CHAPTER V.

What memories filled the mind of each as they stood thus face to face—the traces of the world's buffets in their worn lineaments—memories of two young forms with hope and vigor shining in their glowing eyes, determination and ambition strong in their hearts.

"Welcome—a thousand times welcome!" said the squire, after a moment's silence. "I received your letter this morning. We expected you to-morrow."

Sir Douglas laughed. "Yes, I thought so; but I am not an orthodox person at all. I break through all rules and regulations. I look like a tramp. Ask this young lady if she does not think so," he added, abruptly.

Vane's face flushed—she was inwardly much annoyed; but Sir Douglas continued, speaking easily, and her contusion was unnoticed.

"I was eager to see you, Sholto, and I started off almost as soon as I dispatched my letter. I have had a great wish to see you for the last month."

"I am heartily glad to meet you once more," the squire responded, and his face looked brighter than usual. "But how have you come, Douglas?"

"On foot," returned Sir Douglas, calmly. "My man will arrive with my traps in about an hour's time."

"On foot from Chesterham! You must be tired out. Come to my study. What volumes of anecdotes we could write, Douglas, of our respective lives! Vane, my dear, will you come with us?"

"No," replied Miss Charteris, with a forced smile. "I will go and tell mamma that Sir Douglas has arrived."

She moved away gracefully as she spoke; Sir Douglas looked after her. "That is George Charteris' girl!" he asked.

"Yes. She is very beautiful, is she not?" returned the squire, dreamily. "Hum!" observed Sir Douglas to himself. "She may be; but—"

The sentence was left unfinished and the strange guest followed the squire into the house.

"How unchanged it all is!" he remarked, as he entered the great hall. "I seem to have stepped back into my boyhood again, Sholto. Ah, we don't wear as well as bricks and mortar, old fellow! Only a few short years, and we are both wrecks of what we were!"

They had entered a smaller apartment at the back of the building, one used by the squire as his study and own special sanctum. Books and pamphlets were carelessly strewn about; and the room, in its plain appointments, told clearly and distinctly the character of its owner.

The squire pushed forward a large chair to the window, and Sir Douglas, sitting in it, peered himself in it, whilst the squire settled himself at the table.

"Was Freed of Gall Stones And Persistent Backache"

Mr. Alexander Bradley, R.R. No. 1, Carp, Ont., writes:

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills
65 cts. a box of 35 pills, Edmondson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto

GERALD S. DOYLE, Distributor.

"Did my letter startle you?" asked Sir Douglas suddenly.

"Yes, it did," was the candid answer. "I had begun to think you would never return to England, that you would die as you have lived, a wanderer from your home."

"A weary, restless wanderer—a man, Sholto, with but one thought in his mind, one desire in his wanderings, one wish that has never been fulfilled. Ah, you have judged me as the world has judged me, an ill-conditioned fellow who loved all nations and people above his own! But you have wronged me—the world has wronged me. I am as capable of strong domestic feeling as any man living. I am what I am through trickery and deceit."

The squire gazed earnestly at his cousin's face, the thin features illumined by a sudden rush of color. Sir Douglas turned, and, as his eyes met that earnest gaze, he sunk back slowly in his chair, and the old cynical look came back again.

"I must not bore you with my hidden griefs, Sholto," he said, dryly; "they are rusty and gray now with age."

"You mistake if you think they bore me. I have never judged you hardly, Douglas. Your nature was not a common one. To me your life has fitted your nature."

"My life," echoed the guest a little sadly. "What a weary turmoil it seems looking back at it now, what ceaseless restlessness! Ah, cousin, you have had the best of it, after all!"

"Let us bury by-gones—they leave a bitter taste behind. I will come to the present, Sholto. I wrote to you with one idea and thought prominent in my mind. In another month or so I shall leave England again, perhaps this time never to return; but, before I go, I want to leave my old inheritance an heir, and I must find him here."

"Here!" repeated the squire. "You forgot, Douglas, I am seven years your senior, and in all probability—"

"I do not mean you. You have a son."

"Stuart?" exclaimed the squire. "Yes. You have never seen him, Douglas. He is the best in the world."

"I do not need your word to tell me that. I have heard of this son. The world is very small, and my ears are always sharp. He was in Calcutta last year. Yes, and I was there, too."

"Then you know him?"

Sir Douglas shook his head. "I never saw; but I heard of his good, warm generous nature, and judging him as your son, my heart went out to him."

"It is a noble offer," the squire said, in his quiet, simple way. "But throwing off his hat, peered himself in it, whilst the squire settled himself at the table.

"I do seem to have had a purposeless life when I think of it," Stuart observed, reflectively. "The hardest day I ever had was when I went tiger-shooting."

"Tiger-shooting!" repeated the girl, palling. "Oh, Mr. Stuart, it sounds so dreadful!"

"You are a little coward, Margery," Stuart laughed. "By Jove, though, how you would have enjoyed some of the things I did! I am sure you would be a good sailor. Margery, how would you like to be out at sea and not a speck of land in sight?"

"I have read of the sea; but I have never seen it," Margery said, simply. "But I think I should like it; there must be such a grandeur and beauty in rolling waves and great moving waters. I wish you would tell me something about it, Mr. Stuart."

Stuart moved into a sitting position and leaned his back against the trunk of a giant tree.

"There is not a soul," Sir Douglas replied, in low tones. "Don't cross me in this, Sholto; to your son I would willingly give all I possess. Heaven grant he may derive greater happiness from it than I have done!"

There was a silence between the two men; then the squire said, gently: "You look worn and tired, Douglas. Must you leave England again so soon?"

"Yes," Sir Douglas returned briefly. "My search is not ended; if nothing else will support me, revenge will." He paused for an instant, then went on quickly, "Sholto, old fellow, don't think me mad or wild; there is a spot in my past which even you can never see. Only this much I will tell you, that, though I am a cynical, dry, hard creature now, there was a time, a brief heavenly time, when my life was as full of joy and vigor as your son's is now. The memory of that dead joy, the memory of my terrible wrong—for I was wronged—has destroyed my life's happiness. I live only for two things—to be revenged and to be satisfied."

