BRITISH GAIN IN PALESTINE; BELGIANS DEFEAT GERMANS

Successful Air Raid on Germany in Broad Daylight---French Beat Twelve Enemy Air Squadrons Away From Paris---Canadians Repulse German Raid and Take Prisoners

BELGIANS REPULSE ATTACKS WITH HEAVY ENEMY LOSSES

Great Gallantry and Individual Heroism Results in Complete Regaining of Ground Taken in First Terrific Onslaught By Germans Near Dixmude.

British Army Headquarters in France, Friday, March 8.—Great gallantry and individual heroism was displayed by the Belgian soldiers in the face of great odds in the flooded zones northwest of Dixmude. The German attack was futile. This operation has been characterized as a tactical masterpiece. For an hour the German artillery continued to pour an avalanche of explosives, among which were many gas shells, against these defenses and then followed with an infantry attack in force.

The Belgian artillery replied with a heavy barrage, and these, coupled with the work of the riflemen and machine gunners, promptly checked the German advance at Beverdyk, and eventually completely repulsed the enemy. At Reigersvelt, however, the Germans secured a footing at various points, which was due to the fact that the floods had largely subsided and the enemy was well equipped with comparatively little difficulty.

A Belgian commander, at this juncture, with only nine men and a machine gun, occupied a bridgehead where he resisted three hundred Germans and twelve machine guns for an hour. A patrol headed by the Belgian commander took the offensive, and recapturing the position taken by the Germans in front of a small bridgehead. Several German prisoners and machine guns were taken in this daring assault.

Chasseurs Counter-Attack.—In the meantime the chasseurs had been organized for a counter-attack, and these troops advanced under excellent support by the Belgian batteries. In order for the chasseurs to reach the posts held by the Germans it was necessary for them to cross the flooded space on a single board walk which was dominated by German artillery and machine gun fire. Dismounted horsemen went forward as the parade, amid the crashing of great shells, and engaged themselves heroically upon the invaders.

Sanguinary fighting followed, and at 10 o'clock in the afternoon the Belgians succeeded in retaking the first of seven posts lying in a semi-circle in front of the bridgehead. The savage battle continued until 5.30 in the afternoon, when the last of the posts was regained.

The German losses were exceedingly heavy. Forty bodies were found lying on the barbed wire alone, while many perished under the grueling fire of the Belgians. One officer was decapitated by a shell as he was running away. Five officers and 111 men were captured, together with twelve machine guns.

The Germans claim to have captured a considerable number of Belgians, and they undoubtedly carried away some prisoners. Altho it is impossible to give the exact total of the Belgian losses, they were light.

CANADIANS REPEL RAID WITHOUT SINGLE LOSS

Tremendous Effort of Germans Produces No Results --- Dominion's Men Repay Enemy in Kind, Achieving Important Success.

London, March 10.—General Currie writes to Sir Edward Kemp under date of March 6: "The enemy attempted yesterday morning a very large raid against us. Nearly 300 of his specially picked assaulting troops raided our trenches. He put on a tremendous artillery fire, stretching many hundred yards on each side of his point of entry. No sooner had he entered our lines than he was immediately counter-attacked and driven off. Our chaps killed a great many Boches in the trenches, and during his retirement. Many Germans are lying dead in No Man's Land and not a man of ours is missing, so he failed absolutely in his mission. This, we learn from prisoners, was for himself to take prisoners and gain information.

"Furthermore, the troops which he raided went back at last night, entered his lines, killed many, and brought back a prisoner. Our losses were very light.

"The weather is very fine and everyone is working very hard."

THE HAND OF GOD SAYS THE KAISER

Thanks the Almighty for the Breaking of the Russian Power.

Amsterdam, March 9.—According to The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, the German emperor, replying to a message from the Reichstag, telegraphed as follows: "In long years of struggle the German people in arms led by ideal generals, have broken the Russian power and won the safety of the empire in the east. Moreover, we are finally able to respond to the call for help by the hard-pressed Germans and border peoples of Russia, who were striving for development, and to secure for them a guarantee of new and better times.

"When we look back over the events of these years and grasp the significance of the peace gained in the east, which means the bursting of the ring the enemy laid around us, we must look up to Almighty God with heartfelt thanks—who has so gloriously directed everything. We will draw from these facts the strongest confidence that the end of the world war will open a happy future to our beloved German fatherland."

Replying to a message of homage from the East Prussian Diet, Emperor William, according to The Tagblatt of Berlin, telegraphed: "The province of East Prussia is especially dear to my heart. In this year it has made great sacrifices and therefore, it will more gladly acknowledge the hand of God as now shown in the east. We owe our victory largely to the moral and spiritual treasures which the great philosopher of Königsberg bestowed upon our people."

The great philosopher of Königsberg referred to by Emperor William was Immanuel Kant, who was born at Königsberg in 1724 and died there in 1804.

WOMAN PASSENGER KILLED WHEN CAR AND MOTOR CRASH

Driver of Automobile is Under Arrest on Charge of Criminal Negligence.

PENDANT IS MISSING

Miss Dorothy Stevenson, is it Said, Was to Be Married Shortly.

Miss Dorothy Stevenson, 23 Classic avenue, is dead and Carlton Rayfield, 112 Pricfield road, is under arrest on a charge of criminal negligence following a collision of a King street car and a motor at the corner of Cookwood road and East Queen street at 1.15 Sunday morning.

According to the police of the East Toronto division, the accident occurred under peculiar circumstances. The car, which was driven by Rayfield, came down Cookwood road at speed of 10 miles an hour and turned west on King street. Here the ice on the road is about 10 inches deep and had been swept clear by the high winds, which made the road very slippery. Rayfield apparently endeavored to turn into the north car tracks, but the car striking the ridge of ice swerved over the devil strip and into the south track directly in the path of the approaching King street car, both colliding with a tremendous crash.

At the time of the collision, owing to the fact that there were eight people in the auto, Miss Stevenson was sitting on the rear door of the car and when the cars collided the impact threw her head back against the station supporting the hood, crushing her skull. The young woman's body was then thrown clear from the car. Death was instantaneous. The body was removed to the home of Dr. Clarke, 1988 East Queen street.

Immediately following the accident the young woman's brother, Edmund Stevenson, was notified and he and the other occupants of the car made a full report of the affair to the police.

As far as could be ascertained the young woman was wearing a gold watch valued at $300 and a diamond pendant offered to F. H. Giesboro, law clerk of the commons, who declined it.

Rayfield will appear in the police court this morning to answer to the charge.

With regard to Palestine the communication says: "Early Saturday morning our troops on the west of the Jordan valley continued the general advance northward and crossed the Wady El Aujah with slight opposition and attacked the Turkish position at Khel Beyudat Abu Teitah, on the high ground five miles west of the Jordan. The position was strongly held, but was captured by 3 o'clock in the afternoon."

BRITISH BOMB MOTOR WORKS

Railway Station and Munition Factories at Stuttgart Also Attacked in Successful British Daylight Raid.

