MILLION MAJORITY FOR ONT. 'DRYS'

HARTLEY H. DEWART, LIBERAL LEADER IN ONTARIO, LIKELY TO BE CALLED ON TO FORM GOVT.

United Farmers Are Expected To Decide This Afternoon On Leader — Lieutenant-Governor Intimates He May Call Dewart—Sir Adam Beck May Be Selected To Lead the U. F. O.

NO DECISION YET.

Toronto, Oct. 22.—Sir William Hearst and his colleagues of the Ontario Conservative cabinet were in session all morning in regard to the situation arising from the elections in Montreal. On adjourning for luncheon, the statement was given out that no decision had been arrived at and the conference would be resumed this afternoon.

Toronto, Oct. 22.—That Hartley Dewart, leader of the Liberals in the new Ontario Legislature, will be called upon to form a provincial government, but that Hon. Adam Beck, defeated Independent Conservative in London, and chairman of the provincial hydro commission, will be the next premier of Ontario—this seems to be the most popular opinion here today among fairly well-informed people discussing the much-mixed political situation in this province.

This is assuming that Sir William Hearst, whose Government was defeated on Monday, and who is meeting with his cabinet today, decides to hand in the resignation of himself and ministers to the lieutenant-governor, Sir John Hendrie. This action is naturally expected, as the position of the Government has grown worse in the matter of supporters during the last twenty-four hours, by the news of the reversal in South Grey, where it is now conceded that Hon. Dr. Jamieson, speaker in the last House, has been defeated by G. M. Leeson, United Farmers' candidate, according to completed figures. This gives the U. F. O. 45 straight members in the House of 111 seats, and if they combine with the Labor delegation of 11 members, and the one soldier and one Independent Liberal, the farmers' coalition would have a majority of five over all others in the House.

Likely to Call Dewart.

However, it is conceded generally today that the lieutenant-governor, constitutionally, would have the right to call on Hartley Dewart, the leader of the last "official" Opposition in the House, to form a new Government, although his Liberal following in the newly-elected House is second to the U. F. O. in numbers.

In an interview today Sir John Hendrie, lieutenant-governor, in reply to criticisms by Mr. Dewart in reference to a statement made by Sir John yesterday, said: "Why should Mr. Dewart think he is not the man I will call on to form a Government?" The Government has to be carried on, however, by somebody at present outside the elected House, if he cannot be found among the already elected members."

Unless Mr. Dewart can form a coalition, the lieutenant-governor will then probably call on the leader of the United Farmers, and it would be no surprise to many people if the farmers at their convention here this afternoon chose as their leader Sir Adam Beck.

Making Decision Today.

The situation regarding the U. F. O., so far as could be gathered from conservation with U. F. O. delegates before they met today in convention, seemed to favor the creation of a coalition government, with the U. F. O. in control, under a strong leader to be chosen probably this afternoon. Leaders of the farmers today stated that conference had been held with Sir Adam Beck on the subject, and their report was to be made to the convention this afternoon.

PLANS UNDER WAY TO TRY EX-EMPEROR

Bonar Law Makes Announcement in the House of Commons.

ALL MUST SIGN TREATY

Before Holland Will Be Asked To Surrender Arch-Criminal.

London, Oct. 22.—All necessary preparations for the trial of former Emperor William are being made, it was announced in the House of Commons today by Mr. Bonar Law, the Government leader. The request to the Netherlands Government for the surrender of the ex-emperor, he explained, could not be made until all the powers had signed the peace treaty.

FIRST LORD OF THE ADMIRALTY CALLED AS HOUSE RESUMES

Walter Hume Long Asked To Explain Situation in the Baltic.

London, Oct. 22.—Parliament resumed its sessions today, the House of Commons meeting at 2:15 o'clock, when Walter Hume Long, the first lord of the admiralty, was immediately called upon to answer a series of questions concerning the Baltic situation. Mr. Long replied with considerable force to the inquiries. British ships were in the Baltic, he said, but he was without information as to the reports that they had been in action.

Approximately £37,000,000 have been paid out by the Government in out-of-work doles since the armistice last November, Sir Robert Horne, the minister of labor, told the House. Former service men to the number of 275,000 are still receiving such payments. Austen Chamberlain, the chancellor of the exchequer, said that documents would be laid before the House on Monday, showing the economies that had been effected by the Government, and giving the revised estimates. The premier, Mr. Chamberlain said, would announce later the date for debate on these matters.

Mr. Lloyd George, addressing the House on this question, shortly afterwards, said the financial discussion would take place as soon as Mr. Chamberlain's papers were ready.

The actual strength of the British army, at present 750,000 men, will be reduced in the course of the coming financial year approximately to the pre-war standard, it was announced to the House by Winston Churchill, the secretary for war.

Fifty-five thousand troops are stationed in Ireland, Mr. Churchill stated. Secretary Churchill said the army appropriations for the next financial year would be only one-fifth the amount of the present expenditure. Sir Auckland Geddes informed the House that among the Government contracts placed abroad since the armistice was one with Germany for potash, the amount of the contract being 750,000 pounds sterling.

Welcome To Our Soldier Prince

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS, EDWARD, PRINCE OF WALES.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME TO BE READ TO PRINCE TODAY

Former visits of members of the royal family will be recalled, and the stronger bonds of union established by the great war, and expression of the devotion and loyalty of the citizens, will be included in the address which Mayor C. R. Somerville will present to His Royal Highness, Edward, Prince of Wales, in Victoria Park today.

The full text of the address is as follows:

To His Royal Highness, Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David, Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester, in the Peerage of the United Kingdom; Duke of Cornwall, in the Peerage of England; Duke of Rothesay, Earl of Carrick, and Baron of Renfrew, in the Peerage of Scotland; Lord of the Isles and Great Stewart of Scotland, K. G., G. M. M. G., M. C., etc., etc.:

May It Please Your Royal Highness:

The citizens of London have been honored on other occasions by visits from members of the royal family. In 1860 we were favored by the visit of His Majesty King Edward VII., at that time Prince of Wales. In 1901 we were honored by the presence of His Majesty King George V. and his royal consort, then Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, and now we delight to extend a no less loyal welcome to your royal highness. We rejoice to receive you as our guest because of our love for the motherland, our devotion to the crown and person of His Majesty King George, and our admiration for the splendid part played by your royal highness at the front during the great war. You have proved yourself faithful to the best traditions of your royal house.

Notwithstanding its unspeakable horrors, the great war has brought to the people of our Empire a new determination to stand fast unitedly upon the eternal principles of liberty, truth and justice, for which during the last five years we have poured out our treasure and our blood. The sons of Canada have stood side by side with the heroes of the motherland and the overseas dominions in the titanic struggle against a common foe.

The awful days of storm and stress through which we have passed, and which have shaken to their foundations the oldest institutions in the world, have only served to establish more firmly upon his throne and in the affections of his people His Gracious Majesty King George V., the greatest constitutional monarch in the world today. We have every confidence that under his wise and beneficent rule our Empire will pass safely through the trying times of reconstruction, and that the principles of true democracy will prevail.

We assure your royal highness, with the deepest respect, that you may count confidently upon the continued homage and devotion of the loyal citizens of London. We hope that your visit to Canada and to our city may long be a pleasant memory to you, as it will be to us, and that you may live many years to adorn the high position in which in the providence of God you have been called to serve.

We have the honor to be, sir, your royal highness' most obedient servants.

C. R. SOMERVILLE, Mayor. S. BAKER, Clerk.

JILTED LOVER TRIES TO KILL SWEETHEART, BUT PISTOL FAILS

Fredelin Leclerc, of Montreal, Attempts To Murder Young Girl.

CARTRIDGES DEFECTIVE

Returned Soldier Overpowered After Pulling the Trigger Twice.

Montreal, Oct. 22.—Fredelin Leclerc, a returned soldier, made an attempt on the life of Anna Lesperance, 19 years of age, a former sweetheart, in a small dance hall on Notre Dame street west, last night. A few minutes after 8 o'clock, the girl was chatting with some companions while waiting for the dance to begin, when Leclerc entered the place and without speaking to anyone, detected Miss Lesperance, walked up to her, pulled out a revolver and, placing the muzzle close to her face, pulled the trigger. The hammer struck, but the cartridge failed to explode. He pulled a second time, with the same result. When pulling the weapon for a third time, Leclerc was overpowered by Armand Lavoie, who was nearby, and subsequently handed over to the police.

According to a statement made by Miss Lesperance, Leclerc had been keeping company with her before his enlistment, but since his return last spring, she had discouraged his attentions. At that time Leclerc had threatened her, but she paid no attention to it.

NO FORMAL DRESS REQUIRED TONIGHT

Any Attire Permissible At the Reception to Prince.

Every citizen who took the trouble to apply for an invitation at the city clerk's office will be admitted to the reception to the Prince of Wales in the armories from 10 o'clock until 12 tonight.

There are no dress requirements. It is likely that many of the ladies who attend will wear evening dress, and that a number of the men will be in formal dress suits as well, but there is absolutely no specific form of dress expected. The extreme democrat, if he wishes, may wear overalls and a red shirt, and so long as he has taken the trouble to obtain an invitation he will be admitted.

There was no limit to the number of invitations, and it is estimated that about 5,000 have been issued. All that was necessary to obtain an invitation was to ask for it. The committee feared that otherwise the Armories would be filled so full that it would be impossible for anyone to meet the prince. They decided, therefore, that only those who requested to meet him should enter the building.

Earlier arrangements tended toward the formal, and in military circles elaborate arrangements were being made for ushers, dress suits and all the other perquisites of a drawing-room reception. The civic committee would not consent to this.

Coalition Government For Ont. Imperative

Winnipeg Tribune Believes This Province Has Great Prospects Ahead.

Winnipeg, Oct. 22.—The Tribune says in part: "Ontario has not suffered a calamity. That thing we call extreme partyism in Canada—Gritism and Toryism—has received a smashing blow between the eyes. Fears are expressed that there will be a serious mixup under what is now called the "group system."

"Fear not, wholesome coalition is not only probable, but imperative."

"A new administration, under greater rural influence, should be able to set a new pace for the old province."

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION IN SCHOOLS IS STRONGLY URGED BY SASKATCHEWAN PREMIER

Resolution Passed at Winnipeg Conference On Education Calls For Compulsory Training Up to Age of 16—Cigarette Smoking Habit Severely Condemned and Parents and Teachers Are Requested To Discourage Practice.

Winnipeg, Oct. 22.—The work of the conference on education, which is in session here, is to be perpetuated. It was decided at yesterday afternoon's meeting to create a national council, which will carry into effect resolutions that are passed and prepared for a similar congress to be held three years' hence.

Several important resolutions were passed. One calls for the provision of free and compulsory education up to the age of 16 and for part-time education up to the age of 18. The conference also went on record as favoring larger grants for providing playgrounds suitable for organized play, it being declared that education could not fulfill its proper function unless these were provided.

Premier Martin's Plea.

The resolutions were passed after an interesting and spirited time of speech making. Premier Martin of Saskatchewan made a plea for practical suggestions to solve several questions connected with rural districts. He also boldly tackled the controversial question of religious instruction in schools. The premier declared himself in favor of this and made an earnest appeal to the clergy of all denominations to get together and agree to some fundamental kind of religious instruction, no matter how simple it might be. "If," he said, "the clergymen in Saskatchewan will agree, shall furnish every facility that is reasonable for providing for religious teaching in the schools of that province.

Opposed to Cigarettes.

A third resolution urged the conference to place itself on record as being opposed to the use of the cigarette, and as discouraging the habit of using tobacco in any form by "parents, teachers and preachers," so that the boys might be saved from the habit. Still another called for the adoption in all the schools of Canada of religious teaching and moral instruction. One more urges that delinquent boys be kept at school until they reach the age of 18.

Attorneys for the producers announced that a performance would be given tonight. The police prepared for trouble in view of the rioting that marked the opening performance on Monday night, and threats of violence if further performances were given.

Another Michigan Baby Is Suffering From Poisoning

Teddy Harrington Is Rushed to Chicago Hospital From Detroit.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Little Shirley and Edna Luikart, recovering at a hospital here from a slowly-acting poison administered by their demented mother, today had as a fellow patient 2-year-old Teddy Harrington of Detroit, whose case paralleled this in many features. Six days ago the baby suffering from the same poison that threatened the little girls' lives was sent to Detroit Hospital to which they were taken from Royal Oak, Mich. His life is despaired of, as was theirs, it was decided to bring the baby to the specialist whose treatment had restored the health of the Luikart children. How the Harrington baby obtained the poison is unexplained.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT WILL ENFORCE ECONOMY IN ALL DEPARTMENTS

Parliamentary Members Will Question Certain Expenditures.

London, Oct. 22.—Economy is the watchword of the session of parliament, which opens today and efforts are to be made by members of the House of Commons to throw into discard the military program outlined in the last budget, the new education scheme and the proposal to construct at cost thousands of homes for working men.

Governmental, military and financial commitments, the national policy regarding Russia, military occupation of Ireland, with a plan for Irish home rule and the Labor party's demand for the nationalization of mines and railways will be important matters to come before parliament this session. It is expected that members of the House will closely question the Government as to its policies, especially regarding expenditures, and Mr. Lloyd George may answer these questions in a few days.

LONGSHOREMEN REFUSE TO RESUME WORK AT THE CHELSEA PIERS

New York, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Not a longshoreman went to work on the Chelsea piers in response to 7 o'clock whistles this morning. Although hundreds of dock workers were congregated in the vicinity of the big transatlantic steamship piers, at an early hour, promises yesterday to return to work on the Chelsea docks, the most important on the New York waterfront, brought no result. It was on the word of the Chelsea longshoremen that officials based their prediction of a break in the strike here.

Starvation Is Claiming Many Victims In City of Moscow

Scenes of Indescribable Misery Are Witnessed by Russian Princess Who Reaches Paris—Women and Children Plead For Bread To Keep Them Alive.

Paris, Oct. 22.—Pictures of Moscow's hunger are given in the Figaro by a Russian princess arriving from Russia. "I will not speak of the terrible, revolting and odious things that passed in the streets of Moscow," she said, "but only of the hunger incidents I saw with my own eyes, and which were repeated day after day. I met a woman and child, ragged and thin as skeletons, the child crying constantly with an unchanging expression of terror. The mother said that the child was hungry, and asked for a piece of bread, as they had not eaten for 24 hours. I opened my purse, but the woman turned away, saying: 'No, not money, but bread.'

Died of Starvation.

"Another time I saw a blonde-haired young girl with arms outstretched, leaning like a living crucifix against a wall and murmuring, 'I am hungry.' Next day she died. I have seen in the middle of a side street a great, yellow, hollow-sided dog, carrying a bone with a little meat attached, while a 10-year-old boy a few steps away, with the pallor of long misery on his face, watched the dog as if hypnotized. With neck outstretched, mouth open and fist clenched, he looked at the dog with hate and ferocity.

"I have seen children, hardly clothed, hollow-cheeked and with forms like shadows, on their knees in the street trying to pick from between the paving stones grains of wheat that had fallen from a torn sack. I have seen before bakeries men, women and children stretched on the cold stones, awaiting through days and nights their turn to get their meagre ration of bread, and then often falling exhausted and dying at the doorsteps before they received it."

WENTWORTH PILES UP BIG "DRY" MAJORITY

Hamilton, Oct. 22.—Wentworth official returns on the referendum probably will not be available until tomorrow, but some idea of what a big majority the county ridings will roll up for a dry Ontario is conveyed in the following figures for Beverly Township alone:

Question.	Yes.	No.
1	199	1,446
2	223	1,422
3	212	1,433
4	317	1,328

Fifty-five Hamilton divisions, West Hamilton still missing.

The returning officer says he has six days to make these returns.

Fruits Decaying, New York Gouged

$1,000,000 Worth Rots — Hotels Charge $1 a Bite.

New York, Oct. 22.—While New York prices are from 25 cents to $1 a portion for pineapples, grape fruit and oranges in hotels and restaurants, more than 150,000 cases of these fruits are rotting in the holds of half a dozen ships in the harbor.

Because of the longshoremen's strike the crates cannot be unloaded, and they are spoiling, officials said today. They are valued at $1,000,000.

Pineapples form the bulk of the decaying fruit.

ROME IS SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKE

Disturbance Lasts But a Few Seconds.

Rome, Oct. 22.—Rome was shaken by an earthquake at 7:05 o'clock this morning, the tremor awakening the population still in bed, and lasting a few seconds. No reports as to the damage done have as yet been received.

This is the second shock experienced within two days, one being felt yesterday. Today's shock was of considerable strength.

"Flying Parson's" Record May Have Been Exceeded by Competitor.

New York, Oct. 22.—Capt. J. O. Donaldson may have won the army's 5,400-mile transcontinental flight by 11 minutes' of actual flying time over Lieut. Belvin W. Maynard, who finished two days ahead of him. This was indicated by unofficial figures, based on the first computation by members of the contest board of the American Flying Club, which show that Donaldson made the distance in 49 hours, 56 minutes and 11 seconds.

PRINCE HAS ENJOYED DEMOCRATIC UP-BRINGING SIMILAR TO THAT OF THOUSANDS OF OTHER YOUNG MEN

Life Not Made Miserable by Restrictions Which Worried King Edward—Oxford Treated Him the Same As Other Students.

The childhood of the Prince of Wales, who was born 25 years ago at White Lodge, Sheen, is unknown to the newspapers. At the age of 13 he went "like any other gentleman's son" to Osborne and then, when he was not quite 15, to Dartmouth, where it is recorded that he caught measles. He was rated as a midshipman on his father's coronation day, and a few weeks later was appointed to H. M. S. Hindustan.

Two years before the outbreak of war he went to Paris, and there in the household of the Marquis de Breteuil, he was not the Prince of Wales at all, but the Earl of Chester, a young English nobleman, studying not only French, but France. The French with their tact understood the case as they had understood the visits of the Prince's grandfather to Paris. They respectfully ignored the heir to the throne of Great Britain.

At Oxford.

Then came Oxford. There he was at Magdalen, but not in the secluded pomp that was arranged for King Edward in the same situation. The present Prince of Wales led the life of an ordinary under graduate—"With a tutor and an equerry somewhere in the background." The Prince attended the ordinary lectures, wore the ordinary gown, joined in the ordinary sports, entertained his friends in the ordinary way. In the training corps he performed the duties of an ordinary private. One college even resented with buckets of water the impertinence of a crowd that gathered about her gate to see the Prince on his way to a lecture.

Work and Play.

He worked very nearly as hard as did the average under graduate—that is, three hours a day. The Prince did not go to Oxford to work, explains the London News. He was there for the same reason that hundreds of young Englishmen were there—to learn something of men and things and enjoy himself. He went to a few lectures on history and political economy and other subjects, and he wrote an essay for the president of the college every week. He also worked a little in his room on modern languages, including Russian.

Played Football.

As soon as the morning was over and his three hours were done he was free to enjoy himself in the manner of the ordinary under graduate. Perhaps a game of golf had been arranged. The car would be waiting outside at two and the Prince would drive his opponent to the links. Perhaps he would be playing in a football match—not in the first eleven, for he was not good enough for that—but in the second eleven for which he was just good enough.

There was hunting too, with the South Oxfordshire, or beagling—the Prince is a good runner—or perhaps Magdalen was doing something along the river and then the Prince would run along the bank.

Afterwards came tea with other under graduates in his rooms, remarkable chiefly for the windows being curtained, and after that visits to his friends or a cigarette with a casual caller, followed by dinner in the hall and coffee or something else somewhere or perhaps the theatre.

No Special Privileges.

No such elaboration of training was attempted as made the youth of the late King Edward VII one long martyrdom. The Prince of Wales, whom we know, got so little learning, but his business was to find out what men are like. His aim is to familiarize himself with the workings of human nature. He had difficulty in obtaining his B. A. and tradition says that he came away without it at last. He was not shown how to write Latin verse, and in Greek he got as far as the first six books of Hooper only. He was trained with no special respect. If he left his seat between acts at a play, it would promptly be taken by some other person in the audience. He took his turn at everything and had pot luck only.

Kitchener's Comment.

Practically the same attitude was adopted towards the Prince of Wales, at the outbreak of war, he went to France with his regiment, ranking as a lieutenant. He had to pass a preliminary period of training in the guards. The late Lord Kitchener noted with unsparing judgment that Edward, Albert Prince of Wales "possessed the qualifications of an intelligent and loyal officer, "but is not apparently equipped by temperament or abilities for sole responsibility in the field."

That put an end to any hope that he might get the command of a division, but the prince was a familiar figure in the trenches for a whole spring; he served as a messenger bearing dispatches, and he was most unromantically wounded slightly in the arm by a flying splinter miles behind the firing line.

Not a Safety-First Job.

But the prince by no means kept out of danger; in fact, he was so prone to run into danger that often he had to be severely reprimanded. On one such occasion when a superior officer was kindly telling the prince that he should not run such risks, the prince replied:

"Well, what if I do get pipped? Haven't I plenty of brothers at home?"

And this was the spirit he showed throughout, an entire disregard of danger and eagerness to do his bit as an ordinary officer.

Nothing was done to push him forward or to get him conspicuously before the public. Now and then in some soldier's letter, says the London News, the public got glimpses of the lithe young figure of the prince, moving, unconcerned, among the watchers in the front-line trenches. Once, near Amiens, he had trouble with a gas mask, and was sick for a day in consequence. He often gave a lift in his car to an unsuspecting private.

Could Not Make R. A. F.

The prince was rejected as a candidate for a commission in the flying service. Indeed, he had to wait for some weeks before being gazetted to Sir John French's staff. He got no promotion from Sir Douglas Haig because, as was candidly explained, the Prince of Wales lacks the faculty of passing examinations with brilliance.

The prince is free from eccentricity, and his outlook resembles that of the average Englishman. He enjoys a laugh. He is without the thing called by the English "side," which seems to mean airs. He is not in the least inclined to be serious even if he is shy. He has shown his friendships are not affected by social position. His taste in reading is admittedly bad, for he prefers trashy fiction to the masterpieces of literature, and his favorite poetical compositions are doggerel. He is quoted as having said while at Oxford, that poetry gives him a headache—even Shakespeare's.

Those who know the prince predict that he will have a social career like that of his grandfather. He has a remarkably sound instinct for people who are nice, who have social gifts, who can devise methods for passing the time agreeably. He was educated with an eye to the production of a normal Briton, neither very clever nor very well informed with no touch of genius whatever. He is a true prince and loved by all his people.

GREAT CHANCE TO SHARE IN PRIZES

Advertiser Competition Is Open Until November 1.

Many People Working For the Cash Prizes.

Some years ago a citizen of London who had moved into the far northwest wrote to an attorney back home to inquire about a man who owed him a little money. The lawyer replied that the man was dead. A few months later the same man wrote to the same lawyer again, making the same inquiry. Turning the corner of the letter over, the lawyer wrote on it, "Still dead." History does not record any further incidents in the matter.

This little anecdote is prompted by the desire to impress upon you the importance of collecting a debt while the debtor is yet alive. This debtor in your case is the golden opportunity The Advertiser has placed before you to possess within the next eleven days a very substantial sum of money. This sum is divided into 50 shares and is to be distributed one share to a person among those who make the best showings in solving The Advertiser puzzle. This opportunity will remain alive until March 2. After that date there will be "Nothing doing." Don't wait until then. These are not:

"I sincerely hope I have mastered the puzzle now," writes a contestant with the second or third solution.

