NEW RUSSIAN DEFENCES WILL OFFER GREAT OBSTACLE TO ENEMY
" Allies, in Common Accord, Sure of Glorious End"—Grand Duke Nicholas SERBIA, GREECE AND ROUMANIA TO ACCEPT THE TERMS OF ALLIES

TURKS CHASED FROM HILL BY IRISH DIVISION

Bayonets Plied Briskly for Several Minutes, Then Enemy Flew.

GULLEY FULL OF DEAD

Turks Suffered Enormous Losses in Fighting Men From Antipodes.

LONDON, Aug. 27, 9.15 p.m.—A despatch to Reuters' Telegram Co. from the Dardanelles, dated Aug. 19, says: "For the moment the severe fighting has come to a stop along the front of our new positions after the week of battles which followed the landing at Suvla Bay. The most important advantage secured has been a large extension of the territory held by us on the northern shore of the peninsula. Resting upon Suvla Bay, with its left occupying the long ridge which follows the coast inland for several miles, our army holds the plain southward to where the heights of 'Anzac' look down upon it, so that we are in virtual possession of the cliffs overlooking the Gulf of Saros almost to Gala Tepe."

Describing the change of the Irish division on a Turkish hill to the left of the Suvla Bay position, the correspondent says: "The Turks came out to meet them, and most exciting bayonet fighting followed on the saddle between the two crests. Bayonets were flashing and stabbing for several minutes before the Turks began to give way. Then they left the crest and ran down over the ridge, the Irishmen standing up and firing down on them, while at intervals British machine guns on the hills behind drowned the sound of the rifle fire whenever the Germans were able to get a clear view of the fleeing Turks."

Dead Turks Fill Gulley. The battle for Sari Bair hill, which the Australians and New Zealanders captured but were compelled to evacuate because the troops on their left did not advance far enough, was a most desperate one, according to the correspondent, who says: "The dead lie thick everywhere, and the stench is appalling. On Aug. 3 the Turks came down in great numbers from the ridge above and tried to sweep our men from the hill entirely. They themselves were driven back, however, with frightful losses. Being unable to bury their dead, the Turks threw their bodies down the gulley, until they are stopped by the nature of the ground, while others thrown after them are stopped by the first. Consequently the whole gulley is choked with Turkish dead."

"The Australians and New Zealanders have gained another addition to their newly-occupied territory. In their narrow position they now have elbow room, and are in touch with our posts across the plain to Suvla Bay. And what is not their least important advantage, they have a supply of fresh water within their own position."

DRIVE TOWARD PETROGRAD NOT CONSIDERED IMMINENT

Operations Against Russian Capital Unlikely in Coming Fall Unless Enemy Gets Possession of Gulf of Riga.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 27.—(Via London).—Weighing the likelihood of a German advance on Petrograd, The Reich points out that the Russian retirement covers the approaches to the capital, and that it is extremely doubtful whether the Germans, without undisputed possession of the Baltic Sea, and particularly of the Gulf of Riga, could undertake the risks attaching to operations against Petrograd this autumn. Moreover, on the whole front, from the Dwina to the upper Bobr, it is noted, the Germans have only two armies—that of Gen. Von Buelow in Courland, and that of Gen. Von Eichhorn, on the Niemen.

FRENCH ARTILLERY PROVES EFFECTIVE

German Trenches Were "Upset" and Munition Depot Destroyed.

COMPIEGNE SHELLED

Enemy's Bombardment Killed One Nurse and Seriously Wounded Another.

PARIS, Aug. 27. — (10.25 p.m.)—Artillery engagements of a violent character, and a fresh French success in Alsace, are features of official reports. Tonight's statement says: "On a great many points of the front our artillery has concentrated on the German positions a very efficacious fire. To the north of Arras, German trenches have been upset, and a munition depot destroyed. "Between the Somme and the Oise, German encampments have been shelled. "The enemy fired at long range seven shells on the City of Compiègne, causing some damage and killing a nurse and seriously wounding another. "The Germans have violently shelled the village of Blend-Des-Ponts-Mousson, the City of Thann and Vieux Thann. In the region of Ammerisviller, our shells started many fires. "The afternoon statement announced the capture of German trenches at Landersbach, in Alsace, and the taking of trench portions on the crest of Sondernach. The new gains consolidated the French positions in this region, and the attack is more difficult of attack by the enemy."

RUSSIANS DESTROYED TURKISH BLOCKHOUSE

Hand Grenades Did the Work—Two Turk Ships Sunk.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 27, via London.—This official statement was issued today at the headquarters of the army of the Caucasus: "In the coastal region Wednesday our scouts, crossing the Arkhava River, destroyed a Turkish blockhouse by means of hand grenades. "One of our motorboats, accompanied by a torpedo boat, sank two sailing vessels and their cargoes."

GERMANS ATTACKED CONSULS AT TABRIZ

British Defended Themselves With Rifles—Cossacks to the Rescue.

LONDON, Aug. 27, 9.45 p.m.—A despatch to Reuters' Telegram Company from Petrograd says: "A telegram received here from Teheran, Persia, reports that the Russian and British consuls and their military escort have been attacked at Kengehever by an armed band, led by M. O. Schumemann, the German consular agent at Tabriz. The Britishers defended themselves with rifles, but suffered some losses. "A cabinet meeting was held, with the result that a request was sent to the commander of a Persian brigade of Cossacks who were encamped four days' march from Kengehever, to send a detachment there immediately."

