Wireless Aids
In Search For Missing Boy

By Special Wire to the Courier] NEW YORK, March 31—The wireless station at Seagate, the Brooklyn yard, and the Bush terminal in Brooklyn got in touch yesterday with all the big ships at sea which the could reach in an effort to find some trace of two young men, Joseph Jordan, 19 years old and Clarence Brown, 22, who left the New York Canoe Club on Gravesend Bay, noon Sunday in an eighteen foot canoe. Last night reports came back that no trace of the canoe had been found.

A search of all the waters in that region by friends of the young men was not successful, and it was decided to use the wireless stations to establish communication in the hunt.

John Coombs, of the Village of Maple, Vaughan Township, County of York, died yesterday at the age of 83 years. He was born in Hampshire, England, and had resided in Vaughan Township 64 years.

A concave projecting screen for motion pictures has been patented by a Chicago inventor to prevent discussion no matter from what angle they are viewed.

Simple Spring Hats of Straw and Taffeta

Clever and Artistic Devices That Tempt the Skill of the "Make-it-Yourself" Milliner

HERE is a rule for a Home Made Spring Hat: Take equal quantities of straw and silk, taffeta or moire as preferred. Mix with artistic judgment and simplicity. Wear with a tilt.

The chief thing to remember is the simplicity. It is the millinery keynote of the moment. The one unforgivable sin in the concoction of the spring hat is the overloading and careless mingling of trimming. Ornamentation has been reduced to a mere finish, like the gummed flap on an vélope which seals the letter. Where the hat ends there is a bow or a twist or a bit of jet or a rosette of tulle or a cunning feather, just to mark the hat as complete.

The day when women wore hats heavily loaded with flowers and vegetables and fruit and ribbons and feathers has long passed.

Hats have been growing lighter and simpler for several years, but they have never before reached the simple state where they were made and trimmed with the same stuff and were as smart and becoming and altogether sane as they are this year.

The happiest note which the makers of hats have struck is the elimination of the wretched, absurd, scrawny feather "fancy," which, perched at a perilous angle, has obtruded itself into all eyes within halting distance during the winter.

Definite Feathery Direction.

And the one funny feather that curved and undulated in an indeterminate way, straggling upward, then outward, and again upward, like a stunted sapling that was incorrectly bent in the days of its twiginess, is less frequently noticed. When feathers are used at all, they have a definiteness of direction which is pleasing. They may shoot upward a foot or so in the centre, front or side of a hat, or they may curl just over the brim fore and aft, in the immediate centre back and front; but they are never indefinite in their direction.

Some flowers are seen on the spring hat. They are large blossoms as a rule. On the Niniche hats there is frequently a half-wreath about the crown, and on some of the hats that have the abrupt upward flare of the brim there is a return to the former very charming style of massing a few roses under the brim on the hair.

The chief change in the spring hat is the difference in the shape and size of the crown, which allows the hair to show both at the side and the back. For the spring coiffure is decidedly different than the one of the winter. The hair is worn higher, is drawn back from the ears more, and is worn off the forehead.

The hats shown on this page illustrate the possibilities of achieving style working with only two materials, silk and straw. Every one of the hats has all the earmarks of smartness, and yet the home milliner with some knowledge of the fundamentals of hat-making should be able to successfully copy them.

They are hats suitable for traveling, shopping, for general wear anywhere by anybody, and with anything but the most elaborate costume. They are hats for the average woman, who, after all, is the woman who wears most of the hats that are made and whose patronage makes it possible for the importers to pay tremendous sums to have the pick of the hat marts of the world.

If the headgear of the spring gives any indication of the interior trend of the heads it covers, women are perfectly well balanced and safely medium in their views of life. The extremist would never feel at ease in such hats. There has been much talk about the smallness of the hats of the season. Really, they are quite medium. They are not of the pillbox variety, by any manner of means. They are adequate without being absurd.

Returning Popular Styles.

There is a happy retention of the styles of long popularity—such as the sailor, the "tam," the turban—each given a clever and novel twist which gives them a new and quaint look. The fascinating old poke has been revived in an adorable guise and is sure to be worn with the summer frocks. There will be larger hats for midsummer. They will be picturesque, in the shepherdess style, with garlands of flowers and streamers of ribbon and lace.

To come back to the hats in question, one of the points for the home milliner to bear in mind is the line of the hat. Nowadays hats are as carefully fitted to the head of the wearer as is the coat to her back. Unless a hat fits it will never be a complete success.

So, in making any one of these hats, the first thing to do is to fit the buckram "shape," which may be bought at any millinery shop.

Some heads are longer from crown to forehead than others. In such cases the frame should be made to fit before the straw and silk are applied. Also, it must be made to accord with the profile. A hat must be made to suit the individual who wears it, whether it is exactly as the designer made it or not.

So, the wise home milliner is not afraid to take certain liberties with the frame, all the time keeping the essential lines intact. The tilt must be right. Midge may be able to wear a turban slipping over her right eye and look cute and stylish and chic, while her chum, Estelle, would simply look rowdy in the same hat.

In buying the straw be sure to get the pliable variety and the kind which will not split and tear in sewing. The usual way of making the straw hat is to keep sewing the braid around until the frame is covered, making but one end to fasten. Where the silk is combined, it is cut on the bias and made the right width to fasten and allow for the proper fulness.

A Favorite "Sailor."

In the sailor shown the hat and trimming is all of moire. This shape is the favored sailor of the season. The moire is used for the covering and facing, and the fore and aft trimming consists of a perky little moire wing. There is sometimes need to wire the trimming and it is done with fine wire, which is sewed inside the silk so as to be quite invisible.

In making the pompons of silk of

Sailor of Black Moire with "Fore and Aft" Trimming

The sewing of straw is better done with thread than with silk. The silk cuts and snags and it's not as strong. In fastening the trimming, mercerized linen thread will give the best service.

Don't be afraid to sew firm, for half the secret of success in these saucy little hats is in having the trimming put on to stay and to resist all the winds that blow. In hemming silk for bows or loops, use the slip stitch, taking long stitches. The regular hemming stitch would mark the work of the amateur.

purple as in black, though it must be remembered that nothing gives the general service that will be found in the black hat.

A Novel "Bridal Shower"

QUITE a new and interesting wedding shower was given recently to a prospective bride who was going right to housekeeping in her own home after a very brief wedding journey. It consisted of her entire kitchen equipment. All the things were in the newest ideas of labor-saving devices, and in the best wares that could be found on the market.

For instance, one present was a vacuum washer that could be run effectively by electricity; another was an electric silver cleaning pan—the charcoal-covered, padded board and buffers of all shapes to polish the silver. Another friend sent a set of three ironing boards, one having the new soft felt cover that straps on with ropes and catches—which is quite a new convenience—and electric irons, fluters and sleeve irons complete.

Then there was a mayonnaise bowl that does duty as a churn, or to whip cream in, sets of bone spoons, all of the nested pans, clock egg boiler, kettles of all kinds—in fact, everything that makes up the convenience of the modern kitchen. All of the kitchen dish, glass and hand towels, dish cloths, pot cloths, ice cloths, cheese cloth squares, refrigerator bags, fish and pudding bags were served for the "shower" for the bride before the luncheon; after the wedding was escorted to her new home where the larger and bulkier things had been installed.

The table was covered with a cloth of natural tan-colored linen; the centre piece was a wooden dish tub with daisies and ferns; each service plate was of paper mache painted brown, with a white scroll in the centre, and on which was written the recipe for a dish for which one of the guests present was famous—a start for the bride's own cookbook.

Every course was served in an individual way—in baking shells, fluted paper ramekins and the attractive brown and white glazed ware. The place cards were tiny baskets of salted nuts with cards tied to their handles. The favors were dainty muslin sunbonnets which the members of the party donned when they finished their luncheon and went across lots to the new home to inspect with the bride the business end of the practical "shower."

The simplest of flowers were used. The menu was not elaborate; it was informal, inexpensive, and altogether a most enjoyable occasion, and far more sensible than the ordinary showers, where lots of the things given do not seem to be in the least useful and in many cases not even ornamental.

The Popular Pink Boudoir

SHADES of pink seem especially appropriate for a debutante's boudoir. With the dainty furniture to be selected today, papers and hangings, the possibilities for artistic beauty are open to even the most limited pocketbooks.

One pretty room furnished and decorated for a debutante this season will give an idea of what may be done in color combination.

The ceiling was cream tinted, the side walls tinted rose pink with 18-inch panels of cream, white rose decorated and outlined with bamboo strips. The panels were four feet apart around the room. The picture rail was also of bamboo.

The hangings were of cream net with pink crepe overhangings. The furniture was a combination bamboo and cane, with low French bed and dainty dressing table. The bed spread was of dimity, with pink under cover, was caught and tied at each corner with a big pink satin bow.

Jet is exceptionally good this season. A row of jet beads sewed around the brim of a turban adds much to its appearance. The general fancy is for a double row on the outside and a single one on the inside of the brim. While many all black hats are worn, it is a pleasing change to make these of colors, such as dark blue straw and shades covered the polished floor and a white fur rug lay before the brass-fitted fireplace.

A bamboo tea-wagon glistened with white Eclair china, with its soft green lining, and the dressing table was fitted with ivory, with face and pink covers.

Bamboo book shelves filled the space beside the pretty desk, before which was a deep, comfortable chair, cushioned in pink brocade, and shielded from the open fire by a double glass screen, rose and Cupid painted and framed in brass. A small upright piano, in a bamboo-trimmed case, finished the furniture of this charming room.

One unusual feature deserves special mention—that is the bamboo frame which outlines the back and sides of the couch or eight-inch width, separated by cross sections to hold pictures of her school friends and companions. The pictures can be slipped in and out of the frame readily if she cares to change them at any time.

In a wide bay window a floor window-box, fitting the five sections, was filled with hardy ferns and in the open space a white pearl cord hammock was swung low, with a big pink pillow in it, making a cozy corner for the afternoon nap.

MILLINERY For the EARLY SPRING

The long and eccentric feathers of the winter's vogue have been modified—the extravagant bows have been reeved and the small head-sizes considerably enlarged—these are the changes one notices first in the millinery offerings for Spring.

A note of moderation is struck in size, shape and trimming that is a natural consequence of the extreme styles of the past season. While the hats are not large, they are of a size that is bound to prove more generally becoming than the very small ones in recent favor.

A great variety of shapes is shown, with a preference perhaps for the rolling or upturned brims. Adaptations of the sailor are very smart, especially those having a slight dip at the front and back. Especially new is the shape of some of the crowns—septangular. This idea is also carried out on a few of the wider brims.

The tricorne has lost nothing of its jaunty charm in the attractive variations it has developed. Besides the regularly upturned tricorons, which are still in evidence, and so smart on certain types, there is a shape which turns up sharply across the back and being considerably greater from side to side than from back to front.

The mushroom styles are good, and lead themselves well to the use of feathers. One demure model, small and of the softest Milan, had the crown covered with accordion plaited messaline in gendarme blue. The sole trimming was a small cockade of blue feathers set at a surprising angle, toward the face, that gave the hat just the bit of dash required to offset the droop of the mushroom brim.

Upturned brims that widen and flare toward the back are numerous, with either ribbon or feather trimming. A charming, airy grace was imparted to a clever shape of this description by the poising of two pair of small canary-colored wings, one at the edge of the brim, at its greatest height, the other toward the front of the brim on the low side. While the eccentric and often ridiculous—placing of feather ornaments that prevailed during the winter has been brought within reasonable bounds perhaps just in time to avoid legislation against them, one notices still certain rogish tendencies among designers.

Here is a simple enough flat shape, with the brim slightly rolled to the side, the entire top covered with a soft, figured crepe in quiet colors, and perched perilously on the very edge of the brim a feather stick-up, small to be sure, but wired to an unexpected angle. And there is a perfectly round, saucer-shaped crown covered with blue changeable silk with four small, rounded double wings of green and black placed about it at right angles and equidistant.

For the most part, however, the Spring offerings are simple in line and trimmings. Colors tend to the darker shades, although a fuchsia shade and a brilliant electric blue may be numbered among the favorites. Purple, gendarme blue, fawn and mocha as well as the enduring taupe shades are prominent in both braids and trimmings.

Except in the extremely tailored models, the softer braids predominate. Milan, supple and adaptable, is much used. Coup and leghorn, and a new braided called Aigo—in reality the revival of a braid that was popular several years ago—form many of the smartest hats. A few Panamas appear, chic indications of mid-summer's trend. Knitted scarfs constitute the sole trimming of many of these. Quills are seen on several of the stiff-brimmed models, while the delicate Numidie and Gouira continue to hold their own in spite of a long season of popularity. Ostrich fantasies, always graceful and becoming, trip many of the dressier models.

Silk crepe, in both Dresden and Oriental designs, covering the crown and entire upper brim promises to be a marked characteristic of Spring modes. Fried ratine, in the lighter weights, is also used in this way.

A novel touch on a small hat of black Aigo braid was a scarlet poppy, in banded passmenterie, so cleverly applied to the upturned brim at the front as to look as if it were headed directly onto the brim. Two single-ly ostrich feathers were placed at the back of this French model.

A beautiful shade of rose satin was used to form the crown of a black hemp, straight brim hat of good lines. A narrow piping of the satin was carried around the upper brim, about an inch back from the edge, and a Numidie, caught half way to the tip with a narrow band of satin, was placed directly in the front.

This piping with a bright colored silk is employed to good advantage on many of the somber-hued models. Orange combined with taupe, green with black, fuchsia with midnight blue are most effective.

Moire ribbon, which seems eminently more suited to Spring than Winter millinery continues in high favor. One of the exclusive shape features a bonnet shaped creation, the crown completely swathed with moire ribbon in the exquisite fuchsia shade, and having a bow of moderate dimensions up-standing at the back.

Flowers are little used as yet. Occasionally one sees a little bunch of French blossoms tucked close on the upper brim to carry out a color note; but aside from that feathers and ribbons hold full sway.

A WORD ABOUT VEILINGS

Veilings will not abate a jot in popularity for Spring. Many of the novelties that appeared late in the season will be carried over, but developed in the lighter and more open meshes.

Shadow lace effects, too becoming to be soon forsaken, show new designs more finely and fascinating than ever before. Beauty spot designs show the butterfly, the dragon, the sunburst, the large velvet dot and any number of old floral designs. Plain mesh veils, particularly the hexagon meshes, are well liked, and in the bordered French veils will be found many novel designs.

where it's dangerous to be. The wonderful printing press may offer stuff that's worse than rapid, white photographs sing songs of naughty glee. Electric lights may rob you of the sleep that you are needing. Cold storage didn't make the prices drop. The motor car that looks so fine as it is swiftly speeding may land you in the clutches of the cop. The wise man will be cautious, shunning sorrow and contention, if his conveniences be small or great. But no amount of genius can produce a new invention that will serve to shield the bonthead from his fate.

for the moving picture because the auditorium is dark enough to let father fear throw back his head and laugh loud without being identified. Inventors who have labored hard to tell existence easier and those who lead it better, and a merry sun shine on the way. When you pick up a telephone and holder with persistence, the joy or grief that follows must depend upon the language that you toss into the yawning distance; likewise on who is at the other end, the trolley car that you admire because its course is rapid may take you

Fashion's Fads in Jewelry and Vanities

Oriental tendencies, so conspicuous in the apparel modes of the past season and showing no signs of diminishing favor, are responsible for many attractive novelties in jewelry.

