

PROPERTY OWNERS WILL PAY 30 MILLS TAXES IF SCHEME TO SPEND $700,000 IS CARRIED

At Least Two Mills Will Be Levied to Meet the Charges, Even if Road Did Not Have Enormous Deficits Expected.

Goods Roads Program, One-Third of Which Comes Out of General Rate, Must Be Gone On With—Federal Square To Cost a Lot.

Electrification of the London and Port Stanley spurs at least two mills addition to the tax rate, possibly three or four. It is no guesswork to estimate the two-mill increase, as figures speak for themselves, and assuming that Stanley breaks even the citizens who vote for the $700,000 expenditure will have to produce two additional mills on their annual taxes.

Mill and Half Fixed Charges.
Provided that $700,000 only is expended on the electrification, and this will be more like $1,000,000 at the lowest, if the court house and incinerator can be taken as any criterion of the spending abilities of the municipality, the interest and sinking fund every year will amount to $35,000 and $6,279, respectively, or a total annual fixed charge of $41,279. This alone is a mill and a half—$30,000 being in round figures the proceeds from one mill on the tax rate.

Revenue Now Received.
To the fixed charges will have to be added the revenue now derived from the road—$18,000 (two mills already gone) plus the deficit—for the electrification reports when analyzed show a deficit. The size of the deficit, of course, will regulate the increase in the tax rate, but from a business standpoint it is hardly to be expected that Londoners are going to willingly add two, and possibly a great many more, mills to their annual taxes just to please the present mayor and his associates.

Roads Will Cost Money.
The greatest road-building program in the history of the city will be inaugurated as soon as the storm sewer bylaw is passed, and roads are going to cost money. The improvement is naturally worth the price, and while the major portion of the road construction charges will be levied by frontage basis taxation, yet the flankages, street intersections, and so on will have to be paid from the general rate, about a third of the whole cost. With these expenditures in prospect any unnecessary increase in the tax rate could hardly be regarded in the light of "good business."

The City Hall Outlook.
Aside from the road building program, the prospect of $450,000 being asked for a new city hall and a few other items, the existing and probable expenditures that will have to be met means a big increase in the tax rate. Briefly the following table shows some of these increases.

	Annual Interest.	Annual Fund.
West London breakwater $ 1,250	$ 484.28
Storm sewers	20,000	7,748.54
New college	10,750	4,164.84
New schools	25,000	9,685.67

Another 2½ Mills.
These annual charges for non-revenue producing objects means an annual charge of $79,083.33 to come from the general rate of the city. It means in rough figures an increase of 2½ mills on the dollar. Plus the charges that the deficit of the L. and P. S. will produce, it is not a very inviting proposition—over 30 mills.

How About the Widows.
The widow's mite that will be cast in the city treasury of the future, if the electrification scheme goes through, will hardly be in the mite class any longer. The inexcusable increase by from 2 to 5 mills from electrification will eat up the slender resources of many of the widows and other women who have only a home, and mortgages and foreclosures will follow in the wake of the $700,000 electrification—if it goes through.

MAYOR REFUSES WEST LONDONERS' REQUEST TO SPEAK AT MEETING

Progressive Deputation Flatly Turned Down When They Asked A Chance to Make Appeal for the Breakwater—Glaring Act of Unfairness.

That Mayor Graham and his ring are willing that any amount of time be spent in boosting the cause of the $700,000 electrification luxury, but none is to be spent in advancing the West London breakwater cause, which is the real need for thousands of citizens, is what a committee which waited upon his worship at noon today learned after asking permission to speak at the meeting in the Masonic Temple tonight.

COMMITTEE WAS APPOINTED.
At the meeting of the West London Progressives Wednesday night a committee was appointed to wait upon the mayor and ask permission to put before the public meeting, which is to be held tonight, the real need of a breakwater for West London.

TURNED DOWN FLAT.
This fact was advertised in both papers, and Mayor Graham had time to make arrangements to allow the West London speakers even five minutes, but when the deputation waited upon him at noon he turned the members down flat, and told them they could not speak, that all the time would be taken up by other speakers.

OPENING OF PANAMA CANAL MARKS EPOCH IN HISTORY

Gamboa Dike Blown Up When President Wilson Pressed Electric Button, and Waters From Both Atlantic and Pacific Pour In—British Papers Praise Great Engineering Feat.

SEE ILLUSTRATION ON PAGE FIFTEEN.
[Canadian Press.]
Washington, Oct. 10.—Exactly at 2 o'clock eastern time, this afternoon, President Wilson, pressing a button in the White House, sent an electric current flashing more than 4,000 miles over land and under seas to blow up the Gamboa dike in the Panama Canal. The occurrence was in every way successful.

A GREAT SUCCESS.
[Canadian Press.]
Panama, Oct. 10.—The Gamboa dike was exploded at 2:02 p.m. The electric spark that set off the blast was sent forward by President Wilson from Washington. The occurrence was in every way successful.

Not Quite United.
The Atlantic and Pacific Oceans were not actually united today when the Gamboa dike was destroyed, and the waters of Gatun Lake were allowed to flow into Culebra Cut, as lake and cut are, at the normal surface of the water, 85 feet above the level of the sea.

The destruction of the Gamboa dike however, removes the last obstruction to the navigation of the greater part of the canal by light craft, and opens up direct connection between the great Gatun Lake, which already is practically ready to discharge vessels into the Atlantic through Gatun locks, and the Pacific division. The waters of the lake rushing through the broken dike at Gamboa, sweep through Culebra Cut until they reach the great locks at Pedro Miguel, which marks the beginning of the descent from the top level of the canal to the Pacific.

Dredges Go First.
The first craft to enter will be the great steam dredges whose work is to clear and deepen the channel. The presence of small craft in portions of the canal however, does not as yet mean ocean-to-ocean navigation. This will first be possible when each link in the canal has a sufficient depth of water, and all the locks are working. In the intermediate stage, however, navigation may be effected in local lengths of the canal, and to some degree may be extended from length to length along the whole waterway.

Nearly Ready.
Today's event served to demonstrate the nearness of the canal to the operating stage. It also formally brought to a close the work of the central division in the cut, for the great steam shovel work will be dredging operations which are to succeed under a different organization, Gamboa dike was built in 1908 to hold the Chagres River in check during its turbulent periods, and to prevent its waters from entering the nine-mile-long section of Culebra Cut and delaying the work of the steam shovels.

FREE PRESS AGAIN HAS BEEN CAUGHT MISREPRESENTING

Change of Marquette Time Was Not Due To Bad Road-bed.

SUPT. TASKER EXPLAINS

Scores the Electrophobe Organ For Its Attitude Towards Port Stanley Road.

"The Free Press is apparently running, or trying to run, London, the Grand Trunk, the Pere Marquette and a few other things." Such was the statement of Division Superintendent Tasker, of the Pere Marquette, to The Advertiser over long-distance telephone this afternoon. The object of the interview was to ascertain the real reasons for the change in running time that went into effect last Sunday. According to the Evening Electrophobe, the running time was changed because the roadbed of the road was in such condition that it was impossible to make the time.

Mr. Tasker Explains.
"The real truth of the matter is this," said Superintendent Tasker. "If you take the previous time card of the Pere Marquette and compare it with the one that went into effect last Sunday, you will see that the running time out of London has remained unchanged—3:40 in the morning. As a matter of fact we have 'closed up' our time, and now get into St. Thomas five minutes earlier than we did—a gain of that time in the running between London and St. Thomas."

To Aid Grand Trunk.
"The change was not of our desire—It was simply done to assist the Grand Trunk in the latter's scheme, gotten up entirely by that company. They moved their running time out of St. Thomas ahead 15 minutes, because their previous running time had been too fast. This switch in time broke the original connection agreement, the Grand Trunk taking it into its own hands to make this change."

"With the amount of work done on it, the London and Port Stanley is as good a railway as any in the country, and I don't propose to tear up the roadbed for local traffic. It's all very well to make a fast run where we have a through haul of 200 miles or so, but with local traffic it's different."

I don't understand why the Free Press is continually lathering away at the London and Port Stanley. Certainly they don't know what they are talking about. I'll leave it to any railway man that the road is in good condition. "Any railway man at all who had the opportunity of going over the road at the London and Port Stanley, and with that in mind, would be unhesitatingly say that it was in good shape, yet the Free Press is continually declaring that it is in a bad state of repair, and that the conditions before they start any more of their battering campaigns."

LOSS IS $400,000

Big Milling Plant Was Completely Destroyed By Fire.

[Canadian Press.]
Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 10.—Fire early today destroyed the six-story main building of the Southwest Milling Company at Eighteenth street and Kansas avenue, Kansas City, and the mill power plant, a short distance away.

The loss was estimated at $400,000. The mills had a capacity of 3,000 barrels of flour a day, and was Kansas City's largest milling concern. Four hundred men were employed at the plant.

MACKMEN NOSE OUT VICTORY BY NARROW MARGIN OF ONE

Batting Rally By Giants in Seventh and Eighth Innings Almost Won For Them --Schang and Barry Had Big Day With the Willow--Fletcher Fined $50 For Abusing Umpire Connelly.

[Canadian Press.]
Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—Twenty thousand excited Philadelphia and New York fans thronged Shibe Park today to see the New York National League champions engage the Philadelphia Athletics in the fourth game of the world's baseball series.

It was announced that the official attendance was 20,558, and the receipts $49,645.

A victory for the Philadelphia club today would make it only necessary for them to win another game to capture the baseball honors for 1913, while the Giants would have to reel off three straight to win the series.

Murky Weather.
Still another murky day was furnished for the sport. Dull clouds screened the sun, giving indications of showery weather, while now and then a vagrant drop of rain fell. The diamond was in fine condition and the players said it was lightning fast, but the outer meadows were sodden, and slow.

Demaree to Pitch.
The New York club came on the field ready to make a gallant stand. Manager McGraw told Demaree to be ready to take up the pitching burden, and the former Mobile moundsman replied: "Give me half the lead the Athletics gave Bush yesterday and we will go back to New York winners tonight." Some of the Athletic players admitted that Demaree would probably prove a puzzling proposition because of his peculiar delivery.

Has Them Guessing.
The Athletics were prepared to send pitcher Lex, while the New York pitchers, while the New York fans behind the Giants' bench wondered if Connie Mack would uncover another sensational youngster slugging like Bush, no blast the hopes of the National League champions.

The crowd filled the unreserved stand long before the players came on the field, but the reserved sections filled slowly, and it was not until the fielding practice had ended that the last of the seats was occupied.

Fletcher in Trouble.
Fletcher, shortstop for the New York team, may not be allowed to continue in the world's series. Complaint was made to the national commission today by Umpire Connelly that Fletcher used obscene and profane language while the New York team called out at second base in the ninth inning yesterday. Connelly goes into details in regard to the language used, some of which he says will not bear repetition.

The commission has taken a firm stand against roydism in the world's series, and if Connolly's assertion is found to be true it is highly probable that Fletcher will be ordered out of the game for the rest of the series, and otherwise punished.

The commission decided to fine Fletcher $50 for his offense. It also decided to permit him to play in the world's series.

TWO HURT IN M.C.R. WRECK

Believed That Someone Tamped With Switch Near Niagara Falls.

HAPPENED ON BIG GRADE

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Traveling at a rate of probably 50 miles an hour, the Michigan Central passenger train leaving this city for Niagara-on-the-Lake today, was wrecked five miles north of here, and the fireman and the engineer were seriously injured.

That no one was killed is regarded as remarkably so. The train was going down the steep grade at the brow of the Queenston Mountain when it took a switch at the sand-pit. It is claimed that the switch had been tampered with. The engine and first coach tumbled over, and the fireman, Clarence Parker, of Niagara-on-the-Lake, was pinned under the cab and frightfully scalded. Edward Meadows, the engineer, was thrown from his cab, and severely cut and bruised.

A telephone call from the sand-pit summoned Dr. McGarry, who, with a couple of trained nurses, were dispatched to the scene of the accident in an automobile. Dr. Evan, of Queenston, was also summoned. Parker was brought here to the hospital late in the afternoon. Meadows, who also lives at Niagara-on-the-Lake, was sent to his home.

"PEG-O-MY-HEART" WINS HEARTS OF LONDONERS

Manner's Charming Comedy Was Greeted By Big Audience at the Grand.

Winning a spot in the heart of London theatregoers did not appear to be a difficult task with Miss Elsa Ryan, who played the title role in "Peg o' My Heart," Hartley J. Manners' delightful and breezy little comedy, before an enthusiastic and large audience at the Grand Thursday night.

London theatregoers are known to be a great many actors and actresses as being undemonstrative, and the kind that has to be "shown," but Miss Ryan and the excellent and well-balanced company behind her did not find the least difficulty in reaching their tender spots and eliciting round after round of applause.

The theme of the comedy is similar to that employed by dramatists time without number, but the author has thrown together so many pretty little touches, and employed the commonplaces, speeches and mannerisms of the world today, in producing the effects wrought in human nature by a comparison of all that is fresh and honest in human nature with that which is sophisticated and untrue, that one would be led to believe that something entirely new and entirely different was being played for his benefit.

Miss Ryan as "Peg" shoulders the major part of the work, and from the time she enters to the time she leaves her work sparkled with vivacity. She is the personification of all that is beautiful in the Irish nature, with a little of the wariness contracted by a young nature by personal contact with the hardships experienced by the poor of a large city like New York. As Peg she is delightfully girlish, and yet has a certain womanly sympathy that goes deep into the hearts of her listeners, and makes them feel what a beautiful piece of humanity, a true daughter of old Ireland, reared in the proper environment, by a father who cares little for riches, but much for all that is true in life, can do and be.

Mrs. Fanny Addison Pitt, as Mrs. Chichester, aunt of Peg, was an English aristocrat and snob. She played her part well, and her conception of conventionalism was excellent.

As Alaric, Mrs. Chichester's son, and Peg's cousin, Mr. Gilbert Douglas was fine. He was the top pure and simple, and unlike a great many who try to play that part, he did not overdo it in the least.

Miss Lillian Keller, as Ethel, Mrs. Chichester's daughter, is beautiful, and plays the part of a cold and calculating English girl to perfection. She is of excellent stature, and her gown showed off both her beauty and form to advantage.

Mr. Henry Stanford, as Jerry, or Sir Jerry, as he is known later in the play, was good. His love-making was done in just the way that seemed to be proper to the situation in that phase of the game of life, and the emotional part in his lines were well handled.

Louis Broughton, as Christian Brent, the married man, who was dissatisfied with his wife, was a little off-color, but spoke his lines quite clearly.

Mr. Gordon Burly, as the footman, Mr. Frank Burbeck as Montgomery Hawkes, solicitor, and Miss W. M.

Moore as a maid, were all good, although their parts did not call for much effort.

The scenery, which was "quiet" and good, was the interior of an English home with a garden setting, and was used in all three acts.

Peg's Michael, a long-haired Irish terrier, was also a lively little member of the company, whose company he preferred at all times to that of any man in England, with the exception of one.

The play ended, as all plays of that kind do, by a promise of marriage between the heroine and the hero, and one would be inclined to add to the lines of the author, that they lived happily ever after. It is a clean, wholesome and refreshing play.

"Brewster's Millions" for Three Performances.

"Brewster's Millions" will be the attraction at the Grand tonight and twice tomorrow. Louis Nilsen will be seen in the title character of "Monty" Brewster, which he has played for upwards of 100 weeks, and the excellent supporting him, including Katherine Francis as Peggy Gray, Earl Christie, James Morey, Will Lyons, Frank Backus, Wilfred O. Nixon, Jack Murray, Tom Springer, Emily Burke, Malsie Ivie, Enoch Leighton, and a score of others.