London, March 10.—British aviators bombed the Daimler motor works at Stuttgart today. The official announcement says that the raid was carried out in broad daylight. They also bombed the railway station and munition factories.

The text of the statement reads: "On March 10 Germany was again bombed by our planes in broad daylight. On this occasion the Daimler motor works at Stuttgart were attacked. Over one and a quarter tons of bombs were dropped. Several bursts were observed on the railway station, where a stationary train was hit and seen to be on fire.

"Three bursts were observed on a munition factory southeast of the town, and other bursts on the Daimler works and buildings around.

"Hostile machines made a weak attempt to attack our formation over an objective, but withdrew on being attacked. All of our machines returned except one, which had engine trouble and went down under control just before recrossing our lines on the homeward journey.

"There has been considerable aerial activity and heavy bombing of dumps, airdromes and railway centres. Northeast of Stuttgart there was an especially successful attack from a low altitude against three airdromes, direct hits being obtained on each airdrome, on hangars and on machines in the open. Returning from this attack the British pilots flew at an average height of 100 feet, firing at favorable targets, causing much confusion among the enemy and scattering troops and horses.

"In heavy air fighting ten hostile machines were downed and ten others disabled. A German observation balloon was destroyed. Two of our machines are missing."

GERMANS ATTACKED SHIP'S LIFEBOATS

Officer's Body Picked Up at Sea With Gunshot Wounds.

Liverpool, March 10.—The Evening Express says it is authoritative information that the body of one of the junior officers of the British hospital ship, Glenart Castle, which was torpedoed in the Bristol Channel on Feb. 26 by a German submarine, was picked up a short distance from the spot and was found to have two gunshot wounds, one in the neck and the other in the thigh. There was a lifeboat on the body.

While there have been no reports that the Germans fired on the escaping crew of the hospital ship at the time of the torpedoing, this discovery leads to the belief that an attack was made subsequently on some of the boats.

CHIEF OF RAIDERS KILLED NEAR PARIS

Machine of Captain Eckstein Wrecked in Compiegne Forest Before Reaching Objective.

HIT ON COURSE OF TRIP

Effective Defence Stopped Many Raiders From Reaching French Capital.

Grand Headquarters of the French Army in France, Saturday, March 9.—The commander of the German airplanes, which attempted to terrorize Paris, Captain Fritz Eckstein, and three companions, one of whom was an officer of the Emperor's White Guard, who were flying over the Compiegne Forest. It is questionable whether the commander ever reached Paris. It is believed that most of the bombs the machine carried were dropped after it was hit during the course of its trip, but several were still attached to the airplane when the respondent saw it lying half-buried in the earth. Two of the aviators were underneath the motor and the other two were nearby, having thrown themselves out in an effort to save their lives.

The German machine was of the latest model. It was built at Friedrichshaven. The wings had a stretch of 80 feet and it was supplied with the most modern instruments. The canvas wings were painted black, violet and dark blue.

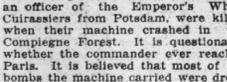

Ten or twelve squadrons, participated in the raid, proceeding towards Paris by three different routes in successive waves. The remarkably effective co-operation of the anti-aircraft batteries, the defence squadrons and the searchlights prevented much damage and stopped many of the raiders from reaching the capital.

MONDAY MORNING, MARCH 11.

Democracy and Aristocracy.

In Great Britain a section of the Unionist party have been playing politics with the war issues, just as the Laurierites have done in Canada. The chief object of attack is Premier Lloyd George, not because the war policy of the cabinet has not been successful, but because it has, and there is a likelihood on that account of him continuing in office after the war, and carrying out to a logical conclusion the social reforms he began to inaugurate before the war.

New Faith in Russia.

Leber Braunstein, who has achieved notoriety as Trotsky, has resigned his office as foreign minister of the Bolshevik government in Russia, and the fact may indicate the growing realization among the Russian people of what order this bloody, unfaithful and disloyal regime consisted. Clothed and in their right mind, the Russian people are a simple and reliable race, but under the influence of German agitators they lost all semblance of reason, and the proceedings of the past few months could not have been rivaled by a government formed from the craziest inhabitants of any metropolitan Bedlam.

There has always been a large body of sensible people in Russia, but they had not the strength to meet successfully the brute force of the armed Bolsheviks, and the result was a national chaos. The Cossacks have, for the most part, kept their heads and it is reported that an army is being formed in southeastern Russia, the object of which is to redeem the country, to repudiate the treacherous peace treaty of the Germans with the Ukrainians and the Bolsheviks, and to re-establish a stable government. Much will depend on this rehabilitation, if it is possible, and the entente allies will no doubt give what assistance they can to these real representatives of the Russian nation. The Bolshevik government was never formally recognized, and good authorities have commended this policy, as the Germans would have used such recognition as a means of convincing the sane Russians that the allies were responsible for the Bolshevik crimes.

A Frank Savage

Sometimes we get a frank confession from the Huns, and the acknowledgment of an imprisoned German aviator that the real intention of the air raids was to kill civilians may be accepted as truthful. The object is to demoralize the civilian population without regard to military objectives. If women and children get killed, said this frank barbarian, so much the worse for them.

German-Finnish Peace

Stockholm, March 10.—The newspaper Dagens Nyheter warns Scandinavians to familiarize themselves with "the only too probable eventuality that the Russian danger will be replaced by a German-Finnish peace." In this connection the paper refers to the declaration of the Finnish foreign minister to its correspondent at Vasa to the effect that Finland's drift towards Germany would influence the commercial policy of Scandinavia and add: "Germany will be on her guard against the possible transit of Anglo-American commerce across Sweden."

COUNT D'HARCOURT IS DEAD.

Paris, Saturday, March 9.—Count Eugene D'Harcourt, composer and orchestra conductor, died suddenly yesterday at Locarno, Switzerland. The count belonged to a diplomatic family of which the Duke D'Harcourt was the head, but he devoted his life to music. One of his last undertakings was to conduct a series of concerts in the United States with the object of making French music better known there.

only thing that will convince them of their error is a victorious enemy. Unless we are willing to live in a world largely governed on the German principle we must address all our energies to winning the war, and placing the arguments before the German leaders to which alone they are willing to listen.

Leading the Nations

Now that Canada has adopted total prohibition it is time that Great Britain also considered whether winning the war is important enough to warrant the same step. It is not months, but years, since Mr. Lloyd George said that Britain was fighting three enemies: Germany, Austria and Drink, and the third was the strongest of the three. The United States are taking the step also in their slower constitutional procedure, but the extreme need is realized.

The economic argument is that which appeals most to students of the situation. The waste of food in the famine-threatened state of affairs which all the nations are facing; the impaired efficiency due to the use of alcoholic drinks; and the diminished turnover in all retail business where the traffic flourishes, appeal strongly as reasons for enforcing prohibition.

The increased volume of retail business in all retail trade, even in such lines as cigars and tobacco, books, magazines and newspapers, as well as in food and drygoods, has made the retailers a unit in favor of the movement.

