Gebhardt Bears Striking Resemblance to Barton Murderer.

Mrs. Nelson Pitton Shown Picture of the Man.

She Had Best Chance to See the Murderer Here.

Pictures of Fred Gebhardt, alias Otto Mueller, the confessed murderer and bigamist, under arrest at New York, who the Provincial authorities are trying to connect with the Barton murder mystery, have been identified by Mrs. Nelson Pitton, of Niagara Falls, Ont., as bearing a striking resemblance to the man who is charged with murdering the unknown woman in a bush on the mountain top in October, 1905.

When the theory of Mueller having possibly been the man who committed the Barton crime was first advanced the Times made an effort to get Mrs. Pitton to identify the picture, because she perhaps got a better look at the suspect than any of the people who saw him. At that time Mr. Pitton was proprietor of the New American Hotel here. It has been pretty well established that the murderer and his victim stayed there over Sunday night. Mrs. Pitton saw the man in the corridor with the woman as they left on Monday morning. They rode to the head of the East End incline from the hotel and walked direct to the spot where the crime was committed.

Pictures of Mueller were forwarded to Mr. Pitton when the story was first published. Mr. Pitton is now proprietor of the New Rosli House, Niagara Falls. He has been away for some days and only returned home this week. Writing to the Times, he says: "Mrs. Pitton says the one picture I have marked with a cross resembles the man very much, although, as you are aware, it is hard to remember so long ago."

The result of inquiries made by Provincial Inspector Greer, who has been in correspondence with the New York authorities, has not been made known. It was thought the theory was disposed of when it was ascertained that the description did not tally as closely as was first supposed with the Barton murderer, but the fact that three people who saw the suspect declare that pictures of Mueller bear a striking resemblance should justify the authorities in following the matter until they make sure.

Some of the Toronto papers, after the Mueller story was published, said he could not possibly be the murderer, because he was in Sing Sing prison at the time. The Times has investigated this and finds the report is not correct. Mueller was released three months before the crime was committed.

WHO OWNS IT?

Inspector Berlinghoff Wants to Know—Summonses Issued.

S. P. C. A. Inspector John Berlinghoff was out in the vicinity of the sand pits to-day and found a horse that had been left at Anderson's near the cemetery. It had been driven without any shoes and the hoof was worn to the quick. The animal was removed to Mr. New's stable until the owner can be found. A rubber tired buggy and set of harness were taken charge of.

While there he found a horse with a very bad shoulder and has had a summons taken out against the owner, a Mr. Thompson, Napier street, and driver named Walters, MacNab street. He also found that some brick teams were requiring their teams to haul 1,500 bricks up the steep hill on King street west. Mr. Berlinghoff says 1,000 of bricks, about three tons, is plenty for any team on such a hill. If the practice is not stopped he will prosecute the offenders.

Efforts Being Made to Save Dillon From the Gallows.

Government Refuses to Interfere—Courts Appealed to.

(Special Wire to the Times.)

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—Eleventh hour efforts are being made to save John Dillon, the Montreal murderer, from going to the gallows to-morrow morning. Emanuel Devlin, M.P., acting for the prisoner's counsel in Montreal, waited upon the Prime Minister and the Minister of Justice this morning and urged intervention by the Government on the ground of Dillon's mental condition. He presented the largely signed petitions urging that the execution should not be proceeded with, as Dillon was undoubtedly insane.

The Minister of Justice in reply, said that the Government had considered the case and had been guided in its decision not to intervene by the fact that the alienists who had examined Dillon had reported him to be mentally sound. Until there was expert evidence that the man was insane the Government could not reconsider its decision. Mr. Devlin then communicated with Mr. Mathieu, K.C., in Montreal by telephone and advised him to make application to the Court of King's Bench this afternoon for a stay of proceedings that there may be further examination of Dillon's mental condition.

RADCLIFFE REALS. Montreal, Nov. 18.—Radcliffe, the hangman, who is to execute the sentence of death on John Dillon, in the Montreal jail to-morrow morning, arrived here this morning from Toronto, and is making the necessary preparations.

GIRL WHOSE MURDER CAUSED LYNCHING BEE IN ILLINOIS.

ANNIE PELLEY.

This is the Cairo, Ill., girl whose murder incited a mob of 10,000 men and women to lynch her slayer, Wm. James, a negro. So wrought by the crime was the mob that another man, Henry Salzman, white, also was lynched for another murder in the southern Illinois city.

Miss Pelley was on her way home from her work as a department store salesgirl when she was set upon and choked by the negro. Her body was then hidden in an alley. She was an orphan.

HAVE FAILED TO GET SQUARE DEAL.

Hydro Commission Notifies the City That It Rejects the Council's Proposition.

Hamilton's efforts to get a square deal from the Hydro-Electric Commission have failed, doubtless as a result of the "hidden influence" which has been opposing the city at every move in the power question.

Bright and early this morning Mayor McLaren received a letter from Hon. Adam Beck. It was the commission's answer to the deputation which went to Toronto yesterday to demand that Hamilton be fairly treated. Mr. Beck's letter makes it clear that the commission has thrown Hamilton down hard. There are to be no more concessions. The Council must accept or reject the form of contract which was placed before it at its last meeting.

The news was a disappointment to the aldermen who have been fighting in the city's interests, although it was not unexpected after the antagonistic spirit shown at the conference yesterday. The Hydro supporters appear quite pleased with the decision. They insist that the Council must deal with the matter now and that the issue can no longer be evaded.

Mayor McLaren was rather surprised to-day when told that copies of Mr. Beck's letter had been forwarded to the newspapers from the commission's office. "I had not intended making the letter public until the committee had a look at it," he observed.

"Will you call the committee together now?" he was asked.

"I don't know. I may do that or show the letter to them individually."

"Yes, there is no rush. It is not such a good thing that we should jump to (Continued on Page 10.)" by President Zelaga. News received at the State Department to-day indicates that the sentences have been carried out. Two American war vessels have been ordered to proceed with all haste to Nicaragua and the meeting of the new Nicaraguan ambassadors with the President at the White House has been indefinitely postponed.

W. E. Elmore & Co., brokers and promoters, who have been doing business for years in Montreal, Toronto, St. John and Quebec, have opened an office, No. 401 Bank of Hamilton Chambers, where they will be pleased to discuss any promotion scheme and give the fullest information. They are men of ripe experience.

Evidently the recent poultry show gave somebody the desire to keep fowls. For Mrs. Milne, 150 Wentworth street north, is suffering the loss of two roosters and one pullet. A short time ago she had four pullets and one rooster stolen. The police are trying to locate the thief.

SPLIT AMONG THE TORIES.

Sharp Division Over the Power Problem Means Trouble.

Will Meet Next Week to Discuss Municipal Slate.

Three Wards Held Organization Meetings Last Night.

The Conservative Executive will meet next week to decide whether the party will have a slate in the next municipal election, and the session promises to be a preliminary center to what may be expected later in the month when an attempt will be made, at the annual meeting, to oust Johnnie Milne from the presidency.

The party is badly split over the power question, and although it has never been officially discussed there has been a strong under current which spells trouble. At the executive meeting next week to consider the matter of endorsing candidates the power issue will be raised.

So strong is the feeling on both sides that prominent Conservatives say they cannot see how the party can officially endorse any candidates this year without antagonizing some of its friends. The Hydro clique had strong hopes of using the organization and getting its slate adopted. This following depend on T. J. Stewart to help them out. They are confident that if Mr. Stewart can be prevailed upon to oppose Mayor McLaren for a second term he can swing the majority of the party around. His supporters have openly boasted that he was the nucleus of an organization in the Conservative party that can be linked into shape in ten days.

Organization meetings were held by the Conservatives of Wards Two and Three and Six last night. Several of the candidates for the Board of Control and prospective aldermanic candidates addressed the workers. The officers elected were:—Ward Two—T. M. Wright, chairman; Chas. Bamfylde, vice-chairman; Frank Revell, secretary. Ward Three—Chas. Diddam, chairman; Ald. Hugh Sweeney, vice-chairman; Chas. Peart, secretary. Ward Six—George Armstrong, chairman; James Dowling, vice-chairman; Ernest E. Linger, secretary.

The Man in Overalls

The Hamilton Liberal party should now lose no time in putting itself upon a war footing.

Well, Beck doesn't seem to have much love for Hamilton. At least, he doesn't show it.

Do not delay putting your bulbs in, and do not delay sending in your entry for the May flowering competition.

But some of these people will tell you that the marriage ceremony is a mere matter of form.

Perhaps John Milne does know who it is that is pushing him off the pedestal. Has John outstayed his welcome?

A person asked me the other day what Mr. Barker had done for Hamilton. And would you believe me, I couldn't tell him.

Kentucky's tobacco crop this year will be the largest in its history. Put that in your pipe and smoke it.

I had a visit yesterday afternoon from a man who is down and out. Wanted ten cents. He is not an old man, nor is he a bad fellow. In fact, he began his downward course a few years ago by being a good fellow—one of the boys. Has he a chance?

When you feel like grumbling about the weather, think of the hardships of the sailor men on the great lakes these nights, and thank your stars that you have a comfortable bed to sleep in.

Mr. Hendrie may be anxious to see justice done to Hamilton, but he didn't show much anxiety in that direction at yesterday's meeting.

We hear much about the workingmen's poor wages in Great Britain, but not so much about the poorer wages in Germany and France.

From what the Spec. says, I infer that Mr. John Milne will be allowed to resign. I am glad to know that it is not proposed to bounce him.

The Board of Control, I understand, will be a sort of House of Lords or Upper Chamber, whose fiat the aldermen will have to carry out.

I would like to see every Liberal voter in the city of Hamilton enrolled a member of the Hamilton Liberal Association or Liberal Club. Can it be done?

The Times' Christmas number will make a beautiful Christmas present to send to that friend of yours.

It would be an odd experience to have a bunch of suffragettes break into a Hamilton political meeting and demand votes for women. But queer things have happened.

