CHINESE TO FIGHT WHITE LABOR RULE

Saskatchewan Celestials to Taks Issue to Federal Supreme Court.

ARE RETAINING GIRLS

Will Not Discharge Their Caucasian Employes Until Forced.

(Canadian Press Despatch) OTTAWA, July 12.—The Chinese case before the Supreme Court of Saskatchewan, prohibiting the employment of white labor by Chinese, is being carried to the Supreme Court of Canada, and should the decision be upheld the appeal will be taken to the Privy Council.

As soon as the decision became known the Chinese were thrown into a future of excitement. In only one case were the girls immediately discharged, in all the other cases the Chinese insist that they will remain their help until absolutely forced to dismiss them.

OLD MASTERS WERE MERE COPIES

Duke of Sutherland's Pictures Proved Disappointment to Public.

(Canadian Press Despatch) NEW YORK, July 12.—A London cable says:

Great surprise and disappointment were manifested at the sale at Christie's of the Duke of Sutherland's pictures from Stafford House. It has been long supposed that the collection contained numerous fine examples of old masters and the public fostered the belief that Stafford House held one of the finest private galleries in England, but when the pictures came to be put up for auction it was found that the supposed old masters were in reality most obvious copies, and many not even good copies.

Four supposed Murillos went for $25 each, three Correggios for $125, and the group and Carrachi's "Holy Family" for $75. The discovery threw such a dampener over the sale that even the general pictures brought exceedingly low prices. The best price was $6,750 for Paul Veronese's "Christ and His Disciples at Emmaus," while another picture, "A Venetian Nobleman and his Wife," fetched only $5,000. A Reynolds portrait, "George and Queen Charlotte in Coronation Robes" fetched only $1,400.

ROYAL SPECULATIONS TURNING OUT BADLY

Queen Mother's Finances Said to be in a Tangle.

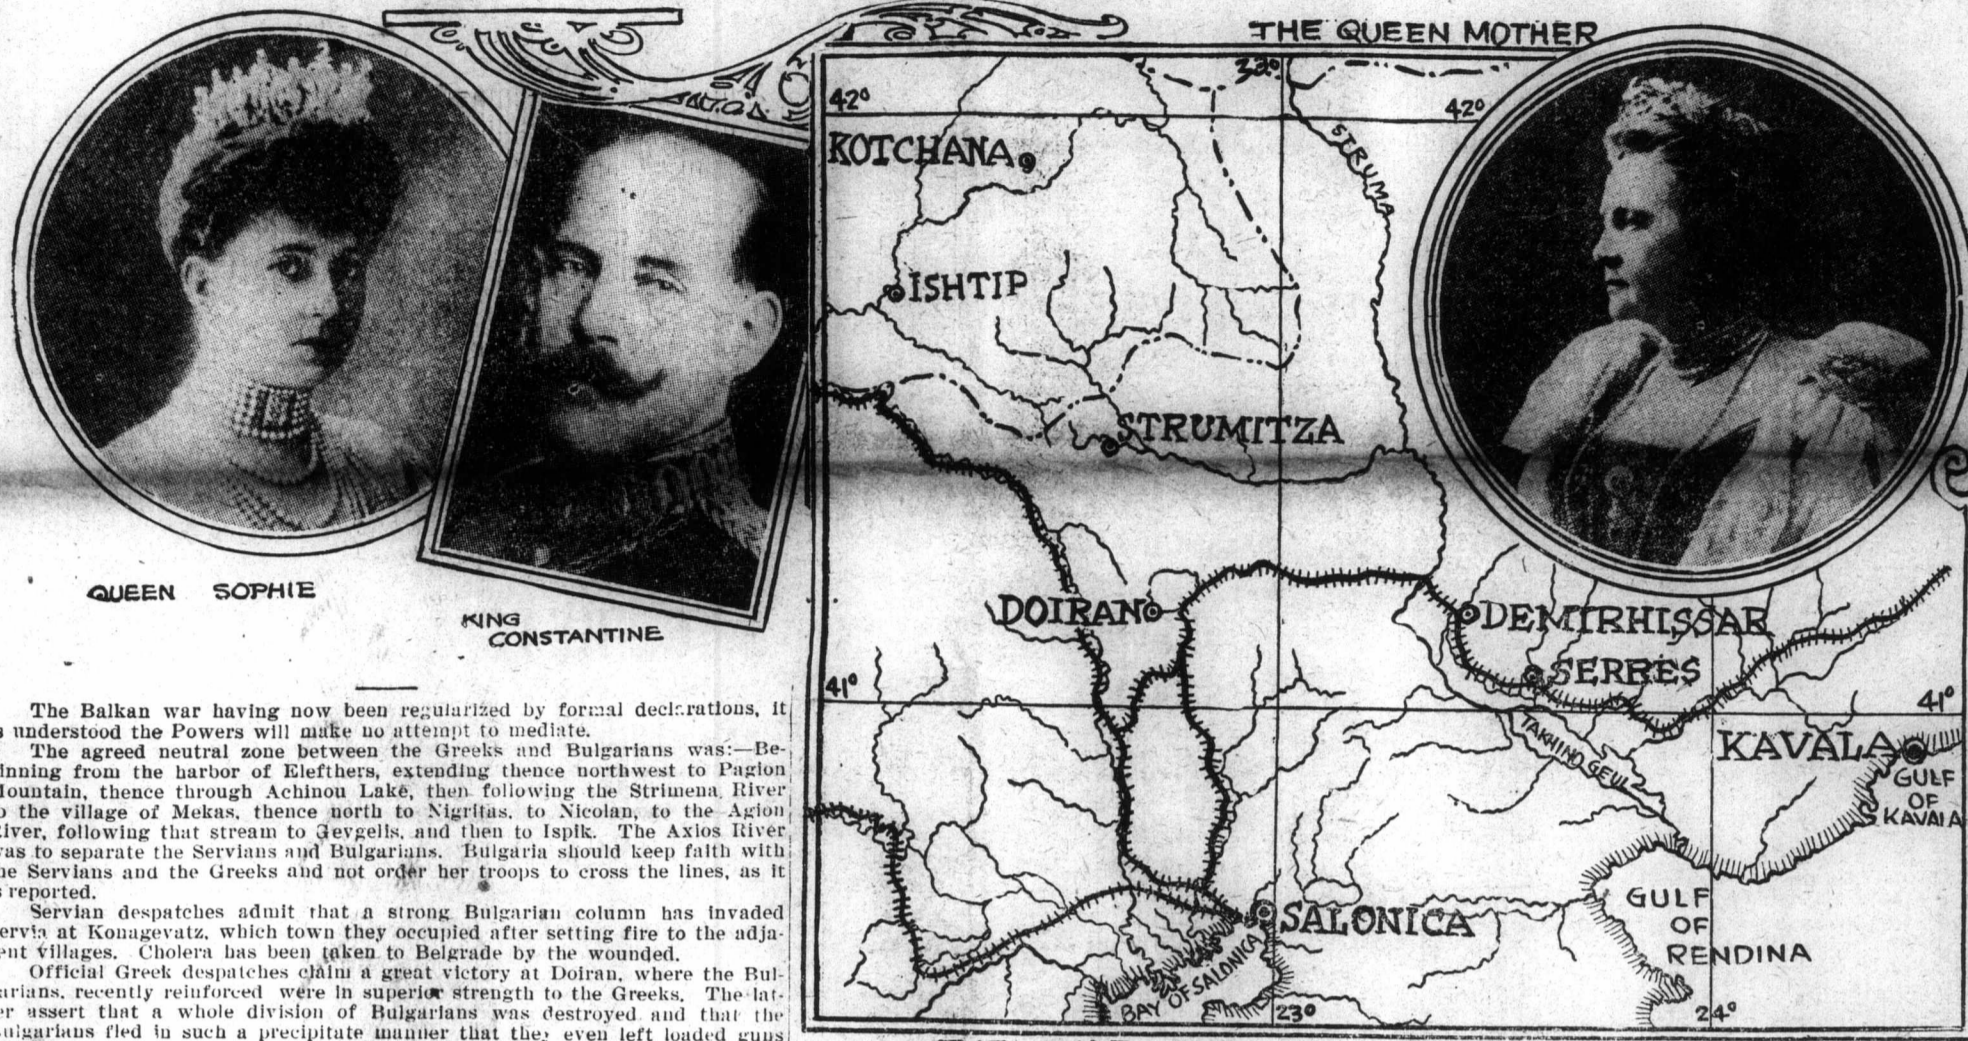

(Canadian Press Despatch) LONDON, July 12.—The financial position of the Queen Mother, Alexandra, is being talked among the Royal householders, and there is a great deal of speculation about her having lost considerable sums of money.

Mr. de Rothschild, an old friend of the Queen Mother's, has now taken charge of her monetary affairs. It was a long tedious course, and took the rat about twenty minutes to span it, but he succeeded and scamped off to seek pastures new across the roof of the opposite building, amid the plaudits of the spectators.

BONNIE BURR TO VISIT BRANTFORD

The mysterious Bonnie Burr, who has been baffling the public in Hamilton for the past two weeks, is to visit Brantford on Monday at Oakley Heights survey, on the Brant road, opposite the School for the Blind. The Hamilton Herald offers a reward of $1000 for any person identifying Miss Burr, and the Oakley Heights will give a $5000 reward in addition if the young woman is identified on the survey, between the hours of 3 and 7. For particulars concerning the visit see the display ad. on page 6. A description of Miss Burr's attire will be published in Monday's paper.

BULGARIANS RETREATING TO THE NORTH MAY BE TRAPPED BY THE TROOPS OF KING CONSTANTINE.

The Balkan war having now been regularized by formal declarations, it is understood the Powers will make no attempt to mediate. The agreed neutral zone between the Greeks and Bulgarians was—beginning from the harbor of Elefthera, extending thence northwest to Pafion Mountain, thence through Achion Lake, then following the Strinena River to the village of Mekas, thence north to Nigritias, to Nicolan, to the Agion River, following that stream to Jergels, and then to Isplik. The Axios River was to separate the Servians and Bulgarians. Bulgaria should keep faith with the Servians and the Greeks and not order her troops to cross the lines, as it is reported.

Servian despatches admit that a strong Bulgarian column has invaded Servia at Kouagevatz, which town they occupied after setting fire to the adjacent villages. Cholera has been taken to Belgrade by the wounded. Official Greek despatches claim a great victory at Doiran, where the Bulgarians, recently reinforced were in superior strength to the Greeks. The latter assert that a whole division of Bulgarians was destroyed and that the Bulgarians fled to such a precipitate manner that they even left loaded guns behind.

SERIOUS RIOTING IN BELFAST CITY

BELFAST, Ireland, July 12.—Somewhat serious rioting occurred here early this morning at the opening of the celebration of the "Twelfth," the July festival of the Orangemen, in the course of which many windows were broken and a number of policemen and civilians were injured, two of them so severely that they had to be taken to the hospital.

Rival factions of Nationalists and Unionists first fought each other furiously, and then when a large body of police appeared and endeavored to separate the men they joined forces and turned on the police. The fight raged along the streets for over an hour and a half. The rioters were freely using the civilians, who also threw showers of stones, which were accompanied by an occasional revolver shot. The policemen drew their clubs and charged, and hand-to-hand fighting went on till about 5 o'clock, when the crowds disappeared. Only one arrest was made.

RAILWAY MATTERS DISCUSSED FRIDAY

City Will Protect its Interests Re Lorne Bridge and River.

The Railway Committee of the City Council met in the Mayor's Office yesterday afternoon and discussed the application of the entrance of the L. E. and N. Railway into the city and the crossing of certain streets. City Solicitor Henderson was instructed to confer with the city engineer in the matter and report at the next meeting of the board.

The plan of the bridge to be erected over the Grand River was discussed at some length and it was thought advisable to have some changes made in the plans. The bottom girders according to the plans are only 8 inches above high water level, and the board was of the opinion that this should be remedied as it might cause an ice jam and flood in the spring of the year.

The company will, in all probability, comply with the board's opinion in this matter.

Willing for Peace SOFIA Bulgaria, July 12.—All the belligerents in the Balkan war have given Russia full power to find a way to bring hostilities to an end.

ASTOR STARTS CHARITY WORK

NEW YORK, July 12.—Vincent Astor began to-day to spend some of his millions in helping the women and children of the tenement districts to an outing. At his expense a steamboat took 5000 of the poor for a sail to both Beach to-day, under direction of the Children's Aid Society, for a luncheon and frolic at the sea shore. It is the first of a series of outings which Mr. Astor plans to have throughout the summer.

