14 KILLED AS U.S. AIRSHIP FALLS

Mayor Scored For 'Slanderous Attack' On City's Railway

DIRIGIBLE BREAKS INTO THREE PARTS DURING OHIO GALE

Fourteen Killed When Giant Air Cruiser Shenandoah Is Destroyed —Was Travelling at Altitude of 3,000 Feet When Hit by Squall—Majority of Dead Are Found in Control Cabin of Wrecked Craft—Was On Tour of Western and Middle States.

HEROIC EFFORTS MADE TO SAVE SHIP

Caldwell, Ohio, Sept. 3.—The giant dirigible Shenandoah of the United States navy is no more. It went down in three pieces early today and killed its commander, Lieutenant-Commander Zachary Lansdowne, and at least thirteen of the officers and men making up her crew.

The airship struck a line squall—a variety of storm most feared by airmen—shortly after 5 o'clock this morning near this Noble county village, while travelling at an altitude of 3,000 feet, en route from Lakehurst, N. J., to the west.

There was no explosion. The big ship simply met winds of a strength which it was unable to combat. After encountering the storm at the high altitude the ship headed heavenwards to an altitude of approximately 5,000 feet, when it suddenly came down again and broke into three pieces. One piece, 450 feet or more in length, fell in a field about 1½ miles from Ava. The control compartment in which the commander and navigating crew were riding, fell 50 feet away, and the third section, 150 feet long, drifted through the air like a free balloon for 12 miles, landing near Sharon, Noble county, Ohio.

Dead in Control Cabin.

Most of the dead were found in the tangled wreckage of the control cabin, where a full crew was on duty attempting to ride out the buffeting winds which resulted in the complete destruction of the giant of the air.

Ambulances and other conveyances which carried physicians and nurses to the scene, following the accident, were transporting the dead and injured to nearby towns. Those who met death in the unsuccessful flight against the elements were taken to Belle Valley, while the injured were scattered in the various hospitals of the community.

The story of the disaster is one of heroism of the crew, pioneers in the interest of the development of lighter-than-air transportation. It is best told by Colonel C. G. Hall, United States army observer aboard the ill-fated ship.

"We were travelling west at an altitude of about 3,000 feet when we encountered a storm," Col. Hall said, in describing the accident. "In changing our course a dozen or more times, we dodged it, only to encounter the line squall which sent us to an altitude of 5,500 feet before we realized what had happened.

"We opened the valves to let out gas and lowered the ship and were drawing away from the storm at a 50 miles per hour rate when the storm enveloped us and broke the ship into three pieces. I exclaimed to Commander Lansdowne: 'Everyone beat it.' When the crash came I was on the ladder leading from the control cabin to the rear portion of

Was Out on His Final Flight

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Sept. 3.—Commander Zachary Lansdowne, in charge of the Shenandoah, who was killed today in the fall of the airship, is understood to have told his friends several days ago that he expected to be relieved of his command of the airship after the mid-western trip to return to sea duty on September 15.

The order for his transfer was said to have reached him about a week ago.

SEAPLANE SEARCH BEING CONTINUED

Missing PN-9 No. 1 May Have Been Beached on Some Abandoned Island.

Associated Press Despatch.

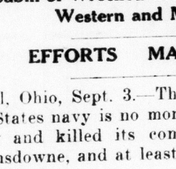

San Francisco, Sept. 3.—Search for the missing seaplane PN—9 No. 1 and crew which disappeared in mid-Pacific Tuesday afternoon after riding along on the high hope of reaching Honolulu on a record-breaking flight, continued today after overnight reports to naval headquarters from searching surface and aircraft brought no word of the lost airmen.

The most favorable theory advanced was that the plane had made a successful landing in the ocean less than three hundred miles off the Hawaiian coast at 1:45 Tuesday, drifted out of the search area, and was beached on some abandoned island point.

The navy withdrew from further attempts to make a non-stop flight to Honolulu from San Francisco.

U. S. Dirigible Wrecked By Ohio Storm

THE AIRSHIP SHENANDOAH, FORMERLY ZR-1.

The above picture shows the Shenandoah, the giant U. S. navy air cruiser, which was destroyed this morning in a windstorm while travelling over the state of Ohio. In the breaking up of the craft, which came to earth in three pieces, fourteen men including the commander, met death. The Shenandoah was built at Lakehurst, N. J., in the summer of 1923, and named the ZR-1, afterwards being rechristened the Shenandoah. She was 681 feet in length, weight 75,000 pounds, and had a speed of 60 miles an hour. A crew of 42 were required. The above photograph was taken during the airship's first tests showing the special steel mooring masts used to hold the craft.

Shenandoah Last Word In Airship Construction

Was the Only Strictly Military Dirigible in the United States.

681 FEET IN LENGTH

Broke From Her Mooring Mast in January, But Rode Out Storm.

Associated Press Despatch.

Washington, Sept. 3.—The Shenandoah was the only strictly military dirigible in the United States. The property of the navy, it was equipped with machine guns and to be used for purposes of war, whereas its sister ship, the Los Angeles, was constructed in Germany and flown to the United States under an arrangement of the Versailles treaty, providing that it should be used only for non-military purposes.

The Shenandoah was designed on the basis of the German Zeppelin Z-49, which fell in the Vosges during the war, but all available aircraft information was utilized by a special committee of engineers and experts appointed by the national advisory committee for aeronautics in drawing the plans, so that it represented a modification of the Zeppelin design with many American ideas utilized.

Built at Lakehurst, N. J., from parts made at the naval aircraft factory in Philadelphia, the huge craft was placed in service in September, 1923, as the ZR-1, its construction having required two years. Subsequently, on Navy day, Oct. 27, 1923, it was christened the Shenandoah, an Indian name, meaning "Daughter of the Stars." The following were its dimensions:

Length, 681 feet.
Diameter, 78 feet.
Height, 96 feet.
Gas capacity, 2,115,000 cubic feet.
Total lift, about 130,000 pounds.
Dead weight, about 75,000 pounds.
Speed, full, 60 miles an hour.
Power plant, five 6-cylinder 500-h.p. engines.
Cruising radius, without stopping, 4,000 miles.

The frame was constructed of duralumin, an alloy of aluminum, copper and manganese, which combined the strength of light steel with one-third the weight. Within this were cells containing the gas, and over all was a cover of cloth fabric. Eight thousand gallons of gasoline could be carried on the ship. It was

French Fortress Taken by Rebels

Associated Press Despatch.

French aeroplanes afterward demolished the town with bombs, according to the report.

MUST USE UNION LABOR FOR HOTEL

Promoters Will Make Stipulation in Sub-Contracts—Mass Meeting Tonight.

"I am confident that this hotel vote is going to be favorable," declared J. J. McHale, president of the hotel campaign committee, at a well attended luncheon at Smallman & Ingram's today, "but nevertheless, we should leave no stone unturned to carry the bylaws, because it means too much to the community to allow failure to be written after this vote."

James G. Trainer, vice-president of the Lynch Construction Company, New York, promoters of the new hotel, and W. A. Lyman, vice-president of W. W. Ahlschlager, Incor., Chicago, architects for the building, were present and addressed the meeting, answering certain questions put to them by campaign workers.

A. E. Silverwood was chosen to act as chairman of the mass meeting to be held on federal square tonight, the site of the new hotel, when the speakers will be J. J. McHale, Mayor G. A. Wenige, John S. Moore, Dr. Alfred J. Grant, J. G. Trainer, W. A. Lyman and others. All questions asked by ratepayers interested will be fully and satisfactorily answered. The purpose of the gathering, which is under the auspices of the campaign committee, is to inform the voters on all points of the proposition, and to remove any doubts which have been aroused by those opposed to the new hotel.

Opposition Letter.

An unsigned letter has been circulated by those opposed to the hotel, the chief points of which are the claim that the exchange of sites is not in the interests of the city and that the stores in the hotel will get the benefit of the fixed assessment being granted the hotel. Both of these points are not substantiated by the facts, according to D. F. Glass, publicity chairman of the campaign committee, who expressed strong resentment this morning that those opposed to the hotel had not come out in the open by attaching their signatures to the letter they have sent out. On the other hand the campaign committee, and in fact all other committees that have worked on the proposition, have done everything above board.

Speaking at the luncheon today MBr. Trainer declared that the Lynch Construction company will make only 10 per cent as the maximum on the new building and that the statement that the construction company would make 25 per cent is quite untrue. He added that his company would bring in only two or three men in connection with the job, the total cost of which will run $1,550,000

MAY ADD BOAT TO LAKE RUN

Western Reserve Navigation Co. May Start Two-Steamer Service.

So profitable has been Western Ontario's response to the daily boat service reinaugurated this year between Port Stanley and Cleveland that a two-steamer fleet is a strong possibility for next year. This was the prediction made this morning by F. B. Clarke, local broker, and Western Ontario representative of the Western Reserve Navigation Company, of Cleveland, operators of the City of St. Ignace, which now plies between Port and the Ohio capital.

Line officials had under serious consideration the switching of the Colonial to the Port Stanley service next year, Mr. Clarke said, but the sinking of that boat on Tuesday last will necessitate a change in plans. Mr. Clarke is of the opinion that the Western Reserve will add two steamers to its fleet before next season and that one of them will be placed in service with the St. Ignace.

If the extended service matures, Port Stanley will have both morning and evening connections with Cleveland, permitting the inaugural of a fast freigth service and a doubly satisfactory passenger schedule.

"The Western Reserve Navigation Company has great faith in Port Stanley as a link with the United States," Mr. Clarke declared, "and its officials have asked me to extend the thanks of the line to the people of Western Ontario for the splendid patronage they have given the service this summer.

"Freight business has been especially gratifying and I myself believe that this year's showing fully warrants the trial of a two-boat service next year.

PERCY WHITE IS GIVEN FIVE-YEAR SENTENCE

Toronto Youth Was Convicted of Attempt To Rob Bank.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Five years in Portsmouth penitentiary was the sentence given Percy B. White, convicted of an attempt to hold up a bank branch, by Magistrate Jones in police court today. In passing sentence, his worship said that White's offense was "one of potential murder."

White attempted to hold up a branch of the Imperial Bank three weeks ago, securing a little over $1,000 from the teller, who gave chase when White left the bank. Others joined the pursuit and White was captured shortly after. A loaded revolver was found in his possession.

MOSLEMS WOULD STOP ALL SALE OF LIQUOR

Associated Press Despatch.

Simla, British India, Sept. 3.—The assembly yesterday discussed a bill introduced by Moslem members for total prohibition of the sale of liquor. A non-Mohammedan amendment advocating prohibition as the ultimate policy of the government, but suggesting that in the meantime power of control should be given local governing bodies, was carried by a vote of 69 to 39.

S. LONDON DEMANDS BUS LINE

Municipal Service Will Be Insisted On If Street Railway Tie-Up Lasts.

ALD. DOIG IS MOVER

Council Committee Will Carry Ultimatum to Railway Company.

A municipal bus service will be demanded by South Londoners, unless the London street railway company shows early inclination to improve its Ridout service and take action for the reconstruction of the old Ridout street bridge.

A special committee of the city council will make known the threat of South London citizens and seek satisfaction from the street railway. Ald. Paul Doig, who has frequently brought the matter to the attention of the city fathers is insistent in his present demands.

"We should not have to provide a bridge for the street railway to use on Ridout street," he says. "But we want good transportation and it is time the company was taking some action to provide it."

Company Makes Plea

A plea of financial difficulties is registered by officials of the street railway company. Several thousand dollars are being spent on bridge repairs at the present time, and the present repair work to tracks on Ridout street is proving costly.

Unlooked for difficulties have resulted from repairs started on York street. Pavement there was laid 23 years ago and the railway tracks were put down in solid concrete, without ties.

Now the company has to work night and day, using city-owned pneumatic excavators to tear up the solid concrete, and then lay new ties. The work is proving so expensive in the block between Richmond and Talbot streets that the company has little thought of going ahead with similar work in the next block west.

Widening Opposed.

At the same time opposition is shown by residents in the districts to widening of the street, as suggested by the mayor to the board of works this week. This attitude may hold up paving of the street.

While South London residents are naturally joyful over the improvement made to the car tracks on York street, this section has been only a small part of their worries. Ridout street traction bridge remains closed. Askin street is unpaved, and hundreds of citizens in the far south find the journey to and from the downtown districts long and tedious.

"Our idea is to take the matter to the street railway and get their attitude in time for the next meeting of No. 1 committee," says Ald. Doig. "The company has fiddled away long enough while the people suffered. They ought to know by now what is going to be done."

LARGE WINERY ERECTED HERE

Building to the East of Lambeth Highway To Be in Operation Soon.

The construction of a new winery, financed with local capital, is thought to establish a record for speedy construction here. The new building stands to the east of the Lambeth highway opposite the Beck-Foster well at the top of a two-mile hill. The plant, which is now practically complete, has been erected in less than a month. Huge casks holding hundreds of gallons each have been installed in the plant and the manufacture of native wine will commence in the immediate future.

The grapes for this year's production will come from the Niagara peninsula, as the officials of the new company have not had sufficient time to organize local grape growers. Next year it is hoped that enough local grapes can be contracted for to give the industry a purely local character. The new plant will take the place in production formerly held by a similar plant at St. Catharines.

This year's production will run 2,000 gallons or better, and an increase in production will be attained when a suitable supply of local grapes can be arranged for.

The president of the new company is A. N. Knowles and the manager is J. C. Knowles, both experienced manufacturers.

FINE 2,510 SPEEDERS.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Sept. 6.—Scorching motorists are being frowned on by London magistrates. During the first three months of this year 2,573 were prosecuted in the Metropolitan district for speeding, of whom 2,510 were convicted.

OFFICIAL HITS BACK AT MAYOR

Commissioner Philip Pocock Declares Attack on L. & P. S. R. Not Made in Ignorance.

ROAD HAS SURPLUS

A "Scheme To Shatter Faith in Public Ownership," He Calls Wenige Tirade.

"The mayor's attack on the London and Port Stanley Railway is so slanderous that it never could have been made in ignorance."

In such words of condemnation does Philip Pocock, public utilities commissioner, sum up Mayor Wenige's renewed drive against continued municipal operation of the Port Stanley railway.

"It's a scheme to try to shatter faith in public ownership," declares Mr. Pocock. "A scheme to slander public ownership in order that the thought of ever owning the London street railway will be driven from people's minds. The malicious attack is designed to help the London street railway company get a new 20-year franchise."

The Charges.

Before a meeting of the finance committee of the city council last night the mayor suggested that a vote be taken in December to discover the ratepayers' attitude towards a new debenture issue for the L. and P. S. R. Mr. Wenige declared that the railway was losing money hand over fist, that an overdraft of $500,000 has already been piled up, and that the road will lose $140,000 this year.

The mayor is inclined to boost the idea that a new debenture issue be voted on, but isn't at all sure that London will support the issuance of a new loan to cover up what he alleges is a half million dollar deficit.

Supporters of public ownership, however, assert that the mayor is all wrong in his asserted presumption that the company is in debt.

Surplus Is Claimed.

"Books show that up to the end of 1924 there was a surplus of $55,000."

SANSONE FACES TROUBLE AGAIN

London's "Bad Boy" Charged With Breaking Parole and Concealing Saws.

Sylvadore Sansone, who earned for himself the title of the "bad boy" of London and who had a penitentiary sentence reduced to a term in the Ontario reformatory at Guelph, is now in the Guelph jail awaiting trial at the fall assizes on a charge of breaking parole as well as having been caught with hack saws in his possession.

Sansone was sentenced to Kingston penitentiary with lashes by Mr. Justice Riddell, but the appeal court reduced the sentence. Sansone was removed to Guelph last spring, and according to officials of the reformatory has given his jailers a "rotten time".

The London youth fought with guards and companions alike, but was smart enough to get two saws smuggled into his possession. He was caught working on his cell bars, according to a prisoner released from the institution last week and was removed to the Guelph prison.

It is not the first time that Sansone has been caught sawing cell bars. When doing time at the Middlesex jail several years ago, he was placed in the same cell as "Slim" Williams, Melbourne bank robber. Between them they managed to saw several iron bars before their saws were worn smooth. They waited patiently for two more saws to be smuggled into them, but their work was discovered in the meantime by Governor Carter and his turnkeys.

Thomas Fox, who was with Sansone on the wild automobile ride that resulted in prison terms, is serving his sentence, with lashes, at Kingston penitentiary.

Night's Weird Happenings Drive Family From Home

Terrorized by weird noises, slamming of doors, and ghostly shadows the family of W. Winter, 266 Wellington street is planning to vacate the house into which they moved only last Saturday.

For the past two nights the children and women of the household have refused to sleep upstairs. Tuesday night the supernatural visitor, gave the first indication of his appearance when steps were heard on the balcony at the rear of the house. At first nothing was thought of the noises, but when they continued, and the doors throughout the house began to open and shut without apparent cause real fear took hold of the family. Last night shadows were seen, and the noises continued, not ceasing with daylight but continuing this morning.

Mrs. Winter graphically described the visits, "We first heard noises on the back porch, then doors in the house began to slam, and this morning I saw a shadow on the wall, I don't know what it is, but I am afraid and the children refuse to go upstairs at night," said Mrs. Winter.

Mrs. Phillipot, mother of Mrs. Winter, corroborated her story of seeing the shadow on the wall, this morning. Mrs. Phillipot is convinced that no natural explanation can be given to the affair, that the house is haunted is her firm belief.

Meanwhile the family have given notice to the landlady that they intend to vacate the house, as soon as possible. Today the men of the house are staying upstairs in an effort to end the visits. If nothing is caught today, an all night vigil is planned.

RESTRICTED IMMIGRATION SCORED BY LABOR OFFICIAL

James Simpson Declares Present Policy Not in Country's Interests.

DEBATE QUOTA LAW

President Tom Moore Declares A. F. of L. Unable To Take Action.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—An attack on Canada's present policy of restricting immigration to farm workers was made in the trades and labor congress convention this morning by James Simpson, Toronto, vice-president of the congress.

"We are led to believe that we should bring agricultural workers to this country. Every agricultural worker taken from Great Britain now is only impoverishing the agricultural resources of Great Britain."

This, said Mr. Simpson, was a new phase of immigration. In Britain at the present time there were 100,000 fewer agricultural workers than in 1919.

Mr. Simpson replied to press attacks made upon him for statements he had made while in Great Britain respecting immigration.

"We were guilty according to the press, because we told the truth and confined ourselves to the opinions of the trades and labor congress."

A United States quota law against Canada would mean the disintegration of the international trade unions, according to statements made in the convention. J. A. P. Haydon, president of the Ottawa trades and labor congress, said the application of a quota law against the dominion would be "equivalent to an unfriendly act against a friendly nation."

President Tom Moore said that the American federation of labor was unable to take aggressive action regarding the quota laws, as it was through its efforts that the general quota regulations had been secured.

Expects Period of Prosperity

Better business than for some years past is to be expected this fall, according to Major Gordon Ingram of Smallman & Ingram.

"A bumper crop in the west will naturally be reflected in retail trade in the east. A much freer flow of money is to be expected, and I think it safe to say a period of prosperity can be expected," he stated.

While Major Ingram did not expect an abnormal increase or a boom period, he thought it would be an era of steadily increasing prosperity for the dominion.

Deep Waterway to Head of Great Lakes To Create An American Mediterranean With Trade Centers At Power Sources

Prof. Ralph E. Freman of Western University Foresees Development of Basin of St. Lawrence and Success For Plans of Waterway Advocates in Spite of Delicate International Problems Raised.

CANALS TO SOLVE QUESTION OF OCEAN SHIPS

It is fairly apparent that the supporters of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes deep waterway project will gain the day. If there is any foundation for the prediction that in the future the industries and peoples of the world will congregate about the sources of waterpower, we may perhaps look forward to a time when the basin of the St. Lawrence will have become a busy populous center of industry and the Great Lakes an American Mediterranean.

This is the conclusion reached by Ralph E. Freeman, M.A., professor of political economy at the University of Western Ontario, in the course of a brilliant article in a recent issue of the Nineteenth Century, one of the most influential magazines published in Great Britain.

The article, which was written in a way of explanation for British readers, follows:

The St. Lawrence-Great Lakes Deep Waterway.

The project of a deep channel for ocean-going vessels extending from the Atlantic to the head of the Great Lakes is at present receiving the serious consideration of the people of the United States and Canada. For more than a century before the war this undertaking existed as a remote possibility in the minds of engineers and statesmen, but during the last five years the plan has received practical investigation and active support from governments and businessmen. The problems raised by the scheme are delicate and involved, threatening to range provinces and states against each other and introducing questions of international significance. Public opinion is being educated and organized to regard the projected waterway as the solution of grave transport difficulties and as a means of developing vast quantities of needed electric power.

The movement for the deepening of the St. Lawrence dates back to the Cleveland meeting of the International Deep Waterways Association of September, 1895, which was followed in 1897 by the appointment of a deep waterways commission. The most comprehensive and thorough investigation that has up to the present been undertaken was carried out by the international joint commission, consisting of three members from Canada and three from the United States. The question was referred to them for report on Jan. 21, 1920, by agreement between the two governments concerned, and under provision of Art. IX of the boundary treaty of 1909. This body has reported itself in favor of the plan, which is supported also by the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association formed in the United States and by the Canadian Deep Waterways and Power Association organized in the dominion.

Obstacles to Ships.

The two chief obstacles which prevent ocean ships from making a continuous voyage from the Atlantic to Lake Superior are the Niagara Falls and the rapids of the St. Lawrence. The former will be overcome by the new Welland canal, which when completed will be able to accommodate any ship afloat. This enormous undertaking, upon which the Canadian government has already spent more than $50,000,000, is to be regarded as an integral part of the lakes-to-the-ocean project. With seven gigantic locks carved out of solid stone this canal will be able to lift the largest vessels 366 feet and carry them a distance of 25 miles. The time required to do this will be about eight hours. The joint commission has recommended that the cost of the Welland is to be included in the international scheme, but nothing definite has been settled with regard to this point.

The chief source of controversy and discussion is the means to be adopted of surmounting the obstacles to deep-sea ships presented by the rapids of the mighty St. Lawrence. If these hindrances to navigation are not removed, the Welland canal when completed will only serve as a feeder to American commerce going by way of Buffalo to the sea. At present the river is navigable for sea ships as far as Montreal; but above this city the water route is broken by three groups of rapids lying between Lake St. Louis and Lake St. Francis. The total length of the rapids is 43 miles, with a drop of 220 feet. Thus the whole problem is fairly well concentrated in one small section of the stream.