There is not even a hose reel down at the Beach. How does Mr. Van Allen imagine he can fight fires without either water or apparatus? Throw sand on them!

The Bank of Hamilton opened up in its temporary premises in Paris on Tuesday, Mr. Sterling will be in charge.

THREATENS THE CITIZENS' PARTY.

Power Matter May Split Temperance People and Hydro Crowd Also.

The power question has not only split the Tory party and the temperance people, but it threatens to split the Hydro faction itself. The possibility of the matter standing over until January and being voted on again pleases one section of the Hydro supporters, who declare that this assures T. J. Stewart opposing Mayor McLaren for a second term, the scheme being for the stormy petrel from West Hamilton to head a Hydro slate of aldermen and controllers, which will try and ride into power on the Hydro issue.

The temperance faction view this possibility with anything but enthusiasm. They are afraid that if the settlement of the power contract is further delayed the temperance question, which they had hoped to make the main issue in the municipal election, will be overshadowed. There is already considerable dissatisfaction among the temperance people over the course some of their aldermen have pursued in the Council on the power question. They say that it has resulted in turning away a large vote that the temperance organization could otherwise have depended upon.

The temperance campaign this winter will be short and sharp. It has been held back waiting for the power question to be disposed of. Ward 2 will be organized to-night at the central headquarters, and Ward 1 next week. This will complete the organization. The officers of the association believe that they can reject more gung into a short campaign than if it was extended over many weeks. It is proposed to begin the battle in earnest early in December. Meetings will be held all over the city and a vigorous campaign conducted from the pulpit in all the city churches.

Stewart McPhee secured a permit this morning for a new brick church building at the corner of Locke street and Stanley avenue, for the Herkimer Street Baptist Church, to cost $7,000. It was over the question of a new church that the congregation split recently and the minister resigned, although he was later prevailed upon to withdraw his resignation. He was not opposed to a new church at a modest cost, but did not favor the more elaborate plan proposed by some of the members.

Other building permits were issued to-day, as follows:

R. A. Nicholson, frame house on Macaulay street, between Mary street and Ferguson avenue, for L. Mitchell, $1,200.

D. Kelly, frame house on Rosemount avenue, east of Sherman avenue, $1,200.

James Lyng, brick house on Oak avenue, between Cannon and Barton streets, $1,800.

City Engineer MacCallum some time ago warned the Ontario Pipe Line Company that it must not open up streets, as it has been in the habit of doing, without first securing the city's permission. This morning the company began work on Hunter street east, and the engineer sent the police down and stopped it. One of the officials of the company called up to protest, and was told that the by-law must be observed, and the necessary permission secured. The company finally sent a letter and asked for permission, which was granted. Mr. MacCallum says that the next time the company (Continued on Page 10.)

May In South West Practising Fraud With Potatoes.

For some time past what looks like a fraud has been going on in the southwest. A man is going around soliciting orders for and selling potatoes. He gives the name of a well known James street south lady as a reference as to the quality of the spuds. This woman has never bought potatoes from him and has never authorized the use of her name. Moreover, a friend who bought because of the bogus recommendation found the potatoes a very poor sort. Another southwestward paid for a bag to be sent to her brother. They have not been received by him, although ample time has elapsed.

Police Commissioners Ask Council to Provide the Money.

The Police Commissioners met this morning for the purpose of inspecting the plans submitted by Architect Stewart. They were unanimously approved of, and the commissioners passed the following motion:

"Whereas, it being absolutely necessary to provide additional as well as improved cell accommodation for prisoners and a temporary shelter for juvenile offenders in the city, and it having become expedient, owing to the increase of population and extension of the city, to centralize the headquarters of the police department and at the same time provide a new and additional police station in the eastern part of the city, the Board of Police Commissioners unanimously request the council of said city to provide sufficient moneys for the erection of new cells and offices adjoining the present No. 3 station, and for the purposes of a new police station in the east."

Although more than five weeks have elapsed since David Hutton, 226 Macaulay street, was drowned in the bay, his body has not been recovered. Relatives are keeping up a continued search, and everything possible is being done to find the body. The family are in hopes that the storms of the last few days will help to bring the body ashore.

CHINA WON THIS BATTLE.

With a Catsup Bottle He Laid Out John Teeple.

And Magistrate Thought Anglo-Saxon Deserved It.

William Smith to Come Up at To-morrow's Court.

John Teeple, 537 Hughson street north, was arraigned in police court this morning, charged with assaulting Young Yuen, a Celestial restaurant keeper, 295 James street north, on Tuesday night. The magistrate found him guilty of disorderly conduct, but discharged him, as his worship considered he had been sufficiently punished.

Teeple appeared minus two large pieces of scalp, the spots being covered with pieces of plaster that crossed and recrossed.

Young Yuen, the complainant, showed that he had suffered somewhat in the fray, for his left eye had swollen considerably and looked as if it had a pneumatic protector. There were other contusions and swellings over his Manchurian physiognomy that he claimed were caused by Messrs. Teeple and Smith.

Young Yuen had an interpreter in the person of Fong Yung, and what an inaccurately dressed interpreter he was. He had marcel waves in his hair, and looked as if he had just stepped out of a show case.

Through that interpreter the complainant told the court that Teeple and Smith entered his restaurant in a drunken condition, asked for something to eat, but their condition being recognized, they were politely asked to sit up to the counter instead of at the table. Yuen said he got a sharp blow on one of his eyes that put him dizzy for a time. Then he struck Teeple with a bottle, and ran into a store nearby.

The interpreter had told all the foregoing when the complainant had said only a few words in Chinese.

M. J. O'Reilly, for the defence, called attention of the court to that fact, but Mr. Washington humorously remarked, "Such is the peculiarity of the Mongolian lingo."

A boy witness said he saw complainant hit Teeple over the head with a bottle as he was passing the restaurant, and also saw Smith hit the Chinese after.

John Teeple affirmed that the Chinese was the aggressor. He said he went into the restaurant in company with Smith, and called for oyster stew, but he got the contents of a catsup bottle on the head instead after the complainant had told them to sit up to the counter. They said if they couldn't have the stew at the table they didn't want it at all.

"How many times have you been prosecuted for a similar offence?" asked Mr. Washington of Teeple.

"That's not fair," said Mr. O'Reilly. "Yes it is; he has been twice before me, and the last time it took three policemen to arrest him," said the Crown Attorney.

The Magistrate said that it seemed inconsistent that the Chinese would be the aggressor, being in business. He had no doubt but that Teeple brought the trouble on himself, for Teeple admitted he had had considerable drink. The Magistrate contended defendant got all he deserved.

William Smith was arraigned for assaulting the same Chinese, pleaded not guilty, and was remanded till to-morrow.

A warrant was issued for his arrest yesterday, but Smith gave himself up this morning. Bail was fixed at $100.

Donald McGillivray, 308 Cannon street east, planted such a blow on Albert Luford's nose that it made the blood spurt in all directions; he admitted doing so. He was charged with assault, but contended he received much provocation, as Luford called him such names that his respect for the court forbade him saying.

Luford said he politely asked defendant to move some cans so he could pass down at the blast works, whereat McGillivray called him names, and subsequently planted one on the facial organ aforesaid.

Defendant was fined $1.

SAVE FUEL.

Railways Urged to be Economical In Its Use.

Smokeless Firing Needed—Fuel Going Scarce.

Washington, Nov. 18.—In view of the rapidly diminishing fuel supply of the United States, the great railway systems of the country are to be urged to adopt measures for economic use of fuel, thus assisting in the great work of conserving the natural resources of the nation. This announcement was made to-day by the Joint Committee on Conservation, the national clearing house for state conservation commissions, as a result of conferences by Raffle Emerson, chairman of the International Railway Association, Gilford Pinchou, of the Government Forestry Department, Dr. Holmes, expert in charge of the technical branch of the Geologic Survey.

"The absolute waste of fuel on the average railroad through being burned improperly, and various smaller leaks," said Mr. Emerson to-day, "averages fully 15 per cent. of the total fuel consumed, and in some instances as high as 30 or 40 per cent. Economy can be effected in the fuel supply if proper attention be given to the matter by the railway management. Among those for saving coal may be mentioned consistent and individual instruction of firemen as to the firing of their engines, especially as to smokeless firing."

Awful Fate

Farmer, Wife and Mother-in-Law Burned to Death.

Collingwood, Ont., Nov. 18.—A terrible affair occurred in North Simcoe county, a few miles from Collingwood, early this morning, when Jim Dand, his wife and mother-in-law were burned to death on a farm located on Poplar Side road. A fierce northwest gale had been blowing through the night, and it is supposed an overheated stove was the cause of the fire. Jim Dand was an elderly farmer, and only a few weeks ago, one day before he threshed, his barn was burned to the ground. Some of the neighbors noticed the fire about 5 o'clock this morning, and hurried over to help. When they arrived on the scene the north side of the house was all ablaze. The occupants upstairs must have been all overcome with smoke, as there was no appearance of life. The fire had gained such headway it was impossible to do much, and within a very short time the roof collapsed. One body has been recovered so far.

AT OAKVILLE.

Marriage of Herbert Twigg and Miss Violet Appleby.

St. Jude's Church, Oakville, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, when Miss Violet Appleby was united in marriage to Mr. Herbert Twigg, of British Columbia. Rev. W. B. Broughall, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of guests from Hamilton, Toronto and various parts of the States. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Ernest, was gowned in ivory silk, with white overdress, and wore a hand embroidered bridal veil. She also wore a beautiful amethyst necklace, the gift of the groom, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Kathleen Appleby, who wore an empire gown of white satin and a large white picture hat. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The groomsmen were Mr. I. Smith, British Columbia, and the ushers were Cecil Appleby, Wm. Davis (Toronto) and W. J. Bath.

After the ceremony a large reception was held at the bride's home, where covers were laid for fifty guests. After the reception the happy couple left for a visit to the east, after which they will reside in British Columbia.