In the larger issues of the war there is a heavy preponderance of opinion favoring the measure. In plebiscites taken in labor constituencies in Great Britain the vote in favor of prohibition was ten to one. If we are not to have several years more of war, it is necessary that every possible means be taken to conserve resources and encourage efficiency. The Germans are well aware of the aid they receive from alcohol, and the first use they made of their access to the Russian forces under the fraternization plans was to set the Russian troops drinking vodka. It is to this, rather than to Bolshevism, that the Russian demoralization is due.

GERMAN GUNS SHOW REMARKABLE ACTIVITY

British Carry Out Raids in Regions of St. Quentin and Cambrai. London, March 10.—The British official communication issued tonight says: "Early this morning, under the cover of a heavy bombardment, the hostile raiding party attacked our posts east of Armentieres. A few of our men are missing. "Another attempted enemy raid east of Paschendaele was repulsed by machine gun fire. "The hostile artillery has shown a marked increase in activity on the front and the back areas from La Bassée Canal to Ypres."

CONSTABLE GETS DAMAGES.

Sued Michigan Central for False Arrest and Malicious Prosecution. Windsor, March 10.—After a trial lasting the better part of three days a jury sitting at Sandwich yesterday brought in a verdict in favor of Geo. Jeunette, an Essex County constable, against the Michigan Central Railway Company for false arrest and malicious prosecution, and awarded the constable $1200 damages. Jeunette was arrested a year ago by railroad detectives, charged with having rifled a bonded car in the Windsor yards of the Michigan Central. He was locked up without a warrant having been issued for him, and when the case came before Police Magistrate Lesget the charge against Jeunette was dismissed, he being found not guilty.

Lord Robert Cecil Points Out Need to Foil Conquest Scheme.

Lord Robert Cecil, minister of blockade, pointed out what had already been accomplished by the Germans in the east. He was looking at a map on the table, Lord Robert said: "Look at what Germany has already done toward a scheme of world conquest. On the north she has taken rich Baltic provinces, and she proposes to install a German prince. She sent troops to Finland and concluded an agreement which puts the whole of northern Finland at her disposal. These steps in the north have practically cut off Russia from access to the sea. To occupy Odessa. "Looking further south we find that Germany is in the course of occupying Odessa, the Black Sea port, and that she has insisted that Russia concede to Turkey all ports at the east end of the Black Sea. Her evident design is to substitute for the Berlin-Bagdad railroad a new scheme to the east by trans-Caucasia and north Persia. In the execution of this design Germany, moreover, has had, consciously or unconsciously, the assistance and co-operation of the Bolsheviks."

MRS. THOMPSON MISSING.

An Atlantic Port, March 10.—During the voyage of an American steamer which arrived here today from Bermuda the wife of a Major Thompson, imperialist master in action while fighting in the British army in Europe overboard, is believed to have jumped overboard. The vessel was at mid-night on March 2, the day the vessel left Bermuda, and the next morning she had suffered from melancholia.

CONDUCTED JUBILEE SERVICES.

Ingersoll, March 10.—Large congregations assembled in the Baptist church today, where diamond jubilee services were conducted by Charles McCrimmon of McMaster University, Toronto. He was assisted by the pastor, Rev. Joseph J. The Baptist church was organized in 1858.

TWO OFFICERS DISMISSED.

London, March 10.—Lieuts. A. D. Reid, Central Ontario, and H. P. Reid, of Manitoba, have been dismissed by sentence of court-martial.

PAYING AN ARMY IN THE FIELD

By R. P. P. Rowe.

Everyone knows that an army must be paid, but probably few civilians know how this is done in the British army in time of war. It would commonly be supposed that to pay an army in peace would be comparatively simple, but that to pay soldiers at the front would be much more difficult. It is hardly too much to say that the reverse is the case. Whether this is so because a heaven-sent genius invented the principles adopted for pay in the field, is not within the knowledge of the present writer, but most officers will agree that the payment of British soldiers in France is an amazingly simple matter for all who, like the company officer, know only its final stages.

This does not mean that it is not a laborious operation, particularly for the company officer, who must supply the field cashiers, who make the actual payments with the requisite number of French notes. But in field conditions one would have expected almost insuperable difficulties. The subject of an army's pay is a very important one, and the present writer, who has been in France in an amazingly simple matter for all who, like the company officer, know only its final stages.

At home men are paid with the utmost regularity every Friday. The accounts which the process involves might seem exceedingly simple, but in an average civilian, whether this is so or not, it is a fact that when the same civilian has to do with a company officer, gets to France, he is pleasantly surprised at the simplification of procedure. Every man has his own pay book, and a "pay-book," which he must guard as his life, he would receive his dues. The incentive effects of the pay book are obvious. It is a fact that when the same civilian has to do with a company officer, gets to France, he is pleasantly surprised at the simplification of procedure.

The pay book is a small notebook, which shows at a glance the soldier's debits and his credit balance at any time. His rate of pay is clearly marked, together with any circumstance affecting it. This, as well as the amount of pay that has been made to him, is entered and initialed by an officer.

Let us suppose an infantry company commander to have returned from the region of perpetual weariness and imminent danger that spell of unmitigated and arduous training which constitutes a rest. He is arranged with his C. O. to spend one of the first mornings in paying his company. On the previous afternoon he will have been in a neighboring town or village, himself or sent there armed with the due authority, to obtain the warrants for the purpose from a man of fabulous monetary possessions, known as the field cashier. Having procured an imprest officer, he will have notes of small denominations, he will have had them counted out into his own, or his emissary's, hands, in a matter of few minutes, and will be the temporary holder of an uncomfortable amount of cash.

On the morning in question, having uttered the usual imprecations about over-work, he and a subaltern will sit down at two tables in the neighborhood of the company mess, and get rid of their accumulated wealth as fast as possible. Each soldier will come up in his turn, and a subaltern will sit down with him, present his "pay-book," and receive his money. The imprest officer, initiated by the officer, and sign a document, the "acquittance roll" for the amount of cash received, and a half-hour's time taken depending on the strength that providence and the Boche have afforded. The imprest officer will show the amounts paid, and the receipt will be given to the soldier, who will also receive a receipt for the amount of cash received. The imprest officer will show the amounts paid, and the receipt will be given to the soldier, who will also receive a receipt for the amount of cash received.

This covers the ground of a very large and important branch of work which is organized both simply and efficiently. The imprest officer will show the amounts paid, and the receipt will be given to the soldier, who will also receive a receipt for the amount of cash received. The imprest officer will show the amounts paid, and the receipt will be given to the soldier, who will also receive a receipt for the amount of cash received.

GOD'S ANSWER

By Robert Partridge.

It comes on the wings of the wind by the day. Breathes the gleam of the stars by the night. Who are still in the thick of the fight. The same God-like voice seems to speak in mine ear. Just the same grand old message of old. That tells me in danger He ever is near. To protect every lamb in His fold. And the each day brings its all-conquering fear. That the message may come that will say "He is gone" I live in that thought: "He is near And will guard o'er my lov'd one today."

