To--- The Passing.

Along the road that skirts the hill, Where often you and I Have lingered many a golden eve, In days but late gone by.

I stroll and dream of you the while, And pray that war may cease, For oh, this night an offspring is, Of Beauty and perfect Peace.

The snow sprites' art the scene be- decks, Moonlight and stars prevail, Some radiant spirit of the spheres Floods with her light the vale.

It seems—so bright the landscape shows So wondrous and so fair— If Peace with her attendant hosts Kneel on the fields in prayer.

'Tis calm, a hushed and holy calm Permeates, 'tis silence all, Save where the rivers gladsome flow Of sparkling waters fall.

Soft like the low sweet pleading voice And interceding tones Of cloistered virgins, when they tell Their vesper orisons.

And in those orisons I join And pray that peace as true, As now enraps this tranquil vale, May bless our Empire too.

A lasting peace, that with the fall Of German greed shall come, When vic'try crowns our Allied arms, And you are safe at home.

Scarcity Of News.

In consequence of the interruption of the lines in the Maritime Provinces by a storm, no news has been received from Halifax since yesterday afternoon. For the St. Pierre Belinens we are indebted to the Anglo-American Cable Co. The New York news of last night was supplied to Hon. J. R. Bennett, Colonial Secretary, by the courtesy of the Commercial Cable Co.

Once Neighbours Fought To Death In Ypres Battle

Winnipeg, November 13.—During a night attack in one of the battles at Ypres a star shell showed to a Winnipeg soldier the face of a German who had seen him off at the Union Station here in August, 1914. The Canadians had reached the German trenches and a hand-to-hand encounter followed.

The Winnipeg soldier and his one-time German friend lost their rifles and they grappled until the Canadian was choking his man.

"Neither of us said a word, but I know he recognized me," narrates the Canadian, who has returned, discharged because of wounds.

"We had been next-door neighbors for several years in North Winnipeg and we were fast friends.

"How did it end? A comrade bayonetted him just as the flare died down. Next morning I found he was dead."

Cook's Cofectant Tar-Medicated Bath Soap is likely to become popular as an accessory to the toilet. It has decided detergent and antiseptic properties. The "business" part of it is of course Cook's Cofectant, but the disinfectant is so combined with the other ingredients as to make a soap quite unobjectionable in every way. We suggest that you give it a trial—and observe for yourself. Price 10c a cake.

Na-dru-Co Sabadilla is one of the best insect destroyers that exists, and is suitable for man or domestic animals, speedily clearing out vermin. It is put up in convenient shake-top tins. Price 25c a tin.

The War and Rhodes' Scholars.

(From the Manchester Guardian)

The war is playing sad tricks with Cecil Rhodes' famous educational bequest. Not only has it suddenly checked the award of scholarships to Germans, but it has interfered with the normal working of the American side of the Rhodes foundation. The papers to be set this year to candidates in the United States were dispatched by the mail that went down in the Arabic. A second batch of papers was sent by the Hesperian!

To Drive the Germans Out of South Africa.

Cape Town, Union of South Africa, Nov. 24.—It is the clear duty of the union to make the territory throughout southern Africa inviolable against designs contemplated in the idea of a greater Germany, said General J. C. Smuts, commander of the expedition against German East Africa, in a speech delivered in Cape Town in connection with the recruiting campaign.

General Smuts emphasized the necessity of putting into the field an adequate expedition against German East Africa "in order to complete the work of driving the German flag from southern Africa."

The general added that South Africa was not protected against "the designs of advocates of a greater Germany," by a Monroe doctrine as in America, or by distance as Australia.

Newspapers Defeat British Diplomacy.

London, Nov. 27.—The British government has begun an investigation to see how far the newspapers were responsible for the defeat of British diplomacy in the Balkans.

Announcement to this effect was made by Sir John Simon, the Home Secretary. Sir John read an extract from the Russian newspaper Ruskoe Slovo, charging that responsibility for the failure of Anglo-French and Russian diplomacy in the Balkans rested with the London Daily Mail and Times. Articles in these papers were republished in Greek newspapers without comment as proof that the British acknowledged the shortcomings of their military organization.

"The government is looking into this matter," declared the Home Secretary.

The extract in the Russian papers stated that the Mail and Times systematically blackened the military and diplomatic measures of the British government, and that the Germans naturally took advantage of this.

Your Boys & Girls

The folding cart for baby is a great convenience for the mother, as it may be taken on the street cars, and permits mother and baby to go out many times when it would not otherwise be possible. But such carts should be used only for the purpose for which they are intended; to convey the baby short distances and not as pleasure vehicles. Nor should the baby be left to sit fastened in one of these small carts for any great length of time.

The best vehicle for ordinary use about the house is one which is at least two feet high. It should have room for the baby, with the necessary wrappings, in any position, and a cover that can be readily adjusted to secure the needed protection. It should have strong, well balanced springs and stand squarely on four wheels. A safety strap which fastens about the baby's waist gives greater protection than the ordinary carriage strap.

RAMBLING NOTES for 1915.

(I. C. MORRIS.)

CHAPTER VII.

From Victoria Village in Conception Bay to St. George's on the West Coast, is quite a jump; but having written about the intervening places before, we will therefore confine these notes to what may be termed "new territory."

St. George's is an interesting district, and it presents many features that are not always met in Newfoundland. In this district are the Table and Anguille Mountains, between which lie the rich alluvial levels, and splendid waters of Little and Grand Rivers. I do not profess to know which is really the best part of Newfoundland; but it cannot be denied, that among its choicest areas, the flats and slopes of St. George's District stand foremost.