The existing canals, which have been in operation for many years, are entirely inadequate for the traffic of modern sea-going vessels. In 1875, when the Canadian government ordered these old canals to be deepened to accommodate ships drawing 14 feet of water, a reconstruction was undertaken without regard to the other dimensions of the locks. These were found to be too short. The joint commission, therefore, recommended that the governments of Canada and the United States should enter into a treaty arrangement for the total reconstruction of the canals to make the river navigable for large ships all the way from Montreal to Lake Ontario. The plan consists of the building of canals with a depth at low water of 25 feet, equipped with locks of sufficient size to enable sea-going vessels to pass.

Plan is Divided.

The engineering board divides the project into two principal sections—the international from Lake Ontario to Cornwall, the national, or Canadian, from Cornwall to Montreal. For the former it suggests a composite plan of navigation and power development; for the latter a navigation scheme only, with the possibility of hydro-electric installations in the future. On the international section between Cornwall and Long Sault Rapids, a canal is to be constructed on the Canadian side, equipped with two lift locks 800 feet long and 80 feet wide, having lifts of 48 and 31 feet. To restrict the number of locks and curtail the mileage of restricted navigation it is proposed to construct dams across the canals. The main dam between the islands of Barnard and Long Sault and a smaller one from the head of the latter to the American shore are expected to render possible the development of a million and a half horsepower of electrical energy. Another dam is suggested on the United States side at Ogden Island. The estimated cost of all the undertakings in the international section is somewhere in the neighborhood of $159,000,000.

In the Canadian, or national, section the engineering board advises the construction of a channel 220 feet wide provided with two pairs of locks. This is to replace the present Soulanges canal, which offsets the rapids of Coteau, the Cedars and the Cascades. To overcome the difficulties presented by the Lachine and Mormond rapids it is proposed to build a new waterway following the course of the existing Lachine canal, except that the former would run along the southerly and westerly outskirts of Montreal. This national section of the river drops about 134 feet. All the undertakings in connection with this part of the project, including the dredging of Lake St. Francis and Lake St. Louis and the construction of certain protective works in the harbor of Montreal, would call for an expenditure of $93,000,000. This brings the total cost to over $252,000,000, inclusive of all expenses for the installation of turbines and other apparatus for the generation of electric power. Should the depth of the canals be increased from 25 to 30 feet an extra outlay of $17,000,000 would be required. It is estimated that the annual charges for maintenance and operation would not exceed $2,562,000.

The possibility of great power development is regarded as of paramount importance, especially by Eastern Ontario and the neighboring states to the south. Engineers report that, should it be deemed advisable to develop power from the Canadian section as well as from the international, 2,260,000 additional horsepower could be generated for an outlay of about $220,000,000. Mr. W. M. German, of Welland, in the Dominion house of commons, estimated the total possible revenue from the sale of power at $17,587,000 per year; the annual expense of the power undertakings would amount to $15,970,000 (including interest charges, maintenance and sinking fund), leaving a profit of $1,608,000. The absence of coal deposits in Ontario and the crying need for electric power in New York state and New England would make it possible to market any amount of electricity that could be generated.

It is interesting to observe the different attitudes adopted toward the project by the various sections of the country affected. The fourteen states of the union tributary to the great lakes are most enthusiastic in favor of the plan. This great middle western region has about one-third of the republic's area and population, the greater part of the mineral output, and about 40 per cent of the manufacturing capital.

Sea Hunger Grips West.

Sea hunger has gripped the west. It will hack its way through to the Atlantic, or know the reason why. There is something primal about the impulse. When it grips a man or a nation it has the force of an instinct.

But perhaps the solid economic advantages have more real weight than any unreasoning "sea hunger." It is claimed that the freight rate on grain shipped from the west would be reduced by at least 5 cents a bushel; the expensive transfers necessary under present conditions would be eliminated; the congestion which now arises at certain points on the railways would be avoided. It has also been pointed out that the shipment of grain by way of the St. Lawrence would remove the delays which now occur on account of waiting for ocean space, and that grain shrinkage resulting from constant handling and transhipping would be diminished. The prospect of increased profit to grain growers, the facilities promised for the transport of vast mineral resources, and the attractive possibility of the American lake ports becoming available to ocean vessels are substantial benefits more persuasive than any blind impulse to reach the Atlantic. Moreover, it is apparent that if imported goods could be carried by ocean vessels right into the heart of the continent without transhipment there would be a large saving to buyers throughout the western area.

The city of Chicago may be called the leader in this agitation for a deeper St. Lawrence. A newspaper in the city declared that if Canada refused to support the project an alternative American plan will be carried out; a waterway will be built joining the great lakes with the Hudson river by way of Oswego. Though this proposal may be mere bluff, it indicates the keenness which exists in the lake cities for an outlet to the sea. Toronto, Duluth, Milwaukee, Detroit, Hamilton and Toledo have all declared their willingness to do their part in preparing harbor facilities for ocean-going vessels.

But this attitude of approval is not universal throughout the United States. The city and state of New York are afraid that the money invested in the New York barge canal will be wasted, and that the St. Lawrence will divert a large volume of traffic from their great port. All kinds of reasons for abandoning the undertaking have been advanced from this part of the country. Boston and Buffalo have also issued protests against the proposed waterway. The latter, of course, is disturbed by the prospect of losing the advantage now accruing to her from the considerable traffic that now finds an outlet to the sea by way of the Erie canal. The Pacific states are apprehensive lest the St. Lawrence route should divert western traffic from the Panama canal; while in the southern part of the country there is some fear that the new waterway will compete with the Mississippi route to New Orleans.

Widely Endorsed.

The attitude of the United States as a whole, however, has been favorable to the project. In September, 1923, the committee on the development of waterways and the co-ordination of railway and waterway service appointed by the United States chamber of commerce reported itself convinced that the plan should be carried out. A more friendly attitude has also appeared recently in New England, where an association composed of businessmen from each of the six northeastern states has been organized to advance the undertaking. The associated industries of Massachusetts have endorsed the scheme, and the Boston chamber of commerce has reversed its previous hostile attitude. Favorable resolutions have been adopted by the manufacturers' association of Connecticut. President Harding announced himself in sympathy with the scheme, and President Coolidge has followed suit.

On the Canadian side of the border there is also a marked divergence of opinion as to the advisability of deepening the St. Lawrence. The prairie provinces are either opposed or indifferent. They now enjoy a smaller freight rate on grain from the west to the Atlantic ports than their neighbors to the south—a competitive advantage which they fear to lose through a general reduction of transport charges on account of the new waterway. Moreover, many people in the Canadian West are vigorously supporting the Hudson Bay route as offering a better solution of their transport difficulties than a deeper St. Lawrence. These are the chief reasons why the west of Canada takes a different attitude from that which has been adopted by the Western States. But it is doubtful whether this opposition will be maintained in the face of the obvious advantages of the proposed undertaking. In the first place, the prairie farmers cannot long remain blind to the significance of cheaper rates in their competition with the grain growers of Australia and the Argentine, who are not compelled to ship their produce such long overland distances. These countries are more serious competitors of Canada in the grain markets of the world than the United States, where high rents and high costs of production are a serious handicap. In the second place, there are insurmountable obstacles in the way of utilizing the Hudson Bay. The impossibility of navigating the bay in the late autumn and winter would render it necessary for wheat to be held over till the following summer. The high insurance rate on vessels taking the bay route would largely counter-balance the advantages arising out of a diminution of the overland distance.

Opposition also comes from the people of the province of Quebec, and especially from Montreal, whose citizens are uneasy at the prospect of sea-going vessels proceeding beyond their port to the upper lakes. They insist that navigation on the St. Lawrence requires all the available depth of water between Montreal and the sea, and that this may be interfered with by the proposed dams and power plants. They maintain that the delay in proceedings through the canals and the danger of damage would be such as to discourage ocean ships from proceeding up the river. They further declare that the cost of the undertaking was under-estimated by the commission, and that, since border waterways must be free of toll, the carrying out of the plan would place an intolerable burden on dominion finances. They propose as an alternative the Georgian Bay route by way of the Cardinal and the Ottawa, which could be constructed at a cost of only $80,000,000.

Needless Alarm.

Probably the city of Montreal is needlessly alarmed as to the future of her harbor interests. The St. Lawrence, according to the engineers, can be deepened without affecting the available depth between Montreal and the sea. Senator Reid takes the view that vessels of large tonnage will travel between Port Arthur and Montreal, where they will transship their cargoes to ocean vessels. This transfer could be effected, he claims, at less than a cent a bushel, and instead of damaging the trade of Montreal the improvement of the St. Lawrence would bring increased traffic to her harbor. Since an ocean vessel costs a great deal more to build than a lake freighter of the same tonnage, this argument seems reasonable. If a deep channel were provided the immense grain carriers which are now confined to the upper lakes would be able to sail to Montreal, with the consequent saving of the expense involved in transferring cargoes from ships to railway.

The objection that joint construction and control would lead to international complication is one that has been voiced on both sides of the border. In Canada it is feared that co-operative action in connection with the St. Lawrence will enable the United States to obtain more than her due share of control over what is virtually a Canadian waterway. In case the United States were at war with some power allied or friendly to Canada or the British Empire serious misunderstandings might arise with regard to the utilization of the St. Lawrence. Mr. F. M. Williams, state engineer of New York, asserted in his annual report for 1919-20 that "the St. Lawrence project will take the control of the waterway out of the hands of the United States." In view of the fact that only a small portion of the river touches American soil, this seems to be a very extraordinary contention.

The dominion government is rather non-committal on the subject. Early in 1924, it was decided that expert engineers should report anew on the feasibility of the plan and the accuracy of the cost estimates. Canada's national debt of over two billion dollars is a heavy burden for a country so sparsely settled, and it is not surprising that a large body of conservative opinion is opposed to any scheme designed to increase the country's financial obligations. This feeling is particularly strong in the maritime provinces, which would share in the expense without participating directly in the benefits of the scheme. It is of course a standing grievance with these provinces that their interests are ignored by the wealthier and more populous provinces of Ontario and Quebec. The supporters of the scheme, however, have pointed out that the deepening of the St. Lawrence would serve to develop the coal and other industries of the maritime provinces by opening to them the markets of Ontario and the west.

Power Problems.

There are some important points that must be settled before the work can be undertaken. There is the question of power rights to be decided. Before that part of the proposals relative to power development can be carried out some agreement must be reached between the dominion government and the province of Ontario. Any excess of water above that which is needed for navigation in the St. Lawrence is under the control of the Ontario legislature. The latter is not disposed at the present time to countenance the giving up of Ontario power rights to any private interests in the United States, though that country affords the best market for the sale of electrical energy.

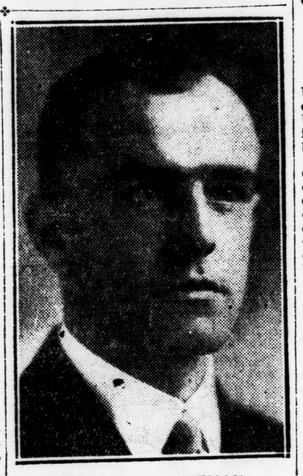

What is to be the distribution of the construction and maintenance costs as between the United States and Canada? This is another point to be settled. Many Americans claim that the United States will be paying for Canadian public works calculated to draw trade from their own cities. Many Canadians take the position that most of the ships using the proposed waterway will be owned by American companies, and that therefore the bulk of the profits from the improvements will go to the United States. By such arguments each side tries to show why the other should bear the lion's share of the cost. The joint commission suggested that the expenses should be apportioned according to the benefit accruing from the waterway to the respective countries. How this benefit is to be measured is one of the unsolved problems of the projected undertaking.

Other problems have arisen, such as the diversion of water through the drainage canal at Chicago, the alleged necessity of increasing the low water flow in the lakes, and the severity of the ice situation in the winter. But the obstacles to be surmounted are not chiefly those of an engineering nature. The competent engineers who advised the joint commission have pronounced the scheme practicable from that point of view. The chief impediments are economic and political. The unfortunate experience of Canada with railway developments has made her cautious about the construction of public works beyond the economic requirements of the country. Undoubtedly the opening of a new and efficient water route means the diversion of traffic from the railways. This is not as serious for the United States as it is for Canada. The American lines are pretty well congested with traffic, especially at crop moving time; but in Canada the railways are suffering from a lack of business. Should the waterway cut into the traffic which the railways now have, the people of the country will probably be compelled to carry the heavy burden of railway deficits longer than would otherwise have been necessary.

Beck's Prediction.

Except for those who have money invested in private power undertakings in Quebec, the possibility of great power development in connection with the St. Lawrence project is a feature that meets with universal approval. Sir Adam Beck, speaking for the Ontario hydro-electric commission, predicts a dearth of power in Ontario within a very short time. The prospect of power generation is a big consideration for New England and New York state. It is claimed that high potential energy can now be distributed throughout a radius of 300 miles without a loss of more than 6 per cent. But however far the beneficial influence of power generation may extend, it cannot compare in this respect with the area affected by the proposed navigation developments. The joint commission concluded that, "without considering the probability of new traffic created by the opening of a water route to the seaboard, there exists today between the regions economically tributary to the great lakes and overseas points, as well as between the same regions and the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards, a volume of outbound and inbound trade that might reasonably be expected to seek this route sufficient to justify the expense involved in its improvement." The commission also pointed out that, because of the wider area and population served, "the benefits derived will (at first) accrue in a much larger measure to American than Canadian interests."

It is fairly apparent that, unless something unforeseen happens, the supporters of the project will gain the day. The fact that some people will be damaged by the undertaking cannot be allowed to outweigh its great and obvious advantages. Someone must pay the price of progress. If there is any foundation for the prediction that in the future the industries and peoples of the world will congregate about the sources of water-power, we may perhaps look forward to the time when the basin of the St. Lawrence will have become a busy populous center of industry and the great lakes an American Mediterranean.

PRESBYTERY IN SESSION FRIDAY

United Church Court For Middlesex to Convene in Knox Church.

Exactly eleven weeks after the United church of Canada officially came into being, the Middlesex United church presbytery will meet in Knox United church, London, for business tomorrow morning.

Rev. A. E. M. Thomson, M.A., B.D., Calvary United church, appointed convener of presbytery by the general council of the United church, will open the meeting at 10 o'clock by devotional exercises, which will be followed by the sacrament of holy communion to all delegates assembled.

The regular business incident to the inauguration of the United church in London and district, combining the former Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational denominations, will then be proceeded with, including the choice of a chairman, secretary and treasurer, and appointment of sessional and standing committees.

Outside of further business pertaining particularly to the presbytery will be the addresses by officials from headquarters of the United church, as to the spiritual and financial programs to be undertaken by the new church this fall. In this connection Rev. Robert Laird, D.D., and Rev. John W. Graham, D.D., both of Toronto, and Rev. W. E. Millson, London, will speak before presbytery.

It is confidently expected that Rev. W. R. McIntosh, D. D., King street United church, London, who was the moderator of the last Presbyterian synod of Hamilton and London, will be chosen as presiding officer of the court.

Added significance attaches to the meeting of Middlesex presbytery tomorrow in view of the fact that the London United church conference meets in Metropolitan United church here the latter part of the month.

Human Ills Vanish Before Arts of Market Vendors

Six "Barkers" Dispose of Cures to Covent Garden Customers.

PSYCHOLOGY USED

Salves for corns and pills for headaches could be purchased on the market this morning. Six different barkers were selling six different cures for the ills of humans. From head to feet they guaranteed to make you a well man or refund your money the next market day.

Once there was a time when the market was confined to sellers of produce, but it is gradually assuming the character—or at least one corner is—of a street fair.

One chap with long hair was selling an Indian concoction which was a sure cure for asthma. It being impossible to demonstrate how asthma could be cured in a minute, to attract a crowd he was offering to extract teeth free of charge, and without pain, by the magical movements of his fingers. One subject for the experiment was found, and the corncure man lost his crowd to the seller of asthma cure. Producing a dummy, however, and giving an exhibition of ventriloquism, he soon won his crowd back.

And so the competition goes go. One vendor apparently buries a knife in his arm without drawing blood. This trick is reserved for times when a crowd is particularly hard to attract. It never fails in its purpose.

Headaches are being cured instantly by an application of magic oil on the forehead. Many were found who were willing to have headaches cured. The headache doctor explained to the reporter that while his oil was really good for headaches, the instant relief which so many claimed was really a matter of psychology.

DAY'S PAYMENTS AMOUNT TO $9,000

Sums Varying From 33 Cents to $175 Collected by Home Bank Depositors.

Over $9,000 was paid out yesterday to depositors in the late Home Bank, at the market branch of the Bank of Montreal and it is expected that a similar amount will be paid out today. It was included in 325 accounts. The amounts varied from 33c to $1.75.

It was surprising the number who went to the trouble of filling out several forms, and waiting in line for an hour to secure amounts ranging from 33c to one dollar. No men depositors went to the trouble of securing such small amounts.

Some objection was raised that most of the payments were being made at a wicket conspicuously labelled 13. Some in the rush even preferred to stand in line at another wicket rather than go to this one, evidently fearing that the men who had pursued their savings, would still pursue the remainder of them, if they secured them here.

It is expected that the greatest portion of the government relief will be paid out within a couple of weeks, bank officials said this morning. Approximately $30,000 is still available in London.

LABOR DAY PROMISES BEST IN RECENT YEARS

Committee Chairmen Report That Only Minor Details Now Uncompleted.

With contributions and assurances of co-operation still coming in, committee chairman in charge of the Labor Day celebration on Monday next now foresee the most successful observance of the workers' holiday here in the past five years.

G. B. Brewer, general chairman, and other officials are in Ottawa attending the labor congress, but other committee men reported at last night's meeting of the trades and labor council that only a few minor details are left to be completed and that all things point to a record attendance.

The morning will be featured with the preliminaries of the girls' soft-ball tournament, with the finals to be played before the grand stand at Queen's park in the afternoon. The parade will be held at noon, to be followed by the sport events, horse and motorcycle racing and dancing.

DR. MACGREGOR ON RETURN VOYAGE

Pastor of St. Andrew's and Mrs. MacGregor to Land at Montreal Saturday.

Rev. D. C. MacGregor, D.D., pastor of St. Andrew's United church, and Mrs. MacGregor will return to London within the next few days after a three months trip to England and the Holy Land. Dr. and Mrs. MacGregor sailed from Glasgow on the C. P. R. steamer Marloch last Monday, and are expected to land in Montreal on Saturday.

Dr. MacGregor was one of about ten delegates of the former Presbyterian church in Canada to the quadrennial Pan-Presbyterian Alliance held at Cardiff, Wales, the latter part of June. In fact, he left Toronto before the inaugural sessions of the general council of the United Church of Canada, of which he is a member, were concluded.

Mrs. MacGregor, known to thousands of admirers as Marian Keith, will have an interesting story to tell of her first visit to the Holy Land, despite the fact that when she left the city she stated she was not seeking material for a new book.

During Dr. MacGregor's absence the pulpit of St. Andrew's church has been occupied for union services with First Presbyterian United church by Rev. Major W. Wood, Ingersoll, and Rev. Robert Martin, D.D., St. Thomas.

Rev. T. A. Symington, M.A., formerly of Knox United church, who has accepted a call to the United church at Camrose, Alta., will preach in St. Andrew's church at both services next Sunday. Dr. MacGregor assuming his duties the following week.

Incidentally the interior of the church has been redecorated by the ladies aid at a cost of $1,500 or more since Dr. MacGregor left on his trip, and thus presents a new and attractive appearance.

MAY NAME M'EVOY TO SUPREME COURT

Vacancy Caused by Promotion of Justice Riddell To Be Filled Soon.

London and Toronto legal circles are momentarily expecting an announcement from Ottawa that Mr. Justice W. R. Riddell of the supreme court of Ontario has been promoted to the appellate division. The vacancy on the appeal court was caused through the retirement of Mr. Justice J. J. Maclaren.

While Toronto despatches have mentioned the name of W. S. Robertson, K.C., in connection with the vacancy that will be caused by Mr. Justice Riddell's promotion, the bar of London and Western Ontario is most hopeful that J. M. McEvoy, K.C., of London, will be made a supreme court judge.

Mr. McEvoy is recognized by both the bench and fellow-practitioners as one of the outstanding counsel of Ontario, and his appointment would be greeted with much satisfaction by the legal fraternity of the province.

ORGANIST HONORED.

In appreciation of his services as organist of the Robinson Memorial church, Evan Davis was last night presented with a handsome club bag by the members of the choir of that church. Mr. Davis leaves for New York tomorrow.

Members of the choir, calling at the home of his father, R. E. Davis, 113 Wortley road, the presentation was made to Mr. Davis. Mr. J. D. Omond gave an address, appreciative of Mr. Davis's services, while Miss Jeffrey made the presentation on behalf of the choir.

COURT AT STRATHROY.

Judge Talbot Macbeth left for Strathroy this morning where he will preside over the division court scheduled for that town this afternoon.

WIFE IS IGNORED IN LIQUOR PLEA

A. Olizaravitch Convicted of Selling Liquor—May Set Precedent.

Although Mrs. Stella Olizaravitch inexorably declared herself to be entirely responsible for the illegal purchase of a quantity of liquor found by police at her home, 440 Simcoe street, her husband, Alex. Olizaravitch, being the occupant of the house, was convicted of the O. T. A. offence in this morning's police court. He was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to a month in jail. In default of payment of the fine, he will be compelled to spend an additional three months in jail.

Occupying the greater part of today's court session, the case was prolonged through legal technicalities and arguments between Howard Cluff, counsel for the defence, and Magistrate Graydon. Olizaravitch's conviction will probably set a precedent for future O. T. A. cases where similar conditions prevail.

Interpretation of Magistrate Graydon's ruling holds that the occupant of a house must assume liability for liquor which is found on his premises. Although Mrs. Olizaravitch declared that she had bought seven gallons of alcohol without her husband's knowledge, and that she had hidden it in a shed in the back yard, her husband was also charged under three sections of the O. T. A. The two minor charges of illegal purchase of liquor and having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling were dropped by the crown when Olizaravitch was convicted on the more serious offence of keeping liquor for sale.

Mrs. Olizaravitch's admittance of guilt of having illegally bought the alcohol was treated by the court as a subterfuge to shield her husband from having a second O. T. A. conviction recorded against him, for he was fined $200 and costs a year ago for a breach of the O. T. A.

This morning's case resulted from a raid on the Olizaravitch home on Tuesday, when Inspector Thomas Lucas and Constables Singleton, Berryman and Johnston made the discovery of the hidden alcohol.

30 JUNIOR FARMERS COMPETE IN JUDGING

Ross McTaggart Makes Biggest Score in Yesterday's District Tour.