JAPS NECESSARY TO BEAT GERMANY

Lord Robert Cecil Points Out Need to Foil Conquest Scheme. BACKED BY PEOPLE. Balked in France, Kaiser Turns to East for Recompense.

London, Friday, March 8.—Pointing out the seriousness of the German menace in Siberia, and in southern Asia, urging Japanese intervention and insisting that the German people afford no hope of rising against their imperialist masters, Lord Robert Cecil, minister of blockade, pointed out what had already been accomplished by the Germans in the east. He was looking at a map on the table, Lord Robert said: "Look at what Germany has already done toward a scheme of world conquest. On the north she has taken rich Baltic provinces, and she proposes to install a German prince. She sent troops to Finland and concluded an agreement which puts the whole of northern Finland at her disposal. These steps in the north have practically cut off Russia from access to the sea. To occupy Odessa. "Looking further south we find that Germany is in the course of occupying Odessa, the Black Sea port, and that she has insisted that Russia concede to Turkey all ports at the east end of the Black Sea. Her evident design is to substitute for the Berlin-Bagdad railroad a new scheme to the east by trans-Caucasia and north Persia. In the execution of this design Germany, moreover, has had, consciously or unconsciously, the assistance and co-operation of the Bolsheviks."

The Dinner.

CHAPTER XXV. Just before we went out to dinner I overheard Peter Rivers say to June Lawson: "That little Mrs. Howard is very young, isn't she? Wonder Howard isn't with her. Rather unusual, don't you think, for a man to allow a young wife, almost a bride, to go to dinner parties without him?"

"Oh, I don't know! That depends entirely on circumstances." June had often part of the night. When not cooking out money, he is usually doing his advance work for the office. The applicant for an appreciable amount of his time. The office of the field cashier is in a major draw 125 francs, and no more, more than once a month. He has a book with orders for this amount attached to counterfoil. This book must be produced when he is called upon to play some other unit, when that unit's cashier is not immediately available. He has in addition a book for carrying the payments due to civilians and to deal with the advance work for the office. The applicant for an appreciable amount of his time. "He had an engagement. I suppose I should not have come without him," I added, "but Evelyn insisted." "You did perfectly right," returned. "You did perfectly right to come. Think what the rest of us would have missed," and he smiled down at me. Afterward Peter came to me as one of my very best friends, Peter and Olive both; but that night when I first met him, I didn't care much for him. We danced till one o'clock. Then Merton Gray took me home. I had asked George if he would call for me, and he said "no." He would send the car for me at any time I wished. "I am not going to be made to feel that I must stop whatever I happen to be doing at a certain time so that I may come for you," he had finished.

"So when Evelyn said to Merton: "You will see that Mrs. Howard gets home all right, won't you, Mr. Gray?" he had gone with me, although I had said it was unnecessary. The chauffeur was all the protection I needed. When we reached the house he walked up the steps and stood with me until Annie, who always waited up for me, came to the door. Then became so jolly that I almost forgot I was an old married woman, and had determined to be very dignified. "The dinner was delicious. From the fruit cocktails to the dessert made of chopped almonds and cream, everything was perfect. Kurt's was so proud of Evelyn, so surprised at her plans for his birthday party, that after all had donned the paper caps lying beside each plate, he made a funny speech, then Merton Gray got up and replied to it. After the coffee, which we drank at table we all trooped into the drawing room together. There was no sitting alone waiting for the men to smoke and gossip as the women had done as Mrs. Loring's. While we were at dinner the rugs had been taken up, and we danced. I danced first with Merton Gray, and he danced so well, just as he did everything else, I thought. Then in turn I danced with all the men. Peter Rivers asked me some questions about George; and I repeated my untruth: "He had an engagement. I suppose I should not have come without him," I added, "but Evelyn insisted."

"You see why you shouldn't!" He returned. "You did perfectly right to come. Think what the rest of us would have missed," and he smiled down at me. PASS FOR VON LUXBURG.

Buenos Aires, March 10.—The British Government has issued a safe conduct for Count von Luxburg, the former German ambassador to Argentina, to sail for Sweden. He will sail shortly on the steamer Valparaiso. A safe conduct for a medical attendant to accompany Count von Luxburg was refused, although such a step had been recommended because of the former ambassador's mental condition.

GOVERNMENT TO ACT IF THREAT EXECUTED

Will Wait, However, Until Manufacturers of Newspaper Cut Off Supplies.

Ottawa, March 10.—The newspaper situation will probably be taken up at tomorrow's meeting of the cabinet council. It is intimated that should the newspaper manufacturers cut off the supplies of newspaper paper as has been threatened, action will be taken. The government, however, it is understood, will not take a decisive step ending some attempt by the manufacturers to put the threat into execution.

The only action taken so far in regard to licensing is, provision for licensing for export. An order in council to this effect was passed recently.

TO SET ASIDE RECOUNT

Council for Defeated Candidate in Queen's Says It Was Improperly Counted.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., March 10.—Argument on the question of the recount asked for by Alex. Martin, defeated government candidate in Queen's, who was four votes behind John E. Sinclair, Liberal, began here yesterday before Judge Stewart, of the county court. Mr. Sinclair's counsel asks that the recount be set aside on 17 grounds, including the following:

The order for the recount was improperly granted, the application having been made after the time allowed by law elapsed; that the order calls for a recount of all the votes, and the judge has no jurisdiction in this matter.

Judgment was reserved till Monday.

NEW REGULATIONS FIXING PROFITS OF PACKING COMPANIES

Everyone Whose Business Exceeds $750,000 in Gross Sales Must Be Licensed.

CAPITAL IS DEFINED

Prices on Sales Shall Not, if Possible, Exceed Two Per Cent. of Gross.

Ottawa, March 10.—Regulations governing packing companies, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1918, were issued tonight. In regard to profits they follow the line enunciated by the government some time ago. A dividend not exceeding 7 per cent. on actually invested capital goes free. A dividend between 7 and 15 per cent. pays one-half over to the treasury. All profits over 15 per cent. go to the treasury. The highest dividend thus possible is 11 per cent. It is also provided that a license shall not be granted to retain any profits exceeding an amount equal to 2 per cent. of the gross value of his sales during any one year.

The regulations stipulate further that "no person, firm, association or incorporation shall engage in the slaughtering of livestock or the manufacture of products therefrom whose business exceeds $750,000 in gross sales during any one year from the Canada Food Board. Definitions of profits and the computation of the same shall be at length in the regulations, the computing capital it is provided that:

The actual capital invested in the business shall be the amount paid up in cash of the capital stock.

Where stock has been issued for any consideration other than cash the fair value of the stock at the date of issue will be deemed to be the amount paid up on such stock. In no case will the value of the stock be fixed at an amount exceeding par value.

The actual unimpaired reserve, rest or accumulated profits of an incorporated company will be included as part of capital.