BALKANS ARE NOW BUTCHERS

They Have Outraged Humanity - A Strong Editorial by New York American.

(From the New York American of yesterday)

The Balkan races have forfeited the respect of civilization. Saving only Greece, which holds to the elements of humanity and Christian warfare, the Balkan races within the fortnight have proven themselves to be a horde of murderous savages of whom the arch savage and murderer is Ferdinand of Bulgaria.

There was never such a fall in history so swift, so sudden—from fame to infamy, from heroism to shame. The world of civilization was with the Balkans in their war. It was blazoned as almost a holy war—the war of the Christian nations against the Unspeakable and Heathen Turk—the last nemesis of civilization upon centuries of butchery and cycles of barbarity.

The crimson ghosts of Albania and Zeitoun—the holocausts of Christian martyrs incinerated in Turkish fires, the battalions of Christians butchered by the heathen Christians, the pictures of infants bayoneted before their mothers' eyes, and mothers murdered, with outrage preceding or following fast on murder—aroused the public protest of the Christian world.

Every voice in Christendom rang for Bulgaria and the Balkans. Every civilized prayer was theirs. And their battle was magnificently won. All records of history were equalled if not surpassed on the battle-fields of this modern and magnificent crusade.

They by step the Unspeakable Turk was driven back from his battlefields of murder. Inch by inch the Crescent yielded to the Cross. Bulgaria swept from Adrianople to Tchatalja. Greek battleships blocked the transportation of Turkish troops and provisions of war. Serbia marched from her own victorious battlefields to reinforce the Bulgarians in the crisis at Adrianople and Tchatalja and with the allied legions thundering at the despairing gates of Constantinople. Southwestern Europe passed from the Crescent to the Cross, and a great new nation seemed to have been born from the Slavonic races to rewrite history and to shift the balance of power from the elder monarchies to the plains of Thrace—new consecrated to liberty and humanity.

MERIDIAN OF GLORY OF THE KING'S VISIT

NEW YORK, July 12.—A cable from London says: The meridian of glory of the King's visit to Lancashire was attained yesterday, when 109 ships, including cruisers, liners, merchantmen, yachts, training ships and tugs, were reviewed on the Mersey. Never before has the King witnessed a marine display which has so fully mirrored the commercial greatness of the British Empire.

Embarking on the Mersey in the tender Galatea, the King, wearing the uniform of an admiral of the fleet, and accompanied by Queen Mary and Prince Albert, passed along an avenue of craft ten miles long, stretching along the smooth river under a brilliant sunshine. The Mauretania, decked with pink roses, was honored with a visit of inspection. Their Majesties walked through the state-rooms, kitchens and steerage quarters, and took tea.

Billion Eggs Are on Ice

(Canadian Press Despatch) NEW YORK, July 12.—More than a billion eggs are on ice, according to the report of 45 public refrigerators of the United States just issued. The figures account for 2,992,800 cases in storage, with 30 dozen eggs to a case, as compared with 3,330,500 cases at the same time last year. With storage eggs priced at $7.20 a case, these early July holdings this year are worth $21,441,160.33, at wholesale. The average consumption of eggs in Greater New York is three million dozen a week.

EUROPE IN NO DANGER LLOYD GEORGE THINKS

Balkan Trouble Unlikely to Stir Up Trouble Between Great Powers.

(Canadian Press Despatch) LONDON, July 12.—The British Chancellor of the Exchequer, David Lloyd George, addressing the bankers at a dinner at the Mansion House last night, referred to Balkan affairs. He said that the first trouble was over, and he was hopeful that the powers, who had started so well together, would be able to effect a lasting settlement among these hapless provinces.

So long as the Balkan states did nothing to upset the decisions already agreed to among the powers, continued the Chancellor, it was to be hoped that no power would find it necessary to take any action likely to give rise to difficulty among the great powers themselves.

Fashionable Divorce

LONDON, July 12.—The Pall Mall Gazette says to-day that a petition for divorce by Mrs. George Cornwallis-West, formerly Lady Randolph Spencer Churchill, is to be heard by the divorce court in a few days. On March 3 she was granted a decree against her husband for the restitution of conjugal rights.

Weston's Tramp

CHICAGO, July 12.—Edward Pason Weston, the veteran pedestrian on his way to Minneapolis, refreshed by eight hours sleep in this city, resumed his tramp at 5:30 o'clock this morning. To day his objective was Elgin, Ill., forty miles from here. He is slightly behind his schedule.

MOST BEAUTIFUL HOTEL IN WORLD

Unionist Member Revealed as Man Behind $6,250,000 London Proposal.

(Canadian Press Despatch) LONDON, July 12.—It was announced to-day that the man who bought the St. George's Hospital site on Constitution Hill, opposite the entrance to Hyde Park, on which a $6,250,000 hotel is to be built, is Harry Mallaby-Deeley, a Unionist member of Parliament. Mr. Mallaby-Deeley says he is acting quite alone. It is his ambition to build a hotel which, he says, will be "beyond dispute the most beautiful in the world."

Mr. Mallaby-Deeley has travelled much, and says he cannot recall a finer site for a hotel anywhere than the one overlooking the King's Gardens at Buckingham Palace, Hyde Park and Green Park. He adds: "The charges may be high, but if the hotel is a worthy one I believe that they will actually be one of the attractions, as wealthy Americans, Germans, Frenchmen and others will not hesitate to pay large prices for the best that money can buy."

The site occupies an area of an acre and three-quarters, and cost at the rate of $1,300,000 an acre. Mr. Mallaby-Deeley is thinking of erecting a theatre alongside the hotel and establishing communication between them.

Return to Work

MONTREAL, July 12.—The two hundred odd iron moulders who have been on strike for a nine hour day, have decided to return to work immediately and without any reference to the local secretary of the International Moulders Union, applied to the firms for reinstatement. The managers agreed to take them back under the same conditions and at the same rate of pay as the men received before going on strike. The men consider they were ill-advised by the local branch of the union, and that they ought not to have been called out; further, that the troubles could have been arranged by arbitration, if only the masters had been given a chance.

THIS BANKER WAS STRONG RELIGIEUSE

He Conducted Service Every Day Before Bank Opened Up.

(Canadian Press Despatch) CHICAGO, July 12.—Samuel A. Kean, for years banker, bond dealer in La Salle St., known for his practice of holding a brief religious service in his bank at the opening of each business day, died yesterday at his home in Evanston, Ill. His firm was prominent in the city's business life 30 years ago. Each morning up to the time of his retirement from banking, Mr. Kean's first act upon entering his bank was to summon all employees to his private office. He announced the number of a hymn, led the singing, made an introductory talk and had employees take turns in reading the day's lesson. Then he interpreted it for them. Mr. Kean was 76 years old.

COLLAPSE IMPENDS OF LAURIER TOWER

Second Liberal Structure at Ottawa Going the Way of First.

MINE MEN DAMOCLESES

Department Officials Housed Just Where the Stones Will Drop.

(Canadian Press Despatch) OTTAWA, July 12.—The second of the take-down towers erected by the Laurier Government is threatening to go the way of the first. This is the stone tower of the Victoria Memorial Museum, in McLeod street which has been slowly but steadily parting company with the rest of the building ever since the completion of the structure two years ago.

It will be remembered that Contractor Goodwin, who built the museum, protested to the late Government that the plans provided insufficient footings, Goodwin disclaimed responsibility for following the plans, but the Government took no action and the tower was put up.

Hon. Louis Coderre, who is now Minister of Mines, has a number of his department officials housed just about where the big stones will drop when the tower falls.

TROUBLE OVER NEW SIDEWALKS

Township Council Passed By-Law Last Night as a Preliminary to Work.

Last night the members of the Township Council and the Echo Place Improvement Association held a joint meeting in the office of Township Clerk Smith, and discussed the building of a sidewalk on the South side of the Hamilton Road from the city limits to the limits of Echo Place, over which there is a difference of opinion as to the petition being sufficiently signed.

Petitions for the sidewalk on both sides of the Hamilton Road were presented to the council recently. The petition for the North side only was accepted, the petition for the South side not being accepted, upon the grounds that it was not sufficiently signed. The local improvement act, which is the act under which the association are endeavoring to secure the walk, says that two thirds of the assessed value of the land must be secured.

The question is to determine what area is affected by the walk being built. Two large property owners did not sign the petition. It was argued by the association and their solicitor, Mr. A. E. Baird, K.C., that under the act, only a certain area of the properties of those who did not sign would be affected. The properties in question extend for considerable distance back from the road, and owing to the large area of these properties, the petition was not sufficiently signed. There was considerable discussion, almost all present taking part.

The result of the meeting was that the Township Council passed a by-law empowering Mr. Alan Jackson, of Jackson and Co., that under the act, only a certain area of the properties of those who did not sign would be affected. The properties in question extend for considerable distance back from the road, and owing to the large area of these properties, the petition was not sufficiently signed. There was considerable discussion, almost all present taking part.

Many children die from the assaults of worms, and the first care of mothers should be to see that their infants are free from these pests. A vermicide that can be depended on is Miller's Worm Powders. They will not only expel worms from the system, but act as a health-giving medicine and a remedy for many of the ailments that beset infants, enfeebling them and endangering their lives.

WANT AD HOROSCOPE
JULY 12.
The birthstone of this birthdate is the Moon or Luna. This is a difficult sign to be born under, as it gives many puzzling characteristics, and the native is apt to be contradictory and stubborn and unwilling to listen to argument.

Children of this birthdate should be given a musical education. They are very fond of music and will often become quiet and calm, if much excited, when given an opportunity to listen to music.

People with this birthdate should wear brown colors. Their mates are found in the latter part of February or the first part of January, but persons of this birthdate should not marry until late in life in order to avoid much trouble and misunderstanding.

This date favors the advertising of automobiles for sale, sales of all farm products and farming property through a Want Ad.

Men DO Read
Advertisements
There has been some lively discussion on this subject lately, and at a dinner of advertising men in one of the larger cities recently a prominent advertiser rose and asserted that "after all, very few men read advertisements."

"You are absolutely wrong," retorted another advertising man, the manager of advertising in a department store. "We had a sale of shirts one day last week that was the most successful in the history of our business. 99 per cent of those who came in and bought were men. They came in direct response to our newspaper advertisement."

Everywhere in every station of life men find interest in advertising. It may not be clothing, shoes or hats; but it may be something that relates to real estate, banking, the stock market, to automobiles—to any of the thousand and one things that constantly form the subject of wide-awake advertising.

$3.50 RECIPE FREE FOR WEAK MEN

SEND NAME AND ADDRESS TODAY—YOU CAN HAVE IT FREE AND BE STRONG AND VIGOROUS.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains, or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have it.

NO DRINKING MAN NEED DESPAIR

The Neal Cure—Greatest of All Modern Discoveries—Offers a Means of Escape from the Curse of Drink. A cure of the Drink Habit is Guaranteed in Three Days no Matter Whether the Patient is a Hard and Constant Drinker, Social Tippler or Goes on Occasional Spree.

There was wandering in the streets of Toronto lately a homeless man, who at one time held a splendid position, but drink was his downfall. To-day his wife, a cultured woman, works out by the day, endeavoring to support herself and little family. Think of it, you wives and mothers, who have homes of comfort and all that makes life worth living, what it would be to you to be deprived of these and forced to face the wash tub for an existence, as this poor wife has to do today?

But this home which was made a hell on earth through strong drink—as every drunkard's is—may be made into a heaven upon earth, as many have been made, as a result of the Neal Treatment. Three days only—the wonder of it—to effect a cure and make the victim of strong drink a new man, physically, morally and mentally.

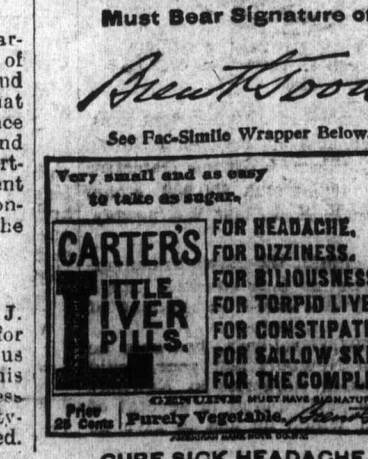

We undertake to guarantee to effect a cure of the Drink Habit in Three Days, no matter whether the patient is a hard and constant drinker, social tippler, or goes on occasional sprees. Are you interested in a poor fellow going down, down, down for the rest of it, one of her daughters is a pimp, another a peach; their aunt is a lemon; there's a regular pumpkin-head there and a— But the enquirer had fled.

