AROUND WORLD IN TWENTY-FOUR HOURS

Commander Read Says 1,000 Miles an Hour Will Soon Be Possible.

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 30.—It will soon be possible to drive an airplane at a speed of 1,000 miles an hour at an altitude of 60,000 feet. Lieutenant-Commander Read, who made the Transatlantic flight, predicted in an address to Harvard students to-night. At this speed, Read declared it will be possible to fly around the earth in a day.

Declaring that within a few years the Nancy type of plane will be one of the smallest made. Read said: "If I go across again, as I shall, I expect to take my family with me." Bioriot, the famous French aviation expert, told Read asserted, that by the use of French inventions now being completed it will soon be possible to reach an altitude of 60,000 feet. At such a height where resistance would be greatly lowered it would be possible to fly at the speed of 1,000 miles an hour, he explained.

going by taxi. Asked why he did not go by train he said that he thought that it would be safer not to take train from Guelph he went to Brantford.

During the cross examination Mr. Bray happened to use the words: "Well in the confession you made to Mr. Katzanoff—" and the witness came back with an interruption: "I did not make any confession."

"Well in the statement you made," Mr. Bray said and proceeded with the questions.

The witness denied that he was the one that had suggested going to Galt but said it was Petroff who was working for him in his cheese making plant at Stratford, was dissatisfied with his work and wanted to go to Galt to look over the possibilities for establishing a shoe shine business in that city. He met Petroff and the Russian at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, May 24th, at the Stratford Station, and only then learned that Petroff was going to Galt. The Russian was going to Toronto. Petroff asked Boyoff to go to Galt and he consented. They left Stratford on the 1:40 p.m. train and went as far as Kitchener and then the three used the electric line to go to Galt. In that city they slept Saturday night, two at the hotel and Petroff at a private boarding house.

The two although they looked for Petroff did not see him again until after one o'clock Sunday afternoon at Victoria Park, Galt. Then at Petroff's suggestion they walked out to Sheldon's bush.

Mr. Bray in his cross examination questioned the witness very closely in regard to whether he or Petroff was the leading member of the trio. Boyoff replied he was not.

"It seems that on all other occasions but these you made the suggestions and Ivan followed," counsel retorted.

Earlier in the cross examination the witness said that the relations between the two were of the best. He owed Petroff $120 and was keeping it at his request. He paid Petroff's board and room and $35 a month. Boyoff was not hard up for money in his business but was short of milk.

The two boarded and roomed at 195 Nile Street.

Boyoff's Story About the Deed As Given to the Crown Examiner

Boyoff, in his confession that he knows something about the matter, repeated the story that the man was killed by a stone, which hit him on the head, and how he helped Petroff to bury the body under the stones. His evidence was given without prejudice to his own case and he took the stand after 15 witnesses given their testimony for the crown.

Boyoff, without any apparent nervousness, related his story with much detail. He said that on the afternoon of Sunday, May 25, he and the deceased Russian, Stepanos Sorokaty, accompanied Petroff to Sheldon's bush for a walk. Petroff asked while on the way said there was gold to be found in the bush and gravel pit near by, which they reached about 2 o'clock p.m. At the gravel pit Petroff again said there was gold to be found and started breaking the stones and said he was Bolshevik he did not like gold.

Petroff himself was a Bolshevik and did not like gold. Brown then swore at Petroff. The talk seemed to be a joke, but it became louder. The Russian jumped at Petroff and grabbed him by the shoulders and the latter started to strike him. He hit him then interfered. They were walking from the gravel pit and Boyoff was just slightly ahead of Brown. About three feet behind was Petroff. The next thing he saw was Brown falling to the ground and a stone drop, which had struck him on the head and had come from the rear. Blood was running from his nose and mouth.

Run Away

He ran away a short distance and remained there for 10 to 15 minutes. During the interval he did not know what Petroff was doing. Later he turned around and looked and he saw Petroff, who then stopped throwing stones on to the body. He went back and asked why he had struck him and he replied that he did not want to kill him, but it was too late now. He asked him to help him bury him. He did so and began putting stones on to the body. He suggested that it would be better to take the stones off and report the matter to the police chief at Galt. Petroff then began to take out the man's watch, some papers and a small purse and he also took some papers out.

During the remainder of the crown's examination, it was declared Boyoff went to Kitchener the same night and the next day to Guelph. Petroff hired a horse and rig to get out of Galt the same night.

Know He Was Dead

Asked by the crown whether it was the same story as told Rev. R. Katzanoff two days after the alleged murder, he replied it was the same except the statement that he did not know whether the man was dead when they covered up the body. The fact was that he knew he was dead.

Other evidence that has been given so far is that of Dr. Warren and Dr. Charlton of Galt, who performed the post mortem; Harry Harrison, Fly West of Stratford, Alexander Edmonds of Galt, who works at the Anderson livery barn, William White who had large of the register at the Western hotel, Galt, Mr. William Lockie and Mrs. Lockie, Mrs. Nellie Jackson of 102 first avenue, Galt, Mr. John Jackson, Mrs. Minnie Stewart, Mr. Stanley Gilbert, Galt, Mr. Luckow Walke, Algonquin William, Jeweller of Sarnia, Detective Bradley of Stratford.

POLITICAL NEWS OF CANADA

WHAT PARTIES ARE DOING

Liberal Unionists to Continue Support for Present at Least.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—Liberal Unionists, ministers and members, foregathered in a family caucus by themselves this morning and surveyed the political situation prior to the general election of the party to be held to-morrow or Thursday.

Subsequently to the meeting the following statement was given out: "A meeting of the Liberal-Unionist members of the House was held to-day. The meeting expressed unqualified approval of the war policy of the Union Government and the Government of the day congratulated on its success. The consensus of opinion was that, as the members were elected to support Union Government, it was their duty to continue to do so, and the hope was strongly expressed that the Government would be able at an early date to evolve a progressive policy satisfactory to the country, to meet the after-war conditions."

The meeting took place not in the Parliamentary building but in private quarters of the eastern block. Practically all of the Liberal-Unionist members now in the city attended and there was a lengthy exchange of views. Among those present were Hon. Messrs. Rowell, Mewburn and Calder.

While the statement issued speaks of the "consensus of opinion" as being favorable to a continued support of Union Government it was stated by members present that practically all were for this stand.

The Liberal-Unionists are not prepared to construe the mandate of 1917 as possessing sufficient elasticity to carry on for the period of this Parliament, rather than viewing it in the more restricted sense with the promulgation of peace. So far as the time between now and the next general election is concerned, therefore, no particular trouble looms up.

Whether after dissolution the Government and its supporters will go to the country as a Unionist party embracing the present elements of fusion does not appear to be a matter that can be settled at any caucus or series of caucuses for this season and probably for next.

The most that can be hoped for, seemingly, is approval of general principles and declaration of purpose to support for this season and probably for next.

The Liberal-Unionists are not exactly of one mind on the situation. The

LABOR MAN PLACED ON COMMERCE BOARD

James Murdoch, of Toronto, Is Appointed.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—Labor will be represented on the Dominion Board of Commerce. Official announcement was made to-night that Mr. James Murdoch of Toronto was to-day appointed a member of the board to take the place temporarily filled by Mr. F. A. Acland deputy minister of labor.

The official announcement says in part: "Mr. Murdoch has, for many years been an outstanding figure in Canadian labor circles. He took a prominent part in establishing the Canadian railway adjustment board in 1918, which did so much to insure and maintain harmony and co-operation as between railway companies and their employees. For a year past he has strongly held the view that the cost of living should be controlled and, if possible, reduced and that increasing wages alone would never solve labor problems."

For the last 14 years Mr. Murdoch has been an officer of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and during most of that time the chief Canadian executive. He is a resident of Toronto. Two of his sons were in the war, and both are still under medical care as a result of service. A fearless champion and leader in demanding a full measure of justice for working men. He has with equal determination insisted on labor recognizing its responsibilities and obligations undertaken. Mr. Murdoch will enter upon his new duties in a few days."

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat which clogs Kidneys, thus making Murtas.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flesh, clogged kidneys and stimulates them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

YEO'S CONDITION TURNS SERIOUS

No Trace of Perpetrators of Deed

London, Oct. 1.—While Joseph Yeo, aged G. T. R. track inspector, lies in a serious condition at Victoria Hospital the two youths, who are alleged to have shot him on Sunday afternoon, while he was trying to arrest them for placing ties on the tracks near the Cove bridge, are still at large.

Yeo was unconscious part of the day yesterday and Dr. James Wilson the attending physician was not in a position last night to state definitely whether or not he would recover. Dr. Wilson believes the man is over 60 years old and the cutting out of nearly a square inch of his skull to extract the bullet is a serious undertaking at his stage of life.

