Why should either of us die? You know better than I how little chance there is of saving those men. The reasonable thing would be to forget the miserable statement you have heard. Oh, please hear me to the end. I am not talking for your sole benefit, believe me. Greatly as I and all on board are beholden to you, I do not propose giving up my life for a few dollars. I am sure you will understand me. If you take command of a boat's crew and endeavor to save the men imprisoned over there, you will almost certainly save my life and the lives of those who help you. In that event, a lady like yourself, to take the vacant place in the boat, is a lady who would be killed, she would wear a little, because she has a large heart, but you would console her. And I know you to be, you and I are fully aware that either you or I must go off on this fool's errand. There is none other to take the vacant place. Now, have I made myself clear? "You are a good fellow, Christobal. You revive my faith in human nature, and that is my best apology if I irritated you just now by my attitude. But don't you see that I can neither accept your generous offer nor sell away my freedom of release without making an attempt to save my men?"

CHAPTER XVII. A Man's Method—And A Woman's. Isabel's drooping was of brief endurance. Elsie and Mrs. Somerville supported her to the stateroom, and there Elsie sat with her a little while, soothing her as one might comfort a child in pain. Once it seemed that the stricken girl was on the point of confiding in her friend, but the imminent words died away in a passion of tears. Elsie brought her to rest, and strove to calm her with predictions of the joyous days they would pass together when the stress and terror of their present life should be a thing of the past. Isabel, stupefied by some haunting knowledge which appeared to have a vague connection with the discomforting in the Kansas, yielded to Elsie's gentle persuasion, and endeavored to close her eyes. All was quiet in the cabin, save for the sufferer's labored breathing and an occasional sob, while her wondering nurse smoothed her luxuriant hair, and whispered these meaningless little phrases which have such magic influence on the distracted nerves of woman-kind. There was hardly a sound on the ship, beyond an unexplained creaking of pulleys, which soon ceased.

A COUGH COLD IS DANGEROUS.

There are different kinds of colds, and various ways in which they affect different people. Some constitutions will throw off a light cold, while to others it will stick tenaciously. There is one kind—the kind accompanied by a cough, the kind that turns to bronchitis, the kind that ends in consumption—this should never be neglected.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

This syrup contains all the virtues of the Norway Pine Tree, combined with Wild Cherry Bark, and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks. Mr. E. S. Akery, Akery, N.B., writes: "My little boy had such a bad cough he could not sleep at night. I tried several remedies but nothing seemed to relieve him until I got Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. From the first few doses he commenced to improve, and when he had taken one bottle he was completely cured."

Daily Fashion Hint for Times Readers.

Since the tunic or overcoat has returned to the fashion fold, fringes are once again looked for favor. Their admirable use in connection with this new skirt is softest satin in olive green. The center front and back and hip seams of the four new skirts are inset with bands of heavy cream lace. Over a glimpse of cream net is a jumper of the satin, the neck and large armholes are outlined with the lace bands. A touch of contrasting color appears in the tie ends and the sleeve bows of baby blue, with tasseled ends of silk and gold threads.

GEORGE V. MCINERNEY, K. C.

DIED YESTERDAY MORNING He Had Been Ill for Over a Month With Heart Failure—His Death Marks the Close of a Distinguished Career.

George V. McInerney, K. C., a leading barrister in St. John, and prominently identified with the public life of New Brunswick, died at his home, 145 King street east at 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning after a tedious illness against which he had fought for some months. His death will be intruded with deep regret, not only in St. John, but throughout the province and in many parts of Canada where he was known and respected and from many quarters will come expressions of sympathy for his family in their great sorrow. The progress of his illness had been watched with much anxiety for some time and it was with sorrow that it was learned he was confined to his room, and kept to the house. More recently there have been constant inquiries for him and many hearts were saddened by the word that there was no hope of his recovery, despite all that his brother, Dr. J. P. McInerney, could do and all the care that loving hands at home could bestow. During the last week he had been only semi-conscious. Towards the last he suffered from a severe attack of pneumonia.