The defendant in the action will be the Hudson Bay Company. The contention has been raised that the company has not lived up to the representations made in the prospectus issued in connection with the sale. Large amounts of money which were to have been spent for improvements, it is claimed, have not been spent by the company.

ALLIES IN COMMON ACCORD ASSURED OF GLORIOUS END

Grand Duke Nicholas, in Reply to Message From France, Refers Feelingly to "Close Relations" Between Allied Armies.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—A joint telegram expressing entire confidence in the future has been sent to Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian army, by President Poincaré, Minister of War Millerand and Gen. Joffre, the French commander. The text of the message follows: "Our thoughts turn toward your troops, who at present moment merit the confidence of the whole world by reason of the struggle they are making. With complete confidence in the final victory of your armies, we beg you to accept our respectful homage and fervent good wishes, together with the assurance that more than ever before our armies are happy and proud to co-operate with your highness and your valiant soldiers. "The grand duke replied: "The sentiments you express towards the Russian army are reciprocated. The close relations and common accord existing between the commanders of all the allied armies is a certain omen of the glorious end in which, with God's aid, we will participate."

WELSH MINERS' STRIKE SPREADS

Number Dissatisfied With Runciman Award Reaches Twenty-Six Thousand.

CENSURED BY LEADERS

Urged to Return to Work Pending Negotiations—Deputation to London.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—According to despatches from Newport, South Wales, thousands of miners struck today, bringing the total number of men who have shown dissatisfaction with the Runciman award up to about 26,000. It is reported that the miners who went out on strike today refused to accept the rulings of Mr. McKenna as to working conditions. The refusal of Mr. Runciman to meet a deputation of the miners incensed them against him and they now charge him with going behind the arrangement made by David Lloyd George. They also demand that Mr. Lloyd George make good his promises. When the strike was settled last month, Cardiff despatches declared that the terms accepted by the miners as the outcome of Lloyd George's visit to Wales provided for a liberal increase in wages and other concessions to the men, which were considered as practically an admission of their claims. Leaders Condemn Strike. Not only by promising concessions old Mr. Lloyd George won over the strikers, but by emphasizing the fact that uninterrupted operation of the coal mines was most essential to the conduct of the war. The award of Mr. Runciman contained a number of demands relating to working conditions, hours of labor and arbitration arrangements. A resolution was adopted by the executive council of the miners' organization today condemning the strike and urging the men to return to work pending negotiations. An urgent appeal has been sent by the Mine Owners' Federation to the strikers asking them to return to work. A deputation representing the miners' body is on its way to London in an attempt to have the matter reopened.

More About the Big Wheat Crop

The biggest and best crop that ever came to the Canadian West is now well cut; another week and it will be down. A song of joyfulness must roll across the prairie. When it is sold the westerners ought to have nearly three hundred millions of dollars in hand or in sight—a thousand-dollar bill in the pocket of each one of three hundred thousand people. It's the first real good thing that's come to our west for some time and after some hard experiences. It's a solace for the west and it means business here in the east. Good luck to the men and the country that grew it. But it's not all gold. It's got to be threshed and teamed and sold and the money taken in. There must be a buyer, a railway, a ship and a banker to find the money. And there's something of a cloud on these, with the exception of the railway. The price is falling because of the large crop in Canada, in the United States, and the prospective competition of two crops coming out of Russia. It began dropping yesterday and October wheat at Port Arthur is quoted at 90c or less a bushel. The farmer must pay at least ten cents freight out of this. And the Winnipeg price is less than the Chicago price by several cents. We have barred ourselves out of the American market. The price will not be high, but it will not be low. As to ships, the minister of finance says they may be difficult to get—that the movement of the crop across the sea will be slow. In that case then the minister suggests to the bankers that they borrow liberally of the national currency and advance it to the farmers for or against their wheat. Now, will the banks do this and help the farmer to sell his wheat?

Toronto Sportsmen Called To Follow Worthy Example Set by Men on Firing Line

"The Call of Duty" was the clarion note sounded at the sportsmen's patriotic demonstration at Scarborough Beach Park last night, when appeals were directed to 15,000 Canadians to do their duty for the empire in the time of her greatest crisis. The manner in which the amateur and professional sportsmen of Canada have responded was pointed to by the speakers as an object lesson which every young man should follow. The manner in which young Canada has awakened to the role which she must play in the struggle for the liberty of the British Empire and the freedom of civilized nations the world over was shown by a remark made by Mayor Church, that of 32 Argonaut oarsmen who competed in the Canadian Henley this month, 25 had enlisted for active service, and were now engaged in trying to use the brains secured in athletics in the service of King and country. In the name of Canadian sportsmen, eloquent appeals were made by representatives of the church, public men, soldiers and business men at the immense gathering and the audience was told where the duty of young Canadians lay. Tribute was paid to the showing which Canadian athletes and sportsmen had done to swell the total of 100,000 Canadians who are representing the Dominion in France and Flanders. Fighting For Principle. Hon. George F. Graham, former minister of railways and canals, struck the keynote when he said: "We are not fighting men, in the last analysis, but are engaged in a struggle for principles. It is your freedom and mine that is at stake, as much as that of the man who lives in Fleet street, London. I believe the pride of the entire world will be due these men who will eventually lead the allies to victory for the principles of humanity. He divided men into three classes: Those that could not enlist because of circumstances over which they had no control; those who were at the front and those who should be there. It was to the latter division that the appeals were directed. Those who were at the front played was one that had brought them the respect of the entire world. Hon. Mr. Graham declared that the women of Canada are giving a demonstration of what can be done quietly and unostentatiously. When the history of Canada's part in the war is written, he declared, "the brightest page will

