London, Wednesday, Sept. 5-4:15 a. m .- The latest dispatches from Shanghai and Tien Tsin refer to the hopeless confusion and mismanagement of the Chinese telegraph system, which may probably account in part for the delay in gettings news from Pekin. Another be allowed free communication with their governments, the full extent of the complicity of the Chinese government in the anti-foreign outrages would be revealed, and would lead the allies to decide to remain until retribution had been exacted. All telegrams have to be conveyed by courier from Tsi Nan Fu to Pekin, and probably all cipher dispatches have been stopped. Newspapers correspondents are seriously handicapped by the bad arrangement of the Chinese telegraphs. Messages have been detained and tampered with, and nothing has been safe unless mailed to Shanghai.

LI'S LATEST. According to Shanghai advices, LA Hung Chang wired the Chinese minister in London, Sir Chi Chen Lo Feng Luh, as follows: "Our St. Petersburg minister has persuaded Russia to leave Pekin. You are useless if you cannot persuade England." It is asserted that Earl Li has promised Russia three Manchuria provinces if she secures the withdrawal of the allies from Pekin and favorable peace terms from the powers. COMPLICATIONS THREATENED. The situation threatens to develop many complications. It is said that the Russians intend to take Shai Kan Wan. They have assumed complete possession of the Hsi Ku arsenal at Tien Tsin, and allow admission to none but Russians. The arsen al still contains thousands of pounds' worth of guns and ammunition. The Russians are charged with cutting the wire between this point and Pekin, and with committing various other petty annoyances.

The American Association, whose membership includes all the foremost business men at Shanghai, met today and adopted a protest against the evacuation of Pekin until a final settlement has been reached. The meeting resolved to urge President McKinley to insist upon the appointment of satisfactory commissioners and the recognition of the emperor

The empress dowager's anti-foreign frenzy in June, according to a special from Shanghai, was due to the presentation to her by Prince Tuan of an ultimatum, which is now known to have been forged, in which the powers demanded her abdication in favor of Emperor Kwang Su, the removal of the seat of government from Pekin, the placing of Chinese finances under European control and other sweeping con-

A MERE TOOL.

Proof that Emperor Kwang Su is still completely under the thumb of the empress dowager is supplied by the Shanghai correspondent of the Times, who wires: "An imperial edict, dated Aug. 19, while en route for Tai Yuen Fu, addressed to Li Hung Chang, in the Chinese in the interior and in America, have hitherto refrained from aggressive action, believing that the powers would affect the regeneration of the would affect the regeneration of the dangers of a foreign assault on Pekin the emperor felt it his duty to government. Regarding the evacuation of Pekin, says the correspondent of the Times at Tokio, the Japanese Government will pursue the course approved by the majority of the powers.

RUSSIAN BRUTALITY. The Moscow correspondent of the Standard, referring to the horrible accounts of Russian brutality at Blago vestchensk after the bombardment says: "It is reported that Cossack mercilessly butchered men, women and children in the villages on the Amur River and flung their corpses into the stream. These stories are confirmed by an official order, just issued, couch ed in a mild tone, admitting the massacres, which are described as caused by exasperation against the Chinese for beginning hostilities and threatening the utmost severity of martial law for any future violence to unarmed peaceful Chinamen, at the same time ordering the police throughout the Amur district to compel the to wnand country population to drag the Chinese corpses out of the river and bury or burn them in order to prevent an outbreak of infection." The correspondent adds: This order reads like a free warrant for the massacre of any Chinaman whom the Cossacks may provoke into a quarrel or prove to be in possession of arms

WASHINGTON VIEWS.

Washington, Sept. 4.-In view of the statement of Count Lansdorf, Russian minister of foreign affairs, in the Official Messenger, that orders already had been issued to M. De Giers and to the army to leave Pekin the statement was made at the department of state today, that no such determniation had been communicated to Washington. The war department received today a dispatch from Gen. Chaffee. A:-

of having been sent recently. Gen. Chaffee says:

"Present conditions are that hostilities have practically ceased, only occa-sional shots fired from cover. Small party repairing telegraph line and foraging. No considerable body of Chinese troops (Boxers) discovered here or along line of communication. We hear Li Hung Chang has full power, but he is not here. Will United States keep milkary force here until terms of peace are arranged? Now in China about 5,000 effectives. I think ample force for United States unless political reason, not apparent to me, demands larger force. Water falling in river rapidly, must soon haul supplies 40 miles. Satisfied railroad will not be repaired before river freezes. Chaffee." BITS OF CHINA. It is officially announced at Shanghat that Germany is about to land 450 troops there to co-operate in the protection of the city.

Hong Kong dispatches report persistent rumors of an approaching antiforeign rising, and there is much uneasiness there. Li Hung Chang's protege, Ma Kien Chung, died at Shanghai on Monday. An official dispatch from Taku announces the receipt of a telegram there from Pekin, dated Aug. 25, say-ing that the German troops had taken possession of a hill within the Imperial City. The dispatch adds that 2,000 additional Italian troops have reached Taku. H. B. Ledyard, president of the Michigan Central Railway, yesterday received a cablegram from his daughter, the Baroness Von Ketteler, widow of the German minister to China, who was murdered in the streets of Pekin. asking him to send to Yokohama for her. This is the first authentic word from her since the troubles began.

