ADDRESS AND REPLY.

The Rev. Dr. Robertson, Rector of the Episcopal Church at Middleton, who for so many years has well and faithfully discharged the requirements of his profession, has retired from the active prosecution of his ministerial duties, and preached his closing sermon on Sunday before last. The Rev. gentleman intends to still reside at Middleton. Upon his retirement he was presented with the following address:

To the Rev. James Robertson, L. L. D. Rector of the Parish of Wilton.

We, the undersigned, Churchwardens, Vestrymen, Parishioners and others of the Parish of Wilton, respectfully ask you to receive this address from us upon your contemplated retirement from the Rectorship of this Parish.

Over fifty years of active service have marked your ministerial career, the greater part of which have been passed in this Parish and in the adjoining Parish of Granville. We trace intellectually, morally and spiritually the vigor of your intellect, the wisdom of your course and the sound mind of the noble divine and spiritual counselor. In passing in and out amongst you you have known no distinction of rank, class or persuasion, ever ready to act when called upon, the friends of all alike. We regret that the active ministrations in which for so many years you have been engaged are about to cease. In your retirement you will have the proud and happy satisfaction of leaving with those among whom your efforts have been spent much that christianizes, elevates and ennobles human nature, and that when storms and tempests have overtaken you the God whom you worship has protected you from all accidents and serious casualties.

Accept this address as the offering of warm hearts. That you and Mrs. Robertson, who has spent so many years around us, may yet enjoy years of comfort and life.

We subscribe ourselves, Yours very affectionately, JAMES BOLAND, WILLIAM AUGUSTINE, JOHN W. JAMES, JOHN IVES, B. D. MACDONALD, W. W. ROSS, EDWARD LEE, A. F. MORTON, CHARLES J. WISWALL, R. GOW, JR., WILLIAM L. R. GOW, EDWIN WISWALL, R. S. BRANFORD, J. W. WOODCOTT, CURTIS HERRINGTON, ALFRED ANDREWS, R. GOW, JOHN ANDREWS, WILLIAM EARLY.

The number of names appended to the address, would have been very much larger, had it been taken around earlier.

REPLY.

I receive your kind and warm-hearted address with feelings and emotions to which I find it difficult to give adequate expression. You allude to the most flattering manner to the length of service, which it has pleased the Lord of the Vineyard to permit me to give in the course of the propagation of the Gospel. It is a privilege which is accorded but to few of the laborers, and for which I desire to be profoundly thankful to the Giver of all good things.

You justly observe that in my ministrations I made no distinction among those to whom the eternal mansions are essential to the permanence and healthful development of christian truth. We find the beneficial results of these principles in the improved condition and higher tone of devout sentiment, in these modern times. The regret you express at our official separation, is, I assure you, fully reciprocated. But we must remember that the spiritual tie between pastor and people, whatever may be its fluctuations in this present world, will not be wholly dissolved until that solemn period when they shall both stand before the judgment seat of the Great Shepherd of souls, and pastor be able to say: "Behold me and the flock thou hast given me."

My retirement from active work, will I hope and pray, afford me a fitting opportunity to prepare in a suitable manner for the long journey, which in the course of nature cannot now be far off. And with many thanks for all the kindness and attention which I have invariably experienced at your hands, and for your flattering mention of Mrs. Robertson.

I remain, your ever Attached friend, JAMES ROBERTSON.

THE FUNERAL AND WILL OF THE LATE A. T. STEWART.

New York, April 14.—The funeral services of the late A. T. Stewart were solemnized yesterday forenoon at his home, on Fifth avenue, and at St. Mark's church, on Tenth street. The body lay in state at the house all the morning, and was viewed by fully 4000 people. The casket enclosing the remains was of English oak covered outside with velvet and furnished with moulding, fringe and handles—all of gold. The coffin rested upon a bank of flowers, about three feet in height and four feet across the bottom, the top being just large enough to admit the casket. At its head was a large floral cross six feet high, and at its foot a broken column of similar dimensions, surrounded by a violet wreath, while on either side, near the foot, was a large harp and star. On the floor, near the broken column, was a crown of flowers, and a few feet above the coffin another broken column of white flowers, surmounted by a violet dove. The floor of the picture gallery was strewn with flowers, and there was also a floral arm-chair and other beautiful designs. Bishop Potter and the Rev. Dr. H. Tyng performed the brief funeral service at the house. After this service the employes were allowed to enter and take a last look at their benefactor. They passed at the rate of about forty-five a minute, but at this rate it took nearly an hour and a half to get through. At 11:20 the coffin was closed and borne out by the carriers, and immediately followed by Bishop Potter and Dr. Tyng, Jr., and the pallbearers, headed by Governor Fiske and Governor Rice. The procession then started down Fifth avenue to Tenth street and across to Second avenue, and thence to St. Mark's church. The preparations at the church had been commenced early in the morning and the floral tributes were truly magnificent. The catafalque was at the lower end of the main aisle, and was covered with a vast bed of flowers. The service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Ryland, Bishop Potter and the Rev. Dr. Tyng. Upon its conclusion the coffin was borne, followed by the mourners, to the graveyard east of the church, where the body was deposited in the Stewart family vault. The usual burial service was read by Bishop Potter, and the obsequies were ended. It was estimated that at least 20,000 persons were coming and going in the immediate neighborhood of the church during the day.