He rose from his chair as he spoke, and strode rapidly up and down the room, while the squire watched him tenderly and sorrowfully. He read the depth of trouble in the grief-distorted face; but he did not seek to know this or learn in any way the truth of his cousin's strange career. Sir Douglas suddenly stopped in his hurried walk.

"I am not myself to-day, Sholto," he said, relapsing into his dry manner. "My return to your old home, where everything speaks of the past, has worked badly on me; but the weakness is gone, and—don't be alarmed—it will not come again."

The squire said nothing, but stretched out his hand and grasped his cousin's in silence. Sir Douglas turned away as their fingers unloosened and threw himself into his chair again.

"I shall stay with you for a week or two, Sholto," he went on, presently. "I want to make friends with Stuart—and then I shall disappear. I trust your wife will not be alarmed at my rough appearance; I believe I have some decent coats among my things—I must look them out."

"Constance will welcome you warmly," though he shifted his papers nervously about as he spoke.

"More especially when she knows what has brought me," was Sir Douglas' muttered thought.

Then he turned the conversation on other things; and the two men, were soon lost in an argument, talking as easily and naturally as though fifteen days, not years, had elapsed since their last meeting.

Meanwhile, away in the Weald grounds, the picnic was progressing well. Margery had spread her snow-white cloth on the turf and placed the dainty cakes and apples upon it; and, despite Stuart's grumbling, he ate heartily of the simple repast.

"I call this heavenly!" he exclaimed, as he lay on the grass, leaning on his elbow, and watched Margery feed the dogs.

"It is nice," she agreed, turning her great sapphire eyes on him; "but I do all the work and you picnic, Mr. Stuart. I am afraid you are very lazy."

"I know I am," confessed the young man, "but you forget how hard I have always worked, Margery," he added.

Margery shook her wealth of red-gold hair, and laughed a sweet, musical laugh that rang through the summer silence.

"Worked," she repeated—"you worked! I don't believe you really know what work means."

"I do seem to have had a purposeless life when I think of it," Stuart observed, reflectively. "The hardest day I ever had was when I went tiger-shooting."

"Tiger-shooting!" repeated the girl, palling. "Oh, Mr. Stuart, it sounds so dreadful!"

"You are a little coward, Margery," Stuart laughed. "By Jove, though, how you would have enjoyed some of the things I did! I am sure you would be a good sailor. Margery, how would you like to be out at sea and not a speck of land in sight?"

"I have read of the sea; but I have never seen it," Margery said, simply. "But I think I should like it; there must be such a grandeur and beauty in rolling waves and great moving waters. I wish you would tell me something about it, Mr. Stuart."

Stuart moved into a sitting position and leaned his back against the trunk of a giant tree.

Why the Pound Rises

Sir Herbert Hambling, Deputy Chairman of Barclays Bank, says in the Weekly Dispatch:

"It is very desirable, in view of the favourable financial outlook, that the man in the street should understand why the £ is rising at all.

"All sorts of factors which might, at first sight, be thought to be irrelevant have helped to bring the rise about. The acceptance of the Dawes Report has had a good deal to do with it. The successful issue in this country of the Greek Refugee Loan, which was eagerly oversubscribed by British capital, has also played its part, and so has the Reconstruction Scheme in Hungary, by which it is hoped that at last this part of Central Europe has passed over the shifting sands of insolvency on to solid financial ground.

"We may congratulate ourselves on the flourishing condition of the £, but we must not thereby allow ourselves, as an industrial nation, to rest on our oars. We must remember that we have many tasks ahead of us.

"British prices are still higher than those ruling in America, and this difference will have to be removed before confidence in a par rate can be established. We have still to cheapen our production costs, to improve our export trade, and, above all, to settle down to work."

Toy Balloons Help Science

It is proposed to release thousands of toy balloons this spring from fifteen stations, extending from Northern Connecticut nearly to the Canadian border, in an attempt to investigate the winds responsible for the westward spread of the gipsy moth, states the "Fruit Grower."

It is when the gipsy moth is in the caterpillar stage that movement occurs. The caterpillars have long hairs, and it is thought that these, together with the silk which the larvae spin, help to buoy them up in the wind, which sometimes carries them from half a mile to five miles from their starting place.

To learn about the winds concerned, 7,000 hydrogen-filled toy balloons were sent up some months ago. Each balloon bore a numbered tag requesting the finder to return it with a record of the time and place where found. Over 400 tags had been returned by the end of the season. They were found practically throughout Southern New England, a number being picked up on both the eastern and southern coasts.

One balloon was found off Yarmouth Cape, Nova Scotia, a drift of about 400 miles in eighteen hours. One season's work was thought insufficient to justify definite conclusions, however, and the investigations are to be continued on a more extensive scale.

Anti-Smokers' Opium Scare

WILD CHARGE AGAINST BRITAIN. (Daily Mail Diplomatic Correspondent.)

Viscount Cecil leaves London on Monday to represent Great Britain at the resumed opium conference at Geneva.

Little attention has been paid to this conference here, but in the United States comment in the Press has been on a large scale. Much of this was, no doubt, due to the activities of the "Anti-Narcotic League," a wealthy organization which has for its eventual aim the extirpation of tobacco and is proceeding towards it by way of a campaign against drugs.

Certain newspapers have taken advantage of the opportunity to present Britain to their readers in her perennial role of the world's malefactor.

Complaints have been that the drug evil in the United States was encouraged by cheap drugs and that it was "English over-production of opium" which "makes cheap drugs easy to get."

PAINS IN LEFT SIDE AND BACK

Other Troubles Women Often Have Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lachine, Quebec.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my left side and back, and with weakness and other troubles women so often have. I was this way about six months. I saw the Vegetable Compound advertised in the 'Montreal Standard' and I have taken four bottles of it. I was a very sick woman and I feel so much better I would not be without it. I also use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I recommend the medicine to my friends and I am willing for you to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. M. W. Ross, 680 Notre Dame Street, Lachine, Quebec.