and help the farmer to pay his debts and buy new goods and help along the business of the country? We will know as the business develops and as the ships come along to take the strain across to the consumer in Europe. But so far there is no sign of any preference to the farmer of the Canadian West for his wheat in the markets of the mother country. And he is up against the competition of the wheat of the American farmer; and it is more likely that he will have to ship most of his wheat across the sea by way of the port of New York, as no definite settlement has yet been made with the British Government as to the provision of ships for transporting Canadian grain. We still think that it would be much better for the Canadian wheat grower, and his customer, if the British Government had agreed to take the crop at a fair price and provide the ships for its carriage and in that way have secured the food supplies of the mother country and the allies and made a sure if not a high market, for the Canadian farmer who did his best to raise as much wheat as he could for patriotic and business reasons. As to the wheat of the Ontario farmer, very little of it will grade hard and bright and first class in all respects. The little there is of it that is good will bring 95c a bushel at the start; her damaged wheat is bringing 70c or less, and this price may go lower if the farmer cannot find a way to feed this damaged wheat to live stock. The Farmer is Not to Have a Picnic. To the current number of The Canadian Courier, Mr. John A. Cooper con-

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

By Adele Garrison

"Remember," Dicky Said, "I Am Your Husband—Not Your Pupil!"

"What are you doing here? I told you I'd pay that when I got good and ready and not before. If you really need it I'll send a check this week."

Dicky had lowered his voice, but his tones were naturally clear and vibrant, and I heard every word. Another voice, a deprecating voice, that I recognized as Mr. Touraine's, murmured something, and Dicky explained:

"What! You dared to come here and frighten my wife into paying this bill. Why, you blasted little runt, if you weren't so small I'd throw you down these stairs. I have half a notion to do it anyway."

I had reached the door by this time, and stepped in front of Dicky.

"I apologize for my husband, Mr. Touraine," I said calmly as I could. "I do not think he realizes what he says when he is angry. Thank you so much for bringing me the change. I took it from his outstretched hand, and good-night."

An Angry Scene.

The shabby little tradesman took the hint and hurried away. I went back into the living room, and Dicky followed me in, his face crimson, his eyes blazing with anger. I knew that he had transferred his wrath from Mr. Touraine to me, also that the chief cause of his anger was childish mortification that I should have learned about the unpaid bill.

"May I ask why you took it upon yourself to pay this personal bill of mine, of which you knew nothing, not even if it were genuine?"

Dicky's voice was hoarse with anger as he faced me. I crossed the room and carefully closed the door into the kitchen where I could hear Katie singing over her dinner dishes.

"There is no need of Katie singing this discussion," I said coldly, as I sat down in my chair near the grate. I felt the need of the warmth from the blaze.

"That is not answering my question," Dicky fairly snapped the words out.

"There are many things I have to say to you tonight besides the answer to that question," I returned. "But I do not care to say anything until you can sit down and we can talk things over calmly."

"If that isn't just like you," Dicky said. "Do something that humiliates my fellow to the limit, then put on that superior school-ma'am manner, and propose to have a calm, bad-boy-after-school-session, permit me to remind you that I am your husband, not a refractory pupil."

Dicky was fast working himself into a rage. I wanted to postpone his angry

The Tailor Returns.

I was ready now for the explosion over the bill I had paid for Dicky, and the other financial worries. I answered his inquiries coldly.

"Nothing is the matter, except that I am astonished that you should allow Mrs. Underwood to believe I was the one who did not wish to come to her office. She will think I am trying to keep you away from your old friends."

"Suppose that she does? Her tone was mischievous. "If she imagines that she will be flattered, as any woman would be, by your jealousy, while she thinks that an old rat like me would actually prefer an evening at home to one of her blowouts, her little feelings will be hurt. Those parties of hers are her pride. She can't imagine how one who has never been very fortunate enough to attend one of them would ever miss one again."

"Why miss one now, of the doorbell prevented Dicky from hearing me. He went to the door and threw it open, and where the lights are not so dim, perhaps he would not feel so anxious, and you could have the restful though you cannot always be accompanied. Try to get some girl friends and go in twos and threes. That will make the visitations notice you less and save your father many a troubled hour."

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Could you advise me what to do when a boy you dislike very much follows you and speaks to you when you don't want to be associated with him?

NIBS:

If you are really and truly in love with a girl and not to see him any more, all you have to do is tell him so at once. Then you may be very sure he will not bother you again. But be positive, my dear, that you really do not want to have anything to do with him at all before you tell him so.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl 18 years old. I have no fellow, though my friends say I am good-looking. I am a working girl, and very fond of the picture shows, and like to stop in one of them on my way home every evening. I tell my father about my "lonely" picture show, and that you would sit in an aisle seat near the back of the house where you would be in full view of the others, and where the lights are not so dim, perhaps he would not feel so anxious, and you could have the restful though you cannot always be accompanied. Try to get some girl friends and go in twos and threes. That will make the visitations notice you less and save your father many a troubled hour."

"Putting up" Preserves—A Peach Recipe.

FOR some reason or other there seems to be a miraculous abundance of peaches in this locality this season, and so this morning I conceived the idea that I'd get a small quantity and "put some up" just as mother used to do.