The bullet was extracted on Monday and the shooting victim lapsed into unconsciousness several times during Monday night and yesterday. Dr. Wilson believes that he has a good chance to recover if his skull or other complications do not set in during the next few days.

Dr. Wilson said last night that Mr. Yeo told him his assailants live in the west part of the city, that he knows their addresses and can identify them.

BILL BE EXPLAINED
BY J. E. ARMSTRONG

Measure Would Put Shipping
Rates Under Railway Commission

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—Mr. J.E. Armstrong, member for East Lambton, is leaving to-morrow for Winnipeg where he will be the guest of the Board of Trade of Winnipeg. At a luncheon on Thursday, Mr. Armstrong has been invited to the Western Metropolis to explain the bill, which he has introduced, which proposed to place the control of rates of shipping to inland waters under the control of the Dominion Railway Commission.

While the industrial conference was in session the Winnipeg delegates, representing the Board of Trade, received wires asking them to oppose this bill. They had a conference with Mr. Armstrong, when the bill was explained by him to them. They felt that before the Opposition should be pressed, Mr. Armstrong should have an opportunity to explain the bill to the West and the invitation was the result.

AFTER HIGH RENTS

Windsor Council Appoints Fair
Rental Committee

WINDSOR, Sept. 29.—At to-night's brief session of the City Council a "fair rental" committee was named by the mayor who will investigate charges of profiteering by Windsor landlords.
A number of glaring instances were cited by his worship where landlords after renting their houses and tenants had taken possession were ordered out because the owner declared he had been offered a higher rent.

Ald. Jackson, Wood, Warren and Jacques are members of the committee and victims of landlords are asked to furnish them with any complaints they may have.

NITTI SUSTAINED BY 208 TO

DEBATE

ROME, Sept. 28.—Premier Nitti was given a vote of confidence by the Chamber of Deputies, which continued in session last night. The Government received 208 votes to 140.

The assembly was extremely tumultuous. There were personal encounters between several of the deputies.
For some weeks past the Nitti Government has been under fire from various sides, including the Nationalists, Socialists and military party over the policy adopted in regard to Fiume.

May Take Action If Italy Fails to Control Situation in a Few Days.

Paris, Sept. 27.—The peace conference is apparently changing its attitude toward the Fiume situation which many members no longer regard as a strictly Italian affair because of indications that the Jugo-Slavs are being involved and likewise the reports of increasing claims by the Italians in regard to the Adriatic, creating conditions which are regarded as holding the threat of a Balkan war.

While the Italian authorities take the position that the immediate suppression of the Fiume mutiny is not imperative, the supreme council seems nearly convinced that international action will be forced if Italy fails to control the situation within a few days.

TWO NEGROES SHOT
BY WHITE MEN

Taken From Officials by Alabama
Mob and Shot to Death in Wood

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 29.—Two negroes, Miles Phifer and Robert Crosby the latter a discharged soldier, were taken from county officials about five miles from Montgomery late to-day and shot to death by a mob of 25 masked men. Both negroes were charged with having assaulted white women.

The two negroes were being taken to the state prison at Wetumpka for safekeeping when the mob held up the automobile carrying them. The mob forced the county officers to surrender their arms led the negroes into a wood and opened fire on them with shotguns and pistols.

HYDRO AND THE GRAND RIVER RAILWAY

Were the Hydro Commission to succeed in gaining its point of delaying the Grand River Railway in diverting its freight line from King Street, until it had acquired the Galt-Elmira branch of the G.T.R. and thrown a spur across to King Street, what action might the Grand River Railway take?

It is probable that it would not be content to remain inactive until this transpired. In considering this, it is worth noting that the Company owns a strip of land along King Street from the city limit to the point where its present freight line leaves King Street.

It is not presently utilizing this, having laid its tracks on the street. Were it to be blocked in its proposal to acquire a strip of the sewer farm land, it could, apparently, use its right of way along the street.

This course would not be as satisfactory to the city as the other course, since it would not remove the hauling of freight over King Street nor enable it to serve as well the industries in the South Ward. But it would place the Hydro Commission in a position similar to that which now exists. Hydro would still require to cross the Grand River Railway's tracks; still be the junior railway and still require to provide a level crossing and safeguard it.

The only possibility in such a move would be an effort on the part of the Hydro Commission to prevent the Company from shifting its tracks from King Street to its land on the side of that street. It does not seem likely that Hydro would, were it deemed advisable, succeed in preventing this shift.

From a citizen's point of view, the outcome would be to leave the knot untied. Hydro would still have to cross the Grand River Railway's tracks. All it would succeed in doing, in blocking the removal of the freight line from King Street to a private right of way through the sewer farm, would be to deprive a number of industries of convenient shipping and unloading services.

It may be worth repeating that if the city had not yet enjoyed the services of the Grand River Railway and were Hydro and it straining their efforts to see which could first enter the city, public opinion would favor a Hydro radial; or even be willing to wait for it to reach here and bestow more favors upon it than it would grant a privately-owned company.

The city cannot, however, disregard the fact that the Grand River Railway has been serving it for twenty years, bringing valuable trade to its mercantile establishments; providing a worthwhile connection with the C.P.R. at Galt and convenient egress to and ingress from other southern points.

The best of relations have subsisted between the city and railway. Relations that our citizens would preserve and if possible augment.

It so happened that the city was negotiating with the company for the purchase of the latter's tracks within the corporation and had about concluded a bargain whereby these would have been secured at a steep valuation. This to be followed by an agreement giving the company running rights for its passenger service over King Street.

The interjection of the Hydro claim has suspended these negotiations. It is conceivable that were the city to decline to sanction the new freight line plan, it would have to purchase this section of the company's railway as a going concern, at arbitration. It would subsequently have to deal with an opponent instead of a friend.

The interruption on the part of Hydro places the city in an awkward position. It desires to act fairly toward both. While desiring to retain the Grand River Railway and to assist it to improve its services, it would welcome the coming of a Hydro radial, with its prospective short line from Galt to Hamilton, there to connect with the Hydro radial from Toronto to the Niagara frontier. Yet it does not seem fair to ask the city to injure the one in order to get the other.

As we see it, there is nothing which the city can fairly do which will make the second the first. The facts and circumstances are all against Hydro being declared to have priority.

Then ought not the representative of the two to get together and settle this comparatively trivial matter of a level crossing?

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION

In this issue there will be found a letter from an esteemed correspondent in which objection is taken to our explanation of Proportional Representation.

To the most of folks hereabouts Proportional Representation is a new subject. It was to the writer. No attempt was made to condemn it, because it was new and untried. The course followed was to present two articles. The one giving arguments for its adoption in Canada and other objections against its introduction.

Whenever a new theory of government or election is advanced, the seeker for information consults available authorities, to get information on first principles. He then mulls them over in his mind, and reaches a conclusion as to whether they are workable in his own country or city.

The correspondent in this connection suggests that had we studied the matter we would not have made the statements we did concerning Proportional Representation. He wonders where we got our ideas from. Since he is understood to be a native of Glasgow, let us tell him that we consulted Nelson's encyclopaedia, of which George Sandeman, M.A., of Edinburgh, is editor. Having a strain of Scotch in his makeup, the present writer thought it safe to go, figuratively, to Scotland for information.

It is, of course, open to our correspondent or any other reader to accept or reject what Nelson's work says on Proportional Representation. Glasgow may halt at accepting the conclusions of Edinburgh.

The objecting correspondent says that under Proportional Representation: "a voter has only one vote; a transferable vote; but transferable only to candidates, not to constituencies; and can only be used in the constituency in which the voter lives."

He may be right but Nelson says that under P. R. "the voting is general, not local. Every elector may vote for whom he pleases in any constituency."

Since discussion brings out the strong points of a theory and uncovers its weak ones, let us briefly examine the reason why it is proposed to allow any elector to vote for whom he pleases in any riding. P. R. was designed to give minorities representation in parliament according to their strength not in any one constituency but in the country as a whole.

Take the Single Taxers as an example. There is presently only a sprinkling of them in any Canadian constituency. The present electoral system permits a Single Taxer to become a parliamentary candidate in any riding on the Single Tax platform. But he can only be elected by securing a majority of the votes cast in the riding in which he is nominated.

Since he would probably only get the support of the Single Taxers in his own constituency, he could not possibly be elected. But under Proportional Representation all the Single Taxers in Canada could vote for him and, if there are, let us say, 10,000 of them in the country, elect him.