"This is my fifth count, and not an absolutely sure one at that," writes another.

A contestant from Stratford writes as follows:

"Enclosed find $12.48 for subscription. I am sending this amount that in case I am fortunate enough to rank among the first five prizes the maximum will be allowed. If not, it is a good investment anyhow."

Another writes: "They say I have got the puzzle mouth, because I am always counting everything I see, just by way of practice, but I can't help moving my lips. So, I suppose, if you see a man walking down the street with his lips wiggling you will say he has a puzzle mouth."

Thus comment those who are working out The Advertiser puzzle. Not only are they enjoying the anticipation of winning a small size fortune to while away the winter upon, but also are really getting a lot of amusement out of trying to solve it. The fun seems to be contagious, and each day finds a number of new subscribers joining with old subscribers in the competition.

Remember, you can secure all the extra charts you wish, simply by calling at The Advertiser office for them, or sending a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to have the charts mailed to you.

How Rude of Him to Dare to Ask Young Lady to Tell Years!

Returning Officer Prevents Vote, But Is Sworn to Secrecy.

The returning officer who officiated in one of the subdivisions on Monday considered himself a good judge of age in women. Becoming suspicious that all the young women named on the list and who were voting were not of the prescribed age he decided to put some of them to the test.

When the next winsome maid came in to vote he was rude enough to ask her if she was twenty-one.

"I'm training for a nurse."

"I know that, but are you twenty-one?"

"One must be, to train for a nurse."

"But will you take an oath that you are?"

"Oh, keep your old vote, I didn't want to vote anyway. But don't you dare tell anyone."

The officer promised.

In one of the polls in North London no questions were asked when a woman 91 years old came to vote. The returning officer had to mark the ballot at her dictation.

ADDRESS TO PRINCE REAL WORK OF ART

Prepared by J. S. Barnard and Binding Is Exquisite.

The illuminated address which will be presented to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales this afternoon by Mayor C. R. Somerville is asserted to be the acme of perfection by those who have already seen it. It is the result of weeks of labor on the part of one of the city's experts, John S. Barnard.

The address is slightly larger in size than the average book. It is bound in suede leather of royal purple. The outside decoration is in itself a work of art. Solid 18-karat gold has been used in reproducing the crest of the prince, and beneath this is a wreath of maple leaves. All the tints of autumn have been secured in these by using colored gold, and they contrast with the pure white of the golden feathers of the crest. The address is written on vellum and occupies four pages.

The title page bears the coat-of-arms of his royal highness and beneath this is the coat-of-arms of the city of London. The emblems of the Province of Ontario and the County of Middlesex appear in the margin. The lettering throughout is old English text, with elaborately illuminated initials.

PRINCE'S MOTTO DOES NOT APPEAR ON DECORATIONS

City Has Had German Version Painted Out and Nothing Substituted.

When His Royal Highness Edward Prince of Wales moves through cheering throngs in the city today he will miss the age-old motto of his family in the numerous decorations which have been arranged.

The Prince of Wales' crest will appear in several conspicuous places, but the familiar motto will not appear under it.

The crest was won on the field of battle by a former Prince of Wales and beneath its coronet bears the motto in archaic German "Ich Dien," which means "I serve." Although the words are obsolete in the German language of today, the motto was translated into English during the present war in order that their might be no Hunnish taint to it.

City decorations are not recognizing this, however, and are decorating the streets with crests from which the motto has been painted out. In the big shield which adorns the front of the Public Utilities Building it was necessary to cut out the words and replace them with blank canvas.

The city's official program of the reception, however, bears the old motto, "Ich Dien."

REFERENDUM REPORTS ARE SLOW; MAJORITY IS SURE

Question Four Not So Emphatically Answered as Others.

Headquarters of the local referendum committee reported today that returns from their scrutineers were coming in slowly. The committee reported, however, that on questions one, two and three in the city the vote was two to one for prohibition, while question four showed a percentage of about 65 in favor of the "Noes."

The counties of Middlesex and Elgin were going dry about 6 to 1, and in many instances the people in the country were voting 10 to 1 for a dry Ontario.

MOTORMAN'S QUICKNESS SAVES THIS MOTORIST

A. Goss, motorman on North Belt car number 62, narrowly averted what might have been a serious accident at 8:40 o'clock this morning at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets. A man driving a McLaughlin motor car number 66546 apparently did not see the traffic officer's signal to stop, and started to shoot past the corner just as the North Belt car came lumbering round.

Motorman Goss caught sight of the motor out of the corner of his eye and plugged the car, giving the automobile some 6 inches to get past. The driver was given a sharp lecture by the traffic officer before proceeding on his way.

LITTLE PROSPECTS OF AVERTING STRIKE OF SOFT COAL MINERS

Washington, Oct. 22.—There was little hope of averting by Government mediation the strike of bituminous coal miners set for November 1, when representatives of the miners and operators resumed today their joint conference with Secretary of Labor Wilson.

Both sides stood firm over night, the miners refusing to waive any of their demands while operators reiterated that it would be impossible to enter into negotiations in face of the strike order, which the union announced would not be withdrawn.

Wheat Growers Are Dissatised Because of Stationary Price

Winnipeg. Oct. 22.—That while the price of wheat has remained fixed for three years the cost of all other foodstuffs has gone up at an enormous rate; that wheat might easily have sold at four and five dollars per bushel in Winnipeg except for the fixing of prices; and that if the farmer was to produce at pre-war prices and pay war wages he would soon be out of business, were some of the main arguments presented to the board of commerce yesterday by Peter Cameron of Westbourne, a prominent worker in the ranks of the Loreburn Grain Growers' Association.

DISPENSING WHISKEY AT 50 CENTS A SHOT BRINGS TERM IN JAIL

Frank Cahill Says He Cannot Pay Fine.

PLEADS HIS INNOCENCE

Frank Naville Must Pay $200 or Take a Similar Sentence.

Frank Cahill, $200 or three months for selling whiskey; Frank Naville, $200 or three months for having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling, and John Doyle, $5 and costs for being disorderly—this was the result in police court this morning of a raid at 1:30 a.m. on a restaurant at 641 Dundas street, owned by Naville. All three pleaded not guilty.

P. C. William Gough went to the rear of the place about an hour before the arrests were made and stood by the back door. He was but seven feet from the prisoners. Cahill went over to the Empire Hotel. Here Gough also was at the back door. He saw the accused change a $10 and hand $5 to a stranger, telling him to get some whiskey.

Gough returned to the rear of the restaurant and watched. He claimed that Cahill went in behind the counter and proceeded to put Naville out. Then taking a bottle of whiskey from underneath, opened it, and announced that he would serve it at 50 cents a drink. In all six drinks were poured out. Three were purchased by the stranger, two by Naville and one by Doyle.

The Ubiquitous Stranger.

As to how the liquor came into the place, Naville declared that a drunken stranger came into his place, and that seeing a bottle in his pocket he took it away and put it behind the bar. The man he identified as being "medium-sized."

Doyle was wrestling with the stranger and creating a disturbance. He claimed that he was brought as a witness only, but this was denied.

P. C. George Pilgrim and P. C. John A. Doyle swore that the whiskey was in the place and that Doyle, Cahill and Naville were there when they came in. Doyle ran away, but was caught.

When asked why he ran away when the police came, he said: "They were pitching things around. You wouldn't have stayed there yourself, your worship. You know what you get if you come up here, whether you're innocent or not."

Court of Justice.

"I thought this was a court of justice," remarked R. G. Fisher, who was prosecuting.

"So did I," replied Doyle.

Cahill complained that his word was not being believed because he had appeared on other occasions. "My word ought to be taken once in a while in this world," he said. "As far as selling is concerned, I never sold whiskey in my life. I had a whole house full, but never sold it. No man could see behind the end of the counter from the back door." To substantiate this statement he called the other two prisoners and cross-examined them.

In cross-examining P. C. Gough he asked how far it was between the end of the bar and the wall. Gough declared that he couldn't say. He then asked him why he didn't arrest him sooner. Gough said that he might have broken the bottle and that there were four men there, so he had to wait for more evidence.

Cross-Examination.

"How lonk have you been on the force?"

"Two years."

"You ought to know by this time that I never interfere with any of the police when they arrest me. I'm half drunk right now, but I know what I'm saying."

Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon said: "You've been convicted fourteen times."

"Yes, but I wasn't guilty fourteen times, and I'm not guilty this time."

"Two hundred dollars or three months."

"How long?"

"Three months."

"There's no use asking about the money, because I haven't any to give you."

More than $5 had been found in Cahill's possession. He instructed that this should be used to pay Doyle's fine.

WHAT WESTERN PRESS THINKS OF ELECTIONS

Winnipeg, Oct. 22.—Manitoba Free Press: "The Hearst Government is, of course, destroyed; but what is to take its place is not evident, excepting that it is quite clear that the farmers, as the largest group in the Legislature, must accept the responsibility which goes with power. For them there is to be no easy job as critics on the cross benches; they must take upon their shoulders the burden of governing Ontario. To that end they will find it necessary to come to some arrangement either with the Conservatives or the Liberals."

The Winnipeg Telegram: "The importance of this election to these western provinces will be self-evident. One safe prediction is that if the western farmers can get together as well as the Ontario farmers, there will not be a Liberal provincial Government left in power west of the Great Lakes."

Saskatchewan Star (Independent): "With this taste of blood it is a certainty that the farmers' political party of Ontario will enter the next federal election keen for the fray, and do even better than in yesterday's provincial battle."

Saskatchewan Phoenix (Liberal): "There should be no difficulty in formulating a working agreement, because in all essential policies the United Farmers, the Liberals and Labor stand on the same platform."

Vancouver Province: "The philosophical observer may conclude that a worse thing could happen than the political control of the Province of Ontario by the farmers, who are the largest element in the population, and certainly not less intelligent or less trustworthy than other classes."

Vancouver World: "The results in Ontario reveal the province of several schools of thought of almost equal strength, and the outcome is likely to be rather unsettled government and a more or less chaotic House. And that is as bad as ultra-partisan government."

TREATY DISCUSSION LIKELY TO HINGE ON RESERVATION PROGRAM

Democratic Leaders Will Be Asked To Put Themselves on Record.

Washington, Oct. 22.—The complexities of the Senate session regarding ratification of the peace treaty seemed about to merge today into a clear-cut issue over a reservation program which its sponsors claimed would have the determined support of all of the forty-nine Republicans and at least six Democrats.

Unable to decide at an all-day conference yesterday whether to accept this program or hold out against it, the Democratic leaders were confronted today with the prospect of being asked to put themselves definitely on record at a meeting of the foreign relations committee. It was the purpose of Chairman Lodge and his Republican colleagues to put the plan before the committee for action, though it was thought likely that a vote on it might be delayed for a day or two.

GAS SHELLS ARE BEING USED BY GERMAN ARTILLERY WHICH IS BOMBARDING RIGA CITY

British Warships Return Fire of German Guns at Mouth of Riga Harbor—Many Civilians in City Have Been Killed and Wounded—Heavy Damage Done.

Copenhagen, Oct. 22.—German artillery at Riga fired on British warships at the mouth of the harbor on Sunday, according to a report of the Lettish general staff, and on Monday the British ships returned the fire, shelling German positions near the city. Riga is being bombarded by heavy German artillery, which is using gas shells. Great damage has been done in the city, and many civilians have been killed or wounded.

YUDENITCH'S FORCES STOPPED IN ADVANCE ON PETROGRAD

London, Oct. 22.—General Yudenitch, commander of the northwestern Russian army, seems to have been brought to a virtual standstill by the stubborn defense of Petrograd, which is almost within sight of his men. Soviet forces are even reported to have taken the offensive north of Krasnoie Selo, but details of the fighting have not been as yet fully reported.

East of Pulkovo, the Yudenitch army appears to have encountered strong Bolshevik columns. Pulkovo is about 3 miles from the only remaining railway line running south from Petrograd, and the importance of retaining control of this road may explain the savage fighting in that sector. Later reports state that heavier artillery is being brought up by General Yudenitch. Soviet troops reported to have been concentrated near Gdoff near Lake Peipus, are said to have been scattered by the anti-Bolsheviki. The presence of this force on the left flank of the Yudenitch army constituted a seeming menace to the whole movement against Petrograd, and also appeared to indicate that the Bolsheviki are still quite strong on the coast west of Petrograd.

Kronstadt has not been surrendered to the anti-Bolshevik and has not been attacked, according to a British Admiralty statement. It is held the fortress will fall immediately upon the capture of Petrograd by General Yudenitch. That this event is fully expected is evidenced by the readiness of the northwestern Russian government to move into the city and take control of the situation.

Official reports issued from soviet headquarters at Moscow admit the loss of Kiev, but make no further mention of the claim that Orel, 120 miles south of Moscow, has been recaptured from General Denekine's Cossacks.

BOLSHEVIK WARBOATS SUNK IN FINLAND GULF

London, Oct. 22.—Two Bolshevik torpedoboat destroyers were sunk in Koporia Bay, Gulf of Finland, when they attempted to attack Esthonia vessels and British destroyers, on Tuesday, the admiralty announced today. Six survivors from the Bolshevik vessels were picked up. The British and Esthonians sustained no casualties.

CAPTURE OF KRASNAYA BY RUSSIAN FORCES

Helsingfors, Finland, Oct. 22.—The capture of Krasnaya Goorka, on the Gulf of Finland, nearly opposite Kronstadt, by the northwestern Russian army, is announced from that army's headquarters today. The capture was effected on Monday after severe fighting. The battle is still continuing. Bolshevik regiments from Moscow are taking part in the defence of Petrograd, the headquarters report adds.

WILSON SENDS LETTER TO CONFERENCE DELEGATES

Agreement of Some Kind Is Strongly Urged.

Washington, Oct. 22.—In a last effort to prevent the dissolution of the national industrial conference, Chairman Lane today read to the delegates the letter dictated by President Wilson yesterday from his sick bed, and urging the imperative necessity for some action by the conference to insure industrial peace during the reconstruction period.

The president said the public expected the conference to stay together until the way was found to the establishment of a surer and heartier co-operation between all the "men who work and the men who manage American industry, who are so set on divergent paths that all effort at co-operation is doomed to failure."

"If the nation's industrial leaders and workers are to be without faith in each other, constantly struggling for advantage over each other, and doing naught but what is compelled," the president said, "the situation thus created would be a national disaster."

Declaring that his mind turned away from such a possibility, the president said the conference should stand together for the development of a full program by which a measurable co-operation within industry might be secured, and not break because full agreement could not be had on each proposition or method suggested.

CITY OF VERDUN IS AWARDED WAR CROSS

Paris, Oct. 21.—When the city of Verdun was awarded the cross of the Legion of Honor in 1916, the decoration was not accompanied by the French War Cross. Premier Clemenceau, however, completed the recognition of the glorious role played by the fortress by the following mention today in general army orders, which carries with it the award of the War Cross.

"Verdun, a fortress keenly desired by the enemy, victoriously resisted powerful and repeated efforts by assailants and supported valiantly the loss and ruin caused by a bombardment unprecedented in history. Her inviolate rampart is the symbol of the resistance of France."

BRIG.-GEN. H. PANET ASSUMES COMMAND HERE NEXT MONDAY

Will Occupy Position of Gen. Shannon, Retired.

That Brig.-Gen. Henri Alexandre Panet, C.M.G., D.S.O., of the Royal Garrison Artillery of Kingston, will come to London on Monday to assume the command of Military District No. 1, in place of Brig.-Gen. L. W. Shannon, C.M.G., who is to retire, was the official announcement made this morning by the authorities at Wolseley Barracks.

On September 27 the information was received by The Advertiser that Gen. Shannon, for several years the popular general officer commanding this district, would be retired. Probably no officer connected with the military forces in Canada has won greater esteem from the officers and soldiers who came under his command, or from the general public, than Gen. Shannon, because of his innate courtesy and recognized fairness and justice, under all circumstances, in his dealings with the soldiers and their friends.

His retirement comes after forty years' service with the Canadian army, first in the active militia and later in the permanent force. The last thirteen years of this period have been spent by him in London as an officer on headquarters staff of the district.

Brig.-Gen. Panet was born at Quebec in 1869 of a well-known French-Canadian family, and he has, like Gen. Shannon, been a member of the permanent force for many years. He joined the militia in 1891 and was commissioned in the Royal Canadian Artillery three years later. From that time he gained promotion quickly, and has served in the South African and the past great war, winning the Distinguished Service Order, further promotion and other distinctions throughout.

Little Girls Will Present Bouquets To Prince at Park

Gifts From the School Children of the City.

A pretty little ceremony will take place this afternoon during the civic reception of the Prince of Wales in the park, when the presentation is made to the Prince of two large baskets of chrysanthemums tied with ribbons, the gift of the school children of London. The presentation of one basket of flowers will be made by little Miss Ruth Lawson, accompanied by Miss Eloise Coles and Miss Grace McIntosh. The other will be presented by little Miss Mary Tillmann, who will be attended by Miss Ruth Vincent and Miss Marion Orchard.

G. W. V. A. WILL MEET ALL RETURNED MEN COMING IN

President of Command Given Gold Badge to Wear.

Every party of returned men coming into the city for the celebration of the visit of the prince will be met at the station by a representative of the local command of the G. W. V. A., according to plans submitted to a meeting of the executive of the organization, which was attended by the housing and entertainment committees.

Luncheon will be provided for veterans from outside points at Carling Heights on Thursday by the ladies of the different organizations of the city. Immediately after the luncheon the men will fall in by counties, under their own officers. After being inspected by the prince they will be marched to the headquarters of the G. W. V. A. on Queen's avenue and dismissed.

A solid gold badge, emblem of the association, was presented to Lieut.-Col. W. G. Coles. The president of each command will wear a gold badge instead of the enameled one. At the expiration of his term it will become his personal property, and a new one will be presented to the man succeeding him.

The presentation was made by Major B. Osborne, who spoke of the good work done by Col. Coles as president. He said that he had held that office when there was only a handful of members, and had guided the growth of the command, until now the membership numbered over 2,000, and was one of the largest in Canada.

MANY VETERANS PLACED

During the week just ending, 178 returned men applied for work to the Government Employment Bureau in "I" unit, and of these 172 were placed in positions, according to the weekly report of F. S. Fisher, unit service officer. Of this number two were problem cases (disabled men) who have been found suitable positions in which they can earn a good living.

Inquiries and complaints numbering 1037, were answered and adjusted during the week and some complaints of long standing were quickly cleared up, when put through the proper channels.

There are several applicants to the professional and business section for positions, who are not placed; these include accountants, engineers, chemists, electricians, assayers, book-keepers, efficiency experts, veterinary surgeons and executive managers.

PRINCE PASSED THROUGH CITY AT NOON TODAY, RETURNS LATER

Is Paying Hour's Visit to Chatham.

Two London men, Engineer W. Saylor and Fireman J. Wannacott, comprised the engine crew of the private train of His Royal Highness, Edward, Prince of Wales, which passed here via Grand Trunk at 12:49 o'clock today en route to Chatham, where he will spend an hour, and then return to this city. The train crew, composed of Conductor T. R. Bennett, Brakeman Snyder and Brakeman Burnett, is from Toronto.

When the train passed through here at noon without stopping all lines were cleared of traffic and all the switches were spiked.

The prince will arrive in the city at 4:45 o'clock this afternoon, instead of at 4:30 o'clock, as had been announced. The Grand Trunk had set 4:45 p.m. as the hour some time ago, but the civic authorities misunderstood it. The train will be on time, without fail.

DR. H. A. STEVENSON THANKS PATIENTS AT BYRON FOR SUPPORT

Will Do All Possible For Them.

Dr. Hugh A. Stevenson, M.P.P.-elect who was elected to the Ontario Legislature on Monday last by 1,300 majority over Sir Adam Beck, received a warm and enthusiastic reception from the soldiers at Byron Sanatorium when he addressed them in the Auditorium there at noon today.

Dr. Stevenson told the men that he saw a number of old friends present in the crowd, and that he was out to do everything in his power to help the soldiers. The world was not the same as it was in 1914, and the labor men did not want to go back to the conditions that prevailed then.

"You must remember," continued Dr. Stevenson, "that we will be in the minority at Toronto, and you must bear patiently with us until we get our bearings and see where we are."

Dr. Stevenson then told the men that he would be glad to hear any complaints that they had to make at any time, and would do what he could to help them out.

Thanks or Votes.

"I assure you that I will never go back on you, and I thank you most heartily and sincerely for the votes you gave me from the Byron Sanatorium," concluded London's new member, amid hearty cheers.

Sergt. Wray also addressed the men. He thanked them on behalf of the Labor party in London for the way the soldiers had stood behind Dr. Stevenson. He declared that it was through the Trades and Labor Council that the first returned soldier organization in London was formed, and further stated that the Labor party had never been against conscription. It had been very much in favor of conscripting wealth.

The Government had given some eight hundred and forty-four million dollars to the railways, but couldn't give a cent towards a $2,000 gratuity. It was time for a change in Government at Ottawa, and there would be a change soon.

Sergt. Robert Young, a patient at the San, in the course of an eulogy of Dr. Stevenson, wanted to know why some 3,000 soldiers had not been allowed to vote.

"You know as well as I do that the Government knew the soldiers would turn them out if they got a chance," interposed Sergt. Wray, who went on to say that Dr. Stevenson could be fired in ten minutes if he didn't do right, what the labor people considered right, and that undoubtedly Dr. Stevenson would secure results when he went to Toronto in place of Sir Adam Beck.

In speaking in favor of a $2,000 gratuity, Sergt. Robert Young wanted to know how many capitalists would like to sell their lungs for $2,000.

"Let us soldiers have no preference. We sold our time and ourselves for $1.10 a day, and now they kick at paying us $2,000,' said Sergt. Young. "The men down here were sick and tired of Beck rule, and that is one of the reasons Beck was defeated. Dr. Stevenson is a Labor man through and through, and the soldiers are behind him to a man."

WANDERLUST SEIZES TWO LITTLE WARDS AT SHELTER

Apparently Craved Liberty and Have Disappeared.

Two boys aged 11 and 12 years, who have been living at the Children's Shelter, are the latest additions to the company which has yielded to the lure of the road. The authorities, however, are not entirely sympathetic with this wanderlust and are, therefore, conducting a vigorous search for the two lads. Both boys have "Billie" as their Christian cognomen.

The 12-year-old lad was placed in the Shelter only temporarily as a ward of the pension department. He was to have been taken out next Tuesday, but he apparently craved his liberty at an earlier date and did not return from school yesterday. He wore a dark brown suit. The other lad, 11 years old, ran away from the Shelter, and is thought to have joined the older boy. He wore a grey sweater with a bright blue band and grey trousers.

Two bicycles are reported missing from Victoria public school, but Children's Aid authorities do not know whether to connect these with the boys' disappearance or not. One bicycle has been recovered.

The three houses, which stand on the premises will be removed very soon. Mr. Wenige declared that sooner or later the business section of East London must be linked up with the main business district, and that Dundas street, near Colborne, will be the centre of the district. Mrs. Ida Gardiner was the vendor. The assessment in 1916 was $7,600.

PEOPLE OF LONDON HAVE KEPT FAITH

So Says Pat Welch On the Election Question.

