A NOBLE HERITAGE.

CHAPTER XXVI. (Concluded.) 'YES,' said the woman, then she looked up hesitatingly. 'You said to-morrow morning, would the evening or the next morning do as well for you, sir? I'm alone in the house, and was going out to-morrow to see a sister as it is -'

Yes, it certainly was in the same handwriting, and it was even more like Cicely Stanhope's than before. 'She is getting courage,' he thought; 'but why doesn't the dear, good girl pluck up spirit and say right out what she has to say. This is terrible unsatisfactory and a fearful waste of time. At any rate,' he concluded, 'I am bound in honour to keep her confidence, so here goes with No. 2!'

He went back to the hotel, and amused himself for a little while in ordering his dinner and looking at the papers. But he found the papers quite stale and uninteresting compared with the thoughts which mastered him; and when the dinner came, he discovered that he was too restless and unsettled to care for it.

I could not work, was unable to sleep, and had no appetite.'

What does a man do when he is in love and in London, and his mistress, with whom he is longing to be, is miles away?

He had two or three hundred rings to select from, fidgeted from one to the other—from pearl to diamond, from diamond to pearl again.

Didn't know the size—asked the man fifty times to his opinion of what an engaged ring should be like—and at last, after changing his mind at last half a dozen times, fixed on a plain, but beautiful and expensive

The Evening Chit-Chat.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

Did you ever stop to realize what a vast pleasure one can get out of successful contriving?

"If just once" could some where without planning a n d contriving what I should wear, it seems to me I should be perfectly happy. This borrowing sister's wrap and mother's gloves and saving every cent to get a new hat takes away half the pleasure," I heard a girl say the other day. And she laughed me to scorn when I ventured to suggest that perhaps the opposite was true and that perhaps the planning and contriving really gave, instead of taking away, pleasure.

And still I think I'm right.

The pleasure or possession that you purchase by careful planning, that you snatch despite the cautions of your prudences, that you deny yourself something else for, that you wait for and long for and work for weeks or months before you finally obtain it, has a sweetness that can be gained in no other way.

If the time ever comes when my lady of the bewailings does not need to contrive, when half a dozen gowns, a choice of evening wraps and a dozen gloves await her pleasure, I think the day will also come when she will look back upon the excitement of producing a successful outfit from the four corners of the earth, and realize that that contriving was a pleasure and as great a one as she can command now despite her wealth.

I remember a queer little example of the joy of contriving.

When I was a little girl my brother and I had a printing press with which we used to print cards for all the children of the neighborhood. We had a rather scanty supply of type and there was often a shortage of "a's."

Charles Lamb has an essay nominally on Old China, but really on the joy of contriving—that I think every poor man ought to read.

I'd like to quote it bodily, but since I haven't room I'll just give you two of the best paragraphs:

"When you come home with twenty apologies for laying out a less number of shillings upon that print which we christened the Lady Blanche; when you looked at the purchase, and thought of the money—and looked again at the purchase—was there no pleasure in being a poor man? Now you have nothing to do but to walk into Colnaghi's and buy a wilderness of prints. Yet you do?"

"I wish the good old times would come again when we were not quite so rich. I do not mean I want to be poor; but there was a middle state in which I am sure we were a great deal happier. A purchase is but a purchase now that we have money enough and to spare. Formerly it used to be a triumph. A thing was worth buying then when we felt the money that we paid for."

No, I'm not saying that I wouldn't like to be rich.

Like the rest of the world, in many ways, I wouldn't mind trying what it would be like to have more money than I could possibly use.

But I do believe that I would lose, and that the poor old man possesses, a very great pleasure that the rich never know—the joy of contriving.

Why Not Lock Up the Judge as Well as the Jury.

The locking up of juries, actually imprisoning them, may be necessary; but any agreement reached in that way appears to correspond pretty closely in terms to what the laws call an agreement extorted "under duress of imprisonment," which is fraudulent and invalid. The authority for it rests on the very old precedent of court practice; and no doubt judges would find the most ample justification in law if the right were questioned, especially as there is nobody to decide on their own powers but the judges themselves. It is an indignity for a free citizen, acting as a part of a court of justice, to have his liberty taken away by a show of force—for he is taken into custody, led into a room, and locked in forcibly by court officers—and he might well ask himself whether he is capable of rendering a strict impartial verdict under restraint. Perhaps that is one way of convincing the prisoner at the bar that he is being "tried by his peers." In a recent murder trial in New York City, notorious over the whole civilized world, each juror was placed under arrest as he stepped into the jury-box, even before the case had opened, and he was kept a close prisoner—unless fortunate enough to be rejected as a juror—throughout the weary weeks of that trial.

The excuse offered for this indignity is, for it is certainly that, to disguise it how you will—was that it was necessary to prevent some jurymen being bribed; but it does not seem unreasonable for an honest man to ask why he should be suspected of willingness to be corrupted any more readily than the judge or the district attorney. Judges and district attorneys have been known to be bribed or bribers, before now; perhaps on the record quite as often as jurymen. Why not lock up the judge and district attorney along with the jury to prevent the possibility, or suspicion, of their being "reached"?—From "Some Difficulties of a Jurymen" by Joseph Hornor Coates in the January Scribner.

