HYMEN'S FLAME BURNS BRIGHTLY

Midsummer Events of Popular Interest— Brilliant Nuptial Ceremonies Accompany August Weddings.

PAYZANT-PAYSON

The church at Deep Brook, Annapolis County, on August 16th, was the scene of a wedding of altogether exceptional interest, the principals being both well known in Halifax, where they have resided in time past and still have family connections.

The groom was Rev. Arthur S. Payzant, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Y. Payzant, of Halifax.

Mr. Payzant is rector of Trinity Memorial church at Erie, Penn. The bride was Miss Mary Phoebe Payson, daughter of W. W. Payson, of Deep Brook.

It was 10 a. m., when the ceremony took place in the prettily decorated church at Deep Brook. The bride was an active worker in the church and her associates personally attended to the work of transforming the church into a veritable bower. In the midst of all this beauty, the bride, a most attractive and charming young lady, took the vows which made the happy couple one.

The bride was dressed in white silk with the gown being of handsome design. A bridal veil, tastefully caught up and surmounted by a wreath of orange blossoms, was worn. In her hand the bride carried a white prayer book.

The bridesmaid, Miss Payson, sister of the bride, was tastefully dressed in a gown of champagne silk, with a black hat. She carried a handsome bouquet.

The groomsmen were Rev. S. L. Mc Cain, rector of Middleton, an associate and close friend of the groom. Rev. John Lockward, rector of the church, assisted by Rev. L. J. Donaldson, rector of Trinity church, Halifax, performed the impressive ceremony.

The bride entered the church to the strains of the wedding march, leaning on the arm of her father. Guests and others held the church to its capacity. The full choir was present, and "The Voice That Breathed O' Eden," and other hymns were sung. The organ pealed forth the strains of another wedding march as the happy couple left the church to repair to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held.

The reception was held on the sunlit lawn in front of the residence. Under the shade of the quivering trees a dainty luncheon was partaken of, the guests enjoying very much the balmy air and pleasant company.

In the afternoon the couple left by train on a six week's trip which will terminate at Erie, where the bride and groom will take up their residence.

The guests included several from the United States, including two brothers of the bride.

Those who were in attendance from Halifax were Mr. and Mrs. John P. Payzant, and Rev. L. J. and Mrs. Donaldson, Mrs. Brown, of Wolfville and Colonel Mrs. Ward, of Ottawa, were other guests.

The presents were many in number costly and handsome. A number of checks were received.

The bride has many friends in the province, being a graduate of Dalhousie college, her degree being obtained in 1907. The best wishes of many friends will go out to the young couple.

A DOUBLE WEDDING.

Married at the home of Samuel and Robert Nixon, of Nictaux Falls, August 10th, Arthur C. Barteaux, of Littleton, Mass., and Annie Alberta Nixon, daughter of Samuel and the late Charlotte Nixon. Also William J. H. Nixon and Vera M. Fenner, of Northfield, Queens County. The brides were attired in white silk and carried bouquets of sweet peas. Little Gladys Nixon acted as flower girl and did her part very prettily. At 6 p. m. the happy couples took their positions on the veranda under an arch, composed of golden rods, while Miss Adelaide Ritchey played the wedding march. Rev. C. H. Haverstock performed the ceremony, using the ring service, in the presence of between sixty and seventy guests.

The wedding presents were numerous and beautiful. Mr. Barteaux's gift to his bride was a $20 gold piece and Mr. Nixon's gift to his bride, a gold locket and chain. The little flower girl was remembered with a locket and chain.

After the ceremony the guests enjoyed a dainty repast. The brides' going-away suits were of blue cloth with white hats. At 8 p. m. the bridal party started on a driving tour with a span of horses, decorated in white, amid showers of confetti and good wishes.

PARKER-BOWLES

An exceedingly pretty event of much interest to a very large circle of relatives and friends took place at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bowles, Acadia Grove, Grafton, on Wednesday evening, August 10th, when, in the presence of over a hundred guests, their daughter, Nellie Candlish Bowles, was united in the holy bonds of wedlock to Kenneth Owen, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen H. Parker, of Brooklyn Street.

Promptly at seven thirty, the hour set for the ceremony, the officiating clergyman, Rev. A. D. McKinnon, took his stand and as the sweet strains of the wedding march skillfully rendered by the bride's sister, Mrs. J. Howe Cox, of Cambridge, issued from the house, the bridal party ushered by Miss Lila Woodroffe, of Waterville, appeared walking down a white ribbon aisle, which was gracefully held in place by six daintily-gowned ribbon girls: Misses Lahlia

Evidence in Automobile Case

Counsel for Prosecution Asks to Have Charge Changed to Manslaughter.

The following evidence was brought out in the inquiry into the unfortunate killing of Mrs. J. T. Brine, by the auto driven by Mrs. H. M. Pridie. A. Cluney, K. C., counsel for the prosecutor, made an application to have the present charge of afflicting bodily harm on Mrs. J. T. Brine, amended to manslaughter.

The first witness called was James Hilton, who, although not a witness of the car accident, has a wide knowledge of motoring, and his testimony mainly dealt with this. Questioned by Mr. Cluney, K. C., he said that in order to retard the speed of a motor car it was necessary to apply the brakes and haul back the clutch. By pulling back the latter the power was shut off. From the time the brakes would be applied and the power shut off the car would only go a distance of about ten feet. Mr. Hilton was questioned as to the rate of speed a car would travel on the low gear compared with the high gear. On the low gear the car, in Mr. Hilton's estimation, would only travel about ten miles an hour, but on a high gear it would speed at twenty to twenty-five miles an hour. He had never applied the brakes on a low gear car. He said it would be much easier to direct the course of a car which was travelling at a slow rate of speed than at a slow rate. He could not state the width of a Maxwell car, such as Mrs. Pridie was driving. He did not believe that it was possible to turn such a car in a circle on Granville Street without reversing her.

Mr. Cluney asked what time it would take to reverse the car in case of emergency. Mr. Hilton said to reverse the car acted as a brake, and it would not take very long.

The next witness called was Miss V. Bolger, the lady who accompanied Mrs. Pridie in her auto the day of the fatality. She said she had no knowledge of motoring. When coming along Granville Street, north, they kept on the west side. She did not see Mrs. Brine until they reached the corner of Duke St. She heard Mrs. Pridie say words similar to these: "Oh, why don't that woman get out of the way, or else some one tell her." In her mind, Mrs. Pridie appeared to be confused, frightened and excited. She did not seem to be able to do anything. The car was finally stopped when it arrived at Larsen's store.

Questioned by A. Cluney, the witness said since leaving George Street the tooting of the horn was frequent. When Mrs. Pridie made her distressed exclamation, they were at Duke St.

The case was adjourned until Thursday, 25th inst.

Baseball at Lawrencetown

A correspondent sends us the following report:—

In the baseball match between Paradise and Lawrencetown at the Farmers' Picnic the Paradise nine won, Score 18-3. The Paradise batters were: Burke and Worbylake; Balcom and Layte both did good work, Burke striking out eight men and Balcom ten. A good sized crowd attended and good clean sport enjoyed by all. The Paradise boys were well treated and appreciated highly the way they were used by the Lawrencetown people. The players on both teams were as follows:—

St. James' Sunday School Annual Picnic

An old adage says: "If at first you don't succeed try again." This was certainly acted upon by the staff scholars and friends of St. James' Sunday school in regard to their annual picnic so successfully brought off on Wednesday of last week. Three times the climate conditions prevailing were unfavorable, but on the fourth attempt one of the most delightful days this summer has produced was experienced. Hampton was the rendezvous chosen and the party was on the road in good season and in high spirits. The destination being reached the shore at once claimed the attention of the children, whilst the older members of the party indulged in quiet rambles. Dinner was served at high noon. Then came the candy scramble, followed by the usual races. These made quite a lengthy program this year (an exceptionally large number of prizes having been donated) and included a marathon. Old and young of both sexes took part, and furnished many surprises, as well as much fun.

The inevitable pea-nut hunt came last. From this on various games were heartily indulged in together with bathing and boating, whilst others were entertained to some excellent music from an exceptionally good gramophone (an exceptionally good one). Indeed, so sweet were the strains upon the still air, that the game players at the far end of the field stopped their play to listen.

The position of the sun now warned those in charge of the flight of time and a lunch was served preparatory to the return journey. Home was reached about 8 o'clock, with every body declaring that the picnic just ending was one of the very best ever held in the history of the school.

Where all concerned so heartily contributed to the success of the undertaking, entering with zest into its spirit, it would be invidious to single out any individual for special commendation, but the Rector, on behalf of the S. S. staff and scholars, would take this opportunity of thanking one and all who, by donations of things, prizes, candy, provisions, or in any way whatsoever, made such a successful picnic possible.—COM.

The Sweep of Devouring Flames

Missoula, Mont., August 21.—Mercilessly and relentlessly the flames are sweeping over a vast area, driving hundreds of fugitives before them, destroying small settlements and wiping out of existence millions of dollars' worth of property. The situation tonight is more serious than it was in early morning, except in any way whatsoever, made such a successful picnic possible.—COM.

Mill Burned at Paradise

The planing mill of Hamilton Shearer at Paradise was totally consumed by fire early yesterday morning. Only hard fighting on the part of the neighbors prevented the house and barn from going also. One side of the house was damaged and the roof of the barn caught fire and vigorous efforts were necessary to save the structure.

Mr. Shearer had been through the mill at eight or nine o'clock in the evening with the exception of the drying room in the second story, and this is where the fire is supposed to have caught. The blaze was discovered when the roof was blazing. Mr. Shearer tried to save as much of the contents as possible but secured only a few loose articles. Mr. Shearer's loss is a heavy one, as he fitted up his mill with machinery at the expense of about $1000 last fall and carried no insurance. The lumber on hand for planing belonging to other parties lying outside the building was carried undamaged to a place of safety.

THE "FOOL WHO ROCKS THE BOAT."

Haverhill Gazette.—Quite a number of fools who have "rocked the boat" and sent others to death since the summer began are still outside prison walls. There are few pleasures more delightful than rowing and it is safe as walking if proper precautions are taken. But several hundred lives are sacrificed every summer to carelessness, ignorance and criminal folly and it is high time for the prosecutors to take a hand.

RODENT HORSE TO DEATH TO SAVE MEN.

When the fire approached the camp there were two hundred. Two of the fighters took a horse and, riding the animal to death, reached another camp and organized a rescue party, which penetrated the fire at Bird Creek.