There is nothing new to say about the play. The triumph of stagecraft is attained in the wonderful scene of shipboard, the yacht rocking in the gale when "Monty" sounds the signal of distress, thus disposing in less than a second of the $500,000 which had been worrying him for weeks.

World's "Doubling" Champion.

The "doubling" champion of the American stage has been discovered to be an Englishman. The secret came out following the proud announcement by the Liebler Company that it had secured Mr. Maude's signature to an American contract. Then the Maude ghosts began to appear. One of these had to do with the dim past, when Mr. Maude, a youngster and a weakling, came to the United States on the advice of physicians, and made his way, as quickly as possible, to Denver, where the airs were said to be of the sort best calculated to correct his indisposition. In Denver he met Daniel Handman, and soon became a member of that famous player's organization. His debut was made as the butler in "East Lynne," but his triumph was achieved when he succeeded, single-handed, in playing five parts in one performance of "Hamlet." This is said to be the unchallenged record for "doublers." When Mr. Maude comes to the Grand on Monday, Oct. 13, he won't do any doubling. Instead, he will be seen in a repertoire of the comedies that have made the London Playhouse the most famous institution of the kind in the world. Monday night "The Second Command," and Tuesday night "Beauty and the Barge."

A MYSTERY STORY OF NEW YORK

By WILLIRWIN

Copyright, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

"Well, I guess they were fruit stains, all right," replied McGee. "Can't find any blood on Wade's things, either."

"Which is natural. A wound like that don't begin to bleed right off. No necessity for getting bloody if the murderer only kept his head, which generally they don't. Of course, you're tried to find where the knife came from?"

McGee smiled on her.

"Have I caught you asleep at last?" he asked.

"Nope," replied Rosalie promptly and cheerfully. "Since you put it that way, I saw the pile of junk on the table—there was another knife in it. What do you find about that stuff?"

"Nothing yet. But I bet I'll find more when I put Lawrence Wade through the Third Degree. I guess it's Wade."

"I guess probably," admitted Rosalie. "Most mysteries ain't mysteries at all after the first day. Well, now, I'm bothered in a busy man in office hours and I must run along. Let's see—five minutes to four, an' it's bad luck to go before the hour. Suppose you tell me about yourself an' how the world's usin' you?"

Inspector McGee sat back in his office chair and waxed eloquent. However, his narrative of pulp and promotions, and Tammany influence was never finished. Before the hour struck, the silent attentive doorman entered and laid on his desk a card. Inspector McGee took it up glanced at it perfunctorily, and suddenly let out an exclamation which had all the power and verve of an oath.

"By the great cats!" he exclaimed. "Look at that—Mrs. John H. Hanska!"

Rosalie took the card and fingered it.

"The widow, I bet."

"Thought he was single," remarked the inspector. "Though, after all, I'd just been taking it for granted."

"Well," said Rosalie, rising, "that's come-again-son for me."

But the inspector was observing her with eyes which held quizzical invitation.

"Honest, now," he said, "wouldn't you like to sit in on the interview?"

Rosalie flashed her dimples and contemplated him for a second. Then, with the unexpected lightness which marked all her movements, she sat down.

"See here, Martin McGee," she said, "you ain't got to make a fool of me, draggin' me into this case—but I'm dyin' to listen, just the same."

"Show them in," said the inspector on the instant, as though fearing that she would pull back her permission.

"But not unless she's willing," said Rosalie, as they waited.

And then through the door came two women.

"Good Lord!" commented Rosalie under her breath.

CHAPTER III.

Mrs. Hanska's story. But her height was mainly the superb carriage of her shoulders, her size but the ripe roundness of a goddess figure. She was dark, she was young, she was beautiful. At that moment her face hinted tragedy in every line and color, but at any moment she must have been serious. It could smile in flashes, that face—with its broad, serene brow, which held its own only by force against floods of dark hair, with its regular lines, which left its large, rippled mouth parting slowly even on her speech. But it was the eyes which gave gravity to her beauty. They were clear and big; they had the rare lift at the inner curve which lends an appearance of frankness and ingenuousness. Beyond their beauty, however, they had an arresting quality so strong, when she regarded you full-face, as to be poignant. It all lay in her expression of innocence triumphant over experience, of sincerity triumphant over many lies. Rosalie Le Grange, connoisseur of her sex, sat regarding her spellbound.

The second woman—in fact, she was little more than a girl—had everything which the other had not. She seemed but the blushing debutante of her who called herself Mrs. Hanska. She was slender, blonde and fragile; her quality was elfin. Rosalie could spare her but a glance.

"I am Mrs. Hanska, widow of the man who was killed last night," said the taller woman, and she hesitated.

It was not the custom of Inspector Martin McGee to rise when women entered his office in the role of the accused or of witnesses. A little brutality of attitude, he felt, put them in a meek and humble mood for the subsequent Third Degree proceedings. But this woman—or was it the respected presence of Rosalie Le Grange—drew him to his feet.

"Won't you sit down?" he said.

"Thank you. May I introduce Miss Elizabeth Lane?" She is here to verify what I have to say. All this with perfect simplicity. Her eyes travelled then, with a quick glance of inquiry, to Rosalie Le Grange.

"This," said the inspector, taking his cue at a quick nod from Rosalie's foot, "is Mrs. Le Grange. She is the lady who came into the house right after the accident—and took the boarders over to her place for the night. She's kept them there ever since. She was just telling me what she knew. Maybe you'd like to hear it."

With her beautiful seriousness, Mrs. Hanska considered Inspector McGee's words. Rosalie Le Grange. Never had Rosalie presented more convincingly the appearance of simple placed bourgeois respectability. Not a quiver of an eyelash, not the flash of a dimple—quiet-eyed she gave Mrs. Hanska glance for glance.

"I should very much like to hear it," said Mrs. Hanska earnestly.

"But maybe you want to be alone just at first," intimated Rosalie, making a pretence of rising.

"No, there is nothing secret," replied Mrs. Hanska. "I see no reason why you should not stay. Indeed, you may be able to help us. She trained her look steadily upon Rosalie Le Grange. Rosalie, with the gravity of this world in her brows, looked back. Something unseen of Martin McGee passed between them. Women have with women their own ways, unperceived, unweighed, unvalued, by you or me or Martin McGee or any other man who ever lived. In that glance two curious, un-conscious, sub-conscious emotions met and fused. Rosalie Le Grange's mind had said: "You marvel, you beauty!" And Rosalie Hanska's mind had said: "I trust this woman, whoever she is."

Now Martin McGee summoned the police stenographer and ordered him to take notes. Within half an hour the room was heavy with the hum of his half-hour with Rosalie. He was the Chief—suspicious and brutal. "You must warn you," he said, "that if you are implicated in this case, anything you say will be used against you at the trial." Generally that sudden statement made women tremble and drew from them a flood of words out of which McGee picked the notations and jettisoned of evidence.

But Mrs. Hanska did not give even the preliminary frightened start. She only transferred her limpid level gaze from Rosalie's face to Inspector McGee's.

"I am not a coward," she said simply. "I know enough about law to understand that."

The little blonde spoke now for the first time, and for the first time Rosalie turned her attention from the greater luminary to its satellite. She was a child of whinnies and the sun. Her face ran to pink and peaks, her coloring to twinkles of light. Her blue eyes were snapping with the sun. "I have a hard time doing that!" And she gazed truculently at Inspector McGee.

"Please don't, Betsy-Barbara," said Mrs. Hanska with no irritation—merely a plain statement of her desire: "It's this gentleman's duty to warn me, you know."

"Betsy-Barbara—that's a cute name—I bet Mrs. Hanska gave it to her!" said the mind of Rosalie Le Grange.

"Please," she said, "implicate me," pursued Mrs. Hanska. "Dozens of people can testify that I was in Arden, a hundred miles north, last night; that I have not left Arden for more than a month. Perhaps," she continued, checking an unformed sentence on the lips of Inspector McGee, "I'll have a hard time at the beginning and tell you all about it."

She was talking "fine," Inspector McGee reflected. Having got her started, his best course was to modify her until she began to run down.

SECRET SERVICE NO TERROR FOR CITY ORANGEMEN

Fund for the Assistance of Ulster Unionists Being Raised Here.

H. J. BENNETT TREASURER

Preceptor of Inniskilling Lodge Ready to Receive Subscriptions in Spite of Edict.

Threats of secret service surveillance and the edict that funds cannot be collected in Canada for the Ulster anti-home rulers has apparently no terrors for London Orangemen. The "bluff" of the Dominion police, as it has been so characterized by Orangemen all over Canada, is being called by the London lodges, for a fund has been opened, and is being subscribed to, by Preceptor H. J. Bennett, of the Inniskilling Preceptory of the Royal Black Knights of Ireland, is treasurer of the fund. He has announced his willingness to receive contributions from anyone who desires to help the cause of the fighting loyalists of Ulster.

Only Smiles at Threats.

When the question of the threats of treason, imprisonment and secret service was broached to Mr. Bennett, he only smiled.

"We are not afraid of the secret service here in London," he declared. "We certainly couldn't send any men over from here in a body, but there is nothing to prevent them going as individuals if they so desire."

In a statement to The Advertiser, about the home rule-Ulster question, Mr. Bennett has presented a resume of the whole question from the standpoint of the Ulster Nationalists. He is a native of Ulster himself.

Ulster Will Fight.

Preceding his statement with the famous "Ulster is right; Ulster will fight," Mr. Bennett says: The Loyalists of Ireland wish to remain a part of the British Empire. It is what their forefathers fought for, and what they will fight for. They will not submit to be trodden under by a disloyal majority. They are in earnest in their determination to fight for their rights if necessary, and would rather fight now and show the Empire that they are in earnest than wait till the heel of the Hibernians is on their neck.

"The people to whom they are being handed, for political reasons, are the men who trampled the Union Jack in the gutter, refused to give an address of welcome to the King when he visited their cities, and who punish loyalty to the British Empire by boycotting and ostracizing all who have the courage to show they respect the Union Jack."

Let Nationalists Fight.

"If the Nationalists want home rule why don't they fight for it like men? Is all the backbone of Ireland in the loyalist camp? The loyalists are as much Irish as the home rulers. They and their forefathers settled in Ireland, just as the ancestors of the home rulers settled there in times gone by."

The Unionists have organized a provisional government for the purpose of taking over the province for the British nation, in case the home rule bill becomes law. Sir Edward Carson is the leading spirit of this movement, and he is being supported by such men as Lord Charles Bessborough, the Marquis of Londonderry, the Duke of Abercorn and others. A military council has been appointed, and over £1,500,000 subscribed toward the £2,000,000 fund for the support of volunteers of volunteers, who may be killed or wounded in the fighting.

Little Known Here.

"Canadian people, outside those who have relatives in Ireland, do not really know the alarming situation which has developed there, and the fact that 100,000 are drilling and are eager and willing to take the field to maintain their rights and hold Ireland as a part of the British Empire. Volunteers from all the colonies are offering their services and large funds are being subscribed by those who believe in liberty and who do not want to see the British Empire dissolved."

London Takes the Lead.

"Inniskilling Preceptory has taken the initiative in the Province of Ontario, and is raising a fund that is being liberally contributed to. I will be glad to receive any subscriptions from anyone who wants to help the cause of Ireland and the British Empire."

LAMBETH.

Lambeth, Oct. 10. — Mr. Nathan Tunks has sold his farm and will move to Komoka.

Messrs. Frank and Murray Cornell, of Chicago, are the guests of their uncle, Mr. J. H. Cornell.

Miss Sadie Coleman, of Comber, is visiting Miss Ruth Swanson.

Mr. J. D. Best, of Grand Rapids, Mich., is visiting friends and relatives here.

Mrs. D. Mann is very much improved from her recent illness.

BLENHEIM.

Blenheim, Oct. 10. — C. McAllister spent a few days with friends here recently.

The weekly meeting of the Methodist Epworth League was held last evening, and was largely attended. Preparations were made for the coming Epworth League convention of the London Conference. This convention is expected to be the largest ever held in Blenheim. Over 200 delegates are expected.

After a long illness Mrs. Sarah Markaby died on Sunday evening in her 64th year. Sixteen weeks ago she was a victim of a paralytic stroke, and ever since had been confined to her bed. The funeral was held from the family residence on McGregor street, and conducted by Rev. E. C. Jennings. A family of two sons and one daughter survive.

DRESSED THE PART.

The juveniles of Puddiefurrow had opened their cricket season. The day was fine, and the players were in good form; in fact, everything was in season, even the disgust of the sharp-featured lady whose garden adjoined the pitch.

"Funny thing your boy Jimmy can't play a game without avin' such big ideas," she remarked over the fence to the lady next door. "Wot's he always want ter stand humpre for?"

"Pity you can't get somethink better to do than find fault," came the reply.

"E's got a right ter stand humpre if 'e likes, I s'pose?"

"Dessay 'e as," snapped the sharp-featured lady, "but nex' time 'e sneaks my old man's nightshirt off the line to dress 'isself in 'e'll get summat as'll make 'im want ter give other fellers a chance."

LONDON, FRIDAY, OCT. 10.

WHAT WE REALLY NEED.

The city is faced with the necessity of expending large sums of money for improvements that are absolutely required.

In the first place we must spend some $400,000 for storm water sewers. This is a matter that cannot be delayed. With every heavy rain storm water backs up into cellars, much property is damaged, and the health of the householder endangered. Our present system is not sufficient for the purposes of a growing community like London. It was ample at the time it was constructed. But, it would have been good policy then had we provided larger sewers. That could not be done, as the money could not be secured. It was only by skillful financing that the authorities were able to obtain what was necessary then; they could not have done more. But we can no longer delay the work. There is not only the damage to property from flooding cellars, but there is the danger to health from the inflow of water impregnated with sewage. This brings the matter within the control of the provincial board of health. That body is not troubled by the question of raising money. Where it sees certain work necessary in the interests of the public health, it simply orders it to be done. And if its orders are not carried out, it does the work itself, and the municipality pays the bill. We must have storm water sewers at once.

Then London West needs a permanent breakwater. The amount is not so very large. Yet until the work is done, life and property in that section will not be safe. Every spring, when the ice breaks up, and the river comes down in a flood, there is alarm among the people, and there is a possibility of the return of the disaster that once overwhelmed West London. The present breakwater has served its purpose, but it becomes weaker with each passing year. It must be replaced by the construction of something more enduring. One serious flood may cause loss of life and property for which no money spent afterwards can bring compensation. The breakwater must be built.

Then our growing city demands more school accommodation. A thousand children have been added to our school population since last year, more than half of whom come from the older parts of the city. We require more public schools, and more room in the Collegiate Institute. The board of education has been planning large extensions, and these must be provided.

We need better roads. Some of those we have are a disgrace to the city. In spring and fall they are almost impassable. Not only must we spend large sums to improve our highways, but that expenditure writes on the construction of storm sewers. It would be folly to put down good roads, and then tear them up to put in sewers.

These expenditures are all necessary without delay. They will all begin at once to make return to us in the comfort, health and safety of the people, and in the advanced prosperity of the city.