SAVED ANOTHER LIFE. Ottawa, Sept. 5 .- Louis Beauchamp. the celebrated life-saver, of Hull, added another to his list of successful rescues on Sunday, when he pulled Joseph Vachon, the 11-year-old son of R. S. Vachon, baker, Gatineau road, out of the Ottawa River. In the past fourteen years Beauchamp has made 28 rescues. Sir Wilfrid Laurier presented him with the Royal Human Society's gold medal four years ago. A NEW YORK MURDER. New York, Sept. 5 .- Martin Weldman, a lawyer's clerk, in a drunken frenzy before daybreak today, shot James Allen and John Kane; the former will Weldman had to be clubbed into unconsciousness before he would surrender to the policeman who effected his arrest. The ambulance which answered the call to take the wounded to Bellevue Hospital, was struck by a trolley car, and Alfred Stone, the driver, had his shoulder dislocated, and was sent back to the hospital. shooting took place in a Raines law

Y., Sept. 9.—The last day's session of the Republican state convention, presumed to be devoted to the nomination of state officers, was really a huge mass meeting, an opening of the state campaign and a ratification of the national and state platforms. Speeches were made by Gov-ernor Roosevelt and other leaders. This state ticket was named by acclamation: For governor, B. B. Odell, jun., of Orange; for lieutenant-gover-nor, Timothy L. Woodruff, of Kings; for secretary of state, John T. Mc-Donough, of Albany; for comptroller, Wm. J. Morgan, of Erie; for state treasurer, John P. Jaeckel, of Cayuga. for attorney-general, John C. of the seats for Middlesex, North, South and West are held by Liberals, and there is no probability of either one of them passing into the hands of the enemy. In the West, Mr. Calvert, an ex-warden of the county, is popular with men of all stripes of politics, and in the commons he is equally popular, being chosen as assistant whip for the Ontario Liberais. He is a prosperous merchant, and with the handsome majornty of 341 to rely upon the seat is regarded by both sides as safe. The Liberals, however, are not neglecting the essential to success, thorough or-

Mr. Maicolm McGugan is the representative for South Middlesex, a safe seat with a majority of 740 at the last election. In parhament Mr. McGugan does not waste the time of the house by unnecessary speeches, and upon the committee on agriculture he has done good work.

The enunusiasm with which Mr. Valentine Ratz was renominated by the Liberals of North Middlesex a few days ago, indicates his popularity. As he then remarked, North Middlesex since the gerrymander has been a rocky road tor a Liberal to travel, as it was then made "safe" for the Conservative party. He succeeded, however, in 1896 in finding the smooth road over the rocks, and is confident he has not yet forgotten the easy road. East Middiesex is popularly regarded by the Conservatives as a special preserve of their own. The growing popularity of the Liberal policy with the farming community, has, however, in this riding also materially changed the political aspect, and a determined effort will be made to secure this stronghold which since confederation has been continuously represented by a Conservative. LONDON FOR LAURIER.

The city of London has only twice since confederation been represented by a Liberal. In 1896 it went Conservative by 41 majority, but the record of the Laurier Government has been such as to inspire confidence among the business men and artisans. Major Beattle is popular, but there are several men on the Liberal side who, if common report be true, can beat him easily, and upon nomination day the Liberals intend to pit one of these gentlemen against him. In the meantime they are organizing thoroughly, and are confident that on the evening of election day they will once more carry the broom aloft. NOMINEES.

terday after a short hearing. HON. J. I. TARTE TALKS.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 4 .- The picnic held here yesterday under the auspices of the Reform Association of Sault Ste. Marie was beyond doubt the most successful affair of the kind that this famous old town has ever witnessed. Stirring addresses were delivered by Hon. Wm. Mulock, Hon. Mr. Tarte and members of the federal and local parliaments. Mr. Charles N. Smith, editor of the Sault Express, and president of the Reform Association, acted as chairman. When the Hon, J. Israel Tarte, whom the chairman introduced as the most abused man in Canada, arose to speak the vast audience rose to its feet and cheered wildly, and then Miss Laura Taillefer stepped on the platform and presented the minister with a bouquet of flowers, for which the gallant minister thanked her by kissing her on both cheeks, to the great delight of everyone. Mr. Tarte began by saying that while he had been a much abused man during his public career, he felt that he deserved a little more abuse for not having visited the "Soo" before. Without further delay, the minister started in to deliver one of his old-time blasts at his maligners. Some few months ago, when he was very sick, the Tories had wished for his death. Now they were wishing that he would resign, but he refused to resign his place In the government because they wished it. When his leader and party desired it, he would do so. The Tories had accused him of being disloyal. They had misrepresented him, but they could not accuse him of being a coward. What he had said in France he would say in Canada. He was proud of his origin, as he was also proud of being a Briton. Mr. Tarte said that he had followed Sir John Macdonald basket social in the basement of through thick and thin, but the men church this (Wednesday) evening. composing the Conservative party at the present time were not of the same stamp as those who followed the old

He predicted a great victory for the Liberals in Quebec. They would carry at least 51 of the 65 seats. In closing, Mr. Tarte publicly thanked Mr. Mulock for the service he had renderer him by looking after the work in his department while he was in Paris.