Eighteen of the men were found in the water, where they had gone for safety and they were unhurt, of the remaining one hundred and eighty, no word has been received. The forestry service has organized a relief train well equipped with pack animals, carrying provisions and hospital supplies and will endeavor to get through the fire.

DISTRESS AMONG THE REFUGEES.

About a thousand refugees have been brought into Missoula today. There is much distress among them. Their wants are supplied by Missoula people and they have been given temporary homes.

Death of D. J. Russell Denton

One of Little River's Prominent Citizens Passes Away.

A Little River correspondent writes:—It is with deep regret that we report the death of J. Russell Denton, of this place. Mr. Denton died in Halifax, on the 13th inst., where he had been for medical treatment. The body, accompanied by Mrs. Denton and one brother, arrived here Monday at 6 p. m., and was borne to the family home by his six surviving brothers.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon. A brief service was held at the home, but the public service was conducted at the church at two o'clock. The brass band of which the deceased was a member, assembled outside the home and played two of his favorite hymns—"Nearer, My God to Thee" and "Abide With Me."

The sermon was preached by the Rev. Mr. Saunders, of Freeport, to a congregation which crowded the church. One of his favorite verses, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," was sung by Mrs. Collins. In his appropriate and helpful address Mr. Saunders paid a fitting tribute to the character and work of the deceased.

He spoke of him as a Godly man, an every-day Christian; as a man of excellent judgment in all matters coming within his knowledge, and of such unusual abilities as would have made him a recognized leader in the larger spheres of life. He said: "On every side I hear the question: 'who will take his place in the community?' but no one has attempted to answer it." He appealed to the young men to seek the mantle of the deceased's spirit and service to his fellows, as the great Elijah. The body was borne from the church by his brothers and laid in the grave beside which the leader of the band played as a coronet solo, "The Holy City."

The deceased was but forty-eight years of age and had been for half that time a deacon in the church and leader in the community. He leaves a wide circle of relatives and friends to regret his departure. Besides the wife, Ada V., a son and three daughters, he leaves his aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kelsey Denton, six brothers and three sisters. But they sorrow not as those of no hope. His memory is a challenge to all who know him to obey God and love their fellow men.

APPLE SCAB BECOMING HARD TO CONTROL

Remedy for the Problems of the Orchardist, Pointed Out by Dr. George Johnson—Royal Commission Missed It.

Dr. George Johnson writing to the Nova Scotia Press says:—

"Sir—Statements made in the newspaper indicate that the crop of apples in this Valley will not be more than one-half the average of the past five years, though many more trees are of an age to bear than there were five years ago.

So far as my observation extends and reports supply information, the "spot" is worse this year than it has been for several years. Indeed, it appears to me that the "spot" is cumulative and is becoming increasingly difficult to control.

The biting and sucking insects we have under control to a very great degree. We do not fear them, not even the brown tail moth. Orchardists have tried in various ways to stay the ravages of the "spot." They have not succeeded. It has become a serious menace to the successful growing of apples.

THE BORDEAUX MIXTURE.

We have tried the Bordeaux mixture with some degree of success. In ordinary years it has (to say the best of it one honestly can) held the "spot" in check. But it ruses the apple and is too expensive in time consumed in spraying the trees with it. Mr. Fletcher, when I complained of its inefficiency asked, "How many times have you sprayed?" and on my answering three times, said "spray a fourth." But that simply meant that the profit in apple-growing became so seriously curtailed, as to warrant many growers ceasing to spray and being content to gather the smaller percentage of unspotted apples they found on the trees and make what they could of them, as a more profitable operation than spraying, even if percentage of good No. 1 apples.

Lime-sulphur solution promised better results than the Bordeaux mixtures. I have given it a faithful trial this year. It is far ahead of Bordeaux for some pests. For instance, the oyster shell bark louse threatened to become a menace to apple growing. It was developing at a rapid rate all through this County and, I doubt not through the other apple-growing Counties. The lime-sulphur has completely destroyed that pest. I have not found a single living specimen in my orchards this season. The orchards are a cemetery so far as this pest is concerned. But the lime-sulphur is not a remedy for the "spot." I am inclined to think that it is not as good as the "Old Bordeaux" for this particular purpose.

BETTER SPECIFIC WANTED.

Of course, one season—and that specially a "spot" season through exceptional climate conditions—is not enough for a fair trial. But if it does not do its work in very bad season, then it is not the specific we want.

One would naturally suppose that the Commission would direct attention to this field of investigation as something highly practical and necessary both from the standpoint of the growers of the fruit and from the standpoint of the development of our national resources. We have some half a dozen Universities in the Maritime provinces. I haven't seen any bulletin from any one of them dealing with the "spot" danger. The present King's famous watchword "wake up," seems to be one that will apply all around.

Your Responsibility Towards Your Boy

Every day that is added to the youngster's age brings an added need for his father's friendship. Naturally, he admires his father.

One of the most pathetic spectacles to be observed on this earth is that of a little boy telling other boys what a grand and good man is a father who is not worthy to be a father at all.

Given a good example, a boy can soon get into the swing of good habits, which work automatically to help him through the remainder of his life.

He is always distressed when his father, who is his idol, falls short of his expectations.

"The boy who hears his father swear goes to bed saddened and perplexed that night.

Swearing, he knows is wrong. How can his father, who can do no wrong still swear?

The man who lets his son see him drink or lets him hear him use language even bordering on vulgarity must blame himself if in after life that boy goes in the wrong direction.

Imitation is instinctive. It can work infinite harm as well as vast good.

Fathers who turn their children out to take the world as they find it can expect those sons to disgrace them later.

The responsibility for a life is a grave matter. Giving a child food and clothing and a few toys, taking him to the circus once a year, and giving him money to buy candy or go to a moving picture show and then is but a hollow and worthless substitute for a father's real duty.

Many people are greatly troubled with cramp in the legs. It comes on suddenly, and generally while in bed. There is nothing easier than to make the spasm let go its hold, and it can be accomplished without sending for a doctor.

When I have a patient who is subject to cramp I always advise him to provide himself with a strong cord, a long garter will do if nothing else is handy. When the cramp comes on take the cord and wind it around the leg over the place that is cramped and take an exit in each hand and give it a sharp pull; instantly the cramp will let up and the sufferer can go to bed assured it will not come on again that night.

Be sure and take a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with you when starting on your trip this summer. It cannot be obtained on board the trains or climate often causes sudden attacks of diarrhoea, and it is best to be prepared. Sold by all dealers.

WOODSTOCK EXPRESS--That oil will keep down the dust and improve the roads is now an established fact. In places where it has been in operation for some time, it has rendered excellent service. In Toronto the Sunnyside road has been made smooth and dustless whereas a year ago the residents along that thoroughfare could scarcely live on account of the clouds that rose from it on the passing of automobiles and other vehicles. Some of the western towns have also taken up the system so that its true value will before long be thoroughly appreciated.

Every true mother realizes at times that her children are only loaned to her--sent from God--and the attributes of her body and mind are being used by some Power for a purpose. The thought tends to refine the heart of its dross, obliterate pride and make her feel the sacredness of her office.

All good men everywhere recognize the holiness of motherhood--this miracle by which the race survives--Elbert Hubbard.

A QUITTER NEVER GETS ANYWHERE. Every man who ever did anything really great did it by himself. Success can't be gained without confidence. Half the force of achievement is egotism. It is the fibre that carries the struggler to goal. He must believe in his ability--he must possess so much tendency and courage that others become infected with his assurance. When he meets with disbelief and discouragement, his own faith has to support and sustain him. And such faith is only to be arrived at by training, just as the athlete's stride is the result of months of effort and the harness-racer's form is the outcome of untiring practice.

An ounce of confidence in yourself is better than a pound of faith in your neighbor.

Tramping Parties Are the Fad Now. Weston, has, it seems, roused an enthusiasm, over walking, which is a homely form of exercise much commended always by the doctors, but rarely found interesting by the average woman. Tramping trips are the fad of this summer, however, and many parties of young women are starting out afoot, carrying their wardrobes in knapsacks slung across the shoulder.

There is usually some definite object in view on such a trip, and the trip is called "a pilgrimage" to the home of some famous person, or to some designated point well worth visiting. The journey is made afoot, stops along the way for meals and for sleeping being in order, and sometimes the destination once reached, the "pilgrimage" homeward is made by train.

Footwear is a most important feature of the tramping costume. Wrong shoes may completely spoil the pleasure of the trip, not only for the wearer, but for all the rest of the party who are compelled to hear about the discomforts of the sufferer. Broad-soled, flexible and low-heeled boots should be worn, and these should lace well above the ankle. The stockings should be fine and soft and several pairs should be carried. On the long tramping parties arranged for the summer camps for boys the young trampers are directed to carry three extra pairs of shoes, and each time a brook is crossed the feet are bathed and the stockings changed. When camp is made at night the long tramping parties for boys the young trampers are directed to carry three extra pairs of shoes, and each time a brook is crossed the feet are bathed and the stockings changed.

When camp is made at night the long tramping parties for boys the young trampers are directed to carry three extra pairs of shoes, and each time a brook is crossed the feet are bathed and the stockings changed.

"HONESTLY BELIEVE 'FRUIT-A-TIVES'"

The Greatest Cure For Rheumatism In The World

For many years, I suffered from severe Rheumatism, and the attacks were very distressing and prevented me from doing my ordinary work. I tried many remedies and physicians' treatments, but nothing seemed to do me much good, and I was becoming very anxious for fear I would become a permanent cripple from the disease.

I tried "Fruit-a-tives" and this medicine has entirely cured me and I honestly believe it is the greatest Rheumatism cure in the world.

Such a statement could not be bought from a man like Mr. Mills. He thinks too much of his good name, to sell it or sign it to an untruth. Mr. Mills tried "Fruit-a-tives" after all other treatment failed--and "Fruit-a-tives" cured him of Rheumatism. In the goodness of his heart, he wrote the above letter in order that sufferers in all parts of Canada would know that there is one remedy that actually does cure Rheumatism. This testimonial was entirely unsolicited on our part. We did not know that Mr. Mills was taking "Fruit-a-tives" until we received the above letter.

It is a case like Mr. Mills' that proves the marvelous powers of "Fruit-a-tives" in arresting and curing disease. It may be stated, without fear of contradiction, that "Fruit-a-tives" will positively cure Rheumatism when properly used.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made of fruit juices and is the greatest Rheumatism cure known to modern science. Soc. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. Sold by all dealers or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

A Home-made Fireless Cooker

If economy is a necessity, a fireless cooker can be prepared with comparative ease. Eggs have been cooked to perfection in a padded lat box.