The portion of the district which particularly came under my notice, is that which lies between Cape Bay and Deer Lake, but especially the locality of Little River and Codroy. Like all parts of Newfoundland, its fisheries are rich and offer safe returns to honest industry; but in addition to its fisheries, it offers an equally profitable reward to those who till the soil.

foundland. As well visit any large city and take pictures of some of its slums and alleys, and because of that profess to know such city. Unfortunately Newfoundland has been basely libelled in this same manner. There was, however, one particular mistake made, or fallen into, in the earlier days of our settlement--it was the fact that colonization was chiefly confined to the peninsula of Avalon, and the Western part of the island had been settled at the same time as its eastern promontory, it would have made a very great difference in the history and trade of the entire country; and it would have had a tendency to save the country from developing the mistaken, one-sided policy of fishing, to the neglect of everything else.

The peninsula of Avalon is the most exposed of any, to the mists and fogs of the Atlantic Ocean. A glance at the map, at once certifies this statement. Our fogs and mists have been one of our drawbacks; but they are mostly local, nor do they extend to the more beautiful spots of the island. Some people write and speak as if the fog covered the whole country, but such a statement is another libel. The country is greater than we think it, better than we know it, and has a future far beyond our present-day limited impressions of it. There has got to come a big change sometime, and whatever source it comes from, or whatever aspect the trend of affairs assumes: whether it be Colonial, Provincial, or Imperial, it will mean the entry of Newfoundland into wider industrial and commercial relations with the world at large--to this she is adapted, and for it she is destined.

Three Regiments of Australians Were Wiped Out

But one Man of the Entire Force Remained Alive Reports Turk.

The Dardanelles, Nov. 10 (Australian official eye-witness).--Some of the press details regarding the famous charge of the Australian light horse brigade against the Turks on the Nek, in which the best part of three Australian regiments participated and only one man remained alive, have just reached British headquarters through a Turkish prisoner. The prisoner was able to state positively, what many Australians who witnessed the charge has suspected, that during the attack the Turks lost not a single man. They received a special complimentary order from their general and several medals and a good many promotions.

The Australian charge followed a long period of bombardment. "As soon as the bombardment stopped," said the Turkish prisoner, "the English (the Turks call all the British troops whether home or colonial by the name English), leaped over their parapet and charged down upon us. They came on very well. As soon as they appeared, every rifle in the place opened upon them direct across the Nek, and a machine gun with its cross-fire from the right swept them sheer off the face of the earth. Three of them managed to reach our trenches and fell dead over the parapet into the bottom of it. "As for the men of the light horse brigade, after three months in the trenches, with many of them sick and some of them weak, with every officer and man at his appointed place, the instant the word was given they leapt from their trenches and rushed on death, the first line may not have known it was death, the third line must have known it, and they died."

One of the saddest finds recorded was that of a St. John's, Newfoundland, fisherman, who discovered a wedding ring in the entrails of a cod in 1871. It was eventually proved to have belonged to Pauline Burman, an Englishwoman, who was lost in the steamship Anglo-Saxon, wrecked off Chance Cove, Newfoundland, in 1861. The lucky fisherman received a present of fifty pounds for restoring the highly-prized memento to the woman's son.

Odd Items.

A Havre fisherman's wife, drying codfish caught by her husband on the coast of France in 1904, noticed that one fish had a hard substance inside. On investigation she found in the fish a golden bracelet. How the ornament came into its strange receptacle, is, of course, not known; but it is conjectured that it must have slipped from the wrist of some fat passenger leaning over the bulwarks of a transatlantic liner, and been seized by the cod.

Last year the greater part of the male, and part of the female, population of the village of Portishead, at the mouth of the Avon, in England, turned anglers for a while. Fishing tackle and bait boomed for some time, and all because one of the local anglers shortly before had landed a good-sized fish, and when it came to be dissected on the domestic table it was found to "include" a diamond ring declared to be worth one hundred and fifty dollars.

Owing to the fact that cod seek their food on the bottom and are voracious feeders, their stomachs, when opened, frequently present a curious and sometimes amusing collection of odds and ends. Bits of leather, marlin-spikes, iron bolts, a ball of twine, leaden sounding plummet, hoofts of deer, scissors, brass, oil cans, potato parings, corn cobs, the head of a rubber doll, stones, and big shells have been found in them. A codfish caught at Vineyard Haven was found to have in its stomach two full-grown ducks. When taken out they were quite fresh, having most of their feathers on.

Because the heel of a rubber boot, and fragments of a rubber coat, together with a knife, were found in the stomach of a cod one day, a Gloucester man was reported, and the story was taken seriously for a time, that the fish had eaten the fisherman to whom they had belonged, and that these were the undigested fragments.

Unless you are tall and slender, be careful how you place trimming on the bottom of your skirt. Things running round the skirt tend to thicken the appearance.

Colored handkerchiefs are now more dainty than plain white. They are sometimes of silk, but always in pastel shades.

The large hat is clamoring to be first in fashion; but it, so long as there are wind and motors, the close-fitting hat will hold its own.

The tailored shirtwaist exists, but it is softened somewhat by being made of soft taffeta, and the turnover collar and cuffs are puffed.

Veils are playing a very important part in fashionable winter outfits. They amount to hat trimmings, so elaborate have they become.

Even young girls are wearing fur coats with flaring skirts and broad bands of skunk fur.

Skating caps and scarfs of soft wool to match are among the prettiest things of the season.

No matter what the fur, it must be worn high, covering the mouth and reaching to the ears.

A touch of embroidery on the ends of the sash will give a point of interest easily acquired.