Doctor Said An Operation Proved, Alberta.—"Perhaps you will remember sending me one of your books a year ago. I was in a bad condition and would suffer awful pains at times and could not do anything. The doctor said I could not have children unless I went under an operation. I read testimonials of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the papers and a friend recommended me to take it. After taking three bottles I became much better and now have a honey baby girl four months old. I do my housework and help a little with the chores. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and am willing for you to use this testimonial letter."—Mrs. A. A. Adams, Box 54, Provost, Alberta. G

Irish Fire Upon British Sentry

Perpetrators of Outrage Could Not Be Found by Machine Guns.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(Associated Press).—The Cork correspondent of the Evening News says two shots were fired last night at a sentry at Templebreedy fort, which is manned by a British garrison.

The guard was called out, whereupon more shots were fired. The British raked the surrounding country with machine guns, but were unable to locate the attackers with a powerful searchlight. Nobody was injured. Templebreedy is four miles south of Queenstown, where a number of British soldiers were shot by a gang of unidentified men last March.

fluency opinion, it may be well to say that British opium (from India) is not sold or sent at all to the United States.

The opium in America comes from Turkey, Persia, and China, and even from the Philippines. Indian opium is sold only to the Governments of our own Eastern Colonies under guarantee against re-export. None goes into the private market.

India, by agreement with China in 1906, began to reduce her export of opium to China, and it ceased entirely in 1913.

The Chinese then began an increased cultivation of the poppy, and now produce for themselves and for illicit export to other countries. The aim of the British delegates at the Geneva Conference will be to obtain a universal international agreement for control of manufacture, import and export—a big and important step. At present France, for example, and Switzerland place no restriction of that sort on their drug factories.

Germany Again Attempts to Queer the Allies' Pitch

Herriot Makes a Forceful Speech on France's Policy—Another Scrap Takes Place in the Balkans—Primate of Canada Denounces Sunday Dances.

FRANCE LOOKING FOR SECURITY PACT

PARIS, Jan. 28.—The French Government has received from Berlin cable information indicating that the German Government will, within a day or two, make a move to feel out both England and Belgium on the question of a security pact among the three.

PALACES PICKETED.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The picketing of the palaces of the British monarch and the King and Queen was witnessed this afternoon of strike pickets parading in front of Buckingham Palace and St. James Palace, the striking members of the engineering staff of the Office of Works fulling their threat to that effect made today. The King and Queen were at Sandringham and only Prince George was in residence at Buckingham Palace, while the Queen was at St. James. Volunteer workers of the water and light systems go to the royal residences and were unharmed. Many public buildings were without heat and light service.

ANOTHER BALKAN INCIDENT.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 28.—Two villages, inhabited by Bulgarians on the Greek side of the frontier, have been surrounded by troops and the inhabitants severely beaten and some driven into the interior, because of the alleged killing of two Greeks near the border, according to two refugees arriving at Sofia. The news has aroused much indignation in Sofia.

HERIOT'S STRONG SPEECH.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—Herriot's long awaited speech on France's foreign policy, delivered at a great gathering in the Chamber of Deputies today. The speaker occupied two of his three and a half hour's address in drawing up the dark picture of Germany's activities in armaments while he touched in a brief but nevertheless emphatic manner. Never before since assumed power has M. Herriot spoken of Germany in the tones he used today and although he had the Chamber, except the Communists, enthusiastically applauding and praising him, the general impression throughout Parliament was that his purpose was deeper than merely catering to the right groups. It was a warning to the British Government against the evacuation of the Rhine zone. On the subject of the Allied Debts, the Premier said, "I shall speak very briefly thereon for I have remarked how great is the susceptibility of our friends and Allies on this subject and you know how even the sublimate words and best sentiments risk at times being interpreted in a regrettable way. What I do is solemnly repeat once more what M. Vivians has said, what M. Poincare has said. France does not intend to repudiate her debts. It is not the Government, over which I preside, attached as it is to respect for treaties and conventions, that will dissolve the principle of debts which France has contracted. That being said we have the right after the speech filled with such useful figures by M. Dubois and M. Marinis to appeal to the sentiments of solidarity of our Allies and friends. Conversations with them have begun. It would be ungracious and ungrateful not to thank those who are aiding us in these conversations.

MISSIONARY GATHERING.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—President Coolidge headed the 11st of speakers at the opening session of the day of the Foreign Missions Conference of North America, described by attending heads of the Christian Missionary forces throughout the world as the most representative gathering of missionary interests since the Edinburgh Conference, 1910.

DENONCES SUNDAY TEA PARTIES.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 28.—It has been brought to my attention that there are afternoon teas held on Sunday in Winnipeg, followed by dancing, said His Grace Archbishop Matheson, Archbishop of Rupert's Land and Primate of all Canada, in a sermon here last night, on the occasion of the Women's Auxiliary Convention. His Grace denounced the practice, stating he was not a Puritan and was broadminded in the matter of dancing under right auspices, but could not countenance such practice as had grown up.

ANOTHER COLD WAVE STRIKES NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The third great cold wave of the winter continued to sweep the eastern states today. A heavy toll of deaths followed in its wake and many cities reported disastrous fires.

WAR VESSELS ORDERED TO ESCORT MERCHANT MEN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—United States war vessels in Shanghai waters have been ordered to escort United States or British merchant ships which desire to leave Shanghai at night in the face of the guns of the Woonsoong fort commanded by General Wang.

SYDNEY, Jan. 28.—Dr. J. W. Berger, General Manager, said that the bank failures and consequent publicity would have a good effect in impressing officials with the importance of their responsibilities.

Payson's bond was set at $1500 while the members of the crew were held in $500 each. The J. Duffy with a large cargo of liquor on board was seized during the last week in December, off Cornfield Point gas and bell buoy, by the coast guard destroyer Downes.

DO YOU MIND HURRYING?