The funeral will be held Tuesday morning at 12:30 o'clock and will proceed to the cathedral, where services will be conducted. The body will then be escorted to the depot and taken on the noon train to Moncton. There a special train will be ready to convey the funeral party to Kent Junction, whence the body will be taken by the Kent Northern railway to Reston for burial Wednesday morning. George Valerius McInerney, K. C., M. A., LL.B., was born in Kingston, Kent county, on Feb. 14th, 1837, and was there for 50 years old. He was a son of Hon. Owen McInerney and his wife Mary McInerney. His paternal grandfather, Daniel McInerney, emigrated from the County Londonderry (Ire.), to New Brunswick when he was but a small boy, and settled on the Miramichi. Hon. Owen McInerney became a very prominent merchant. In 1866 he was elected

HAS MANY VICTIMS NOW

Valuable Prescription to Get Relief From Rheumatism Which Anyone Can Prepare at Home at Small Cost.

Thousands of men and women who have felt the sting and torture of this dread disease, which is no respecter of age, person, sex, color or rank will be interested to know that while for many years rheumatism was considered an incurable disease, now it is one of the easiest afflictions of the human body to conquer. Medical science has proven it is a distinct disease in itself, but a symptom caused by inactive kidneys. Rheumatism is uric acid in the blood and other waste products of the system which should be filtered and strained out in the form of urine. The function of the kidneys is to secrete these poisons and acids out and keep the blood clean and pure. The kidneys, however, are of a sponge-like substance, the holes or pores of which will sometimes, either from overwork, cold or exposure become clogged and inactive, and failing in their function of eliminating these poisons from the blood, they remain in the veins, decompose and set up about the joints an poisonous cause the untold suffering and pain of rheumatism and backache, often producing complications of bladder and urinary disease, weakness, etc.

DIPHTHERIA IS UNDER CONTROL

Sussex, N. B., Jan. 12.—Dr. McAllister arrived at 10 o'clock this evening from the McFarlane lumber camp, of the Bay Shore Lumber Company, where diphtheria has been raging. He reports the disease now practically under control, three or four of the men are quite ill, but he thinks they will recover. The ten-year-old son of Fred Morton, section foreman, of Penabesque, fell on the ice last evening while skating and received serious injuries about the head. Dr. Burdett was called and says the boy was badly hurt. Mrs. Burlock, a daughter of Bedford Hayes, of Seareville, about ten miles from here, was operated upon by Dr. Burdett yesterday afternoon, who found an internal abscess. Her condition is reported critical. Mrs. Burlock was married only month ago.

SIXTEEN CHILDREN TRAMPED TO DEATH

Frightful Tragedy in a Theatre in Barnsley, England—Forty More Injured. Barnsley, Eng., Jan. 11.—Sixteen children were trampled to death and forty others, several of whom cannot live, were injured in a sad and forlorn tragedy at an entertainment given in the public hall here this afternoon. There was a great crush to secure admittance to the entertainment, and when the show opened every seat was taken and the gallery was literally packed with children, who filled the aisles and were dangerously crowded against the lower railing. With a view to relieving the crowding in the gallery the attendants decided to transfer some of the children to the body of the house, and one of the children called out: "Some of you children come down stairs."

Immediately the rush started, and within a few seconds hundreds of children were being trampled under foot. Even those who had seats in the gallery, doubtless being panic-stricken by the screams and struggles of the crowds fighting to reach the staircases, joined in the stampede. The scope was a terrible one, the cries of the injured and moans of the dying causing the greatest excitement among those gathered in the body of the hall. Police and ushers rushed to the head of the staircases, which were literally strewn with dead and dying, and by the most desperate efforts managed to drag scores of the struggling children to the corridors below. It was with the greatest difficulty that a panic among the children in the lower part of the house was averted, all of these originally being taken to the stairs in safety. When the reserve police arrived they found the narrow stairways practically blocked with bodies which were trampled in some cases almost beyond recognition. Scores of children were forced by the pressure from the crowd behind them to scurry over those that had fallen, whether living or dead, and many of the injured children were found later to be suffering from fractured bones and severe lacerations, caused by the indescribable manner in which they had been trampled.

Invalid Ladies

This Is For You. There are thousands of females who suffer untold miseries common to their sex. It is largely due to the peculiar habits of life and fashion, and the improper training of girlhood. Then, too, the physical changes that mark the three eras of womanhood (the maiden, the wife, and the mother) have much to do with her sufferings, most of which are endured in silence, unknown by even the family physician and most intimate friends.

