The battery was inspected by Col. Irwin, Inspector of Artillery, late last evening, laving to undergo this ordeal just after returning from firing practice. As, however, the Colonel and he knew the difference between dust and rust, and would make allowances accordingly, the battery did not feel so this amounts by Senator Frank Huscok of New York, Chairman Estee having temporarily by the use of his voice as a consequence of his efforts to preserve order yesterday. In every possible way the site seems more appropriate than the locality over which the fight has now begun."

For 51 weeks the total exported is 119,447,000 bushels, and for the crop year ending June 30 Bradstreet's reports foreshadow a total of about 121,000,000 bushels of wheat (and flour as wheat) sent abroad, as compared with 153,800,000 for the year ending June 30 Bradstreet's reports foreshadow a total of about 22,000,000 bushels, about 20 per cent. AYLMER'S TERRIBLE ORININAL

The Touching Letter that Lilian Goodfel-low Wrote Her Umatural Father.

The St. Thomas Daily Times of Thursday gives a detailed account of the circumstances ing up to the suicide of George W. Goodfellow at Aylmer on Tuesday evening last. Goodfellow was the proprietor of the large mills bearing his name, which are well known throughout Western Onterio. At six e'clocks Bell on Tuesday evening he was arrested on the beinous charge of incest, the victim being his daughters Lilian, aged 14 years, and a quarter of an hour after being taken into custody he hot himself through the head. On Saturday, June 9, Lilian left her father's souse. At a neighbor's residence she wrote a steer which afterwards fell into the hands of Rev. Mr. McGundry, in which she made the charges against her father. Her father followed her and brought her back, but she went away again, this time with her father's knowledge. adge.

The letter, already referred to, which was the cause of all that succeeded is as follows: the cause of all that succeeded is as follows:

PAPA: I have been 'long enough. You have pretended to love me but instead of leving me you hate me''. You have deprived me of young company and of the freedom which is necessary to young girls like me. I have gone where I can have these things, and if you ever find me it will do you so good, because I shall put myself under the protection of the laws of this country, and if you come after me I would appeal to them for protection and they would send you to Penicon and they would send you to Penicon and the you do you once, but 'there is no more love in my heart for you, and if I stayed at home and let you do 'as you liked I would be a corpse before I was 19 years of age. I have only $1.25, but I will use it to get among strangers. You have alw ys got use the best of clothes, but I would rather wear an old print dress and shoes with the toes out and have a clear conscience than stay at home and do as I have done. No tather that loved his child would whip her as you have whipped me. It is the greatest sin that man can commit to ruin his own dear for, "Thou shalt not commit adultery."

Goodfellow had previously had the paternity of one or two children hald to him by girls who had become mothers ere they were wives. After Lilian's second disappearance the excitement continued to grow until on Thursday night has a mob of 200 collected in front of Geodfellow's house and burned him in effigy. Goodfellow thereupon opened fire upon the crowd with a revolver and the mob retaliated with a tusilade of stones, wreeking one or two windows. Goodfellow then sallied forth revolver in hand, and the mob scattered, a number of bullett being sent after them. Monday the prisoner, who had not previously walked further up town than the bank, confining himself as much as possible to his mill, proceeded east to the postoffice. The street was lined with people and he was hooted for several blocks. Monday night a report was circulated that Lilian, had been kept secreted in the cellar, and another rumor was affoat that her father had killed her. Goodfellow had meantine made no attempt to clear away the charges made against him, and fearing that the threats of lynohing might be carried into effect, Detective J. G. Clayton lodged an information. When the two constables drove up to Goodfellow's house to effect the arrest he showed mo surprise, saying, "All right, I'll so with you, boys." Seemingly as an afterthought he asked to see his wife, and was allowed to walk out into the hall, when he shot himself instantly.

The coroner, when the widow was brought be-fore the jury, respected her grief, and forebore to torment her with questions other than what were absolutely necessary. The sympathy in Aylmer, is all for the family. Before Good-fellow's suicide there were those who thought sodest and unasuming. There is no doubt but that she is in Buffalo, as her father stated when arrested. She has been telegraphed for.

Adam Morse will not return to Savannah, As he is a free man, free to go wheresoever he listeth, and free to remain away from places he wishes to avoid, there is not the slightest probability that he will revisit the Georgian capital. In accordance with previous arrangements, Morse reappeared before Judge McDougall yesterday morning. When last be fore His. Honor, on the 15th inst., he was remanded for a week, in the expectation that Detective Weatherhorn, who was ill in Georgis, would be able to attend and sign his evidence, as his signature was necessary before Morse could be transferred from the custody of the Canadian authorities to those of the United States. When the refugee was brought up yesterday there was, as usual, a large number of people in the court room. Among those present were Hon. John Macdonald (who recently subscribed $100 to the detence fund) and Mr. John Carson, who appeared for the County Orown Attorney, announced that the long-expected Mr. Weatherhorn would not attend, and he produced a telegram from Solicitor-General Osborne of Georgia, in which it was stated that the Georgian detective was still unable to leave his bed. Under these circumstances Mr. Carson considered that he was justified in asking for another remaind of a week. Mr. W. G. Murdoch and Mr. Waiter Read, on behalf of the prisoner, opposed the application, urging that there was neither evidence nor affidavit to show whith Weatherhorn was all. Judge McDougall agreed that there was no evidence, and as he had made the last adjournment a peremptory one there was no other course open for him but to discharge the prisoner. Morse was immediately surrounded by his friends, and heartily congratulated. It is believed that he will continue to reside in Toronto. — ill-fitting boots and shoes cause corns. merigo Vespucci, the Florentine navigator, usually been credited with conferring his ame upon the western world, a circumstance which has caused no end of regret to many istorians, who argue that it should have been alled Columbia, in honor of the illustrious liscoverer. The researches of Thomas de St. Fris, in his "Discovery of the Origin of the same of America," seem to show that the same of America was derived from the native ame of Central America and the northern ortions of South America, which, "it well known, were among the very rst localities visited and colonized by he Spaniards. The name was variously ritten by early navigators, who adopted hat seemed to each the nearest imitation of he native word. Thus we have an Amamerica. To this was frequently added the act, Amercoo, Maraca, Moraca, and finally he native word "pana," which, according to it Walter Raleigh, is the equivalent of county. These names actually occur on the maps and charts of the Spaniards, and the author has given a reproduction of one of them, showing the geographical knowledge vailable during the early part of the lifteenth century.

