Edinburgh, July 3.—Sir Charles Henry Ross, of Balmagrow Castle, whose suit for divorce against his wife, Lady Winifred Ross, on the ground of adultery, was decided in her favor on June 12, his countersuit being rejected, has been granted permission in the first division of the court of sessions here to appeal against the decision. His appeal will be heard on Thursday next.

WENT TO THE BOTTOM.

Calcutta, July 3.—The British bark Overdale (Capt. Roberts), bound for Southampton, came into collision with the steamer Paduan, off Hooghly Point, near the mouth of the westernmost branch of the Ganges, and sank almost immediately. All on board were drowned except the captain, the pilot and one seaman.

ROYALTY AT A SWIMMING CONTEST.

London, July 3.—The Duke and Duchess of York witnessed the amateur mile swimming championship contest in the West India docks on Saturday. The competitors included Hart, Soron, Tooper and Stratton, respectively the champions of America, Belgium, Germany and New Zealand, and a small number of Englishmen. Jarvis, the Midlands (England) champion, won by 20 yards. His assistance, and was in turn lowered into the well. He also dropped off. Then Moore called James Carroll, and the latter volunteered to go down to the rescue of the other two, who had fallen to the bottom, but the same fate befell him. Neighbors were then called, but no one was allowed to go into the well, as in lowering a lantern the light was extinguished and a depth of twelve feet by the dense fog which had suffocated the three unfortunate men. None of the men spoke after falling from the rope, but Carroll cried out just before he fell that he was choking. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

Beattie hails from Palmerston, Ont.

The heaviest loss was sustained by Wm. Habbler, who will lose about $40,000.

OTHER PARTS OF MICHIGAN.

St. Louis—Saturday was the hottest in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. The thermometer averaged 100 in the shade and several cases of prostration are reported.

Marquette—The weather was extremely hot. The thermometer registered 90 in the shade. One woman was overcome by the heat.

Willow—Friday and Saturday were the hottest days known here in July for years, the thermometer registering 100 degrees.

St. Clair—Some places in town the thermometer registered 95, and at the same time the thermometer in the river 80 degrees was the maximum.

Bloomington—A great deal of sickness and some slight prostrations are being reported here, on account of the excessive heat, immediately following a heavy rain, causing the moisture to rise in the air and escape in a disagreeable manner.

Bay City—Saturday was the hottest day of the season. At 3:30 p.m. the thermometer indicated 96 in the shade, and at 4:15 it had gone up to the 100 mark. The hottest it has been in many years. There were a few cases of persons being overcome by the heat, the worst being that of Fred A. Furger, a grocery delivery man. He had to be carried home and placed under the doctors' care. Several horses fell on the streets, one dying.

FATAL SUNSTROKE.

Flint—Here, as in numerous other Michigan cities, of accidents and illnesses, Saturday was observed as a holiday in place of the 4th of July. The day was a sweltering hot one, the thermometer registering 100 in the shade. Notwithstanding this terrific heat, the national holiday was observed with considerable fervor. The city was nearly decorated for its great celebration, and the national colors were in evidence upon every hand.

IN GERMANY.

Berlin, July 3.—There has been an unusual number of accidents and deaths from sunstroke at the army maneuvers, and field exercises at various points, owing to the intense heat of the past week. At the inspection parade of the Fourth Infantry brigade of soldiers, 50 men were killed, one regiment, were sunstruck, 32 were disabled on a similar occasion at Stettin. 48 collapsed at Mayence, and one overcame at Posen and 19 were sunstruck at Bismarck. Many sufferers subsequently died.

FIFTEEN SUNSTROKES.

Cincinnati, July 3.—At noon Saturday the thermometer here recorded 98 in the shade. There were fifteen sunstrokes reported, among them being H. P. Boyden, city auditor-elect, and Tribune. He is not seriously affected.

Four of the sunstroke cases are serious. Policeman Kussman is raving in delirium from the effects of the heat. Several horses dropped dead in the streets.

AT LOUISVILLE, KY.

Louisville, Ky., July 3.—An even 100 degrees in the shade is what Observer Frank Burk read when, on his thermometer, he made his observation at 12:30 Saturday afternoon. Ten minutes later it had dropped to 98, where it remained for an hour, a gradual drop following. This breaks all records for years. There are a dozen or more prostrations, but so far none have resulted fatally.

TWO DEATHS.

Pittsburg, July 3.—Two deaths and a number of prostrations from heat were reported Saturday. It was the hottest day of the year, the thermometer registering 91-2-10 at noon.

FATAL SUNSTROKE.

Chicago, July 3.—Four cases of sunstroke, one fatal, were reported here. The death was that of an unknown man in a cheap lodging house. The temperature reached 94.

AT TORONTO.

Toronto, Ont., July 3.—Intensely hot weather prevailed here yesterday, the maximum thermometer reading being 92 degrees in the shade, at many points down town thermometers stood within one or two degrees of the century.

TWO FATALITIES.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 3.—The heat here yesterday was most intense, the temperature reaching 97 degrees. Two fatalities occurred and several other prostrations.