Must Call a Halt To Pneumonia

Every cold must be taken seriously, and cured by Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

While consumptives are being taken care of and tuberculosis is being conquered who is going to fight pneumonia, which seems each year to claim more and more victims.

While the doctors are experimenting with cures why not do all we can to prevent this dreadful ailment by taking every cold seriously and using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to allay the inflammation of the bronchial tubes, to aid expectoration and to keep the cough free and loose.

This great medicine has a thorough and far-reaching action, which is not obtained from ordinary cough medicines, and this is why three bottles of it are sold for one of any similar treatment.

Mrs. F. Dwyer, Chesterville, Ont., writes: "My little girl had bronchitis pneumonia and we thought she was going to leave this world, as her case resisted the doctor's treatment. After the first two doses of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine the child began to get better and we are thankful to say is now well again after seven weeks' sickness." 25 cts. a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Straight Talk on Danger of Colds

Let your cold gain headway and you can't keep it from running into Catarrh.

Catarrh never stays in the same place—it travels down into the lungs; then it's too late!

Drive colds and catarrh right out of your system while you have the chance.

Easily done by inhaling Catarrh-zone, which instantly reaches the true source of the trouble, gets right where the living germs of catarrh are working.

Catarrh-zone

A Convenient Inhaler Treatment is the Proper Remedy to Cure

You see, Catarrh-zone is simply healing balsams and rich, pure essences, and is able to patch up the sore spots and remove that tender sensitive feeling from the nose and throat.

Hawking and spitting cease, because the discharge is cured. The nostrils are cleared, headache is relieved, breath is purified. Every trace of catarrh, bronchial and throat weakness is permanently cured.

Shun medicines that contain harmful drugs—use a safe remedy that is prescribed by doctors, that is used in hospitals, that is endorsed by thousands. Catarrh-zone has cured. For winter ill there's nothing half so good.

Two months' treatment, large size, price $1, and guaranteed. Small size, 50c., all reliable dealers, or the Catarrh-zone Co., Kingston, Ont. Beware of dangerous substitutes and imitations for "Catarrh-zone."

right. I am much obliged, and sorry I have disturbed you.

"Don't mention it," said the man, amiably. "What in the hands of the police, sir; good-night."

Cyril leaped into the handsomest of horses, and drove to the hotel; "as fast as you can go—no, don't distress the horse—but for Heaven's sake make haste!"

What did it all mean? Had he been the victim of a trick? and if so for what purpose? Watch in hand he sat and counted the minutes.

One idea took possession of him and absorbed him. He must get back to Lorne—get back to Leola. I am afraid the cabman did not spare the horse, for he steamed literally when it drew up at the hotel; Cyril leaped out, remanding his bill, paid it, discharged the hansom, leapt into another, and reached the station as the last train for Lorne was puffing out of the station.

Feast of Empire—Important Meeting.

Yesterday afternoon a representative gathering of the citizens of St. John's met in the large room of the Supreme Court. The object of the meeting was to take into consideration an invitation from Earl Plymouth and those in charge of the projected Festival of Empire, Newfoundland, like the other overseas States of the Empire, is invited to take part in the great patriotic pageant.

His Excellency opens the proceedings to-day. His Excellency rose and explained the object of the meeting, and read the letter of Earl Plymouth and also messages to and from Lord Northcliffe, whom he had asked after consulting the Premier to act as the representative of Newfoundland on the London committee and His Lordship's consent.

Honored by Women. When a woman speaks of her silent secret suffering she trusts you. Millions have bestowed this mark of confidence on Dr. R. V. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

the termination of his speech he called on the Prime Minister. Sir Edward Morris also outlined the movement and referred to its patriotic aspect. The Empire was governed largely by sentiment, which came out dominantly in such crises as the South African war.

Mr. Joseph Outerbridge supported the movement. He believed it would cost much more than the Premier had mentioned, but he thought there would be no difficulty in raising money for such a patriotic purpose as that of knitting more firmly together the States of the Empire.

Mr. W. C. Job spoke in terms of commendation of this patriotic project, and expressed the belief that it would meet with hearty support. Mr. M. G. Winter, the President of the Board of Trade, supported the idea and thought the response to an appeal would be prompt and generous.

Chief Justice Horwood drew attention to the absence of Newfoundland representation at the great exhibitions during the past twenty-five years. He had noticed it particularly recently at the Franco-British Exhibition in London.

Mr. James Pike died of typhoid fever at his late residence, Power St., last evening. Deceased had been ill about three weeks. He worked with Harvey & Co. for many years and was a carpenter by trade.

The Late Mr. Jones.

This rollicking roaring comedy was put on the boards last night at the People's Theatre, by the Robinson-Allsworth Dramatic Company. It proved a huge success, and the audience was kept in a roar of laughter or in expectancy of what amusing situation would develop next all the time the curtain was up and the players in sight of the audience.

RANDOM REMARKS.

BY RODERIC RANDOM.