FINANCIAL and COMMERCIAL CONFIDENCE RETURNING AND PRICES ARE RISING

J. S. Bache & Co.'s Review of Wall Street Conditions Indicates Return of Easy Money Times.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The stock market has made a most cheerful report of itself this week, and if rising prices are an evidence of returning confidence, we are taking long steps ahead in bringing about this mental attitude, the loss of which was the one salient feature which brought about the panic. One important factor in bringing about present stock market conditions has been the sign of returning easy money; this is evidenced by offerings of time money at 6 per cent, not in huge volume, but in substantial amount. As soon as this or a lower rate becomes the ruling figure for large amounts, the retirement of clearing house certificates will begin in volume substantial, really, as six per cent is the rate paid by the banks for clearing house certificates, and the borrowing banks will of course find it unprofitable to pay when only smaller interest can be realized.

INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK IS GENERALLY HOPEFUL

This Is the Case in Canada—Textile Industries Are In An Exceptionally Strong Position—Others Should Take Courage.

(The Shareholder.) The lightness of the money market and the difficulties resulting therefrom have had to some extent a restricting effect upon the general output. In a word, manufacturers have had to cut their cost accounts by their cloth. In the United States this is the result attained, while in Canada, the difficulties referred to have not been apparent to anything like the same extent. At the same time there has been a restriction of operations, but from present indications there is a restoring influence at work arising from the inspiration of increased confidence. So far as the textile trade is concerned, the market for textile goods is under better control than for years, the market for raw materials is under better control, while in Canada, the difficulties referred to have not been apparent to anything like the same extent. At the same time there has been a restriction of operations, but from present indications there is a restoring influence at work arising from the inspiration of increased confidence.

SOME THOUGHTS FOR ST. JOHN PEOPLE

No person will dispute the assertion that the C. P. R. in the endeavor they made to have the existing mail carrying contract for their "Empress" ships, so altered as to permit these five vessels to outdo that call at Halifax, and come here direct, is not ignorant of the benefit such a change would be to St. John. In this endeavor they did not receive the support such a measure should have won for them.

CONDITIONS IN STOCK MARKET

Montreal Has Recovered From Recent Depression—The State of the Money Market.

(Montreal Witness.) The local stock market this week has broken away from the recent depression and shows improvement all along the line. This change of pessimism to a feeling of confidence is due to the realization that the country is not going to ruin and that fundamental conditions are now stronger than ever.

CHRISTIANITY IS A THING OF CONDUCT

(Victoria Columnist.)

Prophecy and knowledge shall vanish away. Because we can only partly prophesy and can only partly know. But add the wisdom of those whose faith abides and hope and love these three. And so it is that old "evidence" for Christianity is, and new ones that are added to it, are not Christian faith may be the same that it ever was, but men do not give or accept it as they were wont to do.

GEORGE V. McINERNEY. Contemplating the death of Mr. George V. McInerney one experiences a feeling of regret that he did not live to reap those rewards of his profession or of politics for which his ability as a lawyer and as a politician so eminently fitted him.

Mr. McInerney's death was preceded by a long and severe illness, and the end was therefore anticipated. Indeed the tenacity with which he held to life after his medical attendants had given up hope was remarkable.

FOOLISH TACTICS. The Sun this morning quotes from Saturday's Times a statement by Mayor McLeod, of Fredericton, as follows: "None of our candidates, nor any one of them, has approached the friends of the government," etc., and declares that this, besides being ungrammatical is not comprehensive.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific the people are interested in the scheme to nationalize the Quebec battlefields. The Victoria, B. C., Colonist says: "We fancy there will be a general acceptance of the invitation issued to the presidents of the various Canadian Clubs throughout the Dominion by the Ottawa club to attend a meeting at the federal camp on the 17th of the present month to consider the proposal of Earl Grey for a monument upon the heights of Quebec to celebrate the tercentenary and to make national parks of the plains of Abraham and other battlefields. This movement is so thoroughly of national interest that there will be but one opinion as to the desirability of making every reasonable effort in furtherance of the success of the Governor-General's patriotic scheme."