FOURTEEN DEATHS.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 3.—Full investigation up to 1 o'clock this morning, July 4, shows that there were 14 deaths from heat here in the last 24 hours.

MELTED THE AUTOMATIC FIRE-PLUGS.

Detroit, Mich., July 3.—The extreme heat beating down through a skylight yesterday afternoon caused the blowing out of two automatic fire-plugs. The solvent of the plugs was melted, flowing down through the building, damaging the drygoods stock of Burnham, Scott & Co. and the clothing stock of the Peerless Manufacturing Company to the extent of nearly $10,000. The fire-plugs were set to escape at a temperature of 130 degrees.

DEATHS AT MANY POINTS.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 3.—Specials from Ohio points report the extreme heat of yesterday followed by many prostrations from the heat yesterday, five of them resulting fatally.

OYOLONE AND DELUGE.

A Woman Killed at Rapid City—Duluth Seriously Damaged by Flood.

Winnipeg, July 3.—Mrs. Mattice, a widow who lived alone, was killed yesterday in the cyclone that passed over the Rapid City district. The roof of her house fell on her. Damage was done to the crops by hail.

Duluth, Minn., July 3.—The worst storm Duluth has ever known visited here Friday night and Saturday morning. Several small houses on the lake shore at the mouth of the river were carried out into the lake, but no lives were lost. A large number of horses and cows were drowned. The power-house of the street railway was ruined, and all traffic shut off for a time. Lincoln Park was completely washed away and Cascades Park almost ruined. Traffic on the railroad around Duluth is blocked.

IN DETROIT.

Detroit, July 3.—Saturday was the hottest day of the season by several degrees, and in all parts of the city, notably the down-town districts where the rays of the sun were beating down on the pavements and seeming warmed still more by the contact, everybody suffered in proportion, and it not been for a breeze blowing all day a number of casualties would have occurred. In some of the public buildings it was almost impossible to do any business owing to the intensity of the heat.

At L. Black & Co.'s store on Woodward avenue, at 1:15 in the afternoon, the thermometer registered 120 in the shade, and at 5 o'clock in the afternoon had reached 96 in the shade. For the street these figures indicate prevailing conditions. In some places the highest temperature recorded was 94, but it is probable that in the sun, where many persons were obliged to be during the greater part of the day, the heat was from 95 to 125 degrees at different times.

The heat extended all through the southern Ohio region, according to the weather office figures, through the Mississippi Valley, Missouri and Ohio, the temperature averaging about 80 degrees in all this territory. Southerly winds prevailed with no signs of a change. Conditions suggestive of thunder storms were prevalent at Duluth, Minn., a remarkable heavy storm took place Saturday morning, during which 4.08 inches of rain fell.

On Events in Europe -- Commoners and Their Families Pay a Special Visit to the Queen--A Snub for Mr. Balfour.

Japan Seeks British Alliance--The Outburst in India--Tornado in England--The Lambeth Conference of Bishops.

London, July 5.—Four hundred and fifty members of the House of Commons, accompanied by their wives and daughters, making a total of a thousand persons, went to Windsor on Saturday to visit the Queen, in response to the invitation extended by her Majesty after she had learned of the unceremonious treatment accorded the members when they attended the special session of the House at Buckingham Palace to present a jubilee address to her. The party were conveyed in special trains at no cost to themselves, and were taken in carriages from the Windsor station to the castle. Marquess had been erected on the lawn, in which champagne, tea and strawberries were served to the visitors. The Queen, attended by Princess Beatrice, both attired in black, drove slowly in a phaeton, drawn by two grey ponies, about the grounds, where her guests were assembled. The leaders of both political parties—Mr. Balfour, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Sir William Anson, Mr. Asquith and Mr. Herbert Asquith—accompanied her Majesty on foot. They summoned the individual members to the side of the carriage, where they made obeisance to the Queen.

Among those presented to her Majesty were Messrs. Rickard and Abraham, the labor leaders, Sir Charles Dilke, the Radical leader, was also present. The courtesy in London was fully canceled, by the graciousness of the reception at Windsor. The manner in which the Queen conveyed her regrets to the House of Commons contained a startling intimation to British statesmen. Ever, has a sovereign found it necessary to tell the legislature that she heard her guests were assembled. The English press is quite delighted and proud of the jubilee cachet and honor imparted to "the fourth estate," while many members of the house are chafing at the slight at the snub thereby administered to Mr. Balfour, who treated with such philosophic contempt the consultation made to him on the subject. The legislators hint that the first lord of the treasury, in his laziness when off the golf links, might save himself the trouble of his night letter report to the house, and substitute instead a special edition of some evening paper. This might be worked out for the difficulty of fixing the organ to be so distinguished.

THE LAMBETH CONFERENCE.

Two hundred of the bishops, who are in attendance at the Lambeth Conference, visited Canterbury Saturday, and after a short service in St. Martin's, the oldest parish church in England, attended an imposing ceremony in the cathedral, which was present the officials of many of the English towns, representatives from the bishops of the garrison and many American visitors. The colored bishops of the Niger and Zambesi dioceses, who were present, were seated in the front of the choir. Several American bishops preached in London yesterday—Bishop Potter, of New York, at Westminster Abbey; the Bishop of Albany and Iowa at St. Paul's Cathedral, and others elsewhere. All dwell upon the need of real growth in religion and the feeling on both sides of the Atlantic.