THE WINNIPEG FLAG INCIDENT

In Winnipeg a man from the other side, during a parade, waved the Stars and Stripes and shouted "Hurrah for the United States." He and the emblem were speedily in the mud. That was regrettable, yet the Pittsburg Dispatch makes the following impartial comments on the incident:

"To get the proper perspective of that flag incident at Winnipeg, suppose that during one of the parades in the United States yesterday some visiting Canadian had stood on the sidewalk flaunting a Union Jack and shouting 'Hurrah for the British lion' Is it improbable that what would have happened to that British flag would have been much different from what happened to the American colors at Winnipeg? Crowds do not stop in moments like that to reflect that the stranger's gross discourtesy must be due to artificial stimulation and that consequently his case is one for the police court in the morning rather than for frenzied demonstrations of resentment by the offended public.

"Incidents like these are irritating at the time, but the sensible people of both sides of the border set them down for what they are, considering the source, and do not allow them to interfere with the good feeling between neighbors. No American or Canadian with sincere love for the flag of his country would wantonly invite an outrage upon it by using it to affront his neighbors. At the same time it would be better if excitable patriots on either side of the line would turn bibulous demonstrators over to the police, instead of venting their rage upon the flag of a friendly nation. It is not the flag that has invited resentment, but the fool who flourishes it under such circumstances.

THE DIFFERENCE

English papers contain the full text of the speech of ex-Premier Balfour in connection with the Marconi charges, which involved the names of Lloyd George, and Sir Rufus Isaacs. Here is an extract:

"For my part, it never even occurred to me to trouble my head about the truth of these accusations against the Attorney-General and the Chancellor of the Exchequer. (Cheers) Not because I had examined the evidence. (Laughter) I do not know that even now I have taken the trouble to examine the evidence—(laughter)—on that particular aspect of the question. But I think the thing absurd on the face of it. (Loud cheers) I have sat opposite these gentlemen during their whole parliamentary career. I have been able to judge them as we all judge each other. There is not a man in this House who has taken an active part in our debates who has not got his character well established in essentials in the judgment of his fellow members, and I would no more believe with or without evidence, that the Chancellor of the Exchequer or the Attorney-General had been guilty of 'putting their hand in the till'—(laughter)—that they had done a thing for which a man should be hounded out of public and private life for doing—I would no more believe that, with or without evidence, than I would believe the same charge against my nearest relation. (Cheers) It is not the way we judge each other, and I regard this charge as perfectly futile and absurd from the beginning and unworthy of the consideration of this House. But if the Government think after what has occurred this particular certificate of character should be given to their colleagues, I, for my part, shall be perfectly ready to enforce it. (Cheers) I do not believe there is a man on this side of the House—not the severest critic of the conduct of these two right honorable gentlemen—who would not be delighted to say, if it was thought necessary, that they had not only been proved not to be guilty of corruption, but that the idea of corruption was utterly out of the question." (Cheers)

The two ministers admitted that they made a mistake, and Balfour, as spokesman for his side of the House, was willing to let it go at that, although the deal included thousands, win or lose.

In the Ontario House recently, Sir James Whitney and Hon. Mr. Hanna admitted that it was inadvisable that the latter should have accepted $500 towards party funds from a firm having business with the Government. Yet they have since been hounded by Grit speakers and Grit papers as if they were a couple of thieves, although, in this case, it was conceded there was no personal gain while in the British case personal gain was the admitted object.

And there's where you get the difference between broad mindedness and picayune piffle.

HANNA AND PROUDFOOT

In connection with the North Grey bye-election, a challenge was issued by Mr. Proudfoot for Hon. Mr. Hanna to let him go on the platform at an advertised Conservative meeting, and discuss his recent charges.

Mr. Hanna promptly accepted, and then the Proudfoot outfit commenced to wiggle.

Mr. R. Patterson, Secretary of the North Grey Liberal Association sent a letter in reply, during which he said:

"The only stipulation requested by Mr. Proudfoot is that he be allowed an equal and fair arrangement as to time with Mr. Hanna in debating this special subject." The Liberal committee when negotiations started at once presented the job handled request Proudfoot be allowed to open and speak for three-quarters of an hour, Mr. Hanna to have an hour for reply and Mr. Proudfoot to have fifteen minutes for rebuttal. This meant that Proudfoot was to be allowed to open and close a Conservative meeting, and was very properly refused. In this regard the Conservative association sent back a letter during which they make the suggestion:

"As this is Mr. Cameron's (Conservative meeting), we propose that he open the meeting with, say a speech to last from twenty minutes to half an hour; Mr. Proudfoot shall then follow and be given half an hour on the Proudfoot charges only, and Mr. Hanna shall then follow and speak only for the same time on the same subject and matter. Should he, however, desire to speak further it would be upon other subjects entirely distinct from the Proudfoot charges."

This was a fair proposal and finally an arrangement was made for the two men to meet to-night on a platform in Owen Sound. Hon. Mr. Hanna when seen said:

"I have not concerned myself about the division of time. I think that to or 15 minutes is more than the subject is worth. The audience in a case of this sort has some right to consideration."

Mr. Hanna is right; the Liberal attempt to magnify this $500 matter into a scandal is unbecome. However it does show one thing, and that is the absolutely clean methods of the Whitney Administration when after years of office this is the only spat which has rewarded the Grit drag net.

As for Proudfoot he will be handicapped, not only for the reason that he has preferred a silly little indictment which he couldn't back up with evidence, but also for the circumstance that both for broadmindedness and oratorical ability he does not begin to be in Hanna's class.

THE TEACHER PROBLEM

The matter of securing suitable men and women in the above profession is becoming a very serious problem in Ontario, more especially in the rural districts.

The Toronto papers each day contain columns of small advertisements seeking to secure instructors to take up duties at the commencement of the fall term. In no other professional walk of life in this Province are there so many vacancies offering and so few applicants.

The truth of the matter is that the remuneration, generally speaking, is too low for the talents demanded. Moreover, there has to be a long period of unremunerative study, before the necessary certificates can be acquired. Another noticeable feature is the fatuity with which some county trustees use such words as "state salary expected." When other advertisements announce the pay in good round terms, they surely cannot expect a low-cut rush to secure the job. There is nothing of more importance than the proper education of the young, and the pay for those engaged in that task will have to measure up to a more equitable standard. That fact might as well be generally faced.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The "Terrible Turk" is commencing to appear like a mild kind of duck alongside of those other Balkan peoples.

"Boundary extension," 'tain't of thee we sing. As for the present you're a most defuncted thing."

When it comes to fierce personal fighting it takes a couple of editors with "Rev." attached to their names to deliver the real goods.

Here's another editorial comment, this time from the Stratford Beacon (Liberal), which is commended to the attention of our local coteries. "Brantford is discussing the question of again extending its boundaries. It is easier to extend boundaries than it is to supply those who may come within them with city privileges. In earlier days the boundaries of Stratford were extended too fast. The result has been that there are areas not yet properly filled up, and we have an immense mileage of streets and sidewalks to maintain."

As a matter of fact, Brantford is not discussing the matter. It was a scheme of the Expositor's, and it's dead.

What the Other Fellow Thinks.

Some Pitcher. Puck: She—My, isn't the man who throws the ball for our side just wonderful? He throws it so they hit it every time.

Not An Aid to Matrimony. Detroit Free Press: "Poverty is no bar to marriage," says a St. Louis preacher. Neither is it much of a boost.

Not the Only Source. Toronto Star: The fact that the Governor of Havana shot the chief of police reminds us that the island doesn't rely entirely on its cigars as a source of entertainment.

Same Everywhere. Hamilton Herald: Tariffs may have something to do with the high cost of living, and yet there is Hong-Kong, a port which is free to the commerce of the world, but where the cost of living has advanced 50 per cent. in the last ten years.

The Average Canadian Steak. Guelph Mercury: We could hardly say which is the best way to cook a steak is to hammer it well with a meat axe or hatchet, then boil for a couple of hours. After this is over make a sauce, and stew it for half an hour. Then leave it where the dog is sure to get it and open a can of salmon.

Fool Work. Guelph Herald: Dishonest shippers are said to have crippled Western fruit trade by placing best fruit on the top and bottom of a barrel, and filling in between with unfit fruit. It is wonderful how short sighted some people are. There are producers to-day, though their number is becoming fewer every year, who think they can get away with similar tactics. When the deception is discovered, however, the householder never gets hit a second time by the same person.

Becker Must Stay in Prison. [Canadian Press Despatch] NEW YORK, July 12—Charles Becker's application for a new trial on the charge of murdering the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, was denied by Supreme Court Justice Goff today. Counsel sought to re-open the case on the ground of newly discovered evidence.

Justice Goff, who was the trial judge in the Becker case and in the case of the four gunmen also convicted, held that the former police lieutenant had had fair trial before him and in a seventeen page opinion denied the plea. If relief comes to Becker now it must be through the higher courts. For months he has been in the death house at Sing Sing.

Gun Practice Kills Seabirds. Hundreds of seabirds killed by the firing of big guns on warships during practice have been washed up on the shores of Argyle.

CLEWS FOUND IN $300,000 GEM ROBBERIES. Miss Florence Wells, Japanese of whom Rhind says wife was jealous.

Clews have been found to the $300,000 gem robberies in Newport last year. Obtaining possession of a gold mesh bag, valued at $750, Raymond Burns, who has charge of the New York office of the William J. Burns Detective Agency, announced that all of the articles of jewelry, worth $50,000, stolen from the residence of Harry L. Haas, at Long Branch, N. J., last Wednesday, had been recovered.

It was through a Miss Wells' quick ears, which caught the clews in conversation between two men, that caused their arrest in the $300,000 case. Reginald Rhind, one of the purchasers, was deserted by his bride on account of the Japanese woman whose picture here appears.

James McIntyre, who is concerned in the $50,000 robbery, has said he was implicated in several large jewel robberies in Newport last year," said a Burns man. "During last summer the total loss in robberies at Newport amounted to about $300,000. McIntyre has said he participated in several of these, and when we obtain all of the information which he has to give us we expect important developments."

Wireless Station at Orkney. A wireless signal station is to be erected by the Admiralty at Brough, South Ronaldshay, the most southern island of the Orkney group.

Rheumatism. Is a Constitutional Disease. It manifests itself in local aches and pains, inflamed joints and stiff muscles, but it cannot be cured by local applications. It requires constitutional treatment, and the best is a course of the great blood-purifying and tonic medicine Hood's Sarsaparilla which corrects the acid condition of the blood and builds up the system. Get it today. Sold by all druggists everywhere. 100 Doses One Dollar.

TORONTO PROVES SAME OLD PLACE

Orangemen, Rain or Shine, Walk To-Day—The Doings.

[Canadian Press Despatch]

TORONTO, July 12—Rain cannot dampen the enthusiasm of Toronto's loyal Orangemen, and they paraded this morning in large numbers through a steady downpour and streets lined with umbrellas, which protected spectators. In the neighborhood of eight thousand True Blues Orange Young Britons and members of Orange lodges in the city and district gathered at Queen's Park in the rain, walked the two miles to Exhibition Park through a distinctly damp atmosphere, and then took refuge in the grandstand, from which point of vantage and dryness they listened to speeches from prominent men on various aspects of Orangemen.

Close to 70 bands accompanied the marchers, and lively music kept time with the raindrops. Brilliant uniforms did not show to the best advantage, though many thoughtful persons carried umbrellas as they walked.

It was an epoch in human history. It was an Armageddon rich in the righteous triumph of the right above the wrong. And in its glorious aftermath the annals of the Christian races should have been remade and amplified. But almost in a night the scene has changed. The peace of London became the proclamation of a progressive savagery. The men who endured like martyrs and fought like lions could not win like men, but quarrelled like jackals over the spoils of victory.

Bulgaria, first in battle, was foremost in her greed, and her crimson hands, wet with heathen blood, presuming on their strength, reached out to grasp the throats of Christian allies and to seize the territory that Greece and Serbia had helped like heroes to achieve. Friends fastened their fangs into each other's vitals with a ferocity fiercer than they had shown their common foe.

The Balkan armies seem to have become as barbarous as the Turks. Their hatred for the Turk was as nothing to their hatred for each other.

Their hideous greed of territory blinded their eyes to every sentiment of Christianity and to every creed of Christ.

They caught from the Turk his bloodiest butchery and branded them upon their fratricidal strife. The Bulgars at Killis and Kurbut burned alive seven hundred men before their tortured wives with as fine a savagery as ever brutalized the Turk. The Serbs at Belgrade shouted jeers and hisses into the dying ears of Bulgarian prisoners, brought from the battle fronts, and hand to hand, with fist and foot, tooth and nail, like primeval savages, fought Bulgar and Serb who had carried the cross of Christ in triumph above the infidel and Unspeakable Turk.