IN PRAISE OF GRUMBLING.
 Grumbling is the salt of the earth; may the salt never lose its savour. It is a city set on a hill; may no earthquake disturb its foundations. It is the light of the world; may no cloud shut out its welcome gleam. By grumbling, I do not mean an uneven temper; but discontentment with things as they are. Contentment, like conformity, is the enemy of the human race. Discontentment has always been the herald of better things. Has the time been of joint, grumbling has been the first to set it right. Contentment sits on a throne while vice gnaws at the vitals of national life; grumbling shakes the foundation and places the regal sceptre in the hand of virtue. Contentment with things as they are leads to stagnation; thence to decadence. Grumbling resuscitates, and things pass from death unto life.

ITS EFFECT ON LIFE.
 Very much has been said and written on the subject of happiness, and the grumblers have always been on the list of people to whom happiness has been denied. It is questionable whether we are justified in looking upon grumblers as strangers to happiness. I am of the opinion that none but the grumbler can be happy, and I am sure he is usually a very contented individual. It is most entertaining to watch some people in their endeavour to impress you with the idea that they are perfectly contented with things as they are, and that this is the best of worlds for any man to live in. Your truly happy man is the one who gives you the impression that things in this world might be a good deal better than they are at present. In a word, the grumbler is the man who doesn't make the best of things, but makes the worst things a good deal better. The grumbler has much more to teach us than the so-called contented man. He not only laughs and grows fat; he grows fat and laughs afterwards.

POLITICAL GRUMBLERS.
 Probably in all the ramifications of civilized life there is no branch in which grumbling is so paramount and indispensable as in politics. For every boy and every girl that's born into this world, alive is either a little Liberal, or else a little Conservative. You cannot be a politician unless you are a grumbler. However commendable the deeds of the party to which you are opposed, it is your duty to lift the telescope to the blind eye. To see a virtue in your opponent is to weaken the power of your own forces. It is the primary duty of the opposition to see nothing but blue ruin in the administration of the reigning government. The opposition can never hope to capture the coveted seats opposite unless they can convince their various constituencies that things would be much better done were they themselves at the helm. This conviction can be inspired only by persistent grumbling. Should the opposition once cease from grumbling, then farewell to their hopes and ambitions. Political prizes are the reward of grumbling, and the greatest grumblers get the greatest prizes.

MATRIMONIAL GRUMBLING.
 "Is marriage a failure?" would never have been a popular query even grumbling had been a possibility in even the best regulated families. And to see matrimonial grumbling in all its glory you must see the husband and wife making purchases at the stores on Saturday night (when it is raining). How cheerful the husband looks as he stands outside the "bar-gain sale" window tapping his stick on the pavement and puffing his tobacco smoke into the air. What a world of suppressed growls lie hidden in that living clay. Or see him as he hurries with his better half laden with bags, coats, valises and umbrellas to catch a holiday excursion with a mile of earth between them and the train due out in ten minutes. Yet he would not be single again for a day. He knows that one or the other must grumble, and it affords him some consolation if he finds that he has a monopoly of it. Grumbling husbands are the salt of married life. I will not ask the wives what they think of the savour. I know what the husbands think when the savour proceeds from the opposite quarter.

COMMERCIAL GRUMBLING.
 Grumbling and commerce are inseparable. You cannot be a business man until you have graduated in the school of grumbling. If you wish to find a successful business man, look for a grumbler. "How's trade?" you ask a hundred business men, ninety-nine will give you as answer "Very dull." The odd one will probably answer in a semi-placid manner, "Well, pretty fair, you know. It could be better; but it's no good grumbling." The business man grumbles if the trade is slack, and should it be brisk he grumbles because he cannot keep pace with his orders. When the business man complains, you may invariably take it that he is glad to see his face; and if he does not grumble, you may look for his name in the list of bankrupts. The greatest grumbler is the man who sells on credit. Credit, he says, is the curse of his business. And yet the artful rogue knows that the strength of his banking account is due to the abnormal profits impossible to the conduct of a cash trade.

LIFE'S LITTLE PERPLEXITIES.
 It is not the great things of life that disturb our equanimity, but the trivialities. Many a stockbroker is undisturbed by a sudden fall of stock; but let his partner play a wrong card in a hand of bridge, and there is a deuce of a row. The roar of cannon and flash of sword may be powerless to ruffle the equanimity of a major-general; but see him at a soiree when some blunderbuss accidentally collides with him. In the midst of the daily trivialities you will see more men adopt an attitude of grumbling than an attitude of serenity. Water is an indispensable necessity of life; but every shower is hoisted at by millions of grumbling tongues. When the rains descend and the floods come, there is no more useful article than an umbrella; but no one takes it from its stand in the hall without a grunt and a growl. We grumble when we come into the world (which is a very trivial thing); we grumble the whole of the time we are in it (which is an even more trivial thing); and we grumble when we are compelled to bid it farewell (which is the most trivial thing of all). And who can say that even in the grave our inclination to grumble is set at rest?