Thirty junior farmers of Middlesex competed for the honor of entering the live stock judging competition at the Western Fair this year, visiting five farms yesterday, under the direction of R. A. Finn and G. Parrish, of the department of agriculture.

The highest score was made by Ross McTaggart of Appin, and he was followed in order by Stuart McDonald and Ronald Mactie, also of Appin, R. E. McKellar, Parkhill, L. Kennedy, Haerton, Ed. Mitchell, Denfield, and Murray Allen, Appin.

The young men first visited the farm of Peter L. Graham, Lobo, where a class of Clydesdales, supplied by Mr. Graham and Archie Campbell, were judged, as well as a class of Percherons, owned by Siddall and Robb.

Shorthorn cows were judged at the farm of Ed. Sinker, Lobo, while two classes of Shropshire sheep were judged at the farm of Harry Readley, Ilderton.

Lincoln sheep and Shorthorn cattle were classed at the barn of Harry Gibson, Denfield, the competition being completed at Tom Thompson's, Denfield, where Hereford cattle were placed.

MAYOR OMITTED IN TORONTO FORECASTS

London Slighted by Dopesters in Allotting Hydro Job.

For the benefit of those few folk who have not yet been entered in the qualifying round for the chairmanship of Ontario hydro-electric commission it may be stated with some degree of assurance that there is still time for action.

Already the field of entries has grown greater than the record for the grand national steeplechase. Some will doubtless be scratched before going to the barrier and heavy handicaps will be carried by others. All the same hundreds of children, in years to come, will be able to boast that "dad was once suggested for that job."

Toronto "dope sheets" carry such a list of entries as this:

Premier Howard Ferguson, Attorney-General Nickle, Chief Engineer F. A. Gaby, Lieut.-Governor Harry Cockshutt, Sir Thomas White, Engineer Harry Acres, Major Lewis, Provincial Treasurer Price, Thomas Bradshaw, Tommy Church, P. W. Ellis, Stewart Lyon, Alfred Maguire and others.

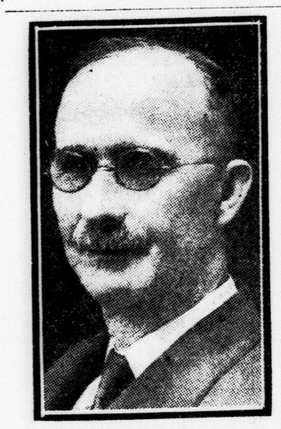

London has again been slighted. George Wenige, mayor of the city, and well-known for his interest in public ownership, has not even been approached.

But the trouble is that no sooner do the Toronto papers get somebody seated in the office of the hydro chairmanship, than Premier Ferguson undoes all the good work and says the time is not yet. Apparently the field is still open for all and sundry to enter the preliminary skirmishes.

LOBO BREEDER OFFERS STOCK JUDGING AWARDS

Peter L. Graham, well known live stock breeder of Lobo township has offered prizes for a live stock judging competition for junior farmers in connection with the Ilderton fair on September 30, R. A. Finn of the department of agriculture announces. Mr. Graham has always taken a keen interest in the young men of the district and the competition promises to be one of the features of the splendid fall exhibition.

R. H. HESSEL.

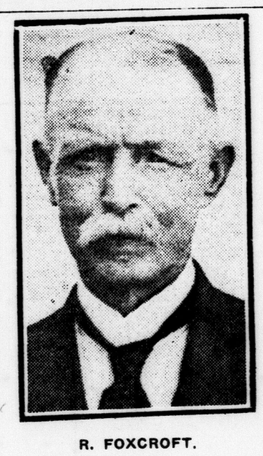

F. G. M'KAY.

G. R. GRICE.

JOHN COLBERT.

R. FOXCROFT.

G. B. BREWER.

London is well represented at the forty-first annual session of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, ten men having been sent from the various labor bodies of the city. Six of the delegates are pictured above. R. H. Hessel represents the maintenance-of-way men, F. G. McKay is a delegate from the local typographical union, G. R. Grice and John Colbert are two of the three delegates from the street car men's union, while R. Foxcroft and G. B. Brewer represent the London trades and labor council. William Constable of the street car men's union, J. Maudsley of the metal polishers' union, Joseph Corbett of the federated shop crafts, and T. W. Pauley of the railway carmen are the other delegates.

WENIGE LAUNCHES DRIVE ON L. AND P. S. RAILROAD

Mayor Declares City's Line Faces $140,000 Deficit This Year.

OVERDRAFT $500,000

Tells Council Committee Time Has Come For Accounting.

Predicting an operating deficit of $140,000 this year for the London & Port Stanley Railway, Mayor Wenige last night told No. 1 committee of the city council that the time had come for an accounting. Already the company had piled up an overdraft of $500,000, was paying some of its bills on money borrowed from the city, and was going further "in the hole" all the time, the mayor said.

Mr. Wenige suggested a vote of the people on the wacle debenture question, but finally, as Chairman Frank McKay was absent, it was decided to lay the matter over for a special meeting next week.

Paints Bleak Picture.

Painting a bleak picture of the railway's future as a municipally operated venture, his worship called attention to the various overdrafts of the railway board during the past few years.

"How in the world, in the face of this, are we going to go ahead? We want to take action before it's too late."

Ald. L. H. Douglass, M.D., presiding, suggested that the London Street Railway might yet take over the L. & P. S. R. and make money.

However, members of the committee were not prepared to delve into the mayor's figures last night, and agreed on a special session. Committee meetings during Fair week will be cancelled.

Aldermen Clift, Carswell and Douglas were named a committee to investigate possibilities of a city of vestigate possibilities of a city of London cenotaph, with a view to co-operating with the I. O. D. E. and militia units here. Several representatives of the I. O. D. E. chapters of London spoke on behalf of a project which they believed could be financed with $6,000.

Probe Bylaw.

The city engineer, building inspector, electrical inspector, an electrician, a real estate man and three aldermen will act as an investigating committee to debate the usefulness of a new electrical workers' bylaw. The suggestion came from Ald. Edwin Smith, who wants to have all electrical workers licensed by the city.

Ald. Paul Doig is again seeking improved street railway service for South London and action on the future of the Ridout street bridge. He insisted on consideration for Londoners, and a committee was named to work with him in taking the matter up with the street railway.

The mayor sought an engagement for an expert mechanic to inspect fire department motor apparatus from time to time. Ald. Doig and Ald. Smith wanted a full-time mechanic placed on the fire-fighting roster, but the mayor suggested that Thomas Terry could look after the work at a low cost with regular monthly inspections. Finally it was decided to call for competitive prices on the work.

Austria Asks Rome Apology

Associated Press Despatch.

Vienna, Sept. 3.—A detachment of 200 Italian troops, commanded by an officer, has crossed the frontier and camped in the Austrian village of Thoerl, notwithstanding protest by the frontier guard.

This constitutes the second case of an alleged frontier violation by the Italians within three months, and the government has instructed the Austrian minister in Rome to request an explanation and an apology from the Austrian government.

GIFTS PRESENTED TO PASTOR AND WIFE

Rev. Wm. Smith and Mrs. Smith Honored by Knollwood Congregation.

Knollwood park Presbyterian church was crowded last night to bid farewell to Rev. William Smith, who has resigned from the charge to become minister of Geneva Presbyterian church, Chesley, beginning his new duties there the middle of the month.

Presentations to both Mr. and Mrs. Smith and young son Graham, testified to the congregation's deep appreciation of Mr. Smith's services as pastor for the past five years, during which time the congregation has grown from a small mission to approaching an augmented charge.

G. C. Webster, superintendent of the Sunday school and member of session, presided during the evening and read an address, following which W. Benford and John Murray presented Mr. Smith with a fumed-oak sectional bookcase, from the congregation. Miss Bertha Robb and Miss McNaughton presented Mrs. Smith with a walnut parlor table in recognition of her work as president of the ladies' aid and secretary of the women's association. Bert Blissett read an address from the young men's Bible class, which organization presented one section of the bookcase, while Margaret Webster presented Graham with a Bible, also on behalf of the congregation.

Mr. Smith, who leaves for Chesley with his family next Tuesday, replied briefly but feelingly to the tokens of esteem that had been bestowed upon them by the congregation. He stated that he regretted very much having to leave Knollwood park, but that the field in Chesley afforded a larger measure of service, and that he felt he had no choice but to accept the call. Mr. Smith thanked the congregation for its support and kindness, and expressed the hope that soon the mission would attain to the standing of an augmented charge.

Knollwood park church has been put in the hands of the home mission committee of the London Presbyterian presbytery, under Rev. James MacKay, B.D., moderator, as chairman, to be dealt with at the next regular meeting of presbytery.

GOES TO CONVENTION.

COMMERCE COURSE EXTENDED YEAR

Five Years Now Necessary To Complete Studies, Announcement Says.

There will be no graduating class in commerce at the University of Western Ontario this year, according to a statement made this morning by Prof. E. H. Morrow, B.A., M.B.A., department of economics, college of arts.

Professor Morrow explained that the course in commerce is being altered from a four-year period of study to a five-year course and it was decided to make the change this year. The study of commerce, industrial work and business management saw its first graduates from Western in 1923. Since that time the course has become so popular and has had so much added to it that the five-year period was found necessary to complete it.

"Commerce graduates quickly pass from the school to responsible positions in the business world," said Prof. Morrow, who held in his hand the records of the men who had gone out of the college into big business. "We could have placed double the number of men last year. There is a heavy demand for the graduates in that particular field."

To Handle Problems.

Special stress is being laid on factory management, research work of a practical nature in business methods and shop work in London this fall. The students will handle the problems and investigations that industrial plants here want settled.

The faculty keeps in touch with graduates to further the work. Prof. Morrow showed that the former students were all doing well. Among those who graduated are: A. W. Baker, '23, now with the editorial staff of the Macon (Georgia) Telegraph; W. C. Beamer, '23, went to the Bell Telephone Company and has charge of a department in the Montreal plant. Phil Burton, '25, returns to Western next year as assistant to Prof. Morrow; C. Colbert, '25, now with the Bell Telephone Company in Montreal; C. C. Colwill, '25, at present teaching. He returns to Toronto this fall to take up post-graduate work at the college of education there. E. G. Cowley, '25, is with the Bell Telephone Company, Hamilton offices; T. W. Cowley, responsible position with Lawson & Jones.

Going to Harvard.

George F. Dean, '24, with Dean's bakery; Jack Dockstader, '23, Bell Telephone Company, Montreal; Leslie Gray with Gray's, Limited; J. D. Hambly, '24, with the Bell Telephone divisional offices here; C. A. Houghtby has established his own accounting business in London; S. Kingsmill is taking post-graduate work at Harvard this fall; A. D. McWilliam, '23, now with the Ford Motor Company, Ford; B. D. Nimmo is with the Bell Telephone in Montreal; Gordon Silverwood is with Silverwood's, Limited; Allan Talbot, '24, is with the D. S. Perrin Company, Montreal; K. W. Totten, '24, was with the Taylor Electrical Company until this spring. He is now with the Kaufmann Rubber Company, Kitchener; Garnet Woonton, '25, is doing special work for the Bell Telephone Company.

GARDEN PARTY PLANNED.

Tomorrow night Hackett L. O. L. No. 805 will hold a corn cob garden party on the lawn of A. Nivens, 312 Wharncliffe road north, one block from Oxford street. A good program will be given, including dancing on the green, with a band in attendance. Rev. William Lowe, playing the concertina, will feature the party.

Canadian Hospitals Are Among Best in the World, Says Miss Grace Fairley

London Superintendent Returns From Convention of Nurses at Helsingfors, Finland.

SEE NEW TREATMENT

Much Can Be Learned in Hydrotherapy and Massage, She Declares.

Canadian hospitals hold their own with the best in the world and in recent years have reached a high standard of efficiency, equal to that of the older hospitals of the European continent, according to Miss Grace Fairley, superintendent of the Victoria Hospital training school, who returned Tuesday from Helsingfors, Finland, where she attended the International Council of Nurses.

But from the hospitals of the Scandinavian countries Canadian institutions can learn much. Light treatment such as Swedish drills, hydrotherapy and massage, has been developed to an extent where it is very much ahead of the system used in Canadian hospitals, Miss Fairley declares.

Impressed with the great strides European hospitals have made in the development of orthopaedic work and construction of children's hospitals, Miss Fairley has brought back from the Scandinavian countries of Denmark and Finland suggestions for London's children's hospitals of Europe a splendid educational system has been instituted whereby the child is given opportunities for the development of the mind during the time that its body is being restored to health. This system, Miss Fairley recommends, could easily be adopted here and would undoubtedly have far-reaching beneficial effects.

The exhibit of Victoria Hospital nurses at the international council was accepted favorably and received much commendation, Miss Fairley states. In fact, the Canadian exhibit as a whole formed an outstanding feature of the congress.

Nurses in the large hospitals of Europe and especially Scandinavia, characteristic of their countries, are generally a more serious minded lot than the nurses of similar Canadian institutions. Miss Fairley believes however, that the Canadian nurse is a high type of girl and is probably better educated than her European contemporary. Hospitals in Canada as a whole can learn much from Europe, Miss Fairley states, and similarly certain features of Canadian efficiency can be taught. On the whole the hospitals of this country have reached a height of progressiveness which favorably compares with that in the largest and best known hospitals of the world.

UNIVERSITY IS PLANNING FRESHMEN CHAPEL SERVICE

A chapel service for freshmen students will be given in the University of Western Ontario auditorium on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 20, according to Dr. K. P. R. Neville, acting dean and registrar of the university.

Dr. Neville said today that the plans for the reception of the students had not yet been completed, but the program dates had been arranged. The official reception will take place at the college of arts on Saturday, Sept. 19.

Fishermen Are Reported Safe

Canadian Press Despatch.

Owen Sound, Sept. 3.—The two Czemlen fishermen, Charles Porter and Stanley Boyd, missing since Monday are safe on Christian Island at the other side of Georgian Bay. The news was conveyed in a wireless message from Midland to Tobermory and telephoned to Owendn. It is believed the pair who were in a motorboat, met with engine trouble and drifted entirely across the bay.

MANAGER RETURNS TO RUSH OF BUSINESS

E. E. Reid of London Life Finds Applications for $2,000,000 Insurance on Desk.

E. E. Reid, general manager of the London Life Insurance Company, on his return home this week from a three months' trip to Europe, received a very pleasant surprise when he found on his desk applications for no less than $2,000,000 of life insurance, the tangible tribute of the field force to himself.

This is at the rate of over $100,000,000 a year, constituting a record, and is all the more remarkable from the fact that the business was written in what is admittedly the hardest month in the year for life insurance underwriters, and at a time when many of the men were on vacation.

This London company is now writing more life insurance in the dominion than any other Canadian company, it is stated.

PATHOLOGIST TO INSPECT BERRIES OF DISTRICT

A. B. Jackson, assistant plant pathologist, St. Catharines, will visit the Westmount fruit district on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week to inspect raspberry plantations for mosaic and leaf roll which is more or less prevelant in the Niagara district.

Mosaic, a disease which dwarfs and stunts the berry canes has been widespread in the United States for several years. No cure has been found for it and growers who have mosaic in their patches have to dig them up and destroy the bushes.

Any growers of the district who would like to have their berry patches inspected should write to R. A. Finn of the department of agriculture, London.

DEATH OF MRS. SHOWALTERS.

The death occurred in Chicago on Tuesday of Grace Showalters, wife of Lew Showalters, and second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Davis of this city. The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Harrison funeral parlors, Dundas street east, with the services at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in Woodland cemetery.

WORK ON WHEAT LAND DELAYED

Dry Weather Impedes Preparation of Fall Seed Bed.

Dry, hot weather is causing much delay in the preparation of the land in this district alloted to the growing of next year's crop of fall wheat.

Work on the wheat land was commenced some days ago, but owing to the dry condition of the soil plowing has been difficult and in some parts almost impossible, with the result that the farmers have stopped work to await the commencement of the fall rains. The continued hot weather in place of the expected rains has complicated matters, and it is predicted now that unless a liberal supply of rain falls within the next week the sowing of fall wheat will be not only late but on an inferior seed bed.

Last night' rain, although appreciated, was not nearly sufficient, and farmers who came in to market this morning state that a whole day's rain is needed before the mechanical condition of the soil will be greatly improved.

The scarcity of rain throughout the whole summer is now being felt in the drying up of wells, and farms throughout the whole district are suffering from a scarcity of water.

Several farmers who have endeavored to improve their properties through the planting of shade trees, state that practically all of the young trees have died, while even large trees, noticeably the maples, are shedding their leaves freely, something seldom seen before the first frost has been felt.

POSTAL WORKERS WILL REMAIN IN BANDS

Civil Servants Cannot See Why They Should Not Have Music as Sideline.

Musicians among the postal workers and civil servants will continue to enjoy musical careers after working hours. They can not see why they should do otherwise. This is the opinion of several civil servants seen this morning regarding the statement that civil servants could not take up any branch of work outside their regular governmental duties.

"Why civil servants should not be musicians is more than I can understand," said a postal carrier this morning. "In England there are whole bands made up of civil servants. They go under the name of such. We would have a postal band here if we had a couple more members to fill in. It is recognized as a good thing everywhere. We have 14 musicians in our offices here. They can enjoy themselves and give pleasure to others by their playing."

Another postal worker said that it was a well-known fact that most bands were made up of men who had to make their livings aside from music. To say that men could not belong to orchestras and bands while working at something else during the day would be to say that the bands would cease to exist.

NEW REGISTRATION PLAN WILL START

Haphazard Methods Eliminated in New Scheme, Registrar Says.

A new system of registration for students of the University of Western Ontario will be put into practice this fall, according to a statement issued this afternoon by Dr. K. P. R. Neville, M.A., F.A.G.S., acting dean of the college of arts.

Hitherto the students have registered in a haphazard fashion, with the result that a certain amount of confusion existed on the opening day of the fall term. The new plan which Dr. Neville proposes will eliminate embarrassment on the freshmen and make the first few days less of a trial for seniors.

Registration will be divided into three parts of one day each. On Sept. 18, the freshmen will register. On the 19th the second third and fourth year students of London will register. The day following the second, third and fourth year students from out of town points will register.

The freshmen are being registered first to give them a chance to become familiar with their surroundings before the classes begin to function. In previous years the new students had no time to learn anything about the timetables, equipment and administration of the college before they were in the midst of their studies. It was found that such a method sent the students off to a bad start.

To overcome this, Dr. Neville says that while the men and women of other years are registering the freshmen will be taken in hand and given explanations of the workings of the university. They will be divided into groups. Guides will be supplied. These will show the prospective students through the buildings. They will be taught how to use the library to obtain the best results; where they will find their classrooms; how to take notes to the best advantage, and other points that will give them help in getting the correct perspective at the start.

In addition to the tours of the buildings there will be a series of lectures. These are in preparation now. They cover subjects that deal with what the student may expect from the university and what the university in turn expects from the student, said Dr. Neville.

ABUSIVE LANGUAGE CHARGE DISMISSED

Mamelon street neighborhood gathered in police court this morning when William E. Smith, laying a charge against James S. Lavery and William Wilson, of using abusive language, indirectly complained against more than sixty children of the district.

Epithets were hurled at Smith by Lavery and Wilson when he sought police interference to rid him of the "pestering kids" who night and day ran across his lawn and hung around his doorsteps. A number of witnesses testified to the particular expressions used.

Although the case was dismissed, Magistrate Graydon ruled that Lavery and Wilson must pay the court costs. After Smith had made several interruptions during the course of the hearing of evidence, and when he accosted William Henderson, the defendants' counsel, on the way from the courtroom, voices were suddenly raised in argument.

"I'm not going to pick a fight with you," Mr. Henderson told Smith, after the latter had broken the otherwise quiet of the room.

"Order!" Inspector Lucas declared, and his demand was taken up by other police constables.

"If you don't know how to conduct yourself in a courtroom, you can't conduct yourself properly in your own house," the magistrate upbraided. "You can take this as a warning not to be too hasty in the future."

The postoffice lobby will be open for the convenience of box holders from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Money order, savings bank and postal note wickets will be closed the entire day.

"There will be no delivery by letter carrier, but special delivery letters received will be specially delivered.

"The outgoing mails due for despatch after 12 noon will be closed at that hour. The night mails will be despatched as usual.

"Only one clearance will be made from the street letter boxes and parcel receptacles, commencing at 7:30 p.m."

The Record of the Government.

If the King government decides to go to the country this fall it can do so with the assurance that it has certain definite improvements to which it can point that have taken place during its term of office. It is not intended to claim that they have been entirely due to government activity, as due allowance must be made for the initiative of other agencies in the country. But in so far as the government has helped to bring about conditions that make improvement possible it is justified in claiming its share of credit for their existence.

In only ten budgets since Confederation has there been a decrease in the national debt of Canada, and two of these have been since the advent of the present Liberal government. In the two fiscal years 1920-21 and 1921-22 (ending with March in each case) the late Conservative government made increases of $174,000,000. The result of the King government policy has been a decrease during its term of office of $4,698,118.

The railway problem is by no means solved, but in its three fiscal years of office the King government has advanced $135,000,000 less to the railways than the Conservatives did in the three previous years. The figures are:

1919-20	$106,000,000
1920-21	144,000,000
1921-22	105,000,000
Total	$355,000,000

For the three fiscal years since the King government has been in power the public money advanced was:

1922-23	$59,000,000
1923-24	85,000,000
1924-25	76,000,000
Total	$220,000,000

Public expenditure has been decreased by the King government. In its election campaign the Liberals promised to do this, and the fact that they have is shown by the expenditure figures:

1921-22	$464,000,000
1922-23	434,000,000
1923-24	370,000,000
1924-25	350,000,000

Reduced to a per capita basis it means this to the people of Canada:

1921-22	$51.77
1922-23	47.50
1923-24	39.56
1924-25	37.51

That is, the King government, through a policy of rigid economy, has cut public expenditure $114,000,000 in 1924-25 as compared with the amount spent by the Conservatives in 1921-22, or a difference of $14.26 per capita.

The Liberals set out on a definite policy of finding new markets for Canadian produce. New trade offices were opened and special efforts made to make business connections in British possessions. These efforts were necessary because in 1921 Canada found herself importing more goods than she was exporting to the extent of $29,000,000. One of the results was that the Canadian dollar lost its standing in the New York market, and was trimmed at times as much as 17 per cent. The condition has changed today, and the last fiscal year showed Canada with a favorable trade balance of $272,000,000 and the Canadian dollar at par.

The Liberals promised that they would take less money from the people in the form of taxation, and during the last year they actually collected $75,000,000 less from the people than the Conservatives did in 1921.

This is a record that the government can frankly put before the people, and it is one on which they will be justified in making an appeal for re-election. The King ministry has done things.

