"Imitation is the Sincerest Form of Flattery."

The best proof that

has extraordinary merits, and is in good repute with the public, in that it is EXTENSIVELY Imitated. The imitations resemble the genuine article in appearance only. They lack the general excellence of the Genuine.

This notice is necessary, as injurious and dangerous imitations liable to produce chronic inflammation of the skin, are often substituted for MINARD'S LINIMENT by Dealers, because they pay a larger profit.

They all Sell on the Merits and advertising of MINARD'S.

One in particular claiming to be made by a former proprietor of MINARD'S LINIMENT, which simply is a lie.

WE ARE IN THE Monumental Business

We devote all our time and energies to this line only. We employ tradesmen who thoroughly understand their business—some of them having served their time with the old reliable firm of Cairns & McLean.

Proportion is one of the most particular branches of our trade; without it a Monument cannot look well. This is one of the places where some competitors are continually going astray.

We do not import condemned stock full of cracks and stains because it is cheap, but we pay the right price and get the right goods.

THE BALANCE OF OUR STOCK WILL BE CLEARED OUT AT COST

To wind up the season's business and make room for our large Fall Stock for winter cutting. Come quick if you want a bargain.

We don't advertise very much, but when we do we mean just what we say.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

A VALIANT MOTHER.

(The following is taken from an old copy of the "Ave Maria.")

One fine, summer-like evening in the autumn of 1831 a small sail-boat rounded old Point LaRamoise, at the entrance of Charlottetown harbor, and skimmed lightly over the rippling waters to a wharf which projected from the western shore of the town. The boat was manned by two strong Irishmen, and its passengers consisted of a delicate looking woman and an infant of about four weeks old. Mooring the boat to one of the posts on the wharf, the elder of the two men sprang ashore, and assisted his wife to land.

Leaving her companion to his own resources, the couple, the man carrying the infant, proceeded along what is now called Dorchester Street, until they came to a new house of modest proportions, which, judging from its proximity to a large church, they decided to be the parochial residence. Their knock was answered by an elderly woman, who, in reply to their question, said: "No, Father MacDonald is not in Charlottetown; he is at the mission of Vernon River, about eighteen miles away, and will not be back until Sunday week."

Disappointed and disheartened, the couple turned away. What were they to do? The man, whose name was Toher, could, it is true, attend to the business which had brought him from his home in Point Brule, Nova Scotia; but his wife had come on a different errand—namely, that of having her baby baptized. There was no priest, at the time, within miles of her house, and she had gladly availed herself of the opportunity to come over to Charlottetown in a small sail-boat. But she was poor, and so was her husband, and they could not afford a protracted stay at a hotel; and, moreover, John Toher was obliged to return home as soon as his business should be satisfactorily arranged.

The worthy couple found a decent lodging-house, and Mrs. Toher soon made up her mind as to her course of action. The next morning she was up at an early hour, and, asking the way to Vernon River, she was told that the first step towards getting there was to cross the Hillsborough River. This was easily accomplished by means of her husband's boat. She had borrowed a pillow from the landlady, and on it she bound her baby, as she had often seen Indian mothers do, she then wrapped a blanket carefully round it, and, attaching a broad band to the two top corners of the pillow, she passed her head through the loop, and hung the precious bundle upon her back, in true Mic-Mac fashion. Then, ascertaining her way as best she could, this indomitable Irish mother walked the eighteen miles to Vernon River, so that her darling might be received into the Fold of Christ.

The day was well-nigh spent when she reached her destination, pale and tired, but full of joy at finding the priest engaged in hearing confessions in his little sacristy. Father MacDonald was much impressed with her strong Catholic faith, and treated her with the utmost hospitality. Her child was baptized, herself refreshed, and then the twin were sent back to Charlottetown in the priest's carriage. Father MacDonald prohibited her from again facing the peril and discomfort of the voyage in a mere sail-boat, and ordered his servant to engage a passage for her in a schooner that was to sail for Point Brule the following day.

The Father MacDonald of that period shortly afterwards became the second Bishop of Charlottetown. The baby thus adventurously baptized grew up to be a good and clever boy, with a vocation for the priesthood. He was sent by Bishop Connolly to the College of Propaganda, but he died before receiving Holy Orders.

from a hot Royal Baking Powder biscuit whets the appetite. The taste of such a biscuit—sweet, creamy, delicate and crispy—is a joy to the most fastidious.