INACTIVE GRUMBLING.
 Grumbling is so natural and so universal that we are not prone to denounce it in other men. Under the present order of things we receive it as a sine qua non. There is one type of grumbler, however, whom it is always judicious to look upon with impatience, and even contempt. I mean the inactive grumbler. We meet him at every turn in life. He is generally known by his persistent denunciation of those who by dogged perseverance have left him behind in the race. He grows because what he calls "fortune" has never thought him worthy of her attention. "Luck" is the dominant word in his vocabulary. Energy is a word, the meaning of which he has never translated into an every day tool. The prosperous people he looks upon with envious gaze. The little energy he possesses is generally expended in advocating the confiscation of property accumulated by thrift, in order to alleviate the lot of those who like himself would share in the spoils won by the army. In whom ranks they have been too indolent to enrol themselves.

HALL TROU GRUMBLER.
 May the genuine grumbler never cease from grumbling. All hail to him! May the monotony of life be kept at bay by his cheerful complaints. Woe unto that Government whose waters are never ruffled by the breeze of opposition. Woe unto society if it hear not periodically the voice of a Vaughan! Woe unto commerce when its pioneers only smile at international rivalry! May Lorenzo never consider his Jesuit beyond the pale of the infallible. May literature never be without its Carlyle; nor religion without its Luther; nor politics without its Chatham; nor philosophy without its Haeckel; nor science without its Huxley; nor poetry without its Booth. There are all in that company of grumblers who from age to age have been the salt of the earth. May nature always see to it that her beauty is not marred with a surfeit of content. The sea is made grander by its roar, the river more fascinating by an intervening fall, the sky more glorious by heavy clouds, and life more worth the living by the voices of the goodly company of grumblers.

Mr. J. Davis, of Harbor Grace, is in town at the Crochies.

Fight in a German Regiment.

Paris, Dec. 29.—The Strasburg correspondent of the Matin tells of a fight between two companies of the 157th Regiment of German Infantry, which have been in barracks at Forts Werdor and Vondertann, near Strasburg.

Although belonging to the same regiment, the men of the two companies lived in a state of enmity. Last Sunday night seventy of the soldiers took part in a fierce battle. Five of the combatants were picked up dying, and one was found dead.

Sackville, N.B., Ladies' College Gets $40,000.

Sackville, N.B., Dec. 27.—When the late Jairus Hart, of Halifax, died, he left to Mrs. Coleman, his wife's sister, who had been living with him for a number of years, a life interest in $40,000, which was to revert to the Ladies' College at her death. Last week she died, and the Ladies' College came into its own. The sum mentioned is probably enough, when added to the $20,000 previously inherited from Mr. Hart, to pay in full for the new college now under construction.

How Wolves Catch Wild Horses.

Travelers tell us that the wolves of Mexico have a strange way of catching the wild horses. The horses have a great speed. It is almost impossible for a single cowboy to catch one. The cowboys, when they wish to run them down, have relay pursuers. First one set of cowboys will chase the horses, then another, and another, until at last the horses are caught by the lasso. But it is only when they are completely tired that they are caught; therefore it would be impossible for the wolves to catch them unless they used strategy, for the flight of the wolves is not so swift as that of the horses. This is the way the wolves kill the wild horses of the Mexican plains. First, two wolves come out of the woods and begin to play together like two kittens. They gambol about each other and run backward and forward. Then the herd of horses lift their startled heads and get ready to stampede. But the wolves seem to be so playful that the horses, after watching them for a while, forget their fears and continue to graze. Then the wolves in their play come nearer and nearer, while other wolves slowly and stealthily creep after them. Then suddenly the enemies surround the herd and make one plunge, and the horses are struggling with the fangs of their relentless foes gripping in their throats.

Presentation of Diplomas at Northern Bay

Wednesday, Dec. 22nd, was chosen as the closing day at the school here. The Rev. J. Lynch, P.P., Chairman of the Board of Education, presided, who expressed great pleasure at the splendid attendance of pupils (65) sixty-five of the Senior and Junior Departments. The rev. gentleman was much impressed at the neat and orderly demeanour of the children and heartily congratulated the two devoted teachers, viz.: Mr. Jas. Fitzgerald, and Miss Nellie Hogan, upon their painstaking work shown by the progress of their pupils during the past year. The Chairman of the Board (Rev. L.) then presented the Diplomas of the C. H. E. Exams to the following successful candidates:— Jas. Hogan—Intermediate (Honors Division). Mary E. Hinchey—Intermediate (First Division). Maud Hogan—Intermediate (First Division). M. C. L. I. Debate.

The first debate for the season was held last night at the M. C. L. I. Rooms in the presence of a large audience. The subject "The British Budget," was in charge of Messrs. Hall and LeDrew for the affirmative, and Horwood and Squires for the negative. The other speakers who took part were Messrs. H. E. Cowan, Geo. Grimes, Geo. Peters, Geo. Soper, and Geo. Whiteley. The subject was handled in a very creditable manner and the intimate knowledge of the subject was on a par with the eloquence of the speakers. The subject will be continued next week under the caption "Was the House of Lords justified in rejecting the Budget?" The affirmative won last night by a good majority. A vote of congratulation proposed by Mr. H. E. Cowan was passed by Mr. R. A. Squires on having been elected to the House of Assembly last election. It was carried by acclamation.