She Can Scoop It Up.

A novelist has arrived in Quebec with the idea of writing a book on "The Romance of the Wild, Wild West." She can travel out there in comfort, viewing the scenery from an observation car, equipped with a news service bulletin and radio. Arriving in that wild, wild country, she can take a sedan to one of the luxurious hotels. By way of securing atmosphere she can ride in the elevators in the department stores, and for a real thrill play over any of the numerous golf links out there.

This novelist should have no difficulty in soaking up enough wild west atmosphere to produce a book that will scintillate with thrills and re-echo with the blood-curdling whoops of wild Indians.

135,000 Murderers At Large.

Judge Marcus A. Kavanagh of Chicago, in an address to the St. Louis Bar Association, adopted an unusual way of trying to make his audience realize the enormity of unpunished crime in their own country. His first statement was this:

"There are 135,000 persons in United States who are guilty of murder."

That is, there have been 135,000 murders committed, following which there has been no punishment. It puts the thing in a naked, unlovely way. One hundred and thirty-five thousand murderers at large, going their way, knowing they are guilty of the blackest crime on the calendar, and also nursing the idea that it is not a very dangerous matter to kill a man in United States.

Following the lead of many eminent U. S. jurists Judge Kavanagh seeks the reason and in doing so turns as others have done to the British system, contrasting it with that of United States. Here is his method of comparison:

"There is no mystery as to why we have so much crime in this country. Evil-minded men in the United States have no respect for the law, because their experience has shown that they need have little fear of its penalties. The reason why there are so few premeditated murders in England lies in the fact that when in that country a man deliberates whether he shall kill another, he knows while he is deliberating that if he does so, within six weeks or two months thereafter he also will die for the crime. Therefore, he lets his enemy live.

"In the United States, if a man deliberates whether he shall kill another, he knows while he deliberates that if he shall kill, the chances are three to one he never will be arrested, twelve to one he never will be convicted, and more than 100 to 1 that he will not die for the crime. Therefore, only 100 Englishmen die in a year by the hands of assassins and 10,000 persons perish every year in the United States."

That is the reason why Canada should reject any and all moves that may be made to introduce American ideas of courts or the management of police departments. There have been attempts made here to glorify the insanity plea, but fortunately our presiding judges have been firm on that point. There have been other attempts to Americanize our police commissions, but the common sense of the people has turned that back. We cannot afford to let down any of the barriers of the British system. It is not a matter of national prejudice, but simply because the British system is so far superior to that of United States that there can be no valid reason for departing from it.

Resented Jazzing of Hymns.

A radio program was arranged in a United States city a few weeks ago consisting of a jazz arrangement of a number of fine old hymns. The owner of the station from which it was to be broadcast stepped in and stopped the performance.

The Chatham News commends the cancellation of the program, remarking that "lack of reverence for things sacred seems to be one of the growing evils of the day. We need to get back to some of the sterling faith of our fathers in this regard."

On the same point the New York Evening Graphic says: "Religion to many people is a deep and abiding part of life. To them hymns are associated with the quietude and solemnity of cathedral and cloister. It would be shocking to hear these venerable songs torn into profane shreds."

To many the memories of old hymns are as sacred as religion itself; they call into play memories that are too dear to bear the intrusion of public expression. The hymn-writer has often been given the vision to gather up emotions and desires that are the common property and experience of people everywhere, under any and all conditions, and there is a deep and well-grounded feeling that would resent to the point of stubbornness the profaning of these mediums of expressions.

It is entirely a wholesome sign, even in an age where on the surface there may seem to be a lack of reverence for things sacred, to find that there is such pronounced resentment toward introducing a meaning of harmful levity in an atmosphere that many have learned to hold sacred.

Note and Comment.

It is quite right to weigh the opinions of others, but it is not necessary to let it sway you.

One thing in favor of the Riffs and Druses who are now fighting the French is that neither has issued a war loan.

Trade keeps up quite fair because they're putting the goods into men's trousers that they cut off the ladies' skirts.

Tooth-paste announcement says "Keep your teeth clean if you would be healthy." And it wouldn't hurt to give the tongue an occasional scrub.

When the hired man has been on the premises long enough to know that the wife isn't getting a square deal from her husband it's high time to be looking for a new hired man.

A bandit in Chicago claimed he was really a student of psychology; he studied the various moods of the people he robbed and made a careful note of them. He couldn't make much of a kick if the state hanged him to demonstrate how the law of gravity works.

Bobby Leach some years ago went over Niagara Falls in a barrel. The other day he attempted to swim the river below the falls, but failed because his false teeth came out. When the old boys get to the stage of china teeth it's hard for them to realize they're not as frisky as they used to be.

The property held by Indians in United States is worth a billion dollars, less than which would have bought the whole place the day Columbus landed. The Indians may have been shoved off Broadway in New York, and crowded out of the Loop in Chicago, but they're a long way from being broke.

Fashion notes intimate that women's skirts for fall and winter will flutter about sixteen inches from the turf. In the summer togs the neck and arms in the gowns of our loved ones had disappeared, but they are scampering back to a limited extent for the winter season, so there will be, as the wood finisher says, a bit of top dressing.

The women and the girls have invaded the barber shops, heretofore the undisputed pasture of whiskered men. The boys have invaded the field of cooking and proved their point by taking the first prizes in the junior section at Toronto exhibition—doughnuts, apple pie, brown bread and white bread. Thus the supremacy of the stern sex is re-established on a high and lofty pinnacle.

Much Worried

In readin' of the news today I see how trouble's come to dwell, and camp upon two chaps in town that I be knowin' fairly well.

It's most amazin' how some folks find trouble campin' in their way, surprisin' how it comes along and greets them now most any day. I was just readin' of the lot, the speed-cop took 'em two by two, for passin' on the Ridout bridge at faster than they ought to do.

And when I see some names in there, it was a shock unto my eye, for they be goodly friends of mine what hold their reputation high.

Now Bevan Hay, how come that you should drive your tank at such a rate, were you so rushed upon that trip that you could not afford to wait? Was it at dinner-time you sped to eat brown bread and onions too, or was it the speed in comin' back to start the things you ought to do?

You drive a handsome hack, you do, no doubt it's got all sorts of power, but you could shut the fly-wheel off and run at just five miles an hour. How come you didn't see the cops who squinted with a legal look, and then they writ down J. B. Hay upon the law-offendin' book.

Likewise I see as Wendell Holmes was named among the speeders there, who driv his car eight miles an hour, a faster gait than he should dare.

I've knowed that lad for 30 years, and reckoned him a peaceful guy, a chap I love to stop and greet when me and him is passin' by. He come from Parkhill years ago, where law and order's safe and sound, what will they think to hear as how the cops be chasin' him around?

I can't just figure why he's changed from bein' a quiet and peaceful man, to one who rattles on that bridge nor throttles down his pink sedan. It makes a shiver in my dome, a shakin' in my very bones, to think the cops should have to go and put the chains on Wendell Holmes.

It grieves me much to write of this and stabs my feelin' through and through, to try and figure out this thing, just what these boys are comin' to.—ARK.

The following scores were made at the last shoot of the Melrose Rifle club: F. Harrison 41, E. J. Shaw 40, J. A. Clare 37, J. K. Morris 35, C. A. Campbell 35, C. Harrison 33, J. Ferguson 31, J. Harrison 29, J. Oliver 28, H. Ferguson 21.

Sir Richard Cartwright made a memorable speech at his nomination meeting in Norwich. Others who were nominated but withdrew in favor of Sir Richard were: Thomas Maybury, J. B. Jackson, Col. J. C. Reformers of St. Paul's ward, Toronto, at a meeting decided to bring the name of N. W. Rowell before the convention as Liberal candidate for East York. Mr. Rowell is an ex-Londoner, and was as popular here as he appears to be in the community of which he now forms a part.

All arrangements have been made for the Labor Day celebration. The order of the procession is: Painters, metal polishers, electrical workers, amalgamated engineers, machinists, printers, carriage and wagon makers, hackmen, iron molders, boilermakers, railroad brotherhoods, cigarmakers, stove mounters, brass workers, tailors, street railway, teamsters, barbers. Chief marshal, J. Beal; assistants, W. Gale and J. Carroll.

Editorial Opinion

ON PARLIAMENT HILL.

(Ottawa Journal.)

The Memorial tower, crowning glory of the government buildings on Parliament hill, is so nearly finished that the grouping of the blocks, towers, and turrets may now be looked upon in [illegible] symmetrical ensemble.

We believe the Journal to be within the facts in stating that the new main building is one of three or four of the noblest edifices in the world devoted to legislation.

The interior of Memorial tower, when the dream of the architect takes form in glass, marble, and mosaic in honor of the nation's war dead, will be original and beautiful. It will be quite unlike anything in existence—a sanctuary in which will rest immortal names and records where soft lights give their benediction and where cathedral silence reigns. Supporting most of the conventional things is an idea, a symbol, or a story. Altogether Canadians may be proud of the building and grateful for the genius of the men of art and talent whose dream of eight years ago is a fact of today.

ONE WAY TO DIG.

Men were digging a ditch in a wet, sticky soil that was in danger of flooding.

"All out!" the young foreman shouted one morning.

The men were out like a flash.

"All in!" the foreman shouted, and the men tumbled back into the ditch, thinking the call had been a false alarm.

"All out!" came another shout.

Out tumbled the men.

"All in!"

And they disappeared once more in the hole, grumbling a little.

After half-a-dozen repetitions of this business the men became angry and asked the foreman what he meant by it.

"What's the game?" one demanded. "There's no water coming."

The foreman smiled.

"I know there isn't," he said, "but I find that you fellows take out more dirt on your boots than you do on your shovels."

CHANNEL SEAMEN JOIN SHIP STRIKE,

Reported To Be On Verge of Collapse, Tie-Up Spreads Suddenly.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Sept. 2.—The strike of the seamen, which early in the evening seemed about to collapse, spread late tonight to the crews of the cross-channel boats sailing from Southampton. All the boats which ply over the four routes from Southampton are tied up at their docks.

This latest development in the strike was the outgrowth of strenuous efforts by the leaders of the seamen to counteract the effect of the unhampered sailing today of the liner Majestic for New York, which almost brought the trouble to an end.

The strike leaders tomorrow plan to hold up all channel boats and the liners which are due to sail during the week-end. It is believed, however, that the arrival of several trainloads of relief seamen at several ports probably will avert a crisis and may even bring a belated end to the trouble.

The substitute crews for the steamers Arlanza and Arnguaya arrived at Southampton tonight, and it is expected these vessels will be able to sail for South America on their schedule time. There is no change in the situation in Australia and South Africa, where a number of British vessels have been held up for some days by the strike.

Nine overseas steamers are held up in New Zealand, while at a mass meeting at Sydney, Australia, the owners' offer of a settlement was declined. The owners had proposed that if the men returned to their ships by Saturday they would waive legal rights against the strikers, and agree that no punishment should be enforced.

At the mass meeting, the speakers denounced the offer as an insult, and declared that the men had no intention of giving in. The efforts of moderate labor leaders to reach a settlement at Australian ports have proved unsuccessful, the men giving no intimation of heeding their leaders' advice.

While the South African shipowners' and strikers' representatives are preparing to hold a conference to settle their differences, Capetown, Durban and other ports have been stirred by rumors that lascar crews were to be brought in to replace the men who walked out. The press generally, irrespective of political complexion, avers that this move would be an error and would alienate the sympathy of both the government and public.

Local labor leaders are appealing to the strikers to return to work, contending that the fruit business is in danger of a great loss. The strike in Great Britain has spread to the cross-channel service. Several sailings have been cancelled, but all overseas ships got away today according to schedule.

ONTARIO NEED NOT WORRY OVER COAL

Chief of Mining Bureau Says No Immediate Cause For Alarm.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Sept. 2.—"A study of the anthracite situation in Ontario and Quebec indicates no immediate cause for alarm," stated S. J. Cook, chief of the mining, metallurgical and chemical branch of the dominion bureau of statistics today in commenting on the probable immediate effect in Canada of the tie-up in the United States anthracite field.

"Central Canada," declared Mr. Cook, burns about 4,000,000 tons of anthracite coal annually, most of which is obtained from the Pennsylvania field where the miners went on strike at midnight of August 31. From April 1 of this year to July 31 anthracite importations into Canada, including coal from United States and Great Britain, totaled 1,499,026 short tons, or 22 per cent more than during the same months in 1924. Assuming that all anthracite imported during the first three months of this year was burned, and that the consumption since April 1 has not been in excess of 499,026 tons, then there should still be available about 1,000,000 tons for use in the coming winter.

Flitter the Bat Tells Peter Just Why He Had To Go Hungry

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

"How am I lucky?" demanded Peter Rabbit of Flitter the Bat. "You say I am lucky and don't know it. Now tell me how I am lucky."

"Have you had any less to eat because of this rain?" squeaked Flitter, darting just about Peter's head.

"No," said Peter.

"I may not have eaten quite as much, but I could have eaten as much as usual if I had wanted to sit in the rain to do it."

"Cerainly, of course," squeaked Flitter. "When you are hungry all you have to do is to hop over to the nearest clover patch. You may get wet but you get your stomach full. If you go hungry it is your own fault. But I go hungry because I have to. I don't have anything to say about it."

Peter turned this over in his mind and he was puzzled. He didn't see yet what Flitter meant. Finally he said so. "You can fly even if it is raining, can't you?" he inquired.

"Certainly," squeaked Flitter.

"Then what is to prevent you getting your meals just as usual?" Peter inquired.

"The fact that there aren't any meals to get," replied Flitter.

"Why aren't there?" demanded Peter.

"Because of the rain, stupid," squeaked Flitter rather sharply.

Peter turned this over in his mind several times and still couldn't see what the rain had to do with it. Then it occurred to him that not once had he seen Flitter appear to catch anything as he flew about above him. This set him to thinking. "Do you mean," he inquired, "that all your food is washed away?"

"No," squeaked Flitter. "I don't mean just that. You know, of course, that I get all my food in the air?"

Peter nodded. "Of course I know that much," said he.

"And you know that my food consists of flying insects," continued Flitter.

Again Peter nodded. "So I have been told," said he.

"Well," replied Flitter, "when it rains and rains and rains the way it has been doing, no insects are flying. All have crept into sheltered places to wait until the rain is over. I tell you what it is, Peter Rabbit, long rains are sometimes pretty hard on some of us who have to catch all our food in the air. Skimmer the Swallow and Boomer the Nighthawk, are two pretty hungry people just about now or I'm mistaken. I have known the babies of Skimmer the Swallow to starve to death when very tiny because of wet weather. Skimmer and Mrs. Skimmer simply couldn't find food enough to feed their babies. I ought to be asleep now, but the minute it stopped raining I started out hoping to find something to eat. Now it is beginning to rain again. Did you ever see such weather? If the weather doesn't clear pretty soon something is going to happen to some of us. I must get back to shelter. Good by, Peter Rabbit, and don't grumble."

Away Flew Flitter the Bat.

Away flew Flitter the Bat and Peter hopped back to the shelter of the old Woodchuck house in the middle of the dear old Briarpatch. He felt a little ashamed "I won't complain any more," said he. "I have plenty to eat and I can sleep when I want to. But poor little Flitter has nothing to eat and his empty little stomach won't let him sleep in comfort. It's queer how in this world we so often find people much worse off than ourselves. I just didn't like the rain, but it never entered my head that so much rain was making anybody suffer. I hope for Flitter's sake the sun will come out soon."

And an hour later, just as if jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun had heard Peter's wish, the clouds broke and Mr. Sun smiled down on a wet world. "Hurrah," cried Peter. "Flitter will get a good dinner tonight." Flitter did

The guests included Miss Agnes Gowanlock, Miss Margaret Kenny, Miss Betty Kenny, Miss Ethel Campbell, Miss Beatrice Bailey, Mrs. Duncan, Miss Helen Bailey, Miss Matilda Groom, Miss Frances Scott, Miss Madeline Miller, Miss Jessie Corbin and Miss Irene Love. WOMEN and THE HOME

NEW ORGANIZATION HERE HAS FINE AIMS FOR FUTURE

Vacation School Mothers' Association To Aid Other Clubs.

PURELY RELIGIOUS

Those responsible for the organization of the vacation school mothers' associations throughout the city are anxious to let the public know just what is the aim of these institutions. Their object is not to antagonize other clubs in the city, but to make the members of their associations more interested in those clubs as well as in the vacation school mothers' association.

This fact was brought out yesterday at a conference at which groups of women representing the mothers of the Wellington United church and St. James' church vacation schools were present. The meeting was one of intense interest, and was held with a view to more definitely forming mothers' associations in each community where a vacation school was held during the summer months.

It was pointed out to those present that the organization will be of a purely religious nature, with the idea of promoting religious nurture in the home and among the mothers and their children. It is the aim of the organization also to back up the work being planned by the children's work board of the city and to stand behind any beneficiary issues in connection with the vacation schools.

The program of the children's work board calls for a mothers' meeting in connection with its work, but no definite arrangement has been made for the sessions and no plans outlined for them. The committees working on programs for the meetings will aim at making them suit the mothers who are members. They will be original, and as London is probably the first center in which the associations have been formed, the work is being gone into very slowly.

The personal note will be struck very strongly in this new organization. The work will not be done along the lines of other clubs and organizations in the city. It will in no way be spectacular. The mothers themselves have advocated the plan of carrying on the work through prayer and personal work, and their desire shall be carried out.

The women who have had their little folk at the vacation school are eager to assist in the work, and many are but awaiting the opportunity to understand more fully what is to be done.

The mothers' association is a distinct organization and is distinctly religious. Its undertakings are of a serious nature, and it is the desire of those interested in it to make it a permanent institution in the community.

If You Wish to Retain Your Wife's Affections You Have Got to Love.

One of the most curious superstitions in the world is the childlike belief that men have in the indestructibility of women's love. They visualize the feminine heart as a sort of perpetual-motion machine that, once they press the button and set to work, goes on automatically pumping up affection for them as long as they live, and they think that nothing they do or say ever interferes with its functioning.

In a word, they believe that if a man wins a woman's love it is his for keeps. He can't lose it or mislay it. The poor thing has no choice but to go on adoring him to the end, because she is built that way. It is a comfortable and consoling theory, and men take liberties with it, but the trouble is that it isn't true.

In reality, women are just as fickle as men are, and just as few women as men are capable of a deep and abiding love.

Women's fancies are just as unstable as men's. They are just as much lured by a handsome face and fall as easily for a smooth line of soft talk. And there are just as many wives who get tired of their husbands as there are husbands who are weary of their wives.

The only difference between the sexes in the matter is that women face the situation, while men shut their eyes to it and refuse to recognize that it exists. Every woman knows that because a man was in love with her when he married her is no indication that he is going to remain in love with her to the end of the chapter. She knows that if she keeps her husband's affection she has to be up and doing, and on the job.

That is why there are millions of women undergoing all the agonies of slow starvation trying to maintain a girlish figure; why millions are boiled alive and thumped and scalped in beauty parlors, and why the nation spends more a year for face paint than it does for house paint, and why, wherever we go, we see fat, middle-aged, bread-and-butter wives attempting to look like flappers and acquire the technique of the vamp in order to keep their husbands nailed to their own fireside.

Apparently, however, it never occurs to a man that there is the slightest necessity to make any effort to keep his wife fascinated and to prevent her eyes from roaming around in search of a sheik. He may be bay-windowed and bald, but if he reduces it is only on his doctor's orders, and not because he wants to look boyish to his wife. And he never buys a toupee until after he becomes a widower and begins to take notice again.

The idea that his wife might cease to love him actually never crosses the average man's mind. He is convinced that she couldn't do it. It is some peculiarity of the feminine constitution that makes a woman go on loving what has become unlovable. Now, with a man it is different, of course. He realizes that he couldn't stay very long in love with a woman who was slouchy, and sloppy, and untidy looking, who came to breakfast in a dirty kimono and run down at the heel slippers. Nor would he take much interest in kissing a cheek that was smeared with cold cream.

But he doesn't see why his wife shouldn't still regard him as a romantic figure when he goes around in a soiled shirt and a rumpled collar, with grease spots on his coat and trousers that bag at the knees, and offers to her lips a countenance with a two days' stubble of beard on it.

A man knows well enough that, as far as he is concerned, the only way to keep the love fires burning is to keep piling the fuel on it and pouring over it the oil of flattery and praise.

But he thinks that you don't have to put any more fuel on the fire of a woman's heart, because it is a flame that miraculously replenishes itself.

So after he marries he never bothers to show her any attention, or to pay her any compliments, or to tell her that he loves her, or give any indication that he regards her as anything but a piece of useful household furniture. If any woman ever treated him that way his affection would mighty soon starve to death, but he never has the slightest apprehension that his wife's love will perish on the same meagre rations.

There are men who abuse their wives, who swear at them, and curse them, and speak to them as if they were dogs. There are men whose wives live in trembling fear of their tempers. There are men who are stingy and who do not give to their wives, who spend their lives slaving for them, the poorest wage of an ill-paid servant.

Yet these men go on believing that their wives still love them because they loved them in the days of courtship, when they were handsome, gallant, and neat, and attractive, and loving, and flattering, and generous, and considerate swains.

Such men befool themselves by thinking that they cannot kill a woman's love. Never was there a greater mistake. A woman's love is as delicate and as fragile a thing as a flower that you can crush with a finger. And it takes never-ending skill, and care, and cherishing to keep it alive.

You can kill it with disgust. You can kill it with unkindness. You can kill it with injustice. You can kill it with neglect, and it would surprise many a man who still believes that his wife loves him in spite of the way he has treated her, in spite of his indifference to her, to know that her love for him has been dead so long that she has almost forgotten that she ever cared for him at all.

So I warn you, Mr. Man, not to put any faith in the theory that you can't kill a woman's love. Women are like men; they only love the lovable. And if you wish to retain your wife's affections, you have got to continue after marriage the same tactics you used in winning her.

SLINKY SLEEVES COVER THE ARM

Bodices Fit Closely, But Frocks Billow Below Waistline.

By AILEEN LAMONT.
Special to The Advertiser.
Copyright.

New York, Sept. 1.—Slinky sleeves. That is a safe description of the arm coverings of the new satin frocks for fall. They have slinky bodices also, extremely close fitting, but at the waist they cease to slink and commence to billow. The skirts are given decided flares through multiple volants and godets at the sides, which stand out so sharply as to resemble the angle edged draperies of the Egyptian hieroglyphics.

Often it is necessary to spike a rumor, but the spike heel continues to speak for itself. Whether the heel be high, medium or low, it is a spike variety these days, except on those shoes exclusively intended for sports. Dress and street shoes in both kid and satin are being built on the spike model.