Mr. Stewart's will was filed in the surrogate's office this afternoon. It bequeaths all his property and estate to his wife, Cornelia M. Stewart, and her heirs forever, and appoints Henry Hilton to act in behalf of his estate and managing his affairs. The will of regular Mr. Stewart bequeaths to Mr. Hilton $1,000,000. He appoints his wife, Judge Hilton and William Libbey his executors. The subscribing witnesses are William Smith, W. H. White, and E. E. Marcy, M. D. The will bears the date of the 27th of March, 1873. He directs his executors to pay out the following gifts as legacies: To George B. Butler, $20,000; to Mr. Hopkins, $10,000; to A. K. P. Cooper, $10,000; to Edwin James Deaulg, $10,000; to John J. Green, $10,000; to George H. Higgins, $10,000; to Henry H. Hines, $5000; to John DeBart, $5000; to Robert Proctor Roe, $5000; to Dodge, $5000; to Hugh Conor, $5000; to William Armstrong, $5000; to William F. Smith, $5000; to Sarah and Rebecca Morrow, $12,000 annually in quarterly instalments during their joint lives, and also house No. 29 East Thirty-ninth street and furniture therein; to Ella E. Hilton, $5000. He recites that he makes the following bequests to be paid from his estate: To Charles F. Clinch, $10,000; to Anna Clinch, $10,000; to Julia Clinch, $10,000; to Sarah Smith (wife of J. Lawrence Smith), $10,000; to her daughter, Cornelia S. Smith, $10,000, and also to Anna, Emma and Julia Clinch, house and lot No. 113 East Thirty-fifth street, and furniture.—To all employees who have been in his service over twenty years he leaves $1000, and to those over ten years, $500. He hopes that all his employees will be faithfully carried out by his executors. One of Mr. Stewart's important duties is to bring Mr. Stewart's partnership affairs to a termination, and as he is now unable to do so, he directs that the partnership be dissolved, and it is for this service that Judge Hilton will receive $1,000,000. The following letter is published with the will.

Jobbers' Corner.

A Chicago critic, speaking of the change of bill in a Chicago theatre, is responsible for the following eloquent rhetoric: "This week Mr. McVicker will lead his forces out of the sunlit valley of comedy into the dimly lighted vale of tragedy..."

Jobbers' Corner.

The heights by great men reached and kept, Were not attained by sudden flight; But they, while their companions slept, Were toiling upward through the night."

Jobbers' Corner.

Scores of Philadelphia reporters were busy on Saturday hunting along the river front for a Danish vessel called the "Fadlog", from the forecast of which it was said a man had fallen. Finally one of them happened to notice what the supposed ship's name spelled backwards, and five minutes later there was a reporter who acknowledged he'd been within ten squares of the river that day.

Jobbers' Corner.

A slim gentleman of rather seamy appearance, with a lag in his hand, called at a Danbury bank on Saturday, and asked to see the cashier. The boy took a good look at the party whom he saw to be travelling agent of some kind, and then went into the back room with the information. He returned and said the cashier was very busy just now. The stranger set his lag down, and leaning against the wall prepared to wait.

Jobbers' Corner.

"I'll have a good time if he waits till Mr. C—evens a out here," whispered the boy to the teller.

Jobbers' Corner.

"You bet," replied the teller with a jocular wink. But the man waited. Years of experience, perhaps, had taught him the wonderful subtlety of waiting. Once the cashier appeared in the door, but seeing the lone still there, he precipitately retreated. Shortly after he fell over to the other bank, to tell the cashier of the way he outwitted the book fiend. He had not been there but a moment or two, when the cashier again appeared, and asked for the cashier. The official of that bank was obliged to admit his presence.

Jobbers' Corner.

I want to make a deposit of $5,000, said the slim man. I was going to take it to the other bank, but I got tired waiting for the cashier to come in. The cashier for whom he had waited for some time, and asked for the cashier. The official of that bank was obliged to admit his presence.

This is a beautiful Quarterly Journal, finely illustrated, and containing an elegant colored Frontispiece with the best number. Price only 25 cents for the year. The first number for 1876 just issued. Address, JAMES VICK, Rochester, N. Y.

Jobbers' Corner.

None should be ashamed of working for a good master. The idler who would brood. Nothing desirable or good, or great, or glorious can be obtained without labor—labor of some kind, either of the hand or the head. Generally of both combined. The hard laborer's hand of labor is more honorable to its possessor than the delicate jeweled fingers of a "privileged" nobleman; the stunted low more worthy of a great man than the head of the titled lord. No man is sent into the world without a purpose; he has labor of some kind to perform; some post to fill in the great career; and if he refuses to fill it, his vanity as well as himself suffers for that refusal.
