Points From Lloyd George's Speech

This battle proves that the enemy has definitely decided to seek a military decision this year, whatever the consequence to himself. The British losses have been great and if the drain continues, they must cause the deepest anxiety unless immediate steps are taken to replenish them.

engaged almost every hour in concerting with the allies the necessary measures to assist the armies to deal with the emergency.

"The proposals which we intend submitting to parliament required very close and careful attention and I think there is this advantage in our meeting today, rather than immediately after the impact of the German attack, that we shall be able to consider these proposals under conditions which will be far removed from any suggestion of panic.

What Happened Not Clear.

"I shall now come to the circumstances which have led to the present military situation. It is very difficult at this time to present a clear, connected and reliable narrative of what happened. There has been a great battle on a front of 50 miles—the greatest battle ever fought in the history of the world. Enormous forces have been engaged; there was a considerable retirement on the part of the British forces, and under these conditions it is not always easy for some time to ascertain what actually happened.

"The house will recollect the difficulty which we experienced with regard to Cambrai. It was difficult to piece together the story of the event for some time, and Cambrai was a very trivial event compared with this gigantic battle.

"The generals and their staffs are naturally engaged and have to concentrate their attention upon the operations of the enemy, and until the strain relaxes it would be very difficult to initiate the necessary enquiries to find out exactly what happened and to furnish an adequate explanation of the battle.

"However, there are two or three facts which stand out, and, in stating them, I should like to call attention to two things, which I think above all must be avoided. The first is that nothing should be said which could give information to the enemy; nothing should be said which would give encouragement to the enemy, and nothing should be said which would give discouragement to our own troops who are fighting so gallantly at this very hour.

"And the second question is that all recrimination at this hour must be shut out.

Position Before Battle.

"What was the position at the beginning of the battle? Notwithstanding the heavy casualties in 1917, the army in France was considerably stronger on the first of January, 1918, than on the first of January, 1917. Up to the end of 1917—up to, say, about October or November—the German combatant strength in France was as two to the allies' three. Then came the military collapse of Russia, and the Germans hurried up their released divisions from the eastern front and brought them to the west. They had a certain measure of Austrian support, which had been accorded to them.

"Owing to the growth of the strength of our armies in 1917, when this battle began the combatant strength of the western front was only approximately, but not quite equal to, the total combatant strength of the allies in infantry. They were slightly inferior in artillery. They were inferior in cavalry, they were considerably inferior and, what is very important, they were undoubtedly inferior in aircraft.

German Reorganization.

"The Germans, therefore, organized their troops so as to produce a larger number of divisions out of the slightly smaller number of infantry and slightly smaller number of guns. They had fewer battalions in a division and fewer men in a battalion. That is entirely a question of organization, and it yet remains to be seen that their organization is better than ours. It is necessary to explain that, in order that the house should realize why, with approximately the same number of men, the Germans have a larger number of divisions on that front.

"According to all the facts which have come to hand as to the losses of the battle, that roughly represents the relative strength of the combatants on both sides at this moment. The Germans had, however, one or two important advantages. The first, the initial advantage, which is always commanded in the offensive, is that they know where the enemy is; they choose the ground; they choose the location; they know the width of the attack; they know the dimensions of the attack; they know the time of the attack; they know the method of the attack. All that invariably gives the initial advantage to the offensive.

Margin For Surprise.

"The defensive has a general advantage. Owing to air observation, concealment is difficult. At the same time, in spite of all that, owing to the power of moving troops at night, which the Germans exercised to a very large extent, there is a large margin for surprise even in spite of air observation, and of this the enemy took full advantage.

"I should like to say one word here as to the difficulty which our generals were confronted with in this respect. Before the battle the greatest German concentration was in front of the enemy. That was almost the full weight of the attack would fall on us. There was a very large concentration opposite the French lines. There was very little concentration—I am referring now to the German reserves—on the northern part of our line.

Night Movements.

"After the battle began, immediately before the battle, the Germans by night brought their divisions from the northern part to the point where the attack took place. They also too, several divisions from opposite the French in the same way and brought them to our front.

"But it would have been equally easy for them, while concentrating troops opposite our front, to manoeuvre them in the same way opposite the French. I am only referring to that in order to show how exceedingly difficult it is for generally on the defensive to decide exactly where, in their judgment, the enemy is concentrating and where they ought to concentrate their reserves.

"I may just say a word here. This problem was being very closely studied by the military staff at Versailles. I think it right, in justice to them, to point out that after a very close study of the German positions and of the probabilities of the case, they came to the conclusion—and they stated their conclusion to the military representatives of the British—and that in the month of January, or the beginning of February—that the attack would come south of Arras; that it would be an attack on a very wide front; that it would be an attack from the widest front ever yet assailed; that the Germans would accumulate 55 divisions for the purpose of making the attack; that they would throw the whole of their resources and their strength into breaking the British line at that point, and that their objective would be the capture of Amiens and the severance of the British and French forces.

Wilson's Conclusion.

"That was the conclusion Sir Henry Wilson (chief of the imperial staff) came to and which was submitted at that time, two or three months ago, and I think that it was one of the most remarkable forecasts of enemy intentions that was ever made.

"As a matter of fact, the attack was made up, I think by about 37 divisions. It was an attack on the widest front that had ever been seen. Its object undoubtedly was the capture of Amiens and the severance of the British and French forces. So that, almost in every detail, that very remarkable forecast has been verified in the event.

"Another remarkable prediction was that it might probably succeed to the extent of penetrating the British line to the extent of half the distance of the front attacked. They came to that conclusion from a close examination of offensives of war.

Had Initiative.

"There was another advantage. There was, first of all, the advantage which the Germans had from having the initiative. There was a further advantage they had, and this undoubtedly, was the greatest advantage, from having a united command opposed to divisions of the enemy, and they relied on this to a very large extent for their success. They owe much of the success of this attack to this.

"It was reported to me on good authority that the Kaiser informed Ex-King Constantine: 'I shall beat them, for they have no united command.' Which shows that this was the main thing they were relying on in the main, but that their numbers were slightly inferior for they knew the importance that was to be attached to the fact that their line was perfectly united.

"And that is an obvious advantage, for, if the risks in one particular part of the line are great, and in another part of the line are great but substantially less than in the former, with one command there is no hesitation in the mind of the commander in chief as to which risk he will make the greatest provision against.

"With two separate commands the problem is a different one: it is most difficult to adjust the balance of risk, and the general is always naturally inclined to give himself and his army the benefit of any doubt. That may be because if anything goes wrong there he alone is to be held responsible to his own countrymen for the safety of his army.

Weather Aids Enemy.

"The enemy had another incidental, but as it turned out, very important advantage—that of weather. Exceptional weather favored his designs. It was both dry and misty. The attack which succeeded was made on the morning of the 18th under ordinary spring conditions the ground would have been almost impossible.