Handbags are many and varied, but for good general use the one of leather or is always best.

There is nothing prettier than white wool sweater with cap to match.

There are delightful low shoes made without buckles or trimming of any kind and to be worn with spats.

Stripes are used for separate skirts and there are very smart limousine wraps made of striped velveteen.

White fox fur, black velvet and white cloth embroidered in black and white and gold makes a charming color scheme.

A Doctor From the Dardanelles.

(From the Manchester Guardian.)

A regimental doctor just back from the Dardanelles has told me some interesting things about life at Helles. The difficulties which the medical staff have to face on the peninsula and on the island where the hospital camps are have been largely decreased, but the work is still carried on under many handicaps. Many of the troubles arose from want of any special communication between the medical staff and the store ships of the island. That has been largely overcome by the arrival of a number of pinnaces, which allows them no longer to be dependent on the naval staff of the launches. The sanitary troubles have been big and vexatious, and before the hospital camps had been laid down nothing had been done to prepare the engineering operations which should have been considered as soon as the site of the camp on the island was fixed. Among the minor questions was the absence of aerated waters for the sick. So far it has been impossible to get anything but the smallest supply. Many descriptions of life at Helles have been given--the plague of flies, the dug-outs in tiers, the constant sniping. My informant emphasized the point of the clean fighting of the Turks. Only twice, he said, have the Red Cross vans been fired on, and it was on an occasion when the vans were so turned that the Red Crosses could not be seen by the enemy. After the position of the vans had been altered and the marks made clear there was no more firing. Once or twice shots had come into the hospital camp, but these were clearly accidents. There is a Turkish graveyard at Helles which is never fired upon by the enemy and is never used by us for any military purposes. A strong barbed wire fence has been put around it to prevent any trespass.

How She Hurt Her Mother!

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON.

"I saw Gretchen at her table at the bazaar the other day," said one of my neighbors to another, speaking of the latter's married daughter.
I saw Gretchen's mother look up quickly and then compose herself with an evident effort.
"Did you?" she said quietly enough, but there was a pink flush on her cheeks.
"Yes," said the first woman. "You know she made fudge at the candy table. She had on that rose-color dress and the cutest apron. She told me they had made twenty-five dollars already and hoped to make fifty. Do you know if they did?"

of sons and daughters who do not realize how much their doings interest their mothers and fathers, especially the former.

Such A Little Thing And So Big.

Gretchen has a telephone and so has her mother. Yet sometimes two or three days will pass without Gretchen's calling her mother up and when the latter takes the initiative Gretchen is sometimes too busy to talk.

"If they'd only tell me where they're going," I heard another mother say of her grown sons and daughters. "It's not that I'm curious, but when they all go out and leave me alone in the evening, it would be so much more interesting if I knew what they were all doing."
A modest request, surely.

The Fall of The World.

Still another woman who is a widow and who has given her whole life to bringing up and educating her son and daughter is alone. They have both answered the call of the world and left her for bigger opportunities than the home city offered.

To be sure young people must be quick to seize opportunities, but I sometimes wonder when I see this woman living from letter to letter, if the opportunity is always worth what it costs.

Of course there are old people who are selfish in their demands on the young, but I think there are many more young folks who are thoughtless in their way of planning their lives without reference to the old.

PRODUCE CARGO—The s.s. Senlac, 4 days from Charlottetown, P.E.I., arrived here this morning with a cargo of produce and live stock, including 40 head of cattle and a quantity of sheep. The Senlac will leave here again to-night and return with a full cargo of poultry for the Christmas season.

A casual observer might have thought she was strangely uninterested in her daughter's activities. He would have been wrong.

The pathos of the thing is that she is so deeply interested. The start, the rush and the quick change of subject meant just one thing—that her neighbour was giving her news of her daughter's doings that the daughter had failed to give, and that she could not hear that her neighbour should know that or guess how hurt she was.

No, there is nothing in her bazaar work that Gretchen wants to hide, nor are mother and daughter at odds. Gretchen is just one of the big army

Killed While Bomb-Throwing.

Mr. Patrick Mallard, Quidi Vidi, has received the subjoined letter from Captain Richardson concerning his son, Private James P. Mallard, of the 1st Canadian Expeditionary Force and who was killed in action on Nov. 24th.

Bonavac, Nov. 7th, 1915.
P. Mallard, Esq., Quidi Vidi, St. John's, N. F.
My dear Mr. Mallard,—
Long ere this letter reaches you the Militia Department will have conveyed to you the loss in action of your son Pte. J. P. Mallard, No. 4376, Pte. Mallard was severely wounded on the morning of November the 5th while engaged in operating a new bomb throwing machine and died a few moments later while being taken to the Dressing Station. Both Sergeant Moody and your son were hit by a German Rifle Grenade which landed a few feet from where they were operating the machine—injuries in both cases were fatal.

You son has been with this Company since the first coming to France in February; and throughout the period since then he has continuously given the Company his full and most loyal support especially during the severe engagement at St. Julien, at Postubert and Givinchy.

No hardships or discomforts ever daunted his spirits or depressed him. He freely gave them ungrudgingly, cheerfully and in full measure. In paying my simple tribute to his steadfast courage and loyal service I wish to convey to you and his mother our deep and abiding sympathy and our sense of loss at the parting with such an old and tried comrade. Believe me with much sympathy,
Very sincerely,
(Sgd) G. T. RICHARDSON,
Capt. O.C. No. 2 Coy., W. 2nd B., 1st C. E. F.

Roumania.