Threatened with Diabetes

The life of a man on the road is not all sunshine. Late travelling, excessive use of rich and sweet foods at hotel tables, too much smoking and the strain of getting business makes it a strenuous life. This is the experience of Mr. H. F. Hardy, written from his home in London: "Late last spring I noticed I was losing strength. I had a great thirst for water and my kidneys were unduly active. Some months earlier I had suffered vague pains in the small of the back, was more or less sleepless, and my nerves were more or less on edge. I started to build up—took a box of Ferrozone, which quickly made me feel so much better. I cut out sweets, sugar and starchy foods, and took Ferrozone tablets with each meal. The results were surprising. A renewal of my health and vigor started up that was quite surprising. I lost that intense thirst that made me crave for water all the time. I wasn't laid up a single day, and attribute my success and robust health entirely to 'Ferrozone.' When a man is run-down, nervous, feeling blue, and out of sorts, when he lacks power to stay at things, and the sight of a good meal fails to excite his appetite—these are the surest signs that his condition demands two Ferrozone Tablets at meals. No other tonic is so strength-giving and invigorating—try it. 50c. a box, six for $2.50, all dealers, or The Catarrhoxone Co., Kingston, Canada. GOT SIX MONTHS.—J. Foley, who was tried in the Magistrate Court, yesterday for the larceny of $160 from a fisherman, was found guilty and was sentenced to six months imprisonment. Mr. J. H. Clark Presented With Address.

On New Year's morning, Mr. J. H. Clark, of the General Post Office, was the recipient of a very pleasant surprise. After the despatch of the morning's mail, the letter carriers of the Department waited on him and presented him with a very pleasing and congratulatory address, accompanied by a handsome smoking outfit. Mr. Clark, although taken by surprise, replied in very fitting terms, and thanked the donors for their gift, and expressed the hope that the cordial relations existing between them would long continue. He availed of the occasion to point out to the officials that only by mutual good will and cheerful co-operation the work of the service can be carried out effectively, and if this was done, not only would they earn the esteem and respect of their superiors in office, but the general public would quickly recognize the efficiency of their work, and this was the only and sure road to promotion in the Public Service.

A St. John Stone Mason Cured of Rheumatism

By "Father Morrissey's No. 7" After Seven Doctors Had Failed. 647 Main St., St. John, N.B. FATHER MORRISSEY'S MEDICINE CO., LTD. I am writing to tell you I have been a victim to Rheumatism for several years, and have been treated by seven doctors without finding any permanent relief until I got Father Morrissey's medicine. It has cured me so I am able to do my work and find I am as well as ever in my life. Yours truly, JOHN CRAWFORD. Rheumatism is caused by sluggish kidneys failing to take the Uric Acid out of the blood. The whole system becomes loaded with poison, which gathers in joints and muscles, causing agony at every movement. "Father Morrissey's No. 7" Tablets act directly on the kidneys, stimulating them to vigorous work. They dissolve the Uric Acid in the blood and free the whole system of the poison. Then, or course, the Rheumatism leaves. Price 50 cents at your dealer's or from Father Morrissey's Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B.

Week of Prayer

There was much about last night's meeting, under the auspices of the Week of Prayer, that tended to deepen its interest. Perhaps it was the topic, or perhaps it was the speaker, or perhaps it was various interests combined; but certain it is that there was a depth of warmth and spirit of earnestness of which the entire congregation felt the better. As at the former meetings, the pastors were well represented, and we were especially pleased to notice also the presence of the Rev. Mr. Middleton, of Portune Bay. The pastor of the church, Rev. Charles Hackett, led the service, and he was assisted by the Rev. J. K. Curtis and the Rev. J. Thackeray, and also by the Rev. Mark Fenwick, who read the lesson. As already announced, the address of the evening was in charge of the Rev. Mr. Burrows, of the Presbyterian Church, and he was gratified to be able to record that it was a good address. We hear so many missionary addresses that it is not the easiest thing to hear originality on the subject; but Mr. Burrows was original, and his originality was intensified by his marked zeal and great earnestness. To listen to him was to be impressed with his sincerity, and to be convinced that the speaker felt what he was saying. But his emotions did not carry him away, for his calm deliberation was uppermost at every point which he made. If we had time and space we would try and outline the address, but falling there, we cannot do so. As the services have continued, and we have taken our places in the Week of Prayer, which we have attended for forty years, we miss many familiar forms, and this year we miss the Rev. Dr. Robertson; but last night's meeting was worthily sustained by his representative. With such good influences, and so much in our favour, it is expected that the two remaining services of the week will be largely attended, and that the last will be the best.—I.C.M. ORDER OF SERVICE. Thursday.—The Kirk Subject, "The Church Universal." Speaker: Rev. J. K. Curtis, B.A. Friday.—Gower St. Subject: "Sunday Schools." M. C. L. I. Debate.

Sociable at Northern Bay.