JAPAN WANTS BRITISH BACKING.

One of the most important political incidents connected with the jubilee concerns the relations between Great Britain and Japan. The latter country, since her war with China, has assumed all the dignity and prerogatives of a great power. Now, with proud humility, she confesses that she is a vassal of the British Empire. Great Britain, this government has been repeatedly approached during the past year with a view to the conclusion of an Anglo-Japanese alliance. The matter was discussed at an interview of the mikado's jubilee envoy with Lord Salisbury Monday, and there is good reason to believe that he has arrived at an understanding with Japan which would be converted into an actual defensive and offensive alliance should trouble occur between England and Russia, which might happen at any moment.

THE ANTI-BRITISH FEELING IN INDIA.

The outbreak of anti-English feeling in the native press both of Bengal and Bombay for months past has had the outcome which might be expected in the outrages at Poonah and the rioting at Chitpore. There is no doubt that the immediate cause of the outbreak is the energy with which the local authorities have been stamping out the seditious interference with social relations, customs and traditions of the natives; but the cause of the outbreak is the energy with which the local authorities have been stamping out the seditious interference with social relations, customs and traditions of the natives; but the cause of the outbreak is the energy with which the local authorities have been stamping out the seditious interference with social relations, customs and traditions of the natives.

TORNADO IN ENGLAND.

The appalling havoc of the recent tropical tornado and hail storm in Essex county has attracted much attention. The storm covered an unprecedented area of 160 square miles, and practically denuded the crops. All kinds of stock were doomed, farm houses were wrecked and hundreds of lives were lost. The damage to the crops was estimated at £2,000,000. Hailstones penetrated slates, tiles and corrugated iron, and killed thousands of head of game. One stone picked up measures 6 1/2 inches in circumference. Heavy machinery was washed away by the floods, and brought to a standstill. Parliament has taken up the question of the relief of the sufferers, and it is probable that the lord mayor of London will open a fund to relieve the suffering farmers.

THE FAMOUS MAZARIN, OR GUTENBERG.

The famous Mazarin, or Gutenberg Bible, on vellum, which sold the other day for £4,000 ($20,000), was printed by Gutenberg about 1455, and is now in two volumes, bound in vellum, and was for many years one of the rarest books in the world. It is now in the possession of the British Museum. The value consists in its being the earliest printed book, and in its being the first printed book of any size. It derives the name from a copy having been found in the library of Cardinal Mazarin. It is printed in large Gothic letters resembling manuscript, double-column pages. There are twenty copies now known to be in existence.

PRINCE OF WALES AND HIS FAMILY

A Dutiful Son, a Loving Husband and a Devoted Father.

In the July Ladies' Home Journal George W. Smalley writes interestingly of "The Personal Side of the Prince of Wales." "The domestic relations of the prince," he says, "are not a topic for free discussion, but at least one may say that one source of the general regard for him is his bearing both to the Queen and the Princess of Wales in public. Numerous public occasions have presented the prince in an attitude of affectionate deference to the Queen which is plainly no matter of decorum merely, but personal—the son to the mother; and when the princess was present—the husband to the wife.

"Those who know will tell you how deeply has been the devotion of the father to his children from their infancy and youth, when the prince used to be in the nursery early each morning, down to their present maturity. A word may be said also of the prince's affection for the Princess of Wales, who has so narrowly missed her death three months, one of the greatest imperial thrones in the world. It was necessary to Hamburg which was the cause of the prince's affection for his brother the duke of York. He was constantly at the old Schloss, where he had his private apartments, and he was always in the prince's villa, always in front of the prince's villa.

"MAN UNDER THE BED"

So Exclaimed a New York Lady, and It Turned Out That She Was Right.

The mattress moved. "Well, now, that's funny," said Mr. Di Costa to his wife. "Maybe there's a man under the bed," suggested Mrs. Di Costa. Mr. Di Costa sprang from the bed, turned on the gas, pulled out his recumbent, under the bed, and the man began to crawl out from beneath the bed.

A COOL SCOT.

Mr. McGregor, a Scot, who resides in San Francisco, is said by an exchange to be one of the most argumentative of men, and one of the calmest. Early one morning, as he was returning home, he was addressed by a man who emphasized his words with a pistol. "Throw up your hands!" "Why?" asked Mr. McGregor calmly. "Throw them up!" "But what for?" "Put up your hands!" insisted the footpad, shaking his pistol. "Will you do what I tell you?" "If you can show me any reason why I should put up my hands, I'll do it," said Mr. McGregor. "If you can show me any reason why I should put up my hands, I'll do it," said Mr. McGregor.

We gave him the Blood and Debility Cures, and in a short time the change for the better was marvelous. He is now enjoying splendid health. I use nothing but Munyon's Remedies now and have great faith in them.

A Lover's GERALDINE Romance.