A goat of many colors must have furnished the material for one of the new fall coats. The garment is all of goat skins. These start out pure white at the top and shade into a deep gray at the hem. The shading of white fur into gray is no novelty in Pittsburg or New York. The trick lies in keeping the top of the coat pure white.

The old prejudice against powder, rouge and lipstick has largely passed away, but their use now is more difficult than ever. For nowadays a woman must know something of the blending of color in order to present the proper complexion. The summer tan of the beaches forms a background far different from the whiter epidermis of the winter months, and many blondes are now using brunette cosmetics for the first time.

The mediaeval man at arms and the modern truck driver have yielded to women a part of their stormy weather attire. The leather jerkins, which provide exceptional protection from cold and inclement weather are being bought by college girls this fall. The garments are made of the finest lamb skin suede bordered with knitted wool.

Touring Farmers Reach Toronto, and See Canadian National Exhibition.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 2.—Arriving here in ninety-two automobiles covered with placards setting forth the advantages of their home districts, 400 Essex and Kent county farmers and their families inspected the University of Toronto and visited the Canadian National Exhibition here today. After witnessing the grandstand performance at the exhibition tonight the party returned to the university residences, where they will remain until tomorrow noon when they will proceed to Hamilton. The visitors, who are touring the province, according to the plan of Justus Miller, Essex representative of the Ontario department of agriculture, were welcomed to the university by Rev. Cody, chairman of the board of governors of the university, who impressed upon them that the university, as a provincial institution, was their own and entirely at their service.

Hon. George S. Henry, minister of highways, congratulated the visitors on their decision to see their own province. "I sometimes think that we in Ontario are not fully conscious of our capabilities and possibilities," he said.

STARVED HEARTS

By MILDRED BARBOUR.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND THE CHARACTERS.

STEPHEN LANE, wealthy, middle-aged, despotic, rules with a tyrant hand his young wife.

BARBARA, who sold herself into a loveless marriage, and

MADELON, his beautiful orphaned niece, whose father's marriage he had opposed some twenty years before and whose guardianship now devolves upon him. He broke up her boy-and-girl affair with DUANE FARLEY. Farley turned for sympathy to Barbara, who, unknown to Farley, fell in love with him. Lane, sent abroad, with business and professional ruin as the only alternative.

JULIAN BARTON, Madelon's real love, whose suit was sponsored by

ANN ORDWAY, lifelong family friend, who loved Lane deeply, despite his faults, but whose lack of beauty kept her unnoticed by him. Lane sends Barbara and Madelon to California, where the latter meets

HOWARD CHANDLER, fascinating drifter, and marries him to escape Lane's tyranny.

CHAPTER LVIII.

An Echo From the Young Past.

"Where were you last night?" Lane asked Madelon at luncheon next day.

His manner was disapproving.

"I dined at Ann's and went with her to a lecture given by Miss Maitland."

He frowned.

"Women lecturers are an abomination . . . . I don't want you to get mixed up in Ann's ridiculous feminist movements."

"You're not a feminist, Uncle Stephen?"

"Certainly not. Woman's place is at home."

"But that belief is positively antediluvian now," she ventured.

His frown deepened.

"It is my view," he told her crisply, and his tone indicated that she was not the one to question it.

Duane Farley rang her up after luncheon with an invitation that surprised her.

"I thought you might care to drive—it's such a peach of an afternoon . . . . Think you could elude the watchful guardian?"

They both laughed at the suggestion. It was so reminiscent of school day intrigue.

"I'll try," she promised, "but you'd better meet me in the park. You might run into the aforesaid guardian if you come here."

It was with a feeling of delicious guilt that she dressed for the motor ride and called a taxi to take her to the park entrance.

For a little while she forgot all the dark days that had passed since she used to slip away to keep a rendezvous.

She wondered what had prompted Farley's invitation. Several times in the last year, he had asked to call, but she had put him off. She knew that his interest in her was not dead, but her sense of fair play held her back from encouraging him. What would be the use, when she couldn't love him? She would only have to hurt him a second time.

So it was with the mingled emotions of pleasure and a little apprehension, that she stepped into his car, waiting just beyond the park gates.

He glanced appreciatively at the pretty picture she made in her sheer summer frock, a graceful hat shading her bright hair and violet eyes.

"How do you do it?" he asked enviously. "Here I am, lined and gray, and you are still the epitome of youth."

"Lined and gray, after only five years? Nonsense!" she scoffed. "You haven't changed at all."

He smiled into her eyes.

"No, I haven't changed at all," he said significantly.

She flushed at his import.

"Let's pretend we're only very young things today," she suggested, by way of changing the subject. "I am just out of boarding school and you're a sophmore in college still. We haven't a care in the world. The sun is shining just for us, and the flowers blooming and the birds singing. . . . It's a nice game—will you play?" she asked smilingly.

"To the end," he promised. "But must it be just for today?"

Her eyes grew wistful.

"I wonder if we could forget the past, you and I? I wonder if we could have our play hour once in so often?"

"It's worth trying," he agreed gravely. "Infinitely worth trying."

He let the car out and they sped through the park and out into the beckoning country beyond. Down roads fragrant with blossoming honeysuckle, past clover fields, through wooded spaces, dark and pungent with pine, they followed a gypsy trail.

Madelon hummed softly to herself, but he was silent, lounging indolently behind the wheel.

"There's a farmhouse out this way where one can stop for tea," he finally suggested when the sun had sunk lower behind the fragrant hedgerows. "They give one wonderful buttered scones and gingerbread cookies. Like to try them?"

Madelon agreed delightedly, and presently they drew up before a trim white house set well back from the road. A lane of stately oaks led in from the gateway.

"The garden's the nicest place for tea," said Farley.

He helped her out of the car, and, tucking her arm through his, led her into a quaint, little, old-fashioned garden, where hollyhocks, sweet william, and phlox ran riot. Little rustic tables were set about in secluded corners. In a tree above them, a dove cooed softly, and a big tortoise-shell cat, basking in the sunlight, lifted sleepy eyes as they passed.

"What a charming place!" Madelon sank into a cushioned wicker chair and smiled up at the pretty little girl in a cotton frock who came to serve them. "I could stay here forever."

Farley waited until the girl was beyond earshot. Then he leaned across the table. His eyes were shining.

"I wish I could have you—like this—forever. . . . May I?"

HOLE CUT IN WALL, PRISONERS ESCAPE

Two Escape From Carleton Jail by Cut Made in Two-Foot Wall.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Sept. 2. — Assisted by friends from the outside who cut a hole in the two-foot wall of the Carleton county jail yard, two prisoners, Fred Zavelitch, aged 17, of Eastview, Ont., and Ernest Dupuis, aged 32, of Hull, Que., made a successful getaway from the jail this afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock. No tarce of them had been found by this evening. Jail Governor A. Dawson, in a statement tonight, intimates that in his opinion the men, who made their escape were not the men for whom elaborate preparations had been made. Zavelitch and Dupuis were only serving short sentences for minor crimes, while a number of prisoners, some of international repute, are awaiting trial on more serious charges.

The hole cut through the wall was partly concealed by the stone pile and had apparently been made by someone from the outside with experience in masonry.

BURGLARS ENTER KINGSMILL STORE

Merchandise Stolen, But Money Not Secured by Thieves.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Sept. 2.—Prying open a door, robbers entered the general store of Joseph Grandy, Kingsmill, late last night or early this morning, and escaped with $200 worth of merchandise. No money was found by the thieves. The Michigan Central station was also entered through a window, but although several freight parcels were forced open, nothing was taken. Provincial Constable Devlin, who investigated the robbery, found no clues other than marks which indicate that a car was used.

The death occurred Sunday in Detroit of Alva D. Wolcott, a former Elgin county boy. Going to Detroit 20 years ago, he engaged in political activities of that city, and was tax commissioner for the past six years.

He was a prominent and active Mason, a past master of Zion lodge. Survivors are widow and two children, Dr. W. B. Wolcott, New York City, and Dr. G. R. Wolcott, Toronto; a sister, Mrs. S. A. Keillor, Wellington street, St. Thomas.

The funeral was held from his late residence to Masonic Acacia cemetery.

Improvement of the highway between Talbotville and Shedden has necessitated the closing of the road. All westbound traffic will go by way of Fingal.

Mayor George Sloggett and City Solicitor Doherty left this morning for Toronto to attend the annual convention of the Ontario Municipal association.

London Seniors Again Blank Dresden When Quick Holds Opposition To Four Hits

Kent Loop Champions Fade From O.B.A.A. Title Chase By Taking 7 to 0 Defeat

Aided by Visitors' Errors, Local Seniors Waltz Through To Easy Shutout Win After Gaining Three-Run Lead in Third Frame.

WALLACE AND BABBITT FIELDING STARS

FREDDIE QUICK permitted the Dresden batters but four scattered hits, and shut them out 7-0 over at Tecumseh Park yesterday afternoon before 2,500 fans. This made 11 hits in three play-off games the London right-hander has allowed.

After the locals got to Johnson in the second frame for three runs, which were made easier by errors, the Dresden team bore the air of having peeked at the exit signs, and being prepared for the worst. This wasn't true of all the team, for several individual members were in there fighting, even when the odds were hopeless.

The game that gave the locals their second clean sweep of a play-off series was played in close, sticky atmosphere and smoky visibility, and it should have been a good day for the Dresden pitching sensation, but while he smoked the odd one in after the second, he seemed to feel that he was propping up a lost cause and the London batters were quick to see it, with the result that they kept tapping away for hits, combined with errors, to count in four more runs.

It was on defense that the London superiority stood out like a cake of soap at a Bolshevik meeting. Quick's pitching shook up the morals of the Dresden team, but when they saw potential hits gobbled up, one after another for fast moving infield-outs, it oozed away altogether and they smelt moth balls as early as the fourth round.

One Bad Decision.

The game was late in starting, and the crowd tried to hurry it up. Umpire Shaw of Windsor, did not arrive until the fourth inning, and he celebrated his arrival by calling McWaine safe at second after he was out by ten feet. He didn't score, so it didn't matter particularly.

Quick set the visitors down in order in the first inning, Ward retiring Walt McFadden for a third out on a fine pick-up and a bullet-like peg to first. Johnson's first inning was his best. He struck out Isaacs and Armstrong with ridiculous ease, and Reilly was heaved out by Miller.

With two gone in the second, Wallace got the first hit of the game off Quick, a single to left. Wallace, with head down, started for second as Johnson smacked a hit down between second and first, and the ball winged him, retiring the side. It was a tough break for the visitors, and had it happened otherwise, might have meant a different sort of game. B. McFadden's single in the fourth, Babbitt's double in the fifth and Walt McFadden's single to center in the ninth were the only threats Quick faced after the second round, and these were only gnat-size.

Wallace Makes Hard Catch.

The Londoners might have curled up after their inauspicious start of the second inning. Doherty lined a hard-hit ball down past second, but it was picked off by Wallace, who sprinted across it bows and stuck out his bare hand for the most scintillating put-out of the game. Silverstein lofted a high pop to short. McWaine dropped a bunt toward third, and was safe, and that started the Londoners on the right track.

McWaine stole second, off Johnson as much as McFadden, whose throw was good, but low. Filmore shot a hard grounder between Miller's legs, McWaine scoring when Babbitt's throw to the plate was wide. Ward singled to short, counting in Filmore from third. Quick singled to left, and so did Isaacs. Ward scored, but Quick was thrown out at third by Babbitt.

Record Double-Play.

An unusual double-play kept the Londoners from scoring in the next frame. Reilly singled to right. As Doherty lined out into Babbitt's hands, Reilly, who was almost at second, dashed for first, but, slowing up as he neared the sack standing up, was nabbed by Babbitt's peg, which came whirring over his shoulders.

It was the first double-play started in left field and completed at first base ever seen at Tecumseh park. Thompson displayed a fine bit of head-work, especially face-work. He made no move to get the peg from left field until the ball was almost in his hands, and Reilly, who had looked toward first as he came on, was deceived.

McWaine was hit with one gone in the fourth. He stole second—so Umpire Shaw decided. Filmore singled to left. Ward's choice killed off Filmore at second, and Quick grounded out to the box.

Isaacs opened the fifth with a single. Blackwell dropped Wallace's toss on Armstrong's choice, and both were safe. Isaacs was pegged out at third by B. McFadden, who gathered in Reilly's foul and snapped the ball over. Armstrong counted in on Doherty's single to center.

Single Scores Two.

A walk to McWaine and Miller's bad throw on Filmore's grounder put the runners on second and third, from where they both counted on Isaac's singled to center, in the sixth, and the coming of these two runs was where the Dresden team seemed to definitely slide out of the picture.

In the seventh Johnson was unsteady for the first time. He walked Reilly to start. Doherty singled sharply to right, Reilly taking third. Doherty stole second unmolested, and then Johnson walked McWaine and Silverstein in succession, forcing in a run. Filmore smashed a hot one at Blackwell, who started a double-play through the plate to first for one of the snappiest bits of defensive work of the game.

INGERSOLL FANS GREET THEIR VICTORIOUS NINE

Special to The Advertiser.

Ingersoll, Sept. 2.—The Ingersoll baseball team, who yesterday defeated Windsor in the intermediate O. B. A. A. series by a score of 2 to 1 in eleven innings, was given a rousing reception when they arrived here at 4 o'clock this morning. There was a representative gathering of enthusiastic fans at the depot, and cheers, horns and congratulations indicated just how sincerely the victory, which eliminated Windsor from the running, was appreciated. The town bell was also rung continuously for an hour or more, and in the parade that was held many automobiles figured. Between the honking of horns and the ringing of the town bell citizens had little sleep after the arrival of the victorious team. It is not yet known who Ingersoll will meet in the next round. It is understood that the locals will have a rest of about ten days following their hard grind recently.

HARVEY TEAM QUALIFIES.

Woodstock, Sept. 2.—Staging a fierce batting fusillade in the last four innings the Harvey Knitting Company team came from behind and defeated the Hay and Co. team 29 to 15 in the play-off for the second series honors in the Industrial softball league tonight, and qualified to meet the Eureka Planters in the finals for the championship.

A PIQUANT SITUATION.

If, as reports say, Rabbin Maranville is to be asked to abdicate as pilot of the Cubs, and George (Mooney) Gibson of London, Ont., is to succeed him, Gibson will have under him two or three of the men who were the strength and weakness of his Pirates which made a memorable drive for the pennant in 1923, only to fall short when it came to the final spurt. At that time it was alleged that slackness in discipline had let the club get out of hand, and the fact that Maranville and Grimm and some more Pirates figured in a deal with the Cubs leads to the conclusion that they must have had something to do with the Pirates' downfall at that time. It might easily be deducted that Gibson did not take the same view of Maranville that Dreyfus did, and he took the player's part, especially since Gibson went with the Cubs after the trade of the Pirate players. What will probably happen is that Maranville will go back as a player under Gibson.

RUTH VS. HUGGINS.

Opinion is sharply divided in many places over the merits of Huggins' action in suspending Ruth and fining him the rather large smack of 5,000 berries.

Heywood Broun, philosopher, author, humorist, baseball fan extraordinary, dramatic critic and one of the several G. K. Chestertons of America, and not a great admirer of Huggins, advances the ingenious plea that Ruth, as the creative genius of home runs, should not be judged by the standards of the ordinary run of humans. He pictures Ruth as the carefree, big—sometimes slightly bad—boy who hit as he lived, with a verve and abandon. Hitting was not thinking with Ruth. It was just a natural outlet to an exuberant spirit. Once that spirit was put under the restraint of early to bed and early to rise regulations, it became repressed and sluggish. What before had been a game now became a task.

It's not such a humorous plea as at first blush it may appear. Undoubtedly anxiety took the place of what had been blithe, carefree confidence.

Over-anxiety spoiled the precision of that timing which alone produced Ruth's mighty clouts. He swung too fast and he swung too slow. In a word, once Ruth began to think and concentrate, he was ruined. Ruth's case requires some deep, serious thinking, and Babe himself shouldn't be required to do any of it, or it will result in a worse muddle.

RAH FOR THE HALF-BACK.

The New York World says editorially:—"The articles on 'Football Finance,' now appearing in The World, taken with a series which recently appeared, 'Confessions of a Football Scout,' and taken also with the mild protests of university presidents, like the recent one of President Angell of Yale, point to a state of affairs which must strike the outsider as alternately ludicrous and tragic. Ludicrous, because of the commercialism which goes on under cover of strict amateur rules; tragic, because of the incalculable harm done to real education by shifting emphasis from the class-room to the cheering-squad.

When will our institutions of higher learning face the fact that in large part they are nothing but athletic clubs? The excuse often made that physical development is as essential as mental development, is mainly bosh. Eleven men are physically developed; the rest strain their throats. Set the actual benefits of this elaborate sports machinery in their true perspective, and they appear absurdly small. Compare the Johns Hopkins of Gilman, Remsen and Gildersleeve, for example, with the Center College of football fame. The old Johns Hopkins had a football team that was a standing joke. Yet its scholastic work was famous the world over. Center College at its best could lick anything that wore moleskin, yet how many savants of Europe take their Sabbatical year at Center College? For one glorious night of cheering and rejoicing our colleges pay a heavy price."

Entries Coming In Fast For Net Championships

List Closes Friday and Is Expected To Reach New Mark.

GAME IS GROWING

Entries are rolling in fast for the city tennis championships, which commence Monday. Entries close Friday, and while there is every indication that all former records will be surpassed, still there are the entries of many players of mark in the city missing.

The growth of tennis in London was amply demonstrated in last year's tournament, at which the standard of play was much higher than during any other period of London's tennis history. The general use of the municipal courts is taken as a fairer indication of the growth of the game than is the increase of membership noted at the London tennis club and at other more or less private courts. And this year the courts at Thames park have been used to a much greater extent than last year, which fact in itself is almost an assurance that the number of entries this year should surpass the mark set in 1924.

St. George's Anglican church, Ontario hospital, Westminster hospital all possess courts which have developed many players this season, and players from these clubs should help swell the number of entries.

The race is by no means a settled one. The luck of the draw will operate largely in cutting down the chances of the outstanding stars already known to have entered, and good average form should get any player through many rounds of play.

B. I. Williams, as secretary of the London tennis club, on the courts of which the tournament will be held again this year, is accepting entries. A phone call to 1648 will insure entries being in the draw.

Locust Halts Golf Tourney

Special to The Advertiser.

Oakmont, Pa., Sept. 2. — Another grasshopper figured in the closing moments of the qualifying round of the National amateur tourney yesterday. Coming up to his ball, Clarence Wolfe found a large grasshopper clinging to it. U. S. G. A. officials were on hand, and Wolfe asked for a decision. It was suggested that he take a practice swing at the ball, which he did, but the grasshopper refused to budge. After a wait of 10 minutes the grasshopper hopped away from there.

Mooney Gibson Suggested As New Manager of Cubs

Cub Followers Believe Club President Intends To Depose Maranville.

VEECK IS SILENT

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Reports were current in baseball circles tonight that "Rabbit" Maranville may be deposed as manager of the Chicago Nationals and supplanted by George Gibson, present coach of the club and former manager of the Pirates.

Maranville arrived here today too late for a conference with William Veeck, president of the Cubs. President Veeck said there was no significance attached to Maranville's return, and that the "Rabbit" had not been officially summoned.

President Veeck would not admit that a change in the management was contemplated, or that Gibson was under consideration as Maranville's successor.

"It would not be wise for me to jeopardize Maranville's position with the Cubs," Mr. Veeck said. "I shall have a talk with Maranville tomorrow, but I have nothing to give out in advance to that meeting."

Mr. Veeck has announced he would say nothing until Maranville has conferred with him personally.

There had been rumors, says the Herald and Examiner, that during Maranville's convalescence from an ankle injury, sustained during spring training, he did not always act as one in his condition should. Then there was the affair with a taxicab driver in New York, where the manager and several players became involved in a fistic argument with the driver. Maranville then was reported to have been in the right.

But stories of a conflict with a house detective in Boston in the early hours of Monday, and his ejection from the bench and out of the park yesterday threw other lights on the situation, says the newspaper. All this is due for an airing at the conference with President Veeck.

The Chicago Nationals play an exhibition game in Toronto today, but Maranville will not be with the team.

DRESDEN'S OLDEST FAN.

Mr. John French of Dresden, 88 years of age, is not only Dresden's oldest fan, but he probably took the honors at Tecumseh park yesterday. He has missed few ball games since the early days when Dresden, like other small towns, gave up cricket and rounders and took to baseball, and all through yesterday's game he still hoped for a break that would give his home town team a chance. Long after the Dresden rooters' cowbell had ceased ringing and was being tolled he was still optimistic of the result.

DIAMOND GLINTS

The Tecs come home today for a home stand that will be fought out to the sweet end.

Hamilton Clippers furnish the first opposition, playing five games in three days. A double-header today and Saturday will give the fans their first double-head bargain bill in one week since the season began.

* * *

It's still a race. The Hamilton club by striking a streak here could undo much that the Tecs accomplished in their series with the Aces. Of course there is always Kitchener to look forward to.

* * *

Kitchener, however, has been giving the Hams plenty of opposition in their series which closed yesterday. They many not be so good—as opposition.

Ralph Judd is said to have a 20-game ambition, and he has his 19th win tucked away already. Coogan and Harris should aim at 25, at least.

Harris will have nearly as good a mark as Lefty Carmen had the year he was sold up to the Boston Red Sox. Coogan is right with him, and his wins are all full games. Coogan, however, has lost more than Two-Gun Pete, so it's a pretty pitching race.

Bay City's ball club will be minus its regular catcher, "Pat" Patterson, for several days, perhaps until the close of the season.

Patterson thought he was a prize fighter Monday, and began to warm up on Umpire Harry Murphy. He tried to tear the umpire's breast-protector off, and then he changed his tactics and crashed his right to the umpire's jaw.

Murphy didn't go down, but he didn't miss the ground by far. By that time several Bay City and Flint players interfered, and Patterson's fighting was over.

For this little show of pugilistic attainments, the veteran backstop has been fined $25 and set down by order of the Mint league president, T. J. Halligan.

Manager Dick Breen finished the catching job, and he may have to work until Patterson gets back into the game, if he gets back this season.

The Detroit Tigers are not without hope of finishing third in the American league pennant race this year. The Tigers were third last year, second in 1923, and third in 1922. In four other seasons they finished third and in two others second. They have been in the second division nine out of the 26 years the league has been in operation.

Ty Cobb has been driving his team at a fast rate for the last ten days, and it has played better ball in that period than in any other similar period since the season started. He is convinced he can push his team up past St. Louis and Chicago before the season ends, but if he passed Chicago he will have to keep his machine running in high, for Chicago has been playing the steadiest game of any club in the circuit for some time, although it has not been able to get higher than third place.