"A wounded officer told a friend of mine today, a general, that under ordinary conditions no one could walk across the part which was traversed by the Germans at this time of the year. But it just happened to be absolutely dry and firm, and they walked across ground which no one had any right to expect at this time of year would be in that condition.

"Not only that, but the fact that it was warm increased the mist, and the Germans were actually in some places within a few yards of our front line before anyone knew of their approach. It was quite impossible to observe them. This was a special disadvantage to us, inasmuch as our scheme of organization in that particular part of the line depended largely upon the cross line of machine guns and artillery. They had therefore a very special advantage of which they made the fullest use.

"With regard to the battle itself, as I have already stated, it will take some time to ascertain the whole facts. At one time it was undoubtedly very critical. The enemy broke through between our third and fifth armies and there was a serious gap, and the situation was retrieved owing to the magnificent conduct of our troops. They retired in perfectly good order re-establishing the junction between the two armies and frustrating the enemy's purpose.

Superb British Valor.

"The house can hardly realize, and certainly cannot sufficiently thank God for our country—our troops for their superb valor and the grim tenacity with which they faced overwhelming hordes of the enemy and clung to their positions. They were never routed, and once more the cool pluck of the British soldier that refuses to acknowledge defeat saved Europe.

"I am referring to the whole army, generals, officers and soldiers. I mean the whole army and I draw no distinction. Their conduct has been one of incredible courage and great composure under the most trying conditions I do not think that any distinction can be drawn between officers and men. I am referring to the British army, and that means all.

"And I specially refer to what one bright general did. Some reference has been made in the press already to it, where at one point there was a serious gap, which might have let the enemy through. That was the point where Gen. Gough retired.

"Until the whole circumstances which led to the retirement of the fifth army and its failure to hold the line of the Somme, at least till the Germans brought up their guns, and perhaps the failure adequately to destroy the bridges—until all these are explained—it would be unfair to censure the general in command of the army, General Gough. But until those circumstances are cleared up it would be equally unfair to the British army to retain his services in the field. It is necessary to recall him until the facts have been fully ascertained and explained to the government by their military advisers.

"After the retirement of the fifth army the French reserves came up with remarkable rapidity, when their position before the battle is borne in mind. In fact, the speed with which, when the final decision was taken as to the real designs of the enemy, the French reserves were brought up, is the most remarkable feature of the organization in this war, and between the courage of our troops and the handsomeness of the army—the way the British army has been giving, on a hundred yards to the attack of the enemy—I think it right that it should be said about the army commanded by General Byng—that between the efforts of our soldiers and the loyal assistance given in true spirit of comradeship by the French army, the position is for the moment stabilized. But it is clear that the Germans, having gained an initial success, are preparing another and perhaps an even greater attack on the allied armies.

Big Initial Success.

"Up to the present the enemy has undoubtedly obtained a great initial made for the fighting strength of the American army to be immediately brought to bear in this struggle—a struggle which is only now beginning. To this extent, and it is no mere small extent, that the German attack has been held up. It has stirred up the resolution and energy of America because more obvious after the battle than ever before that the allied armies were fighting as two separate armies and not as a united front.

"Another important decision taken by the allied governments I must also call to the attention of the house. It is the wisdom of the allied governments to have met before that the allied armies were fighting as two separate armies and not as a united front. It was a very important decision taken by the allied governments I must also call to the attention of the house. It is the wisdom of the allied governments to have met before that the allied armies were fighting as two separate armies and not as a united front.

success. There is no good in not accepting the facts. It is from that basis we must begin to build. But he has failed so far in his main objects. He failed to capture Amiens. He failed to separate the French and British armies. But we should be guilty of great, it might be fatal, error, if we were to underestimate the gravity of the prospect.

"The enemy has captured valuable ground, which is too near Amiens for comfort—one of his great successes for the time being in crippling one of our great armies.

"I will now tell the house something of the measures adopted by the cabinet to meet the emergency. I have already explained what was done about French reserves. The cabinet took every step to hurry up reinforcements in order to fill up the gap in our armies. No such large numbers of men ever passed across the channel in so short a time. As the emergency was great, it was impossible to allow those who were summoned to France the usual leave to visit their relatives. It was with great reluctance that we found it necessary to cancel this permission, and nothing but the gravity of the position would have induced us to do so.

"The troops accepted the position in a manner which is worthy of the fortitude, courage and patriotism they have shown through out the war. There was an understanding that boys under 19 years would only be used in case of emergency. We felt the emergency had arrived, and insofar as those who were over 19 years were concerned, those who had already received six months' training, we felt it necessary that they should be sent to France.

Enemy Exaggerations.

"As to the guns and machine guns which were lost, the numbers are grossly exaggerated. In some particulars I am assured that they have also exaggerated very considerably the number of prisoners they have taken. The command-in-chief assured me last week that it was a gross exaggeration.

"I am very glad to be able to say that the ministry of munitions were able to not only replace the guns and machine guns, but that they still have got a very substantial reserve. The same thing applies to ammunition. There is an ample reserve of ammunition both in this country and in France.

Aircraft Strength.

"Our aircraft strength is greater now than before the battle, and all know what brilliant services our airmen rendered in this battle. Until the whole story of the battle is told, it will be most impossible to estimate the services rendered in retarding the advance of the enemy, in destroying his machinery, and in making it difficult for him to bring up his ammunition. The crews of the airmen and soldiers will be quite equal to the next encounter, whenever it comes.

"The next step to which I should like to call the attention of the house is the material and dramatic assistance rendered by President Wilson in this emergency—one of the most important decisions in the war. In fact, the issue of the battle might very well be determined by this decision.

"In America there is a very confident number of Americans, who are of training and the allies looked forward to having a large American army in the spring. It has taken longer than anticipated to turn those soldiers into the necessary strategic organizations. If America waited to complete these divisional organizations which would not be possible for these fine troops in this large number to take part in this battle in this campaign, although it might be very well the decisive battle of the war.

"This was, of course, one of the most serious disappointments from which the allies had suffered. It is no chief cause of anxiety. We depend upon it largely to make up the defection of Russia. For many reasons connected with the time it takes, not merely to train troops and their officers, but to complete the necessary organization—it was quite impossible to put into France the number of divisions everyone had confidently expected would be there. Under the circumstances, we therefore, submitted to the president of the United States a definite proposal. We had the advantage of having the secretary of state for war in this country within two or three days after the battle had commenced. Mr. Bailew and I had a long conversation with him upon the whole situation, and we submitted to him certain recommendations which we had been advised to make to Mr. Baker and the American Government.

Proposals to Wilson.