The address of Principal Magill, at the Canadian Club luncheon tomorrow evening, will be one of great interest and value. The subject, Industrial War, is one of the greatest and growing interest among all classes of the people, and it will be discussed by a man who is not only a speaker of fine gifts, but who from the nature of his training and the careful study he has given to the subject is exceptionally well qualified to compress into a single speech a vast amount of informing and suggestive thought.

Another idiot has been heard from. Clipping a whiskey advertisement from the Times has sent it in to the editor with this query: "Are you the Editor of the Times, or plain fake?" No name is signed and therefore the identity of the writer is not known in this office.

Murder trials are becoming too common in New Brunswick. The past history of the province has been marked by some records of hideous crime, but at comparatively long intervals it may be hoped that after the trial now on at Dorchester is completed the press, for a long period, will have to go farther afield for news of that sort.

The Times is in peculiar luck today. One reader assails it for publishing a whiskey advertisement. Another sends a letter complaining that there was too much temperance and religious matter in Saturday's issue. Between these conflicting views this journal can but pursue the even tenor of its way, hoping that the brethren will gradually get nearer together.

The government has decided to promise the school teachers a pension scheme. This is a strong point gained. There can be no doubt that, whether by Premier Robinson or Premier Hazen, a pension scheme will soon be inaugurated for the benefit of New Brunswick teachers. Both parties are understood to be in its favor.

Another newspaper in Quebec province, this time La Patrie, of Montreal, has been fined for publishing a libel. These are the parlous times for the journalist in Quebec.

Future punishment is still a topic of sufficient interest to draw a crowd, even if the speaker does not believe in eternal torment. And yet present conduct is perhaps a matter of more importance.

A NEW DEATH TAX. A new story which comes from Australia tells about a lanky countryman from the mines who went into the office of the Melbourne Argus. COMPLETE ASSISTANCE. A teacher in the tenement district hurried from the school to find the mother of a pupil who had been taken quite ill. "Can you show me where Mrs. Angelo Scandale lives?" she inquired of a cheerily transplanted from the sunny south to a dark, sunless alley. "Yes, teach, I show you," and a willing, sticky hand dragged her on with such speed to make her stumble over an Italian dame seated on the threshold. Four flights of stairs up they went. After the teacher's breathless flight towards the clouds, the little hand stopped tugging.

Toronto, Jan. 12.—Twenty years in the penitentiary was the sentence of Joseph Ashworth, at the Cornwall assizes, for attempting to kill his wife. He attacked the woman in the house, followed her when she fled, and knocked her down with a stove shaker. She wrestled this from him, and Ashworth took a knife from his pocket and tried to cut her throat. The woman put her hands up, and was badly lashed, one finger being afterwards amputated.

MANSLAUGHTER VERDICT REACHED IN DAVID CASE

Jury Finds Syrian Peddler Killed His Wife in Heat of Passion—Mr. Hazen Makes Eloquent Plea For Prisoner and Judge McLeod's Charge Is Favorable.

Fredericton, N. B., Jan. 12.—The trial of Thomas David, the Syrian peddler, on the charge of murdering his wife, which has been going on before Judge McLeod and jury in the York circuit court since Tuesday, was brought to a close last night, when the jury, after deliberating one hour and a half, returned a verdict of manslaughter in the heat of passion and made a strong recommendation to mercy. There was a large crowd in the court when the verdict was announced, and it seemed to meet with general approval. The prisoner, who seemed to be greatly pleased with the jury's findings, was remanded to jail until 9 o'clock Monday morning, for sentence.

Mr. Hazen spoke for an hour and fifteen minutes, making a powerful plea on behalf of the prisoner, which was followed with keen interest. He dwelt upon the great importance of the case and denounced in scathing terms the conduct of the prisoner's late wife in deserting her husband and children for another man. "Had the same treatment," said he, "been meted out to one of our blood a tragedy would have occurred much earlier than it did."

Later in the evening Mr. Hazen was congratulated by many upon his very able address. The solicitor general reviewed the case for the crown calmly and dispassionately in an address which occupied fifty minutes. At the outset he impressed upon the jury that he was present as the representative of the state and to see that all the facts of the case were brought out and they were present on behalf of the community to decide upon the facts and to see that justice is done. The fact, he said, that the accused was foreign should not weigh against him, as the British constitution guarantees justice to all classes from the highest to the lowest. Even if the prisoner were without friends it would be the duty of the crown to see that the facts were properly brought out.