The Touching Letter that Lilian Geodfellow Wrote Her Umantural Father.

The St. Thomas Daily Times of Thursday gives a detailed account of the circumstances leading up to the suicide of George W. Goodfellow at Aylmer on Tuesday evening last. Goodfellow was the proprietor of the large mills bearing his name, which are well known throughout Western Onterio. At six c'clock on Tuesday evening he was arrested on the Meinous charge of incest, the victim being his daughter! Lilian, aged 14 years, and a quarter of an hour after being taken into custody he shot himself through the head.

On Saturday, June 9, Lilian left her father's house. At a neighbor's residence she wrote a stater which afterwards fell into the hands of Rev. Mr. McGundry, in which she made the plaarges against her father. Her father followed her and brought her back, but she went away again, this time with her father's knowledge.

The letter, already referred to which was ave pretended to love me but instead of siving me you hate me '.' You have deprived me of young company and of the freedom which is necessary to young girls like sie. I have gone where I can have these kings, and it you ever find me it will do you so good, because I shall put myself under the protection of the laws of this country, and if you come after me I would appeal to them for protection and they would send you to Penitentiary for life. Papa. I did love you once, but 'there is no more love in my heart for you, and it I stayed at home and et. You do 'as you liked I would be a corpse before I was 19 years of age. I have only $1.25, but I will use it to got among strangers. You have alw ys got me the best of clothes, but I would rather wear an old print dress and shoes with the toes out and have a clear conscience than stay at home and do as I have done. No tather that loved his child would whip her as you have whipped me. It is the greatest sin that man can commit to ruin his own dear shidren that God gave him to love and care sur. "Thou shalt not commit adultery."

LILIAN.

Goodfellow had previously had the paterwives. After Lilian's second disappearance the excitement continued to grow until on Thursday night hast a mob of 200 collected in front of Gondfellow's house and burned him in effigy. Goodfellow thereupon opened fire upon the crowd with a revolver and the mob retalisted with a fusilade of stones, wrecking one or two windows. Goodfellow them sallied forth revolver in hand, and the mob scattered, a number of bullets being sent after them. Monday the prisoner, who had not previously walked fagther up town than the bank, coufining himself as much as possible to his mill, proceeded east to the postoffica. The street was lined with people and he was hooted for several blocks. Monday night a report was circulated that Lilian; had been kept secreted in the cellar, and another rumor was affoat that her father had killed her. Goodfellow had meantime made no attempt to clear away the charges

Will lecture to-morrow night, 7.30 o'clock. Subject:—"Col. Ingersoll on Darwin and the limit innocent of the foul charge; not one is now heard to vay that he was innocent. Those who know Lilian Goodfellow, the victim of a father's crime, state that she is modest and unassuming. There is no doubt modest and unassuming. There is no doubt but that she is in Buffalo, as her father stated when arrested. She has been telegraphed for "Cholera and all summer complaints are so quick in their action that the cold hand of death is upon the victims before they are aware that danger is near. It attacked do not delay in getting the proper medicine. Try a dose of Dr. J. D. Rellogg's Dysentery Cordial And you will get immediate relief. It acts with wonder that rapidity and never fails to effect a cure. THE REFUGEE RELEASED.

Adam Morse will not return to Savanna As he is a free man, free to so wheresoever he he wishes to avoid, there is not the slightest probability that he will revisit the Georgian espital. In accordance with previous arrangeprobability that he will revisit the Georgian expital. In accordance with previous arrangements, Morse reappeared before Judge McDougall yesterday morning. When last before His. Honor, on the 15th inst, he was remanded for a week, in the expectation that Detective Weatherhorn, who was ill in Georgia, would be able to attend and sign his evidence, as his signature was necessary before Morse could be transferred from the custody of the Canadian authorities to those of the United States. When the refugee was brought up yesterday there was, as usual, a large number of people in the court room. Among those present were Hon. John Macdonald (who recently subscribed $100 to the detence fund) and Mr. John Carson, who appeared for the County Crown Attorney, announced that the long-expected Mr. Weatherhorn would not attend, and he produced a telegram from Solicitor-General Osborna of Georgia, in which it was stated that the Georgian detective was still unable to leave his bed. Under these circumstances Mr. Carson considered that he was justified in asking for another remand of a week. Mr. W. G. Murdoch and Mr. Walter Read, on behalf of the prisoner, opposed the application, urging that there was neither evidence nor affidavit to show that Weatherhorn was ill. Judge McDougall agreed that there was no evidence, and as he had made the last adjournment a peremptory one there was no other course open for him but to discharge the prisoner. Morse was immediately surrounded by his friends, and heartily congratulated. It is believed that he will continue to reside in Toronto.