A similar argument applies to a city government elected under Proportional Representation. Were the electors to require to confine their support to a Single Taxer in the ward in which they lived, they would be unable to elect him. Under P. R. voting would be general and by Single Taxers combining their strength and centering it on one candidate, they might succeed in electing one or more candidates.

Thus it seems that General, instead of ward or constituency voting is the marrow of Proportional Representation.

ANOTHER MELON

This Canada is a joint stock company with eight million shareholders, electing a Board of Directors called a Parliament and committing the administration to a small executive committee. Each citizen invests his labor and intelligence for the benefit of the Company. Now the Company, being faced with extraordinary and pressing capital expenditures offers a new issue of stock at par to the shareholders, who deserve first consideration.

No other persons have as good a knowledge of the resources of the Company. No foreign money-lenders can appreciate fully the morale of the Company. The shareholders were present once when a melon was cut; and they liked the flavor. It requires no genius in prophecy to declare that this second privilege will be accepted eagerly by all those associated with the Company who have either much or little to invest.

HAMILTON'S HOUSING WORK

Hamilton Herald: With 153 applications for the construction of houses, and over sixty houses under construction, the local housing commission, in addition to aiding in supplying the great need of houses, is also aiding in the battle against that arch enemy, the high cost of living for it is providing homes at what in these times is only a moderate rental. The cost of the cheapest house, which is of brick construction, and which contains six rooms, under the commission's plans is under $2400. The monthly payment is eight per cent. on that amount, which works out to $16 a month. This, of course, does not include taxes, for which another $4 a month must be added. Thus for $20 a month those who are building under this plan secure a home which the commission claims could not be secured in any other way for a rental of $25 a month at least. But the best feature of the arrangement is that with the payment of every $10 monthly instalment, the mortgage on the home is being paid off. If nothing more than the $16 a month is paid, the debt is cleared off in twenty years. Provision is made for wiping out the debt in a shorter period. For every $100 payment on the principal, $8 a year is knocked off the payments to the commission.

The commission has been operating only a few months, and although it has not been giving extensive publicity to its work, it has had more applications from those anxious to take advantage of the plan than it was in a position to grant. The work has now been organized, and the commission is in a position to extend its operations. While the commissioners feel that they have made a good beginning this year, they hope to accomplish more next year, with this year's experience to guide them. The commission is not filling up the city with a lot of homes built on exactly the same plan. It not only has a number of general plans from which selections may be made, but allows some scope for individual taste.

HOOK AND LADDER STORY

Indianapolis News: A painter at work on a water tank at Buhl, Minn., foresaw a catastrophe when a cow began to scratch her back on the bottom of his ladder and started to come down. That frightened the cow, and she ran her horns through the lower rungs of the ladder and started off at a gallop, carrying the ladder, paint and all. The ladder he yelled the faster the cow travelled. It was but a short ride for the painter, who struck the ground uninjured, but the cow carried the ladder for a quarter of a mile.

THINK TANLAC THE FINEST ON EARTH

Husband And Wife Are Both Praising It For Good It Has Done Them

"I am still praising Tanlac," writes Daniel J. Hickey, of 217 Euclid Ave., Toronto, Ontario, in a recent communication received from him at the Tanlac office.

Mr. Hickey has lived in Toronto all his life, being employed at the Dominion Steel Works, and his statement in which he tells how Tanlac relieved him for a long-standing case of stomach trouble and rheumatism attracted widespread attention when it was first published. In corroboration of her husband's statement Mrs. Hickey also relates her own wonderful experience with this medicine as follows:

"I had a nervous trouble for six years," said Mrs. Hickey, "and was in such a terrible condition that I had to stay in bed four or five months every year. My energy was completely gone and when I was up I was too weak to even sweep the floors. I had no appetite and what little I forced down did me hardly any good. My skin was pale and sallow and I could hardly sleep at night."

"My husband was taking Tanlac and he improved so fast that I decided to try it too, and since taking a few bottles I am now in better condition than I have been in several years. My nervousness is all gone, my appetite is fine and I sleep like a child at night. From the way Tanlac has fixed me up, both my husband and I think it to be about the finest medicine there is."

Tanlac is sold in Kitchener by E. O. Rits & Co., in Galt by R.W. Meikleham, in Hespeler by Jno. R. Phil, in New Hamburg by W.H. Bouillon, in Milbank by R.B. Hamilton, in West Montrose by A.E. Richert & Co., in Preston by H.L. Peick, in Waterloo by A.B. Learn, in Doon by L.C. Bullock.

Letters To NewsRecord

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION.

To the Editor:—In your issue of Sept. 24th, your leading article dealt extensively with Proportional Representation. It is just a pity that you did not study the matter before printing and so save, so many mistakes. Where you got your ideas from, I do not know, but they are far from what P. R. really means.

The idea of a voter in Kitchener voting for a candidate in Toronto or Galt is ridiculous, and was never advocated by any proportional representation speaker that I ever heard speak, and I have listened to quite a few.

Under P. R. a voter has only one vote, a transferable vote; transferable only to candidates, not to constituencies, and can only be used in the constituency in which the voter resides.

Take the election of the Council for example. Supposing it was decided that next election of the Council would be by P. R. There are five wards in the city. Say that each ward was asked to return three candidates, and that for these three seats, in each ward, there were five or six nominations.

Well, ballot papers would be printed with the names of prospective candidates, for each particular ward, and an elector could only vote for a candidate in the ward in which the elector resided.

Voting would be in this fashion: An elector would go to the Polling Booth with his mind made up as to whom he liked best among the candidates, and would put a One after that man's name, not a cross. But thinking that his favorite would get more votes than he had the right to put a 2 after the man's name he liked next best, and so on until all the names were exhausted.

A voter can either put down the figure One and finish at that, or he can put figures after all the candidates, according to his choices.

Of course down One, and stopping at that is not taking full advantage of P. R. supposing a man's Number One was hopelessly out. In the first count then if the elector did not put any second choice on his ballot paper that vote is lost. On the other hand if the voter uses his right in making full choice of four or five men then his vote is bound to become effective.

P. R. does not apply to single seat constituencies and ridings would require to be grouped, to return two, three or more men. But in no case could a vote go outside the constituency in which the voter resided, as stated in your article.

Consideration of your space, forbids me to deal further in this matter. Proportional Representation is the fairest system of election, and deserves greater study and better treatment than what you gave it in your article.

JAMES BLAKE

A REPLY TO JOHN BULL
To the Editor:—In your issue of Sept. 24, you published a letter under the heading "The Boy or the Beer," signed by J. Bull.

This writer complains of a particular position, that it "imputates that the Boy and the Beer cannot exist together. Now I fully agree that the boy can exist with the beer until death intervenes, but is only existence, and not living.

What a vast difference! Not knowing the full meaning of life—not having healthy blood coursing through the veins invigorating the whole body, the brain dulled; all finer instincts crushed;—the eyes dimmed; the general appearance showing signs of neglect and indifference. Oh! Yes! This is existence but not living.

The nationality of J. Bull is not quite clear, but being English myself, and a Londoner at that, I am able to "write of those things which I know and testify to those things which I have seen."

I resent the imputation knowing full well how utterly false it is that beer has in any way helped to place England in her present position. It is the one blot on her proud name that she is ruled by the vested interests of the liquor traffic. Other vices she has, but I make bold to say only in a lesser degree than other large cities. I was raised in a typical British workman's home of the artisan class, in the garden town of Wootrich, with its large arsenal. Walk any block in the downtown section, and you would meet from 4 to 8 open bars, and within 5 minutes' walk from any point of this large town, an open bar would be encountered.

Thus was I surrounded by beer on the outside, and beer was a daily factor inside the home. Yet my parents brought up their 5 children (although never abstainers for one day of their lives), to attend weekly temperance meetings. Not only to attend the meetings but never placed any restrictions on our taking active part in the temperance cause and even gave money for the cause. At one of our meetings where we had a regular attendance of over 300 members there were not more than 12 families present where the parents were total abstainers; and yet such is the consistency of the British workman, that whilst he took beer himself, he wanted his children and grown-up sons and daughters trained otherwise.

My own father made it his proud boast that he had never pressed a man to take a drink who, when asked, replied no—and a known abstainer was never asked.

Now, J. Bull, I say it was men like my father who have helped to make England, because it was their sons who were the fighting men in the great war.

Without clothes and shoes these children could not attend school to get any education.

When new shoes were procured, special identification marks were put on, and the parents were warned that shoes having such marks were not to be taken for pawns, otherwise they would be placed and the money spent in drink. These children for whom we made it possible to get an education are grown up, and would help naturally recruit its quota of fighting men.