Necklaces especially show this influence, and though some of them may be bought as low as $10.00, they look as though they might once have been worn by some dark-skinned Eastern princess. Antique designs have been copied faithfully, and some beautiful effects obtained with imitation stones. Combinations of jade and white coral, mounted on dull silver, or jade and moonstones; imitation aqua marines with an antique setting; rose finished gold La Valleees with ornaments of engraved crystal and pearls, and any number of other artistic necklaces may be found that range in price from $5.00 to $50.00.

Among the newest offerings in fancy colored bead necklaces, of which there is a bewildering array, are those having a silk tassel ornament that hangs from a cluster of the beads in the large brim to carry out a color note; but aside from that feathers and ribbons hold full sway.

Bracelets are much in evidence, both in necklaces and brooches. Cameos in necklaces and brooches, with imitation pearls, many of the pink cameos make most beautiful necklaces and defy detection.

Breast pins and bracelets of carved ivory have also been revived. The pins, large and round and finely carved cost from twenty to forty dollars.

Waist sets are in demand just now for wear with the various filmy, tulle and vest effects so popular. The long two smaller ones to pin together the frills that are used so extensively. Particularly dainty and attractive was a white enamel set, noted in one of the shops, that was set with rows of tiny pearls.

For wear also with the collarless blouses or frocks are black velvet ribbons, of various widths, with slides of pearls or brilliants. For evening wear the tulle bands with jeweled slides will be much worn.

Hat pins have taken on most modest proportions. The simple, small, gold pins, round or pear shaped, take the lead. When set with stones at all they are usually selected with a view to carrying out the color scheme of the hat.

Crystal jewelry, usually in the ground rock crystal and variously engraved is having a decided vogue at present, especially in watch pendants and brooches.

The new bracelets are broader than formerly, perhaps a half an inch at the widest point, from which they taper gradually toward the ends. The designs in these styles have the preference, and many novel designs in these are shown. Most unusual is a bracelet of diamonds in which a moire effect is obtained by the use of a waving line of sapphires.

LONDON, April 3.—Monday, June 22, has it was announced been selected for the official celebration in London of the King's Birthday. His Majesty's birthday really falls on June 3. It is understood that on returning from his recent visit to Norway the Prince of Wales will go back to Oxford. ## "NO MONEY KEEP HERE"

But Yeggmen Made n Blow-Up and Got One Cent in Real Hard Cash

(By Special Wire to The Courier)
FORT WILLIAM, Ont., April 2.—Disregarding a big sign saying "no money kept here," yeggmen blew up on the safe of James Davidson, coal dealer, early this morning and extracted therefrom the sum of one cent in cash. From the way the job was done it is believed that it was the work of the same gang that cracked the safe in the office of the Hamilton Sash and Door factory about three weeks ago when about $3 in stamps was taken. Mr. Davidson kept no money in his safe and wished to let any would be cracksmen know this fact. No arrests have been made so far.

A FEW WHIMS OF DAME FASHION

Net has a prominent place in the newest lingerie. It has many good points. It is inexpensive, dainty and durable. It washes well and whereas it has the body and strength of sheer muslin, has the transparency and thinness of lace. It is much used for nightgown yokes, for one thing. Sometimes it is hand embroidered in satin stitch worked in rather heavy mercerized cotton. The designs embroidered are usually rather small and dainty. Tucked net is also used for nightgown yokes. The tucks, which are not more than an eighth of an inch wide, strengthen the fabric of the net and make it easier to handle and more durable. The tuck net is sometimes used to band crepe de chine or chiffon petticoats and under bodices. Then it is used between two strips of lace insertion or between stripes of puffed chiffon or crepe de chine. Figure net is also used in underwear of all sorts. Dotted net is combined with white crepe de chine in a charming nightgown — one that is durable and easily laundered, too, in spite of the delicacy of the materials used. The yoke and short sleeves of net are cut in one piece and they are edged with a tiny frilling of the crepe de chine. The skirt of the gown is tucked into the yoke, and the joining is covered with a bias strip of the crepe. Just about the hem is an inch wide band of the dotted net. A useful and beautiful petticoat is made of white net and lace. The net is cut in six gores, which end at the bottom in deep rounded points. These are edged at the bottom with a strip of lace insertion about 2 inches wide and edging of the same width put on without mitering. The gores are fastened together with strips of insertion.

Another attractive petticoat is made of net. There is a straight and plain upper section. Just below the knees this is banded with insertion about three inches wide. Below this is a band of gathered net six inches wide, then another band of insertion and then some wide edging, plaited in narrow plaits. Crepe de chine is much used. It washes almost as well as muslin does and it wears better. When it is simply made it is quite economical, for although a good quality costs a good deal to begin with, it is so lovely in itself that it needs little trimming — and, as already said, it wears a long time. A beautiful crepe de chine nightgown is made without any lace, or other trimming material. The only trimming is in the form of fine and beautiful embroidery done in colored silk — a wreath of tiny flowers on each sleeve and a wreath in the middle of the front and back at the top of the gown.

Smart Footwear for Spring

However dashing her Spring costume may be, her footwear is destined to assume the demure charm of Puritan days gone by. For "Colonials" is the dict of the shoemakers. Patent leather will form the majority of these—indeed, it will dominate all the Spring boots and slippers—and they will have for the most part turned soles and Cuban Louis heels. Buckles are either oval or square, in leather like the slipper or in metal. A new style dancing pump in the Colonial effect is of mat kid with gummatal buckle and a low covered wood heel. What is called the leather "spool heel" is seen on many of the Colonials that have the walled sole.

For afternoon wear they show many novel combinations of leathers, such as grey with white kid, finished with a kid covered buckle. Strap slippers are being revived, a natural consequence of the vogue of the ribbon-laced sandal. A smart pair of patent leather slippers, recently had quakers and straps of grey checked matelasse and were trimmed with small cut steel buttons. The tango pumps with their pretty ankle lacings continue in favor for evening and house wear. The high, buttoned boot will be much worn this Spring. Patent leather vamps, with tops of cloth, kid or suede, and French or Spanish heels predominate. Spot effects in colors to match the costume will be affected by the chic follower of fashion. An exclusive boot-shop is showing a boot with an extra high cut grey matelasse top, patent leather vamp, and two-inch Louis heel, that should have many admirers.

shades, are not in such high favor as in the past seasons. Bronze, however, has been utilized to a considerable extent in both high and low shoes. With the first breath of summer it is predicted that white shoes will claim feminine allegiance as widely as ever before. Canvas and buckskin are preferred for commoner wear, with kid, for both high and low shoes, in the dressy styles.

NOVELTIES IN HOSIERY
Colors are coming into their own again in the newest hosiery. The preference is for shades to match the costume. In white, black, blue or gray may be found fine English silk stockings with plain tops and Derby ribs below the knee.

The spider pattern, hand-embroidered in any color on a pure thread silk stocking may be bought for $2.00. The latest Parisian novelty shows two colors combined, the lighter forming a sort of panel effect down the front, that is sometimes in the shape of two V's whose points meet just above the instep.

Another attractive style has the foot of black, shading up into a flesh tint. A white silk cord laces up the side and ties in a tiny bow with tasseled ends. The embroidered ankle forms the sole decoration of fine silk hosiery in practically every shade. Open work and drop-stitch cloaks are seen on many of the late designs. White silk stockings, having the clocks outlined with black chain stitch are popular.

Aged Woman Taken After Husband in Despair Cuts Throat

HAMMOND, Ind., April 3.—Mrs. Mary Evans, aged, bent and crippled with more than half a century of toil and sorrow, had often observed automobiles skimming gaily past the cottage where she and her aged husband lived and wished she might ride in an automobile, if for just once.

Yesterday her wish was realized. The ride was from her home to the county poor farm, and in no sense of the term could it be classed as a joy ride. Last week, her husband, past 60 years of age, lost his position, and he tumbled home with black despair written on his seamy old face. The couple had no resources, and were merely pinching out an existence on his little wages. They were facing eviction and starvation, so last night the old man cut his throat as the best solution of his troubles. They had been the parents of 12 children, all of whom died, leaving them a heavy load of grief and burial expenses and no one to whom they could turn in their extremity. So Father Evans lost his little job, cut his throat, and his aged wife finally got her automobile ride.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Miss Jane Fairman, who entered the service of the Illinois Central railroad company 44 years ago, has been retired on a pension. As there was no suitable place in the office, for a woman she took her work home with her for five years. In addition to her pension a life pass over the entire Illinois Central system was given to Miss Fairman. She says she will have little use for it. Her brother, Frank Fairman, was retired from the company 10 years ago after he had served it for 47 years. He is now 80 years of age. # NOVELTIES FOR LITTLE FELLOWS

BY CHARLES W. GALLOWAY

Never in the history of the boys clothing industry has there been created for a season as many new models to appeal to the buyer of little fellows' clothes. The head of a boys' clothing department in one prominent store in a large city said that the store had eight hundred models and combinations. There will be no dearth of styles therefore, the fear being rather that the great number of styles and designs will perplex the prospective purchaser. At the outset, it may be said that Russian and the sailor styles may be practically eliminated from consideration. These having done their duty have gone to a merited rest.

Foremost among the models which will appeal to the mother's eye, will be the combination popularly known as the Oliver Twist, or by some, the Dutch suit. This is a one-piece garment made of two materials, which match or at least harmonize as to color combination. It may be had either in wool and heavy materials or in wash suits. In the former, blue or white serge pants are combined with striped or checked waist, one of the colors in which matches the pants which are made of plain colored material with the straight bottoms. The suit buttons on, with large pearl buttons, these composing the only trimming. A combination which is expected to prove a winner in this style is made with black velvet pants and a shepherd plaid waist. The white pearl buttons make exquisite trimmings. In wash suits there is an almost endless array of combinations. Another model is a midday suit with straight pants and straight cut blouse. Among the somewhat extreme models, of which there are many, one which is expected to attract most attention may be denominated an English Officer Suit. It comes principally in a blue coat faced at the collar and cuffs with white and trimmed with braid. The coat is short and has rounded corners. It may be had with fine pants cut straight or with white pants of the same material as the facing. Practically all the juvenile suits are made with straight pants. A showing of straight pants in suits for the larger boys last season did not seem to meet with much favor and as a result knickerbockers with button instead of buckle have come into use again, but all little fellows' suits, up to ten year sizes are made with straight pants. Still another novelty—space forbids a description of many—is a sash suit, made much on the order of the Oliver Twist, the difference being a sash, something on the Fauntleroy order.

Then for boys a little older, just after the novelty juvenile suit is discarded and just before the junior Norfolk suit is donned, the junior Norfolk is the thing which will get the eye. This has been called "a big style for little men" and combines in its construction the elements of the Norfolk with some of the elements of the small boys' suit. It comes either single or double breasted and has a turn down self collar which buttons up close to the neck, made in three button style straight trousers and patch pockets. It might be added at this juncture that everything will be patch pockets in suits from ten to seventeen and even in many of the smaller styles.

Coming now to clothes for the school boy. The principal difference in clothes for the boy up to seventeen years of age is in the fabric, rather than the style. One or two new things will be described hereinafter, but the thing of great interest in boys' clothing is that much better and a greater variety of fabrics will enter into the construction of these goods. Having the vast foreign markets as well as the domestic market to draw upon has greatly increased the number of patterns. These beggar description, though it might be said that a double stripe on blue or black ground is a handsome one, sure to gain attention. Strong color mixtures is the feature. In two tone effects the colors stand out strongly. Rough effects will predominate. A novelty worthy of special note is a yokeless Norfolk coat suit with what is known as a three piece belt. In the back a half belt is stitched on as far as to the side seams. Above this are the only pleats, there being none in the front. At each end of this stitched-on half belt the front part of the belt buttons, so that it may be detached and will leave the effect of a young man's coat, with patch pockets, and rounded corners.

Norfolk reefers will be provided for those boys who want an early spring outer garment, and spring overcoats made on the Balmacaen order may be had. Palm Beach suits will also be shown in sizes from seven to seventeen, for the real hot weather. A waist has been designed, the collar of which may be turned in on the effect of a V shape and the edges made by so doing will be finished. The waist also has a regular collar, has three-quarter sleeves.

English cloth hats are expected to meet with much favor with mothers who have been dismayed by the youngster's determination to wear caps. It is thought that the boy will take to these which look more stylish than the cap.

THE very latest vogue in hats is the PENCIL BRIM with BUTTERFLY BOW. We have them in NAVY, GREY, OLIVE and HEMLOCK GREEN. The newest in hats, as in everything else, is our hobby. We have but a limited quantity of these. Better get yours while you have a choice. Popularly priced at $2.00 to $4.00. All makes.

Finds as Much Class in The Leading Minors as In The Major Leagues

By Hugh S. Fullerton.
HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 1.—Class in baseball is a subject that has been discussed ever since two leagues named themselves majors and lettered the others. This spring there is a lot of discussion as to whether or not the Federal League will class with the majors.

There is a glorious opportunity to study "class" here at Hot Springs right now and it is interesting. I'll wager that not one in a thousand baseball fans can go to the three parks here and tell by their playing whether they are watching the Boston Americans, the Pittsburgh Pirates, or the Indianapolis Association team unless they know the men and their uniforms. An expert might find blemishes in the individual actions of the Indianapolis team, but the article of baseball that Jack Hendrick's boys are exhibiting is just as good as that of the Pirates, and, frankly, just between us, and fearing to be accused of heresy, it is more advanced, modern and up to date than the kind the Boston Red Sox are showing at the other end of the valley.

Jack Hendricks is a major league manager. He has proved this fact with every club he has ever handled: Springfield, Fort Wayne, Denver. He knows a ball player and he knows how to handle ballplayers. He gets results and it is an experience to see him this spring handling a bunch of players mostly unknown to him, whipping a new team into shape and making a team that must fight for prestige in Indianapolis against the Feds, and in the Association against stronger teams. Hendrick's team is composed of cunningly chosen players. He has five men who a year ago, were looked upon as major league promises. Evidently Hendricks spotted them at the time, and thinks with a year more of experience they are better than when the major leagues found them wanting in something. He has a corking pair of youngsters, one in the infield one in the outfield, and it looks as if he had a pretty fair array of pitching talent.

The Indians have, to my way of thinking, the best training grounds at the Springs, sheltered between two mountains. It is protected from wind on three sides, and gets the sunshine. The catching staff is good enough. Paddy Livingston has been a corking catcher for many years. Vanu Troy is very promising.

The pitchers are getting a chance to show their merits. Willis and Burke, who once were with the Cardinals, and Harrington who once promised to be a Chicago find, are with the team. La Roy, the Indian, Mertz, Schardt, Gaskill and Wetzel make a promising array.

The infield is complete. Metz at first, is well known. Grandall is at second. This fellow will bear watching by the scouts. He hits a ball as softly almost as his brother Otis does. Kelleher, once with the St. Louis Cardinals, has class enough for the majors. Galloway is another Cardinal recruit. Cole, from Lincoln, Niles and Reilly make up the outfield.

Sport in Review

The Toronto Canadian Leaguers will report here April 20 and will work out at the Island until they take the road on May 7.

There are 11 Indians, six Cubans and one Hawaiian trying for places on the big league teams. Most of them will make good, too.

It is said that Bill Bradley has 8 outfielders who can hit the ball. Since he can't use them all he might pass a few along to the Chicago White Sox.