Warrington Hall sank into its old gloom on the day when its master and his guilty wife died within its walls. Lindsey Fielding was too much overcome by the horrible end of his accomplice to make any attempt at flight; and, upon a promise of pardon, freely offered by the man he had done so much to injure, he confessed that, upon discovering that the James O'Way imposture was the work of a villain, he had formed a plot with him to trade upon the fact. It was with him that he had devised by which the felon James O'Way, by hiding his face, as if in shame-faced contrition, when Mr. Massey visited him in prison, had passed himself off as the old lawyer as his innocent namesake. He then traced the Good Hope, where he was living under the name of Harry Hammond, having resolved never to return to his unhappy family. The reason of Sir Charles' constant aversion to the boy was alleged by Mr. Massey to have been the open satisfaction shown by his father, Sir Charles' brother, at the loss of his peasant-wife, Kathleen, whose story had come to his ears.

The innocent young James O'Way had married a pretty young English girl of volatile manners, who had come out to the Cape as a governess; Lindsey fell in love with her, and when he found that her husband, though weak and easily led, had ideas of honor which he hated the hope of making a bargain with him for information concerning a nearer heir to the title, he induced the slightly little creature to run away with him. It was while smarting under the loss of his wife, of whom he was then in the habit of thinking, that James had met Lindsey on his unexpected return to the hall on the night of his under the death. At that event, James had again gone out to the Cape, under the advice of his treacherous namesake, who had promised to get him out of the way. He there discovered that the girl he had married, young as she was, was the wife of another man at the time; he learned later that, this first husband being now dead, Lindsey had married her on his return to England.

Lindsey disclaimed all participation in his accomplice's attempt to murder James. And, as the latter was inclined to believe him on this point, the unlucky conspirator received forgiveness and a small sum of money to help him back to the Cape with his wife, with an intimation that his reappearance on the shores of his native land would be ill-received.

James' innocence being now clearly established, he had no difficulty in obtaining undisputed possession of the Warrington estate; but the hall, now inhabited solely by his two old sons, the younger of whom had sunk suddenly into cretinism, insignificant, owing to the loss of his wife, and the year following Captain Morrison's death, which Geraldine spent in complete seclusion with some relatives, his late husband, James went abroad, and few tidings of him reached his friends in England.

Geraldine visited Warrington every month, to stand by her husband's grave, to pay dreary, penitential calls upon her two old aunts, and to see the poor old housekeeper, who was now sinking rapidly into childlike stupidity. It was early in the new year, some thirteen months after Captain Morrison's death, that, on one of these periodic visits, Reginald Bamber again proposed to her. She received this second offer from him with a smile, but she had the same—indeed, she was rather shocked, and expressed her very firm conviction that it was not a right thing to marry again.

She was extremely sorry to have to wound his feelings after such a display of constancy; but, when on her next visit to Warrington, a month afterwards, she learned that he was engaged to the wealthy but plain daughter of a retired tea merchant, who had taken Admiral Stanhope's house for the summer she could not help a slight feeling of disappointment and mortification. But Elizabeth told her that she had had, six weeks before, an opportunity of a brilliant opening in Boston which demanded capital to start with, and expressed her opinion that the young man's choice was a very sensible one.

one, Geraldine agreed, but was wounded again.
"Six weeks ago," she thought to herself, "and it is nearly five weeks since I said good-bye to me."
She had been left very well off by her husband; but she could not compete in point of wealth with the tea merchant's daughter; therefore she ought to have felt flattered that a man every way so estimable as Reginald Bamber could have given her the preference.

"I suppose you have heard that James has come back?" continued Elizabeth.
"No, I had not. When did he come?" asked Geraldine, without showing any particular interest.
"Only last night," he went away again this morning," he told him you were coming here today; but he said he didn't suppose you had any wish to see him, and he had business in town."

"Very civil of him, certainly! I dare say widows are not lively enough so-called for him."
When she rose to take leave, she remembered that she had not paid her usual visit to the conservatory, where her old friends the flowers were not quite so carefully tended as during her reign at Warrington. She went by herself, for Elizabeth, who had aged lately, was now as much averse to exertion as the threshold, for in her old American chair sat James O'Way. He was looking up and shook hands with her cheerfully.

"How are you? So glad to see you! Think I should be back in time to say 'How do you do?' before you went."
"I'm very glad to see you. I hear you arrived only last night. Where did you come from?"
"From Paris, I said."

Geraldine, after a few further remarks, turned back toward the dining-room, expecting him to take the natural course of accompanying her to the entrance. But he did nothing of the kind. She did not hear his footsteps following her, and was indignant at this strange lack of courtesy. At last, most unwillingly, she looked around when she was back across the room, and saw that his hands were pressed tightly in each other, and that he was watching her with an expression which moved her out of her composure. She came back slowly to the conservatory door, and, after a moment's hesitation, she said: "Good-bye!"

But he sprang forward and held her fast with his arms round her waist.
"No, no, Delude! Don't say that—for heaven's sake, don't! I love you so!"
"James, James, how can you ask me? Don't you know—don't you know? I went to Havre, when I have not thought more about you than about anyone in the world, since I first met me, James—I have loved you more than I ought!"