UNDECIDED AS TO RATE

To be Charged Brewers and Distillers For Water.

Committee Leaves It to the Council to Decide.

Other Points Discussed at the Meeting Last Night.

The Fire and Water Committee spent nearly three hours last night going over the new waterworks by-law, which has already been given one reading in committee of the whole, and then adjourned without the members being unanimous on the chief point under discussion—the schedule of rates for manufacturing concerns and other large consumers of water.

S. B. Cunningham, manager of the Hamilton Brewing Association, and William Marshall, representing the Royal Distillery, appeared and protested against the discrimination by which the city proposes to charge breweries and distilleries twelve cents a thousand gallons.

Mr. Cunningham said that, admitting the output of the brewery was 50,000 barrels a year, it meant only a very small percentage of the water used was sold. Some months in the year as high as 1,500,000 gallons of water was used, while the 50,000 barrels totalled only 1,600,000 gallons a year. The water was largely used in the process for cooling the stock.

"If the city feels that it must have an increased revenue from the water, make the rate universal and don't discriminate," he said. "We will not object to paying the same as anyone else."

Mr. Marshall said there were many reasons why his company should not be discriminated against. While it was a large consumer of water, it was used in the process of manufacture, the total output of the distillery not exceeding 100,000 gallons a year. Distillers in many other cities get cheaper rates.

Ald. Lees referred to the inducements Hamilton offered new industries. It was practically a bonus, he said, to get in factories, which the city felt it required. This was done with all manufacturers the Council could not make ends meet.

as it cost eight cents a thousand gallons to pump the water. In Toronto they had rates of five and twelve cents a thousand gallons of water.

Ald. Hopkins insisted that there should be a universal rate and no discrimination.

Ald. Morris, seconded by Ald. Milne, moved that the rates, as provided for in the by-law, be recommended to the Council as the schedule to adopt.

The schedule provides that the rate for water supplied by meter shall be 12 cents per 1,000 gallons for all purposes, except to manufacturers of iron, steel and other metal wares, woodenware, earthenware, textile goods and packers of food products, who shall pay 7 1/2 cents per 1,000 gallons.

In amendment, Ald. Hopkins, seconded by Ald. Gardner, moved that the rate for all water supplied by meter be 7 1/2 cents a thousand gallons.

Chairman Clark said he favored the amendment, but doubted if the committee should send up any recommendation as the matter was already before the Council. It was agreed to decide the question there.

Before deciding on a point raised by Ald. Lees, that the penalty of 25 per cent. on arrears should not be imposed, when the arrears, together with the following quarter's rates in advance, were paid within two weeks of when the arrears were due, it was agreed that the tax collector should be consulted.

The committee decided to advance the charge on eight-inch meters from $10 to $12.50 a quarter.

The aldermen decided that where manufacturing concerns were closed down they will not be charged water rates and meter rent, too, as provided for in the by-law. They will be obliged to pay water rates only.

Ald. Hopkins and Lees thought that the closest rate should be $3, instead of $2, but their colleagues did not agree with them.

Ald. Lees thought that when a new house was being built, water rates for a quarter in advance should be paid for the water used in building operations.

A Spanish Beauty

He slouched away, but did not go out of the park. His steps turned in the direction of the river. He would loiter a little longer, he thought, in these pleasant pastures. The twilight was brilliant still, and there would be a silvery moon presently to light him on his way to the gypsy encampment. The long facade of the old house twinkled with many lights as he passed it, but no one was visible in the windows. He was busy at this busiest hour of the long day.

He passed the old mansion and wended his way along the shrubbery to where the river ran, like a strip of silver ribbon set in green. As it came in view he paused suddenly, with a faint exclamation. Fortune had favored the tramp for the second time to-day.

The silvery twilight, gemmed with stars, and lighted by a crescent moon, revealed every object in its soft brilliancy, the murmuring trees, the glancing ripples of the river, the reeds, the water-lilies, the yellow willows fringing its margin, and the lonely figure of a man—the only living creature in the landscape—standing still as a statue, gazing out over the glowing water lighted by yon magic moon.

"So," said the tramp, under his breath, "I have run my fox to earth at last! Now, for the tug of war, now for a surprise, my great lord Earl!" His feet made no sound on the green sward; he was at the great man's elbow, unseen and unheard.

"A fine evening, my Lord Clontarf! Since when have you grown pastoral?" The Earl of Clontarf swung round and looked in blank amazement at this unexpected apparition. Side by side they stood, the stately twilight, a strange contrast. "Our trapper has grown older," pursued the tramp, transfixing the great Earl with an unwinning stare. "Twenty years ago, if I remember right, Mr. Gerald Desmond wasn't given to star-gazing. It is a long time since we have met, my lord, and neither of us have altered, I am afraid, for the better."

"Who are you?" The cold, harsh voice of the peer exhaled neither surprise nor alarm; the rigid, bloodless, haughty face never moved a muscle. "An old friend, my lord—a friend who did you good service once. Eighteen years' penal servitude may have greatly changed me, but not beyond your noble recognition, I hope."

He took off his battered hat, and stood with the pearly light of the young moon full upon his sunburned, furrowed, sinister face. "Do you know me, my lord?" The Earl of Clontarf eyed him with the supercilious disdain with which he might have regarded some mangy cur broken from his kennel.

"Can't you look like a villainous Cockney attorney I used to see formerly in Ireland—a despicable scoundrel, transported for his rascally practices. I dare say you're the same; there couldn't be two such faces. You're Morgan, the attorney, beyond a doubt."

"Yes, my lord," the tramp said, with glaring eyes; "I'm Morgan, the attorney, returned from Norfolk Island; and Morgan, the attorney, won't stand any hard names from you! If you talk about 'despicable scoundrels,' there's a pair of us, my lord Earl!"

The Earl of Clontarf made one stride forward and seized the man before him in a mighty grip by the throat. "You dog!" he roared, "you transported thief! Say another word like that to me, and I'll fling your filthy carcass headlong into the river!"

He released him so suddenly and violently that the tramp reeled backward, and only saved himself from falling by grasping a tree.

"You scoundrel!" the earl said, not altering that harsh voice of his, or that set, stony face, one whit; "how dare you address me? If you ever presume to do it again, I'll have you horsewhipped out of the county!"

He turned to go, but Morgan savagely interposed. "Not so fast, my lord; you may be a very great man, but I know again, and I'm a miserable beggar, and you're a rich nobleman. I have come to you for money, and I must have it!"

"Indeed! How much do you want?" "I want five hundred pounds—a trifle to you, a fortune to me. Your honor, your secret is worth more than that."

"What secret?" He stared blankly at Morgan as he asked the question. Even that cool hand was staggered by the superior coolness of the master villain.

"The tragic gesture which wound up his soliloquy was worthy 'Mildred Brown-Smith' himself in the coming valedictory. And then, with a 'smile on his lip,' and looking especially handsome, and with the courteous grace of a bewitching little prima donna of the day at his head. And to-night there was a ball, opening with a gay vaudeville, at Royal Rest. And five minutes before he went forth to play his suave and stately role of host, Trevannance stood alone in the domed picture-gallery, and gazed out over the darkening prospect, for a wonder, very grave and thoughtful. It was not his way to look grave over many things; life to him, like another celebrated philosopher, was a comedy of errors, to be laughed at; and he seldom troubled himself to think very deeply on any subject; it was a bore. But in the gray gloaming of this chilly November day, he stood lost in thought—very grave and earnest thought, too.

October had beamed itself out in crimson and gold amid the woodlands and melancholy November was with them, with its whistling winds, beating rain, its low-lying, chill-gray sky, its weary sea-fog. But life went very brightly at Royal Rest. Scores of old friends, good fellows all, rode and hunted and played billiards with him every day, and gossiped with him every night over the Manila and the Margie in the smoking-room; and, better still, bright eyes glowed as he sat at the table, rosy lips smiled radiantly upon him, eyelids drooped, and gentle bosoms fluttered at the low, caressing words of the lord of Royal Rest. He had a long retinue—a longer pedigree; his manners were simply perfection, and he was one of the handsomest men of the day. No wonder those silver-plumaged doves fluttered with delicious little thrills of hope and fear when this gorgeous oriole avowed to their dove-cote; no wonder they hated with an intense and bitter depth of envy and malice and all uncharitableness the violet-eyed beauty of old Castle who moved serenely among them, "queen rose of the rosebud garden of girls."

And they had good cause; for in this cold, gray November twilight, as he stood here alone, Trevannance was debating with himself the question: "They leave for Italy next week; they spend the winter in Rome. If I speak at all, I should speak to-night."

Yes, the little golden-winged birds of paradise, bellies of last season in crowded London drawing-rooms, had reason to tremble for the prize they hoped to win. Vivian Trevannance would ask Evelyn Desmond to be his wife. He had been her constant companion for the past two months—a whole lustre down in the country—and the grand and splendid beauty, who had duked with fifty thousand a year at her feet, had condescended to be very sweet and gracious to the lord of Royal Rest. There was always a smile to welcome him when he came; she was ever ready to allow him to be her escort and cavalier on all occasions, for he was very entertaining, and could talk with her as very few men she met in society could talk. She was very gracious and very beautiful; he was the envy of every man he knew. Her father looked bland approval. There could be little doubt that the answer would be when the momentous question was asked; and yet—oh, innate perversity of man!—there was not the faintest thrill of rapture in the breast of Vivian Trevannance as he stood at the oriel window, with the dusky portraits of his dead-and-gone ancestors gazing down upon him from the walls.

He must marry some time—it was the inevitable lot of man—as well now as later. He was very much in love, no doubt. Not with that fierce and frantic and desperate passion that some fellows get up, and which makes the stock in trade of Tennysons and Mussets and Merediths; but with a calm, steady, devouring, and altogether unaccountable flame that scorches some impassioned and undisciplined hearts to cinders—but with a gentlemanly, well-bred love à la mode. She was beautiful and stately, and as proud as a young queen—three very essential requisites in the future lady of Royal Rest; he was prepared to be a most devoted husband, as husbands go. No doubt they would be as happy a pair as ever made a sensation at St. George's, Hanover Square.