The Widow's Son

By Mrs. E. Southworth

"Yes," said Mr. Stukely, going off like a shaft from a bow. And the deaf-mute was sought everywhere—in the house, kitchen cellar, stables, woodshed, dog kennels, garden, orchard and home woods—but could be found nowhere.

At the end of the fruitless search for the deaf-mute, Mr. Stukely came and said:

"He is not anywhere on the premises, but I will take the note, and the doctor's gig and horse, and will go myself and fetch the assistant and the instruments."

And without waiting to find his and picking up the first hat that came to hand, Mr. Stukely rushed up first hat that came to hand, Mr. Stukely rushed out jumped into the gig, and started the doctor's sober Rosinante at a pace that nearly astonished his senses out of him.

Miss Nelly returned to the chamber of impending death, and reported to "the surgeon" in charge.

And two hours of intense anxiety passed. And then the doctor's gig was heard rattling at a furious pace up to the door.

And in a few seconds Mr. Stukely jumped up the stairs half a dozen steps at a time, and landed in the room with his incessant question:

"Will she live?"

"I do not know," answered the doctor. "Have you brought my assistant?"

"Yes."

"Send him up!"

"Tell me what you are going to do, doctor?"

"I am going to perform an operation called trepanning. It succeeds if she succeeds she will recover her consciousness, and she may live. If it fails, she will die."

"Bub-bub if there is a risk, why perform it at all?" stammered Mr. Stukely.

"Because of I do not shirk. I certainly die, and in a state of unconsciousness, also. This operation will afford her the only possible chance of life. The skill is fractured."

"Oh!" groaned Mr. Stukely. "And a portion of it presses upon the brain. If it is lifted it will certainly restore her to consciousness."

And it may save her life. If it is not lifted, as I said before, she must surely die in a few hours, and in a state of unconsciousness."

"Go on, doctor! Go on and do it, then! I will say no more! Oh, Lor oh, dear! Extraordinary!"

"I must add, that whether this lady's life is saved or not, it is very necessary to the ends of justice that her consciousness should be restored."

"All right! do as you think best! Oh, Lor! Oh, dear! Extraordinary!"

At the door he again stared on finding the man on guard.

"You here yet? Well, now, that's what I call sticking to a fellow in his trouble! Give us your hand again old boy!"

And the "old boy" gave his hand as ruffly as before, and who the growled as before about feeling like a "mean cuss of a hypocrite."

Presently the doctor's assistant, you Mr. Hare, with a case of instruments in his hand, came upstairs and entered the room.

And another hour of intense anxiety followed. At the end of this time the doctor, leaving his assistant watching over the patient, came out.

Beck, still on guard at the door, laid hold of him, stopped him, and questioned him.

"Doctor, excuse me, but I wish to ask you of the condition of your patient."

"And doctors are not accustomed sir, to express their opinion lightly to any curious gentleman that may stop to inquire," gravely replied Meadows.

"You will excuse me and give me a satisfactory answer, when I state to you my reasons for making the inquiry."

"Be quick, then, for I am in a hurry. I will. I came to this place this afternoon, sir, armed with warrant for the arrest of this lady who is your patient."

The doctor started back and gazed in astonishment at the speaker, who calmly continued:

"This warrant is based upon the charges of the very gravest nature, not necessary to specify here. The lady has been a fugitive from justice for several years, and she only lately ventured to return to the county. We have tracked her down here; and have come to arrest her. Her unfortunate son knows nothing of our errand. We have forbidden, as long as possible, to wound his feelings. Now what I wish to ask you is whether this lady can be arrested in her present state?"

"Most assuredly not! To attempt to move her in her present condition would cause her instant death."

"Then, doctor, how long is she likely to live in this state?"

"As it is an official question I will answer it professionally. She may die an hour from this moment, or she may linger for several days and die at the end of that time."

"You consider her speedy death inevitable?"

"As far as mere human foresight and medical science and experience instructs me, I do."

"Then if you will give me a certificate to that effect I will be satisfied. And that poor, simple young man need never know the purpose of my visit here."

"I will give you my certificate with pleasure. But I advise you not to leave the neighborhood just yet."

"Why, if you please, sir?"

"Because you may find work to do here still. You belong to the detective police force, I suppose."

"Yes, sir."

"Then it may concern you to know that this lady's death is not a case of accident, but of assassination."

"Assassination!" re-echoed the police man. And it was now his turn to be thunderstruck.

"Yes. But say nothing of this at present to the family. Stay where you are. I will give you all the information I possess, and also certain clues that will lead you to new discoveries. Therefore remain where you are."

"I will observe your directions in all things, sir," said the policeman.

And the doctor went downstairs onto the old drawingroom, where he found Mr. Stukely pacing distractedly up and down.

"Will she live?" reiterated Mr. Stukely—the old question.

"While there is life there is hope," replied the doctor, using the formula in such cases made and provided.

"Oh, that means there is scarcely any hope at all," said Mrs. Llewellyn's son.

"The operation was successful, in so far as it restored her consciousness. She is now sleeping. When she awakes I shall be obliged to give you my decided opinion. I have left Hare with her."

"Oh, are you not going to stay yourself?"

"No, I cannot, I have a case that I must see to-night. But I will be here early in the morning."

"Doctor, I am a poor, weak-minded man, but withal I am a God-fearing one. And now I ask you as a Christian, who appreciates the worth of an immortal soul—is it not ad-

The Way to say "No"

Mark Your Ballot with an X after Each Question under the word "No."

1	Are you in favour of the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act?	YES	NO X
2	Are you in favour of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one-hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure through Government agencies and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?	YES	NO X
3	Are you in favour of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one-hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure in local municipalities that by a majority vote favour such sale and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?	YES	NO X
4	Are you in favour of the sale of spirituous and malt liquors through Government agencies and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?	YES	NO X

Above is an exact reproduction of the Referendum ballot, showing the correct way to vote in order to sustain the Ontario Temperance Act as it stands.

Everybody should study the four questions and realize exactly what they mean. Do not be misled by the insidious demand for "light" beer.

The beer of the ballot is 118% stronger than the Ontario Temperance Act now allows, and over five times as strong as the limit allowed for beer defined as non-intoxicating in Great Britain and the United States.

Must Answer Each Question

1. Unless you vote on every question your ballot is spoiled.
2. You must mark your answer to each question with an "X" only. Anything else would spoil your ballot.
3. Unless a majority vote "No" on question 1 the bars will be removed and the sale of all kinds of intoxicants permitted.
4. Unless a majority vote "No" on questions 2, 3 and 4 the Ontario Temperance Act will become almost worthless.
5. The only SAFE course is to mark your ballot as shown above.

"No!"—Four Times—"No!"

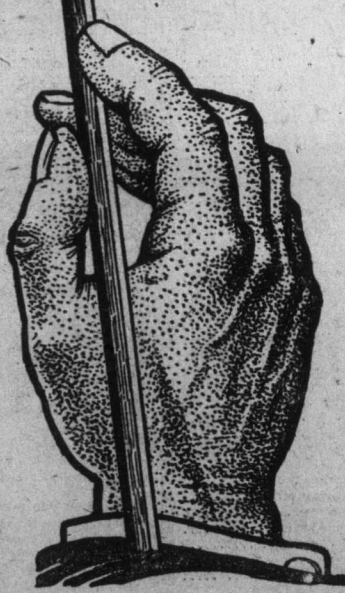

No repeal; No government beer shops; No beer saloons; No government whiskey shops.—Four X's, each under the word "No."

NOTES FROM FIELD ONTARIO POLITICS

W. J. Stevenson in London. London Liberals, at a convention in Hyman Hall last evening selected Andrew Robson, president of the London Liberals Association to contest the riding of London in their behalf at the coming provincial election.

The selection was made unanimous after repeated failure to induce Dr. W. J. Stevenson to run. To the evident disappointment of the convention he twice definitely declined the honor giving as his reason the pressure of personal affairs.

Undefeated in 21 Years, Veteran Member Leaves the Field.

Henshall, Sept. 29.—Resigning after 21 years in the Ontario Legislature Henry Eilber, M.P., to-day made his valedictory to the Conservative Association and the electors of South Huron. He was re-nominated at the Conservative convention in the town hall this afternoon, but declines to let his name stand, pleading pressure of public affairs and a long and creditable record as representative of the riding. He leaves public life with the good will of all classes and it was a matter of regret that he could not see fit to remain in the field.

Mr. Eilber, who had moved to Uxbridge Township, was given the Conservative nomination. Mr. Brewster Renominated.

St. Catharines, Sept. 29.—Mr. W. S. Brewster, M.P., was nominated to-night by the Conservatives of South Brant to contest the riding in the coming elections for the Legislature.