May Determine Capital.

The minister of finance may determine the amount of the capital of an incorporated company issuing stock after the first day of January, 1918, and if after that date the amount of stock of any incorporated company is increased or additional stock is issued, or if the stock is in any way changed or reorganized in such a manner as to increase the amount of the capital for the purpose of the regulations, the minister of finance may decide whether or not to fix the amount of the capital to be included in any such case.

When determining the capital of such a company the minister of finance may include such increase or any part thereof as when determining the capital of a given company the date of the regulation, and the decision of the minister shall be final. Reasonable provision for depreciation of buildings, machinery and other assets may be deducted. No amortization provision, reserve expenditure or loss of any kind not properly attributed to the business of the company in any period is to be deducted from profits or charged to operating expenses without the approval of the minister of finance.

The minister of finance may permit deduction of an inventory reserve for the purpose of the regulations in market values. The amount so deducted will be deposited with the receiver-general in such a manner as to be available for the payment of a decline in market values the whole or part of the disposition to meet the decline will be returned.

No unreasonably large or extensive salary or other compensation or bonus paid to any officer, employee, director, stockholder, firm member or other person or joint owner, will be treated as part of operating expenses.

No payment, firm member or other person of business profits tax, war taxes, or income taxes levied by the Parliament of Canada, shall be deducted from the public or charged to operating expenses, but any such tax shall be levied only on the profit properly retained by the licensee under the regulations.

Dealing with the limitation of sales profits the regulations stipulate that a licensee shall, in his sales that are included in the aggregate business of the licensee, the ratio of profits to sales need not be maintained with respect to the business in any particular department, class of materials or products, plant or locality. But provision is made that there shall be no variation in the ratio between different departments, kinds of live stock and so forth. Nor, it is provided, shall the licensee vary his business which shall be unjust to his competitors, producers of live stock or the public.

Computing Values.

In computing the gross value of sales and profits, sales and profits of the following kinds of business will be included:

1. The slaughtering of live stock and the manufacture of any produce of live stock in any foreign country, but the sale in any other country of products manufactured in Canada will not be included.

2. Any business which has nothing to do with human food, live stock, or production of slaughtered live stock.

3. The raising, fattening or feeding of live stock.

4. Any business other than the slaughtering of live stock or the manufacture of products therefrom, which hereafter be excluded by authority of the minister of finance.

It is laid down in the regulations how profits shall be computed, with a 30 days after the close of his accounting periods every licensee is to furnish to the minister of finance reports of his business in accordance to be given to the books of a licensee and subsidiary companies. The minister of finance is authorized to make regulations to carry out the provisions of the present regulations and not inconsistent therewith.

Violation of any of the provisions of any regulations made hereunder is to be punishable by a fine not exceeding $5000 or to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months, or to both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court.

The regulations are in force from

PAST 20 YEARS WAS ONE LONG STRUGGLE

Mrs. Bradbury Cheerful and Happy All the Time Now, She Says.

"My life has just been one long, hard struggle for the past twenty years, and the way I have suffered can't be described in words," said Mrs. Annie Bradbury, living at 24 Wolsley street, Toronto, recently.

"There have been many times when it seemed like I would have to give up and cry until I would almost go distracted. I couldn't sleep at night, and when morning came I'd be all worn out and tired until I just had to force myself to keep going. I had no appetite, and my energy left me gradually until I was so weak I could scarcely move. My heart would flutter and act queer and I lost weight, and got so thin that my rings would slip from my fingers. Fifteen years ago I was operated on, but my condition was unchanged, and I have been going down hill ever since, until here a week back my husband got a bottle of Tanlac for me, and I started taking it.

"I never saw or heard of anything more wonderful than the way this Tanlac has benefited me. My nerves are strong and steady now, and I am cheerful and happy instead of bleak and discouraged. I have a big appetite and enjoy every meal. My strength has increased until the housework is a pleasure to me instead of a drudgery. I have already gained ten pounds in weight and am gaining every day. Several of my friends are now taking Tanlac since I've told them what it has done for me, and they as well as I think there never was a medicine made that equals Tanlac. It has done me more good than all the medicine and treatments I have taken in twenty years, and I'm delighted over my recovery."

Tanlac is sold in Toronto by Tamblin's Drug Stores and by one general established agency in every town.

Mr. Rowe St. Clair is personally supervising the sale of Tanlac at Tamblin's Drug Store, 232 Yonge street. He is meeting scores of enthusiastic purchasers daily, and if you will call at the store he will be glad to explain just how this new medicine that is doing so much good through your friends and neighbors gives such good results to those that use it. Regulations Governing Packers Retroactive Only From Jan. 1.

By a Staff Reporter.

Ottawa, March 10.—An interesting circumstance in connection with the new regulations governing the profits of meat packers is that, being retroactive only from Jan. 1 of this year, the 80 per cent. profits of the William Davies Company are untouched.

A commission which was presided over by George F. Henderson, C. C. of Ottawa, reported that the William Davies Company of Toronto, of which Sir Joseph Flavelle is the head, had made 80 per cent. profit.

GREETINGS ACKNOWLEDGED.

Won From Peterboro in Return Game on Saturday in Toronto

GIRLS IN PRELIMINARY

Somers School Defeats Young Women's Guild by Eighteen to Nothing.

Central V. M. C. A. Junior O. B. A. basketball team are still undefeated this season as they won their tenth game Sunday evening when they met Peterboro in the return match. Both teams were fully lined up, and the visitors scored a likely organization when they came onto the floor, but their size could not overcome the fast teamwork of the Central boys.

The game started off with a rush. Wells getting the jump and one a pass. Smith rolled in the first goal. Gannitt, the Peterboro centre, then scored on a long shot. Central then rolled in several in succession. Shuter, Smith and Wells all getting their eye on the basket. Gannitt scored twice on foul shots, and the Peterboro players tried scoring from far out.

The preliminary game brought the Somers School girls and the Young Women's Guild together. The first half of the match was very even, both sides checking back hard and missing a number of shots. In the second half the Somers girls ahead 4 to 0.

The second half proved easy for the Somers girls. They were in the lead from the start, and soon had a good lead. Miss Law doing remarkable shooting. The final score was 18 to 0 in favor of the Somers girls.

At the college arena A.C. defeated the Inter-2 in a game of hockey which was evenly divided. The combination at times, being hindered by the attacking Dufoe at right wing. The visitors gave a splendid performance, and the Aggies, who were aggressive hockey players, were a feature. Small, no doubt, was for the home team.

The preliminary game brought the Somers School girls and the Young Women's Guild together. The first half of the match was very even, both sides checking back hard and missing a number of shots. In the second half the Somers girls ahead 4 to 0.

