Alex. St. Marie Passes.

The sudden and unexpected death of Mr. Alexander St. Marie, of the first concession of Carrick took place on Sunday evening of this week. Mr. St. Marie had been in fairly robust health until about three weeks ago, and was able to assist with the work on the farm about as usual. He became slightly indisposed, and although he spent a good deal of his time resting in his bed, his condition did not occasion his family any serious concern. On Sunday evening, however, while the family were doing the chores at the barn, Mr. St. Marie evidently had a struggle for his breath, for he left his bed and sat down on the chair beside the window. In this position he was found a few minutes later, but his life was extinct. Deceased was in his 74th year, and was born in the province of Quebec. Sixty years ago he came to this part of the country, settling on the 18th concession of Howick. Here he worked hard for years, and by good management, he finally acquired three hundred and seventy acres of land. His wife, who predeceased him about thirteen years, was a great help to him. They raised a family of seven sons and three daughters, and gave them the benefit of an exemplary home training. Mr. St. Marie was a fine type of citizen, honorable in his dealings, a kind and considerate neighbor, and a devoted father. His death is sincerely mourned by a large circle of relatives and friends. His sons are James of Dunganmon, Adam, Anthony and Austin at home, David at Vawn, Sask., and Francis and Ambrose, who went out West on the harvesters' excursion in August. The daughters are Mrs. Frank Hanmore of Cargill and Mrs. Albert Schumacher and Mrs. Herbert Goetz of Carrick. The funeral will take place on Friday morning to the Mildmay R. C. Cemetery.

Campaign Is Quiet.

The excitement and turmoil that characterized the parliamentary elections in former days, is as yet entirely absent in this campaign. The candidates are perhaps busy making a personal canvass in other parts of the riding and are leaving us to do our own thinking. Public meetings will undoubtedly be held in many parts of the riding before the close of the campaign. In the meantime all three candidates aver that their prospects for victory are very bright.

Car Tumbled Over Embankment.

Last Saturday evening Edward Meesey of Ambleside met with an accident that might have been attended with very serious results. In company with two young ladies he was coming down the Elora Road, and when opposite the Dunbar bridge he met Councillor Durrer returning home from the Ayton fair with his colts following the wagon. The colts wouldn't concede to the motorist more than 50% per cent. of the road, and the latter, being anxious to avoid doing them any injury, got too near the edge of the embankment, and over went the car. The occupants of the car were not badly injured, but the car was wrecked up pretty seriously.

Garageman Ed. happened along and fixed up the cars so that they were able to continue on their journey.

CANADIAN FORESTS AT WEMBLEY

Comprehensive Exhibit Impresses Visitors With Quality and Range of Our Wood Products.

Canada's pre-eminence as the "soft-wood storehouse of the Empire" is profoundly impressed on the mind of visitors to the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley, England, by the large and comprehensive exhibit of the Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior.

Canada, with her more than one million square miles of timber lands covered with forests containing about 150 species, produces the finest structural timber in the world as well as woods for many other industrial purposes; and this fact has been strikingly brought out in the Wembley display.

Prominent in the exhibit is a wonderful array of 184 panels of 40 different woods, most of which it is demonstrated are obtainable in large quantities. The woods are grouped according to character, each group being separated by various exhibits of structures and articles made of these particular woods. The first object that attracts the eye upon approaching the forestry exhibit is a large portico in the middle of the main wall, the columns supporting which consist of ten-foot sections of western yellow pine, with the bark left on. Looking through these columns a spacious landscape may be seen, the main feature of which is a model of a groundwood pulp-mill, with water flowing in the river and out of the spillway and tail-races. As part of this feature of the exhibit great rolls of Canadian newsprint are shown. Near by is a group of giant timbers which includes 2 solid blocks of Douglas fir, each twelve feet high and practically five feet square; a segment of Douglas fir eleven feet in diameter, and a timber sixty-four feet long, sixteen inches wide, and eight inches thick.

Between the panels, which are ranged along the walls, are eight glass cases containing specimens of all Canadian woods; miscellaneous forest products, such as artificial silk, yarns, textiles, wall-board, maple sugar, spruce gum, cascara extract, cedar oil; results of distillation of hardwoods, including charcoal, wood alcohol, acetate of lime; musical instruments; and models showing timber tests as carried out in the Forest Products Laboratories. The panels and wall cases are separated by larger exhibits showing the commercial application of the various species, such as aeroplane parts, organ fronts and pipes, piano sounding boards, etc.

