PEARY UNABLE TO GET DOGS.
St. John's, Nfld., Aug. 30.—More discouraging news relative to the Peary expedition is brought from Labrador by the mail steamer arriving at this port last night. Peary, according to the last report, was at Davis Inlet, August 8, and three days later he reached Nain. There he tried again to purchase dogs, but was unsuccessful. He offered the Eskimoes 40 cents each for dogs, but they were worth 64 or 65 each, the offer was refused. Peary then left for Ootuk, the next Moravian settlement, but as he could not pay greater prices there either, could go no dog. Thus he announced his intention of going to Hebron, Ramah and other settlements further north after dogs; if unsuccessful, he was depending upon Disco, Greenland, as a last resort.
As the barros all perished here Nain was reached, it is impossible for the expedition to accomplish anything without the far greater number of dogs than was at first considered necessary.
It is believed here that Peary's actions are suicidal. The steamer which was to have brought him and his regular trip, rendering it practically impossible for her ever to reach her destination, and it is almost certain that she will be frozen up before the cargo and supplies are unloaded.

Convert Through Spiritism.
A not altogether pleasant, but certainly a striking article appears in the month, called "A Convert through Spiritism." The paper deals with a number of very extraordinary cases in which various communications were addressed to the assembled company, more or less confirmatory of Catholic doctrine. The most gloomy story of the collection, however, appears to deal with a momentary communication with a singularly wretched spirit.
"I recollect particularly," says the writer, "that on one occasion, when a friend of mine and I had our hands on the indicator," a spirit addressed to communicants with a prayer which professed to be that of my husband. This, for several reasons, I doubted, and in accordance with the directions we had received we tore out the sign of the cross, in order to test the character of the spirit. Yet it still persisted in the assertion. Still dubious of the identity, and conscious of a distressing influence, I said, "Charge you to speak the truth in the name of the Blessed Trinity." Instantly the movement of the indicator ceased, though our hands remained upon it. When the spirit began again to speak, though very slowly and, to me, painfully, "I am one of the unhappy beings whom you would call a devil." At that time I was not a Catholic, and did not know that for such there could be no repentance, so I replied: "You will always be miserable if you try to deceive people." "But," I said, "you will be always unhappy in so doing." "Are you yourself saved from misery?" asked the evil spirit. "I hope I am saved," I replied, "from such misery." "He! he! he!" said the spirit, "I had a gruesome impression as of the moaning laughter of a fiend."

Fathers Postage and Hartman, S. J., who have had long experience among the inhabitants of Massachusetts, have completed a grammar of the Massachus language and it is now going through the press.
The first priest ever venerated at Chicago, Ill., was Father St. Cyr, who arrived there in May, 1828. He found about 200 Catholics, mostly French-Canadians, with a few Americans, several Irish families and one family of Germans. The first church was called St. Mary of the Lake. Today there are more than half a million of Catholics in the Diocese of Chicago.
A great treat is in store for the Catholics of New York City, as the New York cathedral choir has succeeded in obtaining the consent of the Pope's celebrated Sistine choir to sign in St. Patrick's Cathedral at a couple of services on their way to Chicago, where they also intend to sing during the World's Fair. They have never before sung outside the Holy City.
Governor McGraw, of the State of Washington, "went west" eight or ten years ago, arriving in San Francisco with $42 in his pocket. He went $10 home to his wife, and began his western life as a horse car salesman in "corral west" Seattle, where he became sheriff, hotel-keeper and lawyer, and finally one of the most prosperous and popular men in the west. He is about 40 years old.
The term "Black Maria," given to the convicts and makes them choose to jail, is said to have its origin in the story that, in colonial days, Maria Lee, a gigantic negro, kept a sailing boarding house in Boston. At one time she took three drunken sailors to the lockup herself. The authorities came to rely on her aid in arresting sailors. Hence the synonym.
Physicians in cholera districts state that when there is a cholera epidemic, it is not cholera. K. D. C. will cure cholera and make you cholera-proof.
Abraham Lincoln has been honored in Scotland by the erection of a monument to his memory in the city of Edinburgh. The work represents the great leader in the act of emancipating the slave. Lincoln appears in bronze, six feet four inches in height, and at his feet is a slave receiving his freedom. The monument is a gift to the city of Edinburgh by a number of Americans, in recognition of the services rendered by Scotchmen during the American war.
Cholera threatens drupe. K. D. C. cures Drupette and makes them cholera-proof. Try it while cholera threatens.
Miss Egan, who obtained the degree of LL. B. in the Royal University, Dublin, last month, was born in 1868, and received her early education at home. She graduated two years at a school in Colorado, and in her 16th year entered the Alexandra College, Dublin, where she held the position of senior scholar in 1888, and was elected to the Royal University in 1891. In 1892 Miss Egan passed the first examination in law and took first place, with first honors and prizes, and in 1893, obtained the degree of LL. B.
Do you value the importance of a healthy stomach, now that cholera threatens? K. D. C. acts as a cholera preventer by restoring the stomach to healthy action.

Wedding Bells.

At a quarter past six this morning St. Peter's Cathedral was the scene of another happy and happy event, which during the run of a lifetime is almost rare to take place, once at least, with the great majority of the inhabitants of this marriage sphere. The pleasing event, on this occasion, was the marriage of Mr. Archibald, the genial and popular manager of the Examiner Publishing Co., to Miss Helen Mason, daughter of J. D. Mason, Esq., of the mercantile firm of Messrs. E. B. & Co. of New Brunswick, who was a full choral one, was performed by Rev. James Simpson. Mr. L. W. Watson presided at the organ. The Church was crowded with the friends and acquaintances of the contracting parties. The bride was attended by her bridesmaids, Miss Gertrude and Miss Elizabeth Mason, G. B. O. Bagnall, Private Secretary to the Superintendent of the common schools, and J. A. Kirk, accountant of the Merchants Bank of Halifax, supported the groom.

The bride was attended by a travelling party of four colored girls, trimmed with golden brown velvet, with hat to match, and a lovely bouquet. The bridesmaids wore dresses of cream poplin, trimmed with silver, and also carried bouquets. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left on a short tour through the Annapolis Valley.

The bride was the recipient of a large number of handsome and costly presents.

On Monday afternoon Mr. Irwin was summoned to the Examiner's composing room, where crowded around the manager, Miss-honored "sons"—the sons of many "make-up," and maybe many a "girl"—was the entire staff of the paper from editor to "devil." There the popular manager was presented, on behalf of the staff, with a nicely wrapped, printed address, accompanied by an exquisite music cabinet. The address was read by Editor Cotton, and signed by all present.

To Mr. Irwin, who is one of the city's most capable and energetic executives of the art preservative, and his fair bride, extended our hearty congratulations, and best wishes for health and happiness.

MOONDYNE I

BOOK FIRST: The Gold Mine of the Vase

BY JOHN DOYLE O'REILLY.

They went ahead rapidly, thanks to Moondyne's amazing strength; and by daylight were a long distance from the point at which they started...

It was late in the afternoon when they halted for the day's first rest. Moondyne climbed a mahogany tree...

Behind the aged king, in the full light of the fire, stood two young girls, dark and slim clad like their elder...

The old chief welcomed Moondyne with few words, but with many signs of pleasure and deep respect...

The punishment of falsehood is to suspect all truth. The mean of soul cannot conceive nobility. The vicious cannot believe in virtue...

Without a word the young and powerful bushman took his spear and returned to the mouth of the gloomy pass.

and, lighting a massive torch, motioned the sergeant to follow him, toward a dark entrance in the iron-stone cliff...
