MODEL SCHOOL WIPED OUT

The secretary of the Athens Model School was surprised a few days ago to receive a brief note from the Deputy Minister of Education to the effect that in consequence of the adoption of a certain reorganization (the nature of which was not stated), the Athens Model School would not be continued.

This was altogether unexpected, as the restoration of the Model Schools was equivalent to an admission that a mistake had been made in abolishing them or, at least, that the government's action had been premature.

Shortly after the Model Schools were abolished it was found necessary to place many country schools in charge of young boys or girls who had received absolutely no training as teachers and, in some cases, had not even a Junior Leaving certificate.

Then came such an indignant protest from the people that the government yielded and restored a number of the Model Schools. Judging from the Athens Model, which last fall qualified 27 teachers, the model schools were doing good work and rapidly relieving the shortage. And now, without warning, the government resumes its policy of depriving the country children of an opportunity of entering the teaching profession by attempting to force an attendance at the Normal Schools.

Not many people can afford to send a child to the public and high school for twelve years and then pay out at least $400 for a Normal training.

The vacillating policy of the government in respect to the important matter of education has been such as to earn the unanimous condemnation of the country people of the province. Many students are now passing through the high schools because they relied upon the permanence of the re-established model schools, and to their parents the loss will be serious. It is unnecessary to ask what the Liberals of the province think of this policy, but will the Conservatives vote in favor of it?

LESSON VIII, MAY 25, 1913.

Joseph and Benjamin—Gen. 43: 1-34. Commentary.—I. The second journey to Egypt (vs. 1-15). Notwithstanding the fact that the procuring of more grain from Egypt meant to Jacob the surrender of his beloved Benjamin, he consented to let him go, but with the greatest reluctance, Judah presented a strong and convincing plea, which his father was unable to refuse. If Jacob would permit Benjamin to go, there was a possibility of getting food to sustain the lives of the family, but without food all, including Benjamin, must perish. The custom of the time and place provided that when one would appear before a ruler or one high in authority, he must take a present in order to show him proper respect. Although the famine in Canaan was severe, "halm, spicery and myrrh" were obtainable there, as well as nuts and almonds and honey. II. The eleven at Joseph's house (vs. 16-28). The brothers of Joseph were to have a new experience in Egypt upon their second visit. They were treated harshly upon their first, but now they were invited to enjoy the hospitality of the governor himself. Joseph's steward was commanded to bring them in as personal guests, and they were to look upon such magnificence as they had never seen before. 18. Were afraid.—They were utterly unable to comprehend the new turn of affairs. Their first suspicion led them to connect in some way the taking back to Canaan of the money in their sacks, with this invitation to Joseph's house, and to feel that mischief was about to befall them. Take us for bondmen.—Their having sold Joseph into slavery might well cause them to fear such a fate for themselves. 19. Steward.—An officer who had the management of Joseph's household. His chief servant. Commune with him at the door.—So sure were they that there was to be trouble about the money, that they sought to make full explanation before facing the governor, Joseph. 23. Fear not.—These reassuring words were a source of comfort to the perplexed brothers. Your God.—The steward knew the men were Hebrews, as his words indicated, and he knew something of the true God, Joseph may have told him about his brothers. Hath given you treasure.—The brothers were to be comforted with the thought that the Lord had been merciful to them. I had your money.—By this the steward acknowledged the receipt of the money, and there was no charge standing against the sons of Jacob. Brought Simeon out.—The restoration of Simeon to his brothers was further assurance that no harm was intended. 24. Washed their feet.—It was the custom for travelers upon entering a house to remove their sandals and wash their dust-covered feet. Provide.—Food provided for cattle or pack animals. 25. Made ready the present.—The brothers arranged to present the ruler the present their father had sent from Canaan (vs. 11). Against Joseph came at noon.—In readiness for Joseph's arrival at noon. They should eat bread there.—The state of an Egyptian grand vizier was something of which till then they could have had no idea. The dining chamber was a decorated hall, resplendent with color and gilding, and furnished with regal magnificence. —Geikie. 26. Brought him the present.—... and bowed themselves. They appeared before him as subjects before a ruler. They brought a present and prostrated themselves before him in recognition of his superiority. Thus was fulfilled for the second time the dreams of Joseph in Canaan. On this occasion his eleven brothers bowed before him. 27. He asked them of their welfare.—This was an additional kindness to his brothers, an act of courtesy that should have put them at ease in his presence, yet they must have wondered at his interest in them and their father. 28. Made obeisance.—Without knowing it, they were testifying upon Joseph, whom they formerly hated, the highest honor of which they were capable. III. Joseph's love for Benjamin (vs. 29-34). 29. Saw his brother Benjamin.—Benjamin was but a child, perhaps not more than three years old, when Joseph last saw him. His mother's son.—Benjamin was Joseph's only full brother; the others were half brothers. God be gracious unto thee, my son.—Joseph's graciousness toward Benjamin was the most tender affection, and yet such expressions were often used in a merely formal manner. In this instance, however, there was a volume of meaning in the words. 30. His heart yearned over his brother.—It is not difficult for us to put ourselves in Joseph's place, and imagine his feelings. Sought where to weep.—The time had not yet come for him to reveal to his brothers his identity, and he made haste to escape from their presence before the flood of early memories and the affection of his heart should cause tears to flow. 31. He washed his face.—Retained himself.—Gave no intimation of the deep feelings of his heart, and appeared to them as not being their brother. Set on bread.—Joseph commanded his servants to serve the food. 32. For him by himself.—As being highest in rank. An abomination unto the Egyptians.—The Egyptians feared contamination from mingling with other nations. They were especially opposed to mingling with the Hebrews, because the latter were shepherds. The Egyptians had long been oppressed by the shepherd kings that swept down upon them from the western part of Asia, and they hated all who were engaged in stock-raising. An additional reason for this prejudice was the fact that the Egyptians considered cattle as sacred animals, and the Hebrews slaughtered them or food and for sacrifices. 33. The first born according to his birthright.—The place of honor at the table or tables, for it is probable that they were several, was accorded to the eldest brother, Ruben. The youngest.—Benjamin. The men marvelled.—Well might the men marvel at being arranged at the table thus according to their ages. Joseph thus prepared the way for an open recognition, and sought to impress them with the idea that he knew them better than they imagined.

Whedon. 34. Sent messes unto them from before him.—It was a way of showing favor to a guest for the host to give or send him a portion of food from his own supply. Great attention was shown to a guest by sending a large portion. Five times so much.—A double portion would indicate considerable distinction, but a fivefold portion was a mark of highest honor. Were merry with him.—Joseph's special attention to Benjamin did not bring to light any envy or jealousy on the part of the ten toward their youngest brother. Questions.—What command did Jacob give his sons, and why? On what condition could Joseph be seen by his brothers? Why had Joseph's brothers told him about Benjamin? Whose plea influenced Jacob to permit Benjamin to go to Egypt? What directions did Jacob give his sons about going to Egypt? How did Joseph receive his brothers? How was he affected at the sight of Benjamin? Describe the arrangement of the brothers at the feast. What distinction was shown to Benjamin?

GOOD POULTRY STOCK PAYS.

The poultry industry has advanced so rapidly in the past 10 years that the call for breeding stock, hatching eggs and day-old chicks has led many into that business that, for a while, the beginner, had better stayed out. Too many so-called breeders are but beginners themselves, and their stock in no better condition as to health or productiveness than that of the beginner, and the time is gradually coming when the poultry public will be so much more particular in its selection of stock than is now peddled out in large quantities. True, the haphazard-bred stock has in a large measure been created by a demand for cheap goods, and it is also a fact that when getting this kind of stock the beginner often gets what he paid for, though in some cases not. It is wise for those starting out to look carefully into the merits of the stock they intend to purchase, for there is much difference between the breeding of a good practical poultry-raiser and that of one who has been in and out, for a few years, as day and night.

Correct and careful breeding by one who has passed the experimental stage is productive of results. Hatching eggs, stock or day-old chicks when properly raised will be satisfactory. Haphazard breeding, under poor or indifferent care, will not produce results that will compare with the beginner's care for the fowls, and the up-to-date breeder with a good strain of fowls will produce a better bird than or her fowls for but a few cents above the best market price, for when properly raised, they will produce a low figure. One often hears the beginner say of the high-priced bird, "Why not? The purchase of stock, eggs or chicks should be a matter of business, and not a hobby. It means that the breeder has made good in the showroom or the egg basket, and he has a good strain of stock. The poultry industry has been neglected, and especially the beginner has not been in the good and indifferent breeding and the good or poor results that are obtained from the two, takes several years for any one to establish a strain to produce either the blue at our big show or the red at our smaller ones. The beginner knows which birds are breeders that produce prize-winning stock. It tells the difference between the good and the bad, and which is the drone, and by careful breeding the flock of the high-class bird will be produced. The beginner comes to the men with reputation, and he will be as he should be, a paw for the reputation, for he has a reputation for producing the goods, and takes a large amount to pay for $5 to $10 for a setting of hatching eggs, but small in comparison with the cost of the goods. The beginner establishes a strain, and those obtained from haphazard-bred fowls. The day will come when the beginner will be sold at $10 per hundred, for they can hardly be produced for that sum when it is considered that it takes several years to produce a chick, and in many cases more, especially in the early season, when fertility is not so high, and it takes several months before the chicks were shipped $20 per 100 would be a fair price for utility birds. The beginner should be educated to pay a fair price in the future, and when they do this much satisfaction will be obtained. Chickens will live better, when mature, and breed better and when put in breeding pens will produce birds that are productive.

