THE LEGIUME TO-MIGHT.—The Rev. Mr. Russell lectures to-night in the Good Templars Hall on Prohibition. We understand that Mr. Russell is one of the ablest writers and speakers on temperance in the United States. During the late election contest for the Presidency in the United States, he was the nominee for vice-President by the National Prohibition Party, and to his labors much of its strength is attributive. A very able lecture may therefore be expected to-night.

Day has sent us a copy of this, the largest and best selection of the lyrical gems of Scotland we have yet seen. It is beautifully printed and bound. It contains every song—words and music—worth publishing, and also a coplous glossary, and the whole work—of over 500 pages— is sold by Mr Day, or sent to any post office in the country, for $1.25. It is cer-tainly a marvel of cheapness, and will uredly have a large sale.

BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF GUELPH.-Mr. W. Bind's Eye View of Guelph.—Mr. W. Burgess, Photographer, showed us this morning a photographic bird's eye view of Guelph, on a larger scale than the one mentioned yesterday, and which brings out with more marked distinctness the various streets and buildings. It is intended for framing, and when finished will make a pleasing addition to the photographic pictures of any household. Mr. Burgess has executed the picture to the order of Mr. John Anderson, Market Square, from whom copies may be had.

Sinoular Fatality Among Children.

—A few days since the children of Patrick Cunningham, a respectable workingman of Bloomfield, New Jersey, four in number, were taken suddenly ill, and began vomiting violently. On Thursday the eldest, a boy of nine years, died, on Friday amother, Saturday morning another, and at last accounts the fourth was gasping its last. Two skilful physicians are unable to determine what the cause of death is, though they have been in attendance from the farst, and have seen all the phases of the strange disease. Many supposed the children had been poisoned, but this theory was soon disposed of. The bodies presented a very dark appearance, and were covered with blotches soon after death. The disease, whatever it is, is thought to be contagious, and preventatives are taken to keep outsiders away. Some of the matrons assert that spotted fever is the fatal disease, but the dectors say not.—N. Y, Herald.

OALT AND QUELPH: RAILWAY CO. vs GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY CO.

The defendants have for many years been working the plaintiff's road under an agreement according to which they were to render accounts to the plaintiffs half yearly of all receipts and expenditures on behalf of the road. The G. W. R. had entered into the agreement with the G. & G. Company before the road was fully completed, and had taken it into their own hands, finished it, and worked it ever sines, and had rendered accounts to the G. & G. Company, but these accounts the plaintiffs now contend had been kept upon a wrong principle. The G. W. R. Co. had treated the G. & G. Co. as a part of their general system, and based the accounts upon an average of the receipts and expenditure of that system. This the plaintiffs now asserted, and proposed to show, worked unfavourably towards them, and they claimed that under the agreement they were entitled to have ar account of the actual vitted to have a caccount of the actual vitted to have ar account of the actual vitted to have ar account of the actual vitted to have ar account of the actual vitted to have a account of the account of the actual vitted to have a account of the account of the account of

There was some question also raised as to whether the accounts had not been so settled in 1866, in a suit brought by the G. W. B., against the G. & G., that the plaintiffs now should not be allowed to go behind that settlement.

We shall endeavor to give our readers a synopsis of the evidence by which the plaintiffs pripose to support their contention. Mr. T. Moss, Q.C., and Mr. Cuthrie for plaintiffs; Hom. E. Blake, Q. C., and Mr. Æmillus Irving for defendants.

The Ontario Legislature.

The Ontario Government have decided not to call the Legislative As sembly together till early in January probably about a month later than the time of meeting last year. The for several reasons, but the principal one is, that when the House meets about the middle of December, the work of the session is hardly com menced before the adjournment for the holidays takes place. The dif-ferent County Courts and County Councils also meet about the san time, and these often require the attendance of members, who in con-sequence have to neglect their duties in the Legislature. By putting off the session until the first or second week in January, the Government will have plenty of time to mature their measures and be in a position to meet the House with these meas-ures ready to lay before the members therefore be no delay, and we will be saved all the grumbling and discon-tent which formerly prevailed on account of ministers not being ready to go on with public business.