Los Angeles automobile enthusiasts are anxious to secure the 1915 Vanderbilt Cup and International Grand Prix races for their city for next year.

"Lefty" Farr of the Weywood team of the Vermont League leaves shortly for Springfield, Ohio, where he will get a try out with the Central League team of that city.

Kelly, the new leaf catcher, owns a large chicken farm outside of St. Louis. He had 3,000 hens laying for him last winter. The Feds flirted with him, but he prefers organized ball.

Joe Jackson is a regular plutocrat. He skips to the Nap training park each day in his grand new seven passenger machine. He likewise travels back to the hotel in the same machine.

"Pug" Cavet, Claude Williams and Harry Covaleski are three pitchers trying to gain regular positions on the pitching peak with Jennings' Tigers for the coming season. They all hail from the Southern League.

Jeff Tesreau is the latest of the Giants to take up golf. Jeff still refers to his clubs as "sticks," and calls the shafts "handles." In golf, as in pitching, he possesses plenty of speed but lacks control.

There's no keeping a good man down. Johnny Evers has been made captain of the Boston Braves with all the oratorical perquisites accruing to the position. There'll be some rare sport when Johnny starts operating on old "Hank" O'Day.

Joe Kelley put his men through a hard sliding drill yesterday. They'd pick up that branch of the game readily enough. Maybe Sir Joseph will have to put sand on the track and apply the brakes to keep them from sliding past Jersey City.

Lightweight champion boxer Fred Welsh of England owns two belts that are worth $7,000 each. One is the trophy he won when he defeated Hughie Meegan for the Australasian title, while the other is the Lonsdale belt emblematic of the English championship. He is anxious to arrange a bout with Willie Ritchie, the American champion.

Manager Harry Smith of the Newark International League club has tendered his resignation to Chas. H. Ebbets, owner of the Brooklyn and Newark Clubs. The recall of Outfielder, Daiton from Newark to Brooklyn and the action of Outfielder Myers in jumping the club is given as the reason for Smith tendering his resignation.

Pitcher Lefty McTigue has informed the Baltimore International League management that he probably will not be able to play ball this year. He is a sick man. His illness dating back to mid-season in 1913, soon after he had been secured from the Boston Braves in exchange for Briscoe Lord.

The first of the intercollegiate rowing races for this year will be the annual contest between the University of Washington (Seattle), the University of California and Leland Stanford University crews on the Oakland Estuary on April 11. The Washington crew intends to compete in the Poughkeepsie regatta against Syracuse, Cornell, Columbia, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin again this summer.

The Toronto baseball club yesterday announced the release of Eddie Holly, Pitcher McGinn, Infielder Charles Isaacs and Catcher T. C. Burns. McGinn and Isaacs are all Toronto boys. Burns and McGinn were with the Don Valley League last year, while Isaacs was with the New York State League. The release of Eddie Holly settles the question of the management of the local Canadian League team.

Ty Cobb made a pinch speech in the Mississippi Legislature when rain prevented the game which the salons wanted to attend. In these days of banquets and around the world tours, no ball player can afford to neglect public speaking. Since there is already a large crop of Rudyard Kiplings writing for the newspapers, it is well that a few Daniel Websters and Wilfrid Lauriers be developed among the players.

A recent post mortem, credited to Mordecai Brown, seeks to switch the credit for the famous "touching second" play of the 1908 season in the National League from Johnny Evers to Artie Hofman. The minor claims that it was Artie who first noted the situation and returned Bridwell's hit to the infield, and that Evers happened to get the putout because he was nearest second base. However, there is no discussion as to who failed to jog on down to the second bag.

"Dad" Stewart Will Likely Sign With Brantford Club

(St. Thomas Times). "Dad" Stewart, the former manager of the Saints and London's right fielder last year, is still unsigned. Dad is at present holding down a job as brakeman on the Wabash at his home here, and the strenuous life on the railroad has kept him in good shape. There is no doubt that when the ball season opens the Wabash will be short one good brakeman and some team in the Canadian League will get one good outfielder and a good sticker in the bargain.

Dad, it is understood, is in communication with several of the Canadian League, as well as South Michigan League managers, but owing to the fact that his home is in St. Thomas he prefers to remain with the Canucks. He is in the lucky position of being a free agent, his contract with London last year being for one season only. Consequently he can choose his own masters. He was the choice of a section of the directors of the St. Thomas team as manager for 1914, but now that it is settled he is being sought as first lieutenant to some of the other managers.

Dad's many years of baseball experience together with his value as a fielder and as a hitter, especially in the pinches, makes him a valuable man on any team. This was shown by his work with the Cockneys last year. One department in which Stewart excels is in getting runs over the plate that a majority of the players in the league would lose on close decisions. Dad has the faculty, when closely pressed for time at the plate, of doing a fadeaway slide to either side, that generally leaves a catcher feeling around among the dirt and atmosphere for somewhere else to place the ball. This accomplishment has gained the teams he played with many runs and frequently it has been the deciding point in games.

From the present outlook it would not be surprising to see Stewart back with Ruhe Deneau. Deneau is getting together a good team for Brantford, and is said to be figuring on the services of the man who helped him to put London in second place last year.

Blount Has Team.

It is improbable that Manager Curly Blount will add many more names to his present list. With Miller, Kelly and Chapdelaine to work behind the bat, and Sterling, Schettler, Belting, Tracey, Cresswell and a few recruits in the box the Petes' batteries will be hard to improve upon. Of course the infield will be entirely new, but by the dope on the kids Manager Blount has enlisted the skinned section of the Park on the circuit will be burned up.

The outfield will be adorned by the manager himself and all the men he has signed up to fight it out for the other two vacancies are reported as being heavy hitters, with lots of speed. The latter asset should be very prominent with the locals this year, since the majority of Blount's squad are twenty to twenty-one.

The team will report about April 15th at Youngstown, Ohio, and after two weeks of preliminary practice will work north, playing several exhibition games.

SPRING STYLES TYPICALLY ENGLISH

By CHARLES W. GALLOWAY

Nevertheless, we look to London for the fashions and it is undeniable that London still exerts an influence in this respect. It may be said that all the principal style features of the last century had their birth in London.

"English designing, modified with American ideas and tailoring," is the way one prominent in the clothing field put it and it might be added that the modifications often eliminate such, and in other instances leave but a vestige of the original idea. American styles thus constituted are, however, internationally known and talked of because of their grace of line and contour, their style and their elegance.

These indications do not, however, always plainly reveal the forthcoming measure, however, especially at this time when cloth is cheaper and a greater amount might be put into suits than is done, without an increase in the cost of production of the suit, but is because the tight suit is in vogue. The Athletic suit, or as it will become popularly called, the "Nix" suit, is without doubt the leading model. The characteristics of this suit are, as its name implies, the absence of any superfluous trimmings. Some of the vests are made without a back—just a strap or two across the back, and all of them are made without lining. The armholes are cut out so that the lower edge approaches the waist line, and are very wide. Coats will be tighter and pants likewise, though this is not intended to convey the impression that the skin tight trousers of a few years ago will come back, that is, not just now, though there is no means of knowing what this tendency might bring us to. The peg-top and semi-peg, even the conservative width seems to be due for a change to the narrower legs. And, speaking of the tendency toward the smaller clothing, and with reference to trousers in particular, for the younger element these must be tight at the waist and tight around the seat as well, so that while a belt may be worn, it will not be a necessity. Three-piece suits entirely will be worn by all who have due regard to the dictates of fashion; two-piece suits which saw a decline in demand last Summer will pass this forthcoming season, except in suits of Palm Beach cloth, a fabric which has come into high favor recently for hot weather wear. But for the tightness of the suit for Spring, it will not be devoid of all comfort.

The light weight wool fabrics which will be used will be made up with an almost total absence of trimmings, or it may be said a total lack of superfluous trimmings, so that any one of the garments which compose the suit can be crumpled up into a very small bundle. The light weight suits are made largely with patch pockets and in semi-English style. Stiffening or padding of any sort will be notable because of its entire absence.

For those who might regard the unlined coats as being a little too close to nature, especially in localities where the weather is varying, suits made along the same general lines though with half lining have been provided.

Grey, blue and green, the latter more on the order of an olive shade and also a myrtle green will be among the popular Spring colors. Brown in the lighter shades may be had but this is thought will not be a large factor. Both the light weight suits and those which are made in other fabrics will be made up according to this model.

For early Spring, it is thought that the lined models will be favored, and many business men will continue to favor these latter models for the season except possibly for outing. These latter depart slightly more from the tightness that will be carried out in the construction of models for summer wear and for the younger element.

Shapeliness will characterize all the models, however, for the forthcoming season.

Much has been said that the probability that English productions have a tremendous influence upon the future of clothing in the matter of style and fabric. With the English vogue now of long standing in this country, during which time it has been adapted to the American wearer, little can be expected in the nature of radical departures, at least for the next season. Coats for Spring will be just a trifle shorter, the waistcoats a trifle higher at the neck opening, and the trousers tighter as commented herein. In fabrics the influence of the new conditions brought about by the new tariff will be more in evidence.

A very much larger percentage of foreign made fabrics will be worn by all men than in the past. In former seasons, foreign fabrics were only put into the higher priced suits and in consequence many men of moderate means were unable to acquire them. Now that one of the elements in the high class of high class clothing made of exclusive cloths, the product of foreign mills, of which little found its way to this country, is eliminated more of these fabrics have come into general use in America.

Along with these the use of the high class product of American mills has had the effect of raising the whole standard of fabrics used in clothing, set the popular prices. This has also had the effect of eliminating some of the inferior grades of cloth used much in the past.

On the subject of patterns it may be said that latelines will be away in the lead over all others. Sharp colors will be popular. Blue and gray, black and white, blue and white, and other combinations and sharp contrasts lead.

The cutaway frock coat is said to be replacing the Prince Albert for professional men, and many business men of more mature years favor this model, while as a semi-dress occasion coat, made of black or oxford, either with or without bound edges, it is exceedingly popular. Fancy striped or small checked trousers are worn with this coat.

An invisible herringbone pattern made in cutaway frock style is an innovation that is expected to prove popular. Such suits with bound edge coats will continue to be favored by many.

Of overcoats for early spring, it may be said that these too are made without lining. Coverts will be popular with many, though it is not thought that they will lead.

Fancy patterns in soft worsted together with black and gray plain colored materials. The Raincoat model popular this winter in heavy weight coats will be popular with some. Favor will be divided between two models in Spring Overcoats, and these two may be said to be remote from each other in cut. One is a coat which follows closely the lines of the body, waisted and moderately tight. The other, an extremely loose model. In the latter the fancy patterns will tend while in the first mentioned will be largely in the plainer and more conservative fabrics.

Joe Rivers a Much Beaten Top Notch Lightweight --- Mexican Fighter Lacks The "Nerve"

The defeat Freddie Welsh handed to Jose Rivers in Vernon last week just about writes "finis" to the Mexican's career—at least, that is the way they take the defeat on the coast, according to papers containing the aftermath of the contest. There is no end of criticism for Joe Leey Rivers' manager, for the manner in which he handled the "hot tamale" in this go, the biggest kick being shot Leey holding Rivers back, instead of making him force the fight. Leey made the big mistake of telling Joe, to box the Englishman. His success at this line will be remembered by those who read the fight by rounds.

There probably is not a fighter in the 133-pound division today who can hold his own with the British champion as regards the clever stuff. It will be remembered that the only boxers who have made any kind of a showing at all against him have planned a battle attack that carried the battle to the foreigner from start to finish.

For instance, Jimmy Duffy, Buffalo's "hope" for the lightweight crown, is credited with a decision over Welsh. They met at St. Louis not long ago, and Duffy battled Freddie all over the ring. He never allowed Welsh to rest, and Welsh made a sorry showing. The same holds good for Mickey Sheridan. He met the Englishman at Kansas City and all but held him to a draw. He, too, fought a rough aggressive battle.

Taking everything into consideration, Rivers in some respects has been one of the most unfortunate fighters the game has ever known. Starting as a featherweight, he jumped to the front by winning a 20-round decision over Johnny Kilbane. This put him in line for a match with Abel Attell, then the featherweight title-holder, but greedy managers, believing they would make more money by fighting

SOME DONT'S FOR THE GREEN GOLFERS

- An English golfing authority has compiled the following list of "Dont's" for golf players:
- (a) Don't look at the top of the ball, but at the right side.
  - (b) Don't draw the arms towards the body.
  - (c) Don't use a high tee.
  - (d) Don't take the club back too quickly.
  - (e) Don't make a perceptible pause on the up-stroke.
  - (f) Don't press (i.e., don't try to hit hard until you are satisfied you can hit correctly).
  - (g) Don't spend too much time wagging your club.
  - (h) Don't strike the shoulder with the club.
  - (i) Don't overswing. You will get better results if your club does not pass the horizontal.
  - (j) Don't sway the body.
  - (k) Don't drop the right shoulder. A great many players do.
  - (l) Wait until you are a fine player before you do.
  - (m) Keep a good hold of your club. It is no excuse to say, "The club turned in my hand." You had no business to let it turn.
  - (n) Don't stand too near the ball.
  - (o) Don't turn the body before the club.

Clements of the Saints, wanted to effect a trade for himself with the Syracuse club, the Syracuse club sending St. Thomas a third baseman. Midge Craven couldn't see "the deal" valuing the services of the last south-paw.

Catcher McAvoy, the Berlin youngster Connie Mack drafted, seems to be making good with the Athletics. Despatches say that McAvoy has caught Connie's eye and that he will not be turned adrift unless there is a strong string attached to him.

The Tigers have been ordered to report on April 8, Down in Hamilton they report President Nelson of the Brantford Red Sox as predicting that Doc Yates' "phenoms" would draw banner gates this year. Nels also remarked that Rule Deneau would be doing his talking about mid-july season when the other managers were making excuses. All of which, as the saying goes, is respectfully submitted.

Ottawa fans can fork the pile over.

The Tigers will play at Britannia Park this year. They have completed arrangements for the use of the grounds. The crowds are expected to increase a lot by this change of location.

The Pests don't appear to be doing much just yet, but Manager Blount has the baseball experience and may turn up with a pretty fair aggregation. A Peterboro despatch suspects that Brant, their shortstop, who was drafted by Chattanooga, and afterwards sent to Fort Wayne, will be with the Senators. They figure in Peterboro that Shag, has an understanding with Fort Wayne over these matters.

The London Advertiser has a way coped out to secure Class B. baseball even if Fitz's kick doesn't work. They would appeal to the National Association. As the National Association doesn't meet until next fall, the league could enter until next fall, rating in the meantime, which would be all summer.

Dunlop, the London shortstop, is unlikely to make good with the Cleveland team from remarks made by Manager Birmingham. Neale has not played in any of the Cleveland practice games, but Hillyard, the former Peterboro star, has and hit like a fiend in them all.

The advance guard of the Athletics arrived in Philadelphia on Saturday. The Athletics play their spring week with the Phillies, starting this week. The Senators' twirlers will be in camp on April 18. The regular squad

17 of them last year. He also has two or three in line around the Central League circuit, but is not giving any names. Doc Reising of London, showing a disposition to trust Shag's judgment to the extent of beating him to players the Senators are announced to be after. Until the training camp opens on April 20 the ball fans will get little information out of the big manager in regard to players.