The Balkan fortnight behind us is an outrage upon the whole Christian world. These lapsed Christians, these transformed savages of greed, have within ten days horrified civilized nations. They have struck a staggering blow at the faith they followed, and their religion and ours they have defiled.

The nations that cried godspeed to the Balkan armies—

CITY NEWS ITEMS

THE PROBS

TORONTO, July 12.—A depression covers the lake this morning, and strong winds with rain are prevalent. An exceptionally heavy fall of rain has occurred at Port Arthur. Showers have occurred in many parts of the western provinces.

FORECAST

Strong winds and moderate, southeasterly to southwesterly, unsettled, with showers and local thunderstorms. Sunday—Westerly winds, clearing.

Temperature.

Record for the last 24 hours: Highest, 77; lowest, 52. Same date last year: Highest, 84; lowest, 60.

Shovel on the Way.

A communication is on file at the city clerk's office from the A. R. Williams Machinery Company of Toronto, advising him that the new steam shovel recently purchased by the board of works had been shipped from Lorain, Ohio.

Band Concert.

There was a small crowd at the band concert given by the 25th Brant Dragons in Recreation Park last night. The band gave a good program, and the smallness of the crowd was due to other attractions in the city.

More Coming.

At a meeting of the Brantford trustees of the British Reunion Association four applications were considered and passed. Tickets will accordingly be sent to four wives now resident in the Old Land, who have 14 children between them, or 18 in all.

Insurance Claim.

The London and Lancashire Insurance Company have written the city clerk in reference to the accident which befell Miss Lukes some time ago, and stated that they had instructed Mr. T. S. Wade to act for them and investigate the matter.

Entrance Results.

The local board of entrance examiners completed their work a week ago and forwarded the results to Toronto for revision. As soon as word which is expected any time from Toronto, the results will be published.

A Sad Death.

Many friends here were shocked to hear last Monday of the sudden death of Anna Belle Robson, daughter of R. C. Robson, formerly of this city. Particulars of the death just came to hand last night. Anna Belle was a bright winsome little girl and will be sorely missed by many friends. The parents and friends will have the sympathy of all in their very sad loss.

Orangemen at Hamilton

The local Orange Lodge assembled at their lodge rooms this morning to take part in the Glorious Twelfth July Celebration, which is being held Hamilton to-day. The Orangemen fell in line and headed by Ground Marshall White and the Brant Dragon Band, marched to the T. H. & B. station, where they entrained for the Ambitious City, where one of the largest demonstrations in the history of the city is contemplated.

Missing Girl Found.

J. L. Axford received word on Thursday from the officer in charge of the children's shelter in Stratford to the effect that a young girl named Florence Brooks, who left her home on Brighton Row some weeks ago, was in the shelter there. He went to Stratford to bring the girl back, but she was out spending the afternoon, and he returned alone. The authorities there stated that the girl would be sent here on the first train.

On the Grand Trunk.

The friends of a young lady who is the hostess of friends from "up the lakes" had a good laugh at the big carnival last night. The lady in question took her guests for a ride on the elephant. While the sacred animal of Siam was making the rounds the attendant went to the ice cream booth to purchase a cone and left his royal nibs to wander at will. The hostess and guests became very excited, but they finally reached their destination where they found their "elephant chaperone" awaiting them.

With the City Police

It was a dull day in police circles this morning. Five drunks were on the carpet and were dealt with in short order by the magistrate. One was let go and the rest were fined $3 each.

Walter Moore was charged with not working, but Walter was not there to answer the charge, and the case was laid over.

Wm. P. Hill charged his brother, George P. Hill, with the theft of a horse about 20 years old. Both defendant and plaintiff claimed ownership of the horse, each saying he had raised it from a colt. It was an old family affair and was a case where brotherly love was conspicuous by its absence. The magistrate thought that the horse should be returned to William Hill, and the costs of the court to be paid by the defendant.

VISITED CITY AFTER BEING AWAY FORTY-FIVE YEARS

Mr. Andrew McKay, an Old Brantford Boy, Greatly Impressed.

Two old time Brantfordites, Mr. Andrew McKay of Alpena, Mich., who had not visited Brantford for 45 years and his brother, Mr. Hugh McKay of Bridgeburg who had not been here in 35 years, paid a delightful visit to the Telephone City this week, again meeting their sister, Mrs. Arthur Disher. They were sons of the late Duncan McKay at one time Town Treasurer, and they remember Brantford in its early stages. They were amazed at the general transformation and development which has taken place. "No, thirty but a wonderful progressive spirit on the part of the citizens could have made this town what it is," said Mr. Andrew McKay, who was being shown round by an old friend, Mr. Robert Ballantyne. While in the city the visitors renewed acquaintance with Mayor Hartman, Mr. Bunell, Mr. F. W. Frank, Ven. Archdeacon Mackenzie and many others, who were delighted to see them and learn of their prosperity. "Brantford has a warm spot in my heart," said Mr. McKay, "and after an absence of 45 years it makes one feel good to see how wonderfully this city has grown, and what a prosperous looking lot of people and homes are contained here." Both gentlemen left this morning for their respective homes.

On Dufferin Green.

Members' night was observed last night at the Dufferin Bowling Club, when forty members of the club bowled. It is the intention of the club to observe members' night next Friday night.

Fall From Excursion Train.

A nine-year-old boy named Wm. Wallace, residing at Paisley, died in the Alexandra Infirmary from injuries sustained on the railway line leading from Bishopston to Paisley. He had been with a Sunday school excursion and while returning in the train he fell from the carriage on to the permanent way.

"The Dream of His Boyhood."

The village of Swinton, Berwickshire, was an fête on the occasion of the homecoming of Captain G. H. T. Swinton, Uppminster, Hall, Essex, to the estate of Swinton. Over 20 years ago a connection of eight centuries was severed when the lands passed out of the Swinton family, but that connection has now been renewed by the repurchase of the estate by Captain Swinton. Captain Swinton said the predominant feeling was one of devout thankfulness to God for answering his prayer of many long years. It had been the dream of his boyhood and the hope of his manhood to bring back the estate to his family.

An Actor's Bigamy

At Glasgow Henry Hubert Fletcher Desborough, described as an actor, was sent to prison for three months for having in 1910 bigamously married Isabella Cook Branson, 9 Brace street, Glasgow. The Procurator-Fiscal stated that the accused was married in 1897 at St Saviour's church, London. At that time he was touring with a theatrical company. His wife and he lived happily for three years, and he then proposed separation, and promised her 10s. weekly. He wrote three or four times, and then stopped altogether. The defence was that accused believed his first wife was dead.

CHARLTON'S TRIP DELAYED.

MRS. PORTER CHARLTON.

PORTER CHARLTON

It was announced at the Italian Consulate that it is probable Porter Charlton will not be extradited for more than a month. Although the last legal obstacle is believed to have been swept away, the Italian government intends to abide strictly by the rules of procedure in such cases. It will send an agent of the Home Office to this country for the youthful wife alayer, according to a statement made by Acting General Consul Giuseppe Gentile.

FIREMEN FIRED BY PARIS COUNCIL

Perennial Row Over Building Threshed Out by the Council.

PARIS, July 11.—The perennial row between the firemen and bandmen over the use of the rooms allotted to both bodies cropped up again as usual this year and at the regular meeting of the Council on June 28th, a motion was passed asking the bandmen to vacate the down town room and practice in the old council chamber in Upper Town. No notice of this motion was sent either to the bandmen or firemen. Last Tuesday night the band practice was held in the Fire Hall and after a vain effort to dislodge them, the firemen sent in their resignation to the council. Later, learning of the motion of June 28th, they sent another communication to the council withdrawing their resignation. A special meeting of the town fathers was called for last night to deal with this and other subjects, and the council chamber was crowded with representatives of the disputing parties.

The two communications from the firemen, resigning and then withdrawing their resignations were read, as also one from the bandmen signed by J. J. Hickey and forty-five others who were willing to act as firemen in case the resignation of the present brigade was accepted.

A bombshell was thrown into the ranks of the firemen when Reeve Davidson moved, seconded by Ald.

Wells that the resignation of the Paris Fire Brigade be accepted and that the Fire and Light committee of the council be instructed to reorganize the brigade at once, any members of the old brigade who are willing to serve on the newly organized one to be accepted.

Mayor Patterson did not want such summary action taken but thought it would be better to see if the government would allow the band to practice in the armories.

Ald. Evans was perfectly in accord with the motion. The fire company had dictated to the council long enough, and he thought they should be taught that they did not own the council building. On a past occasion they had put the mayor and other representatives out of the rooms when they went in to mediate over a similar dispute and all along they had played the part of dog in the manger. The band was not harming them in the least, but the firemen simply wanted to show their authority.

The motion was then put and was carried, those voting for it being: Ald. Davidson, Evans, Wells, Laskey and Rehder.

The street watering by-law was read three times and carried.

A by-law to appoint a tax collector for 1913 was introduced and given the necessary number of readings. Six applications were in for the position as follows: G. H. Carroll, G. F. Huson, C. H. Roberts, G. H. Armstrong, W. Springate and C. W. Lawton.

On motion of Messrs. Torrance and Laskey the position was awarded to ex-Mayor Armstrong, the salary to be $250 for the present term in 1913.

The motion of the last meeting ordering the band to vacate the present room was rescinded.

Jack Davids who was caught with four undersized bass in his possession this week was fined $20 and costs, a total of $23.50, on Wednesday.

During Wednesday's storm a cottage on Jane street was struck by lightning but only slightly damaged. Three rinks of Galt bowlers visited Paris yesterday and after trailing behind throughout the game came with a rush at the finish and defeated the locals by 17 shots.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dunn of Vancouver are visiting friends in Paris.

Sad Intelligence.

The sad news was received in this city on Saturday last of the sudden death of Dr. Hamilton of Thessalon, father of Mrs. George Burns, 37 Nelson street. The funeral took place on Monday from his late residence to Kirkwood cemetery. Many local friends will greatly sympathize with Mrs. Burns in her sad loss.

A STATEMENT MADE

In connection with certain allegations made at the meeting last night the following statement was handed to the Courier to-day, which speaks for itself:

We are informed that at a meeting of the members of the Echo Place Improvement Association with the Council of the Township of Brantford, at the Court House last night, in connection with the scheme of constructing sidewalks in Echo Place under the Local Improvement Act, at which some fifty or sixty members of the association were present, that one of the members publicly stated that Mr. A. E. Watts, Solicitor for the Township, was using his position as Solicitor to block the movement of the Association in the interests of his private clients, the trustees of the Lovejoy Estate.

As this statement was made publicly, and in a most offensive manner, we wish to give the same a flat

A BEAUTIFUL COTTAGE FOR $500

Designed By Chas. S. Sedgwick, Architect

Here is a nice little home for a man of small means. We are often asked what can be built for $500, and this is the answer. 24 ft. in width by 28 ft. in depth, four rooms, set 2 feet above the ground, with a good cellar underneath 7 ft. deep with cement bottom and built on a 10 inch concrete foundation wall. The outside studding 8 ft. high with double sill and plate, giving an 8 ft. 6 in. story when finished.

The house is covered with wide Washington fir drop siding up to the window sills and above that point covered with narrow siding, the roof is shingled and interior walls plastered. A good Washington fir with one coat of brown Mission stain. There is one central chimney that can be used for a small heater in the basement or a stove may be used in the living room and one in the kitchen. There is a small china cupboard in the dining room, and two for dishes in the kitchen, and two clothes closets opening out of the bedrooms. This will make a neat and comfortable home for a small family.

There is no attempt at ornamentation, everything being perfectly plain, with a plain cornice without gutter and rafters showing on the underside. One coat of brown Creosote stain on the outside woodwork will protect it well and the sash may be painted white and the shingles on the roof stained red or green.

The front porch is 7 ft. wide and 9 ft. long, with a close railing at the bottom and screened. At the kitchen door there is a small platform with steps. The sash are double hung with weights and all the hardware trimmings are black B. B. iron.

Ole Bull When Boy.