After touching briefly on the crimes of murder and that of manslaughter, the solicitor general pointed out that it was not denied that the prisoner had caused his wife's death, and it was shown he had no provocation, other than mere words. The evidence was next reviewed, and it was contended that David, while in Woodstock, after learning that his wife was living with another man, had made what could easily be construed into a threat to shoot her. The couple with the fact that the wife said she was afraid he would shoot her, that he had a revolver at the time and that he ultimately did shoot her, must be taken as evidence that he did make a threat. The woman's conduct, on the train to McAdam, should have convinced David that she did not intend to accompany him to Lowell, therefore the provocation at McAdam was not as sudden as alleged in the prisoner's behalf. Notwithstanding her conduct the prisoner was willing to take his wife back, and there was no evidence that he had ever expressed regret for her death. No matter where a man comes from, his conduct should be measured by the standard of our own people, and it is on that basis that the jury should decide whether or not the provocation was sufficient in this case. The laws of this country do not permit a man to kill his enemy, then come into court and declare that he was a bad man and deserved to be killed. If the jury decided that the provocation was sufficient in this case then they must enter a verdict for manslaughter.

The solicitor general got over the defence's insanity plea rather summarily by urging the jury to disregard medical opinions and decide the question on a common sense basis. The prisoner's actions all through, he contended, were those of a sane man. If he was insane and unconscious of what he was doing at McAdam, a fair assumption would be that he did not know one person from another, yet he shot at his wife and chased her around the room. It would be a bad thing for the community if every man with a hereditary taint of insanity should be allowed to hold it up as an excuse for committing crime. Had David shot indiscriminately in McAdam railway station, it would have been evidence that he was insane, but he did nothing of the kind. He had every confidence in Dr. Anglin, and for that reason had not summoned expert testimony for the crown.

It was easy for a man to commit crime and then come into court and say he had forgotten all about it. The evidence of a man charged with a serious crime must be carefully weighed by the jury. If the statement of Andrews was true then the prisoner's statements must be wrong, and if he is wrong in one instance he might be wrong in others. The solicitor general said the fact that the prisoner had recognized Jack Power on the train after the shooting, was proof that he was sane when he shot his wife. For protection of society and of people who live in lonely places in the country the jurors should see that the defense set up in murder trials is sound and logical. The evidence showing that the prisoner's father in Syria was insane was briefly discussed and it was pointed out that the crown had no means of combating it, therefore the jury would have to accept it for what it was worth. The jury would have to decide whether or not the Syrian friends of the prisoner had exaggerated in their evidence to bolster up his case. The crown maintained that proved its case and that the insanity plea was put up by the prisoner to burden of proof shifted to the defense, and the crown must have the benefit of the doubt as to the prisoner's sanity. In conclusion he urged the jury not to be swayed by feelings of sympathy, and pointed out to them that it was not so much a case of the poor woman that was killed, but they must remember that a crime had been committed against the laws of God and man, and the jury's duty is to see that justice is done. The solicitor general finished his address, and at 4 o'clock the court adjourned until 8.30.

Upon resuming at that hour Judge McLeod commenced his charge to the jury, speaking exactly one hour. In opening he referred to the indictment against the prisoner, and remarked that there was no doubt that he caused his wife's death, so the question to be considered was it murder or manslaughter, and was he of sound mind when he committed the deed. Murder, he defined as the taking of human life without cause and with expressed malice. Manslaughter was described as the killing of a person while in a sudden transportation of passion. In the case of the prisoner his crime was murder, unless it could be shown that he had sufficient provocation. As a rule, spoken words are not considered justification, but there were exceptions and the matter was for the jury to decide. Referring to the insanity plea the judge remarked that under the law, if a prisoner is found to be insane at the time he would have to be confined in an institution for the insane.