They were placed in a small earthen vessel filled with boiling water, tight head of the box and then closed. The flames and packed in the box which was fitted with a tight cover.

A small old trunk that has no cracks or breaks where air can enter makes an excellent fireless cooker, as many now know. Fill the trunk with clean hay or excelsior. But the pot containing the food and hot water in the heart of the hay and then close the trunk and forget it till next time.

Feeling of some kind may be pressed down over the pot to protect it still more. Cushions are sometimes used to stuff around the kettle, but they are very likely to become unsanitary unless the kettle is very carefully wiped. This must be done before it is removed from the stove, for there must not be a minute's delay after the kettle is taken from the fire. It must be slipped instantly from the stove into the box and then sealed up immediately. Those who have not made a success of fireless cooking have failed in one of these points.

Crumpled newspapers are sometimes used instead of hay, but owing to the printer's ink they are not considered sanitary for use near food.

The box, which must be three or four inches larger in every direction than the vessel containing the food, should be lined with asbestos or with several thicknesses of paper. The packing material must be pressed down hard, and the kettle should be spread snugly over the top. The cover must fit tightly over the box like the lid of a trunk. When the box is not in use it should be left open and the hay should be often renewed.

When the digestion is all right, the action of the bowels regular, there is a natural craving and relief for food. When this is lacking you may know that you need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They strengthen the digestive organs, improve the appetite and regulate the bowels. Sold by all dealers.

WANTS A FASHIONABLE RESIDENCE

Fashionable folk in Brooklyn are all wrought up over the announcement that Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight pugilist, is negotiating for the purchase of a residence right in their midst. No little fear is entertained by the good, quiet people in this section who have maintained its exclusive character for more than half a century, and already visions of boxing exhibitions, cake walks on the front porch, sparring partners in the back yard, and other queer things attending a prize fighter's daily life have loomed up like a spectre before the white residents.

The price asked for the property is $23,500, and Johnson, it is said, stands ready to give this amount.

LOTION FOR TIRED EYES.

When the eyes are hot and tired after exposure to the sun and dust, try the following simple lotion--Take a teaspoonful of boric acid crystals and dissolve them in half a pint of boiling water. Strain through a double thickness of muslin, and keep in a stoppered bottle. Pour a little of this into a cup, and enough hot water to make it lukewarm and bathe the eyes with it; then dry very thoroughly. It is perfectly harmless, and very soothing. An eye cup, the use of which is the most effective way of bathing the eyes, can be bought for a few cents at a drug store.

"Eat and Be Merry!"

Stop starving yourself--stop suffering the pangs of indigestion--stop worrying about what you dare and dare not eat. Eat hearty meals of wholesome food, take NA-DRU-CO DYSPESIA TABLETS and you'll feel like a new person. Sour stomach--heartburn--occasional indigestion--chronic dyspepsia--all yield quickly to NA-DRU-CO Dyspepsia Tablets. The properly digested food restores your strength, your stomach regains its tone, and soon requires no further aid. Soc. a box. If your druggist has not stocked them yet send Soc. and we will mail them. NATIONAL DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO. OF CANADA LIMITED, MONTREAL.

THE CRAZE FOR CHANGE.

After all, happiness is mostly a matter of fancy. We have known individuals and families living miserable lives while surrounded by every condition favorable to enjoyment. A love of change also accounts for much discontent with farm life. The city appears so bright, so animated, so varied, that life on the farm appears not worth living, while the city man, wearied by the constant grind of business, by the mental strain it entails, longs for the sweet and peaceful scenes of the country with the pure fresh air, green fields, leisurely moving cattle, orchards, and woodlands to be found there. These things appeal to him as they do not to those who are in constant touch with them. It is ever thus. We despise present blessings and privileges and long for those just beyond our reach, and not until we have left the farm and have some experiences of city life do we realize the blessed privilege of having the peace, the freedom and the plenty of farm life.

Small children often fall and scratch their knees badly. Care should be taken to see that no particles of dirt remain in the wound, and the best treatment is to wash it with warm water to which a teaspoonful of boracic powder has been added. Afterwards a little boracic ointment may be applied, and lastly bandage the place with a clean rag.

MAKING COTTAGE CHEESE.

Making cottage cheese is a comparatively easy process. The skim-milk is allowed to stand in the vat until it sours, or it may be coagulated by adding a little hydrochloric acid. After curdling, the whey is drawn off and the curd collected on a cheese cloth strainer. The strainer is usually made of linen. It is slipped over a wooden frame, the ends of which are supported on wooden horses which are set over the drain. The curd is stirred in this strainer to free it from the excessive whey. The flavor and texture of cottage cheese may be improved by adding cream or soft butter to the curd on the strainer. Sometimes dry salt or caraway seed is also stirred into it in order to give the cheese a special flavor. It is salted to suit the taste—about two pounds of salt per thousand pounds of milk.

AN OPEN LETTER

From W. J. Gage, Esq., Toronto

A Problem of National Importance

Dear Friend— A bright young lawyer at the Muskoka Sanatorium for Consumptives some weeks ago, speaking of the burden placed upon him by having consumption, said: "One has to lead a life of concealment. If I go away from this place people are afraid of me." This is the sad lot of those who suffer from this dread disease. On behalf of the thousands who are sick and will not be received by other hospitals, I make this appeal for the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. Nearly 10,000 people from every part of Canada aided in this good work last year, sending us $23,000. The Trustees have faith that a still larger number will help. The Physician's offices, chest rooms, etc., up to the present have occupied rooms in the hospital that rightly belong to patients. To make better provision for the work, and furnish more accommodation, a new administration building is now under way. A cottage for the Physician and his young wife had also to be built. To provide for this cottage, and to care for patients for the coming year, we must secure at least $50,000. The Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives never refused a patient because of his or her inability to pay. It cares for those whom other hospitals refuse. It cares for those whom other people are afraid of. "I was sick and ye visited me," was Christ's commendation. Should not a richer benediction be yours if from a loving heart your dollar makes a golden visit to this hospital, bringing health and joy to those whom other people fear, and whom, in many cases, nobody wants. Will you have the luxury of giving? Faithfully yours, W. J. Gage

The Pioneer of the Crimean War

(Montreal Witness.)

Florence Nightingale is imperishable. Through age and infirmity she had long withdrawn from active life, but wherever there is a bed of pain her influence is felt and her spirit remains with us. Her work in the Crimea was heroic, but it had ended there the world would owe her far less than it does today. Her greatest work was to raise the service of nursing out of the ignorant rut where it, had long been in the hands of the Sary Gamp and Betsy Frig class, and transfer it to kindly gentle and cultured women, such as we find following the calling of nursing today. It must not be forgotten that Miss Nightingale's action in going to the Crimea to nurse a lot of common soldiers was as much frowned upon by Mrs. Grundy as was Wm. Wilberforce's work for the freedom of the slaves, Thomas Howard's reforms for the amelioration of the lot of 'jail-birds,' or Lord Shaftesbury's wise legislation to better the life of the poor toilers in the textile mill and other mills and in the mines. That is the fate of all who are in advance of their time. Miss Nightingale's advent as a great nurse in surgical and other cases helped to revolutionize the hospital and the sick room and to place surgical treatment in a different category to the butcher's shop practice of former years. Of our nurses today, millions are grateful for the "When pain and anguish wring the brow, ministering angel thou," and every time they see or think it they are paying the best and greatest tribute to the life-work of the great nurse, Florence Nightingale.

The Ladies of Bridgetown May Now Have Beautiful Hair.

Warren Your Drug-Guarantees it to Grow Hair or Refund Your Money.

W. A. Warren, backed up by the manufacturers of SALVIA, the Great Hair Grower, guarantees it to grow hair. SALVIA destroys Dandruff in ten days. The roots of the hair are so nourished and fed that a new crop of hair springs up, to the amazement and delight of the user. The hair is made soft and shiny. Like all American preparations SALVIA is daintily perfumed. It is hard to find an actress who does not use SALVIA continually. Ladies of society and influence use no other.

SALVIA is a non-sticky preparation, and is the ladies' favorite. A large, generous bottle, 50c. The Scofield Drug Co., Catharines, Canadian distributors.

St. John, N. B., this year of grace 1910, jumps into the limelight in a truly national way as an exhibition centre. It possesses the most modern cattle accommodations in America, ten large buildings for industrial, agricultural, educational and other displays, has a large open area, new grand-stands, new boulevard, and the whole equipment has been brought up to the highest standard of excellence. The big show starts September 5th.

Four Millionaire Brothers.

Each Given $700 by Father to Start Business and Good Use Made of it.

New York, Aug. 17.—Nathan G. Miller, aged seventy-seven, former head of the Iron Steamboat Company, the Nickel Plate Railroad and many electrical projects, met his three millionaire brothers at a reunion in Bridgetown this week in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of the eldest brother, Darius of New Britain, Conn.

The brothers recalled the days of half a century ago, when they started life with $700 a piece. They are, besides Nathan, Frank, aged sixty-five, president of the City National Bank of Bridgetown, one of the largest investors in manufactures in that city; Darius, eighty-two who has retired from the dry goods business in New Britain; and Charles, seventy-three, who on New Year's Day last turned over 'The Miller & Peck Dry Goods Store' to the clerks who had served many years in his employ.

Mrs. Kate A. Miller Strickland, a wealthy sister, attended, together with Mrs. Darius Miller and other relatives.

Like a page from fiction is the story of the remarkably successful careers of these four brothers, each of whom has come into the possession of millions through his own individual ability and energy.

Their father, Thos. A. Miller, of Middletown, set the boys up in mercantile lines, in a small way as each attained his majority, giving them one after another $700. They put their funds to such good use that they were soon reckoned among the leading factors in Connecticut mercantile circles.

Frank Miller became a wholesale and retail coal merchant and a heavy investor in Bridgetown manufactures, while Darius devoted his attention to dry goods in New Britain, and Charles went into the same line at Waterbury, and later added manufacturing to his activities.

Frank has retired from most of his manufacturing interests and is now content with the honors attaching to the presidency of the City National Bank and directorship in several other banking institutions.

Dysentery is a dangerous disease but can be cured. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been successfully used in nine epidemics of dysentery. It has never been known to fail. It is equally valuable for children and adults, and when reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. Sold by all dealers.

30,000 MEN AFFECTED BY THE STRIKE.

Berlin, August 11.—The strike of the shipyard workers at Hamburg is rapidly spreading to other shipping ports. The workers at Hamburg demand a reduction of the working hours and a ten per cent. increase in wages.