"And Amethyst and Rivers, and the Most Noble the Marquis of Rocksilver, will very likely blow their brains out," was the friendly wind-up of Mr. Trevannance's cogitations. "Come weal, come woe, this night, my peerless Castilian Rose, the last of the house of Trevannance shall prostrate himself at thy imperial feet and bear his doom."

The tragic gesture which wound up his soliloquy was worthy 'Mildred Brown-Smith' himself in the coming valedictory. And then, with a 'smile on his lip,' and looking especially handsome, and with the courteous grace of a price, the lord of Royal Rest descended to meet and mingle with his guests. She was wondrously lovely to-night in her proud staidness, her pale, delicate beauty, her patrician grace. Her perfume floated soft and misty about her; above her rich, gleaming silks her mother's Spanish diamonds glimmered and rippled in the glowing light; the soft, abundant, jetty hair was drawn back like vine temples, and a diamond star shone above the low, classic brow. She was rarely lovely, and the dewy violet eyes beamed gently on the courteous and handsome lord of the manor, and their proud, curved lips smiled to their very best as she listened to his low, crooning voice.

Haughty, high-born, crooning voice, with bitterest envy as she floated by on the arm of Vivian Trevannance, the long lashes falling, the stag-like head drooping ever so slightly under his gaze and his words.

She sat by his side during the vaudeville—a most laughable burlesque of "Milor Muggins' Mishaps in Paris," original and comical enough to throw these so-called listeners into uncontrollable laughter. And when the play ended, and they entered the lounge and lofty ball-room, resplendent with light, embellished with flowers, gorgeous with magnificent toilets, sparkling with lovely faces, she was still by his side, and the most devoted lover that ever went mad for lady faire.

SENT ON.

Presbytery's Anti-Gambling Resolution Sent to Government.

Rev. Dr. Fletcher, clerk of the Presbytery of Hamilton, has forwarded to the Dominion Government a copy of the resolution relating to gambling, passed by the Presbytery at its regular meeting this month. The resolution is as follows, having been moved by Sir Thomas Taylor and seconded by Rev. John Young:

Whereas, the Presbytery of Hamilton in connection with the Presbyterian Church in Canada, believes that gambling is one of the greatest and widespread evils existing at the present time among all classes, leading to much distress in families, neighboring States, and an evil specially pernicious to the young whose habits are being formed, and who are easily led astray by the seductive hope of gain without exertion on their part;

And, whereas, one outstanding feature of this evil is the betting which prevails so extensively on race tracks, as an accompaniment to horse racing, though it is so of other sports also;

And, whereas, stringent legislation for the suppression of this form of the evil has been enacted in neighboring States, with the result that this country, where no such restrictive laws are found, is being made the resort and refuge of many who carry on the nefarious practice, thereby increasing the here;

The Presbytery, therefore, respectfully, but earnestly, calls upon the Government and Parliament of the Dominion, as speedily as possible, to pass legislation dealing with the evil of gambling and to amend the existing law so as to make all gambling and betting by professional bookmakers on race tracks, streets and public places in cities, towns and villages an offence under the Criminal Code.

Society

The marriage took place at 8 o'clock last night at the post office residence, 36 Adelaide street east, Toronto, of Miss Gertrude Rebecca Ross, daughter of Mr. George Ross, I. S. O. post office superintendent, and Mrs. Ross, to Mr. Frederick Taylor, son of Mrs. Alfred Taylor, London, Ont. The bride is a native of Hamilton. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Lyle, moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, and Dr. Galt played the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin," and Mendelssohn's wedding march. The rooms were decorated with chrysanthemums, Killarney roses and palms, and the bride's table was arranged with white Killarney roses, lily of the valley and maidenhair fern. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a very exquisite lace gown over duchesse satin, elaborately trimmed with silk elany and old Italian lace and richly hand embroidered in ivy leaf design, finished with edgings and ornaments of seed pearls; the entire costume was a beautiful creation of the 1913 style. The shower bouquet was of white Killarney roses, lily of the valley and maidenhair fern, and her present from the bridegroom was a heart of pearls, Miss Marion Ross was her sister's bridesmaid, and was in a pretty and becoming frock of palest primrose muslin de soie, trimmed with lace and embroidered with French knot her bouquet was of pale pink roses, and she received a pearl ring from the bridegroom, who gave a signet ring to his best man, Mr. T. A. Ross, brother of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left for a wedding trip to Detroit and other western cities, and on their return will reside at 532 Adelaide street, London. After the departure of the bride and bridegroom by the 11 o'clock train the guests remained and celebrated the 25th anniversary of the wedding of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Ross.

Rev. W. H. Barralough, pastor of Central Methodist Church, Sarnia, and wife are visiting the city for a few days, and stopping with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Rowe, 159 Market street. Two Sundays ago Central Church put $5,441 on the plate to pay off the debt of the church.

Miss Kate Thompson and Miss Rita Oliver, of this city, attended an afternoon given by Mrs. John Murray at her home in Toronto yesterday in honor of her daughter, Miss Dorothy Massey.

Rev. D. H. Fletcher, D. D. will give an address at the Gwalior Mission annual meeting in Toronto to-night.

Mr. Edwin Tinsley, of this city, chief game warden of Ontario, attended the golden wedding of his sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thornley, Owen Sound, yesterday.

Faithful services to the public were royally honored yesterday, when by command of the King his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor decorated Mr. George Ross, Chief Postoffice Superintendent for Canada, formerly of Hamilton, with the badge of the Imperial Service Order. This badge is given only for long and meritorious service. On His Majesty's birthday, Nov. 9th last, a Royal order included Mr. Ross as a faithful public servant deserving of recognition for his thirty-five years' devotion to duty in the postal service of Canada.

In a happy address the Lieutenant-Governor referred to the fact that he and Mr. Ross had been associated in Hamilton in church work, and there His Honor had learned to value the ability and friendship of Mr. Ross very highly. It had great pleasure in pinning a well-deserved Royal decoration on the breast of so faithful an official.

Sir William Mulock, who selected Mr. Ross for the important position he now fills, spoke highly of the great services Mr. Ross had rendered the Postoffice Department. In a brief reply referred to the excellent relations which had always existed between himself and the staffs. He acknowledged the courtesy always extended him by the various Postmasters-General under whom he had served.

There were present at Government House on the occasion Mrs. Ross, wife of the Superintendent, and their thirteen children; Hon. Adam Broeg, Postmaster of Hamilton; Rev. Dr. Lyle, Moderator of the General Assembly, and Mr. A. MacKay, Hamilton; Sir James and Lady Whitney, Hon. Dr. Pyne, Hon. E. Cochrane; Mr. W. B. Rogers, Postmaster of Toronto; Mr. J. E. MacKay and others.

Last night Pastor Livingston, of Barton Street Methodist Church, united two pairs of lives in the blissful bonds of matrimony. The first ceremony was performed at the parsonage. The contracting parties were Lawrence E. Herkimer and Miss Kathleen Bradshaw, both of this city.

The ceremony was read the second time at 48 St. Matthew's avenue, where Miss Kathleen, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allen, was united in marriage to Mr. Roy Everitt, of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Everitt left on a late train for Buffalo.

Want Brantford's Labor Gazette Correspondent Removed.

(Special Wire to the Times.)

Brantford, Ont., Nov. 17.—The Trades and Labor Council in session last night decided to ask the Department of Labor at Ottawa to remove J. C. Watt, the Brantford correspondent of the Labor Gazette, the members stating that Mr. Watt had grown out of touch with labor conditions and it was hinted that Mr. Watt was too friendly with manufacturing interests. Mr. Watt for the past three years has been assessment commissioner here.

BURLINGTON.

The annual meeting of the Burlington Branch Bible Society was held in St. Luke's Sunday school last evening. Rev. J. V. Smith, of Centenary Church, Hamilton, was the speaker.

The re-opening services of Knox Church will be held on Sunday, Nov. 28. The services will be conducted by Rev. J. M. Duncan, D. D., of Toronto. The village authorities have received a complaint from the Cataract Power Company in regard to electric lamps being broken.

A dispute has arisen between the village of Burlington and the township of Nelson as to which has the right to collect the taxes for the year in that portion of the township to be annexed to the village, but for which the Railway Board has not made the final order.

Magistrate Smith held police court in Council chamber on Monday evening. Daniel Peters, an Indian, was charged by Mrs. Lydia Green, a squaw, with stealing $3, which she left in her room. He was acquitted. Magistrate Smith gave the prisoner a lecture in regard to carrying liquor to the Indians in the Cannery Company's houses on Pine street, and said if the practice was not stopped at once he would punish the offenders to the full extent of the law.

Five minutes later from Stuart street station. Regular and special trains return from Toronto 4.30, 4.40, 5.30, 6.10, 8, 11 and 11.30 p. m. This gives you choice of eight trains going and seven returning.

"Drink to me only with thine eyes," quoted the romantic girl. "All right. Here's looking at you," said the practical young man.

Amusements

"Two Women and That Man," a melodrama in four acts, played to a small audience at the Grand Opera House last evening. The scenes are laid in Alaska, and although the performance is not in the same class as "The Barrier," it is a pleasing one, and well worth the price of admission. The cast is good, and the leading characters are looked after by people well versed in the dramatic art. A second production will be given to-night, and as the show is good, as melodramas go, a larger audience will likely be on hand.

"PRINCE OF TO-NIGHT."