Five Team Race For 1914 Pennant Predicts "Shag"

Ottawa Manager Has Been Thinking Seriously About Brantford Team

OTTAWA, April 3.—"Peterboro, Erie, London St. Thomas—those are the fellows to watch out for" predicts Shag, "Peterboro, with Blount in charge and grabbing all his Youngstown class B players, to my way of figuring, is the toughest looking proposition for us this summer. Eric is bound to have a strong club, and London is pretty sure to be there also St. Thomas."

Shag figures that the Pests will be strong in every department, pitching particularly. He also figures that there will be few weak spots in either the Erie or London clubs, while the Saints will be very strong in twirlers. Toronto may or may not be strong. If Kelly intends to simply turn over his recruits who fall to make the International grade, the Little Leafs may find themselves in the cellar where Shag expects Hamilton and Brantford to linger this season.

The Senators signed up Newman, a Toronto pitcher, on the recommendation of President Fitzgerald. He will be given a try-out. President Sammy Litchenheim, of the Royals, has offered the Senators the pick of some of his recruits now in camp at Norwood, N. C.

Much Doubt is Cast On The Moran - Johnson Go

NEW YORK, April 3.—There is a strong probability that the much-heralded encounter between "Lil" Arthur Johnson and Frank Moran for the world's heavyweight championship on June 27 in Paris, may not take place as scheduled; at least, this is the latest report from the French capital.

The report that reaches these shores is that the French authorities are much opposed to the meeting of these two fighters. Therefore, in order to block the proposed bout, they have circulated a rumor to the effect that if the promoters persist in advertising the proposed battle they will take steps to deport the colored champion from France on the ground that he is an undesirable alien.

Whether the French authorities will pursue this course of action is a proposition that only the future can answer. To many this threat by the authorities means that the proposed match will either be postponed or abandoned.

This activity on the part of the Frenchmen to block the meeting of these two heavyweights is not causing any great amount of criticism by sport following public in this country. The consensus of opinion among promoters and fighters alike on this side of the water is that the proposed conflict between Johnson and Moran will not help elevate the game in this country or abroad. In fact, many view with suspicion the stories emanating from the camps of both fighters respecting the proposed bout.

The fact that Moran, after signing articles for the bout, immediately left for these shores, and before he had set foot on land, engaged a well informed press agent who has since billed him for an extensive theatrical tour, with his statement that his fight with Johnson was going to result in the retirement of the colored demon from the ring minus his title, has caused the wise ones to take the whole matter with a large pinch of salt.

To lead the public further on in their belief that the match was to be a real championship clash, stories were told about Johnsons terribly weakened physical condition and it was said that the time for a real white hope to jump in and wrest the championship honors from the colored fighter was at hand. This line of talk may go well over in "gay Paris" where time is too precious to waste in idle moments of thinking, but when put forward by a well-paid press agent on a unsuspecting American public, who have been bluffed so often by these false alarms, it is a matter that we cannot fall for without some words of comment.

It is very probable that Johnson during the last four years has soaked up enough "fizwater" to float a small-sized navy. Yet, it is ridiculous to think that these excesses have made such inroads on his system that he has dragged himself down to Moran's class.

Granting the colored champion is not the man to-day that he proved to be on that eventful afternoon at Reno, it is safe to say that he is at least one-half as well equipped, both mentally and physically, as he was that July day.

Who, then, can say that he is not due for more consideration than to be placed in the class with an inexperienced white hope?

Moran is nothing but a white hope and at that he is not the qualified representative of this ill-assorted class. Luther McCarthy administered a very bad beating to him, while Gunboat Smith or several lesser hopes if given a chance, would probably take his measure.

The contention of his press agent is that Moran has improved so rapidly under the watchful eyes of his handlers that to-day he is a far different fighter than the man who faced McCarthy. Even if this is true, and we have no reason to believe that he has not improved, it would take years of hard, consistent training along with many grueling ring battles to give him the necessary experience and polish that he would require if he wished to make an honest effort to wrest the title from the Big Smoke.

Until Moran shows something more than a marvelous physique his chance of wrestling the championship laurels from Johnson cannot be looked upon in any other light than as a clever money making scheme of the promoters.

 The Kendons were admitted to the Dovercourt senior league last night thus making a five team league.
 George Kahler and Fred Blanding yesterday officially signed with the Cleveland Naps, despite Federal League contracts and injunction proceedings. The two pitchers signed up after a conference with Nap officials and their attorneys, and will return to Atlanta, Ga., at once to finish the spring training. Both men jumped Federal contracts, but did not sign with the Naps until advised to do so by the lawyers.

 A New York scribe says that the only trouble with Snodgrass as a third baseman is that he makes out field throws from an infield position. The result is that many of his heaves clear Fred Merkle's brainery (?) by several feet.

President McCaffery of the Leafs was almost persuaded to buy George Zabel, the Winnipeg pitcher, last season. He was finally drafted by Brooklyn and afterwards traded to Chicago in a deal whereby Pitcher Fred Herbert, now in the south with the Leafs, went to Brooklyn. In a game at Evansville of the Central League on Tuesday Zabel pitched for the Cubs and shut Evansville out by 10 to 0. He had two home runs over the left field fence, each with a runner on the bases ahead of him.

Clothes for Six Days a Week

Some Interesting Hints for the Business Girl as to Neckpieces and Waists—Examples of Practical and Popular Suits

Neckpiece of French Hand Embroidered Net.

THE world judges so much by appearance that clothes play a considerable part in business efficiency. Therefore, the dress problem of the business woman is of peculiar importance.

To be well and appropriately dressed six days in the week, 52 weeks in the year, without waste of energy or money, is the question with which the wage-earning woman is confronted.

It is comparatively easy for the society woman always to be well dressed. She has time and money to help her carry out whatever ideas she may possess. She can afford to experiment. She can spend days in working out some gown scheme, and if it isn't altogether a success she seldom feels the loss of either the time or money involved.

It is not a bit more important for her to look her best than for the woman of business. The society woman's position does not depend upon her appearance. The business woman's does.

The woman in business is expected to look always neat, attractive and more or less smart. Above all, if she is clever, she wants to look efficient. Also she wants to be so exactly and harmoniously dressed for the work she has to do that she seems to melt into the background as part of a perfect picture, giving the impression of being part of the machinery of the place without being conspicuous.

Double Utility in Dress.

She has to have clothes that will be smart for street wear and simple and workmanlike for the office. She has not the opportunity of running home to change her frock for an emergency. Yet she has social occasions in her every-day life for which she must be properly attired. She may wish to go to one or two semi-formal dinners each week, at the homes of friends or some restaurant, where she must go "just as she comes from work." Perhaps there is the Saturday half-holiday, when she wants to hurry from the office to the matinee. The gown which she wears must combine simplicity and thoroughness to make it suitable for work and smartness and daintiness to make it fit the social occasion.

Any good business woman realizes that her best efforts really belong to the individual or company which pays her wage. So do most of the daylight hours. She cannot spend her vitality sitting up half the night to make her clothes, nor has she the right to take time during business hours to hunt bargains in fabrics or dressmakers.

She emphatically cannot afford to wear the cheap clothes which are so right for the woman who has more money and leisure.

Dark Blue Serge Popular.

The street suit must be of material good enough to withstand wear in all weathers and constant use day after day. It should be of stuff so good that after a trip to the tailor it may become the "second suit" of the second season. The color must be practical. It must be dark enough not to be conspicuous, and yet black is really expensive to buy in the first place and difficult to keep looking fresh. That is why dark blue serge seems so well suited for the business woman.

Smart Black and White Check Suit.

It is always in style. It holds its color and its shape. It will go through the wind and weather of summer and winter and stand many cleanings and pressings and turnings and remakings. Given a good serge in dark blue, have it well made by a tailor, who will shrink it and use good materials in making, and the business woman has a street suit which is perfectly wearable for any occasion except one which requires full evening dress.

There is also a great deal to be said for the fine black and white checks. These are just as practical as the blue serges, and frequently a bit smarter. Moreover, they may be dyed, and will seem like another suit when they are made over.

There are moiré and wool fabrics which wear beautifully and are sure to be attractive enough for the Wednesday night club dinner or the Saturday matinee.

These have the advantage of shedding dust and of being more comfortable for summer wear.

The snap fastener is the boon of the busy woman. It diminishes the time of dressing; it makes security sure and it gives the effect of neatness.

Blouses give the real opportunity for frills and fluff, which every woman loves; no matter how clever a business head she may have.

The wash crepes, which require no ironing and may be rinsed out in the bowl in a few minutes, and are always fresh and dainty, are admirable. Likewise the tub silks recommend themselves for the same reasons.

Small Hat for Business. Crepe de chine is one of the most delightful fabrics for the blouse, which may be worn for business and still be attractive enough for the Wednesday night club dinner or the Saturday matinee.

There are also charming printed silks and crepes which require little trimming to make them most attractive for wear in business hours.

Many girls are clever with the needle, and can make a blouse in a few evenings by sewing a couple of hours, while the rest of the family is reading.

Blouse of Pussy-Willow Taffeta

The small, simply trimmed hat of the season is splendid for business wear. It is usually becoming, and it withstands constant wear without being conspicuous. With the right shape there is little millinery knowledge required to sew in place the bow or flower or feather which forms the trimming.

In buying shoes the sage business woman uses keen judgment. First, she fits her foot with shoes which are large enough, and of the type heavy enough for street wear and easy for the office. She shuns cheap shoes. If she can afford it she buys two pairs at the same time, for she knows they will wear better if worn alternately. The high-buttoned boot is far smarter than any laced shoe. Buttons are time-savers. They can be put on to stay and they take only a minute to fasten. Laces are forever breaking when one has the least time to spare.

Business Woman's Psychology. Unless they are carefully chosen the accessories of dress—gloves, neckwear, sashes, belts—will eat tremendous holes in the income. They are such fascinating things—every woman loves the bits of daintiness which add so to her costume. But the bit of alluring business must be carefully catechized before being purchased. It must answer to the one question of practicability. Goggles which are gone after a couple of wearings are not for the woman who earns her own money.

Summed up, the dress problem of the business woman is largely mental. It must be solved by the head before expenditure makes it tangible. A few well chosen gowns are rather to be admired than many of less worth.

Abbreviations in the way of bodices and waists that are cut low at the neck and short at the sleeves are not indicative of business acumen.

The clothes of the business woman should reflect the qualities which she wishes to possess. They should look efficient and sensible and up-to-date.

They should be cheerful without being boisterous. They should express poise, judgment, energy, interest and sincerity. The psychology of the business woman's clothes is an interesting study.

Here are illustrated suitable garments for the six-day-a-week wardrobe. The suit of black and white check is smart and practical. It has an appealing femininity which emphasizes the fact that being masculine in dress is a non-essential in business as well as in life. The blouse of pussy-willow taffeta might well be called the "non-comittal blouse." One may wear it in the office the day she knows she will go to dinner and the theatre direct from work. It will grace either place. Net-lined, indestructible voile and net lace with the new square scallop is combined with the silk. The collar and girle and the sleeve are made of the three materials.

A far more dressy blouse which might be taken to the office in a small box and changed in a moment in the dressing room, before going to some social affair, is of sheerest net over pink silk. It is modest and charming. The wide girle and the vest front are supplied with snap fasteners, making adjustment but the work of a second.

One really nice neckpiece is a tremendous help to the wardrobe. It may cost several dollars, but it has lots of wear in its daintiness. It will refresh a frock surprisingly. It is of French hand embroidered net. As long as a thread is left it will be in good style in embroidered batiste it is less expensive and equally attractive.

The separate coat is the best friend of the business woman. This one is not too dressy for street wear, and quite appropriate for evening. It is one of the new rough-surfaced stuffs and built on the newest loose lines. It is a garment which can be used for all occasions and will permit one to wear the one-piece gown which is often a pleasing change from the skirt and separate blouse.

There are no gifts more acceptable at all times than bags of different materials, for varied uses. They are objects that one rarely seems to have time to sit down and make, and they solve the problem for the girl or woman with a not too plethoric pocketbook of how to give inexpensive and at the same time dainty gifts.

Among the curtain and upholstery silks, many unusual and delightful patterns are to be found not shown elsewhere, and, as they are wider materials, they cut to excellent advantage. Ribbon and lace counter remnants furnish rare finds for this purpose and at nominal prices.

Feather-stitching and applique work do wonders in decorative bag-making. For instance, the crocheted flowers carefully cut out and appliqued on a solid colored silk make most artistic bags. The fancy ribbons with velvet borders, picot edges, grenadine borders, flowered ribbons with satin edges, all lend themselves to bag-making under deft fingers and artistic taste.

Bag sets are an up-to-the-minute fad. The darling sets include three bags, one for cotton hose, a smaller one for silk hose and a wee one for glove darning. These make most acceptable gifts. The linen bag sets for travelling include four or six bags for different purposes and are made of tan canvas flower-appliqued, ribbon-bound and fashioned in shapes best suited for trunk use.

Bridal sets are made of white satin, hand-painted with the bride's favorite flowers; finished with gold lace or ruching of tulle-edged ribbon.

The old-fashioned sewing bag of our grandmothers' day is a favorite gift, but it requires a great deal of trouble to make, for all the little pockets have to be fashioned by hand. It is a fussy job, but if made of old brocade the bag is a charming gift. Mere man cannot escape the bag gift, for there are several suitable for his use, especially the laundry set, which consists of three bags—the rolled collar, handkerchief and shirt bags. The stockings are put into the handkerchief bag, as the particular man will not allow these two things to go to the laundry. The bags avoid the nuisance of separating the articles when the laundry day arrives. The sets are made of old blue linen, with Dutch cretonne children applied as a border or scattered over the surface of the bags.

The Useful Gift Bag

The Bedroom Knocker

A guest at a house on the Dee Would frequently sleep until Tea, Then she'd waken and hurry And cry, in her worry They must get a knocker for me.

THIS old limerick is to be found on boxes containing the dearest little bedroom knockers offered for sale. An English custom, American women are taking it up most heartily, especially for their country homes, and there is a wonderful variety from which to choose.

One may find her favorite Buddha, fairies of all nationalities, gnomes of old and an endless variety of devils. Then there are the favorite Dickens characters. What more fanciful than to be awakened by "Little Nell" with gentle tap, or more rudely aroused by Quilp or Scrooge, the Dodger or Bill Sykes? They are all to be had in both bright and dull brass, about three inches long and selling from $2 upward.

There are, also, simple devices such as the half-moon, the horseshoe, men's brains, skull and cross-bones, Indian arrows and plain pendant drops. All are popular and much sought. The antique chops carry the oddity in the small knockers, many of historical value picked up in out-of-the-way parts of the world, and for these the price is a bit higher than for those less difficult to procure.

DAMAGES WERE GIVEN TO WIDOW AT HIGH COURT

Sum of $5000 Awarded by Jury to Mrs. Marlett Under the Common Law

Mrs. Frank Marlett won her action against P. H. Secord and Sons Co., for damages for the loss of her husband, who was killed on the New Post Office at the Sessions Court yesterday. She was awarded $5,000 by Judge Kelly, the cash to be apportioned between the plaintiff and her three children, each of whom will receive $500 and the widow $3,500. When the jury retired they were given a list of questions to answer by his Lordship. The questions with their corresponding answers as returned by the jury are as follows:

Marlett v. Secord.
 Questions for the Jury.
 1.—Was the death of Frank C. Marlett caused by negligence? or did it happen through a mere accident?
 We are of the opinion that the death of Frank C. Marlett was caused by negligence.