"On the strength of the conversation we submitted proposals to President Wilson with the strong support of Premier Clemenceau, to enable the combatant strength of the American army to come into action during this battle, inasmuch as there was no hope of its coming in as a strong separate army. This was the most remarkable fact of all. This proposal was submitted by Sir Reading on behalf of the British Government to President Wilson, and President Wilson assented to the proposal without any hesitation, with the result that arrangements are now being

"With American aid we can do it. But even with American help we cannot feel secure unless we are prepared ourselves to make even greater sacrifices than we have hitherto made. "It is idle to imagine, as some people very light-heartedly seem to think, that you have got an unlimited reservoir of man-power in this or in any belligerent country. Counsel for Dominion Hints at Obstructive Tactics by the Officials.
HOW TO VALUE ROAD
Technical Evidence Taken on Maintenance and Depreciation of Railway.

Hinting at obstructive tactics being employed by the officials of the C. N. R. at the resumed sitting of the special arbitration commission appointed to determine the value of the 600,000 shares of the C. N. R. W. N. Tilley, counsel for the Dominion Government, yesterday afternoon, stated that D. B. Hanna, third vice-president of the company, should be subpoenaed in order that certain information that he required might be forthcoming. The question arose when Mr. Tilley, at the close of the hearing of a witness, said he wanted the gross earnings and the operating costs during the past few months. I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., counsel for the Bank of Commerce, stated that up to October 1 the figures had been furnished, and after that date they could be of no interest.

"It is a pertinent question," declared Sir William Meredith, "and would be given. The holding of it will be more likely to do damage than help, and as far as I am concerned, I do not strengthen the claimant's case."
"Who can give that information?" asked Mr. Tilley, and A. J. Mitchell, E. N. R. controller, stated that it was D. B. Hanna, the third vice-president of the C. N. R.
Sir William suggested that if the information was not forthcoming Mr. Hanna should be subpoenaed.

The commission consists of Sir William Meredith for the Dominion Government, Hon. Wallace Nesbitt for Mackenzie & Mann, the C. N. R., and the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and Justice Harris as the independent member of the commission.
The evidence of the witnesses called by the C. N. R. was concluded March 6 after having lasted for twenty-four days, and yesterday the government's side was commenced, and it is anticipated that the present hearing may last about three weeks. At the opening of the sitting, Sir William Meredith stated that he had received a copy of the order-in-council extending the time for the proceedings until May 1.

The first witness called by W. N. Tilley, K.C., counsel for the government, was J. P. Newall, civil engineer, who said he had made a study of the stock of the C. N. R., based on the earning power. He explained the methods he had employed, saying he had had studies made from the records of the C. N. R. showing gross earnings and annual depreciation since its formation, and for the component parts, before they had become parts of the system. He thought the chief thing was the depreciation.
"If depreciation exists," he said, "surely the property must be worth less now." He explained that he did not refer to deferred maintenance. He said that the various items of depreciation represented items of obligation against the company, and quoted several authorities in which it was stated that as regards depreciation in the case of sale, it must be deducted.

"There is no dispute that in order to get at the value of a property you must deduct the depreciation," declared Justice Harris to Mr. Butler, who put up a lengthy argument.
"That is only common sense."
Mr. Butler argued that in the absence of deferred maintenance, nothing should be deducted from the value of a property as a going concern.
Mr. Newall stated if Prof. Swain, who had valued the C. N. R. road at $397,000,000, were to value it today, he would probably add $200,000,000 to his figure on account of values being affected by the war.

Take Nuxated Iron, If You Want Plenty of "Stay There" Strength Like an Athlete!

City Physician Says It Makes Delicate, Nervous, Run-down People Stronger in Two Weeks' Time, in Many Cases.

Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or baroque drug, when the matter of fact, rest and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to see this, and their food is often poor because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they can't get anything out of the food they eat. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can walk without becoming tired; then take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times a day for two weeks. Then test your strength again. You will find that you can walk farther, and you will be stronger. Nuxated Iron has gained the approval of the highest medical authorities of the world. People, who were ailing all the while, have recovered, and they have increased their strength and endurance. But don't take iron in the proper form unless it is Nuxated Iron. Nuxated Iron is not a salt of iron, iron acetate or tinctoria, but a natural iron compound, and it is the only iron that can be easily absorbed and assimilated, like any other food. It is the only iron that is as good; otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete who has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance, which comes from the blood, will find it hard to make another another has gone down to ignominious defeat simply for the lack of iron.
"Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the stomach, make the black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser, or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by G. Tumbly, Ltd., and in other druggists."

PROMOTE USE OF HYDRO TO EFFECT COAL SAVING

Regulations to promote the substitution wherever possible of hydro-electric power for coal were issued, by R. C. Harris, fuel controller, yesterday. The chief clauses are as follows:
"Every owner or operator of a plant using steam power produced by coal shall, upon the request of the fuel controller, furnish him with such data as he may require bearing on the fuel consumption and cost of operation of such plant and the estimated cost of installing hydro-electric power.
"When hydro-electric power is available, and after technical investigation showing to the satisfaction of the fuel controller that such power can be economically installed and utilized in any industrial or other plant using power generated from coal, the fuel controller may by registered notices addressed to the owner, manager or any director or directors of such plant, prohibit said plant from the further use of coal for power purposes after the expiration of such reasonable period as he may designate in the notices.
"Any person contravening any of the provisions of these regulations or failing to observe any directions given by the fuel controller shall be liable to a fine not exceeding $5000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, or to both fine and imprisonment."

Henry Whitlaw the First To Stake Vegetable Claim

Less than 24 hours after the city council passed the recent lot cultivation bylaw the assessment commissioner received the first application from a citizen who wanted to "stake a claim" on a vacant lot. The would-be gardener was Henry Whitlaw of 212 Ruckle avenue. He asked for permission to grow vegetables on the 50-foot lot at the rear of his own property. The lot is bounded by Snowdon street. Mr. Forman has notified the owner of the land that he must give good reason why it should not be expropriated for the duration of the war.

WILLS PROBATED

Bernard John Dowllman, formerly a workman in Toronto, who died in Ilkeston, Eng., Nov. 20, 1916, left an estate valued at $1080, consisting of $400 in bonds, $80 cash, and a lot in York Township valued at $400. His widow, Mrs. Derby, England, inherits all.
Cash of $1156, rent due $5, a rough cast house on Glen Morris street valued at $1250, and personal effects valued at $50 make up the estate of Frederick Snook, gardener, who died in Toronto, March 17 last. A brother, Jeremiah Snook living at 254 Appleton street, inherits all.
William G. Barker, a farmer, who died in North Gwillimbury, March 21, left an estate valued at $13,867, which includes an equity of $4000 in a farm in North Gwillimbury; $150 in household goods and personal effects, $100 cash, $3097 in farm stock, implements and produce, and a promissory note for $20. The son, Vernon, inherits a team and the farm implements, while the remainder of the estate goes to Mrs. Millicent Barker, Sutton West, the widow.
Twenty bequests are made in the will of Mrs. Ellenor E. Milgate, a married woman who died in Toronto March 15, and whose will was filed in the surrogate court yesterday. She left an estate valued at $7709, consisting of a house at Aurora, $1400; a lot in York, $150; cash, $759; war bonds, $400; mortgages, $4800, and other effects, $200.
To her sister, Lillie Dyke of Unionville, the testatrix left the house in Aurora, the war bonds and $1000 cash, while the household goods and effects are to be divided between her sisters, mother and brother.