The shipbuilding employers have decided to lock out sixty per cent. of the workmen, beginning from August 12th. The workmen who will be locked out are employed at Kiel, Stettin, Bremen, Lubeck, Danzig and elsewhere. The lockout will be maintained until the strike at Hamburg is settled. At least thirty thousand employees will be thrown out of employment.

It is expected that the workmen will retaliate by proclaiming a general shipbuilding strike, thus obliging the remainder of the employees to cease work. The men at Bremen have decided to begin on strike on August 11th.

CUTTING A BOARD.

The board was ten inches and a fraction in width, and the carpenter apprentice with his rule and a pencil was trying to divide it into three equal parts.

"Hang it," he said, impatiently, digging away, getting bigger and bigger fractions, and still far from the accurate division that he sought. "Hang this business," said the old carpenter.

And he took a foot rule and laid it across the ten-inch board obliquely, so that the oblique measurement just made twelve inches; then he marked off three equal divisions. It works on any width or any number of desired divisions. To divide a 9 3/4 inch board in four parts, for instance, you'd make your rule measure obliquely just ten inches across the board, and then you'd mark off your divisions at 2 1/2, 5, 7 1/2. This is a handy thing to know. It saves a man many a quarter-hour of tedious siphoning.

CAUGHT CRESTED EAGLES.

Winnipeg Men Capture Rare Birds After Hard Fight.

The crested eagle, the finest bird of prey in North America, which has practically disappeared from the most inaccessible recesses of isolated sections of the remote Northwest, supplanted incidents the other day of a thrilling story in which two Winnipeg men figured. In a wild spot along the National Transcontinental Railway, some miles east of Winnipeg, Wm. Carter and Fred Logan, while hunting, discovered two great birds circling overhead. They followed them, and observed a nest high in the top of a great tree. When they approached the location the birds swooped down upon them. The ferocity of the attack convinced the hunters that they had to deal with eagles of the crested variety, and that there were eaglets in the nest.

The hunters, armed with rifles and prepared to rob the nest. While one look up a position where he could command the nest with his gun the other climbed a tree. Twenty shots were fired at the birds as they swooped and screamed around the nest. Logan got near enough to the nest to see that it contained the young birds, but because of the noise the eagles did not rise. They were shot and taken to the city. The male eagle followed them for some distance, but they were able to escape. The eaglets are now in the hands of the Winnipeg men.

A week later, equipped with ropes and tools, they returned to the spot, and were again met with a fierce assault. In spite of many shots the eagles fought fiercely, but the eaglets were secured. Then the hunters began their retreat, alternately dodging and firing at the two great birds. For two miles the eagles continued their attack, and at times came to very close quarters with the hunters. Finally when the exhausted sections were approached the eagles gave up the fight. The eaglets are now in the hands of the Winnipeg men. They are rare specimens, and though only a few weeks old, display the ferocity of their species.

Why Americans Fleck to Canada.

As a result of speculation, land values have increased from 100 to 1,000 per cent. in different parts of the United States. Acreage that was unsaleable ten or twelve years ago at $100 per acre is now commanding $10 to $15, and improved farm land has gone from $50 to $100 an acre to $200 and $300. Fruit lands are commanding as high as $3,000 and $4,000 an acre. The direct effect of land speculation and inflated values of land is emigration. This has assumed serious proportions in the Northwest. Pioneers and settlers of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania have been driven across the border into Canada to land still reasonable in price and soil virgin in richness. Last year about 60,000 people went over the line. They took an average of $1,000 with them. This sum of $60,000,000 represents the wealth of the United States in one twelve months' period is significant. No emigration has been greater than in 1899. It is so great, in fact, that it demands the services of special trains to accommodate the masses of emigrants. The American farmers will, this year, abandon the high-priced lands of the West and seek a new home in the reasonable-priced acres of the Dominion. With production of American goods and services at a record of home consumption, and the margin decreasing, the loss of this number of people is a great consequence to the United States. Canadian Sculptor's Work.

A few months ago at the annual exhibition of the Canadian Art Club in Toronto and Montreal were seen the works of a Canadian sculptor, Mr. A. Phinister Proctor, the noted sculptor, who although a resident of New York is a Canadian by birth and sentiment. He was born at Bosanquet in Lambton County, and his lively sentiment is shown in the work by his interest in the club in question. According to The New York Herald, Mr. Proctor has completed six bronze tigers. Two of these will go to Princeton University, of which the tiger is the symbol, and the other four to the city of Washington. The work has just been finished at Mr. Proctor's atelier, 97 Sixth avenue, New York, and the casting by the Gorham Company is about to commence.

Mr. Proctor has been a sculptor of animals of all kinds for many years. The bronze panther which Col. Roosevelt's tennis cabinet presented to him just prior to his departure for Africa was his work, and a picture shows him at work on a head for the elephant house in the New York Zoological Gardens. It is to be hoped that some day some of his remarkable work will adorn his native land.

Bank Clerks Inadequately Paid.

There's a shortage of bank clerks, and a Montreal bank is adopting the expedient of employing women for minor positions. Within the past few years some of the banks have brought out young Scotchmen to fill the gap. But the trouble seems to be the inadequate salaries paid to young men to enter farming, and they are adopting other pursuits offering greater advantages in the way of salary.

After ten years' service in a bank and reaching the responsible position of teller, a young man may be rewarded with a salary of $1,000 a year. Surely this is inadequate. Many of the tellers are required to handle millions of dollars a day for $1,200 a year and even less money. The "honorarium" of a bricklayer or a plumber is even more princely.

Considering the heavy responsibilities of a teller's position he is entitled to a fair share of the dividends of a banking business.—Toronto World.

CANADIANS IN HOLLAND

SOMETHING ABOUT OUR ARBITRATORS AT THE HAGUE.

Both Fitzpatrick and Aylesworth are Old Campaigners in the Matters of International Dispute.—Mr. G. F. Shepley Has Occupied High Place in the Legal Fraternity of the Dominion.

Another Hague Tribunal is in session. As usual there are several Canadians present. The Canadian delegates are not primarily concerned with the abolition of armaments or the substitution of arbitration for European wars. As representatives of a country which depends upon the world's peace for its prosperous development, Sir Charles Fitzpatrick and Mr. Aylesworth and Mr. G. F. Shepley are perhaps as much interested in the peace phase of the Hague program as the delegates from any other nation. But their interest in the peace phase of the Hague program is not the only one. The very fact that they are delegates to the tribunal is a mark of honor. The very fact that they are delegates to the tribunal is a mark of honor. The very fact that they are delegates to the tribunal is a mark of honor.

As an inviting place to spend a holiday The Hague is now as good as any other place in the world. Centuries before the ancient capital of the Netherlands became the clearing-house for Governments and civilization it was one of the most historic places in the world. The very fact that they are delegates to the tribunal is a mark of honor. The very fact that they are delegates to the tribunal is a mark of honor. CURED OF CONSTIPATION

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S., writes: "For many years I have been troubled with chronic Constipation. This ailment never comes single-handed, and I have been a victim to the many illnesses that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the one ailment that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills. That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial. They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I claim they have no equal as a medicine." For over half a century Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and clogged, inactive kidneys, with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c. a box.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 24, 1910

The Royal Commission appointed by the Dominion government to make a tour of investigation into the industrial and commercial needs of the provinces as regards technical education have completed their sessions in Nova Scotia and are now sitting in New Brunswick.

Comprehensive among the points brought out through their investigations in Nova Scotia was the fact that this province leads in the making provision for the technical training of the young. The system is a substitute for the old-fashioned apprenticeship system, and though it may be less efficient in results in some respects, is better suited to present conditions, and will doubtless increase in efficiency as its practical application increases.

Nova Scotia has already technical schools at Halifax, Sydney, Truro and Antigonish that are establishing their practical value and the Commission expressed themselves as well satisfied with results.

The agricultural school at Truro was commended as being in a high state of efficiency. Dr. Robertson, chairman of the Commission, made the statement while in Truro, when commending Truro's industrial establishments that he strongly favored the establishment of factories in the smaller towns rather than the cities. Ventilation, lighting and general sanitary conditions are more likely to be observed and far easier to provide in the smaller towns. He stated further that "the common system at present of centralizing industrial work in large cities where the above conditions are not easily afforded, and cannot be secured in many cases has reached its maximum. In the near future it would be found that small towns would be chosen on this account, especially of the facilities offered by the cheap freight rates existing in the eastern part of Canada."

Another point emphasized was the necessity for making separate provision for technical and commercial training, and also for the training of girls as well as boys, in such industrial lines as seamstress, milliners, cooks, stenographers, etc. The vocation of the girl in this age when so many women are dependent upon their own resources is a matter which will not brook neglect without serious consequences to society.

While at Middleton the MacDonald school mechanical and domestic departments were inspected the commission expressing themselves as gratified by the spirit of interest manifested and the results attained. The gardening department had not reached the proficiency expected of it, and it was suggested that more attention be given this branch.

Mr. Fred W. Johnson, of Bridgetown, speaking at Middleton advocated nature study in the schools to help the farming interests. He stated that he had been obliged to learn things since he became a farmer which he should have been taught at school. He referred to the farmer's greatest handicap as the lack of intelligent farm helpers. Mr. R. J. Messenger also was strongly in favor of nature study in the schools and suggested that the course of study in both common schools and colleges should be made more objective and practical. Capt. Jacob Salter, of Bridgetown, who was a master mariner before taking up his present business of manufacturer, stated that the present marine schools were not as efficient as they might be, and do not give as much time as they should to teaching navigation and seamanship.

It is hoped that the industrial life of the Eastern provinces will receive an impetus from the anticipated results of the visits of the commission that will put them on a footing enabling them to better meet the rivalry of the west. If the visit of the Commission has no other result it has been effective in showing us the fine opportunities and splendid industrial advantages we possess, as well as our needs, and should go far to encourage individual effort which is the life of every community.

CANADA THE LEADER.

Commenting on the call of English ecclesiastics for aid in christianizing Canada the Victoria Colonist makes the following hopeful observations:—

"What Canada needs is leaders, great men who can guide the rank and file, morally and physically, and these men are among us today, waiting the stress of events to bring them to the fore; blood and bone and sinew they are Canadians; their noblest traditions are Canadian; and they will teach us to keep the faith of our fathers unswayed by pollution from those who have forgotten the very tenets of that faith. The prayers of those who pray for us in the mother country are sincere; the desire to help us spiritually is in all respects laudable, but we believe that Canada need not look farther than her own confines for inspiration to salvation. The day may not be far distant, nay, it may be within our own confines if we will have it so, when there shall be no cry of christianizing Canada, but when Canada shall, by the force of a mighty example, begin to christianize the rest of the world."