"The people of London did not break faith with our comrades in Flanders' fields."

This is the statement regarding the election results of Pat Welch, the returned soldier, who was refused a hearing at one of the meetings held in the interests of Sir Adam Beck. Welch was a patient at Byron Sanatorium and has been told by his doctor that he has three months to live, but at the request of his fellow-patients aired their grievances before aBeck meeting in the East end hall, with the result that he was confined to his bed for a day. Welch served more than four years overseas.

When the total vote on the referendum in Oxford has been figured out it is likely that the "drys" will have a majority on all four questions of at least three or four to one. In the city the vote ran about three to two in favor of prohibition. Only a few of the rural districts have yet reported.

CORRECT STANDING.

There has been very little change in the vote of the candidates for the North Oxford legislative seat. The totals as now corrected are, Calder, Liberal, 5,366; Butler, Conservative, 3,048, Scott, Labor-Farmer, 2,846. Calder's majority is 2,322.

Many C. E. F. Officers Given Staff Positions in the Militia.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—Announcement of a number of new appointments to the headquarters staff and the staffs of the various military districts throughout Canada of the Canadian militia was made this morning by the adjutant-general of the militia department. The list of appointments, which is a long one, includes the names of a number of officers who have, for varying periods during the war, been holding the rank and position to which they are now permanently appointed. These officers, who held their rank in the Canadian expeditionary force, are struck off the strength of that organization and given staff appointments in the militia. Some of the officers commanding military districts have been holding their commands for some time past, although their appointments were not confirmed on a peace basis.

The militia council, as provided by the order, will be composed of the following officers: Major-Gen. Hon. S. C. Mewburn, minister of militia and defence, president; Major-Gen. Sir Eugene Fiset, deputy minister, vice-president. Gen. Sir A. W. Currie, inspector-general and military counsellor; Major-Gen. E. C. Ashton, adjutant-general; Col. (temporary Major-Gen.) Sir H. E. Burstall, quartermaster-general; Col. (temporary Brig.-Gen.) J. G. Langton, finance member; A. B. Goldwyer-Lewis, secretary; E. J. Boag, assistant secretary.

Major-Gen. J. Lyons Biggar, who has for some time past been quartermaster-general, will shortly retire.

Wearing Old Clothes in an Effort To Bring Down Prices

London, Oct. 22.—Fashionable London tailors are said to be somewhat perturbed over the reported popularity of a clothes conservation "movement."

The "movement" has manifested itself in the organization of "old clothes leagues"—societies with the single pledge slogan, "No more clothes of the new variety until prices go down."

Those who assume this pledge are expected to regard patches on trousers, shiny coat sleeves and sewn-up splits in boots and shoes a badges of honor. The turning of old suits, sewing in of new linings, and other necessary alterations, which make an old pair of trousers, a coat and vest serve the purpose of a new suit, at one-third the cost, is another part of the practical application of the league's precepts.

BERNSTORFF GIVES EVIDENCE BEFORE A GERMAN COMMITTEE

The Former U. S. Ambassador Furnishes Details Regarding Conference

WITH AMERICAN OFFICIALS

Declares France and England Did Not Want Peace in 1916.

Berlin, Oct. 22.—Count Johann von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to the United States, who yesterday was the principal before the committee investigating the responsibility of German officials in causing the outbreak of the great war, resumes his testimony today.

While on the stand yesterday, Count von Bernstorff told of the efforts made by President Wilson in 1914 and 1916 to find a way to bring peace proposals before the allied governments. German peace tentatives, made from time to time, however, handicapped Mr. Wilson, in the opinion of the former ambassador, being construed by the allies as evidence of weakness on the part of Germany. It was Count von Bernstorff's impression that Mr. Wilson intended to propose a temporary peace which would not touch on the territorial issues and would leave major problems connected with peace to a conference of belligerents. In 1916, the witness said, President Wilson was in a position to propose "peace without victory," but he declared, Mr. Wilson deferred action because of the sentiment against Germany in the United States at that time.

Secret Documents.

Secret documents from the foreign office are in possession of the committee and records from the admiralty and war office will, it is understood, be produced later.

The former ambassador said President Wilson held the opinion that United States was the only power possessing sufficient influence to bring about a termination of the war. He referred to an important memorandum, written personally by Emperor William, October 9, 1916, which at first it was intended to hand to James W. Gerard, the American ambassador in Berlin, but which was finally telegraphed to von Bernstorff for transmission to Col. E. M. House, president Wilson's confidential adviser.

Gives Minute Details.

In this memorandum, von Bernstorff said, the government asked President Wilson to expedite his peace proposal in view of the fact that the methods of warfare were becoming increasingly severe in form.

Count von Bernstorff entered into minute details of alleged conversations with Col. House, with whom he conferred chiefly at Col. House's New York residence. Washington was too public for confidential negotiations, chiefly, von Bernstorff said, because of the newspapermen who, despite secretiveness scattered news inimical to the progress of negotiations.

Von Bernstorff was frequently interrupted by members of the commission of experts, who asked for elucidation or confirmation of the official document which were introduced by von Bernstorff.

"When Col. House returned in 1916 from a second visit to Europe," said von Bernstorff, "he told me the chief London showed inclination to entertain the proposal and Berlin also assented."

Will Print New York Periodicals in Other Cities Due to Strike

Efforts Will Be Made to Break Walkout by Such Acton.

New York, Oct. 22.—Plans were on foot by New York periodicals publishers today to break the pressmen's strike by temporary publication of their magazines in cities far removed from the trouble zone.

Authorization of this move was made last night by the Periodical Publishers' Association, in a letter to William Green, chairman of the labor committee of the Printers' League section of the Association of Employing Printers. It was understood that a large amount of the work would be taken temporarily to Cincinnati, where conditions in the printing industry are said to be admirable.

Overtures to end the strike were reported to have been made yesterday by officials of the pressroom executive's association. The envoys were informed, it was stated, that the only terms by which the strikers and workmen locked out could obtain employment would be renunciation of their independent locals and affiliation with the international union from which they recently seceded.

LABOR CANDIDATE IN ST. CATHARINES HAS MAJORITY OF 186

St. Catharines, Oct. 22.—The total unofficial returns for the parliamentary elections in the riding of St. Catharines shows a plurality for Frank Greenlaw (Labor) of 186. The vote: F. Greenlaw, 6,224; Parnell (Cons.) 4,438; Masters, (Lib.) 2,229.

Fifty-seven polls out of 86 give a majority for the "noes" on the first three questions of the referendum and a yes majority of 500 on the fourth.

EXPECTS FARMERS TO CARRY CONSTITUENCIES IN PRAIRIE PROVINCES

Winnipeg, Oct. 22.—That he believed farmer candidates would, with very few exceptions, be nominated in the rural constituencies of the three prairie provinces at the next Dominion election, was the statement today by Roderick McKenzie, vice-president of the Canada-the Council of Agriculture. These candidates, he stated, would enter the field in support of the new national policy as outlined by the organized farmers. The aim was to have all rural constituencies in Canada represented by farmers. If this was accomplished, he thought the Ontario result would be more than duplicated by the Dominion.

BRITISH GOVT. LOAN TO BE FLOATED IN U. S. IS ATTRACTIVE

Interest Rate Is High and Other Features Make It Fine Investment.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Further details regarding the British Government loan of $250,000,000 to be placed in this country by a banking syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Company were made public today.

The issuing group comprises leading banks and banking houses of this city, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, San Francisco, Detroit and New Orleans.

Public offering will be made on Thursday, advance subscriptions being already received. The issue price of the three-year notes is to be 98, and interest yielding about 6¾ per cent. Then ten-year bonds will be issued at 96¼ and interesting yielding slightly over 6 per cent.

The statement adds that while the interest yield on the bonds and notes is attractive, the feature which will probably most impress the American investing public is the conversion privilege.

It is pointed out that both the three-year notes and the ten-year bonds may, at the option of the holder, be converted at par and interest into British national war bonds, fourth series, due February 1, 1929, at par and interest, sterling exchange being figured for the purpose of conversion at the fixed rate of $4.30 to the pound.

The British national war bonds were issued in London at 100 and are now quoted in London at about 98½. They are payable at maturity at 105.

COBALT, Ont., Oct. 21.—Claiming to have had $1,300 in registered Victory bonds stolen from his trunk during his absence from a rooming house in which he lived, Athlio Cicchitti, an Italian who came to Cobalt from Hamilton four weeks ago, has given the local police a mystery to solve.

Cicchitti's story, as told to C... It was donated to the society by Miss Hamilton of Ridout street.

LONDON HAS BEEN FAVORED WITH MANY VISITS FROM ROYALTY

Late King Edward and Present Sovereign Have Been Guests of City in the Past.

On the visit of the Prince of Wales to London, it has been interesting to recall the other royal visitors who have come to the city. The first of these was of course, the late King Edward, who visited London on September 12 and 13 in 1860 as the Prince of Wales, an account of whose visit is given elsewhere in this paper.

Then in 1869 the city was visited by Prince Arthur and his suite. The third royal visitor was the Princess Louise, who was in London in company with her husband, the Marquis of Lorne, governor-general of Canada in 1879. While in the city Princess Louise was the guest of private citizens, but met many who called upon her. Her hostesses were Mrs. Walker, who resided in the old residence of Dr. Eccles (where Hayman Court apartments now are located) and Mrs. Harris of Eldon House.

Prince George Here.

On October 12, 1901, the present king and queen, then known as the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall, paid a flying visit to the city. On this occasion London was packed with people from outlying points and the reception of the royal couple, as they drove through the decorated streets to Victoria Park, was most enthusiastic. Flowers were presented the Duchess at the station and the Middlesex Light Infantry formed a guard of honor. At the park an address was proffered by Mayor Rumball, which expressed attachment and loyalty to the royal house and referred to King Edward's visit in 1860.

Loyalty.

It read in part: "Permit us to express our sincere congratulations upon the successful accomplishment of your important mission to our sister dominions beyond the sea, whose sons, like our own, have during recent troublous times, so abundantly manifested their loyalty and devotion to the throne and empire of Great Britain.'

The Duke, in replying, expressed the deep regret which the Duchess and himself had felt at not being able to accept all the varied invitations offered to them and to their pleasure at seeing something of the agricultural industries of Western Ontario.

Had Seen Much.

He said: "We have, however, seen enough to carry away with us a lasting impression of the vast resources and wealth of the Dominion, still waiting that development which can be attained only by the enterprise and perseverance of its inhabitants which call for the steady reinforcement of emigrants from the motherland."

Colors were presented by the Duke to the 7th regiment and the departure then took place throughout the same cheering throngs which had previously lined the decorated streets.

The last visit of royalty to the city was that made by the Duke of Connaught during his term as governor-general of Canada.

London's Welcome to Late King Edward Outshone All Similar Events Throughout Dominion

In recounting the visit of the late King Edward, then Prince of Wales, to London in 1860, Illustrated London says:

"The demonstration on that occasion was said by one who accompanied the prince to have been superior to anything else in Canada, where his visit was one continual ovation."

The prince and party arrived on the afternoon of September 12. The volunteer artillery fired a salute and a guard of honor was made up of the Volunteer Rifles and Highlanders and cavalry. The city was magnificently decorated. Population and wealth considered, there has been no such demonstration here since.

On a handsome pavilion erected near the station, the prince and party were received by the mayor, parliamentary representatives, councillors and citizens' committee. The address of welcome did not differ essentially from the ordinary run of such affairs, but it contained one sentence worthy of mention:

Excuse of Youth.

"The fact that at most it is only forty years since, in the locality where you now stand, none but the red Indian dozed under the shade of the primeval forest, will sufficiently explain to your royal highness why we can conduct you to no magnificent buildings, to no sacred historic monuments, such as those which are familiar to your eye. But we are persuaded you can well appreciate the results of an industry which, in our circumstances is necessarily more marked by the useful than the ornamental."

In reply, the prince spoke briefly—six sentences in all. Two of them contained the kernel of the speech:

"The country through which I have passed this day presents the spectacle of a population prosperous and happy. Its progress excites alike admiration and astonishment and the industry evinced on every side has nearly supplanted the tractless forest of past generations by smiling fields and pastures reminding you of those which so many of you have quitted in your youth." The royal sense displayed in this speech is superior to the rhetoric," says Illustrated London.

As the party moved in procession to the Tecumseh House—which had been leased by the Government in its then unfinished state and put in shape for occupancy by the prince and suite—there was continued cheering and every manifestation of joy. A party of 2,000 school children had been coached by a Mr. Longman in the National Anthem, and many are alive today whose fond mothers decked them out in best bib and tucker to swell the chorus, which was sung from a large platform erected for the purpose, near the present site of St. Andrew's Church. In response to cheers, the prince appeared upon the balcony of the hotel; and in the evening there was a display of fireworks and a torchlight procession.

The next day the prince paid a flying visit to Sarnia, returning in the evening to be present at the ball held in a pavilion erected in the rear of the Tecumseh House.

Some 300 couples were present, many from outside places. The prince danced all of the 21 numbers on the program, and as fashions in dances, as in all else, change, it will be interesting to recall what was then in vogue, for which purpose the card of the prince is here transcribed:

Wilson, president; Synod of the Diocese of Huron, the magistracy, the militia, and the Welshmen, signed by Benjamin Nash.

PRINCE OF WALES' STANDARD IS FLOWN

Royal Visitor's Own Emblem Flies at Heights.

The Royal Standard of the Prince of Wales is being flown at Wolseley Barracks during the Prince's visit to the city. This standard differs from the royal standard which donates the presence of the Sovereign.

The Royal Standard, which is well known to everyone, containing the following Heraldic Symbols: The six leopards of England on a red ground, the lion of Scotland, on a yellow ground, and the harp of Ireland on a blue ground.

The Royal Standard, Prince of Wales, in body is the same as the Royal Standard, including in the centre His Royal Highness's arms on a shield surmounted by a Tudor crown, also a bar of white running horizontally across the top of the flag.

MOTTO OF PRINCE MEANS "I SERVE"

Cities and Districts Reaching Objective in Victory Loan Get Flag of H. R. H.

"I hope every city and district will win my flag."

H.R.H. the Prince of Wales made this remark after he had consented to the use of his coat of arms on the flag that will be presented as the prize of honor to the cities and districts achieving their quota in the Victory Loan 1919.

The prince had been inquiring regarding Canada's reconstruction program, and when he was told of the coming loan he immediately gave his consent to the use of his coat of arms. "It is a great joy to me to be associated with the loan, which is the bridge between war and peace, and which is finishing off the job," he observed.

The flag has been made in two sizes, a reduced size for small cities, towns and villages, and a large size for cities of over 10,000 population. An extra crest of the Prince of Wales will be awarded each city or district for each 25 per cent increase in excess of the original quota.

And when the campaign is closed a bare flagstaff atop the loan headquarters of any district or city in Canada will mean that that city or district has failed to fulfil its obligations to its country.

But a flagstaff from which is unfurled the honor flag of the Victory Loan 1919 will mean that that community is fully alive to the needs of the country, that it has joined with all its heart and soul in the national effort to "clean up" the war bill and enable the country to "carry on" during the difficult days of reconstruction.

LUNDY, HERE IN 1832, PRAISED LONDON TO INCOMING SETTLERS

American Abolitionist Admired "Large Elegant Court House"—Librarian Reads Paper.

An original narrative of considerable historical value was presented before the London and Middlesex Historical Society last night when Public Librarian Fred Landon read portions of the journal of Benjamin Lundy, the pioneer American abolitionist, when he visited this district in the early part of 1832 in order to inquire into the condition of the fugitives from slavery who were resident to the north of London near the present site of Lucan. The record of his trip was printed in his paper, The Genius of Universal Emancipation, of which there is a partial file in the New York public library from which Mr. Landon recently secured photostat copies.

Lundy entered Canada at Niagara and came to London by way of Hamilton, Brantford and Ingersoll and, going on, by way of Delaware and Chatham, left the country at Windsor. At Wilberforce settlement, now Lucan, he found about 150 colored people. Twenty-five families had purchased 2,000 acres of land among them and had 200 cleared and 60 acres sown with wheat. They had 100 head of cattle and also horses, sheep and pigs. On a branch of the Au Sauble they had a sawmill in operation, while nearby were other mills and stores. A school, a church and even a temperance society indicated their moral condition.

Between London and Wilberforce Lundy found the country fairly thickly settled, and of London itself he has left an interesting account. He speaks of the "large and elegant court house," also of two churches in course of erection. He enumerates the various kinds of stores and mentions a newspaper. "Some of the private dwellings are neat and elegant," he says. "There are several compact blocks of buildings, and many new houses erecting. The whole number, at present, may be counted at about 130, of which I counted upward of 50 unfinished outside. Nearly the whole are frame wood dwellings; many of them two stories high and some neatly painted."

Lundy's whole journal of his trip is filled with details of the things he saw, the people he met and what they thought of the country. He was particularly pleased with the district about London, and in his paper gave it the strongest recomendation to incoming settlers.

FEW APPLES AT ILDERTON.

ILDERTON, Oct. 21.—Some farmers have finished their fall plowing and are now busy harvesting the root crop. One Lobo farmer reports finding a potato weighing two pounds and eleven ounces, but the crop on the whole is much below the average in yield. Apples are a light crop, only one member of the F.G.A. having any for report. E. T. Caverhill, Sprucedale Orchards, has a carload nearly ready for shipment, but many farmers have to purchase for home use.

Several carloads of export steers were shipped at Ilderton and Ailsa Craig last week and the cattle are weighing out well, although the price is lower than last year.

GEORGE M'KENZIE, 100 YEARS OLD, IS DEAD AT LUCKNOW

Oldest Resident of Town Succumbs; Expect Candles For Lights After Nov. 1.

LUCKNOW, Oct. 21.—Lucknow's oldest resident, George McKenzie, died on Saturday afternoon. He celebrated his birthday last 24th of May, and was as active as most men half his age. He could be seen almost every day strolling around his garden. He suffered a stroke some few years ago. He took a keen interest in public questions. He came to Lucknow a few years ago from Kintore, and made his home with his son, Alexander McKenzie. Another son in Stratford survives. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon.

The electric light situation is expected to reach the climax at the end of this month, when Manager Stewart says he will close down the plant, so that the darkness Lucknow barely missed a year ago will reign supreme. Mr. Stewart has been running the plant under an agreement between his lawyer and the town solicitor, and the trial was set for Oct. 21, but Mr. Vanstone, who is acting for the town, asked for a postponement till the December sitting. It was granted, and Mr. Stewart will not carry on any longer, so the citizens will have to go back to the old tallow dips for the winter and wait for hydro, which it is hoped will be here next summer.

Mr. Hayden, teller in the Bank of Hamilton, has left town. His place has been taken by B. Mallough, who recently returned from overseas.

The Victory Loan canvass, which opens Monday will be in charge of Geo. H. Smith as captain and Robt. Johnston and J. H. Colwell as assistants. Lucknow and Kinloss are linked together. The publicity committee consists of A. D. McKenzie, R. D. Cameron, John Purvis and Geo. Smith.

Jas. Clarkson, who resides on the boundary near Paramount accidentally let a parcel fall at the express office, and it crashed through a plate glass window and frightened his team which he had left untied. They ran down the street and finally landed in the cellar of the old Royal Hotel. With assistance he got the team and wagon out and found them little the worse.

BELL TELEPHONE SERVICE ON ELECTION DAY WORTHY OF VERY BEST TRADITION

Prior to the election the Bell Telephone Company promised The Advertiser its full co-operation, not only in the transmission of news but in assisting to give facts to those calling when the newspaper offices were busy. The promise was kept to the letter, and although there was a tremendous demand made on the exchange staff, there was little or no confusion or delay. At such times the local office of the Bell is always to be relied upon for real service, but this time it outdid itself.

God Bless the Prince of Wales

Among our ancient mountains, and from our lovely vales,
Oh, let the prayer re-echo, "God bless the Prince of Wales."
With heart and voice awaken those minstrel strains of yore,
'Till Britain's name and glory resound from shore to shore.

Chorus—
Among our ancient mountains, and from our lovely vales,
Oh, let the prayer re-echo, "God bless the Prince of Wales."

Should hostile bands or danger e'er threaten our fair isle,
May God's strong arm protect us, may heav'n still on us smile!
Above the throne of England, may fortune's star long shine,
And round its sacred bulwarks, the olive branches twine!

Chorus—
Among our ancient mountains, etc.

The above is a translation from the Welsh of the Prince's Anthem to be sung by the schoolchildren of the city during his visit here. The writer of the song is George Linley and the translation by Ceirog Hughes. The music to which it is sung was composed by Brinley Richards.

TO GROW HAIR ON BALD HEADS

Specialist Gives Simple Recipe That Works Fine.

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair-tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring grey hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Rum, 6 ounces; Lavona de Composee, 2 ounces; Menthol Crystals, one-half drachm. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Ladies using this prescription should be careful not to get it on the face or where hair is not desired.—Advt.

WHERE WILL MONEY COME FROM TO BUY THE G. T. R. SYSTEM?

D. D. MacKenzie Asks Pertinent Question of Govt.

QUOTES SIR T. WHITE

Ex-Finance Minister Said Finances Forbade Further Expenditures.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—"Where is the money coming from?" was the very pertinent and unanswerable question put to the Government today by D. D. McKenzie, House leader of the Opposition, and Emmanuel B. Devlin, M.P. for Wright, in connection with the Government's proposal to acquire the Grand Trunk Railway system at an annual known interest charge of twenty million dollars and on the assumption of direct and indirect liabilities of an unknown total.

Both members quoted Sir Robert Borden and Sir Thomas White, ex-minister of finance, to show that existing revenue, estimated at the highest possible total, would be entirely inadequate to meet inevitable liabilities apart entirely from those to be assumed by the proposed acquisition scheme.

"Since we sat here yesterday," said Mr. Devlin, "an event has occurred which should cause the Government to stop, look and listen before it commits the country to further heavy liabilities and subjects the people to further heavy taxation.

The People's Day.

"The Government has seen the handwriting on the wall. This is the people's day, the day of the farmer and the laborer, the day of the common people and the people will see to it that there is government of the people by the people and for the people. If the Government is wise it will cease assisting the manufacturers, the railroads and shareholders and for a change commence to bonus the farmers, the laborer and the people generally who are the taxpayers."

Mr. Devlin declared that there were three interests who favored the Government's scheme. First, the shareholders who stood to benefit; secondly, the old Canadian Northern group, and third, the minister of interior, Hon. Arthur Meighen.

"Now supposing this railroad bargain is all right," said Mr. McKenzie. "Have we got the necessary money to carry it out? I submit, sir, that we have not. I have no evidence of my own on that point except to say this, that while we talk about two billions of money as being the public debt of Canada I am informed on very good authority that it amounts to $2,220,000,000—that is the aggregate public debt of this country. We also have the debts of the railways as obligations, which sum of $500,000,000 we are passing out now. That $400,000,000 is now in the name of the Canadian Northern, and it is not added to our public debt, although to all intents and purposes it forms a part of it, because we have taken over the road, we assumed the debt, and we might as well be honest with ourselves and add it to the general debt of Canada and reckon it in that way.

Pause and Examine.

"On the authority of good financiers in this country who have gone into this matter, I received the figures just as I have given them to the House, and that is the main block of our indebtedness. Before coming down to details, I appeal to the people of Canada and I appeal to the honorable gentlemen if it is not a time when we should pause and examine the situation and determine whether we are in a position to impose such burdens upon the country.