Do you mind hurrying? Give me the answer to that query and I think I can tell you on which side of 30 you are.

I think there are very few young people who mind hurrying. There is a certain exhilaration about having to rush. It is a stimulant that brings one's fullest powers into action and gives one a heightened sense of being alive—when one is young!

But in the after 30 years (I say after 30 years because it seems to me that that is about the time when the average person begins to slow up a bit, though the stage comes to some later and to some earlier) we don't react as well to that stimulant.

Paralyzes Instead of Stimulates.

Instead of exhilarating it is apt to make us nervous. Instead of bringing our fullest powers into action, it is likely to confuse and even paralyze our capacity. "Don't hurry me, you make me nervous." "I can do a lot of work if I'm not hurried, but I can't rush the way I used to—" how often one hears middle-aged people saying such things as that.

And the young people listen and wonder (as I used to wonder when I heard my mother say them) why the older folks can't hurry if they really want to, and tell themselves that they will never get such fuddyduddy notions.

The Middle-aged Ought to Understand.

Which isn't at all surprising, considering. But here's something that does surprise me a bit. That the middle aged man or woman who feels himself slowing up, who can't rush the way he used to, hasn't more understanding and sympathy with the old person in whom this process has gone still farther. "Why didn't you keep that door from slamming?" cries the daughter impatiently to her father who has stood by and seen the door slam when she told him the baby was asleep and she didn't want it wakened. "You saw it coming and you just stood and looked at it."

Apparently she thinks that her father's just standing and looking at it was total depravity, when it was only the result of the fact that his motor reactions are not so quick as her.

Or the daughter who drives a machine says that she would take her mother shopping oftener but her mother is so deliberate getting in and out that she never can get anything done. "I never saw anyone so slow," she ends with evident resentment of this unnecessary peculiarity on her mother's part.

The Clock Doesn't Tick Slowly On Purpose.

Old folks don't choose to be slow. It isn't something they do to exasperate younger people. Any more than a clock that is running down ticks more slowly as the hours go by to be annoying.

It's just a part of them and the more thoroughly we realize that the more patience and sympathy and understanding we shall have.

I don't mean that even that will make us altogether patient and considerate. In the pressure and hurriedness and tension of the daily life most of us lead we shall probably have moments of impatience and irritability. But we shall make more effort to control them and when we fail to control, to make it up afterward.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR GUEST.

PADDY'S MOTHER ADVISES HIM.

It's little you know of the girls, my lad, so listen awhile to me. Don't give your heart to the first sweet thing that is pretty and fair to see; Don't lose your heart when the cheek is pink and there's beauty in the smile.

For there's more to a wife than a pretty face, and there's more to a wife than style; And there's many a lass with a quiet way which the gay boys overlook. Who will warm your heart as the years roll by with the meals that she can cook.

Let the gay lad go for the butterfles, but hark to your mother now, Somebody paid for the gowns they wear and the ribbon that binds the brow;

And any young fool can spend your gold and work you to your grave; But what you'll want in the years to come is a wife who has earned to save;

Oh, a pretty face and an empty head is a poor man's bitterest fate; And what you'll need as the days go by is a wife who will keep you straight.

The fun of youth is a treacherous thing, and care is a cruel blast; And the beauty you saw in the days of spring though the winter cannot last;

Oh, the smile of a flirt may be good to see; but Paddy, my lad, beware! Think more of the ways of the girls you meet and less of the clothes they wear;

And don't you fall for the pretty face or the cut of a stylish gown. But look for a wife who will help you up, not one who will drag you down.

An Appeal for Help From Dauntless Men

From the South West Coast of the Island comes an appeal that will not only further arouse sympathy for those who have been overtaken by disaster, but will command respect and admiration. It is the cry of strong, brave men who, still fighting, call for assistance to enable them to continue the struggle. They are showing the same quenchless courage as was displayed by their brothers in arms on the battlefield when, with ammunition exhausted and their lines of communication destroyed, they continued the unequal struggle with whatever implement lay nearest at hand.

The fishermen of Rose Blanche and the settlements in the vicinity prosecute the winter fishing industry under difficult conditions, and, as has been shown in the story told during the past few days, they are always face to face with danger from the sudden storms which swoop down without warning. In plain language, they snatch their living from the sea, but neither the precarious nature of their calling nor the disasters that visit them act as a deterrent to these hardy fisher folk. They are asking to-day, not for charity, but for the wherewithal to enable them to continue to earn a livelihood.

Newfoundlanders are ever ready to risk their own lives to aid those in danger. The very nature of the industry upon which the country depends has developed this spirit of self-sacrifice. The men of the South West Coast ask for a helping hand to replace their boats and replenish the gear lost in the storm in order to enable them to return to work as soon as possible. The fishing prospects are favourable, and continuous work for the next two months makes all the difference between poverty and prosperity to them and their families. A subscription list has been opened in the Telegram to-day, and we feel confident that the response on the part of the public will be generous and immediate. In particular we would ask those who are anxious to contribute to the fund to understand the necessity for assistance at the earliest possible moment as every day lost is a serious consideration to these men.

He giveth twice who giveth quickly. The contributions will be gratefully acknowledged through our columns under the title of South West Coast Disaster Supply Fund, and we wish to make it clear that all amounts received will be devoted to the one object of replacing the property which has been destroyed. A committee consisting of five prominent men in the locality has been appointed to ascertain the nature and amount of the losses, and to arrange for the distribution of whatever assistance is forthcoming. The Government, we understand, is doing everything possible in this worthy undertaking.

Toll of Storm at Burnt Island

Mr. W. McK. Chambers, member for the District of Burgeo & LaPolla, received the following message yesterday from Burnt Island:—"Friday's disaster was the worst in the history of the coast. Twenty-two men were missing from this island Friday night but we got news of 17 on Saturday. Some boats anchored under the outside of the island all night. Three men were rescued from the island at 12 o'clock Friday night, with boat and dry land. Five boats were lost here, but all the crews were saved except Ransome with two brothers and one young man and one married with wife and five children. Last time seen by another boat was at 3 o'clock Friday evening. Some think he struck a rock but we have made a good search everywhere. There was much loose drifting ice and our opinion is that's what he struck."