The names of Messrs. Brewster, R. D. Reville, A. J. H. Clement and W. N. Andrews were placed before the meeting.

The announcement of the scrutineers of the choice of Mr. Brewster was received with prolonged cheering and great enthusiasm and immediately following P. D. Reville as the losing candidate moved that it be made unanimous. This was seconded by Mrs. S. W. Scott, who had moved Mr. Reville's nomination in the first place.

ST. CLEMENTS.

Clarence J. Hirtle, who completed his High School course at St. Jerome's College, has gone to Ann Arbor to take a course in Civil Engineering.

A Campaign Against Bigamy is on in England. Bigamy is said to have increased 400 per cent during the war. Religious societies and other agencies are at work combating the evil. Mormonism is also said to be extending its tendrils as a growing devil in the empire. There is an anti-Mormon Society in London, who are trying to repress it by urging the government to aid in stamping it out. It is claimed that in one small district 400 persons, chiefly women, have been converted to the faith and sent to Utah—Exchange.

After twenty-six years of continuous service as postmaster of Deatur Ga., Mrs. K. W. Kirkpatrick has resigned the office because of the Government's age limit of 65 years. 2.51% Beer The Beer of The Ballot is Not Intoxicating

A determination as to whether or not a particular beer is intoxicating can be reached only by a proper understanding and analysis of the manner in which the alcohol in such beer affects the human organism.

Beer containing 2.51% alcohol by weight has been proven non-intoxicating by actual experiments, scientific tests, thorough research.

Fourteen specially qualified experts testifying before the United States Circuit Courts of Appeals were unanimous in agreeing that beer containing even as high as 2.75% alcohol by weight (or .24% stronger than the beer of the Referendum Ballot) was non-intoxicating.

These experts were Professors of Chemistry, Toxicology, Therapeutics, Nerve Specialists, Physical Training Instructors, Medical Doctors and Specialists in charge of city departments where alcoholics were cared for. Experiments were conducted upon twenty-four men chosen from various walks in life—medical students, laborers, mechanics, business executives, clerks in banks and brokers' offices, artists, writers and professional men.

The experiments proved conclusively that beer of 2.75% alcoholic content strength could not possibly be intoxicating—not the slightest signs of intoxication were shown by any of the subjects.

Kelly, shoe merchant, a member of the Town Council of Brookville, died after a short illness. Dr. Conant stirs his audience "Will Socialists Go to Heaven?" was the striking title of the sermon preached by Dr. Conant at the Benton St. Church Mon night. The speaker first gave a fair and unprejudiced outline of the main principle of Socialism, telling of its growth and popularity saying that it gains its strength largely because it is a serious and earnest protest against those ills which it is believed produce the fearful and increasing ills of humanity. As an economic theory, which proposes to put itself into operation through the avenue of politics, said the speaker, "the church of Jesus Christ has absolutely nothing to do with it, for it is working in another realm entirely. But the minute socialism proposes to cure the ills of humanity, it begins to operate in the moral and spiritual realm, and right there the church becomes vitally interested. "There are two main branches of Socialism," said the speaker, "one of which violently opposes the church, and the other of which proposes to ally itself with the church, and works under the name of 'Christian Socialism,' 'Social Service,' and other such names. After giving several quotations from those Socialists who oppose the church and Christianity the speaker said, "These are not harming the church nearly as much as are those who are trying to ally themselves with the church. This form of Socialism is one of the most subtle and dangerous enemies of the church today. For the purpose is for the age, and it is an impossible attempt to bring the millennium, which will never come. Christ comes to bring it. "It is also unitarian in doctrine, for one of its main tenets is the theory of the universal brotherhood of man—a doctrine all the more dangerous for the half truth that lies in it. There are two races on earth, not one. The reproducing head of one race is Adam the first. The reproducing head of the other race is Jesus Christ, and these races cannot be made to belong to the same family any more than oil and water can be able to mix. There is no universal spiritual brotherhood of man, for the only spiritual brotherhood there is is the one which heads up in Jesus Christ, and is only of those who have been born into this family. "And Socialism is impossible as a cure for the ills of humanity. For man's trouble is not external—it is sin, old fashioned every day, orthodox sin, and the only cure of sin is the blood of Jesus Christ shed on Calvary's cross. Socialism can't cure sin. An Angel from Heaven

THIS is the saddest day in the year for me," said Uncle Jonathan, knitting his bushy white eyebrows and looking with a mournful expression over the lawn and the clover field close by.

Tom and Sally knew what he meant for they had often heard the story. In fact Uncle Jonathan had talked of nothing else for a week. Every year it was the same way. Uncle Jonathan usually the best of all, would be usually very cross as well as sad, which was very distressing indeed.

"It happened so long ago," said Tom, trying to be comforting.

"Boy!" cried Uncle Jonathan, "Would you be a traitor to the cause for which your grandfather died, and died? Would you sell your name and bring shame to my gray hairs? Whose namesake are you?"

"Stonewall Jackson's," replied Tommy. "But—"

Uncle Jonathan looked at him so sternly and was so soldierly and fierce in his old gray uniform with his cap pulled down over his eyes and his sword at his side that Tommy did not dare to argue any more. But Sally said:

"Dear uncle Jonathan, we know you feel sad today but Miss Ellie says there isn't any more North and South, we're all one now. The Yankees are our friends and—"

"Friends!" cried Uncle Jonathan. "Why, child, what right had the Yankees to come tampering with our father? Didn't they ruin your grandfather, Andy? Didn't they kill our bravest and best? Ah, the graves in the lonely cemetery, and my gallant comrade sleeping there!"

Tom turned away and covered his eyes while warm-hearted little Sally's tears started too.

"Dear, dear," she said softly, putting her arms around the old soldier's neck. "It is very sad, but Miss Ellie says we must forgive—"

"What do I care what Miss Ellie says?" burst forth Uncle Jonathan, all fire again. "If an angel from Heaven should come down and tell me that the Yankees were our friends I might believe him!"

Poor Uncle Jonathan! This is the way it was every blessed Memorial Day.

"He'd go out and fight the Yankees tomorrow," whispered Tom to his sister, as they walked sadly away. "And since no angel will come down to explain and we do more harm than good by arguing with what is to be done."

He turned away and covered his eyes while warm-hearted little Sally's tears started too.

"Now, dear," she said softly, putting her arms around the old soldier's neck. "It is very sad, but Miss Ellie says we must forgive—"

"What do I care what Miss Ellie says?" burst forth Uncle Jonathan, all fire again. "If an angel from Heaven should come down and tell me that the Yankees were our friends I might believe him!"

Four Uncle Jonathan! This is the way it was every blessed Memorial Day.

"He'd go out and fight the Yankees tomorrow," whispered Tom to his sister, as they walked sadly away. "And since no angel will come down to explain and do more harm than good by arguing with him, I don't see what is to be done."

Later as Uncle Jonathan sat alone on a bench under the big tree he saw Tom canter past on the farm mule, Jeff, but he was too mutiniously to call out and ask where the boy was going.

Tom went at a hard trot into the village and stopped at Mrs. Winslow's cottage with a message from his mother, and then as he was riding home he saw a big crowd gathered in a timely field behind the First Presbyterian Church, so he rode up to find out what the excitement was all about. He was surprised to see a huge machine, with wide wings, lying in the field and standing beside it a tall young figure in a leather coat and puttees and goggles. Although he had never seen one before he knew at once that the machine was an airplane.

"He was a flier!" to Atlanta to to drop flowers on the cemetery when a gale came up and he was blown off his horse and he's out of his mind. He made a landing here," explained one of the colored boys. "Ain't dat some balloon!"

Tom pushed Jeff on until he could clearly see the strange machine and the young aviator who looked about nineteen years old but a steady, dependable, businesslike fellow as anyone could tell at a glance.

"No! the 'n boy he be," Tom heard some one say. "Been in France too a-fightin' de Germans!"

hand.

"As the angels in Heaven were rather busy I took the liberty of coming instead, sir, to tell you that we're quite now. There's no more North and South. How do I know? Well, I'm from Massachusetts myself and when I went to France I fought the Germans with boys from all over the South; they called us all Yanks there. We were all brothers!"

Uncle Jonathan sprang forward and seized the young man's hand.

"Friends, Tom, Sally—all—I see it now! It is all right just as this young angel says!" he cried. "We're all just one grand United States! Time up, boys, let's sing the 'Star Spangled Banner!'"

And sing it they did with a right good will!

And always after this Uncle Jonathan was a true American and knew neither North or South.

THE JUNIOR COOK

DANDELION GREENS

The most fun about dandelion greens is the getting of them. With a jolly crowd it is very good fun.