The history of Canada's forests is also eloquently told on the walls above the panels and wall cases, in a series of stage settings, showing the growth of the lumber industry through out the past four centuries, the stages of its development being represented by the Explorers, the Pioneers, the Raftsmen, and the Steam-loggers. Four mural paintings tell the story of the journey of the log from the forest to the mill, and two large pictures in wood mosaic depict lumbering scenes in Western Canada.

In the industrial section is exhibited a comprehensive group of articles manufactured from wood, ranging from a complete bungalow of two rooms, and giant silos for the storage of farm fodder, to wooden spoons.

The exhibit has attracted a great deal of attention as shown by the large crowds which have constantly gathered about it and by the many inquiries made of the attendants, and also by the numerous articles and paragraphs that have appeared in the British press, and there is no doubt that in thus making known the quality and range of Canadian forest products to the citizens of the Empire, the exhibit will aid powerfully in the development of this great industry.

Do It Now.

If you have hard work to do,
Do it now.
To-day the skies are clear and blue,
To-morrow clouds may come in view,
Yesterday is not for you;
Do it now.

If you have a song to sing,
Sing it now.
Let the notes of gladness ring,
Clear as song of bird in Spring,
Let every day some music bring;
Sing it now.

If you have kind words to say,
Say them now.
To-morrow may not come your way,
Do a kindness while you may,
Loved ones will not always stay;
Say them now.

If you have a smile to show,
Show it now.
Make hearts happy, roses grow,
Let the friends around you know
The love you have before they go;
Show it now.

Holiday Savings Banks.

Many people take their holiday in Holland on the instalment system. Workmen subscribe weekly to companies that are recognized by the Government.

When the workers have paid in a sum of money sufficient to cover expenses they are taken on conducted tours to France, Germany, Italy and other European countries.

This way of getting a vacation is becoming increasingly popular. What is more it proves an education factor in the life of the Dutch working man, who gets to know a great deal about the customs, institutions, and politics of other lands beside his own.

Juvenile Logic.

Two small girls, says the Tattler, were playing together one afternoon in the park.

"I wonder what time it is?" said one of them at last.

"Well, it can't be four o'clock yet," replied the other with magnificent logic, "because my mother said I was to be home at four—and I'm not."

AUTO CONQUERS SULLEN HEART OF DARK AFRICA

In face of well-nigh every obstacle and difficulty that untamed nature could provide the Citroen Motor Expedition has succeeded in passing right through the heart of Africa—from the shores of the blue Mediterranean to the Cape. And so twice within about a month the swamps, jungles and forests of Africa have been conquered by the motor car. A few weeks back a French expedition succeeded for the first time in defying nature, and now we have to report a second occasion when the one-time impenetrable part of Africa has had to surrender to progress.

On his arrival at Cape Town, Capt. Brull, who was in charge of the expedition, remarked: "Yes, we are very glad to get here. We have covered, as far as I can judge, between 10,000 and 11,000 miles, and it has been a somewhat arduous journey. We started from Colomb-Bechar, on October 28, 1924, and then traveled across the vast Sahara desert to the Niger River. At that time the expedition consisted of eight cars, with trailers, and seventeen white people. We kept to the Niger River, and reached Lake Chad on December 14, thus linking up for the first time in French territory, the Mediterranean with the great lakes in Central Africa. From Fort Lamy we went on the Bangui-Egyptian Sudan for hunting. We remained there some six weeks, and had quite a successful time with our guns, sending back to France something like 800 hides and tusks.

greatest barrier was the... The route through... desia to the Cape was... worst one could possibly... some cases it seemed... would never get through... impossible to circumsvent... wellnigh cut our way... woods. It was a... racking, and very danger... taking, but here we are all... sound.

ENCOUNTER WITH WILD BEASTS
"I think during our expedition we saw every reptile that South Africa claims to possess. We encountered the wild beasts of the forest and forest and jungle, but we escaped all unpleasant incidents, as far as interference from them was concerned. Quite possibly they were much more afraid of us than we were of them. A gasping and at times snorting motor car was, I think, quite sufficient to keep the animals at bay. The natives gave us no trouble. They seemed to show a very keen and friendly interest in the car and its occupants, and no doubt regarded us as a phenomenon for which there was no accounting. "It was a very successful trip, the real object of which was for scientific purposes. We have during the whole journey collected every kind of documentation, together with photographs, paintings and 80,000 meters of films—all in connection with research work. The expedition included a celebrated artist and an expert film producer. We have gathered together all sorts of curios and works of art from the natives, while special research work was undertaken by a doctor.