As to the alleged superiority of United States markets over those of Canada for farm products, we would invite the attention of Commercial Unionists and especially of our farmers to a few quotations from the annual report of the Milwaukee Board of Trade and Commerce for the year 1887. As the prices realized for products in Canadian markets since last harvest must be fresh in the recollection of our farmers, we will only refer to the Milwaukee quotations from Sept. 1 to Dec. 31, and we invite comparison. We would remind our readers that all the statements as to extent of trade and prices of different commercials which are submitted by an influential and prominent Board of Trade, such as that of Milwaukee, are compiled with the strictest regard as to accuracy, and are thoroughly reliable.

The contestion right and Free Trade wrong, each on its merits. But one important fact we do hope to make plain. And that is—that whereas Protectionsits glory in their policy, and proclaim it plainly, openly and above board, Free Traders do on the contrary mystric the public as much as possible with regard to theirs, making the thing so evasive and so slippory that no fellow can be sure he understands it, or that he has to a dead certainty got hold of what it really means.

In the face of stubborn facts like these, Commercial Umionists continue harping on the advantage of obtaining a market for our wheat in the United States. They warn our young men against the danger of engaging in manufacturing occupations in Canada, which they predict must fail through over-production, and with most illogical inconsistency advise them to extend their production of wheat, assuring them of a large and profitable market through Free Trade with a country which, on its own showing, is suffering from the over-production of this very article. The which, on its own showing, is suffering from the over-production of this very article. The pretensions as to an improved market for our cats, grass seeds, butter, cheese, eggs, cattle, horses, sheep and hogs are completely upset by the light thrown upon them by the Milwaukee market prices.

Unrestricted Reciprocity organs are especially emphatic on the barley question. They maintain that the United States brewers cannot succeed without our Canadian barley; that they will be eager customers for any quantity which our farmers may raise; and quantity which our farmers may raise; and So much for Col. Watterson's opinion of the tion. that the remission of the present American duty of 10 cents per bushel will just add that amount to the value of every bushel of Canadian barley. That the repeal of the United States duty on barley would to some extent benefit Canadian farmers must be admitted, but it is nonsense to claim that the benefit derived would be to the full extent of the divergence of the United States of the full extent of the divergence of the United States of the full extent of the divergence of the United States of the full extent of the divergence of the United States of the members during a late of the full extent of the discussion in Parliament at Ottawa, who very tersely asked the speaker who had used this contention, why, if such were the case, did the American Congress a few years ago reduce the duty on barley from 15 cents to 10 cents per bushel. The Milwarkee report supplies some useful information about barley which we commend to the thoughtful consideration of Canadian farmers and Unrestricted Reciprocity theorists. It says that the barley crop of 1887 in the United States was estimated by the Agricultural Department at Washington at 20 per cent. below an average crop. We know that the Canada crop of last year was also under average, but the report shows that there was plenty of barley for all the requirements of the brewing trade. The barley markets on the carlier prices of the season, and left some very considerable stocks of Canadian barley.

One of the coolest and most attractive places we happen into in our walks around town is the newly-established furniture house of G. W. Tickell & Co., 108 King-street west (nearly opposite Rossin House). The building was specially planned and fitted up for them; the show rooms are large, bright and airy. This, coupled with the magnificent display of fine and fashionable furniture always to be seen in them, makes the place an exceedingly attractive one, at all times worthy of mspection.

Ward who first pushed out a boat towards the drowning man, and that he took with him Capt. Andrews and J. Patry. It is further stated, in connection with the rescue numbered eleven, that the buy Lawson while bathing tumbled into a hole opposite the Wiman Baths. Capt Andrews did not jump off a wharf, but ran out from the shore. He was unable to bring young Lawson in until assisted by Ward, who was fortunately in the vicinity at the time. Rescue 18 was not performed by either Capt, Andrews or Wm. Ward. Cartainly, they started out to the assistance of four persons who were upset in the lake, but they were too late at the accident, and before they arrived the rescue had been effected by other parties.

One of the Proposed Northern Parks—Can-adian Architects for Canadian Build-ings—Prison Labor Reform—A Country Editor World: Knowing that your esteem paper always advocates anything that pertains to the general advancement and welfare of the city and against wire-pulling and monopolies, I have taken this opportunity of giving my views on one of the proposed northern parks. We all admit that parks and squares are an absolute necessity in large cities, as places for health, recreation and beauty, and a city of any pretentions cannot made a miserable showing in the past in our management of parks; let us be careful for very large city at no very distant day, now i the time to secure park sites at a nominal value, and not at ten or fifteen years hence when we will have to pay exorbitant prices. James Austin, Esq., seems to have jumped the ten intervening years and now asks our Council to purchase his estate for a northern park for the princely aum of $400,000 (four hundred thousand dollars), equivalent to $5000 an acre. Oh, ye gods, what a public benefactor! What a self-sacrificing, large-hearted citizen we have! We will erect you a monument at whose shrine every poor, weary, hardworked Torontonian will bow the knee, and have the sublime privilege of dropping his dollars into the contribution box (i. e., taxes) to pay the $16,000 a year proposed tor 50 years.