The judge then reviewed the evidence at considerable length, making deductions as he went along. He remarked that Mrs. David was evidently not correct in her mode of living, as proved by the fact that she had left her husband on several occasions and passed herself off for a single woman. The conduct of David at Woodstock when determining if there was sufficient provocation for the shooting. If it was found that David had premeditated his plan to shoot his wife he committed murder, but if it was not premeditated but done in a moment of passion, it would be manslaughter. Men ought, as a rule, to control themselves against violent passion, but all men are not constituted alike. A man of David's capacity with a weak mind could not be judged by the same standard as a man mentally strong. If the jury decided that Mrs. David's return to accompany her husband home was sufficient provocation, then the crime must be reduced from murder to manslaughter.

In discussing the insanity plea, his honor remarked rather pointedly that after listening to the opinions and reading the works of different doctors, it was difficult to say positively if the man was really sane. It was not claimed that the prisoner was insane before the shooting, but when it occurred he claimed that his mind was a blank. The jury would have to deal with the question of his sanity as a general matter. The judge thought it a little remarkable that the prisoner should be able to recognize Power on the train after the shooting in view of the contention that his mind was a blank when Power struck him. The fact that the prisoner refused to admit the shooting to people who conversed with him was not evidence of an unsound mind. In conclusion his honor said to weigh all the facts carefully and if they found the prisoner fired the fatal shot in a moment of passion, they must return a verdict of manslaughter. If on the other hand they found he was insane at the time, then it was their duty to acquit him. The court room was crowded with spectators in the evening, a majority of whom waited until the verdict was announced by Foreman Isaac Peabody.

MIGHT BE WORTH WHILE TO TEST PROHIBITION

This Is the Opinion Expressed by Ald. J. B. M. Baxter at the Every Day Club

Robt. Maxwell, M. P. P. Also Speaks

Until forced by public sentiment, so notoriously pronounced as to be unmistakable, the political parties as at present constituted will hold out some hope to the prohibitionist. One party will seek to hold the support of the temperance people without saying too much against the liquor traffic while the other will seek to retain the support of the friends of the liquor traffic without giving serious offence to the friends of prohibition. The difference in the attitude of parties is just about as great as the difference between "wooded-dum" and "two-wed-dum". Those who would prohibit must labor to make clear to the party leaders that there is an overwhelming public sentiment in their favor. And whenever the people really want prohibition they can get it.

SHIPPING PASTOR RUSSELL COMBATS IDEA OF OLD FASHIONED HELL

Two Meetings in the Opera House Yesterday Addressed by Pastor Charles T. Russell—Doctrine of Eternal Torture the Cause of Much Disbelief.

Pastor Charles T. Russell, of Allagash (Pa.) was greeted by two large audiences in the Opera House yesterday and gave excellent addresses. In the afternoon he spoke for two hours on the overthrow of Satan's Empire, and this was the main meeting. Pastor Russell has been engaged in the work of lecturing and writing books and tracts for many years. At none of the meetings yesterday was there any collection or admission. He is known as the writer of The Divine Plan of the Ages, Millennial Dawn, and other books. His visit here is part of the work of the Tower and Bible Tract Society, of which he is the moving spirit, and the expenses were met by the society. He is a member of the city, and with a number of visiting members were present at the meetings. The Catholic church believed that a few years ago was the cause of much disquiet and that another small lot went to hell. Protestants were wont to look with complacency upon their own religion but now they are beginning to see that it is not so perfect as they thought. It is a missionary collection was being taken up and the time of the afternoon. Though he had not the night before, Mr. Russell spoke vigorously for two hours and held the attention of the audience well. John H. Harrison and R. E. Streeter, who came with Mr. Russell from Pennsylvania, assisted in the service. Mr. Russell at once went into his subject and said the title implied two things: First, that there was a being called Satan and that he had an empire. There were a great many who did not believe there was a Satan but the same arguments that were used to dispute the existence of Satan also denied the existence of God. Mr. Russell said that a correct opinion of such things and should accept the teachings of such men as Paul, Peter, James and John. Some people held that God was synonymous with good and that Satan was synonymous with evil but he wanted more than a God who is good in principle. They wanted a kind heavenly Father who loved them and would care for them.

GOOD NEWS FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS

A Bill to Provide for Pensions Will be Introduced at the Next Session of the Local House.