Hurry Metropolitan Case, City Urges Railway Board

The city legal department wrote to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board yesterday afternoon, urging that body to hurry along the Metropolitan Railway arbitration. At present there are only two members of the board, owing to the resignation of Commissioner Kitson, but the city does not view this as sufficient reason for delaying the arbitration.

MAYOR DILATORY, SAYS GEN. LANDRY

Evidence at Inquest on Civilians Killed in Quebec Rioting.

PAPERS NOT READY

When Military Were Asked for the Documents Were Not Forthcoming.

Quebec, April 9.—Dr. Albert Marois, autopsist, swore that one of the victims of the rioting here bore wounds not caused by ordinary cartridges when the adjourned inquest was reopened by Coroner Jolicoeur this morning.
Dr. Marois said the wounds on Bergeon's body could have been caused by an explosive bullet or a soft metal bullet.
Dr. Marois, resuming his testimony, said in the case of Edouard Tremblay, he could not swear that the wounds causing his death had not been caused by an explosive bullet. He said Tremblay could have been saved from death had he got the proper medical attention. In the case of Bergeon his report was in no way exaggerated, and he added that he noticed wounds two inches in diameter. In the case of Georges Demuelle, the doctor stated that there also the wounds were caused by a soft-nosed bullet.
General Landry, officer commanding the Quebec military district, said 730 men, each with twenty rounds, were sent to quell the rioting. They had orders to refrain from shooting into the crowd unless so instructed by the officers, who themselves were under strict orders to prevent the shedding of blood as much as possible. He also instructed his officers not to order shooting till the Riot Act was read. The act was read by an officer.
The Mayor Dilatory.
General Landry said that on Thursday night at the very outset of the trouble, the mayor telephoned him about midnight and asked him to come down at the scene and all the trouble was over.
"This," continued the general, "I found to be incorrect, for the trouble lasted four hours, and was caused by me, and it was after the mayor telephoned that two federal detectives were injured."
General Landry stated that on Friday morning about 11 o'clock, the mayor called on him and (Gen. Landry) explained what formalities had to be carried out before the military took a hand in the trouble. The mayor was told to prepare in advance all documents, requesting the intervention of the military. Gen. Landry told Mr. LeVigneux to have said documents prepared, duly signed by himself and two justices of the peace, so that there would be no delay in the execution of the orders, "but," added Gen. Landry, "when on Friday night the mayor called for the military, he had not properly prepared the document and he had to hunt up two justices of the peace to get their signatures, and all this meant the loss of invaluable time."
Lessard Explains.
General Lessard last week ordered an inquiry into Dr. Marois' allegations against a meeting of the board of directors of the Canadian Expeditionary Force who have seen active service in fighting battles at the front have just been sent to Washington to report at the British embassy there for seven days. Participation, or longer, in the Liberty Loan campaign or other patriotic movements being conducted thru the United States, or Rev. Dr. W. H. Creighton, son of Rev. Dr. W. H. Creighton, editor of The Christian Guardian was notified two days ago to leave immediately for Washington, which he did. He is convalescent, but has not yet sufficiently recovered for the military board to pass him over. He is returning to Toronto for a few days, and so it happened now. Brock, Saeger, Maesfeld, Service, Kilmer and the rest had risen with the occasion, but those from whom much had been expected were silent.
Miss Gertrude Kelly presided at the meeting, and a musical program was given by Mrs. Eileen Millet Lowe, Mrs. Knight, Miss Kathleen Reid and Mrs. James Mallon.

WILL WATCH FOR LIQUOR.

Unclaimed Express Packages Will Be Carefully Guarded.
Strict measures are to be adopted by the Ontario License Board regarding the sale of unclaimed liquor by express and railway companies in the event that liquor is sold in this manner. In the past it has not been infrequent for a purchaser to get liquor in a parcel sold in this manner, either neither the purchaser nor the seller would know what was contained in the package, if stated.
In future, however, prosecution will follow any such sale should it become known to the board that liquor figured in the transaction and this applies to both purchaser and seller whether the contents of the package are known or not.

DISCUSS FARM LABOR.

Many suggestions as to the best method of securing help for the farms were discussed at a meeting of the labor committee of the organization of resources committee, held in the parliament buildings yesterday afternoon. While no decisions were reached, it is expected the discussion will lead to steps which may be taken to ensure sufficient labor to garner the crops.

PRESBYTERIAN MISSIONS PRESSED FOR MONEY

Rev. Principal Gandier, convener of the Presbyterian General Assembly's committee on foreign missions, has issued a call for a meeting of the foreign missions board at Knox College, Toronto, to commence next Tuesday evening. The committee has sent out two hundred and ninety Canadian Presbyterian men and women as foreign missionaries. They are in foreign mission fields in the West Indies, India, North and South China, in Formosa and Korea.
The population in foreign mission territory allotted by agreement with other evangelistic church missions boards to the Presbyterian Church in Canada is approximately fifteen million inhabitants.
A survey of the present financial situation facing the Canadian Presbyterian foreign mission committee the general secretary, Rev. Dr. R. P. Marney, says: "I am unwilling, almost afraid to speak. Yet it is better that the church should know just how things are. The finance board is doing its best. For several years the church has been asked for $1,000,000 necessary to reasonably provide for the needs of the different departments. Last year the church gave about half of this amount, and the last year was our best. For 1918 they are asking $1,200,000. If the total amount should be received all that can come to foreign missions is $325,000. Yet the estimates in our hands from the fields total $997,000. The board has had a committee working on them pruning everything they can without drawing the very life blood of our missions."
ARE YOU GOING TO TRAVEL?
If you intend taking a trip to Atlantic City, New York, Boston, Chicago, San Francisco, Bermuda, West Indies, Europe, in fact to any place on the face of the globe, you will find the American Express Co.'s Travelers' Cheques the most convenient and safest way of carrying your funds.
These Travelers' Cheques can be secured from A. F. Webster & Son, 53 Yonge street.

USE FORCE IF NECESSARY.

"If we do not get legislation this session to guarantee us the control of our streets we will resist by force any attempt to encroach on them," said Mayor Church yesterday, referring to the city's fight at Ottawa. R. C. Harris and G. M. Colquhoun were both in Ottawa looking after the city's interests yesterday.

