plenty of Raw Material.

"Germany, like nearly every other country, has a superabundance of the necessary minerals and can produce the chemicals in unlimited quantities. As produced in the little plant

Safety First.

The Newfoundland Motor Association wishes to continue its "Safety First" campaign with the object of making the streets safe for pedestrians and occupants of vehicles. The Association has already asked the Municipal Council to erect signs at street corners, and special signs near schools, churches, etc., warning all drivers to slow down when passing.

Motor drivers find it extremely difficult to avoid collision with:

1. Pedestrians who walk in the centre of the streets, even where good sidewalks are located.
2. Those who cross the street without taking the trouble to look for Motors or other vehicles which may be approaching especially between crossings.
3. Children who play games in the centre of the main streets which are used by motorists and other drivers.
4. Children and grown-ups who stand their ground and deliberately dare the Motor Driver--This is a frequent occurrence.
5. Children who stand out in the street as far as possible and think it great fun to throw their caps under the wheels of a passing car.
6. Children who steal a drive by clinging to the rear of a Motor car when in motion. A boy stepped in front of a car and was killed last spring in St. John's, because the driver was giving his attention to another boy clinging on behind.

The Motor Association is using its influence on all motorists to drive cautiously and at fair speed, and to turn corners with care under close control--after giving proper signals--realizing that pedestrians have undisputed rights in the use of the streets.

Parents and teachers are asked to co-operate as much as possible by advising children who cannot go to the park to confine their play to the sidewalks and side streets.

THE FUTURE.

To see what's nigh to happen! There's the zest Of life for all who walk the world to-day. Shall some new morning better this day's be? And some new joy come smiting down the way?

Onward we trudge from youth to ripeness, Bearing the burdens as they daily fall; Yet hourly eager for tomorrow's page And wondering what's beyond the distant wall.

Life's an adventure from its start to close. Dawn is the gateway to the realm unknown. What we shall find by night time no man knows, Yet he would see the wonders to be shown.

Always tomorrow lures us on and on. Ever we dream of what may lie before. The present scene night's curtain falls upon. The morning shall have something new in store.

So in the last, when from its robe of clay The spirit breaks, with joy I would set out. Eager to tread the strange and unknown way. To see and learn and settle every doubt.

HER RECOVERY IS AMAZING TO MANY FRIENDS.

Mrs. McArthur Tells How Tanlac Brought Complete Relief From Stomach Trouble That Was So Bad She Couldn't Walk Up The Stairs—Gains Weight Too.

"My friends all express surprise over the fine change in my health, and I always tell them how Tanlac caused my improvement," said Mrs. Kenneth McArthur, 52 S. Bentinck St., Sydney, N.S.

"I was gradually weak and run down for six years, suffering from a bad form of stomach trouble. No matter how careful I was of what I ate I had awful attacks of indigestion. I had trouble with my heart skipping and jumping, but I know now it was due to the condition of my stomach. I was nervous and miserable, getting little rest day or night, and so fagged out I couldn't climb the stairs.

"I began taking Tanlac just in time for I had almost lost hope. Now I am feeling like a different woman. I have a hearty appetite, eat anything, sleep restfully and have gained weight. I think Tanlac is truly wonderful."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

ALL DRESSED THE SAME.

We sat in a restaurant the other night. We looked about us. It was a large, cosmopolitan restaurant and there were all kinds of people. There were a great many women with clothes that hinted of money, furs that spoke aloud of it, and rings that shouted the fact that their owners were well to do.

A Typical Set-up.

A perfectly typical example of these sat at the table to the right. She was a middle-aged woman with beautifully marcelled white hair (the kind of wave that is obtained by having it done lightly twice a day by an expert), a black gown (the kind that pretends to be simple and costs at least $150), and an average man's salary for the year on either hand in diamonds, rubies and platinum. She did not have a lorgnette because she did not need one. She was quite able to supply the lorgnette idea by the quality of the gaze with which she looked at some of the other people in the restaurant. She had the air of not being able to sympathize with the Almighty in his peculiar whim of making so many common people.

There were many other women like her and there were also quite a few women whose clothes, while becoming

SLANDERED PRUNES.

Though prunes are held to be the symbol of everything that's cheap and base, the man whose brains would fill a thimble must know such taunts are out of place. For prunes are wholesome and nutritious, they brace us up from head to heel, and serpent-wise are cooks who dish us a quart or two at every meal. Oh, prunes are adestepped, donnerwetter, because of jesters' quips and quirks, yet doctors say there's nothing better to regulate the human works. They have the acids we are needing, the vitamins and things like those, and that rich juice you see them bleeding gives haggard cheeks the tint of rose. And yet we blush when we go shopping, to ask for prunes, of fruits the best; we fear the grocer will be yawning the customer boneless. Jest, we fear to place prunes on the table when visitors are in the chairs, for haply they may not be able to stifle threadbare jokes of theirs. And thus the helpful prune inherits an odium that keeps it shamed; it cannot advertise its merits, for people yell when it is named. Of prunes I'd chant when other singers are praising roses to the sky; for prunes are daisies, prunes are dingers, when stewed or fried or in a pie.

Smart Crook Carried Off Court Clock.