W. M. McLean, chairman of the executive of the New Brunswick Teachers' Association, received a letter from Attorney-General McKewen on Saturday evening relating to the scheme of teachers' pensions submitted to the government. The letter follows: St. John (N. B.), Jan. 11, 1908. My Dear Sir.—Referring to your communication of the 29th inst. regarding the pension proposal, and in view of the further explanation in the government made by yourself, and by other members of the delegation who were present at the meeting at my last meeting in St. John, I beg to say that at the meeting the matter was thoroughly considered from all standpoints, and the decision of the government, as stated in the report of the delegation, is in favor of the pension scheme. It is the hope of the government that the pension scheme will be a success in every respect, and that it will be a benefit to the teachers of the province. The pension scheme is a government measure and has no doubt that it will become law.

THE QUESTION OF FLOUR

Not the least of the many problems which puzzle the young housekeeper, is the selection of the flour. Cook books are often indefinite; one recommending a brand you cannot consistently obtain; another, neglecting the point of insuring on some flour you have found unsatisfactory. Have you ever tried blended flour? If not, use it next baking day. The leading Ontario millers are now making a blend of Ontario fall wheat with Manitoba spring wheat in such a way that the best qualities of both are combined essentially to make a perfect flour. Manitoba spring wheat flour rises well and is not so sticky as the soft wheat flour. Blended flour, as milled by the Ontario millers, combines the strength of Manitoba wheat, and the delicate flavor of Ontario wheat, and is a superior flour to either one alone. It gives the food value with the lightness and deliciousness. Housekeepers everywhere are using blended flour for bread, cake and pastry to either one alone. The flour troubles of all home cooks who have the discernment to use them.

Would you like to secure a cottage lot on the St. John river for an investment of 25c.? The plan of The Prince's Beach Company is to give away this month, six large lots valued at $400. Read the story today on page 5. Study the January Limerick and see if you cannot supply a line that will win a prize. A MONCTON VIEW

How the Moncton Transcript Comments on Eddie Mooney's Statement.

"Eddie Mooney, the Marathon captain, returning from Moncton didn't wait until the train had stopped before he was off and hot-footing it for Saint John news. Coming from any other paper the remarks might be of some slight moment. It is only necessary to say, however, that the Transcript writer knows as much about hockey as he does about football and even the Moncton boys know how much that is."

The Transcript man then handed out some advice about practice, etc. He should feel better after getting rid of the above. Coming from any other paper the remarks might be of some slight moment. It is only necessary to say, however, that the Transcript writer knows as much about hockey as he does about football and even the Moncton boys know how much that is."

OBITUARY Mrs. Allison Cushing

The death of Mrs. Clara Louise Cushing, wife of Allison Cushing, occurred yesterday at her home in Houlton (Me.), after an illness lasting only two days. Mrs. Cushing was a former resident of this city and was married here. Besides her husband she leaves two sons, Andrew Richmond and Charles Dunn, and two daughters, Misses Della and Clara Louise. Richmond A. Cushing, of Lancaster Heights is a brother-in-law. The funeral will be held at noon tomorrow from the I. C. R. station to Fernhill.

Edward W. Allingham

The death of Edward W. Allingham occurred suddenly yesterday morning at his home, 58 Spring street. Mr. Allingham had been confined to his house only since Wednesday last. On Tuesday he was performing his duties as baggage master on the I. C. R. Early yesterday he appeared much as usual and the end came about 10 o'clock with but little warning. The cause of death was said to be rheumatism of the heart.

He had been employed on the government road for about thirty years and was a prominent member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. He was also a member of Union Lodge No. 2, K. of P., and of Victoria Company, No. 1, Uniform Rank. Universal sympathy for Mrs. Allingham and the family will be felt by a wide circle of friends.

Besides his wife, Mr. Allingham leaves four daughters—Mrs. Frank Wilson, of Portland (Me.), and Misses Edith, Letta and Letta at home. He is survived by two brothers, Andrew and Richard, in Boston, and three sisters, Mrs. W. S. Vaughan, of this city; Mrs. Robert O'Shaughnessy, of Montreal, and Miss A. Allingham, of Boston. The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock with service at the home at 2.30 p. m.

NEW FEDERATION SANCTION ASKED FOR

No. 2 S. C. & F. P. Sports on Monday Next First Under New Body in Maritime Provinces.