Of course there is a substantial money reward that goes with finishing third. This year, the team finishing fourth will get a cut of the world series coin, too, but not nearly as much as the third-place team. It's the third place money the Detroits are gunning for.

Detroit has been getting much better pitching in the last fortnight, and if the pitchers hold up the team will be able to make a better final trip to the east, where Cobb hopes to have something to say as to who shall win the championship. To date, Detroit has been more successful against Washington than against the Athletics.

* * *

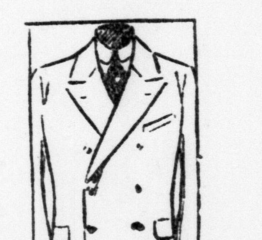

Cobb figures that one of the troubles with his team this year has been inability of some of his players to hit the ball. The infield has not batted up to the average of the outfield, and if Cobb can get more batting into his infield by a change or two in 1926, he will do so.

Saginaw Aces Come From Behind Twice To Finally Nose Bakermen Out 10-8

FINAL SAGINAW GAME WON BY HOME CLUB

Vermilyea's Home Run Puts London Minters Ahead in Third.

THREE ERRORS

Special to The Advertiser.

Saginaw, Sept. 2.—The Tecs couldn't be serious today, and as a result of letting up, they lost the final game of the series to the Aces, 10 to 8.

Twice Mike Baker's crew was out ahead, once at 4 to 1 and then at 5 to 4, but each time the Aces came back with clusters of hits to tie and then to take the lead. Heavy hitting by Carlin, Foster and Dodson was the principal reason for Ernie Alten's downfall.

London counted a run in the first on Baker's triple and Cross' single. Stimpson, who had walked, was doubled at the plate trying to score on Brower's fly to Kerr. Saginaw tied the count on a pass, a single by Foster and a double by Dodson.

Vermilyea's home run inside the park put London ahead in the third. It was an ordinary single that got past Nitch and rolled to the fence in right center. In the third inning, after two were out, Carlin nearly speared Stimpson's drive over short, but couldn't hold it. Cross tripled to the fence in right and Brower singled Cross in, giving London a lead of 4 to 1.

The Aces tied it in the fourth by means of two bases on balls, Nitch's double and Carlin's triple that got past Klein. A hit batsman and a pass, followed by Alten's hit, gave London the lead at 5 to 4 in the sixth. But the aces crowded four runs over the plate in the seventh, due to a boner on Alten's part, and sewed up the contest.

Carlin started it off with a single, and Kerr fanned. Foster and Dodson followed with hits, scoring Carlin, and leaving men on first and third with one out. Alten took Nunamaker's rap on the first bound, while Foster was tearing for the plate. He figured on a double-play by way of second, then changed his mind, and held the ball so long that when he threw home Foster was over the plate and all hands were safe. Ussat's single, a pass to Nitch, and Beumel's single added two more runs before the side was retired.

London got one back in the eighth on Vermilyea's double and Alten's single. But the Aces came back for two on hits by Carlin, Foster and Dodson, an error and an out.

London kept trying in the ninth. Stimpson's single, a pass to Cross, Brower's hit and Klein's sacrifice fly gave two runs, but Arnott flied out to end it.

Flint, Sept. 2.—The Flint Vehics made it four straight from the Bay City Wolves this afternoon and they made it five straight victories, and also made it fifteen wins out of eighteen games. The score was 12 to 1. George Hughes, playing centerfield for the Wolves, saved Bay City from a shut out when he knocked a four-bagger in the first frame. The game was a hard-hitting affair, Flint collecting five homers, two of them by Herman Loepp. Besides the homers there were one triple and three doubles. Thursday's game will be played at Lapeer with the Saginaw Aces. This series will give the Vehics a chance to jump to second place.

Hamilton, Sept. 2.—Sam Wernke performed the iron-man stunt here this afternoon, and pitched the Clippers to a double victory over Kitchener, the Wetzelites winning the first game, 11 to 3, and the second, 10 to 0. It was a great day for the Hamilton players in the way of fattening their batting averages, Ernie Neitzke being the leader, with five hits in as many times at bat in the first game, and with a hit twice at bat in the second. Many of the clouts were for extra bases. ...sette pitched the first game for the visitors, while Gallagher was the moundsman in the second.

WOODSTOCK TEAM WINS FIRST GAME IN PLAY-OFF

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Sept. 2.—In the first game in the Ontario softball playoffs here this afternoon, the Woodstock Yannigans defeated Norwich 18-9. SARNIA SENIORS AGREE TO ST. THOMAS SERIES

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Sept. 2.—Following a refusal by Galt seniors to decide who was the real loser this year, Sarnia has consented to a consolation series, the first game to be played here Labor Day. A second game will be played in Sarnia, and there will be a toss-up for the third contest. Local baseball fans are still thirsty for blood, and the series will no doubt help out the shrunken bankroll of the team's backers. It is possible that the series may be stretched into a seven-game affair.

CLINTON'S LACROSSE TEAM BEATS STRATFORD

6-5 Score of Game Which Very Few Attended in Classic City.

Special to The Advertiser.

Stratford, Sept. 2.—Clinton defeated Stratford, 6—5, here this afternoon in the first of home and home games for the group championship intermediate O. A. L. A. The return game goals to count on round will be played in Clinton on Friday night. Today's game was not specially good lacrosse, and the Stratford team lost many golden opportunities to score through loose play. The attendance was small, due, it is thought, to the Wingham and Mitchell fiascos. Expenses were barely met.

Rorke was the outstanding man for the visitors, while Lavelle and Graper were the local stars. It was a closely contested affair, with neither team having a walk away.

The teams:

Clinton—Goal, W. Fulford; point, W. Mutch; coverpoint, McNeal; defence, C. Fulford, Middleton; center, F. Elliott; home, Rorke, Robertson, J. Mutch, F. Mutch; spares, Dodds, Higgins, Cook, McKeown.

Stratford—Goal, Jones; point, A. Sewell; coverpoint, Graper; defence, C. Smith, Graham; center, K. Murray; home, E. Celene, W. Sewell, B. Lavelle, V. Noice; spares, A. Murray, Hillman, Seebach, Huemiller.

Referee—Barnett, Toronto.

CITY CHURCH LEAGUE TITLE WON BY HAMILTON ROAD

Hamilton Road Anchors, by defeating Ridout Street 8 to 4 last evening, qualified to meet the C. A. A. winners for the city championship.

The Nash cup is emblematic of the City interchurch championship, and the series, it is believed, would attract a good deal of interest, since the two church leagues are the only ones operating in the city this season.

Woodmen of the World Trophy Taken By Aitken

Allan Aitken of Elmwoods became the first holder of the Woodmen of the World singles trophy yesterday at the Thistle club in the initiation of the north end club's first singles tournament by defeating A. W. Slatter 21—13. Aitken led the Elmwoods in a terrific assault on the prize table, the London South club taking the cup and three prizes. Only two prizes went out of the city. Byron McCarty of Ingersoll took the fourth prize in the second event, and Ray Lemon defeated Nelson Hart of Thistles for the consolation by a count of 21—17.

The second event brought forth an extra end battle between J. McLaughlin of Elmwoods and A. Gillette of Aylmer, with the Londoner winning by 21—20.

Harry Pearce took the third prize in the second event, filling out the London club's partial sweep of the prizes.

The singles event brought forth 40 entries, and though rain fell late in the afternoon and again in the evening, bowling was delayed only a short while. The greens were exceptionally fast, and the new singles event of the Thistles promises to be a popular feature in London's yearly bowling program.

BABE RUTH'S REINSTATEMENT BY SATURDAY NOW FORESEEN

NORMAN DERHAM,

Huggins Agrees To Confer With "Bad Boy" Friday Afternoon.

FINE WILL STAND

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Sept. 2.—Babe Ruth will likely be reinstated to the good graces of baseball on Saturday, but the $5,000 fine stands. Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, who last Saturday indefinitely suspended the slugger and taxed him $5,000 for alleged misconduct, notified Ruth today that he would confer with him Friday and at that time notify him when his suspension will be lifted.

Those close to the situation interpret this to mean that Huggins will settle his differences with Ruth at that conference.

IS ALL HUMILITY.

By JOHN B. FOSTER.

Copyright, 1925.

New York, Sept. 2.—Babe Ruth will play again with the Yankees, but he knows now that he will not manage the Yankees this year, or next year, or the year after.

The big outfielder who took on an awful tummy-ache early in the season because of his inordinate fondness for hot-dogs was treated on Tuesday to the biggest platter of crow a ball player was ever called upon to consume. He ate it, and will eat a platter or two more before doughty little Miller Huggins, the manager he vowed he'd never play for again, decides that Ruth has 'learned his lesson," and permits him to cavort once more in the Yankee uniform.

For the first time since he attained rank as a star, Ruth was administered a lot of straight talk, without sympathy, by Col. Ruppert, Yankee owner. The colonel, who has fed, pampered and coddled Ruth and who has been double-crossed time after time in return, told the home run hitter that it was up to him to apologize to Miller Huggins—that he would have to make his peace, alone and unaided, with the Yankee manager, before he could get out of the hole he had got himself into.

Ruth has seen a great light and has started out to "get in right," again with "Hug." He'll have to cool his heels a bit, but in the end matters will be patched up and he will be given another chance to make good. But he'll still be on probation and will have to walk the straight and narrow path if he wants to continue in baseball.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL — BUSINESS OR SPORT?

—AS ANALYZED BY A GRADUATE MANAGER—

CHAPTER X.

Planting "Scholarships."

Early in April, when the sap begins to stir, we start planting our scholarships, and we always reap a rich harvest in the fall.

You probably have been gratified in reading in the home town paper about some local boy who has been awarded a scholarship at some big university. Perhaps you were a little puzzled, because this boy, as you remember him, had never shown any inclinations to dazzle the world. This may enlighten you:

Some scholarships are awarded to brilliant students; other scholarships are awarded to boys who may be decidedly desirable and useful to a certain college. That is where we come in, with our "spring planting."

We find that we have somewhere between $30,000 and $50,000 left over from last year's football season—all velvet. We also find, in checking up carefully, that there are about fourteen high school seniors, scattered here and there—perhaps over several states—whom we must have in our scrub line-up next year.

Of course it would be unthinkable to use any of this surplus to hire boys to come to our college—this just isn't done any more, and, as a matter of fact, it never was done, to any great extent. But at any rate, this money makes us feel more comfortable about next year's football outlook.

Sowing the Seed.

There is a meeting of the alumni athletic advisory committee. The committee decides that it would be quite proper to offer the faculty committee a part of this surplus for the creation of scholarships for deserving boys. The graduate manager is authorized to convey this offer to the president.

The offer does not reach the president in quite this high-minded and ingenuous form. He is informed that the advisory committee is willing to turn over half the funds for fourteen full scholarships if the university will supply the other half. Virtually all big universities have some kind of a margin for such funds, and the president is pretty sure to be agreeable to the proposal. The graduate manager writes out a check for his half and departs.

The scholarship arrangement is carried through by a committee consisting of the president, the graduate manager and the chairman of the alumni athletic advisory committee.

The chances are that the president knows a lot more about what is going on than is indicated by the formal interchange of pleasantries which accompnies the negotiations. Possibly for this reason he delegates a member of the faculty athletics committee to represent him in the committee transactions. In passing, it should be noted that on nearly every faculty committee there is one "off-side" member, who is more or less suspicious of coaches and graduate managers, and who makes futile efforts to stir up rows about professionalism. I have noticed that this member is never chosen to represent the president. A "safe" man is always assigned, and things move along smoothly.

The announcement is made that the scholarships will be awarded—$500 to each boy. Even with the present living costs, a bright boy can pretty nearly get through a school year on this.

Our job then is to see that our fourteen candidates get the fourteen scholarships. It is easier than you might think. We want Bill Smith, in the town of Englewood. A little quiet work in Englewood produces a letter something like this, from the Rev. Dr. Jones to the president:

"Having learned that you are awarding some special scholarships to deserving boys, I am taking the liberty of recommending William Smith of our city. He is a member of our church, and I have found him most diligent—etc.

Bill gets the job.

These letters are steered in, not only from ministers but from judges, physicians, public officials and other influential men in the boys' home towns. Sometimes there is a slip-up, but not often. In better than nine cases out of ten we land our man.

I do not wish the foregoing to stand as a charge that all college presidents are shutting their eyes to what is going on. But many of them are. I once had a frank talk with a former college president, who had retired.

"I knew perfectly well what was happening," he said. "At first it troubled me considerably, and then I got so it didn't worry me at all. My only alternative would have been to have taken a stand which would have brought down upon me the enmity, not only of coaches, managers and under-graduates, but, I am sure, the board of regents as well. I happened to know that the board of regents had found our athletic prestige a valuable asset in getting appropriations from the legislature, and I knew they would not support me in any activity which threatened our football success.

Pragmatic Finance.

"So far as state universities are concerned, I am convinced that the system which requires the university to visit the legislature every two years with its hat in its hand is thoroughly bad. Intelligent educators are constantly being compelled to make cowardly political compromises. I suppose the same may be said of universities which depend upon big endowments. They also have to defer to wealth and power, particularly as represented in the alumni, and the view of wealth and power is pragmatic—to say the least. They are not concerned with any of the finer shades and distinctions of ethics involved in getting out winning teams. All they want is the winning team. I knew just what you fellows were up to; but there was nothing I could do about it. Anyway, when I looked back over the records of boys who should have been really educated men, and weren't, I began to think that just as much would have been accomplished if you had run them through your football mill and out into a bond office. We school teachers didn't seem to be able to put our mark on many of them."

SWIMMER IS QUESTIONED ON ESCAPE OF PRINCE

Associated Press Despatch.
Boulogne, Sept. 3.—Ishak Helmy, the Egyptian swimmer, member of the channel swimming colony for the last few weeks, figured yesterday in the search for Prince Seif-el-Dine, recently escaped from an asylum at Hastings, England.

Two Scotland Yard men are here making discreet inquiries regarding Helmy's activities and purposes. They did not disguise today their suspicion that Helmy, whose father is an intimate friend of Seif-el-Dine, was not concerned so much about swimming the channel as he was in the prince. Helmy, while declaring great sympathy with the prince, disclaims any but a hearsay knowledge of the prince's escape and wanderings and denies also that he knows anything about a villa he is supposed to have rented for the purpose of hiding his countryman.

DR. PIDGEON CALLS FOR GREATER WORK

Real Forward Movement Is Launched by United Church of Canada.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Sackville, N.B., Sept. 3.—The "forward movement" of the United church of Canada, launched at the conference of the general council some time ago, was the subject of an address by Rev. Dr. George C. Pidgeon, moderator of the United church of Canada, at last night's session of the maritime conference. Dr. Pidgeon called the church to a new consecration and set before his hearers the challenge of the forward movement, the details of which were outlined by Rev. J. H. Arnup and Rev. Dr. Wilson of Toronto.

Today a special committee will bring before the conference the plans for the maritime conference's participation in the movement.

Dr. Pidgeon received an ovation that lasted several minutes when he commenced his address. It was based upon Paul's figure of the church as the great spiritual body of Christ. One member was dependent upon the other and this, he said, was the principle underlying union. The present generation might be unable to realize the true significance of union, he said, but those living fifty years hence would have a fuller appreciation of its good.

All the denominations in the land, said Dr. Pidgeon, had been concerned with secondary matters, creating divisions which had handicapped and crippled the church. The United church, he said, would be catholic enough to embrace in its membership all varieties and types and go forth into heathen lands to uplift and redeem.

Rev. Dr. Arnup, of Toronto, spoke on the resources of the church, calling attention to its three-quarter million of Sunday school scholars and children, its papers with over 890,000 circulation, its 6,000 students in college, and its 9,000 preaching stations.

WILL REVEAL TRUTH ON U. S. AIR SERVICE

Col. William Mitchell's Book Published Against War Department Orders.

Associated Press Despatch.
San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 3.—Colonel William Mitchell, former chief of the army air service, today declared that "the truth about the United States air service is going to be suppressed no longer." The statement was made in connection with a review begun by war department officials of his book, Winged Defence, published against war department orders.

"I have disobeyed no orders," said Colonel Mitchell, who is now commander of the eighth corps area air forces, although admitting that he had published his book without submitting it to his superiors.

"The truth of our deplorable situation is going to be put before the American people, come what may," he continued.

"If the war department wants to 'start something,' so much the better. Then I can get the case before congress and the people and then we will have a chance to remedy this unfortunate condition.

"Aviators are the only persons competent to tell what is wrong and they are going to tell, I assure you that.

"One-fourth of the shortcomings of our air service have not yet been told, but they are going to be.

"This book is just the beginning. I am at present preparing a series of articles which will 'rip the cover' off these deplorable conditions."

BOOTLEG KING DECLARES HE WILL QUIT THE GAME

George Remus Completes a Three-Year Term in the Atlanta Penitentiary.

Special to The Advertiser.
Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 3.—"I am through with liquor forever." These were the words uttered by George Remus, who made his millions as head of a bootlegging ring in Cincinnati, and who today completed his debt to Uncle Sam and became a free man after serving the better part of three years in the federal penitentiary. They were spoken shortly after the warden of the penitentiary had bade him farewell.

Before Remus could elucidate farther on his attitude toward liquor, he was questioned about the suit for divorce filed in Cincinnati recently by his wife.

"I am astounded, dumbfounded," he said. "I can't imagine how or why she should take such action. She has been so devoted, so faithful, so considerate ever since I've been here.

"Why," he continued, "she has been in Atlanta no less than 22 times to see me since I've been imprisoned. I can't understand her change of heart.

"That's all the bunk about my striking her. I can prove that by the warden. Maybe I spoke to her too vigorously, but nothing more than that."

Asked what he intended to do about charges that remained against him in Cincinnati, Remus said:

"I'm prepared to make bond as soon as I reach home. There have been eight men arrested on those old charges. Seven of them have been freed, and I guess I'll make the eighth one."

FRANCO-SPANISH DRIVE WILL SOON BE LAUNCHED

Associated Press Despatch.

I.O.D.E. Much Encouraged In Cenotaph Campaign By Action of Committee

Appointment of Council Body To Investigate Brings Memorial Much Nearer.

DESIGNS SUBMITTED

Definite Action To Be Taken by Municipal Chapter Next Wednesday.

The action of a council committee last night in appointing a committee to meet with organizations, working for the erection of a memorial cenotaph in London, has given much encouragement to the members of the I. O. D. E. with whom the idea originated.

All summer in a quiet manner the committee appointed by the Municipal chapter, with Mrs. George L. McDonald, regent of the Nicholas Wilson chapter as chairman, has been working. Communications have been sent out to all the chapters, and other organizations likely to aid in the project, and the response has been gratifying. There seems to be no doubt that London should have a cenotaph as a memorial.

It has been pointed out that it is cause for regret that London has no suitable place to which citizens might come to pay sacred tribute to the men who died in the great war. The city has the children's hospital as a practical memorial, but that provides no suitable place at which ceremonies may be held.

London stands virtually alone in the province, as the only municipality of any size where no memorial has been erected. It is to remedy this that the I. O. D. E. has been working so faithfully, and success seems to be in the offing.

The cenotaph when erected will be one worthy of London, not just an inexpensive pillar. With this in mind the I. O. D. E. has investigated the designs and costs of cenotaphs in other parts of the province. Sketches have been submitted by leading sculptors and studied by the committee. These efforts will be placed before the meeting of the Municipal chapter next Wednesday, when definite action towards raising the cost will be taken.

"We have had so much encouragement from other organizations and prominent citizens, that we are sure success will crown our efforts," stated Mrs. George L. McDonald this morning.

"Different organizations have volunteered their service towards the raising of funds, and we appreciate it," said Mrs. McDonald.

The only question that remains to be settled is that of a site. Mrs. McDonald, as chairwoman of the committee, favors the "Y" at the corner of Richmond street and Queens avenue. To her it appears the only practical location. The members of the committee are of the same opinion.

Some of the chapters think it should be erected in Victoria park, or in front of the new city hall when it is built. If the latter suggestion is adopted, action would be delayed indefinitely, some even suggesting that the war will be forgotten when that comes to pass.

wife of General Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation army, who will conduct the annual army congress to be held from Oct. 17 to 22.

MONTREAL LAWYER IS SPEAKER FOR KIWANIS

R. L. Calder, K.C., To Give Address on "Today's Most Indispensables."

R. L. Calder, K.C., Montreal, one of the outstanding lawyers in the dominion, will be the speaker at the Kiwanis club tomorrow.

Mr. Calder will speak on "Today's Most Indispensables," and should be able to give the club something well worth hearing along that line, with long years of experience in Canadian courts at his back.

Mr. Calder has had a brilliant career in his profession, in addition to which he has gained an enviable reputation as a public speaker, and thus J. J. McHale, president of the club, is exceedingly anxious that there be a large attendance at tomorrow's luncheon.

Incidentally Mr. McHale again assumes the chair after the members' meetings which have been carried on by committees during the past two months. When the president leaves about the middle of the month on an extended business trip, three past presidents, T. Yull, A. R. Ford and J. B. Hay, will have charge of the luncheons.

VOTERS RECEIVE STRAIGHT FACTS

Hotel Campaign Committee Issues Circulars to Ratepayers of City.

The hotel campaign committee headquarters has issued the following circular for the information of ratepayers who will vote on the hotel bylaws Saturday.

Here for your information are the straight, unchallengeable facts concerning the hotel bylaws on which you are asked to vote, Saturday, September 5th, and which you, as an interested citizen should vote.

The city is asked to transfer to the new hotel company the vacant lot, only, on the corner of Dundas and Wellington streets having a frontage of 198 feet on Dundas and 165 feet on Wellington, for which the city paid $125,000, and to receive in exchange from the hotel company $25,000 cash and that piece of property on Richmond street, extending from Fullarton to Queens avenue having a depth on Queen's avenue and Fullarton street of 200 feet and a frontage on Richmond street of 124 feet, including the Merchants' bank building, now standing on that property, which property was acquired for the sum of $100,000.

The transfer will not be made until an absolute contract has been entered into, guaranteed by a surety bond that a hotel costing at least $1,000,000 will be erected on the Dundas and Wellington streets site within 18 months.

As regards the fixed assessment bylaw. The city of London has for the past 11 years been paying interest at the rate of five per cent on this investment, or at the rate of $6,250 per year and has received no taxes in return. Upon the erection of the proposed hotel, the city will receive approximately $22,143 in taxes annually from this enterprise.

That portion of the building given over to hotel purposes only, being entitled to any exemption and that only applies to the general rate; all school tax and public improvements tax being assessed at the full valuation.