IS DEATH ON CATERPILLARS

Experimental Farm Man Makes a Discovery.

A sudden death caterpillar exterminator has been discovered, says the Ottawa Citizen. It sounds too good to be true almost, but nevertheless such is the case. To the foreman of the horticultural division at the Central Experimental farm, Mr. H. Holz, the credit is due and the discovery was accidental. The mixture is nothing more or less than pyrethrum powder, 1 part, and common wheat flour, 4 parts, dusted on with a small bellows. The mixture was first tried on Thursday last and as soon as its effectiveness was proved all the young trees in the orchards were gone over.

CARELESS DOCTORS

Montreal Judge Criticises Their Business System.

Montreal despatch: Physicians, lawyers, notaries and other professional were scored by Judge Labeon, in the course of the hearing of a case in the Circuit Court yesterday. "I myself, some time ago," said the Judge, "happened to receive a bill from a physician—one of my good friends. He billed me for $85. I was surprised at the amount. I could not make it out, and asked for details. My good friend, complying with my request, sent me a detailed bill or account. You see, he believed it, when I say that he had quite a few itemized entries dated a certain month—and the interesting part of it all is that during that particular month I was away in Europe, and hence could not have had any consultations with him. The system is bad, excessively bad." The case up for resolution before the court was one of comparatively small import. A physician had entered action against the Tramway Company for $185, alleging that this amount was due him in connection with an accident, and the judge ordered an itemized bill.

NOTES.

Some people never would make a success with poultry. They do not seem to grasp the main principle, which is so essential to the best results in poultry-raising. One must have a real one (not fancied) liking for poultry to make the most out of the business. Utility comes first (for the beginner), for eggs and meat in paying quantities are essential in making poultry-keeping a success. It is good to learn that the fancier, now more than ever, is working with this view in mind, realizing that no breeder will ever remain at the top of the ladder that does not possess a money-earning capacity. The two can be combined by careful selection and breeding—although there is no question that it requires more time to attain the end than to strive for one thing alone, egg-production, or show birds. There is no question but what the duck business has taken on a wonderful boom this season, especially the Indian Runners. They are hardy, not hard to raise, are good egg producers, and the breeders of ducks this year are doing a good business. Turkeys should be raised in greater numbers than is now being done. The White Holland stand confinement, perhaps more than any other, should be tried where only limited space is to be had. They however, do not get as heavy as clean bred water fowls. Any one having a fair acreage should try raising turkeys. Successfully reared they are profitable.

Put the turkey and her poult in an open coop at night where they will be able to get plenty of fresh air. Thoroughly scald the water dishes twice a week and give the little poult clean fresh water. You can feed the little poult and the recognized brands of dry chick feeds widely.

The little poult should never be allowed to eat with the chickens. Feed them on different parts of the farm.

IS DEATH ON CATERPILLARS

Experimental Farm Man Makes a Discovery.

A sudden death caterpillar exterminator has been discovered, says the Ottawa Citizen. It sounds too good to be true almost, but nevertheless such is the case. To the foreman of the horticultural division at the Central Experimental farm, Mr. H. Holz, the credit is due and the discovery was accidental. The mixture is nothing more or less than pyrethrum powder, 1 part, and common wheat flour, 4 parts, dusted on with a small bellows. The mixture was first tried on Thursday last and as soon as its effectiveness was proved all the young trees in the orchards were gone over.

The methods of applying are simple. The powder is either blown on with a bellows or it may be sprinkled on the nest with the hand. The addition of flour to the powder is to cheapen the mixture. The two ingredients should be mixed and allowed to stand for twenty-four hours before using. In this way the properties of the pyrethrum, or as it is commonly called, "insect powder," are transported to the flour.

In the early morning when the caterpillars are in clusters is the best time to apply the mixture. Later in the day they are apt to scatter among the branches and much more powder is required to say nothing of the extra time required in going over a tree. Liquid sprays of Paris green or bordeaux mixture, while effective, are slower in their action.

A representative of the Citizen visited the farm yesterday and spent some time in the orchard where the trees were being dusted. On one particular tree there were nine large nests of caterpillars. They were dusted in turn and in fifteen minutes practically every insect was dead. Trees that had been dusted on Thursday and on Saturday were visited and nothing remained of the nests but the dried up bodies of the caterpillars, showing the effectiveness of the mixture.

Up to the present the insecticide has not been figured out from an economical standpoint, but where the trees are many and large the use of the mixture would perhaps be out of the question for the reason that too much time would be required in dusting all the nests, but for the farmer or city dweller with only a few fruit or ornamental trees the foregoing mixture is, in far the best and the easiest to apply. There is also the possibility that it may not prove so effective on caterpillars that have become full grown. At the time the experiment was carried on they were about one and one-half inches in length.

As soon as the discovery was made it was immediately reported to the entomological branch and further experiments will be tried.

PURE BRED STOCK

Live Stock Branch Will Distribute Sires.

Realizing that inability to secure the use of well-bred male animals is at the present time one of the greatest difficulties of standing in the way of live stock development in many parts of Canada, particularly in the newly settled districts, the Dominion Department of Agriculture, through the live stock branch, is this year undertaking a widespread distribution of pure bred stallions, bulls, rams and boars. The original cost of the animals will be borne by the department and they will be placed in the hands of such local organizations as agree to the conditions governing the distribution. In a word, these sires will remain the property of the department, but the local associations will be responsible for their proper maintenance and an agent under the general supervision of officers of the live stock branch. In the case of stallions, the members of the associations will also be required to pay a fee covering an annual insurance premium. All animals distributed will be bought from home breeders and will be Canadian bred. As far as possible, they will be purchased in the province in which they are to be placed. In this way Canadian breeders will receive encouragement and their market will be increased not only directly but also indirectly through the emphasis given throughout the country to the value of pure bred sires. It may be added that it is not the intention to place the animals in districts where suitable male animals of the same class are already owned by private individuals. The aim is rather to aid sections where pure bred sires are lacking and as well to encourage new communities in following a proper and intelligent system in breeding.

All bulls distributed will be purchased, subject to the tuberculin test, and only stallions which have passed a rigid veterinary inspection for soundness will be selected. In order to take advantage of this form of assistance it will be necessary for interested parties in an section to undertake the organization of a local association in whose hands such sires as are required may be placed. Complete information regarding the rules and regulations governing the distribution may be made upon application to the live stock commissioner, Ottawa. Whenever possible an officer of the branch will render assistance in the perfecting of the necessary local organization.

A NEW BULLETIN

On Forest Conditions in Rockies Reserve.

"Forest Conditions in the Rocky Mountain Forest Reserve" is the title of a pamphlet (Bulletin No. 33) just issued by the Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior. It contains the result of investigations made by Mr. T. W. Dwight, M.E., on the forests of the southern part of the reserve, which extends along the eastern side of the Rocky Mountains from the international boundary for some distance north of the latitude of Edmonton. The bulletin treats of the present general condition of the forest of the reserve, and of the influence on them of various factors such as their height above sea level, the number of trees per acre, etc. The effect of lumbering fire, and other agencies on the forest is then discussed, and, after a short scientific discussion of the different species, and the manner in which they are growing up to form the new forest, the management of timber-cutting operations is considered. Among the topics treated under this head are the disposal of the brush, the method of marking trees for cutting, and the cost of maintaining forestry methods. A short consideration of the practice on the U. S. National Forests in Montana, where the forests are very similar in character to those in Southern Alberta is given, and the bulletin concludes with a number of technical forestry tables. The pamphlet is illustrated with over a dozen half-tone illustrations. The study is being continued this summer. Copies may be obtained gratis from the Director of Forestry, Ottawa.

MORGAN'S GIFT OPENED.

Aix-les-Bains, France, May 19. The Leon Blanc Hospital, given by the late J. Pierpont Morgan to the city of Aix-les-Bains as a memorial to his former physician, Dr. Leon Blanc, was formally opened to-day by the Mayor, in the presence of representatives of the French Government, of the Red Cross Society, and of a number of medical organizations. A great gold medal, which was to have been given to the late Mr. Morgan, was received by his nephew, Walter Burns, and by Henry P. Davidson, who was a partner of the late financier.

TO FIGHT U. S. BEEF TRUST.

San Francisco, May 19.—The purchase of four huge refrigerator steamships for the transportation of frozen beef and mutton from Australia and New Zealand was announced yesterday by a trans-Pacific line. The deal was made with an English firm, and within a few months the new refrigerator line will be in operation between San Francisco and the Antipodes. A shipment of 400,000 pounds of meat will arrive here to-day. Second thoughts are only best when they arrive on time.

HURT IN RUNAWAY

Niagara Falls Family Had Serious Mishap.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., despatch: Mrs. Jacob Miller, wife of a well-known contractor of Niagara Falls, Ont., and her daughter, Rose, were seriously injured in a runaway accident yesterday. Lena and Torin, two other children, were also hurt. The woman and her three children were riding in a buggy back of a spirited horse, which became frightened at a passing automobile, and dashed down the street. The animal ran into a string of freight cars and the four occupants were thrown out. Rose sustained a fractured skull and loss of consciousness. Mrs. Miller is also in a serious condition. All were taken to their home, Queen Street, Niagara Falls, Ont., and the animal was caught after it crossed the bridge to Canada.

PLOTS THAT FAILED

Patty could scarcely believe that the lovely young girl who greeted every one with such a sweet "good-morning" was the same vicious creature whom she had left but a few moments since.