In view of this it is something to add $700,000 and more for something where the return is problematical at best? The friends of electrification say they believe it will pay, but they have no facts to justify it. On the other hand the facts are against them. Many of our best businessmen believe it will not pay, but instead will only involve us in greater expense afterwards. Is it not common sense to content ourselves for the present with spending money for what we know we must have, and not add to our increasing debt by large outlays for something of very doubtful value?

THE CONFERENCE CAN WAIT.
 The British Government declines for the present to summon an Imperial naval conference, which has been urged by Australia.

The British authorities can scarcely be reproved for postponing this delicate and difficult task, when their energies are claimed by more pressing problems at home. Even the parliamentary recess, the first long respite in years, is to be devoted to a platform campaign, waged by every member of the Government. The launching of the great land reform propaganda comes on the eve of the final and most critical stage of the Irish question. On these things a defence conference can wait—and can afford to wait. The German scare has vanished; the old feeling of security has settled on the British public.

Canadians, however, can appreciate Australia's attitude. She is seriously concerned over Pacific defence. Now that her fleet is approaching completion, she wishes to work out a scheme of co-operation with the mother country and the other British Dominions facing Pacific waters, particularly Canada. But the situation has been complicated by Canada's refusal to carry out the terms of her agreement with Australia in 1910, and by the Admiralty's sudden change of policy. The First Lord of the Admiralty's attempt to drive this country into permanent contributions and a centralized government of defence, and the Canadian Government's surrender to these influences, are now reacting injuriously on Imperial relations. As matters stand, Australia has done her part, her duty, but finds herself alone and unsupported. The majority of the Canadian people are, we believe, favorable to the creation of a Canadian naval service to co-operate with Australia and other British Dominions in the Pacific, but unfortunately the Canadian Government has betrayed Australia and declines to retrace its steps or allow the electors of Canada to declare their preference for the self-respecting and patriotic course outlined by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and resolutely and successfully pursued by the Commonwealth.

In the meantime, however, the British Government plainly announces that it considers the internal and domestic questions in the United Kingdom more urgent than that of defence. This is the best answer to the emergency cry, and utterly demolishes the case for the contribution proposed by the Borden Government.

WHY THIS CHANGE?

Since the passage of the new tariff law in the United States, the Conservative papers supply some very amusing reading. One of the chief arguments advanced against the Liberal policy in the last election campaign was that it would alter the lines of trade going east and west, it would go north and south. The result would be most disastrous. One of the most violent papers was the Montreal Star. This was what it feared:

"If we turn the swollen stream of our food exports away from the west-east lines that carry it to the British coast, and send it along north-south lines to the American market, or rather the American middleman, we will utterly shatter the costly steel framework of this nation, and debate the Dominion to a string of subject provinces, serving the convenience of the nearest American centres. The confederation will be cut at a half-dozen vital points. The provinces by the sea will be isolated, their industrial future negated. The arteries that lead to old Canada will collapse through starvation, and the Americans will think of them chiefly as a collection of fishing villages."

But now, with scarcely an exception, these fearful pessimists are pleased with the new arrangement. We are going to have free, or almost free, access to the American market without giving anything for it—in other words, without relieving ourselves of taxation. But what about the dangerous north and south traffic? The very thing we were warned against! Has the menace disappeared? Has it gone to join the other "emergency" of which we hear so little now? What a systematic hypocrisy it was can now be seen only too clearly.

Why should the filthy spit-ball be tolerated in baseball?

Still another fine day for outdoor work by the Chateauguay rubber-boot brigade.

The electrificationists call themselves boosters. Yes, boosters of the tax rate.

If this weather keeps on there'll be no water in the Chateauguay River worth damming.

The mayor wants a third term. With the tax rate at 24 9-10 mills, the city simply can't afford it.

Electrification and electrocution are synonymous in the case of the London and Port Stanley Railway.

The story that Mr. Rowell will ignore the banish-the-bar policy in the Peel by-election is a fabrication discredited by its own stupidity.

The German bogey excites a very languid interest in East Middlesex. The touring cabinet ministers cannot galvanize it into the semblance of a live issue.

Dr. Pyne is described as Sir James Whitney's family physician. In that role the Doc is doubtless proficient, but as a political physician he is making his party sick.

Mr. Glass is importing into East Middlesex all the big guns that can be persuaded to come. He is producing a larger volume of sound, but Mr. Fisher is sawing more wood.

This talk of cheapening hard coal by electrifying the L. and P. S. R. is sheer fiction, a dishonest bait for votes. If hard coal can be shipped in over an electric road it can be carried by a steam road as soft coal is today, and it can be carried more cheaply.

A GOOD WORD FOR PUSSY.

[Montreal Gazette.]
 A crusade against cats and dogs as disease carriers leads Dr. Stubbs, of Chicago, to come to their defence. The bacteria which they carry, he holds, do not produce disease in human beings. And to the charge that kitty does not earn her living he presents the answer that every cat kills at least two rats and five mice in the course of a year. Every mouse, he says, does two dollars' worth of damage in a year, so that by his estimate, the service of a cat is worth around $15 a year. The recurrence of a plague on the Pacific coast and the call for a renewed war on rodents will probably strengthen kitty's defence.

LITERARY INCOMES.

[New York Post.]
 Those who are acquainted with the record of English literary incomes since Chaucer was a court servant will not find it a particularly harrowing fact that, according to The London Daily Express, "not more than fifty British novelists make an average annual income of $5,000." Indeed, some people will find it a ground for regret that Miss Corelli is said to have made $100,000 in a single year, and Hall Caine, twice that. The other happy plutocrats of an average income of $25,000 or more, are, it is said, Wells, Kipling, Garvice, Stapoole, Conan Doyle, and Mrs. Ward, Massfield and Noyes are said to flourish on poetry, and T. S. Eliot and Morley on biography; as to the dramatists, we are left to judge only from Shaw's quarrels with the income-tax collectors. These estimates, naturally, are inspired by the striking literature of Hall Caine's latest publication. Their one significance is that every change effecting English book-selling—sixpenny editions, the growth of the libraries, the social developments like the motor-car and the week-end—has been in favor of the few big sellers and against the authors with a small, select audience; and similar causes are operating in a similar way in America.

PROPHET NORTHCLIFFE.

[Ottawa Free Press.]
 Lord Northcliffe says that civil war is inevitable in Ireland is given home rule. He must have been reading some of the ridiculously sensational dispatches from Ulster that have from time to time been printed in his paper, the London Daily Mail. The opinion he has given out in Montreal is only a rehearsal of the sanguinary struggle between nations, with a few massacre horrors on the side, makes good newspaper "copy." A properly bloody civil war would be even better. Lord Northcliffe's vision rarely extends beyond the interests of his publications—and himself.

CARADOC FARMER WAS HELD UP AND ROBBED

A Trio Takes Cash From the Pockets of John Bancroft.

After taking three men, whom he met in a King street hotel, about the city with him, while he was selling potatoes, and later into the country, John Bancroft, a Caradoc farmer, was set upon and robbed by the trio in Oxford Park, a subdivision west of the city, at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night.

The matter was reported to the police by a party of motorists, who, while returning to the city shortly after the occurrence, met Bancroft in the middle of the road in the vicinity of the hotel. Later Bancroft himself reported the case at the police station.

The trio secured very little money. Bancroft told the police that he was in a King street hotel, and had just sold the potatoes he was going home, but that he intended to sell some potatoes on the way. One of three men who were standing nearby stepped up, and after asking him in which direction he lived, asked him to ride with him, saying that he and his companions lived in the same locality.

The farmer readily agreed and started off with the men in his wagon. They tried in several places to sell the potatoes, but were unsuccessful, and one of the men suggested that Bancroft drive to his home, near Oxford Park, saying he was sure his father would purchase the potatoes.

Bancroft decided to do so, and a moment after turning off the main road on to a side road, the trio set upon him and demanded his money. Two of them grasped him by the arms while the third went through his pockets. They apparently expected to get a much larger sum than they did, for on learning that the first search of the pockets had only netted about $4, they went through the pockets again, and then demanded of the farmer the hiding place of the rest of his money.

After the robbery, the men jumped from the rig and made off through a field.

Bancroft was able to give a good description of the men to the police.

"Farm properties in Middlesex County are very valuable holdings, and a great number of transfers are being made. The prices of transfers are being made at largely-increased prices," added Mr. Anderson.

Had a Stroke Of Paralysis

And Found a Cure in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is always better to prevent serious diseases of the nerves. There are many warnings, such as sleeplessness, irritability, headaches and nervous indigestion.

Prostration, paralysis and locomotor ataxia only come when the nervous system is greatly exhausted. Even though your ailment may not yet be very serious, there is a great satisfaction in knowing that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will cure paralysis in its earlier stages.

Mrs. R. Bright, 215 Booth avenue, Toronto, writes: "Two years ago my husband had a stroke which left him in a weak, nervous condition. He started taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and we saw the good results almost immediately. They have made a new man of my husband and we cannot speak too highly of them."

GUilty OF NEGLECT FOR BEING A MOTHER

Teacher Dismissed After a Long Controversy on New York Board.

New York, Oct. 10.—The board of education has finally decided teachers may marry and still retain their positions, but they must not bear children.

Any woman who stays away from school for that purpose is guilty of neglect of duty and subject to dismissal. So Mrs. Bridget C. Pelkotte, in charge of public school No. 14, the Bronx, who absented herself from her classes Feb. 3 last and remained absent until suspended, April 22, having given birth to a child on April 7, was dismissed yesterday by a vote of 27 to 5.

The case of Mrs. Pelkotte had been carried over for the past two meetings of the board, so when a motion was made to defer action, the motion was not even seconded. All attention was centred on Dr. Ira S. Wile, when he fired the opening gun in Mrs. Pelkotte's defence.

"The fact that a teacher is a mother, with her sympathy awakened, is far more apt to make her better able to understand her pupils," he said. "One of the largest and most select private schools in this city, employ only married teachers, and gives them leave of absence as may be required. Do you want this case carried to the courts, as it surely will be, and be humiliated by their decision? You are penalizing motherhood. If you do not want to have married teachers, all right, but do not, I beg of you, make a law allowing them to marry, but not to bear children."

DR. HILL BACK

Delivered Several Addresses at Different Points in Canadian West.

Dr. H. W. Hill, director of the London Institute of Public Health, has just returned from attending the meeting of the Canadian Public Health Association at Regina.

During his trip to the west he also visited Saskatoon, Edmonton and Calgary. While in Edmonton, Dr. Hill was invited to speak before a special meeting of the Canadian Club on the Institute of Public Health, which it is proposed to establish in that city along the same lines as the London Institute. He also delivered a popular address on "Tuberculosis" at the First Baptist Church there. In Winnipeg, Dr. Hill attended the Canadian Conference of Charities and Corrections, and during his stay there a special meeting of the Winnipeg Medical Association was called, and listened with great interest to a lecture on "Tuberculosis" by Dr. Hill.

Saturday next Dr. Hill leaves for Montreal as one of the public health examiners of the Medical Council of Canada.

PLEADED GUILTY TO RIOTING IN STRIKE

Nineteen Union Men Make Unexpected Pleas—None Sentenced Yet.

Vancouver, Oct. 9.—Contrary to expectations, nineteen of the union men charged with rioting in the recent labor troubles at Nanaimo, pleaded guilty today when they were brought before Judge Howey for trial at the Coal City. All of these were young men, mostly English miners, and none were officials of the union.

The courtroom was crowded to capacity when the proceedings opened. Fifty-two cases were called. Of these fifteen were elected for jury trial, and will have their cases heard probably before the end of this month, at the conclusion of the bank robbery case in New Westminster. Late this afternoon a start was made in hearing the evidence against the last eighteen. No sentences will be announced until these are concluded.

"Old Tommy" Can Only Say "Meow" But He Gets Money for Sick Sailors

PUSS INTERVIEWING A NEW ACQUAINTANCE.
Our picture shows "OLD TOMMY" being interviewed by a new acquaintance. Now you must know that this fine cat is very polite, although the only thing he can say is "Meow!" He looks important, you think?
Well, it is no wonder. He has a perfect right to look important, we should say.
"Old Tommy" collects coin for the Seaman's Hospital at Greenwich pier, England!
Everyone who visits the pier—and there are heaps of visitors—stops and says how-do-you-do to this kitty cat. He has a collecting box, you see, and into this visitors are expected to drop a coin to aid the Seaman's fund. The unique plan works just splen-

1. In saying "How do you do?" or "Hello!" to a girl should I use her first or last name?
2. When a lady and a gentleman meet people on the sidewalk which should take the lead?
3. While at church which should go in the pew first?
4. In getting on a street car which should get on first?
5. In going in a theatre which should go in first?
6. Suppose while walking with a man he should speak to a lady acquaintance, should I put my hand to my hat?
Thanking you in advance for the answer,
E. F. G.
1. Yes, raise your hat and say "How do you do?"
2. That would depend entirely on how well you know her.
3. The gentleman allows the lady to precede him.
4, 5 and 6. The lady. But in getting off a street car the gentleman alights first in order to help her.
7. Raise your hat whenever you see him do so, whether you know the people to whom he speaks or not.

ENTERTAINMENTS

SOME EASY PARLOR TRICKS.

Partly fill a soup-plate with water; have ready a dry tumbler and a piece of paper about four by six inches in size. Light the paper and when burning well place it in the tumbler, at the same time turning the latter upside down in the water. When the paper has thoroughly burned out, the glass will have acquired nearly all of the water.

Use a large drinking-glass, conical in form. Place a quarter of a dollar in it, fill it about half-way with water, place a plate on the top of the glass, and turn all quickly over, so that none of the water will escape. A piece of silver as large as a half-dollar will appear on the plate and somewhat higher up another piece, about the size of a quarter dollar will appear.

Fill a tumbler with water and place over it a piece of paper to cover the water and edges of the glass. The glass must be absolutely filled with water. Place the palm of one hand on the paper, and taking the glass up with the other hand, place the paper on top; now quickly turn the glass upside down on a smooth, flat surface; withdraw the paper gently; the water will remain in the glass since no air can get in.

Even though they do not succeed at first attempt, the little folks of the household will enjoy trying these tricks, and if the performances are carried on in the kitchen, mother is sure not to mind the mess or the spilling of a little water.

Rural School Garden Exhibits at All Fairs

Admirable Line of Instruction for Country Children.

[By "Elspeth Wilson,"]
One of the leading attractions at the local fairs this fall was the rural school garden exhibits, which in quantity and quality reflected the greatest credit upon scholars and teachers alike. How well we know with what zeal a child is apt to undertake a new task, but how quickly the pleasure palls; and here is where the teacher's counsel and encouragement counts, the results being evident in the creditable showing of both flowers and vegetables.

Parents Delighted.
One of the pleasing features was the interest shown by the parents of the pupils as they proudly enumerated the different articles produced by their own children. How "this large carrot was grown in Jack's plot," or "these asters and tomatoes are the girls'," thereby giving additional satisfaction to the children, that the "grown-ups" are appreciating their efforts.
Judging from remarks made by fair visitors, a feeling exists that the school board or teacher adopting this line of education is striking at the very root of discontent with farm work. Formerly little in our school curriculum fostered love of agriculture in a practical way, but good results are looked for in the future.

THE POET'S CORNER

ENGLAND'S HOPE.

The beggar's rags fluttering in air
Do to rags the heavens tear;

The harlot's cry from street to street,
Shall weave old England's winding sheet;
The winner's shout, the loser's curse,
Shall dance before dead England's bier.

Every night and every morn
Some to misery are born;
Every morn and every night
Some are born to sweet delight.

