Particularly is this true of the trees. "The groves were God's first temples," and in countries as widely separated as Mexico and India, Madagascar and Sweden, tree worship was one of the first religions of the inhabitants. It surrounded the Israelites in Palestine, and they were so prone to fall into the ways of their neighbors that the patriarchs had to issue the command, "Thou shalt not plant thee a grove of any trees. (Deut., xvi., 21.) The fig tree was sacred in Egypt, Japan and India. The Romans, too, held it in high regard, for they believed that with its overhanging branches it had stayed the floating basket that contained the infant twins, Romulus and Remus. Most of the sacred groves that decked the seven hills of the Imperial City were of oak, and in far-away Britain the same tree was

It was the common belief that good or bad spirits were shut up in the giants of the forests, where sometimes they talked and moaned and sang, always exerting a benign or evil influence upon man. So it became necessary to ye onything. But ye can just gie the appease the wrath of the tree spirits if they were evil, and praise them if they were good. Many of the customs practiced today are merely remnants of these widespread historic rites. The Hon. George E. Foster's explanation superstition originated by the hoary priests of the pagan Celts, that any injury to an oak would be severely punished by the presiding deity of that tree, lasted long in England, and has not wholly died out yet in Brittany. After most of the traces of Druldism as a religion had been obliterated, and this superstition has joined the ranks of the forgotten, the English began to look upon the oak as a sort of weather bureau, and even today in many parts of the "tight little isle" the following

Jaeger's Underwear for Ladies

The Jaegar Sanitary Woolen Underwear is, without doubt, the highest-grade underwear on the market today.

It is as near perfection as human ingenuity and skill can make it.

Dr. Jaegar-a famous specialist-was the originator. He spent years studying and experimenting before he perfected this brand of underwear.

There are three distinct features wherein Jaeger's underwear differs from the ordinary kinds: First-It is made of pure, unadulterated animal wool, no unsanitary cotton or linen threads are mixed with it, and it is of natural color-undyed. Not dyed to resemble natural colors; most underwear is. The chemicals in dyes exercise a harmful influence on the skin, you know. Second-It is a POROUS STOCKINET WEB, which allows fresh air to find ingress and circulate around the body, the damp vapor exhaled by the body to escape. Perfectly sanitary, you see, and Jaeger underwear is so soft that it doesn't irritate the most sensitive skin. Third-DOUBLE THICKNESS OVER CHEST, where the most protection is desirable Come and let us show you this high-class under-

We will be pleased to hand you a booklet describing Jaeger Underwear in detail. It contains much valuable information on the underwear question. The Galt Football Club has received an offer to go to Chicago and St. Louis and play teams in those cities. The offer entails a week's trip and a series of five games. If the Galt people consent, the games will be played the latter part of this month.

In the world of pugdom there was but one match of importance pulled off. That was the one in which Tommy Burns beat Denver Jim Flynn in 15 savage rounds. It was feared for a time that the loser would not come to but he evidently did.

In the racing world last week there was going at Hamilton, Brighton Beach and Louisville.

The e is no end of talk about Rugby football being rough. Those who are always finding fault with Rugby should have seen the Cornwall-Capitals lacrosse game at Cornwall on Saturday. Judging by the telegraphic accounts it has Rugby beaten at every stage.

The Hamilton Tigers took Peterboro's seniors on on Saturday. The rasterners were not in the same class with Ballard's boys from the Bluff, being defeated 37 to 0. Peterboro, certainly can't have a team of the same calber as it did a few years since. Nevertheless, Hamiltonians will have visions of the championship rag already.

Ballard and DuMoulin were both on the Hamilton team at Peterboro on Saturday. It looks as if the reported difficulty between the two players has been patched up.

The Tecumsehs and Capitals are now to play off for the lacrosse champlonship. The Indians have been playing a fast game, and from here it looks as though they have a fair chance to win. The Caps, however, are a

Lacal sport lovers had no cause for complaint in regard to a dearth of sporting events during the past week. The quoiting tournament, in which Jimmy Bell took down the Hyman trophy, was a whole show in itself, not to mention the various other equally interesting events which came off. The City Soccer League opened its season, when the strong Y. M. C. A. and the Wolseley Barracks teams came together on Thursday, the former team winning. The Medicos and the McClary teams of this league played a game Saturday, the former winning, 8 to 0. In the City Tenpin League the Lotos still retain a slight lead. SINS OF THE DAY TRACED TO BOOKS

Rev. Father Tobin, at St. Mary's Church.-Denounces Bad Literature.

Rev. Father Tobin yesterday morning preached on the subject of proper literature for the home. Each month his hollness asks the prayers of the faithful for some papal intention to uplift mankind, and this month the Catholic Church is using its best endeavors, by prayer, advice and deed, to have nothing but moral literature in the homes.

Father Tobin claimed that the great proportion of the sins of the day can be traced to evil literature. The father who will not allow his child to meddle with poisonous drugs will heedlessly allow in his home the insidious novel or newspaper which corrups the youthful mind. To yellow newspapers and trashy novels may be traced many of the evils of the day, including lack of respect for parents, condoning of crime, etc.

Infidelity and immorality in the old world had been fostered by a free intercourse with bad books and periodicals. Father Tobin added that although the public library is a means of education to many, it could prove nothing but dangerous to the community if a close watch was not kept on the class of books. It has been the experience everywhere that the public library breeds a clientele of novel readers, who seek the cheap, trashy His Lordship Preaches on Occasion of sand is worth the reading, and most of them find a demand from the public through being "spicy." It was the same with libraries in factories.