"We are but a small group here, representing about 8,000,000 of people, and we are commissioned to look after national affairs, and our friends at home rest at ease, believing that we will look after the country's affairs and will not enter into any contract or obligation but what is in the best national interest. Our constituents are busy about other matters, and when we take upon ourselves the responsibility of representing them they leave to us the duty of seeing that nothing shall be done here except what is in the best interests of the country. For that reason, sir, I submit that it is the duty of every honorable member to examine carefully what are the financial obligations of the country, and whether it is proper that we should force on the people anything which they can do without. I contend, sir, that we can do without this Grand Trunk for the present, and that the financial condition of the country is such that we should not attempt to take over the railway.

White's Advice.

"I was saying that the financial state of Canada was such as not to justify the position the Government is taking. Up till today who is there that we should look to first as the best authority on the financial condition of the country? I submit that for the last seven or eight years the Hon. Sir Thomas White, the ex-minister of finance, has known more about the finances of the Dominion than any other Canadian. What is his advice? When he was talking upon a subject which involved the assumption of some further responsibility by the people, his advice was: "You cannot do it. If you take my advice you will not add another dollar to the obligations of Canada.' And, Mr. Speaker, I have here a summary of what was put forward in support of that advice:

"$300,000,000 is required this year for pensions; $25,000,000 for soldiers' land settlement; $10,000,000 for soldiers' civil re-establishment; $102,762,000 for interest on the public debt; $350,000,000 for war expenditure for 1920. A total of $917,762,000.

Only a Part.

"And the same authority tells us that that is only a portion of what we have to provide, for in the session which closed on the 7th of July we passed estimates totalling $550,000,000. That immense sum of money has to be provided for, and the items mentioned here are but a very few of those aggregating the $550,000,000 which we threw upon the shoulders of the people last July. But taking it as it is here, we find the items which I mention aggregate $507,762,000; and we are told by the very excellent authority whom I quoted that the aggregate amount of revenue that is expected from every source this year will be $244,000,000.

"That, hon. members will observe, leaves a deficit of $273,702,000. Now, supposing that one-half of the $550,000,000 estimates we passed are yet to be provided for—I will not take half. I will say that we have $250,000,000 not yet provided for. Add that sum to the $273,762,000 and we have a deficit of $523,762,000. This means that this country during the current year must find money for $523,762,000 for which we have not one cent of revenue, because our revenue was exhausted long ago, and it must be remembered that our actual revenue often falls short of the estimate made by the finance department. But at the very best we are now confronting a situation where $523,762,000 must be borrowed, not so much for public works, but for the ordinary expenses of the country.

No Camouflage.

"There is no camouflage about that. These are figures given by the best authorities that the Government can put forward. These are the records of the department of finance given to us without question on the authority of officials of that department, including the ex-finance minister himself.

"In the light of that situation would not sane, wise men say: 'Well, anything that Canada can do without for the present should not be acquired, but should be left over to be dealt with later on under better circumstances, unless it can be shown that it is a very good proposition and something which will bring money to the coffers of Canada instead of placing it under new obligations.'

"I submit, sir, that if there is any circumstance in the present life of Canada, which should receive our sympathetic support and careful consideration it is this circumstance of the returned soldier and his wife and children; they should receive as much consideration as anything else that could possibly come before this parliament. We have been advised by the government, and it is a matter of record, that there is nothing they can do for our returned men. We have been told on the floor of this House by the Honorable Minister of Justice, Mr. Doherty, who was then leading the government, that it had already been decided that nothing could be done. Of course, there is something going on now—I do not know what it will amount to—but the record of the government, and the letter of the prime minister to the secretary of gratuities association indicates that nothing can be done."

Episcopalians Reject Prayer For the Dead

Capital and Labor Urged To Accept the Principle of Brotherhood.

DETROIT, Oct. 21—Possibility of a division in the Protestant Episcopal Church was brought to the attention of the triennial general convention here again today, during a fight on the floor of the House of Deputies against the acceptance of the prayer for the blessing of graves.

Thomas Nelson Page, former United States ambassador to Italy, denouncing the adoption of prayers for the dead, swayed the delegates to such an extent that the prayer objected to was rejected.

Outlining a social policy for the church, Bishop Brewster of Connecticut, suggested as a platform: Right and justice everywhere; living wages; the principle of collective bargaining, freedom of the individual worker from coercion; a part of the employed in the internal management of industry; a weekly rest day; stopping of exploitation of labor of women and children; placing economics on a broader human basis; reorganization of industry which must be an end to autocratic mastership as the business aspect of brotherwelfare work and reasonable relations of partnership between capital and labor.

In line with this attitude was the adoption of resolutions by the house of deputies urging capital and labor to accept "the principles of partnership as the business aspect of brotherhood;" to submit all differences to arbitration and recognize service to the general community rather than individual gain as the primary motive in all endeavor.

CANADIAN FARMERS ASSURED OF A GOOD DAIRY EXPORT TRADE

Shortage of All Dairy Products in Great Britain and Europe.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—According to a statement issued by the department of agriculture, a good export trade in dairy products is assured for the farmers of Canada.

"It is the consensus of opinion of Canadian officials who have visited Europe," says the statement, "that the future of the export trade in dairy products is assured. In England butter is everywhere at a premium, and Canadian cheese continues to hold its good reputation. H. S. Arkell, live-stock commissioner, who has recently returned from overseas, states that the shortage of milk and dairy products in Great Britain is unprecedented. The same is true of other European countries. The scarcity and high price of concentrated feed is to some extent responsible for this. The condition is so general as not quickly to be remedied. It is further responsible for retarding the increase of swine production and the restoring of the normal requirements of fat. This statement from the livestock commissioner should give confidence, not only to dairy farmers, but to those who are able to raise hogs."

GALT MESSAGE TO BECK LAUDS HYDRO ADMINISTRATION

Council Sends Telegram Hoping He Will Continue His Efforts.

Galt, Oct. 21.—The city council tonight sent a telegram to Sir Adam Beck, expressing confidence in his administration of hydro-electric power and hopes for his continued efforts for the people of the province along the same lines.

The council decided to include in the municipal elections, bylaws calling for the expenditure of $30,000 for a central hospital heating plant, and exemption of soldiers' property from general taxation.

The Galt branch of the Canadian Red Cross informed the council it would present the city with a motor ambulance suggesting the formal presentation for Armistice Day.

BECK'S DEFEAT MAY HALT PURCHASE OF BORDER RAILWAY

WINDSOR, Oct. 21.—The defeat of Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Ontario hydro electric commission for re-election, may hinder the plan to purchase the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Street Railway.

While Sir Adam will remain in charge of the commission's business until the new government takes over reins of office, it is believed he will not push any expansion of the hydro system until given power by the new legislature.

As the purchase of the street railway serving the border municipalities cannot be made without backing from those who may constitute the government, the proposal to lay the plan before the ratepayers of the eight municipalities sometime in January may be delayed.

Active Campaign For Prohibition Is on in England

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A campaign in favor of prohibition is actively preceding throughout the country. Distinguished politicians and members of the clergy are participating in it, in addition to the members of regular anti-alcohol organizations.

The Very Rev. Thomas C. Fry, dean of Lincoln, speaking at Boston, said he foresaw an enormous development of American industrial success through prohibition, but he doubted whether Great Britain would adopt the prohibition policy next year, as the country was not yet convinced, and he did not think the American crusade would bring conviction.

GEN. MOTORS CORPN. BUYS 600 ACRES AS MODEL TOWN SITE

Firm To Spend $1,000,000 in Workmen's Homes, Say Officials.

WINDSOR, Oct. 21.—The purchase of 600 acres in Sandwich East by the General Motors Corporation is announced by officials of the company. The land, which is near the $6,000,000 plant the corporation is building on the Walker road, Walkerville, will be used as a site for a model town for employees. In the meantime temporary quarters will be erected. More than $1,000,000 will be spent in building workmen's houses, officials say.

SEDITIOUS CONSPIRACY IS CHARGED AGAINST 8 WINNIPEG WOMEN

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21.—The trial of the Winnipeg labor leaders will open earlier than expected, it was announced today. The criminal assize courts for the eastern judicial district of Manitoba, will open November 4, with Judges Metcalfe and Galt presiding.

Some of the most important cases in the annals of the province will come up for hearing and final decision. Eight women, charged with seditious conspiracy against the Government, will come up for a hearing.

BAD BREATH? DON'T BE OFFENSIVE, REMOVE THE CAUSE

By aiding digestion and building up the weak muscles of the stomach and bowels, DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS completely overcome constipation and all forms of stomach illness.

"I was terribly run down with stomach trouble that arose through neglected constipation," writes Mrs. P. D. Quigley, from Washburn P. O. "I simply couldn't half digest my food. I had dreadful headaches, piles and yellow, muddy skin. The effect of DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS was phenomenal. I have gained in weight, have a clear skin, sleep well and enjoy my meals."

HOW THIN PEOPLE CAN INCREASE WEIGHT

With 10 to 30 Pounds of Solid, Healthy Flesh—A New Discovery.

Thin men and women—that is, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Omit the flesh cream rub-ons. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of those a single Saltogyn tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Five to eight good, solid pounds of healthy, "stay there" fat should be the net result. Saltogyn charges your weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh, new, red blood corpuscles—gives the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Saltogyn, too, mixes with your food and prepares it for the blood in easily-assimilated form. Thin people gain all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Saltogyn and the new flesh stays put. Saltogyn tablets are a scientific combination of the best flesh-producing elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and all druggists sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back.—Advt.

ULSTERITES BELIEVE HOME RULE INTENDED TO CONCILIATE OTHERS

British Government Has an Extensive Program Ahead.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Finance will be the dominating subject at the opening session of Parliament, which meets Wednesday. Premier Lloyd George is expected to make a statement as soon as the House gets to work. Notice has been given of the bombardment of more than one hundred questions tomorrow, most of them dealing with matters of expenditure. The government's program, already announced, includes the following measures:

A joint industrial council of capital and labor, with extensive powers.

A maximum working week of forty-eight hours, and a minimum wage for manual workers.

The purchase of mining royalties.

Prohibition of dumping and the protection of key industries.

The development and control of a nation-wide electric and water power supply.

The appointment of a commission to succeed the war-time liquor control board.

Last, but not least, a new home rule bill.

Hopes Not Glowing.

Hopes of a workable home rule bill are not glowing. The Ulsterites profess to believe that the Government merely expects to launch some scheme to conciliate American and colonial opinion. With Republicans in the majority in southern Ireland they might ignore any British plan for an Irish Parliament as the Sinn Fein members refuse to recognize the British Parliament. They might refuse to take part in the elections, Irish Nationalists say. If the Sinn Feiners did enter an Irish Parliament their first act would be to declare Ireland an independent republic.

The Government's committee having under consideration the home rule bill is not expected to report before December. The Government will be pressed by economists to introduce a budget drastically cutting down expenses, particularly the military programs included in the last budget. Extreme economists propose to agitate for the dropping of the new education scheme which sets up many schools at great expense, and also the throwing overboard of the housing proposals, whereby the construction of many thousands of homes for workmen is provided for at a cost which, in the present building market, would be colossal.

This is one of the premier's cherished ideals, and he is not likely to turn his back upon it. No estimates of the costs involved by the housing scheme have been given, and the Government will be pressed for these.

The Government's military and financial commitments in Russia is a matter on which the Opposition parties will seek light. The military occupation of Ireland will also be a point for attack, and the Labor party, of course, will bring to the front the question of nationalization of mines and railways.

Bolsheviki Claims Progress to North of Krasnoye Selo

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A wireless communication from Bolshevik sources says that fighting is in progress six miles to the north of Krasnoye Selo, where the Reds are advancing. There is fierce fighting along the Windau railway also.

The abandonment of Kiev by the Bolsheviki is admitted, after a severe battle, in which the Reds claim to have taken many prisoners.

U. F. O. MAY INVITE HON. T. A. CRERAR TO BE PARTY'S LEADER

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, Oct. 21. — Hon. T. A. Crerar, former minister of agriculture, left Ottawa last night for Toronto after having heard the results of the Ontario elections. While the primary purpose of Mr. Crerar's departure was to speak for President Helbert of the U. F. O., in North Ontario, where the latter is a candidate in the federal by-election, it is stated today that the former minister of agriculture will confer with representatives of that body with regard to their future action in the light of the responsibility placed upon the farmers by the electorate in the provincial election just past. The responsibility is none other than to form a government in conjunction with whatever body the farmers may desire to affiliate with.

While the farmers have returned over forty members to the Provincial Legislature, they have at present no leader. As above mentioned, their president, Mr. Halbert, is running in the federal by-elections. It is now strongly rumored that Mr. Crerar will be requested to take an Ontario seat with a view to supplying leadership to the dominant group, and if necessary forming a Government from that and the other progressive groups elected.

Mr. Crerar is a native of Ontario, having been born at Molesworth. He has had considerable parliamentary and departmental experience, and the rumor is therefore taken somewhat seriously here. He describes himself in the parliamentary guide as a Liberal.

Pay a Trifle More to Make a Big Yearly Saving of Coal

THE reliable furnace man never recommends a cheap furnace.

His price for heating your home is usually a little higher than the other man's.

That is because he is selling something more than a furnace. He intends to deliver "comfort"—economical comfort—for your home.

The Hecla furnace man can go one step further. He can install a Hecla which saves fully one-seventh of the coal used by other good furnaces.

It is not hard to estimate just what that yearly saving amounts to. Figure it out.

Surely it interests you enough to make you investigate the Hecla. It is no trouble to enquire. Thousands of homes all over Canada are heated by Hecla furnaces. Ask any of them what they save with this furnace.

They will tell you that the special Hecla firepot—the Steel-ribbed Firepot—makes their coal bills light. The triple-heating surface of that firepot sends warmth into the house, instead of out of the chimney. To-day it is a real money-saver for every Hecla owner.

Our printed booklets explain this exclusive Hecla feature. They tell everything about warm air heating that you will want to know before you invest in a heating system. They explain why the Hecla is a "clean" furnace—why gas and dust cannot escape through the register. They show how healthful moisture is sent equally to every room.

Write for this booklet. At the same time send a rough floor plan of your home, so that our heating experts may advise you about making it comfortably warm. Their advice and estimates are sent entirely free for the asking.

London, Ont., Wednesday, October 22.

OUR ROYAL VISITOR.

His Royal Highness Prince Edward of Wales will spend a part of today and tomorrow in London, the most beautiful city in Canada. London is late on the visiting list, but we are sure Prince Eddie will not fail to be charmed by the Forest City, despite the many beautiful and wonderful things he has witnessed in his journeyings throughout this fair land. And the citizens of all classes will extend to him the same cordial welcome that was experienced by his father and grandfather when they were entertained. Prince Edward is a soldier prince, a comrade-in-arms of the Canucks, and this fact should make of especial interest his visit to a city and district which contributed so splendidly in men and means towards the success of the Allied campaign.

MR. DEWART'S TRIUMPH.

One of the most pleasing incidents of the general elections was the smashing victory for Mr. Hartley Dewart in Southwest Toronto. His opponent, a distiller, who was backed by the tremendous power of the liquor interests, was buried beneath an avalanche of Dewart ballots. Mr. Dewart more than earned this fine triumph by the service he has done the province through his exposure of the nickel scandal, and his courageous attack on the Hearst Government's weak administration along all lines. His campaign, carried out with remarkable energy in all parts the province, contributed enormously to the downfall of the Conservative Government. Every newspaper in Toronto took the field against him, those of a Tory color being especially bitter and violent in their attacks. He was reviled and misrepresented, particularly as to his temperance views, and his name unjustly linked with interests arrayed against the people. His winning so decisively is a recognition of his honesty, abilities and great moral courage.

COMMUNITY PLAY FOR GROWN-UPS.

The London Chamber of Commerce has asked from its members an expression of opinion on a proposal to have the city council appropriate a definite rate for the development of playgrounds in this city. A few years back the idea of a municipality spending money to provide opportunities for people to play would have been regarded as extravagance, but there is a new point of view today that somehow seems to feel that there is necessity for civic play. There are few, probably, who have gone to the basis of the need, and yet there is a scientific basis for community play. There are a good many impulses that enter into our daily life and it need scarcely be said that work does not afford a complete and satisfactory fulfillment for them all. Play can and should enter to bring about an adjustment and to give an outlet for instincts that otherwise must remain suppressed.

There is a lot of so-called play today that is not play at all. Absorption in horse-racing in England or baseball in America does not really satisfy the play instinct, and as the struggle for existence becomes more strenuous we are seeing a demand growing for sports of a dangerous, nerve-racking character, giant "loop the loops" and things of that kind. Anyone who has visited such a resort as Coney Island, for instance, must have noticed that the most popular amusements are those that give the greatest thrill and most severe shock to the nervous system. And who are the people who are patronizing these amusements? It will be found that the majority are working people who find in the Coney Island thrills a reaction from the grinding monotony or deadly drive of their daily work. There is the closest connection between the working life of these people and the amusements which they seek in their hours off.

This state of affairs has been a matter of concern to social workers in the United States for some years past. Recognition of the importance of the play movement as a factor in national well-being has directed attention as well to the industrial conditions that make so great a drain on human life and happiness, particularly in the highly organized American industries with their long hours, machine-like routine and absence of vacation periods. Every year sees greater emphasis being laid upon such social advances as shortening working hours, varying routine work and granting some rest period in the summer. But, in addition to this, there is attention also being given to the use which shall be made of the rest periods, and it is in connection with this that the playground movement in the United States has gone far beyond the conception of merely providing for the children. The new playground movement aims to provide an outlet for the play instinct in men and women of all ages, as well as for the children, and a quite new community activity is thus being developed.

We have not been unmindful of this in London, though perhaps not entirely conscious of our aim. In Sprinkbank Park and at Port Stanley we have great people's playgrounds which afford pleasure and provide recreation for tens of thousands. Yet even into these playgrounds the "loop the loop" has made its way to provide thrills for jaded nerves. Is there no substitute for this? Surely we have not reached the point where simpler, homelier amusement utterly fail to satisfy. There are some who decry the so-called dance craze of the time, but dancing is perhaps the one amusement that may be enjoyed the year around by young and old alike and with more social or community spirit characterizing it than any other amusement common today. Community singing and community dancing are as old as the race and do meet primal instincts in men and women. Perhaps one of the features of the broader community life that we are consciously aiming at today will be the return of some of the very things that we have abandoned in the past.

KING ALBERT AND THE REPORTERS.

[Omaha Bee.]

A little incident at a New York railway station is significant. King Albert of Belgium was about to depart on his continental tour when certain newspaper reporters sought to speak with him. The third assistant secretary of state, from Washington, refused permission, but the king wasted no time in overruling this functionary, and spent some moments chatting with the newspaper boys.

The king thus taught the representative of the government of the world's greatest democracy a lesson. The newspaper reporter is the most direct connection, the shortest cut, from the king to the people. Albert knows this, for he once was a reporter. Our present administration seems to have forgotten the fact. While the war was on, the newspapers of the United States patriotically submitted to a self-established censorship, in addition to that which the government supplied. They dished up daily the "creelized" information sent out from Washington, and did what they could to help the war. That time is past, and the people want the real news, and expect the papers to furnish it.

The average reporter knows that headquarters is the place to go for information, and goes there. King Albert is over here for his own good and that of his country, and is not trying to conceal himself behind any attribute of royalty. Under-strappers of the department of state and other bureaucrats will do well to imitate the soldier king.

LIFE BEYOND THE VEIL.

[By Sir Oliver Lodge.]

My expectation, indeed my certainty, about the future of psychical research is that the branch of psychology which it investigates will gradually take its place as a recognized science, having both its pure and applied sides.

The influence of the mind on the body has been too much ignored, but is gradually becoming recognized by the medical profession. Hypnotism was the first instalment, now psychotherapeutics is coming into its own; and so gradually the whole subject will be assimilated.

The delay in recognition of what may be called supernormal psychology must be attributed partly to the injudiciousness of some of its supporters as well as to the ultra-conservatism of most of its opponents. Facts are liable to be intermixed with fiction on one side; and on the other are derided or denied without examination. But at the present time, though progress is slow, it is definitely being made.

I have assured myself that facts not yet recognized by orthodox science exist, but I am also sure that they need clearer and better understanding, by the co-operation of many minds. My own personal conviction is that they are not explicable without postulating the continued activity of those who have passed through the bodily change called death, and I feel sure that the proofs of continuity of existence, or what is commonly spoken of as "survival," are accumulating in what will prove to be an irresistible manner.'

IN MID-OCTOBER.

[Clinton Scollard.]

'Tis mid-October now; the far horizon
At dawn is hidden by a veil of cold.
And yet at noon 'tis ours to feast our eyes on
The lavish linden-gold.

'Tis mid-October now: the woodland porches
Are filled with music by the cricket choir,
While overhead are lighted the tall torches
Of crimson maple fire.

'Tis mid-October now; and wild geese winging
In a wide wedge drop down behind the hills,
And at the twilight's edge these is the singing
Of haunting whippoorwills.

'Tis mid-October now; as though in dreaming
Of summer gone the wind its flute atunes,
And 'mid the orchard boughs there is the gleaming
Of ripened pippin moons.

'Tis mid-October now; ere long December's
Arrows of ice will strike with bitter sting,
And yet we have for warmth of heart the embers
Of the remembered spring!

TRAP FOR CAR ROBBERS.

[London Standard.]

An attempt to steal a motor car from a garage at Poplar was frustrated by a secret device introduced by a chauffeur.

This fact was disclosed at the Thames police court yesterday, when Albert Slide, aged 32, laborer, of Arlington road, Camden Town, was charged with being concerned with another man in breaking into the garage and stealing a car and fittings, the property of Mrs. Julia Georgina Cook, Brabazon street.

The garage was locked up on Wednesday night, but it was broken open early the next morning. Mrs. Cook stated in her evidence that the thieves had to leave the car in Brabazon street. It was brought to a standstill there by a secret device of her chauffeur.

The magistrate (Mr. Booth)—That is interesting. I must see the car and have my mind enlightened.

Baydon George Enever, the chauffeur, informed the magistrate that no stranger could drive the car owing to a device.

A policeman said that just before 6 o'clock on Thursday morning he saw Slide and another man attempting to start the car.

"Slide said, 'Good-morning,'" stated the policeman. "I said, 'Good-morning! You are out early,' and Slide replied, 'I have to be at the market early.' I asked Slide if he was the driver of the car, and he produced a license. Slide said to the other man: 'Go around and fetch me the jack.' They both walked towards the garage, and the other man ran away. Slide then said, 'That's done it. It is all over now. I could not get the car to start. My luck is out.'"

Slide was remanded, and the magistrate inspected the car in the courtyard. The chauffeur's secret is so well kept that even his employer does not know it.

"He told me when I asked him that he would tell nobody," said Mrs. Cook to a reporter. "I do not think that he is going to register it as a patent."

THE USEFUL BABY ELEPHANT.

[From the Atchison Globe.]

Rudolph Johnson, who recently moved to Atchison, but retains his farming interests in Doniphan County, has been unable to find men willing to tramp down rough feed in his silos. The problem has been worrying him a great deal. The other day, while he was reading pictures, he saw the picture of a baby elephant, and the idea struck him that a baby elephant would be just the thing to put in a silo to tramp down the ensilage. Mr. Johnson will put the idea into action, and has written to an animal man back East to send him a baby elephant at once. Johnson may be starting so nething that will be adopted all over Kansas.