I will not cease from mental fight,
Nor shall my sword sleep in my hand,
Till we have built Jerusalem
In England's green and pleasant land.

—William Blake.

Uses of Mirrors in the Home

Mirrors, of course, are fundamentally useful in showing those who look into them whether their hats are on the proper angle, whether their neckwear is neatly adjusted, and sunny or otherwise.
They are useful for increasing the apparent size and the real lightness of the rooms where they hang. One can work wonders by introducing on dark and cramped walls mirrors to catch and reflect and magnify such light as they receive.
Always place a mirror in a dark hall. If it can be so placed that it reflects the opening into the living or drawing room, it will serve a triple purpose. It will be a convenience to guests and members of the family when they are starting out, it will increase the light

GRAY'S

LIMITED.

Pepper may be added if liked.

Bordeaux Sauce.

Two quarts of sliced cabbage, one quart of sliced green tomatoes, three large onions, one small green pepper, (not the sweet variety), half teaspoonful each of white mustard seeds, celery seed, one heaping cupful of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of salt, one quart of vinegar, one tablespoonful tumeric, one tablespoonful of flour.

Place all these ingredients except the flour and tumeric in a granite stew pan and cook until tender. Mix the tumeric and the flour together, adding just enough cold water to make a smooth paste; then stir into the hot mixture and boil for a few minutes. Seal in cans. This is a delicious winter relish.

CHANGES IN PRONUNCIATION.

In Pope's time tea was pronounced tay. In his "Rape of the Lock" occur the lines:

"And thou, great Anne, whom three realms obey,
Dost sometimes counsel take, and sometimes tea (tay)."

And also:

"Soft, yielding minds to water glide away,
And sip, with mistis, their elemental tea (tay)."

Pope was too good a poet to accuse or negligence in his rhyme.

A hundred and fifty years ago the word was pronounced air.

George Withers in the following couplet illustrates the point:

"Shall my cheeks grow wan with care,
Cause another's rosy are?" (air)

NEW BRUSHES FOR HOUSEHOLD WORK.

We were pottering about in the basement of the big departmental, amongst the countless useful necessary and ingenious articles for kitchen and household use, when Jane exclaimed:

"There is the brush I've been looking for for ages." She reached across and picked up a brush, circular like a lamp chimney, cleaner, but with a very long curved wire handle. I couldn't imagine what it was for.

"Why, for the refrigerator," said Jane, and instantly I saw the usefulness and necessity of the article in question. Many a time I have wished for just such a brush as I labored with hot water and soda to thoroughly cleanse the waste pipe that leads from the refrigerator to the dripping pan. I have used sticks, switches and wires, but never yet have I felt that the pipe was thoroughly cleansed of the odious gray slime that collects from the drippings of the ice. This refrigerator brush is a boon. Its bristles are flexible, yet stiff enough to thoroughly cleanse any narrow pipe through which it is forced, and the flexible wire handle makes it easy to turn or twist inside of any curved piping. It will surely "fill a long-felt want!"

Apart from the delight in finding an article that one has long desired, but has not been easy to find, it is most interesting to spend some minutes in a single department of the large space devoted to kitchen and household articles for the assisting and simplifying of household work. The ingenuity in the designing of brushes for every possible sort of work is in itself something to wonder at. The long-handled brushes for roofs and ceilings, the patent scrubbers and polishers, the furniture and upholstery brushes, the general utility brushes of all shapes and prices—these wonderfully moderate and often ridiculously cheap—are all articles to appeal to the housewife, and often to give her valuable hints as to the simplifying of her work, or to give her new ideas as to how certain parts of her work should be done. There is a radiator brush, for example. Could anything be more essential? And is there anything harder to clean of its dust and fluff than a radiator? But try a radiator brush and all such difficulties are overcome and dust ceases to be a dread in the radiator sections of the house.

HELD GIANTS TO FIVE HITSEddie Collins' Great Work and Schang's
Homer Were Brilliant Features of the Third Game of Big Series, Which the Mackmen Won 8 to 2.

New York, Oct. 9.—Cornelius McGillicuddy's Murder Association, Incorporated, convened at the Polo grounds this afternoon, transacted routine business and adjourned.

On motion of Brother Edward Collins, supported by Brother J. Franklin Baker, and carried by acclamation, it was voted to resume the task of tearing the hide off the Giants and to quit the sort of kidding that interfered with the march of progress Wednesday afternoon at Shibe Park. Messrs. Collins and Baker were appointed a special committee of two to carry out the work and seven others were assigned to assist them.

After the meeting refreshments consisting of singles, doubles, triples and home runs were served, and a good time was had by all, excepting John J. McGraw and his employees and friends numbering upward of 25,000. The latter class was unamused by the Mackmen's bunch of vulgar, common persons who play professional baseball for a living and thus are not entitled to associate with amateurs, such as some of the New York players.

HAD BIG AFTERNOON.

To get to the point of things, Philadelphia had what some of the fans called "one of those days." There is no use trying to describe all the things of this so-called contest, for it is demoralizing to the young to see such things in print. Many criminals have confessed on the scaffold that they got their start watching the Athletics assault some honest young pitcher who was trying to support his aged mother. They say that if the Mackmen can get away with their rough work, anything ought to go.

Eight to two was the score today. If anybody cares a cuss, we can't just figure out where New York got the two, but it was there on the scoreboard and must have happened. Also there is a well-grounded belief that McGraw has subsidized the scoreboard boy, so that he cheats the visitors somewhat. But anyhow, it is reasonably certain that the Mackmen had a day when they were several shy of the total that would have cheered the heart of Gotham, if indeed the Gotham has a heart.

Managers Do Guessing.

Connie Mack and John J. McGraw each had to do some guessing today in the matter of picking a pitcher. Lean Connie picked up the right answer and Fat Johnny did not. There's the whole story. The Philadelphia boys shook up the names of his young pitchers in a hat, shut his eyes, and drew out the name of Joe Bush. McGraw, by and with the consent and advice of his entire club, picked Jeff Tesreau. At least it was popularly believed during and before the game started, that John had given his mound corps a careful slant and chosen Jeff as the best bet. Afterward some of the experts believed that the New York manager, by way of showing a delicate bit of courtesy to a guest, had accorded Connie the privilege of naming New York's gunner. Certainly Tesreau was the best player Philadelphia had, and the Athletics were seriously crippled when he retired in the seventh, just after Baker had knocked Doyle's right leg out into the field.

About all that Tesreau had was a fine physique and a mouthful of slippery elm. Almost before the umpires and managers had ceased to chat over the rules, the Mackmen had lunched three hits, and with a wild heave by Artie Fletcher, had scored three runs, which was one more than the Giants got all day.

Two More in Second.

In the next inning some more hammering gave another pair of markers. Then Tesreau settled down and went along fairly well until the seventh. The Athletics had another rush of hits to the outfield in this inning, and Otis Crandall came in to finish up the contest, or scandal, whichever you choose to term it. By this time Connie's men were getting hungry for hits, so they made only one tally off Crandall, this coming when Walter Schang "baked" one into the right field stand.

Of course, under such conditions, Joe Bush didn't have a real test. Connie Mack himself or his crippled bat-boy, could have pitched the game and won it from the second inning on. Joe just kept slugging them over, and though he had a couple of wild spells that gave the Giants a chance to figure in the game, he was always able to pull himself together before there was any real danger.

Nobody here had heard much about this Joe Bush previous to today.

three runs, and scored two himself, so it is no great exaggeration to say that McGraw would have been just as well pleased had he been omitted entirely.

New Yorkers consider that they scored a big moral victory in that Frank Baker did not get a home run this afternoon. Possibly he figured that there was no use wasting one in such a cinch game and so contented himself with a couple of singles, both of which scored runs, the first one really putting the Athletics in the ball game. Another reason why Frank was remiss in the matter of marathon clouting was that the New York pitchers did not give him anything that could be pulled around, contenting themselves in keeping him down to bluffs inside the field of play, even though they went safe.

Rube Oldring and Eddie Murphy were almost as puissant as Baker, Collins and Schang in the race, each prodding out two hits. Both "Rube" had a bearing on the score, but one of Eddie's was wasted because nobody could get him to second. McInnis and Strunk were the only Mackmen who did not hit. McInnis had tough luck in not getting a line drive, a little to one side of Burns instead of right at him.

The Giants again presented a crippled line-up, though not quite so awful as Wednesday's. Morris was back at first until he was lifted in the seventh to allow a runner to represent him. McLan again began the backstopping duty, but was later removed in favor of Wilson. Larry caught a very bad game. He used little or no judgment in working up the Mackmen's hitting. Long Larry apparently doesn't like to handle the spitter, which is left's chief stock in trade, so had him bluffing it most of the time and heaving up an imitation fast ball that the Athletics turned into a real fast one, with a hop on it, too.

There was a good bit of select fielding distributed through the game. The latter served to keep the score down. Fletcher made a couple of corking stops, and so did Barry, while Collins and Doyle killed off a number of budding base-knockers. Larry's piece de resistance was a running grab of Baker's murderous grounder during the second. The second baseman again proved that he is a great outfielder and gave additional testimony that as a hitter he is absolutely nix against the spitter, which is left's chief stock in trade, so had him bluffing it most of the time and heaving up an imitation fast ball that the Athletics turned into a real fast one, with a hop on it, too.

Today's game was the only one that has been played under decent weather conditions since the opening of the season. The clouds rolled away about 2 o'clock and the sun shone in a large part of the afternoon. For a time in the early innings when the Mackmen were butchering Tesreau's spittles, it looked as though the contest might be called on account of wet grounds.

Every time one of the visitors connected with a bat, a mist settled over the park and the base lines were getting heavy from the falling spray when Tesreau settled down and temporarily checked the deluge.

The crowd was somewhat smaller than that of the opening day and considerably fewer than the one that saw the Athletics defeat the Yankees in the first game. The fans that the game was gone after the Mackmen tore things up in such horrible fashion in the opening round, and the fact that they were in New York got the couple of men on in their half of the inaugural chapter, but a double quickly silenced the shouting. What little vocal enthusiasm the Gothamites had left was smothered in the second, when Collins lashed a right with a couple of men waiting and brought Philadelphia's lead up to five.

Like Batting Practice.

After the magnificent and breathlessly exciting pitchers' battle of Wednesday, today's affair seemed rather dull. It was altogether too much like watching batting practice, and the writer had to look several times to make sure that the case had been wheeled from the home plate. As an exhibition of hitting it was more or less convincing, but there was not that element of competition which makes a game for real scores. Nobody could particularly enjoy seeing a blacksmith flog a small boy with an iron bar, and that was about what we saw here today.

We have dug up the amazing information that the Mackmen are beating the Giants on the Polo grounds because they think that they are playing the Yankees. They have become so accustomed to walking on the prostrate forms of the New York National League champions that they haven't noticed the switch from Chance's combs to McGraw's outfit. The New York National League management made a big mistake when they let the Yankees in there for any American League championship will be sure to act up when these grounds.

It is rather unusual to see the fans begin to die out of a world's series game after the first inning. Nobody could particularly enjoy seeing a blacksmith flog a small boy with an iron bar, and that was about what we saw here today.

McGraw's people did not begin the sprinting until they were hopelessly out of it with the Mackmen pulled the racey stuff in the first two innings and turned it to excellent account, every man who was implicated in a burglary eventually reaching home.

There was enough of hitting on the Philadelphia side to win without the base running, however. The Mackmen didn't play for quite so many bases as in the opening game of the series, but they made a home run, Collins triple and Schang's homer were the only two extra sackers, but they were jointly responsible for three runs.

Strong With Bat.

As on Tuesday, Eddie Collins was the big batter of the day, getting two singles and a three-bagger in five appearances at the plate. Once he missed a home run into the upper tier of the grandstand by inches only and another time he lined reaches New York on Oct. 28. Inman is at present in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 10.—Willie Hoppe, world's champion American billiard player, has accepted the challenge of Melbourne Homan, world's champion of the Englishman, for a series of four games for the all-round championship of the world at $1,000 a side per game. The final details of the match will be made when Inman reaches New York on Oct. 28. Inman is at present in Winnipeg.

Loudly Cheered When He Left the Ring.

New York, Oct. 9.—"Gunboat" Smith, of California, defeated Carl Morris, of Oklahoma, in the fifth round of the ten-round fight here tonight. The referee disqualified Morris for fouling. The California heavyweight had the better of the match in every round except the second.

Morris weighed 54 pounds heavier than his opponent, and was very clumsy and awkward, often trying to get the better of Smith by sheer force of superior weight. Smith did a lot of hitting, but managed to eat in several good blows. The second round went to Morris. He rushed Smith to the ropes, and at close quarters got in left and right to the head. Morris did a lot of roughing in the third, and was cautioned for holding. Smith landed a right swing to the head and put his right four times to the body.

In the fifth "Gunboat" rushed and sent a hard right to the body. Then Morris put both hands to the Californian's body, Smith coming back with a right to the head. Morris sent a right to the head, and then was cautioned for holding. Morris played for the body. Smith got inside and sent a short right hook to the head at close quarters. In a mix-up which followed, Morris hit Smith very low on the body. Smith staggered to the ropes and tried to pull himself toward his corner, and the referee disqualified Morris.

Morris was the favorite, and the crowd cheered him loudly as he left the ring, Smith being hissed as his seconds assisted him to his dressing-room.

Joe Bush Comes From Same Place as BenderOnce Expressed Wish He Could Pitch in World's Series Against the Giants—Is Not Yet
Twenty Years of Age.

New York, Oct. 10.—Possibly Connie Mack played a hunch in picking Leslie Bush, whose middle name, "Joe," usually is applied to him by his pals, to work the third game of the world's series. For Bush comes from the same town as Chief Bender, who on Tuesday succeeded in putting a game across, though hard hit, and not especially impressive in any way. Neither Bender nor Bush worked as well as Eddie Plank, but both have won, while the left-hander went down to defeat.

Bush's home town in Brainerd, Minnesota, which, as said, also is the native place of the Athletics' Indian boxman. Until the spring of last year the youngster never had pitched a game of ball in any league. He is less than 20 years old now, having been born in November, 1892, and until last season spent most of his summer days twirling for independent ball clubs near his home, after having made a reputation on the Brainerd High School nine.

Two years ago this month, when the Athletics were playing the Giants for the world championship, Bush was at his home. All Brainerd gathered around the telegraph office, at the railroad station, to hear the returns of the world's series. Bender pitched three games that year, winning two of them. He lost the first to Mathewson, 3 to 1. As the account of this game was coming in, Bush said:

"I'd like to pitch in one of those series some time. And I'd like it to be against the Giants, to get back at them for beating the old chief."

Now his dream has come true, much more quickly than he would have hoped, had he thought it ever would be realized. In the spring of 1912 he went to Missoula, Montana, in the Union Association. Bush and Carl Zamocho, who was bought by Detroit and sold to Providence, pitched Missoula to a pennant. Mack bought Bush. He did not use him much at the start of the season, but worked him pretty well towards the close.

Only once yesterday did Bush show any nervousness. That was in the first inning, where he threatened to become unstruck. Eddie Collins, thus far the star of the series, held him up, pausing the game several times to talk to the youngster, and finally pulling off a double play that ended the one threatening situation.

WAITING FANS STEAL

bed of Early Morning
Deliveries.

[Canadian Press.]