He is assessed in York for $20,000 and kicked the traces this year because the county wanted to raise it to $30,000. In my estimation a far finer park could be had right on Yonge-street, west side, almost opposite Mount Pleasant Cemetery and north of it, for quarter of that money, with natural ravines, trees, etc., overlooking the city. Had not our Council better take a look at this land? Our city is bound to make rapid atrides northwards and we have the Metropolitan street cars passing this property, and easy of access to the city, and with a beautiful cemetery right by.

A COUNTRY DRUGGIST'S COMPLAINT. de Bon't Lite the Way the Ontario Pharmacy College is Run.

Editor World: During the past year the Ontario College of Pharmacy has attracted a large amount of publicationton, and the revelations which have been made indicate that the manufactors of the Allege of the A members of the college ought to take a more active part in the oversight of our teaching institution and of the affairs of the college in institution and of the affairs of the college in general. As matters now stand we have in effect nothing to say in the matter; we have two privileges! One is to pay our four dollars a year, the other is to vote for thirteen members of the college to act as councillors for two years and spend the funds of the Cellege as they see fit, without any expression of opinion on our part as to the needs of the profession, or as to what disposition of the funds would be most acceptable to the majority of those furnishing them.

Generally the members of the council are strangers to the most of us, and while it is true that we have had some excellent men in office, it is equally true that some were inentific sheet, the Canadian Pharmaceutical Journal.

There are other points that might be investigated with profit to the college, and such investigation can only be made by the united action of the members of the college, and that we may act unitedly, it will be necessary to form a society and hold annual or semi-annual meetings to talk over the affairs of our college, and insist on the council being present and giving to us an annual report and such information as may be required. If the present council should refuse to do so we can easily elect a council that will comply with the wishes of their constituents. Such a gathering must result in good to the profession as a whole. We will get acquainted with each other, and be able to benefit each other socially, intellectually and financially. I hope some such scheme will soon be set on foot by the leading members of the profession.

The Board of Trade's New Building.
Editor World: In your issue of the 20th ast, mention is made of the selection of four ects, two of Toronto, one of Buffalo and architects, two of Toronto, one of Buffalo and one of New York, who will receive the sum of $400 each for designs aubmitted, by way of competition, for the preposed structure. The board and advisory architects must certainly have very narrow views of the ability of Canadian architects as regards such productions when they will adopt such a course. The writer is not aware of the personnel of the Building Committee, nor that of counsellor architects, but the face of the paragraph leads to the belief of narrowness and illiberality from any and all points of view. The mention of consideration of designs sens in from other sources is valueless, as no individual or firm would waste time and paper in such a competition, when it is selfas no individual or firm would waste time and paper in such a competition, when it is self-evident that it is the intention of the board to give the selection to one of the named architects, who also receives compensation. It might not be a difficult task to surmise who the favored one will be. It may be here mentioned that the advent of one who now has supervision of large works in Toronto is due to selection from open competition. Prison Labor Reform.

Editor World: In Wednesday's edition your correspondent "Sympathy" advocates an objection to my system of prison labor reform. Possibly he misapprehended. Its prisoners are positively hurtful to themselves as well as unto others—substantially the gist of my siews, as opposed to the enunciated views of the labor unions. northern parks. We all admit that parks and squares are an absolute necessity in large cities, as places for health, recreation and beauty, and a city of any pretentions cannot really have too many of them. We have made a miserable showing in the past in our management of parks; let us be careful for the future. As we are destined to become a very large city at no very distant day, now is the time to secure park sites at a nominal value, and not at ten or fifteen years hence when we will have to pay exorbitant prices. James Austin, Esq., seems to have jumped the ten intervening years and now asks our Council to purchase his estate for a northern park for the princely sum of $400,000 (four hundred thousand dollars), equivalent to $5000 an acre. Oh, ye gods, what a public benefactor! What a self-sacrificing, large-hearted citizen we have! We will erect yon a monument at whose shrine every poor, weary, hardworked Torontonian will bow the knee, and have the sublime privilege of dropping his dollars into the contribution box (i. e., taxes) to pay the $16,000 a vear proposed tor 50 years. He is assessed in York for $20,000 and kicked.

dollars into the contribution box (i. e., taxes) to pay the $16,000 a year proposed tor 50 years. He is assessed in York for $20,000 and kicked the traces this year because the county wanted to raise it to $30,000. In my estimation a far finer park could be had right on Yonge-street, west side, almost opposite Mount Pleasant Cemetery and north of it, for quarter of that money, with natural rayines, trees, etc. ant Cemetery and north of it, for quarter of that money, with natural ravines, trees, etc., overlooking the city. Had not our Council better take a look at this land? Our city's bound to make rapid strides northwards and we have the Metropolitan street cars passing this property, and easy of access to the city, and with a beautiful cemetery right by.

A COUNTRY DROGGIST'S COMPLAINT. de Den's Like the Way the Ontario Pharmacy College is Run.

Editor World: During the past year the Ontario College of Pharmacy has attracted a large amount of publication, and the revelamembers of the college ought to take a more matitution and of the affairs of the college in general. As matters now stand we have in effect nothing to say in the matter; we have two privileges! One is to pay our four dollars a year, the other is to vote for thirteen members of the college to act as councillors for two years and spend the funds of the College as they see 6t, without any expression of opinion on our part as to the needs of the profession, or as to what disposition of the funds would be most acceptable to the majority of those furnishing them.