Saunters Thru The City Shops

What would Toronto's shopping district be without its display windows? The general public loves the window trims and the brighter and more glaring it happens to be the more the people love it. For ages the value of a good display has been known and in some cases a shop window has been known to sell more goods than a force of well-trained salesmen. The T. Eaton Co.'s windows are pictures that make a direct appeal to women, and few are satisfied to return home after a shopping trip before enjoying the beauties of the T. Eaton Co.'s and the Robert Simpson Co.'s window displays. The store's prime object in having a window display is, of course, to coax the public within. The public understands all this, enjoys the coaxing, but wants the window display artistic and bright.

St. Patrick's Day is near at hand; the shamrocks are displayed and padding green is beginning to show its beauty in window trims. Some heavy pretty all-green China cups and saucers are noticed in the Simpson store. The green was so delicately and prettily distributed that the result was remarkably dainty and desirable. Some stores are showing St. Patrick's Day favors in the form of boxes of candy, the boxes shaped as a shamrock tied with a huge bow of green ribbon. There are favors of the Irishman's hat and the four-leaved clover.

Conservation in clothes is not confined altogether to women; men must sacrifice also. The order has gone forth that cuffs must come off the trousers and the patch pockets must go. Also it is hinted that belts will be things of the past. It is whispered that only the boys in khaki will be permitted to wear belts and suspenders.

"It makes me tired," said the little salesgirl at the lace counter, "the way some people treat us, just as if we belonged to the store—like a piece of string or a bit of wrapping paper. I was showing some goods to a customer yesterday, and as she seemed in a hurry I tried to help her by asking what purpose she intended the goods for. Maybe I did not say it just right, but I really meant to be helpful. She almost froze me with a look and said something nasty."

"Huh!" ejaculated the girl next to her, "people who write to the newspapers think they know all about these things. I just wish they had to stand here day after day and try to please everyone."

U. S. May Close Lunch Rooms For Breach of Food Rules

New York, March 10. — Recommendation that 57 lunch rooms and delicatessen shops in New York be closed for 24 hours, beginning at midnight Monday, for infraction of food conservation regulations, was made to the United States food administration Saturday by the federal food board. ### CHOCOLATE RECIPES.

Chocolate pie—Line a deep pie plate with pastry and bake. Make a cream filling as follows: Melt 1/2 cup of grated chocolate in 1 cup of melted butter; add 1 cup of sugar with which has been mixed 2 tablespoons of cornstarch, a piece of butter the size of an egg, the well-beaten yolks of 2 eggs, and vanilla to flavor. Cook this mixture until thick and smooth, and pour it into the pie shell. When cool, cover with a meringue made of the whites of the 2 eggs and a little powdered sugar. Brown in the oven.

Chocolate ice cream—Put 1 ounce of chocolate, 1/2 pound of sugar and 1 pint of milk in a double boiler and cook 10 minutes. When cool stir in 1 pint of cream, 1 teaspoon of vanilla and the beaten white of 1 egg, and freeze.

FUDGE WITH WATER.

Milk is not a necessary ingredient of good fudge, according to a candy maker who is famous among all his friends for her delicious concoctions. She learned this by experience in making fudge one day when the milk bottle was empty and all the stores closed. To two cups of white granulated sugar, add a pinch of salt and enough water to make a thick but easily poured liquid, about one-half cup. Put it on the stove and let it come to a boil, stirring gently. Then set it back where it will cook rather slowly, stirring occasionally, to prevent the sugar from caking on the sides or bottom of the pan. When done, try as usual in ice water, or any preferred way. Remove from the fire and stir in a lump of butter as large as a walnut. Let the fudge cool, then add one-half teaspoon of vanilla extract and beat until thick and creamy. Fudge made this way should have the consistency of open caramel and a particularly delicious flavor.

ADVICE TO GIRLS By Rosalind

DEAR ROSALIND: I wish to ask your advice on a very serious question. I am a young girl of 20 years. My parents have chosen for me a young man who is very well off and very agreeable, but by no means lovable. They wish me to marry him at once. He can give me everything I could wish for and also a good social position.

But I love another man, the dearest one in the whole world. He gets $25 a week and only has about $500 in the bank. I love him with my whole heart and he loves me and he is so unselfish. He says that all he could ever give me would be his quest, and since I love and half of everything he has.

Now I would very much like to tell this other man to go away and leave me to my dear, dear friend of my father. I will tell you that he has that effect on nearly everyone. He makes you obey, and when you look at him, you know you have to behave.

"Now, what can I do? I would rather live in a wee three-roomed cottage with my dear, dear boy than live in a big, lonely house with a man I never can love and where I would have to be forever pretending because 'I am the wife of Mr. ...'"

Why should my parents spoil my happiness? Mother would help me, but she does not contradict father. You only want, and things may adjust themselves in a year, or even two.

DEAR ROSALIND: I am a returned imperial officer, and I certainly feel very sorry for Lonely Audrey, whose letter I saw in your column, and the event of my being discharged, I can give her nice employment, as I shall need someone to answer my phone in office, that is if she would care to do this. I may state that I have no friends in this city, and so I am sure that I feel lonely. I sincerely hope that you will pardon my writing to your page, but as I have been overseas two and a half years, I feel that I have a whole world, in a way, turned upside down. You may, perhaps, laugh when I tell you that I have a wife, but if you think it proper, I shall be delighted if I can make this lonely girl a little happier.

MY DEAR SIR: Thank you very much for your spontaneous and kind offer. The world has indeed turned topsy-turvy, and indeed strange things are happening all around us, but if in the grand shuffle we learn to be a little more considerate, a little more charitable in our dealings with, and our thoughts of other people, perhaps, after all, the whole terrible upheaval may be a blessing in disguise. I have heard from Audrey again. I asked her to send me her name, but she may have missed my answer to her letter. I have a line made up between the time my correspondents write, and when the answers appear in the paper. If I hear, I shall gladly publish her reply to you. Write again.

DEAR MARGUERITE: Your question is indeed serious. Here, in Canada, girls are accustomed to decide these things for themselves, but that nearly always means with the help of father and mother. But where the parents and daughter have decided opposite opinions on the subject, the problem is quite complicated. I feel sure, Marguerite, that your mother would dare a great deal before she would risk your happiness. Put it to her that way, and ask for time at any rate. Ask her to have your father let the matter stand for a year, or even two. You are only twenty, and things may adjust themselves in a year, or even two.

DEAR ROSALIND: I am a young fellow of 18, and have a strong admiration for a girl a few months my junior, but I really cannot say that I am in love with her (as I believe I am two young to be in love). Altho we have both been brought up together, and I think I know her a little better than mine. I often take her out to dances and the theatre, but as yet have never kissed her or spoken a word about keeping steady company. Now we both have older sisters and brothers that are very interested in us, and I have to be leaving for the States in the near future do you think I should ask her to wait for me, or would you advise me to say nothing?

ANXIOUS.

DEAR BOY: You have answered yourself—any nothing. Write to her, of course; her letters will give you good. Then when you are older, if you come back here and find you are both still very fond of each other, you will be better prepared to "keep steady company" than if you became engaged now.