S. W. Coast Disaster

In connection with the disaster which brought such sudden distress to the fishermen of the South West Coast the following message was received to-day from Mr. Adolphe Pine at St. Pierre by Mr. W. McK. Chambers, M.H.A. "Just returned from Point Blanc where I went with the Glencoe this morning. One man John Ingraham, in hospital here now. Doctor advises have him transferred to St. John's Hospital by Sable I. next Monday on account of his condition being serious. May lose both hands and legs. Six other men going to their homes on the Glencoe. Please wire instructions."

Mr. Chambers has already taken the necessary steps to have the suggestions carried out. The urgent need or assistance for outfitting the fishermen is shown in the following message which Mr. Chambers has received:—

W. McK. Chambers, M.H.A. ROSE BLANCHE, Jan. 28. Will you see about opening subscription lists in daily newspapers in order to relieve distressed fishermen who lost fishing boats, dories and gear. Loss estimated so far, twenty-five thousand dollars. Impossible for men to resume fishing unless financial assistance received. E. F. EWING.

W. McK. Chambers, M.H.A. ISLE AUX MORTE, Jan. 28. In Friday's storm Nelson Lillingston and Andrew Coleman both in one boat lost her and all their fishing gear. They both have large families. Is there possible way to restore some of their loss? Awful destruction on boats on West Coast. Reply. C. WALTERS.

W. McK. Chambers, M.H.A. ROSE BLANCHE, Jan. 28. Owing to heavy storm Friday, about twenty dories and six skiffs total loss, four other skiffs and men not yet accounted for, fishermen left with little, have no chance to rest unless Government helps. What can you do? We appeal to you to do your utmost for possible advance to get dories only via S.S. Kyle and understand freight ten dollars from Sydney to Port aux Basques. Telegraph immediately. If can rely on help from Government, we will do our best to help out. WM. HORWOOD & CO.

Magistrates Court

A 28 year old seaman, Norway, arrested last night, charged with being drunk and accosting females on the East End, was committed to jail for $25 or in default 90 days imprisonment.

A 31 year old laborer, charged with the theft of a fine tin, the sum of $50.00, was convicted and given the option of a fine of $25.00 or in default two months imprisonment. It was the accused's first appearance before court.

A 40 year old operator, Gambo, B.B. arrested under warrant and brought to town by Constable J. Seaward, by the early morning express, was arraigned before Court at 10 o'clock, and stood charged with embezzling and stealing the sum of $898.00 from Money Order funds, the said money being the property of His Majesty's Postmaster General. Owing to the Crown not being ready to proceed with the hearing, the prisoner was not asked to plead; he was remanded to the Penitentiary.

Two young men for failing to support their mother were ordered to pay $5.00 each per week towards her upkeep.

Mr. Jonas Barter, inspector of the S.P.C.A., summoned a resident of the East End for cruelly ill-treating his horse, but he failed to appear in Court. Mr. Barter was then given instructions to care for the animal.

A resident of the West Coast who has been held on remand in the Penitentiary for the past four weeks, charged with the larceny of $110.25, the property of the Western Star, came up for trial this morning. After the charge had been read to the accused, a plea of guilty was entered and he threw himself on the mercy of the Court. Being a first offender Judge Morris granted him the option of a fine of $200.00 or in default 12 months imprisonment.

Held on a Charge of Manslaughter

Const. R. Pittman, who was dispatched to Trinity last week to investigate the circumstances surrounding the death of a ten-year-old orphan boy named John Sheppard, returned to town this morning bringing the body with him and the uncle of the deceased, Albert George Benson, who has been charged with manslaughter pending further investigation. It appears that Benson with the boy went into the woods last Wednesday to cut some firewood, and returned home an hour afterwards with the dead body of the child. Conflicting stories as to how he died caused the authorities to make investigation. The boy Sheppard had been living with his uncle but a short while. His mother is dead and his father is working at the Humber. The body, it is said, bears several marks, but whether they were the cause of the boy's death is not known until the post mortem is held this afternoon. Benson was brought before the Magistrate this forenoon and remanded for eight days. Mr. Bradley has been retained on his behalf, and Mr. Hunt, it is understood, will appear for Benson. Benson is a married man with two children.

A Plucky Rescue

A drowning fatality was averted at the Mill Bridge on Monday evening when the body of a 13 year old school boy of the Southside, Young Flood, it appears, was playing hockey on the ice above the bridge when he became entangled in a 7-year-old boy named Bartlett who had fallen on a pan of ice and was being carried down stream towards an eddy. The boy Flood at great risk to himself, managed to seize the little lad by the coat just as he was disappearing under the ice. Both, however, are suffering no ill effects of the immersion. Flood is a pupil of St. Bon's College and is now hailed as the hero amongst his classmates.

Kyle Delayed

The steamer Kyle which left Port aux Basques on Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock to proceed across the Gulf, has been delayed in her progress on account of heavy ice, and has not yet reached her destination. At 2 p.m. yesterday the ship was reported 30 miles N.E. of Scattered, jammed. The agent at Port aux Basques received word last night that the ship managed to get free again, and that Louisbourg was expected to be reached by daylight. It is presumed that the port is blockaded with ice. Up to press hour the management of the railway had received no word of her arrival.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

Jan. 28th.—Up bedtimes and abroad and a high chiller with the cold so that I am constrained to curse the changes of weather till I shame even my own ears. So to the Board of Trade where I find a number of business of a redistribution of electoral seats which will have each section of the country represented in proportion to its population. Indeed, I am told that a Bill to divide each district into boroughs, and to make other changes that are needed is like to come before the House at this session. This indeed, a much reform, and cannot but please all. This game, where another surprise is the St. Bon's beating the Guards after 80 minutes of play, which few did expect to see. The game might excite, albeit not so much as it might be. Anon to the Curling Club, where Mr. Russell that is Minister of Works tells me how his department has assumed the responsibility for the care of the War Memorial, which is indeed a good thing and do assure the public of the memorial's safety. Talking of Mr. J. J. Devine, the one I do tell me he was 70 years of age yesterday, and do bear his years mightily well. Among other things he did say was that he would like to see the news sheets than any other man in the country. Home, and my wife chides me bitterly that I did permit her to write from London. From the hockey game, and she might frozen, which makes me madd, yet I say not a word being in no honour for a curler. He congratulated me would try the patience of Job himself.