A JOURNALISTIC JOURNAL.

[Cleveland Plaindealer.]

Joseph Pennell, American artist of note, said in Cleveland the other day that prohibition had given the death blow to arts and literature in the United States. "All great artists," he said, "have been drinking men. No art has been produced into the United States since the country went dry."

We suspect Pennell of jesting, but there may be readers who will take his words in earnest. For every drunken poet, alcoholic artists or dipsomaniac genius in any line he may mention, we guarantee to adduce another and equally talented person who is or was a teetotaler. We have seen too much of the influence of booze on art to be hoodwinked by the old Burns-Poe argument.

AND ROME.

To strike or not to strike seems to be the question asked by workingmen in all parts of the world today, and to people inclined to pessimism the situation is viewed with much lugubriosity. Such people we are reliably informed, may take heart in the reflection that striking is one of the oldest forms of diversion among workingmen. Certain heads of railroad employees' organizations, who assembled the other day to consider the Cummins railroad bill, took occasion to state that "the right to strike is ingrained in the nature of the American workingman." They might have said that it is ingrained in the nature of all kinds of workingmen, or, better still, that it is ingrained in all human nature from the beginning of time. Instances of strikes of actors, masons, bakers, candlestick makers and persons engaged in other useful occupations are plentifully recorded in history. The first great strike of which anything is known took place in Egypt several thousand years ago among masons engaged in building pyramids and temples. According to a writer in the New York Sun, M. Maspero, the noted Egyptologist, relates that while excavating and deciphering the picture writings of the Egyptians, he came across the following inscription, particularly remarkable on account of its "striking" similarity to numerous items carried by present day newspapers:

Temple Workers Struck.

"On the tenth day of the month builders at work on the temple rushed out and sat down behind the chapel, exclaiming: 'We are hungry, and there are yet eighteen days before the next pay day.'

"They would not work until the king agreed to hear their complaints. Two days later Pharaoh went to the temple and ordered relief given the masons; but the sixteenth day they quit again, and on the seventh and eighteenth days they also refused to work. On the nineteenth day they raised a mob at the governor's palace, and finally got their demands."

As early as 400 years before Christ, we are told, there were strong unions of artists and poets in Greece. These organizations were affiliated with unions of musicians and also of artisans who furnished the paraphernalia of the theatres and corresponded to the modern stage hands. At a later day similar organizations existed in Rome, and an interesting account is given of a strike of musicians in the latter city, reminiscent of the recent actors' strike in New York city, but differing from the latter in the manner of its settlement, probably due to the fact that New York is now a dry town. We read:

Ancient Musicians' Strike.

"During one of the Samnite wars, in the year B. C. 309, and at the moment when the Romans wanted more money than they could collect, the officials of the city refused to permit the musicians' union to play at a festival to Jupiter at the expense of the city. The lordmaster of the union immediately convoked the advisory board of the organization, which voted a strike. Forming a column, the musicians took up their march to a distant town across the Tiber.

"The Senate of Rome sent a commission to the neighboring town of Tiber, now Tivoli, to ask the political council of the place for its co-operation and intercession with a view to induce the musicians to come out of their sulks, return to the feast and give Jupiter the music for nothing. The reception was friendly, and negotiations were immediately opened with the strikers, but in vain. The workmen were uncompromising. All solicitations were refused. It was now the very day before that set for the feast. Fear that the gods would envelop them with wrath began to make the Romans tremble. A strategem was agreed upon.

"The musicians were to be asked to give a concert. At that pompous display they were to be inveigled into accepting libations, which they seldom refused. Stuffed with wine, and when all were unconscious with inebriation, they were to be taken bodily in cushioned chariots back to the Eternal City and landed safely at the Forum, where all was in readiness for the sacrifices of the morrow."

SOME ANECDOTES OF LORD BERESFORD.

In the death of Admiral Lord Beresford, the world lost a bright, refreshing personality, and it will be the poorer for its loss. Ever frank and breezy, like the fine, brave sailor that he was, he had throughout the country a multitude of friends. Many happy, characteristic stories have been told of him, and here are some of them.

Fond of Jokes.

Nobody was ever more fond of a practical joke than he was, especially in his younger days.

Once he made a bet that in broad daylight he would drive down Rotten Row, in that portion sacred to riders. When a party of friends gathered to see the exploit, he was not to be seen. But as they waited a water-cart came lumbering by, and some of them were doused with water. In language both eloquent and forcible they rated the driver. Throwing off his oilskins, there sat the future admiral thoroughly enjoying himself. He had bribed the water-cart man, and had taken his place.

From squirting water to shooting peas is a fair cry. But he managed it—the pea-shooting—at Plymouth. He did it in an escapade that he had on top of a cab, and he did it so well that he went before the magistrate and was fined.

Another time he was seen riding a pig down Park Lane in the very early morning.

"I wagered £5 that I would ride that pig into Piccadilly," he said. "I dashed into the herd, took a flying leap upon the pig's back, and galloped all down Park Lane, pursued by the swineherd.

"As I turned my mount into Piccadilly Mr. Swineherd caught me and knocked me off my steed. But I won my wager."

Some Polite Conversation.

In ready wit he was never lacking. When contesting York against the late Lord Furness his two brothers joined in the fray, and he was chaffed over the number of Beresfords in the field.

"Yes," he replied, "here we are—Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego—come to save you from one fiery Furness!"

And of much of his breezy humor we get the origin in this little anecdote, which he tells in his "Memoirs," published in 1914.

It gives an illustration of discipline in the Navy as it was in bygone days.

"In the old days," he wrote, "we would often overhear such a conversation as the following:

"Officer—'Why the blank dash didn't you blank well do so-and-so when I told you?'

"Man—'Why didn't I? Because if I had I'd have been blank well killed, and so would you.'

"Officer—'Damn you, sir; don't you answer me! I shall put you in the report.'

"Man—'Put me in the ruddy report, then.'

"And the next day the commander, having heard both sides, would say to the officer:

"'Why the man was quite right.' And to the man: 'You had no right to argue with the officer. Don't do it again. Now get away with you.'"

He Knew His Man.

A delightful and quite true tale is still remembered by officers who took part in the Nile Expedition of 1884-5. Sir Redvers Buller and Lord Beresford were coming down the first cataract and were arguing as to the best channel to take.

Sir Redvers carried his point, and afterwards said to Lord Charles: "I was right, you see."

Not at all," replied "Charley:" "I knew it was the right one, but advised the other, as I knew you'd oppose whatever I recommended."

The Advertiser's Daily Short Story

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

THREE POSSIBILITIES.

By R. Ray Baker.

His cigar tilted at an angle of 45 degrees, one leg swinging slightly in indication of contentment, Norman J. Haskell read from the front page with strong personal interest and satisfaction. Presently he folded the paper and laid it on a corner of his desk, while he leaned back in the swivel chair and meditated, and there seemed a tinge of gloating in the lustre of his eyes.

His partner entered and interrupted the flow of thought.

"Afternoon, Marvin," saluted Haskell as the stocky figure with the boyish face drew off his gloves, and, depositing them in the crown of his brown derby, hung the latter on a hook protruding from the wall.

This ceremony concluded, he approached the desk, rubbing his hands as though he had performed some neat business trick and was congratulating himself. Haskell shoved a nearby chair to a position at the corner of the desk on which lay the printed doings of the day. Stonewell began to seat himself, still rubbing his hands and smiling. Before he was settled, however, his hands had stopped their caressing of one another and the smile was superseded by an expression of astonishment. He was gazing at the newspaper.

"What's this, what's this?" he exclaimed with an air of wonderment. What's this, I say? Here's a picture of the Marquis of Downsberry, together with three young women—and one of them is Evelyn, your sister. Let's see. It says, 'Marquis Coming to America for Possibilities.' That means he's looking for an American bride, and Evelyn—can it be he's considering Evelyn?"

Haskell's smile almost seemed condescending.

"It means just that," he admitted. "Evelyn has a chance of marrying into the royal family. It's a standoff between her and those two other young ladies whose photos are grouped around the marquis. He's coming on his steam yacht and expects to arrange a series of cruises, during which he will make his choice. Won't it be great, Marvin, if Evelyn wins? Just think of it, that'll make me a third hunky-dorance-in-law of the king by marriage, or something like that, won't it?"

"Hmm," was Marvin's response, as he settled himself in the chair and continued reading.

Mrs. Jerome Rodney Haskell was beaming.

"Your great opportunity has arrived, Evelyn," she said to the slim young woman perched on the window-seat. Evelyn did not beam, but her lips permitted a flashing smile to form. Was it exultation showing in the girl's countenance? Mrs. Haskell never could quite determine the meaning of an expression on her daughter's face.

Mrs. Haskell felt she had a perfect right to beam. That very day she and her daughter, with a few of the other members of their set, would leave New York on the steam yacht of the Marquis of Downsberry. It was the third and last "possibility cruise" the marquis intended making. Already he had conducted two such cruises, each of them having as a guest of honor one of his marriage prospects.

Ruth was the last "candidate." After this third trip on the blue the marquis would make his choice, and of course an anxious world would be waiting breathlessly for his decision. It must be understood that the Haskells were one of the foremost families of America, and Evelyn Haskell was a leader of the fashionable younger set and the cause of much heart burning and heart breaking. Her mother had frowned on many of the suits for Evelyn's hand, and had tolerated some of them, principally because her daughter had a propensity for getting her own way, but had always admonished the latter to wait awhile before choosing husband, because she was confident "something worth while" was coming. Mrs. Haskell and Evelyn had made several trips abroad, ostensibly to study art, although there were some prying persons who claimed there were ulterior motives in which prospective husbands with titles were concerned. Be that as it may, Mrs. Haskell was now basking in the sunshine of "I told you so" satisfaction.

The cruise was not to be an extended one. At no time would the party be more than thirty miles from New York. In fact, the yacht was expected to travel in a circle, spending two and possibly three nights on the voyage. Various forms of entertaining were arranged, including dancing. It was intended that the marquis should have every opportunity to note the charms and likewise the flaws of the candidate for his love and lands.

The marquis was a rather droll-looking young man, who, strange to relate, was not equipped with a monocle. eH had a very pleasing way about him, which was only natural considering the social education he had received; and he had an appearance that went with his personality. In fact, deprive him of his title and he would still make a very attractive-looking husband.

Mrs. Haskell took her beam with her on the cruise, while Evelyn continued to carry that little smile which might denote anything, but which surely must indicate happiness at being chosen one of the candidates from whom the marquis would select a bride. If she came through the "weeding-out" process successfully as her friends hoped she would, soon the portals of English nobility would open to receive her.

In the afternoon of the second day of the cruise Mrs. Haskell lost her beam. It was due to an incident that might have been serious had it not been forgotten—but that is getting ahead of the story.

The party had just arisen from tea when out of the distance came the put-put-put-put of a gasoline motor. Diversion was welcomed even on a occasion of this kind, and the men and women hurried from the dining-room, thinking perhaps an airplane was about to pay them a visit.

However, it proved to be nothing more than a gasoline speedboat, which climbed out of the horizon and hurtled toward the yacht. When it was only a few yards off, one of the young men of the yachting party, who was an ardent motor enthusiast, became so interested in endeavoring to identify the strange craft that he fell over the railing and sank from sight in the water.

"Look!" cried Evelyn, seizing the marquis by the arm. "Somebody fell overboard; I'm sure it's Jimmy Reynolds, and he can't swim a stroke."

"My word!" gasped the marquis. "What's to be done? Where's Benjamin? Find Benjamin, somebody, and have him tell the captain to stop the ship!"

The marquis was conscientiously excited. He got red in the face and gurgled, and finally when no Benjamin appeared he started off himself in quest of the servant.

Meanwhile the motorboat had arrived. The young man in control in the bow had sensed trouble of some kind, and the frantic gestures of the excited persons on the yacht directed his attention to an object in the water. It was Jimmy Reynolds, who had come to the surface after the first immersion.

Without hesitation, the young man threw out the clutch, called to someone in the stern to take the wheel, leaped to the gunwale of the boat and propelled himself over the side. A few brisk strokes and he had Jimmy Reynolds by the hair.

The Marquis of Downsberry must have located his Benjamin, and Benjamin in turn must have carried his order to the captain—or else the captain acted on his own initiative. Anyhow the yacht had stopped. The rescuer, with the rescued in tow, at once headed for the yacht and soon was on board.

"Marvin!" cried Evelyn Haskell in a bystander's ear. "It's my brother's partner."

The next day Mrs. Haskell's beam returned, only it was at least doubled in intensity—if a beam may be intense. She rushed to her daughter's room and proceeded to hug her at least five times before she announced breathlessly:

"Evelyn, you win! The marquis has picked you for his bride. Just think! You're going to wed royalty!"

Evelyn did not appear excited. She was seated before a dressing table combing her hair, and she continued with the task, although she did look up and smile. Surely it must be a smile of exultation, thought Mrs. Haskell.

"Do tell," said Evelyn languidly. "That is very interesting, but, mother, will you be so kind as to send the marquis my heartfelt appreciation, and inform him that he will have to make another decision in favor of one of the other 'possibilities'? Just tell him that one is an impossibility. I'm going to marry Marvin Stonewell. Royal blood is all right, but I prefer an American—someone who can do things for himself. I thought the little cruise wouldn't do any harm, and I acted as hateful as I could so the marquis wouldn't pick me for his victim."

"It Has Sung Its Way Into the Heart of the Nation"

THREE weeks ago, when we announced the Curtiss Aeronola, we felt that we had produced a perfect instrument—"The Last Word in Talking Machines."

But—it was for the public to say. They—you—had to be pleased; and you know that if you had been in our position you would have felt the tension—as we did. Judge of our pleasure and pride then at the reception which buyers have given us.

Music dealers who put in a few models reported sales within a few hours. Some were so enthusiastic they wired for more machines the same night. The Curtiss Aeronola is a success.

Curtiss Aeronola

It is a success because, first of all, it is a magnificent production from a musical point of view. Second, it is a handsome piece of cabinet making, made with all the skill and precision with which our craftsmen built Aeroplanes for the Allied Governments.

It will play every record and play them a little better than you have ever heard them played before.

If you really want to be charmed by a talking machine go and see and hear the Curtiss Aeronola. Dealers will gladly demonstrate it to you.

WINIFRED BLACK

Writes About "A Poor Little Rich Girl."

Copyright, 1919, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

The poor little rich girl ran away the other night.

Her mother and father were having a lovely time downstairs.

They had a dinner party—oh, lots of people, in smart clothes and the women in dresses that look just like the pictures you see in the fashion magazines, not much to them, but skirts and a ruffle or so, and the men were all very smart, too—and after dinner, of course, they couldn't go upstairs, even if they did have a beautiful apartment with a private sitting-room of their own.

Oh, no—nothing so stupid as that! So they started downstairs and danced and danced and danced and at 1 o'clock, when all the guests were gone, mother and father went upstairs and found the poor little rich girl's room empty. She hadn't been to bed at all and her hat was gone and her little coat, and her best shoes and a funny little embroidered purse she had, and she did not come back all night.

And her mother cried, and the father stormed, and they telephoned to the chief of police and to all the receiving hospitals—and about 8 o'clock in the morning in walked the poor little rich girl, smiling and quite happy.

What She Said.

She said she had been for a walk. She got tired of hearing the music from downstairs and she wanted to have some one to play with and so she went out. And, she said, she met a woman and the woman took her home and kept her all night and in the morning she took a ferryboat and a train and a street car, and came back to the big hotel, where her mother and father were staying.

And the bellboys and the elevator men and the waiters were delighted to see her—they had all been awfully worried about her, they said, and the chambermaids gathered in knots and talked about it. And the reporters came and photographers, and the papers had big headlines and all Mama's friends telephoned and Papa's friends telephoned, too—and altogether, it was quite exciting for the poor little rich girl.

And that's what she does love—excitement. And she doesn't get very much of it. How can she? When nothing excites her very much—not even the thrilliest movie or the most blood-and-thunder book. She's read them all and seen them all, and she can dance the dance of the seven veils, and do the best vampire faint and the sweetest "sweetheart" smile — but she doesn't like the sweetheart very much, of any of her plays. They're too milk-and-watery, she says.

She likes to read about murders and suicides, and elopements and divorces, and she loves to sit up in bed and eat candy, and have the door ajar so she can hear mamma and her friends talking and find out just who is who and what isn't what.

Children? She doesn't care much for children. She doesn't know many, when you come to that. Children don't live in hotels for very long at a time, you know—not real children.

Don't You Think So?

They get too bored and too lonely, and too pale and too much like poor little talking dolls, so their mothers take them out into the country, to Aunt Mary's or send them away to boarding school. So the poor little rich girl just knows actors and actresses, and traveling men and promoters, and chambermaids and waiters and bellboys—she's very much interested in the waiters, and can tell you just how many tips a good waiter expects on a good day, and what happens when you don't give the bellboy something for a pitcher of ice water.

Oh, she's very wise, indeed, is the poor little rich girl, and oh, so lonely and forlorn!

Do you want to know a secret? Whisper—I'll tell you one.

I'd rather be the daughter of the woman who brings home the wash, and have just one decent dress to my name, and one pair of shoes and a Sunday hat, than to have pink frocks and blue frocks, and satin slippers, and silk stockings, and be a poor little rich girl and live cooped up in a big hotel.

You see, if I were the washerwoman's little girl I could go barefoot sometimes and feel the dust flop-flip between my toes, and I could race up and down the alley, and have a cat or a kitten for a playmate, and go down to the Dutchman's after a pickle, may be, and sometimes have the iceman give me a cool, slippery piece of ice, and let me ride in the wagon and hang my bare feet down over the edge, and that would be much more fun than living in a smart hotel and being so forlorn that I wished I was dead.

Don't you think so?

No guesswork about it.

On Saturday afternoon the Women's Press Club of the city met for the first time this season at the Smallman & Ingram tea room. Arrangements were made for the annual meeting to be held on Saturday, November 1, the meeting of Saturday last being merely for the purpose of renewing old acquaintances and welcoming Miss Beatrice Taylor, a new member to the club.

A very pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Smith, Florence, on Wednesday, October 15, when their eldest daughter, Mildred Evelyn, became the bride of Mr. Lionel E. Williams, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Clayton of Rutherford in the presence of a large number of relatives and close friends of the contracting parties. The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the parlor and took her place beneath an arch of evergreens and white wedding-bells to the strains of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, played by Ila Smith, sister of the bride.

The bride was attired in ivory satin and georgette with veil and orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of sunset roses and maiden hair ferns. Miss Dorcas Williams, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Milton Smith, brother of the bride, suported the groom.

After the ceremony about forty guests then partook of a dainty wedding supper. The groom's gift to the bride was a pendant set with amethysts; to the bridesmaid a gold brooch; to the groomsman a pair of gold cuff links, and to the pianist a brooch set with pearls.

The young couple left on the 8:45 train for St. Thomas and other points, the bride traveling in a navy blue suit with hat to match. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm two miles west of Florence, and will be at home to their friends after November 1.

NATIONAL Y. W. C. A. CONVENTION IS HELD SOON IN HAMILTON

The Part of the Association in Reconstruction To Be Discussed.

It is six years since a national convention of the Young Women's Christian Association in Canada has been held. This year it is to be held in Hamilton, from November 13th to 18th. These six years have been marked by growth and development. Local associations have grown in number, and the work in each local association has increased in scope and diversity. The association took a large part in war work. Hostess houses were among the most useful agencies working among the soldiers. The agricultural camps played an important part in increasing Canadian production, and allowing women to take their part on the farm. Hostels for munition workers enabled the government to rely on a steady supply of workers in communities where labor was short. If the association was useful in war time, a still bigger service lies before it in this day of reconstruction in all its phases which is to be the thought of the convention.

The first day is to be given to a consideration of the whole purpose of the association. Mr. Bishop, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and Miss Una M. Saunders, general secretaary of the Y. W. C. A. will set forth the subject. Miss Mabel Jamieson, general secretary, Montreal, will speak on "Today's Challenge to the Association."

Christ's Spirit in Industry.

Realizing that industry presents one of our largest reconstruction proolems, another day is to be given to the consideration of Christ's spirit in industry. Miss Friedmann of the national board, U. S. A., and Dr. Pidgeon of Toronto will speak and lead discussion on this subject.

Internationalization—word-fellowship—is not only an ideal, but one of the practical issues of the day. Therefore a day is set apart for the consideration of the association's world program. Miss Caroline Macdonald of Japan and Mrs. Plumptre and Miss Beatty, national secretary, Toronto, will lead the discussion and thought on this world-idea. Miss Margaret Slattery, whose books on girls' work are so well known, will hold a meeting for girls on Sunday evening, and will lead the forum on leadership on Monday morning. Lady Falconer, president of the Dominion Council, will take the chair at the morning and afternoon meetings, while it is hoped that at the evening meetings Dr. Spawling and Mr. Wilson of Hamilton, the Bishop of Niagara, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, Mr. Wardrope and the mayor of Hamilton will take the chair.

Dominion Delegates.

Besides the full quota of members from all the Ontario associations, it is expected that Mrs. Leckie from Vancouver, Mrs. Mader and Miss Jaimer from Halifax, Mrs. McAvity from St. John, Mrs. Darlington, Miss McIntyre, and others from Quebec, Miss Bradshaw from Edmonton, Miss Sutcliffe, Miss McElheran and others from Winnipeg, will be present.

Hamilton is throwing open its doors to the delegates; the ministers of the different churches are lending their churches and giving their own time and inspiration to the meetings. The Eastern Canadian Passenger Association are giving special convention rates, so there is every reason to expect a large and enthusiastic gathering.

IS PRINCE OF WALES IN SEARCH OF WIFE?

Crumbling Royal Houses of Europe and British Feeling Point to 'Romance.'

They say that the Prince of Wales is frankly in search of a wife. All the British court papers, whose province it is to impart such information to the world, admit it.

It is a general British hope, writes a London correspondent, that the match will be a "romance."

The crumbling royal houses in Europe during the war makes romance almost a certainty, for there are few eligible brides among the princesses of the ruling houses of continental nations, German princesses being ineligible, and likely to remain so. So there is a widespread hope that the future king of England will be able to follow the dictates of his own heart, especially since Princess Patricia has done so.

A Canadian Girl?

Of course, the Americans are speculating as to the possibility of England's future king choosing an American girl for his bride, and millionaire mothers with marriageable daughters are already setting their caps.

However, in spite of all this, the fact remains that most British people would heartily approve of a love match with some British-born girl. If he has not yet found her at home, where, then, would he be more apt to come and look for her than in Canada, where the girls are British-born and at the same time possess the charm and independence of the new world?

Eligible Princesses.

Practically the only possible princess in European circles is Princess Yolanda of Italy, but she is a Roman Catholic, and it would be necessary to have a special act of Parliament passed for the future king to marry a Roman Catholic; otherwise it would involve forfeiture of the right of succession, England being by law a Protestant nation.

Princess Helena of Greece was once talked of as a possibility, but there is no longer any interest in such an alliance. Nor is there any enthusiasm about a possible match with Princess Marie or Princess Elizabeth of Rumania, or Princess Margaret of Denmark.