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—There were live, by times around Shibe Park in the early morning hours. More than 1,000 fans were in line at 7 o'clock, when the night watchman was shifted to the day squads. While the change was being made the police for a time lost control and there were free fights in several places about the park for positions in the lines. Strong men pulled weak ones out of their places, boxes and boards were thrown, and a general mix-up followed. At 9:30 o'clock the police estimated that 1,000 persons were waiting for the gates to open.

Shibe Park is situated in the residential part of the city, two-story houses bordering the park for positions in the lines. Many complaints were made to the police of stealing of milk, bread, newspapers and dog mats from the front stoops of the house-owners, but the police were unable to determine who among the big crowd were the offenders. The police picked up more than two dozen of the waiting fans, but no arrests were made, as the police could not prove they were stealing. The mats were taken to a police station to await identification by the owners. Two fruit stands on street corners near the grounds were broken open during the night and raided.

Four hundred policemen who were detailed for duty inside the park during the game were ordered on duty at 9 a.m., two hours earlier than the game. The gates were opened shortly before 10 o'clock.

Fletcher safe at first, McInnis on the bag. In order that these pictures be distributed as soon as possible, a special messenger had to leave the grounds at the end of the first inning to make train connections. In this picture Fletcher is seen going back to the bag when Bender has thrown to catch him after he had singled safely. Fletcher was out a moment later, stealing.

DEMAREE MAY GET CHANCE TO STOP MACKMEN TODAY

McGraw May Pin His Final Hopes on Cartoonist Pitcher in Forth Game of Series—Bender or Brown May Oppose Him.

[Canadian Press.] Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 10.—Low-hanging clouds this morning threatened rain for the fourth game of the world's series. The forecast for the day, however, promises fair weather. The playing field at Shibe Park is in good condition.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 10.—With one team determined to even up the series, and the other anxious to improve the advantage won yesterday, the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Athletics were prepared today to battle their hardest for the fourth game in the world's baseball championship series. Victory for the American League champions would mean that they would have only one more game to win to carry off the blue ribbon of the ball field, while a defeat for the champions of the National League would make it quite doubtful if they could recover sufficiently to win three straight and baseball fame.

Now that two of the New York pitchers have met defeat at the hands of the Athletics, Philadelphia fans felt more comfortable and were confident that the home team would triumph today. The victory yesterday of Bush, Connie Mack's youthful twirler, over the veteran Tressau, has measurably increased the optimism of the Athletic adherents as to the final result of the series.

The weather outlook for the day promised fair skies in the afternoon.

Everybody Praising Bush. Every evening another big throng gathered at Shibe Park to wait in line all night for the bleacher gates to open this morning. It was an even larger crowd than that which waited in the drizzling rain for Wednesday's game, due perhaps to the improvement in the weather. The moon was seen last night for the first time this week, and an occasional star was visible through the thin clouds. All along the line of waiting fans could be heard praises of Leslie Bush, and predictions that more of Mack's young pitchers would give a good account of themselves before the series ended.

Many of the Athletic adherents believed that Shawkey would be the pitching choice of the White Elephants' manager, and figured that he would be equally as puzzling to the Giant batters as was Bush yesterday. Bender, however, was anxious to go in, and there is a strong possibility that his wish might be granted.

Only Demaree Left. The Athletics have now faced the pitching of Mathewson, Marquard, Crandall and Tressau, three of whom are the pick of the New Yorks' twirling staff, while the Giants have batted against Bender, Plank and Bush. Each of the Philadelphia pitchers finished his game without assistance, but of the New York moundsmen only Mathewson, winner of the wonderful ten-innings victory against Plank, completed a game. Manager Mack has Shawkey and Brown in reserve, while Manager McGraw has Demaree, but neither manager has given any intimation who would be used. Mack said that he was "not worrying a bit about pitchers."

"The result of yesterday's game bore out my claim that we had young pitchers who could be compared to any on the Giants' staff," said the Athletic manager. "Of course, a club that is equipped with hitters does not have to depend so much on good pitching to win. Mathewson twirled a wonderful game against us, but I do not think one pitcher can win a world's series. The other pitchers in our younger set are just as eager to show in the series. Bush was actually disappointed because he had a three-run lead when he went in the box yesterday. Anyone could win this kind of a game," he said. "That's the kind of material I have on the pitching staff. It's all I can do to keep them on the bench."

McGraw Not Discouraged. Despite the seeming advantage held by Philadelphia in the two victories to one, Manager McGraw appeared not at all dismayed, and declared his men had just begun to fight. Should they win today the series will once more be even, two all. Mathewson probably would be ready to pitch again in New York tomorrow, and is likely to be opposed by one of Mack's youngsters, in case Bender was Mack's choice today.

It is believed by many that Manager McGraw would depend upon Demaree to lead his team to victory, although Marquard, who was taken out of the game after pitching five innings in the opening contest in New York, was said to be anxious to redeem himself, and may be given an opportunity.

"Chief" Meyers, the Giants' star catcher, whose finger was sprained during practice here on Wednesday, was not in condition to take up his duties behind the bat, but McGraw had able substitutes in McLean and Wilson, either of whom was likely to be the New York manager's choice for today. McLean's ankle suffered no further in yesterday's game, and he is expected to play.

Residence Owners Warned. As a result of the overcrowding of the roofs of residences bordering Shibe Park on two sides while Wednesday's game was on, the chief of the bureau of building inspection served notice on the proprietors warning them that such crowding was dangerous, and that the owners would be held strictly responsible for any accident that might occur. It is not believed, however, that this will to any great extent deter the householders from again packing their roofs with spectators today.

For the first game of the series one householders said that he had made more than $100 by selling seats on his roof. Today many residents were again preparing their houses for occupation.

The probable batting order:

New York—Herzog, 3b.; Doyle, 2b.; Fletcher, s.s.; Burns, 1. f.; Shafer, c. f.; Murray, 2. f.; McLean, c.; Merkle, 1b.; Demaree, p.

Philadelphia—E. Murphy, r. f.; Oldring, 1. f.; Collins, 2b.; Baker, 3b.; Melins, 1b.; Strunk, c. f.; Barry, s. s.; Schang, 1b.; Bender, p.

PETROLEA OBJECTS TO CHANGES IN SCHEDULE

Oil Town Club Has Two Hard Games With London and Sarnia Within Three Days.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Petrolia, Oct. 10.—Petrolia has come out on the small end of the horn as usual in the rugby schedule, when Secretary Livingstone, of the O. R. F. U., is managing affairs. The local team must play on Oct. 18 in London, and then again play on Monday, Oct. 20, in Petrolia with Sarnia. As the teams are well matched, these games will be hard ones, and only one day intervenes, in which the players will only stiffen up, as they cannot practice on Sunday. It looks as if Petrolia has been made the "goat." The question is asked here, why doesn't Secretary Livingstone let Sarnia or London suffer for once?

THISTLE CLUB MEETING. The meeting of the London Thistle Club bowlers, which was to have been held this evening, has been called off, and instead will be held on Oct. 24. The curlers' meeting, set for Oct. 17, will be held as arranged. The plans for amalgamating the two clubs are nearly completed, and it is expected that at the meeting on Oct. 24 the officers for the joint club will be elected.

WEIGHTED DOWN WITH IRONS ON HOSPITAL COT, JACK COOMBS CRIED BECAUSE HE COULDN'T GET INTO THE GAME.

While the Athletics were battling desperately for the world's championship which he had won for them in two past seasons, "Iron Man" Jack Coombs, their backbone pitcher, lay on a cot, weighted down with irons, helpless as a child, in the hospital of the University of Pennsylvania.

And, just like a little child, the iron man wept as he told of his yearning to be on the field, fighting with his team-mates in the great struggle.

Convalescent from typhoid on the eve of the world series this year, he had been eagerly getting into trim to play HIS part in the battle, it would be SOME PART, he knew.

Already, in 1911, Coombs had faced the Giants in a world series campaign—and had humbled them in two glorious games. In 1910 he had taken three out of four from the Cubs. In 1913 he was to have faced the Giants again.

Then came the relapse. Harmful poisons, secreted in his system as a result of his typhoid fever, threatened to affect his spine. He went back to the hospital. Heavy weights attached to his head and feet served to pull apart the vertebrae of the spinal column and allow the blood to carry off the poison.

Victor-Victrola -- The Creator of Pleasant Evenings

The Victrola is the ideal entertainer, it adds gaiety and pleasure to any occasion. It is a whole concert or "show" in itself. When classical music is desired the greatest singers and musicians in the world render it for you. When the lighter, popular forms of entertainment are wanted, the foremost entertainers provide it, by way of the Victrola, each in his or her own inimitable style.

Don't be without a Victrola any longer.

There is a "His Master's Voice" dealer in your town who will be glad to play any music you wish to hear on the Victrola. If you find it inconvenient to call on him it would be a pleasure to him to give a demonstration of any instrument you desire, in your own home. Victrolas cost from $20 to $300 and are sold on easy payments (as low as $1 per week) if desired. Victor records are 90c for 10-in. double sided. Ask for our Catalogue listing over 5000 Victor records.

storm sewer system in the City of London, and it is necessary that the same be constructed in order to preserve the proper working of the sewerage system, and to provide drainage for the city, and the cost of the said storm sewer system has been estimated at $400,000.

And whereas, it is expedient to borrow the sum of $400,000, and to issue debentures therefor for a period of thirty years from the date of the issue thereof, for the purpose of constructing the said storm sewer system;

And whereas, by an act passed by the Legislature of the Province of Ontario, and known as the City of London Act, 1908, it is by section 22 thereof provided that the limit of the borrowing power of the said corporation shall, notwithstanding the provision of any act or law to the contrary, be fourteen per centum of the assessed value of the whole rateable property of the said City of London, as shown by the last revised assessment roll for the time being of the said city;

And whereas, it is by section 22 of the said last-mentioned act provided that in calculating the amount of the indebtedness of the said corporation for the purpose of ascertaining if the limit of its borrowing power, as fixed by the said act, has been reached, the net amount of its indebtedness for waterworks purposes shall be the sum of $450,393.36, and any liability in respect of local improvement debentures, issued by the said corporation, shall be excluded in computing the same;

And whereas, the amount of the whole rateable property in the City of London, according to the last revised assessment roll thereof, is the sum of $31,499,493;

And whereas, the amount of the general debenture debt of the city, exclusive of its indebtedness for waterworks purposes, is the sum of $450,393.36, and exclusive of its local improvement debenture debt, except such portion thereof as is payable by the said corporation, is the sum of $3,492,494.33, of which no portion of the principal or interest is in default of payment;

And whereas, the said sum of $400,000 is the debt intended to be created by this bylaw;

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of London, as follows:

1. It shall be lawful for the Mayor of the said city to borrow, for the purposes aforesaid, the said sum of $400,000, and for the purposes of such loan to issue debentures of the municipality to the amount of $400,000, in sums of not less than $100 each, payable at the end of thirty years from the date of the issue thereof, and bearing interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, payable yearly in each and every year during the currency of the said debentures.

2. The said debentures may be made payable in sterling money of Great Britain, or in any other currency, and may be made payable in Canada, Great Britain or elsewhere, and shall have coupons attached for the payment of the interest.

3. During the currency of the debentures to be issued under the authority of this bylaw, there shall be raised and levied annually by the said city, on all the rateable property in the said City of London, over and above all other rates and taxes, the sum of $20,000 for the payment of the interest of the said debentures, and the sum of $7,484.34 for the payment of the principal of the said debentures.

4. The moneys raised under the authority of this bylaw shall be applied for the purposes mentioned in the recitals of this bylaw, and for no other purpose.

Some interesting facts concerning the sidewalk investigation into the new cement walks laid a year ago on Dundas and Richmond streets, were revealed at the meeting of the board of works on Thursday night. City Engineer W. N. Ashplant, in submitting a report on the investigation, showed that of the 59 "flags" they had torn up, only three had been found to be according to specifications. This left 56 square feet to be paid for by the city ($14.25), while the remaining 1,325 square feet was replaced by the contractor, W. J. Anthistle, who will have to maintain it in proper condition for the city. The engineer's report on the contractor agrees to these conditions he will receive nothing on the final payment for the original work.

In explaining the six perfect flags, Chairman B. W. Bennett said that four of them were broken into near the corner of Wellington street, Dundas, to ascertain the condition of the north side. They had been in good condition, and in justice to the contractor should be paid for by the city. The engineer's report on the question was accepted and filed.

Front Street Breakwater.

A deputation of Front street property owners appeared before the committee, asking that something be done to repair the breakwater there. It is in a dangerous condition, and unless something is done to repair it, Front street will be endangered by the spring floods of next year. Engineer W. N. Ashplant was ordered to report on the question at the next session of the board.

Some Assistance Anyway.

Mayor Graham declared again that something was wrong with the expert in working out the system, when part at least of the surplus steam energy could not be used for heating the hospital. He estimated that at least 50 pounds' pressure could be secured for the heating purposes.

"There must be some hitch in the apparatus," was one of his statements. In spite of the fact that it was declared that the incinerator steam would be sufficient to allow the hospital boiler equipment to be discarded, the mayor explained that "with the present hospital equipment and the assistance of our incinerator enough steam should be generated to heat the hospital."

Trust to Pay the Shot.

The suggestion was made that the hospital trust pay the shot for the boilers recommended by Engineer Elliott. However, as the appropriation will have to come from the council in the first place the financing of the proposition makes little difference, as was pointed out in the meeting. Coal will be supplied by the trust at present to allow the coal fire tests to be made with the existing equipment, to see whether, with a steady, continuous fire, instead of the fluctuating garbage fuel, a steady head of steam can be maintained in the "leads" and laterals of the newly-installed hospital-incinerator heating system.

$7,000 IS NEEDED TO EQUIP BOILERS FOR INCINERATOR

Present Equipment Insufficient to Heat the Hospital Buildings.

ENGINEER SO REPORTS

Big Addition to $10,000 Already Spent on Heating System Required.

Before the incinerator equipment will be adequate to heat Victoria Hospital $7,000 for boilers will have to be expended, according to Engineer H. P. Elliott, the expert in charge of the installation of the garbage destructor machinery.

Adoption of his recommendation means an additional charge of $17,000 over and above the cost of the incinerator proper, in the neighborhood of $10,000 having already been expended in installing the heating system, that according to its designer, needs an expenditure of $7,000 more before it is adequate. His report, calling for the expenditure, was presented to the board of works on Thursday night. Following a general discussion on the heating capabilities of the present equipment, the question was laid over until the next meeting of the board, when the engineer will be requested to attend this session and explain the situation as it now exists.

When the incinerator question was first broached, and the present site of the building selected, the object was to supply heat to Victoria Hospital from the surplus steam from the burning refuse. Now it has been discovered that one of the primary objects of the plant's construction cannot be maintained. "Drawing blanks" from the incinerator fires causes a variation in the steam pressure available, under existing conditions, and a steady pressure cannot be maintained.

The recommendation of Engineer Elliott was for the installation of three additional boilers—the third being added to allow for the cleaning of the other two, at an estimated cost of $7,000. One, at an estimated cost of $2,000, should be installed immediately, according to the engineer, even if action on the proposal of $7,000 outlay was deferred for some time.

Surprises Committee.

The fact that the hospital could not be heated from the present equipment was rather a surprise to the board of works. Mayor C. M. R. Graham, who engineered the now famous incinerator contract, was more than surprised. He declared that something had slipped up in the engineer's findings and that a considerable portion of steam should and could be secured from the present plant for heating purposes. The steam expert was at fault somewhere, according to the mayor.

"We have followed his suggestions in everything and now it's up to him to figure out a scheme for providing the utilization of the steam," declared the mayor.