Although India Haven was young— but seventeen—the life she had led had told upon her beautiful beauty, and like all Parisiennes, she had taken to cosmetics early—though she was so skilled in their use that even an expert could never have detected that there was anything artificial about one so young and seemingly faultlessly fair. Her lateness in breakfasting was not commented upon, owing to Mrs. Mack's remark that the young lady was certainly extremely tired after her long journey across sea and land.

Mr. Haven greeted India cordially, and Bab nearly smothered her with kisses, whispering in her ear that, lively as she had seemed the evening before, she thought her a thousand times prettier now.

"See, the sun is shining, India," she rattled on, "and it is as warm as a June morning. We can have the affair out in the grounds."

"Remember this is April, Bab," replied India, smiling, "and the first of April is that. The day may fool you ere night can draw her sable curtains. I don't want to predict, but there is likely to be a shower."

"Well, I'll take everything as it comes," remarked Bab, philosophically; "whether the party is an indoor or an outdoor one, we are sure to have a jolly time. I assure you of that, India."

The French girl made no reply, though her color heightened a little, for she was thinking that at that party she would meet the lover whom they had destined for Bab, and whom she had sworn to win, by fair means or foul.

CHAPTER VII.

On the afternoon of the day which preceded Bab's party two young men, both in hunting garb, were tramping leisurely up the New England hills, chatting pleasantly together as they wended their way along the narrow path—now side by side, then again in single file, as the path permitted. The foremost was tall, dark and lithe, with a face tanned by wind and weather—black haired, black eyed, black mustached. Rupert Downing belonged to one of the best families of East Haven, and as he was worth a million or more in his own right, he was considered one of the best catches in the matrimonial market. His companion we have met before.

Those brown eyes, and the deep, hearty laugh could belong to no one else but Clarence Neville.

"It was right good of you, old fellow, to consent to run up from Boston," said Downing, "and spend a couple of weeks with me, with a promise of beastly weather in the country starting you in the face. But by the way, I don't take any much credit to myself, after all, as being the magnet that drew you here. I have Miss Haven's coming party to ing more than all the garden parties he could ever attend.

The next day passed in much the same fashion. There was a canter over the hills in the morning and a climb up the mountains in the afternoon. Clarence Neville would have quite forgotten the garden party set down for that evening if his friend had not called his attention to it when they were smoking their cigars on the porch after dinner and the dusk was deepening into darkness.

"I suppose one must face the inevitable," sighed Neville, rising and tossing aside his cigar. "It will not take me long to get into my clothes; then I will be at your service."

Clarence Neville had not had interest enough to fix his friend to point out the Haven mansion during his two days' sojourn in the village. His surprise, therefore, was great to find that their destination was the grand mansion on the brow of the hill, which he had been admiring as he passed it the day before.

The young men were fashionably tate. The house and grounds were full of guests as they arrived, and when their names were announced, Mr. Haven himself stepped forward to greet them and have a few moments' chat with the son of his lifelong friend ere they were presented to his daughter and India.

"A frank, open, hearty young fellow, like his father was at his age," was Mr. Haven's mental comment, "and the strong grasp of his hand as it shook mine showed a true, hearty spirit. I hope Bab will like him and that he will like her."

He accompanied the young men himself to the drawing room to present them to his daughter and niece, but as he crossed the threshold he saw only Bab surrounded by a bevy of young friends.

A little accident had happened to India's dress, and she had hurried from the drawing room but a moment before up to the boudoir to rearrange it.

Was it fate? Ah, who can tell?

Mr. Haven presented Rupert Downing first; he did not notice the expression of intense admiration on the young man's face so eager was he in his desire to present his companion.

"Bab, my dear," he murmured, "and now permit me to present the son of my old friend, Mr. Neville."

Bab raised her blue eyes, and a startled look came into her face. If she had not clutched her bouquet of white rosebuds so tightly it would have fallen to her feet.

Ah, where was India that she was not with her, as she promised she would be, when this terrible moment arrived—in this country, at least. In Europe—in Paris, for instance—they are adept in intrigues and folly. Some time you must remind me to tell you of one little experience I had in "Gay Paris," as they call it. I met a girl there who was stunning, young in years, but old in the world's ways. It's a long story—too long for me to relate now—but George, it's thrilling, and it would serve as a warning to any of the fellows of our set going abroad."

Their conversation drifted into other channels, and this topic was not resumed. The afternoon wore away at last, night came on, and when the golden stars appeared in the blue sky Downing announced that it was time to turn their faces homeward, if the expected to get a warm supper, which both felt that they could do ample justice to.

That evening they sat up late over their cigars, talking over old reminiscences of college days, and when the two young men parted for the night Neville declared that he had enjoyed the even-

DANDRUFF WOULD LIFT OFF IN SHEETS

Hair Dry and Lifeless. Almost All Hair Out on One Side of Head. Used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. Hair Coming in Nicely and Scales All Gone.

176 Adelaide St., St. John, N. B.—"I cured my little boy of a bad case of dandruff with Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The dandruff was so bad it formed on his head soon after birth. The hair was dry and lifeless and almost all out on one side of his head. I washed the little head twice a day with warm water and Cuticura Soap, dried it, and very carefully applied the Cuticura Ointment and in about an hour took a very fine little comb and the dandruff would lift off in sheets and some of the hair would come out. Then I used some Cuticura Ointment on and let it remain till time to wash the head again. I used a large box of Cuticura Ointment with the Cuticura Soap and his hair was coming in nicely and the scales all gone. Today he has as nice a head of hair and as free from dandruff as you would wish to see." (Signed) Mrs. C. P. Keast, May 20, 1912.

A single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post card Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 322, Boston, U. S. A.

She could have believed herself in the midst of a dream. For a few seconds everything seemed to be quite still around her. She made a desperate effort to arouse herself from the curious trance-like feeling that was gradually overmastering her.

She realized that the brown head was bent low before her, but she did not dare to raise her dark eyes, knowing that she was about to look on the face that was to hold the light of earth and sky for her.

Then the deep, rich voice, every cadence of which she remembered but too well, broke the spell, calling her back from heaven to earth.

"I mistake not, Miss Haven, your niece, and I have met before, and very romantically, too," he was saying.

India looked up at him, her whole soul shining in her dark wondrous eyes, her crimson lips parted in a smile that would have dazzled most any other man. Her whole frame trembled, and her heart beat so loudly and so rapidly that she was sure he must hear it and under-stand her! "Come! come! at last! at last! oh, how I love him! love him! love him!"

Mr. Haven looked surprised at his companion, and young Mr. Neville explained how their first meeting had taken place, concluding with the remark: "But I should not recall such a thrilling, episode amid such a scene as this, for I happily feel that it ends well, you know."

Mr. Haven left his young friend chatting merrily with India, but he could not help but notice how the young man's gaze wandered back across the room to the lovely, laughing, childish face of his darling little Bab.

He was a keen reader of human nature, and he saw that Clarence Neville's admiration for his daughter was sincere; but for the girl herself he could not answer; he had never understood young girls. Meanwhile Clarence Neville talked gaily enough to the beautiful dark-eyed girl who seemed to desire to keep him by her side. He was always in high spirits, always full of vivacity—a man above all others to charm a girl like India by his manner and his bright, unflinching wit.

As he talked to her the world looked quite different to this girl, who had detested all mankind but a few short weeks before.

"How warm it is in here," she murmured, looking eagerly at the open French window. "It would have been a thousand times nicer to have held this affair out on the lawn."

He laughed good naturedly, knowing this was but a tact challenge to him to invite her out into the grounds, saying carelessly: "Shall we walk out onto the porch or down on the lawn? It is indeed oppressively warm within doors on a night like this, especially if one is in a large throng."

India laid the tips of her little gloved hands upon his arm, wondering if he would notice how her hand trembled. As they stepped out into the grounds, odorous with the heavy perfume of flowers, it seemed to the girl that she was walking straight into Paradise.

India had been noted for her brilliancy in conversation, her dazzling wit, the readiness of her replies, but to-night—ah, what was the strange, wondrous spell that had come over her eyes and her smiles spoke volumes, but her crimson, trembling lips seemed dumb; she was content to be near him and listen to his words, wishing the walk would never end.

Despite the gaiety with which she had been surrounded in the past, ay, and in the present, the sense of chill and loneliness, of unrealized wishes and unsatisfied desires had never left her. She thought of the poet's beautiful words:

"She never knew she had a heart 'Till she was conscious of its loss."

Suddenly Clarence Neville's conversation veered around to the subject uppermost in his thoughts—her Cousin Barbara.

"I shall tell Miss Haven that this first party of hers is a great success," he said. "I did not expect to know hardly a soul here to-night, and I find fully half a hundred personal friends, which was quite an agreeable surprise to me."

"Did you think you would meet— school children?" queried India quizzically.

"Yes," he confessed, "I quite imagined so, but I fancy Miss Barbara must be younger by several years than the majority of her guests. By the way," he added, enthusiastically, "what a charming bit of dainty girlhood your little Miss Barbara is, to be sure—an artless child of nature."

"Do you admire her?" murmured the French girl in a constrained voice, despite her desperate attempt to speak carelessly.

"Admire her! Indeed I do—even more than the words express," he cried enthusiastically. "She is the loveliest girl that I have ever beheld!"

If he had but glanced at his companion as death in the moonlight, and her dark eyes grow stormy with sudden passion, and her little hands clench themselves tightly together.