All stores or other business conducted in the hotel premises will be subject to full assessment on all taxes, including business tax.

The London City Council, by their action in submitting these bylaws to your consideration, have endorsed this proposition. The London Free Press, The London Advertiser and the Echo are strongly supporting this move, and are asking you, through their columns, to vote yes on both hotel bylaws. This is the first time in the city's history that the press of the city have been united in their attitude towards a proposition of any kind.

Every service club in London pledged to exert their efforts in the betterment of the community, have endorsed this proposition and are asking you to vote yes on both hotel bylaws. When this building permit is let, it will be the largest single permit ever issued in the city's history. During the construction of this hotel, approximately $300,000 in wages will be distributed among the working men of London, and as construction is planned to be started immediately, it will serve to completely relieve the unemployment situation throughout the coming winter months. These unemployed men, who will be seeking steady work during the coming winter to care for their wives and their children, ask you to vote yes on both hotel bylaws. The London hotel campaign committee, comprised of public-spirited citizens in all walks of life, have endorsed this proposition after thorough investigation. They offer you these facts and challenge contradiction in the slightest detail. They ask you to vote yes on both hotel bylaws.

STRIKE DELAYS CHANNEL BOATS

British Seamen Doing All in Power To Make Walkout Thoroughly Effective.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Sept. 3.—Just as the British ship-owners had begun to believe that the unofficial strike of the seamen was disintegrating because of their ability to man ships on which crews had struck, with substitute forces, another flare-up took place last night when the men on the cross-channel boats leaving Southampton went ashore.

The White Star liner Majestic had left Southampton yesterday with a new crew and the striking seamen had begun to feel that it was useless to oppose the ship-owners owing to the fact that there were thousands of unemployed men ready to fill the gaps made by deserters from the boats.

The strike leaders in Southampton, however, worked assiduously to cost up their cause among the men, and late last night had been so successful that all the channel boats were tied up at their docks. After this had been accomplished the leaders asserted that it was their purpose to continue today to hold up the channel craft and also to prevent liners due to sail during the week-end from leaving port.

MAYOR SCORED FOR L. AND P. S. ATTACK

Concluded From Page One

says Mr. Pocock, who has spent many years as a student and supporter of public ownership, and served on the London railway board. "Figures will prove anything. Mr. Wenige uses them to spread slanderous, pessimistic talk about an enterprise of which he is a director."

That the railway is bringing in coal cheaper by 50 cents a ton than any other railway, that American trippers are encouraged by the thousand on lake boats, that 50,000 more shoppers a month are brought into London than under the old steam railway regime, are contentions of Mr. Pocock.

He characterizes the latest drive against the L. & P. S. R. as something close to the malicious talk which has been spread about concerning the Canadian National Railways. In the latter case, enemies of public ownership have painted the annual deficit at more than four times what it really is, and then it is a deficit caused through the payment of interest and rentals to the government.

Mayor is a Director.

"Here is a man who is a director of a big enterprise, elected to represent the people, slandering that very enterprise. How does he expect it to succeed? If he really hopes to lease the road to one of the big railways at a profit, why does he maliciously declare that it's a losing proposition? He cannot honestly believe that leasing of the road to someone else is best for London.

"He has publicly expressed himself as the enemy of the L. & P. S. When the late Sir Adam Beck was fighting for the people's rights, the mayor wanted to hand over the railway to the Drury government as part of the provincial radial lines scheme. Confidence that the Port Stanley Railway will always be a big asset to London, will continue to bring hundreds of shoppers to the city who would not come otherwise, will mean cheaper coal and cheaper freight rates on other lines, is expressed by Mr. Pocock. He deprecates the pessimistic talk of the mayor.

Not Losing Money.

"We cannot tell yet just exactly how the present year's operations will turn out," Commissioner Pocock states, "but up to the present time we have not been going further back. We are not losing money. If we owe money it is to ourselves, and at the same time are giving and getting service which would never materialize under private ownership."

"If I owe $5,000 to John Jones and he has a mortgage on my house, how am I insolvent?" suggests another backer of public ownership. "And it's not that bad with the L. & P. S. In that case we owe money, but we owe it to ourselves, and we have assets to more than equal our debt to ourselves. Where does London lose?"

While statements could not be secured from the L. & P. S. offices nor the city auditor today, because of the absence of officials from the city, it is understood that freight and passenger raffic during the past season has been especially encuraging to the operators.

BECK CUPS AMONG LABOR DAY AWARDS

Trophies Offered For the Baby Show Competition Are On Display.

Among the many beautiful trophies and medals offered for competition at this year's Labor Day celebration, two stand out with unusual distinction. They are the Beck cups, donated a short two months' before his death for the baby show.

In a Dundas street store, where the awards are being displayed, the silver trophies flank the artistic array of gold and color and burnished metal. Almost severe in their simplicity, with delicately molded square handles, the cups are among the most attractive to be offered in a district baby show in recent years.

LONDON MAN INJURED IN FALL FROM HAYLOAD

Robert Briggs Suffers Fracture and Dislocation of Right Leg.

Falling from a load of hay on Rectory street, near the C. N. R. tracks at 2 o'clock this afternoon, Robert Briggs, 772 Dundas street, suffered a fracture and dislocation of his right leg at the ankle.

According to eyewitnesses, Briggs slipped from the top of the load and landed on his feet. First aid was rendered at the C. N. R. yard office, and the injured man was later removed to Victoria hospital in the police ambulance. Dr. John G. Lindsay is in attendance.

The application, it is stated, will be dealt with in the usual way, which means that it will be referred to the attorney-general of Ontario before being passed on here.

Story of Bee and Rosebud Fails To Thrill Scientist

Prof. A. D. Robertson, head of the zoology department at Western University classes as absurd the story from Owen Sound describing a bee which was found still alive after hundreds of years of incarceration in the solid rock of a stone quarry.

"Few insects live more than a year under ideal conditions," asserted the professor, "and living in a rock with neither air or food simply can't be done even for a short period. The idea of a bee living under the conditions described in the Owen Sound story is not only impossible, but ridiculous."

The fact that the bee was supposed to have spent his or her retirement in the folds of a tiny rosebud, failed to stir Professor Robertson, who ignored any romantic possibilities in the rosebud and stated that the supposed crawling of the bee for a short time after it had been liberated with a coke hammer must be attributed to faulty vision or too vivid an imagination on the part of the workmen who made the find.

POSSE WATCHES FOR CHICKEN SNIPERS

Thieves Operating in Elgin Meet Opposition in This County.

Chicken thieves who have operated in Elgin county with more or less success during the past month or so will not find the picking so easy in the southwest corner of Middlesex which has been laid out for plucking. One farmer who has a flock of over 500 hens and 75 turkeys found two large chicken crates with the name of a London wholesaler on them, stuffed with bags in the center of his cornfield, and passed the word on to the other farmers of the neighborhood, who have formed a vigilance committee of 40 members, armed to the teeth.

High Constable Wharton was notified of the corn patch find and has spent several nights communing with nature on the Elgin-Middlesex border. The chicken snipers, however, seemed to sense that all was not well and decided to quit work for the time being, both Elgin and Middlesex being too dangerous for successful operation at the present time.

HYDE PARK PAVING STRIP NOW NEARING COMPLETION

Paving of the three-mile strip on the Hyde Park highway will be completed in ten days, engineer Raywood Smith, in charge for the Suburban Area commission, stated today. This does not mean that the road will be open for traffic, as the concrete must have time to cure.

Splendid progress is being made, Mr. Smith stated, with the shouldering and ditch work which will be completed by the time the last yard of concrete is poured.

Contractors are now working from the Shaw-Wood corner now owned by Ray Lawson, to the point where paving was completed last year. When completed, motorists will have 5 1-5 miles of pavement on their way to Sarnia, starting at the city limits on West London.

Morning Jail Delivery Rouses Prisoners Here

The Middlesex county jail hummed with activity this morning. Doors clanged and there was much scurrying of feet. Reporters with visions of a huge jail delivery kept watchful eyes on both entrances. There was a delivery, but it was 49 cartons of beer being transferred to License Inspector Walter Bolton's car for delivery to Victoria and St. Joseph's hospitals, London, and Strathroy hospital.

Offers of help on the part of other courthouse officials were suspiciously refused by the inspector and High Constable Wharton, who made a careful count of each load before it was gasolined away. Even the prisoners at the jail didn't get a chance to fondle the cartons, much to their disgust.

Fourteen cartons were carted to each of the city hospitals, while Strathroy had more luck, getting 21 cartons.

The beer was seized by High Constable Wharton several weeks ago from a stranded beer truck near Kerwood.

ATWOOD PASTOR TO ACCEPT CALL

Rev. F. W. Gilmour to Come to London If Presbytery Does Not Object.

Rev. F. W. Gilmour, B.A., Atwood, is likely to accept the call extended to him by Elmwood avenue Presbyterian church on Monday last.

According to a telegram received by The Advertiser, it is Mr. Gilmour's intention to come to London, providing Stratford presbytery raises no objection, and he does not anticipate that such will be the case.

Should Mr. Gilmour become pastor of Elmwood avenue church, the Presbyterian clergy of the city would be materially strengthened, since Mr. Gilmour was recognized as one of the Western Ontario leaders in the anti-unionist campaign prior to the consummation of church union last June, and as one of the strongest preachers remaining with the continuing Presbyterian church in this part of the province.

Since first organized in March last by the anti-unionist Presbyterians of South London, the Elmwood avenue church pulpit has been supplied by different men preaching for a call, and by holding union services for two months with Wortley road Baptist church.

This is the second call Mr. Gilmour has received in recent weeks, the first being to St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Ingersoll, while it is the second call extended by Elmwood avenue church, the first having been to Rev. Major W. F. McConnell, B.A., Toronto, dominion organized for the Presbyterian Church Association, who declined in order to accept the pulpit of Parkdale Presbyterian church, Toronto.

Mr. Gilmour's reply to The Advertiser, when asked his intentions with regard to the Elmwood avenue call, is as follows: "When call comes before Stratford presbytery, not likely to encounter serious difficulties."

DIRIGIBLE WRECKED DURING OHIO STORM

the ship. As I started to fall I clutched a girder, to which I hung suspended, finally swinging my body over it and crawling forty or fifty feet back into the ship."

When he reached the ship proper, Col. Hall said that he found other members of the crew preparing to open the valves on the order to bring about a descent. Here he found Lieut. Roland G. Mayer, loading officer, and Lieut. J. B. Anderson, aerologist. All three descended safely.

Col. Hall said that the catastrophe was in no way attributable to any defect in the ship. Meteorological advices, warning the navigators of the storm, would have saved the ship, he said. Since there were no meteorological stations in the vicinity, however, these advices were not available.

Ship Completely Wrecked.

Col. Hall had high praise for the navy crew of the dirigible. Even immediately after the crash, he said, the crew's behavior was remarkable. Each man took the situation quietly, deporting himself as if he were on a free balloon and attempting to bring the craft to the ground in the best manner possible.

Intense excitement prevailed in the mining community where the ship fell. In an almost unbelievably short time news of the disaster had spread over the entire countryside and roads were black with automobiles carrying doctors, undertakers, officials and the morbidly curious to the points where the various portions of the ship fell.

COMMANDER IS KILLED.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 3.—Commander Zachary Lansdowne of the Shenandoah, was killed when the giant airship crashed near Caldwell, Ohio, early this morning, according to a report received here.

The commander's body was reported to have been found in the portion of the ship which landed near Sharon, Ohio.

She was in command of Captain Zachary Lansdowne, with a crew of officers and men numbering 42.

REPORT THIRTEEN DEAD.

C. N. R. BUILDERS START WORK ON CROSSING REPAIR

The bridge and building department of the C. N. R. has started its annual drive to repair the street crossings on its right-of-way through the city, the Maitland street crossing being started this morning.

The street was only closed for a short interval, as most of the work can be completed without any tie-up of the vehicular traffic at this point. The increasing use of heavy trucks and motor cars is making the upkeep of crossings more difficult each year. During the past three years the railways have favored the use of crushed stone filling on the busiest crossings.

COMPLAINTS ON HYDRO SHOPS BEFORE COMMISSION TODAY

HON. P. J. PARADIS,
member of the Quebec legislative council, who it is said has been called to the senate.

MUST USE UNION LABOR ON HOTEL

furnished for operation, and that London labor will be employed wherever possible. All the work, the vice-president stated, will be let by sub-contracts, open to London contractors as to all other contractors wishing to tender on a competitive basis, and that the lowest and most responsible bidder will get the work.

Union Labor.

Even though the work will be carried on by sub-contractors Mr. Trainer informed the Advertiser that the Lynch construction company will stipulate in all sub-contracts that union labor must be employed and that consequently union labor wages will prevail.

Mr. Trainer pointed out that J. J. Lussier, New York, who visited London with him previously, is keenly interested in the hotel here, and that having worked it out, he believes that by renting the rooms at $3.50 per day and the stores from $100 to $275 per month, the hotel will pay. We as a company do not put our money into any scheme that we are not confident is going to pay, and we are putting up 75 per cent of the investment in this case. When in operation the hotel will employ between 70 and 75 people the year round.

"The city of London is not going into the hotel business," pursued Mr. Trainer. "We are not asking for any money, and the city is selling a piece of real estate, a dead loss as it is now, and putting it to use on a tax-able assessment of $200,000, in addition to the business tax on the stores of the hotel. The stores will be subject to the same business and other taxes as all the other stores on Dundas street, and they will not have any advantage because of the fixed assessment.

A Community Center.

"This hotel will be a community center, much more so than the ordinary hotel, and it will be up to the committee to inform the architect as to the needs of the city along this line. The building will be a credit to the city and, instead of shunning London, as travellers and tourists do now, because of poor hotel accommodation, they will be glad to come to the city. The Lynch company will guarantee to finish the hotel ready for operation and will furnish a surety bond to this effect. There will be no chattel mortgage on the furnishings and no liens of any kind to come in stock to be subscribed by local investors.

"I understand that you men have been working very hard on this job. You are working for a good cause, however, because London needs a good hotel and a good hotel can be made to pay here."

Mr. Lyman stated to The Advertiser that the hotel to be built differs little from the sketch already published in the column sof this paper. There will be two entrances, the main one on Dundas street, and the ladies' and automobile entrance on Wellington street, with a number of stores on both streets. The building will be of fireproof construction of reinforced concrete, finished in bric kand cut stone. The building will be ten stories in height, massive construction, Empire style, stepping up in terraces. There will be a convention room, rooms for local service clubs, and a ballroom—in short, a modern hotel in every way.

Mr. McHale reported having received a most cordial reception at Loews theatre last night, while those speaking at factories today also reported a first-class hearing. T. Yull spoke at the Dennis wire and iron works, Mayor Wenige at McCormick's, and Mr. McHale at D. S. Perrin's. There is a growing feeling of confidence that the vote on Saturday is going to be favorable on both bylaws.

FIVE MOTORISTS IN CRASH AT STRATHROY

Small Touring Car Is Wrecked But the Occupants Escape.

Running into a freight engine at Oxford street, Strathroy, at 10:15 o'clock last night, W. Rose of Sarnia and a party of five riding in a small touring car, were slightly shaken up. The slow speed of the engine saved the party from serious injury.

The freight train, extra No. 3476, was proceeding west out of Strathroy. The accident occurred three blocks from the station, and before the train had gained a speed of more than ten miles an hour.

A doctor was at once called, and after examination of the occupants of the car, found that none were injured. The front part of the touring car was wrecked.

NEW PHONE BOARD TO BE TESTED SOON

Change of Boards Not To Affect Service, Manager Declares.

Testing of the mechanism that will complete the new switchboard at the local Bell telephone offices will likely take place about the 15th of the month, according to C. H. Beard, manager of the local offices.

It is expected that the change from the old to the new board will be made about October 1. Asked if the public would suffer any inconvenience while the change was taking place, Mr. Beard said that the service would not be interrupted, even momentarily.

"Thorough testings of the facilities will be made beforehand," said Mr. Beard. Thetelephone users will not even be aware of the switching from one board to the other when the change is made."

MIDDLESEX PRISONERS NOW NUMBER UNLUCKY 13

The population of the Middlesex county jail is steadily dwindling. Last Monday Governor Dawson had but 18 prisoners behind the bars, and now he has but an unlucky 13.

"What's the reason? Well, I guess al lthe regulars have determined to stay good until the Western Fair is over," smiled the governor. London and Middlesex are becoming most law-abiding. However, when the cold weather comes again, I think you will see a larger population in our backyard."

MIDDLESEX GIRLS TO JUDGE NEXT WEDNESDAY AT "EX"

AIRMEN ARE ACTIVE.

Associated Press Despatch.

Fez, French Morocco, Sept. 3.—French airmen continue active everywhere over the battlefront, bombing the Moorish tribesmen when they gather for raids on French posts. At French headquarters it is asserted that in consequence of the ceaseless clearing operations of the French aerial bombers, would-be marauders and snipers are being kept at a respectable distance from the French front.

July	2.73	2.71	2.72

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Sept. 2. — Under more liberal offerings and only a light inquiry, raw sugar declined 1-16c today to the basis of 4.37c for Cuban, duty paid. The sales included 21,000 bags of Cuban from store and 20,000 bags for prompt shipment to local refiners.

Raw sugar futures were easier under selling for Wall Street and European account, inspired by the continued favorable outlook for another bumper crop in Cuba next year and the decline in the spot markets. Final prices were 2 to 5 points net lower, with new crop positions showing the maximum decline. September closed at $2.54c, December 2.60c, March 2.58c, May 2.65c.

While withdrawals on old contracts continued liberal, new business in refined sugar was checked by the decline in the spot market. Prices were unchanged, at 5.55c to 5.60c for fine granulated.

FLOUR

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Sept. 2.—There were no further developments in the market for old crop spring wheat flour, prices being steady at the recent decline noted, under a moderate demand. The export business in new crop spring wheat flour was quiet.

Owing to the continued small offerings for new crop winter wheat flour from Ontario millers and the light stocks on spot, a very firm feeling prevailed in the market, and prices were fully maintained.

A fair business continues to be done in most lines of millfeed for the season of the year, and, as supplies were none too large to meet the daily requirements, the tone of the market was firm.

Some business was transacted in standard grades of rolled oats, and prices were firm.

Flour—Man. spring wheat patents, firsts, $9; seconds, $8.50; strong bakers, $8.30; winter patents, choice, $6.70 to $6.90.

Montreal Power, selling off to 204, after opening at 204½, subsequently firmed to 206⅝, later reacting to 206, for a recovery of 1 point net as compared with yesterday's close. Mexican Power jumped 5 points to the new high of 33.

AUSTRALIA PREPARING FOR MORE IMMIGRANTS

Minister of Trade and Customs Introduces New Tariff Bill.

Associated Press Despatch.

Melbourne, Australia, Sept. 3.—Introducing the new tariff bill in the House of Representatives yesterday, Hon. H. E. Pratten minister of trade and customs, said there was no question that Australia's action in giving preference to Britain ultimately led Britain to grant preference to some Australian products. The 275 items hitherto admitted free from the United Kingdom would be increased to 311, he said.

The principal increases in the British intermediate and general tariffs affected among other things machinery including locomotives, mining machinery and woolens. Hon. Mr. Pratten added that the value of the present wide preferece to Great Britain was increased by more than £500,000 under the new proposals and the overnment was showing in a practical manner its appreciation of the imperial government's action in extending a further preference to Australian products.

Mr. Pratten hoped there would be more frequent revision of the tariff and stated his belief that the increase in the number of new Australian enterprises would absorb many more immigrants.

DECIDE LOCATION OF DETROIT BRIDGE

Canadian Approach To Start at Wyandotte Street Near College.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Windsor, Sept. 2.—Interesting developments in connection with the Windsor-Detroit bridge project include the announcement today that permission is being sought from the Detroit common council to make further borings at the foot of 24th street, Detroit, in connection with the piers and anchorages for the proposed structure. With the granting of this permission, engineers of the McClintic Marshall Company, the Pittsburg engineering concern, are expected to commence their work at this point early next week.

At the same time, further borings are to be made on the Canadian shore, opposite the end of the Huron line, near Assumption College. Some work of this kind was done several years ago at these points, but additional data is required, it was stated today. On rock conditions at these points much of the engineering problem in connection with the bridge depends.

This announcement seems to definitely establish that the bridge, if built, will be located between the points mentioned, the Canadian approach starting at Wyandotte street. The Detroit river is narrowest at this point, and a minimum of property condemnation would there be necessary on both sides of the stream. To build the bridge even two or three blocks further east would be a much more costly undertaking, one of the directors of the company said.

Rotarians as Hosts.

Stratford Rotarians today entertained the Kitchener, St. Mary's and Woodstock clubs on an inter-city visit. The visitors gathered at the country club and their activities called for golf, bowling, motor trips about the city, and a visit to the C. N. R. shops. The feature of the day was a dinner held at the country club at 6:30 o'clock.

Presentation Made.

At the close of the day's work in the C. N. R. shops, John Clulow was remembered by his fellow employees when an address of presentation was read to him and he was presented with a sum of money and a handsome pipe. The presentation was made by R. Richards and J. Harkins. In the address, which stressed the regret of his shopmates at losing him, reference was made to his 45 years' service with the railway. He is 71 years old, and has been a member of the blacksmith shop staff for many years.

Milk Improves.

The first milk test since the new butter fat standard became law in the city was considered by the board of health, and was generally satisfactory. There were only three dealers below the necessary 3.5 butter fat reading, and it was felt that in these cases proper mixing of the milk would have meant a better test. In no case did a dealer fall below the standard in both his bulk and bottled milk.

Emphatically Denies He Advocated Coalition With Liberal Party.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, Sept. 2.—"This article in its inferences and many of its statements is wholly misleading and inaccurate," said Hon. T. A. Crerar in a prepared statement given to the Canadian Press today, referring to a recently published story purporting to be an account of his remarks at a provincial Progressive meeting at Regina on August 6. "The meeting was private," he stated, "but since someone, who was present, has evidently discussed what I said with a representative of the press in such a way that an entirely wrong impression has been given, I may claim the liberty of stating the facts.

Party is Weak.

"I pointed out that the Progressive party in parliament, for reasons which I need not give here, but which I gave to my fellow western members at the meeting, had failed to make any appreciable appeal to eastern Canada, and was now in effect a local movement; that the lack of cohesion among western Progressives and their tendency to cling to the class idea had weakened much of the support they had received in the last federal election.