2.—If it was caused by negligence, was there negligence on the part of the defendants which caused or contributed to Marlett's death?
 There was negligence on defendant's part.

3.—If you find there was such negligence on the part of the defendant, state fully and clearly what were the acts or omissions on omissions which caused or contributed to the death or whose acts or omissions or omission they were.

We find the defendants omitted to provide proper flooring securely fastened down as called for by the Building Trades Act.

 We find the responsibility for that omission rests on the superintendent of Construction, Mr. Cunningham.

4.—Was the plank which fell a part of the platform which the derrick was worked?
 Yes.
 5.—If on the answer you should give to the above questions the Court should be of the opinion that plaintiff is entitled to damages, what amount of damages do you assess.
 1st.—At common law. To the widow $3,500; to each child $500. Total $5,000.

2nd.—Under the Workmen's Compensation for Injuries Act.
 To the widow three years wages at two dollars per day, six days per week—Total, $1,872.00.

During the discussion by the jury they could not decide upon some points of law and they came into court and asked His Lordship's advice as to whether they had to find their verdict in the Common Law or under the Workmen's Compensation Act. They also asked as to the limit of compensation under the act, and about the question of responsibility.

His Lordship answered that they were to find under both law and act, and he informed them that the limit under the Workmen's Compensation act was three years wages at the rate earned at the time of death.

Being satisfied on these points the jury retired and were not long in coming to a decision, which gave the widow the limit allowable under the Workmen's Compensation act or $5,000 according to common law.

His Lordship decided that in this case the common law was operative and he gave judgment for $5,000 and costs, the award to be apportioned as the jury directed.

A stay of execution was granted to Mr. Secord for the period of thirty days, and an appeal from the decision is under consideration.

MOTHER! IF CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

If Cross, Feverish, Constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.
 Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then, don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation, poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your grocer for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled.

LOW NECK, HIGH HEELS IN VOGUE 4000 YEARS AGO

All the Latest Parisian Styles Worn by the Cretan Women.

Bib hats, high-heeled shoes, and tight-laced corsets—in fact, all the latest Parisian styles—were worn by the women of Crete four thousand years ago. Diaphanous dresses were just as popular as they are to-day. Hair dressing got much attention and there were curls and ringlets galore. Gilbert H. Grosvenor, director of the National Geographic Society has just received this startling information in a letter from the Rev. James Baikie, who has been exploring the island of Crete, in the Aegean Sea, ceded to Greece by Turkey at the conclusion of the recent Balkan war.

The Rev. Mr. Baikie tells of the discovery of many clay tablets on which were hieroglyphics and drawings. He said:
 "Here were groups of ladies wonderfully bedizened with costumes resembling more closely the evening dress of our day than the stately robes of classic Greece, with their severe lines. In their very low-necked dresses, with puffed sleeves, excessively slender waists and flounced skirts, and their hair elaborately dressed and curled they were as far as possible removed from our ideas of Ariadne and her maids of honor and might have stepped out of a modern fashion plate.

Male Dress Simple.

"If the dress of the male populace was simple, that of the female was the reverse. An elaborate and tight-fitting bodice, cut excessively low at the neck covered, or affected to cover, the upper part of the body, which was so shaped as to suggest universal tight lacing. From the belt hung down bell-shaped skirts, sometimes flounced throughout their entire length, sometimes richly embroidered. One fresco represents a curious and elaborate form of dress consisting apparently of wide trousers of blue material dotted with red crosses on a light ground and most wonderfully frilled and vandyked. Diaphanous material was sometimes used for part of the covering for the upper part of the body. Hairdressing was very elaborate, and above the wonderful erection of curls and ringlets which crowned their heads the Minoan ladies wore hats of quite modern type and fairly comparable in size even with those of the present day. A seal from Minoenae, representing three ladies adorned with accordeon-pleated skirts shows that heels of a fair height were sometimes worn on the shoes."

SIX PRISONERS MAKE A GET-AWAY

Made Their Escape from Cairo Prison To-day—One Man Was a Murderer

CAIRO, Ill., April 2.—Six prisoners escaped from the county jail early to-day. Among them was William Wilson, sentenced to be hanged on April 24, for the murder of Thomas C. Logan, a special officer of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad.
 It is supposed the fugitives boarded a freight train. The men escaped by sawing the steel bars of a cell. A reward has been offered for the capture of Wilson, dead or alive.

Before murdering Logan, Wilson escaped from the Ohio penitentiary where he was serving a life sentence.

One of the oldest residents of the Cornwall district, Mrs. Armstrong, died yesterday at Milles Roches, aged 81.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to bring back color, gloss, thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready to use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge and soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant. Agent George Bowles.

IF MEALS HIT BACK AND STOMACH SOURS

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends stomach misery, indigestion in 5 minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour, out-of-order, stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take indigestion, gas, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion in five minutes.

THEATRE MGR. DEAD

Never Troubled About Expense of Producing His Own Pieces.

As theatrical a character as any he ever drew passed away at Dover on Tuesday in the person of Mr. W. H. C. Nation. Though his career as the theatrical manager dates back to 1866, success scarcely ever rewarded his productions. It was at Sadler's Wells that he made his first start. There he produced among other plays an adaptation by himself of Dickens' novel, "Our Mutual Friend." A few months later he moved on to Astley's; thence in 1871 to the Royalty. The beginning of 1874 found him installed at the old Charing Cross Theatre.

Then followed a lengthy interregnum, terminated by Mr. Nation's re-appearance in 1906 as the lessee of Terry's, where he remained for six months. His next managerial venture took him to the Scala in 1907. Two years later he returned to the Royalty, only in 1910 to reassume control of the Scala. In the summer of the year before last he took Wyndham's for a two month's season.

Mr. Nation relied chiefly upon his own adaptations, either from the French or from English works. He plunged himself rather upon his faculty for the writing lyrics, and consequently the programmes prepared by him were rarely without a musical piece. Having a considerable private fortune it never seemed to disappoint or to trouble him in any way that the public resolutely turned a deaf ear to his appeals. It may confidently be asserted that no manager has ever played to so continuous an array of empty benches as he.

It was his custom to go down to the theatre at every performance and sit in the wings applauding or condemning the acting of his company. His curious craze for seeing his name on the posters as "sole lessee and manager," must have cost him many thousands of pounds, but of the circumstance he appeared to take not the slightest heed.

Mr. Nation was a stepbrother of Mrs. Barnes, mother of Miss Violet and Miss Irene Vanbrugh.

AN AIR RACE

Great Britain Has Four Representatives in Long Distance Ariel Event.

LONDON, March 2.—Pierre Verrier, one of the four representatives of Great Britain, competing in the air race from seven centres of Europe to Monaco started from Hendon at daybreak to-day, carrying a mechanic as passenger. After reaching Eastbourne on the coast of the English channel, however, Verrier abandoned flight owing to running into a dense fog.

The competitors starting from London have according to the conditions of the contest to stop at Calais and at Dijon. They are given a period of 15 days in which to complete the flight of 800 miles from London to Monaco. Before Verrier started he declared his intention of flying back to London after he had reached Monaco and said he expected to complete the round trip by Easter Sunday.

BALFOUR READY TO HELP OUT

Ulster and Rest of Ireland He Says Should be Separate Units.

LONDON, Eng., April 3.—Arthur J. Balfour, former Conservative premier in continuing the debate on the home rule bill in the House of Commons yesterday, said he was ready to lend a hand if a moderate form of devolution would solve the problem of the government of Ireland.

In admitting this much, in reply to Sir Edward Grey's suggestion of dealing with the question of the government of Ireland by the introduction of a federal system, Mr. Balfour said he had never been a believer in cutting up the United Kingdom. Any scheme of the kind in order to be acceptable to the Unionist must, he said, provide that Ulster and the rest of Ireland shall be separate units.

Sir Chas. Douglas Appointed

LONDON, April 2.—Premier Asquith has appointed Gen. Sir Charles Douglas, Inspector-General of the home forces since 1912, to succeed Field Marshal Sir John French as Chief of Staff.

General Sir Charles W. H. Douglas, G.C.B., was born in 1850. He served with the Gordon Highlanders in the Afghan war, 1879-80, and with the same regiment in the Boer war of 1880-81. In 1884 he served in the Suakin expedition, and next saw active service in the South African war 1899-1900, in the closing period of which he commanded a column of all arms. He has held important commands in the old country since.

Asquith Gets An Acclamation

LONDON, April 3.—The Unionist executive committee of the east division of Fife county, to-day decided to allow Premier Asquith a walkover in the bye-election to be held as the result of the assumption by the prime minister of the secretary for war portfolio. The report that Mr. Asquith would be opposed by James Larkin, head of the Transport Workers Union, also has fallen flat. The premier will be nominated alone and elected forthwith.

SNOW AT WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, April 3.—Heavy snow fell over this district on Wednesday night and was general in the northern parts of the province. This is untimely as the season already promises to be late and farmers will now be delayed several days in getting on their land to start seeding operations. Last year at this time a start had been made in some parts of Manitoba, but it will be ten days at the earliest before any serious work can be done on the land. Conditions are more forward in both Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Bailey's Will

Circus Man Left Big Estate For Which There Is a Scramble.

(By Special Wire to the Courier) WHITE PLAINS, N.J., April 2.—A jury's verdict revoking the will of the late widow of James A. Bailey, who was P. T. Barnum's associate in the circus business, was set aside to-day by Supreme Court Justice Tompkins. The revocation of the will was brought about by Mrs. Isabelle Hutchinson, a sister of the late Mrs. Bailey, after a legal struggle involving nearly $1,000,000.

Under the will Mrs. Hutchinson received only an annuity of $10,000, whilst her two brothers and another sister divided the residuary estate, valued at $4,000,000. If the decision of the trial jury had stood she would have shared this property equally with her brothers and sister.

Mrs. Hutchinson contended that the showman's widow was unduly influenced against her by her brother, Joseph T. McCaddon, who, she said, was jealous of the success of her two sons in the circus business.

Justice Tompkins decided that the verdict was against the weight of evidence, and granted a new trial. He said he thought the jury made such a will as it believed Mrs. Bailey should have made, disregarding her right to suit herself.

China has sent government agents abroad to study the manufacture of the telegraph and telephone equipment with a view to making all such apparatus at home.

Sea Cadets Rescued From A Burning Training Ship

The Tyne training ship Wellesley, formerly H. M. S. Boscevan, one of the last of England's wooden warships, caught fire on Wednesday, burnt to the water's edge and then sank. There were nearly 230 boys on board, but the discipline that had been inculcated in them prevailed, and no lives were lost, though there were some exciting moments. One of the most touching episodes of the disaster was the solicitude shown by a lad for the captain's baby, which he had brought from the cabin and handed to an officer.

It was half-past two in the afternoon when the fire broke out. It appears to have originated in the drying-room, the discovery being made by one of the boys, named Gordon, who at once raised an alarm. He went to the small aperture overhead, the only means of access and egress, and shouted to the chief officer, Mr. Martin, who was fortunately within hailing distance. When that officer had ascertained the nature of the outbreak, he rushed to the fire-bell, and in a few minutes the alarming intelligence was conveyed to every quarter of the vessel.

Gordon was helpless to cope with the fire, and made his escape from the room not a moment too soon, as the place rapidly filled with suffocating smoke, which penetrated through the decks.

A young man named Gooder, when the discovery was first made, joined his shipmate, Gordon, against all warnings. He found a quantity of clothes on fire, and attempted to put them out, but was beaten back by the heat.

Most of the boys were at their classes when the alarm was given. The headmaster, Mr. Chadwick, ordered them to go through the fire drill, and they filed out on deck in perfect order. The discipline of the lads, he said, was admirable, and there was not the slightest sign of a panic.

The response to the clang of the fire-bell was prompt, and in a remarkably short time every compartment of the vessel was empty, and the committee of the agencies to be at hand to render succor was the lifeboat Tom Perry, from the North Shore, which was manned and launched in a few minutes. The tug Vigilant also went with all speed alongside the vessel to help to take off the boys.

In the meantime the officers of the Wellesley had manned the vessel's fire pumps, assisted by some of the boys. Within ten minutes from the outbreak over a dozen tugs fixed their fire hose. The Tyne Commissioners officials, with their powerful fire tugs, Coble Dene and Patrol, speedily boarded the vessel and attacked the flames. The fire had apparently got a hold in the forward part of the vessel, and at half-past five the flames were bursting out at the sides and from the main deck. The fire brigades at this time were heroically endeavoring to do what they could to save the vessel from total destruction.

Crowds gathered from all parts of the town, filled every quay and court, lined the bank tops, and even made for boats and steamers. The scene from the shore was a thrilling one. Great volumes of smoke were issuing from the fore upper deck, the port-holes of the ship, the stairway, and from the ventilating shaft. Down the accommodation ladder came scores and scores of boys, mostly in bare feet and clad in the blue uniform of the ship.

Over the port rails dozens more were clamboring and making perilous descent by means of ropes and staves to reach the various vessels which were willing to take them off. Round the vessel were congregated steamboats of every size and description, rendering what assistance they could, either by removing the boys from the ship or by bringing their fire extinguishing apparatus into operation and pouring water into the seat of the fire.

The most exciting incident of the rescue took place on the starboard side, where four boys who had been working in the carpenter shop were imprisoned by the smoke and flames. Their cries attracted the attention of a boatman who came alongside and endeavored to get the boys through the window. This, however, was protected by iron bars, which refused to yield to the violent blows of a hatchet, so that a hole had to be cut through the woodwork by the side of the window and the boys crawled through.

The first thought of one youth, when the alarm was given, was to go to the captain's quarters, which he promptly invaded, and ran out on deck where he handed it to one of the officers. The captain's wife and family who were on board at the time, were safely gotten out of the ship.

Despite all the strenuous efforts made to save her, the old ship was burnt to the water's edge, and five hours after the outbreak she disappeared from view.

The Wellesley was one of the last of the "old wooden walls of England." She was formerly Her Majesty's ship the Boscevan, built at Woolwich and launched on April 3, 1844. She carried seventy-four guns and was last employed on foreign service on the Cape of Good Hope and West Coast of Africa station. She was paid off at Devonport in September, 1860, and was one of the last sailing line of battleships in the service.

After being dismantled she lay idle until 1873 when the committee of the Tyne Training Ship obtained the vessel as a gift from the Admiralty, originally the Cornwall, which had served as the training ship since the establishment of the institution. Considerably over £4000 was expended in the alterations necessary for fitting the vessel for its present purpose.

OFFICIAL WARSHIP PLANS FOUND ON A SUSPECTED SPY

Work of an Expert — Man and Woman Sent For Trial.

LONDON, April 3. — Further startling evidence was given at Bow Street, when Frederick Adolphus Gould, 55 (cigar merchant, and his wife Merton-road, Wandsworth, were again brought up, charged with obtaining and attempting to communicate to another person certain information calculated to be useful to an enemy. The man was also charged with inciting his wife to commit an offence against the Official Secrets Act. Mr. Huntley Jenkins, who now appeared for the defence, cross-examined Mr. Carl Reimers, Gould's former school fellow, an interpreter at the Admiralty, who said he took no note of the conversation twelve years ago in which Gould spoke of his secret service work. He told it to others because he (Reimers) had been chaffing him called a German spy. He went to the authorities after seeing of Gould's arrest.