"Yes, yes, I will be my wife, Delude, as you promised twenty years ago."
"Yes, yes, twenty years after his first proposal, James O'Way gained the wife, and he had carried off to Warrington, which he had abandoned of three years ago; and the Delude who had been his boyhood and rescued him from the danger of his manhood, his good fairy still."

[The End.]

A Matter of Justice

Is the Way a Young Lady of New Brunswick Views It.

Suffered From Headaches, Pain in the Side and Heart Palpitation—She Thinks Similar Sufferers Should Know How She Found a Cure.

From the Frederick Gleaner.
Miss Alma Miller, of Upper Southampton, N.E., is a daughter of Mr. Ezra Miller, a wealthy and influential farmer, and the young lady is a general favorite among a wide circle of acquaintances, who have had occasion to congratulate her upon her complete restoration to health, after a severe and trying illness. When a correspondent of the Gleaner called upon her, and requested that the facts might be given for publication, she said, although not at all anxious for publicity, nevertheless gave her consent in the hope that her experience might prove beneficial to some of the many young girls whose condition of health is very similar to what hers was previous to her cure. Miss Miller stated that when her illness began her mother was unable to look after the affairs of the household and duties largely devolved upon her. She felt herself growing weak and easily tired, but felt that she must keep up. She says: "Notwithstanding my efforts I found myself growing worse and worse. My appetite failed, my complexion became sallow and my eyes sunken in my head. I was unable to sleep, and my shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart, until at times I felt as though I was going to faint. I was almost constantly troubled with a pain in the side, and severe headaches. When I lay in bed I was obliged to rest. Life had become almost a burden, and at last I was forced to give up and keep my bed. My friends were very kind, but I was not helped by any of their remedies until I was induced to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. In less than three weeks I was able to leave my bed and go about the house, and the pains of the Pink Pills a few weeks longer completely restored my health and strength and drove away all symptoms and pains which had made my life so miserable. I feel that in bringing this matter before the public I am but doing simple justice to suffering humanity, and I hope those afflicted as I was will give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. I might also add that other members of our family have used Pink Pills with equally good results."

What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for Miss Miller, they will do for thousands of other young girls throughout the country whose condition is similar. They restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks, correct functional derangements, and create a feeling of new life and energy. The genuine Pink Pills are sold only in boxes, the wrapper around which bears the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Refuse all pink colored imitations and other medicines said to be "just as good."

Nothing Better.
Miss Emily Craig, Almonte, Ont., says: "I have never found anything better than your Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for pains in the stomach of diarrhoea. A few doses cured me of severe diarrhoea after other medicines had failed. We always keep it in the house and have every confidence in its virtues."

The case of Mr. Fernin vs. Jessop and Malloy, at Godrich, Ontario, by the accused being acquitted. Police Magistrate Seager held that there was a particle of evidence to show that a conspiracy existed, and an order was made for the return of the goods, the most that could be said against the defendants being that there were some suspicious circumstances. Notwithstanding the fact that the prosecution called about 30 witnesses, nothing of an incriminating character was proved against the defendants. After the case was dismissed the prosecutor had himself bound over to prefer an indictment at the Fall Assizes. Afterwards an information was laid against Mrs. Jessop alone, for concealing goods to defraud her creditors. She pleaded not guilty, but at once being even.

The G. T. R. fire brigade of Stratford, which took part in the tournament at Petrolia, succeeded in carrying off first money in the hose and reel race on Dominion Day. The prize was $100, and there were two conditions, including some crack teams from the other side. The movements included 200 yards race to a hydrant, 50 feet of hose, attaching the branch and replacing the second length from the hydrant with the sixth length of reel. The movement was completed in 65½ seconds. The brigade also won a prize of $25 for being the fastest in the team in the street parade. The team was made up of J. W. Welsh, captain; C. Liddle, lieutenant; C. J. Cummings, L. Boyer, M. Crawford, H. Ridgeway, H. Westbrook, F. Yeandle, A. McPherson, W. Malone, A. Wright, D. McDougall, J. Flannigan, S. Wright, J. Morgan.

Detective Mahoney, of Windsor, who was wounded Friday afternoon by an escaped convict Welsh, was on duty Saturday. Although his leg was sore, Dr. Samson, who dressed the wound, said that had the bullet entered the leg two inches deeper it would have severed one of the large arteries.

and in all probability the detective would have died to death. As it is Mahoney's escape from death was as miraculous as his escape several weeks ago at Belle River. The only danger from his latest wound is blood poisoning. Welsh has been remanded to jail for a week and he will be tried on the charge of having shot an officer with intent to do great bodily harm. The law provides that any person convicted of this offense may be sentenced to life imprisonment. With the three years yet to serve of his other sentence and what he is liable to get for the shooting, it is altogether probable that again gives the authorities of Windsor any trouble, provided he does not break out again.

BOUGHT A HUSBAND
And Gave Him Money for a Solitary Wedding Trip.

Louisville, Ky., July 5.—Mrs. Julia Irwin, aged 52 years, and whose fortune is estimated at $300,000, gave Will Botta, aged 21 years, $25,000 to marry her, and he is now on his way to New York on a bridal trip by himself. He left his bride in this city, and she seemed well content, giving him $1,000 in cash. Mrs. Irwin is a widow, and telegraphing to her bankers in New York that he could draw on her account for $7,000 to defray the trip. She is handsome and well preserved, and formed the acquaintance of young Botta about four years ago.