THE INDEPENDENTS. Toronto, Sept. 5 .- A meeting preliminary to the convention of political in-dependents was held in Richmond Hall last night. Mr. George Wrigley occupied the chair, and advocated the formation of a permanent independent political party. Rev. S. S. Craig urged the need of a true government founded on the Word of God, which would isted in all the large centers of popu-

Mr. C. A. Mallory, of Cobourg, representing the Patrons of Industry, and several others spoke briefly upon the business for which the convention had been called. There were about 40 people present

London, Wednesday, Sept. 5.

Sir Richard in London. Sir Richard Cartwright will address the electors of London in the London Opera House on Wednesday, Sept. 19.

"Moments of Weakness" and Vote-Getting Expedients.

The London Free Press is endeavoring to come to Sir Charles Tupper's aid by joining in the unpatriotic cry that Canada is "Quebec ruled."

Canada is no more Quebec ruled than It was in the eighteen years that it was under the control of Conservative governments. But it is necessary, we suppose, for Opposition journals to say something that they may hope to injure the Ministry, and so they are reduced to follow in the tortuous line of action mapped out by Sir Charles Tupper-with variations.

The Free Press, for example, says that the country is "Quebec ruled." For Quebec consumption, Sir Charles Tupper asked a French-Canadian Conservative journal to tell its readers that Sir Wilfrid Laurier was "too English" for him, while in Ontario the Opposition leader and his associates have been préaching that Sir Wilfrid was not English enough. It is to back up this view, no doubt that the Free Press talks of Canada being "Quebec ruled," because, on a vote for prohibition of crying, 'Give, give,' and government less than one-fourth of the electors of has been one vast system of bribes, the Dominion, it refused to regard the 'squeezes,' and wholesale robbery. Of-time as having arrived when a protime as having arrived when a prohibitory law could be enacted. In this has been mainly intent on making the view. Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues most of his bargain. Official peculahave the indorsation of such eminent tion is the curse of China, and the root friends of prohibition as Rev. Dr.

It is a somewhat novel position, let us say, for the Free Press to assumeto become the assailant of the Government because it has not placed on the statute book a prohibitory law. In times gone past, our city contemporary the empress dowager and her clique of has been known as the persistent opponent of prohibition in any shape whatsoever, and its editor has expended reams of paper and gallons of ink ment of China into the hands of honest in the endeavor to convince its readers that a prohibitory law under any and all circumstances was a wrong to the community, and that in no part of the world has it been successfully oper-

Let us suppose that the present Government had resolved to put a proin spite of the fact that the legislation was supported on a free vote by less than one-fourth of the people of Canada, would not our contemporary have been among the first to condemn the Government for so doing? Would it not have pointed to the answer given by responsible Ministers of the Crown before the voting for its justification in such condemnation? Would it not have pointed out that again and again leading Ministers and members of Parliament have assured the people that unless there was an overwhelming majority of the electorate in favor of the revolution it would not be in the best interests of temperance to enact a prohibitory law?

One can imagine how our anti-prohibition contemporary would have worked itself up to a white heat of simulated passion in denouncing the Administration for passing a law of the kind without the majority in its favor set forth by those entitled to speak for the Ministers.

The administration having adopted the course clearly foreshadowed by its members before polling day as the only wise one, political necessity now flinching battle-brunt of heroism, what moves our city contemporary to take an altogether different tack. It is probably not any more favorable to a The youngest lad, from the poorest prohibitory law than formerly, but it peasant cottage, is willing to take his cannot resist the temptation to endeavor to create trouble in the community by attempting to make believe that the country is "Quebec ruled."

The Free Press will not affirm that if a Conservative Government were given the opportunity tomorrow it would pass a prohibitory law. It knows that fires into the dense ranks, and so they Hon. George E. Foster, who was first elected as a prohibitionist, was challenged by the Hon. W. S. Fielding to say what he or his associates would do Chinese captors, because: if they were given the opportunity, in view of the clearly ascertained views of the people. But Mr. Foster, cunning politician that he is, refused to say where he now stood; he refused to tell Parliament which of the two platforms he now takes his stand on. In one of these, it will be remembered, Mr. Foster committed himself to the position that there ought to be an immediate prohibition of the liquor trafnc. That was before he took office in a Conservative Government. A few years ago Mr. Foster was made to face the demand he had formulated. He was then Finance Minister and he still professed to represent the temperance people. He said that he had made his earlier demand for prohibition "in a moment of weakness," and he was not now prepared to even aid in amending the Scott Act to make it more work-

In the last session of Parliament Mr. Foster professed to be very much shocked because of the determination of the present Government not to en- admiral. In the afternoon a reception act a prohibitory law on a favorable vote of less than one-fourth of the people. But when challenged to say which of his own two platforms he was now prepared to stand on he sat "dumb."

order that he might get back to office and enjoy some more "moments of weakness."

Our city contemporary, when it professes to believe that the country is 'Quebec ruled," because the present Government takes the only wise course open to it in regard to this matter, has the same object in view-the assistance, not of temperance reform, but of the political fortunes of Sir Charles Tupper, and the incidental advantage of the brewers and distillers,

There may be a temerance elector of Liberal proclivities who will support the Opposition on the plea so craftily brought forward by its agents, but we doubt it. Such an attitude would not show good sense.