Annual Meeting.

BELL ISLAND STAR OF THE SEA ASSOCIATION.

Rev. E. J. Rawlins was re-elected President of the Bell Island Star of the Sea Association, at the annual meeting of that organization, which was held on Sunday afternoon, the 25th inst. The session was marked for its businesslike programme, and the proper manner in which the various items were carried out.

The Officers Report.

The organization, which is now entering on the tenth year of its existence, accomplished a great deal of progressive work during 1924, and the report of the Executive was most interesting, and showed the many modifications and improvements introduced during the past session. A billiard room, new billiard table, completion of the interior of the hall, completion and painting of the theatre flat, and added membership, were the outstanding features of the report.

Special reference was made to the close interest in the welfare of the Society manifested by the Patron, His Grace the Archbishop, and the appreciation of Rev. J. J. McGrath, P. M. in the Association's interest and co-operation in parish matters, while messages exchanged between Major Peter Cashin, President of the St. John's body, and the Bell Island Association were also read.

Interesting and appreciative speeches of a deep fraternal character were made by P. F. Power, J. P., Hon. President; Capt. Leo Murphy, Hon. President; and Bros. Wm. F. Billingsley and W. J. Power, all former officers, who reviewed the progress made during the past year.

Election of Officers.

Bro. W. F. Billingsley was elected Chairman to conduct the installation of officers and he was assisted by Bros. J. J. Carew, R. R. Costigan, J. Connors and J. A. Hughes. The result of the balloting was as follows:—

President—Rev. E. J. Rawlins, re-elected.
 Vice-President—Andrew Murphy, re-elected.
 Hon. Secy.—D. Daniel Steele.
 Hon. Treas.—John Connors.
 Secretary—R. R. Costigan.
 Treasurer—R. D. Walsh.
 Asst. Treasurer—John Power.
 Fin. Secretary—F. J. Burke, re-elected.
 Grand Marshal—John Gunn.
 Deputy Grand Marshal—Ed. Bowden.
 Chairman Building Committee—Jas. Hammond.
 Chairman House Committee—J. T. Murphy.
 Chairman Amusement Committee—J. Connors.

Of the first officers, who were instrumental in organizing the Association on Bell Island, only one has remained his office for nine consecutive years, Treasurer R. D. Walsh, who has now entered on his tenth term in that position.

The annual meeting has been generally characterized as a highly creditable one, and the prospects are indeed bright for a most prosperous year—full of many progressive measures—under the recently elected Executive.

PUNKTOWN

Some native leaves by every train, a young man or a maid, to face the world of stress and of strain, and strive to make the grade; and Punktown, in the wind and rain, looks lonely and decayed. We educate boys and fit them for the fray, we share their simple griefs and joys, and referee their play, until the village quiet cloys, and then they move west. They dream of destinies so great, and glory seems so near! Each will be master of his fate, there is no doubt or fear; and one who'd run the ship of state will be the auctioneer. And one who'd sail the storied seas and rest in far lagoons, will spend the long years selling cheese, and codfish, krait, and prunes; and one who'd conquer fell disease will rise to summits high and bleak, the dippy ones be crowned wise, the genius called a freak, and still they go, the wistful folk, and still they seek. And Punktown, desolate and sad, sees all her children go, their spirits brave, their faces glad, the big wide world to know, and wistfully about the grand old man wears to and fro. It is the small town's tragic fate to rear young Tom and Nell, and then escort them to the gate, and say to them, "Farewell! When you have reached a high estate I'll throw my hat and yell!"

N.B.S. Officers Installed

The 38th installation of officers of the Newfoundland British Society took place last night in the presence of a large number of members of the Society and Ladies' Auxiliary.

Past President Bro. Lawrence, assisted by Bro. Stephen Tucker, performed the ceremony. The following officers were installed:

President—Chas. W. Bowden.
Vice President—Harry Cowan.
Secretary—Arthur Miller.
Treasurer—Geo. H. Cook.
1st. Committee-man—Bro. William Bugden.
2nd. Committee-man—Bro. Walter Heale.

8th. Committee-man—Bro. Wm. E. Rowe.
9th. Committee-man—Bro. John A. Adey.

Marshal—Bro. Harry Butler.
Deputy Marshal—Bro. Wm. Heale.

After the installation a hearty vote of thanks was accorded the installing officers, and interesting and inspiring speeches were made by some of the brethren, after which followed a social hour in the adjoining room by the members, whilst the good ladies made preparation for the inner man. Nothing was lacking and all enjoyed themselves to the uttermost.

The Toast List, which was interspersed with songs and recitations was as follows:—
The King—Prop. the Chairman; Resp. God Save the King.
Song—Mrs. Harold Johns, President of the Ladies' Auxiliary.
Nid. British Society—Prop. Bro. Past Vice President, M. Lawrence; Resp. Bro. Wm. Bugden.

N. B. S. Ladies' Auxiliary—Prop. S. J. Tucker; Resp. Mrs. Harold Johns, President; Vice-President Mrs. G. H. Cook.
The President—Prop. Bro. Arthur Miller, Secretary, Prop. Bro. Charles Bowden, President.

The affair was one of the best for many years, and its success was mainly due to the efforts of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The Executive in taking their new duties, ask the fullest for this old and time honored institution.—And Lang Syne and the National Anthem brought the evening to a close.

