

THE "UNFORTUNATE BREAKDOWN"

The Montreal shareholder is almost alone among Canadian journals in regretting the failure of the recent combination of negotiators between the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific. It says: "And thus, for a time at least, ended the attempts in the metropolis to put an end to 'chastising' and 'slandering' hostilities on the basis of equitable mutual concessions. Some additional light will no doubt in time be thrown on the real cause of this unfortunate breakdown, but the above is all that has so far reached the public at large."

THE TORONTO WORLD

The Y. M. C. A.'s appeal to be on a delicate business, the change made in the control of the New York Central and Lake Shore lines on Friday last indicating that they are tired of railroading. Now of their money is now in government bonds yielding only three per cent. But it is sure, and there is no worry. Jay Gould is going to retire for two years for travel, which probably means for good. There is a limit to men's accumulations, and in the case of these two it appears to have been reached. Nothing is more likely than the speedy disposition of their millions.

THE POSITION OF ORANGEMEN IN ONTARIO

To the Editor of The World. Sir: Your correspondent, Protestant British Canadian, refers to my letter in your paper, last written, and in commenting on it, thinks I am too severe on Sir John A. Macdonald in the matter of the rejection of the late orange incorporation bill at Ottawa. I am satisfied I have done Sir John no wrong in my two letters on the subject. The whole thing—I mean Sir John's promise last time, his negotiating with John O'Donoghue and Mr. Boyle, his putting off the just indignation of the orangemen then, and his promise of incorporation at Ottawa this session—are very disgraceful to him. He never intended to carry out his promise, and knew he could not do so without a rupture with his constituency.

THE DILEMMA OF THE IRISH

"Hail to the thief!" is the welcome given by a San Francisco paper to a distinguished citizen of that place, recently returned from Mexico, who made his triumphant entry home accompanied by two detectives as a guard of honor. It is a case of "appropriation," improper use of funds, etc.

THE DILEMMA OF THE IRISH

It is somewhat singular that the rumormongers in their endeavor to select a successor to Lord Lorne, have not hit upon the name of Lord Dufferin. A man of thought, of action, and an extensive traveler, he would be just the man to adequately fill such a position as that of governor-general of Canada. While he belongs to the younger generation of the house of peers, his opinions are always listened to with marked attention. A few days ago, he delivered a very able speech on the condition of the Irish laborers; and subsequently he called the attention of the peers to some scheme of migration or emigration. His lordship quoted statistics to show that the land had gone out of cultivation to an alarming extent, and that with one exception all the home industries had decreased. The falling-off being most extensive where the population was most dense. He urged the government to relieve the distress in these congested districts by promoting some method of migration by which family ties would not be completely severed. Lord Lansdowne, who is an extensive landowner in Ireland, gave a qualified support to Lord Dufferin's proposition. He declared that there were about a quarter of a million holdings so small that if the tenants had no rent whatever to pay they would still be in a chronic state of poverty. Such testimony from such men gives a clearer insight into the real state of Ireland than all the quibbling of the agitators. It shows the absolute necessity there is for the promulgation of some broad and comprehensive scheme which will relieve the population from the immediate pressure of the trammels of poverty, shall open up to Irishmen an opportunity to gain a fair living in the future, that as long as the government's time is devoted to the suppression of agitators there can be no real hope for the regeneration of the country.

THE DILEMMA OF THE IRISH

The Rev. Heber Newton's New York congregation adheres to him in the matter of the charges to a man. Only one member has withdrawn from the church because of displeasure over the sermon on the bible, and she is a woman. On the other hand there have been many accessions, and the church was never more prosperous.

THE DILEMMA OF THE IRISH

A cablegram announces that instead of the two thousand pounds annually that was to be given to Lord Walsley and Alcester for their services in Egypt, a lump sum of money will be given. This change is a sensible one. It was provided in the original bill that the pension should descend to the heirs of the beneficiaries in perpetuity. This is the thin end of the wedge that will in time lead to the entire abolition of the pension system in England. It is absurd that people should be directly paid for what their forefathers did, apart from the fact that the present generation has no right to saddle future generations with burdens that they are unwilling to bear.