ROYAL Baking Powder improves the flavor and adds to the healthfulness of all risen flour-foods. It renders the biscuit, bread and cake more digestible and nutritious.

Royal Baking Powder makes hot breads wholesome. Food raised with Royal will not distress persons of delicate or enfeebled digestion, though eaten warm and fresh.

Imitation baking powders almost invariably contain alum. Alum makes the food unwholesome.

REPORT OF MCKINLEY'S COMMISSIONERS.

The report of the Commission appointed by the President to report on conditions in the Philippines has been duly submitted to Congress, and the press and public will soon be discussing nothing else. It is nothing to go. It is enough to say that the political question will be eliminated if the friars are not sent back.—Ave Maria.

Interesting Happenings The World Over.

M. Fopain, the most celebrated French caricaturist, who left the Church years ago, has returned to it, like Brunetiere, Paul Bourget, Coppes and other eminent fellow-countrymen of his.

The death of Cardinal Galati reduces the number of Cardinals to only 55, so that there are now 17 vacancies in the Sacred College. No fewer than 135 Cardinals passed away during the twenty-three years of Leo XIII's Pontificate, and of these four had been created by Gregory XVI., fifty six by Pius IX., and seventy-five by the present Pope.

English exchanges record two rather notable conversions. Mr. Ernest Neville Parker, of Darham University and King's College, London, formerly curate of St. Bartholomew's, Bethnal Green and chaplain of Waddington Hospital, Oththorpe, was received into the Church at St. Antony's, Forest Gate, by the Rev. Father Omond, O. F. M., on January 18. Mr. England, lately assistant of All Hallows, Southwark, has been received into the Church at Bishop's Stortford.

A band of fifty Salesian priests and lay brothers and nuns of Mary Help of Christians left Turin on the 20th of October for several of the South American Republics. The farewell ceremony took place in the Church of Our Lady Help of Christians. It was the thirty-fifth repetition of that touching ceremony during the last twenty-five years. His Eminence the Cardinal Archbishop of Turin officiated on that occasion, assisted by Don Bua and other members of the Superior Chapter of the Salesian Congregation.

The great Catholic Cathedral at Westminster, which was to have been opened in the autumn of last year, is still occupying the attention of an army of builders' workmen, but an inspection of the edifice shows a state of progress that encourages the hope that in a few months public worship may be commenced within it, thus realizing the long cherished ambition of English Catholics to hear the rich liturgy of their Church with full ceremonial in a building worthy to compare with the great Cathedrals of the continent.

The Sisters of St. Joseph of the Archdiocese of Boston, whose novitiate has been for nearly ten years Mount St. Joseph's Convent, Allston Heights, Brighton, Mass., have been for some time past seeking a new and more retired location for this most important establishment. Last month they acquired a most eligible site in Canton by purchase. It is the property now occupied by the School Sisters of Notre Dame—an estate of over ten acres, meadow and upland, with a grove of oak and chestnut trees of two acres, shrubs and evergreens, terraces, vegetable garden, flower gardens and a large dwelling house. The transfer of the property is made because the School Sisters did not wish to purchase so large an estate, having already two similar places for novitiates and summer residences. Knowing that the Sisters of St. Joseph had been seeking just such a place, the School Sisters very kindly offered to vacate it in their interest.

The Continental press have been conjecturing as to the religious sentiments of the Queen at the point of death, says the "London Catholic Times." Some of them declare that the presence of the cross in the death chamber is not in accordance with the customs of the Anglican Church. The "Corriere della Sera," an Italian paper, goes so far as to say that her Majesty had secretly become a Catholic. There is, we believe, no ground whatever for this surmise. It appears to be pretty certain that the Queen's mother, the Duchess of Kent, died a Catholic, but Queen Victoria was always known to be a steadfast member of the Church of England. Broad-minded indeed she was in her attitude towards other denominations, and Catholicism experienced from her both respect and kindness. Nay, when all England was ablaze with anti-Catholic fury on the re-establishment of the Catholic hierarchy, she protested warmly against the injustice to which they were subjected. But she then not only professed her adhesion to Protestantism; she also declared she would never marry a Protestant, and so far as we are aware she was of this mind to the last.