"The Prince of To-night," with Henry Woodruff in the leading role, will be seen at the Grand to-morrow evening and Saturday matinee and night. Mr. Woodruff plays the part of a poor college boy who is spurned by a rich heiress on account of his social position. Through the blooming of a century plant he is transformed into a prince, and everything ends well. The production originates from the Princess Theatre, Chicago, the book and lyrics being by Adams and Hough, and the music by Joe Howard, which trio have recently produced several successful musical comedies. "The Prince of To-night" is their latest, and from all accounts the best, as it has been liberally patronized everywhere. The company is a large one, numbering upwards of sixty people, and is said to be noted for its pretty chorus. The mounting of the play is said to be out of the ordinary.

FEATURES FOR BENNETT'S.

The feature of the Bennett bill next week will be "The New Manhoods," Jesse Laskey's latest musical comedy, which has been arousing much interest this season. The company comprises twelve clever musicians, singers and dancers. It is perhaps the most expensive and pretentious musical offering to appear in vaudeville here this season. The show will contain many other interesting attractions, including Derlin and Ellwood, in their comedy sketch, "The Girl From Yonkers"; Work and Ower, the Tumbling Toms, who have perhaps the best act of its kind in vaudeville; Herr Soona, a remarkable character impersonator, who gives portrayals of well-known Canadian and English subjects; T. Nelson Dopus, a remarkable card and coin manipulator; Paul LeCroc, the well-known comedy juggler, and the Lil-debrands, in an exhibition of strength, showing new and original feats.

AT POPULAR PRICES.

"The Lily and the Prince," at popular prices at the Grand next Monday evening should prove attractive. The production is one on the order of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," with its scenes laid in Italy. The play is well staged, and in the hands of a capable company. The sale of seats commences to-morrow morning, and as it is the first attraction of the season at these prices the engagement should meet with success here.

"THE CABBAGE PATCH."

A play with which nearly every theatregoer is familiar is "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which is to be presented for the first time in Hamilton at the Grand on Friday and Saturday of next week. The play opened a week's engagement in Toronto on Monday, and met with such success that extra matinees have had to be given this week. "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" is said to be one of the best plays of its kind ever written. The humor is of the best and highest, and it is drawn from the little incidents of everyday life that can amuse so indefinitely if one does not "get soured," as Mrs. Wiggs expresses it.

MOVING PICTURES.

The management of the moving picture entertainments in Association Hall has arranged entirely new features, beginning next Saturday, with films from another company, who guarantee them to be the newest and latest. Two and a half hour programmes. Afternoon, 5 cents to all; evening, 5 and 10 cents. Miss Etta Ziff in character songs; Carey Bros. in illustrated songs. A delightful entertainment is assured.

MUSCLE AND MUSIC.

At the Muscle and Music entertainment in Y. M. C. A. Hall to-morrow night, D. M. Barton will illustrate by practical demonstrations in his cabinet how men and women may acquire a strong, healthy body, how to reduce weight, strengthen weak lungs, heart, stomach, correct round shoulders and many other defects, latest ideas on diet, sleep, air and exercise, bathing and many other hints that are valuable to men and women.

K. W. Barton, one of Canada's leading violinists, will play classical and popular selections, and the clever Y. M. C. A. gymnasts will do bar, mat and parallel work.

Don't miss this entertainment; it will be one of the best events of the season.

THREE DROWNED.

Port Arthur, Texas, Nov. 18.—Three men were drowned here yesterday when a skiff capsized with a party of four while rowing across the canal basin. Their names are John Marshall Legarde, Abner Burnius and Pete Kamsen. The men came here from New Orleans. The bodies have not been recovered. The fourth man was rescued.

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

At Toronto yesterday, in Borrett vs. Guesser, E. F. B. Johnston, K. C. for plaintiff, appealed from the judgment of Meredith, C. J., dated 29th September, 1909. P. Crear, K. C., for the defendant, "contra." The action was to set aside a sale and conveyance to plaintiff on the alleged grounds of misrepresentation and fraud, to have defendant indemnify plaintiff against the first mortgage on the land, that the second mortgage defendant ordered to repay plaintiff the amount of the cash payments made by him, and deliver up plaintiff's promissory note, or in the alternative, for damages. At the trial the action was dismissed with costs, and plaintiff now appeals from the judgment. Appeal argued and judgment reserved.

STANLEY MILLS & CO., Limited

Thursday, Nov. 18th, 1909

The test, that is, the REAL TEST of any store's usefulness in a community is the service that store offers its patrons during the Christmas season. A hurried service means failure when the rush hours come, as they surely will come. A carefully planned, well thought-out service, with elasticity sufficient to adapt itself to the largest volume of business in the year on one day, and the next day to take care of probably the slowest on the calendar with equal exactness, is the only store service that will appeal successfully to the intelligent buyers in this up-to-date city in the matter of store keeping. It is just such a service that this store offers you. For 22 years Stanley Mills & Co. have been preparing for the Christmas trade of 1909. Note the ripened experience and profit by it. Already the store atmosphere scents of the coming heavy Christmas business and everything is in readiness.

THREE CRUISERS, FOUR DESTROYERS.

Details of Canada's New Navy—1408 Men Men to Man It—Annual Cost $2,000,000.

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—The plans submitted by the Admiralty and War Office at the Imperial Defence Conference of last summer for the naval and military defence of Canada in co-operation with the Imperial forces, and on which the proposed action of the Government is based, were laid on the table of the House this afternoon by Hon. Mr. Brodeur. In brief, the naval programme adopted by the Government involves the construction of three cruisers of an improved "Bristol" class, and four destroyers of an improved river class, costing for the cruisers about five and three-quarter millions, and for the destroyers about a million and a half, with an annual outlay for maintenance of something like two million dollars. Two of the cruisers will be placed on the Pacific coast, and one cruiser with four destroyers on the Atlantic coast. The total number of officers and men for this nucleus of a fleet is estimated at 1,408, with a payroll of about $400,000, with an extra $100,000 for victualling.

THE MILITARY PLANS.
In respect to the military proposals, provision is made for extension of the plan of co-operation already under way in connection with the Imperial General Staff, exchange of officers and training of Canadian troops upon a common system of Imperial war organization. The precise of the papers and official correspondence was presented in blue book form of fifty pages. The first part is taken up with correspondence relating to the summoning of the conference, including letters between the overseas dominions of New Zealand, Australia, South African colonies, Canada and the home Government. The first proposal for a conference was made on April 30 last by the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, and was transmitted to the various Governments for the consideration of the self-governing dominions. The reply from Canada accepting the invitation to attend another conference was received on May 3, and suggested July as a most convenient date.

THE COLONIES IN CONFERENCE.
Then follows a summary of the proceedings of the conference, which was, of course, held in camera, the participants including representatives of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Cape Colony, Newfoundland, Natal, the Transvaal, the Orange River Colony, and representatives of the Imperial Government. The Admiralty memorandum, which had previously been submitted to the representatives of the dominions formed the basis of the deliberations of the conference during the first week of August. Several meetings took place at the Admiralty with representatives of Canada, Australia and New Zealand, and general statements were agreed to in each case for further consideration by their respective Governments. As regards Australia, the suggested arrangement is that, with some temporary assistance from the Imperial funds, the Commonwealth Government should provide and maintain the Australian unit of the Pacific fleet. Details of this plan have already been announced from Australia.

New Zealand preferred to adhere to her present policy of a contribution of a battleship of the new Indomitable type, which was to be applied towards the maintenance of the China unit of the fleet.

DOCKYARDS AND WIRELESS TELEGRAPH.
As regards Canada, it was considered that the double seaboard rendered provision of fleet units of this kind as that of Australia unsuitable for the present. It was proposed, according to the amount of money that might be available, the Canada should make a start with cruisers of the Bristol class and destroyers of an improved river class, a part to be stationed on the Atlantic seaboard and a part on the Pacific. In accordance with the arrangement already made, the Canadian Government undertook the maintenance of dockyards at Halifax and Esquimaux, and a wireless telegraph service estimated at $250,000 per year.

Australia agreed to ultimately undertake the maintenance of a dockyard at Sydney.

No conference was held with representatives of the South African colonies, an expression of opinion from them being impracticable pending the formation of the new Government. Similarly a representative of Newfoundland made by that colony would be continued.

VIEW OF THE ADMIRALTY.
In the Admiralty memorandum submitted to the colonial representatives it was stated that: "If the problem of Imperial naval defence were considered merely as a problem of naval strategy it would be found that the greatest output of strength for a given expenditure is obtained by the maintenance of a single navy with the concomitant unit of training and of command. The maximum of power would be gained if all parts of the empire contributed according to their needs and resources to the maintenance of the British navy. It has, however, long been recognized that in defining the condition under which the naval forces of the empire should be developed other considerations than those of strategy alone must be taken into account. Circumstances of the various overseas dominions in respect to population, wealth and power, and different stages of growth, geographical position, history, and physical environment, and individual and national sentiment must all be borne in mind.

"A simple contribution of money or material may be to one dominion the most acceptable form in which to contribute to Imperial defence. Another, while rarely, in provide local naval forces and to place them at the disposal of the Crown in the case of war, may wish to lay the foundations upon which a future navy of its own could be raised.

"In the opinion of the Admiralty, a Dominion Government, desirous of creating a navy should aim at forming a distinct fleet unit, the smallest unit being one which, while manageable in time of peace, is capable of being used in its component parts in time of war.

"Local defence flotillas, consisting of torpedo craft and submarines, might be of assistance in time of war to the operations of the Imperial fleet, but such flotillas cannot co-operate on the high seas in the wider duties of the protection of trade and preventing attacks from hostile cruisers and squadrons, the operations of destroyers and torpedo-boats being necessarily limited to coast waters or to a radius of action not far distant from a base."

TO PROTECT TRADE ROUTES.
The memorandum therefore advised that the fleet unit to be aimed at should consist of at least the following: One armored cruiser of the new Indomitable class, three unarmored cruisers of the Bristol class, six destroyers, and three submarines, with the necessary auxiliaries, such as depot and storeships, etc. Such a fleet would be capable of action not only in the defence of coasts, but also of trade routes, and would be sufficiently powerful to deal with small hostile squadrons should such ever attempt to act in its waters.