Cut the greens from 1 inch below the ground so some of the white will come up.

Plants that have not gone to seed are the best for eating.

Wash the greens carefully and cut off any leaves that seem old.

Cut three inch cubes of salt pork into tiny pieces.

Drop them into a deep frying pan and cook gently till brown.

Pour over them one cup water and bring to a boil.

Drop the dandelion greens into this and again bring to a boil.

Cover well and cook slowly 25 minutes.

Drain, pour into a hot dish, dot with butter and serve at once.

This is a very tasty spring dish.

MEMORIAL DAY

My teacher said that we should bring flowers Thursday for Memorial Day," said Sally.

"What will the teacher do with the flowers, then?" asked little Nell.

"They're not for the teacher, Nell, they're for Memorial Day," explained Sally. "They will be put on the soldiers' graves at the Cemetery."

"Oh, I know, it's remembering day," said Nell.

"Quite right," said mother coming into the room, "and do you know why and what we remember?"

"Do tell us, mother," pleaded Sally, so mother began:

"Many years ago after the great Civil War, when nearly every family in the Union was affected by the loss of a dear one, Memorial Day had its small beginnings in the hearts of the survivors. Every day was a Memorial Day. As time went on, mothers and sisters of the departed heroes practiced the custom of setting aside one day in the year when they would go laden down with flowers to visit the graves and decorate them with their gifts of love. The custom was not at first general. It began the day even before the war was over. The people in a town here, a village there, a hamlet elsewhere each in their own way remembered their dead. After a while the governors of different States recommended a certain day that could be observed by all, but no definite agreement was made as to a day for remembering. Finally State Legislatures were induced to get a certain day aside for this Sunday and the President and the governors recommended the observance of the same day, and so was established our present Memorial Day. The graves of soldiers all over the United States are decorated on this day. Heroic deeds and valorous actions are remembered with pride. The heart of the nation glows at the remembrance of the brave boys who died fighting for her honor."

The MAID OF ORLEANS

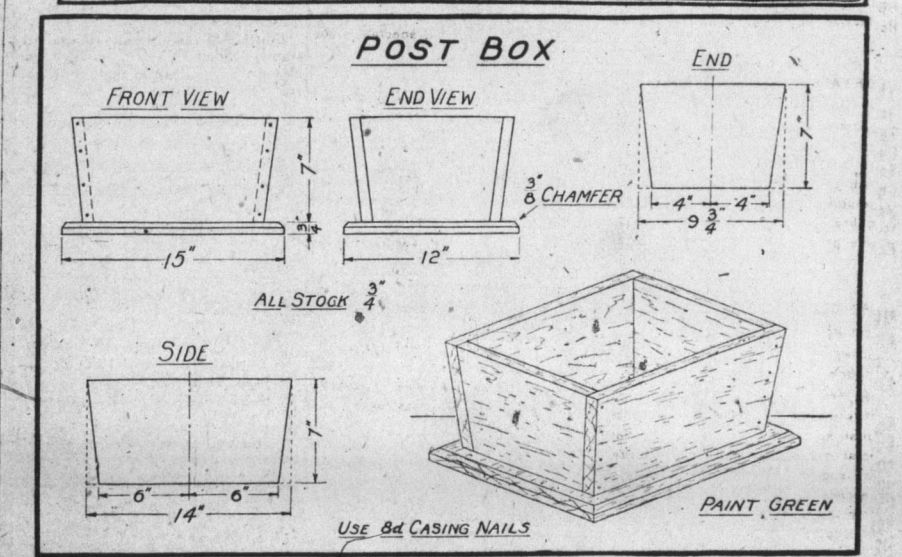

(Joan of Arc Died May 30, 1431.)

IN the little town of Domremy in France a little girl was born in the shadow of the village church. Her name was Joan, and when she grew old enough her father said to her one day: "You are old enough to help me with my work. Joan, tomorrow you can begin to take the cows and the sheep to pasture." Joan was quite delighted with this idea, and each morning she arose with the sun to take the animals out of their stalls. Her favorite resting place was the little graveyard beside the church, and there she would lie looking up at the stained glass windows, which depicted the lives of the saints, and dream her dreams. At night when her work was done she either played with her sister or helped her mother spin the cloth.

One day when she was thirteen years old, a strange thing happened to Joan. She had been sitting in the church yard watching her sheep, upon the nearby hill, when she heard some one call to her. "Joan, leave your sheep and go out from Domremy. God has chosen you to help the Crown Prince, and drive the enemies from France." Joan stood aghast. "Surely you cannot mean me," she faltered, "I am only a poor girl and know nothing of the court or the war." But the urging voices did not stop. Again and again they called to her and when she was sixteen she could refuse to listen no longer and started out to help the King as she had been bid. The journey was a dangerous one, for the enemies were trying to capture this girl who they thought was a witch. At last she reached the palace. The King doubted the powers of Joan and to test her he dressed in plain clothes and had one of the nobles take his royal robes. But Joan was aided by God and she was not to be deceived. She fell upon her knees before the real King and kissed his hand, calling him the King of France.

Joan fell upon her knees before the real King and kissed his hand.

TOYS AND USEFUL ARTICLES THAT A BOY CAN MAKE.

A SMALL plant box that can be put on a post or porch ledge is often desirable and the one shown in the drawing is a good size for this purpose.

In selecting lumber for a plant or window box the fact that the earth placed in it is going to be kept wet should be considered and some wood used that will not warp readily.

Cypress lumber is very desirable and not more expensive than the other common lumber, it will stand up well under constant exposure to moisture without warping.

For the ends cut two pieces ten inches long and plane to seven inches in width. Draw a center line and measure four inches on each side on the bottom edge and four and seven-eighths inches each side on the top edge. Connect these points with pencil lines and saw to line.

Cut two pieces fourteen inches long for the sides, reduce to width and draw center lines. On the bottom edge measure off six inches each side of the center line and connect this point with the corners on the upper edge. Saw to line and if necessary smooth the ends with a plane. As these ends are exposed they should be finished.

Fasten the sides to the ends with eight penny casing or finishing nails. Set the nails a little way below the surface with a nail set. Before painting fill the holes with putty.

Make the bottom which is twelve by fifteen inches. Plane a three-eighths inch chamfer around the top edges.

Plane off the bottom of the box so it will fit on the bottom board without leaving a crack. Nail the box and bottom together with the same size nails. Screws may be used for fastening the parts together if desired and if long screws are used they will hold the parts better than nails.

After assembling plane the top edges of the box and round over the edges nicely. Sandpaper all rough parts and paint the inside of the box with boiled oil and a little dryer well mixed.

Putty all cracks and holes and paint completed box two or more coats of dark green paint. This color is merely suggested any other color may be used.

A hole may be bored in the center of the bottom if the box is to be placed where it makes no difference where the seepage is deposited.

BARNYARD MAZE

A path enters this maze from each corner, but only one of the paths will lead you out again where you started. Find the path—trace it with a soft pencil and see what barnyard fowl you have.

Children of Many Lands

WE think it is proper and natural for baby to be taken for an outing in his pretty white coach or go-cart, but many a mother coming from a far off country would stare at the baby going thus for an airing as though it were an outlandish sight. Do you wonder what children in other lands do that would seem queer to us?

The Lapp baby's cradle is his mother's shoe. It is large and covered with animal skin, and the inside is lined with moss. When his mother goes to a party she hangs the shoe on a tree outside the house until she comes out to take it home.

The little baby in Guinea has no cradle. His mother buries him in sand up to his waist, and there he stays, while she works, safe from harm and out of mischief's way.

The baby in India takes his airing in a basket, suspended from his mother's head or hip. In some parts of the country the baby has his face covered with a veil so that he looks much like his mother.

In China the baby is taken out tied to the back of his older sister.

The Arab baby is tied in a bag and strapped onto a camel's back. He sometimes gets sea-sick when he is taking his bumpy-bumpy airing.

I think the American baby would prefer his go-cart to these methods, don't you?

A Prolonged Christmas

LAST Christmas when Old Santa brought A hoop and jumping rope, I thought it was a stupid thing And sat around to mope.

But since the winter's gone for good, And spring's sun flood the skies, I think that old Kris Kringle is Not stupid now, but wise.

For long ago I broke my doll And ate my candy cane, I've read my books a dozen times When kept indoors by rain.

There's nothing left but memory Of all my Christmas toys, Excepting for the rope and hoop, And they hold future joys.

For when I now go out to play— I bet wise Santa knew— With hoop and rope, I'm never dull For I've got lots to do.