LOCAL AND SPECIAL.

The Maritime Press Association is in session at Truro this week.

Prepare for frost the last of this week. The United States weather bureau predicts a cold wave on the way.

The aged shoemaker, Mr. Joseph Bramif, has been very ill the past week. If able to be moved he will go to Digby county today, which was his former home.

About a dozen members of the Bridgetown Tennis and Quoit Club go to Wolfville today where a match game of tennis will be played with the Wolfville club.

The Bridgetown Band whose practices have been suspended for a time have resumed practice and gave an open air concert at the head of Queen Street on Saturday night.

The prize list is issued for the Nova Scotia Horticultural Exhibition, October 11th, 12th and 13th, at Windsor. $2000 is offered in prizes. Send to J. D. Currie, Secty., for a copy of prize list and begin to prepare your exhibits.

School opens on Monday, Aug. 29, in all departments, excepting Grades three and four and Grades five and six. The teachers in these last mentioned Grades will be in attendance at the Teachers' Institute and will not begin work until Tuesday, Sept. 6th, Monday of that week being a public holiday.

Mrs. Joseph Bars, formerly of Melvern Square, a daughter of the Rev. Nathaniel Vidito, and sister of Mr. Alfred Vidito and Miss Helen Vidito, of Bridgetown, passed away at her son's home, Barre, Vermont, yesterday. The remains are to be brought to Paradise Friday to be interred in the family burial lot.

An excursion of about 600 folk from Halifax to Annapolis took place on Friday last. The excursion train when it passed through Bridgetown had about three hundred dusky passengers. A game of baseball was played at Annapolis between the Eureka and a Bridgetown team, which was won by the Eureka.

The Methodist Sunday-School held their annual picnic at Hampton yesterday. The weather in the early morning looked rather unpropitious but before noon the sun shone out as cheerfully as could be desired. No more beautiful picnic grounds could be found than at Hampton and an outing there if the weather is favorable is always a success as it was on this occasion.

Kentville Chronicle.—The many friends of Mr. Angus McLeod and his family will much regret their removal to Shelburne at an early date. Mr. McLeod has earned for himself by years of faithful and arduous work a reputation in his profession, of teacher. He is well and favorably known throughout Nova Scotia. He is now entering upon his third year in the town of his adoption.

The regular passenger train of the Halifax and Southwestern from Middleton to Port Wade on Monday afternoon ran off the track about two miles below Bridgetown. The tender of the engine was completely overturned and it was necessary to send to Bridgewater for a wrecking train. An engine from Port Wade came up and took the passenger cars to their western destination but the return trip was not made until next morning when the track was cleared.

Capt. Edwin Hall, of Brockton, Mass., was in town this week. He has been spending a fortnight at his old home, Port Lorne, and returns today to Brockton, where he holds a lucrative position. Capt. Hall followed the sea until about four years ago and was in Jamaica at the time of the earthquake. He soon after went to Brockton, where he decided to take up engineering and this is his first visit to his old home which he finds so attractive that he intends to come every year. Mrs. Hall and son and daughter will make a visit after his return. Mr. Hall finds the Monitor a strong link in binding him to old associations.

The basement of Providence Methodist church which has been thoroughly repaired and renovated, and which has been closed for a few weeks, was opened for the Sunday School on Sunday last. On Friday evening of this week the Epworth League will entertain the congregation of the church at a formal re-opening of the recently repaired basement. A program will be rendered and refreshments will be served. In connection with the exercises a detailed account of the repairs and expenses will be presented, and an offering received towards the expense account. It is hoped that sufficient will be raised to entirely meet all bills incurred in the improvements.

Misses Ada and Effie Bauckman visited friends at Berwick and Middleton the past week.

The Misses Maud and Florence Roberts, of St. John, were guests of Miss Nora Anderson during the past week.

Miss Lillian Mardez, of Boston, and Mrs. Fone Warner, of Digby, spent Sunday, the guests of Miss Effie Bauckman.

Messrs. G. H. Dixon and J. I. Foster went to Ottawa last week to shoot in the contest for a place on the Bisley team.

Mr. Allen Beanson, of Clarence and Miss Josie Messenger, of Bridgetown, spent Sunday with Miss Effie Titus, of Hampton.

Miss Hattie Wade, of Bear River, visited friends in town last week and was present at the funeral of her grandmother, Mrs. John W. Piggett.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. McDaniel and children and Miss Katharine Piper returned from a fortnight's outing at Port Lorne on Saturday last.

Mrs. Ira K. Jackson and family, who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. James N. Jackson, returned to their home at Annapolis Royal on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Avarid Beeler and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Tupper made a trip to Caledonia by auto last week and were the guests of Rev. and Mrs. I. D. Lytle.

Miss Laura Ray, of Upper Grandville, has been the guest for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Marshall, of Clarence West and enjoyed the Farmers' Picnic at Lawrence town.

Miss Collins and Miss A. Gates, of Digby, have been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Marshall, of Clarence, and were charmed with their beautiful farm with spacious fields of grain and orchards.

Mrs. A. J. Weir leaves the coming week to join her husband at Lindsay, Ont., where they will take up their abode for the present. Mr. and Mrs. Weir have been good citizens of Bridgetown and best wishes for their future welfare will accompany them.

Mr. and Mrs. Barlow, of Charlottetown, are the guests of Mrs. and Miss Cameron. Mrs. Barlow is receiving a welcome from many old friends who remember her as Miss Beth Whidden, daughter of a former pastor of Gordon Memorial church.

Miss May Banks and Mr. Stillman Wentzell, of Brion, spent the week end at the home of Mrs. J. N. Jackson, of Clarence West. Miss Almada Jackson, of Melvern Square and Mrs. James Copeland and son, Albert, of Perotte, have been guests also at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ruggles and Mr. T. D. Ruggles visited Annapolis last week, where they met a cousin, Colonel Ruggles and wife, of New York, who have been spending a few weeks in the province. Mr. Thomas Quirk, who is a friend of Col. Ruggles, accompanied them.

Rev. F. P. Grestorux, of Granville Ferry, is assisting in attending to the parish duties of Rev. Mr. Wallis, of Lunenburg, while the latter and Mrs. Wallis are absent on a trip to Europe. Mr. Wallis will take a chaplaincy at Rouen, France, while sojourning there for the benefit of Mrs. Wallis' health.

Rev. Denton J. Nelly, of Gloucester, Mass., who has been visiting his parents and other members of his family, was hastily summoned home by telegram yesterday to attend the funeral of a member of his congregation. Mr. Nelly will return to St. John next Sunday, where he is to preach in Germain Street church, but regrets that he will not be able to return to Bridgetown again this season.

Midsummer Wedding

BALCOMB-GILMOUR One of the prettiest of summer weddings took place Wednesday evening, August 17th, at the home of Mrs. Fannie F. Gilmour, Lynn, Mass when her daughter, Miss Gerrie E. Gilmour, became the bride of Owen L. Balcomb, a well-known Lynn mechanic, formerly of Paradise, Nova Scotia. The ceremony was performed in the cozy parlor of the home at eight o'clock, by Rev. Lewis Malvern D. D., pastor of the High Street Baptist church, in the presence of the families and a few intimate friends, the double ring service being used. The happy couple stood beneath a canopy of white festoons, with a background of tropical plants and potted blossoms. Attending them were Miss Bessie Clifford and H. Vaughn Balcomb, brother of the groom, both of Lynn. Mrs. Charles F. Curry played the wedding march, the Loehring wedding march being rendered as a professional and Mandelsohn's as a recessional. A reception to over one hundred friends followed the ceremony. In the receiving line were the attending couple, the bride's mother, Mrs. Fannie F. Gilmour, and the groom's parents. Mr. and Mrs. George I. Balcomb, formerly of Paradise, now residing in Lynn. The bride was attired in a becoming gown of white messaline trimmed with Irish lace and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. The bridesmaid wore pink silk and held a cluster of pink roses. The entire house was decorated throughout with festoons of asparagus ferns and asters. In the dining room, beautifully decorated in yellow and white, a lunch was served during the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Balcomb were the recipients of many beautiful wedding remembrances. The bride's present to her bridesmaid was a gold signet ring, while the groom remembered the best man with a gold watch fob. Shortly after ten o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Balcomb left amid a shower of confetti and best wishes for an extended trip through the province. They are now the guests of Mr. Norman Longley, of West Paradise and will spend a couple of months in the province before returning to Lynn.

THE GREAT PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION AT HALIFAX.

It will be held from September 28th to October 6th, and will be more attractive than ever.

The Nova Scotia exhibition at Halifax this year will be just as attractive as any of the big provincial fairs of the past. It will run from September 28th to October 6th. It will be the fourteenth annual provincial exhibition, and the experience that has been gained will be used to make it the greatest and best yet.

The exhibition will have all the good features of past displays and it will have new attractions. The premium list shows an aggregate fund for the prize list amounting to $20,000. For the horse races, which will take place daily on the half mile track, there are prizes totalling $6,200. The fisheries, agriculture, fruit, mines, manufactures, machinery, the women's work and fine arts departments will have exhibits that will well repay careful study and examination. A gentleman writing to Halifax from Paris says that several splendid paintings from the salons of the French capital will be sent to the exhibition to add to the collection which will be shown from Halifax and other Canadian artists.

The rates of travel to Halifax will be as low as usual, so that the people of Nova Scotia may go in great crowds to the capital, and while enjoying a splendid exhibition, also have a holiday pleasant in other ways and a fine period of recreation generally.

Manager Hall will be glad to answer any inquiries addressed to him at the Exhibition office in Halifax.

LOST IN THE WILDS

Lucky Ones Return or Are Found—Others Perish in Forest Depths.

Of wilderness' terrors there are not a few, but the worst of all is being lost. It is a sensation which makes the heart ache, which clouds the brain with sickening horror and which weakens the strongest of men. The agony does not abate as the hours draw out, but increases. Daylight is a mockery, and night adds to the pangs of hopelessness. Yet being lost is one of the commonest of experiences, even in such 'make believe' wilds as the Adirondacks. The truth is, there are probably more people lost in the Adirondacks every year than in any other popular playground in the world. When one is thoroughly lost in the Adirondacks death actualizes itself in the face. There is no way of knowing how many lost people have perished in the Adirondacks, even in recent years.