At the start I've made an investment which I think ought to be good for years and years to come. I hadn't any utensil large enough, not even the classic washbowl that mother's old cook used to have, so I simply up and bought a small canning outfit for a large sum of $2.50. It's light, well made, four large jars. I should think I had to get some of the wide-mouthed jars, as that I could preserve the fruit whole, as it's much nicer that way. Here is my recipe:

Put the whole peaches in a wire basket and plunge into a kettle of boiling water, keeping them in for about two minutes. Then remove, and the skins will come off easily. The peaches must be dropped into cold water so that they keep their natural color and so turn an ugly dark brown. One pound of sugar is used for every three pounds of fruit, and one pint of water for every three pounds of sugar. The sugar and

THE NARROW HOUSE

By Winifred Black

"It must be winter. They say the poor are cold." Oh, yes, you could chase the seasons from one end of the world to the other—Winter in California, summer in Newport, spring in the Berkshires, fall on the Riviera—but in your home, your one real place of refuge from the world, what would you know of the year or of the weather or of the splendid winds that bring it?

"It rains. Be careful, Thomas, and do not skid."

That's all.

Simplicity and Safety.

And up there in the sky the wildest wind that ever howled may tear the clouds to tatters, and you, living in your narrow house, will never even feel a breath of the splendid exhilaration of the storm.

The other smiles, the skies laugh with the love of rosy June. In the narrow house it is just the same as January.

I would as soon be a mouse cheeping in the wall as to live in such a narrow misery of contraction.

Don't we need space any more, we Americans, nor sky nor sun nor storm?

Are we insects burrowing in the wood and never taking note of the magnificent primitive pleasures which are, after all, the only ones that really count?

Hunger, thirst, fatigue, anxiety, the heat of the noonday sun, the cold of midnight—do we do well, do we do happily, when we manage to escape them all?

Not for me or for my kind of people.

I'd rather have a little, one-story bungalow, with the roses, red and white, over the dormer of it, and the tall lilacs, a hedge about my little dogyard, a great tree or two for shade, a simple porch for comfort, a faithful dog for company, and the open skies, the stretching world for vistas, than to own all the art treasures in all the art museums in all the world and live in a house 14 feet narrow, and think about it.

WHERE COPPER WIRE IS WORN AS EVIDENCE OF WEALTH.

THE lady to the left in this picture is the wife of a chief whom I saw in Bohandana in Congo-Land, South Africa. The other is one of her ladies in waiting.

The chief's wife was a rather handsome woman, but seemed to me as being rather too tall and slender for a body so corpulent as hers seemed to be. She was dressed in a web of gayly striped cotton cloth wound about her person in many folds, with a collarette of some sort of coarse lace of domestic manufacture, and anklets of fur, but no stockings or shoes.

I complimented her through an interpreter on her gown, and then she and the interpreter explain to me that she was not quite as large as she seemed, but that she placed in the camera and about her person, letting it drop to the ground. In under this she wore some sort of underclothing, the outer portion of which was a short undershirt. Around this was a long, thin, and very soft, and was wrapped copper wire—scores weighed 20 or 30 pounds. She was very proud of her copper wire—scores and scores of yards of it. It must have been made on a caravan a few months previously. He claimed to have purchased it, but I doubt there having ever been a bill of sale. Any way he gave it to his better half, who treasured it as one of her own women would a diamond tiara—so much so, indeed, that she insisted on wearing it every day.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why the "Bottle Baby" Should Be Fed with Care

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B. M. A., M. D. (John Hopkins University)

EVEN babes know that their health-giving food ought to come from their mother's breast. There alone can be found the pure, undiluted, disease-preventing nourishment.

Unhappily, there are some mothers who, through faulty care and for other reasons, needs must fall back upon some other sustenance than the natural food for their infants.

Then arises the delicate question as to the best artificial means to make up the need for human milk and strong meat. Brown bread and the gospel may be good fare, but not for infants, and even the best substitute for mother's milk may cause infantile catastrophes.

One of the many elements of safety and health in breast milk is the absence of all contact with air, dust, germs and hum. The milk factory into goes direct from the udder of the cow to the mouth of the ultimate consumer.

The breast babe might grate it so that he can't eat it. That's all the first year eats nothing solid nor soft.

But nurses directly and makes his teeth. While loves to eat, he is not to be fed.

Keep Bottles Sterile.

The "bottle baby," on the other hand, is exposed to all of the poisons, microbes and vicissitudes of the space and interval of time which artificial foods or cow's milk require to pass through its journey to the infant's stomach. Only well sterilized bottles, nipples, water and milk, just before the infant drinks it, can save it from infantile diseases and maybe death.

During the first week after birth an infant should be fed every two and one-half hours from a sterilized bottle. Seven feedings daily of from one to two ounces each should suffice. Seven ounces of boiled water, one and a half ounces of cream, one and a half ounces of milk, two small teaspoonsful of sugar and a tablespoonful of lime water will make enough for the seven feedings.

From the second week until the second month many babies thrive beautifully upon seven daily feeds of twice as much boiled water as milk and cream—much boiled water as milk and cream—seven ounces of sugar in such one should answer the call for weight and growth of the infant's fabric.

Twice a month the water should be cut down one half ounce, and a corresponding addition of milk be made.

When the half-year has rounded, twice as much of the milk and cream combination as of barley water are needed for five bottles to be given by the clock every three and one-half hours.

The 28 ounces requires two ounces of lime water and three even teaspoonsful of sugar. A tablespoonful of milk should be added to the whole every two weeks.

If, however, there is evidence of colic or undigested particles of milk appear, should there be any signs of gastric disorders in the little one, the increase in the milk should be postponed. About the sixth month sound, vigorous children can easily take a combination three times as strong in milk as water, with four-hour intervals for nourishment.