"Barbara is not so much of a child as you seem to imagine," she murmured, her voice very husky and strained. "A girl who is deeply in love has left such of her childhood behind her."

"In love!" "Keen disappointment, though he could hardly believe why the very thought was so keenly distasteful to him. "I quite fancied she had had no experience with love or lovers—I add this much—fortunate indeed is the man who wins her."

He spoke with such warmth, such earnestness, that the girl by his side grew whiter still and most ghastly, even her lips lost their color.

At that moment he turned to her, noticed it and exclaimed in alarm: "Are you ill, Miss Haven? You look as though you were about to swoon. The change from the heated drawing-room to these cool grounds has been too much for you. Let me seat you on this garden bench and fetch you a scarf about her shoulders, I shall be back directly."

He was gone in a trice, and India was left alone with her own warring, turbulent thoughts. "They both fell in love with each other at first sight," she groaned, burying her white face in her cold, trembling hands, "and I—oh, Heaven!—I love him so. I would die if she should win him."

"But she shall not!" she cried, beating the air fiercely with her clenched hands. "I will separate them. No one shall come between India Haven and the man upon whom she has set her heart. I swear it. The girl is beautiful to-night, ay, as beautiful as a poet's dream, and when I looked into her dimpled baby face I feared for myself. I had a terrible presentiment of it. I shall—"

The sentence was never finished; a shadow stole across the moonlit path. She glanced up. Surely Mr. Neville could not have returned so soon.

A man, young, dark and handsome, and in full evening dress, stood before her, staring down into her face with eyes fairly bulging from their sockets.

"India, the beautiful Parisienne!" he cried. "Great God! am I mad or am I dreaming? What are you, of all women, doing here?" and glancing up in terror at the tone, she found herself standing face to face with—Rupert Downing.

STRENGTH FOR WEAK STOMACH

Can Only Be Had Through Rich Red Blood.

When the blood is poor and thin and the stomach in consequence is imperfectly supplied with oxidized blood and nerve force, the digestive process becomes slow and fermentations of the food goes on, with the formation of gas and certain acids. The pressure of the gas causes pain in the stomach; sometimes it affects the heart. When the gas is belched out through the mouth the patient is temporarily relieved, the sour risings in the throat, and the burning sensations in the throat and stomach are caused by acid fermentations. There are plenty of things to neutralize these acids or to "sweeten the stomach," as it is called, but they do not cure the trouble. Pure, rich blood which will tone up the stomach and enable it to do the work nature intended it to do, is the only road to a cure. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new, rich, red blood—that is why they cure even the most obstinate cases of indigestion. The following is a bit of proof. Miss Minnie Greene, of Hall's Bridge, Ont., says: "About a year ago I was greatly troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate caused me pain and distress. I would feel as though I was starved, but when meal time came the sight of food caused a feeling of loathing. There were days when I could not even hold milk on my stomach, and my head would ache so that I could hardly keep from screaming. Only those who have suffered from stomach trouble know the torture I suffered. I tried almost every remedy recommended, but found not the least benefit until I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These I used for a couple of months and they worked a perfect cure and I am again enjoying good health, and able to eat freely all kinds of food."

If you are suffering from indigestion or any other trouble due to poor, watery blood, begin to cure it with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ARABIAN JUSTICE.

Convicting Thief by Ordeal of Red-hot Knife.

The ordeal of the red-hot knife is thus described by Abdullah Mansur (G. Wyman Bury) as he saw it in "The Land of Uz." The case was one of theft from a caravan. Two young men were implicated, one a palace slave, the other a young Arab, a native of the oasis. Each accused the other, with many oaths and much mutual vilification. Finally both invoked the ordeal of the knife.

In due course a venerable Arab appeared, bringing the instrument with him. His family for generations had possessed the hereditary right to administer the ordeal. The knife seemed a very ordinary piece of hoop iron, shaped roughly into a sort of blade about eighteen inches long. The name and attributes of Allah were engraved upon it, and it was fitted with a plain wooden hilt.

An attendant brought a bowl of water and a brazier of live charcoal, in which the knife was inserted. The Arab youth received the ordeal first. He repeated his assertions of innocence and, rinsing out his mouth with water, put out his tongue, which was seized at the tip by the owner of the knife. The instrument, growing dull red, was drawn from the brazier, and with it three light blows were struck upon the victim's tongue, which was then inspected. It merely showed slight white marks where the hot iron had fallen.

The slave's turn then came, and when he flinched at the contact of the hot iron or hid failed to keep his tongue sufficiently moist I cannot say but the heat of the blade picked off a small patch of skin and showed a bleeding surface. According to the rules of the ordeal, that proved his guilt, and he was led away to duress vile.

NEWSPAPER EXPENSES HIGH.

(Guelph Mercury.)

An exchange draws attention to a fact often overlooked, when it refers to the rapid increase in the cost of running a newspaper office. Where newspapers are sold for reduced in number each year. Galt with a population of 12,000, now has only one newspaper, and that one is supported by only half the population, can now only support the one sheet. Elmira's two papers united at New Year's; Hillsburg's "Herald" tells no more. No sphere of activity in recent years has been "harder hit" by the advanced cost of running business than the newspaper office.

WOMEN ARE PRAISING DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Nova Scotia Mother Tells How They Cured Her Aches and Pains, and Made Her a Well Woman Again.

ECUM SECUM BRIDGE, Halifax Co., N. S., May 12—(Special)—From Vancouver to Halifax come daily reports of the splendid work Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing for the suffering women of Canada, and this little place can show a splendid cure of its own, Mrs. Orastus Pace, the mother of a large family, was a sufferer from those aches and pains only women know. Dodd's Kidney Pills did it.

"I had a pain in my left side and down through my hips," Mrs. Pace states, "I had headache all the time, my heart was weak, and at times a pain around it added to my fears. Some days I was hardly able to walk. I read of a number of cures of cases like mine by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and sent for three boxes. To-day I am a well woman, and can do as much work as ever I could."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cured Mrs. Pace because her troubles came from diseased kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure diseased kidneys, and as ninety per cent of women's troubles come from kidney trouble, Dodd's Kidney Pills have come to be known as suffering woman's best friend.

NO LURE TO LABRADOR

DR. GRENFELL'S MISSION FIELD IS A DESOLATE LAND.

The Best Friend of the Native is His Husky Dog, But the Animal is Also His Worst Enemy and Will Eat Even His Owner at a Pinch—Dr. Grenfell's Reindeer Are Proving a Boon to Natives.

Travelers in the interior of Labrador tell us of a land of awful desolation, a country whose surface is strewn with huge boulders, three or four feet deep in some places, and much of the time a barren and frozen waste. Bears, wolves, otters, foxes and beaver are plentiful and the wild caribou roam at will.

The warm waters of the Gulf stream bring to the British Isles warmth and verdure, but the shores of Labrador are bathed by the icy waters of the Arctic current. Even in summer the coast is often blocked by icebergs. The Eskimo dog or husky, as he is called, is the only animal in all that land that can be called a domestic animal, and he is a savage creature, half wolf, who, if hungry, does not hesitate to make a meal of his driver, or even the whole family, as is sometimes the case. The natives admit that the husky, though so useful, is a great check upon the prosperity of the people, for the keeping of goats, sheep and hens has been tried time and again, but they only served for new delicacies for the ravenous dogs. There being no grass in that region it is impossible to keep cows, and the people scarcely know the taste of milk or butter. The food is largely fish or meat, often eaten raw, and no objection is made if it is not very fresh. Dried fish or bread made of poor flour even if it is faithfully chewed by the mother, makes poor food for a baby and it is little wonder that many of the poor, half-fledged little creatures never live to grow up.

Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, who has for years done such a grand work among the people of Labrador and Newfoundland, and proved himself not only a wise physician, but a loyal friend and benefactor in numberless ways, conceived the idea of introducing reindeer into the country which in time would take the place of the Eskimo dogs. The seals are fast disappearing from those waters and the settlers are being starved out for want of the food and clothing those animals have long provided. The experiment so successful in Alaska Dr. Grenfell felt sure would be equally so in Labrador, and the reindeer would furnish milk, meat and clothing, as well as gentle and faithful service. Money was contributed for the purpose, and with three Lapland herders and their families 300 reindeer were sent over by steamer from Norway and arrived at St. Anthony in the north of Newfoundland in January, 1908. The animals were not consulted as to whether they desired the trip on the water but elaborate preparations had to be made for their comfort on board ship.

Quantities of moss, their usual food, was brought along and an imitation waterfall arranged to induce them to drink. Their great spreading horns which would be greatly in the way, and take up too much room, were removed, a painless operation, and they would grow again in time. The voyage was safely made and the animals arrived in fine condition. They had to be landed on the ice but made their way to the shore and at once began to browse upon the spruce shrubs showing above the snow, not at all disturbed by their new surroundings.

They were kept herded at St. Anthony for a time, needing little attention except to be kept safe from the dogs, seeking their food in the moss which covers the land in winter as well as in summer; one square mile of moss will furnish food enough for 30 reindeer continually by annual growth.

Lapland families who accompanied the herd were a source of great wonder and interest to the natives by their odd picturesque dress and queer language, and the dogs eyed with astonishment and perhaps anticipation the strange creatures that had come, if they had but known it, to take away their occupation and lessen their chances for life.

The herd of 300 has grown to more than a thousand, and in summer are kept fenced off with wire on a perfectly treeless headland, called St. Anthony Cape, seven miles away from the town. A winter camp has been built two miles across a thickly wooded ridge of hills from which stretches a peninsula of over a hundred square miles of barrens and marshes, just the sort of grazing land for such animals.