MY DEAR ROSALIND: It has taken me a long time to summon up courage to write you, but I have at last decided that you won't mind helping me out of this little love problem. It may seem rather silly to you, but I have shed many tears over it.

I am now seventeen, and going to school, going thru for a teacher. About three years ago I met a certain young man about twenty-two, he was well educated, and I became very fond of him, altho I was only with him about three or four times for he went away, and two years ago he went away, and I am almost sure I will never see him again. I have never forgotten him for one day, and I never think I shall. So, what can I do? I have a lovely home, mother, father, brothers and sisters, and a girl friend that I love almost as strongly as the man.

I have never told any one anything about this man except my mother and sisters, but they seem to take it as a joke, of course I don't want them to think otherwise. I don't think this young man has ever thought of me since he went away. He is still going to college.

There are plenty of other boys, and I like them, but they seem to have, oh, so many faults compared to this one particular man. Of course, I don't go out with boys, as my parents would not allow me. Well, I must not take up any more of your precious time.

LEONE.

MY DEAR LEONE: As I such a terrible person that it requires courage to write to me? I know I staid very often, but only when it is very, very necessary. Your love does not seem at all silly to me. Every girl of 17 has her ideal lover. Some times he is a real person, some times he is a wonderful unknown, conjured out of books, and fancy—but always he is very ideal. That is as it should be; for it is a person that she is in love with, not a person. The personal element comes in because one must put the ideal into human form. Idealize your man as much as you like. Eventually when the reality, very prince arrives you will find the first man's likeness has faded, but the love dream has come true.

LAID FOUNDATION.

Rev. Dr. Gandier, principal of Knox College, Toronto, preaching at St. Columba's Presbyterian Church, corner of St. Clair avenue and Vaughan road, yesterday morning, congratulated the congregation on the new name of their church, St. Columba, and said it was necessary to have a high vision of service to live up to worthy a name. "The thro way in which the reformation was brought about by John Knox was due very largely to the splendid foundation laid by St. Columba," said the speaker. "The Scottish people never looked upon ignorance as being the mother of piety and always considered that a thorough education worked hand in hand with evangelism. Perhaps with the exception of John Knox, no other name in the religious life of Scotland was greater than St. Columba," said Dr. Gandier.

ONE WEEK'S BUDGET FOR FAMILY OF FIVE.

Canada Food Board Issues a Call to Every Canadian Family.

Food budgets are now being issued by the Canada Food Board. If Canadian families follow these budgets faithfully the food board believes that it will be possible to conserve the needed foods and maintain physical efficiency. The desire is to give the family sufficient food and also to save for the soldiers overseas. The following is a week's budget for a family of five:

Meat and meat substitutes: 4 pounds meat, 2 pounds fresh fish, 1 pound salt fish, 1 dozen eggs, 1 pound cheese, 2 pounds dried or split peas.

Fats: 2 pounds butter or oleomargarine, 1 pound cooking fat.

Milk: 7 quarts whole milk. Sugars: 3 pounds sugar, 1 pound corn syrup, molasses or honey. Cereal products: 10 pounds flour, 10 pounds cereals in other forms. Fresh vegetables: 40 pounds potatoes, 14 pounds other fresh vegetables. Fruit: 14 pounds according to season.

In the budget given beef and pork are avoided, and for the 4 pounds of meat, mutton, sausage, poultry, rabbit, game, tongue, heart, liver and kidneys are suggested.

As sugar is needed for overseas, corn syrup should be substituted whenever possible. Wheat also is needed for overseas, so every effort should be made to secure other flours. If bread is purchased deduct 10 ounces flour for each pound of bread bought.

At a pinch common white blankets can be cut up and used for baby blankets.

Five articles of food (or fewer) are enough for any person to eat at any one meal.

In every family the old and young should be supplied with the food they need.

Lockie Wilson Advocates the Standardizing of Farm Implements

Union Government Presents Opportunity of Securing This Radical Reform, the Carrying Thru of Which Would Save Money and Time for the Farmer, Cheaper the Cost of Manufacture, and Effect Saving in the Cost of Selling Repairs.

J. LOCKIE WILSON.

Standardization in the manufacture of farm implements, particularly the broad, heavy, wearable parts thereof, was the subject of an address by J. Lockie Wilson, superintendent of the agricultural and horticultural societies branch of the Ontario Government, delivered at the convention of the Manitoba Agricultural Societies in Winnipeg during the third week of February.

After his return from Winnipeg Mr. Wilson granted a special interview on this important topic to a reporter for The World, and mentioned that "standardization was an accomplished fact in many important branches of manufacture. The need of the hour was greater and cheaper production of foodstuffs as well as munitions, guns, rifles, motor trucks and airplanes. As it will be the dire necessity of a starving world for years to come, even should peace be declared tomorrow, it is no reason why the farmer should be left to his own devices in the manufacture of farm implements which help to feed the world," said Mr. Wilson.

"I speak from the standpoint of years of experience as a practical farmer as well as from many years in public life and in close association with agriculturists and leading farmers' organizations in this country. I see no reason why the farmer should be left to his own devices in the manufacture of farm implements which help to feed the world," said Mr. Wilson.

inventor would receive the proper reward for his genius." "Would it not make these repairs more expensive?" asked the reporter. "On the contrary," said Mr. Wilson, "the standardizing of designs would enable the manufacturers to produce more cheaply, and a further saving would result by lessening the cost of selling repairs. Instead of several, one merchant could handle the repairs in a locality for a dozen different manufacturers of standardized machines. What would happen on the western front at this testing time if this idea of standardization had not been partially adopted? But it has been, and the munitions for British guns are made to suit those of all our allies."

"Under the present system it is reasonable to say that a plow manufacturer by any of the large manufacturers will do good work. The same can be said of binders and many other implements. When a farmer buys a certain make, however, he is placed in the awkward position of being compelled to purchase his repairs from the agent of this same manufacturer for the simple reason that those of other manufacturers will not fit his implement. The needed repair may be only a plow point or a similar small, but vital part of a binder or reaper, but a farmer in outlying districts frequently has to pay exorbitant prices for, and wait days to get delivery of repairs necessary for the harvesting of his already ripened crop, or have his plowing in a late season seriously delayed."

Liberty Motor Evolution. "With the well-known example of the Liberty motor before them it should be possible for the government to arrange a meeting of manufacturers without delay in the interests of standardizing farm implements. Progress is calling for this reform."

"How did your proposition appeal to the western farmer?" asked the reporter. "After discussing the matter fully from all their viewpoints the resolution was carried without a dissenting voice."

"Since the farmers' convention in Winnipeg where this proposition was fully discussed, there arrived in New York a delegation from the British Government for the purpose of co-operating with our American allies in standardizing motor trucks, airplanes and other implements with a view to more successful prosecution of the war."

"My suggestion would be to have the federal government appoint a commission of mechanical experts to examine farm machinery such as binders, mowers, seeders, cultivators, plows, etc., produced by the different manufacturers, and embody the best features of the comparatively few different makes in a standard design. The government might take over the patent rights covering the minor differences and thus uniform implements and repairs would replace the many types of machines of slightly differing design now manufactured, but which entail serious loss of time and money to the tiller of the soil, whose interests at this time we all have at heart."