The minimum number of men to man such a squadron would be about 2,300. The estimated first cost of building and arming such a complete fleet unit would be approximately $18,500,000, and the annual cost of maintenance at British rates approximately three million dollars, not including the salaries of persons employed in the subsidiary services, in training, in reserves, etc.

FAVORED AN ARMORED CRUISER.
The Admiralty advised that the armored cruiser of the Indomitable or Dreadnought type should be the first of a fleet unit. She would be officered and manned as far as possible by colonial officers and men, supplemented by the loan of Imperial officers and men who might volunteer for the service. While on the station, the ship would be under the exclusive control of the Dominion Government, but naval discipline would be the same as that which obtains in the Imperial fleet. Further requirements suggested were local provision for ship-building and repairing establishments, training schools for officers and men, and the making of arrangements for the manufacture, supply, and replenishment of the various naval ordnance, and victualling stores required by the squadron. One common standard in regard to the shipbuilding, armaments, training, and discipline, in armaments, and with a view to keeping the general efficiency of each fleet unit the same and to allow of successful co-operative action in time of war under the general directions of the Admiralty.

CANADA'S SUGGESTIONS.
In the special conference with the Canadian representatives it was recognized on the part of the Admiralty that it would be difficult to make any suggestions or to formulate any plans without knowing approximately the amount Canada was prepared to spend. Sir Frederick Borden and Hon. L. P. Brodeur then suggested that two plans might be presented: one involving an annual expenditure for maintenance of $2,000,000, and the other an expenditure of $3,000,000, offering in both cases the cost of the fisheries service and hydrographic service, but including the maintenance of the Halifax and Esquimaux dockyards and the wireless telegraph service, estimated at $250,000 a year.

Taking first the larger plan, the admiralty suggested that Canada might provide four cruisers of the improved Bristol class, costing $1,900,000 each; one cruiser of the Boadicea class, costing $1,250,000, and six destroyers of the improved river class, costing $400,000 each. As regards submarines it was thought advisable to defer their construction, because they require a highly trained and specialized complement. The number of officers and men for this force of eleven ships would be 2,194 and the actual cost of construction would be at the British rate of $11,750,000. It was decided, however, to accept the smaller plan, involving an annual expenditure for maintenance of $2,000,000 a year.

Pending the completion of the new cruisers, which will be commenced as early as possible, an arrangement will be made for the loan by the admiralty of two cruisers of the Apollo class, so that the training of the new naval personnel may be proceeded with at once. The vessels will be fitted out and maintained at the expense of Canada, and the officers and men will be provided by volunteers from the royal navy, but paid by the Canadian Government. They will be lent until they can be replaced from time to time by qualified Canadian officers and men. Arrangements will also be made to receive Canadian cadets at Osborne and Dartmouth. The admiralty suggested that in any consideration of the question of providing new docking facilities the docks should be designed of sufficient size to accommodate the largest ships, whether for war or commerce, and that they should be placed on the Pacific, the Atlantic and the River St. Lawrence. If any legislation passed to give effect to the proposals it should be provided that as far as possible the discipline and general regulations of the naval forces should be on admiralty lines, and should also provide for the formation of a naval reserve and a volunteer force, with further provision for a pension scheme.

MILITARY CO-OPERATION.
A sub-committee of the conference was appointed to deal with the question of military defence and with the proposals of the War Office for organizing the military forces of the empire, so as to insure their effective co-operation in the event of war. Canada was represented on this committee by Major-General Sir Percy Lake and Rear-Admiral Kingsmill. Their recommendations as agreed upon were in brief as follows:

1. That the war establishments of the home regular army should be accepted as the basis on which the organization of the units of the Dominion forces should be as far as possible be modelled.

2. That in the event of the Dominion despatching a force for imperial expeditionary purposes it should be accompanied by a due proportion of administrative units, both with and in rear of the fighting troops.

3. That the Dominion should adopt as far as possible imperial patterns of arms, equipment and stores.

4. That officers performing general staff duties throughout the empire while remaining responsible to and under control of their own Government, should be members of one body—the imperial general staff.

5. That provision should be made for an interchange of general staff officers.

6. That local military colleges on the line of the Royal Military College at Kingston should be established in each of the dominions.

In a memorandum submitted to the conference detailing general proposals of the chief of the imperial general staff, General W. G. Nicholson, it is pointed out that the military forces of the British empire, including the Indian army and the troops of the overseas dominions, amount to a total of nearly 1,300,000 officers and men, who can be called to arms in the event of a war, but that, as a matter of fact, owing to the distribution and various other duties, the force available by its terms of service for expeditionary action in any part of the world, whether offensive or defensive in its nature, is almost insignificant when compared with the vast armies of the continental powers and of Japan. The whole history of the British empire, he says, is an illustration of the fact that naval and military services are interdependent, and that its safety hinges on their combined action and co-operation.

Hidden Skin Troubles

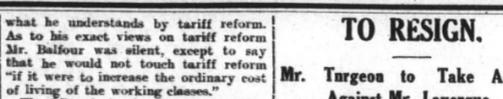

Have you on some part of your body a sore, or eruption, or ulcer, or eczematous patch which, hidden from the gaze of others, yet causes you hours and hours of pain and inconvenience? Have you tried this, and that, and the other remedy in vain, and are you feeling disheartened and discouraged? If so read the following instances of Zam-Buk's healing power, and apply it to your case:

"I had an ulcerated leg for several years. The ulcers spread all round the limb, which was swollen to nearly twice its normal size. Several doctors treated me. One suggested amputation. None did me any good. Zam-Buk healed the sores!" So says Mrs. Gilmore, of Princess St., Kingston. Or, read this—

"My mother tried many things for abscesses and eruptions, but in vain. In Zam-Buk she found a complete cure." So says Miss A. Coggill, of Wapella (Sask.).

Sufferers from these "Hidden Skin Troubles" of any nature should profit by such experiences as this. Zam-Buk is seen at its best when applied to cases which have defied ordinary treatment. Write for trial box, and test it at our expense.

ZAM-BUK AND A MIRACLE OF HEALING

Over and over again Zam-Buk has performed a miracle of healing when applied to sores and skin injuries which have refused to heal under any other form of treatment. Why not let it heal your trouble? Immediately Zam-Buk is applied to a sore or wound or diseased portion of flesh it commences its work in two directions. It sanitizes the exterior, and its antiseptic properties prevent any germs and bacilli from creating trouble. Then the herbaceous and juices so finely purified and concentrated, penetrate the subjacent layers and stimulate the weakened or diseased cells to active, healthy operations. These cells then put forth their "Building" products and replace the diseased outer layer with fresh and healthy tissue. By degrees the whole diseased surface is thus replaced by new healthy skin.

In this way Zam-Buk cures cuts, burns, bruises, ulcers, abscesses, itch, eczema, eruptions, pustules, scurry, salt rheum, blood poison, and other forms of skin trouble. Zam-Buk also cures piles, varicose ulcers, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50¢ per box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 6 boxes $2.50.

London, Nov. 17.—Arthur J. Balfour, leader of the Opposition, speaking to-night at a great mass meeting in Manchester, stated his belief that tariff reform is the only practical alternative to the Lloyd-George budget. He said at the same time, however, he would never give his adherence to any fiscal reform of importance calculated to increase the ordinary cost of living to the working classes. He did not believe that tariff reform would follow. He thought the cotton industry was going to gain in two ways; firstly, by a commercial treaty-making power whereby Britain would get justice for her manufacturers, and secondly, by colonial preference. So long as the colonies chose to give a preference Britain must gain enormously. It was impossible to doubt that the gain which accrued now would augment year by year, and in the case of the sister States increased in population and wealth preference would mean more and more to the cotton industry of this country.

A COMMON POSSESSION.
London, Nov. 17.—The Standard says there is true statesmanship and true leadership in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's words on the naval question, which would find endorsement in every Legislative Assembly in the empire.

Sir William White, speaking on the subject of the Imperial navy, said it was recognized generally by Canadians that in future the navy must be regarded as the common possession of all parts of the empire. With reference to the Monroe doctrine, his deep conviction was that the strong national feeling in the Dominion revolted from any policy involving dependence upon the United States. Loyalty to the empire was deep seated in Canadian hearts.

Train Struck by Avalanche and Engineer Killed.

North Bend, B. C., Nov. 17.—Engineer Gough, of Kamloops, was killed and two trainmen were badly injured in a wreck on the Canadian Pacific last night a few miles west of here.

A snowslide struck the engine of the freight train just after it had emerged from a tunnel, and carried the locomotive and four cars over an embankment down 300 feet into the Fraser below. The engine was not seen again. Fireman Mackay jumped. He sustained a broken arm, while Brakesman Foster, of Kamloops, was given a severe shaking up.

Three cars were derailed besides those carried over into the river. A blinding snowstorm was raging at the time. The slide missed the eastbound passenger train by half an hour.

The crew escaped in the yawl and were picked up by the Strathcona, arriving at Sault at noon to-day. The fire started between the decks, but the exact cause of it is not known. She carried a cargo of cement and hay, a portion of the cement being consigned to the Algoma Commercial Co. Captain Stephens was in charge of the Rome. The crew numbered 25.

And Placed in Hands of Members of Parliament.

"That the matter of appointing a deputation to strengthen the deputation from the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Navigation Company, to wait upon the Government in regard to the canal situation," was the resolution passed by the Executive Committee of the Greater Hamilton Association at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the Board of Trade Rooms. The canal question was the main item of discussion before the Committee.

When the meeting was called to order Chairman Hoodless explained the situation pointing out how a canal connecting Lake Ontario with Lake Erie by way of the Grand River, and Hamilton Bay, would not only be beneficial to this city, but to Canada as a whole.