A party of hunters goes back into the woods. One of their number fails to show up at night. They shoot their guns and shout at intervals for a few hours, then, laughing somewhat nervously, turn in. In the morning they search for the missing man. He is not found. They search the next day, and go out to the settlements to see if he has turned up there. Perhaps half a dozen woodsmen go into the forest deeps to look for him. He is not found. Perhaps some weekly newspaper tells about the 'stranger' who is lost up near Piseco, and only his family and near friends at home, in Syracuse, or Binghamton, or Buffalo, or Pennsylvania, ever knew that he did not come home.

Last fall a newspaper man from Little Falls, on his first trip in the woods, was unable to find his way back to camp, which was on a little brook. He knew, however, that a due south course would bring him to safety. That first night out he built a fire beside a little lake. Near midnight he heard some one coming through the dark autumn forest, 'crying in the wilderness.' The stranger came closer and closer. The newspaper man answered the cry. Whoever it was passed along the other side of the lake, not two hundred yards distant, leaping through the woods at full speed, shouting for help, but insensible to the cries of the other lost man. The reporter made his way safely to the highway near Morehouseville. The identity of the other man none ever knew. It was said, however, that a hunter from Dolgeville, forty miles distant, was missing, and had been missing for weeks.

MANY HUNTS EACH YEAR.

There are unnumbered, unrecorded hunts for the lost every year in the Adirondacks, but there are a few hunts so dramatic and so interesting that they are long remembered in the localities where they are made. Thus, last August Miss Lillian Titus, Zaydel Beardsley and Sands Titus, fifteen year old, a brother of Miss Titus, all of Auburn, left a camp on Fourth Lake of the Fulton Chain to take a walk. This is in as tame a part of the Adirondacks as one could imagine. Trails and roads lead in all directions and intersect on all sides. Still, the wilderness lingers under the trees, and it is not always easy for the woodsman himself to keep a straight course when he comes to an unfamiliar swamp or to knolly land.

The three became confused. As night approached they became scared in the darkness. Beardsley separated from his two companions to find the trail he thought must be near by. At midnight he was discovered by one searching party, and the other two were found a mile or more away by another party. At no time were the three more than four miles from their camp.

This is the commonest of 'being lost' experiences, for the summer visitors wander away from the roads, and the minute they are out of sight of hotel flags and macadam roads, if they are not familiar with the rudiments of woodcraft, they are in danger of being lost. Woodsmen, moreover, often lose their way, but, having endurance and experience, they keep going and are likely to come across some familiar scene and then work back to camp.

Thus a deer hunter on a misty rainy day in the Moose River country started for camp one mid-afternoon. He thought he knew exactly where he was; but just at dusk, as he turned down into the valley where his camp was supposed to be, he came out at a spot on a river which he knew was seven miles from camp. He turned back, took a course by compass and the lay of the land, and headed for camp. Two hours later he saw the camp fire through the woods. It was pitch dark, but he had held true over two ridges hundreds of feet high, through a dark swamp, across a deep pool in a brook, through an alder bed and over a patch of wooded knolls—this without being able to see his compass for his matches were wet.

The most remarkable search for a lost man in the Adirondacks in recent years was that one for William Edwards, bookkeeper in 'Sol' Carnahan's lumber camp, a few miles south of Raquette Lake. On August 12th, 1907, Edwards, having been to town, left the train at Raquette Lake. It was afternoon, and there was a road part of the way, and a path the rest of the way to the camp. He followed the road to the dam on Summer Creek, the outlet of Timothy Woodruff's private preserve lake, and in the twilight, missed the path. He may have gone up some chopping path, or at some windfall. When night came on he was stumbling through the woods with no trail under foot, and the forest gloom closed in upon him in dark shades.

YELLED AND SEARCHED VAINLY.

On the following day Carnahan heard that Edwards had started for camp, and, being an old woodsman, knew that one of two things had happened. Edward, who was about sixty years of age, had dropped dead or he was lost. Carnahan told of several of his crew to make a search, and these men, some of whom could track a deer, followed Edwards' footprints along the road, into the trail, over the dam, and finally out of the trail a half mile or so from the dam. They yelled and screamed around vainly, but that night Carnahan knew that Edwards was wandering in the woods.

The next day the whole crew, more than sixty in number, were turned out to hunt for the missing man. They formed in a long line and raked through the woods. They whopped and yelled, and some fired revolvers. Between sounds all hands would stop to listen, climbed up long steep ridges, and then, loggerlike, roared and raced down the far side. They were heard miles distant.

For a week this gang of loggers hunted the valleys and mountains. Carnahan sent out and got bloodhounds, and probably for the first time these dogs were put on a man's track in the mountains. But storms had come, and there was no scent for the dogs to follow. There was no way of knowing what had become of Edwards. Everything which the woodsmen could think of was done, but vainly, and finally the search was given up. It did not seem possible that the man could have survived, and it was decided that he had wandered away and died in some hole.

On August 21st, nine days from the time when Edwards started for the camp, and when it was supposed he had been dead several days, two of the loggers were paddling down Moose River, five miles from Carnahan's camp, when they heard a weak voice in the ferns and grass of the river-side.

"Gentlemen," the voice said, "I am lost."

They sprang ashore, and there, flat on his back, too weak to lift his hands, was Edwards. They carried him to the camp, took him to Titus, and he was brought around. He said that he had been without food for eight days, when he found some berries. He had kept travelling as long as he could stand up, and then crept on his hands and knees. Finally he lay down to die, without even knowing that he was within twenty feet of a river forty yards wide. He must have travelled at least forty miles, and that would have taken him across highways in any direction, had he gone straightway. He seems to have known of the simple expedient of travelling by the sun or following a brook down, or ever keeping three trees in a line. This last means is that used by woodmen hunters. Two trees ahead which are in line are selected; a third tree beyond is chosen as the nearer of the two is passed, and so on, repeating as long as one wishes to keep a straight course. There is no place in the Adirondacks in which four days' walking straightway will take one to a public highway, railway or clearings.

Perhaps the greatest time during which a man was ever lost in the Adirondacks is six weeks. Guidas Bourgeois four or five years ago was hired by the Adirondack Fish and Gun Club, in the heart of the woods, to be club warden and preserve watch man. One day in early July he had a day off and went fishing. That was the last of him for weeks. Members of the club and guides searched for him, and no trace of him was found. One day, six weeks later, he was discovered accidentally fifteen miles from the club house. At sight of the men he fainted. He was in a little cave, from which he had sailed forth to eat berries and roots, barely managing to live.

CHANCE SAVED HIS LIFE.

Three years ago E. J. Smith, of Lowell, N. Y., was following a trail in the Beaver River country. He saw a man lying a few yards from the trail in some bushes. Thinking the man intoxicated he was going to pass on but, deciding to make sure, he went to look. The man was unconscious. He had become bewildered and travelled till he was exhausted. He was revived, and proved to be Charles Castlin, of Boston. He had been lost more days than he could tell. He was taken back to his camp, some miles distant. Had he dropped fifty yards further from the trail he might never have been found.

In last September a man named Nelson LaDuke, of Rochester, sprang from a train near Tupper Lake Junction and raced away through the woods. He was crazed with drink, but it was an opportunity the railway detectives had been waiting for some weeks. The New York Central has established a bloodhound kennel at Utica, N. Y., for the primary purpose of following up car thieves, but with other purposes of helping trail down criminals in general and finding people who are lost in the big Adirondack woods. Here was a lost man, and to the scene were rushed Detectives Randall, Landers and Humphreys, with a great, 12-monthly bloodhound pup. The trail of the man was taken up, and in forty minutes he was found deep in the timber slash, where he had fallen. Henceforth when any one is along the west side of the Adirondacks the bloodhounds will be called for.

One of the lost man tragedies happened in the Jones Lake country of Kerkira County. Two woodsmen had a camp on the outlet, from which led lines of traps. One day one of them found the skull of a man a few rods from the brook. A pair of rubber boots, with bones in the legs, but with the soles of the feet worn off, were nearby. That was all. The man was never traced or identified, and for years his skull served as a soap dish in the trappers' camp.

One thing would save a man from being permanently lost, and that is a compass. If one is on the east side of the mountains a due east course will take him out; a south course on the south side will bring one to a clearing, etc. But people, when lost, distrust compasses, forget their woodcraft and do not even recognize their own camp when they pass it on the run.

ILL-HEALTH FROM ALCOHOL.

Sir Andrew Clark, the great London physician says:—

"I am speaking solemnly and carefully in the presence of truth, and I tell you that I am considerably with in the mark when I say to you that, going the round of my hospital wards to-day, seven out of every ten owed their ill health to alcohol."

The late Edward Everett Hale:—

"If any body will take charge of all Boston's poverty and crime which results from drunkenness, the South Congregational Church, of which I have the honor to be the minister, will alone take charge of all the rest of the poverty which needs relief in the City of Boston."

Abraham Lincoln:—

"The liquor traffic is a cancer in society, eating out the vitals and threatening destruction, and all attempts to regulate it will not only prove abortive, but will aggravate the evil. There must be no more attempts to regulate the cancer. It must be eradicated, not a root must be left behind; for, until this is done all classes must continue in danger of becoming victims of strong drink."

Compare Your Troubles With This Woman's

In a little town of Clifton Hill, Australia,—you see this is a far away story, but none the less I assure you a true one—lives a woman who has a history of suffering, such, that if it were chronicled in the pages of fiction rather than in the book of life we should call it "impossible."

Forty years ago this woman had erysipelas in her right arm and was obliged to have it amputated to the socket.

A few years later the disease attacked her again, and her left leg was cut off.

No sooner had she lost her right arm than she had learned to write with her left hand, but before long that hand also was attacked and had to be taken off at the elbow. She learned to use the stump, and then mortification set in and that arm was also amputated to the socket.

She has now one leg and no arms.

Six years ago she lost her voice. You say, "Such a creature's life cannot, possibly be of any use to her or anyone else. It would be better for her to die."

Please suspend your judgement a little.

"That creature,"—even since the last of her misfortunes—the loss of her voice—bellef her, has written a book, "Cloud and Sunshine." This book has run through three editions in her country.

And not only that, but she has helped to support herself by acting as secretary for a busy doctor.

How? Oh, by an ingenious arrangement of a pen fixed in the right arm socket and controlled by part of a compass, which lends it the curves needed for the formation of written letters.

But "how" is not the point. That's comparatively unimportant. THAT SHE HAS DONE IT IS WHAT COUNTS.

That's why I have been telling you this story.

Despite the gruesomeness of its details, I think it ought to be printed in every newspaper and periodical in the land.