Each spring hundreds of little fawns are added to the herd and although a few have been killed by the dogs and some shot by hunters who, unaccustomed to seeing so many deer, killed a few by mistake, the experiment is proving a great success.

It is a wonderful sight to see the enormous herd as they pour over the steep hills urged on by the herders and the clever little Lap dogs which yap excitedly. Their great antlers snap and their hoofs click like so many castanets.

A dog team on a long journey must carry its own food for its one meal a day, but the reindeer feeds himself by the wayside. They will stand the cold much better than does, for nature has provided them with a heavy coat of winter and seem specially adapted for cold countries. For the northlands the reindeer is as useful as the camel for the desert, the greater the cold the better he thrives.

Their strong shoulders seem made on purpose for pulling, though the animals are so easily, and not understanding this new sensation, become so used to being inclined to stop and stand a somewhat inconvenient time, standing at times. However, the species is improving both in size and intelligence and wise training will accomplish much.

DEATH AT GLEN BUELL

Mr Edward Westlake, a prominent and esteemed resident of Elizabethtown, passed away on Sunday morning at 7.30 at his residence, one-half mile from Glen Buell. He had been in ill-health since early last winter, and during the past few days little hopes were entertained towards his recovery. The late Mr Westlake was born in the vicinity of where he died and had lived until August would have reached his sixty-third birthday. He followed farming all his life, his farm being located at the point where the B. W. & N. Railway crosses in that district the crossing being known as "Point Edward," named in his honor. His wife, who was Miss Lee, also of Glen Buell, survives with three children, namely, Delbert, who occupies an adjoining farm; Mrs Wm. Clow, of the Front road, west of Brockville, and Miss Mabel at home. Another daughter, Miss Jessie, died between three and four years ago. The late Mr Westlake was a man whom to know was to hold in the highest regard of esteem. He had many warm friends, all of whom feel that in his passing, a citizen has been removed, whose place in life of the community, will never be filled.

Mrs C. P. Bishop and two lady friends motored from Toronto to Athens yesterday. To-day Mrs G. W. Beach joined the party and together they are enjoying the salmon fishing at Charleston Lake.

Miss Gwendolyn Green, a student at the B. C. I., who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Brockville General Hospital, was able to return to her home at Oak Leaf on Tuesday.

A number of boys held a firecracker celebration in the village on Tuesday evening. They were probably not aware that the explosion of firecrackers in the village is contrary to local by-law.

AGRICULTURAL INSTRUCTION

A recent issue of the Ottawa Citizen is devoted to a write-up of the work of the various District Representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and gives the following report of Leeds and Grenville:—

Leeds and Grenville branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture was opened up in June, 1912, with W. H. Smith as representative, Athens being selected as the most central place for the location of the office.

In Leeds and Grenville counties, as is common in the greater part of Eastern Ontario, the farmers resort to dairying as their main source of revenue. The majority have to a considerable extent overlooked the possibilities of such branches of industry as horse raising, bacon production, orcharding, poultry keeping and bee keeping, as side lines which may be profitably handled on a dairy farm.

Quite a number of the farms in the combined counties are sadly in need of underdrainage. It is certain that no one thing will accomplish more toward the advancement of agriculture in this district than extensive laying of tile. Many of the farmers are aware of this fact, and judging from the number of applications for drainage surveys now on file in this office, a large acreage will be underdrained this coming season. Scarcity of labor seriously hampers farmers now in the matter of getting drains put down. The farmers' clubs are considering this matter, and expect to make an organized effort to secure a tile ditcher in the county.

It is a regrettable feature that so few farmers' organizations exist in these counties. At present we have three farmers' clubs, two of these were operating successfully when this office was established, the third was organized last month, with an initial membership of twenty-five. The Lansdowne Farmers' Club while holding meetings for the general discussion of agricultural topics and buying seed grain, etc. as do the others, is now forming a co-operative marketing association under the auspices of the club. The intention is to take up the marketing of eggs first, but there is no doubt that other lines of farm produce will be included later.

That the club movement has not been given very serious consideration by the farmers up to this time has been gleaned through conversing with them on the subject. There are several communities that can be organized to good advantage, and in all probability there will be several more clubs in existence here in the course of another year.

The Leeds and Grenville Counties Beekeepers' Association has been operating for some time now, but it is not as well supported by the beekeepers of the counties as it should be. The annual meeting of the association which was held in this office last month was fairly well attended, and those present derived much benefit as the result of the discussion at that meeting.

The work from this office developed slowly. At the outset just a few farmers were aware of the nature of the district representative movement. These men were quite anxious to assist the representative. The first few months after the office was opened the representative made it a point to advertise the fact as well as he could, also the objects in opening, by addressing farmers' meetings and using the local papers. In the fall he attended local fairs with a tent exhibit which did much to interest some of the more progressive farmers.

The work of the office has developed rapidly of late. There are a large number of farmers interested in the work, who are going to avail themselves of the services of the district representative this coming season. The short courses in judging live stock and seed grain which we held caused many of the farmers to look in the counties during the winter with much favor on the movement.

The district representative, Mr W. H. Smith, spent his early days in Ridgeway, Kent county, where his public and high school training was received. Leaving high school, he spent some years getting actual farm experience in Lambton and Huron counties, as well as in Minnesota. Entered Guelph college with class '11 but at the end of the second year dropped out, finishing with class '12. After taking the third year examinations, spent some time in Dundas county as assistant to Mr A. D. Campbell, who was district representative for the counties of Leeds and Grenville.

The Housekeeper

Blue ointment with kerosene oil mixed in equal proportions and applied to the beds is an unfailing bedbug remedy.

To prevent milk curdling, add a liberal pinch of carbonate of soda to each quart before putting on to boil.

To whiten ivory ornaments, rub them well with unaltered butter and place in the sunshine.

To whiten ivory ornaments, rub them well with unaltered butter and place in the sunshine.

A teaspoonful of cheese added to the oyster soup gives a delicate and unusual seasoning.

When using oil for frying, the oil taster can be taken away by making the oil very hot, and then fry a piece of onion in it.

When sugar and flour are used in a custard it is a good plan to combine these dry ingredients and then add to the beaten egg before turning into the milk.

Wood alcohol will take varnish stains from wash goods. Soak them a few minutes in the alcohol.

If you rinse a plate with cold water before breaking the eggs on it, add to them a pinch of salt and then stand where there is a current of air, you will have no difficulty in beating them to a froth.

WHEN BABY CRIES

When the baby cries continually do not put it down for pure ugliness—that is not the baby's nature—it is to be happy and laughing.

A LONG CHASE.

Went 25,000 Miles for Rare Butterfly.

A telegram from Chicago revealed the interesting story of a 25,000 mile chase for a butterfly, told by Mrs. William Carleton Yange, wife of an English entomologist connected with the French Institute of Entomology, who is on her way to join her husband in New York.

But perhaps the action of largest effect in this way would be through a sane form of taxation. Every poorest man pays taxes on the building he calls his home, probably in the form of rent.

The Japanese Composer.

The workers in the composing rooms of the Japanese journals are confronted by a complicated task. The printing of those journals is done in two languages, the "Kana" and the square characters serving as a key to the other.

It is said that in Japan there are from four thousand to five thousand of these ideographs in everyday use. It follows, therefore, that the Japanese compositor must be something of a scholar.

He sits himself at a table, upon which are spread the 47 Kana characters. As copy is received he cuts it into small strips and hands each strip to a boy. This lad proceeds along the composing room until he has finally collected from a number of cases arranged in files the different ideographs desired.

At last all the ideographs called for are placed before the compositor. He dishes out the corresponding types in the Kana character, and finally sets up the whole for "proofing."

DAIRY RECORD CENTRES.

The marked increase of interest in cow testing is one of the good signs of the times. New associations are being organized and new dairy record centres have been established this year at Alexandria and North Gower, Ont., Shawville and Ste. Henadeine, Que., Scotsburn, N. S., and Sussex, N. B.

With a simple record system, there is no valid reason why a dairy farmer should harbor the type of cow that is reluctant to pay her way; with systematic records of the yield of each cow, he is in a position to build up a herd in which each individual pays a good profit.

Story of a Merchant Who Almost Lost His Business and His Health Through Neglecting Early Symptoms of Disease.

"My life for years has been of secondary character," writes T. B. Titchfield, head of a well known firm in Buckingham. "Nine hours every day I spent at office work and took exercise only on Sunday. I disregarded the symptoms of ill-health, which were all too apparent to my family. I grew thin, then pale, and before long I was jaundiced—eyes and skin were yellow, my strength and nerve energy were lowered, and I was quite unfit for business."

TURTLE MOUNTAIN

Forest Reserve a Beautiful Pleasure Resort.

A forest reserve, in spite of its name, is not an area intended to be reserved altogether from public use. On the contrary, the idea in setting it aside is not to keep it from the use of the public, but rather so to manage the area that, while the present users are afforded the freest possible use of the tract, the natural resources contained in it may be continued unimpaired for the use of future generations.

The reserve is located immediately north of the international boundary, and approximately fifty miles east of the boundary between Manitoba and Saskatchewan. It can easily be reached by motor or by horse vehicle, from Boissevain or Whitecourt, two points which are easily accessible by either C.P.R. or C.N.R. By motor the journey is accomplished in about an hour; by horses in about two and a half hours.