THE HERALD

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 27th, 1901. SUBSCRIPTION—$1.00 A YEAR, PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY JAMES MCISAAC, Editor & Proprietor.

The Stanley escaped from her ice-bound position on Wednesday last and made her way to Georgetown the same evening. She did not enter Georgetown harbor, however, till Thursday morning, the 21st inst. The passengers and mail matter were St. John and Halifax papers of the 4th inst. The steamers are now making regular trips between Georgetown and Pictou. The mails are carried by the Capes route.

In the King's Court of Manitoba Chief Justice Killam, Justices Bain and Richards delivered judgment on the 23rd inst, upon questions submitted to them as to the validity of the liquor act passed at the last session of the legislature, which practically enacted local prohibition. The unanimous decision of the court is pronounced that the legislature exceeded its powers in enacting a prohibitory law, because it encroaches upon matters specially assigned to the Dominion parliament, and it conflicts with the British North America Act. The "liquor act" is therefore declared unconstitutional and ultra vires of the legislature.

DR. ALEXANDER ANDERSON, for many years principal of Prince of Wales College, has been appointed Chief Superintendent of Education for this Province in place of D. J. McLeod, L. L. D., resigned. S. N. Robertson, B. A., Dalhousie, for several years professor in the College, has been advanced to the Principalship to succeed Dr. Anderson, and Cyrus J. McMillan, B. A., McGill, has been appointed to the teaching staff to fill the vacancy caused by Dr. Anderson's resignation and Professor Robertson's promotion. Dr. McLeod, late Superintendent, has gone to Sydney, C. B., where he intends to make his home for the future. C. J. McMillan, B. A., is a son of meat Engineer Hector McMillan. The Atlantic to the Pacific grit subsidized organs have published a fake report of the proceedings of the Conservative caucus held at Ottawa Thursday night, in which a deliberate falsehood was uttered and circulated. It was stated that the caucus had decided to support an increase in sessional indemnity, and had discussed the proposed increase in the premier's salary and the grant to the opposition leader. It has been ascertained on good authority that these statements were pure fabrications with the evident object of creating the impression that the Conservatives were endeavoring to force the passage of the latest Grit caucus schemes. Beneath the surface it is known that the Grits are very anxious to secure the increases, but are afraid to pull the chestnuts out of the fire.

The Palmerston Spectator man is down on the subscriber who lends his paper to his neighbor, and his remarks are of general application: A subscriber to the Spectator called at the office yesterday, paid the amount due on subscription, and discontinued the paper, at the same time expressing regret at having to do without it for a time, and stating that the only reason for discontinuing it was the intolerable annoyance caused every week by neighbors borrowing the paper almost as soon as it came, sometimes not returning it, and sometimes even sending it away to friends. It is a small matter, perhaps, but it is worth while reminding people who thoughtlessly make a habit of borrowing the neighbor's paper, that it is both an annoyance and an imposition. In the average family a weekly newspaper will lie around and be read at intervals for several days; often there is something in it they wish to keep; often they have not time to read at once and put it aside for a while. In any case, they are likely to be annoyed at having to lend it.

YESTERDAY'S advices from Ottawa indicated that the Quebec Liberal members had been out on strike since Friday. Every effort of the whips had failed, up to Monday night, to bring them into line. Even a division failed to bring them in. It is known that they are strongly in favor of the proposed extra indemnity, and are much disappointed with the reluctance of the Government to move in the matter. It is altogether likely the Government will find it necessary to recognize their claim. Dr. Sproule moved for ten years bounty on beet sugar, and claimed that Canada could produce sufficient sugar to supply all her wants. Mr. Chas. Hackett supported the views of Dr. Sproule relative to the desirability of the establishment of the beet sugar industry, but he opposed the bounty. Hon. Mr. Fielding asked to have the matter stand over until his budget speech, when the Government would make an announcement as to their policy, and moved the adjournment of the debate. Wallace objected, and asked for an expression of opinion on the question from the Government at once. Mr. Fielding's motion was lost on a call of ayes and nays, and the Speaker having given for a call of members, on a division the vote stood ayes 59, nays 50. Mr. Fielding had thus a bare majority of nine on the first division of the House this session. A close call. Very!