Frederick Andrews, a detective sergeant, said he saw Gould come ashore at Dover on Oct. 1 from the Ostend steamer Marie Henriette. He joined the boat train for London, having previously ascertained that it would stop at Maidstone.

Mr. W. E. Llewellyn, a staff clerk in the Hydrographic Department of the Admiralty, was questioned concerning the two charts found in the possession of Gould. One of them marked "A" was a chart of Spithead, and had been in possession of the Admiralty, either in a ship or in a training establishment, in December, 1913. The other marked "B" was of Bergen, and was certain in official custody in July, 1910, and almost certainly in October 1913. There might be about 500 copies of these in existence. Apart from the get-up and the figures a print could be bought for mercantile or yacht owners.

Engineer Commander Croisdale, of the Engineering department of the Admiralty, said his attention was directed to a mutilated document, which was a copy of an admiralty tracing of an unarmored cruiser of 18,000 horse-power. The details were "Sheet * (one of ten). General arrangement of machinery in engineering. Admiralty confidential, 1909." Mr. Croisdale said the print was a confidential document, and produced a tracing from which the sheet was made. That was prepared in March, 1909, and was in use till the end of 1911.

Two Marriage Certificates. There are two ships recently commissioned built upon that principle—Yet. The prints were used for two ships of this class in 1909. The same tracing was used in 1910 for two Further ships. The last two ships of that class were completed for service last year. Commander Croisdale said the plan disclosed the structural features and design, the position of the protected deck in relation to the water line, and other details. The information was most confidential. The list of thirty-eight questions also alleged to have been found in the possession of Gould, and dealing with the latest developments in connection with guns, armor, torpedoes, mines, and kindred matters, could only have been written down by one who had technical knowledge and who was in close touch with recent naval developments.

Witness described another exhibit as a copy of the "Gunnery Drill Book."

Mr. A. S. Arnold, chief constable of Rochester, and Detective Sergeant Passmore gave evidence of taking possession of certain charts and plans. The maps related to harbors and railways of the United Kingdom. Mr. Passmore also put in a certificate of the marriage of Adolf Frederick Schroeder and Elizabeth Fenton, at Holy Trinity Church, Islington, on Oct. 11, 1884.

Constable Robert Covey said he found at the Merton road house a certificate of the marriage of Adolf F. Schroeder and Rebecca Solomons. "I see this relates to 1887," said the magistrate.

"Yes, sir, that is the important point," replied Mr. E. P. Clark (for the Treasury).

Post office testimony was given as to the passage of foreign telegraph messages to Gould at Merton road, and receipts for registered packages were produced. One was from Cuxhaven. The recipient signed "F. A. Gould." There were three packages from Berlin, the recipient signing "Violet Gould." A telegram from Brussels dated Feb. 10, 1914, and directed to "F. Gould Schroeder," conveyed the message, "For thirty."

Other documents having been put in, prisoners were committed for trial. Both pleaded not guilty, and reserved their defence. Mrs. Gould was allowed bail.

The essentials of adequate telephone service for a busy establishment are:—
1. An open door for outgoing telephone calls.
2. An open door for incoming telephone calls.
3. Facilities for immediate intercommunication between offices and departments.

Private Branch Exchange telephone service meets these requirements. Outgoing and incoming messages can be handled simultaneously. Interior intercommunication can be carried on independently. Some New Thoughts on MODERN HOME CRAFT

By ADRIAN MENZIE

At this season of the year the furnishings for the all-year-round house or summer bungalow form an extremely fascinating subject.

Though there may be constant discussion between the house owner and the apartment dweller of the comparative advantages of the different manners of living, it seems that once again people are yearning for their own homes and a bit of garden to care for and enjoy.

Possibly there are more kinds of stucco houses built now than that of any other material. The thinnest apartment, as well as the most palatial residence should be an index to the character of the person by whom it is arranged.

To successfully attempt the interior decoration of a home and to give it that liveable atmosphere with just the right honey aspect, one must give chief attention to definite planning. Each room should be planned so that the whole will have an effect of harmony and unity.

If you are considering furnishing your rooms in period furniture, you will find the study of the different periods and styles most interesting. For those whose tastes incline to simplicity the Colonial scheme is most satisfactory.

reproductions of old Italian furnishings. The wonderful colorings in the gorgeous old Italian frescoes and brocades may account for the demand for stronger colorings.

The home for summer use ought to suggest airiness and coolness. The town house, if occupied in summer, should be given an entirely different appearance, have it contain only things really necessary for every day use, but choose articles with beautiful coloring and good lines so that they will serve an ornamental as well as a useful purpose.

Bare wall spaces give a larger airy effect, so only a few really good pictures should remain on the wall. Eliminate all dust collecting hangings and coverings. The rooms can be completely changed at a small expense for the shops are full of a wilderness of novelties which add attractiveness and charm.

The living-room should have a cheery, restful appearance. There is no one color which has a decided popularity, though taupe, brown, mulberry, old gold and blue are used extensively. The tones are not as subdued as we have been accustomed to recently.

The greatest interest seems to center around the dining room. Have it as inviting and sunshiny as possible. Most persons like to select their own sideboards to match the rest of the furniture.

A decided innovation in sideboards is those with marble tops. In fact marble tops are used also on tables and bureaus—not the Tennessee marble, which we are so familiar with, but beautiful Italian marble. A great deal of furniture in cane and wood combined is used. If there is a plate rack it is placed low enough to be within reach and only a few choice pieces of rare value should be placed upon it.

All superior furnishings should be abandoned in the bedroom. The bedroom can easily with the least outlay be made the most attractive room in the house. Have the color of the walls plain and depend upon the color note in your hangings and coverings.

THE WINDOWS.

The windows are primarily meant to give light so don't obstruct the air and sunshine. A sheer curtain with side hangings which can be drawn to let in or omit the light, is the best selection. Some of the latest offerings in curtains have the loops woven in the material so that the rods can be slipped through with little trouble and straight even hangings are assured.

There is not one kind of porch but a variety of porches, sun parlors and sleeping porches—out-door living rooms, and open air dining rooms. Nowadays, the house is built around the porch, instead of the porch being built around the house as formerly.

Artwork of real worthiness of design and color is no longer a luxury. The return to simplicity of form in furniture and decorations that exerted such widespread influence a few years ago, has left its mark on the least expensive of artware.

There are the products of the Ruskin pottery, many of which have the wonderful iridescence of the Tiffany Favrile glass. A characteristic of this ware is its exceeding lightness, which makes it seem of egg-shell delicacy.

The increasing favor of crystal has brought out many new cases and bowls of the cut crystal combined with gilt. An interesting use of black wood was noted on a tripod vase of this nature which presented an effect of great richness.

Etched crystal is also being employed to some extent in desk sets. A Colonial simplicity of design is carried out in these, making them especially fitting for use with old mahogany. New designs in the bronze and brass sets are being constantly evolved in a wide range of prices.

The Royal Vienna porcelain is much seen in fashionable drawing rooms these days. Its black stripes on a creamy ground and gilt embossed decoration making it well adapted to schemes of period furnishing.

A sun parlor which recently caught my fancy had the walls latticed in pink on white plaster. Fixed panels of old fashioned flowers were framed in the lattice work. The floor was tiled in black and white.

are now showing it in a great variety of flower holders, bowls and other decorative pieces. Wedgwood furnishes also delightful inspiration for some of the season's most beautiful lamps.

Black tassels were hung from the pleated chiffon fringes at intervals. All white shades are frequently used with the delicate Wedgwood bases and silk shades have superseded all other in general popularity, with a strong preference for the rose colorings.

Hand decorated shades of art glass show artistic effects in landscapes, not a few of them picturing some historic ruin. These have bases often consisting of well formed vases of dark pottery.

A novel shade of old brass had set into it yellow glass so rippled as to simulate stirred silk. The base of this consisted of a slender central column of brass about which four branches arched gracefully from the bottom to the light cord.

TERRIBLE BATTLE WAS WAGED AT TORREON

Dead and Dying Are Strewn by Hundreds All Over—Villa Finally Gains Possession of City and Becomes a Real Hero in Mexico.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] TORREON, Mexico, via Gomez Palacio, Apr. 3.—Torreon, strewn with dead and wounded of a six day battle, was occupied by the rebels last night, on the heels of the fleeing Federals.

In all the fighting no foreigner was killed or injured. The taking of Torreon marks the climax of the first campaign of the revolution to oust Victoriano Huerta from Mexico City. It gives the Constitutionalists virtual control over the whole northern tier of Mexican states.

The fighting began last Friday, and was almost continuous. At first Villa attempted assaults on the strong Federal positions in daylight, but these proved costly so the days were spent in cannonading and the nights in assaults.

Positions were taken and lost time and again. Several night attacks sent the Federals scurrying from strong positions, but at day break, the captors would be compelled to abandon them by the strength and accuracy of the enemies' artillery fire.

Some of the fiercest fighting occurred in the hills south of Gomez Palacio and west of Canon Del Tuero, where the Federals made their last desperate stand and from which they finally fled, followed by a column of Villa's horse.

A hundred small encounters occurred intermittently in the streets over the possession of some favored roof, but the roar of cannon was almost continuous. Both sides used armored trains. These with big guns mounted, would suddenly appear around an elbow of one of the hills.

R. construction train plunged down a fifty foot embankment at Brook Cherrywood, which is 25 miles east from Toronto, at 10.15 a.m. yesterday.

The train had just reached one of the newly constructed culverts when without warning the track sank beneath the weight of the engine which broke away from the track and

Latest Phase Of The Home Rule Situation In Despatches To-day

[By Special Wire to the Courier] NEW YORK, April 3.—A cable to the New York American from London says:

The feature of last night's Home Rule debate was a speech by former Premier Arthur J. Balfour, whom the Tories especially brought here from his tennis match with Anthony Wilding at Cannes as a much-needed reinforcement.

Balfour insisted on an immediate general election or a referendum—in fact, on any device likely to prevent the House of Commons from dealing with the Ulster problem. He enlarged on the question of "optional obedience" for the army, and played with the federal solution.

Herbert Samuel, Postmaster-General, replied, making the best speech so far delivered for the Government. He smashed the optional army obedience argument by declaring:

"It will lead sure to the mess-room becoming a debating society. How are you going to draw the line between conscience and political opinion? The mess-room will be decided what laws are to be enforced and what not."

Samuel came out as a whole-hearted supporter of federalism, making

NO CENSURE WAS PASSED IN COMMONS

Premier Borden's Masterly Summing Up of N. T. R.—Graft Now Exposed.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] OTTAWA, April 3.—Shortly after midnight, the House divided on the Graham amendment to censure the Government for discovering the waste of forty millions in the building of the Transcontinental. The amendment was voted down by 105 to 67.

The debate ended with a splendid summing up by the prime minister, a clear and concise statement of the actual situation with regard to the Transcontinental and the report, and a flood of light upon the Liberal attitude in attacking the commission and its findings. Interest during the day had centered upon the speeches of the two leaders, and the galleries of the House were crowded with listeners, anxious to hear the prime minister and curious to observe the leader of the Opposition who had executed the tremendous cost of the railway.

This curiosity was not satisfied, Sir Wilfrid Laurier in something more than two hours and a half, never approached the hundred million difference between his own estimate and the actual cost of the road. Sir Wilfrid, indeed, said nothing that had not already been said by his followers, spending a large portion of his time in bitter abuse of the commissioners, by whom the real facts of the Transcontinental construction had been laid bare. He admitted that mistakes had been made, but denied that there had been graft, and took consolation in his own prediction that the road would realize his high hopes, providing the present government did not degrade it. He charged them with attempting to make of the Transcontinental a local road, a branch of the Canadian Pacific.

Premier Borden reminded the Opposition leader that the Liberal policy of 1911 would have deprived the Transcontinental of all traffic by diverting the trade of Canada to the South. He declared that the men who had composed the Investigating Commission would compare favorably in every respect with any member of the Opposition, from the highest to the lowest. He recalled the persistent refusals of the Laurier Government to have the building of the Transcontinental investigated by a Royal Commission, as asked by the then Opposition. He declared that had the Liberals remained in power there would never have been an investigation and the facts would not have become known. The Stanton-Gutelius report, he said, was substantially correct in every particular, and the charge that Mr. Stanton was out in his law as to the building of the Transcon shops was sufficient to disprove the other charge that the commissioners were acting absolutely under the direction of the Government.

Some people tell the truth because they can't think of a suitable lie.

DEATH SHIP ON WAY TO PT. OF ST. JOHN'S

Terrible Toll of Life From Blizzard—Fifty-eight Bodies Are Aboard the Bellaventure—Many Survivors Are Reported to be Dying.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 3.—The Sealing Schooner Southern Cross, famous as one of the vessels used in the Shackleton Antarctic expedition appears to have come safely through the storm of Tuesday which brought death to more than sixty members of the crew of the Sealer Newfoundland.

The Bellaventure, one of the sealing fleet, was nearing this port today in the midst of another storm, bringing 58 bodies and 35 survivors of the men of the Newfoundland who were overwhelmed by the blizzard while hunting seals on the ice floes at some distance from their vessel.

Everything was in readiness here for the care of the bodies and the relief of the suffering men who had escaped death, but had been severely injured by 48 hours exposure to the bitter wind and driving snow. It was arranged to take the survivors to the Grenfell Seamen's Institute.

There are two distinct sealing grounds to which vessels of the Newfoundland fleet make their annual trips. The Steamer Newfoundland was with 14 others of the fleet off the east coast, near the Strait of Belle Isle. The Southern Cross with five others sealers, had been hunting the animals on the opposite side of the island, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

When yesterday's developments in Parliament are reviewed by the newspapers this morning, there seems a general consensus of opinion that the politicians are drifting apart again, and that Mr. Balfour's speech has served to stiffen the once slackening Opposition.

When 60 miles from port the Bellaventure became blocked in the ice off Cape Bonavista, and at noon her captain sent a wireless message stating that it might be Sunday before he could bring in the dead and suffering seal hunters. Many of the rescued sealers were reported so ill

REV. J. BUSHELL AT GRACE CHURCH

An Inspiring Lenten Sermon Was Delivered Last Night.

Last night, at Grace Church, the Rev. John Bushell, M.A., gave an address that was remarkable for clear, practical thinking and sound doctrine. Taking the words from James, fifth chapter, and 17th verse: "Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not; to him it is sin," and illustrating them with many stories of noble living, he said as follows:

REV. JOHN BUSHELL

The whole trouble is we perhaps do not do that which is wrong, but we neglect our opportunities to do that which is right. Many people think that sins of accomplishment are worse than the sin of omission. That is wrong; if we feel we have talents and knowledge whereby we could do good, then we are sinning against ourselves in failing to use them. Men may lead lives of strict honor and in purity, but at the end of it all there is this—what did they fail to do? Sins of omission may result in grievous wrongs, but the sin of omission is far-reaching and more terrible, because it leaves alone much that might be set right.

I do not mean every man and woman therefore must take up the missionary work in church service and seek fields afar—but around our homes lies work we must fearlessly enter into. We must realize the message of our church in the conditions spread before our eyes in the social problems. Let us in our contemplation of life we lose touch with the demands of our faith, let us remember the sacrament and His words: "Do ye this in remembrance of me."