The sports to be held in the Glacier Rink, Monday next, by the No. 2 S. C. & F. P., are creating a lot of interest. An application for sanction has been applied for from the new athletic federation, through Frank White, and the necessary permission is expected here at any time. This will be the first meet any kind held here under the new federation, and in a measure carries the war to these provinces. As it is, all the fast ones are under the federation and there is little or nothing to be feared from the M. P. A. A. A. It would seem like the thin end of the wedge. All the fast ones are expected to enter and some good sport should result.

NEW PICTURE BY J. S. CLIMO

"The Rescue" is an Original Conception Worked Out With Realistic Effort.

J. S. Climo has just completed an excellent oil painting, entitled "The Rescue," which is now on exhibition in the window of Coody's shoe store, Charlotte street, and is attracting a great deal of attention. The canvas measures about thirty by twenty inches and the coloring is wonderfully true to nature. The artist, whose paintings are already favorably known in St. John, has skillfully depicted a night scene at sea, in which moonlight and firelight are ingeniously contrasted. In the left foreground, silhouetted against an almost inky sky, is a burning vessel, near which floats a portion of the wreckage, also in flames, and between the two can be seen the dim outlines of seamen clinging to the flaming bulk. The moon breaking through a rift in the clouds, reveals a full-rigged ship coming to the rescue of the sinking craft. The reflection of the moon's rays and that of the flames issuing from the burning ship, produce a particularly weird effect not usually found in pictures of that character.

The incident prompting Mr. Climo's production of "The Rescue" is a peculiar one. Some years ago, while in the art museum, Boston, he was looking at Turner's picture, "Slave Ship Fire." At the time he did not know who painted the picture, and remarked that it was a very crude attempt, seeing that it seemed strange it was hung in such a conspicuous place. A bystander informed him that it was painted by the celebrated Turner, of London. Some time after this, a group of artists in London were discussing art, in a general way, and it was remarked by one of them that when an artist attained great eminence in the picture world, he could, like Turner, throw a brush of color on a piece of canvas and obtain a big price for it, of which the Slave Ship was an instance. Talking with Mr. Dillon, who for a number of years has visited St. John, bringing large collections of paintings, Mr. Climo brought up the subject of Turner's picture, and Mr. Dillon said that the verdict was as stated by the artist referred to. In Turner's later years his eyesight failed, and he was unable to paint, and a few others, knowing their great prize in the past when his sight was perfect.

At this time Mr. Climo suggested that a similar night scene with a hint of moonlight showing a rescue ship would be of more interest than a lone ship on fire, and Mr. Dillon thought the conception was capital if it could be produced aright. Mr. Climo would ask the critics if he has in any way approached the proper effect in the picture, entitled "The Rescue."

The picture, which is the property of Frank Alward, Mr. Climo's son-in-law, has been nicely framed by Theo. Flood.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

St. John Lodge No. 30 Will Install Officers Tonight.

At the regular fortnightly meeting of St. John Lodge No. 30 Knights of Pythias which will be held in their hall, Simonds street this evening, the officers for the ensuing term will be installed by Deputy Grand Chancellor S. W. McMackin, assisted by other grand lodge officers.

Although Saint John Lodge has been in existence but a little more than a year, having been organized on November 12th, 1906, the membership has almost doubled, being now 80.

This evening in addition to the installation ceremonies the rank of knight will be conferred on three candidates, new paraphernalia, just purchased, being used for the first time.

GREEKS GETTING READY FOR MONCTON

Will Have Strong Team for Wednesday's Game Here—Fast Practice Saturday Night

The Marathon-Moncton Victoria league game here Wednesday night at the Glacier is creating wide-spread interest among hockey followers here and the public generally. The Greeks' defeat at Moncton in so decisive a manner is not a fair criterion for the Wednesday contest. It must be borne in mind that the maroon and grey are on their own ice, with a lot of practice to their credit since the Moncton game. There will be some changes in the locals' line up that should strengthen them immensely. It is expected that Beauchamp, the fast Quebec forward, will be in town for the game, and should he not, Gordon Brown will be played at point and Patterson played out on the wing in Hain's place. The team had a rattling practice Saturday night and those that were privileged to be present saw some nice work. The Greeks are moving very fast, and to win, Moncton will have to play hockey all the way. Gordon Brown, who turned out with the team, showed good form, and indicated that he is still the Cracker Jack defence man of previous years.