From time to time we hear suggestions that Roumania will in the near future make a ke war on Austria and Bulgaria in the interest of the Entente. Such suggestions should be discounted and no reliance placed on them. Whatever chances there were of Roumania joining the Allies when there was a possibility of a Balkan League being formed, if there ever was a reasonable hope of this being done, disappeared when King Ferdinand declared war on Serbia, and the possibility of the coming in of Roumania has become more and more remote as the grip of the Central Powers on Serbia has tightened. There are no means for the troops of France and Britain joining those of Roumania. The troops which landed at Saloniki and which are in Greece and on a narrow front in South Serbia are separated from Roumania by a couple of hundred miles of broad territory, held by hostile troops. The only aid Roumania could expect would be from Russia, and Russia has her hands too much occupied in raising new troops and providing munitions for her field forces to give much aid at present. Moreover, three quarters of the Roumanian frontier marches with Bulgaria, the part of Serbia occupied by the Huns and Bulgars, and Hungary. The only quarter from which she could get the aid Russia has available would be by the Black Sea coast and from the North East, and by the time this would be available, she would be exposed to attack on 300 or 900 miles of frontier. It will be seen that with her lack of local munition factories, she would be liable to the fate which has befallen Serbia. The only chance of Roumania coming in is after a hostile attack against her by the Huns or the Bulgars. An inspection of the map of Roumania and the bordering countries will show the visionary nature of the expectation of Roumania taking a hand in the struggle on our side until the Huns have been driven by us from Serbia and the Bulgars defeated. There is no good purpose to be served by illusory expectations of any immediate action on the side of the Entente from Roumania. The task in the Far East is a hard one, and we have to face stern facts, and tighten up our belt to surmount very grave difficulties.

L. C. A. S. Sale.

The annual Sale of Work by the Ladies' College Aid Society was opened in the College Hall yesterday afternoon by the Hon. R. K. Bishop, who in doing so eulogized the work of the L. C. A. S. in promoting the interests of the College.
The stalls were tastefully arranged and were well stocked with plain and fancy work, toys, candles and preserves and the ladies in charge did a thriving business. The large circular stall in the centre of the room, presided over by members of the Girls' Guild was practically five booths in one, and was designed and erected by Mr. H. Blatch.
The decorations were very pretty, and the trees provided by Mr. S. K. Bell added much to the appearance of the stall.
On the platform teas were served and games provided for the children while at the opposite end of the hall were the supper tables which were well patronized. Congratulations are due to Mrs. John Leamon, President, and the other ladies of the L. C. A. S., on the success of their efforts.
The Sale closes to-night with a concert which will begin at 8.30 p.m. The programme is under the direction of Mr. H. Gordon Christian and those taking part will be: Misses Johnson, Curtis, Ladley, Oates, Hutchings, Herd and Christian, Messrs. Kendall, Courtney, Trappell and Foster.

Two More Steel Ships Leaving.
All business matters in connection with the purchase of the steamers Bellaventure and Adventure have been settled and both ships will sail from here to-morrow for North Sydney en route to Archangel, Russia. The crews are signing on to-day and are being paid well, the others getting $65 a month, fremen $60 and trimmers $55.
HERRING IN ABUNDANCE.—Herring are still plentiful at Bonne Bay and yesterday all the boats were loaded.

Japanese Premier Operated On.

Inflammation Appeared in Stump of Leg After Amputation.

Tokio, Nov. 24.—The operation which was performed last Monday on Count Okuma, the Japanese premier, was the result of inflammation which appeared in that part of his leg which had been left after an amputation. The inflammation was caused, according to his physicians, by walking in the ancient costume worn at the recent coronation of Emperor Yoshihito. The Premier wears an artificial leg, one of his legs having been amputated following an injury sustained in 1888 when a would-be assassin threw a bomb at his carriage as it was passing through one of the outer gates leading into the palace grounds. The explosion of the missile killed the horse and shattered the vehicle, and the Count's right leg was so badly torn that amputation was necessary. The Premier received no callers, but his friends say his speedy recovery is expected.

Washington in Fear of Bombs.

Guards About Principal Official Buildings are Doubled.

Washington, Nov. 24.—The watchfulness of the guards about all the principal government buildings in the capital has been redoubled on special orders.

To-day guards stationed at strategic positions commanding all the entrances in buildings which houses the state, war and navy departments, were under orders to questions and if necessary search any persons of whom they had doubts.

Anyone carrying packages of any sort were subjected to questioning.

CHARGED WITH THEFT.—Sergeant Fitzgerald, who has been in the city the past few days, leaves again by tonight's train in charge of a 16-year-old boy. This lad was arrested at St. John's a short time ago on complaint of the northern authorities that he had broken into the Reid Co's railway store near Elliston, T.B., and stole a quantity of flour and other articles. Since his arrest he has been at the Penitentiary. The accused will likely be dealt with at Catalina.

STEPHANO DETAINED BY STORM.—On her last trip coming from New York, the Red Cross Liner Stephano got storm-swept and it is thought she is having a similar experience this time. No doubt she got the full force of last night's S.E. gale, which was so severely felt on the western section of the island, and which accounts for her delay.

Instructive Letter From Mr. A. Freeman to his Brother.—Handed to The Evening Telegram for Publication.

(Concluded.)
S. S. Flamingo,
Masset, B. C.
Oct. 30th, 1915.
There are several cold storage plants out here now, some in connection with the canneries and mostly run by waterpower, where it can be got. There are two run with gasoline engines, one holds about a million pounds, the other less than half that.

All the waterpower plants are of larger size as I am commiserate place, power, capacity in lbs.