Babies about the seventh month may have a tooth. A nibble of sweetened buttered crackers may then be tried. Barley gruel, oatmeal gruel, spinach, orange juice, olive oil and carrot juice are all permissible in the cold seasons of the year, after the ninth month. Never invite danger in the summer by food experiments or even a taste of this or that. Bottle babies are more apt to be overfed than starved. Two or three days' starvation in summer often saves them.

Answers to Health Questions

A. M. G.—How may I use cocoa butter as a massage on the neck in filling out the hollow?

A.—Cocoa butter may be mixed with vaseline to fatten the neck, but is rather a slow process. ...

JOHN—(1) For the last four years I have been troubled with an itchy skin. What do you advise? (2) My face is covered with blackheads and pimples. (3) I want some sort of a salve that I can rub on my face before going to work so as to keep the dirt out of my pores.

A.—(1) One bothered with an oily complexion should avoid all oily, hot, greasy, highly seasoned and starchy foods, soups, sweets, pastries and chocolates. Do not use either soap or cold cream on your face, but instead wash with ice cold water and massage the face with a good peroxide cream. (2) Take three drops of Fowler's arsenic solution after meals three times a day. Dissolve the blackheads out with the following: Glycerine, one teaspoonful; tencolin, one teaspoonful; rose water, one cupful. (3) Try a salve of white precipitate ointment, quince seed jelly and glycerine, two parts each of first two, to one part of the latter. Go into the sunlight and fresh air more and drink lots of fresh milk and cream.

Regulate Baby's Diet.

Now the growing youngster demands a pound or pint of the milk-cream—16 ounces—each day, diluted with an exactly similar amount—16 ounces—of boiled water or barley water.

Six bottles of this daily at three-hour intervals with a little lime water and a level teaspoonful of sugar in such one should answer the call for weight and growth of the infant's fabric.

Twice a month the water should be cut down one half ounce, and a corresponding addition of milk be made.

When the half-year has rounded, twice as much of the milk and cream combination as of barley water are needed for five bottles to be given by the clock every three and one-half hours.

The 28 ounces requires two ounces of lime water and three even teaspoonsful of sugar. A tablespoonful of milk should be added to the whole every two weeks.

Getting Down to Brass Tacks

Appeals to reason and to the public spirit of those who are responsible for the deadlock over the fire department appear to be of no avail. Against public interest and in face of the protests of all sections of the business community the aldermen have wrangled and squabbled until Toronto is the laughing-stock of the province, if not of the Dominion.

We have refrained from mentioning names while again and again stating the cause of the deadlock and the fact of the opposition that exists towards a proper reorganization of the fire department and the elimination of the old political element which seeks only to use the firemen and their influence for party purposes.

No one appears to be willing to take the bull by the horns, but it must be done if the city is not to suffer a calamity. We had hoped that the good sense and public spirit of those concerned would have led them to a compromise before now, but the longer the situation continues the worse it becomes and the more obstinate grow the factions.

These factions consist of two parties, neither of them strong enough to elect their man, but always willing to unite to kill any third and independent candidate. The stronger of the two has been engineered by "Captain" William Crawford, formerly of Berkeley Street Fire Hall, and now in the service of the Ontario Government.

His party, which enjoys the support of The Toronto Evening Telegram, desires the appointment of the present acting chief, William Smith. The other party is led by Ald. David Spence, who himself aspires to the position, and has resigned, but has not yet been placed beyond the pale of the council.

If either of these parties would consent to consider the public interest before their own aims, the whole muddle could be settled in a week or less. The obstinacy that has lasted these all these months is more fixed and frozen than ever and shows no sign of yielding or breaking up.

We do not believe the gentlemen we have named are aware of the seriousness of the situation they have created. It frequently happens in democratic countries that small local or personal affairs interfere with the welfare of the whole community. The Welsh miners, for example, do not care if the British Empire goes to pieces provided they can carry their point. It is very much the same in Toronto in connection with the fire hall wrangle. These men are not unreasonable. They do not want to ruin Toronto. But, like the Welsh miners, they'll be hanged if they won't let the other fellow get ahead of them.

It is a pity they do not let their good sense and reason prevail and end the business. There is no need to impute motives or to denounce anybody. It is a rather sorry fact that in which the city suffers more than anyone else. The party with which these gentlemen are connected is too big and strong to need the assistance they imagine their views would secure. In fact, the cleaner and more independent the party is the stronger it will be and the more respect it will gain from the citizens generally.

Those who have influence and weight among the factionists should take the larger and wiser course and get together and end the unseemly bickering. It is unworthy of them and of Toronto.

A Neutral View of the War

Little over a month ago, Mr. A. G. Gardner, editor of The London Daily News, met a distinguished citizen of a neutral country who had just then returned from a visit to Germany and France, and whose sympathies were entirely with the allies. During his residence in these countries he had interviews with representative public men from cabinet ministers to Socialist leaders, his main purpose being to discover, if possible, whether there was any approximation to a settlement in the respective national minds. He found, however, little ground for hope to feed on as yet. "Even among the Socialists," he is quoted as saying,

"the advance to common ground is hardly measurable. The internationalism for the time being has broken down. It is true that the opposition of the German Socialists to the origin, conduct and aims of the war has become more definite and open."