Generally the members of the council are strangers to the most of us, and while it is true that we have had some excellent men in office, it is equally true that some were in-eye, for which, I am informed, he receives eyer $4000, partly as selary and partly as fees from the students. This is certainly princely pay. The most of us work ten to twelve hours a day and do not get more than one fourth of that amount. In addition to this the same man gets $700 a year and the profits of the advertisements, for editing that eminently scientific sheet, the Canadian Pharmaceutical Laures!

entific sheet, the Canadian Pharmaceutical Journal.

There are other points that might be investigated with profit to the college, and such investigation can only be made by the united action of the members of the college, and that we may not unitedly, it will be necessary to form a society and hold annual or semi-annual meetings to talk over the affairs of our college, and insist on the council being present and giving to us an annual report and such information as may be required. If the present council should refuse to do so we can easily elect a council that will comply with the wishes of their constituents. Such a gathering must result in good to the profession as a whole. We will get acquainted wish each other, and be able to benefit each other socially, intellectually and financially. I hope some such scheme will soon be set on foot by the leading members of the profession.

The Board of Trade's New Building. Editor World: In your issue of the 20th inst, mention is made of the selection of four architects, two of Toronto, one of Buffalo and one of New York, who will receive the sum of $400 each for designs submitted, by way of competition, for the preposed structure. The oompetition, for the proposed structure. The board and advisory architects must certainly have very narrow views of the ability of Canadian architects as regards such productions when they will adopt such a course. The writer is not aware of the personnel of the Building Committee, nor that of counsellor architects, but the face of the paragraph leads to the belief of narrowness and illuterality from any and all points of view. The mention of consideration of designs sens in from other sources is valueless, as no individual or firm would waste time and paper in such a competition, when it is self-evident that it is the intention of the board to give the selection to one of the named architects who also received a compensation. Editor World: The World is the only paper in Toronto that has taken a common sense view of this matter. If the Conference had waited

If they had learnt the meaning of that portion of the Lord's prayer which says. "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those that trespass against us." would they wish Jarvis dismissed? Or if they tried to follow in the footsteps of our Blessed Lord and Master, would they pass such bitter resolutions? If they find it too hard to show a Christian spirit in this matter, why do they not give up their clurches and not bring discredit on the Savior they pretend to follow?

There are no doubt many points that might be investigated with profit to the college, and I will just indicate one. From The Chicago Daily News.

The telephone of Chicago is, under existi The telephone of Chicago is, under existing conditions, a sham and a nuisance. It is the former, because the subscriber in whose house er place of business it is located pays for something which he does not get—prompt and securate service; the latter, because it is a bar to the speedy execution of business, a provoker of profanity, a destroyer of peace, hapsecurate service; the latter, because it is a bar to the speedy execution of business, a provoker of profanity, a destroyer of peace, happiness and good will. Any person who has during the last three weeks suntained intiniate relations with one of these instruments can testify to the truth of these assertions. When the company first moved into its new quarters the fact that novel arrangements caused more we less friction was given and accepted as a reason why matters did not work smoothly. But that excuse no longer holds. Three weeks or more have elapsed since the company moved into its new exchange; in that interval matters have gone from bad to worse, and have not taken a roundabout course in making the trip, either. Under the present order of things the man who would use a Chicago telephone is compelled to wait until the clouds roll by, the cowe come home, and sundry other similar important events occur before he can secure the desired connection. And when finally the boom of a short interview with the person at the other end of the line seems to be within his grasp he is suddenly 'cut off,' and his voice is lost in the hum and buzz of the central office. He is once more left high and dry and founders about as helpless as a fish on terra firra. The chances are that if he finally receives the connection, it is only at a heavy loss of time and a complete loss of patience. This is not an exaggerated picture of the situation jits fidelity cannot fail of recognization with those who know anything of the facts. As things now stand, that man is a marvel who can use the Chicago telephone without having his temper ruffled, box plained, flounced, scalloped, and otherwise decorated with annoying frills and furbelows. The service must be improved, and that speedily.

A Great Cowbey Meet.

Prom The Catgary Tribuna.

From The Calgary Tribune.

The cowboy meet at High River this year was the most imposing one that has been held in the country yet. Here were assembled 125 of the best horsemen it is possible to imagine, each mounted on the testive broncho that the rider could pick out of his "string" of eight or ten. The broncho had done but little service since last fall, and when he was roped, saddled and mounted by his rider, whose large jingling spurs were driven into his flank or shoulders to see if there was sny buck in him the scene was interesting, and to see 125 riders mounted on these gentle animals, who were making frantic efforts to displace their riders, was a scene not to be for of the best horsemen it is possible to imagine. mals, who were making frantic efforts to displace their riders, was a scene not to be forgotten. Some of the ladies of the district attended the meet to wieness the fun of the first day's camp and the numerous races that always take place. Mr. George Lans of the Northwest Cattle Company was appointed commander in chief of the forces, and he chose his different captains and had everything ready for the early turnout on Monday morning. The country between Sheep Creek and High River was first to be scoured and the other districts in their turn. A more careful search of the country is to be made this year than ever before, and it is expected that the brand of the calves will be much larger than in any former year of the country's history.

has again been demonstrated, this time by the Society of Science, Literature and Arts of London, Eng., who on April 10th of this year, after a thorough examination, made the following award.