I jump each day to school and back, My swift hoop knows no rest, And I'm a happy child this spring 'Cause Santa Claus knew best.

Upholsterers Still Out.
The Upholsterers who went on strike last Thursday are still out. Mr. Sullivan of New York, who is here in the interests of the men informed the Record today that while the manufacturers were willing to meet the men it was under the old conditions and this the men would not stand for. The men want 60c. per hour and a regular working week. A number of men have already left the Twin City and unless the strike was soon settled to the satisfaction of the strikers the trade would suffer in consequence as the men would accept the tempting offers from outside centers. Mr. Sullivan also said that he had received instructions from headquarters to fight to a finish and this he would do.

FARMER COMPLAINS ABOUT BIG BOARD

R. L. Richardson Would Give Board a Chance.
Ottawa, Sept. 30.—The Board of Commerce was again under fire from the rural members in the Commons to-night when the bill fixing their salaries was under consideration. Mr. Donald Sutherland, South Oxford, led the attack on the board.
Mr. Sutherland particularly objected to its attitude towards the dairymen. The action of the board was such as to discourage production and to drive farmers off the land. An order had been fixed in regard to the price of milk, although he understood that the order had not been received. Factories to manufacture condensed milk were being opened and the farmers were selling to them instead of making butter. He said that duties which should be performed by Parliament were being relegated to an irresponsible commission. Mr. O'Connor should go after the profiteer rather than the producer. A man who would issue the order in regard to the dairymen industry was not worth $8,000 a year.
A defender of the commission was found in R. L. Richardson, Springfield. Mr. Richardson said that there had been an outcry from end to end of the country in favor of such a commission and yet as soon as it was appointed the commission and the Government were attacked. As far as he could see the commission had struck no blow at the farming community. The farmer members were only attacking it because of their own selfishness. He particularly praised Judge Robson, who had given up a salary of $15,000 a year to serve the country. As for Mr. O'Connor, he might look halfway, but he believed he would do good work under Judge Robson's leadership. He closed with a plea to give the commission a chance.

Excellent Crowd out Last Evening

The Jitney dance and carnival, which is being held in the market music as usual was of the best and the excellent floor made the dancing one of extreme pleasure. The com-special to offer tonight, notice of which will be found in another column.

Upholsterers Still Out.

The Upholsterers who went on strike last Thursday are still out. Mr. Sullivan of New York, who is here in the interests of the men informed the Record today that while the manufacturers were willing to meet the men it was under the old conditions and this the men would not stand for. The men want 60c.
per hour and a regular working week. A number of men have already left the Twin City and unless the strike was soon settled to the satisfaction of the strikers the trade would suffer in consequence as the men would accept the tempting offers from outside centers. Mr.
Sullivan also said that he had received instructions from headquarters to fight to a finish and this he would do.

Prices in Germany.

A farmer who lives in the vicinity of Hespler recently received a letter from his brother in Germany, and in it he stated the prices they have to pay for eggs, meat, etc. Here they are: Eggs, $3.60 per dozen or 30c. a piece, butter $4.00 per lb., chickens $6.00 each, geese $12 each, an ordinary cow, $250. Pork, it was ated, was practically out of the question or unknown since the war started.
Many other articles ranged in very high prices. Comparing these with Canadian prices, they are from 5 to 10 times as high.

IN MEMORIAM

In proud and loving memory of Pte.
Jack G. Triller, of the 111th Battalion, who was killed one year ago to-day,
Oct. 1st, 1918.

"Somewhere in France" he lies at rest,
For his King and Country he did his best;
With other comrades he played his part
And did every duty with loyal heart.
Like any on the withered oak, when all the leaves else decay
My love for him will still keep green
And never fade away.

Sadly missed by Friend,
Marguerite.

All arrangements were made, and with to be one of the best of its kind ever held. Invitations are to be issued the Command of 8th Falls to Lt.-Col.

McCrimmon
Lieut.-Col. J.D. McCrimmon of London has taken over command of the 28th Perth Regiment, Stratford, from Lieut.-Col. William Lawrence, who has been commanding officer since 1912.

Five years is the normal tenure of command, but Col. Lawrence's time extended while the war was on. With his transfer to the reserve of officers the command falls to the next senior officer, Lieut.-Col. McCrimmon, who went overseas with the 33rd Battalion.

W.D. Cargill's Home Destroyed

By Fire
The beautiful residence of W.D.
Cargill, M.P.P., Cargill, was totally destroyed by fire at night. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is believed to have originated in the attic, due probably to a defective chimney. A shed adjoining the premises was also destroyed. The loss will probably exceed $50,000.

Over 20,000 in Brantford.

Brantford, despite the voluntary departure of some 800 foreigners to their native clime, has gained 1,824 in population during the past year. The population is now 30,549 and the civic assessment, $25,197,035, of which $20,962,475 is taxable. This is an increase in the total assessment of $610,370.

Assessment Commissioner A.G. Ludlow is most optimistic over the future of Brantford. He sees a 35,000 population in 1920 and by 1925 a population of close to the 50,000 mark.

In the future. He sees a $10, 000,000 increase in the assessment next year, based on the fact that Brantford is the lowest assessed city in Canada in proportion to the values.

Through increased values at the present time the growth of the city's population has outstripped the accommodation and there is at present a need for 500 new houses.

FARMER COMPLAINS

ABOUT BIG BOARD

R. L. Richardson Would Give

Board a Chance.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.-The Board of Commerce was again under fire from the rural members in the Commons to-night when the bill fixing their salaries was under consideration. Mr.
Donald Sutherland, South Oxford, led the attack on the board.

Mr. Sutherland particularly objected to its attitude towards the dairying industry. The action of the board was such as to discourage production and to drive farmers off the land. An order had been fixed in regard to the price of milk, although he understood that the order had not been rescinded.

Dairymen in North Oxford were not making butter because it was unprofitable. Factories to manufacture condensed milk were being opened and the farmers were selling to them instead of making butter. He said that duties which should be performed by Parliament were being relegated to an irresponsible commission. Mr. O'Connor should go after the professor rather than the producer. A man who would issue the order in regard to the dairying industry was not worth $8,000 a year.

DEFENDS COMMISSION.

A defender of the commission was found in R. L. Richardson, Springfield.
Mr. Richardson said that there had been an outcry from end to end of the country in favor of such a commission and yet as soon as it was appointed the commission and the Government were attacked. As far as he could see the commission had struck no blow at the farming community. The farmer members were only attacking the commission with a view to standing well with their constituency. He particularly praised Judge Robson, who had given up a salary of $15,000 a year to serve the country. As for Mr.
O'Connor he might look himself, but he believed he would do good work under Judge Robson's leadership. He closed with a plea to give the commission a chance.

BOTH MANAGERS CONFIDENT OF THE OPENING NUMBER

Cincinnati Fans Ake Odds in Betting But Supporters Hold Out For Even Money. CINCINNATI, Sept. 30.—Showers fell to-night but the weather forecast for to-morrow was for a clear, bright day with moderate temperature.

Cincinnati, Sept. 30.—At 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon one of the four umpires at Redland Field will wave his hand, the Cincinnati Reds will take their playing positions. Leibold or J. Collins, of the Chicago White Sox, will enter the batter's box, and the first of the great contests for baseball's richest prize and highest honors will begin.

Nothing but weather of the most unfavorable kind will delay the start, and when play starts the greatest throng that ever saw a ball game in Cincinnati will be assembled. Every seat at the park has been sold for the first two games, and all reserved seats for the first three games have been purchased.

Cincinnati hotels groaned to-day under the weight of baseball enthusiasts. The press of the crowd in which diamond discussions from the four corners of the country seethed.

To-morrow morning the final details for the series will be made at the National Commission meeting. The umpires will be assigned and the managers of both teams and the umpires will be acquainted with the ground rules.

While no official announcement has been made relative to ground rules it is believed the National League rules will apply for the series. The field is entirely free from obstruction in right field, a while more than three-quarters of center field is free and a long hit to certain parts of either of these can possibly result in a home run. Ground rules relative to the bleachers in left and center fields hold the runner three bases, while the ball which is fair, but rolls foul after it passes first or third bases and touches the newly erected chair seats that line left and right fields, has been considered a two-base hit.

Betting on the series was noticeable to-day for its absence. Several wagers of large amounts were offered. No takers were reported. Local fans are demanding odds, while Chicago supporters are asking even money and a deadlock appears to exist.

Teams Practice. Both teams worked out at Redland Field to-day, the Reds taking a turn in the morning and then allowing the Sox to figure on the angles of the field.