There are evils in our cities—the workers among the people know of evils that are the result of modern life and the race for gold. We see it, and we must face it, the guilty must be arraigned and these wrongs righted; that is one cause that demands earnest, fearless laborers. The time has gone for excuses. Then when life is over, and we have played the part we know full well was ours, and the ideals we fought for are nearer to us, we shall reach into the life everlasting and hear His benediction: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Cold cash often melts marble hearts.

ECHO PLACE RESIDENTS AT BUSINESS MEETING

The Hydro-Electric Not Expected in That District Until Next Fall.

An enthusiastic meeting was held last night in Mohawk Park school, by the Echo Place Improvement Association. Reports from officers of the association shows everything on the increase, and a substantial increase in members. The membership are close on to the hundred mark. Reports from the treasurer show that a good cash balance was on hand.

Mr. W. Steed brought in a complaint from Park Road residents, re-service water, that was doing damage to their property. He was informed that the association had this matter up with the township council, and that at their next meeting this matter would be attended to.

Mr. Geo. W. Hall, one of the active members, stated that if the township council seen that a storm drain were properly built, residents would not be bothered with surface water damaging their property. It is up to the township council to remedy this matter. Sidewalks to be built in Echo Place this season are as follows: South side of Hamilton Road to Radial station; Robinson Avenue, east and west side; First Avenue, Second Ave. and crossings. Hydro lights are not anticipated until late in the Fall. It is expected that a deputation will wait on the street railway managers re service through Echo Place to Cansville. At their next meeting of the Association, April 16th, all residents are requested to be in at 7 o'clock. Matters that will interest them will be taken up. The officers presiding at last night's meeting was President Morley Myers, Vice-President F. T. Morrow, Secretary C. Thomas, Treasurer A. Edmanson.

Damage to the extent of $15,000 was caused by a fire at the Greenfield Cottonwaste Mill Company's premises, Greenfield, Saddleworth. There was a flash at one of the waste-tearing machines in a portion of the building which runs from the main premises, and at once the fluffly material burst into flame. There were over 10,000 pounds in weight of finished cotton in the room, and amongst this the fire spread with lightning speed. The damage is covered by insurance.

When Buying Gloves For Spring

The vogue of the long sleeve is assured for Spring and Summer wear. From the viewpoint of attractiveness every woman will welcome the new pleatings. Medic collars of shadow lace; collar and cuff sets of hand-embroidered batiste, edged with tiny wrinkles above the wrist make the hand appear smaller and more shapely. For the woman of limited purse, how-Byron style, of taffeta or satin, with attached vests of lace—these are but a few of the charming confections for the neck to be found in the shops.

The bride was becomingly attired in brown with hat to match, and wore sable furs. After a short honeymoon the happy couple left on March 14th for their new abode in Saskatchewan. ## Death Toll Reaches 150 On Ill Fated Steamer

The Newfoundland Was Crushed in the Ice Just Off Belle Isle Strait and Greater Part of Crew Perished.

(By Special Wire to the Courier)
ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 3.—The sealing steamer, Newfoundland has been crushed in the ice just south of Belle Isle strait and the greater part of her crew of 150 men are believed to have perished.

Steamers in the vicinity picked up several bodies, and a few of the crew who had survived on ice floes to which they escaped when their vessel went down.

Fifty of the crew have been accounted for in this manner. Most of them were dead when discovered, and several others were dying.

Great alarm is also felt for the sealing steamer, Southern Cross, which is also believed to have been caught in the ice. The first reports received here said it was a part of the crew of the Southern Cross that had been picked up, and that they were being brought into port by the Newfoundland. There are 173 men on board the Southern Cross. She was due here Tuesday.

The storm that has raged over Newfoundland for three days continued unabated to-day, and the telegraph service to points along the coast has suffered.

The captain of the Newfoundland was Wesley Kean. Meagre reports relayed from one vessel to another by wireless and more or less confused state, of the crew of the Newfoundland, 120 men were still on the ice floes this morning. It is thought possible some of the bodies picked up on the ice were those of members of the crew of the Southern Cross.

One report says that the men who left the Newfoundland were scattered by the moving ice fields in different directions, radiating from the wreck like the spokes from a wheel. The wind was blowing a gale off shore and there was a blinding snowstorm in which the crew would be unable to find their way in any direction. They had little food when they left the ship and no extra clothing. Without tents or other shelter many succumbed to hunger and exposure. It is feared here that very few will survive. Vessels sent out from here are searching among the ice floes.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Bowring and Company, agents here for the Red Cross Line, owners of several steamers, including the Florizel, now on sealing expeditions off Newfoundland, said they had received a message to-day announcing that the Sealing Steamer Newfoundland and the greater part of her crew had been lost off Cape Race. The Florizel is believed to be engaged in the rescue work.

A private message received here from St. Johns, Nfld., says: "The Sealer Newfoundland was caught in a blizzard while sealing, and over one hundred of her crew were frozen to death. The Red Cross Steamer Florizel picked up fifty men dead and dying, after the Newfoundland sank. The total loss of life on the Newfoundland is about 170.

There is no news from the Sealer Southern Cross, and this ship also is supposed to be lost with all on board. The sealing fleet sailed for the ice field on March 10.

The Southern Cross is the ship which Shackleton used in his Antarctic expedition.

The Newfoundland was owned by the Steamship Newfoundland Company, Limited, of which Harvey and Company of St. Johns, are the agents. The steamer was built in Quebec in 1872, and registered 970 tons gross and 568 tons net. She was 212 ft. long and a beam of 23 feet. She has been engaged in sealing for a number of years.

The Southern Cross was commanded by Captain John Clark. She was formerly named the Pollux, and was built in 1886. She registered 537 tons gross, was 148 feet long and had a beam of 17 feet.

While switching cars at the Aberdeen yards of the T. H. & B. railway last evening, brakeman William Bolt, aged 27, who lives at St. Poulette Ave fell from a moving car. #### Class Entertained.

The members of the X. L. Class of Wesley Sunday School were entertained at the home of their teacher, Mr. W. B. Chambers. The evening was spent in games, contests and chiefly carterball. The contests proved very amusing, providing brain exercise for the young men. A delightful lunch was then served to the ravenous boys by the hostess, Mrs. Chambers. Popular songs were then in order and they managed to make a deafening noise. At a late hour the happy crowd returned home after voting their host and hostess many thanks for the splendid time they had enjoyed.

THE BRITISH CRISIS

The Unionists of the Old Land have shown a sincere desire to do their part towards a peaceful solution of the existing crisis by deciding not to name a candidate to oppose Mr. Asquith in his bye-election. This action should serve to still further clear the atmosphere, and it shows once more that hard as they take their politics—far harder than we do in Canada—members of contending parties in the Old Land are always ready to meet on common ground on behalf of Empire interests.

BRANTFORDITES A LOYAL CROWD

Says the Guelph Herald editorially: "One reason why Brantford prospers so greatly is that when it comes to the consideration of civic progress, well partisan politics are dropped, and zeal for the common good of the people of Brantford alone prevails. This fact is amply revealed by the attitude of Brantfordites on the question of sewer duties, the farm implements Liberals, as well as Conservatives, oppose this, which will result in a change in the tariff at this time of financial stringency in the Dominion."

PANAMA

"Does the old American eagle line its nest with the mane of the British Lion, or does the young American Eagle tremble with fear when the British Lion only growls?" This is the picturesque manner in which Representative Campbell of Kentucky, and a Republican to boot, sums up his conception of what is involved in the repeal of the toll exemption clause in the Panama Canal Act. It is, of course, the sheerest high-falutin'.

many of those now opposing the President are honestly convinced he is wrong. They are lacking in historical perspective and cannot recreate conditions as they were when the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was enacted. They may be sincere in saying that they would not agree to such conditions now. But that is not the question; the question is whether, notwithstanding the high-falutin' of Representative Campbell and others, the United States will respect the solemn obligation undertaken by its Senate, with open eyes, when the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was adopted in December, 1901.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

It is very evident, in the case of that Mexican Villa, the attachment is not verandah, but marauder.

A United States paper is quite correct when it states that the drama seems to have entered upon its second childhood because it keeps playing in the mud.

Some burglars who entered a Montreal house took a sleep before they started to rob. Small cause for wonder that the Herald of that city puts the item in its sneezing columns.

Students of invective will find some satisfying models in the English press these days. Even the staidest of the journals are now laying about mightily with the war club. Thus the Nation, one of the most courteous of militant papers, speaks of Mr. Bonar Law's "debating society smartness, his sour, vituperative tongue, his primitively thinking and glib speaking."

In a contemporary we note the statement that the life of the British Parliament is seven years. This is not correct. The Parliament Act of 1910 repealed the Septennial Act and gave Parliament a five-year term, thus conforming to the practice in the Dominions. Mr. Asquith, in his recent speech on the Home Rule question, said that the present Parliament would expire in the autumn of 1915; but the actual date is January, 1916—five years from the date when the present Parliament met.

BOARD OF WORKS

Various Matters Were Duly Disposed of at Meeting Held Last Night

At the regular meeting of the Board of Works held last night in the City Hall the annual report of the engineer of the pumping station was read and discussed. The report contained a recommendation for the raising of one of the cross walls of the pumping station about four feet to prevent flooding. One of the engines at the pumping station is run by electricity, and should the power stop at any time the water would come over the wall by the force of the other engine and flood the place. In order to prevent the flooding, it will be necessary to raise the wall which will be done.

GRAND VALLEY CASES ENLARGED

Two Appeals Came Up in the Appellate Division at Osgoode Hall

In order to allow time for the passing of special legislation in the Ontario Legislature whereby Brantford can own and operate the Grand Valley railway, two long standing appeals from decisions in the litigation over the road were by consent of all parties, allowed to stand over until May 4th. The adjournment was sanctioned by Justices Clute, Riddell, Sutherland and Leitch, sitting in the Appellate Division at Osgoode Hall yesterday. One appeal was from the judgment given by Judge Meredith, that unless the sum of $7,500 was immediately paid the city for tax arrears, the city could seize the road. The other appeal was from a decision May 29, 1912, whereby E. B. Stockdale was appointed receiver.

The legal note referring to the matter says: Brantford vs. Grand Valley Railway Co.—J. G. Smith for defendants; W. T. Henderson, K.C., for plaintiffs; J. A. Paterson, K.C., for National Trust Co., trustees; A. C. McMaster, for bondholders. Two appeals: (1) From judgment of Meredith, C.J., of 21st of November, 1913, and (2) from judgment of Latchford, J., of May 20th, 1912, by leave. By consent motions enlarged to May 4th next.

FOOTBALL MEETING

Referees and the League Officials Are Not on Speaking Terms Just Now

The Brantford and Paris football league and the Brantford Referees' Association have parted company and are not on speaking terms. Secretary Uniacke of the league informed the Courier to-day that as a result of a meeting last night the football executive had decided to turn down the Referees' association entirely and to refer good. It was considered that they had made demands of too arbitrary a nature.

It was decided to join the Ontario Football Association and the champion club this year will have a chance to play for the Ontario championship. The move will doubtless give a big impetus to the game in this city. As regards the formation of a school football league plans have been abandoned, but it is hoped now to get a Sunday school league formed and superintendents will be asked to co-operate.

IS NOT CONFIRMED

Still Another Report Goes Round Concerning Missing Prof. Lavell

Hamilton Herald: No confirmation could be secured of the report that Mrs. C. Lavell, of Toronto, wife of the college professor who disappeared last November, had departed for Detroit, where, it was said, a man deaf and dumb, but answering her husband's description, was being held until she arrived. The man believed to be her husband was first observed in a small town in Michigan, and the fact that a paper was found in his possession bearing on certain matters in connection with the Columbus university furnished ground for the supposition that he was Professor Lavell.

Another report stated that a letter evidently written by him was found on the north shore of the bay, and this circumstance strengthened the opinion that he was not drowned while out rowing the day he disappeared.

Laid at Rest

Late Mrs. George Marlett

All that was mortal of the late Mrs. George Marlett was conveyed to the last long rest at Mount Hope yesterday from the residence of her daughter, 42 Jarvis street. The Rev. Richards conducted the last services which were largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased. Many expressions of sympathy were heard and numerous floral tributes were received. The pallbearers were Messrs. Ciofiely, Adams, Drake, Cook, Hichon and Madgwick. The Rev. Richards was as follows: Wife, Mrs. George Marlett; daughter, Mrs. Ciofiely; son, Mr. George Marlett; mother, Mrs. Ciofiely; Mr. and Mrs. Ciofiely, Mr. and Mrs. George Heaney, Mr. and Mrs. W. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. McLennan, Mr. and Mrs. W. Corke, Mr. Tom. Mintern, Mr. John Hartley.

City Engineer's Report

A copy of the City Engineer's recommendations for new walks, etc., is on file at the City Hall and calls for the construction of 24 new sidewalks, 11 sanitary sewers, 3 concrete curbs, 7 storm sewers and 1 concrete pavement, the latter being on Erie avenue from South Market Street to the city limits.

WALLACE'S BOND

He is Now Trustee of the Other End of Grand Valley System

TORONTO, Ont., April 3—J. G. Wallace, K. C. identified with the Woodstock, Thames Valley and Ingersoll Railway for years, and a bond holder to the amount of $27,000, has submitted a bond for $50,000 as required by registrar George M. Lee in order to qualify as trustee of the road under the bond issue.

Mr. Lee approved of the security given for Mr. Wallace by the London Guarantee and Accident Company and all that now remains is the settlement of the order of appointment made by Mr. Justice Lennox. No objection to this is expected. When counsel for Mr. Wallace and the estate of Dr. S. Ritter Ickes at one time of Brantford, appeared recently before Mr. Lee, it was suggested by Mr. Wallace, that while the bond issue was $140,000 not more than $8,000 or $10,000 would be in Mr. Wallace's hands, but Mr. Lee thought that security for $50,000 was the proper thing. It was thought that the question would be taken back to the judge, but the conclusion came to-day when the bond produced before Mr. Lee, and accepted. It has been said, on more than one occasion, that Mr. Wallace when installed in office as trustee, will bring an action to remove receiver E. B. Stockdale, but such a step will be an event of the future.

LEONARD'S OFFER

Of Military School for the Queen's Has Not Been Accepted

[By Special Wire to the Courier] KINGSTON, Ont., April 3—The offer of Major E. W. Leonard, the millionaire chairman of the Transcontinental Railway Commission to establish a resident military school on King St. west for Queen's University, has not been accepted by the University authorities. There is still a hitch as to the question of control. The present offer of Major Leonard, as they call it, had an agreement which was reached this month, as Major Leonard has already made several modifications in his offer to meet the wishes of the University.

TERRIBLE BATTLE

port of the state of Tampulapas, This state is sprinkled with rebel troops all along the line of retreat, which makes it evident that federal garrisons already are threatened with capture by immensely superior numbers. A railroad runs from Torreon to the city of Durango, which is held by the rebels and the overland journey from that point to Mazatlan lies through a country which is agriculturally rich and well watered. It would be a pleasant place for an army fresh from the horrors of hunger and thirst in the desert. The railroad, however, is cut at Picardis, where the big steel bridge over the river that name was wrecked, six months ago. Troops could be moved over it however, by the use of shuttle trains.

Interest here to-day was divided in speculation as to Villa's future movements and the effect if any, that the rebel triumph would have in Washington.