HAIL TO THE PRINCE

Hail to the Prince! who in triumph advances
From battlefields gory, and deeds of renown!
Comrades salute you, and fair maiden's glances
Ensure you a welcome, young heir to the crown.

Canadians, one and all,
Saxon, and Celt and Gaul,
Join in the chorus of high jubilee,
Scion of the noble king.
Oh, may kind fortune bring
A long life and happiness, young prince to thee.

Hail, Albion's prince! you have well done your duty,
So youthful and modest, so gracious of mein;
Have well earned the plaudits of brave men and beauty,
A garland for hearts, unfadingly green,

Wear it with honest pride,
Honor, whate'er betide,
All that is beautiful—all that is true.
Blessing on thee and thine
From Heaven's fount benign.—
Accept the best wish of Canadians for you.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

To Stuff Green Peppers.

Dear Miss Grey,—Is there room in the Mail Box for a newcomer? Could any one tell me how to stuff green sweet peppers for winter use? I think you use cabbage, but do not know what else.

I am sixteen years old, and am in the third form in high school. Am I far enough advanced?

I have dark brown hair, medium complexion, and blue-grey eyes. What colors suit me best?

Please tell me what the meaning of Donald is, and lastly, what do you think of my writing?

DEAR HEART.

Ans.—(1) This recipe for green pepper mangoes may suit: Use sound, firm, green peppers, cut off the top, remove the seeds, put into strong brine for 24 hours. Then drain, wipe and fill with a stuffing made of ground cloves, mustard seed, salt, chopped green tomatoes and cabbage, all well mixed together. Sew on the tops and cover with a strong hot vinegar, in which brown sugar has been dissolved; repeat for four morn- ings and seal. (2) Yes, in my estimation. (3) Quite likely blues, browns, rose pink, burgundy, taupe and mau would be favorable colors. (4) Don mean "proud chief." You write ve well, I think.

Women At Home and Abroad

THE PRINCE IS HERE!
HAIL TO THE PRINCE!

Today is the day of days come at last. And many a little heart is beating like the ribbons tied above it, for the first sight of the charming Prince Edward of Wales. Dresses, crisped and perfumed, at last come forth from their hiding places to be donned by their owners and grace the occasion of great import, when the city shall be presented to the future king.

Slippers of course are the special care, and they have been chosen with a view to smallness and daintiness, for wasn't there once a prince who found a slipper which led to a queen?

And the prince, what of him? Has he become so used to paying official calls, that one city is but like another, as one soda cracker resembles another—to be swallowed and then forgotten? Or does the prince feel the thrill of each new place as he comes there? And is it possible that sometimes he finds dainties which delight even his royal palate, and perhaps make him wish for just a little more?

CLUB FOR GIRLS TO ENTERTAIN MEN FRIENDS.

Toronto really has a club where young women who have no home in the city may meet their men friends, and it is called the "Blue Triangle Club." Of course girls who have homes are welcome too, but it is really for the girls who have no home. There is a large reception room, a recreational hall and a dining-room. And off the large reception room there are the quaintest little adjoining rooms, where young women may meet their men friends in private. Of course, if they wish to have lots of company and fun they may go out into the recreation room and join in the games, singing and dancing.

Isn't that just the sort of place London needs? And wouldn't it be splendid if the city council should find such a place for the social centre which the Y. W. C. A. intends establishing here soon? And wouldn't it be even greater still if the Y. W. C. A. would run their social centre along such lines?

And greatest of all, wouldn't it be a relief to many a girl in the city, if she could say to "Tommy," "You took me to the movie last week. This week come home with me to the club"? Wouldn't it?

DELETING WORD "OBEY" FROM MARRIAGE SERVICE.

The Episcopal Church in the United States has at last taken the definite step of taking the word "obey" from the marriage service of the church. This is another step along the path of emancipation of women. They now stand true co-partners for life, as well as fellow voters with man.

THE MASON & RISCH PHONOGRAPH

STYLE 125
In Mahogany, Walnut and Oak
PRICE $125.00.

SOMETIMES there is such a thing as "the best." Many men set "the best" as their goal. They seek out worthy materials for their work. They gather skilled craftsmen and hold before them high ideals. By sincerity and painstaking they climb near—often VERY near—to "THE BEST."

HE who attains the final "BEST," however, is he who, having all that the others have—integrity, skill, experience, courage—has, over and above these, a hidden advantage all his own. A method, a device, a knack, maybe, which Fate has given him, and denied to the rest.

SO the old masters of painting had a secret of mixing their colors that has made their paintings endure through centuries, while those of their contemporaries are faded and forgotten. SO, too, modern industry has its examples.

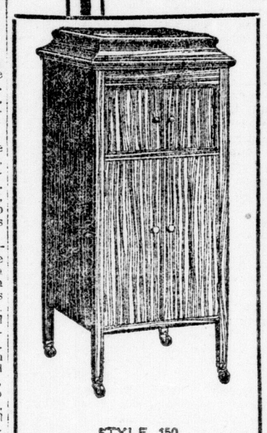

MANY manufacturers have earnestly tried to make the BEST Phonograph. All have had access to the same masters, the same equipment, the same workmanship, and GOOD Phonographs are being made in many factories.

BUT one maker has had the good fortune to possess that knack which the seeker after "THE BEST" must have if he is to attain his ideal.

THAT ideal has been realized, and today we present to the music-loving public

City Bowling League Opens With Two Good Games

Nationals and Hymans Take B runswicks and Tecumsehs Into Camp in Openers—Inter- City League Meeting at Brantford Next Week.

The opening of the City Bowling League was staged last evening at the National alleys, with Nationals winners over Brunswicks and Hymans doing the same for Tecumsehs. Joe Karrys of Nationals was high with 223, and his helpers ran up the highest aggregate score for the evening with 2,601 points. Lawson, Perry and Karrys, in the second game of their clash with Brunswicks, outbid the 200 mark, even against splits.

A large gallery watched the opening performance of the league, which will run through 72 games in this series, with the Has Beens and the Irish Rangers completing the fifth and sixth teams of the league. The series will be finished in January, and it is possible that a second series with a larger league will be put on.

This week sees the start of the Manufacturers' League again, and next week local bowlers will attend a meeting at Brantford for the purpose of organizing an inter-city league, comprising Brantford, St. Thomas, Woodstock, Guelph and possibly more entries. It is expected that this league will get started within a month, and it should be a real success, judging from the enthusiasm with which the game is being met in all the cities proposed.

The City League should produce some great battles, as the best bowlers in the city have been garnered in by all the entries.

The results of last night's games were:

TORONTO WILL GIVE PRINCE A LOVING CUP

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—On Tuesday, November 4, the Prince of Wales will present medals to about 250 returned soldiers or their dependents in this city. This will be a public function, but restricted to the soldiers and their dependents. His only other engagement here will be to attend the Canadian Club. He is coming to Toronto for a rest, but opportunity will be made for the city to give him a loving cup.

Joe Stetcher, on November 3, will meet Lewis at Madison Square Gardens, opening the mat season right off with a match for the championship of the catch-as-catch-can style, the monopoly of which mode both claim.

CHASE WILL BE ONLY ONE OF OLD GIANT INFIELD RETAINED

McGraw's Remodelling Means Heine, Zimmerman, Fletcher and Larry Doyle Will Go.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Rumor has it that Hal Chase will be the only member of the Giants' veteran infield who will answer the gong when the 1920 campaign of the National League is opened. Manager McGraw, who is now in Cuba with President Stoneman of the New York club, started the remaking of his team before sailing for the sunny isle.

Larry Doyle, one of the most popular players that ever performed in the National League, is through as a major leaguer. Larry still can slam the old apple to all corners of the ball orchard, but his legs have gone back on him. Without his old speed he is of no use to the Giants. McGraw always was strong for speed.

Doyle to Go.

Doyle is to be taken care of, and by the Giants. Last week the Giant owner paid $125,000 for the Rochester franchise in the International League, and Doyle is to hold the managerial reins of the Rochester club. Doyle also will play second base for the International Leaguers, and a right smart job he should make of it. He's good for several more years as a star in the minors.

According to the underground from New York, McGraw practically has closed a deal with the St. Louis Cardinals for the transfer of Shortstop Arthur Fletcher, Third Baseman Heinie Zimmerman, an unnamed player and $10,000 for Roger Hornsby, who will be the Giants' regular third baseman in 1920.

Young Frisch, who filled in at second base most acceptably when Doyle was injured last summer, has earned a regular berth. Cooney, from the International League, is said to be slated for Fletcher's old job at the short-stopping berth.

Hornsby is the most traded player in the major leagues during the Hot Stove League season, but this time it looks as though he surely will figure in a deal. McGraw has wanted him for several seasons and Mac has something to give in return. Zimmerman and Fletcher should help the Cardinals—they certainly will not weaken the present St. Louis aggregation. Then, again, the Giant manager is not stingy with the passing out of New York money. And money usually is needed by the St. Louis club.

Cozy for St. Louis.

Another bit of underground scandal: "Cozy" Dolan, former National Leaguer who won a pennant with the St. Joseph club in the Western League the past season, is said to be slated as successor to Jimmy Burke, manager of the St. Louis Browns. Dolan played for the Cardinals in the National League and always stood pat with the St. Louis fans. There may be something to this rumor. Time alone will answer.

HOPPE WINS OVER YAMADA IN SECOND ROUND OF TOURNEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Willie Hoppe, national balk-line billiard champion, defeated Koji Yamada, the Japanese expert in tonight's game of the national championship tournament by a score of 400 to 129.

Yamada did not play with his usual dexterity, while Hoppe gave a brilliant exhibition of cue work and ran out his quota of 400 points in the eighth inning, with an average of 50. His three highest runs were 133, 115 and 72.

This is the best average made so far in the tournament.

Yamada's average was 16 1-8, and his best runs were 49, 26 and 21.

The schedule for tomorrow will bring the players together in the following order: Slosson vs. Morningstar; Sutton vs. Cochran; Schaefer vs. Yamada and Hoppe vs. Sutton.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Yamada and Cochran were the winners of the first two matches of the day in the 18.2-balkline tournament. The Japanese cue expert, defeated Slosson 400 to 249, and Cochran won from Morningstar 400 to 122. Summary:

Yamada, 400; average, 13 23-29; high runs, 60, 60, 41.

Slosson, 249; average, 8 17-29; high runs, 54, 41, 31.

Cochran, 400; average, 14 4-9; high runs, 105, 77, 64.

Morningstar, 122; average, 12 5-9; high runs, 56, 51, 13.

Jake Schaefer defeated George Sutton of Chicago, 400 to 265, in the sixth game of the tournament. The winner's average was 20, and his three highest runs were 116, 55, 41.

Sutton's average was 13¼ and his high runs were 136, 30, 23.

AS YOU WERE

December 4 is the date set for the meeting between Joe Beckett and Georges Carpentier, according to an announcement by C. B. Cochran, the theatrical producer, who has taken a hand recently in fight promotion. Intentions are now to have the winner of this set-to meet Dempsey for the championship in June of next year. It was expected that the bout would be staged in the Olympia, but as that was not available and the English public were clamoring for the fight, Holborn Stadium will be the scene of the encounter.

Report has it that the tourney for the balkline honors now being staged in New York is "fixed." That will stir the whole sporting world and Toronto.

* * *

Because his wife don't like the East, Everett Scott of the Boston Red Sox will refuse to sign a culture blank for next season. Donie Bush is mentioned as a possible trade, and it is not impossible that Scott may go to the Chicago White Sox, where Risberg is being groomed for a first baseman to take the place of Gandil, who it is said can't last much longer in big company because of age.

* * *

United States, according to a heading, has only one battleship fit for a fight. Of course they could write notes until they got a few built.

In a short two weeks, the whole rugby situation in the Inter-Provincial is changed around with everything pointing to a battle between the two western crews—Argos and Hamilton—for the final honors. Tigers play at home now, and are confident of winning their next games, while Argos have two games at home and one in Hamilton sandwiched in. If they win out at home, that will leave both Tigers and Argos to battle it out.

* * *

There is only one bother about this arrangement. If there should be an epidemic of "flu." at the time, lack of hospital accommodation would be a problem for both cities.

* * *

S. G. Vance of Tillsonburg, more familiarly known as "Sam" among the trap shooters of Canada is the only Canadian trap shooter placed among the first 50 in averages issued by the American Trap Shooters' Association. The Canadian has shot at 4,605 birds and has broken 3,806, for an average of 96.52. Frank M. Troch of Vancouver showed the way for the first nine months of the current year, but has since been replaced.

A lot of people have been robbed of sleep by shimmying, but a Chicago footpad annexed watch and money from his victim while he made him shimmy. He was probably shimmying anyway in parts.

ROCKPORT OPENING CARD A SUCCESS; NO LONG SHOTS

Wrangle With Starter and Spill Only Unusual Features of Splendid Meet.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21.—Marred by a wrangle over the final heat of the day between starter Briggs and Driver Paige, the Rockport five-day meeting for harness horses got under way this afternoon before a crowd that taxed the tiny grandstand.

Paige was indignant because the field in the final heat had been started with his drive. The Christian, on a break before the wire was reached. He voiced his sentiments in decisive language, and spectators joined in the argument.

Aside from this incident, and a spill in the first heat, the first day's meeting was a glittering success, both for the patrons and the owners of the track. Pari mutuel odds turned out good payments on many of the entrants. Starting the fields in each heat was an arduous task, either because there were bad actors among the entrants or because drivers, themselves, were anxious to pull away to an advantage.

The spill was responsible for the first long-shot. Volo Belle fell, and Loleta, was flung back, Silver Hammer, heavily played to win, lost a sulky wheel, so when Bill Hedgewood came in practically alone, with Harry C. second, betters were elated. Billy Hedgewood, regardless of his showing at Cranwood last week, had carried quite a lot of money along with Loleta and Silver Hammer, so the odds were not great, but those who had backed Harry C. to come in second, cashed their $2 tickets for $14.

HOT OFF THE GRID

After Varsity's victory over St. Mikes in the opener of the middle Inter-Collegiate series, it looks as if Western "U" will have to groom themselves to beat the Blue and White. St. Mikes are a big factor yet, because there is no telling what Father Carr may yet get out of his light but clever outfit. It's not to be supposed, however, that the Saints weren't using everything they had with Varsity. They had made some changes in their line since their visit here two weeks ago, but had not apparently added any weight.

Coach Brock's crew go down to St. Thomas this afternoon for a clash with the Collegiate of that town. Their hosts are a heavy aggregation, and should give Western "U" the workouts they need, and they need lots of experience against sheer weight, so they may learn how to use their own to advantage. Both games this week will accomplish that as the Aggies of Guelph are said to be a real scale straining crew.

Cline (Capt.), flying wing; Cowley, Traylor, Chalk, half backs; MacMahon, quarter; McGeough, Fisher, Callahan, scrimmages; Dockstader, Wainwright, outsides; Macpherson, Simson, middle wings; Jarrott, McGinnes, insides; Bowen, Murray, Fletcher, Anderson, McLeod, Heard, spares.

The O. R. F. U. squad were out again last night and got in a strenuous workout. Every man realizes now that they have a real afternoon's labor on Saturday afternoon to beat the Sarnia Imperials, but are chuckful of confidence in their ability to turn the trick with any of the breaks of the game.

The two weeks' lay-off has put every man on the squad in the best of shape, and they are all over the effects of the fixture in Petrolea. A noticeable feature of the O. R. F. U. locally this season has been the few casualties suffered by all three of the teams.

ANDREW WILSON & CO LIMITED TORONTO AND MONTREAL

DEWART CLAIMS HE IS THE MAN TO FORM GOVT.

Criticises Lieutenant-Governor For View Expressed in Interview.

THE NATURAL COURSE

Time Enough For Alternative When Parties Fail To Get Together.

TORONTO, Oct.2 1—H. Hartley Dewart, K. C., M. P. P., Liberal leader in Ontario, handed out a statement this afternoon, in which he criticised the lieutenant-governor, Sir John Hendrie, for having intimated to the evening newspapers here that his honor "believed that under the circumstances he could call any one in the House or out of it, and ask him to form a government." Mr. Dewart states that the person to whom the lieutenant-governor should look to forma government is himself, "the successful leader of the Liberal party."

Mr. Dewart's statement follows:

"The election returns clearly demonstrate that the people of the Province of Ontario will no longer tolerate the Hearst administration, and its autocratic abuse of power. My advices are that there will be a larger Liberal contingent of members than in the last legislature. With the United Farmers numerically in the lead, and it is quite apparent that the Conservatives will not have as many members as the Liberals, and therefore, have no right to continue to control the business of the country.

Common Interests.

"When the House dissolved there were just two parties in the House. The Hearst administration has been overwhelmingly beaten, and the principles that the Liberal party has fought for have been vindicated by the election of a controlling group of Liberals, soldiers, farmers and labor representatives. The principles of their policies they hold largely in common. There can be no reason why they should not get together. They have the same objects in view—the accomplishment of sound, progressive and democratic government. The problem is one that should not be difficult of solution.

"It is early for the lieutenant-governor, in an inspired interview, to suggest where he will look for a leader, or how he will deal with the situation. His natural course is to call upon the successful leader of the Liberal party to form a government. It will be time enough to discuss the calling in of an outsider, when it appears that it will be impossible for the groups to get together in the common cause of establishing popular government.

"The people of the Province of Ontario are not in the humor to tolerate any further manipulation of the business of government, no matter from what source it comes."

UNIONIST CANDIDATE IN BY-ELECTION IN NORTH ONTARIO DIES

Was To Have Held Campaign Meeting At Beaverton Last Evening.

TORONTO, Oct. 21. —James Cowan, the Unionist candidate in the North Ontario by-election, died suddenly this afternoon near Beaverton. He was to have held a meeting at Beaverton tonight, but the announcement of his death, and the cancellation of the meeting came at the same time.

MAY POSTPONE ELECTION.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—The sudden death of James Cowan, the Unionist candidate in the North Ontario by-election, subsequent to his nomination does not mean that Halbert, the U. F. O. candidate will be elected by acclamation on Monday next. Provision is made in the Dominion election act for such a contingency, the returning officer under such circumstances being authorized to postpone the date of polling so that a new candidate may be nominated.

The announcement of Mr. Cowan's death, when received here tonight in a private message to Dr. Edwards, caused some excitement, and many expressions of regret were voiced by members of all shades of politics.

SOFT COAL MINERS AND OPERATORS ARE STILL AT DEADLOCK

Joint Conference Fails To Bring Any Agreement.

STRIKE LOOMS LARGE

Leaders of Both Factions Declare Attitudes Have Not Been Changed.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 21.—The joint conference of scale committees of miners and operators of the central competitive district, which was called by Secretary of Labor Wilson in hope of averting a strike on Nov. 1, adjourned late today until tomorrow without reaching any agreement. Leaders of both factions asserted that their respectives attitudes had not been changed in any way.

Although another effort will be made tomorrow to bring peace to the industry, the strike tonight loomed big and close at hand, and leaders of the two sides, speaking frankly and gravely, said there was little hope.

While the full scale committees representing miners and operators were fighting their battles today behind closed doors, strike storm raged in the Senate and federal agencies looked up the law, firmly convinced it would have to be invoked to save the country from untold distress and suffering with mines shut down and less than a month's stock on hand to keep the fires burning.

Filing out of the meeting place the miners and operators, nearly 100 of them, went their separate ways to discuss the crisis, the former led by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and the latter by Thomas T. Brewster, head of the Coal Operators' Association. Members of both groups were extremely reticent. Brewster and Lewis refused to discuss the situation beyond saying there had been no change in the attitude of either group.

Secretary Wilson left the meeting without giving the least intimation as to what was in his mind as to hope of settlement.

MACDIARMID DOUBTS STABILITY OF NEW PROV. GOVERNMENT

Says Temperance Legislation, Industrial Unrest, Overthrew Hearst Party.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 21."—I trust that it may be possible to form a stable government in Ontario, although this does not appear possible, judging by the returns as published today." This is the way in which Hon. Finlay G. Macdiarmid, minister of public works in the Hearst Government, expressed his feelings in an interview here today. Mr. Macdiarmid congratulated his opponent through the press and thanked his friends who supported him in the contest. "Personally I was very much surprised at the result," he stated. "I regret very much to lose the riding which I have represented for 21 years.

"With reference to the defeat of the Hearst Government, I do not think it can be attributed to any one cause. It would appear as though the temperance legislation, coupled with the industrial unrest, accounted in a very large measure for the result of yesterday's election."

Mr. Macdiarmid left by motor for his home in Aldborough today.

THE MAJORITIES.

Malcolm McVicar, the candidate in East Elgin, has a majority, according to latest returns, of 1,347. In West Elgin the total majority for Cameron is 1,500, there still being a couple of divisions to be heard from. In the referendum vote there are still a number of divisions to be heard from, and it is quite possible that it will be some days before the official result is announced.

PETER CAMERON'S BIRTHPLACE.

Peter G. Cameron, the U.F.O.-I.L.P. candidate who was elected in yesterday's contest for the provincial parliament, was born in Tyrconnell. He is a son of the late Peter Cameron, who came originally from Perthshire, Scotland. Both his mother and the present Mrs. Cameron came from New Brunswick, and Mr. Cameron, the new M. P.P., still resides on the farm presented to him by his parents near Dutton.

TORONTO WORLD SAYS BECK WAS HEARST VICTIM

Declares Sir William Was Out For the Scalp of the Hydro Chief.

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—"What Happened In London" is the caption of an editorial which the Toronto World will publish tomorrow morning, giving the World's idea as to the forces which combined to beat Sir Adam Beck.

"Some people profess to think that the defeat of Sir Adam Beck at the polls in London was a mysterious and inexplicable affair," the World says. "The Hearst administration was out for Sir Adam's scalp.

"It had been fondly hoped that Premier Hearst and his band of helpers would come back with a following of sixty at least. The next important thing to be done was to cut Sir Adam Beck's political throat.

"If Sir Adam Beck could be defeated in London, and Sir William Hearst be strengthened in Queen's Park, the rest would be easy. So efforts were concentrated on London. The C. P. R. and G. T. R. workmen were instructed that they must work against and vote against Beck.

"An edict went forth from the Orange Order in Toronto that Beck must be beaten. It will be remembered that Hon. W. D. McPherson, who, when asked would he pledge himself to Beck, declined to do so on the ground that he was a member of the Government and a high official of the Orange Order.

"On Thursday last the members met in London and agreed to carry out the commands.

"The Hearst administration has been cleaned out. There has been no material injury done to hydro. Sir Adam Beck's policy has been sustained throughout the province, and he is ready to carry the radial plans, the Chippewa development and the St. Lawrence installation to completion."

AN ENEMY OF WOMANHOOD

The complexion, digestion and almost the complete personality of woman are dependent upon health. Woman's ills are her great enemy, as they cause bad complexion, dark circles under the eyes, headache, backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, dragging-down pains and the blues, and often totally unfit her for a companion. The great American remedy for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which has been restoring three generations of ailing women to health, and may be relied upon with perfect confidence.

AMENDMENT TO G. T. PURCHASE BILL IS MOVED

Proposes Consideration of Resolution Setting Forth Objections.

DEFER FURTHER ACTION

Give House and People Time To Study Measure Carefully.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21. — Opposition objections to the adoption by Parliament at the present session of the Grand Trunk bill was set forth in an amendment moved by D. D. McKenzie, Liberal House leader, at the close of a long speech tonight. It was seconded by Hon. W. S. Fielding.