GENIAL R. J. BLAMES "THE DEAR PUBLIC"

Desire to Serve Them is Responsible for Smoke Nuisance.

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT

Even the Grates Burn Out Twice as Fast With Screenings.

As long as the chilly winds do blow, Toronto's strap-hanging public may expect to suffer the "gas-attacks" which have been the order of things since the Toronto Street Railway began to use soft coal screenings in its street car stoves. R. J. Fleming, manager of the street railway, held out no hope of relief when The World talked the matter over with him yesterday. "We will burn coal all summer if it doesn't get any warmer, even on the 12th of July," said Mr. Fleming.
"Do you know, the 'dear public' is really responsible for all this," said the genial "R. J.," leaning over and tapping the scribe on the arm. "They demand that we heat the cars, and we cannot get anything but soft coal to do it with."
"But the civic railway laid in enough hard coal to last out the winter," ventured the newspaperman.
"We thought we did, too," answered Mr. Fleming. "But here again our desire to serve the 'dear public' led us into difficulties. We had so much coal and there were so many people suffering from want of it, that we really shared 2000 tons of our allotment to help them."
"That means that the public must put up with the smoke nuisance over another month or more, then, does it?" inquired the reporter.
"Surely the public will realize that we cannot help it," said Mr. Fleming.
"And besides, it inconveniences us more than it does them. The soft coal burns up our grates ten times as fast as hard coal and puts us to a heavy expense."
"That's too bad," sympathetically remarked the reporter. "But they say it really isn't soft coal at all that you are using. It's soft coal screenings."
"It's the best we can get," said Mr. Fleming, as he hurried to the elevator.

RECEPTION COMMITTEE MEETS.

The committee of citizens that is arranging the reception to the first contingent men on May 1 at Exhibition Park held another session at the city hall yesterday afternoon.

Suffered 50 Years With Rheumatism

Now Cured, Goes Fishing at Age of 83 and Feels Fine! North Dakota Man Tells Others How He Did It. Wants No Money and Will Gladly Help Others to Realize Same Benefits.

"I am eighty-three years old and I doctored for rheumatism and its associated troubles ever since I came out of the army over fifty years ago. Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called 'cures,' and I have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change. My heart naturally goes out to those who suffer and don't know where to get the treatment that enabled me to cure myself at home, after doctors and so many other remedies had failed. Therefore, while I ask no money from those who write me, yet I will gladly assist any sufferers toward getting the same treatment that set me absolutely free from my suffering and gave me back my remarkable health, strength and power of endurance."
NOTE—Those who know Mr. Ashehman marvel at his recovery and renewed vitality. He, like thousands of others, had given up hope, but persistent effort enabled him to find a treatment that drove the poisonous toxins out of his blood and system. Scientific men now claim this, and not "Uric Acid," to be the real cause of rheumatism. Any person suffering from neuritis, gout, lumbago, neuralgia and like disorders, should write Mr. Ashehman and benefit by his friendly offer.

EMPLOYERS SHOULD NOTIFY REGISTRAR

Movements of Class One Men Are to Be Closely Watched.

Employers of Toronto district are not in touch with the new Military Service Act regulations, which provide that employers must notify the provincial registrar of any class one men leaving their employ by his future movements, states C. Leslie Wilson. He says the oversight of the employers in coding him this information makes it necessary for his department to write specially for it. According to the act's regulations, the employers should notify the registrar within three days of when a man leaves their employ. The registrar points out that many do this all right, but fail to tell what the man's future movements will be. He draws attention to the fact that there is a penalty provided by the act for those who do not supply information when required.
Asking how many category B men the government intended calling to the colors in Toronto district, C. Leslie

MOTOR CAR LICENSES EXCEED OTHER YEARS

An increase of 10,000 motor licenses for the three months of this year ending March 31 over the same period a year ago is the record at the parliament buildings where there is every indication that motor driving in Ontario this summer will be greater than it has ever been. In two days more than 5,000 applications were received thru the mails.
The total number of licenses issued for motor cars was 48,500 and for motor cycles, 2,000. During the same period 4,816 chauffeur's licenses were issued. There has been a constant stream of people to the motor license department for more than a month.

"Mlle. Rita Jolivet, who went through the sinking of the Lusitania... has been starred in a motion picture play centering around that crime. 'Lest We Forget' does not make its points with bludgeon strokes... but it is a good piece of anti-German propaganda... Miss Jolivet's quaint French beauty makes her a most attractive screen star."

THE STAR
"Certainly a production of remarkable magnitude is 'Lest We Forget,' the great picture representation of Hun brutality, which is shown at the Regent this week... A love story of great tenderness runs throughout the picture, like a thread... Additional interest is given by the fact that Rita Jolivet plays the principal role."

SCHEDULE DRAFTED FRIDAY IN GOTHAM

Change Meeting Place From Buffalo to New York— Sign a Pitcher.

President McCaffery received a wire from New York last night stating that it has been decided to switch the schedule meeting of the new International League from Buffalo to New York. The date will be moved from Thursday to Friday. The full schedule for the season will be drafted at this meeting and the eighth city admitted to the league. The meeting will be held in the Biltmore Hotel.

George Crabble, a former Richmond pitcher has been signed by the team. The local management is also angling for another first-class twirler, and will be able to announce his name today or tomorrow.

Dan Howley left for Montreal last night and will return here in a few days. Most fans are satisfied that Howley will be the leader of the team this season. The Toronto Club refused to announce that they have signed a manager.

The Lajoie case rests with the National Commission. Evidence from both sides has been submitted and from the copy of the three letters, the local club, Lajoie and McGill, is looking as if Toronto has decidedly the best of it.

McGill, the Indianapolis owner, claims that he did not tamper with Lajoie, but his letter shows that he wrote Lajoie in December practically offering him the job of manager of the Hoosiers. On March 2 he had a conference with Lajoie and they just about closed the deal then. The Toronto Club sent Lajoie a contract and offered him the season's salary last year and showed themselves good sports all round. Lajoie's claim for unconditional release on the fact that he has served fifteen or more years in the major leagues and should be allowed to pick his own job. He does not want to go to the major leagues as a player, but is willing to take a minor league berth as a manager.

A St. Louis dispatch says: Derrill Pratt and John Lavan, former members of the St. Louis Americans, who compromised their $50,000 damage suit against Pitt, president of the St. Louis club, received $50,000 in settlement, according to information obtained here today. Pratt today said that the settlement did not cost him a cent and sporting men concluded from this statement that the American League had footed the bill.