"That in the minds of many thoughtful people the course of the present government at Ottawa in domestic affairs had been marked by inefficiency and drift; that it had largely failed to implement its platform on the tariff and had largely failed to introduce economies in public expenditures that would lead to reduction in taxation, which was imperative; that the financial condition of the country was extremely serious, and that, as Canada could not long support a burden of public taxation such as we have at present, in the face of reductions in taxation in the United States alongside of us, I feared this condition of affairs might have very serious consequences for Canada. "I stated that I saw no hope of a Conservative administration making any improvement—that so far the only important suggestion in the program of the Conservative party was an increase of the tariff if returned to power, and that this could only place additional burdens on western Canada and in no way improve conditions, but rather the reverse.

Rail Problems Grave.

"I endeavored to point out the gravity of our railway problem and the necessity of finding a solution for it.

"I emphasized the importance of maintaining the unity of confederation. . . I offered the suggestion that, in my view, the Progressive movement, started with national ideals, had developed on too narrow a base altogether, that I was convinced there were thousands in western Canada, outside the ranks of Progressives, Conservatives or Liberal parties; that in eastern Canada people were thinking less in terms of party than they had ever done; in short, what the country was looking for was a lead. I thought that western Canada had the opportunity to give such a lead to the whole dominion, and suggested that to this end a convention should be called representative of all classes and sections of western Canada, from Fort William to the coast. A committee of Progressive members should be appointed to take the matter up with all the western provincial premiers, with a view of enlisting their support. That such a convention should approach it stask from a national point of view and define a courageous constructive program on pressing matters of national moment, such as our railway situation, the extension of markets, a tariff based primarily on the needs of revenue rather than looking alone to the protection of industries; a great immigration policy with a reorganization of government services and expenditures, with a view of bringing about the greatest possible reduction in taxation.

National Program.

"I emphasized that the program should be national, and not sectional; that it should be given as a lead to the whole dominion; that candidates should be elected from western Canada to support it, and be prepared to co-operate with any other part of the dominion that would help to put it into effect; that the convention should affirm, which I was sure it would, its faith and confidence in the unity of confederation.

"I furthermore stated that in my opinion such a program would give western Canada the moral leadership of the Dominion. I am convinced that the majority of people of western Canada favor these views. It is scarcely necessary for me to add that the suggestion in the article that this was a scheme for coalition with the Liberals was a pure fabrication. Such, in as brief compass as possible, were the suggestions I offered for the consideration of the conference. That immediate action was not taken is a matter of regret to me, but under the circumstances, could scarcely be expected. I may add that I have no notion that such a western party, if you can call it such, would adopt any narrow sectional viewpoint. I may say quite frankly I would not support it if it did. As conditions are now, Western Canada is drifting to a position of isolation at Ottawa, and that is good neither for the west nor for the whole dominion. What we need to cultivate and encourage is a type of statesmanship in Canada that can rise to a national outlook beyond mere party successes."

Poor Montreal Goes Playless

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Sept. 2.—With but one exception, every play and musical comedy booked for His Majesty's Theatre this season has been cancelled owing to the strike of stage-hands, who are demanding an increase in wages, at first get at 10 per cent. As Montreal has only one theatre where legitimate drama is played, this means that the metropolis of Canada will have to rely for entertainment this winter on movies and vaudeville.

LAMBTON TORIES PICK ARMSTRONG

Ex-Member Will Again Stand in East Riding For the Federal House.

Special to The Advertiser.

Watford, Sept. 2.—Joseph E. Armstrong, ex-M.P., of Petrolia, was unanimously selected as the Conservative candidate for the constituency of East Lambton in the coming federal election at a largely attended convention held here this afternoon.

Mr. Armstrong has fought six federal elections in East Lambton, and has served seventeen years as member of the House of Commons, and been chairman of several important committees in parliament, including the railway committee and on the committee on the revision of the railway act.

Mr. Armstrong was defeated at the last election by the present member, E. W. Fansher, M.P. Progressive, by an adverse majority of approximately 900.

Others nominated, whose names went to the ballot were William W. Graham of Inwood, warden of Lambton county in 1905; W. S. Beamish of Bothwell, W. R. Dawson of Inwood, and Howard Fraleigh of Forest, but Joseph E. Armstrong gained a majority of the votes cast on the first ballot, and on the motion of W. R. Dawson, seconded by William A. Graham, the nomination was at once made unanimous.

Veteran of 110 Years Wins $200 In Essay Competition

Canadian Press Despatch

Tancredia, Calumet Island, Que., Sept. 2.—Joseph Beland, in his 110th year, won a cash prize of $200, offered by a leading beverage company, in competition with more than 16,000 Canadians of all ages and ideas, who submitted essays on the qualities of the beverage. His essay won third prize.

Mr. Beland has frequently figured in the news by performing unusual feats for one of his years. Although very deaf, he is alert physically and mentally, and as vigorous as many men 20 years his junior. He still does many odd jobs around the place, but his favorite occupation is sunning himself on the steps of the old homestead.

ELGIN MAY HAVE DRY CANDIDATE

Move Underway in County To Launch Federal Temperance Party.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Sept. 2.—Labor men here are disturbed over the formation of a temperance party in the county who are determined to run a "dry" candidate at the next federal election.

While the leaders of the Progressive party are anxious to deny reports of a split on the temperance question, it is understood that the dry attitude of some of their members has prevented the calling of a convention. Labor men state that they will run a Progressive candidate whether he appeals to all the members or not. Dry Progressives can vote for whom they like, they declare.

Led by Rev. Mr. Miller of Lawrence, the temperance men hope to get votes from adherents of all parties, but particularly those Progressives pledged to a dry movement in the dominion house. If the chosen by the Progressives does not sign the pledge, an independent candidate will enter the field, they state.

It is probable that the temperance choice will be Rev. Mr. Miller.

When approached by the dry leaders, A. E. Hookway and J. L. Thompson, the proposed candidates, are reported to have said "Scat."

The tariff question should not be a plank in any platform, was the declaration tonight of J. L. Thompson, favored Progressive candidate here. "The tariff is a matter that should be dealt with by a commission just the same as the railway problem," Mr. Thompson averred.

The tariff had been a football kicked about by political parties for many years, the average voter not having any real knowledge of the subject.

LEWIS BELITTLES MOVE FOR INQUIRY

Declares Operator Would Not Dare Expose Their Amazing Profits.

Associated Press Despatch.

Philadelphia, Sept. 3.—John L. Lewis, miners' international president, tonight declared that John Hays Hammond, in "haunting the lawns of White Court pestering the president to breathe life into the veins of Hammond's defunct coal commission" has "mixed 'the devil's stew' for the forthcoming congress to sup."

Mr. Lewis charged that Mr. Hammond was urging the Republican party to depart from its traditional policy and establish "a semi-regulation of the anthracite industry." He doubted whether the present financial control of the hard coal business would desire "the prying hand of congress" to lay bare "the amazing profits which they are taking from a natural monopoly of a public necessity."

Mr. Lewis further warned that "the federal congress cannot differentiate between anthracite and bituminous mines when dealing with the basic necessity of coal."

Responsibility for revival of talk about nationalization of coal mines originated, Mr. Lewis said, not with the United Mine Workers of America, but with Mr. Hammond himself, because of his present activity.

No trouble of any consequence has arisen in connection with the 10,000 maintenance workers remaining in the anthracite mines by mutual agreement of miners and owners, union officials here said tonight. Slight hitches that had arisen in the early stages of the work were being rapidly straightened out, it was said.

President Lewis tonight took exception to published statements that anthracite mine workers averaged earnings of $1,936 a year. "Someone is deliberately attempting to fool the public," he said.

The second day of the anthracite suspension closed tonight without incident. No indication appeared at headquarters of either operators or miners pointing toward early reconciliation. Both sides seemingly had already settled down to a test of endurance.

MILK COMPANY ASKS REDUCTION IN TAXES

Tillsonburg Branch of Borden Milk Co. Claims Assessment Too High.

Special to The Advertiser.

Tillsonburg, Sept. 2.—The regular meeting of the town council was held last evening with just a quorum to conduct the business, on account of councillors absent on holidays. A letter was received from the Borden Milk Company, Limited, with a check for $3,224.41, 1925 taxes on local plant, also protesting that an overcharge of $780 had been made on the business assessment, as the plant had only run the first four months of the year. A. E. Simons appeared on behalf of the company, asking for a rebate, and was assured by the mayor that legal opinion was being sought on the matter as to whether the council had jurisdiction to refund business tax when no appeal was entered at the proper time, and the matter was laid over for further consideration.

A bylaw was passed making the closing hour 12:30 for all local restaurants and 1:30 a.m. Saturday nights. Dr. H. McQueen was granted permission to erect a modern brick office on Broadway. Mayor Hollier complimented Chief of Police Carter and his staff for the very commendable manner in which thousands of people were handled during the fair, with no arrests or misconduct on the grounds.

The prisoner has been under suspicion for some time. Of late, a large number of unregistered mail has been missing from the train on which he was employed. It is understood that when arrested, while making his usual run, nothing in the nature of mail was found on his person.

He is a resident of London, and has been in the railway service for several years. His family reside in this city.

CHARGE PROVINCE IS ROBBING CITIES

Delegates To Municipal Associations Convention Hit Government Waste.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 2.—Over 200 delegates representing municipalities in all parts of the province were in attendance at the 27th annual convention of the Ontario municipal association. Mayor Foster extended a civic welcome to the delegates and urged that concerted action be taken to induce the provincial government to stop taking revenues which he claimed properly belonged to the municipalities, also that protests be voiced against the tax on gasoline and soft drinks, which were necessities and should be free from taxation. His worship made passing reference to the hydro situation, and the need for proceeding with the St. Lawrence development as speedily as possible to prevent a shortage of power.

W. H. Nugent, county clerk, Hastings, replying to the address of welcome, took up the same subjects, and declared that the people of the dominion were suffering from overtaxation and too much government. Easy methods of collecting revenue led to government extravagance and waste. He expressed the hope that the delegates would give the questions serious consideration.

SIX ARE UNINJURED AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Three Youths, Three Girls, One From London, Have Narrow Escape.

Special to The Advertiser.

Strathroy, Sept. 2.—Prompt action by the driver of an automobile tonight saved three Sarnia youths with three young ladies, one from London, one from Kingscourt and one from Strathroy, from serious injury when the auto was struck by a freight train on the Oxford street crossing about 10:15 p.m. Names of those concerned have been suppressed by the police and railway officials.

The auto was moving north on Oxford street when the train, in charge of Conductor Weston, pulled through town. The train was picking up speed east of the crossing, and the driver of the auto did not notice this until the auto was almost on the tracks. He managed to stop the car, but it was struck by the locomotive, the lights, front fenders and radiator damaged, and the car turned parallel to the tracks.

Dr. Thompson, C. N. R. physician, was called, and found that none of the young people were hurt, although all were suffering from fright. The boys secured another car and went to Sarnia, the girls staying with friends here.

Bee, Alive In Owen Sound Rock May Have Seen Million Years

Canadian Press Despatch

When the block of stone was split, says Mr. Wilson, it was found to contain a cavity, in which was a rosebud with a bee partly buried in its dried petals. After being dislodged the bee was able to crawl. According to those who claim to know, the bee in question is undoubtedly the oldest living creature, anything from 25,000 to millions of years old.

WOODSTOCK HITS TORY BEER PLAN

Hotelmen Opposed To Lessening Restrictions in Sale of Beverage.

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Sept. 2.—The hotelmen of this city are opposed to any lessening of the restrictions regarding the sale of 4.4 beer. "After going to the expense of making alterations, putting up partitions and complying with the other regulations, it is not fair that these restrictions should be removed and any Tom, Dick or Harry be allowed to sell the beer," was the way one hotelman expressed himself today on the subject. They claim that there has been a big falling off in the amount of beer sold following the first week of its sale.

DROUGHT NEAR EXETER CAUSING MUCH ALARM

Lack of Rain Forces Farmers To Carry Water For Stock Many Miles.

Special to The Advertiser.

Exeter, Sept. 2.—The continued drought in this district is becoming serious. Farmers near Centralia are in some cases driving cattle over a mile to water, and in Biddulph township two threshing gangs have temporarily suspended operations in order to leave the water necessary for livestock.

SERIOUS AT WINGHAM.

Special to The Advertiser.

Wingham, Sept. 2.—In Wingham and vicinity no rain has fallen for weeks, and, with the temperature ranging from 90 to 95 in the shade for days, the situation is becoming serious. While the farmers have had the advantage of fine weather to get in the bounteous harvest, the root crop is now suffering and the pastures are badly burned up.

Many wells are dry, and, both in the town and district, many are drawing water for some distance, not only for human needs, but also for the stock. The rivers have not been so low in years.

SARNIA TOUCHES THE 20,000 MARK

Assessment Rolls Return Showing Large Increase in City's Population.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, Sept. 2.—That Sarnia's population has passed the 20,000 mark, indicated by the recent survey of the directory publishers, is being borne out by the return of the assessment rolls. The rolls for wards one and two were returned today, and gave the population of ward one as 2,933, compared to 2,759 last year, while ward two shows 1,822, compared to 1,739 last year. A like increase is expected in practically every ward in the city when the assessment rolls are all returned.

Labor Day Plans.

Plans for the annual celebration of Sarnia trades and labor council have developed to such dimensions that the program will have to be extended into the evening. A beauty contest is attracting considerable attention. The girl chosen as the most beautiful by the crowd at the evening performance will be rewarded. Rides and midway attractions have been added to the program, and will provide a new thrill for the pleasure-seekers. The Courtright girls will invade the town and endeavor to take the local Midgets into camp. These teams are very evenly matched, and a mighty good contest is certain.

Motor Owner Fined.

In the city police court today James O'Connor was fined $25 and $5.50 costs by Magistrate H. Gorman for hiring a truck driver without a proper chauffeur's license. He employed Nelson McPhedran, the driver of the car that ran over and killed Jacob Jacques Monday afternoon.

Term Shortened.

A communication from James Hale of the Ontario license department notified the police department that Glenn Crouchman, serving 30 days in the county jail, had been granted clemency by the board. Crouchman was sent down on Aug. 8, and his sentence has about a week to run.

NICKLE UNAWARE OF HYDRO OFFER

Attorney - General Professes Ignorance of Rumored Hydro Appointment.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Kingston, Sept. 2.—"I know nothing whatever about it. I haven't heard a word on the subject. At present I am on my holidays and am not worrying myself about affairs of state."

This was the statement of Hon. W. F. Nickle today when asked about the report that he was to head the hydro-electric commission.

When asked as to whether he would consider the hydro chairmanship should it be offered him, he said:

"I have given the matter no consideration. That is all I can say."

RECORDS BROKEN AT AYLMER FAIR

Over 8,000 Attend Big Children's Day, When Schools Parade.

Special to The Advertiser.

Aylmer, Sept. 2.—Today, the second day of Aylmer fair, was school children's day, and some 500 children paraded to the grounds, headed by the Aylmer Citizens' band. The fair was officially opened at 1 p.m. by Hon. John S. Martin, minister of agriculture for Ontario, who was introduced by W. H. Barnum. The speaker congratulated the community on the splendid exhibition, and said that his department was particularly interested in fall fairs, especially the smaller fairs, in which the farmers themselves are vitally interested.

Fair Is Praised.

"There is no place," he said, "where a producer can find out so well how his product stands as at the fall fair. Recent surveys show that farm conditions are improving and will continue to improve, but Canada's greatest problem today is that of immigration. Settlers are needed for our millions of fertile acres. Markets for Canada's produce are improving and will continue to improve."

A vote of thanks was tendered the honorable speaker by W. H. Ashton, president of the fair, which was seconded by J. C. Dance, ex-M.P.P.

Today was a record-breaker for attendance, more than 8,000 were present. The midway staged by the International Amusement Company was well patronized and the crowds enjoyed the great display in the palace.

Children Exhibit.

East Elgin school children had an extra fine show of poultry, vegetables, grains, mounted Canadian leaves, and hobbies. Flowers were beautiful and never was there such an exhibit of domestic products, ladies' work, etc. Aylmer is in the heart of the dairy district, and several exhibitors of cattle brought in their entire herds of Holsteins, Ayrshires, Jerseys, Durhams, etc. Horses, hogs, sheep, etc, will be shown tomorrow. As an agricultural fair Aylmer cannot be equalled this year outside of the larger provincial shows.

The speed events were good and the grandstand was filled to capacity.

One Accident.

The day's pleasure was marred by an accident, which happened as the school children were parading to the grandstand. Miss Edith Meikle, a teacher in the Aylmer public schools, was knocked down by one of the racehorses, which fortunately was coming slowly. She was badly shaken up and bruised. The doctor in attendance does not believe any bones are broken, but Miss Meikle will likely be confined to her bed for a week or so.

The performance before the grandstand tonight was put on by the wild west show of the International Amusement Company, with exhibitions of cowboy skill in roping, riding, broncho busting, etc.

GAS IN STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk)—is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Advt.

TELLS JUDGE TO PUNISH SON THEN DROPS DEAD IN COURT

Mother Dies After Admitting Light Sentence Is Deserved.

THEFT WAS CHARGE

Special to The Advertiser.

Detroit, Sept. 2.—Mrs. Anna Cassidy, 50 years old, died in the private office of Judge Thomas M. Cotter today after she had recommended that her son, Edward, 23 years old, be given a small punishment for taking $20 from a downtown department store.

Mrs. Cassidy, who lived at 4337 Wabash avenue, went into the judge's office with her son, who was a collector. He was charged with pocketing the $20 on Aug. 26. After the son pleaded guilty he said he "didn't know why he took the money," and Judge Cotter turned to his mother to learn of his home conduct.

"Don't you think a small punishment would do your son good?" questioned the judge, who had learned that Cassidy had been on probation for the theft of an automobile.

"I do," replied Mrs. Cassidy. "A small punishment would do him good."

Then she fell. Dr. Arnold L. Jacoby, in charge of the psychopathic clinic, was called, but the woman died before he arrived.

Cassidy's case was placed in the hands of the probation department for further investigation.

LEAMINGTON BOY DIES OF INJURIES

Five - Year - Old Youngster Caught in Belt Conveyor of Canner.

Special to The Advertiser.

Leamington, Sept. 2.—John G. Lancaster, five-year-old son of H. Lancaster, died this morning from injuries received last evening while he was playing around the canning factory.

Despite vigilance of factory employees, the lad climbed onto the big belt conveyor, which takes baskets of tomatoes from the unloading platform into the mill. In some way he was caught between one of the conveyor plates and a post. A cut about twelve inches long was made in his back, and his body was terribly bruised otherwise. Internal injuries were caused by the cut in the back.

Screams of the youngster brought employees to the scene, and the lad, who was found lying on the ground, was rushed to Cottage hospital, where he died this morning.

Coroner Dr. M. A. Kendrick has ordered an inquest. The remains were viewed at Ferguson's parlors and the jury visited the scene of the accident. The inquest was adjourned until Sept. 9 at 6 o'clock.

The funeral of the lad will be held on Friday. He is survived by his parents and two brothers.

MUST MOVE GRAIN TO PACIFIC PORTS

Railway Commission Orders To Railroads Give B. C. Even Break.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Sept. 2.—By an order issued today by the railway commission, the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways are instructed to file tariffs, effective not later than the 15th of September, reducing rates on grain and flour to Pacific ports, for export, to the same rates proportioned to distance as grain and flour would carry if moving eastward for export.

The order of the board results from the application of the province of British Columbia for equalization of grain rates on westbound traffic with those on grain moving eastward. The case was heard by Chief Commissioner H. A. MacKeown and Commissioner Frank Oliver, and the order bears the signature of the chief commissioner.

"If this application had to do with commodities other than grain and flour, it would not seem to me necessary to dispose of it prior to a report involving whatever changes are generally necessary, but the grain business of Canada is of sufficient importance to call for special legislation, concerning the rates charged for transportation of grain and flour," states the chief commissioner in his judgment. "Irrespective almost of the cost of transportation, it is decreed that this national asset must find its way to market as far as railway carriage is concerned, at a rate substantially lower than other commodities bear. I do not think it can be contended that such action is founded on a desire or intention to aggrandize one part of the country at the expense of another, but rather for the reason that the enormous national value of the grain production of Canada justifies such procedure."

Simultaneously, with the issuance of the order, was issued a copy of a resolution proposed by Assistant Chief Commissioner S. J. McLean, and assented to by Commissioners Boyce and Lawrence, declaring that the matter of export grain rates via Pacific ports and other matters must of necessity be dealt with as part of the general rate investigation, and under the judgment to be rendered in connection with that investigation.

MOVE TO BE MADE TO GUARD WATER

Canadian Press Despatch

Montreal, Sept. 2.—"It will not be long before some final action is taken which will compel a decision that will protect the waterways that belong to us on this part of the continent."

Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways and canals in the federal cabinet, made this statement at the opening of the new drydock of the Montreal Drydock Company, Limited, today, in reference to the lowered water levels of the St. Lawrence and the effect of Chicago's diversion of water from the great lakes on the levels.

There had been some disputes about the water taken by Chicago, he said, but the dominion government had approached this question with the United States authorities in a friendly spirit, and there were reasons to hope their efforts would be successful.

Referring to Montreal in connection with the diversion of water, he said that no matter what happened, Montreal would always be the gateway from the Atlantic to the dominion.

There was a representative gathering to witness the opening of the drydock. F. M. Ross, director of the Montreal Drydock Company, Limited, handed to Mr. Graham a silver salver as a memento of the occasion.

PATENAUDE MAY ENTER INTO FEDERAL POLITICS

Montreal Leader Reported To Be Thinking of Entering Dominion Affairs.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Sept. 2.—A definite intimation that Hon. E. L. Patenaude, M.L.A., may enter federal politics, is contained in an announcement made in Le Devoir here today. The newspaper quotes Arthur Sauve, leader of the Conservative opposition in the Quebec legislature, as denying the rumor that Mr. Sauve would go into federal politics, but adding that yesterday's much-discussed conference of Conservative members of the legislature had been called to consider "the consequences of the entry of M. Patenaude into the federal arena."

DEPARTMENT CLOSES BAYFELD DANCE HALL

Failure To Sell Amusement Tax Brings Fine and License Cancellation.

Special to The Advertiser.

Goderich, Sept. 2.—The license of Bayfield dancing pavilion was cancelled yesterday and fines of $50 and $100 imposed on the management, when Ed Weston appeared in Magistrate Reid's court.

The inspector of amusement taxation from the Ontario department laid charges of failure to sell amusement tax tickets with each floor admission and of making false returns to the department. Weston pleaded guilty to the two charges, paying $50 for first offence and $100 for the second. Other charges are also pending.

The license for the hall was also cancelled, closing up one of the most-frequented resorts on Lake Huron. This license cannot be renewed again until all these charges are squared with the department.