Lakes well stocked with fish are numerous throughout the reserve; wild fruits abound in their season, and mosquitoes are much less troublesome than on the prairies. On Lake Max, the largest of the lakes of the reserve, the three islands, on the largest of which (Arbor Island) villa lots have been laid out by the Government. Several motor boats and skiffs are now on the lake, and bathing facilities are first-class, especially for the children. The island is well stocked with trees, and the grateful shade and the constant breeze during the heat of summer go to make a vacation spent here very attractive.

Good maps of the reserve will shortly be available, and these, as well as other information concerning the resort, may be obtained from the Director of Forestry, Ottawa, or the Supervisor of the Turtle Mountain Forest Reserve, Whitecourt, Man.—Department of the Interior, Forestry Branch, Press Bulletin No. 89.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING.

Vocational training comes from Germany, and is a simple recognition of the fact that public school education, as at present conducted, does not fit the children for anything in particular, and that unless they go to college, they are not to find themselves on leaving school with a mere smattering of knowledge and without any special aptitudes.

Under vocational education it is hoped to develop what special aptitude a child may have and then to bend its energies in that direction with a view to practical results.

Where Sounds Are Seen.

Curious phenomena have been witnessed lately by Prof. Mattenski at Vesuvius and later at Mount Etna, which seems to prove that under certain conditions we can actually see sounds a perceptible second before we hear them.

According to Prof. Mattenski, sound, which is propagated as we all know by waves of air alternately compressed and expanded, becomes visible to the eye by a refraction of light before it is audible to the ear, whenever these same waves of air are of different densities.

One phenomenon which has absorbed many times that of Vesuvius, working itself up into an eruption on a large scale by quick paroxysms, shooting out quantities of old and new lava at the rate of one projection a second. Sharp and sudden and rapid as they are, before they could be actually grasped by the sense a thin, luminous arc could be seen flashing upward and outward from the crater and disappearing immediately in space. Then almost instantaneously there would follow the sound of explosion and the projection of gas and debris from the lip of the crater. The same thing was noticeable at Etna.

Prof. Mattenski insists that these are visible sound waves, and other scientists are studying the question and its possibilities, and hoping to enlarge upon it.

PUBLICITY SAFEGUARDS JUSTICE

A court has no power to sit otherwise than with open doors, says the Lord Chancellor of England in an opinion delivered by him in the House of Lords, sitting as the highest appellate tribunal of the British realm. This is the rule in every country where the common law have taken it upon themselves to prevent publicity by shutting the doors or sealing testimony in cases where persons of privilege were concerned. It should take notice that public publicity still is at it always has been, the surest safeguard against injustice.

TO TOUR CANADA

British M. P.s. For Australia via Dominion.

London, May 19.—The committee of the Empire Parliamentary Association, which a fortnight ago accepted an invitation from the Australian branch to send twenty members of the association to tour the Commonwealth during the forthcoming recess, has definitely decided that the trip is to be made via Canada, and that New Zealand is also to receive a visit if time permits. The secretary of the association said today: "The party, which will be thoroughly representative of the House of Lords and House of Commons, will sail for Canada on Wednesday, July 16, and will spend about a fortnight there. During their stay in the Dominion the committee hopes that the Canadian branch will do everything possible to make the visit a profitable one. Who will comprise the party has not yet been arranged but our main idea is to let members who have not already had an opportunity of doing so something of the dominions overseas. The party will spend about a month in Australia, returning to England about the middle of November."

Belgrade, Serbia, May 19.—The semi-official agency here is authorized to declare that the report published by the London Daily Express, in a despatch from Florence, of the engagement of Prince Armand Karageorgevitch, brother of King Alexander of Serbia, to Mrs. Huger Pratt, a widow of New York, is an invention. Mrs. Arzene, it adds, is with the Serb army in the field.

WESTERN CROPS

Will Hinge on the Next Ten Days' Weather.

Winnipeg, May 19.—Reports from 220 points in the Canadian prairies show that wheat seeding is practically completed, which is as it should be, it being unwise to seed after May 15. About 60 per cent. of the wheat is up. A few points report wheat three inches high, but the majority state that it is just through the ground. A few points report wheat having been frozen or put back by severe weather. A majority of the reports show the condition of wheat to be two weeks later than in 1912, but the seed to have gone in on a better seed-bed and with more moisture. About 50 per cent. of oats and 25 per cent. of barley are seeded, but a great many points report ploughing still to be done for these grains, and still many more points state that ploughing has actually been retarded by heavy frosts at night. An average of the reports indicate that the acreage in flax will be at least 25 per cent. less than in 1912. In spite of the fact that the season is two weeks later than in 1912, reports indicate that general conditions are very fair, but need of warm, bright weather is imperative. Reports are almost universal on the subject of warm weather being needed at once. Taking a comprehensive view of the reports sent in the whole question of crop turns on what weather the provinces enjoy in the next ten days. With bright weather, with very occasional showers, it is what is needed to give the wheat crop a good start.

HONORED THE DEAD

Stratford Buries Victims of Church Fire.

Many Fire Chiefs at the Funeral.

A Stratford despatch: Busy Stratford paused this afternoon to pay a last honor to the victims of Tuesday's fire tragedy, when Chief Hugh Durkin, Chief McCarthy, and Constable Hamilton lost their lives. It was a full day of mourning, the family funerals being held in the morning, and the civic funeral in the afternoon. The cessation of business in shops, factories, and schools at one o'clock this afternoon was followed by the appearance of thousands of people on the streets. The city hall auditorium, where the service was held, was nearly filled, and the streets in the vicinity were crowded. The public funeral service was in charge of the Ministerial Association, Magistrate (L'Orange, Ald. J. M. Wright, and Mayor Greenwood made speeches, and each expressed his high esteem of the three dead men, and briefly related their sterling qualities. The cortege was one of the largest ever seen in the classic city, and included two companies of the Collegiate Cadets, the G. T. R. band, city council, and other city officials, city clergymen, visiting police and fire chiefs, Veterans of 1866, Knights of Columbus, Oddfellows, city firemen and policemen, and A.O.F.

The visiting fire chiefs and others at the funeral included Chief Taylor, Eyek, Hamilton; Chief Aiken, London; Chief Borland, Woodstock; Chief France, Bain Wagon Company, Woodstock; Chief Cooke, Berlin; Chief Keyes, Waterloo; Fireman Steipelmeier, Waterloo; Chief J. E. Keyes, Galt; Chief Thompson, Owen Sound; Chief Pritchard, Chatham; Chief Henderson, St. Thomas; Assistant Chief Kingswell and Fireman F. Howarth, Brantford; Fireman George Tait and F. W. McKenna, the Gutta Percha Rubber Company, Toronto; Chief Moyes, Captain Coupland, and Firemen John Alberts, Joseph Alberts, Alex. Hyde, C. McIntyre, George Pollan, and O. Wheatstone, St. Marys; Chief L. G. Finch, Guelph, secretary of the Provincial Firemen's Association; Chief Bell and Firemen H. R. Scott, C. Stewart, and W. Reid, Seaforth. These police officers were also present: Chief O'Neil, Merlin; Chief Flint, Waterloo; Chief McCauley, Owen Sound; Chief Frank Young, and Constable Hunt, St. Marys; also Mayor Butcher, of St. Marys.

LAND FOR BRITAIN

Washington, May 19.—A proposal to cede to Great Britain the coast strip of Southeastern Alaska, 536 miles long and in some places 8 or 10 miles wide, was made in a joint resolution introduced today by Representative Stephens of Texas, at the request of the Universal Peace Union at Philadelphia. The resolution requests President Wilson to negotiate with Great Britain for a commission to investigate the possibility of rectifying the boundary of Southeastern Alaska, "for the benefit of both parties."

The preamble sets forth that the border should be adjusted to remove the unnatural boundary by which the Yukon Territory, the northern half of British Columbia and almost the entire British Columbia Basin, an aggregate area nearly as large as the States east of the Mississippi River, are shut off by the coast strip from free use of the most direct route to the Pacific. The resolution suggests that such a move would set an example in the policy of mutual concession that would constitute a "glorious achievement in history."

SUFFRAGETTES WIN A VICTORY

Over Government With Their Publication.

JOURNAL MAY ISSUE

After Home Office Had Ruled Against It.

London, May 19.—A defeat has been inflicted on the British Government by the "wild women" in their fight over the question of the suppression of the militant suffragettes' newspaper, the Suffragette. After Archibald Bodkin, counsel for the Treasury, had announced that the Government would prosecute anyone printing the newspaper in the future, the labor press and some of the Liberal newspapers, which are the strongest supporters of the present Cabinet, protested that this was an infringement of the liberty of the press. The former Socialist member of Parliament, George Lansbury, and the Socialist member, James Keir Hardie, offered personally to undertake the publication of the paper, but the suffragettes declined their offer with scorn. Thereupon the Home Office issued a statement declaring that Mr. Bodkin's pronouncement had been misconstrued, and that the Women's Social and Political Union or any publisher could issue the Suffragette, so long as it did not contain incitements to crime. Sydney Drew, the former publisher, has written to the Home Office, pointing out that he was compelled to give the undertaking that he "will not hereafter, directly or indirectly, take part in printing of the Suffragette or any other organs of the Women's Social and Political Union." He wants to know what steps are now to be taken to relieve him from this undertaking. The special interest taken by the Labor Party in the question of the Suffragette was aroused because the labor newspapers frequently come into collision with the Government. This is the case in regard to general conscription for the army, and in the event of this becoming the policy of the British Government, the labor party fears, the labor newspapers propose to urge the workmen of the British Isles to resist it. The militant suffragettes have renewed their complaint that the Government discriminates between them and the Labor Unionists. They point out that Sir Edward Carson has gone to Belfast to open the new hall of the Drilling Club there, the chief object of which is to resist the Irish Home Rule Government if it should be established. The women want to know why Sir Edward Carson is permitted to advocate rebellion, while they are imprisoned for doing so.