"I was responsible for mineralogical research, and we were successful in coming across some very valuable ore in the French Sudan. I am now preparing to go to Madagascar and from there back to France." And so ends the story of an expedition which adds a new and vitally important chapter to the history of African exploration. As to the cars used on the expedition, they were 10 horsepower, provided with a standard engine and a "caterpillar," which was equipped with rubber bands, and two gear boxes, giving six forward and two reverse. The caterpillar sustains a trailer carrying all the camping outfit, together with over twelve gallons of petrol, and eighty gallons of condensed milk.

Use for Her Head.
"How do you expect to drive a car into the wall with a clothes brush?" demanded an irate husband, who was watching his wife as she attempted an "unusual feat." "For goodness sake use your head, my dear."

On the Cloud of Witnesses.

Oh, do not wrong the generations past
By screech, or bitter prating of dead hands;
It is not chance that their achievements last,
Nor whim of fortune that their building stands.
It was for us they strove; we are the heirs
Of all their agony and sweat and tears;
And, willing or ungrateful, each one shares
In the vast legacy of toilsome years.
They would not bind us; theirs no selfish aim
To chain the future to their halting place.
They mourn our failures, glory in our fame,
Thrill with our struggle in this mortal race.
A Cloud of Witnesses, O doubtful Soul,
Applauds your straining footsteps towards the goal.

THE HOME STORES

So many people get the idea that there is a lot of profiteering in retail trade these days that they only realize the true condition of affairs when they would realize that the retail stores are doing business today on a smaller margin of profit than ever before. The higher prices of prices prevailing since the war has stimulated competition and forced retail trade to remodel its system of operation and make every improvement and economy in its methods. The stores are saving money for the public as the result of improved distribution methods. Merchants today are putting more into their work than ever before. They get better expert advice, understand markets better, they get their help to render service in the best way to make the people of the district realize the fine quality of the service they get from their stores, is by consistent advertising of those stores. As they read newspaper advertising, people are given special chances to buy goods they would never have known had it not been for those notices. They learn that stores are carrying lines that they knew nothing of. They get information warning them of conditions that tend toward higher prices and showing them how they can save money by prompt purchasing. They find out that their home merchants have been scouring the country to pick up the best merchandise obtainable. They discover that their home stores are working with all their might to provide the necessities and conveniences of life at the lowest price consistent with substantial merit. The advertised store is the appreciated

What is in a name? The Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, which is now well up to 60,000 members, urges all use their contract number as well as their names in all letters or other communications with the pool. This is necessary because there are 223 members named Brown, 170 Campbell, 10 Johnsons, 454 Schmidts or 225 Stewarts, and a neat of Martins. "Ole Olson" is nothing to Pool ledger-keepers. There are 316 members with that suggestive name.

If you are caught in a thunder-storm, it is probably safer to stand out in the open and take your medicine than to seek shelter under a tree. Lightning loves a tree, especially if it stands by itself, well away from other trees. But if you don't like the idea of getting wet, at least choose a beech tree to flee to, and above all avoid the oaks. Oaks are struck by lightning more frequently than any other kind of tree, whereas beeches are struck so rarely that they seem almost immune. So when you take your walks abroad mark and remember where the beech trees are.

Millions of people in Britain are living part of the time on one meal a day. At one time or another during the year 4,000,000 men and women stretch out their idle hands for the dole to keep themselves and their dependents alive. Hundreds of millions of pounds sterling have been poured since the war into the gaping pockets of the unemployed. This in stark figures represents to-day the unemployment problem of England. Officially at the last listing there were more than 1,300,000 unemployed, but the Ministry of Labor revealed that the "turnover" in unemployed meant that 4,000,000 during the year seek state aid.

The Mount Forest Confederate and Representative, commenting upon the Adolescent School Attendance Act says: "Opportunity should be provided for those who have passed through our public school to continue their education; but that all should be obliged to attend school until they are sixteen years of age is an unwise requirement. Many of them would be better employed learning some useful trade or business. Too many of them are learning to loaf. Others, if not exactly loafing, are working in half-hearted, unsympathetic, ineffective way. The Adolescent School Attendance Act is badly in need of amendment, if not of repeal."

THE FARMER'S HOME MARKET

Low Tariff Politicians belittle its importance. Are they right? What are the Facts?