THE DILEMMA OF THE IRISH

The Philadelphia Record very wisely remarks: "At least a quarter of the matter called to this country from London about the Irish troubles is qualified by the words, 'It is believed.' It is confidently stated, or so an English phrase. Such paragraphs are generally either the unsupported guesswork of correspondents or else the story which the English police wish to have believed. In most cases they prove false. Unless the associated press can get a prophet, or the son of a prophet, as correspondent it would save money by cutting hazardous guesses, and sticking to well-authenticated news."

THE DILEMMA OF THE IRISH

Another step in the application of electricity to the general uses of mankind was taken yesterday when Thea. A. Edison and others, representing a capital of $2,000,000, filed papers, at Albany, N. Y., incorporating the Electric railway company of the United States, the object being to develop electricity as a motor for trains.

THE DILEMMA OF THE IRISH

The American correspondents are writing that her majesty is much more seriously ill than the British public is led to believe. They say that none but attendants are allowed to approach her presence, and on her recent journey to the Isle of Wight only those whose business required it were allowed near the station or the docks.

THE DILEMMA OF THE IRISH

Now of their money is now in government bonds yielding only three per cent. But it is sure, and there is no worry. THE DILEMMA OF THE IRISH

But, sir, if "blunder" is meant something done ignorantly or unadvisedly, then I maintain that the "patriotic" support of Gladstone from the beginning, Ireland would have been quite different. Had they supported Gladstone "blunder" would most likely have passed the house of lords and would have given relief to thousands the land act and arrears act would have brought wonders. There would have been no coercion bill, while outrages would have been few and far between, and altogether Ireland would have been in a fair way to become peaceful and prosperous. On the other hand, Parnell & Co. would have been in their occupation gone, and this is possibly what they are determined to do. It is by no means the policy of the "patriotic" to make Ireland prosperous or contented. It is to get home rule and to get what they can out of it at all likely to happen or even possible.

But, sir, if "blunder" is meant something done ignorantly or unadvisedly, then I maintain that the "patriotic" support of Gladstone from the beginning, Ireland would have been quite different. Had they supported Gladstone "blunder" would most likely have passed the house of lords and would have given relief to thousands the land act and arrears act would have brought wonders. There would have been no coercion bill, while outrages would have been few and far between, and altogether Ireland would have been in a fair way to become peaceful and prosperous. On the other hand, Parnell & Co. would have been in their occupation gone, and this is possibly what they are determined to do. It is by no means the policy of the "patriotic" to make Ireland prosperous or contented. It is to get home rule and to get what they can out of it at all likely to happen or even possible.

An enjoyable entertainment was given in the school room of Christ E. E. church last night. The program consisted of a list of songs and readings and an hour in the magic circle, the latter of which was a number of experiments and tricks cleverly performed by W. B. Blackhall.

Still Another Cure: of Warren's Natural Asphalt Roof just completed on York chambers, as specified by Messrs. Langley, Langley & Barker, architects.

Higgins, felonious assault on James Cogan at Cogan's home in Lombard street Sunday night, committed for trial. The liquor case against George H. Lawrence was dismissed.

Southern Wheat: A correspondent writing from Oxford county says that this has been an unusually severe winter instead. In passing through the country instead of seeing the wheat fresh and green looking the eye meets whole fields that look to be white withered. The wheat has been "smothered" here. The snow was so deep that the wheat died. This has not been the case for a number of

The Duty on Mail.

The treasury has got another grievance. It seems that the new inland revenue bill before parliament does not provide for the 2 1/2 per cent. rebate hitherto allowed on the duty on mail, to make up for the loss on the tools and cleanings of the mails, which are useless. The brewers think that this rebate should be continued, and have appointed a deputation to press their case before the minister of inland revenue. The deputation went down to Ottawa last night, being composed of Eugene O'Keefe, Robt. Davies, John Coghlan, J. N. Blake, Toronto; J. M. Lottridge, Hamilton; and John Labatt, London.