REPORT ACCOMPANYING THE MEDAL.

Excess of praise is hardly possible when speaking of this new and superbly beautiful design, which is intended to meet the demand for a more expensive exterior or cabinet, together with a most superbaction. This organ is of most substantial and pleasing proportions, and of a style of finish suitable for any situation. In pleasing balance of proportions, practical utility of form, richness of ornamentation and delicacy of finish, this instrument will not only compare favorably with the best but surpass all organs of any make; while for strength and purity of tone, variety of expression and freedom of action it is tar in advance of anything yet produced.

SIR HENRY V. GOOLD, Hon. Pres. Society Science. Letters and Art, London, Eng.

Referring to Piano Fortes of Messrs. Heintzman & Co., Dr. Stainer says as follows: "I much regret that, owing to the late period at which I was called upon to make a report, all the more important instruments exhibited by this firm HAD BEEN SOLD AND REMOVED. But those remaining fully justified their high reputation. An Upright Grand, which I examined was in every respect a fine instrument; the touch was sympathetic and had a good repetition; the tone was full and rich. I also tried a specimen style No. 9, which was equally deserving of unqualified praise."

OLD LOVE LETTERS. "I am going to trust you with a great secret," said Neal Guthrie to his friend Cuthbert Rollyn as they sat smoking together in the former's room. "Can you, or will you, keep a secret?"

"Try me and see," was the prompt reply.
"Read these," said Neal, placing in his friend's hands a well-worn packet of letters. The first letter Cuthbert opened caused him to stare. It began, "Dearest Nesl," and then followed a torrent of sentiment ending with the words "Your loving Ella." The handwriting—yes, surely, it was that of Neal's cousin, Ellen Laing, and Cuthbert's own engaged sweetheart. Rollyn's face grew more and more troubled as he read the letters over, at last coming upon one accepting dearest Neal's invitation to elope on the following Thursday.

Soon after this Cuthbert found a chance to leave the room, and then Neal burst out in a peal of laughter. He was so occupied with his own happiness that he had not noticed the other's disappointment, and probably never suspected Cuthbert's attachment for his cousin.

suspected Guthbert's attachment for his cousin.

When Neal came down to breakfast in the morning he found this note signed with his friend's initials:

"If you care sufficiently for an old friend," it said, "and can spare time enough from the contemplation of your own happiness to have the lakes dragged for his body, perhaps you won't think it too much to do so. But don't put yourself out, pray—and least of all your Loving Ellen'—on my account."

Neal Guthrie sprang up, upsetting his coffee and the cup into which he had just broken two soft-boiled eggs, and overturning his chair with a crash, to the general discomposure of the boarders and his landlady's great displeasure, and rushed out, never stopping till he reached the lake at the border of the town.

ping till he reached the lake at the border of the town.

He had just skirted it but a little way when, lying on a jutting rock concealed by a thick growth of bushes, at the base of which the water was more than twenty feet deep, he found an old coat which he had often seen Cuthbert wear, and a little way out, tossed to and fro by the wind, floated a straw hat, just like the one Cuthbert had on the day before.

Neal's face turned ashen pale and he shook like a man in an ague.

Neal's face turned ashen pale and he shook like a man in an ague.

"Poor Cuth!" he wailed piteously. "I never dreamed it would come to this."

Then he fiew to find the coroner, and with him and a troop of horror-seeking followers returned to the lake. They dragged it from end to end, but only raked up an old crockery crate. Then they got out a rusty cannon that had seen service under Old Hickory at New Orleans, and had smashed the windows of the town every Fourth of July since. "Give him a few gall-busters from that," said Steve Kidder, the village oracle, "and if it don't h'lss 'im, nothin' else will."

But it didn't "this 'im'; for though round after round was fired, up, down and across, it was only so much powder wasted.

"Dod blamed if he ben't the most stubbornsomest corpse I ever seed!" said Steve Kidder, turning away digusted.

Neal's face was ruesomeness itself as he started to tell the news to Ellen Laing.

"How can I ever break it to her?" he said as he reached the door.

For some reason he seemed apprehensive that Ellen would take it particularly hard.

Oh! Ellen! Ellen!" he exclaimed, when they met—"have you heard it?"
"Heard what?"

"The news—the dreadful news! Outsbert Rollyn's gone and drowned himself!"

"The news—the dreadful news! Outbert Rollyn's gone and drowned himself!"
Ellen didn't faint, didn't shriek, didn't do anything he had counted on. Maybe she was too sturned.

anything he had counted on. Maybe she was too sturned.

Neal, like one anxious to get through a heartrending scene, hurried on.

"You know those old letters of grandma's to grandpa before shey ran away together? You remember there was no date on them, and grandma's mas Ellen, the same as yours; and she wrote a hand that couldn't be told from your own. Well; for a lark, yesterday, I showed them to Cuthbert as if confiding to him an important personal secret. He fell into the trap at once, and thought they were from you so ma. I meant to tell him the truth to day and have a rood laugh at his expense. But, old Cousin Ellen! it drove him to despair, and he went off and drowned himself! I don't ask you to forgive me. I know you couldn't, and I don't deserve it; but if it 'll be any comfort to you, I'll go into mourning for the rest of my days!"

At the end of his recital Ellen Laing burst into a se of the wildest laughter.