This neutral observer thinks that a real fissure is developing in German opinion over the question of annexation. This, to those who believe that the allies will succeed in their endeavor to crush Prussian militarism, appears at this stage of the war to be rather an academic than a practical subject of discussion. But it is still interesting to learn, that apart from the Socialists who are absolutely against the annexation of Belgium a division of view is in evidence among the governing class. The point at issue in the latter case is whether Belgium should be incorporated in the German Empire or included in a commercial union. German subtly may see something to discuss in these alternatives—outsiders can only regard them as practically identical. We are told, however, that the main divergence in French and German opinion is over Alsace-Lorraine. French Socialists are just as determined to recover the territory lost in 1870 as German Socialists are to retain it.

At the end of his journey, this observer found his hope of an early close of the war seriously diminished. The German people do not yet realize that their military despotism has failed, and not till then will they turn to the old democratic movement from which the "evil genius of Bismarck" diverted them. They still believe the fable astiduously propagated by the war party that they were being encircled by a ring of enemies and that they are now fighting, not only for their own liberties, but for the liberties of Europe. To the mind of this neutral traveler, this war must end with the overthrow of the Prussian military system if there is to be a free, democratic Germany, but the defeat must not be followed by terms which make for a revengeful Germany. It is, however, too soon to speculate on what the attitude of the German people will be when they begin to realize the extent to which they will have been duped. Only the result will show whether they can be severed from the system which has led them into the abyss.

West Atlantic Fisheries
Not without importance is the announcement that immature herring, identical with the best Scotch variety, have been found in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and off the Nova Scotia coast by the biological board. On the surface it appears reasonable to believe that this valuable fish should be quite plentiful in the waters surrounding Newfoundland and off the Canadian and Labrador coasts as it is in British waters and in the North Sea. The movements or migrations of the herring are, however, still imperfectly understood and are much of a mystery even to the most experienced fishermen. If they take kindly to the western Atlantic and with their extraordinary fecundity the fisheries of Newfoundland and Canada may some day equal or surpass those of the British Isles.

This discovery recalls attention to the interim report on Newfoundland submitted some months ago by the Dominion Royal Commission, now being circulated by the Dominion Government. In the section dealing with the fishing industry, the commissioners reflect on the future of the Newfoundland Government to give its scientific development constant and close consideration, and put forward two proposals concerning this. The first is that in future scientific investigation might be usefully undertaken jointly by the governments of Canada and Newfoundland, and should be extended to the waters of Newfoundland, Labrador and the Banks. The second is that in the Labrador fishery grounds the Imperial government should cooperate.

The fishing industry is of great importance to the western British states, and the commissioners point out that in his report for 1912 the deputy minister of marine and fisheries for the Dominion impressed upon the government the importance of a scientific information bureau. The Dominion has indeed already established three stations for the investigation of fishery problems, one of which is situated in New Brunswick. It may be difficult for the Newfoundland Government unaided to conduct a complete survey of its fishery grounds, valuable as that would be to the cod fishery, which accounts for no less than 78 per cent. of the total exports of fish, and to other branches of the fisheries. But in conjunction with Canada and with the assistance of the Imperial authorities this very necessary and advisable work might be accomplished with profitable results. It is one of the considerations making for the entry of Newfoundland into the Dominion.

New Zealand's Aid
None of the British dominions has done better than New Zealand in support of the allied cause. With a white population of slightly more than a million, the little Dominion has already sent away close to 20,000 men and recently despatched its fourth contingent, 2000 strong. The fifth and sixth reinforcements, numbering 4000 men, are now in training, and recruiting for New Zealand is highly creditable to the patriotism of this far distant outpost of the empire. Mention, too, deserves to be made of the remarkable loyalty displayed by the Maoris, the original New Zealanders—for and away the finest of the native races encountered by the pioneer colonists from the motherland. They, too, are represented in Gallipoli and are doing their duty right worthily and well.

In a despatch to Lord Liverpool, the governor of the Dominion, Sir Ian Hamilton, commanding the Dominion forces, wrote of the New Zealand troops: "May I, speaking out of my full heart, be permitted to say how gloriously the Australian and New Zealand contingents upheld the finest traditions of our race during this struggle which is still in progress, at first with audacity and dash and then with steepl valor and untiring resource. They have already created for their country an imperishable record of military virtue." From no part of the empire will come a more hearty, generous appreciation of Gen. Hamilton's tribute than from Canada, whose soldiers in France and Flanders have also brought to their country an imperishable crown.

Coaxing Them to Try a Little
Finance Minister White reminds the banks that they can rediscunt their paper with him and get national currency. He thinks they can, in this way, help the farmers who may have to hold their wheat for a long time. But he does not recommend his remedy with much faith or enthusiasm. The banks are almost coaxed to try a little of it, the minister says, in effect, or keep on taking it long.

Mr. Lloyd George was not apologetic when he issued his note as Chancellor and Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Adoo ladies out his currency to the United States banks in heroic doses. Neither of these statesmen coaxes the banks to take national currency as an indulgent mother coaxes a spoiled child to take a much needed dose of castor oil.

If Mr. White were an Indian he might be christened "Man-Afraid-of-His-Horse." He has no great faith in his own medicine. Probably his patients, the banks, have less.

Historic Place in Old Montreal
Paul Chomey De Maisonneuve, one of the founders of French Canada, took possession of what is now the City of Montreal on October 14, 1642, and was declared its governor. Returning to Quebec he passed the winter there with his colonists, forty men and four women. Among the latter was Madeleine Jeanne de Mance, who in May of the following year accompanied Maisonneuve to Montreal, where he landed on May 18.