Old Collegians' Clinic Drive Begins

The Old Collegians began their subscription campaign yesterday. On the previous night there was a meeting of the campaign organization, when the workers were addressed by the President, Mr. Arthur Mews, Mr. S. T. Harrington, the Principal of the College, and Mr. J. C. Hogg, Science Master. Mr. Soper gave final instructions to the collectors, after which the names of prospective members were allotted. Three days are being spent in rounding up members, yesterday, to-day and to-morrow, and it is hoped that the canvassers will meet a hearty response. The Association is responsible for the School Clinic, and the funds to be raised will be largely devoted to that purpose. The value of this work cannot be overestimated, for through it many of the tragedies of childhood may be averted. The following letter, written to the Chairman of the Mouth Hygiene Movement of America, tells a story that is only too frequently repeated, and illustrates the need of the School Clinic:

Mouth Hygiene Movement of America, Atlanta.

Enclosed please find my effort on behalf of the school children of America. I could not speak the volume that is in my heart on this subject, because ours is an empty home, made so by the neglect of someone in allowing a child to return to school who had been ill of scarlet fever, without thoroughly cleansing the mouth.

I have looked into the diseases of childhood pretty thoroughly, and I find that absolutely nothing has been offered in the way of treatment, but serotherapy, and no progress has been made in preventing them, except what we are able to do in the oral hygiene movement. I believe it is our greatest field in which to work for humanity.

Ours was a bright, fair, blue eyed boy, nine years old, sick one week, and us good bye after telling us that he was going to Heaven, kissed us with a smile on his lips, and passed on.

The same tragedy is being enacted in many homes at this very moment, and the sad thing about it is, that it could have been and can be prevented.

Yours truly,

Newfoundland Man Attributes This to Dodd's Kidney Pills. He first began using Dodd's Kidney Pills twenty-four years ago.

Fortune Harbor, Nfld., Jan. 28.—(Special)—No place seems to be too small to furnish at least one person who is prepared to say that he owes his health to the great Canadian Kidney Remedy—Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Richard Quirk, a well-known and highly respected resident here, is one of them.

"About 24 years ago I had a very severe attack of kidney trouble. I was so ill for three months, with an aching back that I was almost if not quite a cripple. I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills and in six months, I was completely relieved.

I am now in my 81st year and am still in good health and strong, which I firmly believe I can attribute to the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills so many years ago."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have been successfully used for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Diabetes, Lame Back, Heart Disease and all illness caused by faulty kidneys.

Great Changes in City

If you want to know how the city of St. John's has changed in appearance you should see the two pictures on exhibition in Bowring's new grocery store window. It is difficult to imagine it is the same town. Everything appears to have changed, particularly the residences. These old homes you will say certainly had little in common with the modern residence of St. John's to-day. That is so far as the external appearance goes, but if that ancient picture could show the interior of these old homes, it would be found that in one respect whatever, many of them were like unto the average home in St. John's to-day, in as much as you would see there the same familiar package of PEARLINE—the famous washing powder which was in daily use in St. John's nearly half a century ago. The town has changed, the people have changed in many respects, but as far as PEARLINE is concerned, there has been no change. It is to-day what it was in the days of our Grandmothers—the finest washing Powder.—Jan 29, 1925

Horse Races Feb. 11th

At the Annual Meeting of the Nfld. Horseman's Association held last evening in the Board of Trade Rooms, last year's officers were all unanimously re-elected:—
President—Mr. Gerald Harvey.
1st Vice-President—Hon. F. McNamara.
2nd Vice-President—Mr. Geo. R. Williams.
Sec. Treasurer—John D. O'Driscoll.

A committee of the following gentlemen was formed:—Messrs. G. Harvey, D. P. Duff, H. Macpherson, Hon. F. McNamara, Thos. Curran and M. Butler, (with the power to enlarge) to look after this year's prizes and to classify the horses for the ice-meet, also to act as a Track Committee to select a site early in the spring for a proposed "Half mile straight away."

It was proposed that the Association be incorporated. Five new members joined the Association which now shows a membership list of 80, and everything looks very promising towards summer racing. It is to be hoped to have the Track completed and ready for racing by July. Mr. Judge announced that Sir R. A. Squires very kindly offered a cup for this year's races. The President called upon the Sec. Treas. to present the cup won by Mr. Harvey for the Free for All Trot to Mr. Judge, who in turn thanked Mr. Harvey very sincerely.

The races are set for February 11th, weather and ice permitting. It is hoped to have a series of races this year.

The School Clinic

Dr. Charles J. Howlett, President of the Newfoundland Dental Board, replying to a request from the President of the "Old Collegians" for a few notes on the School Clinic, says that he is indeed "pleased to help the good cause in any way possible. Most movements in Newfoundland for the improvement of education have their opponents who can give excellent reasons for their stand. There is not a sound or sane objection to the establishment of school clinics. The greatest blessing that medicine and dentistry can bestow on humanity is that of prevention of disease. The school clinic is to-day the most potent factor in existence for preventing the spread of disease, not only amongst children, but amongst all those with whom children come in contact. Having started this work it will be only a short time when you should have nearly every child in your school with clean mouths and sound teeth."

Hook-ups for the Detector-Amplifier Unit
3. The Reinartz Set

In hooking up the detector unit for the Reinartz circuit, both the top and bottom sets of posts on the panel are "shorted," but connections are made from each set to some part of the circuit.

The Reinartz coil, as stated in a previous article, does not have to be a spider-web. In this particular instance, it is an ordinary layer-wound coil, and will be found just as satisfactory in every respect as the spider-web type. We cannot use one of our standard primaries and secondaries here, so directions for making the coil are in order.

All three coils—"T," "P" and "S"—may be wound on the same four-inch tube. "T" is the first one to put on, and is 25 turns of No. 22 d.c.c. wire. Leave a gap of about a quarter of an inch, and then start in winding the coil from "P" and "S." This is all one coil, and is wound in the same direction as coil "T." Wind on 15 turns with a tap at the first, 7th, 12th and 15th turns for that part of the coil which is to be used as the primary (P). The tap from the 15th turn goes to post 2 on the detector unit panel. The other taps go out to switch points. After the 15th turn, wind on the number of turns specified for either one of the two standard secondaries.