Payment Is Held Up.

Chairman B. W. Bennett, of the board of works, announced that as no coal fire tests had been made with the present plant, the burning of garbage in the incinerator—passed by the council at its last session—was being held up. Preparations were in progress for this coal fire test.

In explaining the situation the chairman stated that in company with Chairman Col. Gartschore, of the hospital trust, he had been present when the steam tests of the heating system were made. While the pressure was good at first it had dropped 100 pounds in less than two hours. He then suggested having a permanent fire under the boilers to see if that would maintain the requisite head of steam. The engineers had stated that there were not the proper draughts to allow this. He expressed the conviction, however, that there were.

Mayor Graham declared again that something was wrong with the expert in working out the system, when part at least of the surplus steam energy could not be used for heating the hospital. He estimated that at least 50 pounds' pressure could be secured for the heating purposes.

MONTREAL HERALD SUES FOR $100,000 DAMAGES

Alleges Conspiracy on Part of Star to Try and Ruin Its Business

Montreal, Oct. 9.—A suit for one hundred thousand dollars damages, on account of an alleged conspiracy to destroy the Montreal Herald and to ruin its business, was entered in the superior court today by the Herald Company, Limited. The defendants are the Montreal Star Publishing Company, Limited, the Montreal Standard Publishing Company, Limited, the International News Service (a New Jersey corporation controlled by William Randolph Hearst), Sir Hugh Graham, owner of the Star and Standard, and Charles F. Crandall, managing editor of the Star.

Particulars of the allegations upon which the suit is based are given in full in the plaintiff's declaration, alleging a protracted and widespread conspiracy on the part of the defendants and other persons unknown, to prevent the Montreal Herald from having access to certain sources of supply from which daily newspapers secure their circulation-building features.

It is also alleged that the Canadian defendants formed a so-called syndicate and induced the New Jersey defendant to break its contract with the Toronto World and transfer its services to their syndicate. The Toronto World was thereby prevented from delivering to the Herald features and services which it had contracted to deliver. The Toronto World yesterday secured an interim injunction restraining the New Jersey corporation from delivering its services to the Star syndicate until further hearing.

Part of Township Surrounded by City

Odd Situation That Municipal Board Is Asked to Settle.

According to the old-fashioned geographers "an island is a portion of land surrounded by water." The old-fashioned geographers and the newer ones, however, have no definition for a portion of a township that is entirely surrounded by city. The answer to that interesting little problem is affording the city officials some anxiety these days.

When the latest annexation order was passed by the Ontario railway and municipal board, joining that portion of London Township, in the vicinity of the Dominion Abattoir Company plant, to the city of London, a number of parcels of property were named. The parcels and the definition of their boundaries was all right, but when an investigation was started it was found that a portion in the very centre of this territory had been omitted. This interesting fact means that there is a portion of London Township, as yet unannexed to the city of London, that touches no other section of the said township, it being bounded on all sides by the city of London. The board made last week, has necessitated the application to the municipal board of an amendment in the last order, handed down by that body.

CATTLE ARRE SCARCE.

[Canadian Press.]
Regina, Oct. 10.—Increased difficulty in obtaining stock cattle from Eastern Canada will be experienced by the stock men of the west as the outcome of the abolition of the United States tariff on imported cattle under the new law. In the opinion of J. C. Smith, live stock commissioner of Saskatchewan, placing cattle, sheep and swine on the free list will have a marked effect on the stock industry in the prairie provinces, within the next few months, while to cattlemen the change will be of especial importance.

CANON GOULD WILL VISIT CHINA SOON

General Field Secretary for Anglicans to Study Conditions.

[Canadian Press.]
Saskatoon, Oct. 10.—The principal subject of discussion yesterday at the missionary conference of the Church of England in Canada, held at St. John's Hall, was the relationship between home and foreign missions.

Canon Gould, of Toronto, and Canon Matheson of Winnipeg, gave forceful addresses on the subject, enlarging on the vision which less experienced men might have had on the subject. A letter from Right Rev. Bishop White, of Homan, China, was read, asking that a deputation from the church in Canada visit China early next year to study conditions. It was decided that Canon Gould, the general field secretary, should go.

The whole of the evening session was devoted to a discussion of the Jewish question in Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa. No definite line of action was decided upon. The sessions are all held behind closed doors. Archdeacon Dewdney furnishing the press with information which the conference desires to make public.

QUEEN TO DEDICATE NEW BATTLESHIP

Victoria of Spain and King Alfonso Will Review Fleet.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Oct. 10.—A cable from Madrid to the Tribune says: President and Mme. Poincaré, accompanied by King Alfonso, Queen Victoria, the queen mother, the premiers of France and Spain, and a large suite, left today in a special train for Cartagena, where Queen Victoria will dedicate the new warship Espana. The king and President Poincaré will then review the Spanish fleet.

While the recent anti-French sentiment has subsided somewhat, a sensation was caused today by an article, signed by Senator Meila, a prominent politician, stating that France's strength in Europe is declining, and that an alliance with her would place Spain in the same position as Poland with regard to Russia. It is said that the Franco-Spanish treaty will be concluded at Cartagena. Gen. Lyautey left today for Morocco.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION NEEDED IN MANITOBA

The Hon. Herbert Samuel Found Lamentable Condition on Western Trip.

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, Oct. 10.—The lack of compulsory education in Manitoba, which placed it a generation behind the rest of the civilized world, was deplored in a speech delivered last night by Right Hon. Herbert L. Samuel, British postmaster-general, at a banquet tendered him at the Montefiore Club.

After praising the west for the evidences displayed of material progress Mr. Samuel said that the lack of compulsory education system in Manitoba was a defect which might be made the subject of serious criticism.

He did not repose to enter deeply into a question which constituted one of the controversial aspects of Canadian politics, but he would at least say this, that the result of the system in Manitoba was lamentable. He had found that among foreign children on the outskirts of Winnipeg there were many who had left school with the most meagre of educations, and many others who had not been to school at all.

"I cannot," he said, "refrain from expressing pain that, in one of the largest and most progressive provinces of the Dominion, I should find a state of things existing almost a generation behind the rest of the civilized world today."

MAY FORM JOINT STOCK COMPANY AT GUELPH

Guelph, Oct. 9.—The joint stock company controlling the Guelph Canadian League baseball team is one step nearer realization. Alex. MacAllister, Arthur Watson and Edward Stewart have been appointed a committee to work up the enthusiasm, and the subscription list. President Mahoney says he will let go the Guelph baseball franchise, team and everything else, for $3,000 on the condition that a joint stock company be formed, and he will assume the obligations of the club. Bonds totalling up to $3,000 will be placed on the open market. If the fans stand behind the movement as firmly as they should, and the committee meets with sufficient response, Guelph will have a team next year.

Bob Proctor won two races with Bismaya (2:09 1/4), a daughter of Bingara and a Kremlin mare.

John L. Dodge expects to name Silk Hat in all of the 1914 early closing events to which he is eligible.

Director L. Braden Direct, Frank Bokash, jun., and some others meet in the Tennessee Wednesday. Urban finishes with the Lexington meeting. The great gelding never again will be shown a mile at speed. A. B. Cox's Zombro Belle (2:13) has won all of the 3-year-old races in the Pennsylvania circuit.

ANNUAL MEETING OF BAPTIST MISSION BOARD

Work in Chili Will Not Be Supervised—Report of the Treasurer.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—It was not altogether a cheering statement that the treasurer of the Canadian Baptist foreign mission board, Rev. E. T. Fox, presented at the annual meeting yesterday. The total receipts to the end of September amounted to $130,000, and as the appropriation for the year amounted to $145,000 there was a deficit of $15,000.

A petition was presented from the Baptist Union of Southern Chili asking that the board take the union under supervision. The board, however, on account of the burdens in India and Bolivia, decided to decline the application at least for the present. Hope is entertained that the Southern Baptist convention, which has work in Argentina, will take charge of the mission in Chili. It was further decided on account of the present conditions in Bulgaria, and the death of the superintendent of the Baptist work, Rev. Peter Doycheff, not to take any further steps in regard to the taking over of the Bulgarian Baptist mission.

Rev. Archibald Gordon, B. A., a graduate of McMaster, will sail from Montreal for India on the 25th of this month. He was introduced to the board. He will be supported in the field for the next seven years by the First Baptist Church of Brandon, Man.

A long discussion took place in regard to the question of accepting Government grants for the missionary schools in India. The conference mission has memorialized the board urging that on account of the peculiar character of the situation and the declared policy of the British Government in respect to mission schools, the board sanction the acceptance of the grant. After careful consideration the board voted the matter be referred back to the conference mission in India for further consideration and report.

The members present included the following: Mr. J. N. Shennstone, Toronto, chairman; Dr. W. E. McIntyre, Dr. D. Hutchinson, Rev. M. F. McCutcheon, Rev. F. S. Porter, St. John; Rev. H. Y. Corey, Wolfville; Rev. W. Camp, St. John; Rev. M. A. McLean, Calgary; Rev. A. A. McLeod, Vancouver; Mrs. H. C. Speller, Moose Jaw; Dr. S. S. Bates, Port J. H. Farmer, Mr. W. Craig, Dr. J. T. Brown, secretary, and several returned missionaries.

Sobhs and Freshies in Annual Crash

Molasses Shampoo Feature of Annual Affair at Tecumseh Park.

There is one red letter day at least in the lives of those who attend the medical department of the Western University in this city. It is a day of jubilation and celebration; a day on which the olive branch is laid aside and primitive man bursts forth and "starts something."

On this occasion the freshmen are initiated into the mysteries of "Meddom." For the benefit of those who are unacquainted with the proceedings, let it be known that to the aforesaid class the operation is attended with disagreeable and also painful results. The program since the time immemorial has been to forcibly transport the "fresh ones" to the arena at Tecumseh Park, where they are unmercifully fed to the hungry hordes of tormentors.

Thursday's proceedings were no exception to the iron rule, and the outnumbered "greenies" were "wilfully and maliciously and with intent to inflict bodily injuries" thrumped and trounced. Of course, there was resistance—and one husky gentleman will have many black eyes to his credit. This is an age of cleanliness, and each member was treated to a molasses shampoo by skillful assistants in the art. To add the Grecian beauty effect and satisfy the fine aesthetic tastes of the "sophs," a beautiful stencil design was worked on each boy cheek in tasteful and up-to-the-minute shades of paddy green. When the decorative effects were pronounced, and the "younguns" had the woe-begone appearance of defeated politicians, the festivities were solemnly declared to be ended. The bonds of restraint thus removed, a rough-and-tumble fight was staged, and as a result, the fledgling doctors will be given a chance at patch work in all its phases.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The Canadian men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing at any time.

GOOD SALESMANSHIP SECRET OF SUCCESS

Smallman & Ingram Introduce Novel and Useful Classes for Clerks.

Working under the motto, "The Customer is King in the Store," Messrs. Smallman & Ingram have instituted classes among their employees with a view of instilling in them the principles of good salesmanship. Mr. G. P. Irwin, of the Drygoods Economist, New York, has been brought here to take charge of the work, and since his arrival Saturday last has succeeded in organizing six classes of about forty each. A room in the upper story has been fitted up as a classroom, where Mr. Irwin for a short period each day gives each class little talks on the things that go to make up good service in a large business establishment. The effects of these little "ginger" talks are already beginning to be shown, and several of the clerks have expressed to Mr. Irwin their gratification at the results that followed some of his hints and suggestions.

Secret of Success.
To the Advertiser Thursday evening, Mr. Irwin outlined his methods, and the object he was endeavoring to accomplish. "Service is the secret of success in building up a big business," he said. "Without good service to back it up, the best of advertising is not effective. We want the public to feel when they leave here, that they would like to return. We are endeavoring to point out some of the many little things that go to make up good salesmanship and good service. It helps the clerks themselves by fitting them to hold better positions, and, of course, it helps the store by increasing its business."

Mr. Irwin will remain at Smallman & Ingram's for about two months.

Cures Diseases Of the Kidneys

And is Depended On to Right Stomach and Liver Disorders.
Once Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are introduced into the family and their efficiency becomes known they are usually found too valuable to do without. For everyday life arising from liver and bowel disorders they bring relief promptly, and when complicated diseases of the kidneys and liver develop they often prove a successful cure after doctors have failed. As an illustration, you may read the following, which was received a few days ago:
Mrs. John Wright, 53 McGee street, Toronto, Ont., writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for ten years, and would not be without them. My husband suffered from kidney trouble, and after taking treatment from several doctors without receiving any benefit, tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which worked a complete cure. Since that time we have used them for all stomach and liver disorders."

KAISER PREACHES TEMPERANCE

German Soldiers Put On the Water Wagon—The Emperor
Is a Crusader for Total
Abstinence.

[Special Correspondence of The Eagle.]
Berlin, Sept. 18.—Wilhelm II's good warriors are grumbling because at the coming "Kaiser manoeuvres" no drinks will be served out and because every obstacle will be put in the way of warriors drinking their "honest glass of beer." All this is Wilhelm II's doing, for his Majesty—so says the official "Norddeutsche Zeitung"—is practically a teetotaler and every day frowns more fiercely on the bad thing alcohol. He even drinks toasts in water, letting his guests, if they insist on it, drink them in wine. Never at any time did Wilhelm drink much, but now he will not drink at all, or will drink only "alcohol free" drinks—which is the German name for drinks that are not drunk at all.
Wilhelm has now been nine years practically a total abstainer. He began in 1904, and his former teacher of Gymnastics, Colonel V. Dresky, reported that during a long Mediterranean tour his majesty only twice "tasted" wine and this was on ceremonial occasions when his hosts forgot to put water on the table. Long before that Wilhelm forewore beer. Court Surgeon Schmidt-Metzler says that Wilhelm boasted that in ten years he had not once tasted beer, which formerly was his favorite drink.

Today Wilhelm drinks mostly Fachingen mineral water. This shows him a good businessman, for the Fachingen springs are bottled by the Prussian state. When there is no Fachingen he drinks "Roentgen" or "lemonades," which may be made out of lemons, oranges, gooseberries or other fruit. Kaiserin Augusta Victoria—so says the official "Norddeutsche"—is a demon at making lemonade. She makes it herself, pours it into acouped out pineapples and serves the pineapple in ice.
When Wilhelm's sons went to universities he forbade them to take in the great beer-drinking bouts, and in particular he forbade them to take part in "Sphinx," that is, in drinking as a penalty vast quantities of beer. This was severe of Wilhelm, for it is on record that as a student he himself drank freely though not to the point of debauch. Wilhelm's fifth son, Oskar, got into trouble at Bonn for making a somewhat braggish speech against drinking and the students laughed at him and went and got drunk.
Wilhelm now loses no opportunity to proclaim against alcohol-consumption by students. He told the rector of Giessen University that he much regretted student drinking, and he told the student son of Architect Bodo Ebhardt that drinking is the curse of Germany's youth. Even the jovial deputation of students which came in Berlin University centenary year got a request to think more and drink less. "To start record-making as to whom can swallow the most beer," he said to the scholars of the Cassel Koenig Friedrich

Gymnasium "is a custom which belongs to quite another age."
On one of Wilhelm's latest temperance acts is to order that regimental canteens keep on tap hot tea in winter and cold tea in summer. His dislike of alcohol consumption during manoeuvres has been shown since 1910 when a test showed that soldiers who drank beer were fatigued sooner than soldiers who drank water. Since then he has steadily lectured cadets and sailors on temperance.
Wilhelm in his new abstinence propaganda is proving tolerant. Only in one quarter is he exacting. This is with his own servants. An under-gardener at Potsdam Schlos who served Wilhelm faithfully for twelve years was dismissed summarily because he was seen a bit tipsy at Wanssee. The gardener got into trouble and ended up in court, where it came out in evidence that Wilhelm II. never forgives any employee of his who gets even a wee bit drunk.