Mr. John Foord, secretary of the American Asiatic Association, which has done such excellent work in educating American sentiment regarding the ne essity of maintaining the "open door"

China, contributes to the September number of the North American Review a strong and luminous article on "The Root of the Chinese Trouble." Mr. Foord marshals a formidable array of facts in support of his contention that the outbreak of the elements in North China was not a revolt against the advance of western civilization, but a result of the corruption, ignorance and incapacity of the government of the Empress Dowager. It served the selfish, personal interest of the rulers, who were enriching themselves by robbing the people, to oppose the foreigner, since the influence of his teaching might be fatal to their opportunity for peculation. Says Mr. Foord: "The appetite of the palace for tribute has been that of the two daughters of the horse-leech, continually matter of purchase, and the purchaser of all the evils from which it is suffering. Let that be cured or abated, and the people who starve while palace favorites grow rich can be made to see that the foreigner may be the instrument of their well-being- 'the advance agent of prosperity.' Of all the punish-ment that Western civilization can contrive, as a penalty for the misdeeds of obscurantist advisers, none would be so exquisitely painful or so productive of results in the highest degree beneficial to the world as to deliver the govern-Chinamen.'

The policy of Imperialism is one which, almost inevitably, involves occasional or even, perhaps, frequent war. Indeed, during the reign of Victoria there has scarcely been a year hibitory law on the statute book, been heard in one part or other of the British Empire. The question arises therefore-and it is answered in the negative by not a few-is Imperialism tianity and with the teachings of the gospel of peace? In the September number of the North American Review the Very Rev. F. W. Farrar, dean of Canterbury, contends that, provided the cause be just, there are times when war is not only defensible but a positive duty. The world being what it is, the suppression of all appeals to the decision of the sword would mean the certain triumph of robbery, oppression, greed and injustice. The necessity of armed conflict in the settlement of serious national differences, is recognized throughout the Scriptures, and while the Saviour never forbade war, he sometimes took his metaphors from it. Moreover, it tends in a high degree to the ennoblement of individual character, and in all ages some of the most saintly men have been found among professional soldiers. Dean Farrar says:

"There has scarcely been any war in which some of the finest elements of virtue have not been educed. What splendor of self-sacrifice, what unsense of the absolute supremacy of duty does war call forth, even in the humblest and most ignorant soldiers! life in his hand and sacrifice it, without a murmur, for his queen and his country and his home. 'Though he knows,' said Kossuth, 'that the glory of the victory will rest with the great leaders, and that where he falls there he will lie, unhonored and unsung, yet such soldiers will charge unflinchingly on the batteries which vomit their cross die by thousands, those unknown demi-We know Sir Francis Doyle's famous lines on the 'Private of the Buffs,' who would not kowtow to his

INTERNATIONAL COURTESIES. Bar Harbor, Me., Sept. 5 .- There was a splendid naval display here yesterday, when five British warships steamed into the inner harbor and fired a national salute, which was returned by the U. S. S. New York. The British ships were H. M. S. Crescent, flying the flag of Vice-Admiral Bedford; the Psyche, Tribune, Indefatigable, and the torpedo boat destroyer Quail. After the exchange of salutes, Rear Admiral Farquhar, with his staff, made a formal visit to Vice-Admiral Bedford on the Crescent, and at its conclusion a return call was made by the British officers, headed by their vicewas given to the officers of both

THE CAMPAIGN

War in South Africa Believed to Be Practically Over, Though Sharp Engagements Are of Frequent Occurrence-The Enemy Scattering.

New York, Sept. 5 .- The London correspondence of the Tribune says Lord Roberts' annexation of the Transvaal is generally regarded as proof that in the opinion of the military authorities both at home and in South Africa the war is practically over. The stock exchange takes this view. The effect of the proclamation will cause Transvaal burghers now in arms to be treated as rebels, and forfeit belligerent rights. It is hoped that by this means the hopelessness of further resistance will be speedily brought home to the Boers; but the experince of the Orange River Colony is not altogether encouraging.

London, Sept. 4 .- Lord Roberts reports from Belfast that Plumer engaged the Boers at Rooi Kop and captured 100 rifles, 70,000 rounds of ammunition, 350 cattle, three wagons and seven prisoners. Plumer's loss was seven wounded.

Lord Roberts also reports that a part of Gen. Dewet's force, which has been so active around Johannesburg, was scattered after a sharp fight on Aug. 29. The British lost three killed and six wounded.

The field marshal sends word that a mounted column marched from Zeerust to Krugersdorp, which is in the disaffected district, and inflicted severe punishment upon the Boers. The British loss, unofficial figures, is 60 killed and wounded.

Buller reports that he engaged the Boers under Botha, near Lydenburg, yesterday, and that the enemy's fire was heavy. It is reported at Pretoria that Gen. Delarey, the Boer commander, died of wounds received at Eland's River. THE ELUSIVE BOERS. Johannesburg, Aug. 31.—The North Staffordshire and East Lancashire Regiments, with 300 irregular troops, went to the south and west today in an ef-fort to corral Commandant Theron, but he eluded them in the fog, after a skirmish, in which the British lost four kiled and several wounded. One Boer was killed and two were captured. Lorenzo Marquez, Sept. 3.—Officers in charge of the wounded report that ex-Presidents Kruger and Steyn were at Nelspruit yesterday in a railway saloon carriage, which was coupled to vans covered with large Red Cross hoods to prevent the train from being fired on.