OTTAWA advices state that on Tuesday, the 19th inst., the Speaker of the House of Commons announced that he had received the certificate of the Judges who tried the East Queen's election case, declaring the said election void in consequence of corrupt practices. In addition the Judges made the following statement: "We are of the opinion that the enquiry into the circumstances of said election had been rendered incomplete by the action of the parties to said petition, and further enquiry as to the extent of such corrupt practices that prevailed is desirable." In consequence of the Judges report the Speaker announced that he had withheld his warrant for the issue of a writ for a new election, pending any action to be taken by the House in the matter. This relegates the whole matter to the House of Commons, whence the issue of a new writ shall be ordered. Whether or not the Commons shall at once order a writ of election, or have already ordered it, we know not. Whatever course the House, which in this case means the Government, may pursue we may be very sure their action will be such as in their opinion will be most advantageous to the Grit candidate. Mr. McKinnon and the constituency should be opened at once, and that the House of Commons should therefore lose no time in ordering the writ. It is altogether likely that the election is not far off. In view of the near approach of an election contest it behoves the people of East Queen's to be ready for the same, and not be caught off their guard by any sharp practice in which the Government and their candidate may indulge. The electors of East Queen's have now afforded them an excellent opportunity of administering a fitting rebuke to those who did everything possible to steal the seat from their elected representative, Mr. Martin. Let the honest and honorable voters of that riding place themselves on record in the most emphatic manner against the scandalous corruption by means of which Mr. McKinnon and his friends attempted to set at naught the will of the people. Let them in thunder tones tell Mr. McKinnon and his satellites the seat belonging to Mr. Martin is not to be stolen by any amount of corrupt practice. When Mr. McKinnon was unseated by the court one of his friends was heard to say it did not matter as they "would buy him in again." Are the independent electors of East Queen's prepared to brook such an insult as this?

MAJOR Weeks, the man who led Prince Edward Island's first contingent off to war, is home again after an absence of nearly a year and a half. The major is now in the best of health, after his illness which laid him for five weeks at Epsom. He left Cape Town on Dec. 20th accompanied by Corporal Brown and arrived in Southampton, England, on the 17th of January. They spent twenty five days sight-seeing in London and saw the Queen's funeral, and many of the crowded heads of Europe. They sailed from Liverpool on Feb. 12th by the S. S. Lake Ontario and after a pleasant passage arrived in Halifax last Thursday. They crossed over from Pictou by the Minto on Saturday, and were met at Georgetown by a host of friends who left the city by a special train to meet them. The Island Contingent were also on hand, under command of Lieut. McDonald and formed a guard of honor. The Georgetown band also took part. An immense crowd of people were assembled at the Charlottetown station on the arrival of the train and the men were enthusiastically cheered by the crowd. The militia headed by the artillery band then paraded to the drill shed, the remaining heroes being conveyed in a sleigh drawn by a detachment of the Engineers. At the drill shed the men were addressed by Premier Paragubaron, Chief Justice Sullivan, Mayor Warburton, the Lieut. Governor and Rev. T. F. Poirer, who all spoke in fitting terms for the occasion, and in reply Major Weeks thanked them for the reception which he did not expect owing to his late home-coming. He also thanked Corporal Brown for attending him during his illness. Cheers for the King and the National Anthem brought the proceedings to a close.

Dominion Parliament.

After routine in the House of Commons, on Monday the 18th, Mr. Clark introduced "an act to amend the act to restrict the importation of indigent aliens." Mr. Hackett was told that tenders were invited for construction of the Tignish breakwaters and the contract awarded to J. H. Myrick for $2,458, to be completed by October 31st, 1901. Mr. Bourassa brought up his contingent questions and was informed that the Canadian government had not been asked for and had not given any opinion since June 30th on the South African question. Also, that Canadian officers from headquarters staff, commanding officers and mounted police officers, together with Capt. Fall and others, were engaged in recruiting men for Baden-Powell's force at regular service pay.

Mr. Monk's questions re the government of the Grand Trunk agreement brought out the following facts: Amount contributed by the government for the completion of the Victoria bridge, $500,000; annual rental paid by the government for the use of the bridge, $40,000; for use of the Grand Trunk from St. Joseph to St. Leobard, $287,500 for Grand Trunk terminal facilities at Montreal per annum, $1,500; that government could not prevent Grand Trunk from making Portland its shipping point to the exclusion of Montreal.