Parks Board

Granted Baseball Club All Dates Applied For

The regular meeting of the Parks Board was held last night in the city hall, with Mr. E. J. Goold in the chair.

The question of granting the Brantford Baseball Club all the dates was before the meeting, and the schedule granted. The Board will not charge the Old Home Week committee for the use of the grounds during that week. The usual charge is 7 per cent. of the gate receipts, but this was cancelled in order to help the celebration along. Mr. T. J. Nelson, president of the ball club, withdrew two of his schedule dates and gave them to the Old Home Week committee.

Mr. R. J. Eacret, on behalf of the ball club, expressed his pleasure at a settlement being made so amicably. The grandstands at Agricultural Park, which were burned last fall, will be repaired immediately before the opening of the ball season. All baseball, lacrosse and football clubs who wish dates at the park should forward their applications to Secretary J. J. Hawkins as soon as possible.

Mr. Ellston Cooper applied for permission to erect his ice-cream stand at Agricultural Park for the summer, but the matter was referred to the baseball club.

A communication from the Commission on Conservation, which is holding a big international conference in Toronto next year, was read, thanking the Board for their acceptance of the invitation given them to attend.

Several local ladies, through Mr. E. L. Goold, asked for the selection of one suitable park to be used as a playground, over which they would place a supervisor. The playground would be for small children, and St. Paul's Park in Holmedale and Recreation Park in the East Ward were mentioned, but the latter is an utter impossibility, owing to the number of sports which are held at this park.

Secretary Hawkins will communicate with the buildings and grounds committee of the City Council, and also with the ladies, in order to formulate the scheme.

Secretary R. Walter Brooks of the Horticultural Society asked that both the Parks Board and the Society work in harmony this year, and that a delegate be appointed to the Horticultural Society. In accordance with his wish, Mr. J. C. Waller was appointed representative to the Horticultural Society.

Accounts amounting to about $250 were read and passed. There were present: Chairman E. L. Goold, Commissioners E. Grobb and W. Glover and Secretary J. J. Hawkins.

William Windle was given a very bad character by the Chief at the Police Court this morning when he was charged with assaulting his aged father, and in consequence was fined $10 or two months imprisonment. He is apparently one of the won't work—won't want variety and although he was living at his father's expense at his parents' home on Wellington St., he complained of the food which was served to him. His father told him to seek a fresh home if he did not like the food and William then struck his father, who is nearly seventy years of age, defendant himself being forty-five. His father said that he (defendant) thought that it was time he had retired, and this William did and lived upon him. The magistrate had previously told the younger man that he must leave his parents alone, and as he had not done so, he would inflict a fine which would make him respect the court.

Hachig Dardjerian was disorderly on Market St last night and soundly abused P. C. Cox who took him to the lockup. Defendant offered no excuse for his conduct to Magistrate Livingston and was fined $2. Two drunks completed the list, which was comparatively light.

ST. THOMAS MAKES OVERTURES TO 'BAKE'

Pitcher Has Not Signed, But Will Do So Soon—Saints Agree to Terms.

LONDON, April 3.—Bill Baker, the local pitcher, is still holding out on St. Thomas, but the Saints are not going to take any chances and let him get away from them and they have already been negotiating for his signature. Ed Killingsworth, of this city who is a member of the St. Thomas directorate, has been discussing the matter with Baker, and as a result it is likely Bill will sign up in a few days. The St. Thomas club has practically come up to his terms, and a contract will be forwarded him shortly.

In Is Good Shape.

Bill is in fine shape and should have a great season. With the two years' experience he has gained during his sojourn in the league he should be greatly improved this season, and his friends look to see him drafted or sold at the end of the season. Right now he is the most saleable pitcher in the league. The St. Thomas club raves about Wilkinson, but the latter has not the build nor the speed for fast company, and there are many fans on the circuit who don't believe he will stick out the season with Saints this year.

Believes Malen Would Do.

Baker would like to see Ray Malen the former London hockey player, get a try-out in the League. Bill has pitched against Malen many times, and he believes Ray could land a berth with any of the Canadian League Clubs. Malen has speed and some nice curves, and all he lacks is experience. He pitched some great games for Morrisburg last summer.

SOFT BALL LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED

Four Teams Enter New League and Four More Are Needed.

The City League softball teams held an organization meeting last evening in the Y.M.C.A. at which the following teams were represented and entered: Dufferin Rifles, Ham and Notts, Gould, Shapley and Muir and Crown Electric, the last named being a new acquisition to the league. Owing to other engagements some of the delegates from the other teams were unable to attend.

The feeling of last night's meeting was to divide the league into two sections, one playing at Agricultural Park and the other at Recreation Park. In order to do this it would be necessary to have four teams in each section. The Colborne Street Clerks and Bankers have signified their intention of entering a team, and no doubt the Beavers of last year's league will be out with a team. Cockshutt's have enough material in their factory to organize a team or the Grand Trunk could get together enough men to provide a race for the other teams.

The election of officers was left over until next meeting which will be held next Thursday night in the Y.M.C.A. when it is hoped all other teams wishing to enter the league will be on hand.

OTTAWA CLUB BUYS PITCHER FROM NAPS

Senators Pay $600 for Sammy Hall—Has a Splendid Record.

OTTAWA, April 3.—The Ottawa baseball club to-day purchased Pitcher Sammy Hall from the Cleveland Naps. The Cleveland Club drafted Hall from the Johnson City team of the Appalachian League last fall, and he has been down south with them. They wanted the Ottawas to take him under optional agreement, subject to recall, but the Canadian League champions refused, and finally purchased him outright for $600. Hall won 19 and lost 8 games for the Johnson City club. He has done good work for Cleveland, but as Blanding and Kahler have returned, Manager Birmingham was over-loaded with pitchers. He decided to let Hall go to the Ottawas.

Judging by the Past.

Reed—What do you suppose will happen on the judgment day, when the earth plunges into eternal darkness and desolation?

Grant—Oh, I suppose some optimistic will rise and proclaim, "Now is a good time to buy stocks."—Judge.

It costs some people a lot to live because their neighbors are afflicted with the borrowing habit.

ERIE CLUB HAS LIKELY BUNCH OF PLAYERS

Smith Has Good Bunch Signed Up—Will Play Buffalo Club.

ERIE, April 3.—For the purpose of arranging details preliminary to the coming of the Erie baseball team, Manager "Heinie" Smith made his appearance in this city yesterday and conferred with Tom O'Connor and others concerning the situation.

As a result of Manager Smith's visit work will be commenced to-day on Perry Field. Cafetaker Zaun has been given orders to put the diamond in first-class condition at once, and a gang of carpenters will go to work repairing fences and stands.

Manager Smith will return to Buffalo to again come to Erie, finally on April 13. On April 15 the ballplayers will report.

Manager Smith is endeavoring to book half a dozen exhibition games to be staged prior to the opening of the season. He has obtained the Buffalo International team for April 19 and is making an effort to line up several clubs in the American Association.

The names of the players who have signed contracts with the Erie team was officially announced last night. With the exception of two more the list of candidates is complete. The players are:

Catchers—Frank Daniels, Bradford; John Beck, Titusville.

Pitchers—Tom Dorbeck, Toledo; W. J. Nichol, Dunville, Ont.; and S. Sutton of Toronto, all left handed; Edwin Stark Cleveland; B. W. Nagel, Buffalo; Terry Osborn, Bladell, N. Y.; Dummy Taylor, Olathe, Kan.

First Base—Frank Gygli Granville, O.; Owen Harris, Baltimore.

Second Base—Manager G. H. Smith.

Third Base—Leo Wilse, Rochester; Paul Warner, Cleveland.

Shortstop—Charles Behan, Bradford.

Outfield—Joseph Dunn, Marlboro, Mass.; John Schaffer, Toledo; C. Kelly, Harris Frederick Ind.; and another.

Chinese Gamblers Get Away by Ruse

Frisco Officer Has Trying Time Attempting to Arrest 30.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—Single-handed, Patrolman Michael Miller raided a gambling house in Chinatown and arrested 30 Chinese, but when he reached the police station he had only five in his party.

"You should know better, Miller," admonished the desk sergeant, "then to try the arrest of so many all by yourself. How did you expect to bring them all in?"

"You see, sergeant," said Miller, "I haven't been on the Chinatown beat since the Chinese turned Republicans and started to patronize the barber shops. In the old days an officer with a wooden leg could have brought in 30 of them without a bit of trouble; but when I made the raid and reached for their scalps I found that every blessed one of them had got a haircut which prevented tying their cues together."

Hamilton Showing Some Interest in Canadian League

Ambitious City Ball Fans Are Warm-Up to Game and Taking Interest in Team.

Hamilton Herald: All this city has up-to-date is a muddy, improvement-needed ball park on Barton street, four or five of last year's stalwarts, whose ability can be testified to, and a number of new aspirants who will not show their wares until April 8. However, to counteract this lack of evidence Hamiltonians have unbounded enthusiasm in the ability of Manager Bob Yates, the Philadelphia lad, to come through with a first division club, and the fans are hoping and praying that the new manager's connection with Connie Mack will result in several likely-looking recruits from the Athletics and Baltimore Orioles coming this way. The whole city is behind Yates and he will be encouraged.

This is the situation. When the local squad arrives for spring practice one can talk more intelligently of their abilities and failings, and in this way get a correct line on their hunt for honors.

"MICKEY" IONS FOR TORONTO

Former Brantford Player May Come Back From the Coast This Year.

The Toronto Lacrosse Club did not win the championship of the Big Four last year, but they look like the team to beat this season. The officers have been busy the past month negotiating for Western players, and yesterday Cliff Spring, the crack New Westminster home player, accepted terms by the Torontos.

The signing of Spring means that other Western players will be found playing in the Big Four this year. Torontos, in addition to securing Cliff Spring, have signed up Davy Gibbons, who kept goal for them two years ago. "Buck" Marshall, the big defence player, is also anxious to play with the Blue Shirts again, and it would not be surprising if Len Turnbull, of the New Westminster home, would also be playing at the Beach this season.

Both Harry Pickering and "Mickey" Ions, who played for the Tecumsehs before they went to Vancouver have a longing for their first love, the Indians, and if Manager Querrie can get them back the Indians will be greatly strengthened.

Billy Fitzgerald, when he played with the Torontos two years ago, was acknowledged the best home player in the Big Four, but, according to Billy, Cliff Spring is the greatest player in the game. "I am pretty fair myself," said Billy to one of the Toronto officials "but I take off my hat to Cliff Spring."

Perhaps with the coming of Cliff Spring, Billy Fitzgerald will come out of his retirement and play with the Blue Shirts, thus giving them one of the greatest homes a team ever had.

WOMEN STRONG FOR "SPOONING PARLOR"

Chicagoans Want Girls' Club Built on the 1893 Fair Fund

CHICAGO, April 3.—The building of a girls' club with a "spooning parlor" was discussed by the committee of women appointed by Mrs. Potter Palmer, former president of the 1893 world's fair, to dispose of approximately $100,000 gained from the sale of souvenirs during the exposition.

Mrs. W. P. Conger suggested the girls' club where the members could meet their men friends. Although no decision was reached the money will be spent for the benefit of women and children.

Blames His Theft On Devil Inside CANTON, O., April 3.—"The devil made me steal," sobbed Arthur Boergen, 15, following his arrest for committing two burglaries in the northwest end of the city Saturday night. His eyes swollen from weeping, the self-confessed schoolboy burglar told of a number of burglaries during the past year which had puzzled the police. "I just couldn't help it," said young Boergen. "The devil made me do it. Something inside me seemed to make me steal. I didn't have to. Mamma and papa always treated me nice and I had plenty of good clothes."

NIGHT CLASSES AT THE COLLEGIATE CLOSED LAST NIGHT

A Very Large Gathering Present When Exercises Were Held.

"I can assure you that the pruning knife will not be used in educational matters," declared Mayor Spence during the course of a brief address, given at the closing concert and exhibition held in the Collegiate School in connection with the Institute Evening Technical classes conducted by Principal Jas. A. Mutter.

During a program, Mr. W. H. Lahey, speaking for Mr. Sweet, who was unable to be present on behalf of the Advisory Board said he was pleased to be able to congratulate the pupils upon their excellent work. Next year promised to be a most successful one as from this year's success it was decided to run these classes again. He might congratulate the teachers upon the work they had done. It must have been quite a sacrifice of time and labour on their behalf to be present to teach the scholars. Some of these teachers had never even missed a night. On account of the good programme he would not occupy any more of the time of the evening.

Miss Sweet, who had kindly consented to give the prizes, then proceeded to distribute them. This she did very gracefully. Eighteen scholars gained prizes for never being absent during the whole session, whilst merit prizes were gained by Mathematics, J. Patterson; domestic science, Miss Vio. Pates, Miss Hawley.

J. A. M. Foot, first in Architectural Drawing, J. Bryon, 1st in building construction; Miss Alice Hawley 1st in domestic science, Miss Melish, domestic science class A. Mr. J. Fennell, 1st in machine design; Mr. Hutchinson, 1st in woodwork; Mr. Gordon Brown, 1st in mechanical drawing.

Trustee Clement of the Public School Board said he could congratulate the teachers upon the results of their excellent work. He was pleased to notice so many adults attending the classes which went to prove that they were grasping opportunities which they had not previously. We would soon be up to the level of Germany in the matter of education. In fact he declared "they would have nothing on us."

Mayor Spence, having arrived at the school, was asked to speak, which he graciously did. He was deeply interested in educational matters and this department was one that had not been stunted by the council. The Domestic Science classes were especially useful to members of the fair sex, who no doubt hoped some day to land one of the opposite sex. The art of cooking, was an excellent method. However, the council would always back up any matter of education and he was sure no pruning knife would be used upon this part of municipal expenditure.

Principal Mutter was pleased to say that with regard to the night school, that if they had not quantity, they certainly had quality. The great backbone of the school was the constant attenders. They always gave a great heartening to the teachers. It was the consistent man rather than the brilliant man, who got there. He asked all to make a good show next year. He would remind them of the words of King Solomon, "In all thy getting, get wisdom. Get understanding and she shall bring thee honour."

A delightful entertainment was provided by a select number of clever artists. Miss Sweet sang in an exceptionally charming manner "The Dutch Garden" and was the recipient of a beautiful bouquet in appreciation of her services as prize distributor. Miss Anna Carpenter gave two splendid recitations. The coming of the White Swan and The Suffragettes Trial, with marked ability, captivating her audience. Two fine old songs "The Curfew" and "The Deathless Army" were once more revived to the pleasure of the audience, by Mr. Neil McLeod. The Brant Male Quartette were as usual in request, and they did not fail to uphold their reputation, singing "Cottonfield Melodies" and "Annie Laurie." The evening was ended appropriately with a united "God Save the King."

Mrs. Tullock, and the Misses Harris, Walsh, Lake and Ward were presented with beautiful bouquets as a token of appreciation of the valuable services rendered the past winter by the Principal.

WHAT'S WRONG?

St. George Young Men Acting Very Strangely Are Closely Watched.

ST. GEORGE, Ont April 3.—It has been noticed lately that many young men have formed a habit of walking on the extreme edge of the sidewalk on one of the streets of St. George with their vision apparently centered on or in the direction of the roof line of the buildings. Curious observers have not been able to detect anything wrong with the roofs in that section, neither has any new thing been seen in the sky, and their conduct is causing considerable wonderment.