The amendment, which declares that it would be both improvident and inexpedient to put the legislation through the House this session, is as follows:

That the bill be not read a second time, but that the House confer on the following resolution:

That the bill proposes an uncertain but very large addition to the debt of the Dominion at a time when existing obligations, arising out of the war and from other causes, are so vastly in excess of all previous obligations as to give much cause for anxiety on the part of all who are concerned in the financial position of Canada and the maintenance of the public credit.

That a measure of such wide-reaching character and large importance requires a study by the House and the people that cannot possibly be given in the closing days of the session.

Purpose Accomplished.

That the present session of Parliament was called for special purpose which has already been accomplished.

That on Wednesday, October 8, the minister of trade and commerce, acting as leader of the House in the absence of the prime minister, stated that the Government's expectation was that the session would close within the then current week.

That under such circumstances the introduction by the Government of a measure of such great importance as the acquisition of the railway and property of the Grand Trunk Company of Canada is improvident and inexpedient.

That for these reasons the further consideration of the bill be deferred until a future session of this Parliament.

A Huge Deficit.

During the course of his speech Mr. McKenzie gave figures which he said made it clear that the total annual amount for which the Grand Trunk was liable and which Canada would assume was in excess of forty-seven millions of dollars per annum. The net balance on operation last year he put at less than ten millions and the yearly deficit at upwards of thirty-eight millions. For all government roads he placed the annual deficit at over eighty-six millions. Mr. McKenzie maintained that when the Government could not afford to give more money to the soldiers it should not be purchasing old railway systems.

Replying to the Opposition leader, Hon. H. W. Rowell declared that the whole railway situation in Canada had arison out of the "be-devilled condition of privately owned roads."

Public ownership, he said, was already an established fact in Canada, but the Goverment had an incomplete system which made it a good business proposition to acquire the Grand Trunk. By government ownership the country would escape the bad influences for which railway corporations had been responsible in the past. This would be a good thing for the country, even if money were lost in connection with the operation of the roads.

In closing, Mr. Rowell said that delay would give the opponents of the government's proposal time to organize their opposition. There would, he said, be no advantage in delay.

After, Mr. Denis of Joliet, had opposed the bill, and Frances McCrae of Sherbrooke, had criticised government ownership, R. L. Richardson moved the adjournment of the debate. The division on Mr. McKenzie's amendment will take place either tomorrow night or on Thursday, after which, it is said, the Opposition may move another amendment.

Drayton Takes Seat.

Sir Henry Drayton took his seat amid cheers. He was introduced by Sir George Foster, speaking in French.

Second reading was given a bill to ratify an arrangement with the United States, with a view to protecting and rehabilitating the salmon fisheries of the Fraser River.

The debate on the Grand Trunk purchase plan was continued by Mr. Devlin. He was followed by Mr. McIsaac, after whom D. D. McKenzie introduced his resolution.

The railway question, said Mr. McKenzie, was the most important question before either party today. The Liberals had nothing to take back and nothing to apologize for in regard to their attitude on railway matters.

In the original G. T. P. agreement there was a provision that western traffic should pass through the ports of the Maritime Provinces. Millions had been spent on the port at St. John and the Government had taken over the port. Now all this expenditure was camouflage thrown before the people of St. John. The traffic was cut off. Henceforth everything would go to a foreign country.

In Mr. McKenzie's view the Canadian people should get possession of every facility in the country they could, providing they could get it at a proper price and providing they could operate it with as much advantage to the people as if it were operated by a private corporation. But he thought that the best results were obtained from people handling their own business.

INVESTIGATION OF TORONTO STREET CAR TIE-UP IS COMMENCED

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 21.—Before Judge Barron today an investigation was begun into the street car tie-up which occurred while the Canadian National Exhibition was on. The tie-up was caused by a strike of the electrical workers of the railway who went out after a board of conciliation had made an award in connection with troubles between the men and the company, but before this award had been accepted by the company or mare public.

The inquiry will be continued tomorrow.

CHARGES IMMORALITY IN CAMP WHERE U. S. TROOPS QUARTERED

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Resuming her testimony today before a House of Lords committee, which is conducting an inquiry into her dismissal as commandant of the Women's Royal Air Force, the Right Hon. Violet Douglas-Pennant, daughter of Baron Penrhyn, declared that the South Carleton camp in Lincolnshire, where Americans were stationed, was among those where immorality existed.

The Women's Royal Air Force huts, Miss Pennant declared, were in the middle of the camp. The women were surrounded by Americans. On one occasion, she added, the women's huts were raided during the course of the night, a drunken American officer climbing through a window and "creating a terrible disturbance."

$2,750 In Cash Prizes

A TEST OF SKILL AND ACCURACY

The Advertiser's Puzzle Contest

IF YOU CAN COUNT CORRECTLY, ONE OF THE MANY PRIZES MAY BE YOURS. NOTE THE DIVIDEND FEATURE AND SEND IN YOUR SOLUTION.

HOW TO ENTER

This contest is open to present bona fide residents of Ontario.

Anyone in this territory may enter the contest upon payment of not less than $2.00 or more than $12.48. This amount will be applied to subscription to The London Advertiser at regular subscription rates. It may be applied on either the morning or evening edition, or both.

You may submit just one solution or as many different ones as you wish. With each solution you must pay not less than $2.00 or more than $12.48. The total amount paid, whether you send one or more than one solution, will be applied to one continuous subscription, unless you otherwise direct. If you are already a subscriber the amount, or amounts, you pay will be applied to extending the time you are paid to. If you are a new subscriber the amount paid will be credited to you and your subscription started at once.

Present subscribers, wherever located, will continue to receive the paper through the same channels as now. No change whatsoever will be made in carriers where subscribers receive the paper through carrier service. All carriers will receive notice that the subscription has been paid and be instructed to collect the amount from The Advertiser office. The same will be done where the paper is being received through an authorized newsdealer.

If you send more than one solution at one time send a separate blank with each one and state in each blank the amount you are paying with that solution.

This contest is open to both men and women. You may order the paper sent to someone else if you wish, names and addresses being subject to any changes that later may be desired.

DECIDING TIES

In the event of ties those tieing will be required to solve a second puzzle in order to determine who shall receive the prizes. This second puzzle, if one should be required, will be equally as attractive and practical as the first. Under this plan those who win will be assured of receiving the full value of their prizes without having to divide them with other contestants. Should still further ties ensue, a third problem of the same order as the second will be submitted to those again tied to solve. This plan will be continued until all have been eliminated except the actual prize-winners. Should there be no ties on the first puzzle, only the one, of course, will be presented. In the event that a second puzzle is required, one week will be allowed in which to solve it. This will prevent the contest being prolonged for any unusual length of time.

The problem is to count the circles. Every circle is complete, and intersects or touches one or more circles. There are no parts of circles, or shams or deceptions of any sort in the puzzle. In the event that no one counts the exact number, the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions. Accuracy and patience are the main requisites to arriving at the correct or nearest correct count. Those who display these qualifications to the best advantage will solve the puzzle best.

Important Features

The attention of contestants is called to two important features in connection with the prizes.

1. While the amount you pay for subscription to The Advertiser has no effect on your winning a prize, it does affect the value of the first five prizes should you win one of them. For instance, each of the first five prizes has a fixed value, to which is added from five to fifty times what the winners pay when they register their solutions. This is explained further in the prize list.

2. The first five prizes may also be increased ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS each by your interesting five persons who are not now regular subscribers to become subscribers. You will receive twenty dollars for each one, whether you secure one or five. Each one of these new subscribers must pay not less than the minimum amount ($2) required of contestants. They may pay up to the maximum ($12.48) if they desire, and they may also become competitors for the prizes if they wish to submit one or more solutions of the puzzle. That is, they may enter the contest under the same conditions exactly as any other contestant, the payments they make entitling them to entry.

The name of each one of these new subscribers must be sent in on one of the accompanying blanks, whether he becomes a contestant or not. The fact that he was secured by you must also be indicated in the proper place provided in the blank, so you will receive credit. You may send in any or all of those five names whenever you wish, either when you send in your own solution or later. Just use one of the blanks for each one, and then there will be no mistake made in regard to your getting due credit.

Easy to Make This Pine Cough Remedy

Thousands of families swear by its prompt results. Inexpensive, and saves about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good, and very pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Dentist's Recipe For Pyorrhoea, Bleeding Gums or Loose Teeth

If your teeth are loose or if your gums are receding and are sore, tender or inflamed, if they bleed easily, are spongy, flabby or colorless and discharge pus, go to your druggist and get a one-ounce jar of Epithol and gently rub a little over the gums with your fingertips each night and morning.

This is a famous dentist's prescription for such serious gum diseases as Pyorrhoea or Riggs Disease, which make the teeth loosen and fall out and usually brings prompt relief from all the dangerous symptoms. Loose teeth should tighten and gums grow sound and healthy in a short time. Epithol is easy and pleasant to use, and not expensive, as one ounce will last for many weeks. Anyone suffering from Pyorrhoea or Riggs Disease or Sore, Tender gums should give this remedy a trial.—Advt.

VICTORY LOAN LISTS TO OPEN ON OCTOBER 27

Prospectus Will Call For Minimum Amount of $300,000,000.

5 AND 15-YEAR BONDS

Will Carry Interest At 5 1-2 Per Cent, To Be Issued At Par.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 21.—Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, today made known the terms of the forthcoming Victory Loan.

The prospectus will ask for a minimum amount of $300,000,000, with the right to accept all or any part of subscriptions in excess of that sum.

As in previous years, subscribers will be given a choice of maturity, five-year bonds due Nov. 1, 1924, or 15-year bonds due November 1, 1934.

The securities will carry interest at the rate of 5½ per cent per annum, payable May 1 and November 1, and the issue price will be 100 and accrued interest for both maturities, making the income return 5½ per cent per annum.

Purchasers may pay in full on application, or in five installments, as follows:

10 per cent on application.
20 per cent December 9, 1919.
20 per cent January 9, 1920.
20 per cent February 10, 1920.
31.21 per cent March 9, 1920.

The last payment of 31.21 per cent covers 30 per cent balance of principal and 1.21 per cent representing accrued interest at 5½ per cent from Nov. 1 to due dates of the respective instalments. As a full half year's interest will be paid on May 1, 1920, the cost of the bonds will be 100 and interest. If payment is made at time of application the price will be 100 flat. After the initial payment subscribers have the privilege of paying in full on any due date thereafter with accrued interest computed at the rate of 5½ per cent per annum.

Easy Payment Plan.

Arrangements have again been made with the banks for the purchase of bonds by small subscribers on the instalment card system, spreading the payment over ten months. Up to their capacity the banks will also accept bonds from small investors for safe keeping without charge, for a period of one year.

As in 1918, bearer bonds will be available through the banks for delivery at the time of application to subscribers making payment in full. Bonds registered as to principal only or both as to principal and interest in authorized denominations will be delivered to subscribers making payment in full, as soon as the required registration can be made. Bonds with coupons will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, and $1,000 and may be registered as to principal. Fully registered bonds, the interest on which is paid directly to the owner by government check, will not be issued in denominations lower than $500. The subscription lists will open on October 27, and close on or before November 15, 1919.

Not Tax Exempt.

As previously intimated by the minister of finance, the bonds of the new issue will not carry the tax exempt privilege which was attached to the issues made during the war. This means that in computing his Dominion income tax the holder of the new securities who is subject to the tax will be required to include the interest as part of his taxable income.

In making the announcement Sir Henry Drayton said:

"This is not my loan, it is not the government's loan, it is the loan of the people of Canada, backed by all the resources of Canada. It is the clean-up loan. It is to be spent to discharge our war commitments and provide national working capital. The security is undoubted, the interest return exceptionally attractive. I confidently appeal to the Canadian people for the same full measure of support that has been given to the previous flotations, which have heralded to the world Canada's capacity and standing."

Purposes of Loan.

The purposes of the loan, which are set out in detail in the official advertisements and literature of the campaign are described in general terms in the prospectus as follows:

"The proceeds of the loan will be used to pay indebtedness incurred, and to meet expenditures to be made in connection with demobilization (including the authorized war service gratuity to our soldiers, land settlement loans and other purposes connected with their re-establishment into civil life), for capital outlay upon shipbuilding, and other national undertakings forming part of Canada's industrial reconstruction program, and for the establishment of any necessary credits for the purchase of grain, foodstuffs, timber and other products, and will be spent wholly in Canada."

Manitoba Adopts a Novel New Plan of Caring For Insane

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21.—Commencing today, the method of caring for insane persons undergoes a radical change in Manitoba, and persons suspected of being mentally unsound will not be taken before a magistrate or justice of the peace, but to the psychopathic ward in the General Hospital to receive immediate expert treatment. The work of classifying and examining all cases will be conducted systematically, and the patients will be sent to one of the two hospitals for the insane at Selkirk and Brandon.

These two institutions, hitherto operated under the custodian system, have been changed to a system similar to that of a hospital, and wards will be established instead of individual rooms as at present.

Specially trained nurses and internes will be provided and exhaustive monthly reports of each case will be forwarded to the superintendent at Winnipeg. It is planned to put an end to segregation of male patients from the female.

Rupprecht Charged With Being the First To Use Poison Gas

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, who commanded the German forces in Northern France and Belgium learned yesterday at Davos, where he has been staying, that he is included in the French list of 600 or more wanted by the Allies for trial for crimes against international laws. He became furious, and said he would never give himself up.

Prince Rupprecht is accused of being the first army commander to employ poisonous gases, when several of the commanders opposed such a project.

It is reported here that Count von Brechtold, former Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, is on the Italian list as one of the principal instigators of the war. Several other officers, at present in Switzerland, appeared on the lists.

The question of extradition from a neutral country is expected to be settled with Switzerland, thus creating a precedent for Holland in the case of the former German emperor.

TORIES AT OTTAWA FILLED WITH DISMAY OVER THE OUTCOME

Realize Death-Blow Has Been Dealt To Toryism.

TAKING NO CHANCES

Will Not Risk Going To the Country For a Couple of Years.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—The complete and disastrous overthrow by the progressive forces of Ontario of the last Tory Provincial Government in the Dominion has been received in official federal circles at Ottawa with dismay and gloom. It is fully realized that should there be a general federal election tomorrow, the last Tory Government in Canada would go down to defeat. Wherefore the Federal Government has no intention whatever of going to the people for a couple of years yet.

News of the results was received last evening in Room 16, where Government members make their leisure rendezvous with consternation and finality with heavy resignation. "It looks like a wake without the whiskey," remarked a Unionist-Liberal as he came out. A collection had been taken up to defray the expenses of a telegraph bulletin service, and Hon. Arthur Meighen, minister of the interior, sat at the head of the big table to read the glad tidings. A small blackboard had been affixed to the wall for the tabulation of the results, but the tidings were not glad and the blackboard as the night wore on showed nothing but a Government defeat.

Faces Grew Long.

Faces round the big table grew long and the voice of the minister reading the returns became strained and weary, for there was no comfort anywhere. Hon. Dr. Reid came in from time to time, as did also Hon. N. W. Rowell, but they left as suddenly as they had come after one glance at the fateful blackboard, and with hanging heads.

In the corridors Liberals and Liberal-Unionists flocked together, and found much solace in the returns. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberals, but newly-elected by acclamation in Prince, was there and received many congratulations from friends and opponents alike, on the double progressive victory. Mr. King was frankly gratified at the results. "It is a victory for the progressive forces—farmer, Labor and Liberal—over a Conservative Government," remarked Mr. King, "and the close association of that Government with the Federal Government must be taken into account in any conjecture as the significance of the results."

An Eye on Ontario.

As all of the business of the past week or so at Ottawa was arranged with an eye to the results in Ontario, prohibition legislation was deferred until after the 20th. The Calder committee on soldiers' civil re-establishment postponed the bringing down of its report until after the 20th. But the Government's new scheme for the acquisition of the Grand Trunk at heavy additional cost to the country was pressed along with a view to indicating to the Ontario electors that the Government was strong for public ownership.

In so far as Federal Government influence was exerted upon the campaign, just in so far was the Hearst defeat a defeat of the Government. There are eight Federal by-elections pending. Of the Government candidates, Sir Henry Drayton secured an acclamation in Assiniboia, and acclamations were obtained in North Ontario, Glengarry and Carlton, N. B. The Ontario results should go to show that the Government has no chance in Quebec East. The Government has not even put up a candidate, and Ernest Lapointe will be elected by a heavy majority. In Victoria, B. C., Dr. Tolmie is being opposed by a Labor man, and Labor appears to be coming into its own. Judging by the provincial election results, from the standpoint of the Government at Ottawa, the overthrow of the Hearst Government can only be viewed as a catastrophe.

KINGSTON VETERANS CLAIM REFERENDUM UNFAIRLY CONDUCTED

Hundreds of Soldiers and Wives Robbed of Vote —Demand Inquiry.

KINGSTON, Oct. 21.—The Kingston branches of the Great War Veterans' Association and Army and Navy Veterans claim that five hundred soldiers and two hundred wives of soldiers were unable to vote on the referendum here yesterday as a result of their names not appearing on the registration lists. It is also claimed that soldiers who were ill in bed and unable to look after themselves when the registration was taking place, were overlooked by the enumerators.

The veterans have sent the following telegram to Sir William Hearst:

"We strongly condemn the method by which the referendum was conducted in Kingston and for your failure to put in force here for the soldiers your promise made in Guelph. Hundreds of soldiers and their wives were robbed of their vote here and we demand an immediate investigation."

Educational Plan To Promote Unity Creates Interest

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21.—A proposal presented to the national educational conference yesterday by John Boyd, Montreal, president of the Canadian National League, has excited keen interest. With a view to promoting racial concord and national unity, the project aims to reach the rising generation of Canadians through the schools by means of a series of books to be written by Canadian authors presenting true Canadian national ideals; it proposes that the premiers of all the provinces shall form an honorary committee to promote national unity; that the committee shall appoint a board or jury composed of ministers of education or educationalists from each of the provinces to judge works to be written suitable for prize and text books for the schools of all the provinces, so that all Canadian children may learn at school to respect fellow-Canadians, whatever their origin or creed. Books found suitable are to be published in English and French, and published by the department of education for distribution as prizes.

NOVA SCOTIA MINERS WILL BE GUIDED BY OUTCOME IN THE U. S.

SYDNEY, N.S., Oct. 21.—Nova Scotia coal miners will be guided by the action of the miners in the central competitive fields in the United States in their demands upon the coal operators of this province, according to the statement made by Robert Baxter, president of the United Mine Workers, on his return this morning from New Glasgow, where he was attending a meeting of the United Mine Workers' executive.

President Baxter was not inclined to discuss the board meeting at any great length today, declaring that later the United Mine Workers officials would make their policy known to the public. The meeting at New Glasgow was called to consider the demands that the miners will make in the way of wage increases and better working hours.

"We will be guided by the demands in the competitive field and will naturally follow along the same lines," said Mr. Baxter. "They have asked for a six-hour day and a five-day week, as well as a 60 per cent wage increase."

FRANCE MUST BORROW TWO MILLION FRANCS A YEAR FOR SOME YEARS

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Figures furnished by M. Klotz, minister of finance, in concluding debate on finance in the French chamber of deputies, show that it will be necessary for France to borrow about two billion francs a year in the course of the next few years in order to balance its budget. The bill authorizing the first loan will be presented in January or February.

The minister declared that Government receipts were showing an encouraging increase above the budget estimates for revenue in 1919, roughly ten billion francs, and that there was no doubt that the country could support an increase of 50 per cent over present taxation.

WENT BLIND AS HE SLEPT.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 21. — William Breen of Tweed illage, awoke on Monday to ascertain that he was totally blind. Some years ago he lost the sight of one eye, and some time during Sunday night the bursting of a blood vessel in the retina of the good eye destroyed the sight.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Your Country's "Promise to Pay"

WHEN you buy Victory Bonds you hold Canada's solemn promise to repay you their full face value in money at the time stipulated in the bond with interest every six months.

THEREFORE, in point of security, Canada's Victory Bonds are in the first rank of the world's investments because——the principal and interest are as certain of payment as anything can be—backed by the whole assets of Canada—the pledge of honour of Her people—and all the assets of all the people of Canada.

—Victory Bonds are also the most "liquid" form of investment. Without trouble or delay they can be converted into cash at any time.

—Victory Bonds pay a good rate of interest—more than any other investment having equal security—nearly twice the interest paid by Savings Banks.

* * * *

FOR the investment of estate funds, trust funds, sinking funds and all other money which by law or other necessity must be placed only in unquestioned securities, Canada's Victory Bonds are the premier investment.

EXECUTORS, trustees, municipalities, public service corporations, officers of lodges and fraternal societies, and all others with trust funds to invest, can further their own and their country's interest by investing their funds in Victory Bonds.

* * * *

AND because of the good rate of interest which Victory Bonds pay, together with the supreme security behind them, there is every reason to believe that Canada's Victory Bonds, 1919, will increase in value in the open market, as have Victory Bonds of all previous issues.

* * * *

BUT Victory Bonds, 1919, are much more than a sound money investment. They are vital to the continued prosperity of the country. The proceeds of the Victory Loan, 1919, will furnish the means of retaining our great export business, by bringing to Canada foreign orders for agricultural and industrial products, which mean the continued prosperity of every citizen. The Victory Loan, 1919, will also enable Canada to carry out her necessary plans of demobilization—fulfill her pledges to her fighting forces—and to readjust the country from War to Peace conditions.

IN HIS PERSONAL INTEREST—

—to obtain an investment of unrivalled security

—to secure an investment yielding a high interest return

AGAIN IN HIS OWN INTEREST AND THAT OF CANADA—

—to ensure the continued prosperity of the nation

—to enable Canada to discharge her duty to her soldiers

—in order to finance Canada's period of readjustment from War to Peace

Secrets of Health and Happiness

What You Should Know and Do About Whooping Cough

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG, A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University).

DR. HIRSHBERG

Whooping cough is more dangerous than measles, scarlet fever or diphtheria, if you consider the many complications that go with the disease in children under five years of age. It leads to pneumonia very rapidly, and it is known that nine out of ten deaths which result from whooping cough are due to the inflammation to the lungs. When the cough is very severe, it sometimes leads to death from apoplexy —bleeding in the brain—and sometimes the sufferer starves to death because he cannot retain the food he takes for nourishment. Heart failure and convulsions also are accompaniments of whooping cough and they are common messengers of death.

Whooping cough is a germ disease, and for that reason it is contagious. The microbe appears to have its abode in the mucus of the air passages—the nose and the throat—where it may be found in the first few weeks of the devolopment of the malady. It is not known how long the bacteria remains with the person attacked. There is a little danger of its carriage by an individual who associates with the sick and then visits the well person.

Keep Them Apart.

The bacteria are usually transferred by means of contact in direct association of the well child with the sick. If, for instance, a child with whooping cough plays with other children of the neighborhood, it is well-nigh unavoidable for the breath not to reach the mouth or nose of his playmates and thus infect them. There is hardly a youngster who is entirely immune to this dangerous malady.

There should be no intermingling with children until six weeks after the ailment has disappeared. Do not ever think that because a child who has been exposed to whooping cough cannot contract the malady because he does not show symptoms right away. You do not get sick as soon as you're exposed. If you did perhaps you would guard yourself from contagion a bit more than you do.