The number of locks, to let a vessel from one lake to the other, would be lessened and thereby much time would be saved. He said the Association should be up and doing in supporting those in authority in an endeavor to give one of the greatest things possible for Hamilton. If there was any possibility of having the canal constructed, Brantford, Paris and the other places in the vicinity of which the canal would pass, should be communicated with so as to gain their support. The building of a new canal was made necessary by the increase of shipping.

It was explained that the Government had not decided to build a new canal, but if the Welland canal could be deepened without too much money being expended, that course might be adopted.

Mr. H. C. Beckett explained that if the matter was to be laid before Parliament, printed statements of the plans and a map should be given to each of the members of Parliament so that they would know of the advantages of the scheme.

He moved a resolution "That statements and maps be printed and given to the members present at the time when the matter came up for discussion." This resolution carried unanimously.

The committee decided that the winter campaign should be opened with a dinner, when every member would be expected to make some suggestion as to how best to carry on a consistent campaign.

Mrs. Talbot, a former opera singer, shot her husband on Oct. 28. The petition for the injunction obtained by the dead man's brother was based on the ground that Talbot desired to be buried "according to the rites of his religion."

SENIORS HAD A REAL PRACTICE YESTERDAY.

Senior and Intermediate Tigers Lined Up For an Hour's Hard Work—"Nibs" Harrison Will Not be Out This Year.

The senior Tigers had the first real practice of the year yesterday afternoon when all the intermediate players, with one or two exceptions, lined up against them for a real good workout. Unfortunately all the big fellows were not out, Wigle, Barron, Pfeiffer, Lyon, Loftus, Turner and Bethune being absent. An hour was spent in line work, and the boys had plenty of tackling practice. The ground was covered with snow, and the weather was a little too cold to be ideal for football. Jack Gray was out, and although his ankle is still sore, his work yesterday showed that he will cause the Ottawa line a lot of trouble.

Another practice will be held this afternoon, and it will likely be the last one before the big game. Gerard, the intermediate man, who will likely play in Wigle's place next Saturday, providing Wag is unable to play, was out yesterday and demonstrated by sundry good bucks and tackles that he is worthy of a place on the senior team.

There is no truth in the report that Nibs Harrison will turn out with the intermediate Tigers this year. The crack full back says he intends to rest this season.

The Rooters' Club will meet to-night at the Ramblers' Club. Two hundred and fifty tickets have been set aside for them.

Rugby for this season will close with the Dominion championship game between the winners of the Ottawa-Tiger game and Varsity, the last-mentioned game taking place a week from the coming Saturday. Before the season closes there is talk of some changes being made in playing rules of the game by each union, and one which is feasible enough to be changed.

It is the rule in respect to the position of the ball at the end of the third and first quarters. As it is now, the ball is kicked off from the centre of the field as soon as the whistle blows for time to change ends. The team that has worked the ball right up to the opposing team's goal line, is then compelled to lose its advantage, and stay all over again.

It is the same in every union in Canada, with the exception of the Inter-Collegiate Union, where the ball is taken to the opposite end of the field to which it was when the whistle blew, and placed in the same position respectively. This is the fairest way, and the best way to the team who work the ball by hard football, and then lose perhaps on the kick-off to the other side.

Of course the present rule, as used in the Big Four makes the game uncertain, as the whistle may blow for the change of ends with the ball in possession of a team on the other side's line, and a try or a rouge possible. The abolition of this rule in favor of the one in the Inter-Collegiate would be of some assistance to a weaker team playing against the wind, with the other side in possession of the ball and ready to cross their line for a try.

It would mean the taking of the ball to the other end of the field and although the other side has possession of the ball, the team whose line was in danger of being crossed in the other end of the field have the advantage, and if the wind is strong enough, can with some degree of safety return a punt from behind their line as the wind will carry it out of danger.

But the main object in making the rules to conform with the Inter-collegiate rule on this point would be that it would not take away the ball from the team that had worked hard to get it to the other team's goal line only to lose it when the whistle blew, it seldom happening that the ball is in centre field when time expires for the quarter change.

This play has met with the approval of those who have witnessed any of the games in the Intercollegiate Union and there is no reason why it should not be the same in the Inter-provincial and O. R. F. U.

Over 700 seats for the Ottawa-Tiger saw-off were put on sale at Stanley Mills this morning, and before noon all had been sold. Another 300 will be put on sale this afternoon.

The Rooters' Club will take a band with them.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP

Cute little fellows, those boys from the mountain. Out of one side of their mouths they will tell you that a victory over Ottawa spells Canadian championship and out of the other that they should get 10 to 7 for any money they wish to wager on their pets. They should get little Bennie Simpson, the village schoolmaster, to give them a few lessons in consistency.

And though strange tales of players who can't play continue to leak out of both villages, the one best bet is that both teams will be there in full strength and the best of condition. They will also be deadly earnest, and if somebody gets hurt before darkness sets in, why, that's only part of the game. For they both want to win.

Of course, there will be noise during the afternoon. The Hamilton bunch will contribute most of it. They've cornered the ribbon market, swept the boards of yellow chrysanthemums and had their lungs fitted with rubber flanges. Ottawa's attempts in this particular line will be weak imitations.

Saturday's football game promises to be the most enjoyable of the season. For Hamilton will try to kill Ottawa, and Ottawa will try to kill Hamilton, and Toronto will attend the funeral of either with a great deal of pleasure.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 18.—The attention of the football world for the next three days will centre with increasing interest on the Harvard-Yale game in the stadium on Saturday.

Both elevens to-day practically completed training. Tomorrow the Yale players will come from New Haven to stay until Saturday at a hotel in Auburndale. The Harvard players will be taken to a hunt club in Norfolk county.

The Harvard final practice to-day was not violent by reason of the slippery condition of the field. Both elevens will meet on Saturday with a season of victories behind them, but Yale's goal line has not been crossed, while Harvard has been scored upon twice.

As usual Yale is the favorite in the betting at slight odds.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—The Ottawa Football Executive yesterday decided not to

Some of these fight promoters can give the biggest fights in Wall street cards and spades and beat them to it in flights of financial fancy.

Milwaukee fight promoters, who have been suffering from litiis for several months, are thinking seriously of applying the oral system to pugilism. They figure it ought to go if the prize is kept in abeyance. At any rate they will try to sneak one over next week.

That $10,000 purse raised by New York negroes to back Johnson will be covered unless someone starts a crap game in the vicinity before "Jeff" friends get to it.

Johnny McGraw offers this to the pony players as a little bit of expensively acquired wisdom: "A horse is broke before he goes on a race track—a man after."

Don't allow your regret for yesterday to overbalance your hope for tomorrow. George Mullin sprang that one recently, but it is an old saw in Detroit. They're still hoping in the city of straits.

The term "sporting man" is often misapplied when hung on pickers and "tin horns." It had its proper explanation in Dan Stuart, whose death occurred the other day in New York. Stuart stood for things that were square in sport, and was an honor to the chase-taking fraternity.

That Yale team is living right up to its dope, the score in Saturday's game with Princeton making the 3 to 1 odds offered on the contest look like about the proper figures. And only one more game to gain to cinch the championship.

Two more offers of $100,000 have been received for the Jeffries-Johnson fight, with little present of from $20,000 to $25,000 on the side for the principals, in order that they may have their hands properly manicured and their faces shaved before the battle. And the end is not yet.

Jeffries, who stated upon his return from Europe last month that he would not return to vaudeville except for a week, has signed a ten weeks' contract with a Chicago theatrical manager, it is said, to head an "athletic troupe" in the United States and Canada. It is planned to have Jeffries show one night only in each place, so that he can cover as much territory as possible. He will do the usual training stunt and will also box with Berger, while Frank Gotch, the champion wrestler of the world, will go along meeting all comers as an additional attraction. The combination is scheduled to begin operations at Atlantic City to-night, but Jeffries will not begin a western trip until after the purse and battleground have been decided the first of next month.

THE OFFICIALS NAMED FOR THE BIG MATCH.

Molson and McMaster Will Handle Ottawa-Tiger Game—Teams Agreed on Men Without Interference of Inter-Provincial.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—Some surprise was occasioned here last evening when the announcement was made that Walter Molson and Billy McMaster, of Montreal, would referee the big game at Toronto Saturday. McMaster was one of the men who handled the saw-off at Kingston last year, Billy McKenzie being referee on that occasion. Hamilton suggested Messrs. Molson and McMaster, and Ottawa, rather than have the appointment go to Vice-President Joe Wright and have him name a couple of Toronto men, selected McMaster and Molson, and notified Hamilton to that effect. It is expected that they will act, both clubs being agreeable. It was thought that the Ottawa players would refer to Kingston or Toronto men.

When the Ottawa football team clashes with the Hamilton Tigers at Toronto Saturday in the match to decide the championship of the Inter-provincial Amateur Football Union, it will be again without the services of Charlie Disney, middle wing, who was also out of the game at Hamilton two weeks ago. After yesterday's practice Dr. J. F. Kydd examined Disney, who was hurt in being tackled by Riberts, of the intermediate team on Nov. 5. The examination revealed the fact that the ligaments of his left side are torn from position, Disney being ordered out of the game. Dr. Kydd says Disney will not be able to play again until next year. Disney will be replaced in Saturday's match by Dick McGee, another member of the famous football family, who has been showing up in great style. McGee will play inside left, and Eddie Phillips, the "handy man" of the team, will be at middle.

All the other players were examined and found in the pink of condition. The Executive met to-night and picked the team. Gordon Johnstone will again play full-back, with McCann, Gerard and Captain Jack Williams the half line. Kilt will be at quarter, with Kennedy, Ferguson and Sherriff in the scrimmage. The wings will be McGee and Church, Phillips and Vaughan, and Christie and Stronach. Ed. Pope, Parnel and Percy Wilkinson will also be taken to Toronto. It was decided not to go to the Queen City until Friday night, when the team and its supporters will be taken up in a special train over the Canadian Pacific.