THE HOSPITALS. London, Sept. 5 .- A dispatch Cape Town says that at the monthly meeting of the Good Hope Society, Sir John Furley, chief commissioner of the Red Cross Society, stated that he had visited the hospitals at Pretoria, Johannesburg and other centers of operations. He had found arrangements for the care of patients excellent and hospital supplies abundant. He spoke in glowing terms of the work of John Fusiliers, G Company, at one the London central committee, which he hoped would become a permanent organization, and result in the co-operation between civil and military hos-pital systems. The strain of war was now practically over, and there was no further need for public aid, although private assistance was still welcome.

BRIDGE RESTORED. The great Vaal River valley bridge at Vereeniging, which was dynamited by the Boers last May, has been completely restored. The first train crossed yesterday. The task was cleverly completed in six weeks by the railway pioneer corps.

LIEUT. LAWLOR KILLED. Toronto, Ont., Sept. 4 .- This afternoon a cablegram was received by Mr. J. J. Foy, Q.C., guardian of Lieut. John Lawlor, of the Inniskilling Dragoons, announcing that he had been killed in action in South Africa. Lieut. Lawlor was a gallant young officer, the son of the late Dr. Michael Lawlor, of this city, and was born in Toronto in 1874. About ten years ago the family removed to England where young Lawlor was educated for the army. He got his commission in 1898, and went to South Africa with the Inniskillings on the outbreak of the war. He was with Gen. French in the pursuit of Cronie, and in most of the cavalry affairs of the campaign. Lieut. Lawlor was the owner of the most valuable block of land in Toronto—that at the northwest corner of King and

EIGHT-HOUR DAY D New

Chicago Woodworkers Will Strike Rather Than Labor Nine Hours.

Skaguay printers have formed a nion with seventeen members, the union with first in Alaska. The Canadian Trackmen's Union held their annual meeting in Montreal. They are considering the rate of wages paid by the different railways, but it is not known yet whether they will ask an increase of wages.

Messrs. O'Connell and J. A. M. Aikins, Q.C., the C. P. R. strike arbitrators at Winnipeg, had a meeting to choose a third arbitrator, but failed to come to any agreement. It was therefore decided to notify Chief Justice Killam, and his lordship will probably appoint the third arbitrator at once. REDUCED WAGES.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 4.-Three mills owned by the American Steel and Wire Company in this city, which were clos-ed down June 1, resumed operations today, giving employment to between 500 and 600 men. It is stated by the employes that there has been a general cut in wages, amounting in some cases to as high as 23 per cent, and also that the hours of labo rhave been increased. Local officials of the comcany refuse to deny or confirm this

STRIKE IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Sept. 4 .- One thousand members of the Amalgamated Wood Work-ers' Union refused to go to work today because of the expressed determination of the manufacturers to return to the nine-hour working day. As a result 37 shops out of a total of 49 are idle, the other twelve having signed the eight-hour agreement. Any attempt to employ non-union men, according to the woodworkers' officers, will be fol-lowed by sympathetic strikes of the engineers of the factories.

· OVERTIME. To the Editor of The Globe:

Whether paid for or not paid for, overtime work is a social evil. As to un-paid extra work, this is a disguised form of robbery. A workingman's only capital is his labor. There are legal or customary hours of work, for which he receives his stipulated wage. An employer might as well pick his employe's pocket as take from him overtime work without additional remuneration. may be said that the employe consents to the arrangement — he consents for the same reason that the traveler hands his purse to the highway robber. He is afraid not to do so. Certain trades are so well organized that there is very little of this unpaid work, but from bank clerk to charweman it may be found. It is usually unskilled labor that suffers most. What a satire on our Christianity! Employers take advantage of those lowest down in the social scale, wao from necessity dare not say "No." I heard of a Christian lady who offered a charwoman a half-day's pay for a whole day's work because the woman had been for some time without getting anything to do. "Thou shalt not steal." As to paid overtime work, even though this is well paid for, it is a social evil. Workmen often gladly consent to this, but it is a short-sighted rolicy. They rob themselves of time needed for rest and recreation-physical and mental. They brutalize their lives by becoming mere toiling and sleeping machines. Not only this. Overtime work tends inevitably to reduce the rate of wages. In the long run employers will only pay the lowest wages for which operatives of requisite ability are willing to work; in other words, what it costs them to live. If men by working overtime can make handsome wages, others will soon be found to do the work for less. In some lines of business overtime work seems to be almost necessary, but people would soon learn to allow more time in sending in their orders if employers would only resolutely refuse to encroach upon their employes' time for rest and recreation. In connection with railroads and street railways, where men occupy positions of great responsibility, overtime work ought to be forbidden by law. I know of one overworked locomotive engineer who saw the signal set against him, put out his hand to shut off steam and fell asleep with his hand resting on the throttle-valve, to be awakened only by the awful crash. To allow a motorman to continue overtime driving a street car at a high rate of spee! through a crowded street is simply criminal. There is a danger of selfish greed among workmen as well as among employers. By consenting to work overtime they help to keep others cut of employment. I trust that the day is coming when Christian principles will lead employers and employed to co-operate to abolish this evil of overtime work.

BALLOTING FOR A BISHOP. Kingston, Ont., Sept. 5. - Several ballots were taken at the Synod of Ontario for coadjutor bishop yesterday. Rev. Prof. Roper, New York, has a majority of the clergy, and Rev. Prof. Worrell a majority of the laity. Each order gives their choice sufficient for election, but no election can occur until one candidate has a majority of both orders. The clergy and laity went into conference to seek a satisfactory conclusion. At midnight the synod decided to adjourn the conferences, having failed in reaching any agreement. The clergy submitted the names of the Bishop of Algoma, Archdeacon Mills and Rev. Chas. Brant, but the laity decided to stand by Prof. Worrell.