Condenser "C" is a 17-plate variable, and, in conjunction with "T," forms the oscillation control. Note how posts 3 and 4 are shorted, and that a connection runs from them to the outside end of coil "T." Similarly, posts 5 and 6 are short-circuited, and a wire is run from them to the ground for the ground connection.

British Railroad Statistics

During the nine months ended September 30, 1924, the receipts of the British railroads were £79,498,000, a decrease of £3,424,000 from the receipts for the corresponding period of 1923. According to advices received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York from its British Information Service, the railways during this nine months transported 284,958,000 tons of freight including 154,005,000 tons of coal and other fuel, 49,900,000 tons of minerals, 1,785,000 tons of live stock, and 46,560,000 tons of general merchandise. Increases of 4,500,000 tons in other items were offset by decreases of 7,815,000 tons in the amount of coal transported.

764,665,000 passengers were transported, excluding the number of passengers carried by the London Tubes and Metropolitan District Railways of London. Inclusive of such traffic there were 923,645,000 passengers carried, an increase from the business for the corresponding period of the previous year of 6,004,000 passengers.

DIAMOND JUBILEE LODGE, No. 294, S.O.E.B.S.

By Monday's train, Bro. N. Andrews, D.D.S.P., proceeded to Harbor Grace for the purpose of installing the officers of the above Lodge. The District Deputy was accompanied by Past Presidents W. P. Butler and G. T. Phillips, Vice-President Dr. A. Bishop, J. Harvey, E. Long and H. Barnes. Arriving at Harbor Grace, the visiting brethren were taken in charge by the reception committee and conveyed to the LeDrew Hotel where a sumptuous dinner awaited them. At 8 p.m. the District Deputy and the following acting Grand Lodge Officers, Bros. E. Simmons, P.D.D.S., P. W. H. Harris, P.P., J. Fox, P.P., W. P. Butler, P.P., G. T. Phillips, P.P., and Dr. A. Parsons for excellent services rendered the Lodge during his 20 years of office. Bro. Parsons thanked the

Yes, sir, as I mentioned in the last story, Old Man Weasel had caught hold of one of dear Uncle Lucky's cottails. "No use now to try to run away," thought the poor old gentleman bunny. "One can't run fast and drag somebody else along at the same time."

"Ha, ha!" growled the wicked weasel between his teeth, for he knew better than to open his mouth and let the coat-tail slip out. "Now I have you just as sure as lollypops grow on the lollypop tree."

But sometimes when we are most sure of a thing something different turns out. Indeed it does. And this is just what happened at that very moment—Uncle Lucky hopped right out of his coat, and away he went in his shirt sleeves and pink waistcoat. Head over heels sprawled Old Man Weasel, so tangled up in the coat that when he did get it out he was through the left sleeve.

"Goodness gracious meebus!" panted dear Uncle Lucky, on reaching the little white gate in the picket fence around his red-roofed house on the corner of Lettuce Avenue and Carrot Street. "I'm glad it's dark so that no one will see me without my coat," and with another hop or two, and maybe four, he turned the knob on the kitchen door.

"What is the matter? And where's your coat?" cried poor frightened Little Miss Mousie, jumping off the chair at the foot of the table, where she had been patiently waiting for dear Uncle Lucky's return.

"Whew!" answered the old gentleman bunny, turning the key in the lock and fastening the catch on the window. "I called at the Old Bramble Patch and fell asleep after tea. Dear me, Old Man Weasel almost caught me in the woods. If I hadn't slipped out of my coat I wouldn't be here. But my dear old coat," and with a sigh poor Uncle Lucky dropped into a chair.

"Don't worry about that," almost brethren for the very high honor. After the installation ceremony was completed and the usual congratulatory speeches made, the brethren retired to the Banquet Room which was artistically decorated for the occasion where a well-prepared banquet was partaken of. After the good things prepared by the committee were disposed of, the following toast list was very enthusiastically carried out:

The King—Prop. The Chairman: "God Save the King."
Our Country—Prop. Bro. E. Simmonds; resp. Bro. G. T. Phillips, P.P.

Song—Bro. Pike.
Sister Lodges—Prop. Bro. C. C. Butt; Resp. Bro. (Dr.) A. Bishop, "Dudley."
Visiting Brethren—Prop. Bro. E. E. Parsons, P.P.; Resp. Bro. W. P. Butler, P.P.
Diamond Jubilee Lodge—Prop. Bro. W. P. Butler, P.P.; Resp. Bro. R. Sheppard, W.P.
Song—Bro. John Harvey.
The Chairman—Prop. Bro. G. T. Phillips, P.P.; Resp. Bro. R. Sheppard, W.P.

The past year has been a successful one for Diamond Jubilee Lodge, and great credit is due the brethren for the excellent services rendered. The gathering dispersed with the singing of the National Anthem and Auld Lang Syne, and was voted by all as the most successful gathering ever held by the Lodge. The visitors returned to town by train Tuesday afternoon.

Paris Puts Bobbed Hair Into Discard

Subtle Charm and Softness Replace Hard-Boiled Manners.

PARIS.—(A.P.)—Bobbed hair and over-bright complexions, hard hats and barbaric jewelry appears to be on the decline, and cigarettes and slang among the feminine smart set are less aggressively indulged in than in past seasons. Such are the conclusions which a male observer has reached after attending numerous recent Parisian social functions.

Hard-boiled manners and a high complexion were found to be all wrong as a setting for dresses made of soft kasha in pastel shades, soft silks and muslins and hats with flower lines. The trend of the hour is toward subtle charm and softness.

Color, however, is playing a much greater part in Paris fashions than at any time previous since the Armistice. Black dresses have become less popular and light colors have been steadily on the increase.

The short dress has had a new lease of life but is slightly tilted the back. Sleeves for evening are also more popular and the arm is no longer considered essential for elegance in dress. The ban on blue is also less common and very dresses are rarely seen except in the show girls.