PROBABLY no part of the business of farming is less understood and less appreciated than the value of the home market to the average Canadian farmer of to-day.

First and foremost, given a Government that is sympathetic with you, the home market is one that you can absolutely control, at all times, at least against the foreign farmer who would invade it. On the other hand, the foreign market is one that you may be legislated out of at any moment by the vote of a foreign government that has decided that it wants to give its own farmers an advantage over you!

Next, the market that is best worth cultivating is always the market that absorbs the largest part of your production. The fellow who year after year buys more than half your crop is worth more to you than the fellow who only buys 25% of it. That's fundamental! There's no getting away from it!

From the figures below we prove absolutely that the home market absorbs at the very least 63 1/3% of the produce—not of the Ontario farmer—but of the average Canadian farmer, including the wheat farmer of the West. If we were to leave the Western wheat farmer out of it, it could be proved that over 80% of what the Ontario farmer produces is consumed by this home market.

The reason some people have an exaggerated idea of the importance of the export market for farm produce is that they have looked at it solely from the standpoint of wheat! It is true that we export in one form or another about 75 per cent of our entire wheat crop. But the wheat crop, important and all as it is, represents only about one-fourth of our total annual agricultural production, and it is only when we take into account what becomes of the other three-fourths that we can arrive at a true estimate of the value of the home market to the average Canadian farmer!

Here is our calculation. Check up our figures from the Canada Year Book, the official statistical publication issued by the Government. Subject our deductions to the most searching investigation and you will find that if we have erred at all, we have under-estimated, rather than over-estimated the importance of the farmer's home market.

TOTAL EXPORTS, FISCAL YEAR 1924, OF Agricultural and Vegetable Products.

Including fresh dried and preserved fruits, grains, flour and milled products, bakery products and prepared foods, vegetable oils, tobacco, fresh and prepared vegetables, maple syrup, maple sugar and miscellaneous, but excluding rubber, sugar (other than maple), molasses and confectionery as products not of Canadian agricultural origin; also excluding alcoholic beverages whose export value is out of all relation to the value of the agricultural products used in their production.

$394,407,246

Animals and Animal Products.

Including live animals, hides and skins, leather, fresh meats, cured and canned meats, milk and its products, oils, fats, greases, eggs, honey and miscellaneous, but excluding fish oils, seal and whale oils, and furs other than black and silver fox skins, as products not of agricultural origin.

91,939,305

Fibres, Textiles and Textile Products.

Including all wool and woolsens, also flax, jute and hemp products, but excluding binder twine, manufacturers of cotton and silk, manufacturers of mixed textiles, and certain kinds of wearing apparel, as products not of Canadian agricultural origin.

2,747,573

Grand total exports, all kinds of farm produce

$489,094,124

Now the gross agricultural revenue of Canada for crop year 1923 is given as $1,342,132,000. Deducting the grand total exports, as above of $489,094,124, leaves a balance of $853,037,876 to represent what must have been consumed by the home market. In other words, the export market took only 36 1/3% of our farm production. The balance, 63 1/3%, was consumed in Canada!

TWO THIRDS OF WHAT THE CANADIAN FARMER RAISES, HE SELLS IN CANADA

Export Prices that Fail to Govern Home Prices.

In attempts to belittle the home market, the argument has been used over and over again that the prices obtainable in the export market always govern the prices obtainable in the domestic market.

Statements of that kind constitute one of the meanest forms of dishonesty. It is probably true that, in the absence of an effective wheat pool, the Liverpool price pretty nearly fixes the domestic price of wheat. But the Liverpool price of hay, or of potatoes, is almost negligible in its effect upon the local prices obtainable for those commodities in Canada. And the reason for the difference is that wheat, besides being a commodity that can be stored indefinitely, has been provided with terminal facilities that enable it to be handled at a minimum of expense, and is carried at the lowest of all freight rates, whereas transportation costs on hay and potatoes substantially protect the producer against surpluses only a hundred miles away!

Hay and Potatoes for Instance.

In 1923, for instance, farmers in Norfolk County received an average of only 81 1/3 cents a bushel for their potatoes, while farmers in Welland County, less than fifty miles away, received $1.00 for theirs. In that same year farmers in Perth County received an average of only $9.28 a ton for their hay, while farmers in the adjoining County of Middlesex received $11.05 for theirs.