Resignation of the E. B. Connel.

The citizens of Toronto generally will learn with regret that Mr. Wm. C. Howells is about to leave them. For five years Mr. Howells has been United States consul at this port, fulfilling his duties both to the satisfaction of his own government and the years of journalistic, legislative and consular life he now intends to retire to the rest and quiet that he has so well earned. In the course of a few weeks Mr. Howells and his family will remove to Goodland county, Virginia, where they will reside in future. They will take with them the best wishes of the Queen city's people.

A Generous Offer.

At the meeting of the free library board yesterday evening, Mr. John Hallam, chairman of the board, announced during the discussion on what amount the board should ask from the city council for the current year, that he would supplement any grant the council might make up to $30,000 by 10 per cent. This offer is doing well for the purchase of books only, not for real estate, repairs or salaries. The announcement was received with applause, and several members of the board remarked that this would give Mr. Alex. Manning, who it is understood has been waiting for some one to start, a chance to also come to the front with his promised donation.

An Advertising Agent at a Masher.

There is a young man connected with the basement edition of the Mail in the capacity of advertising agent who prides himself on being a masher. He wears a pug nose and a very tight suit, and when on duty looks just too killing for anything. Last night this young man was doing Yorg street in company with two friends. A lady named Adelaide street he made bold to speak to in company with two friends. A lady named Adelaide street he made bold to speak to in company with two friends. Mme. Teresa Carreno.

This distinguished pianist is so well known throughout America that words in her praise would seem to be superfluous. She unquestionably ranks among the first pianists of the day, and creates genuine enthusiasm wherever she appears. In appearance Mme. Carreno is of medium height, which adds to the fasciation of her magnificent playing. In the recent tour with Dr. Dausch and his grand orchestra, in the east, she astonished critics and the public alike by her unequalled interpretation of the Grieg concerto. Mme. Carreno appears in concert here with the Danmarch orchestra, May 15 and 16. The box plan opens on Thursday at Messrs. Nordheim.

More Police Protection Wanted.

The northeastern section of the city requires more police supervision than it at present presents. By all accounts a policeman is a rare avian in that neighborhood, and as depredations are becoming frequent and the crime rate is high time the chief of police bestirred himself in the matter. On Saturday night last an attempt was made to break into the residence of Mr. Richard Douglas at 525 Ontario street. The burglar also reports that he had his clothes striped a short time ago. Sheds in that vicinity have been broken open and their contents; workman's tools and elsewhere make the revise their rendezvous on Sunday afternoon, and bad language, fighting, and even pistol shots are sometimes the order of the day. It is only the vigilance of the police that has prevented the worst forms of this terrible disease.

The story of the designing young English woman who induced a curate to give her a "holy kiss," and had an instantaneous photograph taken of him at the moment of this interesting act, calls to mind a similar trick that was played on Mr. Chamberlain, president of the English board of trade, when Mr. Fowles, the expected competitor, was taken by surprise in a similar way. Mr. Chamberlain was named to fill the place. The Irish members of parliament were delighted, and delighted one of their number, Mr. Galt, whose convivial propensities are well known, to "toast" the expected competitor, and to take the lead in the platform. This Mr. Galt did, and for several days prior to Mr. Chamberlain's departure, Mr. Galt was managed to take a photograph of him, as they stopped for a moment in front of his office, engaged in eager conversation. Mr. Galt really had appointed the picture to be published and sent broadcast over the country with the inscription: "The New Irish Party." The chief secretary and confidential adviser, to the great delight of the Tories.

We specially recommend all ladies looking for a sewing machine to buy the light-running Wason, C. It has automatic winding, and more improvements than any other, and it is on the ground that it has reached the top of the tree, having been used by the American makers at every fall show in the Dominion in 1887. G. C. Elliot, manager, 82 King street west. We advise ladies to have one on trial and they will not regret it.

A very small dandy carries a cane which, on touching a spring, discloses a miniature monkey. "His image," a girl remarked.