SEVEN DAUGHTERS ENOUGH.
A lecture was given recently on the evil of great wealth. In the audience was a man known to the lecturer. The man was the father of seven girls, and the lecturer pointed to him as an example.

"Think," said the lecturer, "of being the proud father of seven daughters. Think who is the happier—the man with a hundred thousand pounds or the man who is the father of seven daughters."
"I will ask you, Mr. Sheldon, who do you think is the happier?" said the lecturer, pointing to the subject of his argument.
The man arose and said: "Well, sir, I think that a man with seven daughters is the happier—a man with the money worries for more; a man with seven daughters never does."

DECLARES FISHERMAN WAS DELIBERATELY MURDERED

Sensational Story Is Told By Pal of Dead Man
Results in Arrest at Warton in Connection
With the Mysterious Death of Charles Jones.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Warton, Oct. 10.—Sensations are expected to develop as a result of an inquiry to be made into the death of Charles Jones, who was drowned on Tuesday.

Emerson Darrach, an Owen Sound sailor, was arrested last evening, and it is now alleged that Jones did not fall overboard during a heavy fog, as was stated, but that he was thrown over by Darrach, following a drunken quarrel.

"Shanty" Fanning, another fisherman on the boat, declares that he saw Darrach throw Jones overboard after they had been quarrelling. He declares that all were more or less intoxicated, but that Jones was the most sober, and was doing the steering when the row started.

All efforts to locate the body have so far proven unsuccessful.

SMALL AUDIENCE AT LAMBETH LISTENS TO FINANCE MINISTER

Mr. Glass Also Speaks—Naval Question the Uppermost Question
—No Hint Whatever of a Permanent Policy.

[By Our Own Man.]

Lambeth, Oct. 9. — One black cat, three reporters, seven speakers, and an audience of about 80 men and women constituted a Conservative rally held in the town hall here this evening. By actual count the total number of those present, including the aforesaid black cat, was considerably less than 100.

Mr. Richard M. Piper was chosen as chairman, and the East Middlesex standard-bearer of the party, Mr. S. Frank Glass, proceeded to set forth the Conservative policy on the tariff question. On this point, Mr. Glass' credit, he was quite definite, and held that Canada needed protection for her industries as much as in the past, and that the Conservative party was as formerly in favor of a strong protective tariff.

Not Definite.

On the naval question, Mr. Glass was not so definite. "What the ultimate policy of the Conservative party may be," he said on this question, "India, and dilated upon the development of Egypt under British occupancy, the continuance of which all depended on increased naval armaments."

A trifle vaguely, Mr. White detailed the Canadian naval dispute down to the present. The nucleus of the Canadian navy established by the last Government had to be manned by English sailors, he said. "Canadians only time and necessity will reveal," straightforwardly admitting that the Conservatives had little or no idea what they would do with the naval situation in the future should their proposed contribution get by the people.

He did argue that it was the duty of the British Empire to prepare for war in time of peace, that Germany had dark objects in view in her enormous naval and military expenditure, that Canada should contribute to the maintenance of British naval supremacy, and that the British admiralty knew best in what way Canada should make her contribution.

Something for Nothing.

Speaking of agricultural matters and referring to the Hon. Mr. Burrell's bill for the assistance of agriculture, Mr. Glass quite made it appear that the farmers were getting something for nothing, and altogether forgetting to point out that the revenues for this appropriation in the first place are largely drawn from the farmer, through the taxes on his farm machinery and other supplies.

The audience listened attentively, including the black cat, which walked up and down the platform and rubbed its fur against the speaker's feet quite fearlessly. And they do say that black cats are bad omens.

In concluding, Mr. Glass expressed regret for the lack of interest which many Canadians take in politics, and urged upon his listeners the desirability of polling every available vote.

Hon. W. T. White, minister of finance, received an ovation that was quite apparently an unfair division of labor on the part of the audience when he rose to speak. He paid a tribute to the late Mr. Peter Elson, M. P., whom he referred to as a man of "very fine personality, and a man of sterling worth and character."

Three Replied.

"I suppose there is no doubt about you electing Mr. Glass to succeed him," said Mr. White. Three voices answered: "None." Thus reassured on a point in regard to which he may have been in doubt, Mr. White in turn assured his hearers that he would not relish the old arguments of the rectitude campaign last election, including the much-recited quotations from Champ Clark's famous oration about the Stars and Stripes and the North

Major Samuel Sharpe, of North Ontario; Major Thomas Beattie, of London; Mr. J. E. Armstrong, of East Lambton, and Mr. Hume B. Elliott, of London, were the other speakers.

LOAN SHARK TOLMAN SENT TO PENITENTIARY

Was Driven Out of Montreal and Winnipeg by Authorities.

New York, Oct. 9. — David H. Tolman, notorious as a loan shark, was convicted this afternoon of violating the state law against usury and sentenced to serve six months in the penitentiary. The complainant, a clerk, testified that he had paid interest at the rate of 200 per cent a year for the use of $10 for three months. The defendant said he had conducted between 40 and 50 loan offices throughout the United States.

"This is the most flagrant case of usury that has ever come to the attention of the court of special sessions," said Presiding Justice Zeller. "Tolman, you are a most miserable usurer."

Warrants for Tolman's arrest on usury charges were issued some years ago in Montreal and Winnipeg, but he was careful to keep out of the jurisdiction of the Canadian courts.

INVESTIGATION

Will Prove That We Give the Most for the Money in

MEN'S CLOTHING

Each season hundreds of men find out that they can buy clothing to better advantage at GRAFTON'S than anywhere else in London.

Sixty years of this finding-out process have brought us the largest clothing business in the city, and each year our leadership becomes more pronounced.

Now it will be perfectly clear to any man who gives the matter the least thought, that such remarkable success could result only from remarkable inducements.

And it will be equally evident that our leadership could only be maintained by providing something better for the money to the several generations of men who have been our customers during the sixty years.

Competition is too keen and rivalry too strong among clothing merchants to allow such unequalled success under any other conditions.

We've had to give more for the money, and we do. We sell you clothing made in our own factory, with but one cost added to the cost of making.

In any other store you have to pay two profits — the maker's and the retailer's.

This is why the same grade of merchandise costs in other stores 25 per cent to 33 1-3 per cent more than our prices.

But even this great saving in price wouldn't account for the wonderful growth of our business if our clothing failed to reach the highest standards of style and quality.

Investigation has proved these facts to many men, and always to their advantage.

Investigation will prove them to you.

Why not investigate at once?

At $8.50, $10 and $12 you can get a New Fall Suit or Overcoat that regularly sells for $12.00, $14.00 and $16.00.

New Cancer Treatment Safer Than Radium

Most Discussed Subject in German Medical Circles—Mesothorium Worth $50,000 a
Gramme—Public Subscriptions to Buy It

Mesothorium, the new "cure" for cancer, has within the last few months rapidly become the most-discussed subject in the German medical world. Optimists claim that an effective treatment of the disease has at last been discovered, and support their arguments by the evidence of numerous successful cases. Even the more cautious do not deny the wonderful results that have been obtained; all that they ask for is a longer period of experiment, in order to discover whether relapses do not occur, and whether, even if the cancerous growths are destroyed, other injurious results are not produced. In the meantime, the interest of the layman has become almost equally strong, and since the high price of the new substance puts it beyond the reach of most private practitioners, public committees and municipalities all over the country are competing for the scanty supply that has been so far produced. The Prussian Government is said to be preparing a bill for the purchase of mesothorium, which will be laid before the Landtag in the coming session. The town councils of Berlin and Munich have each voted the sum of £10,000 for the same purpose. In Jena the public gynaecological hospital has purchased one or two milligrammes for the sum of £1,500, and small amounts have also been obtained by Leipzig and Essen. In Mannheim, Karlsruhe, and other towns public subscription lists have been opened, and a large fund for the purchase of radium and mesothorium has been collected by the Hamburg Research Institute.

The origin of the new remedy goes back to the discovery of the light treatment for skin diseases, in particular for lupus, by the Scandinavian Emsen, who achieved remarkable cures by the concentration of light rays on the diseased parts. The next step was taken after the invention of the Röntgen apparatus when it became possible to employ for the same purpose rays invisible to the human eye. As is well known, the Röntgen rays under certain conditions proved only too dangerous to early investigators, whose health and lives were sacrificed. On analysis they were shown to be composed of rays of different strength, the so-called alpha, beta, and gamma rays, which themselves can be further subdivided. The alpha or weak rays are unable to pierce through metal or vegetable tissue with the same ease as the stronger beta or the still more powerful gamma rays; they are intercepted by the human skin and are the cause of the harmful effects mentioned. On the other hand, it was discovered that the gamma rays could pierce deep into the human tissue, and that, if the weaker rays could be filtered away, under the influence of gamma rays diseases of the skin and cancerous growths could be made to disappear in a most marvellous manner.

How It Was Discovered.

Since the first experiments some ten years ago many successful cures of lupus and facial cancer have been recorded both in the famous Radium Institute at Paris and in the New York City Hospital. Unfortunately, the extreme rarity of radium has made a general application of the treatment impossible. The Paris Institute, for instance, is said to possess one gramme of this precious substance, while in Germany the hospital of Frankfurt, thanks to municipal and private generosity, has obtained six-tenths of a gramme.

At this point came the discovery of mesothorium by Professor Hahn, of Berlin. For some time the Auerlicht-gesellschaft, a company engaged in the manufacture of incandescent mantles, had been making experiments on various substances, uranium, thorium, thorium, etc., for the production of material for use in their factories. Among other substances on which they worked was a certain monacite sand brought over from South America, and it was in the waste products of this sand that Professor Hahn found traces of a radio-active substance, mesothorium. Enormous waste mounds of the sand had already been built up in the neighborhood of Berlin, which the company, as soon as their value was realized, made haste to purchase.

The medical value of the discovery was soon realized, and three gynaecological specialists, Professors Kronig, of Freiburg; Bumm, of Berlin; and Doderlein, of Munich—at once began to employ it in the treatment of those forms of cancer to which women are especially liable. So far between 100 and 150 cases have been treated, with astonishing results. After a treatment generally lasting not more than a few days all outward signs of cancer disappear, the pain ceases, and the patient's general health improves at once. Microscopic examination also of all the parts that can be reached reveals no trace of the disease. One case, so I am informed by an expert in these diseases, has now been under observation for as long as a year and a half, and up to now no trace has been found of a relapse. Professor Kronig and Doderlein, indeed, are refusing after this success to have recourse to operation. Professor Bumm does not go so far, and prefers to combine the two methods. There is, indeed, a limit to the possibilities of the treatment, since when the disease is in a very far developed stage it is not possible to apply the mesothorium rays with sufficient strength to all the parts affected. Even in these cases, however, pain can be alleviated and life prolonged, although a complete cure remains improbable.

Is a Corner Being Made. In brief, the process of treatment is the following: The mesothorium is placed in a small capsule of gold or silver in order to intercept the weaker rays. The capsule is then inclosed in rubber or gauze and inserted as near the affected part as possible, where it is allowed to remain for a period of about twenty-four hours, the treatment being repeated after an interval of one or several days.

Mesothorium differs from radium only in price and in a more rapid loss of power. Whereas it has been calculated that it would need 1800 years before the energy of a gramme of radium is reduced by one half, mesothorium retains its full energy only for the first few years. After this the force is gradually dissipated, until after twenty years only about one-half of the original energy remains. Its great advantage over radium is its comparative cheapness, although even for mesothorium the enormous sum of £10,000 per gramme is being asked. Public opinion here is much disturbed over such a tremendous price, and the Auerlichtgesellschaft, together with the three other companies engaged in the manufacture of mesothorium, have been accused of exploiting human pain in order to obtain enormous profits. On behalf of the companies it is said that the cost of extracting mesothorium from the enormous quantities of sand required, apart from the cost of importing the sand from South America, is very great, and that they are in no way earning what could be called monopoly profits. ELGIN ORANGEMEN ANRY OVER DR. PYNE'S ACTION

Strong Protest Regarding School Regulations Will Be Sent at Once to Premier Whitney and Local Member—Ask That New Law Be Rescinded.

St. Thomas, Oct. 9.—Copies of the following strong resolution, passed by the Orange Association of St. Thomas, will be sent at once to Premier Whitney and Finlay McDermid, M. P. for West Elgin:

"We, the Orange Association of the city of St. Thomas, county of Elgin, in session assembled, do solemnly protest against the action of your Minister of Education, in his instructions to the chief inspector of public schools of this province, by allowing the chief inspector to mutilate the school law, which was put in force by your Government some time ago.

"1. Why was it that this law was placed on the statute books of this province and then allowed to be rescinded by the Minister of Education?"

"2. We are sorry that the Minister of Education was ever obligated and made a member of our association.

"3. We will now ask you to have this power given to the chief inspector of public schools by the Minister of Education recalled and at once rescinded.

"4. Why should the French have privileges extended to them any more than Germans, Austrians, Russians, Armenians, Greeks, Italians, Assyrians or any other nationality coming to our province, or is the Minister of Education catering for the French vote and mutilating the public school law of this province?"

"5. We condemn the action of the Minister of Education and the Government he represents in the action which we deplore, and we shall act accordingly when the proper time comes.

"6. We protest individually and collectively against recognition by the Government of Ontario of any language of instruction in our public schools other than the English language, and, further, any recognition whatever of bilingualism by the said Government against the action of the Government of Ontario with respect to the power given the chief school inspector of this province."

Young Harriman Has $140,000,000 to Give Away

WILLIAM AVERELL HARRIMAN, BOY RAILROAD CZAR.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
New York, Oct. 10. — Bill Harriman, Yale, 13, has a nice juicy melon he can cut if he wants to. It's worth $140,000,000, and several thousand Union Pacific stockholders are clamoring for pieces of that fine melon. But it's up to Wm. A. Harriman, better known as "Bill" Harriman, former Yale coach. He holds his father's big bunch of stock in the Union Pacific Railroad and has the deciding vote at directors' meetings.

GREAT RECEPTION FOR SIR WILFRID AT ST. MARTINE

Liberal Leader Tells Electors of Empty Borden Pre-Election Promises.

DISCUSSES THE NAVY BILL

Declares Fisher Will Win Easily Unless the Constituency Is Bought Up.

St. Martine, Que., Oct. 9.—Another monster audience greeted Sir Wilfrid here today, and ringing cheers repeatedly interrupted the points driven forcibly home by the Liberal leader. "If the people of Chateaugay County can be bought, then Mr. Fisher can be defeated. I do not think that the people of Chateaugay can be bought, and therefore I think that Mr. Fisher will be elected," declared Sir Wilfrid.

Empty Promises.

Speaking of the present Government's two years of power, Sir Wilfrid said: "You that voted for the present Government in 1911, tell me, are those ideas triumphing that you hoped would triumph when you voted for the Conservative candidate? Are the promises made before election being fulfilled? Is it not that they are being unfaithful to all the pre-election promises they made you. I have been forty years in political life. During a large part of that time I have been either at the head of the Government or a leader of the Opposition, and none can ever say that I deceived them. There may be men who believe that I have offered to do what I have not offered to do, or done what I have not done, but never have I practiced deception.