Discount these illustrations as much as you like on the ground that differences of quality had something to do with the differences in price, yet do they not serve to shake your faith in the man who would have you believe that Liverpool prices always govern domestic prices? Did Thunder Bay farmers, for instance, get $19.64 for their hay in 1923 because it was of such superior quality, or did they get it because of the high cost of bringing $8.98 hay from Huron County, or $10.11 hay from Lambton County? If Liverpool prices governed hay in the way and for the same reasons that they do wheat, Ontario farmers would have to pay shippers a premium to take their hay away!

What's Sauce for the Goose is Sauce for the Gander.

Belittlers of the home market assert that a tariff on farm products is of no benefit to our farmers. Is the United States tariff on farm products of no benefit to United States farmers? Is it no detriment to Canadian farmers? If a foreign tariff is a detriment to Canadian farmers, why should not a Canadian tariff be a detriment to foreign farmers and consequently to our own?

What a New Industry, in a Town, Means to You.

It increases the prosperity of the town, work to the unemployed, adds to the population, gets the empty houses rented and starts the building of new ones. The town immediately has more money to spend on the butter and eggs, the vegetables, fruit, milk and grain your farm produces.

The foreign market is admittedly an important market, but after all what does it consist of? Isn't it made up entirely of town and city dwellers—wage-earners—who cannot obtain from their own farmers as much food as they require so they must buy from you? Is the city dweller an asset to the Canadian farmer only when he happens to dwell in a foreign city? If we persuaded him, by the offer of a better job than he now has, to come and live in Canada, would he not be a bigger asset to our farmer than he is at present?

Those who scoff at the home market would encourage those dwellers in a foreign city to stay where they are, thus leaving our farmers in the position where they must take a chance on shipping their products long distances, and then selling them in competition with other producers from all over the world! Isn't the plan of those who would build up the home market a vastly better one?

A higher tariff will give more workers good jobs in this country. Canadian workmen with good jobs are the best customers the Canadian farmer will ever have.

SUMMER FLU PREVALENT

Summerflu, or enteritis, which has been prevalent in Hanover and vicinity, is an internal disorder peculiar to this season of the year, when changing weather and also the consumption of quantities of ripe fruit, corn and other fresh vegetables show their effect in an inflammation of the intestines, which produces stomach sickness. Children are the worst sufferers, and the disorder is one that requires medical advice and attention. It is suggested that parents whose children develop symptoms consult a doctor, as treatment cannot be generally defined and varies with individuals. Neglect on the part of mothers to take prompt action may result in slow starvation, with possible fatal outcome.—Post.

ELECTION DAY HOLIDAY

The afternoon of election day, Oct. 29, will be a half-holiday in the Dominion, as the result of an Order-in-Council passed on Friday and signed Saturday noon. This innovation for the coming Federal polling day is due to the efforts of Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, in having rectified a curious error in the routine of legislative action last session. In the latter part of June, when the Dominion Elections Act was being considered in the House of Commons, an amendment was submitted by A. W. Neill (Comox-Alberni), providing that the afternoon of election day be a half-holiday.

That amendment was carried in the House by a vote of 54 to 32. Through some oversight, this amendment and the vote approving it were not recorded in Votes and Proceedings, the official record of the day's work in the House. As a result of this omission, the Neill amendment was not contained in the bill as submitted to the Senate and finally given Royal assent. It was discovered a short time ago and Hon. Mr. Murdock immediately took steps to have the oversight remedied.

WALKERTON.

When complaint was made to Mayor Goode a case of alleged cruelty was investigated by Rev. Mr. Roberts of Cargill, agent for the Humane Society in the County of Bruce, and Chief Ferguson. It appears that a resident of the west ward of the town has not been supplying his horses with sufficient forage with the natural consequence. It is reported that two horses were found in a starving condition, and the owner was given three days to procure feed for the animals or legal action would be taken. Another horse belonging to the same man had died recently owing to the effects of over-feeding when turned out to pasture following a period of alleged starvation.

In order to place the business end of the curling rink on a better basis, two of the local enthusiasts, Messrs. L. H. McNamara and Clarence Smith have acquired control of most of the stock of the Curling Rink Association. A number of very desirable improvements are now under way. However, it is not possible this year to enlarge the ice surface. These gentlemen, among the oldest curlers of the town, are interested in having the building kept in good repair. They are anxious to increase the time allowed to the public for skating. It is planned to permit the use of the rink for this purpose every evening up to Christmas and on Friday and Saturday evenings from then until the Spring.