B. C. P. Steveston Storage, Steam	7,000,000
Canadian Fitcher, Vancouver, Electric	8,000,000
Vancouver Cold Storage, Vancouver, Steam and Electric	2,000,000
Alberni Cold Storage, Alberni, Water	6,000,000
Anderson Cold Storage, Westminister, Steam	500,000
Dutadel Cold Storage, Warke Island, Water	4,000,000
Shushartie Cold Storage, Shushartie Bay, Gasoline	300,000
Skena Cold Storage, Skena River, Gasoline	1,000,000
Claxton Cold Storage, Skena River, Water	800,000
Prince Rupert Cold Storage, Prince Rupert, Steam	10,000,000
Doyle Cold Storage, Nars River, Water	2,000,000
Pacoff Cold Storage, Queen Charlotte Island, Steam (not running)	600,000

Total capacity, for fish, 42,200,000. In addition there are several small plants and two larger ones at Vancouver and Victoria for ice and meats. Most of the above places had no freezer when you were out here. There is at present more storage capacity for fish than can be filled in any ordinary year and we don't look for much more in this line; outside of filling half the capacity. In the foregoing sheet I dealt with the cold storage, now I come to fishing. Having seen most of the methods for deep sea and seine fishing, also the kind of smaller gasoline boats now in use fishing mostly inshore and the inland waters, all the larger gasoline boats have been fishing dories; until lately several of them and nearly all the small ones of two or three dories have adopted the long line, or set the trawl from the deck and use a machine run off the main engine either with a belt or mitre gear; they use a heavier line than for dories and can fish in almost any depth as the machine will haul the same speed in any depth. It is a very complete way to fish with a small crew. A fellow that fished with me for years has a boat 42 ft. long and himself and another runs about 8 to 9 miles of trawl in a day of about 10 hours. He was running about half we could run on the Flamingo in the same time, only he would have to stop to bait gear. He had 2 men in crew with a boat of 42 feet long, and we had a crew of 23 with a boat 144 feet long and many times the expense. I feel that if you had a similar outfit that you could do all right home with the present price of codfish. She is 16 horsepower, the machine fitted to the deck and connected with the main engine casts set up at Prince Rupert, $125. I am expecting that we will put on long line again next trip as there don't appear to be much chance of getting anything with dories. I was going to speak of setting for herring since I have seen some articles on the herring in Newfoundland. Since you were out here, setting with purse seines has been used for herring with good results. It is by far the best and most effective way to get herring, as they can be set in any where in deep water; but they don't do much with them daytime as the herring strike down before they can gather the purse line in; but at night the herring stays on the water, and the darker the night the better. They make some large hauls, sometimes as much as 200 barrels or more. The seine is about 150 fathoms or sometimes large and from 15 to 20 fathoms deep, according to size of boat which is a gasoline boat of about 40 to 45 feet long. The seine is placed on a turntable on the stern and generally tows a scow. When the herring is seen burning on or under water the scow is let go with the end of the seine and the boats steam around the fish the seine paying out over the stern, the end is then taken on board from the scow and the purse running through the rings at the foot of the seine is laid over two gipsy heads run by clutch and belt from the main engine and in a few minutes about 4 or 5 feet of the seine is up, the rest of the seine is gathered in at leisure. It is done so quickly that if they get around the fish they are almost sure of them. The seines are made of cotton 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 mesh and steam tarred; a seine of about 200 fathoms long and 22 fathoms deep cost $300 all complete. It seems a pity that no improvement seems to be made in the fishing or handling of fish in Newfoundland. The possibilities for fishing in Newfoundland should be better with some enterprise and money. The amount of fishing ground around home greatly exceeds all the available grounds from San Francisco to Behring Sea. Maps of Newfoundland show that there is less than 200 fathoms all over the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the Straits of Belle Isle and for the greater part less than 80 fathoms. While the East Coast from Grand Banks north shows less than 300 fathoms and large banks lying E. N. E. and N. E. of the Funk Islands for more than 120 miles of less than 200 fathoms. That probably would be good depths for halibut and could be fished with dories; but the long line from the deck would be a sure plan if there was any fish. We can fish at night in fair weather. We used to fish a part of each night last winter, we put lanterns on the buoys. The deepest water we fished was 300 fathoms; but one of the boats set some trawls in 475 fathoms and took a scattered halibut with some black cod; we also caught some cod fish in 300 fathoms. But all the cod fish was of small size. There is no large cod in B. C. The outfit for fishing from the deck do not cost anything like the same as for dory fishing. The machine we used was a steam machine made at Portboy, Scotland, and cost $150 with fittings. Some of the machines are of larger size than we used, and is fitted on the middle of the deck with a roller fitted on the side. The steamer is kept up to the gear we hauled and it requires hardly any steam as you only have to work slowly with the engines. It is by far the simplest and easiest way for fishermen, no hard work and all hands on board all the time. The most work is baiting gear and dressing fish when we get any. Some of the whalers that are lying up in Newfoundland would make fine handy boats for the job and perhaps could be chartered cheap now that whaling is played out. There are different ways in chartering, but the plan some adopt is to ask 20% of value of vessel, 8% insurance, 5% depreciation and 2% for incidentals, making 15% as generally allowed on shipping, and then plus 5% profit to owners, making 20% of total value per annum. A time charter would be based on proportionate basis, but perhaps some what higher if the charter covered only a short time. The vessel is expected to be returned in the same condition as received and all losses or damage made good, the 2% is expected to cover that.

If a market which is assured now both in Canada and the United States were established and good shipping facilities I don't think there would be much risk in the venture, assuming that there is some halibut on these offer banks. Our expenses here for a trip now runs high, and whether we get fish or not we cannot reduce the expenses only to the extent of not having to pay for fish if we do not get any.