In the afternoon the White Sox were allowed full practice in order to become acquainted with the effect of the sun rays at different times during the afternoon. John Collins, the Chicago outfielder, after finishing his practice, said: "I am going out right now and make one purchase. That's a pair of sun glasses. They tell me your sun is the fiercest ever and I believe them."

As the rain bearing the champions of the American League came puffing to a halt in Grand Central depot this morning three mail clerks protruded their heads from the cars and shouted: "Hurrah for the White Sox." That was the greeting at the station, but a more vociferous one met them as they entered their hotel and they had a hard time getting to the desk and finally to their rooms so great was the push to shake their hands and greet them.

The special train carrying the Chicago team, 300 strong, is not due until to-morrow morning, but Cleveland was represented by a full delegation, and it was this crowd that helped to make the White Sox welcome at their hotel.

Managers Confident. Both Manager Gleason of the White Sox, and Manager Moran, of the Reds gave voice to their confidence that their teams would be returned not only winners of the first game but of the entire series, and both paid compliments to each other by stating that they knew they had a fight on their hands. President Haeremann, of the Cincinnati club, when asked for a prediction of the series, smiled and said:

"I have been busy trying to keep some 100,000 fans from being sore because they can't be placed where there is only room for about 33,000. I will tell you better after the series is over."

MEMBERS' FULL INDEMNITY IS ASSURED.

(Special To The Record.)

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—In spite of the fact that this was supposed to be a short, special session designed for an academic endorsement of the peace treaty, in reality it is turning into a most interesting parliament with all sorts of thrills.

Incidentally the member's full indemnity of $2500 is now assured. Yesterday was the thirty-first day of the session, which has therefore lasted long enough to provide the complete re-nomination.

HELD A CAUCUS TO-D

DIVERGENCE OF

PREMIER TO LEAVE FOR THE SOUTH TO REST

(Special To The Record.)

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—At the conclusion of this morning's caucus of government members, Sir Robert Borden proceeded to his office in the Museum and held a short council. Interviewed on his way there he replied that a "very harmonious and satisfactory caucus" was held and a statement will be given out later in the afternoon.

The caucus was of but short duration, lasting only from ten to twelve o'clock and concluding with three cheers and a tiger twice repeated. Its very brevity is evidence in itself that no definite decision was reached. The Premier's statement was comprehensive and occupied a considerable part of the time of the conference.

While no official statement has yet been given out, it is learned on good authority that further action toward the consolidation of the Union party will be postponed until next session.

The Premier Minister is not in a condition of health to permit of his embarking immediately on the difficult task of organizing the various elements. It is hoped, however, that he will recuperate fully with a couple of months' holiday and rest. In the meantime Union government will carry on as usual.

A feature of the caucus was the address on Sir George Foster. This was a veteran parliamentarian made an eloquent appeal for unity not only of political aims but for unity of purpose and ideals in meeting the tasks which

Are Taking Out Licenses.

New York, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Inspired by a confident optimism based on rumors of unknown origin, that wartime prohibition was about to be lifted, Manhattan saloon-keepers looked to the office of Deputy Excise Commissioner McNeill to-day to renew the licenses.

Up to noon more than 2,000 out of the 3,000 license holders had made renewals and Mr. McNeill expressed the opinion that this number would be considerably exceeded before the legal limit for license renewal expired to-night.

"As far as I can judge," Mr. McNeill said, "the only men who are not taking out new licenses are those who have exhausted their stocks or whose licenses have expired and who have been unable to get new licenses except for long terms. I don't know where the confidence comes from, but the belief is certainly very general that wartime prohibition is about to end."

Directors of Provincial Building and Loan Association Alleged to Have Accepted Bribe in 1902.

Toronto, Sept. 30.—Alleging that the directors of the Provincial Building and Loan Association in 1902 accepted a bribe of $30,000 to approve the purchase of the assets of the company by the new definite Dominion Permanent Loan Corporation and that this fact was not ascertained till G. T. Clarkson began his probe of the Dominion Permanent books, Kathleen A. Hancock has entered action on behalf of the shareholders of the Provincial Building and Loan Association to recover the sum of $30,000 with interest at five per cent for 17 years. Mr. Clarkson is a co-plaintiff in the action, sung as liquidator of the Dominion Permanent Loan Corporation. The action is against E. C. Davis, J. S. THIS CITY AS SEEN IN GALT

"Kitchener's population is now 21052—and still increasing at the rate of 150 a month."

Kitchener has formed a local company to build a handsome and thoroughly modern theatre at a cost of $150,000 with a seating capacity of 1700. Large subscriptions are not being asked. The stock will be spread as much as possible so as to make it a family enterprise.

There are some wild tales floating around the campus at Morgan-town to the effect that "Rat" had never seen a railroad train until he was 14 years old—and on this occasion some rascals who were in the immediate vicinity persuaded him that he must get thru a window which he tried to do. Another one—the first time he saw a collar he gnashed his teeth and had to be lassoed and tied to a dock before the shocker could be draped around his neck, or something to that effect. But it didn't interfere with his winning a captaincy in the infantry at Camp Lee, after the 1917 football season.

More power to you, "Rat".

Mrs. Alice Polk Hill, a prominent figure in Denver Club and social circles, has been appointed postmaster of Colorado by Gov. Shoup.

Kitchener's building returns for this year will go over one million dollars.

Now he is understood that The Reporter is not in a state of gloom over Galt's lagging activities. This city is doing fairly well. But Galt could do much better if we had the get-together spirit that shines in our northern neighbor.

A Grand Stand controversy doesn't exhibit this city in a very good light. It may be entertaining and afford a civic representative or two an opportunity to display some brief authority. But it is built on wrong principles and gives play to misdirected energy. From this sort of thing Galt must get away if she is to make a good second to Kitchener in the race for industrial honors.—From the Galt Reporter.

POINTED QUESTIONS TO OTTAWA GOVERNMENT INVOLVING G

MEMBERS' FULL INDEMNITY IS ASSURED.

(Special To The Record.)

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—In spite of the fact that this was supposed to be a short, special session designed for an academic endorsement of the peace treaty, in reality it is turning into a most interesting parliament with all sorts of thrills.

Incidentally the member's full indemnity of $2500 is now assured. Yesterday was the thirty-first day of the session, which has therefore lasted long enough to provide the complete re-nomination.

From now on the proceedings may be expected to run quickly to a conclusion and a finish by the 10th of the month is hoped for, although a later date is possible.

Union Government M.

HELD A CAUCUS TO-D

DIVERGENCE OF

PREMIER TO LEAVE FOR THE SOUTH TO REST

(Special To The Record.)

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—At the conclusion of this morning's caucus of government members, Sir Robert Borden proceeded to his office in the Museum and held a short council. Interviewed on his way there he replied that a "very harmonious and satisfactory caucus" was held and a statement will be given out later in the afternoon.

The caucus was of but short duration, lasting only from ten to twelve o'clock and concluding with three cheers and a tiger twice repeated. Its very brevity is evidence in itself that no definite decision was reached. The Premier's statement was comprehensive and occupied a considerable part of the time of the conference.

While no official statement has yet been given out, it is learned on good authority that further action toward the consolidation of the Union party will be postponed until next session.

The Premier Minister is not in a condition of health to permit of his embarking immediately on the difficult task of organizing the various elements. It is hoped, however, that he will recuperate fully with a couple of months' holiday and rest. In the meantime Union government will carry on as usual.

A feature of the caucus was the address on Sir George Foster. This was a veteran parliamentarian made an eloquent appeal for unity not only of political aims but for unity of purpose and ideals in meeting the tasks which

Are Taking Out Licenses.

New York, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Inspired by a confident optimism based on rumors of unknown origin, that wartime prohibition was about to be lifted, Manhattan saloon-keepers looked to the office of Deputy Excise Commissioner McNeill to-day to renew the licenses.

Up to noon more than 2,000 out of the 3,000 license holders had made renewals and Mr. McNeill expressed the opinion that this number would be considerably exceeded before the legal limit for license renewal expired to-night.

"As far as I can judge," Mr. McNeill said, "the only men who are not taking out new licenses are those who have exhausted their stocks or whose licenses have expired and who have been unable to get new licenses except for long terms. I don't know where the confidence comes from, but the belief is certainly very general that wartime prohibition is about to end."

Directors of Provincial Building and Loan Association Alleged to Have Accepted Bribe in 1902.

Toronto, Sept. 30.—Alleging that the directors of the Provincial Building and Loan Association in 1902 accepted a bribe of $30,000 to approve the purchase of the assets of the company by the new definite Dominion Permanent Loan Corporation and that this fact was not ascertained till G. T. Clarkson began his probe of the Dominion Permanent books, Kathleen A. Hancock has entered action on