At the meeting of the Town Council on Friday evening last the tax rate for next year was struck at 51 mills, it being three mills lower than for 1924. Mayor Goode was in the chair, with all members of the council present. Although the decrease is not great, it is good news that the expenditure for the next year is estimated lower than that required to finance the municipal business during 1925. The total assessment is $971,323.00. The corresponding figure for last year was $963,497.00, when a rate of 54 mills was made necessary. It is anticipated that the revenue from water rates will be approximately $8,500. In previous years it has averaged $3,500. With the new system of bookkeeping, the treasurer told council he believed he could collect the amount stated, a large portion of it being arrears. It is thought that the revenue from this source will average about $5,000.

Convicted of eleven charges of forgery, William H. The prisoner collapsed when sentence was imposed upon him and recovered only to lapse into a state of intense hysteria. ARREST YOUTHS FOR CAR THEFTS

David Hill of Saugeen Twp. and Elmer Rankin of Paisley were arrested in Owen Sound about midnight on Wednesday last by Constable Denton of that city and later taken in charge by officers Bone and Widmeyer of Walkerton and lodged in the Southampton lockup and the next day were taken to the Walkerton jail to await trial on the charge of a series of auto thefts and alleged burglaries.

The series of thefts alleged to have been perpetrated by the youths commenced with the stealing of Gordon Ribbey's car from in front of the Evangelical Church here on Sunday, Sept. 20th. This car was driven to Paisley where it was abandoned and later found on the North street hill leading to the town. During the early hours of Monday morning the hardware store of L. O. Charlesworth at Paisley was broken into and flashlights, safety razors, jack knives and other small articles taken. The general store of D. C. McGregor was also entered by smashing the glass panel in the front door and lifting the latch where candy and chewing gum were stolen. It appears the thieves were contemplating entering other stores in Paisley but were scared off and were seen to jump into a Ford car which it was later discovered belonged to Thos. Monk of the Balmoral Hotel, and which had been stolen from his garage. A search made in a vacant house on north street, Paisley, by some residents was rewarded by the finding of a quantity of the goods stolen from Charlesworth's hardware.

From Paisley the thieves travelled to Teeswater where they left the Ford car in front of Brown's garage and commandeered a Chevrolet car. Doubling back from Teeswater they motored to Saugeen Twp. where they spent practically all day Tuesday in a tent which is also said to have been ten, along the Saugeen river across from W. J. Pierson. Here the car was run into a gully and being unable to get it out again the boys left it in the gully. Wednesday evening they came to Port Elgin where they played a few games of pool, and later stole Eric McGillivray's Ford coupe from alongside the South End store. They apparently returned to their camp along the Saugeen river, for when turning out the cows about ten o'clock at night Mr. Pierson noticed a car drive over through the fields to the river bank. Here the markers were taken off McGillivray's car, thrown into the river and replaced by those from the abandoned Chevrolet. The youthful thieves then struck out to Owen Sound where Constable Denton, who had been apprised of the robbery, effected their arrest about midnight. When arrested they gave their names as Hill and Rankin, the former being apprehended sitting in the car in front of a restaurant while the latter was inside the cafe having lunch.

Officers Bone and Widmeyer who were in Southampton at the time searching for the thieves were notified of their arrest in Owen Sound and in company with Eric McGillivray motored to Owen Sound where the youths were taken in charge by the County officers and brought back to Southampton. McGillivray recovered his car, but his coat which had been in the bus when stolen was missing while another belonging to some one else was in its place.

The youths will come up for trial before Magistrate Macartney in the town Hall here on Friday afternoon next at 2 o'clock.—Port Elgin Times

THE IDLE YOUNG

It's not the idle rich but the idle young that is raising the devil with the country. On every hand you see young people shying from work and trying to get by without it. It scarcely ever wins. Too much pampering and too little enforcement of discipline by parents is largely to blame for the present overflowing of jails, reformatories and penitentiaries. Any child not brought up to work and obey his parents will sneer at the law when he gets out into the world for himself. If you have a child and would make him a good citizen, teach him to work and make him obey.

One way to be happily married is to realize how little you deserve. If some folks tried to swallow their pride they'd choke to death.

The New York Herald contends that "nothing holds the boy or girl on the farm like an interest in live stock." Hereabouts on the contrary parents are only able to hold their young people on the farm by giving them an automobile in which to get away from it.