WHO has not heard the story of Ole Bull? And the brings to us thoughts of singing birds and scented flowers, for of such was the first music of Ole Bull, the world's violinist. Some one said of him played with his heart, not with head. And so he always thought a deep scholar of music, and a master of technique. His playing had more in it than had his heart, as well as his fingers. Those who wanted to criticize his awful playing went away after him to praise it. It is highest Ole Bull was what might be called "born musician," his musical ability being early manifest. As a man he loved music so that he would under a table or chair of an enemy when his parents were present. His parents on finding hidden away thus would be angry and send him off to bed, who declared he should have been before. They, poor souls! did not realize that they were striking the man who was greatest in their sons. They only thought of his welfare, which depended on his in bed and asleep by half-past instead of being hidden away in a smothering sofa or curtain till ten o'clock or maybe later.

But his fondness for music not be overlooked and when eight years of age his father presented him with a little red violin. His mother sensibly engaged a teacher for him. On the next day of this wonderful gift, he could not sleep for thinking of the red violin, and about midnight all the house was in deepest gloom. He arose and went to the where the brilliantly-colored violin reposed in its black box. Affecting he took it from its bed and on a table, his eyes rested on the and the graceful bow beside could not withstand the temptation to touch the magic strings. "Lo! a child's hand is on the bow. Then he held the violin

HERE were just three standing close together long shelf in the rear a village drug store. I been filled with something perhaps turpentine and perfume or something else just as well and useful. Just what they wanted, Lena and Larry did it. All they knew was that the three green bottles with long necks and looked like three soldiers there in a row, looking out open window.

Lena and Larry were a n old girl and seven-year-old they were sister and brother. Their father kept the drug store a home was a pretty white block away from the store. Their busy mother always found to do, and made the home cozy and attractive for their father. They were a yard stretching all round the white cottage, and porches, the children preferred playing room at the rear of their drug store. This special room long and low and full of oil. Their father called the thing and said they were of the fun to him. So the three green bottles belonging to the "junk," fell to Larry to play with. There were mers bottles—empty—and what-not there, but of no use to the children. The three green bottles. This cause they resembled soldiers. Larry who first discovered the bottles. He had seen some marching once when he was city visiting his grandmother they had looked stiff and set very, very straight, like the green bottles.

One morning Larry and Lena down to their father's store to the rear room. First, their clerk prepared some delightful late ice-cream-soda for them. They had eaten and drunk they said, "Thank you," and the back room. But to the dismay and dismay, their bottles were gone! Lena said, "Larry said, 'My goodness! exclaiming, 'Somebody have got them!'" Then Lena the store and cried out to her who was busily engaged with tomes. "Where are the bottles, Papa?"

"I don't know, Daughter, along and don't bother me."

Lena stood still, framing question. Then she went to fountain side of the store at

It occasionally happens that the big league pennants are won by the half way mark of the season is passed—and this looks like the case on these occasions. NOSED OUT IN LAST INNING

Red Sox Lost at Berlin 5-4—Gero Was Hit Opportunely.

BERLIN, Ont., July 12.—A ninth innings rally by the locals yesterday fixture from the Brantford Red Sox by 5 to 4 in a classy exhibition of ball. Manager White was again in the limelight with his hitting. In the last frame he opened with a double, and scored the winning run when Getzle singled. Timely hitting won for the tall-enders. Gero was touched up for eleven safe plants, while the Sox got to Bramble's offerings for nine hits. By bunting two in the fourth together with a pass the Sox tied the score. Berlin came back with runs in the fifth and sixth, but in the eighth the visitors tied the score by bunting four hits. The score: BERLIN. Chief Bender Let Up After the Athletics Had a Safe Lead.

ST. LOUIS BEAT BOSTON

Washington Downed Detroit and New York Defeated Chicago.

CLEVELAND, July 11.—While "Chief" Bender held the Naps pretty well for six innings to-day, the Mackmen smashed out a big lead and accumulated a safe lead Bender let up a bit and the Naps were allowed to make five runs. Score by innings: Philadelphia, 13,000,5020-11; Cleveland, 000000140-5. WAS EASY FOR HIGHLANDERS CHICAGO, July 11.—The Highlanders to-day did everything to the White Sox that one ball club can do to another and escape arrest. They beat the Chicago 11 to 1, and hammered three of their pitchers until it was almost a crime. Cree's home run drive in the sixth counted four runs. Score by innings: New York, 003017000-11; Chicago, 010000000-1. RACE IS GETTING CLOSER

London and Guelph Were the Other Winning Teams—The Scores.

Peterboro Won ST. THOMAS, July 12.—Peterboro won both games of a double header here yesterday. In the first game Baker's lack of control was the direct cause of the Saints' downfall. In the opening inning, with the bases loaded he forced in two runs. Sterling started to pitch for the Petes, but was yanked in the fifth and Tracey finished. The second contest was put on Easy street in the fourth inning when the Saints bled and the visitors intermingled a few good clouts, resulting in eight tallies. Tracey held the locals scoreless up to the last frame, when they pounded him all over, scoring six runs behind the side was retired. Scores: First game—Peterboro, 403300000-1; St. Thomas, 201010200-3. Second game—Peterboro, 0108000-1; St. Thomas, 0000006-0.

Hitting the First Ball

Some players obey orders literally, others ignore them consistently. Rube DeGroff tells a story about a man who comes under the first classification. "A new player joined us at Syracuse one day," says the Rube, "and he was green right through. A couple of the boys got on bases and then the new man was told to go 'whack 'em up.' 'Wait for a good one,' said the manager. One came up that was called a strike. Another hit the man's bat accidentally and bounced into the bleachers. Two strikes. A brand new ball was thrown into play. The latter heaved at the first issue, which was three feet over his head. He missed it. 'You're out,' yelled the umpire. 'I thought I told you to wait for a good ball,' shrieked the manager. 'I did it, it was the first new ball I had a chance at,'" rejoined the recruit. Won Fame on Its Merits—The unbounded popularity that Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil enjoys is not attributable to any elaborate advertising, for it has not been so advertised, but is entirely due to the merits of this Oil as a medicine. In every city, town and hamlet in the country it is sought after solely because of its good qualities.

BEBE'S GOOD START

London's New Pitcher Shut Out Ottawa by 3 to 0. LONDON, July 12.—Beebe, who was secured by the Tecumsehs from Cleveland, made his first appearance in the box for London against Ottawa yesterday, and while he was a trifle wild on occasions, he was able to tighten up in the pinches, and win out by the shut out route. Beebe allowed only four hits, while Reilly was slammed for half a dozen before he was derrick'd in the sixth. The sixth inning was a richly pitched ball for the remainder of the struggle, and the locals did not score. Dad Stewart broke up the game in the sixth inning by a two-base hit over Rogers' head in left field. Beebe has all the earmarks of a real pitcher, and the reason that he attracted the attention of Cleveland is obvious. He came to the Naps from Omaha in the Western League, and was later farmed out to Charleston of the Southern. When he was pitched over to London, it was stipulated that Cleveland should in return have first call on Louis Pierhouse or Dunlop of the Indians. Scores: Ottawa, 000000000-0; London, 100002000-3.

WHAT'S DOING IN BIG LEAGUE SHOW

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Washington has turned loose Pitcher John Wilson, the former St. John's College star. He failed to show any of it in his trials with Griffith.

Williams, the new firstbaseman bought by the New York Yankees from Galveston of the Texas League, is a brother of Gus Williams, the outfielder with the Browns.

Harold Janvrin is said to have lost his nerve with the Red Sox and prays President McAleer to release or trade him. This recalls that he was recently offered for Bobby Wallace to the St. Louis Browns.

Con Lucid, trainer of the Houston Texas League team, says that Frank Chance has landed a star catcher in Reynolds. He is catching for Houston this season and he is a real sensation in the Lone Star State.

The St. Louis Browns have grabbed another University of Michigan player in Joseph Bell, who played the outfield and captained the University team this spring. In addition to making a great hitting record at Michigan he shone as a member of the track team.

Pitcher Back O'Brien changes his hose from red to white, the Boston club having sold him to Chicago. Some critics profess to see in the deal more evidence that Ed Walsh is to be of little use this year, while others say it is confirmation of reports that all is not harmony on the Red Sox team.

Johnny Laven, the University of Michigan youth, has beaten at least one shortstop candidate out of a job with the St. Louis Browns, it being announced that Deo Walsh has been released to Indianapolis. Walsh was a fast fielder but lacked hitting power. If he develops it in the American Association he will be recalled by the Browns.

Hugh Jennings mourns the fact that in the last six weeks the Tigers have lost a dozen games by one run and that in the same time the team has had 50 men on third base with one or none out and no score. The Tigers, once a great hitting team, have been helpless, says Jennings, in a pinch and he has the figures to prove it.

Although Gossett, the Yankees' young catcher, may not break up the league when it comes to hitting, Chance is of the opinion that he has landed a fine prospect. Gossett in the few games he has worked has proved he is a hustler and that there is nothing the matter with his arm. He looks like a regular catcher and one who will be better as he gets more experience in the big yard.

Ray Caldwell, who has created the impression that he is about through as a pitcher, and on whom waivers were asked by Manager Chance not long ago, will soon figure in some sort of a trade, so rumor goes. It will come to pass if Manager Chance can pull the right deal. It was thought for awhile that the big pitcher was coming around. He showed improvement, but did not look like the old Caldwell.

Secretary Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Browns is a busy man. In addition to being scout for Colonel Hedges and looking after the business end of the club, he is also in the spring time coach of the Michigan University baseball team. Now it is announced that this fall he will assist Roy Thomas in founding a new foot ball theories into the heads of the athletics of Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware.

Russell Ford has practically given up his spitball. It is but occasionally that he needs it now. He has returned to his curve. At the beginning of the season, and in fact until just recently, Ford could not work the kinks out of his arm. He noticed it more particularly just after throwing a spitball. He came to the conclusion that this style of delivery was too much of a pull on his wrist and shoulder and he has virtually decided to give it up altogether.

Clark Griffith, Washington manager has stopped Walter Johnson from hitting fungos. There are few players who can drive the ball as far as Johnson, and it was one of his pleasures to hit lang flies to the outfielders during preliminary practice. But Griffith does not believe that this form of exercise does the big fellow any good, and he requested him to cut it out, which he has done. Griffith figures that fungo hitting is a strain on the great Johnson's pitching arm.

The recent injury to Shortstop George McBride of Washington, which put him out of the game temporarily, calls attention to his remarkable record. Joining Washington in the fall of 1907 he started active work in 1908 and took part in every game played by the team that season. He duplicated this in 1909 and 1910. In 1911 and 1912 he missed a few innings but is credited with being in every game in the former year and all but one in the latter. In all his career he is said to have been put out of the game but once by an umpire.

Early in the spring Connie Mack announced that the Athletics would carry no scouts this year. No one then realized that Mack was sufficiently well supplied in the scouting line without going outside his immediate family. Tom Mack, Connie's brother, a Worcester boniface, is responsible for the presence upon the Athletics of several of the team's stars, and now Connie's younger son a student at Worcester Academy, tips off his father upon Walter Whit-taker, the old Somerville High School pitcher with the result that the "old man" promptly signs him up for a trial.

State Senator Murbrough of New York, the "discovered" of Manager Birmingham of the Cleveland Naps, the youngest boss in the big leagues, tells how he found Birmingham. "I was coaching the Elmira Academy team said he, "when one day my centre fielder was forced to quit during a game. I was looking around for somebody to take his place, when someone on the side line pointed out a little bow-legged freckled kid sitting in the bleachers. "Why don't you put him in?" He's got an arm like a catapult." That freckled kid was Joe Birmingham. He got the tryout then and there. His arm was all right, good. He never got out of that center field job till he left the academy, and he has been climbing ever since.

The Philadelphia Club has protested the 14 inning victory that the Brooklyn won in the Quaker City recently. In the sixth inning of that battle Luderus was on first when Robert spilled a triple to the bleachers. It looked as if a spectator reached out and touched the ball. The Brooklyn made a claim of interference and Umpire Rigler allowed it. He sent Luderus, who had come home, back to second and Lohert back to first, and as the inning turned out the Phillies made only one run. The Philadelphia protest is based on the umpire's decision in sending the runner back.

The death of Doc Semmons, trainer of the Cincinnati Reds, is ascribed to his eagerness to leave the hospital after his operation for appendicitis. In his weakened condition he was an easy victim of the hot weather. Semmons got in the hospital last spring when, while he was acting as trainer for the Cubs, he had a fight on the train with Manager Evers just as the team was winding up its exhibition trip. He quit the team and joined Joe Tinker at Cincinnati, where he had become popular with players and fans by his conscientious work in assisting the Red manager with that hapless team.