Kansas City sends the following: Officials of the Kansas City Club of the American Association expressed surprise today when informed of the protest of President J. J. McCaffery, and declared that their unwillingly signed International League players had been bulletined as "free agents" two weeks ago. John Savage, secretary of the club, said: "This matter, so far as we are concerned, rests entirely with the National Baseball Commission. We are not a bulletin issued declaring all players of the old International League free agents. Shortly after we received telegrams from Outfielder Schultz and Catcher Lango that they were in a position to sign with us, and we took them." Manager Ganzel said he had signed the men only after having official information that the International League players were "free agents."

LACROSSE AT YALE. New Haven, Conn., April 9.—The manager of the Yale lacrosse team has announced a schedule of three games for the present term. The first game of the season, which is the only one to take place in New Haven, will be played on April 20 with Harvard. On the following week the team will take a trip to play Swarthmore, Pa. On May 4 Lehigh will be played at South Bethlehem, Pa. The date of May 11 is still open, and a fourth game may be added to the schedule on that date. More candidates are sought for the lacrosse team, and the chances of making it are excellent. Many men, who would otherwise have played on the team, have gone from college to enter the service and have left vacancies on the team which have not yet been filled. Practice is held only three times a week, and any man who is willing to do a small amount of work has excellent prospects of making the team to Lehigh and Swarthmore.

BELIEVE LEAGUE WOULD SUCCEED

London, Ont., April 9.—London baseball interests are looking forward to a visit from Knotty Lee, the Toronto minor league pro, who organized the old Canadian League back in 1911, and is now negotiating with numerous factions throughout Ontario and New York State with a view to forming a six-club league. Jo Jo Keenan of this city, one of the pasting old standbys, who has had experience in the old Canadian League ever since its inception, is of the opinion that the organization of a pro league composed of clubs in Hamilton, Brantford, London, St. Thomas and the two Toronto clubs, cities of Niagara Falls and Lockport, would be a success. He contends that, with the aid of being able to start games late in the afternoon, made possible by the introduction of the daylight-saving bill, a new avenue for attendance is opened. He stated that promoters of the venture can count on a large attendance this summer in the event of the organization going thru. Keenan, who recently underwent a surgical operation, has fully recovered and is back working his ten hours a day as a shell inspector.

BABE DYE WILL PLAY IN WESTERN LEAGUE

Young Athlete Is Toronto's Best All-Round Performer—His Record.

Cecil "Babe" Dye, the well-known all-around athlete, who was presented with the Price Medal for being the best all-around player in the Western City League last season, will be back again this season with hill-rockers in the "Big" League.

While a member of the Hillrockers last season he played all the outfield, first base, second base and short. He pitched ten games, winning six. His batting average was .315; stole 15 bases and scored 18 runs. He has a record in sport that has never been equaled by any youngster at his age, and will more than likely stand for some time to come. He will never forget to know that "Babe" was born in Hamilton, but has spent 18 years of his life in Toronto. He is 19 years old, five feet six inches in height and weighs 135 pounds. His first appearance in organized sport was with the old Capital Lacrosse Club in 1910, as a member of the juveniles under 12. At that time he was 11 years, and was considered as the best prospect in Toronto. After a few years on the lacrosse field with Capitals, and the "Babe" gave it up in favor of baseball, having played with North-west, Hillrockers and Junias as an outfielder, infielder and pitcher.

He also had the honor of being picked best all-around boy ever turned out by Jesse Ketchum Park, which is saying a lot when one considers the number of crack nifty players turned out by this well-known club.

His hockey career has been a varied one, starting 1914-15 with Capitals, winners of the Toronto Junior H. L. and city finals. In 1916 he played center with St. Finian's, junior city champions 1917. Aurs, Lee, junior O. H. A. champion and scored 21 of 101 goals which this team scored in the season, and this season was a member of the De La Salle junior O. H. A. champion, having scored 53 of 189 goals which team scored. In two years in the junior O. H. A. he has a record of having scored at least one goal in every game—scoring or otherwise—in which his club has taken part. While attending Huron street school and Jarvis Collegiate he was considered a top-notch sprinter, hurdler and high jumper, and also played in the school soccer league. He is also a crack bowler.

MIIGHT STOP SUOT. Washington, April 9.—The first congressional effort to amend Willard-Fulton fight was made today in a bill introduced in the house by Representative Blanton, Texas. The bill calls for a tax of $25 a person on all those who attend, and would also take 15 per cent. of the promoters' gross profits on this and all other prize fights. "It's time we should do all our fighting on the other side of the water. Fight promoters should not be allowed to make large profits when the government is spending every dollar to win the war," Blanton said.

MORE FAVORABLE FOR ABRONY TEAM

Hempstead Will Not Allow Personal Interests to Block the Deal.

By W. J. MACBETH. New York, April 9.—Special dispensation for the borough of the Bronx so far as major league territorial rights are concerned may result from a conference tomorrow between representatives of the board of trade of Billy Gibson's ballparks and Harry N. Hempstead, president of the New York Giants. Mr. Hempstead has as yet not declared himself definitely in favor of subjecting the Bronx to a franchise in the Bronx to a possible invasion by the Federal League, the Yankee owners declared they stood ready to waive territorial rights provided the New York and Brooklyn Nationals were agreeable.

Col. Jacob Ruppert, president of the National American League naturally remains on the background until Mr. Hempstead has declared himself. Under the circumstances it is the generally expected that could be expected of New York's popular sportsman in time with owners at the present time have no home of their own, and while, perhaps, by right of lease they have quite as much right to pass judgment on such matters, they never as yet have interfered with anything that directly affected the Polo Grounds. Three years ago, when it was planned to put an international league team in the Bronx to block a possible invasion by the Federal League, the Yankee owners declared they stood ready to waive territorial rights provided the New York and Brooklyn Nationals were agreeable.

The Right Spirit. From his conversation of today it is evident that Mr. Hempstead does not intend to allow personally private interests to influence his final judgment. If he can stand up and defend the Yankees in the Bronx would prove a stimulant to the International League and baseball in general, but will stand in the way, he is of the opinion that minor league baseball in the Bronx would be a great help to educate a great number of people now interested in other sports and recreations and from these sports in time would exact their just toll.

Whether or not the new International League would care to play with the Bronx this season appears to be a matter of more concern right now than possible major league objections. John H. Farrell's schedule committee is to meet in the Biltmore on Friday to prepare a plan for the league which they hope for a favorable answer in time to send representatives to Buffalo tomorrow. It now appears that the committee on schedule of the new International League will have to make its plans irrespective of the fate of Sunday baseball in this state. It was hoped when the minor league managers were here last week that the National Commission would present to the assembly before this time. Every effort is being made by the sponsors of the bill to get it before the lower house as soon as possible, if the measure goes to the Senate it is expected to mean good-bye to the cause for this year at least.