"Oh! don't!—don't!" pleaded Neal, starting back appalled. "Heavens!—she has lost her wits!"

"Don't you think we've punished him enough!" and Outhbert Rollyn, entering from

"Don't you blink we've punished him enough?" said Guthbert Rollyn, entering from an adjoining room, and laughing almost as wildly as Ellen.
"You see," he added, turning to Neal, "I wasn't quite fool enough to a and drown myself without first seeking an explanation from Ellen. I suess you know the rest." Biberta.

attention to the North. Siberia is next to be opened up to trade and civilization. We have all of us had from childhood indefinite conceptions of this vast land as a dreary, inhospitable region, a land of terrible frost, fathomiess snows, and interminable wastes. All these features have existed in our minds but as the background for dark pi ctures of the miseries endured by wretched exiles, doomed by a cruel despotism to all the horrors of a living death in a region of absolute despair. In the light of the better knowledge now afforded by such writers as Mr. Keenan, who is describing the country in The Century Magazine, we find the truth of some of those pictures fully confirmed, but we have at the same time revelations of a very different character. Siberia is now known to be a country of vast, though practically undeveloped, resources, having immense tracts of tertile land, regions of impressive and often beautiful scenery, and, in some parts, of already advanced civilization. The opening up of this vast domain, a continent in itself, will be an event in the history of European civilization. Of course with the entry of the railroad the system of political exile must come to an end. The Government is already taking steps for its abolition. The Administration Council of the Penitentiary Department has recently reported in favor of abolition of transportation to Siberia as a judicial punishment, and in all probability the system is doomed. As the prisoners will henceforth be shut up in dungeons at home, instead of being sent into Siberian exile, it does not appear that they, or the cause of humanity, will be immediate gainers by the change. But the spirit of change and of emancipation is manifestly at work, and will not cease till the whole land has come under its influence. When political exile has died, political imprisonment e-most long survive.

""Try me and see," was the prompt reply.
"Read these," said Neal, placing in his "Read these," said Neal, placing in his friend's hands a well-worn packet of letters.

The first letter Cuthbert opened caused him to stare. It began, "Dearest Neal," and then followed a torrent of sentiment ending with the words "Your loving Ella." The handwriting—yes, surely, it was that of Neal's, cousin, Ellen Laing, and Cuthbert's own engaged sweethears.

Rollyn's face grew more and more troubled as he read the letters over, at last coming upon one accepting dearest Neal's invitation to elope on the following Thursday.

Soon after the Cuthbert found a chance to leave the room, and then Neal burst out in a peal of laughter. He was so occupied with his own happiness that he had not noticed the other's disappointment, and probably never suspected Cuthbert's attachment for his cousin.

suspected Cuthbert's attachment for his cousin.

When Neal came down to breakfast in the morning he found this note signed with his friend's initials:

"If you care sufficiently for an old friend," it said, "and can spare time enough from the contemplation of your own happiness to have the lake dragged for his body, perhaps you won't think it too much to do so. But don't put yourself out, pray—and least of all your 'Loving Elleu'—on my account."

Neal Guthrie sprang up, upsetting his coffee and the cup into which he had just broken two soft-boiled eggs, and overturning his chair with a crash, to the general discomposure of the boarders and his landlady's great displeasure, and rushed out, never stopping till he reached the lake at the border of the town.

He had just skirted it but a little way when, lying on a jutting rock concealed by a thick growth of bushes, at the base of which the water was more than twenty feet deep, he found an old coat which he had often seen Outhbert wear, and a little way out, tossed to and fro by the wind, floated a straw hat, just like the one Outhbert had on the day betore.

Neal's face turned ashen pale and he shook like a man in an ague.

"Poor Outh!" he wailed pitcously. "I inch the one Outbert had on the day before.

Neal's face turned ashen pale and he shook like a man in an ague.

"Poor Outh!" he wailed piteously. "I never dreamed it would come to this."

Then he flew to find the coroner, and with him and a troop of horror-seeking followers returned to the lake. They dragged it from end to end, but only raked up an old crockery crate. Then they got out a rusty cannon that had seen service under Old Hickory at New Orleans, and had smashed the windows of the town every Fourth of July since. "Give him a few gall-busters from that," said Steve Kidder, the village oracle, "and if it don't his 'im, nothin' else will."

But it didn't "hist 'im' for though round after round was fired, up, down and across, it was only so much powder wasted.

"Dod blamed if he ben't the most stubborn-somest corpse I ever seed!" said Steve Kidder, turning away diagusted.

Neal's face was ruesomeness itself as he started to tell the news to Ellen Laing.

"How can I ever break it to her?" he said as he reached the door.

For some reason he seemed apprehensive that Ellen would take it particularly hard.

"The news—the dreadful news! Outhbert Rollyn's gone and drowned himself!"

Ellen didn't faint, didn't shriek, didn't do anything he had counted on. Maybe she was too stunted.

Nea! like one anxious to get through a heartrending scene, hurried on.

"You know those old letters of grandma's to grandpa before shey ran away together? You remember there was no date on them, and grandpa's name was Neal, like mine, and grandpa's name was Neal, like mine, and grandpa's name was Neal, like mine, and grandma's was Ellen, the same as yours; and she wrote a hand that couldn't be told from your own. Well, for a lark, yesterday, I showed them to Cuthbert as if confiding to him an important personal secret. He fell your own. Well; for a lark, yesterday, I showed them to Cuthbert as if confiding to him an important personal secret. He fell into the trap at once, and thought they were from you to me. I meant to tell him the truth to day and have a good laugh at his expense. But old Cousin Eller! it drove him to despair, and he went off and drowned himself! I don't ask you to forgive me. I know you couldn't, and I don't deserve it; but if it ill be any comfort to you, I'll go into mourning for the rest of my days!"