The annual Christmas sociable at Northern Bay was held in the R. C. School, on the 27th and 28th ult. The spacious building was tastefully decorated for the occasion, and on the opening night was filled to its utmost capacity. The dance was the chief attraction, and the younger folk "chased the glowing hours with flying feet" while older one found enjoyment in less vigorous, though none the less enjoyable, pastime. The proceeds, which go to defray the cost of a bell for the new church, reached the handsome total of $240.00. The affair was financially assisted by many outside friends, due, doubtless, to the popularity of Rev. J. Lynch, our esteemed Pastor. To the ladies of the parish in general and to the committee in charge in particular is due great praise for such a successful "aut de fete". PARISHONER. Jan. 3rd, 1910.

Mend the Lords.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, Jan. 5. Two phases of the election struggle now claim attention: First, the orderly interruptions to which the Conservative meetings, and almost of these addressed by Lords, are subjected. It is practically impossible for any Unionist Lord to obtain a hearing and, second, the realization by the Lords themselves and the Unionist press of the necessity of the House of Lords advocating its own reform, as the only means of meeting the storm of protest the Peers' action upon the Budget aroused in the country. The reform of the House of Lords has been openly urged by the Times and other Conservative organs and was to-night the most interesting point of the speech of Lord Lansdowne at Liverpool. His Lordship's present House was too unwieldy for an effective second chamber, he declared his belief in the preponderating power of the House of Commons and suggested a House of Lords within the other House, and that this reform out to be the work of no one but of both political parties working together. In conclusion, Lord Lansdowne advocated Tariff Reform with a moderate scale of duties as the only visible remedy for the evils desired to remove. All the great leaders were again speaking in various part of the country tonight. Austin Chamberlain challenged Premier Asquith to produce proof of his assertion that unemployment was felt as much in protected countries as in Great Britain. The campaign seems to have a great attraction for the literary class. Alfred Austin, the Poet Laureate, joined the fray tonight by issuing a letter in which he points out that the present House of Lords includes 200 members who served their country in the army and navy, a hundred of them on the battlefield, to say nothing of those who perished in the shock of war. One hundred and seventy had been members of the House of Commons, and he declared that it is impossible to call such a body unrepresentative.

Campaign Issues.

Daily News Message. LONDON, Jan. 5. Yesterday's meetings of the Unionists and Liberals numbered 7,500. Though popular absorption in the election continues to dominate the issue, various allied daily. When the campaign opened, marching orders were given to the ministerial speakers to concentrate against the House of Lords. This was considered the winning card and under the stimulus of the speeches of Lloyd-George some of the only issues. But popular apathy soon tires when led from one issue and the continued denunciation of the Lords has lost some of its zeal. In the hope of lessening interest in the campaign against the Peers, the German War Scare and Home Rule (both are being brought to the front, Balfour telegraphed a meeting of Unionists at Belfast last night that "they had behind them the same resolute party, whose determined resistance to the dismemberment of the United Kingdom has twice defeated the policy of Home Rule." Balfour ended an impassioned speech on the German menace in these words: "I don't believe there is going to be war, and heaven knows I don't desire it; but remember that absolutely the only way in which you can secure the peace which you all desire is that you shall be sure of victory if war takes place."

The N. Y. Legislative Programme.

Special to Evening Telegram. ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 5. With the opening of the Legislature session of 1910 at noon to-day Governor Hughes submitted his annual message, recommending various legislative reforms and a special message advising the legislators to reject the proposed income tax amendment to the Federal constitution. The Governor believes the power to tax incomes should not be granted in such terms as to subject to Federal taxation, the incomes derived from bonds issued by the State itself and those issued by the Municipal Governments, organized under the State's authority. Several of his former recommendations are renewed by the Governor in his annual message, including an extension of the jurisdiction of the public service, commissions to include telegraph and telephone direct nominations and ballot reform, New York charter revision, protection of streams from pollution, and a substantial automobile tax.

In the hope of lessening interest in the campaign against the Peers, the German War Scare and Home Rule Bogie are being brought to the front. Balfour telegraphed a meeting of Unionists at Belfast last night that "they had behind them the same resolute party, whose determined resistance to the dismemberment of the United Kingdom has twice defeated the policy of Home Rule." Balfour ended an impassioned speech on the German menace in these words: "I don't believe there is going to be war, and heaven knows I don't desire it; but remember that absolutely the only way in which you can secure the peace which you all desire is that you shall be sure of victory if war takes place."

The N. Y. Legislative Programme.

Special to Evening Telegram.
ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 5.
With the opening of the Legislature session of 1910 at noon to-day, Governor Hughes submitted his annual message, recommending various legislative reforms and a special message advising the Legislature to reject the proposed income tax amendment to the Federal constitution. The Governor believes the power to tax incomes should not be granted in such terms as to subject to Federal taxation, the incomes derived from bonds issued by the State itself and those issued by the Municipal Governments, organized under the State's authority. Several of his former recommendations are renewed by the Governor in his annual message, including an extension of the jurisdiction of the public service, commissions to include telegraph and telephone, direct nominations and ballot reform, New York charter, revision, protection of streams from pollution, and a substantial automobile tax.

Notes From Harbor Grace.

Miss Elsie Tetford, of E. J. Horwood's employ, St. John's, took a run this way on Friday last to spend New Year's Day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Tetford, and other friends.