Nothing new on the Herzog case. Charlie is in town, but so far has failed to renew acquaintances with Harry N. Hempstead. The Canteleouo King of Ridgely, Md., declares that unless Percy Higgins, Lincoln is buying the lower house will cap right up and present him steps till next Tuesday and present him steps till next Tuesday for active service in the grounds.

PORTSMOUTH VILLAGE CUTS DOWN EXPENSES Kingstons, April 9.—The Village of Portsmouth has a progressive wardens council. It decided to sell fish to the villagers at ten cents per pound, and seed potatoes at $1.50 per bag. To cut down expenses no new sidewalks will be built. All plank walks out of repair will be torn up and cinder paths made.

NEW YORK YANKEES LOOK LIKE SLUGGERS Miller Huggins Has Best Aggregation of Batters Any New York Manager Has Since 1913.

New York, April 9.—With so gifted a group of sluggers as Ping Bodie, Miller Huggins, Fred Pipp and Derrill Pratt now gathered on the Yankee payroll, Frank Huggins, the team's new manager, believes the Yanks will be right out and frout this season, so far as batting goes, at least.

Last season the Yanks enjoyed the experience of being the league's worst hitters. They were at the foot of the figure column with an average at bat of .228. The team's best batter, Frank Baker, hit only .282, and the pitchers did their best all thru the race and dished up a very fair class of pitching. Miller Huggins' chief problem in taking over the supervision of the team has been the strengthening of it at bat, and to this end he has picked off Derrill Pratt and Ping Bodie. There is every reason to believe that Huggins' best season then did with the Browns last year. Moreover, Pratt is the real thing in the way of a second-sacker, and the Yanks have needed just that for some little while. Ping Bodie is the rare sort of slugger who is dangerous to any pitcher he confronts. Last season with the Athletics he showed his best form at slugging and he should drive home many a run for the Yanks this season. With the strength Bodie will add to the outfield the team appears to be in first-class shape in both cutfield and infield, or on paper at least. Walkie Pipp has never failed to deserve the rep of being one of the few real hitters among the game's first basemen and the Frank Baker does no better at bat than he did last season it's hard to see how the team will fail to display a batting power that will make it a live contender in the race this year. At any rate the midget Huggins seems to have carried out his threat of putting punch in the team's batting and with an even break of luck the Yankee quartet of sluggers should come thru as advertised and lean on that ball.

SIX-MAN HOCKEY IN BIG CUP SERIES

But With Small No Offside Area in Centre of Ice, Says President.

Montreal, April 9.—Uniform rules to govern world's hockey series of the future have been practically settled upon, so President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League announced today, following the recent visit here of Frank Patrick, the head of the Pacific Coast League. President Patrick has consented to six-man hockey for the series, but with these provisions: There shall be a centre ice area, not so large as that in vogue in the past, in which the offside pass shall be permitted. That kicking the puck shall be permitted, excepting in an area close to the goal nets. The offside pass introduction for the series is the most important change decided upon. President Calder said today that the offside pass area would probably be about forty feet in width, or twenty feet on each side of the centre line. In the rest the rinks are divided into three sections, and the offside pass prevails in the central section. These changes have not been officially made, but will be recommended to each league, with their adoption very probable. President Calder said that a meeting of the N.H.L. would probably be held in the near future to discuss these and other matters. He is doubtful whether there will be professional hockey either in the west or in the east next season," said President Calder. "If the should be held, I think it is exceedingly doubtful whether either league will operate. The calling out of certain N.H.L. players from both organizations, and if another call was made it would leave only Shell's players, and whom it would be impossible to operate."

FEW BALL MANAGERS WORK THEIR WAY UP Notable Exception is Charley Comiskey, Once a Great Player.

Few big league players ever become managers and fewer still are ever graduated to the ranks of club owners. One of the most prosperous of the magnates is Charley Comiskey of the White Sox, a former player.

Clark Griffith, one-time pitching star, owns stock in the Washington Club. Branch Rickey has holdings in the St. Louis Cardinals and Connie Mack has a good sized bunch of stock in the Athletics, but they are not club owners. Many former players really in the big league club owner class. Some former diamond stars have properly holding in minor league clubs, but they are having a rough row to hoe just now on account of the war.

Joe McGinnity, a former pitcher of the Giants, is a former minor league manager now. He can tell any player that owning a ball club or a considerable block of stock in one isn't all it is cracked up to be. McGinnity, after getting out of the major leagues and taking the job as manager of the Newark Club of the International League in 1902, decided in 1913 that he had saved enough money to embark on the career of a minor league manager. So he invested his savings of a lifetime in the Tacoma Club of the Northwestern League, and it is understood the proposition broke down.

This former star pitcher only recently celebrated his forty-fifth birthday anniversary. He was one of the greatest twirlers the game has ever seen and he had the faculty of being able to pitch on consecutive days if called upon, and invariably turned in a creditable performance. He won 35 of 43 games for the Giants in 1904 and when he quit the club in 1906 he was one of the best pitchers made a record that has been exceeded only by Cy Young. A rise ball that he delivered underhand was as famous as Christy Mathewson's fadeaway. McGinnity called it "old Sal."

RUSSELL'S CONQUEROR AT SPORTSMEN'S SHOW

The executive committee of the Sportsmen's Association and the military authorities are sparing no effort to make their annual boxing tournament, to be held at Massey Hall next Monday night, a success. Having the Royal Fusiliers' Corps body who demonstrated his ability in such an impressive manner by his defeat of Frankie Russell, will meet one of the most formidable men at his weight now appearing in the ring. Negotiations are not yet completed for the bout, and the name of Harding's opponent is being withheld for the moment. The fight will open tomorrow at Massey Hall, and it is anticipated that the demand will be anticipated of the fact that Phyllis, who was sent Billy Jacobs, former amateur heavyweight champion, against Bill McCabe is known for his cleverness, speed and stamina, and should make matters interesting for his opponent.

ARCHBISHOP LANG PUTS IN BUSY DAY

Visiting Prelate Carried Out Extended Program in Toronto Yesterday.

Most Reverend Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of York, spent a very busy day in Toronto yesterday, it being his second visit during his present stay in Canada. Many points of interest were seen and two addresses were given. At St. James' Parish House to the Rural Deacons and at the Canadian Club. Trinity College, Bishop Strachan School and Casa Loma were visited, the cadets of the Royal Flying Corps were reviewed, a short talk was given at Haverhill College to the students. St. Paul's Church, East Bloor street, was inspected and a short service was conducted at Wycliffe College. In the afternoon a civic reception was held in the council chamber, city hall.