TWO BIG DAYS

At the Toronto Exposition-50,000 and 40,000 Attended on Monday and Tuesday.

Toronto, Aug. 5.-Labor Day at the fair was a huge success, in spite of the occasional frown of the weather The big parade of the allied labor organizations had just entered the grounds when a brisk shower struck them and scattered them to sheltered corners. Happily, the rain was soon over and then one had a chance to estimate the numbers of the crowd. The paid attendance at the fair was the largest of the year, and away beyond the same day last year. Before the gates opened 25,000 tickets had been sold by labor organizations, and before the day closed it is estimated that 50 .-000 persons were admitted to the grounds. Yesterday, Germania Day, at the Industrial Exhibition was delightful weather, and under the auspices of all the local Germania societhe citizens from Germany Canada and the border States, the day drew large crowds to the fair all day long. The presence of the Hon. Sidney Fisher, minister of agriculture, gave a tone to the day. He was shown about the grounds by ex-Ald. Score, F. W. Hodson and John I. Hobson, while politicians and persons of less degree join-in the parade of inspection. The attendance was not so large as that on Labor Day, but it is estimated that fully 40,000 persons paid for admission. At night the grand stand was comfortably filled. Every department of the fair was in working order. The parades of cattle and horses in the rings were interesting sights. This is what visible writing has done for this wonderful machine, which has been long enough on the market to prove its good quali-

Amusements.

AIDEN BENEDICT'S "QUO VADIS." "Quo Vadis," described as the most powerful and convincing of all religious plays, will be presented at the London Opera House tomorrow, Friday and Saturday. It will be the first time that our citizens have had the opportunity to witness the scenes and story of the famous novel on the stage, and the result will be watched with considerable interest. Readers of Sienkiewicz's great romance will know that there are many difficulties in the way of satisfactorily producing many of the stirring results, but it is said that the problems have been worked out by the dramatist, Mr. Charles W. Chase, with the most wonderful skill, the interest never being allowed to flag from the rise to the final fall of the curtain. The company is excellent and wellbalanced, the costumes, scenery and effects are historically correct.

MR. HAMILTON'S LECTURE. Everyone should hear Frederic Hamilton, the noted war correspondent, tell of the Canadians and their work in connection with the surrender of Cronje, at the opera house, Sept. 18. Mr. Hamilton's lecture is being eagerly looked forward to, the subscription lists are being rapidly filled, and citizens desirous of hearing him and viewing the battlefields of South Africa through his camera, will do well to put their names down at once. There s a great demand, and the lists will be closed when the capacity of the house is reached.

A Small Boy Was Fined $100-Only

Ten Years Old. [New York World.]

Crying his heart out in the county jail at Morris, Ill., during the past week, lay a little lad three months over ten years of age. He is little Paul Stifka of Central

City, and he was fined $100 and costs for the boyish prank of raiding an apple orchard. A woman brought the charge against the child and his companions, and a village police magistrate placed the fine, sending him to the jail in Morris in default of payment. Citizens of Morris were outraged at the unheard of severity of the sentence, and immediately took steps leading to the little fellow's release. Paul lives accross the road from Mrs. Charles Anderson, at Central City, Ill., and with a number of other boys entered her orchard and took some green apples. Mrs. Anderson, who is a widow, went before Police Magistrate Morgan and swore out a State's warrant for the boys. The magistrae turned the warrant over to Edward Barron, the village constable. The officer soon had the boys under arrest, who, with wonderment written over their childish faces, were arraigned before Magistrate Morgan. official asked the boys their names and their ages. They were given without the least hesitancy, and showed that Paul Stifka was the only one over ten years of age, and he only three months. The magistrate discharged all prisoners but Paul, and, turning to him, asked him if he had been in Mrs. Anderson's apple orchard. The boy replied in the Bohemian language, for he can scarcely speak English, that he and the other boys took some apples.

The legal dignitary told the lad that he would fine him $100 and costs for the offense. The boy's father was off at work in the coal mine, but the mother was present, and when the import of the proceedings was made known to her she nearly fainted away. Constable Barron took the boy to the village calaboose and locked him up. All through the night the child cried for his mother. After the trial some friends told the poor woman that she would have to raise the money, as the magistrate informed them that the boy had to either pay the fine or serve it out in the county jail. He telephoned to Morris for Deputy Sheriff Francis to come over the next morning and "get the prisoner." The grief-stricken mother, in a halffrantic condition, went all over the village begging for the money to pay the magistrate, so that the boy would be | dangerous character.

the father at the coal mine and he left his work. With tears streaming down his cheeks, he joined his wife in trying to beg the required amount. Being used to old country ways, it could not be made plain to them that perhaps their son would be home in about a month, even if the money was not paid. The residents talked of holding a public meeting in protest against the severity of the sentence. After the grief-stricken parents and two little

The directorate is jubliant over the outlook for a vastly successful year. It is said about the fair eclipsing all previous ones, but this year the facts literally uphold this statement. The prospects are of an exceedingly gratifying character. Applications for space in the main building, which is being prtttily decorated with flags and bunting, have come in in a steady stream for the past few days, and necessarily some of them had to be rejected.