GRELEY'S HEALTH.—A painful rumour was circulated in New York on Monday that Mr. Greeley, editor of the Tribune, had lost his reason, and that he had been taken to an asylum. There are several conflicting reports about the matter, but the truth seems to be that Mr. Greeley has been suffering from nervous prostration since his wite's death, that in consequence he has been greatly depressed and his mind somewhat affected, but that this prostration and mental excitement is only temporary, and it is hoped that care and complete rest and seclusion will bring him around again.

occurrence took place last Tuesday night about eight miles from Port Carling, in the township of Medora. The particulars are briefly as follows :-It that a gentleman named Richards. six weeks or thereabout from England of Wales, started about nine p. m., with a lantern, to reach his new home, about thirteen miles from Port Carling, near the Lake Joseph, and died on the way. On Thursday last he was found by the Rev. Mr. Hartley. When discovered he was lying on his face, blood oosing from his mouth, and the snow—which lay a foot in depth—trampled and beaten down for some yards round the spot where the unfortunate man was found. He had been but a short time married, and leaves a young wife to mourn his untimely fate.

Contagious Diseases Spread by Figure

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES SPREAD BY FLIES —A curious and perhaps important discovery is stated to have been made re cently by M. Kietzinsky, a Viennese pro-fassor. Noticing that persons sick with small-pox were often visited by flies he placed near an open window of the hos-pital a saucer filled with glycerine. Soon the flies gathered and were caught like birds with glue. In their endeavors to free themselves all the foreign matter which had adhered to them was left in the glycerine, which was at once submit-ted to observation with the microscope. It was found that the glycerine, which was chemically pure when offered to the flies, was full of strange cells, very simi-lar to those seen on persons attacked by the small pox, but never on flies—a discovery which conclusively proves that these animals are not only filthy, but can be a very dangerous means of spreading contagious diseases. THE JOURNEY SOUTHWARD—THE LUNATIO

ASTROX—A MEETING OF PRINENDS

Twenty years previous, atmost to a day, Nathan Garrett had passed along that very road on his way to the same Asylum
—also for the purpose of learning the state of Walley. But he, as the reader will remember, went in disguise and nuder another name, and the result of that visty decided the rascal on carrying into oxeoniton the fraudulont design he cherished. For twenty long years he had rejoiced in the success of his scheme, and had resped the reward he had sought.
Was Justice, which had slept so long, to wake at last and execute its vengance on the wrongdoer? or was it to sleep on as it had sleept bitherto, and leave for another sphere than earth the righting of the heavy wrong? This is the grand question about to be determined, and instinctively we find our own hearts stirred in view of the solution. We cannot help wishing and hoping that the truth will come to light none—that the right will be done now; but while we do hope that this is what we are now about to contemplate,
do not let us allow ourselves to lose our faith should it prove otherwise. Should the fraudulent man pass out of existence with his fraud undetected and justice not done, even in that case our conviction need not fail that sooner or later; now or hereafter, truth and right shall triumph,
when all that do evil shall reap the due reward of their deeds.

The road to the Asylum was much the same as it had been twenty years before—bleak and bare—though the day was not so cold and boisterous as that on which Natham Garrett traversed it in his furs and wrappings, cursing as he did so on the ungenial Scottish climate. At length the chimneys of the building oaught the youth's eager eye, and as he topped the slight eminence the high wall which and abuntents, but these had not taken away its dreary, sombre aspectthey only showed that the years, which had increased that sore human malady which it was the object of that place to minister to.

The deep tone of the

was the object of that place to minister to.

The deep tone of the porter's bell, as it responded to George's pull at the iron handle, added a quickned motion to the latter's already throbbing heart, and it was with a faltering tougue that, on the appearance of this functionary at the partially opened door, he inquired for Doctor Manby, and presented a card with his name written upon it.

The porter looked at the card, at once opened the door with alacrity, and bade George enter.

"The doctor has been expecting you for two or three days, sir," he observed.