This week's number of the Suffragette appeared today, and was freely circulated. It was printed by the firm of Edward Francis. The newspaper says: "Though he has constantly deprecated what he calls our methods, he undertook the work, believing that the freedom of the press was in danger, and that those who seem bent on depriving the suffragettes of their legitimate forms of expression."

The general tone of the newspaper is much milder than it was before the raid on the militant suffragettes' headquarters and printing office. MORE OF THOSE "BOMBS." London, May 19.—The militant suffragettes' campaign of coercion by means of "bombs" placed in public institutions, in order to intimidate the British Government into granting the parliamentary franchise to women, was carried on in several quarters of London and the provinces today.

A very workman-like canister of explosives, with a clockwork attachment, was found in the Tottenham Public Library, in the southeast of London, this morning. It was labelled "Votes for Women."

The bomb was placed, according to the belief prevailing in some quarters, by a man, many of whom, the police suspect, have been engaged by the officers of the militant suffragette society for this work.

Another machine was found today in the letter box of the Wandsworth District Post-office, in the extreme southwest of London. It consisted of a glass tube containing fluid. A partly-burned fuse was attached to one end. The police declare that the placing of the bomb was apparently the work of the militant suffragettes. Still another canister of explosives, with a partially-burned fuse, was found today in Holy Trinity Church, at Hastings, a popular watering place on the south coast, where the militant suffragettes have been most active during the past week.

A bridge over the Great Western Railway, near Westbourne Park station, in the west end of London, was also the object of a suffragette bomb attack. The canister in this case was a larger one than those usually employed. It was filled with live cartridges, enclosed in cotton wool, which was saturated with paraffin oil. The attached fuse had been lighted, but had gone out. The whole machine was wrapped in militant suffragette literature.

ZEPHEMUS UNDER KNIFE. London, May 19.—Miss Zelle Emerson, the militant suffragette, of Jackson, Mich., was operated on today for appendicitis, which is said to have developed owing to the privations she underwent while she was carrying out a "hunger strike" in Holloway jail. She was released on April 8th, on account of her weakened condition, and some time afterward was taken to a private hospital in the country, to prepare herself for the operation. She has been sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment on Feb. 14th, for smashing shop windows.

WON'T USE TROOPS

To Stop Activities of the Militants.

London, May 19.—Although prominent officials of the Home Office have repeatedly urged Mr. Reginald McKenna, the Home Secretary, to use troops to stop suffragettes' campaign, there is no probability that he will do so. Mr. McKenna, unlike Winston Churchill, who, when Home Secretary, employed soldiers in Sydney street, entirely disapproves of calling out the military forces except in the most dangerous emergencies. Police officials refuse to discuss the military proposal, but according to the Daily Telegraph this morning, Scotland Yard men say that they are severely strained for months past by their extra duties in connection with the suffragettes, and if the militant campaign continues more police will be needed and a special appropriation will be necessary. The Telegraph quotes an unnamed official specially engaged in dealing with the militants as saying that the only way to deal with the women's crime franchise as anarchists, shadow them constantly, watch everything they do, everywhere they go and keep in constant touch with those liberated temporarily and others who are known as potential offenders.

A new kind of suffragette outrage was committed today, a sacred painting in a church at Eastbourne being defaced. The day's catalogue of discoveries included four supposed bombs, one near the National Gallery, a church fire, banana skins on a golf course arranged in the letters of the suffragette motto, an organized attack on shop windows in a provincial town and several bomb hoaxes.

In consequence of letters received by Mr. and Mrs. Winston Churchill threatening to kidnap their children, a special Scotland Yard officer attends the house every morning and afternoon and accompanies the nurse and charges during their daily outings.

British Labor Men Against U. S. Ambassador.

London, May 19.—The London Trades Council, representing 50,000 metropolitan trades unionists at a meeting this evening adopted a resolution protesting against the appointment of Walter H. Page as United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James on the ground of representations made by the Allied Trades Council of New York that Mr. Page is an opponent of organized labor. The resolution states that "the London Trades Council strongly protests the appointment of an ambassador who is a bitter opponent of organized labor in his own country, and requests President Wilson to recall the appointment and substitute for Mr. Page one who more truly represents the opinions of the working classes of the United States of America and who is more acceptable to the organized workers of the United Kingdom." The council also urges Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, against receiving Mr. Page as the United States representative in this country. Copies of the resolution were sent to President Wilson and Sir Edward Grey and a communication was sent to every labor council in the United Kingdom asking for similar action, saying: "It is necessary in order to maintain the international solidarity of our movement that capitalists of either side of the Atlantic shall not be allowed to flout or ignore the opposition of trades unionists without a strenuous protest being made and by passing such a resolution your council will be established a valuable precedent."

AIRMAN IN COURT

Violated British Laws Governing Entry.

London, May 19.—The well-known French aviator, Marcel G. Brindejonc des Moulins, who landed at Hendon, near London, from his monoplane on Sunday, after a 450-mile flight from Bremen, Germany, is the first airman to fall a victim to the comprehensive prohibition issued by Reginald McKenna, Home Secretary against flyers invading Great Britain without permit.

The aviator was arraigned at Bow Street Police Court today on the charge, and pleaded ignorance of the regulations, but was ordered by the Magistrate to deposit a bond of $200 to appear for judgment if he should be called upon to do so. The summons charged the airman with failing to send notice to the British Government before he entered the country, and with traversing prohibited areas. During the flight from Germany to England the aviator made a fresh record for the passage across the English channel from Calais to Dover, which he accomplished in 20 minutes.

U. S. RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS.

Washington, May 19.—Whether the United States, as the innocent receiver of stolen property, is responsible for the value thereof, is a question that the international arbitral tribunal which is passing upon British-American claims was asked to decide today. The Canadian Government demands about $500, the value of 68,500 feet of lumber used in 1900 to construct the military barracks at Eagle City, Alaska. Canada alleges that the United States bought this lumber from a man named Howard Mountain, who cut it from Canadian domain without a permit and without payment. He is alleged to have left the country later.

Banking on the unexpected is as dangerous as betting on a sure thing.

NO COMPROMISE

U. S. President Firm on the Tariff Changes.

Covering the Wool and the Sugar Schedules.

Washington, May 19.—While Leader Underwood, of the House, was acknowledging today that the sugar and wool producing industries of the country might not be able to survive under the competitive conditions imposed by the new tariff programme, President Wilson was serving notice that he was not looking for, or accepting any compromises on these important features of the tariff bill. These developments, together with an agreement reached by the Senate to vote to-morrow on the proposition of holding public hearings on the Underwood Bill were the most important developments in the tariff situation today. President Wilson showed today that he was considerably aroused over reports that he was ready to assent to a compromise for a moderate duty on wool. The president denied this most vigorously.

"I am not the kind that considers compromises when I once take my position," was the significant way in which the President stated his present attitude of mind. "I have taken my stand with the House leaders for the present bill," was another emphatic statement made by the President a few seconds later, and he added impressively to this: "I am not looking for, or accepting compromises."

These statements were by far the most vigorous that the President has yet delivered on the tariff question. Coming at a time when talk in the Senate is growing in regard to a possible change in these schedules of the Underwood Bill, the President's words were interpreted as evidence of his determination to fight if necessary in favor of free wool and ultimate free sugar. Those who heard the President's statement came away with the firm impression that he would be unyielding on these two propositions to the end, and that his opposition would probably go to the extent of sending back any tariff bill which failed to carry them.

IMPEACH HUERTA

Is Demand Made by His Accuser.

Mexico City, Mex., May 19.—Formal charges of conspiracy, usurpation and assassination against General Victoriano Huerta, Provisional President of Mexico, have been made by Heriberto Barron, formerly commercial agent of the Madero Government in the United States. His charges were laid at an executive session of the Chamber of Deputies, and Barron asks for the impeachment of the President. The charges were referred to a committee, and it is expected that they will be reported to the House. The newspaper Independent, which has been pronounced in its antagonism to the United States, publishes the alleged discovery of an intervention party in the United States, made up of representatives of many sections, and including several Congressmen.

FOR FREE SUGAR

That is Policy of Wilson Administration.

Washington, May 19.—Senator James, accredited with speaking for President Wilson's Administration, interpreted the Baltimore platform in a speech in the Senate today as committing the President and the Democratic party to free sugar. His remarks were in reply to the declaration by Senator Bunsell and Senator-elect Broussard, of Louisiana, that it did not. Senator James declared that the platform adopted at the Baltimore convention approved the course of the Democratic House in the last session of Congress, and that it included approval of the Underwood free sugar bill. Senator James referred to the point made by the Louisiana leaders that President Wilson and the platform had declared against tariff reductions, which would injure any legitimate industry. "By 'legitimate industry' in the platform," said the Kentucky senator, "is meant industrially legitimate and commercially legitimate industry. It does not refer to an industry which has had one hundred and twenty-five years of Government aid and protection and is yet unable to take care of itself."

BOY SCOUTS IN GOOD WORK.