At the end of his recital Ellen Laing burst into a fit of the wildest lengther.

"Oh! don't!—don't!" pleaded Neal, starting back appalled. "Heavens!—she has lost her wits!"

her wits!"
"Don't you blink we've punished him enough?" said Outhbert Rollyn, entering from an adjoining room, and laughing almost as wildly as Bilen.
"You see," he added, turning to Neal, "I wasn't quite fool enough to go and drown myself without first seeking an explanation from Ellen. I guess you know the rest."

ployed and many of the pictures cost hundreds of dollars."

"How is the encyclopædia made?"

"Well, usually after the method embloyed in compiling distionaries. Editors are engaged for the different departments. There is the religious editor, the medical editor, the historical editor, the scientific editor and the editor on miscellaneous subjects. The best authorities in the land are chosen to edit the work, and large salaries are paid. In the process of compilation an alphabetical rule is observed. The old encyclopædia, such as Chambers' and Encyclopædia Britannica, are followed as regards the subjects they treat of. The modern encyclopædia, however, has very much of a newspaper flavor. It is based upon the principle of american journalism. It is timely and intended to hit the spirit of the age. The biographies of prominent men are made an especial feature. The American Cyclopædia is the greatest undertaking in the art of bookmaking ever attempted in this country. Charles A. Dana of The Sun was and is the efficiency of the street of th

"How much do the contributors to encyclesedias make?"

"Generally we pay magazine rates—that is, $10 per 1000 words. Many of the articles, however, cost far more than that. There are some contributors who receive $500 or $1000 for a short article. They possess exclusive information, however. Dr. Shrady, who is the authority on cancer, and editor of The Medical Record, furmished us exclusive information on that subject and on many others connected with surgery. Of course a specialist is paid far more than ordinary writers. Often a page costs us $500. Then we run page after page at a cost of $20.

Many of the writers are men who hold the foremost rank in literature. Consequently they demand larger prices for their work."

"How much money is invested in encyclopedias?"

"That is a difficult question to answer. We lieve run into the millions on sales, but it should be remembered that encyclopedias are never sold in bulk. The instalment plan is always adopted. Our contributors pay for each volume as it is issued."

"In case a volume is lost, can it be duplicated?"

"That depends on who the loser may be. A regular contributor, one who has been buying volume after volume for years, can certainly be accommodated. His name is down on our books, and we recognize him as a patron of the house. A genuine set of encyclonedias costs a great deal of money, about $150 to $200, consequently they are sold in instalments and the purchaser is protected." British Columbia's Chief Justice—Hon. A.N

Richards.

From the Victoria Times.

If the Chief Justice is correctly reported in The Colonist in his remarks yesterday in the County court, in the case of Fowler vs. Gardner, his Lordship again traveled out of his way to insult a respectable citizen. The offence was the greater ill that the remarks were uttered when the reverend gentleman against whom they were directed was not in the court from, nor in a position to defend hunself. Not only were the remarks uncalled for but they were as renomous as they were illstimed and unwarranted. When the Chief Justice uses such language, and displays such animus, as he is reported to have done sowards the gentleman whom he treated so brutally, it is high time to pause and ask what are the depths to which a Chief Justice and descend. Really the conduct of His Lordship of late is becoming so notorious that contempt for him is giving place to pity. For a time the bar as well as the people of this province treated His Lordship's secentricities as freaks which took possession of his judgment and made him as changable as the phases of the moon; but the period has now been reached when it becomes the duty of the hair the press and the people to speak o it and protest against such unseemly conduct. Its toleration any longer but the further adds diagrace to our courts and breeds contempt for those who administer the law.

Lord Stanley's Jumbo. From The Outawa Journal. One of the carriages of Lord Stanley which arrived on Saturday from Quebec and remained at the Canadian Pacific Railway depol until to-day, is an impressive vehicle. The bottom of the carriage is similar to the ordinary turn-outs used here with a covered top, but it is hung in a peculiar way. There are four high steel springs attached to the axles of the vehicle. The body of the carriage axles of the vehicle. The body of the carriage does not rest on these, but on leather straps which pass between them. The steel springs resemble enormous hoops, somewhat flattened. In front of the body of the carriage is a high seast for the coadman fully five feet above the main part of the vehicle, and behind is another seat for the footman away up in the sitt, higher than the front seat. The entire carriage is gorgeously gotten up. The wheels are massive with silver plated caps for the hubs and the body and boxes are emblazoned with the Stanley coat of arms. The appearance of the vehicle created much interest at the depoit. Doubt was expressed whether the footman sitting on the back seat would get clear under the telegraph wires over the streets. However, no accidents have been reported.

"Fain would I write a poem on the delights of fishing; but, ah, me! I cannot find a word to rhyme with 'angelworm," sighed Pisistratus, as he gazed thoughtfully into the dark, sulle waters.
"But why must you put that word at the end of a line?" queried Eucalyptus. "Because an angleworm is always at the end of a line," hissed Pisistratus between his set teeth; and for a long time it was so still that one could distinctly hear a peach blow.