BERLIN. (Associated Press)—Thousands of law-breakers have been given "time" at Berlin's central criminal court in Moabit, but recently an ingenious crook posing as a repair man actually was given the court's official clock, and during the conduct of a trial. The sitting was well under way when a man in working clothes entered the courtroom with a long ladder which he calmly placed under the huge, imposing timepiece on the wall. The judge, counsel, accused and spectators were astounded at such an unprecedented interruption. The president stopped the workman's ascent of his ladder long enough to inquire the meaning of his conduct. The visitor explained that he merely wanted to get the clock for repair and that it would take only a moment. The president objected, but consented when the man said he already had called six times and always found the court in session. The vacant space on the wall surprised the janitor later in the day, and his investigations revealed that the court had been robbed under its very eyes, in fact, with its permission.

Fashions and Fads.

Some organy dresses have waists with round neck and quaint puffed sleeves, others have the lace-trimmed fichu.

The wrapped effect is noted in many French dresses, the wrapped part being held firmly by steel buckles, or clasps.

A double cluster of hyacinth blossoms in hyacinth color are set at the right side of the brim of a small hat of narrow straw.

A new fashion in children's clothes is sponsored in a pink frock with a shallow yoke of rose, edged with ruffles of the pink.

The Russian blouse has become a favorite. It is generally made with elastic at the waistline, so that it may be adjusted to the individual.

Foulards and silk crepes have billowing hips, and quaint bodices. The hems are most interesting—they drop in scallops, at the sides.

The twisted girde for evening wear has been displaced as a very beautiful fashion. Striped materials are sometimes used with good effect.

The tie-at-the-back sash is featured on some smart summer dresses. It is generally made of the same material as are the collar, cuffs and vest.

Steel ribbon is being used to girde lace dinner gowns. The ribbon is generally held by an enameled clasp, sometimes bordered with jewels.

An exquisite nightgown has an accordion-plaited section of apricot crepe de chine set onto a short-waisted upper section of net with applique butterflies.

The draped gown and uneven brim have been combined, and the result is a charming straw hat for young girls. The trimming is a band and large bow of wide ribbon.

Frocks of embroidered voile are having a vogue. They are charming when made with boat-neck. Often ribbon looping placed at the left, marks the normal waistline of these frocks.

One-piece frocks of ratine or linen are charming for morning wear. They have short, fringed sleeves, a fringed hem, and Peter Pan collar of white linen stitched in color to match the dress. A white leather belt marks the waistline.

HIS DIARY.
June 27th.—The weather turned to rain. Mr. O'Reilly appears to be a Water Street and shows me divers shops on which much grass did grow in the stone foundations. This he tells me was the verification of the prophecy that the grass would one day grow on Water Street. Good discourse of many matters of the day with Mr. O'Reilly. He says among other things, how he believes there should be a tax on all vehicles. Still great talk of an election in the autumn, but little news of any new parties. This day did begin the publication in the news sheet of the subscribers to the War Memorial and many put to shame by their names not being in the list. It is mighty trouble by day and night with plagues of bites of insects, about my face and limbs, which I did suffer (most of them) sitting yesterday in the garden.

A TIP TO THE COUNCIL.
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—For twenty years I have lived in the city of St. John's. Year after year I have hoped to see the streets made fit to inhabit, but year after year I have been disappointed and disgusted. A few years ago I thought my hope would be realized; the Council was beginning to tar. Because the tar has not been used sufficiently, however, the streets are now as bad as ever, while the fine clay that the Council is putting on the streets to fill up the holes and ruts, serves only to create more mud in wet weather, and clouds of dust in fine weather. Children in the streets play at ball, quoits, marbles and other games. A puff of wind or a motor car passing by envelopes them in a cloud of dust, or cesspools in the form of stagnant puddles of water in drains and holes in the streets are formed; disease germs arise from cesspools, and in the dust smothering the children, and before long some of these happy little ones are stricken with tubercular, or some other form of consumption, or dread disease. The parents nurse the little ones patiently till death comes, and the Council in reporting the mortality list would probably speak of it as being death as God's will. Have you ever thought Messrs. Councillors of how much you are responsible for? Do you think that the height and depth and breadth and length of your responsibility can be measured by the dollars and cents which you are to spend? What is your excuse? A few truckmen assert that tarvia may cause their horses to slip. A lame excuse truly! If tarvia makes the horses slip, then in the name of common sense, sprinkle sand or some finely crushed stone over the tarvia, if it will soon sink in leaving a smooth, dust-free surface, and entirely free from slippiness. Recently I've seen horses falling on Prescott Street, Harvey's Arch, and Rothwell & Bowring's Lane. There is no tarvia on either of these places. But suppose horses did slip on tarvia, which is most important, animal life or human life? The man who could not answer that question unhesitatingly in favor of human life and tarvia, ought to have his head cut open, his brain taken out, and the brains of a supernatant jackass put in its place. It would be more worthy contents than human brains, for such a container.

A SONG!

That is what the average "talking machine" is sold for when auctioned these days. Not so the NEW EDISON, as was proved at a recent auction sale in St. John's. If you wish to learn the reason, call at 178 Water Street and hear the difference between one of America's best and most advertised talking machines and a NEW EDISON, The Phonograph with a Soul. It pays to get the Best.