On the next Western trip the Giants will play a benefit exhibition game at Marietta, O., for the widow and children of Pitcher Tom Hanley, who died of appendicitis in the Marine training camp last spring. Mrs. Hanley told Secretary Foster that her husband left her little, besides, a small sum of life insurance. She is left without support and upon hearing this the Giants got busy and had this benefit game. They had previously understood that the parents of Mrs. Hanley had provided for her, but it seems they were not able to do so. The widow needs money to complete payments on a modest home in Marietta.

Warts will render the prettiest hands unsightly. Clear the excrescences away by using Holloway's Corn Cure which acts thoroughly and painlessly.

Club announces another holiday. He will dedicate Ebbets Field on July 15 with band music and a game between the Dodgers and the Cubs. Ebbets Field has already had several special openings days, but July 15 is to be the real, blown-in-the-bottle dedication.

The St. Louis Cardinals continue to draw on the Union Association for material, indicating that John McCloskey is keeping a close watch-out for them. The latest purchase is that of Pitcher Williams from Great Falls. He joins the Cards at the close of the Union Association season in September.

Cincinnati fans who have objected to the idea of Manager Tinker gathering together so many veterans do not approve of his purchase of Sheppard from the Cardinals. They can't figure how Sheppard will help the team and wonder if it really means there is something in the story that Beschler is not getting along very well with the Tinker regime.

John McGraw pays a tribute to Johnny Evers in his statement saying that he fears the Cubs more than he does the Phillies. "Evers base ball," which is the fighting brand, says McGraw, is hard to beat. The Cubs, according to McGraw, are the same old Cubs, never licked until the last man is out and then ready to come back for more the next day.

The sale of Otis Clymer by the Chicago Cubs to the Boston Braves marks the end of one of President Murphy's fond dreams. This youngster, according to Murphy, was to be a factor in the pennant winning for Evers. He must have gone lame or Murphy would not have let him go to Boston, unless it is later disclosed that Perdue and Tyler are given in exchange for him.

A Pittsburg writer, commenting on the work of Umpire Quigley in the Cubs-Pirate series, says: "Senior Quigley has Bandmaster Creators backed off the map when it comes to handling his series. He pulls a good line of stuff and when he announces a strike he makes a motion like a switchman pulling a lever. Charlie Dryden explains this by saying that Quigley was once a towerman on the Reading Railroad. But the best part of it is that Quigley looks like a good umpire. He makes no overtures to the home crowd. At least he called them the way he saw them."

The Philadelphia Club has protested the 14 inning victory that the Brooklyn won in the Quaker City recently. In the sixth inning of that battle Luderus was on first when Robert spilled a triple to the bleachers. It looked as if a spectator reached out and touched the ball. The Brooklyn made a claim of interference and Umpire Rigler allowed it. He sent Luderus, who had come home, back to second and Lohert back to first, and as the inning turned out the Phillies made only one run. The Philadelphia protest is based on the umpire's decision in sending the runner back.

The death of Doc Semmons, trainer of the Cincinnati Reds, is ascribed to his eagerness to leave the hospital after his operation for appendicitis. In his weakened condition he was an easy victim of the hot weather. Semmons got in the hospital last spring when, while he was acting as trainer for the Cubs, he had a fight on the train with Manager Evers just as the team was winding up its exhibition trip. He quit the team and joined Joe Tinker at Cincinnati, where he had become popular with players and fans by his conscientious work in assisting the Red manager with that hapless team.

On the next Western trip the Giants will play a benefit exhibition game at Marietta, O., for the widow and children of Pitcher Tom Hanley, who died of appendicitis in the Marine training camp last spring. Mrs. Hanley told Secretary Foster that her husband left her little, besides, a small sum of life insurance. She is left without support and upon hearing this the Giants got busy and had this benefit game. They had previously understood that the parents of Mrs. Hanley had provided for her, but it seems they were not able to do so. The widow needs money to complete payments on a modest home in Marietta.

Warts will render the prettiest hands unsightly. Clear the excrescences away by using Holloway's Corn Cure which acts thoroughly and painlessly.

Our Mail Bag Answers to Sport Queries

George Street—None out, runners on first and second, when batter hits for home run; runner who started from second failed to touch third and ball is thrown to that base and runner is called out; how many are out and how many score?

L.A.C.—Can't see any decision except that both following runners are out for passing a preceding base runner and that three are out and no score; there are experts who would have it some other way but rules are rules.

Terrace Hill—I. With bases empty batter singles and tries for second; on the throw-in the ball reaches second before the runner, but the runner slides safely around the waiting baseman; is he credited with a two-base hit or a single? 2. Why does E. Stovall, S. L., refer to shut-out games as "Chicago" games?

L.V.—He has made a two-base hit, as it is all a single play. 2. The Chicago White Sox in their Championship year, were known as the hitless wonders and had to shut out an opposing team to win; hence "Chicago" game originated as a nickname for a shut-out.

Oxford Street—With base runner on third batter fouls a ball down the third base line; the third baseman recovers the ball and throws it to the pitcher; pitcher and batter both take their positions and pitcher turns and throws the ball to the third baseman, who tags the runner who was on that base before he had time to get back; umpire held ball was in play and called runner out; under what rule was his decision.

L.C.G.—Under section 1 of rule 55 it is provided that the base runner shall return to his base without liability to be put out in case of foul; under Rule 36 the ball is not in play until held by pitcher in his position and umpire has called "play." If the umpire had called "play," the ball was held by the pitcher and a reasonable time had been given the runner to return he could be thrown out, but the duty of the umpire is to give him time to return; it would all be within the judgment of the umpire.

Queen Street—Explain the sense of the rule which compels a batter to bat over after he has made a hit when a fielder has hit the umpire with the ball, as happened in the Athletic-Yankee game of July 1. HARRY K.

The theory of the rule makers was to wipe out the whole play probably because a team should not be penalized for the fault of the umpire, who had got in the way of a play. From the press report of the game it is not clear that the batter in this case (Borton of the Yankees), had made a hit and was safe at first, since a play was still being made on him. If Borton, however was plainly safe, then it appears that Umpire Dineen erred and he should have held him on the base he had rightfully gained regardless of what happened after, instead of making him bat over. That point will be for President Johnson to decide: Whether Borton had already reached first base before the umpire's interference.

Eric Ave.—Team A has six runs and Team B has three; pitcher for A walks three a run and leaving bases still full and he is taken out; third pitcher for A goes in and with his walk and hits off him the final score stands A six runs and B 1; which pitcher for team A should be charged with loss?

R.J.—Charge it up to the third pitcher, even under the theory each pitcher is responsible for men he leaves on bases if they score, you can't split the loss between the first and second pitchers, and neither put on enough men to lose the game; had first pitcher's three men on scored, he could only be charged with causing a tie; second pitcher's one man on, while it furnished the deciding run, would not have so decided it had not the first pitcher packed the bases for them; this decision may not be according to Heydler, but it seems the best answer that can be given. Anyhow, your game furnishes good argument for doing away with the won and lost columns for pitchers in uncompleted men filling the bags, and is then taken out; second pitcher for A walks one, forcing in games.

St. Louis Hammered Tyler For Four Runs in the Sixth

BOSTON, July 11.—Tyler, the Boston pitcher, had one bad inning today, and St. Louis won the last game of the series by a score of six to four.

While pinning to third base in the sixth inning Miller Huggins, the manager of the St. Louis team, was hit on the left side of the head and rendered unconscious by a ball thrown by Tyler. Huggins was quickly revived, and he was able to walk to the plate unassisted, but immediately left the game. ANOTHER WOMAN JOINS THE ARMY

Of Western Women Who Have Found Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

After Three Years of Suffering Madame Dufault of St. Boniface is Telling Her Neighbors of Her Wonderful Cure.

ST. BONIFACE, Man., July 7th.—(Special)—Cured of a complication of diseases, each a direct result of disordered kidneys, Madame Oct. Dufault, of 84 Victoria street, this city, has joined the grand army of the women of the west who are telling their neighbors that Dodd's Kidney Pills are suffering women's best friend. "I suffered for three years," Madame Dufault states; "and I may say I had pains in my head, I was nervous and tired all the time; there were dark circles around my eyes, and they were puffed and swollen. Heart fluttering added to my fears. "But when I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills I soon began to get better. I took thirteen boxes in all, but now I am a well woman again. I think Dodd's Kidney Pills are a grand remedy. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure women's ailments because nine-tenths of these ailments come from sick kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure sick kidneys."

Poultry Ailments and Their Cures

COURIER POULTRY SERIES ARTICLE VII

Fractures A fracture of the shank can generally be treated quite satisfactorily, placing the bones in position, and applying a splint by wrapping around some soft brown paper saturated with white of egg, which stiffens as the albumen dries. A broken wing is not so easy to manage, and little can be done beyond getting the bones in proper position as nearly as possible, and then tying the quill feathers together to prevent movement as far as possible. The result is very seldom perfect in the case of a wing, but a valuable bird may in this way be often preserved for breeding.

Frost-bite. This is not very uncommon, especially in the north. The comb really turns pale first, but is seldom noticed till the edges become dusky or livid, or finally black, and as a rule the health seems little affected, though part or the whole of the comb and wattles may drop off. If the first stages were noticed the best treatment would be, as usual, with our selves, sharp friction with snow or ice-cold water, but the time for that is usually past when observed. In the United States where this accident is more frequent and more severe, the best recommended remedy is lard, 2 ozs., quinine, 7 ozs., kerosene 3 ozs., melting and incorporating all together. Gentle friction with this is said to cure even bad cases, if not left until altogether too late. Others use vasoline 5 drachms, glycerine 2 drachms, spirit of turpentine 1/2 drachm. Frost-bite may be largely prevented by well greasing all over the comb and wattles every day in very frosty weather.

Leg Weakness This is distinguished from other forms of lameness by attacking almost exclusively cockerels as they begin to approach full size, and especially those rather long in leg, while in all other respects the birds appear in perfect health. The causes are length of limb and too fast growth. The use of dry bone meal to a considerable extent a preventive. It can generally be cured if taken in time by leaving off all condiments and (for a time) animal food and giving the following pill:—Strychnine grain, citrate of iron 1 drachm; phosphate of lime, 1/2 drachm; quinine disulphate, 15 grains. Make 30 pills. One twice to three times a day.

PARALYZED BY LUMBAGO Manual labor or even light exercise is impossible with lumbago. The muscles stiffen out like steel to move means agony. Only a powerful remedy can penetrate deep enough to help. The surest relief comes from rubbing in Nerviline. It sinks into the very root of the trouble—penetrates where an oil liniment cannot go. To prevent lumbago returning, put on a Nerviline Porous Plaster which removes inflammation and strain from the muscles and acts as a guard from drafts and exposure. Nothing will so quickly cure as these remedies. All dealers sell Polson's Nerviline and Nerviline Porous Plasters. Refuse all substitutes.

MOHAWK PUPILS MUST PAY FEE

Collegiate Institute Trustees Take Action at Meeting Last Night.

A meeting of the Collegiate board was held in the board room last night Dr. E. Hart, presiding, and all the members of the board being in attendance except Mr. E. Sweet. It was decided that pupils attending the Brantford Collegiate Institute who are not residents of the County of Brant shall be called upon to pay the sum of $3000 per school term, the same to take effect at the commencement of the September term. Some provision will have to be made for the payment for pupils from the Mohawk Institute who attend the Collegiate. Unless the County of Brant pays for their education they will not be allowed to attend the Collegiate.

Salary Increased. The board were in a generous mood and increased the salary of Miss L. Murray and Miss Ryan $100 per year. New Teachers. Miss McCallum was granted one year's leave of absence and her place will be taken by Miss M. Smith of Toronto at a salary of $1,100 per year. Clinton E. Beck has been engaged as assistant English master at a salary of $1,200 per year. He had a better offer to go to Ottawa. The board expect to close with another teacher to-day.

Evening Classes. It was decided to engage Mr. Mutter to canvass the shops for pupils to attend the evening classes and that he be paid $40 for his services. Repairs will be made in the Technical Department. The blast fan will be dismantled and thoroughly overhauled, and necessary repairs made thereto; be shafting in the machine shop will be taken down, and placed partly on the floor and partly on trusses. The contract for doing this work was let to Messrs. Ker and Goodwin. Science Department. Mr. Hamilton will be allowed to purchase some new equipment for the Science Department, the same not to exceed $50. The Board adjourned for two months.

HOLIDAY CASUALTIES

In reading the newspaper reports of the holiday season, did you notice the large number of serious and fatal accidents recorded? Supposing you had been one of those who lost their lives in the season's festivities, in what shape would your business be to-day? And what of your family? Would their sense of loss be augmented by despair and apprehension? Or would their minds be easy in the knowledge that you had made provision for their maintenance? These are stinging questions—questions which, if you are a right-minded man, you will answer TO-DAY by applying for an Imperial Home Protection Policy on your life or a Perfect Disability Policy covering every illness and accident.