The secretary of the Ottawa Club says the Rough Riders won't rough it unless the Tigers do. Then it will be a parlor game, with everybody doing the Alphonse-Gaston act.

Despite rumors to the contrary, Bert Stronach will play with the Ottawas in the Interprovincial saw-off here on Saturday. Stronach has not been at practice since the match at Hamilton.

Bert Stronach is the Ottawa Club's one trump card for advertising purposes. Those wobbly knees of his have certainly taken up a lot of space in the papers.

The Rough Riders may be forced to practice indoors for the rest of the week owing to the bad weather.

Walter Camp, Yale's athletic adviser, says: "I can safely say that the present Yale football team possesses more expert knowledge of the game individually than any other team Yale ever has had."

Next year Queen's senior football team will have the same men, with the exception of three players. Ken Williams graduates in the spring. He has played 26 league games while at University; McKay, middle wing, and Oscar Gallagher are leaving.

As early as seven o'clock last night a few stragglers took up their long night vigil at 189 Yonge street, waiting for the Tiger-Ottawa team to open this morning. They were joined by a dozen more by 10 o'clock, and the outfit could be seen huddled in the doorway, covered with blankets, to protect them from the snow and cold.

Charlie Disney, who has played on him four or five times, considers Wigle, of Hamilton, one of the greatest wing men in the Big Four.

"These Tiger triumphs in Toronto are becoming tiresome," remarks the Toronto Star.

"Hold your money until the day of the game," a Toronto man's advice to backers of the Ottawa team. Tigers will offer bigger odds Saturday.

Tigers and Ottawas should make about $2,500 each out of their saw-off game.

There's a mint of money in it for the team that meets Varsity in the Canadian championship match.

THE OFFICIALS NAMED FOR THE BIG MATCH.

Molson and McMaster Will Handle Ottawa-Tiger Game—Teams Agreed on Men Without Interference of Inter-Provincial.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—Some surprise was occasioned here last evening when the announcement was made that Walter Molson and Billy McMaster, of Montreal, would referee the big game at Toronto Saturday. McMaster was one of the men who handled the saw-off at Kingston last year, Billy McKenzie being referee on that occasion. Hamilton suggested Messrs. It is expected that they will act, both clubs being agreeable. It was thought that the Ottawa players would refer to Kingston or Toronto men.

When the Ottawa football team clashes with the Hamilton Tigers at Toronto Saturday in the match to decide the championship of the Inter-provincial Amateur Football Union, it will be again without the services of Charlie Disney, middle wing, who was also out of the game at Hamilton two weeks ago. After yesterday's practice Dr. J. F. Kydd examined Disney, who was hurt in being tackled by Riberts, of the intermediate team on Nov. 5. The examination revealed the fact that the ligaments of his left side are torn from position, Disney being ordered out of the game. Dr. Kydd says Disney will not be able to play again until next year. Disney will be replaced in Saturday's match by Dick McGee, another member of the famous football family, who has been showing up in great style. McGee will play inside left, and Eddie Phillips, the "handy man" of the team, will be at middle.

All the other players were examined and found in the pink of condition. The Executive met to-night and picked the team. Gordon Johnstone will again play full-back, with McCann, Gerard and Captain Jack Williams the half line. Kilt will be at quarter, with Kennedy, Ferguson and Sherriff in the scrimmage. It was decided not to go to the Queen City until Friday night, when the team and its supporters will be taken up in a special train over the Canadian Pacific.

HOW WILL TIGERS FARE ON NEUTRAL GROUND?

With Support Evenly Divided and With an Equal Break of Luck Hamilton Will Not Have a Walkover.

Ardent supporters of the Ottawa football team were somewhat shaken in confidence by the score of the game in Hamilton, 30 to 5 looks and is a big licking, says the Ottawa Free Press. Take the circumstances of that defeat, however, study out just how well Ottawa was holding Tigers till that disastrous fourth quarter when both outside wings were lost together with the full back at the same time. Leave out that fourth period when the teams were on unequal footing, and stack up the Ottawa team that played through the previous three quarters, and compare the relative strength with Tigers. Which team had the edge? Leave out the third period and there was nothing to it but Ottawa. Of course, every team is subject to bad periods, and Ottawa was no exception next Saturday. So might the pulse of the Tiger supporters on neutral ground, and will not be within 25 per cent. of their strength of the day they beat Ottawa in Hamilton.

One might also study the betting. Tigers are offering 3 to 2. In Hamilton the odds were out to twice that amount. That shows pretty well the pulse of the Tiger supporters and they dope out form to a nicety up there. Tigers will have a big crowd in Toronto Saturday, so will Ottawa. That equal division of support is going to affect both teams. Under the glare of their own horns, Tigers play like mad. With support from the opposition they are another next Saturday. That was with Ottawa at Varsity Oval, Oct. 29th. Tigers must have all the support or they can't play. They are great front runners and against a weak team will roll up a thousand points if time admits. In adversity, they fail. Perhaps things will not break so well next Saturday as they did in Hamilton. It is not probable Moore will shine as he did on his own field. That was the first time he ever showed any form against an Ottawa team. Then those backs are not apt to handle the ball with such precision as they did in Hamilton. And again Tigers will not show the slugging propensities at Rosedale they did under the mountain. They were real bad in front of that crowd of theirs.

The reticence from the Ottawa camp is ominous. There seems to be little said but lots of determination in evidence. There is no use making comparisons of the teams. Each is as good now as it ever was. The better team will win on Saturday be it Tigers or Ottawa.

"Clothes worn in the Cities" is what they called Semi-ready Tailoring because the biggest Semi ready stores were located in the cities, and were patronized by the best dressed men.

But to-day—
Semi-ready clothes are worn and shown in every town and city in Canada.

Where the town is too small for an exclusive Semi-ready store—the Special Order Equipment helps out—for a customer can order a special suit and have it made to his measure in four days.

Fashions are the same all over Canada—from Victoria to Halifax—and the Semi-ready stores and styles have brought about this Simultaneous Style.

RIGHTS AND LEFTS THAT WIN BATTLES.

FAMOUS BLOWS OF FAMOUS FIGHTERS

Jack Johnson—Right arm uppercut and hook.
Bob Fitzsimmons—Half arm jolts to stomach and jaw delivered at close quarters.
Joe Gans—A snappy right hook.
Kid McCoy—The corkscrew delivered with a twist of wrist before landing.
Terry McGovern—Overhand right-hand wallop to the jaw.

JACK JOHNSON'S FAVORITE.

Johnson uses a very useful and damaging left himself but it isn't of the round-arm, sweeping variety like Jeff's. It is a snappy jab. He can reduce an opponent to a weakened state with it, but when it comes to a question of ending a battle his right arm uppercut, or hook, is what he brings into play. He used this punch on Tommy Burns, and he nearly tore Stanley Ketchel's head off with it in his recent battle. Jim Corbett, perhaps the cleverest big boxer of recent years, had a tantalizing left and a right cross as his favorite punches. Corbett used both hands as a defense. He rarely set himself, and this explains his inability as a knocker-out.

Joe Gans, the ex-champion lightweight, a close student of the game, made himself famous, with a particular style of fighting and a knack of delivering a finishing punch. No two men fight alike alike. There never was a champion from Tom Sayer's time, 60 years ago, down to today, who didn't have a favorite blow to bring home the money and glory.

The right cross, the upper cut, the swing and the straight-arm punch were generally used and not until brute strength gave way to skill and science did the variety of punches include left-handers.

To-day there are any number of good men in the ring who depend more on their lefts than they do on their rights, and among the good men so inclined is none other than James J. Jeffries.

SOME OF THE OTHERS.

Fitzsimmons' mainstay was a half-arm wallop, delivered to the jaw or stomach at close quarters or breaking from a shift. Fitz also had a left-hand shift that first came into prominence when he beat Jim Corbett at Carson City. Fitz could sink his left hand deep into an opponent.

Kid McCoy was perhaps the most scientific puncher of them all. His favorite blow was the celebrated corkscrew. When he let it go, he twisted his wrist, just before he reached the spot at which he aimed, and the result was bewildering. Choymski, Maher, O'Donnell and other big heavies were victims of the corkscrew.

Battling Nelson, the present lightweight champion, credits all his fame to his scissor punch, landed on the liver with a rigid hand. The punch has a paralyzing effect, the crowd holding in several different directions from the spot struck.

Going down the line, it is found that every fighter of any note had a favorite method of attack, and all have been usually effective.

SWIMMING

The police swimming carnival at the Y. M. C. A. last night was largely attended, and the board of swimming was of the best. Notwithstanding the fact that some delay was occasioned by changing the arrangement of the programme, the swimming was concluded in good time.

The Police Swimming Club was only lately organized, but the members have made rapid improvement, and gave good exhibitions in those events in which they took part. The Hamilton Swimming Club consented to assist in the programme and were represented in practically all the events. The new Beaver Club, which has lately been organized, was also represented by Mr. E. Lazier. His plunging was the feature of the programme. Mr. Lazier has gained quite a name in swimming circles, especially on account of his famous long plunge. Last evening he went the full length of the pool, 48 feet, in the motionless plunge.

The Hamilton Swimming Club clearly demonstrated that it has plenty of good material. That club was represented in the under-water swimming, under-water walking, racing, plunging, polo, fancy swimming and the many other numbers. The "Pete" Brannan proved a shining light in the various events in which he took part, as did also P. C.'s Xaxley, Steward and Bettles. The quiet, easy manner in which Bettles did his stunts was a feature of the police swimming.

The relay race between two teams of the police was very exciting. P. C.'s Xaxley and Steward won from P. C.'s Brannan and Bettles. The race between F. Lawrence and P. Hall was another hammer, which made the crowd hold their breath. The race was six lengths, 100 yards. So well did they swim that it was declared a dead heat. The relay race between two teams from the Hamilton Swimming Club was well contested but Captain Lawrence's team was declared the victor.

The water polo match between two picked teams created considerable excitement. The final score was 4-4.