The germs of whooping cough may be lodged in the throat or nose, and yet there may be no outward signs of the malady. It is foolish to suppose that a child gets black and blue in the face the moment he has been in contact with another child that whoops. "Rome wasn't built in a day," and neither is a whole deterioration of the human structure affected in a minute. It takes time.

Little Mary may be all well when Jane is taken sick with the same thing that Mary had. Two weeks at least must elapse before poor Jane exhibits any symptoms. Then Jane coughs a little and she has a "cold." Just an "ordinary cold," and mamma doesn't worry much. There is only a little more disturbance at night and the child coughs a bit more than under the conditions of an ordinary cold. This seeming mildness continues for about two more weeks, when violent spells begin, of which there are from four to twenty bad attacks a day.

One unfortunate aspect of this distemper is that the doctor cannot diagnose or be certain of the trouble until the second stage. There is no way to tell whether the disease has been contracted or not until the whooping is actually in evidence. One ounce of prevention, however, is worth a pound of cure and so the responsibility rests with the parents. This does not mean that children who have whooping cough must be kept indoors. The more they are outside the better, but they must be kept away from other children.

After-Precautions.

The sufferer's waste matter should be burned at once. In that are the bacteria. Paper napkins or old, clean cloths are cheap and there should be an abundant supply of both of these for the patient to hold before his mouth when coughing. No child should be allowed to cough any way or anywhere, for the germs are spread through the air in the sprays that come from the mouth or nose.

When a child is thought to have recovered from whooping cough, the room in which he slept, alone, to be sure, should be disinfected. It is in the period when the child is "getting better" that pneumonia is most apt to take root. Every precaution should be taken at this time.

A vaccine has lately been discovered by which a child can be made immune to whooping cough. This vaccine consists of dead whooping cough germs which are hypodermically injected into the patient. After this procedure it is believed that a child has one chance out of twelve to contract whooping cough. In fact, it has been found that in time of an epidemic, if there is no vaccination against whooping cough, three out of every four children have contracted the disease.

Vaccination against whooping cough has no danger attached to it whatsoever.

Answers To Health Questions

S. L. G. Q.—What can I do for oily hair?

A.—Massage a little of the following into the scalp:

Sulphate of quinine	1 dram
Salicylic acid	5 grains
Tincture of capsicum	1 dram
Lanolin	½ ounce
Petrolatum	½ ounce

X. Y. Z. Q.—What can I do for an itchy scalp

A.—Wash the head with castile soap into which 15 grains salicylic acid has been mixed to the ounces of sulphur ointment.

M. L. H. Q.—What can I do for tired, aching feet?

A.—Massage helps. Boric acid powder added to water into which compound tincture of benzoin is dropped, also aids.

JACK. A.—If you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your query repeated I will be glad to answer your questions.

A. M. W. Q.—What can I do to reduce my weight?

A.—You must not get more than eight hours' sleep out of the 24. You must keep the intestines open and active and get daily outdoor exercise. You should reduce the amount of sugars, starches, and oils which are taken into the body. Food laxatives, such as uncooked bran and green vegetables, help in the reducing process. Drink lots of water only between meals. Do not eat any bread, except gluten, and it is better to have this toasted.

SUFFERER, London, Ont.: Q.—What can I do for head noises?

A.—An examination must be made to determine whether it is middle ear disease, high blood pressure, wax, hardening of the ear bones or other things. Head noises and deafness may be benefited by a small electric vibrator used in the ear. A little of 12 grains of ammoniated mercury to the ounce of petrolatum in the nostrils twice a day may help, because nose and throat disorders are often concerned in it. The tonsils, adenoids and turbinate bones call for an examination.

A READER. Q.—What can I do for white spots on my skin?

A.—One kind is incurable, others are merely temporary from sickness, anaemia, indoor life, need of fresh air, meats, fresh vegetables and uncovered, unstored ration. An outdoor life in the sunlight assists in the treatment. Rub a little of the following into the white spots each night:

Blaud's mass	1 dram
Yellow vaseline	½ ounce
Lanolin	½ ounce

V. L. B. Q.—What can I do for fallen arches:

A.—Electricity, massage and barefoot exercises will probably relieve the trouble.

A.—Cold hands may be due to overexercise or overexertion, or they may be a perfectly normal condition. You should have a complete examination made of the heart, lungs and other structures.

MRS. B. M. B. Q.—How long after an operation for removal of tonsils and adenoids should one show improvement?

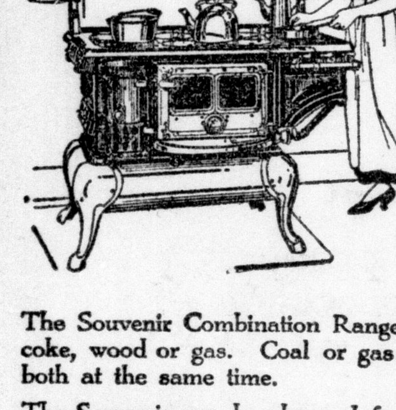

2.—Should you begin to breathe with the mouth closed?

A.—It should take no longer than a week before an improvement should be seen.

2.—Yes.

He cannot always undertake to prescribe or offer advice for individual cases. MY HEART AND MY HUSBAND

ADELE GARRISON'S NEW PHASE OF

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

What Dicky Warned Madge About at the Station.

I was startled at the appearance of Alice Holcombe as Dicky and I came into the little waiting-room of the railroad station at Cresthaven. Her pallor was unusual even for her, and her usually brilliant eyes were lustreless. She looked up at us wanly as we entered, made a desperate effort as she saw Dicky, to rally to her usual sang froid.

"Ah, Mr. Graham," she said, "I do hope you will pardon me for bringing you over here today. But some things have come up that make it imperative for me to see Mrs. Graham for a few minutes."

"So I understand from Mrs. Graham," Dicky answered gravely, "and I am only too glad to come, I assure you. Now tell me how long you wish to talk, and I will wait until that time before coming back."

"Oh, perhaps ten or twelve minutes," she answered nervously, looking at me.

"Make it twenty, Dicky," I said in as maater-of-fact manner as possible.

"All right," nonchalantly. Then he looked around the room with a quizzical air. "Doesn't look as if you'll have much to disturb you," he commented.

Madge's Excuse.

I followed his gaze and smiled. The station held only a cat gravely washing her face, and two women in the corner who were carrying on an animated conversation in the deaf and dumb language. Even if they had possessed the sense of hearing they were out of earshot of our conversation if we spoke with reasonable caution. I felt relieved, for I had feared that there might be a number of people in the station.

"Excuse," Dicky murmured in a tone that no one but I could possibly hear. It is a trick to which he has accomtomed me by long usage, and we find it often most convenient. I turned to Alice.

"I find that I have left my coin purse in the car," I said, although I knew that it was at that moment reposing safely in my bag. "I'll be back in a moment."

Dicky turned to me as soon as the station door closed upon us.

"Don't overlook any bets about those deaf and dumb women," he said. "Almost generally they are clever lip readers, so be sure they get no chance to look at your dainty lips or those of your friend while you're spieling."

"Oh, thank you, Dicky!" I returned gratefully. "I never should have thought of that. And please come back to the station sooner than the twenty minutes. You can stand outside, you know. Somehow I'm worried about Alice."

"She does look as if a steam roller had just gone over her, doesn't she?" he commented. "But I don't think you need to worry. She has a good deal of physical stamina, that old girl. She's simply worried stiff, that's all the matter with her. You'll be down sick with all this worry and rushing around. Your own lamps are back in your head a mile this minute."

He gave me a possessive, protective, worried look that warmed the very heart of me. Why is it, I wonder, that nothing on earth assures a woman of a man's love as to have him genuinely worried about her health?

"You dear," I murmured to his retreating back, then went back to Alice Holcombe, reassured, selfishly enough, by my husband's confident attitude toward her well being.

"Come over to this corner," I said. "It is far more comfortable." Then, when we were seated so that our faces were effectually screened from the other women, I told her what Dicky had said.

"How clever of him," she breathed sincerely. "It would be terrible if anybody found out what I'm going to tell you."

She paused, evidently searching for the most graphic words with which to invest her information, finally blurted out:

"They've found out that Kenneth telephoned you and Milly, too."

"Who are they?" I asked quietly, repressing the impulse to tell her that I knew as much from the visit of the mysterious man. But I saw that in her excitement the only practical thing was to let her tell her story in her own way.

"The telephone girls," she returned. "But one of them doesn't know as much as the other, and the one who knows the most is my cousin and won't tell—"

I put my hand firmly upon her fingers, twisting nervously together in her lap, and made my voice incisive, peremptory:

"Begin at the beginning, talk slowly, and tell me just what you mean," I commanded.

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlysle H. Holcomb

A NEW HOME.

O. Possum and Lady Duck and the Fox children began living together. Some of the forest dwellers thought it very strange that O. Possum should show such a kind disposition toward the one he had once tried to kill. But it wasn't strange at all; many of us do just such odd things when we are angry and then feel sorry afterward. O. Possum had concluded that the noblest thing was to forget.

Lady Duck was an early riser, but O. Possum liked to sleep long in the morning. She always laid him an egg and when breakfast was ready she tickled his nose with a feather. At first he was startled, but when he was fully awake he realized what had happened.

"Quack! Quack! Breakfast is ready," said Lady Duck.

"I am glad you called me," said O. Possum, for I don't get up in the morning very often. And when someone does awaken me I get cross and angry. I guess I was born that way, but I'm going to get over that."

"Quack! Quack!" said Lady Duck, "I wanted to get an early start this morning. The three Fox children and I are going to the river to catch some fish for dinner."

"We are all ready," cried the older of the Fox children.

"Quack! Quack! then we'll go," said Lady Duck. "Now you children follow the path that leads to the river and I'll fly over the forest and get a good place to fish."

Tinker Bob knew what was going to happen, so he went to the river. Lady Duck arrived first and began to fish. Every time she saw a fish she would dive after it and almost every time she brought a fish up in her bill and laid it on the bank. But just as the three children and Tinker Bob arrived a strange thing happened.

"Quack! Quack! help, help!" cried Lady Duck. She began to sink in the water.

The Fox children lost their heads and ran up and down the bank crying. Tinker Bob came to the rescue just in time to grab her by the bill and pull her out. And when he lfted her from the water there was Mr. Turtle clinging to her foot!

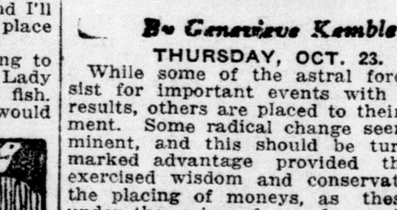

"I thought," said Tinker, "that something was going to happen like this. Now Mr. Turtle you will have to go into the forest for a trial before the king."

So the Foxes carried the fish and Lady Duck took to her wings and Tinker led Mr. Turtle into the forest.

Tomorrow—Mr. Turtle's Story.

When Breakfast Was Ready She Tickled His Nose With a Feather.

THURSDAY, OCT. 23.

While some of the astral forces assist for important events with benefic results, others are placed to their detriment. Some radical change seems imminent, and this should be turned to marked advantage provided there be exercised wisdom and conservatism in the placing of moneys, as these are under the reign of an adverse Jupiter. Speculation, investment and all other money risks are hazardous. The prospects are encouraging for those in employment, but all should deal with others with caution and care. Keep judgment, tongue and temper cool and controlled.

Those whose birthday it is may expect some radical change in their lives which should prove to advantage if they use caution and cool judgment in all matters, particularly in their dealings with funds. A child born on this day will be original in ideas, inventive, fond of travel and change and should succeed in employment.

Winnipeg, Oct. 22.—Oats opened ⅛c higher for October at 81c; December unchanged to ⅛c down; May ⅛c lower. Barley unchanged for October, ⅛c lower for December, and ⅛c lower for May. Flax opened unchanged for November and December.

There were 980 cars, including 646 cars of wheat, of all grains inspected yesterday, compared with 1,390 for the same date last year.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Opening: Corn—December, $1.23; May, $1.21¼.

Oats—December, 70½c; May, 73¼c.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Fresh breaks in the price of hogs had a further depressing effect today on the corn market. The fact that, contrary to expectation, the longshoremen's strike was still unsettled, tended also to discourage buyers. In the absence of any positive new bullish developments, no decided power to rally was shown. Opening quotations, which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to ⅞c lower, were followed by a general sag all around.

Oats, like corn, lacked support. After opening ¼c to ½c lower, the market underwent some additional setbacks.

Provisions were weak with hogs and grain. Lard led the decline.

Soap and Water Is Most Potent Agent In Fighting Disease

BELGRADE, Serbia, Oct. ..—American physicians and Red Cross workers conquered the typhus epidemic in Serbia by using soap, scrubbing brushes, kerosene, disinfectants and delousing machines, says Lieut.-Col. Edgar Erskine Hume of Frankfort, Kentucky, director of the American Red Cross here.

"We went into the homes of people and carried the patients out," said Colonel Hume. "At times they were reluctant to leave, and we had a hard task overcoming their fatalism. Often we had to use force. We cleansed them, scrubbed them and literally turned the hose on them.

"Until an effective serum is found, the most potent agent in combatting the disease is soap and water. Mix this with American energy and enthusiasm and you have a combination that will check, if not overcome, any disease that has its origin in dirt.

GREATEST GARAGE VALUE

AN architect would approve of our King Garage. Its construction is on such good principles that absolutely "smooth" wall interior is obtained—no projecting joists or uprights—and clear head-room. At the back are windows, with lights of ribbed glass.

PRESTON PORTABLE GARAGES

include, besides this King Garage with wood sides and metal roof—buildings of the Metal Clad type that conform to the requirements of those city districts in which fireproof buildings are called for. In any one of these Preston Buildings you will find a perfect home for your car—all ready to erect—and so planned that the simply-fitted sections can be handled by two men and the building put up in a few hours.

Keeping the Home Fires Burning

THERE ARE MANY MEN YET LIVING who can tell about going to the neighbor's, miles away perhaps, to "Borrow" a chunk of fire. Until it arrived, no warmth, no light could be kindled. Whole families have shivered for hours until the messenger could return with the precious spark from a neighbor's fireplace.

Today, with a box of

on the shelf, you need not worry least the fire die down in the night, and you can leave your house for weeks without making elaborate plans for getting a fire started when you return.

A match is a little thing, perhaps, but it has made a big difference in the world. And it makes a difference whether you get good matches or poor ones.

The best assurance of match satisfaction you can have is to see that Eddy's name is on the box.

NOBLE—In loving memory of Pte. George Noble, 135th Battalion, attached in France to the 1st Battalion, who died on the field of honor October 22, 1918:

We little thought when we said good-bye,
That we parted forever and you were to die;
The grief that we felt words cannot tell.
You nobly answered your duty's call,
You gave your life for one and all;
But the unknown is the bitterest blow,
None but an aching heart can know.
b —His Loving Wife and Children.

SMITH—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Mary E. Smith, who departed this life one year ago today.

A bitter grief, a shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear.
Our loss is great; we'll not complain,
But trust in God to meet again.
b —Husband and Family.

TOLD FOREMAN TO GET ANOTHER MAN

O'Brien Says He Did Not Think He Would Ever Be Able To Work Again.

"Tanlac is undoubtedly the finest medicine I have ever taken in my life," said J. T. O'Brien of 24 Larch street, Toronto, Ont.

"For a long time," he continued, "I was in a terribly rundown condition, suffered from disordered stomach and kidneys, and just seemed to be played out. I had no appetite and suffered agonies from indigestion and gas on my stomach, I had a dull, aching pain right across the small of my back all the time, and I would get home from work at night feeling completely exhausted. Nothing did me any good. I lost hope of ever getting well, and told the foreman where I worked that he'd have to take on somebody in my place, as I felt I couldn't hold out any longer.

"Then one of the men at the works advised me to try Tanlac. I did so, and I am back on the job every day, now, and feeling just fine. My appetite is speIndid. I eat anything and haven't a sign of indigestion. My kidneys don't bother me, and I have gained several pounds in weight. Tanlac relieved my stomach trouble of twenty years' standing, and that's why I'm boosting it like I do."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

DELAWARE SCHOOLS NO. 3 AND 4 HOLD GOOD SCHOOL YEAR

A successful school fair was held on Friday, Oct. 17, when school sections Nos. 3 and 4, of Delaware Township, put on a show at the school of the latter section. The teachers, Misses Davies and Dale, spared no pains in planning for and preparing the exhibits. In the various classes were entries of exceptional merit, including vegetables, apples, grain, fowl, drawing and writing. The competition between the pupils of the two schools was keen.

While the judging was in progress a program of sports was run off in the schoolyard. Donald Campbell of South Delaware was appointed chairman and called upon different persons for addresses. Among the speakers were George W. Hofferd of the London Normal School; J. Eichenberger, trustee of school section No. 3; I. B. Whale and Mrs. J. Scott. How to Banish Wrinkles and Crow's Feet Quickly

If your face is disfigured with wrinkles, no matter what the cause, you can quickly dispel every line, even the most obstinate, by using a simple, home-made wash lotion. Merely dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel—ingredients found in any drug store. Bathe the face in this, and—presto!—you scarcely believe your own eyes when you look into your mirror and behold the marvelous transformation!

The remarkable astringent action of the saxolite so tightens the skin, wrinkles are literally pressed out. Best of all, this result is not purely temporary, for the lotion also has a healthful tonic action, which tends to strengthen and tone up the weakened tissue, and added benefit may be expected with continued use. Use this once a day for awhile; it cannot injure the most delicate skin. The treatment itself leaves no trace—no one guesses the secret of your increasing youthful appearance.—Advt.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally if You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headache, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

THRILLS, EXCITEMENT AND HEART THROBS IN REX BEACH FILM

"The Girl From Outside" Now At the Majestic.

That a hardened criminal, a crook, a hold-up man, and a dope fiend each have a heart and the spark of human kindness when it comes to a showdown, is proved with clarity in "The Girl From Outside," a Rex Beach novel picturized by Goldwyn, which will be shown at the Majestic for the last

Omit Councillors At Windsor Fest; Result, Trouble

Mayor Winter, Sole Council Official Invited To Prince's Banquet.

WINDSOR, Oct. 21.—With the sole exception of Mayor Winter, none of Windsor's city council has been invited to break bread with the Prince of Wales at the banquet to be held Thursday evening at the Golf Club, and there is much heart burning.

Some of the aldermen had provided themselves with the orthodox "soup and fish" costume in expectation of mingling, but the non-arrival of the invitations has caused them to revise their plans.

Gordon McGregor, chairman of the invitation committee predicted "trouble" when he sent out the few invitations, and he believes he will not be disappointed.

SING RAGTIME TO PUT GINGER INTO PARK RECEPTION

"Johnny's in Town" Will Be School Chant To Prince of Wales.

Even if the man who wrote "Johnny's in Town" did not foresee a royal reception for his raggy efforts, and write "Eddie" in place of "Johnny," the song goes in today's reception program.

Thousands of London school children will chorus "Johnny's in Town" to His Royal Highness, Edward, Prince of Wales, at the reception in Victoria Park this afternoon.

C. B. Edwards, inspector of public schools, announces the full text of the song break from pure formality as follows:

Johnny's in town, Johnny's in town,
And, oh, dearie, oh, dearie, he's been a-roun';
He knows French and ev'rything,
You should hear him when he goes "Oo-la-la-la."
I'm glad he's here, he's such a dear,
And I haven't seen him in a year.
Oh, just think of it, Clarice,
He spent two months in Paris,
And, oh, oh, Johnny's in town.

Johnny's in town, Johnny's in town,
And, oh, dearie, oh, dearie, he's been a-roun'.
Every time he looks at me
He just makes me feel so unnecessary.
I'm glad he's here, he's such a dear,
And I haven't seen him in a year.
The French maid I've just hired,
She will have to be fired,
'Cause, oh, oh, Johnny's in town.

COMPLETE PLANS TO DEPOSIT COLORS OF 33RD IN ST. PAUL'S

Impressive Ceremony To Take Place Thursday Morning—Lieut.-Col. Rance To Command.

Final arrangements were made at a meeting at the G. W. V. A. building last night for the ceremony of depositing the colors of the 33rd Battalion, C.E.F., in St. Paul's Cathedral Thursday morning.

The men will fall in at the armories and march to St. Paul's, arriving there at 11:15 in command of Lieut.-Col. H. T. Rance, formerly second in command of the battalion. It is expected that 300 or 400 will be in line.

The same color party, which bore the colors when they were deposited in Canterbury Cathedral in 1916, will assist Thursday. Bishop Williams will officiate and deliver a short address. The 33rd Battalion band will accompany the parade.

As the colors were presented to the battalion by the I.O.D.E., regents of that organization will occupy the chancel. The military will use the main entrance to the cathedral, and civilians the north and south doors. Space will be also allotted to the members of the I.O.D.E.

After the ceremony the men will march to Carling Heights Camp, where they will have dinner and prepare for the afternoon parade.

DYSPEPSIA AND HOME LIFE

What a Relief When All the Family Eat the Same Foods! Avoid Dyspepsia, Sour Risings, Gas—Indigestion From Breakfast Sausage to Dinner Mince Pie.

After mother has struggled two or three hours over a hot fire to do the cooking for a hungry family, it is real enjoyment when there isn't a dyspeptic jinx among them. Of course, a case of dyspepsia or daily indigestion must be looked after. But it is far more to the point to prevent as well as to treat sour stomach, belching, water brash, etc., by such a valuable means as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Coddling the stomach with soft food and predigested stuff merely invites sluggishness.

Eat your little pork sausages for breakfast without fears; have a plate of beans and a piece of pie with cheese for lunch, and end the day with a real dinner, instead of a bowl of bread and milk. Follow each meal with a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and get right back to your natural self.

These tablets digest food and assist the stomach to prepare the content for assimilation in the intestinal tract. Thus you get the practical relief and help which induces a better appetite and a greater freedom in the selection of foods. You will find Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets on sale at any drug store in the United States and Canada, as they are considered one of the standbys by the druggist.

CHILDREN ENJOY NOVEL EVENING'S ENTERTAINMENT

More than 300 children of the Cronyn Memorial Church participated in a novel entertainment in the school house Monday night. The entertainment was planned in connection with the Children's Day service which was held in the church Sunday.

Most of the children came dressed in carnival costumes, and this in itself went a great way in providing entertainment. A grand march was held, in which everyone had an opportunity to see the costumes. The first prizes were awarded to a ghost and a fairy queen.

Following the grand march games were played and a sing-song was held. Taffy, ice cream and other dainties helped to bring the evening to a successful conclusion.

The road past the front of the administration building and through the barracks grounds will be closed to all traffic.

Recipients of decorations only will be allowed in the roped-off inclosure around the presentation stand. Troops to be reviewed will form up by counties on the north and west sides of the presentation stand. Nursing sisters, V.A.D.'s and Red Cross Society on the east side, and the general public behind the rope on the south side.

If strict attention is paid to these instructions there will be no crowding or confusion.

THE highway of knowledge is for those folks who have a clear vision. If your eye cameras no longer easily adjust their foci; if the outer transparency of the eye called the cornea is improperly convexed so that it does not instantly reflect the light; or if the muscles of your iris-diaphragm do not instantly respond to a change of light you need the attention of our skilled optometrist.