Our scale of wages at present is:—
Month
Master . . . . . $125.00
(And commission, 50c. per 1,000 lbs.)
Mate . . . . . 115.00
(At present no 2nd mate.)

Watchman . . . . . 50.50
Two deck hands, each . . . . . 45.00
Chief Engineer . . . . . 150.00
2nd Engineer . . . . . 100.00
Three firemen, each . . . . . 50.00
Two Cooks . . . . . 120.00
Coal, about 150 tons, $4.50 . . . . . 675.00
Bait, about 150 tons, $4.50 . . . . . 675.00
Dories and gear . . . . . 600.00
Provisions about . . . . . 550.00
Proportionate part of dockage and upkeep of boat with ordinary repairs . . . . . 450.00

Not specifying insurance or depreciation which would be 13% of vessel. It will be seen from this summary that some saving could be done in wages. Bait, gear and dories and coal would cost more, but a small steamer would not burn more than half. The whalers here claim to run on from 4 1/2 to 5 tons for 24 hours at 10 knots. We burn 9 tons to make 10 knots for 24 hours. Since writing the preceding sheets another day has elapsed and it is still blowing a storm and we are still laying here at the north end of Queen Charlotte Islands. I have put in the best part of last night while on watch writing you. It may interest you to know that I take some interest in home affairs. Conditions in B. C. at present are poor in almost every line of business, and it don't seem to get any better. People do not expect it still after the war, if it does then. If things had kept up as they were when I was home I might have been in a position to look more into the matter referred to, but as it is I can only surmise what seems feasible.

I must now close this for lack of any more to write about, but I will write you again soon, and I hope this will find you all well as I and mine were when I left.

Your loving brother,
A. FREEMAN.

It is fitting to have especially designed undergarments to wear with the evening dress. Jewish Festival of Dedication

Yesterday at sunset, the Jewish Feast of Dedication began. The day set for the beginning of this feast is Dec. 2nd, but in the Jewish calendar the days are reckoned from sunset to sunset instead of from midnight to midnight. Hence in this city the Feast of Hanukkah, known also as the "Feast of Lights," began a little after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Owing to the small number of the Jewish congregation in this city, there is no particular celebration of this festival, but the individual members of the congregation commemorate the feast by the kindling of lights in their homes. We understand that the Jewish population of Newfoundland consists of only ten families, seven in the city and three at Bell Island, numbering in all about 30 persons. From the local rabbi, Rev. E. Ershler, who was interviewed by the Telegram last evening, we learn that a required number of the congregation must be present for the commemoration of the feast in the Synagogue, and because of the small congregation the ceremonial is held in the home. Below is an account of the origin and a description of the ceremonial of the Feast which begins as mentioned above, on the evening of the first day of December and extends over a period of eight days.

ORIGIN OF THE FEAST.

The account of its origin is set forth in the Book of Maccabees. The Syrian King, Antiochus Epiphanes, had determined to unify all the peoples of his kingdom. To accomplish this he believed it necessary to compel all to adopt a common religion. The Jews were his political subjects. Their monotheism and distinctive religious practices based upon the Bible were in sharp contrast to his religion, a form of paganism originally imported from Greece. "Judiasm must be destroyed," became the watchword of the Syrian Court. In 168 B.C., the royal command went forth that shrines and altars be erected for idol worship. Jewish rites and practices were forbidden. The Sacred writings wherever found were destroyed. Direct persecutions were visited upon the faithful. As a climax in the campaign to extinguish the Jewish Faith, the altar in the Temple at Jerusalem was profaned. Syrian soldiers offered up sacrifices to Zeus Olympus. These drastic measures aroused the Jews to revolt. Judas Maccabees was appointed leader by his father Mattathias. After three years of successful warfare against the Syrians, Judas was in a position to dedicate a new altar at Jerusalem, the festivities in connection with the dedication lasting eight days. To commemorate this event, "Judas and his brethren and the brethren and the whole congregation of Israel ordained that the dedication of the altar should be kept in their seasons from year to year by the space of eight days from the 25th day of Kislev, with gladness and joy." This festival is also known as the "Feast of Lights," probably because burning lamps and torches in the ancient Temple and home, were used to celebrate.

CEREMONIAL.

The distinctive ceremonial feature of this festival to-day is the kindling of lights in the home and in the synagogue; one on the first evening, the number being increased by one on each consecutive evening, until eight lights are lit on the last evening of the festival. Special prayers inspired by the historic event commemorating the triumph of monotheism over heathenism, of the forces of light over the forces of darkness are recited. Special scriptural portions are read in the synagogue. The festival does not call for cessation from labour and is therefore regarded as one of the two minor feasts in the Jewish Calendar. In modern times children's festivals, in which the story and significance of the Feast are recounted, have become a marked feature in the celebration of the Feast of Dedication.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of Private Samuel Hiscock, Who Was Killed in Action on Nov. 4th, 1915.

All ye whom Britain's sons do mourn,
Come sympathize with me,
In memory of another of Carbonar's sons
Who sallied with Company E.
He gave up home and loved ones both
To answer to the call,
Like many another of those brave lads
He sacrificed his all.
It's hard to part with those you love
And be remembered not,
But such a hero as Private Hiscock,
Will never be forgot.
Things may change as the years roll on,
And the grass grow green on his grave,
But there is one who from her mind
His memory will never fade.
Out on the bloody battlefields,
He's numbered with the slain,
Shot down by Kaiser's brutish friends
Another act of Cain's.
Slay on you cruel Kaiser,
Till your fiendish work is done,
But woe betide your awful fate
When the day of reckoning comes.
You have slain our boys so dear to us
And counted it as fun;
You've robbed a girl of her lover
And a mother of her son.