Regina, Sask., despatch.—The Boy Scouts of Regina are to render first aid to the low cost of living campaign here, it having been announced by the Town Planning Commission that the boys are to be given the use of vacant lots around the city for market gardens. The produce for the first year will be sold by local dealers, later by the Regina Boy Scouts' Market Garden Produce Company. Other towns in Saskatchewan are expected to take up the idea.

LIFE TERM FOR MURDERESS.

Salem, Mass., May 19.—Mrs. Jessie M. Chapman, of Lynn, who shot and killed Mrs. Eva Ingalls, because, she said, her neighbor had slandered her, today pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree, and was sentenced to life imprisonment at the Reformatory for Women, at Sherburne, Mass. Chapman, who is 46 years of age, armed with a revolver, followed her victim on the street for several blocks and then fired five bullets into her. When arrested she said: "I did it."

ARCTIC CONTINENT

To Be Sought by New York Expedition.

New York, May 19.—After many setbacks, the Crockerland expedition has completed arrangements for departure from this city on July 3, under command of Dr. Donald B. MacMillan, in the ship Diana. Crockerland is a supposed large island, or continent, which was seen from a distance by Rear Admiral Peary in 1906. Dr. MacMillan hopes to learn definitely whether Crockerland is really an Arctic continent, an island, or only an illusion. Carrying a crew of 28, in addition to three scientific members of the expedition, the Diana will sail for Greenland, to obtain Eskimo dog teams and supplies, and probably spend three or four years in the Arctic. Flagler Bay, on the west side of Kane Basin, will be made the winter quarters. This is about 50 miles from Cape Sabine, where Lieut. Greeley's 18 men died of starvation and cold before the ships reached the last party. A large wireless plant, which will be furnished by the United States Government, will be set up for communication to Cape Wolstenholme, in Hudson Bay, 1,600 miles away, where the Canadian Government is completing a wireless station, and will relay all messages.

WILSON CAUTIOUS

Will Do Nothing to Fan a War Scare.

Washington, May 19.—Secretary of State Bryan returned from New York early today, and was at his desk long before the Cabinet meeting, at which he was to present the reply of the United States to Japan's protest against the California land legislation. It is probable that steps soon will be taken to publish the text of the Japanese protest, though that may be deferred until the answer of the United States has been delivered. President Wilson's announcement that there are to be no movements of troops or ships that could be connected with the situation, is expected by official circles to be construed as evidence of his convictions that the issue can and will be adjusted by diplomacy. The Administration has been trying to discourage "war scares" by every possible means, as was evidenced by executive disapproval of an order last week for the immediate dispatch from Newport to Norfolk of the submarine Nitola.

THAW LAYS BLAME

On Matteawan Ex-Superintendent for Bribery.

New York, May 19.—Dr. John W. Russell, former superintendent of the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane, and Horace A. Hoffman, a confidential agent for Harry K. Thaw, were to be the principal witnesses called today at the trial of John N. Anhalt, a young lawyer, charged with offering Russell a bribe to bring about Thaw's release from the institution. Thaw was the only witness called yesterday, and when he concluded his testimony he was taken back to Matteawan. He testified that not only had Anhalt agreed to bring about his release, through Russell, for $25,000, but that Dr. Russell himself first made the suggestion of his obtaining freedom by the payment of a large sum, which he conferred with Anhalt, he said, not as attorney for himself, but as attorney for Russell. Dr. Russell resigned the superintendency of Matteawan not long ago, after Governor Sulzer had demanded his removal.

HALIFAX TRAM STRIKE.

Halifax, N. S., despatch: One of two cars are being operated by motormen and conductors imported from Upper Canada this morning, but otherwise the Halifax tram system is tied up, as a result of a strike decided upon by the men late last night. The strike-breakers so far have experienced no difficulty in operating the cars, and trouble of a serious nature is generally regarded as remote.

BROKE, GETS FORTUNE.

Chicago, May 19.—Out of a job, and with just 45 cents in his pocket, James Walter, inquired at the general delivery window at the Postoffice yesterday if there was any mail for him. To his surprise he was handed a letter, which informed him that his father had died and left him an estate worth upwards of $30,000. The letter was from his aunt, Mrs. P. G. Petty, of Knoxville, Tenn., and was the first word Walters had received from relatives since he ran away from home at Nashville thirteen years ago.

BERLIN-WATERLOO UNION.

Berlin, Ont., despatch: Although the Waterloo Town Council recently turned down a proposition from Berlin to consider municipal union, at a meeting of representatives of the two places today it was decided to recommend the appointment of a joint committee of three business men from each municipality to consider questions in which Berlin and Waterloo have interest in common. These will include the laying of water and gas mains, sewers, regulation of street traffic, civic planning, and other matters. It is another step for municipal union.

EXPLORERS COMING HOME.

San Francisco, May 19.—Two members of the relief party that recovered the body of Captain Robert Scott, overcome by a blizzard on his return from the South Pole, arrived here today on the Royal Mail Steamer Tahiti from Sydney. There are Charles S. Wright, of Toronto, and Frank Debenham, a graduate of the University of Sydney, England, who will make their way to England by way of Vancouver and Seattle.

One result of the reduction of duty on raw sugar as announced in the budget speech of the Hon. W. T. White at Ottawa on Monday has been a reduction of twenty cents per hundred in the wholesale price of the refined article.

The regulations of the Education department require that the forenoon of May 28 shall be devoted to a study of the greatness of the British Empire and the afternoon to public addresses, recitations, music, etc., of a patriotic character.

Motor-boats on the American side of the river will be required this year to be equipped with effective means for extinguishing burning gasoline. The penalty for failure to be thus provided is a fine not to exceed $100 and seizure of the boat may be made to recover the amount of the penalty.

The new no-bottle-at-the-bar law has destroyed the popularity of Frankville as a moisture resort for the thirsty souls of this dry district. With no oasis nearer than Elgin or Brockville there will come times when the virtues of plain water will have to be tested as a thirst-killer.

Now it is the United States and Japan that are providing the world with something in the way of a war cloud. The state of California has been enacting legislation which places Japanese residents there under disadvantages. For instance, they can purchase no property. Thus they are branded as an unwelcome and inferior race. Japan resents this, the Washington Government urges California to repeal the law and the state remains firm. Smaller causes than this have led to war, and certainly there would be some tur flying if Japan and the States should appeal to arms.

Only eleven appeals have been entered against the assessment roll, and nine of these are on the ground that the valuation is too low. The total drop in the valuation is nearly $11,000, made up for the most part, of small reductions.

Last week Mr Herbert Redford, an enterprising and industrious young Englishman, purchased from Mr W. Lorne Steacy his farm on the eastern confines of the village. This is a first-class property and under Mr Redford's management can be relied upon to yield satisfactory returns.

Mr Philip Hollingsworth left on Tuesday to accept a position as manager of a gentleman's farm at Les Hurons, Que., on which the production of Clydesdales and Holsteins is a speciality. Mr Hollingsworth is particularly well qualified for the position and will no doubt make good. Les Hurons is situated about twenty miles below McDonald College Farm, where Mr Ford Wiltsie is located. Our young men travelling east instead of west is a new departure, but Leeds County has attained such eminence as a dairy district that when a practical expert is required the ambitious breeder, farmer or college professor naturally turns to this country to supply his needs.

Addison Ladies' Aid

On Wednesday, May 15th, the Ladies' Aid of Addison Methodist Church held their annual business meeting and election of officers for the coming year in the Church hall.

The past year has proved to be one of the most successful that the Society has ever had, due in a great measure to the energetic president, Mrs Duoclon, who has ever worked for the interest of the Society.

The secretary reported an increase in membership and total funds raised from different sources, $200, of which $103 50 was raised on an autograph quilt. Mrs Best collected $32.15, the largest sum collected by one person, and thus received the quilt.

The election of officers resulted as follows:—

Pres.—Mrs Duoclon.
Vice-Pres.—Rev. Mrs Meredith.
Treas.—Mrs Monroe.
Sec.—Mrs Scott.

At the close of the meeting a social half hour was spent, during which refreshments were served.

New Methodist Sect

Toronto, May 15.—Leading Methodists will put up a big fight against the scheme recently started to secure incorporation for a new Methodist denomination, under the name of "The Wesleyan Methodist Connexion." The movement is led by Irwin Hilliard of Morrisburg, who has bolted from the Methodist denomination over church union. He was a member of the Methodist General Conference at Victoria, B.C. He made a hot attack on church union there. As the Methodists have voted overwhelmingly for union with the Presbyterians he has resorted to the tactic of applying to the Dominion Parliament for the incorporation of a sect to be called Wesleyan Methodists. The Methodist General Conference officers expect that the corporation bill will be killed when it reaches the private bills committee.

The Vacuum Cleaner is a silent physician in your home.

What has been universally demanded has at last been perfected by combining the Vacuum Cleaner with a Carpet Sweeper, resulting in a complete hand power suction cleaner and carpet sweeper. It pulls ALL the dirt out of the carpet and at the same time the brush picks up all the lint, thread, pins and needles and also combs out the nap and makes the rug or carpet like new.

It is the most simple yet practical and effective device ever invented.

We will be pleased to demonstrate this wonderful little machine to you.

SEAS AGO people used to make themselves heard by shouting from the house tops. If you tried that to-day you would probably have to appear before a commission in lunacy. NOW-A-DAYS you can get your voice heard by placing your advertisement in the Athens Reporter. It is the most effective way of reaching the people.