Mlle de Mance and Madame de la Petrie having decorated an altar, mass was celebrated, and on the same evening Maisonneuve, guided by two old Indians, ascended the mountain, and from the summit surveyed the surrounding country. In 1644 Mlle. de Mance was instrumental in building the first Hotel Dieu on land at the corner of St. Paul and St. Sulpice streets in the present city. This corner is one of the most historic and interesting places in old Montreal.

Five years ago after purchasing part of this land the "Salada" Tea Company erected on the corner site one of the finest tea packing establishments in the world. Inside the building everything is of nickel. Returning to cleanliness is essential to maintain the "Salada" quality. There has just been erected by the company in the building, under the auspices of the Antiquarian and Numismatic Society a bronze tablet commemorating its connection with the first Hotel Dieu.

THAT RECRUITING SIGN
Editor World: I have read with much interest the various criticisms appearing in your paper, relative to the recruiting sign erected by my company at the base of the South African memorial, University avenue and feel that perhaps the actual facts would be of interest.

When it was first suggested to me that a recruiting sign at this particular spot would be of the greatest possible advantage to the army, I only one block from the armories, and at one of the most congested parts of the city, I immediately communicated with the board of control and offered to have a sign of this description erected there, the expense of the same being borne by the E. L. Eddy Company. Not only was the consent unhesitatingly given, and the suggestion endorsed both by Mayor Church and the parks commissioner, but a building permit was also issued by the city architect.

In erecting this recruiting sign at the base of a war memorial, we are simply following the example of the parliamentary recruiting committee of London, England, who have a similar sign placed on the famous Nelson monument, Trafalgar Square, which has achieved the most wonderful patriotic results.
The subject matter was copied exactly from the English poster selected by the parliamentary recruiting committee, as the most successful of any poster they have published.
In conclusion, I wish to assure you that the erection of this sign was inspired by the most patriotic motives, and solely in the interests of the public. Our entire postering plant has been and is at the service of the several recruiting committees without any compensation to us whatever.

When it was first suggested to me that a recruiting sign at this particular spot would be of the greatest possible advantage to the army, I only one block from the armories, and at one of the most congested parts of the city, I immediately communicated with the board of control and offered to have a sign of this description erected there, the expense of the same being borne by the E. L. Eddy Company. Not only was the consent unhesitatingly given, and the suggestion endorsed both by Mayor Church and the parks commissioner, but a building permit was also issued by the city architect.

In erecting this recruiting sign at the base of a war memorial, we are simply following the example of the parliamentary recruiting committee of London, England, who have a similar sign placed on the famous Nelson monument, Trafalgar Square, which has achieved the most wonderful patriotic results.
The subject matter was copied exactly from the English poster selected by the parliamentary recruiting committee, as the most successful of any poster they have published.
In conclusion, I wish to assure you that the erection of this sign was inspired by the most patriotic motives, and solely in the interests of the public. Our entire postering plant has been and is at the service of the several recruiting committees without any compensation to us whatever.
E. L. Ruddy.

MAIL FOR NORWAY
"OPENED BY MISTAKE"
Letters Have Been Forwarded, Says Norwegian Minister at Berlin.

BERLIN, Aug. 27, via Wireless to Toronto.—The Overseas News Agency today says: "The Norwegian minister at Berlin has wired his government that all the mail carried by the steamer Haakon VII, is already on the way to Norway. The mail pouches were opened and search made for contraband letters."

Despatches from Christiania late last week told of the halting of the Norwegian mail steamer Haakon VII, bound from Bergen to England, and the seizure of mails on board by a German submarine. The incident was followed, it was stated, by a protest to Berlin and a demand for the return of the mail to Norway.

GOT THREE YEARS IN PEN FOR PICKING POCKETS
CORNWALL, Aug. 27.—George Homer, arrested here for picking the pockets of Alex. J. McIntosh of about $160, was today sentenced to three years in Kingston Penitentiary by Police Magistrate Dwyer. As a result of finger impressions the prisoner was sent to Montreal and Ottawa by Chief Smyth. It was learned that the man's real name was Gus Lambert of Montreal, and that he had a bad record in the metropolis.

ACTING CHIEF SMITH MAY GET NOMINATION
Possibility of His Name Coming Before Council as Nominee of Controllers.

Acting Chief Smith may yet come before the city council as nominee of the board of control for the position of fire fighting chief, the board's recommendation that the motion to appoint a commissioner be rescinded making this possible.

The suggestion of Ald. Singer that Clement Driscoll of the New York Bureau of Municipal Research be brought here for a time is meeting with considerable favor among the aldermen, and it may be that council will adopt this proposal to get the matter settled.

It will be thoroughly equipped with modern office appliances, and ready for occupation by next season. The location is between Roston road and Shaw street, and the whole building can readily be seen from College street. Classes for this season will open on Thursday, Sept. 2, on Clinton street, north of College street.

BASE BATTALION HAS BEEN FORMED

New Scheme in Operation Monday Absorbs Attested Soldiers.

ISSUE OF EQUIPMENT
Uniforms and Outfits for Ninety - Second Expected Soon.

A new Toronto base battalion has been formed which will take the burden of training men of the city regiments and will allow them to devote all their time to recruiting. The new scheme will be put into operation on Monday, and it will absorb all the men in Toronto who have been attested and who have not been sworn into any battalion.

Capt. A. E. Gooderham, jr., has been placed in charge of the new battalion, and the organization will be under the control of the central recruiting depot. A number of qualified officers of the University O.T.C. and other city regiments have offered their services free of charge to drill the recruits.