KNOW HIS WANTS.
The Witness Had Been on the Stand Before and Understood.

The cross-examiner had had a witness on the stand for some time, and the latter was naturally getting a little weary.
"If you would only answer my questions properly," said the cross-examiner, "I should be able to get on a little better. We would have no trouble." The witness, who was a good witness, simply looked askance and let it go at that.
"If I could only get you to understand," continued the lawyer, "that all I wish to know is what you know, we would be all right."

"If I would take you a lifetime to acquire that," interrupted the witness. The lawyer recovered shortly after, being accustomed to knockout blows, and asked to explain himself.
"What I mean is that I merely want to learn what you know about this affair," he said. "I don't care anything about your abstract knowledge of law or your information in regard to their sorcery, but what you know about this case."
"Oh, that isn't what you want," returned the witness, in an off-hand way. "I've been trying to give you that for some time, and—"

Of course the lawyer got in his deadly word in the line of objections at this point, and the witness had to stop.
"If I don't want to know what you know about this particular case, and you are asking me to tell you what I know, I don't want to know," he said.
That seemed so easy to the witness that he almost laughed, and he showed a willingness to speak that made the cross-examiner to object before a word was said.

"It isn't what I know that you want to know," he said, "it is what I know that you're after, and you're trying to make me think I know it or prove me a liar."
Then it was that everyone in the courtroom knew that he had been on the witness stand before—Chicago Post.

After 21 years' imprisonment, the younger brother, and him, members of the Jesse James gang, will be given their liberty. It is understood the state board of parole is will at its next monthly meeting act favorably on their pardon.

A woman cannot be too careful of her health. Her happiness, and, with it, mother is dependent upon it. Every woman should realize that her general health depends upon the condition of her liver. When a woman complains of being sluggish, dizzy, nervous and despondent the average doctor attributes these symptoms to heart trouble, or disorders of the liver. He is not right in ten times.

When a woman feels that she is usually suffering from weakness or disease of the organs distinctly feminine, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all known remedies for suffering women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs that bear the burden of maternity. It stimulates strong, healthy and vigorous. Thousands of women who were weak, nervous, fretful and unhappy wives are today happy, healthy, helpful and robust as the result of the use of this marvelous remedy. It is the discovery of an eminent and skillful physician, Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. During those years, with the assistance of a staff of able physicians, he has prescribed for many thousands of ailing women. He will gladly, without charge, answer letters from suffering women. The "Favorite Prescription" is for sale by all good medicine dealers and nothing else is "just as good."

Sister Ella L. de Falcon, of Corpus Christi, Nueces county, Texas, writes: "It is to tell you that I have been ill for twenty-one years and was finally cured by your medicine, 'Golden Medical Remedy.' Favorite Prescription. I was completely cured after taking this medicine."

THE BIG BUILDING SALE

A Huge Success, and

London's Only Departmental

CROWDED.

The first three days attracted immense crowds of eager buyers and the Big Building Sale's already a success. If down-right money saving has any attraction we're right in the swim—not because we're the biggest, but because we're the best and cheapest.

In buying at the Big Departmental you run no risks. We sell nothing but reliable goods—no matter what the price may be.

And it's only natural that this business should grow bigger when such stocks at such prices have full sway.

Our preparations for this Big Building Sale are thoroughly complete for making the largest call that can possibly be made on the strength of the Big Store, and you will find us built for a long pull and a strong pull and equal to the occasion in every respect.

This sale is different to ordinary sales from the fact that it's a genuine Building Sale. We find the premises too small for our fast-growing trade, and necessity compels us to build an annex, which will give an additional selling space of nearly 15,000 square feet.

It differs from ordinary sales, because we have no old stock to work off on our customers—everything being new up to date and in keeping with the march of progress.

The most skeptical will admit now that the heated term has been here, and, no doubt, will stay with us. We have the summer goods you require to keep cool in and at Building Sale prices. Come with the crowd and keep cool.

TUESDAY, JULY 6.

BREAKFAST—Blackberries with sugar and cream. Baked eggs. Breakfast biscuit and coffee.

LUNCHEON—Cold corned beef, sliced thin. Thin bread and butter. Red raspberries and cream cookies.

DINNER—Fried chicken. Flaked potatoes. Devilled tomatoes. Green apple pie. Cheese. Coffee.

Cut out these recipes and paste them in a scrap-book.

Breakfast Biscuit—One pint of flour, one rounding teaspoonful of baking powder; sift the flour and baking powder together three times; one tablespoonful of lard rubbed thoroughly in the flour, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Mix as soft as possible to handle with cold water; roll and cut into biscuits and bake in a hot oven twenty minutes.

Fried Chicken—Take a spring chicken, dress and cut up as for pot pie. Steam for one-half hour, as this makes it more juicy and more easily done; then fry in butter and lard mixed, a pale brown; sprinkle with one-half a teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper while frying.