Mrs. Eric Hutchinson was stung by a bee on Monday evening and the poison immediately affected her in a very serious manner. Though stung on the lower limb, in less than five minutes her face swelled up so that she could not see and later her eyes were completely closed up. Her heart was seriously affected and she was nearly choked. Under medical care she has been gradually recovering.—Mt. Forest Representative.

THE FALL FAIRS

It is a curious fact that those agricultural societies which hold their annual exhibition in villages are more prosperous, and have better shows than the societies which have headquarters at the larger towns.

The tendency for the exhibition held in a large town to run to horse racing and other amusement features appears irresistible. The exhibition becomes a sort of out-door entertainment while its original purpose is largely forgotten. Town folk are not interested in agricultural exhibits and an effort is made to draw them by introducing amusement features. These are expensive and as they cannot be of a high order, they result in disappointment.

The automobile has had a curious effect upon town and village fall fairs. While spectators now come from much greater distances than they did when the horse and buggy were the best means of travel, the gas wagon works against getting out of exhibits—especially live stock. It's much easier to run to the fair and back home again in an automobile than to be bothered taking out even a few head of cattle, a few sheep, calves or hogs. There's a whole lot of work in fitting stock for exhibition and the man or boy who shows horses, cattle or other live animals instead of having a free and easy day at the fair, has a busy, hard day of it. The result is that many drop out of the show business altogether, leaving it to a few experienced, and almost professional exhibitors to carry off the prizes.

Considering the similarity there is between the exhibitions of one year and another, it is astonishing how the interest is kept up and how the crowds keep coming.

TIT FOR TAT

Private Jones was summoned to appear before his captain.

"Jones," said the officer, frowning darkly, "This gentleman, complains that you have killed his dog."

"A dastardly trick," interrupted the owner of the dog, "to kill a defenseless animal that would harm no one!"

"Not much defenseless about him" chimed in the private heatedly. "He bit pretty freely into my leg, so I ran my bayonet into him."

"Nonsense!" answered the owner angrily. "He was a docile creature. Why did you not defend yourself with the butt of your rifle?"

"Why didn't he bite me with his tail?" asked Private Jones with spirit.

GETTING AFTER THE GUNMEN

The United States enjoys a bad pre-eminence among civilized nations in the matter of crimes of violence. There is some reason to fear that Canada is following in the footsteps of her big neighbor. It is certain that robbery at the revolver point has increased alarmingly of late. Various proposals are made as to the best means of dealing with this menace, the commonest being the imposition of severe penalties, preferably the lash. It is said that in localities where sporadic outbreaks of robbery with armed violence have occurred they have been quickly checked when sentences of flogging were imposed.

But the question is not simply one of punishment or even of the best deterrent. What is the cause of these crimes? How is it that the minds of young men are turned to them? One answer to this question can be given with confidence. They are, in part at least, a result of the revolver habit.

There are laws in Canada against carrying weapons, but it is evident that they are not thoroughly enforced. It has been suggested that the American and Canadian Governments might get together with a view to putting the gunman out of business, possibly by making the ordinary sale of revolvers illegal and carefully regulating their manufacture for police and army purposes.

Meanwhile something might be done to curb the educational influence of the movies. There is no commoner figure on the screen than the hero who produces his gun at the critical moment and vindicates the cause of justice and virtue. What boy seeing these pictures would not think it a glorious thing to own a revolver and possibly play a similarly heroic part? Once the revolver is acquired its possession is a temptation to a use that may be far from heroic.

EAST BRUCE TEACHERS' CONVENTION

The annual convention of the East Bruce Teachers' Institute was held in the Town Hall, Walkerton, on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 1st and 2nd with an attendance of one hundred and fifty teachers. In the opinion of Inspector McCool this was one of the most successful conventions that this Institute had ever held and he commended the teachers for the excellent attendance, particularly those from the peninsula, some of whom had come over one hundred miles to be present.

Mr. Hamilton Ballagh, Principal of the Mildmay Public School, the President of the Institute, presided at all the sessions.

The Thursday morning session opened at ten o'clock. After the transaction of business and the appointment of the different committees, Miss Pearl Buckley of Chesley Public School gave a talk on "Primary Work." Miss Buckley held up some very high ideals to the teachers of little children.

The afternoon session opened with the President's address. Mr. Ballagh took as his subject "The Personality of the Teacher." He pointed out the outstanding qualities of a successful teacher, which every teacher should strive to develop.

Mayor Robert Goode welcomed the teachers to Walkerton and expressed the hope that they would have a pleasant time while here.