How to Make a Real Wrinkle Remover

In these days of cleverly advertised "beautifiers" and "rejuvenators" it is hard for a woman to believe she can make a simple home remedy for the removal of wrinkles which will do her much more good than the average made preparation. There's nothing in the world so effective for erasing or preventing wrinkles, age marks, bagginess of cheeks and chin as a simple and harmless solution made by dissolving an ounce of pure powdered salicylic acid in a half-pint of witch hazel. These ingredients of course can be had at any drugstore. Use the mixture daily for a while as a refreshing wash lotion. The quick and satisfactory results will surprise you. Even the first application produces very marked improvement. The wrinkles are less in evidence and the face has a firm, "solid," comfortable feeling. Soon you will look considerably less than your age.

activities was the review of the cadets on the campus of The University of Toronto. The smart appearance of the men attracted the prelate's attention and he warmly complimented the officers. Headed by their brass band, the cadets marched like long-trained soldiers.

In the city hall addresses were presented by the city, St. George's Society and the Anglican Community in tribute to which the archbishop said he was sorry Toronto no longer bore the name of York. He expressed his gratitude at the honor shown him. The fact that it was the anniversary of the battle of Vimy Ridge impressed on the speaker greatly and there was no better way of commemorating those great men than by seeing that the spirit they showed was the spirit that fellow citizens would show in Toronto.

Bishop Sweeney spoke in eulogistic terms of the good the archbishop did on the occasion of his first visit when he spoke in Massey Hall. An informal reception followed the public function, in the mayor's office, and this was followed by a drive to the university where the cadets were reviewed.

CANTEENS OF FRANCE

Work is Described by Woman Who Has Been There.

Mrs. A. E. Wells, president of the "Friends of France," opened her home at 216 Poplar Plains road yesterday afternoon for a meeting at which a short address was given by Miss Mary Bell, who has been working in Canada for a few months.

unity aid with headquarters in London. The need for the coffee and comforts which the canteen is able to supply to the men who are continually traveling and sometimes have to remain in the open for hours with teeth literally chattering with the cold, was vividly told by this bright Englishwoman who speaks from first-hand knowledge of France and the things being done by its brave sons at the front.

PROBABLE CAUSES OF WINTER STORMS

Sir Frederick Stupart, superintendent of the Toronto Observatory, gave an address last night at the meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, at 198 College street on the subject of the storms of the winter of 1917-18.

Some interesting lantern slides showed in detail the various atmospheric pressures and air currents during the winter months, and Sir Frederick explained how during the early winter the atmosphere kept piling up over arctic America through an unusually long period. The cyclonic storms originating in the equatorial zone resulted in warm atmospheric being drawn up to high levels and carried northeasterly over Ontario and Quebec to the Atlantic Ocean. This shifting of atmosphere in turn caused a flow of the cold air, which was centred in northerly latitudes, down to lower levels across Ontario in a southeasterly direction.

Miss Church was also present and many representative people in the council chamber. The groups of palms and ferns in the council chamber were most artistically arranged, the window sills were also filled with beautiful plants and all the members of the St. George's Society wore crimson roses in their buttonholes. Many people were present who had not been able to gain admittance to Massey Hall, and were anxious to see and hear the archbishop before he left town at 5 o'clock for New York, en route to England. You can easily prove this by getting a tin of FRY'S to-day.

All the evidence submitted was circumstantial, there being no eyewitnesses of the drowning. Coroner Snellgrove presided.

LARGE CONTINGENT ARRIVES TOMORROW

One Hundred and Thirty-Eight Returned Soldiers on Way Home.

TRAIN TO BE ON TIME

Exact Time to Be Published in the World Thursday Morning.

Official announcement is made that a party of 138 returned soldiers and six returned officers for Toronto military district left Halifax at 12.45 p.m. yesterday via C.P.R., on train No. 976.

The arrangements for bringing the contingents back to Toronto are, in connection with this train, the new ones just inaugurated by Toronto military headquarters, with the view of avoiding any confusion and of bringing the train into Toronto right on the announced time.

The papers tomorrow morning will publish the exact hour that the train is scheduled to arrive, in the meantime, further information can be obtained only by telephoning the soldiers' aid commission, North 25th, and not military headquarters.

It is pointed out that owing to war conditions the railways are only able to provide freight train engines to bring the returned soldiers from Halifax to Toronto, and this accounts for the lengthy running time.

The lists of returning men are as follows: Toronto (further treatment): Capt. J. A. Jackson, 36 Bedford street; Capt. J. A. Jackson, 36 Bedford street; Capt. J. A. Jackson, 36 Bedford street.

She has the inborn poise of a Parisian reared in ondon, hence ceremony is not tolerated where this very cosmopolitan and entertaining woman is concerned.

She volunteered when we were seated in sunny living-room which commanded a perfect view of the bay from the hotel window.

A Mother's Endorsement "With the children Nujol has done wonders"

Mothers! Assure the lasting, robust health of your children—health founded on regular bowel habits—by relieving their constipation with Nujol, the safe, effective remedy recommended in the following letters:—

Dixondale, Va., Jan. 1, 1917. NUJOL LABORATORIES, STANDARD OIL CO. (New Jersey), BAYONNE, N.J.

Dear Sirs— I have given Nujol to my two year old daughter with very beneficial effect. She had always been constipated, and I think the regular use of Nujol was what cured her and caused her to form regular habits.

Very sincerely, SELINA L. (MRS. N. S.) HOPKINS. Now read this extract from a mother in Winslow, Arizona: "With the children Nujol has done wonders. A dose or two when they begin to fret results in their being as bright and happy as possible the day following."

EVERY mother knows how insidiously constipation saps vitality. The moment your children's bowels fail to act, their bodies become easy prey to many serious ailments. By all means keep their bowels—and your own—naturally regular by the use of Nujol—the pure, safe, drugless remedy which cannot harm the smallest child, and which thousands now use instead of harmful pills and physics.

ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS There are no substitutes—there is only Nujol. Manufactured by STANDARD OIL CO. (NEW JERSEY) BAYONNE, NEW JERSEY

A New Story by Eleanor H. Porter

Oh, Money! Money!

Where do rich people get their money? And how do they spend it? To the interesting conjectures roused by these questions the average person adds a delightful reverie about how he would spend a fortune—if he had it. Stanley Fulton was a bachelor and a multi-millionaire, and when he was about fifty he began to consider what was to become of his fortune after his death. After much cogitation he hit upon the idea of giving one hundred thousand dollars at once to each of three distant cousins whom he had never seen. He pretended to disappear from the world on an extended trip, but in reality he assumed the name of John Smith and went to live in the same town with his relatives, in order to test out the effects of his gifts. Inevitably he was drawn more or less actively into the social life of the community, and his experiment had surprising results for himself as well as for the cousins who had received his gifts. Both he and they learned a great many things about money and happiness that they had never known before. "Oh, Money! Money!" is a happy, wholesome story, with appealing sentiment, and the healthy and timely conclusion that "if we don't know how to get happiness out of five dollars we don't know how to get it out of five hundred or five thousand." (Book Department), $1.50.