The great claim of the Western and one that has always been recognized as just, is that it is pre-eminently an agricultural show. In the quality of its exhibits in this respect it stands unsurpassed.

The management is particularly leased with the receipts of live stock entries. All the increased accommodation will be taxed to the utmost to house the hundreds of pure-bred animals that will be exhibited. The horse department is another in which the entries far exceed any other year. Some doubt as to the exhibit of implements and machinery has been occasioned by reports of certain com- THE W. C. T. There was a quiet but pretty wedding at No. 554 Adelaide street last evening. The principals were Miss Ada Grimshaw, step-daughter of Mr. Harry Culver, of the Globe Casket Company, and Mr. Harry Palmer, of Detroit. Rev. The bride was beautifully attired in golden taffeta silk, with lace and sequin trimmings, wearing a veil with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white roses; her attendants were her sister, Miss Lillie Grimshaw, and a sister of the groom, Miss Eva Palmer. Both of the latter were tastefully gowned in white organdie, trimmed with baby ribbon and valenciennes lace; their bouquets were of white carnations. The groom was ably supported by Mr. Henry Terry, jun., of this city. After the ceremony a dainty repast was partaken of by the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. Palms, ferns and flowers were used to good effect in the decorations, which were artistically arranged. Among the many handsome and useful presents, showing the high esteem in which the young couple are held, was a valuable pudding dish from the Daughters of Rebekah. London, Sept. 5. - No official promouncement is yet forthcoming here in regard to the decision of the powers, but the concensus of opinion continues suggestive of a compromise on the proposals now under consideration. In the meanwhile there is little authoritative indication that the dowager empress is ready to treat for peace, even if the allied powers reach an agreement in regard to the best means of opening negotiations. On the contrary many rumors gathered at Shanghai suggest that she is carrying on her anti-foreign policy with increased zeal. The latest reported imperial decree from Tai Yuan Fu is said to be defiant and unrepentant, and to contain the statement that the court fled lest the emperor might be killed during the fighting between the Boxers and Christians and thus leave no one to continue the "ancestral worship." The decree is also said to exhort a union of the viceroys to 'avenge the injuries inflicted on China by the powers."

"Mademoiselle is faint-drink this." he said, kindly.

She was only too glad of something to brace her trembling nerves, and accepted it gratefully.

The count offered another to Anett, but the girl modestly declined it, and, at that moment there came another tap upon the door.

Count Lorrain answered it, and, after a moment, came back to Margaret, saying that a carriage was waiting for her, whenever she felt able to return home.

She at once arose, replaced her hat and drew her veil closely about her face. She remembered that she had been told the house was owned by half a dozen gentlemen, and she feared to meet others whom she knew.

Count Lorrain offered her his arm and led her out by the main entrance, the one by which she had entered being a private one, at the rear of the They passed through a magnificent hall and vestibule, down a flight of marble stains to a carriage drawn by two superb black horses. Just as she was passing out some one was coming down the stairs. The step was familiar, and her heart sank like lead, as all at once the individual stopped midway, and turned to address some one above; for she recognized the voice as that of Arthur Aspinwall.

She grasped the arm upon which she was leaning almost convulsively. What would he think to find her there?

"Do not fear," the count murmured, and without allowing her to increase her speed in the least, he led her quietly out, and put her into the carriage, while she saw Arthur pass the door and enter the room she had just left. 'What an escape,' she breathed, in

"Yes, it was fortunate," said her companion, in a low voice, then he added, with delicate forethought: "Perhaps mademoiselle would prefer to return alone with her maid?

'Thanks; yes, if you please," she answered, feeling that she would be glad to be alone after her recent

"She can feel perfectly safe," he added, in the same subdued tone; "for this is my own carriage and my own driver, and nothing can happen to her. I sincerely regret the annoyance of this evening, and trust that Mademoiselle Houghton will not judge all men villains because she has been badly used

'No, no, Count Lorrain; you have been most noble-most kind. I shall always esteem you as a friend," Margaret said earnestly, as she extended her hand to him.

He took it respectfully. "Thanks," he said, in a voice that trembled; then added: "May I have the honor of calling upon you soon, mademoiselle?"

"I shall be happy to see you by the end of another week, Count Lorrain; then I hope I shall be able to explain to you more fully why I was abroad tonight unattended, except by my maid, and in this disguise." "I doubt not there was a good reason; but in Paris it is impossible for so fair a face to escape observation. I-I hope it will not be necessary for you venture forth in the same way again," he concluded, anxiously. "Indeed, I shall not venture; I shall never subject myself to a second adventure of that kind," Margaret said, with decision, and inwardly resolving that she would go boldly to Louis in the open day; she never could go through again what she had endured

"You greatly relieve my mind, Mademoiselle Houghton; and now adieu." The count lifted his hat and bowed; then shut the carriage door, spoke a few words to his coachman, and the two weary, but grateful girls were driven away to their home.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Margaret and Annette reached home in safety, and, having a key to the night-latch, they let themselves in without attracting attention.

Margaret had just removed her humble attire, donned a white wrapper, and, with a crimson shawl thrown about her shoulders, was sitting before the grate in her own room, Annette brushing her abundant hair, when she heard her father and mother

Mrs. Houghton soon after came in, as was her custom, before retiring, to see if her daughter was comfortable, but she stopped involuntary upon the threshold, as if struck by something unusual in her appearance.