The report of the Ontario Educational Association which met in Toronto last April was given by the Institute's delegate, Miss L. Esplen of Allenford. Miss Esplen spoke of the outstanding addresses which she had heard.

Mr. Wm. Prendergrast, Principal of the London Normal School, the representative sent by the Department of Education gave a very interesting and practical address on "Composition." He said it is not expected that teachers should produce literary writers, but they should train their pupils to express their ideas in a clear, concise manner.

Miss Marie Schwindt sang two solos which delighted the teachers, and was a pleasant variation in the programme.

A discussion on the Public School Course in History was introduced by Miss M. McGregor, of the Walkerton High School. Miss McGregor showed that History was one of the most difficult subjects of the curriculum to teach in a proper manner and at the same time to get good examination results.

On Friday morning Rev. Charles W. King conducted the opening exercises, after which he gave a splendid address on "The Great Divide." He showed the great influence that the teacher had on the pupils at the most formative period in their lives.

The Convention was again privileged to hear Mr. Prendergrast. His subject was "Geography, What to Emphasize." Mr. Prendergrast said that in no subject of the curriculum had there been such a change in method of teaching, in the past decades, as in Geography. The new method is to make the subject real to the pupils and related to their experience, and Mr. Prendergrast showed how several topics of the course might be dealt with, by this method.

Miss Marion Hogg of the Walkerton Public School gave a talk on "Fifth Classes in Rural Schools." The Adolescent School Attendance Act had been responsible for a great increase in the number of Fifth Classes in rural schools. The advantages and disadvantages were taken up by Miss Hogg.

The next speaker was Mr. E. J. Gatis of Wiarton. He took as his subject "Rural School Problems." Mr. Gatis touched on several of these problems, and showed how some of these might be solved. One of the greatest difficulties was the unsuitability of some of the textbooks. Many of these were very well suited to the graded school, but it was difficult to adapt them to rural school conditions.

Mr. Lorne A. Eedy, until recently the Editor of the Walkerton Telescope gave an excellent address on "The Community Newspaper." He showed how the character of the local paper had greatly changed in the last twenty years, formerly printing much world news, but with the advent of the rural mail delivery most homes had received a daily paper, and the local paper devoted most of its space to community news. Mr. Eedy strongly urged teachers to make greater use of their local paper, to write letters for publication, to send in school reports, and where opportunity afforded itself to act as the local correspondent of the paper. Many prominent newspapermen of Canada had begun their journalistic careers by acting as correspondents for local papers while teaching school.

In the afternoon a brief session was held. It was decided to hold the convention next year in Wiarton. The reports of the auditors and the various committees were received after which the following officers for 1925-26 were elected:

President—Miss M. Gordon, Hetherington, Chesley.
Vice-Pres.—Mr. J. C. Hetherington, Chesley.
Sec.-Treas.—Harry W. Alton of Walkerton.
Delegates to O.E.A.—Mr. W. A. Kincaid, Paisley, and Miss S. Lattimer, Wiarton.
Representatives for Northern Ontario trip—Mr. H. Ballagh, Mildmay, and Miss A. Tryson, Wiarton.

A wise man once said that it is easier to keep out of trouble than to get out of trouble. We therefore suggest that you test out your heating plant NOW and avoid the worry of continuous trouble and poor heating results during the winter season.

Recommendations:

- 1—Get the furnace, furnace pipes and chimney flues thoroughly cleaned.
- 2—Have your plant examined by an expert and necessary repairs made before cold weather sets in.
- 3—When a hot air furnace is used clean out all floor registers and hot air pipes.
- 4—Clean out your furnace room. Remove all rubbish, and keep a clear space of at least six feet between your furnace and all combustible material.

IT IS AUTUMN

Lodges are getting their winter activities under way. All organizations are planning indoor programs. There is a smell of camphor in many homes as seasonal clothes are being opened up. New loud speakers are being installed for the radio. Study circles are resuming. There is not competition around the reading lamp for the newspapers. Card games are being played. There is some demand for corn poppers. The co-man looks a little gloom, but she that reads the light meters wears a smile like a split watermelon as he writes the figures down. It has been a wonderfully fine summer with more than usual opportunities for outdoor enjoyments, because of the unbroken sunshine which continued so long. But it will be fine to have the fall rains, too, and later the nip of frost and the sheen of snow. Just as one of the fine things about going away from home is to come back there, so one of the fine things about a good summer is that we finally come to its end and to normal change. Season's end variety and prevent monotony. And each of them in this country is enjoyable.