After reading it do you feel that you have any right ever to plead any handicap of disposition or physique or circumstance that you may chance to labor under, as an excuse for failure.

After reading it do you feel that you have any right ever to say "I can't?"

IN THE UNITED STATES SENATE TODAY THERE IS A MAN WHO HAS BEEN BLIND SINCE HE WAS ELEVEN YEARS OLD.

Nor is he merely one of the rank and file of senators. He is a leader. The other day I read his name in a list of men as big enough to fill the presidential chair.

Nor did he have the help of riches to put him where he is. He was a very poor boy.

I think every school boy and girl in the land ought to be taught about Senator Gore, even if some historical fact has to be crowded out to make room for this living one.

In the light of lives like this, how do we—we, the vast majority, who have our eyes and our health and the full use of all our powers—HOW DO WE DARE TO BLAME ANYONE OR ANYTHING BUT OURSELVES FOR FAILURE?

I wonder.

TOO MUCH FOR HIM.

Mrs. Simper found herself for the first time without a cook. She had paid very good wages, and suffered patiently from the carelessness and caprice of a succession of unsatisfactory kitchen helpers.

After preparing several meals with her own fair hands and gaining confidence in the art, she approached her husband with a brilliant proposition. "What do you say, dear," she began, "if we do without a cook, and I keep the money for my very self? Suppose I cook for one month, what shall I get?"

"Well," said the husband, "by the end of one month you will get one of those long crepe veils for widows."—Scraps.

AN INNOCENT ABROAD.

Having come into some money, a Cockney went for a holiday to Paris. He knew nothing of the language, but trusted wholly to his native wit carrying him through. His first dinner, however, proved full of trials. He was desperately hungry, but could not understand the menu. First the waiter brought him soup, and then the visitor pointed to the next item, and the waiter brought him more soup. After three courses of soup he was pining for something more solid; so he pointed to the last item of all, feeling pretty sure that he had missed the soup this time.

The obliging waiter went off, and presently returned—with a bundle of toothpicks.—London Daily News.

A QUICK TRIP.

The young son of a prominent railway man was playing with the drawing room chairs one afternoon when his father entered, accompanied by a gentleman whom the child had never particularly fancied.

As the visitor took a chair, the boy remonstrated: "I beg your pardon sir, but this is a train of cars."

"Very well, my son," was the answer; "I'll be a passenger."

But the youngster didn't want the grown-up for a passenger, so he said: "Where do you wish to get off?"

"Cincinnati."

"All right," said the boy. "This is Cincinnati."—Lippincott's.

The owner of the dog was notified and will probably be shot by the police—Hoylake (Miss.) Transcript.

ENTICING.

"How is it that your hens are so prolific?"

"I feed them on layer cake."—Lippincott's.

One large teaspoonful of turpentine boiled with your white clothes will greatly aid the whitening process. Then a tablespoonful of borax put in the last water in which white clothes are rinsed will whiten them surprisingly. Pound the borax so it will dissolve easily. This is especially good to remove the yellow that time gives to white garments that have been laid aside for two or three years.

Pain in Heart

"For two years I had pain in my heart, back and left side. Could not draw a deep breath or lie on left side, and any little exertion would cause palpitation. For many years Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has been very successful in the treatment of heart troubles, because of its tonic effect upon the heart nerves and muscles. BE CAREFUL.

The use of the word "one" as a pronoun may be carried to such an extreme limit as to be absurd, and I have always felt the same way as a writer who gives the following as an illustration of how it takes a word fighter to get away with it. "Unless one feels that one has one's spurs in this respect and can extricate oneself from the mess one gets oneself and one's readers into one should avoid the use of the word one in referring to oneself as one would a plague."

ZAM-BUK
SAVED THIS BABY

Mrs. M. Barrett, New Haven, Conn., writes: "A horrid rash came out all over my baby's face and spread until it had totally covered his scalp. It was irritating and painful, and caused the little one hours of suffering. We tried soaps and powders and salves, but he got no better. He refused his food, got quite thin and weak, and was reduced to a very serious condition. I was advised to try Zam-Buk, and did so. It was wonderful how it seemed to cool and ease the child's burning, painful skin. Zam-Buk from the very commencement seemed to go right to the spot, and the pimples and sores and the irritation grew less and less. Within a few weeks my baby's skin was healed completely. He has now not a trace of rash, or eruption, or eczema, or burning sores. Not only so, but cured of the tormenting skin trouble, he has improved in general health."

Zam-Buk is sold at all stores and medicine vendors, 50c a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for 75c. (Money for 50c.) A circular card for all skin diseases, cuts, burns, etc., and for pills.

Auto Runs Into Bear; Carried on Hood of Car

Touring Party on Maine Highway Have Exciting Time—Bear and All Badly Scared.

Bangor, Me., Aug. 17.—A motor car driven by Edward L. Hopkins of New York, collided with a black bear in the highway in the town of Lagrange on Tuesday morning, causing slight damage to the car, but giving both the touring party and the bear a bad fright.

The party composed of Mr. Hopkins and his wife and their guests, John P. Fassett, of New York, and Miss Marion Gordon, of Philadelphia, were returning from a tour of northern Maine, and at nine o'clock Tuesday morning were running through Lagrange at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, when the bear rose up on its haunches directly in the middle of the road. Mr. Hopkins, who was driving, had his choice of ditching the car or striking the bear and decided to take a chance with the bear, expecting to toss the animal to one side.

Instead of being brushed aside, however, the bear fell sprawling upon the hood of the car, and in that position was carried some distance, growling and clawing, while the women of the party shrieked in terror. Finally they struck a bad place in the road and bounced the bear off. The animal fell under one wheel, thus ditching the car.

The occupants of the car were not hurt, and soon had the machine righted. The bear was somewhat dazed, but quickly made off into the woods.

The serious feature about lying is that it becomes habit. There are men and women who seem unable to tell the truth. They cause more trouble and pain in the world than drunkards and braggarts. They are the assassins of character, the thieves of good names, and deserve the whipping post and the stocks. The worst thing about the vice is that it increases with practice. Inimitable old Falstaff remarked: "Lord, how subject we old men are to the vice of lying." It is base in childhood, but is unpeppable in old age. It is bad enough under any circumstances, but "is worse in kings than in beggars." The greater the experience, the loftier the position, the more sternly should men be on their guard to avoid falsehood, with its "rotten outside" but "rotten heart."

SERVING.

The sweetest lives are those to duty wed.

Whose deeds both great and small are close-knit strands of an unbroken thread.

Where love enables all, the world may sound no trumpets, ring no bells;

The Book of Life the shining record tells.

They love shall chant its own bestitudes.

After its own life working, a child's kiss

Set on thy singing lips shall make thee glad.

A poor man served by thee shall make thee rich;

A sick man helped by thee shall make thee free;

Thou shalt be served thyself by every sense

Of service which thou renderest.

—Elizabeth Barrett Browning

WHERE?

(From the Kingston Standard) We used to buy what is known as "round steak" for ten cents a pound now it is sold for eighteen cents. The producer says he does not get the extra eight cents; the wholesaler says he does not get it; the butcher says he does not get it. Will some one be kind enough to let us know who does get it? It's been lost somewhere in the shuffle.

When packing a hat for travelling stuff the crown with tissue paper and place the hat in a box, securing the brim to the bottom by stitching with strong thread. The hat will remain perfectly fresh even after the longest journey and the usual banging about.

A GREAT MISTAKE.

What a mistake it is for parents to frighten children with the bogey man. One little fellow, who was told that the police were going to cut his ears off for not obeying, now screams with terror at the sight of every blue-coated officer; and another, I am told, dreads the approach of darkness every night because his mother has threatened that the rag man will come in the night and carry him off. Parents should pause and think of the unhappiness and dreadful tears they may cause by frightening their little ones. Far better is it that they be brought up to be brave and have no such fears.

CARING FOR UNRULY COWS.

When a cow has been raised on the farm and turns out unruly the owner, generally speaking, has but himself to blame, but as many farmers purchase cows that are troublesome in one way or another a hint or two by an expert dairymen regarding such animals may prove of interest.

Some cows are confirmed ramblers and cannot be turned by any ordinary fence. In a case of this kind the vice is due to the animal not having been properly restricted in her wanderings while she was growing to maturity, and there seems to be no cure for the vice. A preventive measure is to equip the animal with a collar and swinging pole, but the best plan is to sell her at the first convenient opportunity.

A cow that kicks while being milked is not beloved of the milker, and such a practice is a sign that more time and patience should have been expended upon her when she first came down to milk. It depends somewhat upon the individuality of the cow and how long she has thus misbehaved herself whether her manners can be improved or not. Try being gentle with her and coax rather than force her to stand still, and frequently in the course of time trying the legs may be dispensed with.

Many cows that do not kick have the undesirable habit of being continually upon the move while being milked, which is, of course, very annoying to the milker. This awkward habit is always due to nervousness and is nearly always the result of having been ill treated at one time or another. Petting the animal somewhat and milking quietly and calmly will frequently effect a cure, but it may take some time before the habit can be entirely dropped.

Some cows will kick promptly at any one approaching them in the stall. This vice may occasionally be cured by a change of stall that permits of the animal being approached from the contrary side. If such a move does not cure, try persistent kindness for a month or so, and if this does not bring forth improvement see if sterner measures have any effect. If none of these things answer, the best must be made of a bad bargain, and it would be well to get rid of the animal when the opportunity offers.

A very awkward habit some cows acquire is that of tossing the head just as food is being placed in the manger, and unless the attendant is very wary one of the horns, if the cow has horns, may easily catch him upon the face. Some cows that will thus treat strangers will not continue the practice when properly used by the attendant, and others will treat everybody alike. One way of aiding in effecting a cure is for the attendant to fill his mouth with water before going up to the animal's head and if she misbehaves herself to squirt out the water upon her head.

A by no means dangerous habit, but one that is very annoying to the woman when work is being done at high pressure, is that of not standing properly when it is desired to go up alongside the animal. The legs of the animal should never be hit with a stick or with a fork or other tool that may be in hand, as this is liable to start the animal kicking. Indeed, hitting the legs with a fork or other tool is the usual cause of cows' kicking.

Dehorning the Calves.

One of the most humane ways for removing horns on calves is by means of caustic potash. Get one or more sticks of caustic potash and preserve it in a tightly corked bottle. One stick will serve to dehorn a number of calves. Apply this potash as soon as the buttonlike horns can be felt on the calf, which is usually when it is three or four days old. To apply the potash remove the hair about the horns close to the skin, moisten the potash slightly and rub over the skin which covers the point of the horns until the skin is white. It is not necessary to rub the skin until blood comes, as is often advised, as it causes unnecessary soreness. Wrap the caustic in heavy paper to protect the hands of the operator. Do not moisten the caustic too much so that the liquid will run down the sides of the calf's head, for this will cause unnecessary pain. Fasten the head securely and apply the potash only on the spot over the horns.