"Would this interfere with inventive genius?" asked the reporter. "On the contrary," said Mr. Wilson, "the inventor could submit designs to the government experts, and any improvements of real value would be purchased by the government and the inventor would receive the proper reward for his genius."

Resolution Carried Unanimously By the Big Convention of Agriculturists of Western Canada Held Recently in Winnipeg

That in consideration of the shortage of farm labor and the urgent necessity for increased food production, the agriculturists of Manitoba in convention assembled, are of the opinion that the time has come when farm machinery should be standardized, particularly the breakable, wearable parts thereof, and that the federal government be asked to take immediate steps to bring together representatives of the farm machinery manufacturers of Canada who, in co-operation with a committee of mechanical experts appointed by the government, would examine the various makes of farm implements with a view to evolving the best possible standard types of labor-saving machines for use on Canadian farms, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Sir Robert Borden, prime minister, and Hon. T. A. Crerar, Dominion minister, of agriculture.

THE EARLY VEGETABLE GARDEN

A subscriber submits the following: This season possibly suggests to the reader that the time mentioned should be placed a month or two later—Editor.

By C. H. P. It is quite possible for the average person to cultivate a portion of land large enough to supply the family table with vegetables. The effort is indispensable, as much as it also affords a means of wholesome and well recompensed exercise.

The amateur gardener often pays an enormous price for some highly prized novelty and becomes disgusted when reaping the crop to find it unsatisfactory. We do not mean to insinuate that all seedmen exaggerate the qualities of their varieties, for the reputable firms only offer their seeds after having been thoroughly tested and found worthy of distribution. For this reason it is advisable to secure your seeds from any of the old and well-known establishments.

Liberty Motor Evolution. In the fall, after several light frosts, all rubbish and vines should be burned, thereby destroying the eggs and hiding places of troublesome insects. An application of horse manure, which does not contain too much straw is then made.

This is plowed under and the earth allowed to remain coarse, to be crumbled up by the alternate freezing and thawing of winter.

MONO. Robert McKim has sold the west half of lot five, concession five, East Mono, to Elgin Williams of Caledon for $6500.

A PICTURE. (Christian Science Monitor) Straightly drives the shining plowshare wading earth from winter's dream. Straightly plods the faithful plowman crooning low his patient team; Floek the white-winged gulls around him.

Early Maturing Peas. Planting peas in the middle of March is best for early use. If the soil has been prepared early and is dry on the surface, this can be effected with good success. An early maturing round pea is most satisfactory.

Hot Bed Crops. Cabbage and tomatoes are the principal hot bed crops, but they should not be sown in the frame, as cabbage requires a cooler temperature than tomatoes. Early Jersey Wakefield is the first variety to mature, but Large Wakefield yields far more and is only a week later.

THERE are four important things that should be considered by every person when buying fencing this season.

- 1st—The reputation of the manufacturer.
- 2nd—The quality of his product.
- 3rd—The value.
- 4th—The length of service.

The higher the manufacturer's reputation the more jealously he guards against anything that would tend to injure it. A manufacturer with a continent-wide reputation for integrity, square dealing and the honest quality of his products, such as has been attained by the Frost Steel and Wire Company, is always eager to maintain his position as the leader in his line. The Frost reputation and leadership insures a safe fence investment to the buyer.

No other fence-maker in Canada or any other country puts more downright quality into his fence than the Frost Steel and Wire Company. Frost Fence is not made of ordinary commercial wire. We buy the raw material and draw it into Frost Full Gauge No. 9 Hard Steel Wire. We put that elastic "give-and-take" into it that has made Frost Woven Fence famous for the strains it will bear. We also put that coat of pure zinc spelter on the wire that makes Frost galvanizing stand the Canadian weather as no other fence has ever been able to do.

U-BOATS MISSED SPLENDID CHANCES

In Early Days of War British Fleet Lacked Efficient Protection.

Hull, England, Feb. 9.—(Correspondence)—How seriously the German submarine might have crippled the British navy in the early days of the war, when there was not a single British naval harbor protected from submarine attack, was told this week by Lord Jellicoe, formerly first sea lord of the admiralty.

"The work of the fleet was a good deal more arduous in the early days of the war than it has been since," said Lord Jellicoe. "In those days there were no bases protected from submarine attack, and the fleet was hunted from pillar to post to find security to carry out the necessary operations of coaling. Some of the most interesting operations were performed under very exciting conditions, the base being open to any submarine that cared to come in."

"If the Germans knew it they never had the pluck to try it. If they had, so they might have reaped a rich harvest. But we always had to be thinking of the possibility of such an attack, and whenever we made a move, we were constantly anxious moments—amusing to look back upon, I mean, but not amusing at the time. There were constant scares of submarines, and we knew that if a submarine got inside the harbor it might sink a battleship, and that the whole of the fleet would be in jeopardy. Put yourself in such a position and you may be able to appreciate a little the anxiety that I felt whenever a signal was given that a submarine had been sighted."

"As usual in times of anxiety we called upon the merchant marine and an arrangement was made that if a submarine got inside a base merchant ships should place themselves along the coast, and the warships could be under way. Then if the torpedoes were fired the merchant ships would receive their instead of the arrangement. The merchant marine, as usual, did exactly what they were asked. Scores of small craft were ordered to keep the water open, and if they saw it, to endeavor to ram it. The conditions of sea and weather, that many collisions did not occur. The skill with which the whole program was carried out, time after time, was a great testimony to the seamanship of those in charge of the trawlers and bigger ships."

"The British grand fleet could not exist without trawlers. One of the omissions in our pre-war naval policy was that we left the navy absolutely unprotected with vessels of the trawler type. When we were attacked, it was not only the trawlers that were lost, but the fleet itself. So it is not too much to say that we owe the fact that we were not completely destroyed to the fact that we had a large number of trawlers in the fleet."

"The Aland Islands, geographically, are as much a part of Sweden as of Denmark. It is a direct blow against Sweden and, in a less degree, against Denmark and Norway, and is in line with the German endeavor to bring about a complete isolation of the German Empire."

GERMANS ABUSE SCANDINAVIANS

Berlin Press Accuses Sweden of Favoring Entente Allies.

ATTACKS INSPIRED German Government Aims at Fastening Grip on Northern Lands.

London, March 10.—The newest and most novel display of German policy has come in the form of a sudden broadside of denunciation of the Scandinavian countries by German newspapers and publicists, the Count Reuter of the Tageszeitung. From the similarity of the articles it is evident that they are directed by one mind, and apparently by the German Government.

The articles accuse the Scandinavian countries substantially of being accomplices of the entente and war the torpedoes it carried. Put yourself in such a position and you may be able to appreciate a little the anxiety that I felt whenever a signal was given that a submarine had been sighted."