Mr. Norman Munn, Jr., left by the express last evening for Boston, where he has secured a good position.

It is with regret we have to record the death of Miss Susie Pike, only daughter of Mr. Albert Pike. Miss Pike was a little over 20 years of age, and has been gradually failing the past year. Her friends have general sympathy.

The concert given last night in St. Paul's Hall by the St. Andrew's Choral Society of St. John's was a grand success, a treat indeed to our town people who attended. Unfortunately the weather was disagreeable which kept many at home who had intended to be present. The concert was for the benefit of the funds of the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid Society of this town, and they are to be congratulated on the perfect arrangements. A large quantity of home-made candy was sold during the interval. Some 25 ladies and gentlemen of St. John's took part.

The annual meeting of the Corporation Bay British Society took place in the Society's Hall, on Monday evening last, when the year's business was gone through and the election of officers and other new business attended to. At the hour named for opening the hall was nearly filled with a body of men who seemed to be there for business, and by the way they managed their affairs it is plain to be seen that they have the interest of the Society at heart, every one of them. After some preliminary remarks by the President, Mr. Albert Rogers, the Treasurer, Mr. Albert Heath, was called on for his report. This report showed that the income for the year had been $1,143.95; $728.20 had been paid out for sick benefits; eight members had died during the year, and the mortality money for each was $49, the total was $320.04; five members' wives had conquered the last enemy during the year, the mortality money was $20.00 each, reaching a total of $100.00. The expenditure was thus in excess of the income, but as it was shown that a considerable sum was due the society by the members, partly on account of the poor fishery, affairs were not as dark as they would appear at the first glance. The Society has in bank the very nice sum of, if we remember right, $3,158.76. The number of members on the roll at the present time is 231. The election of officers resulted in the re-election of Mr. A. Rogers as President; although Mr. R. expressed a wish to be allowed to step aside this year, the body would not hear it and he was again re-elected by a very large majority. It is 17 years since, as a committee man, Mr. Rogers first took a seat on the platform, and he has been there ever since seldom missing a meeting, and his interest in the good work never wavered. Mr. Paul Higgins, Vice-President, Mr. Geo. T. Gordon was elected Treasurer, Mr. O. Davis, Secretary; Mr. Jordan Sheppard, 1st Committee man with 8 other committee men will manage the finer work of the body for the year. It was proposed, seconded and carried unanimously that the C. B. S. organize a Juvenile Branch on the same lines as that of St. John's, and a committee was appointed to finalize matters. It was also decided to hold a festival and dance on an early date. This club Society is of untold good to its members. The amount paid out during the year in sick benefits and mortality must have been very helpful to the members and their widows and orphans. Who can estimate the value of such a society to a community. It is hoped the formation of the Juvenile Branch may be the means of building up the parent society and if the advice given by Rev. Mr. Carpenter on Saturday last is taken who can tell what benefit to humanity this benevolent institution will yet be. The meeting closed at 11 o'clock with prayer, all the members joining heartily in the doxology.

How Roosevelt Got His Leopard.

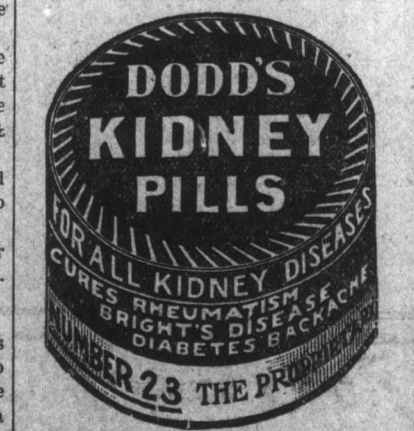

In one of these beats they put up a leopard, and saw it slinking forward ahead of them through the bushes. Then they lost sight of it, and came to the conclusion that it was in a large thicket. So Kermit went on one side of it and McMillan on the other, and the beaters approached to try and get the leopard out. Of course none of the beaters had guns; their function was merely to make a disturbance and rouse the game, and they were cautioned on no account to get into danger. But the leopard did not wait to be driven. Without any warning, out he came and charged straight at Kermit, who stopped him when he was but six yards off with a bullet in the forehead of the body; the leopard turned, and as he galloped back Kermit hit him again crippling him in the hips. The wounds were fatal, and they would have knocked the fight out of any animal less plucky and savage than the leopard but not even in Africa is there a beast of more unflinching courage than this spotted cat. The beaters were much excited by the sight of the charge and the way in which it was stopped, and they pressed jubilantly forward, too heedlessly; one of them who was on McMillan's side of the thicket, went too near it, and out came the wounded leopard at him. It was badly crippled or it would have got the beater at once as it was; it was slowly overtaking him as he ran through the tall grass, when McMillan, standing on an ant heap, shot it again. Yet, in spite of having this third bullet in it, it ran down the beater and seized him, worrying him with teeth and claws; but it was weak because of its wounds, and the powerful savage wrenched himself free, while McMillan fired into the beast again; and back it went through the long grass into the thicket. There was a pause, and the wounded beater was removed to a place of safety, while a messenger was sent on to us to bring up the Boer dogs. But while they were waiting, the leopard, on its own initiative, brought matters to a crisis, for out it came again straight at Kermit, and this time it dropped dead to Kermit's bullet.—From "African Game Trails" by Theodore Roosevelt in the January Scribner.