When the Hogs Gnaw Pens.

When the hogs get to gnawing the woodwork of their pens you may be sure they need something different to gnaw from what you are feeding them. Look into it and see that you are giving them variety enough.

BRINGING EWES AROUND.

First Year Very Troublesome in Life of Animal.

Having been an extensive grower of wool and mutton for twenty years, says a well known shepherd, I will give some experience and observations I have had in developing the ewe lambs, by which I trust some one will be benefited.

Every year while buying a few nappies for feeding purposes I have an opportunity to observe what a great many flock owners are doing with their ewe lambs, and I am sorry to say that this part of the flock is sorely neglected in altogether too many instances.

The first year is the critical period in the life of the ewe lambs, and if they are improperly reared and cared for but little improvement can be effected in the flock. The impression is carried by many farmers that it is not important to force the ewe lambs during the first year, as they have two seasons to come to maturity. I consider this a very wrong impression of the situation, for the ewe lambs along the first year, as they have two seasons to come to maturity. I consider this a very wrong impression of the situation, for the ewe lambs along the first year, as they have two seasons to come to maturity.

Experience has taught me that much cheaper gains can be made and much more rapidly in the first year of the lamb's growth than during any period thereafter. Ewe lambs that are allowed to stop growing the first year never regain normal condition and, despite good breeding, they fail to transmit to their offspring the desirable qualities found in their parents.

I have observed ewe lambs in my own flocks that, because of insufficient nourishment during the suckling period, failed to make the growth they should have made. Because of the good breeding behind these lambs I retained some of them to replenish my flock. I have found that, with one or two exceptions out of a large number of instances, I have never secured a lamb from these that was worth retaining for breeding purposes.

I am very confident that the first year of life determines to a large extent the future usefulness of the ewe lamb. A ewe that has been full grown will withstand neglect and hardship and bring forth well developed offspring. But if she has been poorly cared for during her early life the reverse is invariably the result.

A female of any kind must have a strong, healthy system, with vigorous constitution to withstand the natural functions of reproduction. These characteristics come into natural life during early development and not as the animal ages.

Therefore if one wants his ewe lambs to grow into strong, healthy and vigorous breeding stock he must begin feeding them as soon as he can get them to partake of food other than that furnished by the dam. This feed should contain the elements that will produce bone and muscle and be given in troughs clean and pure.

Cholera Preventive.

Careful and persistent attention to general preventive measures, such as quarantine, disinfection, proper feeding, etc., on the part of farmers generally would no doubt result in a material reduction in the yearly losses from hog cholera, and the importance of observing these precautions cannot be overestimated.

THE DAIRYMAN

Dried Beet Pulp as Feed. Dried beet pulp is coming to be a great dairy feed. It's only a short time since it was considered a waste product.

Give Cow a Vacation. A cow should have at least six weeks' vacation between milking periods. If she is milked continually she will not last long.

Cleaning the Udder Well. The cow's udder should be well washed and dried with a coarse cloth before milking, and the milker's hands should be washed after every cow.

Making Butter. Butter to be graded as extra must have a quick, fine and fresh flavor. Its body must be good and uniform. The color must be good for the season when made, properly salted, neither gritty nor fat.

Skim Milk and Cream. Some men that own separators and have good herds of cows report much profit in selling cream to one class of customers and skim milk to another set. Sometimes the same customers want both the cream and skim milk. On account of the separation they pay more for each.

Hymen's Flame Burns Brightly

Parker, Vivian Bowles, Bessie Crowe Mary E. Kinsman, Adela McBride and Annie Gould. The path leading to the bridal arch was carpeted. The parents and near relatives of the contracting parties occupied respective sides. The groom was supported by Mr. Boyd Crowe, of Halifax, cousin of the bride, while Mr. George L. Cox, of Cambridge, a nephew of the bride, was second groomsmen.

The bride appeared leaning on the arm of her father by whom she was given in marriage. She wore an elegant gown of white silk chiffon, trimmed with rose point and wore the customary veil and blossoms.

Her lovely appearance was remarked upon by all present. She carried an exquisite bouquet of pink and white sweet peas. Little Miss Lorna Strong of Portland, Me., niece of the bride, performed the duties of ring bearer, while little Miss Dorothy Ford, of Boston, was flower girl. Both of these little maidens wore dainty gowns and looked very sweet as they so gracefully performed their duties.

Many handsome bouquets of white flowers were given to the bride by the girl friends of the bride. The ushers were Rufus S. Newcombe and Harry N. Clarke. Promptly at two o'clock the sweet strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Lila Strong, cousin of the bride, six girl friends, Julia Sweet, Harriet Newcombe, Alice Whitney, Fannie Parker, Lila Rockwell and Apha Wood, daintily dressed in white, formed an aisle with white ribbons, through which the bridal party passed to their respective places under a beautiful floral bell. The groom was supported by Mr. Henry Bentley, of Blitown, Miss Gladys Strong attended as bridesmaid, wearing alvery pretty gown of Alice blue voile and carrying pink carnations. Little Frances Whitman, dressed in white, scattered flowers in front of the bride as she entered leaning on the arm of her mother, who wore a handsome black silk gown and carried pink and white carnations. It was generally agreed that she made a very lovely bride, her wedding gown of soft white silk with trimmings of fillet lace and insertion, was perfectly suited to her natural charm and grace. The folds of her tulle wedding veil were held in place by snowy orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white carnations.

Rev. A. H. Whitman performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. H. D. McKinnon, Waterville, and Rev. A. J. Vincent, Halifax, during which Miss Strong played softly and with exquisite touch Mendelssohn's "Flower Song" continuing with the Lohengrin wedding march, while congratulations were being extended.

After light refreshments were served, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, accompanied by Miss Gladys Strong and Mr. Bentley, left in a galley decked automobile for Bridgetown, en route for Boston, where they will spend their honeymoon.

The bride's travelling suit was a taupe diagonal striped serge with hat to match.

That the bride and groom were very popular was shown by the number of beautiful and costly gifts, consisting of silverware, cut glass, china and several substantial cheques.

The groom's gift to the bride was a purse of gold, to the bridesmaid and pianist gold initialed brooches to the flower girl, gold locket and to the best man pearl tie pin.

It was a very large wedding and many of the guests came from a distance.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke were guests for a few days at the home of Mrs. J. W. Brown, the aunt of the groom, and are now spending a few weeks in Boston.—E.D.

Fruit stains can be removed from the hands by first washing in lukewarm water and then holding over a burning match. Tomatoes are good for removing ink stains.

Clementsport

The Methodist and Baptist Sunday school held their annual picnic on the grounds of the Lettney place, near the old Episcopal church on Wednesday last. It was well attended and all seemed to enjoy it, especially the juvenile portion of the participants.

Rev. Mr. Raymond, of the Baptist church, Annapolis, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church here recently exchanging with the Rev. Mr. Porter Shirley. The congregation had the pleasure of listening to a well thought-out discourse.

A large picnic called the "people's picnic" was held on Goat Island on Thursday of last week. We learn that it was an enjoyable affair.

Capt. James E. Rawding, owner of the hotel here, is putting a new roof on said building and also furnishing it with an up-to-date water supply, which will be a great convenience and tend to enhance the value of this property.

Schr. Bobb, Capt. Burns, arrived from Boston on Thursday last. She is loading with soft wood for Rockland, Maine.

Schr. Emma E. Potter, Capt. Walker, cleared for Boston on Saturday last with a load of wood and piling.

Miss Marguerite Hicks, of Bridgetown, was the guest of Mr. Herbert Hicks for a few days last week. She returned home on Thursday.

W. V. Vroom attended Camp-meeting held at Berwick last week. He reports good attendance.

We are very sorry indeed to have to report the death of Mr. Dolin, of Caledonia Corner, which took place at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Jones, on Wednesday last, where he was during most of his illness. His body was taken to Caledonia for interment.

Mrs. (Dr.) Caulfield, of Bangor, Maine, with her two children are visiting Mrs. Jessie Gibbons, mother of Mrs. Caulfield, for a few weeks.

Miss Bertha Morse has gone to Bridgetown to make a short visit. She will be the guest of J. Harry Hicks during her stay.

Miss Gertie Lockward, daughter of the Rev. W. Lockward, who has a position in Halifax, is spending her vacation at her home here.

Mr. Charles McLaughlin, who has been absent from his home here for quite a long time, is visiting his mother, Mrs. (Captain) McLaughlin.

Miss Margie Roop, daughter of Joseph Roop, who has a position in New Haven, is at her home spending her vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross, of Bridgetown, are the guests of Mrs. Joseph Roop, a sister of Mr. Ross, for a few weeks.

Summer tourists are coming and going here. We notice that Mrs. A. D. Roop has some new comers lately.

Wm. S. Potter, wife and daughter of Boston, Mass., are the guests of Mr. Charles Stronach for a time.

Mr. James T. Ray arrived from Boston one day last week via Bridgewater.

Mrs. Arthur Parker has gone to Bridgewater to meet her husband, who is one of the crew of the B. B. Hardwick which schooner is loading lumber at this port for Boston.

Mrs. John N. Barry also arrived from the United States a few days ago, where she has been spending the summer.

Mrs. Choute of Salem, Mass., was the guest of Mrs. John Love last week.

Mr. Frank Corey, of Kentville, spent Sunday last with his sister.

Mrs. Thomas Rawding is home for a time with his family from Montreal.

CLARKE-ROCKWELL

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Struck, Brooklyn Street, Wednesday Aug. 10th, was the scene of a very happy and interesting event when their niece, Cornelia Bishop, only daughter of Mrs. Clara C. Rockwell, was united in marriage to Mr. Elake Lambert Clarke, of Woodville, says the Western Chronicle.

The handsome parlor had been artistically decorated with trailing vines, asparagus and cut flowers, by the girl friends of the bride. The ushers were Rufus S. Newcombe and Harry N. Clarke. Promptly at two o'clock the sweet strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Lila Strong, cousin of the bride, six girl friends, Julia Sweet, Harriet Newcombe, Alice Whitney, Fannie Parker, Lila Rockwell and Apha Wood, daintily dressed in white, formed an aisle with white ribbons, through which the bridal party passed to their respective places under a beautiful floral bell.