New Rules Suggested to Insure Safety at Sea

British Committee Reports About Stowage and Launching Aboard Ocean Steamships and the Availability of Rafts and Motorboats in Sudden Emergencies.

SERIOUS OBJECTION TO USE OF "CHUTES."

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, July 12. — The report has now been issued in a Blue Book of the Departmental Committee on Boats and Davits appointed by Mr. Buxton last year to inquire about the stowage and launching of boats on passenger steamships, the use of mechanical propulsion for lifeboats and the question of substituting rafts for boats. Among the chief recommendations of the committee it is stated that Stirling's rule should in all cases be used to determine the capacity of open boats. The actual stability of a boat when fully loaded should be the criterion of its fitness.

The stability of completely decked boats can only be insured provided that the deck can be cleared of water almost instantaneously, but by adding permanent watertight bulwarks an efficient type of life saving appliance will be produced, and a decked lifeboat fitted with these suggested improvements should be allowed to carry an increased number.

In foreign going passenger and emigrant ships arrangements for transferring boats from one side of the deck to the other should be compulsory, but the stowage of rafts should not in any way be sacrificed. The stowage of rafts on decks below the uppermost deck is not recommended for general adoption, but it may sometimes be a necessary expedient. Where rafts are on one deck it is immediately above the boats on another effective precautions must be taken to prevent the upper boat from being lowered on the undermost boat in an emergency.

When it is necessary to carry more boats than can be provided by stowing open boats and decked boats directly under davits, in accordance with the Life Saving Appliances Rules, the extra boats should be stowed parallel with the davits so far as possible. These boats may be open boats or decked boats and they may be stowed singly or in tiers of two or three. Approved appliances should be provided for moving the boats up to the davits. As large a proportion of the life saving appliances as is reasonably practicable should be lifeboats.

When it is difficult to carry lifeboats on passenger steamships, the use of rafts is a reasonable possibility should be fitted, the remainder of the life saving appliances being supplied in the form of buoyant seats or other approved buoyant apparatus. New vessels in these classes should be designed with this in view. There are serious objections to the use of "chutes" or slipways, cradles, moving platforms which are lowered down the vessel's sides in guides, cranes and derricks for launching ship's boats.

The carriage of mechanically propelled boats should be optional for all classes of steamships. In the case of a vessel carrying a considerable number of lifeboats it would be preferable to carry a small number of high powered motor boats rather than a large number of low powered boats. Provision should be made for rapid starting under adverse conditions of weather. At least sufficient fuel for a radius of one hundred miles should be carried.

Passengers should be embarked at the lowest open deck, the boats being lowered to that level from the boat deck. The allocation of places in particular boats to passengers is impracticable. A small medical bag might with advantage be carried in each motor boat. The efficiency of the arrangements for saving life at sea depends as much upon the competency of the officers and crew as upon the life saving appliances on board. Strict discipline and obedience are essential.

Cowes Prepares for the Regatta

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, July 12. — THE warm weather is making people think about Cowes and all the attendant joys of yachting. An exceptionally good week is expected in the little town this August, and the Royal Yacht Squadron grounds and club house are being made ready for the occasion.

King George, who takes the keenest delight in this week by the sea, will, it is understood, reside on board the royal yacht. Princess Henry of Battenberg will be at Barton Manor and will have for company her sister, Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein.

According to present indications, this year's regatta at Cowes will probably prove one of the most successful ever held. The entries already include nine craft owned by royalty—King George, the German Emperor, the King of Spain, and Prince Henry of Prussia—while there is a notable increase in the number of yachts set down for the most important races by members of the squadron itself. It looks, indeed, as if the ruling authorities may have to restrict the programme in some of its more elaborate details.

Although the Prince of Wales is to make various Continental trips in the near future and he will naturally be keeping his eyes open, it is regarded as settled that he is not to marry until he is twenty-one. The Prince is so retiring that the prospective Continental trips are considered wise, as the more he mixes with people of his own station the more will be rubbed off his boyish reserve. It is said by those who know that the subject of matrimony has never yet been discussed by the Prince and his parents. He is still a boy in all things.

The fact that English girls are once again dressing and looking like girls, the very simplest styles being now most popular, is due to the influence of the Queen and her dressing of Princess Mary in the simplest of styles. Ever since the young Princess began to grow up the Queen has been particularly careful to see that simplicity should guide all her daughter's tastes. And now the simple style of dressing which Princess Mary affects is influencing the fashions, and it is further suggested that simple styles for children may lead to less eccentric fashions for women.

For several seasons young girls have been almost exact imitations of their mothers. Girls only just out of their teens were "hobbed," and baby girls were afternoon frocks of materials yelled one over the other in the most complicated way. A fashion is changing.

"The way Princess Mary is dressed has had a decided influence on the fashions for the young," said a well known modiste in discussing the dressing of children. "Every well dressed girl till the age of eighteen wears clothes of the plainest cut and material. The plain dress, however, is not less expensive than the more imposing one. For the baby girl 'no frills' is almost the rule. Sometimes ten dollars or fifteen dollars is paid for the smallest baby's cotton or linen embroidered dress, while the pretty lingerie dress for the older girl has generally a slightly gathered skirt, a plain, squarely built childish bodice and the ordinary waist line. This can easily cost twenty-five to sixty dollars.

"They are also returning to the childlike, that with ribbon ends at the back and dainty trimmings, instead of the Eastern turban, and the too Parisienne copy of mother's model."

A new society pastime, that of painting china, borrowed from the United States, has sprung up, and in many parts of the West End of London, and even in the provinces, keramic clubs, the membership of which is almost entirely confined to women, have been formed. The work done is chiefly confined to the copying of the Satsuma style on French china.

LONDON SOCIETY GROWS AWEARY.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, July 12. — THE ROYAL BOX: THE KING AND QUEEN, KING MANUEL AND QUEEN AMELIA AT THE HORSE SHOW.

Despite the success of the horse show and the fact that Newmarket was attended by the King on three days, it must be admitted that the season is now on the last legs and is wearing badly. Society has grown weary waiting for big balls and receptions that in never come. The garden party season is on, however, and in some of the pleasant spots not too far away from London is filling in the days before Goodwood and Cowes.

WOMAN EXPLORER BACK FROM AFRICA

Mrs. Charlotte Cameron Returns to England After 26,000 Miles Trip on Coasts.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, July 12. — After a six months' tour of twenty-six thousand miles around the coast of East and West Africa Mrs. Charlotte Cameron, the authoress and traveller, has just returned to England. Mrs. Cameron professes to pass her holidays in Paris which no Baderer mentions.

Since the days of Mary Kingsley, the great African explorer, no white woman has covered the ground so completely. To an interviewer who called upon her at her beautiful Hampstead home Mrs. Cameron narrated some of the incidents of her tour.

Having missed the steamship to the Cameroons, Mrs. Cameron was carried in a blanket through the surf and dumped unconsciously into a tiny boat. Her bearers were cannibals self-confessed.

"Much has been said and written of the awful beauty of Victoria Falls," she said. "Much more will doubtless be written about their magnificence, but I think the most true and apposite criticism was that of an American who watched the falling of the water in silence and then remarked with emphasis, 'Still Niagara!' His pride was sadly wounded."

In search of adventure Mrs. Cameron made her way six hundred feet below the falls, to the point known as the Boiling Pot, where, amid falling stones and a temperature of 115 in the shade, she tried to make herself comfortable.

"Getting ready to 'swim' the huge bridge that seems from the distance to span the very heavens, and endeavoring to enjoy the scenery, flies and mosquitoes notwithstanding, there came on the scene about a hundred monkeys and a couple of baboons, noisy, vicious creatures, that rent my intrusion in no uncertain fashion.

"They soon became too friendly to my liking, so friendly in fact that one seized my cork helmet and motor veil, and was just about to appropriate my sunshade, and in 115 degrees, too!"

Mrs. Cameron managed to reclaim the six hundred feet, to reach a refuge from her tormentors. "They followed me the best part of the way, chattering like an excited mother's meeting, and almost laughing at my poor attempts to beat them off with a parasol."

LONDON HAS TWO OPERA HOUSES

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, July 12. — The failure of the London Opera House under Mr. Oscar Hammerstein's management to attract the public in sufficiently paying numbers has not convinced Sir Joseph Beecham that London cannot support two opera houses running simultaneously.

The season of Russian opera and ballet which he is giving at Drury Lane has many attractive features, which has brought him as many subscribers as Covent Garden.

"I do not wish it to be understood," said Sir Joseph in discussing his arrangements, "that I am presenting this rivalry to any other enterprise in London. One opera house in London cannot produce everything that is worth presenting. Neither Paris nor Berlin nor Vienna depends wholly on one opera house, and London surely has room for its special seasons. I look forward to the time when there shall be an independent opera house in London—a theatre specially designed for the presentation of modern operatic works and to be used exclusively for that purpose. I am thinking of something that shall be a credit to London.

"This is the first trip of the Russian Opera Company to London. The scheme I have inaugurated is not an isolated experiment. I shall continue to give seasons of opera. That is why I have mentioned the building of an independent house. Three Russian operas new to London will be presented during our short season, and their special attraction is that they give us pictures of Russian life with which our public is unacquainted. The whole ceremonial and pageantry of old Russian court life is picturesque and gorgeous and provides splendid material for the stage. The productions approach most nearly, in another form of art, to the historic plays of Shakespeare. Monstrously, the company will present here, bases his claim to distinction on the fact that he has developed a style entirely his own and that he is the only great operatic composer who has shown himself to be entirely free from the influence of Wagner."

LOW MORAL PLANE IN LONDON CLUBS

Many So-Called Smart Men Strangers to Principles of Honesty, Says Victim of Theft.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, July 12. — The low standard of honesty among well dressed men, apparently of good position and not lacking in means, is the burden of complaint in a letter to a London paper in which is narrated an incident at the races recently. The complainant says that he had taken off his race glasses and coat to wash his hands before leaving the track, and on turning round to resume them found the glasses had disappeared. At the same time he noticed a well dressed man leaving the track with race glasses much like the missing ones in his hand. He set off in pursuit, but before he could catch up with the man he had disappeared in the throng.

"This," he writes, "is only one of several experiences of the same kind which have befallen me in clubs and other places in London where I least expected them. And I have come to the conclusion that many so-called 'smart' men are strangers to the most elementary principles of honesty."

"There are, of course, clubs and clubs," said an experienced member who was consulted on this point, "and I choose to belong to both kinds. You may remember that a very distinguished Prime Minister of Great Britain refused to be parted from his umbrella in one of London's most celebrated clubs, 'because,' he said, 'you can never trust these bishops.' The feeling indicated by that 'ben trovato' story is very general in one or two of the clubs to which I belong more as a matter of convenience than distinction.

"The frequency with which such tales and other articles of portable property go missing has caused a rule to be enacted in some of these clubs that the servants are not to be held responsible for anything. Members may lose on the club premises. There are clubs with high sounding names and bun sets of members of good social standing where the steward who cashes checks after banking hours does so at his own responsibility. Among the chief sufferers are the club servants themselves. Any mistake or oversight they may happen to make in a bill is overlooked by members if, as frequently happens, it is a mistake of omission. But anything in the nature of an overcharge elicits immediate complaint."

Protect Art by Making Picture Forgery a Crime

Efforts to Induce Parliament to Change the Law by Which Fraudulent Signature on Check Brings Imprisonment, but on Painting Only a Fine of $50.

WORKS NOW ON VIEW IN THE LONDON GALLERIES

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, July 12. — It is a picture a document? The lawyers say "no," but the strong Parliamentary Committee of both houses of Parliament recently formed to protect the interests of art and artists in legislation say that so far as forgery is concerned the law should make no difference between a fraudulent signature on a picture and on a check.

When the new copyright act was in course of discussion the Imperial Arts League, which numbers practically all the leading artists of the day among its members, unsuccessfully endeavored to have a clause to this effect inserted in the bill, it being decided by the government's legal authorities that the forgery of a work of art could not be treated in the same way as the forgery of a check or other document.

Now, however, the Parliamentary Committee on Art, which has Lord Plymouth as its chairman, has taken the opportunity afforded by the new forgery bill to return to the attack, and is strongly urging that the Imperial Arts League should be given an opportunity of stating its case before the joint committee of both houses, which the bill has been referred.