COX-PETERS.

A very pretty wedding took place at Harbor Breton on Thursday, Nov. 25, when Capt. Michael Cox was united in matrimony to Miss Ellie Peters. The bride looked charming in a dress of cream voile with veil and orange blossoms. She was attended to by Miss Bride Walsh, while the groom was ably supported by Mr. Alphonsus Smith. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. St. Croix who spoke at some length on the dignity of the Sacrament. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the residence of the bride's father where breakfast was served, thence to their future home where their many friends awaited them. The presents, including numerous cheques, shows the esteem in which the bride and groom are held. The writer joins in wishing Capt. and Mrs. Cox many happy years of wedded life.

December.

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Slwash."

December is a pleasant, steam-heated month whose principal missions are to wind up the calendar and the bank surplus. It is a more agreeable month than November, because while we expect the weather to be bad it is sometimes fine, whereas in November we still hope for pleasant weather and what we get instead cannot be effectively commented upon in this great family newspaper. In December man retires indoors and only uses the outside air while passing through it from one set of radiators to another. The icicle and snowball crops ripen and when a man stands on a street corner waiting for the dim future in the shape of a street car, he looks like an engine with a leaky steam pipe. December is one of the few months in which the human breath is visible and it is worthy of note that the breath is always pure white, no matter how it tastes to the producer. Dark brown and sulphur blue exhausts are only figments of literature. In December, also, the sidewalks begin to become pugnacious. Nothing is more quiet than a sidewalk in July or more unreliable and blood-thirsty than a sidewalk in December after an ice storm. It is a common thing for a December sidewalk to approach a victim stealthily from behind and to leap upon his neck and shoulders with the ferocity of a young tiger. Thousands of people have suffered severe injury by being attacked by hostile sidewalks and porch steps in December. This country is now tolerably free from wolves and Indians, but until the man-eating sidewalk has been subdued, life will still continue to be sadly uncertain. The most prominent feature of December is Christmas, which finally comes to a head on the 25th of the month. This festival has made December one of our most prominent and successful months. The younger half of the world spends the first part of December counting the days until Christmas and the older portion spends the last half of the month counting its money with a slightly dejected air. Neither half wastes time in counting anything after Christmas. In December the days keep getting shorter, along with the people, until the 21st when winter is formally open and the sun goes to bed before the banks close. The 21st is the shortest day of the year astronomically, but the 26th is shorter financially by a tremendous majority. In December, the owner of the automobile wraps it in goose-grease and moth balls and packs it away until spring. This has made December a delightful month in many respects, and has increased greatly the esteem in which it is held by pedestrians.

Northern Bay Notes.

The ladies of Northern Bay held a very successful entertainment in St. John's Hall on Monday, Nov. 15th. The entertainment took the form of a surprise party, the occasion being the birthday of the highly esteemed Pastor, Rev. E. J. O'Brien. After tea an address was read by Miss Lizzie Mullaly, and a presentation consisting of a silver card case and twenty-five dollars in gold made by Miss Maud Hogan. The hall was tastefully decorated and added much to the enjoyment of the evening. During the evening dancing was indulged in, and songs were rendered by Messrs. Fahy, Hogan and Woodfine, and a solo by Miss M. Williams of Carbonar was highly appreciated. Contractors Saunders and Howell are adding the finishing touches to the new Parish House. The building is modern and up-to-date, and reflects much credit on the builders, as well as testifying to the energy of the pastor and good-will of the people.

The residence of Mr. William Mullaly was the scene of a very pleasing event on Monday night, Nov. 22nd, when his youngest son, Edward, who was leaving for the training camp, Sussex, N.B., was tendered a reception by his friends and presented with a beautiful souvenir in the form of a pipe. Rev. E. J. O'Brien, who was present, delivered a very patriotic address to which the young volunteer replied in a few well chosen words. Mr. Mullaly, like many other young Newfoundlanders in Canada, has thrown up a very lucrative position in order to join the colours. We all wish him a safe return to Northern Bay, Nov. 27, 1915.

"ALONG THE ROCKY ROAD TO DUBLIN."

Go to the Crescent to-day and hear Mr. Dan Delmar sing "Along the Rocky Road to Dublin," a lively Irish number, and see the big picture, all features. "The Family Bible" is an Edison domestic feature, "The Fork in the Road," an out of the ordinary two-reel drama produced by the Selig Company; "The Outlaw's Bride," is an unusually strong Western drama featuring Tom Mix, and "The Waitress and the Booby" is a comedy you are sure to like and laugh at. The Crescent gives two shows every afternoon and two shows every night.

"EXPLOITS OF ELAINE" DRAW LARGE AUDIENCES.

The Nickel Theatre was crowded yesterday, the great attraction being the "Exploits of Elaine," the serial episode of which was shown. This serial has attracted more patrons than any other. This is due to the fact that all who are following it, pronounce it to be the most sensational ever shown here. Then there were other pictures of the finest quality. The Pathe News was particularly good, while the same may justly be said of the others. The whole programme is being repeated to-day and we advise all our readers to attend. Another great feature is coming to the Nickel the "Wonderful Who Pays" series.

CASINO THEATRE.