Flaked Potatoes—Get potatoes as perfect as possible; boil in their skins in salt water for one-half hour; drain dry and peel; rub through a coarse sieve onto a hot dish before the fire. Do not touch them after this or the flakes will flatten out. Serve hot.

Deviled Tomatoes—Two or three large firm tomatoes, not over ripe; cut them into slices half an inch thick and lay on a sieve. Make a dressing of one tablespoonful of butter and one of vinegar rubbed smooth with the yolk of an egg, half a teaspoonful of salt, a fourth of a teaspoonful of mustard and a fourth of a teaspoonful of cayenne pepper; heat until smooth and heat to a boil. Take from the fire and pour upon a well-beaten egg, whipping to a smooth cream. Put the cream containing this dressing in hot water while the tomatoes are being thoroughly broiled over a clear fire. Put the tomatoes on a hot dish and pour the dressing over them. Cooked in this way they are very nice with chicken.

Apple Pie—Crust—For one pie take two large handfuls of flour, a pinch of salt, a piece of lard the size of a turkey's egg, rub into the flour until smooth; mix with just enough cold water to roll. Filling: Take four or five large tart apples, pare, quarter and slice thin. Line the pie plate with the crust, place the sliced apples on the crust and season with three-fourths cup of sugar, a piece of butter size of a walnut, a half a teaspoonful of salt and a fourth of grated nutmeg. Wet the edges of the under crust, place the upper crust over the apples and press very closely round the edge, prick the upper crust with a fork to keep from blistering. Bake slowly for half an hour.

Cream Cookies—One and two-thirds cups of sugar, one-half cup of butter, one cup of sour cream, three eggs, one-half teaspoonful of soda, three cups of flour. Do not roll too thin.

After a severe cold, I have been met by a large number of ratepayers, who objected to the proposed grading of the street at this point. July!

When the oxygen is melted from the air And the blazing sun brings nothing but despair.

The explorer at the pole Is the envy of your soul, And you vainly wish that you were with him there.

When the climate was more moderate, with words that sounded wise Men hailed his expedition as a doubtful enterprise;

But each is eager, now, to lend assistance to his plan— Say, Mr. Nansen, don't you need another man?

Where glittering icebergs drift beyond control And the walrus sits contented by his hole, A sealskin overcoat You can button round your throat While old Boreas shouts a lusty barcarole.

The crystal snowflakes eddy in the bracing atmosphere And the sun takes a vacation and is gone for half a year. We long to join the Eskimos—that comfortable clan! Say, Mr. Nansen, don't you need another man?

The horse had become frightened at street car and bolted.

—Mr. John M. Moore, civil engineer of the waterworks, has been transmitted to the clerk of Alisa Craig his report upon the proposed scheme, from which it will be seen that unless the Grand Trunk Company will put in a more powerful boiler, so as to give a working steam pressure of 80 pounds to the square inch, instead of 40 pounds per inch as at present, the proposed outlay would result in no benefit to the community, as the present pressure would be used for fire purposes. The G. T. R. may increase their engine.

ELDER JOHNSTON'S INDUCTIO. Rev. D. C. Johnston, who was elected to the eldership of St. James' Presbyterian Church congregation, was yesterday morning inducted to that office by the pastor, Rev. M. P. Talling, R.A., who on the occasion preached an eloquent sermon, in which he dealt with the qualifications of a man for the duties he had to perform as elder.

The speaker took his text from Timothy, iii, 1 to 7. The qualifications were a blameless life, one who ruleth well his own house, and of good report among those who were not Christians. The duties were loyalty to the interdependence of the church, zeal for the cause of Christ, and self-sacrifice to the interests of others.

Eva Booth Here.

The Daughter of the General Conducts S. A. Meetings

In the Opera House and Open Air—Bright and Profitable Services.

Commissioner Eva Booth, the much-loved leader of the Salvation Army in Canada, and daughter of the great general, delivered two remarkable addresses at the Grand Opera House yesterday afternoon and evening, besides conducting other meetings earlier in the day.

Miss Booth was accompanied here by about a dozen members of her staff, including the staff string and brass band, a fine organization. Five orphan children who have been adopted by Miss Booth were also in the party.

The soldier of the Salvation Army, led the knee drill at 7:30 a.m. at the citadel yesterday, and Miss Booth conducted the addresses at 11 a.m. The commissioner, though possessing remarkable energy, has not been in the best of health recently, and the close of the morning service was overcome by the heat.

An open air meeting was held in Victoria Park in the afternoon and another early in the evening on the market square.

At the opera house the heat was very oppressive, yet each meeting was attended by 500 or 700 people. "Faith" was the subject of the commissioner's address in the afternoon, and she spoke for nearly three-quarters of an hour, holding her hearers in rapt attention all the while. The staff band gave several pleasing selections, and one very agreeable feature was the singing of Dot, an adopted daughter of the commissioner.

Miss Booth spoke in the evening of "The Great White Throne," and Willie, a bright little 4-year-old, whom Miss Booth adopted when in this city a year ago, sang and exhorted very cleverly.

Musical evening tonight at the Auditorium will conclude the special jubilee services.

Intense Heat Keeps the Crowd From the Heights.