The case of the artists is that if it is an anomaly that, while the forger of a check for $50 is liable to imprisonment, the person who fraudulently signs a work of art, which may bring in thousands of dollars, can only be punished, as the law stands, by a fine of $50, and that only if the artist whose name is forged has not been dead for more than twenty years.

At Knoedler's Gallery, Old Bond street, there are being exhibited a few important pictures by old and modern masters, including Rembrandt, Vermeer, Goya, Reynolds, Gainsborough, Manet and Degas. Of special interest, on account of the rarity of the works of the painter, is "A Lady of the Hampden Family," by Marcus Geeraerts. It is a full length portrait of a lady in a brocade dress and a rose colored mantle, with a richly embroidered bodice, standing under a sort of pergola, with a formal garden in the background. It is a very fine piece of work in character, general design, color and detail.

This picture is flanked by two examples of the work of Jan Faber von Kreunmach, "Portrait of Johann Reys" and "Portrait of Anna-Elizabeth." These, about a century earlier than the work of Geeraerts, who was contemporary with Queen Elizabeth, are half length portraits, with backgrounds of moorland landscape.

The Rembrandt is a life size study of "Lucretia Stäubing Herself," sketched and dated 1664. It is a fine work, the rich costume being beautifully painted, and the head having the proper character of despair. Vermeer is represented by a small and charming study of "A Young Girl with a Flute," in a blue dress, with white fur; Reynolds by a "Portrait of Ralph Sheldon," member of Parliament for Wilton, 1804-23, in a red coat; Gainsborough by a "Portrait of William Henry, Duke of Clarence (afterward King William IV.)," as a fresh colored young man in naval uniform, and Goya by portraits of "General Nicolas Guey" and "Victor Guey," the last as a little boy, page to Joseph Bonaparte, King of Spain. The best of the modern pictures is a small but superb example of Daubigny, "Les Buvards," a study of two men drinking at a table outside an inn, at late evening.

At the Marlborough Gallery, Duke street, St. James', there is an exhibition of old Spanish paintings by, or attributed to, such masters as Velasquez, Ribera, El Greco and Goya. The Velasquez is a study of three figures, a young man and an old and a young woman, entitled "The Fortune Teller." It is put down to the Seville period of Velasquez, represented in the National Gallery by "Christ in the House of Martha," and the head of the old woman in both pictures would appear to have been painted from the same model.

Ribera, or Lo Spagnoletto, is represented by six canvases, the most convincing of which is a "Portrait of Aesopus." "The Virgin and the Child," attributed to El Greco, is an interesting drawing, and besides works by Del Mazo and Pareja, pupils of Velasquez; Alonso Cano, Zurbarán and Zurbarán, there are three curious pictures by Spanish primitives.

Six painters in water colors combine to give a very pleasant exhibition at the Carroll Gallery, George street, Hanover square. The subjects and styles vary, but there is general sympathy of feeling—love of country life expressed in terms of color. Mr. Henry Henshall is regarded as first in order, with nine figure studies, which combine mild sentiment with humor. Most of the studies deal with the minor troubles of childhood, such as "Multiplication Is Vexation," "The Thurg," "Path of Knowledge" and "The Cut Finger." But Mr. John Collins is artistically the most important of the group. As a decorative landscape painter he holds a high place in contemporary art. He is best known by his pictures of the Canadian Rockies, but in this present exhibition he is represented by several English subjects. "Near Old Kew Bridge," "Harmony," a study of haystacks by a river, and "A Devon Glen" are particularly attractive.

Mr. Robert Meyerheim is a painter of pastorals in the spirit of Walker and Mason. He is at his best on a small scale, and there is nothing better among his contributions than "From Gathering Floods Life Saves His Flock." Mr. A. W. Davidson is a painter of Idyls in which the nude figure is pleasantly combined with landscape. His work is fresh and sparkling, and "Fête Champêtre" is, perhaps, his best. Mr. N. J. H. Baird rounds off the exhibition with studies of horses at work, vigorous in movement and yet sympathetic in feeling. "Wind and Dust" and "Misty Morn." two white horses at the barrow, are particularly good. "A Gray Morning," a study of sheep on the downs, is the best of three water colors by Mr. A. Winter-Shaw.

CHURCH CELEBRATES 900TH ANNIVERSARY

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, July 12. — Greensted Church, near Ogar, has just celebrated its nine hundredth anniversary, the Bishop of St. Alban's, the vicar and the folk of the countryside taking part in the proceedings, while the bishop stood beside the original oak walls of the sanctuary which, upon a night, according to tradition, protected the remains of King Edmund the Martyr, who was too youthful and saintly to be a match for pirate Danish pirates.

The tiny church itself can hold little more than one hundred persons, but probably more than two thousand were present at the thanksgiving. Greensted Church is unique in England. No other church in the country to-day has any of the original timber walls of its Saxon builders. The structure dates back to the ninth or tenth century, for by the beginning of the eleventh century the use of stone was general.

There is no doubt at all about Greensted's oak trees. They are so jointed that they could never have been replaced without removing the roof. The outer walls are rounded and at first glance appear to bear the original bark. Inside the walls are flat and still bear the marks of the adze.

When the remains of Edmund were being transferred from London to Bury St. Edmunds, in 1013, tradition says monks hastily constructed a shrine of King Ethelric, but the wooden walls must have been anterior to that time.

THIS BULLDOG HAS NO EQUAL

DREAMWOLD KENNELS' CHAMPION DREAMWOLD CENTAURS.

Champion Dreamwold Centaur was sent to America early this year from England, where he had won upward of five hundred prizes. In the United States he has been shown by his owner, Mr. Thomas Lawson, at all the leading bench shows and has beaten every bulldog of note. Great gratification is felt in England over his victories.

Personal Neatness

There is a personal cleanliness that, with taste in dress, and grace in manner, rivals in effect and outshines beauty. Tresses like glossy hair, white teeth, well kept hands, a smooth skin, redolent of health, sweet breath, fresh linen and spotless garments, go a long way toward making up the sum of personal attractiveness. All clean people are charming, but charming people are never more charming than when they are radiant with good grooming. It is some expense, but a great deal of trouble to be habitually and exquisitely neat. It pays, though, immensely.

Renters, buyers, builders are quick and thoroughly satisfied with the invaluable service rendered them by the Want-Columns.

GIRL SUFFERED TERRIBLY

At Regular Intervals—Says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured her.

Adrian, Texas.—"I take pleasure in adding my testimonial to the great list of those who are interested in suffering women. For four years I suffered untold agonies at regular intervals. Such pains and cramps, severe chills and sickness at stomach, then finally hemorrhages until I would be nearly blind. I had five doctors and none of them could do more than relieve me for a time. I saw your advertisement in a paper and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took seven boxes of it and used two bottles of the Sanative Wash, and I am completely cured of my trouble. When I began taking the Compound I only weighed ninety-six pounds and now I weigh one hundred and twenty-six pounds. If anyone wishes to address me in person I will cheerfully answer all letters, as I cannot speak too highly of the Pinkham remedies."—Miss Jessamine Manser, Adrian, Texas.

Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Creed Idols of Christendom

More Horrible Than Heathendom—Bible Is Opposed to All Idols.

Sermon by Charles T. Russell, Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle

Madison, Wis., July 6.—The International Bible Students Association has been holding a convention here for eight days, closing to-day. It has had a high attendance of Bible Students from all parts, and amongst them many able speakers. Pastor Russell was one of the speakers to-day, and his vast audience was evidently much sympathetic with his utterances. He took for his text the words, "The Father of mercies, and the God of all comfort."—2 Corinthians 1:3.

In his opening remarks the Pastor stated that when in India, China and Japan last year, he was forcibly struck with the intelligence of many among these peoples. He visited their idol temples, and saw the degree of reverence exhibited and the status of worshippers. He was favorably impressed; many seemed sincere, absolutely unimpaired of mind, and full of the spirit of worship. He made inquiry as to what importance was attached to the idol. It was regarded as the god, or merely a reminder of their god? He was assured that the idol itself was known to be of metal, or stone, or wood, and was used merely as a reminder of their God. He was assured that the Catholics use the crucifix—not as worshiping the image or the picture, but merely having these before the mind to assist in fixing reverence and the spirit of worship.

At first, said Pastor Russell, I felt disposed to chide the heathen for the horrible features which they give their images. I said to myself, "Why do you make these horrible beautiful idols instead of horrible ones? But a little reflection brought me shame and confusion. I said to myself, 'Look at the creeds, the idols, the images, the idols of Christendom. We have not attempted to picture our Deity in wood or stone or mineral, but we have written out a description of His character—our Christian creeds.'

These creeds stand before our mental eyes with exactly the same tangible features that the tangible idol has before the natural eye of the heathen. Each different creed shows a slightly different image of God, but they are all horrible. They all picture God as a most atrocious character, more hideous by far than any of the idols of heathendom. How could anybody carve, or cast, or model, a mute image, or idol, that would speak such horrible things as all of our creeds portray by description? What do you carry in your picture of God deliberating upon the creation of the human family, and before beginning His work planning and arranging a great plan called Purgatory, creating fire-proof devils to man these, laying up fuel for use therein through all eternity, and then slaying the human race with knowledge powers, with the foreknowledge that thousands of millions would spend eternity in these horror chambers!

Who could picture or model an image representing a God who would, after preparing such a place, inject new life and vigor into the poor sufferer so as to prevent their ever being radiant with good grooming. It is some expense, but a great deal of trouble to be habitually and exquisitely neat. It pays, though, immensely.

come to know that there is a God, and that He has provided a Saviour, His Only Begotten Son, our Lord Jesus Christ. But the knowledge of God means far more than this. It is the advanced and developing Christian it signifies an intimate acquaintance with the Father and with the Son, a knowledge of "the mind of Christ," which is a full and clear representation of the Father's mind.

We grow in this knowledge by the study of the Word of God, by discerning through daily work the principles which govern the Divine conduct—as to how Divine Wisdom, Justice, Love and Power operate. These are progressive studies. Something may be learned along this line on the very first day of our Christian experience; but the end of the first year should show considerable progress in the knowledge of the Divine mind; and so to the end of the Christian's course.

It is only as we realize something of the greatness and the perfection of the Divine character that we are properly able to estimate our own littleness and imperfection. Only as we see the beauties of His gracious character can we become intimately acquainted with God, with His graces and virtues.

Then we come to investigate the more subtle qualities of the Divine Being, His Justice and Love. Who can imagine a real God who is devoid of Justice, devoid of Love? So surely as it is true that no human being could be really great without the qualities of justice and love, so surely as it is true that there could be no real and great God without the same qualities. Wisdom and Power without Justice and Love would picture to us a demon, and not a God.

But what can we know respecting God's Justice and Love? We answer that there are two ways of ascertaining: The first way is to wait and see how His plans and arrangements will be ultimately carried out. If it is true of humanity that "by their fruits ye shall know them," the same must be true of the Almighty. His fruits, His workmanship, finally completed. He may be known to be either good or bad, just or unjust, loving or vicious.

The other way of knowing the Divine character, in advance of the finished work of God, would be along the lines of faith; and faith, in order to be intelligent, must have some basis or foundation. The Bible is God's Message, to those who have the ears and eyes of faith. In it He tells us in advance what He purposes to do; and from what we thus hear we must determine whether He is just, loving and good, or whether worse than ourselves.

If the creed idols which we have been worshipping truly represent God, then the consummation of His Plan will be awful in the extreme—enough to make all creation shudder. It would mean thousands of millions in everlasting torture without the slightest hope of any glory coming to God, or of any good coming to the sufferers or to anybody else. The only purpose to be served by such torture would be the satisfaction of a devilish disposition to witness the torture of others. Is that creed idol which we have worshipped a real picture of the God of the Bible? We know that it is not.

The God of the Bible on the contrary declares that He has permitted the Reign of Sin and Death, which is entirely just. He tells us that from among the sinners He will first gather out a saintly handful to be associated with His Saviour and to participate with Him as members of His cabinet, or Kingdom, for the administration of the world's affairs, to lift humanity up out of sin and degradation and death back to human perfection, and ultimately to destroy all of those who prefer sin when they shall be brought to a full appreciation of it.

The outcome of this Divine Plan of the Bible shows us a reclaimed humanity, in a world-wide Eden, blessed with a knowledge of God, and with experiences which will make them happy to all eternity. Our Lord tells us that then God's will shall be done on earth, even as now it is done in Heaven; and that there will be no more sighing, crying and dying on earth, even as there is none in Heaven; and that every creature in Heaven and on earth will everlastingly praise the Creator and the Redeemer. Hallelujah, such a Saviour! Hallelujah, such a God!