It is not intended that the men will lose their identity as members of the regiments by which they were recruited, as they will report to their regimental officers each morning and afternoon before drill.

The issue of uniforms and equipment for the men of the 92nd Battalion is expected next week. The boots for the battalion have arrived and are ready for distribution. The recruiting for the Highland Battalion is proceeding very satisfactorily, according to the officers in charge. There are less than 100 men needed to complete the 48th quota.

Chisholm was at Niagara yesterday looking over the ground which the corps will occupy when it goes under canvas.

Boots are needed for the recruits who have worn their shoes out on the parade grounds south of the armories, and the officers of several of the local units state that they would appreciate the gift of shoes in a reasonable state of repair.

Horse have been needed for over 20 men who are in need of shoes, and with the temporary shortage there is a chance of getting a supply from the ordnance stores at present in a bugle band is being fitted out by Col. and Mrs. W. C. Macdonald for the 92nd Battalion.

BIG CITIZEN ARMY IS NEEDED BY U. S.

Governor Dunne of Illinois Points Out Perils of Situation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Gov. Dunne, of Illinois, set forth in a startling manner the unpreparedness of the United States to go to war with any of the six great nations at the meeting of governors today.

"The army of the United States consists but one man in each thousand of the six great nations," he said, "while in the British army there are 17 soldiers to each 1,000 inhabitants; in Russia, 23 to each 1,000 inhabitants; in France, 34 to each 1,000 inhabitants; in Germany 51 to each 1,000 inhabitants; and in Italy 57 to each 1,000 inhabitants."

"As to whether our army should be increased at least for defensive purposes, there does not seem to be much doubt among thoughtful men. The increase must be in the nature of standing army or in citizen soldiers is a question about which there is room for legitimate debate."

Need Citizens Soldiers.
"If we were declared against this country by one of the six great nations in Europe, it must be conceded to the United States in its present condition of land and naval forces would be in a sorry predicament."

A Gov. Dunne stated there should be a body of citizen soldiers aggregating at least 2,000,000, and asserted it can be accomplished by the adoption of two measures: First, by requiring every college and university in the United States which receives from any state or from the federal government any support of appropriation of money, to give a military training to its students during the four years of their university or college course. Second, for the federal government to make more liberal appropriation for the maintenance of the state militia.

Construction Work is Progressing Favorably, and Will Be Ready Next Season.

The construction of the new high school of commerce is progressing rapidly; the exterior is about completed, and the work on the interior is well under way. COMMITTEE REFUSED TO REPEAL BYLAW Supply of Water to Residents Outside City Limits Was Discussed.

Ald. David Spence, whose resignation has not yet been accepted by council, was not in his usual place as chairman at the regular meeting of the works committee yesterday, and the work proceeded under the direction of Ald. Walton, who has been made temporary chairman.

Because the work cost only $11.80, and he was charged $20.92, Frank Magauran objected to paying for the private drain installed at his house on Erie terrace. The work was done under the contract system, and $20.92 is the fixed charge. Under the day labor system drains of this kind cost from $27 to $45.

The committee refused to repeal the bylaw regarding the supply of water to residents outside the city limits. A recommendation that Yonge street be paved between Summerhill and Farnham avenues was struck out and will be held over until the railway difficulty is settled.

ARRAY OF DISPLAYS GREATER THAN EVER

Unique Year in History of Exhibition About to Open.

TROPHIES OF BATTLES

Utmost Interest Centres Around Relics From Scene of War.

There is probably a greater variety of exhibits at the Canadian National Exhibition this year than there has ever been before.

Probably the most pathetic thing on view is the crucifix which was found beside a dead priest in Belgium. It bears testimony to the brave clergy who did not desert even though the enemy was close by.

There are the trench tools, various trinkets have been fixed. In the far corner is a fragment of soil which was dropped at Dunkirk. It weighs ten pounds, and the missile as a whole weighed over a ton.

But all is not of war. A trip to the transportation building discloses the fact that a new scheme of decoration for the building has been distinguished and here will be seen the latest devices in modern transportation.

Stand to Be Taken Expected to Be Severe in View of Precedent.

Placed by the biggest question yet acted upon by the Ontario License Commission, the commissioners will, on Tuesday for action the course to be adopted regarding the regulation of the liquor trade in Toronto during the military training of the 20,000 troops here, commencing in October.

The claim is made that nearly 1,000 volunteers were struck off the rolls at the Toronto camp last winter on account of excessive drinking.

Mostly For Men—Today at Simpson's

TODAY sees the opening of Canada's National Exhibition of her industries and those of friendly countries.

A year ago at Exhibition time business had hardly recovered from the first shock of the war.

During the year Canada has won for herself first place in the affections of the Motherland, conspicuous prominence in the eyes of Britain's allies, and the respect of Britain's enemies.

Exhibition is a fitting time to reiterate this store's policy:

"CANADA FIRST, BUT NOT EXCLUSIVELY."

Day by day our store news will tell of goods made in Canada—made by loyal manufacturers to keep loyal workmen employed. Their output will be distributed by this store

CLOSE TO COST OF PRODUCTION

Day by day our store news will include the products of Britain and her allies; English goods, Irish goods, Scotch goods, French goods, Italian goods, Russian goods and Japanese goods. These are new importations for this Exhibition trade. These are importations on which war taxes have been collected, making it possible for our Canadian Government to rally Canadian soldiers to the old flag. Customers may rely on obtaining these goods here at the