Saturday Night's Fire and Sing-Song a Great Success.

Nearly 2,000 People Present—Rev. Canon Dunn's Sermon on the Hill—At the Butts Notes.

Saturday was a hot day at the races, where the Thirty-third, Huron Battalion, had their first practice with the new rifle. The scores made speak well for the battalion, which has some splendid marksmen. It was a hot and dusty march to the butts, and even more trying on the return. The Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth put in the day on the field, and the usual number (about 20 during the day) were overcome by the heat and had to fall out of the ranks.

In the evening a mammoth camp fire and "sing-song" was the programme, and this attracted nearly 2,400 people to the grounds. The best evidence of their appreciation was the hearty manner in which each number was received. The audience was seated facing the camp fire, which had been built a short distance off, and as it cast the lurid light upon the smiling faces, the scarlet coats of the ladies' dresses of various colors, the scene was a beautiful one. Col. Stacey's "Highlanders"—Pipe-Major Skinner and the Twenty-eighth Battalion, the Twenty-fifth Battalion, St. Thomas—were received with cheers and gladdened the hearts of every son of Scotland in camp. Major Hoger acted in the capacity of "supply officer" and as each artist creditably acquitted himself another artist was provided. The following is the programme:

THE SUNDAY SERMON. All night the atmosphere was close and oppressive, and when gray dawn on the horizon marked the birth of another Sabbath day, there was every indication, by the cloudless sky, that it would be a "scorching." It was, without a doubt, and this fact none more than the soldier realized. All day yesterday the camp was practically deserted. In the morning a few citizens attended divine service on the hill, but in the afternoon everyone sought rest either in the tents or under the lying maps along the road sides, and only an occasional straggler was seen moving about.

In the morning at 9 o'clock the troops were drawn up on the side of the hill for an often divine service. Rev. Canon Dunn, chaplain of the Twenty-sixth Middlesex Light Infantry, conducted the service. The men joined heartily in the singing of the hymns, and the combined bands of the three corps in camp struck up the tunes.

Rev. Canon Dunn took for his text II. Timothy, ii, 3—"A good soldier of Jesus Christ." The speaker first gave a few practical points of the resemblance there was between the soldier and the Christian. Many people would be surprised at such a comparison, because as a rule a soldier did not get a very high name for exceeding righteousness. They were not distinguished for the great profession of religion, and religious people were consequently often very shy about speaking to soldiers in the matter of religion. "I protest, as a religious teacher," he said, "against such an assertion. He had a great deal to do with soldiers all his life, and he had found some of the best men in the army. Not only were they the best men, honest and kind and true, but they were deeply religious. The soldier could be a true servant of the Christian religion. He was not a loud professor of religion. In the other hand, people were surprised that a soldier's life should be likened to a Christian's, because a soldier's life was to fight and protect his country and those nearest and dearest to him; and a Christian's life was to promote harmony, peace and goodwill among his fellow men. While the preservation of peace was the greater part of the Christian's duty, there were times when the were not to stand upon peace—times when every worthy of the name of Christian should come out and fight for God, for Christ, for right, for his country. There was a time when for the Christian and of duty to the soldier. "Do you think," he said, "that the cross was placed upon the Union Jack for nothing? It tells you that you are a soldier fighting for the British crown, and also that you are a captain and soldier for the King of Kings, and that great duty is what the cross symbolizes. I can assure you that the great battle of life is to learn discipline. When a whole mass of soldiers were called on a field by a commanding officer, and they moved as one man in response to one word, such a sight has been brought about by obedience, the power that had made the English army so great. They had heard of the wonderful charge at Balaklava, when the noble six Hundred rode into the jaws of death. They knew some one had blundered, but there was no reply, no question given to the order. It was theirs to do and die. The preacher closed with one hope and wish, that all having fought the battle of life, each one might be able to say, when the great muster roll brought forth, and the Great Judge stood up, "I have not been a great hero, and have oftentimes been very careless, cowardly, and very nearly mutinous, and I look back upon my past life to say, 'I have never been a traitor to my Lord and Captain, and to the army of Christ. I did not do all that I ought to have done, but I know that I tried to, and I ask you now, Judge, to accept me for the sake of the great Captain who yielded up his life's blood for me.'"

Still Another Would Be Rescuer Loses His Life—Eight Victims.

Uxbridge, Ont., July 5.—One of the saddest drowning accidents that has happened here for many years occurred yesterday, when William and Samuel Barber, two brothers, aged respectively 22 and 24, were drowned in Brookdale pond. The young men went to the pond in company with text to bathe. William waded in and got beyond his depth. Samuel, who was not quite so strong as his brother, saw his brother to save him, and as neither could swim, both went down together and never came up alive. The unfortunate young men were sons of Henry Barber, of con. 6, Brock.

Highland Falls, N. Y., July 5.—A party of West Pointers, consisting of Charles Mickels, his wife and daughters, Mrs. Holtz and Adam Meisel, were rowing in Long Pond yesterday, when the boat capsized, and Mrs. Mickel and child were drowned. First Sergeant Anthony Brechbell, of Company E, Battalion of Engineers, swam out to the rescue, and he, too, was drowned.