Mr. Taylor was informed that the total expenditure at the Paris exposition to February 1st, 1901, was $296,105 less a refund of $10,800 over charge for space. Sir Chas. H. Tupper moved for the returns in connection with the construction of the Yukon telegraph by Charlson, and protested vigorously against the systematic blocking of the enquiry, as practiced last session by Mr. Tarte. The latter objected and used language which Sir Hibbert repeated vigorously, stating that he made no charge against Mr. Charlson, but imputed to Tarte any blame in the matter.

De Wettem in Canada's would speedily bring about a settlement of the Alaska boundary question. All Canada needs is to take a hand in tariff rates in order to bring the United States to terms. Mr. Wallace asked if it was the intention of the Canadian government to offer another contingent for service in South Africa, but Laurier refused to answer unless a formal notice of question was given.

Mr. Wilmot asked several questions concerning Hon. Chas. Burpee's appointment to the senate. The answers were, appointed February 19th, 1900, resigned 19th Jan., 1901, appointed commissioner of the Paris exposition, home office 19th of August, 1900, salary $2,500 per annum, and $250 per day expenses.

The report of the department of railways and canals was brought down Monday, showing that during the year ended June 30th, 17,824 miles of railway was in operation, an increase of 408 miles. The increase in paid up capital is $63,568,820, making a total of $995,268,404; gross earnings, $70,740,270; increase, $8,406,486; net earnings, $28,040,472; increase, $1,502,806. Number of passengers carried, 21,500,175; increase, 2,306,910.

The house got down to serious business on the 19th for the first time on MacLean's motion to remove the government railways from political influence. Mr. MacLean used much the same arguments as when he first brought up the question a few days ago, but he added to his observations on that occasion many quotations from newspapers, government and opposition, supporting his nationalization scheme. He advocated the leasing of the C. P. R. or G. T. R. by the government, but before doing so he would like to see political interference removed. He was informed in Ottawa that $30,000,000 could secure control of the C. P. R., while $20,000,000 would have the same result in the G. T. R. Compensated men could be had to run the road to the advantage of the people and the country. He pointed out at length the evils of the political control of the Intercolonial. Mr. Borden (Halifax) followed and thought the thanks of the house was due to the member for East York for bringing up the question. He (Borden) was not willing to go as far as MacLean, but he was surprised that the government did not seem ready to take it up. He favored the removal of political influence from the Intercolonial, particularly as the government was brought into competition with others in the department. He thought the minister of railways should be the first to move in the matter. Mr. Borden pointed out the success of state railways in Australia, and thought the government should have the same policy in this case. "Money had been wasted on worthy objects. Action should be prompt and earnest."

Mr. Blair, replying, pooh-poohed the idea that the Intercolonial could be removed from politics. He could not conceive of such a situation. Concerning the nationalization of the railways, he submitted that Mr. MacLean's proposal was not practical. Mr. Blair pointed out with the statement that the arrangement in Australia and New Zealand had been a success. He intimated that a return to state control had been decided upon in preference to the administration by a commission.

Mr. Boyd (North Brantford) made a typical grit oration in which he condemned everything took, on general principles. Then came Mr. Monk, who, in an erudite speech showing dispassionate and calm consideration, asked the house to treat the great question as one of national import. A great danger threatened Canada and should be met by parliament, with those powers which are at its disposal. Everybody knows that if the Americans secured the roads they would use them for selfish purposes, and every effort should be made to prevent a bargain which meant the sacrifice of Canada's trade to Portland. Mr. Monk expressed surprise at the sentiment expressed by the minister of railways that it was impossible to keep the railways free from political influence. In Europe it was managed to have politics apart from such matters, and such a practice was feasible here. He closed with an earnest appeal for interference on the part of the government.

Mr. Bourassa took up the debate and announced that he would, for his neglect of Canada's interests. Although he (Bourassa) differed with Mr. MacLean, he agreed with Mr. Monk and asked for consideration of what he deemed to be the greatest national question of the day. He had no objection to foreign capital, but he wanted to see such capital used for the advancement of Canada. He wanted the government that neglected this question would not be tolerated by the Canadian government.

Clark Wallace and Mr. Hughes followed in support of the motion which was lost, however, by almost a straight party vote. Supplementary estimates brought down include: $30,000 for the Paris Exposition, and a like amount for the Pan-American exposition. Other amounts for public works make a total of $120,000.