Anti-British Speeches.

Sir Wilfrid quoted some anti-British speeches made by Mr. Seigney, M. P. for Dorchester, and others for the Conservatives in the last election, but who now are talking in the constituency more imperially than imperialists.

"Do they speak now of conscript soldiers? Tearing children from their mothers' arms to send them to China or Japan? This evil law, as they called it, which they would repeal as soon as they gained power, is it not still there?" Sir Wilfrid pointed out that he had lost popularity on the navy question through the campaign of falsehood and misrepresentation.

Fifteen seats having been gained by the Conservatives in Quebec. "But it is not the first time in my life that I have risked by popularity to do my duty," said he. "When one loses the applause of the people it is well that one's conscience should applaud. I am of your race, but I am not a leader of the French-Canadians, but I am a leader of Canadians."

Kept Their Word.

Sir Wilfrid excited great interest and enthusiasm by describing how he was made chief of the Liberal party by members of Parliament the most of whom were English and Protestant. He had refused at first, realizing the difficult that would meet him in leading the minority in Canada, but they had insisted that he should put himself at their head, promising to follow him. "And well they have kept their promise," said Sir Wilfrid. "They have followed me ever since, without regard to what is my religion or what is my race." (Cheers.)

A Shameless Lie.

Later, speaking of Mr. Seigney and other Conservative speakers in the contest, who made the total contribution of $25,000,000 proposed by Mr. Borden was to make an end of all contributions, and cancel for all time Canada's obligations to the mother country, he said: "During the course of my political career I have heard many lies, but I have never heard one worse than that. It is not only a shameless lie, it is a silly one." Here Sir Wilfrid quoted Hon. Mr. Borden's statement that the contribution was only to meet an emergency, while the permanent policy would come later.

Fight Will Go On.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, while expressing confidence in the issue, quoted a remark of the late Sir John Macdonald with regard to the uncertainty of elections. "But whatever comes," he added, "whether Hon. Mr. Fisher is elected or beaten, we will continue the fight which we have commenced against those whose campaign of duplicity in the election of 1911 deceived

UNCLEAN PAVEMENTS MAKE DANGEROUS GOING

Horses Are Falling by the Score and Pedestrians Are in Danger.

Scores of horses are falling down, scores of cars are skidding, and scores of citizens are in danger of injuring themselves, according to the scores of complaints received by The Advertiser in regard to the slippery pavements.

No less than four horses went down within sight of The Advertiser Thursday and numerous other cases were reported. Fire Chief Aitken is one of those who says it is as much as a horse is worth to drive him over the downtown streets these days. There is a thin coating of mud on the pavements, that hardens in the evenings and softens in the daytime, and it makes very treacherous footing for man or beast.

It is requested by those who use the pavements that the city should clean the pavements thoroughly at once before a number of damage suits are launched against the city.

Greasy Pavements.
Supt. Harry Hummeston, of the London street railway, is also having trouble. The falling leaves make the rails exceptionally slippery, while the greasy pavements down town have caused a number of minor accidents between street cars and skidding automobiles.

Supt. Hummeston is not highly enamored with the way the London pavements are kept. "Why don't they flush them instead of dumping the water on them the way they do?" he asked this morning. "There is a scum over the pavements that makes it impossible to make a quick stop with an auto."

FOUR WIVES OF SMITH APPEARED IN COURT

Much Married Elgin Man May Be Sent to Insane Asylum

[Special to The Advertiser.]

St. Thomas, Oct. 9.—George Smith, alias George S. Bowman, came before Judge Colter today on four charges of bigamy and one of false pretences. C. St. Clair Leitch, counsel for the accused, informed Judge Colter that he had proofs that the alleged bigamist had spent five years in an insane asylum in Iowa, and that he believed the accused was a proper subject for medical examination.

He also stated that the prisoner was guilty of three bigamy charges. As far as the authorities know, Smith's first wife was Eliza Anne O'Neill, and he married her at Burgessville, Oxford County, about two years ago.

According to the evidence he has had three marriages this year, on Feb. 10, to Catherine Pullen, of Corinthe; Feb. 11, at Chatham, to Rose Labadie, of Wallaceburg; and Feb. 25, to Annie Johnson, of Dunwich Township.

He is also charged with assaulting the Corinthe wife, and with obtaining money under false pretences from the Dunwich spouse. All four wives were in court this morning, and Smith smiled serenely at them as he entered the room. Later, however, he looked downcast.

Judge Colter appointed a medical commission, composed of Dr. Robinson, London Asylum; Dr. Bruce Smith, Dominion Inspector for Insane Asylums; and Dr. Robert Kains, jail surgeon for the county of Elgin, to examine the prisoner as to his sanity.

The hearing was adjourned until next Friday.

Lloyd George Will Start His Big Campaign On Saturday.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Oct. 10.—A cable to the Times from London says: David Lloyd George's great land fight begins tomorrow at Bedford. The Chancellor of the Exchequer's speech will be the signal for battle all along the line. The Unionists as well as the Liberals however, have a land program, for the votes of the farmer and the agricultural laborer cannot be ignored by either party.

The Unionist policy, of which Lord Lansdowne is the protagonist, is to make the tiller of the soil the owner of the soil he tills. He will then be a propertied person and a Unionist. The Liberal policy is to let the farmer remain a tenant, with his interests safeguarded. He will then be antagonistic to landlordism, and consequently a Liberal.

UNCLEAN PAVEMENTS MAKE DANGEROUS GOING

Horses Are Falling by the Score and Pedestrians Are in Danger.

Scores of horses are falling down, scores of cars are skidding, and scores of citizens are in danger of injuring themselves, according to the scores of complaints received by The Advertiser in regard to the slippery pavements.

No less than four horses went down within sight of The Advertiser Thursday and numerous other cases were reported. Fire Chief Aitken is one of those who says it is as much as a horse is worth to drive him over the downtown streets these days. There is a thin coating of mud on the pavements, that hardens in the evenings and softens in the daytime, and it makes very treacherous footing for man or beast.

It is requested by those who use the pavements that the city should clean the pavements thoroughly at once before a number of damage suits are launched against the city.

Greasy Pavements.
Supt. Harry Hummeston, of the London street railway, is also having trouble. The falling leaves make the rails exceptionally slippery, while the greasy pavements down town have caused a number of minor accidents between street cars and skidding automobiles.

Supt. Hummeston is not highly enamored with the way the London pavements are kept. "Why don't they flush them instead of dumping the water on them the way they do?" he asked this morning. "There is a scum over the pavements that makes it impossible to make a quick stop with an auto."

FEDERATION OF LABOR TALKS IMMIGRATION

Urges Preference For the British Subjects—Next Meeting in Toronto.

[Canadian Press.]

Brockville, Oct. 10.—The Canadian Federation of Labor concluded its labors today after receiving the report of the committee on ways and means and a supplementary pronouncement of the executive committee, both of which were adopted.

The former recommended a referendum of the different locals and organizations on the advisability of increasing the per capita tax by double what is now being paid to meet the expense of the services of a paid organizer.

Future executives were requested to prepare a line of action regarding the work to be undertaken by the convention and forward copies of the same to all locals under the jurisdiction of the C. F. L., this to include any resolutions submitted by the unions so that delegates could act more in uniformity with the views of the membership.

A resolution was passed expressing pleasure over the great increase in population through the efforts of the Dominion Immigration department. It was felt at the same time that a note of warning should be given against the mistake being made of seeking numerical strength instead of strength of character of those coming to the Dominion.

The hope was expressed that British subjects would be sought in preference to others.

The following officers were elected: President, C. G. Pepper, Ottawa; Vice-president, L. C. A. Larocque, Quebec City; secretary-treasurer, G. G. Mercier, Ottawa; vice-president for Ontario, Jabez Shaw, Toronto; for Nova Scotia, S. B. McNeil, Glace Bay; for Quebec, J. N. Richard, Quebec City.

Toronto was selected for the next convention.

YOUNG VANDALS

Boys Do Great Damage to Furnishings of St. John's Clubhouse.

Gaining entrance to the St. John's Athletic Club at the corner of Waterloo and Bedford streets, several night boys, and they did damage to fixings in the building that will likely amount to a couple of hundred dollars. The police have secured the names of six boys, and they will likely appear in the police court within a couple of days.

On first entering the place the culprits pumelled holes in the big curtain that is used by the club for minstrel shows, and they pulled down other things about. Then they descended to the basement, where they opened trunks and scattered costumes, used for minstrel shows all about the floor. Not content with this, they entered the parlor of the clubhouse, broke open a desk and scattered books and papers on the floor.

THE MAIN EVENT

BY BERTON BRALEY.

Silence! All rumbles of wars multifarious.
Silence! The rumors of times most precarious.
Hush all the clamor of politics furious,
Charges and scandals and schemes that are curious;
Cease all the talk of that Greaser imbroglio
Which has been filling each newspaper folio.
Sulzer and Thaw, for the time, cease to worry us.
Tariff and currency simply can't flurry us.
Fandom is tense—and our dignity's gone again!
Brethren, the mighty World Series is on again!

Many a time has this ballad been sung to you.
This is "old stuff" which is cheerfully flung to you.
Still, I refuse to make any apology
When I am warbling of baseball psychology.
Seasons may change, and the rules may be altering,
But the good old grip of the game is unaltering.
Still the old agony, fever and chill to it,
Still the old coaching-box chatter and "con" again,
Still the old cheers—for the Series is on again!

"Hey, have they started? Say, what are the batteries?"
"Mathewson's losing his whip—so the chatter is!"
"Don't you believe it; the Big Six is right again, Chuck full of brains and of vigor and fight again."
"Mebbe so, mebbe so, still I am cynical—"
"Bet you that Baker falls off of his pinnacle—"
"Hi there, you robber; that wasn't a strike at all!"
Some old excitement and, gee, how we like it all!"

Boyhood is back, and our years they are gone again.
Brethren, the mighty World Series is on again!

all over the place. A pool table was also interfered with, cues broken and other damage done.

The work was not discovered until some time later and the police were at once notified. They have been working on the case ever since.

These Special Reports.—City Clerk S. Baker has a special corps of extra clerks addressing the envelopes that will include the special electrification reports that are to be mailed to the ratepayers of the city. These reports have as yet not been printed, but it is expected that they will be ready in a few days.

HER SOLDIER DAD.

Mrs. Johnson was all excitement. Her husband was a Gordon Highlander, and she had an invitation to visit him in barracks in Scotland.

"You'll soon see daddy now," she said to her 6-year-old daughter, as the express bore them to their destination.

On arrival at the barracks Mrs. Johnson was informed that her husband was on sentry duty. One of the soldiers pointed him out to her, but, of course, they could not approach him. The child eyed her daddy with big round eyes, full of wonder, as he backed up and down the square, rifle on shoulder, in his regimental kilt.

"There's daddy!" cried the mother. The child, however, was too lost in this amazing spectacle to answer, but at last it came out.

"Mamma," she said, in a childish treble, but with a strictly confidential air, "if daddy finds the man who stole his trousers will he give me that kiltie frock?"

New Cars at Hand. — Manager C. R. King, of the street railway, expects a part at least of his new rolling stock in the city on Saturday. The cars have been on order since last spring, but owing to the rush of work at the Preston car works, where they are being built, they are already several months overdue. The new cars are of the pay-as-you-enter type and are claimed to be the latest word in street car construction of the type.

Ask Rummage Sale. — The rummage and home-cooking sale held on Thursday in Askin Street Methodist Church was a decided success from every standpoint. The sale continues today and also this evening.

DRILL FOR GAS

Wyoming Men Hope to Secure an Abundant Supply.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Wyoming, Oct. 10. — That interest in well boring for gas has not flagged, is evident from the fact that two drilling outfits are again in town.

Mr. Wm. Aikens will at once begin operations with one rig, while Mr. Thomas Borrowman tried with the other. Both of these parties have had moderate quantities of gas in use for years, but hope by trying again to obtain an abundant supply.

An enjoyable evening was spent in St. James' Church on Thursday, when the Anglican Young People's Association entertained the students of the Normal School. In honor of the occasion an artistic decorative scheme in the school colors, red and gold, had been worked out, and gave the required touch of vivacity and prettiness in mural decorations.

About 300 guests were assembled, and the evening was marked by sociability and enjoyment. An excellent program delighted the audience during a short interval. Two splendid instrumental numbers were rendered by Mr. Penz, Miss Reta Hoskins was delightful in two acceptable solos, while Mr. Arthur Penny was equally good in supplying the same entertainment.

During the evening the Very Rev. Dean Davis, the assistant, Mr. George Vrooman, and the president of the association, Mr. E. J. Penny, welcomed the Normals in suitable addresses. Refreshments were served during the evening, and fun-producing games were indulged in.

Card of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan McKenzie and family wish to thank their friends and acquaintances for their kind tributes and kindness shown in their sad bereavement, also the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Simpson, who sang a duet, accompanied by Mrs. Robinson. Signed by Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie.

MANY PLANS FILED FOR NEW SUBDIVISIONS

Half a Dozen Submitted to Board of Works for Approval.

From the look of the committee table at the board of works last night, the real estate exploitation from the west has been transferred to Ontario with a vengeance. No less than half a dozen plans of new subdivisions were submitted to the board for approval before being sent on to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board.

The subdivisions were: Adam Beck's, Merwin Heights, Wilsall Park (Dundas street east), MacArthur Farm (Wharfedale road), unnamed subdivision in East London.

Two unnamed subdivisions, north of Huron street and west of Waterloo street.

With the exception of the Beck survey, which is on Wellington street between Sydenham and St. James streets, between 500 and 1,200 lots is contained in each of the subdivisions.

"Talk about 'Saskatoon,'" declared Chairman B. W. Bennett, of the board of works, after the inspection was made, declared that considerable improvements had been made since the condition of the road was brought up by the board several weeks ago. He also made the statement that he had the personal assurance of Vice-President T. H. Smallman and Manager C. B. King, that additional gangs would be put to work immediately in putting the tracks and roadbed in proper condition.

"The street railway people explained that with the large amount of new work being put through in the city, the tracks had been somewhat neglected," said Mr. Bennett. "However, they assured us that from now on men would be put at work in making the proper grades, and repairing the tracks generally."

The inspection tour was made via special car, and the party included Chairman Bennett and Ald. J. H. Saunders and W. E. Robinson, of the board of works, Mayor C. M. R. Graham, City Engineer W. N. Ashplant, Vice-President T. H. Smallman, Manager C. B. King, Superintendent Harry Hammeton, and the road foreman of the company.

KIDDIES TOY BOAT TIED UP BIG STORM SEWER

Tiny Ship Struck a Boom in Subterranean Stream and Blocked Passage.

The sad story of how a kiddie's toy boat rendered a big 12-inch storm sewer absolutely useless was related at the session of the board of works last night. For some time the storm-water sewer on William street, past the works of the McClary Manufacturing Company, has been blocked. An investigation was ordered, and the cause of the blockade was found in a 4-inch gas main laid through the tile. This was, correctly speaking, the primary cause only, however. A little toy boat was the real one.

Ship Sailed Away. Some time in the past this little frigate broke away from its youthful owner and went on a voyage of exploration and discovery down the subterranean river that ran through the storm sewer. All was well till the enemy's country was reached. There a boom across the river, in the form of the gas pipe, stopped its progress to the Thames. The boat rammed the pipe head on, but tipped up and stuck.