Finger-Print Identification Revolutionized Policing.—Present System In Vogue All Over the World.—Was Invented by M. Bertillon of Paris and Brought to its High State of Perfection by Sir Edward Henry of Scotland Yard, London.—Has Proven Infallible.
The finger-print system as now used by practically every police force in the world was brought to its present pitch of perfection by Sir Edward Henry, Chief Commissioner of the Metropolitan (London) Police.

Although the varying character of finger-prints was known to the ancients, it was not till 1823 that Purkenje, an eminent physiologist of Breslau, attempted to classify the patterns which he divided into nine groups.

Then, in 1858, Sir Henry Herschel, of the Indian Civil Service, found false personation in the courts so common that he tried to induce the Government to introduce a finger-print system, but without avail. The matter, however, was studied by Sir Edward Henry, who, in 1881, became Inspector-general of the Bengal police, and the system adopted.

In the meantime the system had attracted the attention of the authorities at home, largely owing to the investigations of Sir Francis Galton on the subject. In October, 1893, Mr. Asquith, then Home Secretary, appointed a committee, consisting of Mr. Charles Edward Troup, of the Home Office; Major Arthur Griffiths, Inspector of Prisons, and Mr. Melville Macnaghten, chief constable of the metropolitan force, to inquire into the methods of identifying criminals, and to report on the finger-print system.

This committee issued its report in 1894, and recommended a combination of M. Bertillon's system of recording various measurements of the head, limbs, and body, and Sir Francis Galton's finger-print system. Finally, in 1900, another committee recommended the adoption of the finger-print system alone, and in July, 1901, this became the sole method used by the police of England and Wales. As said, it had already been practiced in India, and adopted by the Government there with the greatest success.

It remained but for a thoroughly simple and reliable method of classification to be perfected. This was done by Sir Edward Henry, and the system has to-day been adopted by police all over the world.
The central finger-print bureau for Great Britain, the brains of this far-reaching weapon against the criminal, is a room of no great size at New Scotland Yard. To see it for the first time is to be disappointed, for you meet it with the knowledge that here is the headquarters of a system of identifying the criminal that is uncanny in its wonderful powers. But instead of something impressive you see a table at which three or four men are quietly writing. Around them are eight cabinets divided into pigeon-holes and partly filled with slips of paper the size of a foolscap sheet. Through the window is a pleasant glimpse of grass and trees in the Embankment gardens—and that is all! Nothing to suggest the power and terror of the finger-print system; nothing to suggest that you are in the conning-tower of the most marvelous crime-fighting machine the world has ever seen.

It is, of course, essential to the value of this department that it should have as large a collection of the finger-prints of criminals as possible. This collection grows from day to day. At the present time there are about 150,000 sets of finger-prints here, all carefully classified and indexed and put away in the pigeon-holes so that any can be found in a moment. As each set consists of nineteen prints, this means that there are nearly three million finger-prints in this room. From prisons all over the country the sheets of finger-prints come. All prisoners who are serving one month or upwards are finger-printed by the warders at the prisons where they are undergoing sentence, and the records forwarded to Scotland Yard.

In the latter case some amazing things happen. From some police force in the country comes a set of finger-prints of a suspected burglar, who calls himself, let us say, John Wedding Horses.

An old-fashioned man who wanted to hire a team for the afternoon saw a nice pair of bays which he thought he would like to drive.
"Can't let you have them," said the liverman. "They are wedding horses."

"What's that?" asked the innocent pleasure seeker.
"Horses that won't shy at old shoes and showers of rice. Some horses seem prejudiced against matrimony. Anyhow they lose their temper if they happen to be hit by any of the good luck emblems that are fired after a bridal couple, and run away if they get half a chance. Every lively stable, however, keeps two or more horses who take a more cheerful view of the wedded state. They may be literally pelted with old shoes without resenting it. Those bays are that kind. They are slated to head a wedding procession to-night and are resting up for a job."—New York Sun.

Remarkable Feat by a Submarine.

Toulon, Dec. 29.—The submarine Cigogn performed a remarkable life-saving feat during a recent storm. The boat was practicing in the open sea when the commander saw a large fishing boat suddenly overwhelmed and sink. The submarine immediately diving right under the fishing craft, of which the headmast alone was above water. The valves were operated quickly and the Cigogn rose to the surface lifting the boat, and holding it above water long enough to take off the crew.

Sociable at Northern Bay.
The annual Christmas sociable at Northern Bay was held in the R. C. Church on the 27th and 29th ult. The church building was tastefully decorated for the occasion, and on the evening light was fitted to its utmost capacity. The dance was the chief attraction, and the younger folk spent the closing hours with flying feet. The older one found enjoyment in the vigorous, though none the less sociable, pastime. The proceeds of the evening defrayed the cost of a high school year, reached the sum of $240.00. The affair was assisted by many out-of-town friends. To the ladies of the church, and to the committee in particular is due the credit of such a successful PARISHONER.