On going into supply, the amount for management of debt was voted. Mr. MacLean's motion was carried by a majority of 20.

The House did not sit on the 20th, and on Wednesday, on Thursday the House adjourned at 10 o'clock in order to allow the Opposition members to attend the Conservative caucus. Mr. Henderson introduced a bill to amend the "Dominion Elections Act of 1900", and this together with two others of the same nature, one of which was read for a second time later in the House on Monday. Mr. Spitt, Westworth, introduced a bill entitled "Act to amend the Weights and Measures Act", so as to enforce the use of standard packages for apples and berries.

Mr. Clarke asked how the government proposed to deal with the problem of the Intercolonial, and Mr. Blair replied that the government would not be prepared to go on, and the debate on the question was adjourned until Wednesday.

On Friday a number of private bills were introduced and the reports of inland revenue and civil service were set on the table. Hon. Mr. Fielding, replying to Mr. Monk stated that he could not give any information relative to the date of the budget speech. The house then went into supply.

The steamer Newfoundland will be replaced in the spring by a chartered vessel. The steamer will be engaged to lay the cable to Belle Isle, which was to have been laid by the Newfoundland. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper asked the government if it was their intention to have the vessel to replace the Newfoundland built in Halifax. He submitted that every encouragement should be given to Canadian industries and the man who created their money should be appointed even if the work cost more.

Sir Louis Davies intimated that he had already considered the question and submitted it to his colleagues, and they were very favorably impressed with the proposal, and it was the intention of the government not only to ask for tenders in the Dominion for the steamer to replace the Newfoundland, but also for a vessel to supercede the Druid, which is worn out. From remarks dropped by the minister it appears that the Newfoundland's successor will be constructed on much more elaborate plans than the wrecked ship.

A vote of $160,000 for ocean and river service brought forth a vigorous protest from the opposition. Sir Louis Davies was placed in an uncomfortable position by a hot fire directed at him and squirmed repeatedly. The payment of $21,000 for a vessel called the Shamrock used for bony service at Montreal, was made despite the protest of the auditor-general.

Messrs. Tupper and Monk insisted on particulars of such a large vote of money as asked, and Sir Louis had to admit that $180,000 would not cover the expenses this year.

Then Mr. Taylor took a hand in and asked if it was the intention of the minister to waste money as he did last year. Every grit heeler has been rewarded. B. J. Conhugh of Montreal, a friend of the party, got an order for supplying $1,255 worth of hardware for the steamer Minto, and outrageous prices were asked and paid.

In South Africa!

A special despatch from Pretoria, dated Feb. 20, says: Eight hundred Boers yesterday passed Pienars river moving in the direction of Nylstroom, a point about 75 miles north of Pretoria, on the railway between Pretoria and Pietersburg. It is supposed they were despatched in the question of desertion and surrender. They were in a deplorable state. Their clothing was in rags. Many were riding donkeys, while others trudged afoot. All appeared to be in the greatest distress.

Despatches to the Daily Mail report a Johannesburg rumor that Commandant General Botha is suing for peace. Lord Kitchener, it appears, has issued instructions that no goods of any description are to go forward by the Delagoa Bay line until further notice, with the exception of urgent military and hospital supplies. This order is supposed to indicate a big move eastward.

The war office has received the following from Lord Kitchener: "Klerksdorp, Feb. 21.—Methuen's force marched here, having cleared the country through Wolmarstad. At Haartsbeestfontein, fourteen hundred Boers, under Generals DeVilliers and Liebenberg, opposed him. They held a strong position obstinately, but were turned out after severe fighting, in which the Yeomanry, the Victorian Bushmen and the Lancashire distinguished themselves. Our casualties were three officers and thirteen men killed and five officers and twenty-five men wounded. The Boers left eighteen dead on the ground and suffered severely."

Despatches to the London Daily Mail locate Gen. DeWet in the angle between the Brak and Orange rivers, with the British forces across the base of the triangle. "Gen. DeWet evidently try to re-cross the Orange river," says one correspondent. "He is greatly depressed by the dogged pursuit, and he wept when told of the British approach." On the other hand, an official statement issued in Cape Town says it is expected that Gen. DeWet will cross into Griqualand West, and that Col. Plumer is in close pursuit.