"I have come at the earliest possible moment," said George, and then he nervously put the question with his trembling tongue—
"Am I too late I s—is—Walley—
"" and I too late I s—is—Walley—

tongue—
"Am I too late? Is—is—Walley——?"
"Better? No; he is still in a high fever<sup>a</sup>

fervently thanked heaven that he was not too late.

He was at once conducted by the porter to a detached house, standing to the right of the main building, which, the man intimated, was the doctor's residence and here, delivering him over to an elderly woman, who proved to be the doctor's housekeeper, he went away to inform Manby of his friend's arrival.

George was shown into the doctor's sitting room, a cheerful, well-lighted chamber, looking out upon the large garden and grounds of the Asylum. Several patients were here engaged in digging and other gardening operations, their demeanour being perfectly quiet and orderly so that a stranger, knowing nothing of the character of the place, would have seen nothing peculiar in their appearance or deportment.

Soon a quick stem was heard in the GRAND TRUNK WORKS AT STRATEG The Herald supplies the following infor-mation regarding the improvements and alterations rendered necessary at Stratatterations rendered necessary at Strat-ford by the change of gauge:—"The new shops, freight sheds, machinery, &c., which have been built, cost about $30,-000. A large open shed for transhipping freight, six hundred feet long, and one hundred feet wide, has been built, and tracks laid on both sides, while the roof projects far enough to cover the cars while being unloaded. Another shed contains the engine and machinery of the nutting elevator, a powerful lever applanee for raising passenger and freight cars, while the wheels are being adjusted. A large engine will be placed in these new shops, and over 200 men employed. These new buildings are all erected at the east end of the station. A powerful iron elevator, for raising Pullman Palace cars, is placed in position in the yard. It is a monster in proportions, and is the invention, we understand, of Mr. Eaton, Locomotive Superintendent.

NOVEL WAY OF CATCHING RATS .- The Hamilton Spectator says:—A very in-tersting performance was witnessed in the James street market this morning. A boy, some twelve years of age, was engaged in catching the rats which abound following manner: He had, at the end of a piece of string, about three feet in length, a fish hook, which he baited with a piece of meat and threw it under the sidewalk. It would not be there many seconds before he would feel a tugging at the string, when he would, with gree at the string, when he would, with great care, pull up and to the aston alment of the bystanders who were eagerly watch-ing the sport, display a large-sized rat, with the hook faster of in its mouth. The work of killing the vermin would then be but the matter of a few moments. In this manner we saw two rats killed with-in ten minutes.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT PORT E serious accident occurred on Saturday night, about 7 o'clock, on the Wellington night, about 7 o'clock, on the Wellington, Grøy and Bruce Railway, about two and a half miles from Port Elgin. The gravel train was coming in when, a man by the name of Buthan being on the track, the tender ran over him, crushing his legs to a jelly and bruising him in other parts of his body so that he only lived until 11 p. m. on Saturday, He leaves a wife and four children.

CASH

TREMENDOUS SUCCESS!

Ready Pay Principle Victorious!

THE NEW STORE

WHY?

Because for Ready Pay a small profit only is asked, the money is turned over five times when Ready Pay is made, but the credit system entails an extra per centage added in marking goods, in order to guard against bad debts. The man who gives credit cannot buy his goods as well as the man who does not.

WHY?

Because he has to buy his stock on credit, and is thereby deprived of the large saving to be made by buying for eash, but the man who sells for ready pay has the money in hand when he goes to market, and can take every benefit that the trade will offer. Such being the case, who can wonder at the new store. "CASH" is creating quite a panic among the slove coaches who have been living at their ease on large profits, and he is now going to make a shaking among the dry bones.

Hurry up with your money. Don't forget the spot,

Loss of memory is ever the first indication of a disorder or degeneration of nervous element. The rapidity with which the mind is restored by the use of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is perhaps the best proof of its power in re-establishing the strength of the nervous system.

The most unhappy person in the world the Dyspeptic. Everything looks dark and gloomy; he feels "out of sorts" with himself and everybody else. Life is a burden to him. This can all be changed by taking Peruvian Syrup (a protoxide of Iron). Cases of 27 years standing have been cured by it.