Annette had just gathered up those masses of shimmering gold into a graceful knot at the back of her small ead, but a few fluffy stray locks, like finely spun sunshine, fell over her fair white brow; her eyes seemed more deeply, darkly blue than usual; there was a flush upon her cheeks, her lips were a vivid scarlet, while a smile, that made the heart of her mother thrill with sudden joy, trembled among their beautiful curves.

"Margie," Mrs. Houghton said, coming forward and laying her hand upon her shoulder, bent down to look more closely into her face, "how well you are looking tonight. Is it the glow of the firelight, or because the crimson shawl s so becoming to you?"

"Perhaps it may be the effect of both, mamma," the young girl answered lightly, while she lifted her mother's hand from her shoulder and laid it fondly against her cheek.

How she longed to tell her of the new joy that was beating in her heart; of the glad hope that seemed all at once to have given her renewed life and strength; but no, she would keep it to herself till her own and Louis' triumph was complete.

"Did you have a pleasant time this evening?' she asked, after a moment

"It would have been delightful, dear, if you could have enjoyed it with me," Mrs. Houghton said tenderly. "It was one of the most brilliant receptions I have ever attended in Paris: and, by the way, I learned some news that I tnink will interest you."
"Some news, mamma?" Margaret re-

"Yes; you doubtless remember that young and handsome Monsieur Perrine, who was so attentive to Ada for a while-what is the matter, dear?" Mrs. Houghton exclaimed, stopping short in the middle of her news, for Margaret had started violently at the sound of that name, while both comb and brush which Annette was preparing to put away fell clattering upon the marble hearth at her feet.

"Why, Annette, what a noise," Margaret said, making that an excuse for the shock she had received.

"I am very sorry, mademoiselle," humbly said the girl. "Well, never mind-of coure I know you did not mean to be careless," Margaret returned, giving her a kind and significant look. "Now, mamma, go on with your story, please," she continued, turning again to her mother. 'It is reported that an uncle of his has just died, and young Perrine, being his nearest of kin, inherits his title and immense wealth; and you know he is considered very wealthy himself." "A title, did you say, mamma?" "Yes; he becomes now the Marquis of Perrine. It would be singular if our dear Ada should eventually become a titled French lady, would it not?"

"I do not know; it is not an infrequent occurrence for Americans to come abroad and marry among the nobility," Margaret answered, but she looked very grave.

She knew that Ada had greatly admired the gay, handsome young man, though she believed that her love was given to her cousin, Arthur Aspinwall. Still, if it should be proved that Arthur was a criminal, she did not believe that she would ever marry him, even if he should finally turn to her for affection and sympathy; and thus it might be possible that the young French marquis would seek her and succeed in winning her; but she was not sure she should like to see her the wife of such a man-she could not tell whether the repentance he had expressed to her that night would be last-

Of course, she betrayed none of these reflections to her mother, who, after chatting a few minutes longer upon that and other topics, bade her daughter a fond good-night and returned to her own room.

The next morning Margaret surprised her mother by coming down stairs attired for a walk; and wonder of wonders! she had discarded her somber black and appeared in a lovely suit of dark blue velvet, richly trimmed with fur, and a dainty hat of the same material, adorned with a beautiful bird of Paradise!

'Why, Margie! you did not tell me that you were going out!" Mrs. Houghton remarked.

"No. mamma: but I have taken a sudden notion that I will be very industrious. I am going out to match some flosses and try to finish that mantel-lambrequin which I began so

THE PLAGUE

Not Likely to Find Its Way Into Canada.

Ottawa, Sept. 5. - Dr. Robilliard, medical health officer, was asked if he thought there was any possibility of the bubonic plague reaching Ottawa. "I do not think so," he replied. "It generally breaks out in seaport towns James Bradley, Amberley, Huron and is carried across the water in ocean ships. It infests particularly the regions about docks, and is apt to spread very rapidly after a rainy season. The plague first affected the lymphatic glands, or the throat, and then the whole body. I do not think, with the precautions being taken at the quarantine stations, there is any great danger of it reaching Canada, and particularly Ottawa. If it should break out here, the proper course would be to isolate it at once.'

New York, Sept. 5. - The steamer State of Nebraska from Glasgow was released from quarantine yesterday and allowed to go to her dock after a thorough examination for signs of bubonic plague. A Rearrangement of Some City School Principalships tates Changes-A New Collegiate Institute Teacher Appointed. During last night's meeting of the board of education an interested group of city teachers sat on the edges of the spectators' seats, with their elbows on their knees, and their chins in the palms of their hands. Whenever they do that there are going to be promotions and changes in salaries. When the chaff of quibbling had blown away and the few grains of results were apparent, some of those palmsupports of others were being utilized in the tell-tale occupation of gripping the glad hand of congratulating friends. It all came about through the acceptance of a city principal's resignation, and the consequent rearrangement of positions. Principal B. L. Bryant, of the Princess avenue school, who intends to practice medicine in Detroit, tendered his resignation. It was accepted. Two months' leave of absence was granted to Miss Annie Callard, whose health will not permit her to resume her duties on the teaching staff. No. 1 committee will consider L. Skinner's and H. E. Lawson's re--Sarnia Observer: Joe Day and quests for remission of examination