A Port Elizabeth despatch gives the text of a proclamation being circulated in Cape Colony signed by Steyn and DeWet, threatening reprisals for destruction of Boer property in the Transvaal. The document declares the war is not over, and that the burghers are well organized and equipped for continued successful resistance.

Mr. Borden (Halifax) asked if Sir Louis had taken into consideration the placing of a lighthouse off Hare Bay harbor. He also enquired if attention had been given to the complaint that the bombs at Sambre Island could not be heard.

Both matters were brought up last session. Sir Louis stated he had not made up his mind, as the chief engineers reported unfavorable, and as the cost of the one of the finest harbors in the world, Admiral Erskine also gave it as his opinion that a lighthouse was unnecessary. He promised to take the matter up again before the supplementary estimates.

A Wise Man Buyeth A New Tie

Solomon was a tolerably smart man we are told. We are also told that he was magnificently dressed. But nothing is said of his ties.

Solomon in all His Glory was not Arrayed In one of These.

What's the matter with wearing a nicer tie than Solomon did, and buying it from our sixty dozen?

FOUR-IN-HANDS, IMPERIALS, BOWS, PARIS.

Some men are made sweet by wearing one of these ties.

NICE GLOVES, NEXT

To the Tie, is what a dressy man wants. We've a splendid dog-skin glove, tan color, and worth $1.50, but we bought them cheaper than usual.

MY SEA ADVENTURE.

CHAPTER XXVII.—(Continued). "PIECES OF EIGHT."

In the meantime there was no doubt of one thing; they kept an infamous bad watch. If it had been Silver and his lads that were now creeping in on them not a soul would have seen daylight. This was what it was, thought I, to have the captain wounded; and again I blamed myself sharply for leaving them in that danger with so few to mount guard.

attack, and doubted not that this was he.

The parrot sat, preening her plumage on Long John's shoulder. He himself, I thought, looked somewhat paler and more stern than I was used to. He still wore his fine broadcloth suit in which he had fulfilled his mission, but it was bitterly the worse for wear, daubed with clay and torn with the sharp briars of the wood.

"Now, you see, Jim, so be as you are here," says he, "I'll give you a piece of my mind. 'I've always liked you, I have, for a lad of spirit, and the pieter of my own self when I was young and handsome. I always wanted you to jine and take your share, and die a gentleman, and now, my cock, you've got to."

By this time I had got to the door and stood up. It was dark within, so that I could distinguish nothing by the eye. As for sounds, there was a steady drone of the snorers, and a small occasional noise, a flickering or pecking that I could in no way account for.

and why you're here, and where my friends are."

"Wot's wot?" repeated one of the buccaners, in a deep growl. "Ah, he'd be a lucky one as knowed that!" "You'll perhaps, batten down your hatches till you're spoke, my friend," cried Silver, triumphantly, to this speaker. "Yesterday morning, Mr. Hawkins," said he "in the dog-watch, down came Dr. Livesay with a flag of truce. Says he: 'Cap'n Silver, you're sold out. Ship's gone!' Well, maybe we'd been taking a glass, and a song to help it round. I won't say no. Leastways none of us had looked out.

"I don't say nothing as to your being in our hands," continued Silver, "though there are, and you may lay to it. I'm all for argyment; I never seen good come out o' threatening. If you like the service, well, you'll jine; and if you don't, Jim, you're free to answer no—free and welcome, shipmate; and if fairer can be said by mortal seaman, shiver my sides!"

"Am I to answer, then?" I asked, with a very tremulous voice. Through all this sneering talk I was made to feel the threat of death that overhung me, and my cheeks burned and my heart beat painfully in my breast.

It Hurt To Eat.

The pain, nausea and distress that Dyspeptics suffer after every meal can all be permanently removed by Burdock Blood Bitters.

He drew again quietly at his pipe. "And lest you should take it into that head of yours," he went on, "that you was included in the treaty, here's the last word that was said: 'How many are you, says I, 'to leave?' 'Four, says he—four, and one of us wounded. As for that boy, I don't know where he is, I found him, says he, nor I don't much care. We're about sick of him. These was his words."

"I don't say nothing as to your being in our hands," continued Silver, "though there are, and you may lay to it. I'm all for argyment; I never seen good come out o' threatening. If you like the service, well, you'll jine; and if you don't, Jim, you're free to answer no—free and welcome, shipmate; and if fairer can be said by mortal seaman, shiver my sides!"