Enthusiasm as at fever heat last night when "Our Boys" were again seen by an admiring public. Applause was frequent throughout the entire performance during the course of which one visits many famous places and also get a splendid view of the Royal Horse Artillery, thence one is carried to the town-of-Ayr whence "Our Boys" departed for the Dardanelles. Here one sees the "Brig O' Doon" and its environs, the birthplace of "Scotia's Bard," and the hostelry made famous by Tam O' Shanter and Soutar Johnny are also visited. Apart from its patriotic and sentimental value this production is at the same time highly educational.

LAST THREE DAYS OF CARROLL AND ELLOR.

The celebrated Irish singers and dancers and female impersonators will give one of their very best acts as a grand finish. Carroll and Ellor have worked hard to please patrons and they have more than succeeded. The pictures at Rossley's can't be beat. They are the best that money and brains can produce. On Monday Ballard Brown and the one and only Madge Locke will open their engagement. The best artists that ever crossed the Atlantic. High class acts, beautiful wardrobe, good singers, Madge Locke is a whole company herself, a brilliant actress who dances. They have just left the big production in New York "The Hall of Fame," to take part in the Xmas Pantomime "Beauty and the Beast."

BRITISH THEATRE.

The pictures at the above theatre last night were greatly appreciated by the audiences. The leading picture "The Duchess," was one of the prettiest Irish dramas seen on the screen for some time. The acting of Cleo Madison and Joe King was splendid, and the old Irish settings were superb. The "Trey O' Hearts" was also shown, and contained some most thrilling scenes, while the comedy, "Merry Mary's Marriage," was up to the usual high-provoking standard of the L.K.O. Co. To-night the show will be repeated, and should be well patronized. On Friday and Saturday the Oblivette will be shown; it is in three reels, and is an old time drama.

UP AGAINST THE TURKS.

Sir Charles Monro, the New Dardanelles Commander.

But for the war the new Commander-in-Chief in the Dardanelles, General Sir Charles C. Monro, might have lived and died plain Major-General Monro, unknown to the man in the street and known only in the army as a very efficient instructor and commandant at Hythe School of Musketry.

When the war broke out he had been five years a Major-General. The day after war was declared he was appointed a divisional commander, and in a short time was out in France trying to stem the amazing rush of the German troops towards Paris.

Mentioned in Despatches.
What he did is only known in all its fullness to Sir John French. Planning, organizing, fighting, Monro never rested day or night during those dreadful days of last year when hope seemed lost. He was one of the men who, on September 6th, began to stem the German torrent, fought in the battle of the Aine—and saved Europe.

For that he was mentioned in Sir John French's dispatches of the battle of the Aisne, promoted to lieutenant-general, and then to full general, and in February of this year made a K. C. B. "for services rendered in connection with operations in the field," as the bald official announcement states it.

One of the causes which have enabled the Germans to fight so well, and the Turks to hold on to the Dardanelles, is the huge supply of machine guns which they possess.

Sir Charles Monro is one of the chief machine-gun experts in the British Army. For six years he was at the Hythe School of Musketry as Chief Instructor and Commandant. The Hythe School is the chief school for the training of officers and non-commissioned officers in the handling of machine guns.

Urged for Supply of Machine Guns.
Sir Charles's knowledge of what has easily proved the most useful weapon in the present war has proved of the greatest value. He was one of the first, indeed, to predict the enormous extent to which they would be used and to urge for an overwhelming supply of them.

General Monro, who was born in 1860 and entered the Army when nineteen, served in the fighting on the North-Western Frontier of India in 1878-80, took part in the Tirah Expeditionary Force, and served in the Boer War where he was mentioned in dispatches.

He is one of the men who has gained a greater reputation in the Army than out of it—for he hates advertising himself. That's why so many people asked who he was when he was appointed. But the Army knows that it has got a fine leader, a man who doesn't talk but does things. And the Army's opinion is the thing that counts nowadays.

MAGAZINES.
The magazines have known a slump; they're gravitating to the dump. Ten years ago their lives were gay, and they controlled the right of way. Their advertising made them thick, and heavy as a paving brick. Their circulation boomed along, and life was just one grand sweet song. Of course the publishers were sure their bed of roses would endure, but in this world, wherein we endure, but in this world, wherein we stay, conditions come and pass away. The moving pictures made a hit, and folks who used to read and knit beside the fire, on winter nights, now drift downtown to see the sights. The auto came and seemed to be a family necessity. And people toured to distant scenes, who used to read the magazines. Life's business now is just to roam; no one has any use for home; our thoughts are all on "record speed," and so we haven't time to read. And so it is the magazines sell slower than old cans of beans.

Where once the newsman plied them high, to lure the eager public eye, he now lays in but three or four, and seldom has to order more. It's sad to see the magazines immersed in clammy soup tureens!

Everyday Etiquette.

"Knowing a young man quite well and being escorted home from a party by him, is it proper to kiss him good-night," inquired Gladys.
"Unless you are engaged do not allow your escort to kiss you good night. Shake hands and do not linger more than a few seconds at the door," replied her aunt.

We Know Just How You Feel!

You need an engine for your boat and you are worried almost to death trying to decide which is the best one to buy.
One fellow tells you to buy his machine because it is cheaper than others.
Another firm advises you that they have been in the engine business longer than anyone else and therefore their machines are the best.
Then along comes another chap with an engine which he claims is entirely new and better than anything else on the market.

NOW LISTEN.

DON'T buy an engine or any other piece of machinery because it is cheap; probably it has been made cheap.
DON'T experiment with new designs, let the other fellow do that.
DON'T depend too much on what any manufacturer says about his own product. Ask someone who has used it.

We would like to give you names of parties using FERRO Engines.

Write for catalogue with prices and terms, also ask for list of prominent men throughout Newfoundland who are using FERRO Engines. Ask them what they think about the FERRO.
